Send Your Picture—

Worth the Price?

A YOUNG lady just out of college writes this newspaper (and probably a dozen others) for a position, and encloses her picture with her application for work.

Nothing very extraordinary about a college graduate seeking work, but this "picture enclosed" is decidedly an innovation, at least in the newspaper business.

But why shouldn't an applicant for a position enclose a picture when a personal call is impossible? Personal appearance must play some part in the selection of workers in every business and profession, so the applicant who sends along a picture should be just that much further advanced toward either an acceptance or rejection of his or her request.

The young lady who sends her picture to Texas newspapers probably received the suggestion in college. At the start of her professional work, she advances a little ahead of other youngsters, which is just one of the things colleges are supposed to do for their students.

TWO young hijackers in Dallas county embarked on a career of crime. They flourished automatics when they robbed peaceful travelers or oil service stations.

Then the minions of the law caught them. A jury convicted them, and these boyz of twenty were given 50-year jobs behind the bars at Huntsville. Men who rob with firearms are murderers at heart. For the good of society and its protection they should be put away for life.

HOLLIS farmers and Hollis cotton buyers have been assigned a definite area in the town by the city council for use as a market place, with the result that buyer and seller will be more easily brought together in the Oklahoma town.

Every city, large or small, should have a public market place, not only for cotton but for every form of produce. Such markets offer farmers the opportunity of selling their produce direct to consumers, or at least of using the medium of small tradesman in the market area. To the householder seeking produce of any kind, the search is made comparatively simple, whatever the quality or variety of merchandise sought.

The town with a public market is usually a town with opportunity for the farmer to dispose of surplus produce quickly and at a fair return, and with a comparatively low cost of living for the city resident.

U. S. HENLEY, Olustee, Okla., is bitterly disappointed that accident cheated his son, Al Henley of his chance to join the Honolulu flight in competition for the Dole prize. As is common with fathers, Mr. Henley doubtless feels that his son, with better luck would have won through to fame and fortune in the competition.

The father of Capt. Bill Erwin too is disappointed. He saw his son set forth on his flight with apparently every chance of success, and now he knows that each passing hour makes less possible that his boy ever will be found.

* * *

ALL in all, the Dole flight has taken a heavy toll in bitterness and regret. Seven persons, six men and one woman, have been lost in the Pacific, with little chance of their rescue, and three or four others were killed before the actual start of the race. All of this for a moment's fleeting fame and $35,000 in prizes, a meager reward for the courage, efficiency and bravery shown by these peace-time heroes.

But such is the confidence of each entrant in the contest, it is doubtful if a single flier who was denied the chance of a hop-off in the Dole flight would hesitate an instant to attempt the hazardous course today if the conditions and rewards of the original offer could be repeated.

PLAN MONSTER FUNERAL FOR SACCO AND PAL

Bodies Will Lie in State Before Being Cremated

VANZETTI TO ITALY

Sacco's Ashes to Be Turned Over to His Wife

By Universal Service.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 23.—Sacco and Vanzetti will be cremated. This was decided here this afternoon at a meeting of friends and relatives including Sacco's widow and Vanzetti's sister.

It was also decided to let the bodies lie in state for two or three days in some hall, if permission can be obtained from the health authorities. Then there is to be a monster funeral procession to the Forest Hills crematory.

Vanzetti's ashes will be taken to Italy by his sister, Luigia, and Sacco's will be turned over to his wife.

This plan for disposing of the bodies was approved after several had been considered. One fanciful suggestion that was seriously deliberated was to take the bodies on a tour of the country and place them on public exhibition in various cities, including New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

This was abandoned when it was learned that authorities in these places would not permit it.

Farewell Letters

A farewell letter from Sacco and Vanzetti to their defense committee and other friends was made public by the committee tonight.

It reads in part:

"August 21, 1927.

"From the death house of Massachusetts state prison

"Dearest friends and comrades of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee:

"After tomorrow night we will be executed, save a new staying of the sentence by the United States supreme court or by Governor Alvan T. Fuller.

"We have no hope. This morning our brave defender and friend, Michael Musmanno, was here after his return from Washington. Also Rosa and Luigia were here this morning and they promised to return this afternoon.

"But now it is 5:30 in the afternoon and no one has returned yet.

WICHITA GIRLS FAIREST OF FAIR, OPINES CHAMP

Endurance King Tells Secret of Keeping Awake Five Days

Staying awake by thinking of sleep is the unique experience of Rosser J. Newman, holder of numerous endurance records and now engaged in driving an automobile 125 hours without stopping.

While Newman, the man who once drove an automobile 197 hours and 35 minutes, danced 217 consecutive hours and took a 72-hour tour on roller skates, drove along the streets of Wichita Falls Tuesday night he discussed his experience in the realm of thought while engaged in endurance tests in the past and told what he would possibly think about during his long drive here.

"My thoughts today were of the beautiful girls of Wichita Falls," he said.

"This first day of the drive has been so enjoyable, made so by sight of the fair damesls here. Some of them rode with me, and their company made me oblivious to time.

"Tomorrow I shall drive to several surrounding towns, and I shall try to direct my thought toward the enjoyment of the scenery, which will be new to me, as I was never in this section of the state before.

Oh, For Sunday.

"By Wednesday night I'll be tired and shall try not to think at all. By Thursday I shall be so sleepy that I won't be able to think of anything except sleep. From them until 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon I'll keep myself awake by thinking of how I would enjoy a good siesta. In my mind's eye I will see downy feather beds with the covers turned back invitingly. It will be hard not to imagine that I am in one and so fall asleep at the wheel, but as I once drove 197 hours, I think there will be little difficulty in holding out for 125 hours. But, oh, what sleeping I'll do after 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon!"

Mr. Newman keeps himself fit for these strenuous feats by taking care of himself. He eats the proper food and not overly much of it. He takes the right amount of exercise and lives a well ordered like during respites from his endurance tests. He drinks quantities of milk during the first days of a test. Wednesday afternoon, however, he will start drinking coffee, increasing the amount until the amount consumed on Sunday will be almost beyond the wildest imagination. The coffee will help to keep him awake.

BANDIT ROBS BRIDGE KEEPER

Toll Gate Funds Taken By Two Hijackers

While his companion held his car in readiness for a quick getaway, a lone hijacker approached P. E. Harrison, official at the toll gate at Byer's bridge about 10 o'clock Tuesday night, told him to "stick 'em up," and escaped with $15 in toll gate funds, according to a report of the affair made to police by Mr. Harrison.

The robbers were driving in a small roadster, the license number of which could not be distinguished, Mr. Harrison said, and headed toward Wichita Falls after the robbery. Officials here and in Clay county were notified to watch for the bandits.

Holcomb Business District Destroyed

HOLCOMB, Miss., Aug. 23. (AP)—One man lost his life and virtually the entire business district of Holcomb was destroyed early today by fire that leveled nine of the town's eleven business houses with an estimated loss of $75,000.

Murphy Shuemaker, owner of one of the stores, was overcome by smoke while removing merchandise from his building and suffered fatal burns before he could be dragged to safety.

Power Head Declares Water Meeting Not Representative

Alexander Claims Meeting Was Dominated By Congressman Blanton and Senator Woodward

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (AP)—Jay Alexander, secretary of the Syndicate Power company, Dallas, declared here today that the water rights meeting at Abilene which resolved against power interests in the Colorado river water rights situation was not "representative of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce nor of West Texas."

"Not less than 150," he said, "of the 250 present were from Brown county."

Brown county is the scene of the proposed irrigation and water supply dam awaiting decision of the state board of water engineers, the application for permit being opposed by the Syndicate Power company.

Alexander said the meeting was "dominated by Congressman Blanton and Senator Woodward, who evidently saw an opportunity to make a political issue out of this great development project."

Resolution Opposed

He declared that the resolution calling on the state water board to reconsider the granting of power rights on the Colorado river, was opposed "in whole or in part" by three business men on the resolutions committee.

"With over half of the men attending the meeting interested in the Brown county irrigation company, it was a foregone conclusion that any resolution unfavorable to the power company in this could be passed.

"Inasmuch as the irrigation company is unwilling to leave the decision as to their rights to the constituted authorities and have appealed to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for relief it is only proper and right that all the people of Texas know the real facts involved in this controversy."

Acquired Rights

He went on to tell how his father, C. H. Alexander, began acquiring rights on the Colorado river in Burnet, Travis and Llano counties in 1906, under state laws, and how a proposed sale of the interests to the Middle West Utilities company contemplates a $25,000,000 program of improvement in the counties mentioned, including flood protection for Austin and towns on the lower Colorado.

He reiterated the previously announced position of the company that Brownwood could have all necessary water for "municipal and domestic purposes."

WHITEHEAD CLAIMS ERRORS IN ALEXANDER STATEMENT

FORT WORTH, Aug. 23. (AP)—Several errors are claimed by E. H. Whitehead, publicity director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in a statement of Jay Alexander, Dallas, at Austin Tuesday with reference to a meeting held at Abilene at which resolutions were aimed at water rights on the Colorado river held by the Syndicate Power company, of which he is secretary.

"More than 50 towns of West Texas were represented at the meeting and of approximately 400 people present, not more than 100 were from Brownwood," Whitehead said.

"As to the three business men he says opposed the resolution, they explained that they were in favor of the resolution as directed against the Syndicate Power company, but did not vote for them because of objection to some phraseology, fearing that it might be taken to mean that West Texas is opposed to outside capital developing its resources. One said he wished it could have been made clear that no reflection against the West Texas Utilities company was intended. One of the three was C. H. Clark, Wichita Falls. Mr. Clark, after hearing Mr. Alexander, took the floor and explained that in committee he had opposed the resolution because of the phraseology but that he wished to announce he had changed his mind and would vote for them on the floor.

TWO PLANES START QUEST FOR AVIATORS

Green Flare Seen on Slope Of Manna Kea Mountain

CAPTAIN SEES LIGHT

One of Flight Winners Is Member of Searching Party

By Universal Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 23.—Following reports that a green flare had been seen on the slope of Mauna Kea Mountain, Island of Hawaii, an army airplane and the Aloha, winner of second place in the Dole race, left here today to make an investigation.

Major General Lewis ordered the search after Captain Elmer Block, commander of Kilauea military camp, sent the following message:

"Green rocket reported observed about 8000-foot elevation on the rugged slope of Mauna Kea Sunday night at 7:09 o'clock. The light gradually died out about 20 seconds after it was observed."

The message went on to say, however, that there were camping parties in the mountains, but that the possibility existed that the flare might have been sent up by some of the lost Dole fliers.

The search for the fliers in local waters was practically completed today, except for the patrol being made by two seaplanes between Oahu and Kauai.

NO GREEN FLARES CARRIED BY DOLE FLIGHT PLANES.

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 23.—So far as known here the missing Dole flight planes carried no green flares.

The planes carried very few signal rockets which are red. The Golden Eagle has two full boxes of these rockets and Captain Erwin had four full boxes on his plane Spirit of Dallas.

The plane Miss Doran, which carried Miss Mildred Doran is not believed to have had so many of the rockets aboard.

It was stated here that it was probable that the missing planes also had caustic flares aboard which are used in landing and give forth a brilliant white light. The possibility was suggested that one of these white flares against such a background as the green flare reported from the Island of Hawaii was noted would have a green appearance although persons familiar with the flares were not certain of this.

Five Bus Hearings Set by Marshall

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (AP)—Five hearings on applications and protests against other applications for permits to operate motor bus lines were announced today by Supervisor Mark Marshall of the motor bus division of the state railroad commission.

Practically all the northwest Texas line permits will be "cleaned up" in hearings set for Wichita Falls, September 19; Vernon, September 20; Childress, September 21, and Amarillo, September 22.

TWO FOUND DEAD ON ROAD

Man and Woman Shot To Death

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Aug. 23. (AP)—The woman found shot to death on the highway near Ramona early today with R. J. (Jap) Dunn of Sycamore, Kan., was his wife, according to Van Morgan of Hominy. Morgan in a long distance conversation tonight said the Dunns had visited his daughter, Mrs. Carrie Cooper, who lives on an oil lease six miles west of Hominy, for several days and left three days ago.

Mrs. Dunn has relatives in Topeka and Wichita, Kan., Morgan said.

The woman, about 25 years old, was found on the side of the road with a bullet in her face under her left eye. The man, lying a few feet from her body, had a bullet in the right side of his head.

The man was identified through letters and a bank book found in his clothing. His body was at an undertakers here pending the arrival of relatives from Sycamore.

Officers, following an inquest, declared that Dunn shot the woman and then committed suicide but could establish no reason for his action.

Dunn had gone to Ramona about a week ago to engage in enlarging pictures.

Old Crime Comes To Light in Laredo

LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 23. (AP)—Evidence of a crime committed in Nuevo Laredo within recent months came to light Monday afternoon while laborers were excavating for the new municipal jail.

At a depth of about eight feet a crude coffin was found to contain the body of a man imbedded in slack lime and mostly consumed.

It appears that after the man had been killed the body was placed in the crude coffin, which was filled with lime in liquid form and the box buried at the usual depth. There were not outward traces of the place being a grave.

Nuevo Laredo police are trying to link the finding of the body with the disappearance of a man from Nueve Laredo a year ago.

GRUESOME FIND REVEALS BODY OF WOMAN

Mrs. Maryann Hill of Streator, Ill., Slain and Buried

SON IS ACCUSED

Officers Searching for Harry Hill, 22 Years Old

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Harry Hill, 22, is being sought tonight for the gruesome killing of his mother Mrs. Maryann Hill. Her badly decomposed body was found buried in the basement of their Streator, Ill., home today. A warrant already has been issued charging him with murder.

The body was found by Dr. R. C. Hill, wealthy eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, husband of the woman, from whom he was separated more than a year ago.

The body was lying face downward, with the hands crossed behind the back. It was clad only in negilgee and silk stockings. She had been shot through the head once, Coroner L. D. Howe reported after a post mortem examination.

Leveled Earth

That young Hill knew of the mound of earth which covered the body was revealed by Peter Busch, to State's Attorney R. O. Hanson. Busch, aged caretaker of the Hill home had been shown the mound by young Hill, told to level off the earth and later after it had settled, cover it with bricks.

Busch told the authorities he thought Hill might have buried some liquor under the mound and that he thought nothing about it.

A dragnet has been thrown out here and all over this part of the state for Hill.

He is known to have been living in Chicago, where he recently lost a position with a novelty advertising concern, when a bonding company refused to bond him.

It was revealed that he had forged several checks all of which were made good by his mother, who although she did not approve of the practice, with a large fortune to draw from, never turned him down.

Excitable Temper

Neighbors, who first missed Mrs. Hill ten days ago, said she and her son had highly excitable tempers and that Harry seldom came home because of this.

Chief of Police Raad of Streator said Harry has been questioned a number of times over the disappearance of his mother and that each time he told a different story.

Hill was termed by his father as a "spoiled youngster."

The murder was termed one of the most gruesome in Illinois in years, and showed great brutality.

Mrs. Hill's highly excitable temper is said to have caused her separation from her husband. Her son was believed to have inherited this temper.

Man Found Dead Hanging From Rope

LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 23. (AP)—The body of J. Theodore Olsen, 65, who arrived in Nuevo Laredo about two weeks ago, was found hanging by a rope from a window in his room at a hotel in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, Sunday, it was reported today.

"I have no money," he told a clerk who asked him for room rent Friday. He was not seen Saturday.

Olsen claimed he was an inventor had with him plans of a worthwhile invention.

MYSTERY CAR BEING MADE

Will Develop 220 Miles An Hour

By Universal Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 23. — A mystery car that will develop 220 miles an hour is being constructed at the Stutz Motor Car company of America here, it was revealed today. The car will attempt to best the world's speed record made by Major H. O. D. Segrave at Daytona Beach, Fla., last year. The record is now 203.79 miles an hour.

The car will be driven by Frank Lockhart, premier American race driver. The tests will be made either at Daytona Beach or on a dry lake bed at Muroc, Cal.

The utmost secrecy surrounds the car, which is being built under the personal supervision of Lockhart. It is being financed by a group of prominent American sportsmen, whose names were not made public.

The car will be distinctly American, it was said, and will be quite different from the "Mystery S" in which Major Segraves made his record.

The motor will contain only about one twelfth the piston displacement of the British motor. That motor carried 2700 cubic inches of piston displacement.

The race cars used at the Indianapolis speedway have only 92 cubic inches displacement.

A prominent airplane manufacturing company is now carrying on research to determine what will be the best streamlines to be used in the body to create the least resistance from the wind.

No one is allowed into the work shop of the Stutz factory where the car is being built, except those actually working on it.

Lockhart already holds the American record for speed, made with his perfect circle Miller at Muroc, when he developed 164 miles an hour. He won the Indianapolis sweepstakes race here in 1926.

Monster Funeral For Sacco and Pal

This tells us there is no good news. It almost tells us that their efforts have failed and that you are spending these remaining few hours in despairing efforts to prevent our execution.

Feel Lost

"In a word, we feel lost. That we lost and have to die does not diminish our appreciation and gratitude for your great solidarity with us and our families.

"Only two of us will die—our ideal, you, our comrades will live by millions. We have won. We are not vanquished.

"Just treasure our suffering, our sorrow, our mistakes, our defeat, our passion, for future battles for the great emancipation.

"We embrace you all and bid you our extreme good bye. Now and ever, long life to you all. Long life to liberty.

"Yours in life and death.
"Bartholomeo Vanzetti.
"Nicolla Sacco."

The big funeral procession scheduled for late in the week will be "a march of sorrow" by thousands of silent mourners. Members of the defense committee will attempt to get Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers in other cities to stage a "march of sorrow" at the same time.

The hall in which the bodies will lie in state here will be filled with posters and banners in all languages and will recall every stage of the seven year fight that was made to save the men from the chair.

Boston was quiet today after the electrocution this morning of Sacco and Vanzetti. Everyone returned to their routine lives and work which had been so thoroughly upset during the past few hectic days of excitement. Defense headquarters, where there has recently been much activity in connection with the frantic efforts to save Sacco and Vanzetti from the chair, were deserted.

One of the big aftermath scenes of the case occurred in municipal court today when 155 persons were arraigned for their part in yesterday's demonstrations.

Six were fined ten dollars on a charge of blocking the sidewalk. They all appealed. The other 149 were fined five dollars each on charges of loitering.

Governor Fuller, fatigued with the constant strain he has undergone in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, remained at home today for a rest.

PARIS POLICEMEN INJURED IN DEMONSTRATIONS
By Universal Service.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Hospitals throughout Paris tonight reported many casualties. At least 20 policemen were injured, and some were seriously stabbed.

It is estimated that 100,000 communists and anarchists took part in the demonstration, defying government orders prohibiting all demonstrations.

For a little while, a miniature "revolution" or "commune" was staged on the Boulevard Sebastopol. Trees were uprooted and flung across the boulevard, and while a part of the communist mob fought back the police, others tried to erect a barricade.

Knives flashed, pistol shots resounded and stones were hurled, but the police onslaught with clubs proved too much and the barricade tumbled as it was being erected.

The fighting was extremely bitter for a time, and the police had to charge several times. Many bloody faces and heads were seen.

"Down with the Yankees!" "Sacco and Vanzetti will be avenged!"

These were the cries of the mobs. The Internationale was sung.

At the Gare du L'est, the mobs attempted to overturn the trolleys but were beaten back by the police.

According to the police, 90 per cent of those arrested are Russians, Rumanians and Czecho-Slovakians and a large number of explusions from France will likely result.

RUSSIAN PAPERS CLAIM "MURDER"

MOSCOW, Russia, Aug. 23.—Articles appearing in the Moscow evening papers declare that the "drastic execution" of Sacco and Vanzetti will never be forgotten.

One of the papers carried a headline in big letters "last night, American executions murdered Sacco and Vanzetti."

Characteristic paragraphs in some of the articles read: "The unprecedented challenge by the American bourgeoisie to the workers proves that the execution means class murder carried out in cold blood. Such a cynical affair could only be done by exploiters blinded by fear of the inevitable day of reckoning."

Willing to grasp at any straw of hope, the family last night decided to communicate with the psychic. Accordingly, a telegram was dispatched to Seattle asking for aid in the search.

HERE'S HOW

Wily Cop Takes Judge's Watch As He Talks To Sergeant

For a corporation judge to be robbed of his watch in his own courtroom is a thing that strikes to the heart of the moral code of this great realm—but that is exactly what happened early Tuesday night.

Judge W. L. Bass was in a lingering conversation with Desk Sergeant Goodwin. A motorcycle officer asked him for the time. He reached for the timepiece—and it was gone.

Even if it did turn out that Homer Bently, the officer who popped the query about the time, had deftly removed the watch while the judge was occupied, the search for the thing was exciting for the force, and the bewildered judge was forced to join in with the rest in a hearty laugh.

FILE HORSE RACING TEST

Betting Charges Will Be Fought in Court

AUSTIN, Aug. 23.(AP)—Court action said to involve a test of whether old time horse racing can return to Texas under legal sanction of the "contribution system" of paying off the winners was instituted today when attorneys for Jack Jarvis, facing betting charges in connection with Saturday's races at Brady, got a habeas corpus order for his release under $250 bond.

Criminal appeals court ordered Jarvis released pending a hearing September 2 of circumstances involving his arrest Saturday, after operating the "contribution system" at Brady.

G. B. Stewart, who "donated" $2 on "Four Flush," the winning horse, and got $14.40 back, is the complainant in the case.

William P. Kyne, California turfman, recently was granted rights to operate Texas state exposition races here in October on condition that a court test of the system proposed turns out favorably. He also has dickered with San Antonio and Dallas racing interests.

Kyne, in a recent statement here, declared that the donation system is not actually "betting" under existing state laws, and that high courts of 11 other states have held it legal. The plan is for race spectators interested in the outcome to donate some sum to the purse, which later will be divided proportionately among those favoring the winning horses.

Mayor "Jimmy" Walker Places Berlin Mayor in Bad Position

By Universal Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—The American club dinner and dance to be given Thursday night in honor of Mayor "Jimmy" Walker has placed Mayor Boess, of Berlin, in an embarrassing position. The German mayor felt compelled to turn down an invitation to help enliven the affair because he and other city officials are boycotting the hotel where it will be held.

The city officials are shunning the hotel because that hosterly along with several others in Berlin failed to show patriotic fervor and hoist the republican flag on Constitution day.

Foreign office officials, however, announced that they have no intention of boycotting the dance. On the contrary they intend to turn out in full force to hear one of Mayor Jimmy's famous after dinner speeches.

The police are taking extra precautions to protect the Mayor during his presence in Berlin, since much bitterness has been expressed by communists that the visitor should be feted so soon after the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti. Special patrols will be placed around under Den Linden hotel where Mayor and Mrs. Walker will reside. All police stations in the neighborhood will be held in readiness to quess any disturbance that may arise.

ELBERT GARY WILL FILED

Financier Bequeaths More Than $2,000,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The will of Elbert H. Gary, who was chairman of the board of the U. S. Steel corporation, was filed for probate today at Mineola, L. I.

The value of the estate was not indicated, although specific bequests totaled more than $2,000,000. The petition said the will disposed of personal property valued at "more than $10,000" and of real property, valued at "more than $10,000." The will was filed by Kenneth T. Halstead, attorney.

The will sets forth there are no claims or obligations except such as are public and well-known, including principally an indebtedness of $100,000 to the Chatham Phenix National bank, duly secured.

Two life trust funds are created, of $800,000 each, for Mr. Gary's two daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Gary Sutcliffe and Mrs. Bertha Gary Campbell. On Mrs. Sutcliffe's death it is provided the income of the first fund will go to her son, Elbert Gary Sutcliffe. Julia Elizabeth Campbell, daughter of Mr. Gary's second daughter, will receive the income from the second fund.

On the deaths of the two grandchildren, the incomes are to go to their children. If there are no grandchildren, the income from the funds will revert to other heirs.

Judge Gary bequeathed to his two daughters his cemetery plot at Wheaton, Ill., with the granite mausoleum. He directed that his body be placed in one of the crypts. The body of his first wife is to occupy an adjoining crypt and that of his second wife another adjoining crypt "unless she directs otherwise."

The bodies of his father and mother, brothers and sister and his daughters are also to be placed in the mausoleum unless the latter direct otherwise.

A trust fund of $50,000 was left for maintenance of the First Methodist church at Wheaton, known as the Gary Memorial church.

GENEROUS FRIENDSHIP

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE CUTS HIM BECAUSE OF JEALOUSY.

HE SEEMS INTERESTED IN HER.

GENEROSITY WINS FRIENDSHIP.

Only By Sharing Your Pals Can You Keep Them.

By Beatrice Fairfax,

An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

HERE is a letter from a girl who feels that she has been treated very badly, indeed. She is indignant—and a little heart-broken. Do you agree with the stand she took which caused the quarrel with the young man she likes so well?

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"My parents recently moved to a new town. Here I have met many girls and young men and I like them all.

"One young man especially I liked as soon as I met him. And after we had gone together for awhile I learned to love him.

"He is nineteen and I am seventeen. He has a good name. When I came here he was going about with another girl. But he quit her and began going with me. He and this girl had a fuss and did not speak for a long time.

"He told me he didn't care anything in the world for her and that he certainly loved me. I told him that if he went with her, he could not go with me. I told him to go with any other girl he liked, just so he did not go with her.

"The other day I saw this girl downtown. She was starting home when he came along and picked her up with his car. They passed me. He and I have not spoken for several days now. But we had not quarreled at the time he took the other girl home.

"He told me he was not going to tie himself to any one girl. Do you think he really meant that? Or did he speak just in fun?

"Of course, I do not expect him to go about only with me. But I can't stand it to see him go with that girl, after I told him not to.

"How can I win him back? Do you think he loves me? I think enough of him to go with him after I said I wouldn't. He still says he loves me.

"Will it be better for me to go on being friendly with him and let him go with the other girl? He wouldn't like it if I treated him that way. Please give me some advice about this problem. I will thank you so much.

"LONESOME AND BLUE."

You have asked my advice, my dear. Here it is: Tell your friend frankly and good-humoredly, that you admire his good sense in not tying himself down to any one girl. Explain that you feel the same way about friendships and will not tie yourself down to any one young man until you become engaged.

That is so much better than binding yourselves by foolish pledges, which are never advisable except where a formal engagement of marriage exists.

What right have you to dictate anyone's friendships, my dear? What do you hope to gain by criticising your friend's friends harshly? Why should he not cultivate other friendships as freely as he cultivates yours? You are not his guardian. You are not even his fiancee.

Your ordering him not to go about with a certain girl would naturally act as a challenge to any but a weak-spirited person and endanger, if not end, your friendship.

Friendship is free, not subject to tyranny.

Why do you not carry on this friendship tolerantly, generously, with a fair mind? Only by doing so can you experience the real comfort and joy of comradship.

As time goes on, you and your friend may drift apart, but there need be no bitter memories. The chances are you and he will finally fall in love and marry sweethearts you have not even met yet. In any event, you will have a far better chance to choose life-partners successfully, if you both cultivate a large circle of good friends, than if you narrowly try to limit each other's comradeship.

Love that is true and congenial cannot be endangered by outside friendships. Also, the big-hearted understanding tolerance you acquire by refusing to domineer over your friends, will help you make of your marriage and home when the right time and the right man comes along, just a little bit of heaven on earth.

The Danger of a Common 'Cold'

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,

Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU, like every other person, have had a "cold," just a common cold.

A common cold is never a trifling thing. It may be combined with, or, by lowering the vitality, it may pave the way for some other and more serious infection.

Colds are unpleasant enough in themselves, but when they are combined with the more serious infections they are tragically important.

Firstly, they reduce the resistance to the more serious diseases. An inflamed throat is a more fertile soil for infection than a sound one, and a body which is strong enough to resist disease if fit, will often succumb if it is already crippled by a cold.

Secondly, colds on top of the contagious diseases render them much more serious. Measles and scarlet fever are troublesome, but not very dangerous. If the sufferer catches a cold at their height, they may easily be fatal or leave a permanent injury behind. Broncho-pneumonia and inflammation of the middle ear (necessitating operation) are only two of the dire consequences of allowing a measles case to catch cold.

Thirdly, colds mask the serious infection. The early stages of both measles and whooping cough are practically indistinguishable from an ordinary cold. Therefore, treat every child in the throes of a cold as though it were suffering from something worse.

The incubation period of an infectious disease is the interval between the child's exposure to the disease and the appearance of the first signs. This interval varies for a number of reasons. One child is able to resist better than another; some strains of infecting microbes are more virulent than others. Moreover, bacilli may feed for some time on the surface of a mucous membrane (the lining of the throat or nose, for instance) without penetrating to the blood and starting an infection. Some people go about with deadly germs in their throats perhaps all their lives and never have a day's illness, but they can and do give the disease to other people. They are called "carriers," and examples of diseases that they can harbor in this way are diphtheria, typhoid and spotted fevers.

Generally speaking, the severer the disease the shorter the incubation period. Diphtheria and scarlet fever have short incubation periods, require less than a week to break out; sometimes only two or three days. If one child in a class goes down with scarlet fever, the children she has infected (secondary cases) will go down two to four days later.

The next most serious diseases, measles and whooping cough, require about a week and a half to show themselves. Chicken-pox usually appears in about fourteen days, the mumps and rubella (German measles), the most trivial of these infections, usually take the better part of three weeks to incubate.

Any of these diseases is more liable to develop on the heels of a "cold" which has had the effect of lowering the resistance of the individual.

Pick Good-Natured Husbands For Happiness, Dorothy Dix Advises

Marriage Is Made or Marred for a Woman by Her Husband's Disposition, So Pick Out the Man Who Is Good-Natured and Easy to Get Along With.

A correspondent asks: "What qualities should a girl look for in the man she marries?"

Of course the conventional reply to this question is that she should find out if her prospective husband is honest and honorable, thrifty and industrious, and that he doesn't drink or gamble or chase petticoats.

But, as a cold matter of fact, a man's manners have more to do with making his wife happy than his morals. The amenities score higher than the virtues in domestic life.

Some of the best men in the world, judged by ethical standards, are the worst husbands. There are plenty of men who are pillars of the church and leading citizens and who are held up as examples to the youth in the communities in which they live who break their wives' hearts by their coldness and neglect, and make their homes places of terror by their tempers. It is no comfort to a woman to know that her husband does not lie nor steal nor philander if he is hard and unsympathetic and stern and penurious and fault-finding and grouchy.

This explains what is popularly considered to be the crowning feminine inconsistency, and that is the attitude that widows so often take toward their dead husbands. We see a wife "bear up" with amazing fortitude—even cheerfulness—under the loss of a husband who has been a perfect paragon of all the virtues, while another woman never ceases to mourn the death of a man who was a hopeless derelict.

And the answer is, that only the woman who lived with the man knew what sort of a husband he was.

Therefore, if I were a young woman contemplating matrimony, the thing upon which I would lay most stress would be the man's disposition, for that is the thing with which the wife is going to have to contend every day of her life and that is what is going to make her marriage a success or failure.

If a man is cheerful and good-natured, if he meets the ups and downs of life with philosophy, he will make a happy home. But if he is pessimistic and gloomy and grumpy, if he flares into tempers over trifles and lapses into sullen silences over anything that goes wrong, then he will make the sort of a husband who causes his wife to wish that some kindly assassin had killed her on her wedding day.

Pick out for a husband a man who is good-natured and easy to get along with. If during his courting days you have to keep a boy placated, if you have to jolly him along and stroke his fur the right way to keep him in an amiable humor, and if you have to think twice before you speak for fear of saying something that will rile him and start a row, for heaven's sake be warned in time. That sordt of chap will make a husband who will keep his wife walking on eggs the rest of her days. And that's a form of exercise which will make any woman mighty tired in a short time.

Then observe the man's attitude toward yourself. Is he critical? Is he always finding fault with your little mannerisms? Does he dictate to you about what you shall wear and where you shall go and with whom you shall be friends and generally undertake to regulate your life?

Beware of him. The naggers don't all belong to the female persuasion, and a man nagger has nagging developed to a degree that no mere woman can ever hope to attain. That sort of husband bosses the life out of his wife and she has less freedom than any slave that ever lived.

Nothing that she can possibly do pleases him, and when he is at home he spends his time snooping in the icebox and peering in the garbage can and raising ructions over everything she does and leaves undone. Any wife will make plenty of mistakes, so she had best pick out for a husband a man who will turn a blind eye on her shortcomings instead of one who is a hammer-wielder by nature and who will find his chief diversion in knocking her.

Never marry a jealous man. There are girls idiotic enough to be flattered by a man's jealousy and to think it a proof of love. In reality jealousy is always an insult, because it betrays lack of trust. The man who is jealous of his wife has no faith in her. He believes that she is capable of doing the things of which he suspects her.

There is no living in peace with a jealous man, because no matter how straight and honest you are, he believes the worst of you. No matter how discreet you are in your conduct, he imputes to you every vice his dirty imagination can conjure up.

Observe whether the man you are thinking of marrying is tender and sympathetic or not. If he kicks every dog out of his way, if he calls all children brats, if he is rude to old women, if he sneers at sentiment, don't marry him, though you are positive he is your last call to the dining car.

There are times when you will be sick, when you will be down on your luck, when you have done silly things that you are sorry for, when the only refuge life will offer you will be to sob it all out on the second button of your husband's waistcoat. And if he fails you then and tells you not to make a fool of yourself, marriage will be dust in your teeth.

Watch how a man spends his money. Marry neither the spendthrift nor the tightwad. Pass up the bluffer who makes a show of doing things he can't afford and who throws dollar bills around as if they grew on trees; but doubly pass up the man who never can find his pocketbook until after somebody else has paid the check and who only parts with a nickel after a major surgical operation. A man's tips give you a very good line on how he will hand out money to his wife.

In a word, daughter, when you do a little Sherlock Holmes-ing on a husband, observe whether he is amiable, whether he is cheerful, whether he is good-natured and easy to get along with, whether he is uncritical and anxious to be pleased, whether he is just and generous about money.

And if he has these qualities, say "Yes." He will make the kind of husband that will keep a woman thanking God for her luck until her golden wedding day.

PITY FAT MAN

CHICAGO.—Added to the fact that "nobody loves a fat man" another handicap is attached to the poor men whose proportions do not measure up to the size of an Apollo. A survey made by a professor at the University of Chicago discloses that fat students do not use their thinking faculty as readily as the lean and lanky ones. "Of course this does not apply to all cases," the survey adds as a consolation.

Fashion Fads and Fancies

by M.ldred Ash

PERFECTLY Mated Pairs are the fashion in the current sweater market, for jumper and cardigan jacket to match are greatly in demand—preferably in solid colors. Of lightweight yarn or jersey, these smart sets are worn with woolen skirts of a contrasting shade. Those of pastel colorings are usually worn with white or beige skirts.

Splitting the Difference between its black cuff and its pale gray body, one of the latest models in kid gloves has a cunning little cuff, split down the center back and separated from the body of the glove by a little band and perky bow of gray and white batiked leather.

Stunning But Not Sterling is the little silver vanity case that instead of being of silver is really of silvered kid! In an elongated hexagonal shape, such a little case has a woven leather handle, starting at the bottom and forming a loop to slip over the wrist.

Animated Animals are the latest rage for umbrella handles. Carved of wood, these animal or bird heads have tongues and eyes that move in a manner more amusing than ferocious. To add realism, the wrist strap is a braided thong of leather, fastened to the handle by a metal ring that gives it the appearance of being the animal's leash.

Smartly and Sensibly Shod is the woman who adopts, for general utility wear, a walking pump with one wide strap and broad, medium height heel. Black patent leather or brown calfskin with reptile trimming is quite the correct combination.

Created of Cretonne—The "last rose of Summer" is a huge, floppy flower seen to best advantage when perched on the shoulder of a flannel sports coat.

The Pink of Perfection—Seems to be pastel pink, which is being featured in all smart midsummer wardrobes, whether clothes are daytime or evening models. Sweater suits, sports frocks, flannel coats and their accompanying little felt hats are of this dainty shade, and so are the chiffon, taffeta or organdy dance frocks worn at the most fashionable Summer resorts and country clubs.

Buckles Borrow from Brooches—Their shape and general character, for the small bucklepins, that fit the shoe where it cuts the instep, are made in old-fashioned bow-knot, crescent, and oval shapes as well as in modern designs and are studded with rhinestones and colored stones. These are for evening wear; those intended for daytime being of bronze, silver, or gunmetal finish, sometimes having a touch of colored enamel but never a stone setting.

Purses With Personality—Are those of finely woven kasha, with seams outlined with narrow pipings of leather. Made in pouch and in envelope shapes, these bags in solid tone effects of rich, dark colors are often either embroidered or appliqued in bright contrasting colorings.

Striking Nails On Their Heads seems to be a favorite of stylists this season, judging by the popularity of nailhead trimming on the advance Fall models of hats and frocks. This metallic trend in dress and hat trimmings has brought out a distinctly novel variation—that of the enameled nailhead, whereas formerly only silver or gold effects were shown.

Household Hints

Glycerine is excellent for removing coffee stains.

Vegetable marrow may be cut in pieces, steamed for a short time, and then dipped in egg and breadcrumbs and fried.

One of the greatest beautifiers is a glass of water, to which the juice of a lemon has been added, taken three or four times daily.

Stews and soups are improved by the addition of an apple in slices.

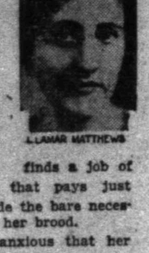

Potato peelings, chopped small, or crushed egg-shells are excellent for removing stains inside a water bottle or narrow-necked vase. Drop the peelings or egg shell inside, place the hand over the mouth of the article, and shake vigorously.

Ceilings will not peel if washed over with a quart of water in which an ounce of alum has been dissolved.

Are Your Children Getting a Good Start in Life?

By L. Lamar Matthews.

A STORY appeared last year in one of the well-known magazines that illustrates very strikingly the conditions that face the children of the small-salaried man.

L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

The mother finds a job of some sort—one that pays just enough to provide the bare necessities of life for her brood.

She is most anxious that her children should have the training and care necessary to fit them for life's struggle. She investigates and finds that it is the children of the very poor who are provided with the best advantages. So she deliberately moves into the slums, so that the benefits supplied by social workers, religious agencies and civic institutions will be available for her sons and daughters.

In the course of the story one of the children who needs his adenoids and tonsils removed is given free medical treatment, and careful nurses see that he is properly cared for afterwards. All four of them have free dental service and consequently keep their mouths in healthy condition.

The children receive the benefits of a gymnasium, a swimming pool, a neighborhood house, where they can play during the cold weather, and a supervized playground in Summer. Other opportunities are offered for the mental, the physical and the moral growth of the children; and the mother sees that her four accept those that seem advisable.

One of the girls shows marked musical talent and is taken up by some philanthropist and given the training that enables her to make her own living.

One of the boys has ability as an architect. He is placed in a school and later in an office where he develops his talent.

It really isn't necessary for people of "the white-collar class" to move into the slums in order to give their children opportunities. But it is necessary for them to bestir themselves. Quite often it is necessary for them to take heroic action and to proceed in a manner that upsets the family routine. But if the child's future success depends upon the eradication of some physical defect, mental handicap or moral kink, then the special effort is worth while.

It is a sad fact that the children in many homes are growing up with some physical disability that could be removed if their parents realized what a terrible drawback the affliction will always be. Crooked teeth, stooped shoulders, an ugly growth, impaired eyesight, some internal displacement that could be adjusted. Thousands of boys and girls grow up and struggle on through life with minor ailments that should have been remedied in childhood.

As for the mental and moral training, schools, churches, libraries, museums and other educational forces offer advantages to all. So the children of the salaried man can manage to get along quite well—provided they have strong bodies and the proper help and encouragement at home.

Correct Manners

—By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman—

Invite Each Guest.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When you are giving a party and want a certain boy and girl to come together, how should you let them know? Should you send both the invitations to the boy and let him give one to the girl or vice versa? Or should you send an invitation to each with your wish indicated on the invitation? What should you do if you don't know the girl or the boy?

R. D.

YOU should send separate invitations to the girl and boy, and, if you wish, indicate in each your wishes as to their coming together. By no means send both invitations to the boy or both to the girl: this would not be complimentary to the other, and would give a crude impression.

(And may I beg you not to use green ink? Please!)

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

FOLLY'S DAUGHTER

A Thrilling Mystery of New York Night Life

By ANN LISLE

Folly Advises Jill.

FOLLY and Jill stared at each other. The oldest antagonism in the world made Jill's long narrow amber eyes dark with hate. The oldest profession in the world made Folly's eager with cupidity and ambition. Her voice was husky and tense as she asked:

ANN LISLE

"You say Shannon doesn't care for you. How do you know?"

"I was at the Shannon roof last night. I was dancing with Tony Savelli, who is sort of—crazy about me. I was so lonely and so desperate that I was agreeing to go home with him"——

"You didn't?" Folly shrieked.

"No. But I meant to. I'm not good any more. I'm not good in my thoughts. And whether you're my mother, or my guardian as I've always thought, you can't hand me any drivel now about waiting. I guess I know what you are—and you can't preach to me," Jill said bitterly.

"Yes, I can," Folly told her quietly. "A woman like me is the very one who can tell you to wait for the right thing. It doesn't matter about me any more. But you don't have to come to the—depths I'm struggling in."

"I'm in ugly enough depths of my own," Jill sneered. Her voice was hard.

"Get back to Shannon," Folly ordered so curtly that Jill obeyed, without realizing the sudden quiet domination in the older woman's manner.

"He saw me dancing with Tony. He came over to the table and asked me to dance with him. Tony didn't want me to. They glared at each other and didn't pay any attention to me. I didn't count. They suddenly just thought about each other wanting to take me away from each other. It was horrid——"

"But you aren't horrid," Folly laughed with sudden relief. "You are darling. If you weren't a nice little—child, you'd adore having men ready to fight each other like beasts for you."

Jill sent her a suspicious glance. There was an ugly sort of relish in Folly's tone, a zest for something that disgusted Jill without her quite knowing what it was she thought so—slimy.

"It wasn't me," she corrected. "It was just that they both wanted to boss. And I ran away."

"Which pursued?" Folly asked with great enjoyment.

"Neither."

"That's odd."

They couldn't guess that Mac's detectives had detained Tony and had paid him well for interfering with his personal rights. They didn't know that Tony wasn't in a position to protest too vigorously if the law reached out its arm for him now and then.

"Maybe they had a fight over you," Folly suggested.

Jill's face blanched. Folly studied her for a moment and then she asked in an odd voice—a crooning voice such as Jill had never before heard her use:

"Does he mean so much to you?"

"Yes."

"How can you know, dear. You aren't eighteen yet. You don't know anything about love and life. You'll see a dozen men before you meet the right one."

"I have met the right one. And he doesn't care."

"He's too old for you. He's fifteen years older than you if he's a day. Double your age. Don't, Jill, don't. MY tragedy came from marrying a man who was just ready to settle down when I was just ready to investigate the things of which he was tired."

"Jem Hathaway?" Jill asked.

"No. My first husband. The brother of Vivian's father."

Folly sent Jill a suspicious glance. But it was obvious that Jill had scarcely heard. She was thinking about MacNell Shannon so intently that nothing else seemed to enter her consciousness. And now that she had found the relief of expression it was evident that she couldn't restrain the question that fairly burst from her lips.

"You told me to hold out for marriage because you thought that was good business," she said scornfully. "Now you tell me not to think about MacNell Shannon at all. . . . Is that because you—want him?"

Folly got up and ran to her side. She flung herself down on the floor. She put her arms around Jill with sudden wild abandon. And her voice fluted and mellowed with tenderness as she cried:

"I wouldn't look at him again, ever. I wouldn't have him for a present. I wouldn't take anything from you that you really wanted for all the world. Oh—my baby! My baby! Is it too late. Can't you love me at all?"

Then Jill's young arms went out and swept Folly into their passionate embrace.

"You're my mother," she cried. "I love you."

"The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You"

WEST TEXAS started its water rights meeting at Abilene by singing the state song and Dean T. U. Taylor of the state university was the song leader. Dean Taylor made a very interesting talk relative to the prior rights of water for irrigation and domestic uses in Texas.

He said that no one yet had been able to tell him what constituted the non-riparian water of a stream but in his judgment it was the excess waters which flowed down a stream over and above the usual or normal stream flow.

This university dean warned his audience that if power companies are permitted to obtain exclusive rights to Texas streams it would spell calamity and West Texas stock men and farmers would have nothing to brag about but climate and air.

He said it would mean a stop to the legitimate developments of West Texas, not only its agriculture but its cities as well. He quoted from the supreme court of Texas decision in the case Nettle vs Boyd in which Chief Justice Cureton held that the non-riparian waters are held in trust by the state to be controlled and disposed of for the best interests of all the people of the state.

He is quoted as having said that beginning with the old Spanish grants Texas water rights always went with the land and belonged to the owners of the land who lived along the stream except where streams were considered navigable.

Riparian rights cannot be transferred and the paramount issue according to the dean in this state is as to whether the waters of all Texas streams eventually will be used for domestic or commercial purposes.

He advised that the present issue is the most significant in the history of Texas as it would mean stagnation for those areas now so dependent upon stream water if they were deprived of their legitimate rights on their farms.

There is a live issue which is bound to be uppermost in Texas next year. It centers about the right of water control. All this reminds the Dallas News that there is need for the law makers to revise the statute governing the appropriation of the waters of Texas rivers and streams.

This is the conclusion of the News, "The monopolization of the unappropriated waters of the Colorado which is claimed by authority of that statute can be obtained on every other stream in the state and if that were done a large section of the state most in need of them for domestic and agricultural purposes would be hard put to it to supply that need."

There are wise lawyers who say that the revoking of permits already given to public service operations is a matter for the courts to decide. There is a lot of litigation in sight but the West Texans have started the ball and when West Texans start a ball a rolling on issues they deem of importance to themselves and their section they usually carry the issue or issues to the ballot box for final settlement.

Justice Looking Up In Georgia

JUSTICE is looking up in Georgia. A masked mob did not like the way Editor H. M. Flanders of the Soperton News expressed himself in the editorial columns of his newspaper. His theory was that the moonshiners and rum runners were given free license to ply their calling in the county and that peace officers or some of the peace officers protected them.

A mob of masked men abducted the editor. They carried him to the woods. They whipped him until he was unconscious and a mass of bruises. He recognized one of the ruffians. He placed his cause in the hands of the judge and the judge passed it on to a grand jury composed of men who had no love or even respect for mobs or maskers.

And the sheriff of the county was one of seven maskers indicted by the grand jury. Raymond Lee, a well-known citizen was another. Lee was sent to trial. A verdict of guilty was returned and the convicted masker and flogger was sentenced from two to three years in the penitentiary for his part in the whipping.

He whined and whimpered like a whipped dog and told the judge "they had convicted the wrong man." There are six alleged floggers awaiting trial and this includes the high sheriff of the county.

Yes, Georgia justice is looking up. In recent years maskers in Georgia have been flouting the law and whipping men and women from the coast to the mountains. A few hangings or a few life terms in the penitentiary and then the goddess of justice would cease her weeping in a grand old state.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—A great many of the taxicabs in town have collapsible tops on the extreme rear of the cab. This arrangement affords a clear view for the passengers. However, with the sun beating down on a hot day such a cab became almost unbearably hot. And so some unknown genius has come to the rescue with a simple device which has been adopted by most of the hacks of that type. It consists of two rods which fit on the bolts at the top rear of the tonneau. At the top is a cross-bar and on this sewn a length of regular auto top covering. One end is fastened to the top of the car, the other is drawn taut by the weight of the iron rod. Altogether it has the effect of an awning without cutting off the view.

The new type of Childs' restaurant has had its effect on competitors. Now that the elaborate and tastefully decorated place at Broadway and 46th street has been luring a great bulk of the crowd, Horn and Hardhart have opened a shining cafeteria at Seventh avenue and 48th street. The place is furnished with shining brass and gleaming, vari-colored marble work. I won't be surprised to see a Thompson beanery appear done in the manner of a Gothic cathedral. The waiters, perhaps, will be garbed in scarlet cassocks with gold sashes. White tile, apparently, will soon join the dodo as a decoration scheme for restaurants.

Pity the change maker in the subway. He is constantly forced to dash madly from his booth to the turnstiles where plump, indignant matrons from the Bronx are trying to slide a family of children (ranging from two to twelve) under the turnstile without paying fare for them.

MODISH MITZI— Mitzi Keeps Busy By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi arrives at her office prepared for a busy day. She prepared for it by wearing a kasha coat with a cape effect. The hat with a slightly rippling brim matches it very well. Mail, already! Isn't it exciting? She probably has orders right away. Orders for complete outfits for the smart set.

The mail turned out to be congratulations upon the beginning of her business career. She hardly had time to change her dress before the bell rang. This frock with a semi-cloche skirt and a blouse effect with vestee and lower sleeves of contrasting material is more businesslike. Not a clinch! But lots of flowers.

Telegrams, too. Telegrams of congratulations. They seemed so important when they came that she hardly dared spare the time to change into another dress—a georgette with pin tucks before she opened them. She wonders if she really ought to wear this to greet her first client providing she comes.

Mitzi leaves her office after a most tiring first day at business. She's changed her mind and her costume innumerable times. Now she wears this hat with the up-in-front brim and her initials on it. The dress shows one of those interesting side V necks. It's too bad she had no clients to see it.

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of

READ THIS FIRST:

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who is separated from her mother. The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MABEL, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and works in grouchy old MR. PEEVEY'S office afternoons.

In the flat below the Jeromes lives young TED SLOAN, an automobile salesman, who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye hires Millie as his secretary and becomes blindly infatuated with her, making her head expensive gifts, etc. But Millie confesses to Sally that while she likes Nye and intends to marry him for his money and position, she really prefers DAVIDSON, a salesman, who she knows, as a sweetheart. She intends to get Davidson a job with John Nye, so she says.

Beau and Millie give so little towards the support of the home that Sally often borrows from her spinster aunt, EMILY JEROME. Aunt Emily is going to turn her country home into a wayside inn, and wants Sally to go into business with her. But Sally, ever in need of money, is afraid to risk it.

Beau gets $110 from Ted Sloan by means of bad checks. Sally borrows the money to pay Ted from Mr. Peevey, but Beau uses it to elope with his girl, MABEL WILMOT. A check for $200 comes from Mr. Jerome and Mrs. Jerome gives it to Beau for a wedding present. Sally hopes he will pay off his debt, but he buys a second-hand car instead. So she arranges to pay Ted and Mr. Peevey herself at the rate of $2 a week to each of them.

Millie is rushed to the hospital for an appendicitis operation, and Mrs. Jerome decides to telegraph for her husband, although Millie comes through it safely. John Nye, who is out of town, wires his office that he will be back the next day, and Sally tells the girl that she will do Millie's work in the mornings if John Nye wants her to.

(Now go on with the story.)

CHAPTER XXXI.

At 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning the telephone rang loudly in the Jerome flat.

Sally dropped the knives she was cleaning and dashed to it, fearing lest its clamor should disturb her mother, who was still asleep.

"Hello," she said softly, her lips close to the black mouthpiece.

John Nye's voice answered her. "Hello, Miss Jerome. How's Millie, and what hospital is she in?" he asked and there was anxiety in his tones.

Sally told him that Millie was much better and resting comfortably, according to all reports from Bethlehem hospital.

"Now, then," he said, when she had finished, "Miss Kriss tells me that you offered to do some work for me while Millie's away from the office. Is that right?"

"Yes," breathed Sally, and was ashamed of the wild surge of joy that went through her heart.

"Well—when can you come?" His low, deep voice stirred her, even at this distance.

"Right away," replied Sally, knowing perfectly well that she still had some silver to clean, a lunch to get ready for her mother and herself to dress.

"All right. Thanks very much," John Nye's voice spoke again in her ear. "I'll see you soon, then."

She was still glowing with excitement when she hung up the receiver.

But as she finished her work and got into her street clothes she began to calm down. She began to be very much out of patience with herself because of that glow of excitement and happiness.

"Here you were yesterday, promising yourself that you'd never think of John Nye again because Millie's going to marry him," she told the Sally in the mirror above her dresser. "And look at yourself now!"

She was starry-eyed and deeply pink, and there was a smile that lifted the corners of her soft mouth and brought out the dimples in her cheeks. She had that miraculously happy look that a woman has when she is going to meet her lover, and at no other time. A very special kind of look it is.

But the girl who sat at the corner of John Nye's desk an hour later was an altogether different Sally. A quiet, business-like Sally, who kept her thick-lashed eyes on her dictation pad and never once raised them to meet his.

"Minutes of a special meeting of the board of directors of the Nye Development company," his deep voice began, and Sally took the words down on paper with the speed and accuracy of a machine.

Mr. Peevey's fussy hurried dictation had long been a trial to her, but it had made an excellent stenographer of her.

"Going too fast for you?" John asked once, and without raising her head Sally answered him.

"No, Mr. Nye," she said, as meekly as ever she had said, "No, Mr. Peevey."

And so they kept it up till noon.

"I'm afraid I'll have to stop now," Sally said gravely, as the deep-noted bells of the cathedral rang out above the din and rush of the down town streets. "I've got to get Mr. Peevey's lunch ready for him."

Nye looked up at her and grinned. "We dovered a lot of ground this morning, didn't we?" he asked pleasantly. "I like the way you work."

That night when she stopped in at Bethlehem hospital to see Millie she was taken, not to the three-bed room which had been ordered for her, but to a big, bright, private room with a bath that opened from it.

It was filled with flowers—with late roses and early chrysanthemums. Amid their bloom and color and fragrance Millie lay, white as a ghost and without a trace of the made-up beauty that was hers.

"John Nye was here this afternoon," she told Sally with lips that barely moved. "He brought all these flowers, and had me moved into this room and got a special nurse for me. I wouldn't see him, looking the way I do. Bring me my bottle of Chinese black and my lip-stick next time you come, will you?"

And after Sally had promised she would, she took no further interest in her, but turned her white face to the shadowy wall and went to sleep—or pretended to go to sleep.

With a heavy heart, Sally went home. . . . It seemed so like charity to take the private room and the services of the special nurse from John Nye, somehow. She wished that he hadn't gone to the hospital and moved Millie out of the three-bed room where she was.

It made her unhappy and ashamed, as only the proud and the poor know how to be ashamed.

"Of course, if he's going to marry Millie, it's all right," Mrs. Jerome said when Sally told her about it. "But I don't know—so many rich men lead young girls on, when they don't intend anything good by them. Now, you take the girl in this last book I'm reading. She was betrayed by a rich young good-for-nothing, and I'm just where he meets her again after years have passed—"

Her voice rambled on, telling Sally the plot of the book called "When Love Is Kind." She took all her views of life from the books she read—and in most of them rich men did not marry girls like Millie.

"I wish Millie would pick up with some nice sensible young fellow in her own walk of life instead of these moneyed blatherskites she knows," she had often said to Sally on the nights when Millie stayed out until all hours with Davy Davidson. . "I'd like to see her married and in her own home. That's the only safe place for a woman."

But she had a far different story to tell when it came to the case of Sally and Ted Sloan. She had very little praise for marriage and settling down, then!

"I don't know what anybody wants to get married for," she would sigh bitterly. "I'm sure I would have been a thousand times better off than I am now if I never had seen your beautiful father!"

All the rest of the week Sally worked from 9 to 12 for John Nye.

Trig and fresh in her crisp, white blouses, she would sit across the room from him, tapping away on her typewriter, her head bent to show the lovely curve of her head, her lowered lashes making a violet shadow on her cheeks.

Every now and then she would look stealthily up at John Nye—at his fine, dark head, his jutting, arrogant nose, and the straightness of his broad back as he sat at his desk.

"How under the sun can Millie even look at a man like Davidson when she can have a man like this?" She put the question to herself a hundred times during that first week.

She wondered, too, how Millie could cold-bloodedly plan to marry John Nye for his money when he, himself, was so attractive. So much of a man.

"Why, any girl should be glad and proud to marry him if he didn't have one cent to rub up against another," she told herself.

Every day John Nye called at the hospital, and every night when Sally went there there were fresh flowers in the tall glass vases, and baskets of dainties that the special nurse ate and passed around to the other nurses.

For Millie would eat nothing. She drank a little milk three times a day and refused all other food. She said she wasn't hungry and Dr. Ambleside began to worry about her.

"She's not getting along as well as I'd hoped," he told Sally one night when he happened to come in while she was there. "She won't eat."

"I don't want to eat," Millie told him crossly. She didn't want to be propped up in bed, either, and she had refused steadfastly to see anybody but her mother and Sally. To them she talked very little. "I'm tired," was all she would say. "I want to be let alone."

Sally worried not only about her, but about the money that John Nye was paying out for the room and the bath and the special nurse and all the rest of it.

On Saturday noon John Nye came over and stood beside her desk. She could see him out of the corner of her eye, but she did not look up until he spoke to her. She had a piece of paper before her and she was making a list of her expenses for the week on it—so much for groceries, so much for milk, so much for lunches and so much left over for the rent. She was always trying to get together the money for the rent, it seemed to her.

She laid her hand over the paper now and turned to look up at John.

Something in his face told her that he had seen the pathetic little list.

"Here's Millie's check. Perhaps she'd like to have it," he said gravely. "I'd take it to her myself, but she doesn't seem to want to see me."

Then he cleared his throat and laid a second check before her on the desk.

"You've been so good to me—I thought perhaps you'd let me give you this one," he went on, and looking down at it Sally saw that it was made out for $25.

"But I've just done Millie's work, and that's paid for," she was beginning, when he stopped her.

"No, no. You've done more work than Millie ever did for me," he said in his nice, quick way, "and yesterday when I was tied up with those men from out of town you brought me that lunch."

"Anyone would have done that," replied Sally, a flush rising to her cheeks and her eyes darkening. "I saw that you weren't going to have time to go out before they came . . . I won't keep this check."

She stood up and held it out to him.

"You've done so much for us now that I'm ashamed whenever I think of it," she said softly, huskily. "Paying for Millie's room and getting a nurse for her when you knew we couldn't afford one—and—all those flowers—and now this!"

She looked at the check again, and suddenly, surprisingly, she began to cry!

He stooped and put his arms around her exactly as he might have put his arms around a hurt child, comforting her. He stroked her hair.

In his arms she was very sweet and cool and fresh. She had none of the perfume, none of the cuddling, nestling softness of Millie. She was like an armful of apple-blossoms, picked early in the morning with the dew on them.

And then she pulled herself away from him and, still crying, ran out of the office.

On the floor at his feet lay the check he had given her. It was in two pieces. She had torn it up!

He stood looking at the two bits of pale-blue paper for a full minute. Then he stooped, picked them up, and put them both in his billfold.

All day the feeling of Sally in his arms stayed with him. It went with him to the florist's shop, where he bought quantities of yellow roses to be sent to Millie at the hospital. It followed him to the Country club, where he played 18 holes of golf under a sky that was like white-and-blue Chinese cloisonne, and it was still with him when he smoked his bed-time pipe that night.

"I had a funny experience today," he said to his father as they sat side by side before a fragrant wood fire in the house with the green shuteers. And then he went on to tell him about Sally and the check she had torn up.

"There's not one woman in a hundred would have done that," answered his father, who had been hiring and firing people all his life and thought he knew them.

John puffed away at his pipe and idly wondered how soon Millie would be out of the hospital and why she wouldn't see him when he called there. He missed Millie.

DIETING FOR INCIPIENT TUBERCULOSIS.

It is difficult for the layman to diagnose his own disease, and tuberculosis of the lungs is often well advanced before a physician is consulted. One whose blood pressure is low and who is tired most of the time should have a careful examination made at frequent intervals, and then follow the best advice obtainable in order to regain normal strength. If, however, one has waited so long that the physician makes the diagnosis of incipient tuberculosis, it is necessary to use radical measures and a strict dietetic and hygienic regime to bring about a cure.

The first thing to do is to take a short fast, using the following acid fruits: Apples, apricots, peaches, pears, grapes, oranges cherries, berries, tomatoes and melons. Use only one of these fruits on any one day, but vary the kind from day to day if desired.

The fruit fast should be continued for at least a week and, in many cases, for ten days or two weeks. One enema should be taken each day to insure proper cleansing of the bowels, with at least two sponge or shower baths to thoroughly cleanse the skin and thus assist in elimination. During this fast a large amount of impurities will be eliminated and the patient will actually feel stronger after the first few days, as the system is freed of accumulated toxins.

After the fast the following regime should be used:

Upon arising in the morning, take a warm or cold sponge or shower bath.

Breakfast: One or two eggs prepared in any manner except by frying. Melba toast or toasted shredded wheat biscuit. Choice of one of the following stewed fruits: prunes, pears, figs, apricots or raisins; stewed or baked apple, or ripe figs, which may be eaten raw. (Use only pure, sun dried, unsulphured fruits.)

During the morning a short walk should be taken.

Lunch: Choice of one or more of the following cooked non-starchy vegetables: celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, summer squash, egg plant, cucumber, beet tops, turnip tops, small carrots, small parsnips, small turnips, lettuce, okra, chayotes, kale, oyster plant (salsify), mallow and zucchini.

Choice of one or more of the following raw salad vegetables: celery, spinach, asparagus, cucumber, parsley, small beets, small carrots, small turnips, lettuce, mallow, nasturtium leaves and flowers, endive, avocado or ripe olives. (Use no salt or dressing—except a little olive oil if desired.)

During the afternoon, take another short walk.

Dinner: Choice of one or more of those vegetables listed for lunch, with the addition of one of the following proteins: lean beef, mutton, chicken, turkey, rabbit or fish. No desserts.

A warm sponge or shower bath should be taken each night, and also an enema if the bowels do not move normally.

This is the general regime which should be followed for at least several months.

In tomorrow's article I will explain how the tubercular can increase strength through exercise.

QUESTION: J. L. H. writes: "I am a man 40 years of age and for the past year my food doesn't seem to agree with me. Some days I feel fine, and suddenly my right hand starts trembling and I go into a dead faint for two or three minutes and it weakens me terribly. Can you advise me what to do to prevent these spells?"

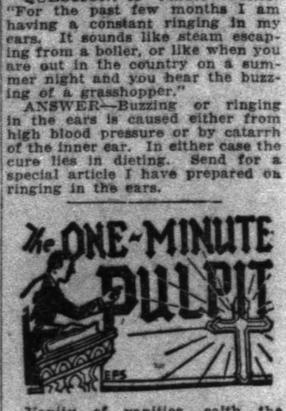

ANSWER—You are probably suffering from some kind of heart trouble, and an extra pressure of gas against your heart produces the fainting spells. Cut down on sugars and starches for awhile and eliminate entirely such foods: onions, cooked cabbage and any such food which in itself produces excessive gas.

QUESTION: S. T. H. writes: "Several of us want to know if prunes combine with a milk breakfast of warm milk on shredded wheat biscuit."

ANSWER — Prunes and milk make an excellent combination, but it is better not to boil the milk. Warm it in a dish placed in a pan of hot water. In this way the milk becomes hot enough without reaching the boiling point.

QUESTION: A reader writes: "For the past few months I am having a constant ringing in my ears. It sounds like steam escaping from a boiler, or like when you are out in the country on a summer night and you hear the buzzing of a grasshopper."

ANSWER—Buzzing or ringing in the ears is caused either from high blood pressure or by catarrh of the inner ear. In either case the cure lies in dieting. Send for a special article I have prepared on ringing in the ears.

Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher, vanity of vanities; all is vanity.

What profit hath a man of all his labor which he taketh under the sun?

One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh; but the earth abideth forever.

The sun also ariseth, and the sun goeth down, and hasteth to his place where he arose.

The wind goeth toward the south, and turneth about unto the north; it whirleth about continually, and wind returneth again according to his circuits.—Ecclesiastes: 1:2-6.

OLUSTEE, Okla., Aug. 23.—With shoulders stooped and disappointment written in every line of his face, V. S. Disappointment over the misfortune to his son's ambition to win the race was keen to the aged father.

WELL

Who is that elegantly robed gent over there, huh?

Gosh, and who is that other Beau Brummel? How these guys in this burg DO dress up!

Oh, that's the well-known Mr. Fred Fussell, that snappily clothed fellow with the lefthanded expression. He's a baseball pitcher.

And that other sheik, why he's Mr. George Payne, number two of a great pitching duo, or number one, take your choice.

Kind of rushing the season a little, ain't they? What a style show!

You see, there's a third party connected with this dress parade. In fact, the third party pays the freight. He's a fellow pedals along under the monicker Jabez A. Gardner. Great friend and employer of those other two birds. One day last spring Jabez forgot himself or something and made the crack that any Wichita Falls pitcher who copped 20 games or more was to be awarded a new ultra-plus style suit of clothes with the great Gardner paying the toll.

Now this Payne fellow, also this Fussell fellow, each has won 20 ball games for Mr. Gardner. With the summer season on its last limbs, so to speak, you couldn't expect these gozos to fall for that summer suit stuff. They just finished winning their twentieths and now they're strutting their vegetables in fall regalia. They may be a few days ahead of the season, but they're first in the Texas league so why not be first in everything else, including clothing styles, too?

Stand back, ladies, they're already under contract.

* * *

In reply to a dig once engineered by a Shreveport pitcher, the famous Fussell remarked, "I'd rather be dumb and lucky than smart and unlucky." Great psychology, that, but it can be said of yesterday's melee that the Great Fussell for one fits neither category. He is both smart and lucky.

HE'S KING

When you're talking about all-star teams and efficient shortstops you are forced to stop and doff your bonnet to Rabbit Benton, a made-over ball player this year. Benton, booked for the utility role, fell heir to the Spudder shortfield duties when Mann cracked a hand. Benton today is head and shoulders the top shortfielder of the Texas league. There isn't another shortstop who the past two months can even touch Benton. Tell me of one who has looked better both defensively and offensively the last eight weeks or so. It's nothin for Rabbit to rob a guy like he did Morse yesterday in the third stanza, going back to the grass almost behind third and coming up with a bullet whip to first, nipping the runner.

Birmingham plunked New Orleans in the opener of that "crucial" Southern association series Tuesday. Meanwhile, another menace appears on the horizon. Memphis, just five and a half games behind the leaders, who are deadlocked for the top, is dilly-dallying wjth the deeply mired cellar habitues, Little Rock.

OW!

Sanguinet tagged one for the book in that game here yesterday, scoring a putout in the manner a football player tabs three points via the dropkick route. With Fitzgerald on first, Sanguinet floozed Turgeon's pop-up back of second, stumped his toe on the ball and booted a perfect goal to the shortstop, who forced Fitz.

Fort Worth Grocer Dies From Wounds

FORT WORTH, Aug. 24. (AP)—Four hours after W. P. Steel, 68, grocer died Monday at St. Joseph's infirmary after clinging grimly to life two days, a second groceryman was assaulted with robbery evidently the motive of his assailant.

I. N. Jenkins, 63, grocer, was felled Monday at 9:30 p. m. with a blow from a five pound pipe wrapped in a paper sack. Rendered unconscious, Jenkins recovered and notified police.

Between $55 and $60 had been taken from the cash drawer of his store by the slugger, a Mexican, who was still at liberty Tuesday. Descriptions were furnished all patrolmen and detectives spread a drag net over "little Mexico" in the hope of apprehending the man who wielded the blunt instrument.

Jenkins suffering only a scalp wound, was given medical attention by a physician.

Large Vote Polled In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Aug 23. (AP)—A vote reaching the proportions of that polled in the first primary appeared imminent today as Mississippians sought to determine the democratic nominee for governor. Theodore G. Bilbo, opposed Governor Dennis Murphree in the second primary.

Clear weather with a tang of Indian summer sent persons to the polls early and reports from all sections of the state indicate that the vote would run as high or higher than that of the previous primary.

Fussell Hangs Up Victory Number 20

McColl Loses Great 1-0 Mound Battle To Eminent Wronghander When Swenson Bats Jenkins Home In Fourth

BY BLONDY CROSS

The eminent Mr. Fussell, jealous or something or other in his lefthanded way over G. W. Payne, the veteran Spudder righthander who copped his twentieth victory Monday, arose in southpaw ire Tuesday a. m. and threatened the Wichita Falls baseball management with all kinds of diabolical vengeance or what would you if he, the eminent Mr. F., wasn't given a shot at stacking up his twentieth triumph of the year, also, Tuesday p. m.

The good-natured Carl Williams, wishing to keep peace in the family and not caring much who won yesterday's game, anyway, allowed the great wronghander to depose Milt Steengrafe as the pitching pick.

There you have the story. Said Manager Williams, "Very well, sir, g'wan out there, but lissen, you lefthander, if you're not right you better not come back," or something similar.

And, as usual, the great wronghander was right, exceptionally so.

It was the second game of the Dallas series. The Spudders had captured one and ere night flopped, the Spudders had captured two.

As a rule when facing the noble Herd, all Fussell needs to do is toss his glove in the bull pen and the Wichita Falls team has won another.

Five and Five

So it was on this particular Tuesday afternoon. The Steers were beat from the opening bell with the proud portsider hurling a major league caliber of ball against a Texas league club. The score was 1 to 0 Wichita Falls. Dallas combed a meager five safeties from the screwy delivery of the illustrious lefty and did not menace seriously at any stage. True, the Spudders pecked but a quinete of hits at Alex McColl's expense and probably would have succumbed before such stellar twirling had they been pastiming behind any pitcher other than Fussell. But the mighty Fussell's Indian sign on the Dallas combination wrote true to form.

The Spudders probably would have routed the Steers even if the Spudders had not poled a single safe blow. Why? Because Dallas just naturally seems unable to overcome the Fussell jinx. And so it ever has been. Few pitchers could trim the champion Steers of 1926. Fussell was one of those few and he has carried his jinx on the Bovine nine right through 1927.

That Indian Sign

That brilliant 1-0 victory yesterday was Fussell's twentieth of the season. Fussell has participated in 32 games this year. Some of them were victories credited to other Spudder pitchers. Had he faced Dallas in all these 31 there isn't any reason to doubt but that ALL of them instead of some would have been victories credited to someone on the Spud side of the ledger. Fussell has been charged with eight defeats this year. You can lay your top wager Dallas did not score any of them. So, after all, it's difficult to decide whether the great lefthander really won on the merits of his good crooked arm or because of that psychological whatsis that spanks fear into Dallas hearts every time he shows his mug.

Anyhow, the wronghander grabbed another victory palm. Dallas threatened in the second when Miller opened with a single, Riley popped out and Tate doubled to right, sending Miller to third. But Hack was pinned to the cushion while Turgeon threw out Gross on his hopping roller to second. Billings lofted to Fitzgerald in center.

With one away in the fourth, Riley and Tate paired singles on Fussell but Gross bounced into a double play, Fussell himself to Turgeon to LaFayette.

That other Dallas safety was of the infield variety, Riley making first in the sixth after two were out. Then Tate popped out to Benton. They were mowed down in order through the seventh, eighth and ninth. A mighty man, is this Fussell.

However, McColl chunked just as nobby a type of ball. Lamb opened the second for Wichita Falls with a double to left center but McColl chopped down the next three swatsmen with Lucy failing to get away from the keystone.

Swenson Bats In Run

It remained for a break of the game to give Wichita Falls its victory in the fourth. Benton led away with a two-sacker to left. Lamb sacrificed Rabbit to third. Jenkins hit to second and Benton was out down at the plate, Morse to Billings. Jenkins was caught off first a moment later by McColl. But Tut hotfooted it for second and gained a life because Riley threw low to the bag. Swenson followed with a single to center, scoring Jenkins. LaFayette walked and Cobb filed out to Sanguinet.

Fussell and Fitz singled in the fifth but McColl tightened with no further damage done. Then we went down in order the rest of the way. It was a noble duel, but Southpaw Freddy was the luckier of the two hurlers. For that matter, all lefthanders are lucky.

WELL, WHY NOT?

SAN FRANCISCO.—According to A. B. C. Dohrmann, dean of Pacific coast merchants, America soon will be a nation of garage owners with bedrooms attached, instead of home owners. Such cramped living quarters, said he, never can insure happiness.

CRUTCHES FOR BIRDS, TOO

LEIPZIG, Germany—Disenabled birds need no longer worry if they lose a leg, or wing. The Berliner Tageblatt, a German newspaper, reports that when a crane became injured last winter in the Leipzig zoo, an aluminum leg was provided.

By fumigating methods, $20,000 worth of woolen cloth and felt at the United States army depot saved from destruction by moths.

Regardless of the lower prices of European implements for truck gardening in Belgium, those from America are more numerous.

Frankhouse Blows Up But Whitworth Saves Day

HOUSTON, Aug. 23.(AP)—Pepper Martin's daring running and Dick Whitworth's highly effective relief twirling were potent factors in Houston's 6 to 5 victory Tuesday over Couchman's San Antonio Bruins. Fred Frankhouse, out for his 22nd win of the season, was given a five-run margin on which to work, but in the sixth lost control. Whitworth took over his duties and gave up but one blow in three and two thirds innings.

With the score knotted in the eighth and one down Martin shot a hit to centerfield and sped on to second, stretching his single to a two bagger. Score:

CLASSY BURGLAR

REDLANDS, Cal.—"Put up your hands, or I'll shoot," said H. H. Urquhart, on Colton avenue, when he saw a man outlined against a window, even though he had nothing to shoot with, but the burglar took no chances and made for the back door, leaving his automobile in front of the house. Police found the license plate had been stolen. Now the burglar has his freedom but Arquhart has his car.

"DEWATTLED" ROOSTERS

PETALUMA, Cal.—The time-honored privilege of roosters to wear their wattles as nature intended them to do, is domed. Hereafter they will have to submit their heads to the barber for a "boyish bob." All this because chicken experts determined that these appendages are unsanitary and disease carriers. "Dewattled" roosters fare much better, is the claim.

A PIPE? NO, NEVER!

PARIS.—If American women make up their minds to go to Paris to see the wild, wild life in Parisian cafes, they must reconcile themselves to one thing: that is, leave their pipes at home. This was emphatically decided when two girl students were ejected for smoking their pipes at dinner at a famous cafe.

Why They Say Jack Can't Win Out

Foolish Fears for Dempsey Based on Failures of Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries and Willard

By BILL RITT

Jack Dempsey, well-known Hollywood hotel owner and movie husband, can't come back. At least, that's the general opinion of fight fans and fight "experts." And the opinion is based by many not on Jack's own ability or lack of it but on the fact that no modern heavyweight champion ever returned to the throne!

The assumption that Jack can't come back because no other has come back is, of course, ridiculous. It's just plain superstition. However, when it comes to being superstitious the boxing public has all the other table knockers and black cat dodgers faded to a fare-the-well.

Jack can come back. And he will come back if he possesses the ability to escape Tunney's punching and has the power to put the champ away. If he hasn't, he's through, of course.

Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries and Jess Willard couldn't come back. They waited entirely too long. Time, entirely too much time, had passed between their relinquishing the crown and their attempt to retrieve it.

Corbett waited six years, Jeffries five, Willard four and Fitzsimmons three before making the try. That's where Dempsey has it on them. Less than a year has passed since he dropped the title to Tunney at Philadelphia.

Dempsey is also by far and away the youngest of the ex-heavy kings to try and come back. He is only 32 while Fitzsimmons and Willard were each 40 years old when they made their try. Corbett was 37 and Jeffries 35. In the thirties time counts. A few years can make a clown out of a man who was once a ring cyclone after he has gone beyond his twenties.

Dempsey looks to be in far better shape than these others were when they got the golden chance. His Sharkey fight proved that he is in condition and still packs a mighty punch.

Corbett was too old, Fitzsimmons too old, too light; Jeffries was out of condition, and Willard was too old and outclassed.

Dempsey is neither too old or too light and looks to be in great condition. It remains to be seen if Tunney has him outclassed.

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

There have been but two really consistent ball clubs in the major leagues this season. Both are American league clubs, the Yankees and the Red Sox. The former have held first place since the opening week of the campaign and the latter have held as firmly to last place.

Every other club in the American league has rambled along in first and second division at times.

It took the Washington Senators until the week of June 4 to establish themselves in first place. Injuries galore had demoralized them earlier in the campaign.

The Detroit Tigers have been in second division three times since they clamored out of it in the opening weeks of the campaign.

Connie Mack's veterans shoved his team into second place late in April, but the outfit slipped early in May and it took him until the week of June 25 to get back there. He has been in second division only once since the opening weeks, however.

The Chicago White Sox had the league dizzy from the middle of May until the middle of June and ambled along in second place during that period, but now seemed to have shot their wad. They've been slipping ever since.

Since the opening week the promising Cleveland Indians have been in first division but once—for a brief week.

The St. Louis Browns enjoyed a whirl near the top for a couple of weeks at the beginning of things and after another short spurt in the middle of May hit the skids again.

In the National the Giants can boast the distinction of being the only club to remain in first division all season despite various unexpected reverses, such as the failure of Eddie Roush to get going, the loss of Ross Young, etc. The Brooklyn Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds, by the same token, can claim the honor of being the only outfits to remain in second division. The Reds, however, seem destined to finish higher than that.

The Pirates, Cubs and Cards played tag with the first five places the first half of the season, but have played consistent ball since them. The Boston Braves and the Phillies flirted with a place in first division the first few weeks and then found their old levels.

Nobody cares how the clubs finish behind the Yankees in the younger league, but the race in the National is hectic enough to keep the general interest alive. Which is fortunate for the bugs.

Penner, Carleton Sold by Houston

Quartet of Buffs Catch On With Syracuse

HOUSTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—Kenneth Penner, Buff right hander, who, with Fred Frankhouse, has won, roughly, half of Houston's games and Tex Carleton, promising young cross-fire pitcher, have been sold to the Syracuse International league club in an outright deal for cash, President Ankenmann has announced. Co-incidental with sale of these two players, President Ankenmann announced another and separate transaction whereby Catcher Firman Warwick and George Watkins, outfielder, go to the Syracuse club for a cash consideration and three players—J. Munn and Alta Cohen, highhanded pitchers, and Sidney Marley, infielder. These three players have had some professional experience this season and become Houston property.

These deals do not become effective until the close of the current season so the Houston club's present roster will not be affected by the sales. However, all four will be subject to call by the Syracuse team after the close of the Texas league season if they are needed.

JONES SHOWS WAY IN MEET

Von Elm Has Tough Time Making Grade

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 23. (AP)—Bobby Jones showed again today that golfing chickens cannot be counted until he has hatched his brood.

The British open champion stepped out in his second qualifying round of the national amateur championship to shoot a 67 that left him with a score of 142, making him medalist for the third year in succession and placing him in a tie with D. Clarke Cochran for the best qualifying score ever made in the amateur.

Bobby's total of 142 was made up of his 67 today added to a 75 yesterday while the Philadelphian at the Merion Cricket club in 1924 reversed the scores, getting his 67 first and following with 75.

While Bobby was burning up the course, George Von Elm, the champion, who defeated the Atlanta wizard for the title last year, was struggling desperately and wondering if he was to be left on the outside looking in when match play starts tomorrow. He finally collected his game to score 75 for a total of 154, which eased him into the select circle.

The blonde Pacific coast star was far off his game on the first nine when he needed three strokes over par, but he recovered enough of his misplaced touch coming in to stagger home in par and find his worry was unnecessary. A couple of birdies made him safe for continued participation.

The titleholder today was not much better than he was yesterday when he scored 79. He found consolation in reflecting that he took 159 to qualify last year when he went on to victory.

Contrary to expectations among some of the veterans, the youngsters refused to crack today. Eugene V. Homans, Phillips Finlay and Don Carrick, who showed the way in the first round, did well enough today to qualify for the tests to determine the title.

Jimmy Johnson, native son, who holds or has held many titles, although he has not yet won a major championship, pleased the home folk greatly by coming in with a total score of 146, good enough to make him second to Bobby. He was runner-up today with 71.

Three former champions, in addition to Jones, won their way to match play, Chick Evans, Francis Ouimet, and Max Marston while three others, William C. Fownes Jr., Robert A. Gardner and Findlay S. Douglas failed to qualify.

A score of 155 for the two day's play was necessary to qualify without a struggle, while the 32 holes were completed by a playoff of those scoring 156.

DUTCH TAGS IT ON MIKE REED

Yaqui Joe Trims Checco In Mean Fracas

By BLONDY CROSS

He still is a pretty tough old man, is that battle-scarred Al (Dutch) Mantell who will never see the sunny side of 46 again.

And the "submarine sock," better known as the Savat, still is quite potent.

After squaring falls with the powerful little Mike Reed of Los Angeles in a rough and tumble match at the Ross stadium Tuesday night before a capacity gathering, it took the veteran Mantell, Amarillo's 145-pound bundle of sinew and bone, just six minutes to feign a heavy run of grogginess under pressure of a headlock attack, slump back into the ropes, get set and shoot a sharp right hoof into the middle of an overambitious grappler and send that careless athlete buzzing back on the base of the skull, cold to the world. Pinning Reed for the final fall then was a matter of mere formality.

The bout was a stormy affair throughout, the principals indulging in bits of by-play with the referee, at one stage two-timing on the third man as if by agreement, breaking only when the promoter and the strong southpaw arm of the law intervened, pummeling each other in the ribs and on the nose, biting, kicking and displaying other forms of rudeness which seem permitted only under the rules, if any, of the New York commission.

New Hold

Reed copped the initial fall in 15 minutes with a hammerlock augmented by a plain old body smother that had Mantell frantically swigging for air but getting none.

Dutch fought a heady fight on the return and worked into a toe hold with both sturdy arms bringing pressure on one enemy foot in reverse fashion. The two-handed leverage not proving sufficient to bring forth a call of calf rope, Dutch applied his teeth. Biting into the fore portion of Reed's shoe and tugging away like an aged bulldog that fears if he lets go the end is in store for him just around the corner, Mantell forced Reed to concede the fall after a referee refused to break the molar grip.

Same Old Story

The finish is an old story for Wichita Falls. Many times has local mat fandom seen the doughty Dutchman pull a groggy stall, back into the ropes and then plant a rapier-like foot into a lunging opponent's midriff, sending him down for the count. And so it was again Tuesday night. Dutch staggering from a furious headlock sortie, crouching in a corner as Reed charged in to apply the finishing touches, then suddenly galvanizing into dynamic action and darting upward with a piston-like thrust of a foot to the solar plexus, stabbing the wind out of Mike's tummy and bowling him over for the goodnight close-up.

Yaqui Joe, the Sonora Indian, ripped and slugged his way to a savage victory in tumultous melee with the rugged Silvio Checco, Houston Italian. Joe took the opening fall with a step-over toe hold and arm hold in 26 minutes. Checco butted Joe a couple of times in the ribs on the comeback and then tagged a headlock to win the second fall in 12 minutes. Joe came back in a rage, punished his opponent brutally with a combination jiu jitsu, savat and slugging advance, closing with a spectacular flying body scissors that slammed Chec to the mat almost lifeless. The finish was scored in 18 minutes.

The north stretch of the highway will be opened about three weeks after the paving is completed, it was learned today.

Rain Balks Netters

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 23. That perverse old tyrant, John W. Weatherman, who has no more respect for girl tennis players than trans-Atlantic flyers, snapped on the rain faucets today and flooded out all second round maches in the women's national tournament in progress here.

HOME STAND CLOSES TODAY

The final game of the home stand is carded for Wednesday afternoon at Spudder park when the Williams wallopers go after the Dallas team in the third game of the series.

The redoubtable Milton Steengrafe, as was the case the past two days, is booked to hurl for the Wichita Falls team. Steengrafe has been working away so much in the bull pen lately that on two successive days Manager Williams decided to let him rest instead of pitch. Milt laid off the pen punishment yesterday and will be ready for action this afternoon.

The Spudders jump to Dallas Thursday and then are off for a 13-day road jaunt, returning September 7 with Shreveport for the final home stand.

Tunney Expects To Win by Kayo

Gene to Cut Out This "Play Safe" Game

By HERBERT WESTEN
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Gene Tuhney turned Mr. Hyde this afternoon and shocked the natives.

He left no doubt in anyone's mind as to what he is trying to do for Mr. Dempsey. He would like, and he admits it himself, to knock the Dempsey into pugilistic oblivion so that Jack would never have to worry about prize fighting again.

Tunney started a terrific right hook at the groggy Paul Cavaliere in the last round of their workout today. It missed by a fraction of an inch, and carried the champ from the center of the ring to the ropes. He hung there gracefully, with his head in a lady's lap while Paul began to look for the way out. He was somewhat surprised and shaken.

Plans Body Attack

Gene's left jab had been bothering Cavaliere considerably through the first two rounds and he had forgotten all about the right. Irritated by that stinging left jab of which Tunney is a master, Cavaliere started roughing Tunney in the clinches and the fire eating Gene cut loose. It was by far the champion's most impressive workout.

He dispensed more or less with the cautious, studied style he has been using up to now and started to bear down heavy on his sparring partners.

Tunney does not aim this year to dance off from Dempsey and "play safe" as his friends exhorted him from the ringside in Philadelphia. Those closest to him up here believe that Tunney is working to break down the older man with cruel body punches, weaken him and then try for a knockout, if for no other reason than to still the cry of the mob that the Manassa mauler is the better primitive fighter.

Odds on Tunney

Gene Tunney will not leave his summer home here for his Illinois training camp for at least 12 days yet, it was announced tonight.

Present plans call for Gene to pack his duds September 3. There is a possibility, however, that he will not leave here until Labor day —two days later.

Odds of two to one and five to three that Tunney will beat Dempsey were being quoted today. The odds are three to two that he will knock the Manassa mauler out.

Gene revealed here today that only once during his fight with Dempsey in Philadelphia last year did he believe he had a chance to win by a knockout.

"It was in one of the early rounds," he said, "the sixth I think. Dempsey stepped away from a left and he was wide open. For an instant it flashed through my mind that here was the chance. But I was cautious, hesitated just too long and the next thing I knew I got a blow on the Adam's apple that nearly tore my head off."

WILL IMPROVE TURKEY ROADS

Building Program Outlined By Business Men

Special to The Record News.

TURKEY, Aug. 23.—The business men of Turkey realizing that more and better roads to Turkey, the larger and better the town can be built, hence a program inaugurated months ago to open up more roads into our town.

A first class road, 80 feet wide, is now nearing completion, due south of Turkeys which will connect up with a new road in Motley county. This will increase the trade territory for Turkey some 25 per cent. People that have heretofore traded elsewhere will now make Turkey their trading and shipping point. It will also shorten the distance to Matador and other points south some ten or twelve miles.

Last week John Sharp, president of the First National bank, Roy Russell, druggist, C. C. Broyles, manager of the Woolridge Lumber company, Boy Lyles, commissioner, C. L. Franz, farmer and stockman, and Willis Walker, made a preliminary survey of route for a road north into the Antelope Flat community. Every effort is to be put forth to have a first class road into this virgin territory. Under normal conditions Turkey would receive at least 5000 bales of cotton from this community, and at present there is no road whatever from here there. They market their products at Clarendon, 28 miles, Memphis, which is 35 miles, or to Silverton, which is 28 miles. A road from Turkey would not be over 14 or 15 miles.

Hockley Courthouse Contract Awarded

LEVELLAND, Aug. 23.—Contract for construction of Hockley county's $128,569 courthouse has been let to a Kansas firm. Separate contract for plumbing and fixtures was awarded to a Lubbock concern. The exterior will be of stone to the windows of the second story, and from that point upward will be of brick. Actual construction will begin as soon as materials can be assembled. It is thought that the building can be completed in 175 working days, and will probably be finished by April 1, 1928.

EXPLOSION BLOWS OUT "BRIDGE" AND TOOLS IN FOARD TEST

MEN NARROWLY ESCAPE INJURY

Thalia Wildcat Is Cleaned Out by Pressure

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Aug. 23.—Drillers on the Roxana Fain-McGaha Matthews No. 1 narrowly escaped serious injury when a gas explosion below two sets of tools occurred this morning as an effort was being made to lift tools that have been hung in the well for about 10 days.

Tools, twisted cable and rock were blown out of the well as a result and the roof above the derrick floor almost demolished. The explosion was heard for several miles.

As soon as the hole is cleaned out drilling will continue at 1875 feet, although it may be several days before this is accomplished as there is much mud in the hole. Seventy-six feet of eight-inch casing must also be lowered before drilling starts.

Oil men of the southwest are anxiously awaiting drilling operations, as the Fluhman sand is likely to be picked up at 1950 feet, a sand which geologists believe to be at least 150 feet deep. The test is located in block 3, G. C. & S. F. survey, Foard county, one mile north of Thalia.

West Texas and Panhandle Crude Prices Cut; North Texas Unchanged

While oil prices in two Texas areas were reduced Tuesday, North Texas came out unscathed.

Prices of crude oil in the Panhandle and West Texas fields were cut Tuesday by two companies. The Humble Oil and Refining company announced here a 60-cent basis for Crane, Upton, Crockett and Pecos crude. The company also posted a flat price of 75 cents per barrel for Carson, Hutchinson and Wheeler county crudes, oil in these counties having previously been bought at 95 cents on a gravity basis. Gray county prices are unchanged.

The Magnolia Petroleum company announced that it had cut the price of Panhandle crude to 75 cents per barrel. To meet the price of other companies in West Texas, the price was set at 60 cents per barrel. This, according to W. C. Proctor, treasurer, is not a cut on West Texas crude, other companies having their own production.

The new prices went into effect at 7 a. m. Tuesday.

Two Tests Cored To Find Potash

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 23.—Belief in some quarters that the present development for oil is not furnishing a satisfactory exploration for potash and that core drilling will be resorted to in an effort to test out the potash possibilities of this country is the cause of some potash development.

A test is being cored near Metz, in Ector county. Another test now is going down on the Joe N. Ross ranch in Sutton county, near Sonora.

The cable tools drilling equipment does not furnish a good test for potash deposits, it is said. Later tests will show the thickness of the beds, the percentage of potash that can be recovered and the mining costs. It is likely that it will be several months at least before any development of potash will be attempted. Just now the play is after the oil.

North Texas and California Show Gain

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 23. (AP)—Chiefly through curtailment efforts of operators in the greater Seminole field of Oklahoma daily average production of crude oil in the United States showed a decrease of 38,380 barrels for the week ending August 20, the Oil and Gas Journal says today. Daily average production for the nation was given as 2,519,974 barrels.

With its average daily output only 1895 barrels greater than the agreed maximum of 450,000 barrels the Seminole field slumped on an average of 40,775 barrels each day from the preceding week.

Texas, especially in the western portion where curtailment efforts also are attracting attention, likewise reported a heavy slump in production. The northern area of the Lone Star state, however, reported an increase as did the state of California.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (AP)—Opening declines were followed by advances in the cotton market today, December contracts selling up to 21.50, or 43 points net higher, all positions making new high records for the season. December closed at 21.45, the general market closing firm at net advances of 33 to 40 points.

The opening declines of 8 to 19 points were attribute to liquidation and local selling in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and expectations of large ginning figures. October sold off to 20.58 and January to 20.84, net declines of about 21 to 29 points on active months in early trading.

These offerings were absorbed by covering or trade buying at the decline, however, and the market turned upward on publication of the census report showing 457,031 bales of cotton ginned prior to August 16 compared with 182,255 last year and 579,291 two years ago. The figures evidently were lower than anticipated, as they were followed by active covering and rebuying by recent sellers which sent prices sharply higher. As prices worked above previous high levels they met considerable realizing, but it was taken on setbacks of some 20 or 30 points and the market turned up again during the afternoon on the unsettled weather outlook.

The feeling appeared to be that the tropical storm was not likely to enter the cotton belt, but that its progress up the coast would probably be accompanied by showers in the Atlantic states, while the trade was fearful of cold rains in the southwest and a drop in temperatures in northern parts of the belt.

In addition to covering and rebuying, some broadening of commission house demand was reported, where there was also buying here attributed to houses with foreign trade connections. October sold up to 21.22 and January to 21.50, net advances of about 38 to 43 points on active positions. The close was off only a few points from the best under realizing.

Private cables from Liverpool said there had been Manchester and continental liquidation in the market there and that crop damage reports were considered exaggerated, but Liverpool was a buyer here later.

Exports today 5738, making 217,646 so far this season. Port receipts 23,571. U. S. port stocks 980,976.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23. (AP)—Publication of a bullish ginning total and warnings of a storm along the Atlantic coast led to active covering in the cotton market today and considerable replacing by longs who had liquidated in advance of the report. Prices advanced to new high levels with December trading up to 21.39, 49 points above the previous close. That month closed at 21.34, approximately $2.25 a bale higher. The general close was firm at net advances of 36 to 44 points.

The opening was easy and first trades showed losses of 8 to 12 points due mainly to disappointing cables. The market continued to ease in the early trading until near the end of the first hour. October had dropped to 20.42, 20 points under the previous close.

The market rallied sharply after the ginning total was received, October trading to 20.90 and December 21.20, 48 to 50 points above the lows. Around mid-session there was a recession of about 20 points on profit taking and selling for a reaction but in the early afternoon the publication of the Atlantic coast storm warning sent prices up sharply and before the demand had been supplied prices had made new highs for the season with the October option selling around 21.10, crossing the 21-cent line for the first time this season.

Additional realizing caused a minor recession in the late trading and the market closed firm a few points under the top.

Exports for the day totaled 5538 bales.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (AP)—Cotton seed oil was quite active and firm again today, closing 6 to 14 points higher and at new high levels for the movement. Strength of cotton, along with firmness of crude, steadiness of lard and a better cash demand, promoted renewed covering and commission house buying. Sales were 27,000 barrels. Prime crude 8.87½; prime summer yellow spot 10.10; September closed 10.21; October 10.48; December 10.73; January 10.78; March 11.00.

Standard Issues and Specialties at Front During Buoyant Day On Wall Street Market

—By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The stock market was a buoyant affair again today. Standard issues and a number of specialties were at the front most of the session. The principal reason for the buying of stocks aside fro mthe expected pick-up in business in the fall is the larger purchasing power in prospect.

Because of the coutry's growing bank reserves the purchasing power of the nation, economists point out, can be increased during the next 12 months by credit expansion.

While there has already been a good increase in bank loans this year, leading Wall street bankers expect a further increase during the next four or five months. Funds used last year in the building and automobile industries are returning to Wall street and owing to this condition money rates are working lower. This accounts for the belief that we shall soon see a 3 per cent money renewal rate—a bull card on stocks.

Money loaned at 3 per cent. The Canadian dollar was higher. Commodities were steady.

Steel common was in urgent demand and sold at a new high record price. As pointed out in this column yesterday the big bankers are big bulls on steel and expect it to sell at 150 on this move. Some large buying orders will be placed in steel tomorrow. A certain big interest in Chicago, now in Europe, whose name has appeared in public print often in connection with ships and shipping, has been a heavy buyer of the stock along with an associate. The steel corporation is in an excellent position to receive large battle ship steel orders from the government in connection with world power plans. In addition the corporation is in line for railroad and general steel orders.

Watch Baldwin tomorrow, there is a large short interest in the stock at a time when directors are about to hold a special meeting either in connection with disposal of the Philadelphia properties or a recapitulation.

The stock is being bought by the same house which has always been identified with the issue. It is in a strong position and the floating supply has been taken up. A price of 80 on this move is looked for. Leischmann made good the prediction in this column recently. The Morgan interests look for the stock to do better on the company's increased business.

Pullman is being bought by strong interests. This applies to both stocks—manufacturing and operating companies. The companies are in a better position since the division. The crowd that made successful the manufacturing end of the business, formerly identified with Haskell Barker, the company which Pullman acquired, have now made Pullman one of the best manufacturing concerns in the country. The operating company, therefore, is now in a position to increase its equipment, sorely needed by every railroad in the country.

Barnet Leather made a new high at 60 and appears headed for 75. Should the stock go on a $5 dividend basis, as spoken of, it would be cheap at that figure. The whole leather industry is coming back in good style and Barnet is in a position to profit thereby. Well managed companies in this field should show good earnings from now on. In addition to its regular business the company is progressing rapidly in special lines. Its inventory position is regarded as good and the company is in line to profit by rising hide prices.

The best kind of buying is going on in General Railway Signal and American Steel foundries. Both stocks are moving together and judging by the character of the buying should work materially higher.

Pressed Steel Car reached a new high on excellent buying. Strength of Kennecott Copper is due to the belief that the dividend will be increased to $6. Buying is taking place in American Home Products and Sterling Products. The latter controls the former.

Weakness of Pan American was due to rumors in the street that the dividend would be reduced in connection with the company's payment to the government.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23. (AP)—Wet weather and light frost at several points in Canada gave wheat a firm undertone at the start today. Weakness at Winnipeg, however, was quickly reflected in the market here and values declined gradually. Opening ⅛ to ⅜c higher wheat later receded to below yesterday's finish. Commission houses bought September and December corn at the start on unfavorable weather, the market starting ⅛ to ⅜c up and subsequently suffering a slight setback. Oats sympathized with wheat and corn. Provisions were easy.

CHICAGO CASH GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23. (AP)—Wheat developed a weaker tendency following a higher start. The principal factor was a statement issued by a local crop expert who believes that with good weather in Canada for the next two weeks the three prairie provinces can thresh 430,000,000 bushels of wheat. Fairly general selling resulted. Buying power was poor. Corn trade was light and mainly local.

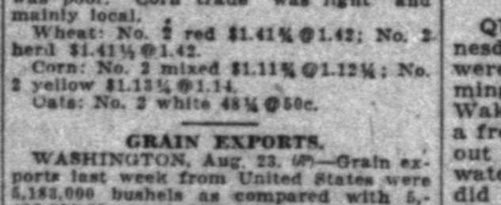

Wheat: No. 2 red $1.41⅝@1.42; No. 2 hard $1.41½@1.42.

Corn: No. 2 mixed $1.11⅝@1.12¼; No. 2 yellow $1.13¼@1.14.

Oats: No. 2 white 48¼@50c.

WHEAT PRICES SHOW DECLINE

Bulls and Bears Are Dissatisfied

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Dissatisfaction on the part of the bulls in wheat because the market has not reflected constructive news was about equalled today by that of the bears on account of the market holding rather stubbornly in spite of extremely bearish estimates of the Canadian crop. Wheat prices weakened a little for the day. Forecast for light frosts in the low places in northern portions of the corn belt stimulated a little buying.

Foreign markets were easier on some improvement in the weather conditions abroad. Closing prices were: Wheat ⅛c lower, corn ⅛ to ⅜c higher, oats ⅛ to ⅜c up, rye ⅜ to ⅝c up.

A forecast for light frosts in the northern portions of the corn belt steadied the corn market, but there was little aggressive buying. Shorts were disposed to even up however, and there was some encouragement to holders in the more active cash trade. The basis in the spot market was firm. Showery weather conditions prevailed over a good share of the belt.

While there was no special change in the news affecting oats, the market showed a slightly firmer tone.

ELECTRA, Aug. 23—Farmers in the Electra community are completing cutting their second crop of Sudan hay, which is producing a fine yield, with from one and one-half to two tons of hay per acre. This is an exceptionally good report on the Sudan crop. However, the recent rains have greatly helped the pasture and range, with the late summer grass in good shape.

QUITAQUE, Aug. 23.—On Wednesday night, August 17, 25 scouts were gathered at the Gilbert swimming hole to stay all night. The boys passed 42 tests and increased their points well.

Heavy Chewing Gum Harvest in Theater

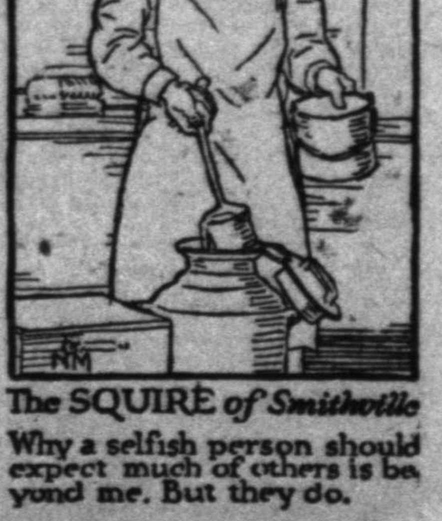

BROWNWOOD, Aug. 23.—Four barrels of chewing gum was the harvest reaped here when a local theater overhauled its seats. The amount represented acccumulations of gum chewers who have been caching their "wax" under the seats for 10 or 12 years. The management is wondering what disposition to make of the deposits.

CAPT. THOMAS LEAVES POST

Salvation Army Leader Told of Transfer

Notification of plans for alteration in the personnel of the local Salvation Army corps, 804 Seventh street, was received from Col. Edwin White of Dallas, state commander of the Salvation Army, by Capt. George W. Thomas, who has been in charge of the work here for the last six months.

The "farewell" orders were received here early Tuesday, but the nature of the change, where Capt. Thomas is to resume his work, and who is to replace him were not specified. More complete information is expected before the end of the week, Capt. Thomas said.

The change is to be made Sept. 1. Capt. Thomas, his wife, and three children, Mary Emma, Wilma, and Beverly Jean, came to Wichita Falls six months ago from Temple, where Capt. Thomas was in charge of the Temple corps for about two years.

Used Car Heads Hold First Meet

The first regular meeting of the Used Car Managers' association, auxiliary to the Wichita Falls Automobile Dealers' association, was held at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the McFall Brothers Motor company, 817 Ohio avenue, with F. C. Webster, president, presiding.

The purpose of the organization, as set forth by M. P. Birch, is to educate the used car dealers of the city to the proper value of used cars and to aid the 14 used car dealers in establishing uniform prices.

Mr. Birch pointed out that the public would benefit by uniform prices and that the organization of dealers would help them in making a study of used car values.

The association will meet the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. The next meeting will be held Sept. 13 at the Birch Motor company, 523 Indiana avenue.

Two committees were appointed Tuesday night, H. P. Kirkpatrick and Lay McClure were appointed on the entertainment committee and C. M. Kenley and J. Wilkerson were appointed to serve on the membership committee.

Hearing Saturday On Charge Against 'Agent'

An order was issued Tuesday by Judge William H. Atwell for a habeas corpus hearing at 11 o'clock Saturday morning in the federal district court at Dallas of the case of G. E. Rousey, arrested here by Sheriff W. G. Bralley several weeks ago charged with possession of 26 gallons of whiskey in violation of the prohibition law.

Rousey claims he was representing the federal government as a prohibition enforcement officer when arrested here and that for that reason possessing the whiskey was not a violation of the prohibition law.

District Attorney Ben P. Allred, who represents the state in the case, was in Dallas Tuesday investigating Rousey's allegation that he was employed by the federal government as a prohibition officer at the time of his arrest.

CHEST FUND AT LOW MARK

Subscribers Urged to Meet Payments

Unless the Wichita Falls Community chest collects money on pledges soon the funds of the organization will be exhausted, Miss Myrle Neely, director, said Tuesday.

The Community chest faces the prospect of having to run four more months until the end of the fiscal year on funds allowed by the budget for the expenses of one-third of a month. If those delinquent in paying their pledges pay during the next few days there will be adequate funds for the remainder of the year, it was stated.

The Community chest Monday mailed statements totalling $6000 to 496 people who have failed to meet the quarterly payments on their pledges since April 1.

Schwartz to Head Hub Boys' Department

Sam F. Schwartz, for several years connected with the boys' department of Sanger Brothers in Fort Worth, has arrived to take charge of the boys' department of the Hub Clothiers, according to an announcement by Sol Lasky, president of the firm.

Mr. Schwartz plans an unusual program of boys work in connection with his activities with the Hub. A library with appropriate literature for boys, athletic activities and a score of prize contests, are all listed in his program of getting acquainted with the young fellows.

"We want every boy in town to meet Mr. Schwartz," Mr. Lasky said. "It is his desire to meet them that he may get their own ideas as to how they want their department to be operated and their outside work arranged."

Negroes Face Charge Of Clothing Theft

Nelson Garland and Charlie McCormack, negroes, were charged with misdemeanor theft in the county court at law Tuesday morning following their arrest by Officers Pat Allen and Luke Hart late Monday, in connection with the theft of clothing valued at $100 from home of A. A. Jackson, 1707 Grant. The robbery occurred early Monday.

A white boy, under 20 years of age, was arrested by the same officers Tuesday morning in connection with the theft of a watch and chain and a Masonic emblem, valued at $140, from Charles J. Johnson, proprietor of the American Iron works. The lad was released after Mr. Johnson announced he cared to file no charges.

Bruce to Speak At Lions Lunch Today

H. J. Bruce, Wichita Falls attorney, is to be the principal speaker on the program of the Lions club luncheon Wednesday noon at the Kemp hotel, it was announced Tuesday. Mr. Bruce's subject was not announced. Bill Young, choir director of the First Baptist church, will sing a solo accompanied at the piano by Miss Elisabeth Cole and it was tentatively announced that other musical numbers would be on the program.

String made from human hair has been found at a camp in northern Australia, the men having cut with sharpened stones strands of their wives' hair for the purpose.

Advertising Most Important Single Factor In Business, Club Told

An outline of advertising methods, introduced by a preliminary consideration of the nature of advertising, with special attention to recent innovations in street car and other types of "space advertising," was given in an address by MacNair Boyd, at the luncheon of the Advertising club held Tuesday. Mr. Boyd was introduced by Alva Willgus.

"Advertising," Mr. Boyd said, "is the most important single factor in modern business. It is one of the greatest elements of education today, open to every person regardless of age or position. If life is a school then the advertising pages of the magazines are its text books, heralding, as they do, every new invention and improvement of mankind."

By a unanimous vote of the organization, it was decided to give full co-operation to the Retail Credit Men's association in the publicity campaign for Wichita Falls, to be launched by various bodies here on Sept. 1, and which, it is planned, will reach every community 50 miles south and at least 100 miles northwest of Wichita Falls by the expiration of the campaign, probably Dec. 14. The campaign is to feature billboard, direct mail, and newspaper advertising. A committee of three members, whose names are to be announced next meeting, is to be appointed to assist in the move, it was voted.

The projected "Welcome Book for Wichita Falls," was explained members by a representative of the Wichita association.

P. E. Roberts was appointed chairman of program arrangements for the next two weeks by T. A. Bradley, president of the club, who directed the affairs of the organization Tuesday for the first time since returning from his vacation. Among the visitors Tuesday were M. G. Hardy, E. B. Cafferel, and Mr. Prewitt, all of Dallas.

Sacred Elephant On Circus Tour

The "big show" is coming. Saturday, Sept. 24 is the day.

The first of the many advance agents of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus arrived here Tuesday. He was the press representative who arranged for advertising space with The Record News.

He announced that the show this year is one-third larger than when it exhibited here in 1925 and that hundreds of new features have been added to the already long list of acts and not to forget the newest managerie attraction which has been loaned the circus for this season only—this being "Pawah" the secred white elephant of Burma.

"Pawah" occupies center of stage in the huge menagerie which is composed of 1009 animals.

As in previous years, the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus used one hundred railroad cars to transport it in and out of Wichita Falls and in their personnel of 1600 people there are 800 aerial and arenic stars and of this number, 100 are clowns or about two score more than when they last appeared here.

"The Prince of Headwaiters," a powerful comedy-drama of father-love and made by the director of "Flaming Youth," which starred Colleen Moore, is the feature photoplay at the Majestic theater beginning today.

Featuring Lewis Stone, Priscilla Bonner, Lilyan Tashman, Ann Rork, Robert Agnew, E. J. Ratcliffe and others, the picture was adapted from Garrett Fort's Liberty Magazine story, called also "The Prince of Headwaiters."

John Francis Dillon was the director and Sam E. Rork, who produced "Ponjola," "Old Loves and New," "The Blonde Saint," "The Notorious Lady" and other notable films, made the photoplay for First National Pictures.

Mr. Stone has the part of "the prince of headwaiters" and most of the scenes are laid in the Rits hotel in New York.

The story involves the love of a father for his son, the love of a stern father for his daughter and finally the unselfish love of a childhood sweetheart for the youth.

Lilyan Tashman has an outstanding part as the adventuress and gold-digger, and Ann Rork, remembered for her picture debut in "The Blonde Saint" and "The Notorious Lady," has a big part as Beth, the childhood sweetheart.

While no attempt has been made to have the usual fashion show, there are two sequences in "The Prince of Headwaiters" in which fashions of the day in milady's fineries are emphasized.

Hot Weather Dries Out Your Kidneys, Liver and Bowels

Perspiration carries off body moisture and the liver and bowels become dry and constipated. Then — biliousness, headaches, sour stomach; the heat makes you drowsy and lazy, and your skin breaks out with pimples and boils.

Don't take calomel. That's wrong—calomel is mercury—a dangerous drug. It jars the liver and cleans the bowels, that's true. But the damage it does to them, ugh! It crashes into your system like a charge of dynamite and makes it numb. It stifles the muscles of the stomach and bowels, takes YOU a day to recuperate and no telling how log for your bowels.

All you need is Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful at night and you wake up feeling great. It doesn't upset you, but cleans you out good. You don't lose a day from your work and you can eat anything you want.

Get the big bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone from your nearest store. They all have it. Keep it in the house so you will have it handy to take nights before going to bed.—Adv.

VALLEY LAND SALE PLANNED

Realtors to Join in C .of C. Program

Agreeing that proper marketing facilities for products raised in the Wichita irrigated valley will be the most essential requirement in the sale and development of valley lands, the Wichita Falls Real Estate board decided Tuesday to appoint a committee to work in conjunction with the agricultural department of the chamber of commerce in improving and enlarging outlets for the products.

The decision was made at a called meeting for the purpose of hearing a report from a committee appointed early in the summer to make a survey of available lands to be subdivided and sold to settlers of the valley.

Secure New Listings

W. M. Baldridge, president of the real estate board, predicted that the valley's greatest year for sale of land is in prospect. After a round table discussion on various points of the development plans, the board appointed its entire membership as a committee to secure additional listings of land to be subdivided and sold to new settlers.

The realtors will secure every tract available for listing and will turn it over to the secretary of the club, it was agreed. Otto Stehlik was appointed chairman of the general listing committee.

After a short talk by J. H. Allison on methods of development in California, many members of the board spoke favorably of a suggestion made by Mr. Allison that an expert who has been successful in California be brought here to assist new settlers in the valley to raise the products best suited to this area. It was intimated that further action will be taken on this matter.

Plan Outlined

Mr. Stehlik reported on the activities of a committee composed of himself, A. L. Huey, J. H. Baber, Walter Curlee and Roscoe Stayton who have been working on a plan for marketing irrigated lands.

The plan as outlined by Mr. Stehlik calls for selling listed properties for a 10 per cent commission, one-half of which would be reverted to a general advertising fund. For improved land the terms of sale would be 25 per cent cash and on unimproved, 10 per cent cash. Mr. Stehlik stated that the committee had decided it advisable to concentrate sales effort upon prospective buyers in other parts of Texas rather than in other states.

It will be necessary, according to Mr. Stehlik, to have maps of every subdivision showing location of lateral ditches, etc. Prices on lands already listed range from $150 per acre to $300.

New Industries

In the discussion of the marketing situation, it was pointed out that the establishment here of a cheese factory which will accept all available raw milk will amply care for dairy products produced with increased settlement of the valley.

Removal to this vicinity of the Johnson poultry ranch of Bowie will practically assure instant development of a market for poultry products, it was also stated.

A plea by Walter Curlee for the real estate board to join with the chamber of commerce in its efforts to improve marketing conditions brought the assertion from Mr. Stehlik that the chamber has already made much progress in that direction and that its officials are working on several marketing association projects.

Preceding Mr. Stehlik's report, Mr. Curlee talked briefly on the national convention of realtors at Seattle, Wash., which he attended as head of the Texas delegation. Mr. Curlee will talk upon lectures delivered at the convention at subsequent meetings of the local board, the first of which will be held the first Tuesday in September.

Justice Doubts Record Claimed by His Fellow Jurist

A feat that strikes Judge R. V. Gwinn as being almost incredulous, and perhaps even improbable, was described in a letter received by him Tuesday from Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs, who arrived in Abilene, Kan., last Friday to spend his vacation with relatives.

The letter states that Judge Gibbs, riding in a small car, left Wichita Falls early last Thursday morning and arrived in Abilene, 600 miles away, Friday afternoon at 1:15.

"Well, now, he might have done it," Judge Gwinn said, "but if he did it was because he didn't have the money to buy meals, and so had to drive continuously to forget he was starving."

Search for Bank Robbers Fruitless

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (AP)—An all night search for the three young robbers of the University bank here was reported fruitless this morning by national guardsmen and officers who returned from the brushy hill country northwest of Austin.

The guardsmen threshed about the rough hills and cedar brakes for miles around the spot where the robbers' stolen sedan, abandoned with a rear flat tire was found late yesterday but returned empty handed to the capital with the theory that the robbers had escaped in another car.

Mexican 'Buys' Police Protection

DALLAS, Aug. 23. (AP)—The Brooklyn bridge ought to find ready sale in Dallas' "little Mexico."

"I paid the license," a Mexican told police who arrested him Monday night following discovery of several pints of whiskey and bottles of beer in his home.

Tuesday morning police were searching for a man who sold the Mexican a tin badge for $50 claiming it would protect him against arrest while he sold whiskey and beer.

Constable and Former Officer Make Bond

Ted R. Slusher, former deputy constable of Wichita Falls, was released here early Tuesday afternoon on $500 bond, fixed in an indictment returned jointly against Slusher and Constable Lon Vaughn of Harrold by Wilbarger county grand jury Saturday. The indictment charges both officers with false imprisonment of a Harrold man about two and one half months ago. Constable Vaughn has also completed bond of the same amount, and both await trial in the district court at Vernon on Oct. 3.

The indictment was returned in connection with the arrest of a man, later charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace. While he was driving through Harrold about June 15, Slusher said he saw Constable Vaughn confronted by a crowd, members of which, Slusher said, were trying to prevent the arrest of a man by Constable Vaughn. Slusher said he left his car and when asked by the Harrold constable if he could render assistance he complied, and both men took the suspect to jail.

Both men denied the charge in the indictment and each will offer separate defense, Slusher said.

Harmonica Players To Compete At Optimist Luncheon Today

The Optimist club will put a new twist on this harmonica contest mania Wednesday at the luncheon at the Kemp hotel. It was announced Tuesday that a contest would be staged at the luncheon between the youngest and oldest entrants in the city-wide contest to be held Wednesday night at Bellevue park.

The Optimists have a purely musical session in store for them and there will be no oratory outside of the usual spontaneous outbursts. Marion Reisby, the boy whistler, is also scheduled to entertain the club and a piano solo is being arranged, according to the announcement.

'Girl Hoboes' Released After They Lecture Officers in Modern Style

Officers of the Wichita county sheriff's department, in vain efforts to cope with the so-called "revolt of modern youth," have been called to assist in two cases of runaway girls within the last week, officials said Tuesday night.

A 14-year-old Wichita Falls girl was joined in a tour by her comrade, a Vernon girl not over 16, last Sunday, and caused officers of two states to institute search. Parents of the Vernon girl arrived here too late to stop the vagabond tour. Both were located in Seminole, Okla., early Tuesday night, and an effort will be made Wednesday to have the girls returned, James T. Cabe, juvenile officer, said.

Two "girl hoboes" were hailed in from the street Monday by Deputy Sheriff Dick Morris. They informed officials that they were "18 years old, we came from Dallas, we're hoboes of the open road and we're going to Tulsa, Okla., we have molested no one and we don't intend to,—etc."

And both were released.

Dallas Buildings Closely Guarded

DALLAS, Aug. 23. (AP)—Three newspaper buildings, the federal building, city hall and a telegraph office here were closely guarded by police between 11 o'clock Monday night and daylight Tuesday as a precautionary measure against possible outbreaks in connection with the execution of the radicals, Sacco and Vanzetti.

Seven persons who could not explain satisfactorily their presence on streets at a late hour were arrested and held for questioning. No disturbance or demonstration of any kind, however, were reported to police, records today show.

STATE DRAWS DAM PROTEST

Arizona in Favor of Boulder Project

DENVER, Aug. 23. (AP)—Arizona's opposition to construction of a high dam for storage water on the Colorado river in the Boulder canyon dam was waived today at the seven state governors' conference by Thomas Maddock, former State engineer of Arizona, and spokesman for the Arizona delegation.

Maddock proposed construction of a dam in Marble gorge, four and a half miles south of Lee's ferry, which he declared leading engineers of the country had stated was a more feasible site than the Boulder canyon dam project. Using figures compiled by the members of an engineering firm of Los Angeles, Maddock declared a dam 130 feet high impounding 13,300,000 acre feet of water could be constructed for $19,100,000 at this place. In addition he declared the site was more favorable than Boulder canyon because of the reduced loss of impounded water by evaporation. The cost of Boulder dam is estimated at $125,000,000.

Proposals put forth yesterday by Gov. C. C. Young of California for an arbitration tribunal were rejected en toto by the Arizona delegation.
