County Leaders Subscribe $3,860 to Development Co.

In 10 minutes Monday night, Jan. 28, farm and business leaders put $3380 on the line for the future of Collingsworth after hearing an explanation of the Collingsworth County Development Company and the need it will fill.

An additional $480 was subscribed toward the $10,000 stock issue Tuesday and several thousand more has been promised, according to N. M. Higdon, secretary of the temporary organizational committee.

Almost 100 men, representing every part of the county, attended the dinner meeting and heard how the Collingsworth County Development Co., an industrial foundation type corporation, is necessary before the county can participate in Area Redevelopment funds, for which it is eligible.

Henry Sullivan, elected last week to head a committee that would get the organizational ball rolling, had appointed a committee to nominate officers of a more permanent committee to carry out the organization.

Floyd Teutsch, president of the First State Bank in Dodson, was elected president; J. T. Slay of Wellington, vice president; and C. T. Hubbard, executive vice president of the Wellington State Bank, secretary-treasurer.

They will serve until permanent officers are elected by the stockholders of the development company, after the charter is received.

"People can't go to Dallas or Amarillo or Wichita Falls and borrow long-term money at 4 per cent interest," the group was told, "but they can come to Wellington and get it."

Area Redevelopment makes possible this kind of money, it was pointed out.

"There is very little giveaway. It is a self-help program," Sullivan declared.

John Robert Henard, vice chairman of the economic development board, traced the steps in the ARA program leading up to the organization of the development company.

Paul Spillman, legal advisor, explained the legal steps.

Since 1950, Collingsworth has an out-migration of 39.6 per cent and since 1955, Wellington has lost 26 per cent of its businesses, he said.

ARA is designed to finance public projects and private enterprise that will turn the tide for communities like this, it was pointed out.

"Loans from ARA must be sound and bankable except for two things, long range 4 per cent money," he said.

Banks are limited by law as to the amount of money they can loan and the length of time for which that money can be loaned, it was explained.

On each project in Collingsworth county financed through

MANUFACTURED IN WELLINGTON

Here are two of three items for livestock men manufactured in Wellington by the Oran Starkey Manufacturing Company. Oran Starkey, owner, demonstrates a calf table in position to brand or vaccinate a calf. At right is the cattle feeder. The third item now manufactured is a livestock gate. Starkey began the manufacture of this equipment in August and sells everything as soon as it is complete. The work is done in a large quonset building Starkey has had for several years at the northeast corner of Wellington.

Henard Gives Outline of Water Program

Collingsworth county's water development program went before the women of the county at a meeting of the Domestic Science Club recently, when the speaker was Dan Henard, chairman of the water district board.

Information contained in Henard's report is given in this article prepared by Mrs. L. C. Hill, reporter for the club and hostess at the meeting.

Following a short business meeting, Mrs. Robert Choice introduced Henard, who gave a very illuminating talk concerning the proposed Collingsworth County dam project.

Mr. Henard, along with numerous other civic minded citizens of this community, have devoted much valuable time and effort to this project.

The proposed project involves dams on Salt Fork, Buck Creek, and Elm Creek, and would mean vital new growth and new jobs for this area. Because this county has a 12.9 per cent average of unemployment, much below the national average of 6 per cent, the Department of Commerce has approved the project for Area Redevelopment Administration financing.

A paradox of modern economic society is the continuing existence, during periods of full employment, of geographical pockets such as Wellington, in which chronic unemployment and underemployment are excessively high.

This area has been plagued by economic conditions that are the byproduct of changing times and changing technologies, and of labor migration. There is no doubt that the development of the dam project would make a real contribution to the long-term expansion of industry and employment in this area.

This water district can serve a number of towns. It's primary use, of course, will be municipal, then industrial and agricultural, respectively.

For the past 23 years the flow of water from Salt Fork has been checked at Mangum, showing 68,700 acre feet of water annually. The proposed reservoir on Salt Fork, referred to as Little Gyp, will be located directly north of the Tom Wilson and Earl Allen ranches, and will care for 62,000 acre feet of water.

This reservoir will be connected by a diversion canal to the much larger reservoir on Buck Creeek. These two reservoirs will be designed to accommodate 22,000 acre feet of water surplus. The Buck Creek dam will be located about nine miles west of Wellington where the red bluffs are.

The largest reservoir will be located where Elm and Wolf Creeks intersect and will be nearly eight miles long. Elm Creek heads at McLean, splits, and goes nearly to Highway 66.

Gyp water is satisfactory for irrigation, but not for drinking purposes. The Buck Creek water contains no gyp. McLellan Creek is soft water, yielding 40,000 acre feet of water annually, and could serve as a future alternative, if necessary.

The Water District was voted in by the people of the county. The $12,500 bonds voted in has been spent only for

Banker-Humorist to Speak at C-C Banquet

The annual chamber of commerce banquet will be held on Thursday night, February 7, with Robert E. Lee, Oklahoma City banker and noted after-dinner speaker, giving the evening's address.

The banquet will be in the community building, beginning at 7:15 p.m.

Deadline for buying tickets is Tuesday, Feb. 5, and these may be had at the Chamber of Commerce office, the Wellington Leader, Parsons Drug, the C&H Pharmacy, and Pruden Drug, according to N. M. Higdon, C-C manager.

Lee's speeches are known over a wide area for the adroit manner in which he uses humor to make a serious point.

His talk here will be "The Humor Cycle."

Although he is still a young man, Lee already has had three careers— the Army, law and banking.

Graduated from West Point in 1945, he was an infantry officer with overseas duty until 1949. He received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Oklahoma and was graduated from the OU law school in 1952.

Lee then served as assistant general attorney for the Rock Island Railroad in Chicago from 1952 until 1956; and attorney for the Amerada Petroleum Corporation 1956-1957;

He jointed the First National Bank of Oklahoma City in its trust department in 1958 and he is now vice president of the Fidelity National Bank and Trust Company in Oklahoma City.

Lee is a member of various bar associations, a director of a country bank serving the agricultural community of Hennessey, Okla.; a deacon of the Westminister Presbyterian Church, Oklahoma City; and an honorary professor of Oklahoma City University.

Admitted to the bar in both Illinois and Oklahoma, he has practiced before various federal courts and before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

This banker is quite a sportsman also; and his sports include golf, tennis, boxing, wrestling, rifle and pistol work, riding, polo, weight lifting and squash.

Mayor Hiram Cudd will be master of ceremonies at the banquet and will welcome the guests. Dr. Glenn Hickey of First Baptist Church will give

Seek Locations to Release Wild Turkeys

Suitable locations in Collingsworth where wild turkey may be released are being sought by Weinert Farr, district game warden.

Farr said while in Wellington Monday, Jan. 28, that the Game and Fish Commission will trap turkeys in Lipscomb county some time in February, to be released at other places in the Panhandle.

Funeral Rites Held Sunday for Mrs. Phillips

Mrs. Grady Phillips, a resident of this area almost all her life, died Thursday, Jan. 25, following a long illness.

For many years she was associated with the Ritz Theatre, leaving that work only a few years ago. Until two years ago, she continued to work part of the time.

In this work, Mrs. Phillips came to be widely known throughout the Wellington trade area.

She was the former Esther Reeves, the daughter of Mrs. T. D. Reeves and the late Mr. Reeves. She was born in Greer county April 21, 1910, and grew up in the Vinson community.

She and Mr. Phillips were married Dec. 19, 1927, in Amarillo, and a short time later they came to Wellington, continuing to make this their home.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday at 2:30 at the Assembly of God by the Rev. A. D. Stewart, pastor. Burial was in the North Wellington Cemetery, under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home.

Pall bearers were John Cartwright, L. A. Cartwright, Paul Brewer, George Scott, Carl Daves and Curtis Bullington.

Mrs. Phillips is survived by her husband; two daughters and a son: Mrs. Jack Pritchard of Lubbock; Mrs. Stanley Brown of Anaheim, Calif.; and Gary Phillips of Lubbock.

Other survivors are her mother, Mrs. T. D. Reeves of Wellington; two sistres and three brothers: Mrs. Will Tate and Leo Reeves of Wellington; Mrs. Chuck Van Mater of Greeley, Colo.; James Reeves of Oklahoma City, and Cecil Reeves of Odessa.

There are six grandchildren.

"An inspection will be made of the places," Farr said. "We prefer creek bottoms, where large cottonwoods will give the turkeys a place to roost."

Ranches or large tracts of land under one owner are preferred, he explained, and it is the Commission's desire that the turkeys be left alone for at least two years so they may get established.

Wild turkeys have the same habits as domestic turkeys, the game warden pointed out. They will need water, preferably running water or from dirt tanks where the supply will be constant.

They like to browse on green patches and small grain fields and they are heavy eaters of insects.

"Wild turkeys will range up to 10 miles a day and return to their roosts at night if they are not disturbed," Farr said.

Collingsworth landowners who would like to have some of the turkeys on their places should contact Farr at Shamrock, by phoning BLackburn 6-1708 before Feb. 9.

Starkey Builds Equipment for Livestock Men

It was hot in Oran Starkey's big metal barn at the northeast corner of town last August when he built himself a cattle feeder.

He never got it out to his farm, for he sold it by the time it was finished.

He built another one and another one, and still more, and it was November before he ever had a feeder ahead that he could use for his own cattle.

But in the meantime, a young industry was born in Wellington—tied in with this area's basic livestock economy.

The cattle feeder is one of three items he manufactures at the Oran Starkey Manufacturing Company.

The others are a calf table and custom made gates.

Many calf tables or squeezers are basically alike, and Starkey has used them. He felt the main thing they lacked were safety features, and this is what he built in his Safe-Way Calf Table.

A calf squeezer eliminates the colorful range practice of roping a calf, tying it down and holding it while it was branded or vaccinated.

"But in the squeezer a calf can't give a sharp twist and kick you in the face," Starkey explained.

He also custom builds models for stock men who want to brand on the left side.

The gates are built to any length out of 4x4 steel mesh and pipe.

"All of these are built of American made iron or steel," Starkey says with pride. "It's better than any that is imported."

Starkey has two helpers,

Farm Machinery Sale Reset

The tractor and implement sale scheduled by the Wellington Livestock Auction has been reset for Wednesday, Feb. 6, at 11 a.m., John Robert Henard announced.

Bad weather on the original date caused the new one to be set, he explained.

While a large amount of farm machinery is already consigned, Henard pointed out that anyone having a surplus of implements or tools may bring them to the auction.

Payment of Poll Taxes Running Light in County

Only half the voters in Collingsworth county have taken that vital step to enable them to vote this year—payment of their poll taxes.

At noon Tuesday, Jan. 29, the count was 948, out of a potential of around 2,000, Miss Louise Fulcher, county tax assessor-collector, said.

Miss Fulcher said her office will remain open as late as necessary on the deadline date, Thursday, January 31.

In an effort to boost the payment of poll taxes, the Business and Professional Womens Club is distributing lapel cards reading: "I've Paid My Poll Tax. Have You?"

Various groups have pointed out that although this is an off election year, there will be the regular school and city elections, as well as the possibility of special elections of concern to the entire comunty.

25 In Bank Study Course

Approximately 25 bankers from the area are enrolled in the Greenbelt Bankers' Study Course on negotiable instruments, which opened recently.

Represented this year are banks in Childress, Shamrock, Dodson, Hollis, Quanah and Wellington, according to Jack Aaron, chairman of the Greenbelt Bankers Study Group.

District Attorney John T. Forbis of Childress is teaching the course.

Strikes Will Continue as Long as Deficit Spending Continues to Increase

The longshoresman strike has ended after a preliminary cost of 80 million dollars in losses suffered by workers, ship industries and affected industries and their employees.

The dreary strike of the printers in New York City is now nearing its second month with an immediate cost to printers, newspapers, retail merchants that has already run into untold millions of dollars; but the final loss may run into billions. Department stores faced with disasterous declines in sales have canceled or sharply curtailed their orders to the manufacturers. The manufacturers have slowed up or reduced their purchases from the mills and the mills have been forced to reduce or concel their orders for raw products. This is true whether that raw product happens to be cotton, synthetic fabric, steel, oil and a thousand other items whose production provides food and clothing and sme degree of luxury and entertainment for the workers.

There are hundreds of these strikes either brewing or in existence and each one is a potential threat to the future well being of every person in the United States. The immediate strikers may have lost their life savings and in other cases it will take them years to make up for what they have lost. But this is only the present immediate and visible loss. Think of what it means as the loss is spread out in its ultimate bearing on every person in the United States.

These strikes with their devastating consequences will continue as long as the present theory or theories continue to hold forth in Washington. Deficit spending breeds inflation and inflation breeds strikes. It is time for workers, salaried people as well as busiessmen, ranchers, farmers and even the internationalists to realize that a curb must be put on deficit spending if this nation is to survive.

$18,000,000 Plant Comes to Hereford

Governor Connally, who has been determined to make this state a leader in securing new industry, was greatly pleased with the announcement that the Holly Sugar Corporation of Colorado Springs, Colo., will establish an $18,000,000 sugar beet processing plant in Hereford.

Construction will begin soon, and the 1,700-acre plant is expected to be in operation by Sept. 1, 1964.

"Establishment of this refinery is a big step toward providing new job opportunities for the citizens of Texas," the governor wired the sugar firm.

Tax on Trading Stamps Proposed

As an alternate to sending "the cream of business profits to out-of-state trading stamp companies," Rep. Jim Segrest of San Antonio proposed a 10 per cent gross receipts tax on trading stamps.

"Trading stamps are the most hated of all competitive weapons even by those who use them so why not tax such an unhealthy item?" Segrest said

He said his bill would bring millions to the state treasury as a balance to "some fifty million dollars" taken out of Texas annually by trading stamp companies.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jenkins, while the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Warrick, all of Wellington.

Lighted cathedral tapers extended the full length of the chancel, with garlands of jade leaves decorating the wrought iron candelabras. An arch of jade leaves was at the center and beneath this, the satin covered prie dieu completed the arrangement.

Presenting the wedding music were Mrs. Truman Estes, organist, and Mrs. Denzil Lacy, vocalist.

Her gown of peau de soie and reembroidered Alencon lace was designed with a bodice having a scalloped neckline, accented with the lace and encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. Long sleeves tapered to points at her wrists. The full skirt swept to a chapel train, which was accented with lace, seed pearls and sequins, and roses of self material. Her tiered illusion veil was scalloped at the edge and attached to a princess crown of seed pearls, crystals and rhinestones. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis on a white Bible.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white organza sheath over taffeta, with a matching overskirt. Her elbow length veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls and crystal drops, and her traditional something old was a handkerchief, belonging to the bridegroom's grandmother, the late Mrs. Lizette Cudd Howe, carried by brides in the family. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis on a white Bible.

Miss Peggie Crawford was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a blue brocade sheath with an overskirt, styled like the bride's dress. A blush length veil was attached to her blue brocade pillbox and she carried a colonial bouquet of frenched carnations.

As the couple left for Amarillo, the bride wore a powder blue wool sheath with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Fan Enthusiasm Boosts Double Header Victory

By one point, the Skyrockets won over the Lefors Eagles here Friday night, Jan. 25, in what was probably the best game either team will play in the entire season. The final score was 55-54.

Backing up the Rockets was a big crowd of Wellington fans who let go with their enthusiasm.

Displaying real team effort, the Rockets were able to check the aggressiveness of the Lefors five.

Lefors scored 14 points by free throws and the Rockets 11.

Anthony McCool of Lefors was the game's top scorer with 17. The Rockets divided high point honors: Craig Bergvall, Raymond Sanders and Johnny Ford with 12 each. Bobby Hudson accounted for 11 points, Lynn McLain 6 and Gary, White, who played only part of the game, 2.

Wellington Skyrockettes won their game an easy 58 to 29, with a lot of credit going to the guards.

Lefors was able to score only three field goals during the entire game and these came in the last half.

Legislator Wants to Divide Texas

Rep. V. E. "Red" Cherry of San Antonio wants to divide Texas into two states.

A constitutional amendment proposed by the colorful retired gambler would create the "State of South Texas." Berry envisions it as a tax-free paradise in which horse racing, liquor by the drink, and tourist trade would flourish.

"Nearly all counties in 'South Texas' voted for racing last year," he said enthusiastically.

West Texas Utilities Company — an investor owned company

NEWS LETTER

from Congressman
WALTER ROGERS

The United States could liquidate its $300 billion public debt by selling, if enough well-heeled buyers were found, the real and personal property of our government — lock, stock and barrel. No one, I'm sure, would advocate that we do this. No one would want to seel the White House or the Capitol or our nuclear submarines or our great national parks, or even very many of the equestrian statues that dot Washington.

But I'm convinced that this government owns far more real estate . . . land and buildings . . . than we really need.

A good round of auction sales following a thorough audit and study, would help the nation's financial position. If the proceeds of these sales were properly applied, the national debt could be reduced.

I have introduced a resolution (House Resolution 68) in this new 88th Session of the Congress asking that a nine-member House committee be appointed to investigate the government's real property holdings and to prepare a complete inventotry.

The purpose would be to formulate recommendations as to which proprty we'd keep and which we'd sell.

The committee also would establish property management policies after determining what policies are now in effect. Sales would follow.

We have built up in this nation a stockpile of land and buildings every bit as extravagant as that exposed in last year's Senate investigation into the stockpiling of strategic materials. We've accumulated heaps of unwanted chromite, tungsten, lead, nickel, feathers and other substances, all in the name of preparedness.

President Kennedy is expected to ask for authority to sell surplus stockpile items. I believe we should carry this approach a step farther by investigating and arranging to dispose of part of our REAL ESTATE stockpile.

This is the eight-year history of our mounting accumulation of real and personal property:

1955, $207.9 billion;
1956, $235.4 billion;
1957, $249.1 billion;
1958, $262 billion;
1959, $264.5 billion;
1960, $275.9 billion;
1961, $282.9 billion;
1962, $213.3 billion.

The House Committee on Government Operations has released its annual inventory report of government holdings, real and personal. It is an excellent report, but it does not constitute the item-by-item listing I'd like to see.

Some agencies have provided better information than others; a committee staff member told me, "This year we have information from the Defense Department that never was available before." According to the committee, the Treasury Department was fully cooperative.

I think, however, that because the job is so immense a special committee should be assigned to it. That my resolution seeks to accomplish.

For the first time in recent history this year's report shows the total value of government holding to exceed the national debt total. Had we sold everything as of last July 1 for listed value, the United States could have liquidated its real and personal holding for a total of $299.4 billion. On that date the debt was $298.2 billion. We'd have been in the clear by $1.2 billion but we'd miss those B-52s and the Capitol.

The dollar values listed in the report are deceptively low. Much of the property was entered at acquisition cost. The 18 acres of land surrounding the White House are officially valued at only $1,000.

The government's total real estate holdings of 772 million acres — an area four and a half times the size of Texas — are valued at only $86 billion.

Although Amarillo Air Force Base is not specifically mentioned in the report, its land and buildings are valued by the Air Force at $74,851,048, a figure that might represent not more than half of the actual replacement cost.

The government buys and buys, and rarely sells. We have vast areas of land and military bases and warehouses and factories and waterfront property that private business could put to work. We don't know how much our government owns or how much it's worth. We should find out. We should begin to take steps to sell some of it.

Highway Building In High Gear

Highway construction moved along at a rapid, but not record, pace in Texas during 1962. State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer says Texas is "on schedule" in the interstate program.

He particularly notes, however, that Texas is building its mileage at about 60 per cent of what the cost per mile in other states has been.

Sprawling interstate systems and unique bridge projects highlighted the year for Texas Highway Department.

Eighty-one new interstate miles were built in the state, bringing the total now open to traffic to 1,895 miles.

Texas' target is 3,000 miles by 1972, Greer says.

WHS Splits Twin Bill With Canadian

Wellington Rockettes defeated the Canadian girls 45 to 29 there after a frigid drive north in the face of zero temperatures Tuesday, Jan. 22.

The Rockets, however, lost a tight 52 to 49, in a game where free throws made the difference.

The Rockettes were ahead 14-12 at the end of the first period, then built up their lead in the second period to end the half 24 to 16.

At the three-quarters mark the score was 36 to 19 in favor of Wellington.

Rockette guards came in for praise, and during the second and third quarters, Canadian scored only one field goal. They ran up more pointers in the final period when Coach James Stavenhagen sent in some of his second string guards.

High pointer for Wellington was Betty Courtney with 30; Diane Petree was high for Canadian with 12.

Wellington starters were Betty Courtney, Jan Glenn, Jane Orr, Carol Blain, Nancy Gibbs and Vicki Glenn.

Starting for the Canadians were Ruth Waters, Diane Petree, Jane Smith, S. Hexa, Ann Morrow and Mary Rivers.

Rocket-Wildcat

The boys game was close all the way, with the Rockets leading 10 to 9 at the first period. Half-time however saw Canadian ahead 20 to 17 and at the third, the Wildcats led 39 to 35.

Wellington outscored Canadian from the field by 10 baskets, but the Wildcats were hot from the free throw line and scored 28 points that way. The Rockets scored only 5.

The Rockets are making from 40 to 50 per cent of their free throws in most games. The Wildcats made 79 per cent in this particular game.

Wellington boys came in for high praise from their coach for their hustling game.

High pointer for the Rockets was Craig Bergvall with 14; Robert Lewis, with 22 was high for Canadian.

Wellington starters were Bergvall, Lynn McLain, Raymond Sanders, Bobby Hudson, and Gary White.

Starting for Canadian were Lewis, W. Prater, K. Willis, Bill Ortega and K. Steingle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Young and Wallace, of Hollis, visited Mr. Young's sister, Mrs. Stella West on Sunday.

Support Bill for Parents Is Introduced

AUSTIN—A bill which would make relatives responsible for the welfare of the needy old people has been introduced by Rep. J. Collier Adams of Lubbock.

Patterned after the "Montana Method," the bill calls for contributions to the support of citizens on Old Age Assistance rolls and disabled persons receiving state aid.

The "responsible" relatives could be the assistance recipient's parent, aunt, uncle, niece, nephew, spouse, brother, sister, ,son, daughter or grandparent.

Proposed law would make a person earning $201 a month and supporting only himself pay $5 a month toward a relatie's care. If he made $376 a month and was supporting two people, he'd have to pay $20.

"I just believe," Rep. Adams said, "that the commandment 'Honor thy mother and father' should be upheld." He said he also figures that the most needy people could get larger benefit checks if others received semi-support from their own families.

Fin-Feather-Fur
In Collingsworth

By Danny Garcia

Now that quail, duck, deer and pheasant seasons are over, most of our local sportsmen have turned to crow and coyote hunting.

Crow hunting late in the evenings is still producing tremendous results.

I was recently speaking with a couple of local sportsmen who reported having killed several hundred crows in one evening. This may sound impossible but I, myself, have killed over one hundred crows in less than an hour.

I recently read that the fire department in Shamrock is sponsoring a crow shoot. I think the people of Shamrock realize the tremendous damage the crows do to various crops, and also the wonderful sport offered in hunting crows.

Coyote Hunting

Cold weather has aroused interest in coyote hunting.

Several farmers have reported that coyotes are attacking young calves, injuring and killing them.

There are several methods of hunting coyotes and lately all methods have seemed to have good results.

Most of the hunting is done in the late evening, night, or early morning.

Probably the most common method is to call the coyote up with a squawker, shooting when he gets within range.

This type of hunting is done at all times during the day, but at night a spot light has to be used to spot their eyes.

Coyotes do not fear the lights and will continue to come toward your call. This is especially true with young coyotes.

Older coyotes will generally circle to the downwind side of the call to see if there is any human scent before coming in.

Many of our local hunters use greyhounds to run the coyotes down.

One of the most common practices used in luring coyotes into a desired hunting area is to place a dead body of a cow or calf in a wheat field.

When the coyotes come in to feed, the dogs are turned loose for a most exciting race and kill.

I had the pleasure of witnessing such a race and would recommend taking advantage of an invitation on such a hunt.

Some hunters drive along the country roads early in the morning and late in the evening, looking for coyotes crossing the road. When a coyote is spotted, the hunters jump out of their cars, release their dogs and the race begins.

Some reports I have received of coyote kills are:

Quinton Brewer, Elvis White and J. B. King, 14 coyotes since Dec. 1. All were reported to have been killed on the Brewer farm.

Charles Black, son of E. G. Black, killed one in his pickup.

Herbert Clay and his father report having good luck with their dogs. Herbert said they have killed more than 25 coyotes in the last month.

I did not get to talk to Jack Needham, but from all reports he has really been having luck —one report is that Jack never fails to get at least one coyote. He uses both rifle and dogs.

On Loaded Guns

Richard Gilbreth of Quail comes in with a warning that is always timely: Never leave a gun loaded

"An unloaded gun has never killed anyone—unless he was hit over the head with it," he reminds "This is especially true where there are kids and strangers around your gun."

Richard says some people believe it is all right to leave a gun loaded and ready for use.

No Emergency Seen in Screwworm Financing Need

AUSTIN—The man who holds the state purse strings for the Texas House of Representatives said he sees no urgency requiring fast legislative action to bolster the screwworm eradication program by $1,400,000.

Chairman Bill Heatly of the House Appropriations Committee said his conclusion of a recent screwworm eradication project hearing is that livestock producers have raised enough money to keep the program going until March 1.

Meanwhile, an interim study committee headed by Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo strongly recommends that the $1,400,000 be appropriated now, and another $1,600,000 be appropriated for the year beginning Sept. 1.

This would make up the $3,000,000 members of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation have been seeking from the state.

Wellington-Quail Junior Teams Split Pair

Wellington Firecrackerettes defeated the Quail junior high girls, but the Quail juniors downed the Firecrackers in the second game of the twin bill.

The Crackerettes win 53 to 6 in a one-sided game. The Crackerettes are not only a larger team in numbers but it is also an older team.

Coach Harvey Millsap played his first team only a few minutes before sending in his second and third teams. Wellington scored 23 points to one for Quail in the first quarter; 6 to 4 in the second; 6 to 1 in the third, and 14 to 0 in the fourth.

Nell Tarver made 11 points for high, and Becky Brewer and Charlotte Allen 8 each for Wellington. Judy Campbell scored 3 points for Quail, Cummings 2 and Janice Gosnell 1.

The Quails edged the Firecrackwers 18 to 17 in a game where the lead changed hands a number of times.

The score was tied 4-4 at the end of the first quarter and Wellington led 6-5 at the half. The score was 12-9 for Wellington at the third, and with two minutes left in the game, Wellington had a 5-point lead. Just as the buzzer sounded, a Firecracker fouled, and Coy Stephens pitched two free shots to tie up the game. Robert Blevins sank another free shot in the overtime period to make Quail the winner.

Randy West of Wellington was high pointer with 8, and Wesley Ward scored 7. Quail's Coy Stephens made 6.

Press Names Dan Blocker Texan of Year

AUSTIN. — Dan Blocker, a really "big" man was the recipient of the Texas Press Association's 1963 "Texan-of-the-Year" Award.

The presentation to Dan Blocker, 300-pound co-star of the NBC-TV show Bonanza, was made at TPA's Mid-Winter meeting at the El Tropicana Hotel in San Antonio on Saturday evening, Jan. 26.

Blocker, known on TV as Hoss Cartwright, was born in Bowie County, Texas, on Dec. 10, 1925. He grew up in the Texas Panhandle and received his education in Texas.

Weighing 14 pounds at birth, he pulled the scales to 105 pounds by the time he entered grade school. He became known among his friends as "The Big-un". At age 10 he worked alongside grown men at grain elevators and could whip any of the local toughs, regardless of their age.

Despite his extraordinary strength, Dan Blocker had other ideas than pushing his weight around as a strong man. When 12 years old he enrolled in the Texas Military Institute at San Antonio. At that time he weighed 200 pounds and stood six feet tall.

From the military institute he went to Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene for a semester, then to Sul Ross College at Alpine, on a football scholarship.

He changed his major to drama before he was graduated in 1950.

From Alpine he went to Boston for summer stock. Then, as did most young men of his time, Dan Blocker received greetings from the President and went overseas for a whirl at Korea.

When he finished his army hitch, he came home with the stripes of a first sergeant, to further impress Dolphia Parker, his college sweetheart. They were married on Aug. 25, 1952. They now have four children, twin girls and two boys.

Blocker returned to Sul Ross shortly after his marriage to work on his master's degree. He left classes for one year to teach in the high school at Sonora. Upon receiving his Master's degree in drama and English, he taught school at Carlsbad, N.M.

In 1956, he went to Los Angeles for graduate work at UCLA. Almost immediately he was chosen for a feature role in a Gunsmoke episode, where he made more money in four days than in a month of teaching.

Since that time his rise to stardom has been rapid. He has played in many significant TV roles and today has top billing with Bonanza.

The Texas Press Association, on behalf of its 76 member dailies and 432 weeklies, has presented "Top Texan" awards on two previous occasions. In 1961 the honor went to Paul Richards of baseball fame, a native of Waxahachie, who at the time was manager of the top-ranking Baltimore Orioles. Last year the "Texan of the Year" award went to Van Cliburn, world renowned pianist from Kilgore, Texas.

Selection of the "Texan of the Year" is made from nominations by Texas editors and publishers. Nominees must be well known Texans, outside the field of politics, now residing beyond the borders of the state but bringing fame to the state by outstanding accomplishments in their chosen fields of endeavor.

Probe Asked Into Use of State Owned Planes

AUSTIN—Rep. James Cotten of Weatherford — one of the most militant members of the 58th Legislature—is examining the flight records of state-owned planes.

Cotten is concerned about what he considers frivolous use of state property, namely, three airplanes which the Department of Public Safety is supposed to use for transporting officers to distant scenes of crimes, or to attend law enforcement meetings without missing too many duty hours.

Cotten says he has discovered these planes have been used: For rushing a representative home for the week end; for ferrying a state senator home to make a speech; for transporting the state librarian to a monument on the coast "to get ideas on how to set up displays."

Cotten wants to know: "How much did these junkets cost?"

State pilots haven't answered, but Austin airport authorities guess the cost at $26 to $75 an hour -- depending on which plane is used — plus the pilot's time.

Now the representative from Weatherford is talking about grounding all passengers except those who are entitled to use state planes for necessary, official business.

He plans to introduce a bill to forbid legislators from hitch hiking rides aboard the planes unless they were on official business.

Miss Janis Wood is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wood. Janis attended school at Texas Technological College in Lubbock the first semester but will attend West Texas State College, Canyon, the second semester.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

The weather is the main topic of conversation in these parts so it might as well be an item in this space. We have had an unusual spell in several respects, but we should realize we have gotten off lightly compared to most of the northern globe. Britain and Northern Europe have been enduring the worst winter weather in a century and damaging cold has descended as far south as Italy and Greece. The meteorologists say the jet stream has slipped and is now traveling around the world in a path that is much farther south than its usual winter course. There is nothing to hold back the Arctic air. When highs form in the Arctic circle or just below it there is nothing to hold them back and it comes blasting on south.

There is a geographic reason for the Panhandle being much warmer than most of the northern world. You can't see it on a flat map, but you can on a global map. We are farther south than the southern tip of Spain or Italy. Turn the globe and you find we are in the same latitude as northern Africa—Algiers, Libya, Arabia, India, than the southernmost tip of Japan. We tend to think of ourselves as being in about the same zone as France or England. Actually, France is as far north as Ontario, the Dakotas and Montana and the British Isles are more northerly than any part of the continental United States. It is the Gulf Stream that makes these lands comparatively mild.

If you want to know how utterly disagreeable winter weather actually is in France, Germany or Britain just ask any veteran of World War I or II.

We went to a press meeting in San Antonio last week and had dry roads and sunny skies both going and coming, but it was 28 degrees the morning we left the Alamo city. We heard Governor John Connally and Dan Blocker (Hoss Cartwright) too.

Gov. Connally drew a spontaneous burst of applause when he declared at his press conference that he did not believe in deficit spending. He said he did not believe his program would require any great amount of additional state taxes, but that if it did we would have to find more tax revenue. Of course that is the only way state services can be increased without deficit spending, but this latter observation, which is obvious, did not draw such exuberant applause.

Dan Blocker was presented an elaborate plaque as the Texas Press Association's "Texan of the Year," which drew some criticism behind the scenes, what with Gov. John Connally being on the same program. This criticism by partisan politicians did not seem to ruffle the feelings of the children or the Republicans in the least.

Dan Blocker could be quite a politician in his own right. He does not need a public relations man for he is a whole public relations staff in himself. Before the banquet he managed to get all of the press children attending the meeting into a room by themselves. He shook hands with each one, autographed their programs and told them stories and jokes. At the banquet he did not get to eat much being too busy autographing programs for the grownups. Mrs. Rufus Higgs, wife of the Stephenville editor, said "Hoss" was her only reason for coming to the meeting.

"Hoss" is much of a man, from any direction you look at him. He played tackle on an undefeated Sul Ross football team as a six foot four inch 275 pound linesman when he was 17 years old and his old coach says he could move about as well as any of his backs. Pro football tried to land him, but he was determined to be an actor. Incidentally he has B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from three different colleges and universities. Blocker says that his father once said "I was too big to ride and too little to hitch to a wagon."

West Texas editors outdo those of East Texas as toastmasters so noticeably that it is remarkable. Too many of the East Texans take 30 minutes to make an introduction that a West Texan can handle better in ten.

The 1924 Study Club published an advertisement in last week's paper as a public service and I think it's worth repeating:

NOTICE
Under Ordinance 165
AT THE SOUND OF A SIREN
from fire fighting equipment, ambulance or police or sheriffs office vehicles, pull to the right as far as possible and STOP.
STAY STOPPED
until you are sure ALL emergency vehicles have passed.
Do not follow emergency vehicles.
Do not approach within 600 feet of Danger area.
Pedestrians should stay out of the way.
Drivers should watch their rear view mirrors.
Teach your children to follow these rules too.

Quail Grass Team Third

Gosnell was second high individual in the contest, and Phipps 10th.

Each team identified forty grasses as to whether they were native or introduced, annual or perennial, cool or warm season, and of good, fair or poor grazing quality.

Approval Given for Cancer Society Unit in County

A group of Collingsworth county citizens unanimously passed a resolution Jan. 24 to organize the Collingsworth County Unit of the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society.

At the meeting held in the county court room, Wellington, Mrs. James Richardson and Mrs. Richard Bailey were elected temporary chairman and secretary respectively to serve until the formal organization meeting set for Tuesday, Feb. 5, in the county court room at 7:30 p.m.

Appointed to serve on the by-laws committee of the new group was Mrs. B. M. Sims as chairman.

Mrs. G. L. Jones, chairman, was selected to serve on the nominating committee.

On hand for the meeting were Clark Murff, Texas Division field representative, and Mrs. Helen Collers, a member of the Texas State Board of Directors.

In a brief talk outlining the work of the American Cancer Society, Murff stressed the importance of a strong local county unit organization of the Society in the work of cancer control.

Mr. Murff, the field representative, stated that the American Cancer Society was a volunteer, non-profit organization with a sole purpose of defeating cancer. To support this statement he brought to light facts that the American Cancer Society will spend 33 cents of every dollar raised in Texas on research, 23 cents on public education, 20 cents on professional education and 11 cents on service to cancer patients, and only 5 cents for administration and developments and 8 cents for campaign materials.

To bring to the group the seriousness of the cancer problem, Murff stated that one in every six deaths of all diseases is a cancer death, that cancer will strike one in every four persons living today in two out of three American homes. 530,000 new cases of cancer will strike our nation this year. It is second only to heart diseases.

This education of the public to save more lives, and the services extended to cancer patients such as dressings, beds, invalid needs and transportation will be the primary benefits to the community in forming and maintaining a unit of the American Cancer Society in Collingsworth.

Marsh Speaks at Hedley PTA

Police Chief Troy Marsh was guest speaker at the meeting of the Hedley Parent-Teachers Association Monday night, Jan. 28.

Discussing those qualities that make for good citizenship, Marsh told the group that a good citizen should:

Be well informed on local and national politics; vote intelligently; be kind and courteous in his dealings; be law abiding; attend and be a part of the church community of his choice; be productive and serve some purpose in his community; set a good example for youth; and be interested in all the world's peoples.

Bob Choice accompanied Marsh to Hedley.

Attend Banquet Honoring Coach at Arlington

Mrs. Bernice Welch and Charlie Welch were in Arlington last Saturday to attend a banquet at which Mayfield Workman, Mrs. Welch's brother, was presented a new car and a plaque for outstanding work with the youth of the school and the city of Arlington.

Workman's son, Rusty, received a plaque as the outstanding player for the year on the Arlington high school football team.

Sandown Smith, a business man in his own right who is known as being able to build anything he sets his mind to, and W. L. Smith, a skilled auto body man and former shop owner. The men are not related.

Many of the pieces are die cut, and up to now much time has been given to locating and securing machines that cut the pieces. The big quonset metal barn is beginning to get its own assembly line.

Starkey credits the two Smiths with many features that make his equipment out-of-the-ordinary.

"Smitty (W. L. Smith) pointed out that we could cut the end pieces of the feeders just a little larger and lap the edges over the angle iron frames, instead of making them flush with the edge. That makes it better looking and it's stronger," Starkey said.

With only friend-to-friend advertising so far, Starkey has sold a number of pieces of the equipment over the southeast Panhandle and as far west as the New Mexico line.

There is no sign yet that says the big barn at the intersection of US 83 and State Highway 203 is Starkey Manufacturing Co. Oran Starkey has been too busy supplying livestock men with calf tables and feeders to put one up.

C-C Banquet

the invocation and entertainment will be by Ted Parker and The Pride of Dodson.

Guests will be introduced by Sandy K. Parsons Jr.; Bobo Castleberry, the 1962 president will speak briefly; and Jack Sanford, 1963 president, will introduce the directors.

Richard Bailey, cashier of the Wellington State Bank, will introduce the speaker.

Lincoln was nominated for the presidency in Chicago on May 18, 1860.

exploratory work, research, etc. None has been paid to the men of the county who have worked on the project proposals. Mr. Wolverton has been hired as the research engineer.

Approximately $32,000,000.00 will be needed for the completion of the project. Since it is officially in the ARA, one half will be paid federally. $16,00,000 will be raised by the sale of water at 20¢ per 1000 gallons. The present rate for the City of Wellington is 13.4¢.

The approximate costs are as follows:

Pipe Line — $11,900,000.
Water Treatment Plant—$2,500,000.
Elm Creek (Needwood) Reservoir — $5,048,000.
Salt Fork (Little Gyp) Reservoir — $3,843,000.
Buck Creek Reservoir— $3,699,000.
Canal — $646,000.
Lateral canals — $2,000,000.

The lateral canals and land leveling are necessary for irrigation.

The men who have worked for this water district have cleared the way for the redevelopment of our community. It is hoped that other citizens of the area will advance this program, realizing that such a development will broaden the area's ecoiomic base and create new employment opportunities.

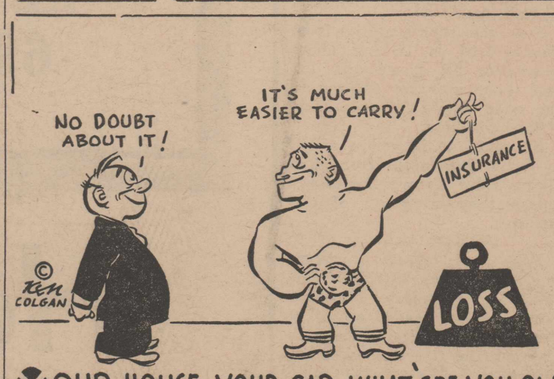

The responsibility for the success of all re-development efforts rests, in the last analysis, on the community. There is no magic formula for building a better community—what is needed is hard work, initiative, investment, and imagination.

To this must be added the proper local spirit—a spirit of cooperation between all segments of this community to get the job done.

Club members enjoying Mr. Henard's explanatory talk were Mmes. W. R. Orr, Clyde Drake, Deskins Wells, John Coleman, Robert Choice, Paul Guthrie, Farris Wood, J. B. Stevenson, Jerry Nix, and Mrs. L. C. Hill.

Andrew Jackson's home was called "The Hermitage."
