WILD GINGER IS TITLE OF PLAY AT MIDWAY SCHOOL

Three Act Play Scheduled For November 9th Is Humdinger

Do you know what a "humdinger" is? Well, that is the designation or appellation given the play by no other than Prof. Dennis Smith, he of tongue-tied fame.

The play may be all that its title would signify. The folks out in the Midway community feel sure that you will be pleased when you see it. The date is Friday, November 9th.

The cast includes John Wise, Jane Williams, Miss Katie Meadors, Leo Thomas, Winfield Mosley, Margaret Higgins, Bonnie Hardin, Harold Longan, Dennis Smith, Ed Mahaffey and Mrs. Nelce Robinson.

An urgent invitation is given the public to be present.

An extremely small admission charge will be made to defray expenses of the play.

DENVER HOTEL IS BEING FITTED FOR OCCUPANCY

Headquarters of Transient Bureau Men Has Forty Three on Roll

With the arrival of the erosion workers or flood relief squad Saturday, work was begun on the old Denver hotel to make it habitable. Sixty rooms are being made ready for sleeping quarters. A new roof is being placed and the interior is undergoing needed repairs.

"The men are ready to get on the job just as soon as we can get tools and orders from your city officials," Bill Herdon, who has charge of the men, stated Wednesday.

The forty-three huskies are from practically every state including England and Canada. The total enrollment here will be increased to more than one hundred just as soon as the work demands that number.

The plans outlined to date are said to include terracing on farms and construction of dirt dams in the draw southwest of town that is expected to lessen flood danger to the city.

Sneak Thief Pilfers Auto Here Trades Day

While her car was parked across the street from the jail during the drawing Trades Day, Mrs. Lena Dilli of the Goldston community lost to a thief two dozen quart jars, a half pound of chili blend, two pounds of lard and two dozen jar lids.

She says she has found out who did it, and they had better send her $2.39 to avoid further trouble. Any one who would steal from a widow who needs all that she has as badly as Mrs. Dilli, and who is as deserving as she is, is certainly hard up.

In speaking of the matter, she was very thankful that they left her coat in the car as cold weather is approaching and she needs a coat badly.

This is the first case of thievery reported in Clarendon for some time.

Si Johnson Locates Visitor From the Sky

While no one has been able to locate any part of the large meteor that passed over the southwest during March of last year, Si Johnson on the J A ranch has done his best by bringing in a small meteorite.

The stone is naturally very heavy for its size, is composed of nickel, iron and cobalt principally as most meteorites, and weighs six and a fourth pounds. The surface indicates an extreme age as though it may have fallen thousands of years ago.

CANNERY GETTING JOB DONE WITH PLENTY PATRONS

Running on Limited Crew Putting Out More Than 600 Cans Daily

"We are running on a limited crew for the 5th week in the month and putting out only about 600 cans daily", Mrs. J. M. Acord, who has charge of the work, said Tuesday.

She also said the weekly average now was about 3000 cans, and of the 25,000 cans received, there would not be more than enough to run the plant until the 20th.

Fifty-eight beaves are signed up for to be canned. Meat canning is done on a 40-60 percent basis. The patron supplies the meat, pays the cold storage and for seasoning of chili etc. if wanted. The government supplies the cans and does the work for 40 percent of the canned products.

Judging from the way the public is patronizing the plant, very few expect the government to feed them through the winter. In fact the public is taking every advantage of the canning plant arrangements.

"We have all the vegetables signed up now that we can put in to cans until November 8th," Mrs. Acord said.

No assignment orders have been received from the district demonstrating agent for canning turnips, pumpkins, sweet potatoes or green tomatoes, Mrs. Acord says. Just as soon as permission is granted, she says the force is ready to go ahead with the work.

Mrs. Acord greatly appreciates the cooperation she has had from officials, helpers in the plant and the public in general. This no doubt has had more to do with the success of the project than any other one thing.

Minister's Family Attending State Convention

Rev. J. Perry King, popular pastor of the First Baptist church and Mrs. King and son John Burton left Friday to attend the Baptist State Convention at San Antonio.

The King family will visit his father at Abilene, her father at another point and then go on to the big convention. They expect to be absent about a week.

Federal Officials Join Stalcup Chase As Trail Leads Into Wilds of New Mexico

Wife of Dickens County Sheriff Appointed To Succeed Husband Who Was Murdered Two Days After Taking Prisoner From Here

Following his capture here Tuesday, Virgil Stalcup was turned over to Bill Arthur, Dickens county sheriff Thursday morning and returned to the Dickens jail.

Stalcup was locked in the death cell of the jail until Friday morning when the sheriff moved him to the "runaround" on the second floor where Clarence Brown, his pal in crime, was confined.

Saturday afternoon Stalcup and Brown asked the sheriff to repair some plumbing that had become stopped up.

Two other prisoners were ordered by the sheriff to carry water from another cell to use in the plumbing repair work. As the sheriff walked through the door at the end of a corridor to the cell where Stalcup and Brown were prisoners, they grappled him, seized his pistol and fired one shot which struck Sheriff Arthur in the neck. He died instantly.

Stalcup and Brown then seized the sheriff's keys and a coat, rushed down stairs and drove away in the sheriff's car. No other officers were in the jail at the time. Two deputies saw the sheriff's car speeding westward

COMMISSIONERS DECIDE ELECTION NOT NECESSARY

Have Not Exceeded Legal Limit in Meeting Held Monday, Is Claimed

At a meeting of the Commissioners Court held here Monday, the matter of the issuance of warrants was gone over by the commissioners who arrived at the conclusion that they had not exceeded the legal limit, and that no election was necessary.

Petitions protesting the issuance of the warrants bore more than two hundred names, a sufficient amount to demand an election.

Warrants issued that were not declared emergency issue were $100 to John I. Chesley; $1892.41 to Standard Timer Products Company; $348.22 to Wyatt Metal & Boiler Works.

Other warrants were adjusted as being emergency warrants by the commissioners, and the above amounts totaling $2,340.63 are said to be within the legal limit of $3,000.00.

For their information, G. G. Reeves and John H. Hermesmyer were present during a part of the deliberations. Messrs. Reeves and Hermesmyer are two of the three new commissioners to begin terms January 1st.

Doctor Ramsey Will Speak At Baptist Church

Don't know him? Oh, yes you do. He's none other than our old friend H. D. "Buck" Ramsey. He has been living down at San Antonio putting on airs and 'speechin' around until he has become a "doctor" of something.

Let's get out to the Baptist church at the morning service and hear "doctor" Ramsey expound. He is supplying for the pastor who is down at San Antonio at the state convention supplying for "doctor" Ramsey in his home town. It's a trade-out, sure as you live, but the old-timers will enjoy hearing what Mr. Ramsey has to say.

"OH PROFESSOR" MUSICAL COMEDY TUESDAY NIGHT

All Star Cast Local People Represented in P-T. A. Benefit Play

This 3-act musical comedy will be presented at the College Auditorium Tuesday evening, November 6th—next Tuesday. The play is being sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

Miss Virginia Booth, director for a producing company, is promoting the show and assures those interested that "Oh Professor" is one of the peppiest, most colorful, most tuneful, most hilarious and most original of any musical comedy off the regular vaudeville circuit.

Besides an all-star cast of popular local people, the production features a children's chorus, a mixed chorus, two groups of regular dancing girls with different costumes for each of their delightful numbers, and a butterfly chorus of prominent business men in organdie skirts and ruffles.

A prominent P-T. A. lady describes the play as being one that "everybody loves music and everybody loves comedy. 'Oh Professor' is a side-splitting comedy with music in just the right places. You will leave the auditorium whistling one of the snappy tunes from this production. There are ten of them and each is on a par with any popular tune of stage or screen."

"The Rita chorus has all the snap and fire of the Spanish tango without being in any way an imitation, and the beauty of the 'waltzing with the one you love' will simply take your breath away. And the finale with the entire company is worth waiting for."

A very small admission charge will be made to assist in the work of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Claude L. McGowen is Buried At Mangum Monday

Friends of the family here were shocked Sunday to learn of the death of Mr. McGowen in a Mangum hospital Sunday at 3 p. m., where he had been ill only a short time.

The family had resided here about three years. The deceased was prominent in the business world, being district manager of the Gleaner Harvester company and well known over the Panhandle and western Oklahoma sections.

Rev. Brooks, pastor of the Methodist church, conducted the funeral services at Mangum at 3 p. m. Monday.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter Sarah Virginia, and a son Claude Jr. The many friends of the family here express deepest sympathy in their sad hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. Homer McElwain and daughter Avis Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cluck and daughter Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Allensworth and Mrs. McDaniel went to Mangum, Okla. Sunday to be with Mrs. Claude McGowen and family.

The amount is approximately $30,000 for Donley county.

"The Picture Girl" to be shown at the Lella Lake school Friday evening at 7:30 of this week will afford an opportunity for the home people to view faces that would make Hollywood famous, if we are to believe the press agent for the show who visited the Leader office Monday.

Besides, this same press agent made the statement that those interested might learn "how to get into he movies."

This three-act comedy is designed to show you the best evening's entertainment of the season for a very modest price. The funds will go a long way to help a deserving basketball team of girls. Girls of the west than whom no finer looking or better girls ever lived.

GREAT THRONG VIEWS CARNIVAL MONDAY NIGHT

J. L. Kerby, Moving Spirit In Affair is Due Lots Of Credit

Monday evening college hill was alive with excitement as the gay gypsy carnival opened its gates to a hilarious crowd of townspeople for a complete round of old time entertainment. Side shows presented in the dormitory booths drew enthusiastic patrons of Fifi, the wonder girl; the bodyless man; hindu and gypsy fortune tellers; the chamber of horrors, and many other attractions. College girls attired in brilliant costumes peddled candy, popcorn, sandwiches, balloons, carnival hats and novelties. The chief barker, Hollis Leathers, inspired the milling crowd to see each of the shows by loud exclamations through a huge megaphone. A lively game of Bingo at which valuable prizes were given added to the revelry of the carnival.

The "Big Top" attraction, staged in the main auditorium, climaxed the successful entertainment. A series of rough wrestling matches were presented; then the wise horse, Spark Plug, was introduced and led through his tricks. The Tapping Trio, Marjorie White, Evelyn Murphy, and Vera Noland, dressed in 1890 garb, danced an amusing number. An Indian dance with Lu McClellan and Vera Noland dressed in costume, was executed in fine style. Lovie Beavers delighted the audience with a yodeling song. Doris Castle gave two readings in her original, appealing manner.

The coronation ceremony brot Viola Barker, Frances Sanford, Callie Walters, Frances Fowler and Wanda Mayfield and their escorts, Tyndall Gregg, Willard Hudson, Alex Cooke, Robert Nichols and Hubert Reavis on the stage for the crowning of a carnival queen. Wanda Mayfield, candidate representing the Alpha Delta Psi Literary Society, received the honor.

The conclusion act was a Punch and Judy show presented by Jerome L. Kerby, official carnival director.

Relief Applicant is Fined For Misrepresentation

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Fort Worth Star Telegram:

"Marie Dowell, 41, negress, was fined $10 with court costs amounting to $23.45 on her plea of guilty Monday to Judge Dave McGee on a charge of procuring a $150 grocery relief order by misrepresentation. She is alleged to have represented falsely that she had two children dependent on her, when, in fact, they did not live with her.

The conviction is the second from a group of "relief chiseling" charges filed by the City Welfare Department."

This is being re-published for the benefit and adherence of clients now on relief rolls in this county.

HIGHWAY SURVEY COMPLETED FROM TURKEY NORTH

Blue Prints Will be Turned Over to State Highway This Week

Work of a temporary or tentative survey from Turkey to Clarendon was completed Saturday under the direction of resident engineer Mars of Spur.

The cost of the survey in Donley county estimated to cost $300 is shaved to $233.15. Blue prints and itemized list of expenditures has been turned over to the Donley county commissioners court.

The State Highway Department will have an opportunity to inspect the proposed route at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Mars states that a bridge 2,000 feet in length will take care of the crossing on Red river. He also is of the opinion that not more than five miles of expensive road work will be necessary on the route from Turkey to Clarendon.

This proposed route would connect with highways already completed extending from Canada to Del Rio by way of San Angelo over a distance of approximately 1,800 miles.

GRABBING AN OPPORTUNITY.

Speaking of resourceful newspaper men, the editor of the Zion, Illinois Item is not asleep all the time. When old Glen Voliva told his people that the end of all things was about to happen, and that the faithful in Zion would be saved, but the rest of the people would go to hell, the newspaper man got busy.

The Zion Item said: "The doomed will include all delinquent subscribers. Play safe and pay up at once, as we don't want to chase all over hell after these bills."

VOTING ON AMENDMENTS.

As a rule a printed proposition that is designed to be fair, is in plain language that most any one can understand. The eight proposed amendments to our Constitution coming up for a vote next Tuesday is the limit of hidden danger in the main, and downright foolishness in many instances of anything that has ever been born down at the state capitol.

General Allred asks a favorable vote on the first one on the ballot. He says that if the first amendment on the ballot carries, it will not do away with the $3,000 homestead exemption, but on the other hand, will add a lot of taxable property to the rolls that are now being missed.

He may be right. A lot of my lawyer friends think the homestead benefit will go a glimmering when the amendment vote carries. Forty-seven percent of the taxable values of Texas are not taxed at present because the property is in stocks, bonds, notes and such like. A farmer pays a full tax on a farm in which he owns a small equity, but the holder of the notes against his farm pays nothing on the notes. The first amendment on the election ballot Tuesday is said to be designed to catch the note holders, etc.

The first amendment may be alright. Use your own judgment. The only thing that will make me vote for it is that Allred recommended it.

As to the other seven amendments, there is a joker in every one of them. Some give petty officials too much authority. Others turn high officials footloose on a spending spree. They are couched in a maze of words that no one understands. If they want to be fair about this whole mess, why don't they have the higher courts pass on them first before we vote so that we will know if they are constitutional, fair and square. We don't know whether we need them or not because we can't understand them.

I shall vote against seven of them for a certainty.

If you do not understand the 8 State Constitutional Amendments that you will be asked to vote on Tuesday November 6th and want to vote against them, just run a line through "FOR" and the lines that follow it and leave untouched the word "AGAINST" and the lines that follow "AGAINST". This will be voting against all eight of the Amendments, provided you mark out "FOR" and the lines that follow "FOR" at every paragraph.

Several readers have asked for my opinion, and here it is after re-reading the amendments several times.

Remember this: If you mark down through all of the amendments at the bottom of the ballot, your vote won't count. You have to mark each paragraph separately as advised above.

The Townsend Plan Indorsed

(By ROBERT QUILEN)
 (Probably the most widely read syndicate writer in the U. S.)

"A group in California is sponsoring an idea that is worth passing on for others to think about. It is based on the assumption—or accepted fact—that America in this machine age can no longer provide jobs for all of her people. If that is, in truth, the situation we face, the obvious solution of the problems to get rid of part of the people.

What part? Here again the answer is simple. Dispose of those who are slowing up—those who have done their share of work.

How can they be disposed of as competitors for jobs? By enabling them to retire with an adequate pension.

"That, you will say, is the usual plan. Old age pensions mean more taxes. But you expect to pay for what you get in this hard world. If you would be secure in your old age, you must lay by money while you are young. If you depend on some form of retirement insurance, that also costs you money. "The taxes required to provide the pension fund would be the equivalent of installments on an insurance policy.

"The tax suggested is a national tax on commodities in common use. You would not object to that kind of tax, for it would be much like putting money in the bank. With every purchase made you would lay away a little money to provide your old age pension.

"Then at 60 or 50 or an age experience proved best, you would quit work and give your job to a younger man—or woman. Thereafter you would take your ease and enjoy spending your pension.

"The only questions that remain is the size of your monthly check. How about $200? Does that seem too generous? Well, what difference does it make if you have provided for it? It could be either more or less, depending on the percentage of the sales tax.

"In any case it should prove a good living. An all of it would be put into circulation each month, for there would be no need to save if you were sure of a life income.

"Think it over. There may be weak spots in it, but certainly it would make jobs plentiful, close poor houses and other similar institutions that add to the tax burden, and make carefree spenders of the anxious millions who now stint and save for old age."

Editorial in The Amarillo News

Sunday, October 14, 1934.

In the hysteria for tax reduction, when in 1932 and 1933 home owners and land owners rose in revolt, the legislature instead of shifting the burden to natural resources or monopolies, rushed to submit to the voters a proposal of a constitutional amendment arbitrarily limiting taxes to be collected to $11.25 per year.

That amendment will be voted on Nov. 6, and citizens are just now finding its promise misleading and its effect injurious instead of beneficial.

Study of this proposal has convinced many citizens that it should be defeated, for these and other reasons:

Its benefits would go to the large taxpayers and not to the everyday taxpayer.

It would protect monopolies that collect huge profits, and those who exploit natural resources rather than the home owner, who already has been given state tax exemption.

It would jumble state finances to a point where the ad valorem tax could not be cut, when fixed far in advance, and limit would come on other forms of taxes.

It would withhold much school aid to the public school system; and thus force back the burden upon added local taxation which could be applied to land and homes and real property only, and there the homestead exemption would not save the small man from the levy.

The state already is two years behind with its emergency housing, and is suffering from it. This amendment would practically nullify all future efforts to provide requisite hospitals and ward buildings for the institutions.

(The above comment has reference to the third amendment on the ballot of the general election, Nov. 6th.—Editor)

State Relief Headquarters Asks About Feed Supply

Austin, Oct. 30.—The Texas Relief Commission, through its county administrators, will survey the state to correlate supply and demand for livestock feed.

Adam R. Johnson, state relief director, has requested information from administrators as follows:

"1. Advise the total quantity of feed estimated to be required for livestock owned by relief clients only in your county monthly for the next six months.

"2. Give a separate tabulation of feed supplies needed for rehabilitation to whom livestock has been or will be supplied.

"3. Give all publicity possible to the request that all present owners of feed surpluses report these surpluses to the Federal Livestock Feed Agency, Kansas City.

"4. In reporting such feed surpluses which are available for sale, the owners thereof should clearly state the quantity, the quality, and the approximate selling price for all kinds of feed available."

TEMPLE OF TRUTH

By the Apostle

Hello there, you other guinea pigs! You know when doctors get ready to experiment and there ain't nobody sick of the human animals, they have to get on the guinea pigs. Some tackle monkeys, but as monkeys are more expensive, and guinea pigs do about as well, they take the pigs. Besides, the doctors have not been any more prosperous than the rest of us and are naturally short on experimental material as well as money.

We have become a nation of guinea pigs. About everything except a sensible remedy has been doped out to us. We are in the experimental stage along every line and the leaders don't know a thing more about it than we do—you and I. We don't know anything except that the money has been largely cornered, and we have no medium of exchange.

Now out in California they are having a great time. A socialist fellow by the name of Upton Sinclair is about to be elected governor by the democrats. In fact they nominated him. The big rich Hollywood actors and other folks (except Will Rogers) threaten to move to Florida lock, stock and barrel if Sinclair gets in.

Why raise such a howl before being hit? Ninety percent of the people out there went there to experiment in some manner to get rich quickly. Less than two percent ever succeeded according to statistics, but they tried and tried hard. In fact some of them even went so far as to resort to grave robbing, selling the bodies to a medical school. Why not experiment with a new kind of a governor?

Sinclair is the author of "The Jungle", a book that rocked the foundations of the nation with his exposure of the Chicago packing industry back about 1904. He has great ideas of a "utopia" and may get one started in old California as the country appears to have proved a failure on every other score so far as keeping the people satisfied. They have had more strikes, earthquakes and fires in that state, killed more and raised more hell in their courts than any other state in the union. Yes, and they have more different nationalities in official position than any other state. It is the only state that boasts of Shintu and Buddha church buildings where American citizens worship. They invite you to come out and spend some money and take a look at things. In fact they will show you anything you care to look at if you have the price.

This Utopia business is great stuff—if it works. Tracing it from Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backward" down through the past century, it looks like the fad, is about to get a break. Now would be a good time to pull it when we are willing to experiment with anything. Human nature may have changed, and that is what would have to happen if we ever have any "utopia" on earth. Maybe Sinclair can show us. He's not the Sinclair that makes and sells grease and gasoline—no kin. The last Sinclair made a lot of money, and monied men are not willing to make any changes in anything so long as they are making money. Darn the utopias!

Poverty means progress. Every great invention was made by a man of very ordinary circumstances. Did you know that "knee action" was invented more than thirty years ago. There was no demand for it until the late auto model men needed something. Then they dug it out of hiding and we have it going strong—and most of us like it. Thousands of good patents—things that we need every day—are buried up by those who bought the patent to keep it off the market because it would be a detriment to the sales of some other line. That is one reason why we don't have autos with Diesel engines. They make a few and have them in the races every year, but we will not have any "stock" cars until the gasoline trust grants permission. The Diesel engine burns a crude oil instead of high-priced gasoline.

Years ago when the "White Steamer" auto was about to take the day, a large factory was built at Pueblo, Colorado and we had a number of White Steamers out in the mountains. They ran by steam at a cost of less than a cent a mile and would climb any kind of a grade and go a mile a minute if the rider wished. What happened? The patents were bought up and the building turned into a beet sugar factory. Who do you suppose opposed a steam car?

We need enough honest law-makers to look after our interests in the matter of modern inventions as well as a number of other things. More than 153,000 people are inventing all the time and what few things ever get on the market! We need help—us poor guinea pigs do.

Some time I am going to name the weekly papers of the state that actually have the best interests of their readers at heart. And I will tell you why and then dare the others to copy the article and comment on it. It will be a great day—for the public.

Since newspapers mould public opinion, why not tell the people the facts. If they don't mould public opinion, then the sheet is too sorry to deserve existence and should be put out of its misery.

We spend millions on an A & M college training men and women to go out to show the middle class—the producers of everything—how to skimp and save. Why not teach them something about their government first, and how to operate it for the benefit of "all" the people "all" the time.

I've seen honest, sincere, well-trained women come out here to show our mothers and daughters how to "make over" old clothing and furniture to get by. Didn't these same mothers and daughters help produce the cotton that makes millions of dividends for the spinners? Didn't they help make the money that was paid for gasoline that makes millions of dividends for the big oil and gasoline companies? If they don't get anything but a chance to learn how to "make over" something, somebody has been short-potted as sure as the world stands. As a matter of fact if the mothers and daughters get their just dues, they would be entitled to the best and get it. That's good old Americanism as taught us by the founders of this Republic. Our great-grandfathers kicked up a war with England simply because the tax was too high. They poured out a lot of tea in Boston harbor and told the kneepants tribe to jump in the ocean or fight. They fought and got licked twice before they were convinced.

We don't want any fights, but we do need to know something about our government and how to vote. If we learn that, we won't need so many to show us how to "make over" old things to "get by" while the few live in luxury simply because they happen to be born lucky. President Roosevelt has been hitting along this line and I firmly believe that he will edge us on to the time when every American will get a square deal. That's all we need. Our slogan should be "less hand-outs and more square deals."

"Less government in business, and more business in government."

Don't you know the monkeys are getting a kick out of our predicament if they know about it. They don't have any panics, wars, highjackings and other "civilized" conveniences down in their country. If we came from that tribe, we ought to return to 'em with apologies—if they'll take us back.

The good Lord gave us brains but we keep trying to show Him that we don't need 'em.

Jack county folks always do things in a big way. Down at Lubbock ex-Jackcounties have organized a Jack County Association. Pink L. Parish is president, Geo. Foster vice president and Mrs. J. K. Wester of Lubbock is secretary-treasurer. The next meeting will be held the last Friday in August. We're goin' down.

How times change! Folks who used to have the heebie-jeebies, now have the jitters.

The Amarillo News publishes a story about a new line of business that has sprung up in the east. Large companies will circulate rumors for any one for a price, and these rumors consist of a brand of gossip that will wreck or ruin individuals or companies. It's a fact, and all I got to say about it is that it will knock more home people out of a job.

The Log of a Pirate

VERA BARKER
The Literary Society met last Friday eve with a very interesting program by Miss Garland's room. It was a real Hallowe'en program with plenty of pep!

We are still working for classification. Even if our school is not classified when Mr. Dickson leaves we can say that Mr. Dillard cannot be beat. Three cheers for Mr. Dillard!

Even though some of our six-weeks exams did not look so good this time we are going to try to do better next six-weeks.

The Volunteer Mission Band of Wayland College came to Ashtola Sunday, Oct. 28 with a very interesting program. Everyone had plenty to eat at noon. We hope the Volunteer Band will soon come again.

The "Seniors" of A. S. H. are studying hard on their play, "Fingerprints" which will be put on Friday, Nov. 2. Everybody come!

We will have the school paper before long that we have been looking forward to for some while. Sunday night at B. Y. P. U. we had a large crowd. Since we re-organized, we are running a contest so the Pinks can serve a nice big turkey to the Blues. The Blues are bound to win!

TO OTHELLA
Alas! Othella has left us. Many hearts are broken to see her leave her old home town, but we all join together in wishing her all the happiness and success in this world. Due to the fact that she was always a sweet, sensible girl, she made countless friends who will never forget her. She has been tried and proven true to everyone. As a sister Pirata, I wish to say that Othella proved to be among the best. She always did her part, could be depended on, and kept in her everyday life the standards set up by Las Piratas.

She was chosen a charter member of the organization at its beginning and during the years since, she has served as high officials. She has always been a member to be proud of. I am sure if it had not been for this dear sister, our organization would have long ago been a thing of the past.

Othella was a faithful church worker. She was a regular attendant of both Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. She was a simple, attentive christian girl and we thank God for such a gift as she. She was serving at the time of her departure as first vice-president of the Helper's Sunday school class. There can be no girl found anywhere who can fill her place.

May God's richest blessings be on you, noble heart, and only life's sweet joyful cup be yours to taste.

By a Sister Pirata.

How Oldest Panhandle Burg Got Its Name

Texas has three towns named for their pure sweet water: Agua Dulce, Mobetie and Sweetwater. Agua Dulce is the Spanish word meaning sweet water, and Mobetie is an Indian word significant of the same. Mobetie and Sweetwater both were called "Sweetwater" in early days, and applied for this designation of their post offices about the same time. Mobetie was a little behind with its application and so took its original Indian appellation, but the creek on which the town borders still is known as Sweetwater Creek.

On the same day that Texas Independence was declared at Washington-on-the-Brazos, March 2, 1836, a day that will be commemorated by the Centennial in 1936 by the entire State with celebrations at San Antonio, Houston, Goliad, Brenham, Nacogdoches, Huntsville, Gonzales, Galveston, Dallas and other cities, Agua Dulce was the scene of a tragic incident of the Revolution. Near there Dr. James Grant and a force of about twenty Texans were surprised by the army of General Urrea advancing from Matamoros and all but one were killed.

Dr. Grant together with Col. J. W. Fannin and Col. Francis W. Johnson had headed an ill-advised expedition against Matamoros, authorized by the provisional council, although the move was opposed by Governor Henry Smith and Sam Houston. At the time of his death, Dr. Grant was rounding up horses on the Nueces for the Texans' cavalry, while the main body of the expedition remained at Goliad. A few days previous, on Feb. 27, a detachment of about fifty, under Johnson, had been surprised by Urrea at San Patricio and all but Johnson and two companions slain.

The failure of these forces to rejoin Fannin, according to plan, forecast the tragedy of Goliad, where Fannin and the majority of his men met death.

AUTO ODDITIES

© 1934—Gulf Refining Company

(1) One of the larger automobile manufacturers controls the temperature so perfectly in its painting process that extremes of temperature from 70 degrees to 230 degrees exist within one foot of each other with nothing to separate them except a curtain of air. (2) This car of English design is so arranged that the back can be extended to form sleeping quarters in the rear of the car. (3) The motor in this exhibit does not actually operate but is merely turned over very slowly by an electric motor. In spite of the fact that there is no wear on the oil, the oil must be changed regularly due to dirt absorbed from the air.

1930 NEEDLE CLUB HAS "KID" PARTY

Last Friday evening members of the 1930 Needle Club with their husbands and a few invited guests gathered at the Club Room for an evening of jollity and "kid" games. With such charming ladies as Mmes. Ralph Andis, Rhea Couch, and Vada Carpenter as hostesses for the evening, the large number of guests were assured of a very pleasant evening of laughter and entertainment.

The entire list of guests came dressed as children and with their minds set on "just being kids again." Side-splitting laughter rocked the room as the first amusements began, and lasted throughout the evening with many a tear of laughter rolling down the faces of those who were being just children again. Short dresses and knee trousers with an occasional romper in the bunch made up the type of raiment for the evening. The ladies' style of clothes ranged all the way from the "little daisy girl" type to that of the mischievous and boisterous "tomboy Taylor." And the men, of course, were just as funny if not more so than the ladies. There was the "Mickey McGuire" tough kid type, the "kids" with rompers, just plain boys, and also a little "Oswald" and "Junior Boy" type or two.

As the evening progressed, the "kid" games became more funnier, and many a face which hitherto had been void of laughter, was now furrowed with wrinkles of laughter and drenched with tears of convulsive merriment. It was a grand evening for the "kids."

Prizes for the most appropriate style of raiment for the occasion went to Jesse Lowe as the best dressed boy, Mrs. Turner Kirby as the best dressed girl, and to Messrs. Rhea Couch and Jimmie Moore as the best dressed twins.

At a late hour the hostesses served iced buttermilk, chili and marshmallow candy. Hallowe'en colors and decorations were predominant.

Those to attend this gala occasion were members and guests: Messrs. and Mesdames Jimmie Moore, Marvin Land, Jesse Lowe, Bob Rankin, Clarence Whitlock, Alfred Estlack, Ralph Decker, Joe Bownds, Ralph Andis, Carl Peabody, Ernest Hunt, Turner Kirby, Rhea Couch, Vada Carpenter; Mmes. Joe Ritter, Guy Pierce, Steve Hunter, Misses Gwendolyn Couch, Jeanell Lowe, Jean Ritter, and Masters Billie Ralph Andis, Jack and Gene Hunter.

Following the refreshments, several more amusing contests were carried out with scarcely a person realizing just how late it was, until Mrs. Steve Hunter touched the "ivories" and the sweet and familiar strains of "Home Sweet Home" told the merry makers that it was time for all "kids" to be going home.

MRS. B. F. KIRTLEY ENTERTAINS BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. B. F. Kirtley charmingly entertained a few guests and members of the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club.

The house was attractively decorated in Dahlias and chrysanthemums and in the Hallowe'en motif with the tallies and score pads carrying out the motif.

In the games of contract bridge Mrs. Taylor was presented with a lovely prize for high score for club and Mrs. Simmon Powell for high score for guest.

Delicious refreshments consisting of a salad course were served to guests, Mmes. Edd Teer, Simmon Powell, U. J. Boston, Misses Mary Cooke and Katherine Cole. Club members, Mmes. Floyd Lumpkin, Frank Stocking, Forest Sawyer, P. L. Chamberlain, Forest Taylor and Misses Lotta Bourland and Mildred Martin.

There is Always Worship Fellowship :: Service

We are happy to announce two unique and unusual services at the Baptist Church for Sunday. After we have 400 in Sunday School, one of the most beloved men I have met will be the speaker at the eleven o'clock preaching hour. Some call him "Henry" and some call him "Buck" but he is really none other than our fellow citizen and townsman H. D. Ramsey. Of course there will be no reserved seats, and all the old timers are coming, and if you want to get in you will have to come on time. This service will be under the direction of Judge S. W. Lowe.

The evening service, after we have 165 in B. T. S. will be sponsored by Mrs. Joe Goldston, as she presents a group of fine Intermediates who have been brought up in the Training Service of the church. If you want to learn first hand something of the value of the B. T. S. to the church you will not miss this service. Miss Vada Waldron will present the awards of our Training Course at this service. Mr. O. C. Watson will preside.

Marking State's Historical Treasure Spots

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 28.—The task of locating and marking hundreds of spots of historic interest over the State in preparation for the Texas Centennial celebrations in 1936 has been undertaken by the Texas State Parks Board and State Parks Association under authority given by the State Legislature.

Marking the points identified with Texas' freedom and progress will fit in with plans to commemorate the State's 100th birthday with celebrations at San Antonio, Houston, Galveston, Brenham, Nacogdoches, Huntsville, Gonzales, Galveston, Dallas and other cities.

Written accounts of these historic spots are being sought by the State Parks Board, Capitol Station, Austin, and Fred M. Herndon, Secretary of the Texas State Parks Association, Box 1284, San Antonio. D. E. Colp of San Antonio is chairman of the Parks Board.

Texas now has seventy-two State parks, comprising 258,405 acres. Through the "tree army", the Federal Government is spending $6,750,000 in improving Texas parks at this time.

String Orchestra to Play For Dance Saturday Night

The well known dance promoter Johnnie Beard has really found a good string orchestra who will play for the dance Saturday night. These boys showed their ability to play last Saturday night and everyone seems to like them very well.

Richard Dingler reports that he has plenty of roughness and about 20 acres of headed maize. Grain is scarce this year and Richard is simply lucky.

LUCKY GIRL

Her mother felt that family physicians and child specialists, and the hospitals must be right. A simple test that proves they are.

MRS. STRONG AND DAUGHTER, NANCY

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin brought relief at once," says Mrs. A. G. Strong of 34-47 86th St., Jackson Heights, N.Y.

If anyone in your family is occasionally sluggish or constipated; especially any child, you should know this medical truth: You cannot get safe relief with any medicine if you cannot regulate the dose. And to regulate dosage, you should have a liquid laxative. With a liquid laxative, you can gradually reduce the dose. And that is the secret of safe relief from a sluggish, constipated condition.

Why Doctors Use Liquid Laxatives

A liquid laxative can be measured. Its action can be thus controlled. If properly made, of natural laxative elements like senna and cascara, it forms no habit—even in the youngest child. And such a laxative will help the bowels to help themselves, not make matters worse. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative containing herbs, active senna, and cascara, and is the one widely used. You can always obtain it at any drugstore. Why not make the "liquid test" which has attracted so much attention of late? It helps nearly everyone who tries it. It may make you feel better than you have in a long time.

If you will risk sixty cents to discover the natural, comfortable action of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, we believe bowel worries will be over for your household.

Local School Boy Assigned Government Hospital

Enlisting at Amarillo in government army service, Woodrow W. Millsap left there Monday night for Denver after receiving a special assignment to the Fitzsimons General Hospital.

Recruiting Sgt. R. E. Forsythe, who accepted Woodrow, said that the fact that the young man had received two years of college education brought about the special assignment.

Woodrow rode in to school from the country to complete high school, and a part of the time while he was in Clarendon College. His apparent handicaps will the better fit him to put forth extra zeal and energy to make a mark in his new field of learning.

Chevrolet Adds Standard 4-Door Sedan to Line

For the first time since Chevrolet added the Standard six in 1933, a four-door five-passenger sedan is now included in its lower priced line. In announcing the new model as an addition to the 1934 Standards, Chevrolet Motor Company declares it to be the lowest priced four-door sedan in the field of sixes and eights. Its list price is $540, or $100 under the Master four-door sedan.

The major new feature in styling is the treatment of the rear end, where the body panels extend low in an unbroken contour to cover the back of the chassis. This construction does away with the rear cross-member cover, and provides a smooth, sweeping effect. The rear tire carrier and the rear bumper supports extend through openings in the body panel, as does the gasoline tank filler-neck.

Comfort for rear seat passengers is improved by provision of extra leg room, the back of the front seat being deeply recessed, giving plenty of space for a built-in foot rest. Maximum elbow room is obtained by means of deep recesses in the sides of the body above large arm rests. A capacious pocket in the back of the front seat is an added convenience. Upholstery is of mohair material of a new shade and texture, set off by harmonizing head-lining.

Equipment features include an adjustable sun-shade at the driver's seat, button type latches for locking all doors, dome light, and rear window curtain.

The front doors are equipped with no draft venti-panes; fitted with exterior rain shields.

Jack Reid Locates Teeth Of Mammoth on J A's

Two upper molars of the prehistoric mammoth were brought to the Stocking drug store by Jack Reid recently. These teeth were located in a pleistocene formation and well preserved. Jack has been working on the J A ranch for a number of years and keeps a lookout for this line.

The mammoth is said to have inhabited this section anywhere from fifty thousand to two million years ago. It was of the elephant species and had a covering of long hair and two tusks.

Childress Bobcats Run Wild To Defeat Broncos 47-0

The Childress Bobcats ran wild in the second and fourth quarters to defeat the Clarendon Bronchos 47 to 0. Even though the Bronchos played the best game of the season last Friday night, the powerful Bobcat team had them outclassed in every respect.

If the Bronchos had played ball all the game like they did in the first and third quarters, the score would have been very small. The Bobcats didn't score in the first quarter and only made one touchdown in the third quarter.

The pep squad made this trip with the Bronchos, and furnished much pep with their loud and frequent yells.

Eternal Vigilance Required in Fight Against All of Childhood's Epidemics

Mother brings baby to the clinic where he is weighed and inspected for hidden defects by Red Cross nurse; the nurse on her daily rounds inspects a little boy who is "feeling badly."

DIPHTHERIA—that dread epidemic of childhood two decades ago—has almost been conquered, medical authorities inform us. Eternal vigilance still is practiced against the disease, through immunization campaigns, and the world of medicine hopes that ultimately the dread plague will be as extinct as the yellow fever epidemics of the nineteenth century.

The American Red Cross played a major part in the eradication of both. As long ago as the 1880s a young Red Cross nurse—Jane Delano—led a corps of women nurses in the battles against yellow fever in the South. Today she is revered as America's Florence Nightingale, both because of her early exploits and because of her outstanding leadership as a World War nurse—a cause in which she sacrificed her life.

Red Cross nurses by the thousands have worked in the diphtheria eradication campaigns through assisting doctors in giving immunizations to school children. They first entered their work twenty years ago and still are carrying on in many hundreds of communities.

Epidemics of measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever and other ills considered minor evils by many still sweep our schools. Public health authorities and the nurse know that these should not be permitted, because any or all may leave weaknesses. The nurse is alert against infantile paralysis, which annually presents a problem in some section of the country. Against all of these the healthy, well-nourished child stands the best chance.

Child health preservation is a major program of the American Red Cross. How important the work of the nurse is in this respect may be judged from the fact that during the last twelve-month period Red Cross nurses inspected 629,000 school children and of this number found 361,000 with physical defects of varying degrees which had to be corrected if normal health were to be maintained.

Following the World War the Red Cross undertook the task of showing rural communities and smaller cities the value of the visiting nurse—a lesson already appreciated by many larger cities. Hundreds of nursing services were established and proved their value to the taxpayers, thus becoming publicly supported institutions. Many services continued under the auspices of the Red Cross, and today there are more than 750 Red Cross nurses still making their daily rounds carrying their vital knowledge of good health habits to mothers and children.

During the past year these nurses made more than a million visits to or in behalf of the sick. There is still a broad field where the public health nurse is unknown. That there is no more appealing service to which funds may be devoted was illustrated a few months ago when Will Rogers, the noted comedian, desiring to do some public service—but not for public acclaim—gave the Red Cross $25,000 with which to send public health nurses into communities without funds for this purpose.

One of the most effective weapons against the inevitable toll of childhood's ills and epidemics which the depression-years are visiting upon the country, is wielded by the Red Cross nurse in her constant visits in the communities where she is employed. The work of these Red Cross nurses is supported through the annual roll call for members Armistice Day to Thanksgiving. Every man and woman who joins is aiding in the campaign to keep children healthy.

Nearly Half of Property Of Estates Found to Be Intangibles

By A. D. Jackson
Chief Division of Publications.
Forty-six per cent of the property in the State of Texas is intangible property and largely escapes the ad valorem tax, according to L. P. Gabbard, of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, who has made a study of the probate records from 47 counties. Probate records were secured on 23,187 estates and it is believed that these records truly represent the classification of tangible and intangible property in Texas. Ninety-seven per cent of the property assessed for taxation is tangible property while only 3 per cent of the property assessed is intangible. In other words, of the taxes levied on this property 97 per cent was on tangible property and 3 per cent was on intangible property. Accordingly, such property as stocks, bonds, notes, money in the bank, etc., is escaping taxation, leaving the real property and chattels in the country, towns and cities to pay the large proportion of the tax. This is in fact one of the serious inequalities of taxation in this state. Mr. Gabbard also found that large estates acquire relatively greater amounts of intangible property than small estates.

Source: Purina Mills Research Report 1473

Mr. E. B. Powell, Manager of Purina Mills Experimental Farm, "Everything has to be taken into consideration in constructing a really good chick mash. The effect of the feed on the livability of the chicks, on the rapidity of growth, on their feathering, pigmentation, bone and flesh development are all important. Yet, unless we take into consideration the egg laying ability of the pullet grown by the mash the feeder will lose money."

One set of experiments, continued for several years on twenty different feeds, involved the checking of over 300,000 separate weighings of baby chicks and hens. The worthwhile results in terms of money that might be saved per chick is set forth by the accompanying chart. Differences in cost of as much as 3.16c per pound in producing baby chicks means many dollars for a poultry owner who is figuring his success for the year in terms of hundreds or thousands of chickens.

The first six weeks are only the beginning of his poultry flock. From that time on special growing feeds must supply energy, bone and muscle building materials which will bring the pullets into laying with full body development, and at five months of age; and at the same time put broilers on the market at the earliest possible date. Neither a high price nor the tag on the bag point out which is the best feed. The answer to that question lies within the feed itself. Poultry feeds, above all others, need the expert attention that only experience can supply. They must be selected with full knowledge as to source of nutrients. The proportioning of these nutrients is a question of careful manufacture. Only thus is built a feed that, while getting results, sells at a price sufficiently reasonable to be profitable to the poultryman.

WHAT PRICE GLORY?

The World War, all told, cost—apart from 30 million lives—400 billion dollars. With that money we could have built a $2,500 house, furnished it with $1,000 worth of furniture, placed it on five acres of land worth $100 an acre and given this home to each and every family in the United States, Canada, Australia, England, Wales, Ireland, Scotland, Belgium, France Germany and Russia. We could have given to each city of 20,000 inhabitants and over, in each country named a five million dollar library and a ten million dollar university. Out of what was left we could have set aside a sum at five per cent that would provide a $1000 yearly salary for an army of 125,000 teachers and a like salary for another army of 125,000 nurses.—Nicholas Murray Butler.

"SOME BIBLE FACTS ABOUT BAPTISM."

Is baptism a "mere form" or "outward act"? Is it important or unimportant? Is it a matter to be settled by preference or conscience? Is there clear, definite teaching in the New Testament on the subject?

IT IS IMPORTANT. Many have felt that it is a mere outward form, and therefore not important, as is faith or prayer or some other Christian element. Let us examine the Scriptures for the truth.

1. Jesus the Son of God, commanded his disciples to baptize. "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them into the name of Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit." Matt. 28:19.

2. Jesus considered it important enough so that He Himself walked about seventy miles to be baptized by John. Mark 1:9-11.

3. The Holy Spirit of God, speaking through Peter on the day of Pentecost, definitely commanded baptism. "Repent ye and be baptised, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins." Acts 2:38.

4. There is not a church in Christendom, Catholic or Protestant, with the exception of the small body of Quakers, but what does require and has always required baptism. This, therefore, represents the judgment of five hundred million living followers of Christ and about seven and half billion dead.

5. In every recorded instance of conversion in the New Testament baptism is commanded or related. The apostles taught and practiced baptism under the direction and leadership of the Holy Spirit.

6. To relegate baptism to a place of mere form and small importance, one must do it in the face of Christ the Saviour, the Holy Spirit of God, and the word of God, and the millions who have followed Christ. Baptism is a very important question and subject. It is decidedly important and it pays to know exactly what it was that Christ required when he required baptism.

7. Many of the controversies of today concerning the subject of baptism can be settled if the people will search the Scriptures and then obey them when the answer is found. Human opinion has brought about the controversies and the question cannot be settled by human wisdom.

Next lesson, "What is Bible Baptism."

Memories of "Over There" Ever Remind Us

Sixteen years have passed and through it all still linger memories of mud spattered and shell-torn roads.

Dark nights and rain, the tramp tramp of soldiers marching to the front.

The long days and gloomy darkness filled with the constant rattle of machine guns and rifles, the thinning of the ranks.

Night and day the deep throated dogs of war hurled their tons of metal and high explosives into trenches and no Man's Land, seemingly there could be no end.

Nothing could withstand the tremendous shells hurled from these monsters. Caverns blown in to rocks, cities, villages and country laid waste. Dugouts disappeared in showers of earth and splintered timbers. Bodies of once proud soldiers buried under masses of ruins. None can even comprehend how great the destruction save those who have seen it with their own eyes.

On that morning the fog was thick and low. The constant roar of artillery was beyond description, not even a bursting shell from an enemy gun could be heard unless it was real near. This continued uninterrupted until eleven o'clock of that morning. Then it all ceased. How much more pleasant it would have been if it all could have been erased. Of course it could not be so. Then the quiet hours seem to allow some moments to relax wrecked nerves soothe the weary brain and rest tired bodies. Then began the realization of it all.

Ruins are left and right, in front and behind, destruction everywhere. Remnants of cities that were once proud homes, landscapes of waste. Wrecks of war machines on this side and there.

Many had fallen, others have lived. The dead were there, some headless, some armless, others without one or both lower limbs, decomposing under the feet of the living.

Some had lain for days, weeks and when the fighting was the fiercest, even for months.

Perhaps in the gray dawn of some early morning where he now lies just yonder, a tired soldier had ventured to relax an exhausted body and the enemy had used the opportunity.

Then in the gloom of evening shadows another had fallen, and another fate was sealed in the darkness of a cold, rainy night. All these numbered with the others that had fallen during heated battles of the day and the ghastly fighting of the nights.

On that morning many a proud soldier hoped for just a few more hours but when this short time had passed many had gone with it. Why so many must die just now after living through it all? Sad to mention, yet how true.

The fight was over but out yonder vast fields and forests of war wreckage, war material to be salvaged, villages and roads to be rebuilt.

Buddies that had joined the bivouacs of the dead to be replaced by new ones. All this with numerous other things and then thoughts of home and loved ones there, still linger as memories of No. 112422.

Battle For Appropriations Uncarths Capitol History

Austin was first designated as the State capitol when the Texas Congress Jan. 19, 1840, confirmed the selection by the Capitol Commission of the "site of the town of Waterloo, on the east bank of the Colorado" and renamed the town "Austin." Several log buildings were erected to serve as administrative offices and legislative halls until the first permanent structure was erected. This was in the administration of President Lamar and March 13, 1842, President Houston, fearing an attack on the capitol after the first Mexican raid on San Antonio, ordered the return of the archives to Houston. The following September, by executive order, the capitol was moved to Washington-on-the-Brazos.

When the seat of government was returned to Austin in 1845, the first permanent capitol was erected. It burned Nov. 9, 1881, and a temporary capitol, located just off the capitol grounds at the head of Congress avenue, served until the completion of the present structure, which was formally opened May 16, 1888.

Under Spanish regime, the seat of government of what is now Texas was in turn located at Monclova, Mexico; Los Adenas, facing the French outpost of Natchitoches, and now known as Robeline, La., and San Antonio, Texas, which held the honor from 1772 to 1824. After Mexico became independent of Spain, the seat of government went first to Saltillo, Coahuila, and then returned to Monclova, which also is in Coahuila.

W. P. Cagle is visiting his brother, Rev. T. V. Cagle at Abilene.

Mrs. L. J. Yates of Hale Center visited her son Asa O. Yates and family here over Sunday.

H. D. (Buck) Ramsay of San Antonio was here on business matters Monday.

EYE-STRAIN uses up energy—This is especially true with youth more than with those older, who can recognize the importance of guarding health—Children again in school should be given every chance to carry their studies without eye-strain through imperfect vision—It is well to have eyes examined regularly, especially those of growing children—We are most reasonable in all of our service rates—Glasses, when needed, can be had at a price to fit any pocket book.

LEGION STAGES TWO-DAY RODEO SHOW AT MEMPHIS

Armistice Day Celebration
Expected to Draw Monster
Crowd to See Old West

Memphis, Oct. 30.—With three performances, offering many of the best known riders and ropers in the Southwest and many bucking broncos, Brahma steers and wild cows, the American Legion here is sponsoring a two-day rodeo on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 10 and 11, at the Hall County Fair grounds.

An added attraction will be the night performance Saturday, Nov. 10, under the floodlights of Fair Park athletic stadium.

The rodeo is to be staged by Roy Mayes, former world champion bronco rider and veteran rodeo promoter, who staged one of the largest events of this nature in this territory here in 1922.

At work long in advance, Mayes already has secured over 100 head of animals for the event, and some of the outstanding cowboys in the Southwest have entered.

The list of riders includes such rodeo characters as Jonas de Arman, Sayre, Okla., present all-around world champion and winner of many events from Fort Worth to Burwell, Neb., and from Cheyenne to Madison Square Garden, New York.

Odell Betsill, Odell, also winner of numerous bronco riding and bulldogging titles; Buck Standifer, Olton, winner of the calf-roping contest last year at the Roswell, New Mexico State Cotton Carnival.

Odus Riddle, Odell, a member of Tex Austin's Western troupe that recently staged a rodeo in London; "Tuffy" Maddox, pushed forward by the city of Childress as the toughest bulldogger in the territory; "Sox" Harrison, Bailey, Okla.; Buddy Ellison, San Jon, New Mex.; Hall Cooper, Woodward, Okla.; and numerous others, including entrants from the J A and Buckle L ranches.

Heading a score of bucking horses will be Northern Star, hard bucking, savage mustang from the Matador ranch, one of the best known rider-busters in this section of the country.

More than 20 Brahma steers are to be brought here from South Texas for this phase of the entertainment, and nearly 50 wild cows and calves have already been secured for the wild cow milking and calf roping contests.

There will be five different contest events at each performance, in addition to clowns, trick riding and roping exhibitions, kid's pony races and cowboy's relay races.

The afternoon shows will start at 2 o'clock and run between two

READJUSTMENT SALARIES RELIEF WORKERS ASKED

Claimed That Some Paid Too
Much; Others Not Enough
Some Duplication

Austin, Oct. 30.—Readjustment of salaries and reorganization of the various departments of the Texas Relief Commission into a more closely knit organization has been announced by Director Adam R. Johnson.

A new organization chart, drawn by the T. B. Trotter company of Houston, employed by Mr. Johnson to conduct a coordinating survey of the Commission, has been adopted by the State Board of Control.

The chart lists ten departments, under these, various other divisions and sections. Departments listed are the executive, investigation, field administration, engineering, social service, purchasing, rural rehabilitation, accounting, surplus commodities and transient.

"The basis of salary adjustment was position and classification," Johnson said. "Under the old system, inequitable salaries were the rule rather than the exception. Our survey showed that in some instances half a dozen persons in the same office doing the same work all were drawing different salaries. In our adjustments, we have attempted to correct that abuse. In some instances, salaries have been lowered; in others, they have been raised."

The administrative payroll for the past week numbered 732 persons, approximately half of whom are in the field as representatives of the engineering, rural rehabilitation, field administration and other departments.

American Museum Men Hunt Treasure on Dill Farm

During the past two weeks representative field men have been here collecting specimens of a prehistoric nature for the American Museum of Natural History of New York City.

They have inspected the Spade Flat country and this week are working on the Dill farm near Goldston. Excellent specimens of camel and four-toed horse have been collected, it is said.

and two and one-half hours. The night performance is to be staged at 8 o'clock under the football floodlights.

For the entrants there will be plenty of keen competition, with from 15 to 25 contestants in each event, and also $500 in prizes for the winners.

She has a national reputation as an authority on Electric Cookery and she has spoken before thousands upon the subject of better food preparation.

chester has directed Electric Cookery Classes in many leading universities and colleges. In addition, she has had charge of electric cooking schools in such cities as Albany, Auburn and Buffalo, New York; Trenton and Newark, New Jersey; Philadelphia and Harrisburg, Pa.; Hagerstown and Baltimore, Maryland; and Milwaukee and Madison, Wisconsin.

In anticipation of her visit here, Miss Manchester has been working for some time on a series of exceptional demonstrations in Electric Cookery and she will have a number of excellent and novel recipes. In keeping with present conditions and the trend toward economical meals, she has built her school program upon a strictly economical basis. At the same time, each dish will be well balanced and nourishing, appetizing and attractive. As a result of her extensive training and experience in the field of Electric Cookery, she will be able to offer housewives numerous up-to-date ideas in modern homemaking. Miss Manchester was brought here by the West Texas Utilities Company, distributors of Hotpoint ranges in this territory.

"We expect to bring homemakers of Clarendon a program which will interest every housewife," Miss Manchester says. "We will present in dramatized fashion, new ideas in cooking and homemaking. We will show women how they may economize, how they may prepare inexpensive meals, how they may obtain more leisure for themselves, and how they may eliminate kitchen drudgery."

The program will be varied daily and plans are now being made for an entertainment program, in addition to the demonstrations of Electric Cookery.

Don't forget the date—Tuesday and Wednesday, November 6 and 7th, in the dining room of the Clarendon Hotel.

Hundreds of Phytosaur Teeth Found at San Jon

San Jon, N. M., Oct. 26.—Hundreds of teeth, eleven million years old, have been taken from the caprock south of here.

The molars, dug from an outcropping of reddish rock-hard earth, have been identified by Floyd Studer, paleontologist of the Panhandle Plains Historical Society, as being from the eating apparatus of a "triassic reptile known as the phytosaur."

At first the teeth were believed to be those of sharks, but geologic and physical indications, Studer explained, show they came from fierce flesh-eaters of prehistoric times.

Bronchos In Conference Tilt At McLean Friday Night

A large crowd is expected to make the journey to McLean Friday night with the Bronchos to witness one of the best games to be played this season.

The McLean Tigers are doped to win this game by several touchdowns. They beat Miami and Miami beat Clarendon which puts McLean on top. Remember last year, McLean was supposed to win but came up with the short end of the score.

The Broncho squad have high hopes of turning this game into a victory for themselves. The whole Broncho squad is in fine condition and a great exciting game is anticipated by all Clarendon fans, who will go to McLean to back the Maroon and White.

The Bronchos and Tigers will clash Friday night at 7:30 in McLean.

Hon. Harwood Beville Gets New Orleans Promotion

Friends of the Bevilles here will be glad to learn that Harwood Beville has received a merited promotion to the legal department of the internal revenue department work as a special investigator.

He was employed first as field man with headquarters at Beaumont. The family home was moved to Ft. Worth some two weeks ago. The recent change in Mr. Beville's official position will necessitate a move to New Orleans.

Mrs. Beville and son Johnny were in Clarendon for a short time Monday. They will visit a week or more in Amarillo before going to New Orleans.

Hedgpeth Closes Auto Paint And Body Shop Here

C. C. Hedgpeth left Tuesday with his family to return to Danville, Illinois where he was employed in a paint and body shop for some ten years. He returns to again accept the foremanship of the large shop, a position he held for five years before returning to Clarendon last winter.

Mr. Hedgpeth grew to manhood here, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Hedgpeth. At the close of the war he located in Danville where he married and where the children were born.

Clarendon regrets extremely the loss of a skilled mechanic, and the loss of a family of good citizens who have a large circle of friends here who will miss them.

Repeated requests from his former employees and the payment of a larger salary was the inducement that occasioned the change at this time.
