25 Cents For Name Of Any Not Yet Enumerated

DO YOU know of any person within the corporate limits of Wichita Falls who has NOT yet been counted in the census?

Are you sure?

Then telephone 4131, and if you are correct the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce will pay you two bits for each name you turn in—twenty-five cents, one quarter of a dollar. Or come to the chamber of commerce office in the Perkins-Snider building.

That offer was announced late Friday by the census committee as the windup move in the census taking in Wichita Falls.

The name or names may be your own or someone's else. The street address must be given.

In case the same name or names are reported by different persons, the one first reporting them to the chamber of commerce will be entitled to compensation.

The names will be received at the chamber of commerce Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, listed on cards and turned over to T. L. Ball, census enumerator, for verification. If the name is new to the census rolls, the person reporting the name will be notified and paid 25 cents per name.

In addition the National Security Life Insurance company this morning adds a prize of $15 for the person reporting the largest number of unregistered persons in the city and the Texas Electric Service company $10 for the second largest number.

So it's a contest as well as a money earning opportunity.

Any person is eligible to turn in a name, man, woman or child. And he may take the money himself, or donate it to any cause or organization he selects. But he must first satisfy himself the person has not been counted. Then the chamber of commerce will list the name. Mr. Ball will be asked to verify it, and payment will be made.

Any person residing in Wichita Falls who has not been enumerated elsewhere is eligible for registration.

You will not find many in Wichita Falls who are unregistered, but the chamber of commerce hopes that each person will be counted—to the very last one—and then all will be satisfied with 100 per cent.

Remember—phone 4131 or go to the chamber of commerce in person.

Dawson County Man Fatally Wounded In Battle With Bandit at Oil Station

Called to Defend Friends, W. R. Billingsley Is Shot by Intruder; Clay County Man Surrenders

Special to The Record News

LAMESA, Texas, May 2.—W. R. Billingsley, Sparenberg store owner, wounded Thursday night when he attempted to thwart the robbery of a filling station, died here late today.

Officers redoubled their efforts to discover a clue of the lone bandit who escaped after wounding Billingsley three times and taking $2.70, a hat and a shotgun from the station.

The bandit, described as a young man, ordered Jack Bryce, a half-partner in the filling station, and his mother, Mrs. J. Bryce, to stick their hands up at the point of a six shooter.

Mrs. Bryce's daughter, Verna observed the holdup and before the intruder could stop her she dashed across the road and told Billingsley that "a man has a gun in the store."

Billingsley secured a shotgun and ran across the road. As he neared the station the bandit opened fire, hitting him in the left arm, in the chest and again in the right side.

The shooting occurred at 9:30 Thursday night at a time when there is very little traffic on the highway, which leads from Lamesa to Big Spring. No suspects had been arrested Friday, although officers were watching every outlet from the county.

Jack Bryce, who owned the little filling station with his brother, stated that he did not hear any sound of an automobile before or after the shooting.

WIND RAVAGED AREA RECOVERS

Tornado's Toll Placed at 21 In Final Check

CHICAGO, May 2. (UP)—Storm demons wreaked their fury on eight Midwestern states in a series of death dealing tornadoes, cloudburst and electrical displays and then smiled tonight with gentle winds and cloudless skies.

The breezes wafted over such widespread devastation, with scores of citizens killed and maimed and millions of dollars worth of property ruined, that it almost was impossible to get an adequate picture of the chaos.

Tornadoes bounced through Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri last night, plundering every region they touched. When they had reduced buildings to splinters and killed or injured the occupants the death dealing funnels brought cloudbursts which deluged the wreckage.

Other States Hit

A few hours later parts of Wisconsin, Illinois, North Dakota and Minnesota were lashed by high winds, bolts of lightning, hail and almost unprecedented rains.

Toll of dead stood at 21 when the black stormclouds finally gave way to the sun day. The number of injured was estimated tentatively at several score while the damage only could be placed at millions of dollars.

Five persons each were killed in

ANGLERS MAKE NEW RECORDS OPENING DAY

Bass Weighing Five Pounds, 13 Ounces Largest Fish Caught

Records for bass and crappie catches on opening day went overboard Friday night when the list of prize winners for the 1930 contest sponsored by The Record News and Daily Times and sporting goods dealers of the city was compiled.

J. W. Van, of the Marchman Hotel Barber shop, captured first honors in the bass division with an entry which weighed five pounds and 12 ounces, topping by four ounces the 5½-pound entry in 1929 of Paul Hines. Roy Barnes, 1316 Twenty-fifth street, and J. N. Tweedy, 1114 Glenwood, tied for the largest crappie, each having an entry weighing one pound and 10 ounces, three ounces above the crappie entered in 1929 by Clinton Gordon and O. V. Thompson of Burkburnett. In addition there were two other crappie entries of one pound and nine ounces each, or two ounces more than the largest 1929 entry.

Lake Kemp Leads

Whereas Lake Wichita and Diversion lake carried off opening day fishing honors in 1929, in the second contest this year the title of best fishing water went to Lake Kemp by a large margin. In the list of prize winners in the crappie division, three were from Lake Kemp and three from Diversion. In the bass division three prize winners were from Lake Kemp, two from Diversion and one from Wichita. Anglers in Lake Wichita, the smallest of the three, were severely handicapped opening day by the muddy condition of the water. However, in the fish which failed to qualify for the prizes, the division was almost equal between Lake Kemp and Lake Wichita, indicating that although the larger fish were produced from the larger lake, the smaller lake was on a par with the other in the number of medium size fish produced.

Van Takes "Five Spot"

All prizes in the bass division were selected by the winners Friday night, but because of two ties in the crappie division, the winners will not be able to select prizes until Saturday, when the ties will be broken by a drawing. Mr. Van, who captured the day's largest bass, landed his fish while trolling at Lake Kemp. He selected the $5 cash prize posted by The Record News and Daily Times.

R. S. Kirby of Dallas, brother of C. C. Kirby of Wichita Falls who is district manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, landed a bass weighing four pounds and 14 ounces at Lake Kemp, and selected the No. 1000 South Bend reel given by Noble-Little Hardware company.

Foster Herd, 3105 Ninth street, took a bass while casting at Lake Diversion which weighed four League officials explained that where the cities were less than 100 miles apart the broadcast might cut down attendance in the other city.

Baseball celebrities from all parts of the country were in the stands to pass judgment on the venture.

The discussion was deferred until Monday with foes claiming enough votes to defeat him. Eight members were conceded to be in the doubtful column, however, and friends of Parker expressed optimism.

A vote by Tuesday, at the latest, was in prospect. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, leader of the opposition, said if a vote had been taken tonight, Parker would have been rejected.

GOVERNOR ASKS PARTY TO BURY WAR HATCHET

Denunciatory and Exclusive Policy Cannot Help, Chief Says

AUSTIN, May 2. (AP)—Governor Moody today issued an appeal for peace within the Democratic party in Texas and urged its members to forget the controversy of 1928 over the presidential election, when the state gave the Republican electors a majority for the first time in history.

He said "the practice of denouncing Democrats of our state because they voted the ticket and supported their party is entirely unworthy," and that "attempts to pronounce party capital punishment on Democrats who did not vote the ticket and close the party door in their face cannot possibly help the party."

Exclusion Voted

The state Democratic executive committee had voted to exclude as candidates for state offices in the 1930 primaries persons who bolted the party to vote for the Republican presidential nominees.

Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, contested the right of the party executives to bar candidates because of their failure to vote for former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for president, and his case is now before the supreme court. He would force the committee to place his name on the party ballots as a candidate for governor. He was one of the leaders in the bolt against Governor Smith.

Party Called Dry

He took issue with those who claim the Republican party is more friendly to prohibition than the Democratic party, and said, in his judgment, the Republican party "is more the enemy of prohibition than is organized democracy."

"The continued efforts of some Democrats to keep open the issues of the campaign of 1928, by running gubernatorial candidates for and against these issues with the purpose of making an opportunity to keep alive that campaign, detracts the public from consideration of state issues in which Texas is so vitally concerned and cannot be other than disturbing to the great majority which is interested to see the Democratic party of Texas united and carrying forward the development of our state and rendering assistance in the fight that the party is to make for the masses of the people," Governor Moody said.

"The Democratic party needs accord and a united stand rather than division and disintegration through strife. It is a party of progressive principles and good government; the economic welfare of the South depends upon the Democratic party advancing its progressive principles which are designed to protect and

Missouri and Minnesota, four in Nebraska, three in Illinois and one each in Kansas, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Iowa.

Wires Disrupted

First inkling of the storm came early last night when telegraph wires were disrupted in Northwestern Kansas. Progressively the wires were town from the poles in Nebraska and then in Missouri, Iowa and Illinois.

One town after another was cut off from communication so rapidly that harried telegraph and telephone officials hardly knew what was happening. Then came meager reports of the devastation being wrought as the tornadoes skipped over the countryside.

At Winchester, Kan., Lawrence Stern, farmer, was lifted high in the air and then dashed to his death before he even knew the storm was near.

Village Wrecked

The tornado scooped and churned wheat, livestock, buildings and even human beings in a swath almost a half mile wide while it raced toward Missouri. There it reached a climax in the rural village of Norborne.

Five persons were battered to death by falling timbers. Almost the whole town was reduced to debris which pelted by rain and hail while panic stricken citizens fled to storm cellars and flung themselves prone in the mud filled streets.

Another tornado rushed meanwhile up the Missouri River Valley and zig-zagged enough from its course to distribute damage impartially in Nebraska and Iowa.

After four persons were killed in Tekemah the twister skipped to earth three times before it finally vanished in a downpour of rain. Each time it touched the ground it razed all buildings nearby as though its black funnel were a giant, portable food chopper.

Walthill, Winnebago, Jackson, Homer, and Lyons, all in Nebraska, felt the destroying touch of the storm before it finally dissipated after flooding parts of Sioux City with a cloudburst.

A wall of water from a sudden downpour washed away the automobile of two Rochester, Minn., women and the 5-year-old child of one of them. All three drowned. Another storm killed two more women at Duluth.

Three persons were killed in the Chicago area, one at Rockford, one at Waukegan and one in the city, when a severe lightning storm accompanied by heavy rains ripped into the district.

Jury Debates Issues In Sale of $1,250 Note

The case of Bailey Kenley against F. C. and T. E. Baldwin involving a vendor's lien note of $1,250 which Kenley is said to have bought from one of the defendants was given to a jury in the 78th district court late Friday afternoon. A verdict is expected Saturday, attorneys said.

The case is unusual in that it brought up the question of whether Kenley knew the property on which the lien was based was a homestead at the time he bought the note, Judge W. W. Cook, explained. Attorneys in the trial were agreed that the property was a homestead, the judge said, contention arising over the validity of the transaction by which the note was obtained. Kenley had refused to lend money to the Baldwins on one occasion, according to testimony, but later bought the note after one of the brothers told him he had sold the property to his brother and had obtained a vendor's lien note. Contention centered about the sale of the property between the brothers, the judge said.

SMALL PLEADS BUSINESS ERA

Candidate Opens Campaign At Amarillo

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Texas, May 2.—The citizenry of Texas, regardless of political history and past affiliations, was invited into the Democratic party for the support of a state business administration which would declare both a political and a legislative truce to devote itself to economic development and the enforcement of existing laws here Friday night when C. C. Small, Wellington attorney, delivered the opening address in his race for governor.

Mr. Small will follow his opening address with another campaign speech in the annual Doan's day picnic at Doan's crossing in Wilbarger county Saturday.

The speaker repeated his pledge to "adjourn politics" for the sake of an efficient and businesslike state administration urging the voters to drop old grudges and support a progressive and non-partisan government.

Few Laws Needed

"We need few new laws," the candidate asserted, "but we require an intelligent and fearless enforcement of those already on the statute books."

Mr. Small asserted himself a prohibitionist, opposed to modification or repeal of the 18th amendment and promised vigorous enforcement of the prohibition law in the state.

Taxation problems received a careful analysis in the Friday night address, the candidate declaring himself in favor of the appointment of a competent, non-partisan committee to survey the state resources with a view to equalizing rather than increasing the tax burden.

"Let us add to our revenue by business expansion and development rather than by fresh taxation," he declared.

Record Cited

Mr. Small recited his record in the passing of the "Small land act," repeating his support of the law and his determination to continue a defense of the rights of the state and the bona fide title owners in the controversy.

Turning to the prison reform problems that have rocked the present administration, the candidate declared himself in favor of a practical business like operation of the prisons, including their modernization and industrialization.

"The location of the prison is not important," he asserted. "Neither it is necessary for the state to scrap the properties already in use. The recent riots have shown us the inadvisability of big prison units. We can apply sound business methods to what we have, make the necessary improvements for industrialization and hospitalization without the loss of any of our present equipment."

Cooperation with the United States farm relief measures, with an emphasis on creatnig a bigger home market by the industrializa tion of the state was proclaimed as the chief plank in the candidate's agricultural platform. Mr. Small urged the development of all Texas natural resources with a liberal policy toward investors of new capital. He favored the building of new state highways without a constitutional amendment calling for a state bond issue, and advocated the appropriation of adequate funds for the state educational system.

BEARDEN ASKS NEW HEARING

Martin to Rule on Plea in Oil Suit

Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court will leave for Graham Saturday morning to enter final orders on the motion for a new trial filed in behalf of Lee O. Bearden, whose suit involving several million dollars against the Texas company and numerous other defendants was decided in favor of the oil company by a pury in the 30th district court at Graham several weeks ago, according to the judge's announcement Friday.

Bearden was adjudged legally dead under the seven years absence statue when he disappeared from Young county and could not be located at the time of his father's death. He returned some time ago and filed suit for his share in the valuable oil lands left by his father and also asked a share of the past proceeds from oil produced on the land. Judge Martin occupied the bench at the trial through an exchange with Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district.

Jury Disagrees on Suit For Woman's Injury

Although the jury reported it could not agree on two of the issues in the $8,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. W. B. Baldwin against the Wichita Falls Traction company, Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Friday afternoon ruled they had rendered a verdict by failing to find negligence on the part of the traction company. The case was given to the jury late Thursday afternoon and they reported disagreement after deliberations lasting all day Friday.

Mrs. Baldwin alleged she sustained broken bones in her foot through negligence on the part of a bus driver in failing to stop at a proper place for her to alight. Attorneys for the traction company contended the fact she was wearing high heels was contributory negligence. After consideration of the jury findings on all but the disagreed issues, Judge Martin discharged the jury on the grounds that since they had found no negligence on the part of the traction company the accident was unavoidable. A formal judgment was not entered but the judge stated he felt such would be the result.

MOODY URGES SOLID PARTY

Governor Issues Political Statement

promote the welfare of the common people. The Republican party allied with and operated by great interests, with its traditional habit of granting special favors to a favored few, places the heel of predatory interests upon the neck of the less fortunate. Organized democracy must hold in check the avaricious tendencies of the opposing party. The worthy purposes of the Democratic party cannot be advanced by practices which make more difficult the re-cementing of its followeis into an army of workers in the cause of good government.

Unity Necessary

"The welfare of Texas very largely depends upon a united Democratic party standing for honest and efficient government. It is the place for friends of good government in Texas. People in sympathy with the established principles of the party should help build it up and promote harmony within its ranks.

"The practice of denouncing Democrats of our state because they voted the ticket and supported their party is entirely unworthy, and it should cease. The attempts to pronounce party capital punishment on Democrats who did not vote the ticket and close the party door in their face cannot possibly help the party. These practices prolong and intensify the discord and dissension engendered by the past national campaign and cannot promote either party or state welfare. The vote and influence of all supporters of good government is needed and when some Democrats are busy fighting other Democrats over the issues of the last national campaign, a situation is erected which does not solve state economic problems, but it gives those of evil designs an opportunity for a field day at the expense of the public good."

Negroes Face Charges After Raid by Deputies

Complaints charging possession of liquor for the purpose of sale, were filed Friday against S. M. Madison and Will Hemby, both negroes, who were arrested by members of the sheriff's department following a search of their adjoining houses and the seizure of more than 200 bottles of beer and about 15 gallons of mash, according to the reports of the arresting officers to Sheriff W. G. Bralley.

The raid was made on the houses on Bailey street, 165 bottles having been found in Madison's house, the officers said. The arresting officers were Charlie Gant and Warren Belcher, deputy sheriffs. The complaints were taken by George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney.

City to Pay For Help on Census checked promptly on enumeration lists thus far completed.

From discussion of the census by various members of the group present Friday afternoon, it seemed apparent that the 1930 census for Wichita Falls will exceed that of 1920 by several thousand, although no statement of compiled results was given by the enumeration offices. Estimates made by John Boswell, general manager of the chamber of commerce; George D. Fairtrace, city manager, and Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools, supported the opinions given as to the number of persons thus far enumerated by Mr. Ball's force.

Called upon by J. L. Jackson Jr., first vice president of the chamber of commerce and chairman of the meeting, to discuss efforts thus far put out by the chamber of commerce to aid in obtaining a complete enumeration, Mr. Boswell frankly commended the work done by Mr. Ball and his assistants, expressing the belief that they have canvassed the city very thoroughly and conscientiously. Mr. Boswell reviewed the sending out of hundreds of letters, distribution of 12,000 blanks through the public schools, and extensive newspaper coupon circulation in an effort to obtain the names of bona fide residents of Wichita Falls who might have been missed in the enumeration.

1,600 Names Obtained

In connection with that campaign Mr. Ball stated that more than 1,600 names were brought in, and that from that total number, about 95 were found which could be registered as new names on the enumeration lists.

B. D. Donnell, L. H. Estes, and J. W. Thomas were appointed by Mr. Jackson to draw up rules for the enumeration contest, and to supervise the three-day competition which will end Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock.

Those present at Friday's meeting were R. E. Huff, Phil M. Cordell, George D. Fairtrace, L. H. Estes, John Boswell, Dudley B. Foy, Marvin Smith, Ray Wilhite, Ira E. Brown, W. D. Bratton, T. L. Ball, C. R. Seals, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, E. H. Eddleman, A. E. Kelly, Don Ross, O. P. Maricle, S. A. Covington, H. C. Harris, Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, J. C. Mytinger, Ro Haynes, John W. Thomas, Miss Irma Schnelle, Mrs. Effie McHam, Miss Zula McKay, J. B. Marlow, J. W. Hunt, B. D. Donnell, Jouette Bonner, Joe Mears, H. J. Aukers, R. D. Kennedy, J. W. Baber, and Mr. Jackson.

Reservation lists for the annual banquet of the City Teachers association, to be held at the Wichita club next Friday night, are almost filled and the lists will be closed Monday, according to the announcement Friday by Roy J. Daniel, president of the organization.

Song selections will be given by the College Boys' quartet, composed of Bob Murrell, Orville Medford, John Flynn and Bob West, accompanied by Mrs. Hermione Vaughan.

A report from the elementary grades will be given by Miss Norma E. Rollins, teacher of Benk Franklin school. The junior high report will be given by Joe B. McNeil, teacher at the Reagan Junior High school. W. J. Webb, instructor at the Junior college, will give the high school and college report. Vocal solos will be given by Miss Dorothy Greathouse, accompanied by Mrs. Phillip Oviatt at the piano. The principal speaker will be introduced by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of schools.

Embezzlement Charges Follow $209,000 Loss

EDINBURG, Texas, May 2. (UP)—S. A. Morris, of Paducah, Ky., former vice president of the Valley Building and Loan association of McAllen, was released late today on $500 bond after having been indicted on five counts in connection with the alleged embezzlement of $209,000 from the concern.

Morris now is facing 14 indictments, none of them having been returned last month. Paul Miller, secretary-treasurer of the organization, also had been charged with the embezzlement. A receiver was appointed for the Miller property following his death.

pounds and 12 ounces, and selected the $5 in merchandise given by Montgomery Ward and company.

F. A. West, who came from Celina, Texas, for the second year to open the fishing season here, landed a bass weighing four pounds and two ounces at Diversion, and selected the 14-inch tackle box given by Bailey-Moline Hardware company.

Other Big Bass

J. C. Hanks, 1821 Lucile, and Harry Bauknight, route 3, box 84, each landed a four-pound bass. Mr. Hanks took his fish at Lake Kemp and selected a 24-pound Wexford silk casting line given by the Wichita Hardware company. Mr. Bauknight took his bass while casting at Lake Wichita, and selected lures given by the Monroe Street Hardware company.

In the crappie division, Mr. Barnes caught his fish at Lake Kemp and Mr. Tweedy at Diversion lake. Mrs. O. E. Maer of Wichita Falls, a pioneer Wichitan, caught the first fish in her life at Lake Kemp when she accompanied Mr. Maer Thursday. Her crappie weighed one pound and nine ounces, and tied with that caught by John Wilkes in the same lake.

J. W. Collins, 1711 Pearl, landed a crappie weighing one pound and four ounces at Diversion lake, to place in the prize awards.

After the drawing for places to eliminate ties in the crappie division Saturday, the winners will take their selection of the following prizes: Aid-Fed minnow bucket given by Bailey-Moline Hardware company, $5 in cash by The Record News and Daily Times, $5 in merchandise by the Sears-Roebuck and company, steel casting rod, by the Wichita Hardware company, five dozen minnows by the Lone Star Minnow hatchery. In addition, the S. & S. studio will present the first-place winners of the bass and crappie divisions with a certificate entitling them to one fishing picture, either of the prize-winning fish or of any subsequent catch of fish made during the 1930 season.

Native American Woman Becomes Alien Without Leaving Home Town

WASHINGTON, May 2. (INS)—The novel story of how an American woman became an alien without going out of her native town in North Dakota and is now barred from American citizenship will be told the house immigration committee on May 8.

Her case will be used as an argument for the bill of Representative Griffin, Democrat, of New York, to permit naturalization of aliens who refuse to take an oath to bear arms for the United States.

Mrs. Mary Harris Boe, victim of the strange transition, in Iowa, married a Norwegian pastor of the Church of the Brethren in Kenmare, N. D., and lived in that town for 25 years.

When she married a Norwegian, before the Cable act was passed, she became a Norwegian.

About three years ago her preacher-husband was naturalized an American citizen.

When it was discovered last year that she was still a Norwegian, although born in America of native parents, she sought naturalization under the Cable act.

But when Judge Lowe of Minot, N. D., was about to naturalize her, an examiner asked her if she would bear arms in defense of the constitution.

She said she would not, since it was against her religion.

The supreme court having decided in the Rosika Schwimmer case that such a refusal was a bar to naturalization, she was denied citizenship. Thus she is still a Norwegian, although American-born, while her Norwegian-born husband of the same church belief is now an American.

She is declared liable to deportation to Norway.

Representative Sinclair, Republican, of North Dakota, will propose a special bill to give her citizenship if the Griffin bill is defeated.

Co-eds Admire Lindy, Walker And Coolidge

NEW YORK, May 2. (INS)—Lindbergh is still the college girl's hero, according to a questionnaire given to the lower freshmen of Hunter college by the Journalism club. Lindbergh's modesty in the face of his great achievements is the reason given by the girls for their choice. Commander Richard E. Byrd runs a close second as the man most admired in public life.

Hunter girls admire Mayor Walker's personality and Justice Holmes' liberalism. One girl cast her vote for Claudius Huston because of his courage in refusing to resign the chairmanship of the Republican national committee in the face of adverse opinion. Norman Thomas received several votes because of his honesty.

Calvin Coolidge captured twice as many votes as either President Hoover or ex-Governor Smith. Both of whom tied for the favor of the freshmen with Mayor Walker, Chief Justice Hughes, and Walter Hampden. Mussolini and Commissioner Whalen were tied with the Prince of Wales.

MARIETTA SPAN BIDS DELAYED

Special Action by Texas Commission Awaited

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 2. (AP)—Although plans for a free bridge over Red river on U. S. Highway No. 17 south of Marietta have been approved by C. E. Swain, federal district engineer at Fort Worth, the contract letting may be delayed until May 19, A. R. Losh, state highway engineer said today.

The bridge is being constructed as a federal aid project by Oklahoma and Texas. It is parallel to a toll bridge.

The contract, therefore, must be approved by the highway commissioner for Oklahoma and Texas, Losh said. Unless the Texas commission has made special arrangements for approving the contract they cannot be let before May 19, when the Texas commission holds its next meeting, Losh said. The bid of Earl W. Baker, Oklahoma City for $304,700, is apparently low.

Frederick Hears Attack On High Tax System

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., May 2.—In his address before a Frederick audience William H. Murray of Tishomingo, Democratic candidate for governor, stressed the tax issue. High taxes cause high living expenses, he contended, because every one from the manufacturer to the retailer seeks to shift the tax. The one individual who cannot shift it is the farmer because he pays what ever the producer demands, Mr. Murray said, and is forced to take what ever is offered him for his produce.

C.-C. TO VOTE ON FARM BOARD

Proposed Resolution Backs Agricultural Program

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, May 3.—The federal farm board and its program will be given the approval and support of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce if the voting members of the organization adopt a recommendation that will be presented to them at their annual convention in Abilene May 29, 30 and 31., by its committee for cooperation with agricultural agencies.

Text of the resolution which has been approved by the committee is:

Resolved, That the West Texas Chamber of Commerce heartily approves the program of the federal farm board for assisting the producers of agricultural commidities, livestock and other farm and ranch products, and that this organization actively assist in carrying out the federal farm board program in West Texas.

"All the committees of the West Texas chamber are preparing resolutions for submission at the Abilene convention, which if adopted, will give notice that the West Texas shepman, cattlemen, cotton producers, mining men and in fact all workers of the soil and things under the soil, shall have the militant force of the W. T. C. C. behind them to the end that they receive a fair share of the wealth they create," declared D. A. Bandeen, general manager of the organization.

"West Texas is," Bandeen said, "the raw material capital of the world, and the producers of the various commodities that come from the soil and from under the soil in West Texas should be given all assistance and support. They are entitled to retain a fair share of the return on their creations."

In addition to the resolution of the federal farm board, one will be presented to the W. T. C. C. membership at the annual convention that will call on the national government to protect the raw materials of West Texas by tariff, and still another will oppose either the federal or state governments levying any further taxes on the raw materials and natural resources of the West Texas territory.

BANDITS LOOT KANSAS BANK

Trio Gets $2,000 in Raid at Burlington

BURLINGTON, Kan., May 2. (AP)—Three men robbed the Citizens State bank of Gridley, 14 miles southwest of here today and escaped with about $2,000, after two of their number had locked bank employes in the vault.

Neapolitan Orange Wafers

Pare five seedless oranges, cut in thin slices and arrange four or five in a ring on the required number of small serving plates with a little mound of powdered sugar in the middle. Sprinkle with tiny bits of angelica.

Crown Roast of Lamb; Green Peas

This requires six ribs from each side of a rack of lamb. Trim the ribs in the same way that lamb chops are cut when "Frenched" only do not separate the ribs. Turn the sections of meat so that the bones are on the outside and fasten together in a circle. The butcher will prepare this roast upon request. Wipe the meat, dredge with flour and lay a few pieces of fat over the meat if very lean. Place on a small wire trivet set in the roasting-pan. In roasting, the standard method is to sear the roast, thus retaining the juices, by starting it in an oven preheated to 500 degrees F. The temperature is lowered to 400 degrees F. after the searing operation. Season with salt and pepper, cover the ends of the bones with greased paper to prevent burning. The center may be filled with a bread stuffing or with a hot cooked vegetable when ready for serving.

Butter Semmels

These are made when shaping the yeast dough before the last rising, by putting a piece of butter in the dough cut round and then pinching the edges up over it tightly. The dough looks perfectly round and the roll, when baked, just like any round roll; but when broken open the melted butter is discovered. The recipe for Denver biscuit might be moulded in this manner.

Rhubarb Gelatin Pie

Two and one-half cupfuls stewed rhubarb.
One cupful sugar.
One-half cupful cold water.
One cupful cream.
Pastry.
Two tablespoonfuls gelatin.

Line a medium-sized pie plate with pastry, having a fluted edge, and bake at 500 degrees F for 12 minutes. Heat the stewed rhubarb with the sugar and pour it over the gelatin which has been soaked five minutes in cold water and melted over hot water. Stir until dissolved. Let cool, stirring at intervals. When beginning to stiffen, beat well and fold in the cream, whipped. Allow to cool until ready to set and pour into the baked pastry shell. Chill thoroughly.

Celery Appetizers

Cut rounding stalks of fine celery into two-inch pieces; fill cavities with creamed cheese, brush with stiff mayonnaise and roll in chopped nuts; serve very cold.

Molded Salmon With Pickle Sauce

One can of salmon or two cupfuls flaked fresh cooked salmon.
One-half tablespoonful flour.
Few grains cayenne pepper.
Two egg yolks.
One-fourth cupful cold water.
One-fourth cupful vinegar.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
One teaspoonful gelatin.
One teaspoonful mustard.
One and one-half teaspoonfuls melted butter or oil.
Three-fourths cupful milk.

Make a cooked salad dressing of the flour, mustard, pepper, egg-yolks, butter, milk, vinegar and salt. In the meantime soak the gelatin in cold water to cover and add it to the salad dressing mixture when it is done, then stir in the salmon. Pour into a mold and when stiff and cold serve with the following sauce: Beat one cupful of heavy cream until stiff. Slowly add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of cayenne, and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar; just before serving, combine with one medium-sized cucumber, pared, chopped and drained. Serves six.

How and When to Use Sour Milk

What to do with sour milk and cream arises in every household. The experienced cook is not puzzled at this for she has in mind many choice dishes which call for sour milk or sour cream. They add materially to the nutritive value of any dish of which they form a part. Sour whole milk and sour cream have much the same nutritive value as the original sweet products. Buttermilk, which is a by-product of the manufacture of butter, is often used in cookery instead of sour whole milk. Its nutritive value, however, differs from that of sour whole milk in that it contains little of the original fat content of the milk.

Sour milk, to fulfill its purpose in cookery processes, must really be sour. It should also be thick. It is always advisable to use milk and cream that have soured quickly, as they have a better flavor than those that sour slowly. If the souring process takes place slowly, the clabber may have a bitter and unpleasant flavor. When milk begins to turn, it should be poured from the bottle into an open bowl and set in a warm place.

What causes the milk to sour is the growth of bacteria which use up the sugar in the milk and form an acid (lactic) which separates the protein from the water. If these bacteria grow slowly others will also grow, while if they grow rapidly the acid forms quickly enough to prevent the growth of undesirable ones and thus produces a better product.

Sour milk should be used for cookery purposes soon after it "sets". In using it, one must be sure to measure equal portions of the curd and whey. The surest way of doing this is to break the curd up by beating thoroughly with a rotary egg beater. Another reason for this beating is that the curd, when in small pieces, blends more readily with other ingredients and gives a better texture to the finished product.

Soda is used to neutralize the acidity of sour milk and cream in the proportion of one-half level teaspoonful of soda to one cupful of sour milk. Too much soda gives chocolate cake a reddish color and biscuits a yellowish hue, as there is not enough acid to neutralize all of the soda. If a recipe calls for more than half a teaspoon of soda to one cupful of sour milk, before you jump to the conclusion that the recipe is not good, notice whether or not it also calls for molasses or brown sugar. They are also acid in nature and react with soda in the same way as the sour milk does and are often used in combination with it in flour mixtures.

The rules for the use of sour milk and cream are so simple that there is no reason why anyone should not secure the most satisfactory results in using them.

Sour cream and milk recipes:

Cream Spice Cake

Two cupfuls brown sugar
One-half cupful shortening
Two cupfuls pastry flour
One cupful sour cream
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
Three eggs.
One teaspoonful soda.
Two teaspoonfuls cloves
One-fourth cupful vinegar.
Two teaspoonfuls cinnamon.
Two teaspoonfuls allspice.

Cream the brown sugar and shortening together until thoroughly blended. Add the spices and beaten egg-yolks and beat well. Measure and sift together the pastry flour, salt and soda. Add to the mixture alternately with the cream. Last fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a greased, floured cake pan and bake at 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes. The yolks of five eggs may be substituted for the three eggs if desired.

Devil's Food Nut Cake

Two cupfuls brown sugar.
Two squares chocolate
One-half cupful cold water
One Egg yolk.
One cupful chopped nuts.
One-fourth cupful shortening.
Two eggs
One-half cupful sour milk
One teaspoon soda.
Two cupfuls pastry flour
One-fourth teaspoon salt
One teaspoonful vanilla

Combine one-half cupful of brown sugar, the chocolate, cold water and egg yolk and cook in the top of a double boiler, stirring constantly until thick. Then add the chopped

WOMAN TELLS ATTACK STORY

Charges Filed on Man Named in Complaint

City and county officers Friday were investigating the circumstances surrounding a complaint brought by a Wichita Falls woman against J. B. Berry, who said he came here recently, charging him with a statutory offense after he is alleged to have forced her into his car and driven the machine to the northeast edge of the city late Thursday night, according to George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney.

Berry was arrested by police early Friday morning after the woman gave officers the number she said she had taken from his car. The license numbers were written on the cloth inside the woman's purse.

The woman told Mr. Anderson she was given a severe beating by a man who assaulted her.

Berry was quoted as having denied he struck her.

A medical examination revealed bruises on the woman's body, the accused man declaring the marks were made when the woman was helping him get his car out of a mud-hole and a pole she was using to pry up the front wheels flew up and struck her. The woman said she had never seen the man before but Berry was quoted as having said he "had been with her before." The woman is the mother of seven children, Mr. Anderson said.

Temple aides, who have been closely associated with the militant evangelist, staunchly declare that "sister" will take them back into the fold when she returns from her tour.

Herbert Voelcker Installed As President of Local Rotary Club

Herbert Voelcker, Wichita Falls contracting architect, was installed as president of the Wichita Falls Rotary club, succeeding Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, at the annual membership banquet at the country club Friday night. Mr. Voelcker, with the other officers installed, was recently elected by a secret ballot of the membership, the results of which were made public for the first time at the banquet.

C. C. McDonald was elected first vice president; Ed Bebb, second vice president; Tom B. Smock, secretary; Wiley Robertson, treasurer; Dr. Nat F. Grafton, chaplain; and George Mobley, sergeant-at-arms.

Kelly Presides

A. E. Kelly, retiring as first vice president, presided Friday night and extended a tribute to the retiring president. The Wichita Falls Rotarians presented Doctor Kimbrough with a silver water set in token of their appreciation of his leadership.

More than 250 members and their wives, with a score of out-of-town guests gathered around the banquet table. The international character of the organization was symbolized in a group of colorful scenes, interpreted by C. C. McDonald, and presented as a pageant by Rotary club members in costume. Joe Emold, Rabbi S. J. Schwab, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kruger represented Russia; Fred Couper and Linton H. Estes, Scotland; Rev. S. S. McKenney, Rev. Father Patrick J. F. O'Beirne, and John Flynn, Ireland; Theodore Beck, Dr. J. W. Cantwell, Ed Bebb, George Gutzman, Al Biedenharn, Herbert Voelcker, and J. E. H. Railey, Germany. The presentation of Ireland was featured by an Irish song from John Flynn, accompanied on the piano by Miss Lois Parker.

Entertainment Program

The entertainment program included songs from Mrs. Victor Lowrey, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., and from R. E. Shepherd, accompanied by Mrs. Shepherd. Ray Nichols, publisher of the Vernon Record, recently elected district governor, briefly addressed the gathering. Miss Eleanor Fleming, of the staff of the Wichita Daily Times, reporter of the Rotary meetings, was presented with a pencil bearing the insignia of the organization.

The directorate of the club includes: J. M. Spoonts, Herbert Voelcker, Ed Bebb, W. P. Killingsworth, Dr. Ted R. Krohn, George Gutzman, Al Biedenharn, William B. Ward, L. H. Estes, C. C. McDonald, Ray Hammond, and George B. Kleth.

West Texan Sues Brownfield Pair for Alienation

Special to The Record News

LAMESA, Texas, May 2.—One of the largest suits of similar nature that has ever been filed in a West Texas court was filed Wednesday in the 106th district court at Brownfield by Judge Thomas S. Christopher of Lamesa, attorney for C. J. Crawford. Crawford, a Seminole farmer, is suing G. W. Curtis and his wife, Pearl Curtis, of Brownfield, for $400,000.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendants "conspired together to alienate the affections of the plaintiff's wife, Naomi Crawford, and to transfer her love and affection to the defendant, G. W. Curtis."

The plaintiff also alleges that he has five children, four of whom are about grown and a fifth who is one year of age.

It is indicated at the present time that the case may be settled out of court but the case is returnable to the term of court beginning in Brownfield Aug. 18. Curtis is a retired capitalist and makes loans to farmers in this section. He has been a resident of Brownfield for eight or 10 years.

The Crawford and Curtis families were neighbors near Brownfield for a number of years and just recently Mr. and Mrs. Crawford moved to Seminole where they have been engaged in farming.

Cigarets and Cash Stolen at Drug Store

Fifteen cartons of cigarets and $15 in cash were taken from the Estep Drug store at 501 Broadway early Friday morning, according to a report made to the police department. Entrance was made by breaking the glass out of a rear window of the building.

The money was taken from two cash registers which work with a combination lock. The work was apparently done by some one familiar with the combination, police believe.

LUTHERANS IN SESSION HERE

Houston Selected for Next Convention

Scripture teaches that the Lord's Supper is not only a commemorative ceremony but that the true body and blood of Christ are distributed in with and under the bread and wine, Rev. G. H. Biar, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church at Waco, told a large congregation at St. Paul's Lutheran church here Friday night at services held in connection with the convention of the North Texas district of the Lutheran Missouri synod. The next state convention will be held July 2-12 at Houston, it was announced.

The Reverend Mr. Biar's address was preparatory to the celebration of Holy Communion at the church here. This belief of the Lutheran church, it was pointed out, is at variance with the beliefs of other Portestant churches, which hold that the bread and wine of the Holy supper are but symbolical of the flesh and blood of Christ.

In a sermon Friday night on "How Can Parents Furthermore Give Their Children the Best in a Christian Education," Rev. W. H. Bewie of Waco, field secretary, stated that "the failure of parents to help establish and send their children to the Lutheran day schools is due to lack of faith and prayer."

Advocating the division of the state into two separate synodical districts, as favored by North Texas pastors and teachers in the day schools, Rev. C. M. Beyer, pastor of St. Paul's here and president of the Texas district, delivered his president's address at the Friday afternoon session of the convention.

Canada Votes Strong Tariff

Dominion May Establish Reciprocal Duties

OTTAWA, May 2. (AP)—A new budget was before the house of commons today embodying a system of countervailing tariff schedules which will make the Canadian duty on commodities in reciprocal trade between this country and the United States equal to the United States tariff.

The products subjected to the countervailing rates are wheat, wheat flour, rye, oats, livestock, eggs, butter, meats, potatoes, soups, cut flowers and cast iron pipe.

The budget does not specifically name the United States, but that is the only country with which Canada carries on any considerable trade in which the commodities listed are both imported and exported.

C. A. Dunning, minister of finance, in his speech presenting his first budget yesterday, denied that the countervailing rates were placed in the budget as a means of retaliation for tariffs imposed on Canadian exports.

Don't Starve The Teeth

Teeth have to be built out of foods that are rich in phosphorus and calcium. Many children take into adult life teeth that are defective, unfit for the job that nature intended. Shredded Wheat with milk helps develop sound teeth, good muscles and good bones. It is rich in the bone-making salts. The crisp, crunchy shreds make chewing necessary and that develops healthy gums and good digestion.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Stop a minute and think about this fact. You can ask our information bureau any question of fact and get the answer back in a personal letter. It is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Get the habit of asking questions. Address your letter to the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What are meerschaum pipes made of?—T. C.

A.—Meerschaum is also the name of the clay from which meerschaum pipes are made. In mineralogy, meerschaum is called sepiolite. The material comes chiefly from Asia Minor. The pipes are made in Germany and in Austria, Vienna being the center of the manufacture.

Q.—How long does it take the big dipper to make one revolution around the north star?—A. M.

A.—The naval observatory says that the big dipper revolves around the pole star once in 25 hours, 56 minutes, moving in a counter-clockwise direction.

Q.—What is cretinism?—T. S. S.

A.—Cretinism is a kind of idiocy which scientists have found to be due to the inactivity of the thyroid gland.

Q.—Which writer has the larger reading public, Victor Hugo or Balzac?—J. H. S.

A.—It is said that outside of France Victor Hugo has been more widely read, while in France Balzac has had the larger following.

Q.—Who took the tobacco plant to Europe?—J. A. H.

A.—The tobacco plant was taken to Europe in 1558 by Francisco Fernandes who had been sent by Philip the 2nd, of Spain, to investigate the products of Mexico. Jean Nicot, the French ambassador to Portugal, sent seeds of the plant to the queen. The services rendered by Nicot in spreading a knowledge of the herb have been commemorated in the scientific name of the genus Nicotiana. While the plant came to Europe through Spain, its use for smoking purposes spread to the continent from England. Ralph Lane, first governor of Virginia, and Sir Francis Drake brought it to the notice of Sir Walter Raleigh, who first used it as smoking tobacco, introducing it into England.

Q.—Are the Australian Alps snow-clad?—A. E. N.

A.—The highlands are covered with snow in winter. The snows feed the streams of southeast Australia and are the basis of present and potential development of agriculture by irrigation in this area.

Q.—What is an acrostic?—E. B.

A.—It is a short stanza so constructed that the initial letters of the lines, taken consecutively, form words. Such verse is of great antiquity, having been common in ancient Greece and Rome.

Q.—Why are pheasants' eggs hatched in incubators or under hens?—W. S.

A.—This is due to the fact that pheasants seem to lose their maternal instinct in captivity and as a consequence it is necessary to resort to other means of hatching and rearing.

Q.—How are arrangements made to borrow books from the library of congress?—L. B.

A.—The general public cannot draw books from the library of congress. This privilege is limited to congressmen, persons in public office and a certain few engaged in special research work. There is, however, a system of inter-library loans, whereby individuals requiring a book that cannot be ordinarily secured, can obtain it from the library of congress by arrangement with the librarian of their own public library. Such books cannot be taken to the home of the borrower, but must be consulted in the public library.

Q.—Are there any skylarks in the United States?—N. N.

A.—There are not. Canada has the only skylarks on the continent of North America. A colony has been acclimatized at Victoria, British Columbia.

The Record News Offers Its Readers a Booklet on Making Cellars Dry

It has nothing to do with prohibition enforcement, but it is none the less an extremely valuable publication, for it solves problems that have worried thousands of builders and home owners. It was prepared by George M. Warren, an associate hydraulic engineer of the United States department of agriculture. It is profusely illustrated, and is the last word on cellar location, construction, and rehabilitation.

Send for your copy at once, addressing the Record News, Washington bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, and enclosing 10 cents to cover postage and handling.

If Rudy Vallee has any sympathy for the Englishmen, whose tax on beer has just been raised, he'll sing that stein song a little more tenderly.

One reason we believe Cal Coolidge will do a lot of walking in his retirement is that he said on moving into his 16-room mansion recently: "It will make our dogs more comfortable."

The Tonics of Spring

NOW is the time of year when the thoughts of men turn to spring tonics.

In theory, the spring tonic puts new life into a man. It snaps him out of the state of semi-hibernation in which winter has left him, and sends the blood coursing through his veins again so that he can run and jump and, in general, disport himself with the energy and vim that the new season requires.

As a matter of sober fact, of course, spring tonics generally flivver. They attempt to relieve, in a purely physical way, a condition that is chiefly psychic. The patient fondly imagines that it is his liver that is ailing when in reality it is his soul.

For this lethargy—this unaccountable discontent with things as they are, this strange disinclination to do any work at all—it is not, after all, a hang-over of winter's dullness. It is simply spring fever; and any one who imagines that spring fever is a minor complaint is as deeply deluded as the man who imagines that spring tonic can cure it.

In the winter we live what we call normal lives. That is, we concern ourselves chiefly with work. One day is much like another. Men go about their daily jobs of earning money, and women plug away at the never-ending task of housekeeping, cooking, taking care of children and so on; and nobody ever has the time or the inclination to listen for distant trumpet calls from the other side of the moon.

But when springtime comes things are different. Bright sunshine, opening leaves and warm winds from the south have an insidious influence. They get hold of a man and whisper to him, quietly, that there ought to be something more to life than the mere round of working and eating and sleeping. They even imply that the daily job is not worth doing. And so this springtime sluggishness descends on people, and they go about looking for some tonic that will snap them out of it.

That quest is useless. The only thing to do is to let the whole business wear off of itself. Since we are fairly well earth-bound we can always be depended on, in time, to forget our notions of far horizons and enchanted coast lines.

The poet Wordsworth must have suffered from this ailment. What did he write—

> The world is too much with us. Late and soon,
> Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers.

Yes, we do—and there's no help for it. Spring fever is simply a mood in which we understand that things ought not to be this way. All we can do is keep plugging away and trust that in time our clarity of vision will leave us.

But spring tonics won't help much.

Edgar B. Davis Will Appeal His Case

EDGAR B. DAVIS, the Texas oil millionaire, who was ordered by a Massachusetts jury to pay into the treasury of the Old Bay state nearly $500,000 for income taxes and interest, allegedly unpaid in 1926, has asked for a new trial. If denied a new trial, he will appeal to the court of last resort. Edgar B. Davis has a defense. He moved to Texas from Massachusetts, and declared himself a loyal citizen of the empire state. He prospected for oil. He discovered oil. He made millions.

He was not a citizen of Massachusetts when he found oil. He was a citizen of Texas. He was not a citizen of Massachusetts when he parted with his holdings and became a multi-millionaire. He was a bona fide citizen of Texas. These New Englanders never overlook a bet when there is a dollar of tax money in sight. Regardless of nativity or place of residence or the conditions which surround the case, they are after a big chunk of Davis' coin; and Davis is going to give them a merry round until the final decision has been rendered by the court of last resort.

Why should all the surplus wealth of Texas find its way to New England and New York and Pennsylvania. Texas is a vast treasure house. Why not a fair division of the wealth taken from under the surface of the earth by the promoters and the developers?

No Time to Fire the Warden

IT IS possible that his record as warden of the Ohio penitentiary calls for the dismissal of Warden P. E. Thomas. Some conflicting stories have been presented, but for all we know it may be perfectly true that the man has outlived his usefulness there.

But there is no question that the Ohio authorities are entirely justified in refusing to suspend him now on the demand of the convicts. To do so would be to destroy discipline in the prison and admit that the state is powerless to restore order in its antiquated bastile.

The matter of Warden Thomas' fitness for his job can be decided later. Just now the state's foremost job is to make its convicts understand that they have to submit to rules imposed on them by the authorities. To give in would only be to invite very serious trouble.

Let's Not 'Embarrass' Them

SO THE senate lobby committee has decided not to reveal the names of those congressmen who vote dry and drink wet!

The matter came up during the recent hearings on prohibition. All of the dope was right at hand, ready for publication. But the committee finally concluded that to make this information public "would only cause embarrassment to a lot of people."

Yes, it undoubtedly would do that, all right. But isn't it just possible that these congressmen deserve to be embarrassed? Is there any particular reason why any one should be considerate of the feelings of a man who votes for a law and then turns around and helps to violate it?

WALTER WINCHELL

On Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Man About Town

The Broadway menagerie, ladies and gentlemen; the greatest of the zoos! Be careful, please, and don't get too near the cages.

That little girl with the giggle is a "glorified" girl. One of the simpletons in "Simple Simon."

Two drinks and whoopee! Or gung-gung-gung, as the vastly amusing Bert Lahr would gung it.

Some night a married man will most likely murder her. And it will be something to cheer about.

After two drinks of anything, her favorite "joke" is to rub her perfume cork on your clothes.

Just so your wife will demand an explanation.

And this little pretty pretty is Dorothy. She's only been on Broadway a year, and believe you her, it's the bunk. Dorothy is from Texarkana, a small town on the Texas-Arkansas border. She left Texas to become an Earl Carroll "Vanities" eyeful, and now doubles at a stay-up-late place, where she reveals her undraped cuticle for $50 per.

"I do this," she says, "to break the monotony, that's all. The men mean nothing to me. I've discovered that you wise guys are babies, posers, phonies. You have no ideals. On Broadway the fellers make you support them. I hate Broadway, terribly."

"Would you be happier in Texarkana, honey?"

"I'm afraid not."

That thing in her paw is a rye highball.

Now over in this corner, if you please. See that one with the huge orbs and the yappy grin on her face? Two years ago she was one of the Street's pets. Grand legs, and what class! She just returned after a long absence. She's been ill, it seems.

Be quiet and she'll say things. Weird things. Oh, don't step back, she's harmless. She was beautiful two years ago. A kid, I mean. Now looks. Nothing ages so quickly on Broadway as a gal, mister.

She's come back to produce her own show, she says, and she's going to buy two apartment houses for her sisters.

When people of note talk funny their family physician tells the newspapers that it's a "nervous breakdown."

The disturbance in that cage over there is nothing to worry about. Pay no attention to it. It seems his girl stopped to chat with a rounder on her way to the ladies' room and he just didn't like it—that's all. You know how it is. She makes it worse by embarrassing him in front of people and saying: "Don't imagine things all the time. You're jealous!"

Of course he's jealous. She's so beautiful and the loafers that hang around the night clubs grab every opportunity to crash the other feller's dame, and anyway, she talked to that guy too long. How would she like it if he talked that long to some other woman?

Every one is chuckling. Well, let 'em. He'll chuckle in the cab home. He'll probably brain her, and she'll have to miss the matinee tomorrow. Well, it serves her right. And him, too.

The one with the mustache is the type who gets in newspaper men's hair by grandstanding it in front of chorus girls.

"Lissen," he whispers, "that blonde sitting at my table is in a show. When we come out I'll introduce her to you. Give me a break, and when I say: 'Walter, if I send you a picture of this doll will you run it in the paper for me, old pal?' Then you say, 'Be glad to.'"

Here they come, saturated with alleged wine.

"Oh, Walter. This is Miss Olga Pushover. Will you run her picture for me, like a good pal?"

"No."

This is Frisco's cage. But he is out being aired. They've taken him over to Dave's, a delicatessen frequented by professionals. I just left him over there. He is a famous wit and his comical comments are thefted and quoted wherever players and showmen gather. At the delicatessen a few minutes ago the crowd surrounded him to enjoy his flip quips.

And sitting in another booth was a greater wit, named Donald Ogden Stewart. But nobody gave him a tumble.

This woman is from Park avenue. She threw a party at her home the other day to which all her gigolos came.

Twenty-seven of them.

In this cage is a man of note in the financial district. Known for his parties, too.

This is the girl-crazy type of Broadwayite. A vaudeville headliner, who prospered. He lives in a mid-town penthouse. The elevator takes you to the top floor and then you walk up another flight. The panels on his bathroom door are decorated with erotic designs. His explanations are very amusing and wicked. The femmes love it.

And in this pen, my friends, is Ben Blue, a comedian in vaudeville. Ben was attacked by thugs last week near the Palace stage door. He was beaten badly. A well known rival comic hired the ruffians. The rival, it appears, did it because Ben thefted his best routines and jokes.

The N. V. A. club an actor's organization, has a committee of actors and managers who "protect" actors from gag pirates.

Ben Blue is on that committee.

Here's an interesting species. We call him Pierre. One of the town's most fashionable restaurants bears his name. Twenty years ago Pierre was a bus boy in an Italian beanery on the East Side.

Then he was elevated to waiter. After several years of cementing good will with people who matter, Pierre was made head waiter at the old Knickerbocker hotel. Later he was the big shot at the Palais Royal, the leading night club on Broadway ever so many columns ago.

A man with what-it-takes, who liked Pierre, backed him, and opened the fashionable restaurant for him.

One of the country's biggest money syndicates is building a 40-story edifice on 5th Ave. at 61st St. It is almost completed.

It will be called the Hotel Pierre.

Why is he so popular? Because he always knew what people not to offend, and has the reputation of being "the hardest head waiter in New York to get a table from."

What a whale of a difference indifference makes.

CARESSE ⚜ A Complete Novel By RUTH TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS

Caresse O'Neill, daughter of the owner of Shady Lawn Inn in the village of Riverton, is jilted by her sweetheart, Ted Branard, son of the town's wealthy banker, on the day of the wedding. Caresse insists on continuing the party which had been arranged in her honor, and telephones Billy, a New York friend, to come down and bring two other friends as escorts for Miriam Nowell and Bess Parker, her best friends. They later go to a nearby roadhouse.

A few weeks later Caresse and friends are riding on a lonely road when the car gives out of gas near the old Morton place, which they believe abandoned. They go to the house, find a lighted lamp and a grand piano, and start dancing. Suddenly the door opens and the owner, Lee Deering, enters, to confront them.

Caresse's friends slip out of the house while she tries to explain their presence to Deering, and Caresse accepts his invitation to muffins and coffee before she returns home.

Deering becomes a boarder at Shady Lawn Inn and his friendship with Caresse develops rapidly. Teddy Branard returns suddenly, and calls on Caresse. She forces him to take her to a local roadhouse as a blow at Ted's father.

The elder Branard promises Ted a new boat if he will forget Caresse, then offers Mrs. O'Neill $50,000 for the inn on condition she leave Riverton. The offer is refused.

At a birthday party for Caresse the next night, the village constable appears and informs them a complaint has been signed against them for disturbing the peace.

CHAPTER VI

"Case dismissed. Complaint withdrawn."

Mrs. O'Neill breathed a sigh of relief as she heard the terse words of Judge Branscombe as she stood before him the next morning. She had been trembling, and she quivered the more as she realized she was free. Nothing would be done about the complaint Elvira Lewis had made of noise in Shady Lawn Inn.

A tear or two dropped down her cheeks as she turned.

"Thank God for that!" she exclaimed fervently.

Caresse's arms flew about her.

"I guess we can thank Ted a little, too, Moms," she whispered. "Goodness knows what we would have done if he hadn't managed some way to put the fear of God or the devil or somebody into that awful father of his."

"I reckon you're right, C'resse. But it does seem too bad—him getting that Elviry Lewis to do such a thing."

"Money'll do a lot, mother. Nobody knows that better than Cyrus Branard, and I always thought Elvira Lewis had the makings of a gold digger—a disappointed one."

They turned smiling to the courtroom full of people who had come to see what would happen. Some had come to be useful, if they could; others from curiosity. But the town was there. They surged around Caresse and her mother.

The judge glanced up sternly. His gavel pounded on the desk.

"Order in the court!" boomed the voice of the clerk.

The silenced Rivertonites and Caresse and her mother smothered their exclamations of joy and sympathy. They filed slowly out the courtroom door. The judge turned to the next case.

It had been an ordeal to the O'Neills. Caresse had never before seen the inside of a courtroom. She had gazed about her when they entered with something of curiosity and much of disgust at some of the sordid characters herded together waiting for a disposition of their cases.

"It makes you feel so—so sort of—low," she had whispered to her mother, who sat by her side, nervously twisting her handkerchief. "Brought up before the judge like any common criminal! Like those drunks there, and that man with the bandaged head who looks as if he'd been on the wrong end of a fight, and—and— It's a shame, Moms, that's what it is! And you, who never did a thing but good to anybody in your life!"

"Begins to look like somebody thought I did them a right smart harm when I had a pretty daughter," was Mrs. O'Neill's wry reply.

"Poor lady love! Don't you care! Cyrus Branard can't get away with everything."

"You know I love you, Caresse," Ted protested earnestly.

"Looks like he'd got away with pretty considerable where you and I are concerned, C'resse."

Their case was called. And then the unexpected dismissal, without a word of explanation. Mrs. O'Neill, though, was too glad to get away from the courtroom with its sour smell and its heavy, brooding atmosphere of crimes past and present, dealt with by the hand of the law, to ask any questions.

Outside the doors of the courtroom mother and daughter held an impromptu reception on the sidewalk.

"It's a shame—a crying shame!" was the popular opinion.

The O'Neills were surprised to discover that the idea held by the majority as to the reason for the occurrence was identical with their own, Cyrus Branard. The man of millions. The man who had bribed his son not to marry the daughter of the inn-keeper. He had been to blame.

Miss Elvira Lewis did not escape her share of censure. It looked as if it might be well for Miss Lewis to be too ill to attend meetings of the Ladies' Guild for some time to come.

Miriam Nowell slipped her arm through Caresse's as they made their way to the O'Neill flivver.

"Wonder what happened, C'resse?" she asked. "Everybody knows that old Cyrus Branard's got it in for you and your Moms, but why the sudden change of heart?"

"Don't know, Miriam," said Caresse, laconically. She did not feel that she wanted to take Miriam into her confidence and tell her that Ted had probably brought his father to time.

"It was exciting," bubbled Miriam. "And you looked the part, C'resse. You looked just like a movie actress in a courtroom scene in that black dress and white collar. Wonder why I never get a chance at the spotlight?" she mourned.

"You wouldn't like it," advised Caresse. "Not my kind."

"Well, I know one thing," nodded Miriam, sagely and vehemently. "You can look for your peck of trouble with Cyrus Branard on your trail, C'resse O'Neill. You needn't think he's through."

"I don't."

Caresse shut her lips firmly. There was a light of battle to come in her eyes.

"Know what I'd do?" asked Miriam as they reached the car. "I—I'd just make up with Ted, and and I'd marry him, just for spite! That's what I'd do!"

Caresse stepped into the ancient car, and her foot felt for the starter. Mrs. O'Neill climbed lumberingly into the back seat.

"Maybe I will," said Caresse as the starter whirred.

She glanced back as the car moved forward. She nodded to Miriam.

"It's worth thinking of," she commented.

Ted came over at dinner time. He was all enthused about his part in getting the case against Caresse's mother quashed. He expanded like a hero or benefactor.

"Well," he boasted, "that's one way to handle the governor. Nothing like knowing how."

"How did you do it, Ted?" asked Caresse.

Her mother paused in serving the roast beef to hear.

"Oh, just told him if he didn't call off his cat and get the complaint withdrawn that his little son, Ted, was due for a star role in the court play this morning. Told him I'd spill the beans—how the rich, philanthropic Cyrus Branard was persecuting the widows and orphans. I'd have done it, too. He knew that!"

"Ted! You wouldn't!"

"Would! He can't scare me with his money. I've got money of my own. I guess I stalled him off this time, all right."

"You—you think he'll be doing something else?" began Mrs. O'Neill anxiously.

Caresse's eyes flashed with a fire of resentment against Ted's father as she glanced from one to the other. Ted's head shook.

"He's not much of one to give up once his mind is set," he admitted slowly. "He's no mean thinker of things to do, either. I've got plenty of reason to know that."

"Well, if he thinks he's calmly going to drive me out of Riverton—" began Caresse hotly, but Teddy broke in.

"That isn't all I told him, either, C'resse," he declared.

He laid down his pie fork and moved back his chair.

"Come on into the parlor and I'll tell you all about it."

Mrs. O'Neill's brow was furrowed with worry as she watched them go. Of course, it had been good of Ted to get her out of her trouble, but then she had to think that if it had not been for him there would have been none. Neither could she overlook, or forgive, in the slightest degree, the humiliation the son of Cyrus Branard had inflicted on her and on Caresse when he had run away on his wedding day.

She did hope Caresse was not going to be soft. She hoped the girl would not let him talk her into anything.

"Now, what's the big news?" asked Caresse as she settled herself on the hair-cloth sofa in the parlor and patted the place beside her. "Sit down, Ted, and let's have it."

Teddy Branard wasted no words. He grinned as he dropped down beside Caresse. He felt for a cigaret and lighted it.

"I told him, all right!" he said. "I told him I was going to marry you today. And I am. You ready?"

"Ted!" gasped Caresse.

The nonchalant proposal fairly took away her breath. For the first moment all the wrongs she had endured at the boy's hands swept over her. All she felt was indignation that he could so calmly suggest that she marry him now in such an offhand irresponsible fashion.

"Well, what's wrong about it?" asked Ted in his boyish way. His hand felt for and grasped hers, though she tried to pull it away. "You know I love you, C'risse, sweetheart. Always have. I suppose you think I acted pretty much of the cad before, but don't you see, it worked out for the best?"

"I don't exactly," observed Caresse, acidly.

"What I promised the governor," he went on, ignoring the interruption, "was that I wouldn't marry you that day, just as I told you when I came back. I didn't say a word about us getting married any other time. Gee, C'risse, sweetheart, I do love you!"

His arm slid about her. She could feel the beating of his heart. A warm wave swept over her, a feeling of happiness. Or was it of triumphant achievement in bringing him back to her? She could not be sure. Then her pride rose. She would not let him believe she could be so easily re-won.

"I haven't forgotten how you left me on our wedding day—to face all the neighbors. I haven't forgotten that note of yours, either," she declared as she drew away from him. "No, Ted, it's no go. You can't come around me the second time. I'm not looking for a repeat performance of that day! I can't—forget—"

"Please do forget, C'resse. Try, won't you? Honest, I meant to marry you, all the time. You see, it was like this. I couldn't get the car unless I promised the governor to call off the wedding, and I kept thinking what a swell time we'd have in that car when we did get married. See? I couldn't tell you then, though. I was afraid you wouldn't just understand."

"I didn't," said Caresse, icily.

Teddy moved closer and masterfully took both the hands she started to put behind her.

"See here, C'resse, cut all this nonsense. I love you and you love me, and that's all there is to it. You think you've had to put up a poor face before these Riverton people. Now's your chance. What do you think they'll say when they hear you've married Ted Branard—that all his father's influence and money couldn't keep him from you. Think of that!"

Caresse was thinking of it. It was coming to her, plainer and plainer, as Teddy urged her to marry him. It would be something for her to flaunt in their faces. She could exult to her heart's content. If only she were sure she loved Teddy—loved him as she had before.

She thought she loved him. That thrill that passed through her at his touch, at the sound of his voice! Surely that must be love. She had not forgotten that. It was the same as it had always been when she was with him.

It was strange that, as she considered the question of her love for another man, the face of Lee Deering should come up before her, between her and the man who was eagerly urging her to marry him. That was foolish, she thought. Why should she think of Lee? She didn't love him. It was Ted she loved, if she loved anybody.

"I don't think the governor would try any more court racket if—" Teddy was saying.

Government Continues Grain Rate Evidence

NEW ORLEANS, May 2. (AP)—The United States government today before a special federal court here defended as without discrimination an Interstate Commerce commission order which permits lower rates on grain shipments by western railroads to Galveston than to New Orleans.

Plaintiffs in the suit, the Texas and Pacific and the Louisiana and Arkansas railways, yesterday presented their side of the case, alleging that the commission had exceeded its powers by entering the economic field and not sticking to transportation rates.

Change in Skirt Length Praised By Dorothy Dix

Hurrah for the Fashion Edict That Restores Dignity and Maturity to the Woman Over 30 and Proclaims to the Homely Woman That It Is Better to Have an Interesting face Than a Pretty One.

It sounds too good to be true, but the high priests and priestesses of fashion announce that dignity and maturity for women have come in with long skirts and that it is the mode now for women not only to look their age but be it. Likewise, they promulgate the glad tidings that the homely woman is having her vogue and that it is better to have an "interesting" face than a pretty one.

If such be the case, then there should be mass meetings of all women over 30 to smite upon the cymbals and sing hallelujah choruses and unite in a grand thanksgiving service, the like of which has never been seen upon this earth before, because it is an emancipation proclamation that sets millions of poor slaves free. It is an edict that ends the sufferings of those who had not even hoped for another minute of peace and calm and rest and a surcease from the agonized seeking after perpetual youth and pulchritude this side of the transfiguration.

For the white woman's burden has always been the obligation to be beautiful though ugly. No matter what her virtues, no matter what her achievements, she has always had to be a good-looker, or else all the balance was dust and ashes. She couldn't offer as an alibi that, after all, it wasn't her fault, and that peaches-and-cream complexions and lissom figures and hair with a naturally curly wave to it were gifts of the gods and that she wasn't to be blamed if she was passed over when the prize packages were handed out.

Nor could she claim that if she was short on looks she was long on performances; that if her outside adornment was scanty she offset them by her inward attractions and that she had a brilliant mind, a beautiful heart and a lovely soul. These were esteemed as highly desirable possessions, but we have felt these were not enough. She should throw in beauty, too. And that has required a bit of doing, as the English say, for most of us.

There is no other one thing that women have envied men so much as the privilege they have had of being as homely as God made them, and not having to spend their lives camouflaging their personal appearance and vainly trying to be living pictures when nature turned them out chromos. What this has cost women in money, in time, in suffering, in self-sacrifice, no tongue can tell, but every plain-faced sister of us could add a chapter of personal confessions to the Book of Martyrs that would wring tears from a stone. Why, the main reason that women have not accomplished more in business and the professions is because by the time they got through counting their calories and having a permanent put in their hair and putting on their complexions and being sure their clothes were the latest style, they are so exhausted and worn out that they have no energy to give to their jobs.

Of course, if a man is handsome, that is his luck, and so much to the good, but his looks cut no figure in his success in life. They are relatively of no importance. Nobody cares whether the president has a face like a cream cheese or a Grecian profile. But if we ever elect a woman president she will not only have to have the brains to run the country but look like Dolores Costello.

When a man goes to hire a private secretary, all he is interested in is the lad's ability to spell, his ability to take dictation and his general efficiency and reliability. The employer doesn't even notice whether he has red hair and freckles, or looks like a sheik in the movies, but suppose some stringy old maid, with a saleratus biscuit complexion and wisp of gray hair, should apply for a job as stenographer along with a starry-eyed little 18-year-old humdinger of a girl, which would get the position? Yes, you guessed right the very first time.

This having to create an allusion of beauty where none existed has been bade enough, heaven knows, but a worse misfortune still has befallen women in the last few years, and that is having the curse of perpetual youth laid upon them. No woman has dared to grow old, or to act old. To have a birthday was worse than a scandal. Age actually became a cause of divorce, and on every side we have seen men not only forsaking their wives because they were old, but actually being justified in it by public opinion.

Look how women have had to dress! Ninety and nineteen bought at the same specialty shop. Grandmothers and granddaughters both wearing wisps of chiffon that barely covered their wishbones and didn't cover their knees. Emaciated old ladies exposing their vertebra which looked as if it should have been in a skeleton closet instead of being at a ball. Fat old dowagers with piano legs that cried out for the mercy of a curtaining skirt. Old sheep masquerading as spring lamb and not making a go of it.

And, worst of all, women not only having to dress young, but to act young. Every woman under the horrible necessity of trying to be cute, of trying to be vivacious and kittenish, of having to jump around like a monkey on a stick, of having to roll her eyes at men and be vampish. What torture, what boredom has been committed upon the elderly in the name of youth!

And now we are told that this passing madness of fashion is over and women may quit being flappers and be sensible once more. They can leave granddaughter her clothes and put on their own, and hide thier knobby knees and thick ankles under skirts, and best of all, they don't have to try to act like silly debutantes any more, but can rest their weary bones and be dignified and intelligent and interesting and entertaining. For the mature woman, when she is herself, has a charm that is far superior to a young girl's as ripe fruit is to green.

Blessed day that lets a woman be fair, fat and 40 and fascinating.

More than 200 reservations had been purchased up to Friday evening for the cabaret dinner dance which is being given by the Business and Professional Women's club at the Wichita club Saturday night at 8 o'clock, it was announced by those in charge of arrangements for the affair.

According to preparations made for the Saturday night party, and the advance reservations, it will be one of the most unusual and festive social events given here in many years. Mrs. Willis Tells Of P.-T. A. Work For Child Health

By MRS. R. P. WILLIS
President Parent-Teacher Council
(One of a series of articles written for Children's Health Week)

The City Council Parent-Teacher association of Wichita Falls cooperates with the National Red Cross and the Tuberculosis association in carrying on the yearly Child Health program. It definitely sponsors the pre-school clinic or summer round-up of the children with the aid of the medical and dental associations of this city, and much pioneer health work has been done during the past three years under the able supervision of Mrs. J. Z. Steinkoenig, past health chairman of the city council.

Clinics are held in the spring for the purpose of discovering defects in children who will be ready for school in the fall, so that they may be corrected during the summer. The follow-up clinic is held in the fall to check up on the percentage of physical defects remedied.

The ultimate goal is to educate parents to the need for periodic examination of their children by the family physician and dentist in order to insure correction of hampering defects which might not otherwise be discovered. The defects sometimes seriously retard the mental progress of the child during his first year.

The health work is being vigorously continued this year under the direction of the newly appointed health chairman of the city council, Mrs. Harold Murph.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mouth Fistula

Question: A. S. asks—"What should I do to cure a small fistula in my mouth? It is in the soft flesh between the tonsil and the palate. It is a small sac filled with food and is painful. It is nearly one-quarter of an inch long."

Answer—The fistula should probably be cauterized by some local treatment which your doctor could no doubt give you.

Eczema

Question: Mrs. H. K. L. writes—"I am troubled with eczema and my baby also seems to have a white crust or scale on its scalp. Will you tell me which foods cause eczema or how I should treat it?"

Answer—There are no particular foods which cause eczema. It seems to come mostly from an acidosis of the system through the use of wrong food combinations and over-eating of the acid-forming foods. It is usually necessary to fast for a week or two at the start of the treatment. After the fast the diet simply needs to be well balanced. The crust on the baby's scalp may be a form of eczema due to an already toxic state of blood in the young child. This must come from wrong feeding, either from the mother's milk or from artificial feeding. The eczemas in childhood are easily cured by putting the child on a proper diet.

ROLLA, Mo., May 2 (INS)—A jury which was unable to decide whether or not Paul Bennett, 32, Newburg, Mo., evangelist, was libeling Miss Olive Warren, Newburg school teacher, when he circulated pamphlets, which she alleges intimated that she smoked, drank, petted and swore, was discharged here at 11:20 a. m. today after more than 21 hours of deliberation.

The case will be tried again next fall, Prosecuting Attorney J. Ellis Walker declared, following the announcement that the jury was hung.

The jury stood seven for conviction of the evangelist and five for acquittal, it was learned.

WHITE DRIVES IN WINNING RUN IN ELEVENTH TO BEAT BUFFS

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The past week has offered thrills aplenty down at the baseball park, despite the fact that the Spudders came out of the Houston series on the losing end of the deal.

There was Spider Levey's steal home in the second game with Houston Thursday, for instance. The brisk young shortstop had already stole second, and all concerned agreed he had done well enough for that time and should be content to be batted in home. But no. After being pushed to third by his mates, he stole home on Lingrel's high pitch, and forthwith received an ovation both long and deserving.

It was the same old Spider we have talked of ever since the season opened. The same spectacular Spider—always willing to take a chance. At times the shortstopper exhibits wildness, especially in his pegs. Sometimes his errors are glaring. At such times a grouch is heard among the fans. But when he puts over a fast one like that steal, all is forgotten.

That steal home was interesting in more ways than one. Spider put it over. Therefore he received cheers. What if he had failed? He would have been booed for taking such a chance, when all the odds were against him reaching the home plate. But Spider apparently doesn't think of things like that. He has a way of putting his fate in the hands of the gods and running. And what I mean, he runs!

A play that attracted fewer cheers, but which was even more remarkable than Spider's steal—which, in fact, was unprecedented in the baseball world so far as Carl Williams and J. Alvin Gardner are concerned—occurred in the opening game with Beaumont here last Sunday. It sounds simple. Mullen, the Exporter's third baseman, was thrown out at third by Vincent. The play was close, and there was much heckling, but the umpires agreed that the runner had been thoroughly touched out by Euller.

Both Mr. Gardner and Mr. Williams said after the game it was the first time they ever heard of a runner being thrown out at third.

Mr. Pound 'Em Paul Easterling, the slugging outfielder of the Beaumont Exporters, besides shining in fielding during his team's stand here, got two singles and a home run in the two games played, and all in all was very much to the fore. Incidentally, the Pound 'Em Paul part of his name originated in Beaumont, a town which right now is boasting some very cheerful sports scribes. They at last have a winning team to write about, and we're for 'em. Anyway, as we started to say, this Pound 'Em person has quite a colorful history, some of the colors in said history being bright, and others of darker hue.

The following is a yarn that comes to us from Vin Burke, the enterprising sports editor of the Beaumont Enterprise:

When playing with Detroit several years ago, Easterling, in a game with St. Louis in the latter city, smacked the longest homer ever seen in that town. The story, which Burke hastens to add is "unverified," goes on to say that next morning a St. Louis paper printed Easterling's picture along with Ty Cobb's and Babe Ruth's, the comparison being quite flattering to Easterling. From then on, Burke said, a hat couldn't be found big enough for Easterling, and his batting average "hit the skids."

Thanks for the tip, Mr. Burke. The next time your ball club comes to town we're going to print the pictures of every doggone one of your hardest hitters, and alongside each we're going to print photos of Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb, to say nothing of Lou Gehrig and all the rest.

BISONS' LUCKY STREAK ENDED

Spudders Win, 6-5, After Ninth Inning Tie

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Carl Williams' Spudders got back in good form Friday and broke the Houston Buffs' five-game winning streak by squeezing out a 6 to 5 victory in a sensational battle that raged 11 innings.

The San Antonio Indians will provide the next opposition for the Spudders, the invaders being scheduled for games here today and Sunday.

Buffs Rally, Tying Score

The Buffs staged a determined rally in the ninth, scoring four runs to tie the score, five all. The tenth went scoreless. In the eleventh, Lester White lifted a Texas leaguer behind short to drive in Bettencourt and win the game.

The victory kept the Spudders in the first division, for while the Waco Cubs were whipping the Shreveport Sports, Beaumont and Dallas remained idle in the latter city on account of wet grounds. Meanwhile the Indians whipped the Cats, with whom the Spudders were in a tie for fourth and fifth place.

Hal Wiltse was up to his usual standards until the ninth inning, allowing only eight hits, but the three bingles the Buffs managed off him in the ninth were costly and after the four runs were driven in to tie the score Lester White came to the mound to yield only one hit in his two and two-thirds innings. Reinhart performed for the Buffs until the ninth, when Rose relieved him to finish.

Spudders Score First

The Spudders wedged into the lead in the first inning when Storti singled to left after Levey had struck out, went to third on Fitzgerald's single to center, and scored when Kloza forced Fitzgerald, short to second. Burns fouled out to the catcher to close the inning. The game then went scoreless until the sixth, when the Spudders brought in two more tallies. Levey started off with his double to left, Storti sacrificed, pitcher to first, sending Levey to third. Fitzgerald and Kloza walked, filling the bases. Burns walked, forcing Levey home. Bettencourt forced Burns, short to first Fitzgerald scoring and Kloza taking third. Crouch struck out to close the inning.

The Buffs managed their first tally in the seventh. Crouch let Holm's third strike get away and the batter was safe at first. Kaufmann singled to left, sending Holm to third. Selph grounded out, pitcher to first, Holm scoring and Kaufmann taking second. Felix and Hunt popped to the infield.

Storti Gets Homer

When the Spudders came to bat in their half of the frame, Storti connected for the only home run of the game, scoring Levey, who had singled, ahead of himself. The eighth went scoreless. With the four run lead, the Spudders entered the ninth unsuspecting, and suffered through the Buffs' rally.

Mishkin's walk started the inning. Holm singled to right, sending Mishkin to second. Kaufmann singled past third, Mishkin taking third and Holm second. Mishkin scored on Wiltse's wild pitch, Holm taking third and Kaufmann second. Selph singled to center, scoring Holm and Kaufmann. Williamson ran for Selph and took second when Felix sacrificed, pitcher to first. Hunt walked and Wiltse was relieved by White. Morrow singled to left, scoring Williamson. Hunt tore away from first homeward bound, but was tagged out on the paths, Kloza to Crouch to Storti to Euller. Rose grounded out, White to Burns, to end the riot.

Pitchers' Duel

The Spudders were held in check by Rose in the ninth. And then the fun started. When a hit meant a million dollars, both sides went hitless in the tenth. The Buffs' half of the eleventh found them shut out by Lester. The Spudders came to bat.

Rose walked Bettencourt. Crouch struck out. Euller connected for a single to center, sending Bettencourt to third. And then White lifted his single o'er the head of the shortstop, driving in Bettencourt for the winning tally.

Joe Schultz, manager of the Buffs, went into the lineup of his team, batting for Reinhart in the eighth inning. The veteran lifted one to Fitzgerald in center field.

The Buffs again managed to outhit the Spudders Friday, outdoing them by a narrow margin of one bingle. The Buffs got nine hits to the Spudders' eight. Levey and Storti were the star Spudder sluggers, Levey getting a double and a single and Storti a home run and a single.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 2. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under realizing or liquidation in near months and some scattered selling of later deliveries promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and reports of further rains in the Southwest. An early decline to 16.31 for May was followed by partial recoveries but after selling up to 16.45 it closed at 16.38 compared with 16.49 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net declines of 6 to 12 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 9 points. There was some covering by near month shorts which caused bulges of a point or two right after the call, but the demand was readily supplied with the decline extending to 16.40 for July and 16.54 for new October before the end of the morning.

The decline brought covering. July rallied to 16.57 and the new October to 14.64 but this bulge was not fully maintained although the market was quiet and fairly steady in the late trading.

The closing quotation for May was 12 points under July and 181 points over the new October contract compared with a difference of 183 points at the close yesterday.

Liverpool cables said there had been local liquidation of near months in that market and continental selling of later deliveries. These cables reported further cloth buying for home consumption and moderate sales for South America, in the Manchester market.

Exports today 11,979 bales. Making 6,275,556 so far this season, port receipts 4,785. U. S. port stocks 1,650,171.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 2. (AP)—Cotton worked somewhat lower today here under liquidation and selling based on lower cables, favorable weather in the belt and a report that the farm loan board proposed to ship some of the cotton received on contracts to Liverpool and elsewhere. Prices eased 22 to 27 points by mid-session but rallied 7 to 14 points from the lows in late trading. July dropped to 16.03 and closed at 16.14 or 11 points net lower. The general market closed steady 11 to 16 points lower.

Liverpool came in 8 to 10 points lower than due and first trades here showed losses of 6 to 17 points in sympathy. After ruling dull in the early afternoon the market rallied 7 to 14 points from the lows in the late trading on shorts covering. May closed at 16.04 and October at 14.60 or 11 to 15 points net lower on those active months.

Lack of Banking Support Brings Added Pressure to Break Stocks

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 2. (US)—The continued absence of banking support of consequence encouraged heavier professional pressure that influenced considerable liquidatioin and caused further sharp break in stock prices today. Spasmodic rallies were experienced but terminated quickly when professionals increased their selling operations. A particularly drastic drive was launched just before the close that put final quotations at or near the low for the day in most instances. Steel dropped 2¼, Bethlehem 3⅛, Radio 6⅞, Columbia Graphaphone 3½, American Can 4¾, General Electric 4¼, Westinghouse 9⅜, American Telephone 3⅜, International Telephone 6⅝, General Motors 1, Loew's 3½, Radio Keith 3¼, Warner 4½, Paramount 2¾, American & Foreign Power 8¼, Electric Power 13½, Consolidated Gas 3⅞, Columbia Gas 4½, Public Service 5¾, Allied Chemical 16, Houston Oil 12, Vanadium 7⅛ and Atlantic Refining 2, American Metals gained 1⅞, and American Tobacco B finished 3 points higher. Turnover increased to near the 6,000,000 share level. Call money eased from renewal of 3½ to 3 per cent.

Reduction in the bank rate points to eventual inflation that will bring record breaking markets. None knows this better than the reserve officials and their financial advisors. However, a good bond market is essential for the success of the plans on which international bankers have been at work for the last decade. While the average broker and trader worries about the continued sour tone of the stock market the most powerful bankers are going right ahead with international financing plans that must have fairly good business conditions in this country to be carried out in full. Right at the moment the banking fraternity takes the view that a "period of corrective depression" is not altogether a bad thing for general business. The German reparations bonds are not the only foreign securities that the bankers have to sell. After they are out of the way there will be several governmental, industrial and railroad offerings from several European countries.

At a time of general market irregularity and absence of banking support almost any factor can be given a bearish tinge. Therefore, the speculative community is taking more interest in Egypt and the cable advices telling of "revolution." An uprising in Egypt would not affect this country. But it can be stressed by those depressing security prices and thereby becomes an added influence to nervousness. It would seem that the poor business conditions arising from the October-November break in the stock market would give the bears all the ammunition they desire but evidently they are going to use every possible lever to disturb sentiment so long as the banking authorities permit them to get away with it.

The announcement of resumption of Fox Film cash dividends came as a surprise to many and caught a rather crowded short interest. With obligations taken care of through the new financing Fox is earning more than sufficient money to warrant the $4 annual disbursement. There is continued good absorption of the local traction stocks by those who are close to political Timken was talked of coincident interests here. Important selling of with report that sales have proved "disappointing" in the last few months. Those who took a big profit in Foster Wheeler are planning to resume their long position soon as they know that the Electric bond interests are throwing it all their business.

One ray of sunshine was received from Jules S. Bache. That banker who keeps closest touch with both international and domestic happenings, declares:

"While not attempting to gauge the end of this reaction in whatin spite of what has occurred, I consider a market that will in time reflect the improvement in business which is bound to come—although, perhaps, after a longer period of resuscitation than our enthusiastic speculators have expected—it looks to me as though the investment issues and particularly some of the good railroad stocks, were getting pretty cheap."

Sterling slipped lower while other exchanges ruled irregular in quiet trading. Cotton slipped off under realizing while wheat and other grains benefited from week-end short covering.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, May 2. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Cattle supplies around the 11-market circuit were meager, with trade at most centers a cleanup affair at steady prices. Liberal receipts on Monday of this week enabled packers to enforce sharp price declines on most all killing classes.

Several loads of grassers that were in cutter flesh were sold on country account to be sent to Kansas pastures. Receipts 9,700, as compared with 14,353 a week ago and 11,318 the corresponding day last year.

Opening hog trade was moderately active at steady to 15c higher. The top $10.30 was paid in Chicago. Offerings 68,500, a slight increase over last Friday and about the same as a year ago.

The sheep supply numbered 46,500 against 39,143 a week ago. Fat lambs moved freely at firm to 25c higher figures and fully steady values were maintained on aged stock. Fed wooled lambs $11.00 in Chicago and at a few of the river markets reached $10.75. Choice California springers in Omaha $12.00.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, May 2. (AP)—Except for a sag in corn, prices on the cash grain market here today held about unchanged. Increased offerings of wheat and corn were easily absorbed under good demand. Sorghums and oats also were wanted. Trade in cane seed was small but steady.

Mills were bidding $1.11½@1.12½ for ordinary No. 1 hard milling wheat.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 93½@94½c; No. 2 white 95½@96½c; No. 2 yellow 96½@97½c.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 55@56c.

Barley—No. 2 barley nominal.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.88@1.90; No. 2 kaffir $1.58@1.60.

Cane Seed—Bulk country run red top per 100 pounds according to type, germination, origin and clean-out, $4.25@4.50.

Dealers also quoted basis delivered Texas group one points: No. 2 mixed corn 90½@91½c; No. 2 white 92½@93½c; No. 2 yellow 93½@94½c; No. 3 white oats 51½c; add one cent to latter for delivery Texas group three points.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 2. (AP)—Unofficial monthly crop summaries indicating reduced yields and decreased acreage for the United States 1930 wheat harvest did much to steady wheat prices today. Effects of the jolt given all grain markets yesterday by emergency measures relative to overcrowded storage facilities here were still apparent, though, and buyers showed lack of confidence.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, varying from ⅝c net decline to ⅜c advance, compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¾@1¼c down, oats ⅛c off to ¼c up, and provisions showing 10@40c gain.

Outstanding as features of the May unoffical crop reports were estimated pointing to 7,000,000 bushels less domestic winter wheat yield this season than was suggested by the government's April forecast. This curtailment implied that the 1930 winter wheat production would be 35,000,000 bushels below last year's harvest. Moreover, today's private estimates foreshadowed 7.3 per cent decrease of United States spring wheat acreage and 4.8 per cent decrease in Canada.

Wheat bears in Chicago, nevertheless, made much of statements by a leading crop authority in his monthly survey that good rains lately in most sections of the winter wheat belt were of great benefit, and came in time to check a serious situation which was developing in the Southwest.

Heavy liquidation sales continued in the corn belt market today, with much speculative selling also. Crowded storage facilities here were a bearish factor. Oats averages higher, influenced by reduced estimates of stocks of oats on farms as compared with a year ago.

Provisions advanced, responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat May 99⅞c@$1.02⅛; July $1.01⅞@1.02, $1.04⅞@1.04⅞; Sept. $1.05⅝@1.08⅛; Dec. $1.10⅝@1.13⅛. Corn, May 77⅜@77⅞c, 79⅛c; July 79½c, 81⅛@81⅝c; Sept. 80⅝@80⅞c, Dec. 75⅞@77⅛c.

Hoover Asks For Fifty Million For Settling Claims

WASHINGTON, May 2. (INS)—President Hoover today asked congress for appropriations not exceeding $50,000,000 for settlement of German, Austrian and Hungarian war claims.

A recommendation for the appropriation by the budget bureau accompanied Mr. Hoover's message, and explained that appropriations to meet the claims were necessary immediately in order to prevent certain claims awarded after congress adjourns bearing 5 per cent interest until funds could be made available by the next congress.

Commission Funds

WASHINGTON, May 2. (INS)—President Hoover asked congress today for an additional $250,000 for operation and maintenance of his commission on law observance and enforcement.

In a brief message the president reported that of the orignial fund set aside for the commission probably not more than $75,000 would be left on June 30, 1930. The new appropriation would provide funds for continuation of the work during 1931.

For Boulder Dam

WASHINGTON, May 2. (INS)—President Hoover today asked congress for an appropriation of $10,660,000 to start work on the Boulder canyon dam project.

Seek Speed Up Paving Of Oklahoma Highway

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 2. (UP)—The state highway officials sought to speed up the completion of highway 66 between Oklahoma City and Tulsa today.

A motion to advance the Davenport litigation was filed in the state supreme court by W. C. Lewis, assistant attorney general, representing the highway commission.

Completion of the highway has been delayed because of Davenport and Wellston litigation. Citizens of these towns protested against completion of the highway because the rerouting causes the road to miss their towns.

Highway officials hoped for an early supreme court ruling if the court will advance the Davenport case.

'HOME OWNED' DRIVE PLANNED

Pledge Contest to Be Staged; Festival May 30

Plans for a one-day drive to be made on Saturday, May 10 by children of the city, for housewives' pledges to support the Home Owned Industries association and patronize its members were announced Friday by Harry Gross, manager of the association.

Prizes which will be offered to children of 10 years or above for obtaining signed pledge cards will be headed by an award of $25 in gold, Mr. Gross said, and will include numerous articles of merchandise which are being given by various local merchants.

Children of the city who wish to engage in the one-day drive will be asked to meet at the Memorial auditorium at 8:30 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, May 10. Instructions relative to presenting the pledge cards to local buyers of merchandise will be given, and the contestants supplied with blank cards.

Plans were also announced for a city-wide celebration to be staged on May 30 by the Home Owned Industries association for the entire community. The day's festivities, as outlined by Mr. Gross, will open with a parade, headed by uniformed bands of the city, Boy Scouts, and National Guard units. The parade will feature displays prepared by members of the association as a means of acquainting the public more familiarly with products of this community, and with the purpose of the association, it was said.

Following the parade, the scene of celebration will shift to Weeks park, where barbecued beef and lemonade will be served free by the association. After the picnic dinner, a program of races, stunts, and other holiday features such as the greased pig chase, greased-pole climb, etc., with prizes for winners, will be staged, according to the plans already announced. Arrangements also are being made for a public dance to be given in the evening.

Establishment of Industrial Mart Here Praised by Business Leaders

Improvement in Condition Rapid During Last Three Weeks, Chatham Tells Junior C.-C. at Luncheon

Establishment of the Industrial Mart by the Junior Chamber of Commerce industrial development company was characterized as "the outstanding forward step taken here in a decide," by J. W. Chatham, vice president and general manager of the Western Garment Manufacturing company, in an address Friday noon before members of the organization gathered in the Industrial Mart building for the bi-weekly luncheon.

Mr. Chatham expressed his complete endorsement of the project undertaken by the Junior chamber of commerce and stated that the concern which he represented had been among the first to reserve space in the building for an industrial display.

Referring to business conditions in Wichita Falls and surrounding territory as observed in constant travel throughout this territory in the past few months, Mr. Chatham said:

Sales Doubled

"The past two or three weeks have brought about the most rapid improvement that I have ever witnessed. We had a pretty dark spot not only on our prosperity maps, but on our minds, up until recently. It was largely mental, although of course there were physical and economic elements concerned. The change has already come. Our sales for April will nearly double those of March, without any additional sales effort on our part. The merchants are buying more because they know sales are going to be greatly increased for them. The improvement is tremendous."

Mr. Chatham described briefly a visit to Ponca City headquarters and plants of the Continental Oil company on Thursday, detailing the extent and elaborateness of their equipment, and the general evidences of prosperity in Ponca City.

"Wichita Falls is no worse off today than Ponca City," he continued. "We have all the elements here which make the thriving little Oklahoma city what it is. It is required only that we recognize and use them. Wherever you go, when you turn back toward Wichita Falls you are returning to a city which is not excelled in the entire Southwest. It has the man-power, the energy, the faith, the resources not only to keep abreast, but to lead."

An "inspirational address" was given by Henry Camp Harris of the National Security Insurance company, one of the "parents" of the Junior chamber of commerce.

"The appreciation week program which you put over one year ago, shortly after your organization, put you on first base as an organization," Mr. Harris said. "Now you are in position to score. This Industrial Mart is the biggest thing you have started, and it will succeed. Your industrial development committee has done a commendable bit of work in its establishment. With every commendation a challenge is implied. Your answer to that challenge must be a keen personal interest and individual responsibility for the success of this valuable institution."

Shadie F. Hale, chairman of the Industrial development committee, presided at Friday's meeting. Numerous members of the senior chamber of commerce, particularly those representing manufacturers and jobbers division, were among those present. Mr. Hale announced that plans are now being made for the erection of booths in the Industrial Mart building in order that all exhibits may be installed before the formal opening on May 10. More than 40 concerns already have signed up for space, it was said.

Good Will Trip to Quanah

Plans for taking a large delegation to the state junior chamber of commerce convention at Waco Saturday and Sunday were announced by P. R. Freeman. Work of the traffic committee on behalf of adoption of a drivers' license law was reported by H. V. Kirk, chairman. E. F. Freuchte, speaking for the good-will trip committee, announced that the next excursion will be taken on May 20 to Quanah and intermediate points. Leaving this city at 9 a. m., the party will stop in Vernon on the return trip for a social program which is now being arranged, it was said.

Joe Richker read a letter received from Lawton, Okla., Chamber of Commerce officials, announcing a ceremony scheduled for Sunday afternoon for the unveiling of a statue of Chief Quanah Parker. The event will take place at the Post Oak mission, five miles west and four miles north of Cache, and will be featured by an elaborate program, the letter said. The monument has been erected in accordance with an act of congress, and is made of native Wichita granite. The largest assembly of Indians witnessed in many years is anticipated for the unveiling ceremony.

Mr. Hale expressed appreciation of the Junior chamber of commerce for assistance given by the Freear and North Texas Furniture companies, Maskat Temple, the Wichita club, Claer Transfer company, and Wichita Music company in preparing for Friday's luncheon in the new Industrial Mart quarters. Donation of frozen custard as the dessert for the luncheon by the Wilson Frozen Custard company also was acknowledged. An extensive program of orchestral music was given during the luncheon by Frank Bird and his Bluebirds, staff orchestra of radio station KGKO.

At least eight members of the Wichita Falls Junior chamber of commerce will start for Waco by automobile early Saturday morning to attend the two-day state convention of junior chambers of commerce which closes Sunday noon, and bent upon obtaining for Wichita Falls either the state presidency for the coming year or the next state convention.

According to P. R. Freeman, chairman of the Waco-ward committee, Wilburn Page, Paul Hines, Walter Nelson Jr., Pat Hardage, Ralph Pond, Carl Smith and Chap Smith will be included in the Wichita Falls delegation, and there is a possibility that Jerry Vinson, president, also may go to Waco by plane for the convention.

Banker Falls to Death From 12th Floor Window

NEW YORK, May 2 (UP)—Louis N. Kramer, retired banker who fell to death from his 12th floor apartment was believed by police today to have suffered an attack of dizziness as he stood by an open window.

Kramer was a director of the South Utah Mines and Smelters company. He had been in ill health for some time.

Authorities discarded any theory of suicide when they learned Kramer recently had joined in a discussion of the ethics of taking one's own life and had branded the act "cowardly."
