Shutdown of Oil Production in Kansas Is Move Sought

HIGHER PRICES SOUGHT

Complaint Will Be Filed; Etx Is Quiet

TOPEKA, Aug. 18. (AP).—Filing of a complaint with the Kansas public service commission seeking a shutdown of oil wells in the state as a retaliatory measure against current low prices was predicted late Monday in official circles.

Thurman Hill, member of the public service commission, said a complaint "will be filed within the next 24 hours," and said it would seek a hearing on the extent of the proposed shutdown, "if any."

Increases Forecast

Commissioner Hill said the expected complaint would be set for hearing even though increased prices for Kansas crude are announced meanwhile. He predicted increases would be announced by additional purchasers by Tuesday noon.

"We don't want producers to believe," he said, "that because of the Texas and Oklahoma shut down they can come into Kansas and open up new production."

Without attempting to fix a price which should be paid for Kansas crude, the commission, Hill said today, had expressed belief that producers in the state should be paid on a basis of prices in the Texas field, plus cost of transportation and minus the difference in expense of gathering. This, he said, would be between 60 and 70 cents a barrel, on a basis of current prices.

Conference Planned

Commissioner Hill announced the Texas railroad commission had, through its chairman, C. V. Terrell, joined with the Oklahoma corporation commission in promising to be represented at a conference suggested for the purpose of working out uniform curtailment measures.

The conference, Hill said, would be at Oklahoma City Sept. 11.

Quiet Submission To Martial Law

KILGORE, Aug. 18. (UP).—Brigadier General Jacob F. Wolters and his cavalrymen ruled without challenge today in the East Texas area, which is equal to the state of Delaware.

Most of the 1631 wells were shut in. Mounted patrols searched the fields for glowing gas torches marking producers.

Cavalrymen prepared to camp for a long stay. Plumbing, lights and telephones were installed.

Dollars Rather Than Cents Taken

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18. (UP).—Bandits bound and gagged three employees of the Kingsway hotel this morning, escaping with $3,500 in cash and guests' valuables and jewelry from the safe.

The safe had been opened to pay a newsboy a few minutes before.

Lost in Lion Country--Found

Lost two nights and a day in the rugged mountain lion country of Jarre Canon, near Colorado Springs, Colo., three-year-old Benjamin Saul was found by a posse of rangers, ranchers and sheriff's men just as hope had been given up. The little chap is shown here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin P. Saul of Denver. The boy said he had seen "kitties" and "doggies," thought to have been wild cats, coyotes and mountain lions.

NANCE PONIES FASTEST HE HAS; IF THEY CAN'T WIN, "NO ALIBI"

Early bidders for Labor day race meet purses in the two year old and three year old classes are seen in a string of seven ponies belonging to Tom Nance, now in training at Cow-boy park.

Nance brought in seven two year olds and two three year olds this week. Tom Thornton and Gerald Bloss are working the ponies, all of which have just been broken to the saddle.

In a trial heat this morning, Monte, a two year old gelding, with Thornton up, outclassed Rio Rita, bay filly ridden by Bloss. Monte and Miss Fresno, another filly, are expected to prove to be Nance's fastest two year olds.

Four of the colts are sired by Carthage, the government thoroughbred stallion in service at Nance's ranch. The three other ponies are by Fresno, former Matador ranch Thoroughbred who died at the age of 24 on Nance's place.

Nance plans to train the ponies for another week and then hold an elimination race of his two year olds, sending the slower mounts back to the ranch.

"These are the fastest colts I had," Nance said, "and if they can't run I have no alibi." There is a joke among horse men that when it is discovered a colt is not fast, the owner usually says he was just one that was caught when he came up to water.

Nance's string consists of the following: Murdo, three year old black gelding, sired by Fresno; Betty Cord, three year old black filly, sired by Fresno; Monte, two year old sorrel gelding, sired by Carthage; Flaxie, two year old sorrel filly, sired by Carthage; Clara Bow, two year old sorrel filly, sired by Carthage; Rio Rita, two year old bay filly, sired by Carthage; Miss Fresno, two year old brown filly, sired by Fresno.

MIDLAND CATTLEMEN DONATE CAR OF CALVES TO ORPHANS "JUST TO SHOW APPRECIATION FOR VISIT"

Children of the Methodist Orphan's home at Waco are going to receive a thrill this week when they receive from Midland a full car load of fine Hereford calves, a magnificent gift valued at more than $1,000.

The gift was the outgrowth of the recent visit to Midland of the club and orchestra of the home, O. B. Holt, sitting in the audience when the children gave a program at the Methodist church, became deeply touched and set about to make their trip here worthwhile.

He worked out a plan for raising a car load of calves. The plan was endorsed by the board of stewards of the Methodist church here and Holt and B. G. Grafe were named a committee to attempt the project.

When cattlemen of the church were approached they cheerfully donated calves. Cattlemen outside the church heard of the movement and asked to be let in. Individuals, companies, corporations were interested and asked for a part. In a short time the car of calves, 51 head, had been subscribed. Truck men donated the services of their vehicles and today the calves were in the stock pens, ready to make the trip to Waco. Concessions on transportation were being worked out by railway companies.

All heifer calves in the car lot are to be kept by the home, in pasture and feed lots on the property. Steer calves are to be butchered and canned by students of the home, for use on their own tables.

The list of those who donated calves follows:

Hayden Miles, T. C. Heard, Tom Nance, Midland Farms company, B. N. Aycock (2), A. B. Cooksey, George Glass, Mrs. O. B. Holt, E. B. Dickenson, Bill Kelson, F. A. Bird, Midland Feed store, John Clay Commission company, Higginbotham-Bartlett company, George Tom, First National bank, W. M. Pyle, W. A. Hutchinson, Donald Hutt, A. C. Francis, Billy Bryant, Boger Bryant, Chas. Crowley, Frank Ingham, John M. Gist, Roy Parks, Foy Proctor, Midland National bank, J. C. Miles, Fred Wemple, J. M. Speed, Mrs. Ida Wolcott, Sam Preston, Herbert Graves Commission company, O. B. Holt Jr., J. M. Caldwell, Elliott F. Cowden, Leon Goodman, John Francis, Ed Cole, Elwood and McClellan, Stanolind Oil company, Landreth Production company, The Methodist Board of Stewards, Elwood and Arnett, J. Ellis Cowden, C. M. Goldsmith, John Edwards, Phil Scharbauer, John Scharbauer, Clarence Scharbauer, J. T. Ragsdale.

Trucks to gather the calves were donated, also the services of the men going after them, as follows: Holt Jewell of Nobles and Tolbert, and Edwin C. Calhoun in a truck furnished by Cowden-Epley Motor company; Felix Stonehocker and Barney Stephens in Stephens' truck; Stanley Allen and Jack Mayfield in Mayfield's truck; A. G. Greenhill and Moore of the Midland bowling alley in O. B. Holt's truck; Perry Collins and Marshall Crawford in Collins' truck, and Perry Craddock in his truck.

Gasoline was furnished by the Continental Oil company, W. A. Yeager and the Men's Bible class.

HAVANA, Aug. 18. (UP).—Bodies of 180 soldiers were brought to Camp Columbia from Santa Clara battlefields as revolutionary fighting was renewed in Cuba.

There was great excitement at the capital. Two planes were en route to the interior with ammunition.

Federal troops at Holguin were reported to be joining the rebels but these reports could not be confirmed.

How Will Fag Tax Affect Customers?

Result of the new cigarette tax law, effective in Texas Friday at midnight, is a matter of speculation for dealers, jobbers and salesmen—who await the reaction of consumers before expressing an opinion as to how the new statute will affect sales.

The question hinges on whether the smoker complacently accepts the tax, pays an additional three-cents for the standard 20-fag package, "rolls his own" or "bootlegs" his smoking supply from a tax-free state, those of the selling fraternity say.

The stamps have been received here by the banks and are available for retail and wholesale use. Dealers are responsible for stamping the supply which they have on hand when the law becomes effective, but thereafter they receive their deliveries stamped from the wholesale house.

That the standard package now retailing at 15 cents will be offered for 18 cents or two for 35 cents under the tax law, was the consensus of opinion here last night. Possibility that some dealers will place the price at 20 cents was advanced, but that was not deemed likely.

The stamps are described as slightly larger than a postage stamp, bearing a lone star, the state emblem. The three-cent stamp for a package of 20 cigarette is green, the 1 1-2 cent for a package of 10 is blue and the 7 1-2 cent for a 50 package is orange. There are stamps of other denominations for packages of five, eight, and 12 cigarettes, but they will be seen rarely in West Texas, dealers said.

LONG IN FAVOR OF NO LINT

Advocates "Not a Bit Of Cotton" for Next Year

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 18. (AP).—Governor Huey P. Long said approval of his plan to induce the legislature of the cotton states to pass statutes regulating production of cotton had been "overwhelming."

The executive said the conference to discuss the enactment of cotton regulatory laws in the various states would be held as planned in New Orleans Friday at 10 a. m. He said he could not say at this time who would be there.

Approval Wired

Among the messages approving the governor's plan either in whole or in part, or which expressed commendation of his desire to help the industry, were wires from Senators Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, Senator Edwin Broussard of Louisiana, the Shreveport clearing house association, and numerous brokerage firms.

Governor Long entered the south's battle against over-production of cotton by proposing that the cotton growing states pass laws against the raising of a single bale in 1932. He gave assurance that Louisiana would enact the necessary laws if the other states would.

Would "Save South"

Telegrams were sent to all governors, United States senators, congressmen and lieutenant governors of the cotton growing states.

General endorsement by the south of the legislation, the governor predicted, would have immediate effect, restoring prosperity to the south "in less than two weeks."

Legality Doubted By Sterling

AUSTIN, Aug. 17.—Doubt that Texas constitution would permit the state to prohibit the planting of cotton next year was expressed by Governor Ross S. Sterling.

Governor Sterling had received a wire from Governor Huey Long of Louisiana suggesting that the growing of cotton in the south next year be prohibited by statute.

The governor said Texas would be represented at Governor Long's conference at New Orleans Friday. He expressed the hope that Edgar E. Witt, lieutenant governor, could go and said J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, would make the trip.

Three Die When Train-Auto Hit

BARTLESVILLE, Aug. 18. (UP).—Mrs. H. L. Brooks and daughters, Louise, 18, and Maxine, 6, are dead as a result of a son's effort to beat a train to the crossing near here late last night.

The car struck a Santa Fe freight near Ockechata. The girls died in the hospital here. The mother died instantly.

Rare Disease Hits Hoppers

ROCKFORD, Colo., Aug. 18. (UP).—Some rare disease, which if it could be isolated and the germs shipped into other sections might end the grasshopper plague which has swept Colorado, Nebraska, and Minnesota, has broken out here.

Grasshoppers, which had infested the fields in flocks, are dying off by the thousands. The disease seems to affect the insects after they have climbed to the top of wheat stalks. As many as ten carcasses on a single stalk have been found, the dead claws clinging to the wheat they had sought to eat.

TEX'S PLACE BOMBED

NEW YORK, Aug. 18. (UP).—Woodmansten Inn, Texas Gulnan's night club, was bombed and the place wrecked early this morning. No one was hurt.

It is believed that racketeers were trying to muscle in the Bronx business.

Three pairs of slippers a day is the rate Harriet Hector, famous dancer shown here, uses them. That's about 600 pairs a year. She has used up 10,000 pairs, costing $5.50 a pair—$55,000 worth—in her dancing career, she said recently.

COMMUNISM IS BLAMED FOR A FRESH FLARE

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 18. (UP).—Authorities in coal mine centers opened warfare on alleged communism today after Boris Israel, newsman reporting labor troubles, was shot by three men and ordered to leave.

Israel was seized at the courthouse, spirited to the county line and ordered out. He was shot as he fled.

In opening the cleanup, officers arrested two men who were charged with criminal syndicalism. They were arrested while distributing allegedly seditious literature.

Six men were arrested and 3,000 rounds of ammunition and high-powered armory confiscated by officers in raids.

Winter plans for the Midland Community Welfare association will be discussed Wednesday morning when officers and interested residents of the city meet at 10 o'clock in the commissioners court room.

The association, recognized to have done exemplary work among the poor of Midland ever since its inception, is not waiting until the "last minute" before facing charity problems, but will ascertain with every agency possible its work.

Not only are committees asked to attend, but everyone interested.

New Trimotor Here Saves Gas

One of the planes that should wage new sales records in the trimotor field, a Stinson trimotor, was at Sloan field overnight, and established a three-motored ship record for fuel consumption, using only 90 gallons from Tulsa here.

Trimotors usually consume approximately 200 gallons of gasoline, under ordinary flying conditions, over the route.

Pilot Frank Glennan was ferrying the new plane from the Chicago distribution agency to the west coast. He took off today.

The Century Pacific lines will use the plane, it was understood. Stinson trimotors are scheduled to be turned out in mass production like automobiles, the pilot said.

TRIED IN MIDLAND IN 1928

Convicted of Killing Wrong Man Near Grandfalls

AUSTIN, Aug. 18. (UP).—Former Deputy Sheriff R. S. McDonald of Midland county, convicted of murder in 1928 and sentenced to five years, was given a full pardon by Governor Ross Sterling.

The pardon was recommended by the pardons board, which held that possesmen might have fired the fatal shot at a car McDonald thought contained a bootlegger. He was convicted of killing a boy who was riding in the car.

Case Was Tried In Midland

The trial of McDonald grew out of the killing of a Stanton youth named Jones, after two youths would not stop their car when ordered to do so by a posse. It was never clearly brought out whether McDonald fired the shot that killed the youth who was later pronounced innocent, or whether some other man's bullet found its mark.

A Dutchman who lived at Monahans was robbed and badly beaten by two Mexicans. He crawled to a road and hailed a passing motorist, who summoned aid.

A posse was hastily formed. About 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning, near Grandfalls, a coupe in which two men rode was sighted. The order to halt was given but the driver and his companion, presumably fearing a holdup attempt, kept driving. A shot killed the Stanton boy.

McDonald was tried in Midland when the case was transferred from Ward county.

Another man, Williams, was connected with the case. It was brought out in court by witnesses that Williams had been named as the man who hired Mexicans to beat the Dutchman. When the posse rode out of town Williams, then in custody, asked to be allowed to ride with it. He said there was no way he could protect himself when all officers were gone. So he was given a gun and allowed to ride with the group.

Following the McDonald trial, it was thought Williams would be tried here also, but the case never was brought into court.

NEED MORE HOLIDAYS

The action of the state of California in blowing itself to a six-day general holiday, beginning on Sept. 4, raises a question that ought to get a lot of consideration in this country.

That question, of course, is, "Do we have enough holidays?" California's answer seems to be an emphatic "No!" and California's idea is one that the other states might well mull over for a while.

To be sure, California's extended holiday comes more or less by accident. On Sept. 4 a big Fiesta opens in Los Angeles, with the governor in attendance. On the next day the state fair opens in Sacramento. The following day, of course, is Sunday, and the next day is Labor Day—a legal holiday anyway. Two days later comes Admission Day, which is a state holiday.

Thus the action isn't quite as radical as it looks. Besides, it probably won't affect most business houses. But it does point a way which most Americans, probably, would be glad to follow.

In the first place, most people work too hard and too steadily. Despite all the current talk about the American's inability to use his leisure time properly, the simple fact is that the ordinary citizen doesn't have a great deal of leisure to use. We could all do with a lot more. We have never really learned the virtues of laziness.

In the second place, it has been demonstrated rather painfully in recent years that we have been too productive for our own good. Most of our troubles today spring from the fact that we make things faster than we can sell them. We don't have enough holidays.

Already it is quite respectable to speak of the five-day working week as a desirable goal. This California proposition slides right down the same alley. Less work, more holidays—well, why not? You could easily find some very reputable economists to furnish excellent dollars-and-cents arguments in support of the plan.

USE OF THIRD DEGREE

It is rather amusing to read the chorus of indignant denials that the Wickersham Commission's report on police third degree methods has drawn from police officials throughout the land.

With one accord, these gentlemen are arising to say solemnly that they never, never practiced anything of the kind. Prisoners, one gathers, are treated in American police stations with rare courtesy and tender solicitude unrivaled anywhere on the globe.

Meanwhile, in the great majority of large American cities, the third degree goes on just about as it always did. There are, of course, some cities in which more enlightened methods have been introduced. But no one who is at all familiar with the administration of justice will feel that there was very much exaggeration in the Wickersham charges.

WHO LIKES HIS JOB

Several instances have come to notice recently which seem to discredit the old theory that in order to be a success one should follow a congenial line of work.

It is said that the late Joseph Conrad, the most famous of recent authors of sea stories, hated the sea and detested writing.

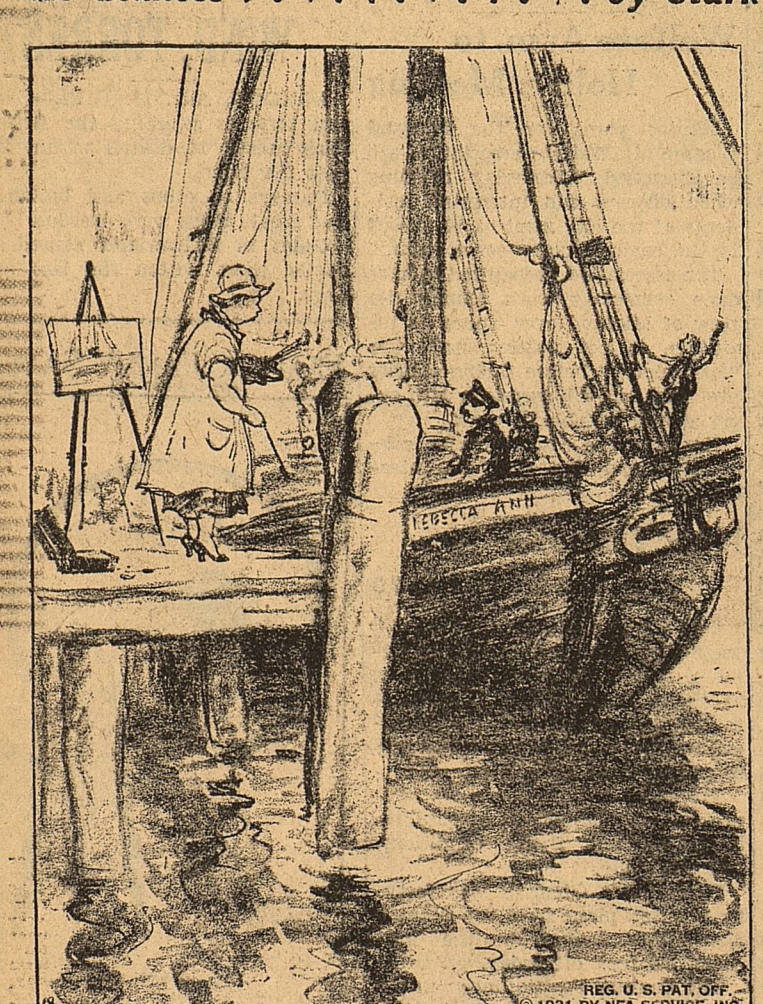

O. O. McIntyre tells of a leading and successful New York theatrical producer who has a deep antipathy to actors and actresses and despises the theatre; also of a man who has made a fortune as a florist, but who does not care for flowers and is nauseated by their perfume.

Now comes Irving S. Cobb, one of America's most famous writers and humorists, with the statement that he utterly detests writing, but keeps at it because he doesn't want to be a loafer.

The average newspaper man will tell you that he loathes the eternal grind, but somehow you could not drive him out of it. Many musicians suffer mental torture when before an audience—and so it goes.

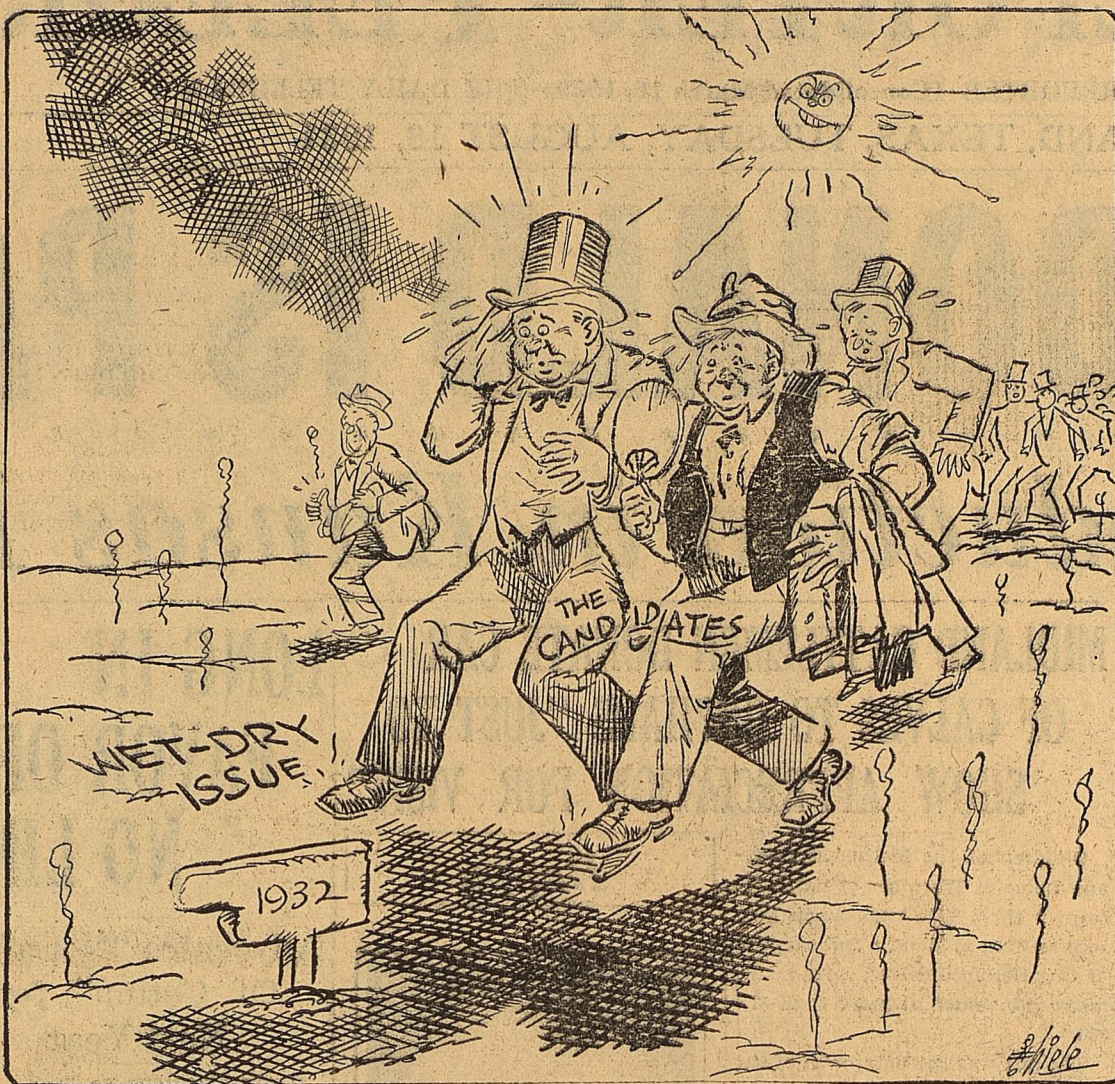

These may be exceptions to the rule, but the lesson to be drawn from the instances noted is that determination to do good work will develop ability and bring success, whether one likes his job or not.

German Ace and Ohio Judge He Shot Down, Long Buddies

Principals in the strange friendship that grew out of an aerial battle in the World War are Ernst Udet, top, former German ace, who shot down 62 allied flyers, and Judge Walter B. Wanamaker, of Akron, O., his only American victim. Lower right is Judge Wanamaker as he appears today and at the left is a war-time picture of the unconscious Lieutenant Wanamaker that Udet snapped a few minutes after he had shot him down.

By ISRAEL KLEIN
NEA Service Writer

CLEVELAND.—Ernst Udet, one of Germany's greatest air aces during the war, is coming to this country to meet on more friendly terms the only American of the 62 allied flyers he shot down over the western front.

The American is Common Pleas Judge Walter B. Wanamaker, of Akron, O., who since 1927 has been exchanging letters and pictures with the German flyer, who has not yet set eyes on him. And between them one of the strangest of friendships has arisen.

The occasion for their meeting will be the National Air Races here during the week of Aug. 29, where Udet will represent the present pilots of Germany.

The fight that first brought these two flyers together was one of the longest and most thrilling air battles of the war. The incident that made these men friends, at least by correspondence, after the war, is just as strange and as interesting.

Udet, then only 23, had been in the air for Germany since the beginning of the war in 1914. On July 2, 1918, he was flying high over Chateau Thierry, returning to the German lines after an unsuccessful pursuit of a French air raider, when he spied a squadron of French Nieuports in a veritable dog-fight with a group of German Fokkers.

In his red Fokker, Udet picked out a Nieuport that was hard on the tail of a yellow Fokker which in turn was chasing another allied plane. In that rear Nieuport was Wanamaker.

Udet Surprised
Just as Wanamaker was preparing to empty his machine gun on the Fokker, Udet swooped at him from above. In a letter he later wrote to Wanamaker, Udet describes this encounter.

"As you did not notice me," he says, "I was able to get very close to you, and as I began to shoot my left machine gun, which had the incendiary brand of ammunition, failed to function.

"At that time I was very much chagrined about this, but today I am so glad that this incident probably prevented me from having caused your death."

No detail of the memorable fight has escaped Judge Wanamaker. "I remember I was 'standing alert' duty, from 4:30 to 7:30 that morning," he recalls, "when at 7:30 a call came in that a squadron of enemy aircraft was seen over the lines at Chateau Thierry. Nine of us immediately took off in search of the Germans.

Allied Planes Outnumbered
"We went up to 16,000 feet and circled about on the lookout for the invaders, but the haze was pretty thick. We were about to give up and turn back when we suddenly came upon them.

"There were 11 planes in the German squadron, against our nine. But we went after them. It was the most thrilling dog-fight I've ever been in, and the second longest air fight of the war. It lasted 22 minutes.

"I don't know how Udet came at me. I suddenly discovered that a red Fokker was pouring lead into my plane, and I tried to evade him by going into a tail spin.

"Down I went to 4,500 feet, figuring that if I could play 'possum' during the spin, he'd leave me. But I could not fool him. A bullet struck the gas tank and another hit the propeller. Gas rushed out into my face, in my mouth and lungs.

"I went into another spin, down to 3,600 feet, and kept it up until I reached 1,200 feet. Then I tried to go for the French lines but Udet was still hovering over me, still firing lead at me.

Plane Broke in Half
"I couldn't make the French lines that way, so I turned and swooped down to the nearest open spot I could see. It was back of the German lines. I don't know how I got out of that alive, for the plane broke in two at the cockpit."

Wanamaker came out of that crash with a fractured leg and other injuries.

Nine years later, in August, 1927, Milton Brommer, London correspondent for NEA Service, Inc., wrote a series of stories on the war heroes of Germany. One of these was Udet and the feature of the story was his victory over the only American he had shot down during the war. He did not know the name of his victim.

In Akron, Wanamaker read the story. He wrote Udet, and he got the reply that verified his belief that he was the man Udet had brought down. The letter began a long chain of correspondence, of exchange of pictures and greetings. Eventually help on the part of Udet enabled Wanamaker to prove war disability under the officers' retirement act.

Udet sent Wanamaker a picture he took of him in a stretcher just after German soldiers had dragged him out of the wreckage of his plane. He also sent Wanamaker sworn statements of officers who witnessed the crash and of physicians who took care of the American later.

It is on the invitation of former Navy Lieutenant A. Williams that Udet is coming over. With Udet, at

Unemployment Insurance Plan Being Fostered by Senator Couzens and Other Students of Problem Has Excellent Chance of Being Adopted by Congress in Coming Winter

WASHINGTON.—Senator James Couzens, the multi-millionaire who used to be general manager of the Ford automobile company, is going to introduce legislation for unemployment insurance in the next Congress.

Couzens is chairman of the Senate committee on Interstate commerce. For years he has held that unemployment insurance systems were desirable.

But neither state nor employers have introduced unemployment insurance to any great extent and Couzens believes that it is now up to the federal government. He has been in correspondence with many experts and students who have applied themselves to the unemployment problem.

A while ago one Mr. Eugene W. Lewis, who, as president of the Morris Plan banks of Michigan, had observed many persons in unfortunate straits come to the senator. Mr. Lewis, like the original Mr. Morris—whatever he may have been—had a plan. The Lewis plan was an unemployment insurance plan and it sounded at least good enough to Couzens to accept in principle as he called in other Michigan business men and queried them in an effort to arrive at some generally acceptable program.

Lewis began with the theory that this country's banking system was largely built for industry and that it was possible to build a publicly owned system designed to stabilize consumption.

The Lewis plan would be voluntary but attractive. It proposes to raise a fund in each state which would equal 1.75 per cent of the state's total industrial payroll. Thirty per cent of this fund would come from the state's general taxes. Thirty per cent would be tossed in by the federal government after being picked up from income taxes in the higher brackets. Twenty-five per cent would be contributed by the employers and 15 per cent by the employees.

The employers would be kicking in with an amount equal to two-fifths of one per cent of their payrolls and the employees one-fourth of one per cent. Lewis estimated that in 10 years the fund would amount to 70 per cent of the difference between the total of 1929 and 1930 payrolls. He suggested a sliding scale of collections and contributions for the fund which would pick up most of the money during peak years of employment.

The plan involves a presidentially appointed commission which would operate a central or general "stabilizing bank" in Washington. Each state would also have such a commission with its own state bank. The funds would go into the banks as collected and there would be no disbursements until emergencies were declared. Emergencies would be declared when employment sank below 85 per cent of the previous three-year average and would be discontinued when employment went back above 90 per cent.

Lewis suggested that 70 per cent of their monthly wage be distributed to the unemployed in such a period. If the plan is made voluntary, he believes, it will be attractive both to employers and employees because of the size of the federal and state contributions.

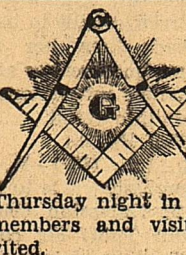

The Couzens proposal next December may be a modified Lewis plan or something entirely different.

Incidentally, it is believed that although under ordinary conditions unemployment insurance would stand no great chance in Congress, conditions as they are likely to be next winter offer a possibility of passage for some such plan.

A few years ago the Senate committee on education and labor, with Couzens as chairman, reported favorably for unemployment insurance, asserting that the system should be instituted by employers rather than by state or federal governments. Several large employers who had established employment stabilization systems appeared before the committee and Couzens was impressed by their unanimous testimony that the experience had been profitable because of increased employee efficiency and morale.

The Town Quack

(Reserves the right to "quack" about everything without taking a stand on anything.)

I don't like the way people are laughing about what Will Rogers offered as a solution to the present conditions, killing off one third of the people except column writers, and killing half of them instead. It seems that Midland people especially got a big kick out of what Will said about column writers. And now I'm wondering what the laugh is about and whether the folks are hoping such action will be taken and if so whether I would be in one half or the other by popular vote.

An old sot who refuses to give up drinking gets great solace from the old quotation about "you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink."

Someone told me yesterday that Elliott and Chunky Cowden had cut out practically all of their bad habits. Chunky still drinks a little coffee but Elliott has even stopped that habit. They voluntarily gave up all bad habits that just naturally hadn't stopped anyhow, I hear. Gosh, I don't see what those fellows have to live for.

BRONZE AGE TOWN

WASHINGTON.—An important bronze age town has been unearthed in Persia by an expedition working to the University of Pennsylvania and the Kansas City Museum, according to a statement from the Department of State. The excavations show the bronze age with a large temple or fortress, many burial grounds, and small female goddess statues. The estimated age of the town is from 1000 to 3000 years B. C.

TOO MANY HEROES

PARIS.—France has too many heroes and measures have been taken to reduce the number. There are now 155,000 members of the Legion of Honor in France and this is an excessive number. The Chamber of Deputies has received a bill which provides that the new awards be limited in such a way that as present holders die the number of chevaliers and officers would be progressively reduced until their decorations are really a distinction.

the marriage license business from Texas towns within a hundred miles of the border and now comes a news dispatch to the effect that N. M. border towns are expecting a big cigarette business from Texas after the new tax goes into effect here Saturday.

An El Paso man could go to a neighboring town and buy his cigarettes by the carton and would be able to pay for his new tires with the difference he saved in a year.

A story being reprinted in the newspapers as true is about an old Texas boy who happened up in Nebraska to visit his brother. This brother was a farmer and his farm was in the district where the grasshoppers have been so bad this year.

The old Texas farmer insisted on sending down to Texas after a carload of Texas turkeys. He said that these turkeys would clean up the grasshoppers on the entire quarter section. The turkeys arrived in due time and were turned loose one noon. When the turkeys came back to the barn that evening they didn't have a feather left on their bodies. The grasshoppers had eaten them all off.

A new definition of a cannibal is that he is a person who is honest when he professes love for his fellow-men.

Choice Cooks' Corner

Ham Rolls

Four slices of boiled or baked ham, 1 cup stale bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon melted apple jelly, 5 tablespoons milk, 4 teaspoons prepared mustard, paprika.

Combine bread crumbs, jelly, milk, mustard and paprika. Spread a thin layer over each slice of ham. Roll and fasten with wooden toothpicks. Place in a shallow baking dish and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes. Baste two or three times during the baking with fruit juice or vinegar from sweet pickles. Serve with grilled apples slices or a spiced fruit pickle.

Molded Ham Salad

Two cups finely chopped cooked ham, 1-2 cup mixed celery, 1 green pepper, 6 stuffed olives, 1 cup cooked salad dressing, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1-2 cup boiling water, 1-2 cup orange juice.

Soften gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Add to boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add orange juice and when cool and beginning to jell, add salad dressing. Add remaining ingredients and turn into mold. Let stand on ice for several hours to chill and become firm. Unmold and serve with cucumber cream dressing.

To make cucumber cream dressing, add one medium sized cucumber which has been pared and chopped to one cup cream, whipped. Season with sugar vinegar and salt and serve at once. It will take about two tablespoons powdered sugar and two tablespoons vinegar to season the dressings.

Pretty — Popular

It's something to be dark-eyed and beautifully demure, like Franziska Gaal. And it's a lot more to be voted the most popular girl in your home town. Franziska's home town is Budapest, Hungary, where she won a popularity contest in which 800 women were entered.

Demonstrator Has Delightful Vacation On Trip to Short Course and Galveston

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is another of the series of articles written by Midland county women who attended the 1931 A. & M. short course.

BY MRS. S. H. GWYN

I have had a most instructive and delightful vacation and my appreciation goes to the chamber of commerce for having made this year's trip to the short course possible.

After a visit in Cleburne with relatives, I met the Midland party in Venus, arriving in College Station on Sunday afternoon.

Monday morning we attended the opening exercises of the short course, also the receiving of the Master Farm Home Makers into the Master Farm Home Makers Guild.

In the living room contest I was impressed with the story of the woman who needed a glass door for her living room and having no money with which to buy one, she removed part of the panels from an ordinary door and took two Ford wind shields, turned them lengthwise and fitted them in making a new door. This is but one example of the things extension service and ingenuity are bringing to farm women.

Much improvement in storage space was mentioned in the wardrobe contest. Many foundation patterns were reported made and every contestant praised them highly. Several dresses made from white feed sacks were displayed and also one made from burlap sacks.

Disappearing Stairs

To me the outstanding feature of the Key Home is the ladder which disappears into the ceiling, enabling one to use the attic for bedrooms or storage space without having stairs.

Mrs. Cone Johnson's speech, in which she explained our laws, was instructive and beneficial. I was very glad to be present at the reading and amending of the constitution and by-laws of the Texas Home Demonstration association, also the election of officers. The new state president is Mrs. Ben Anthony, formerly Miss Elizabeth Kelly, who will be remembered by Midland people.

Boat Trip

The grand finale of our trip was the visit to Galveston. We went out on the boat "Galvez" twelve or more miles; far enough to be out of the United States.

We saw several sharks and oodles of jellyfish. Seeing the ships loading was quite a curiosity to us who had never seen a ship. We saw the coast guard, revenue cutters and numerous other ships. We then visited the beach and saw the wonderful sea wall.

I also had the privilege of visiting the ship-channel in Houston. It is man-made and permits the passage of large ships.

Altogether I have had a most wonderful and instructive vacation.

Helpful Health Suggestions

TOXIN - ANTITOXIN GIVEN TO 15,000 CHILDREN

Sixty per cent of all the children under 10 years in Springfield, Mass., were immunized against diphtheria during March following a campaign carried out by the city department of health. More than 11,500 children of preschool age were given toxin-antitoxin.

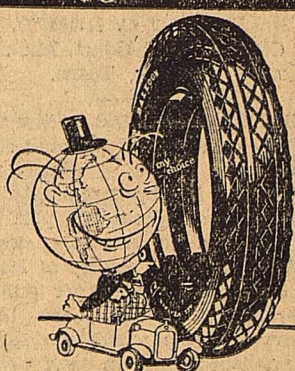

Eleven clinic centers were established in public schools. School nurses assisted the doctors who had been recommended for the work by the presidents of the city hospitals and the public health committee of the chamber of commerce. Volunteers from women's organizations did the clerical work.

Children of school age were conducted to the clinic by their teachers, and mothers with younger children were given free transportation, which was donated by clubs. Before the opening of the clinics, an intensive educational publicity campaign was organized. Cooperation was obtained from churches, parent-teacher associations, women's clubs, insurance companies, the medical profession, welfare workers and newspapers.

EYES NUMBER YEARS

BERLIN.—Dr. F. Bernstein, of the University of Goettingen, asserts that he can tell how many years a man will live by the aging of the eyes. The rate at which the eye hardens and loses the form which makes it possible for objects brought close to it to be distinguished clearly is a test for the rating. He is convinced that he can prophesy for a man of 44 whose eyes have changed very slowly, fourteen more years of life than another at 44 whose eyesight has changed rapidly.

"TOASTING" expels SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally (Black, biting, harsh irritant chemicals) present in every tobacco leaf

"They're out—so they can't be in!"

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for trees, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

HOGS DO NOT REQUIRE MUD BATH-ROBERTS

Editor's Note: The third article written by Holley Roberts on his trip to the farmer's short course at Texas A. & M. college.

The lecture on hog sanitation was excellent. It seems that hogs do a lot better in a dry pen than where they have a good slop "hog wallow". About all the water room a hog needs is a place large enough for his snout when he wants a drink.
Plenty of clean drinking water is very essential, and plenty of room comes next, provided of course, that he gets a balanced ration.

Few grazing crops will equal sudan for hogs, or any other livestock.
Garbage is an excellent hog feed. In many cases, garbage not only prevents worms, but acts to some extent as a vermifuge. It is not very advisable to practice worming hogs over one year of age. Keep them clean and free from internal parasites while little fellows and they will possess a strong tendency to be like the "twigs".

When importing stock even from nearby, it is wise to practice isolation until such time that no diseases may develop. They might have been exposed to some contagious disease before you receive them.

While absorbing this information on hogs, I got a tip. "Hogs are going up."

Mineral requirements of beef cattle, given by Dr. H. Schmidt, was an excellent lecture. I wish every cow man and farmer could have heard him.

Our natural feeds in this section of the state are lacking greatly in mineral requirements. The most practical method of administering mineral is by the use of bone meal mixed with salt. Three parts bone meal to one part fine salt. Keep this near the cattle continuously. In many cases the minerals in our water have a tendency to counteract the effects of the bone building mineral there might be in our grasses.

Creeps in cattle is nothing more than the result of mineral shortage.
During the open house discussion,
I asked several questions pertaining to mineral requirements. I learned that the use of "Bifac" and "spent bone black" were not encouraged.
Bone meal as it comes from the packer is recommended as being the most practical.

In the distant past, Texas vegetation must have possessed an abundant of bone building material.
There is on display at A. & M. giant skulls of pre-historic animals. Single teeth that will fill a water bucket. Trunks 8 feet or more in length. Tracks of giant creatures in petrified mud. Many of these have been found in Texas in recent years.

Some commercial feeds possess sufficient mineral when the animal is on full feed of that kind, more especially dairy rations. But at that, bone meal and salt can do no harm.
As an animal will use just so much mineral and no more. Bone meal in excess can do no harm.

Creep feeding calves. A report on this came from several sections of the state. In most instances every dollar spent for feed made the feeder two dollars.

Creep feeding lots should be strongly built, and located near water, salt, shade or some place where cattle are inclined to hang around.
A light bulky feed should be used at the beginning. A few cases were cited where ranchmen lost cattle by having weak pens, filled with highly concentrated feed. An old bull or cow that has been fed may easily wreck a light pen, thereby giving the entire herd access to a lot of strong feed. Powder and possibly death may be the result.

Creep fed calves will go in a feed lot and on full feed much quicker and with far less shrinkage than calves that are not creep fed.

(To Be Continued.)

lands, praying for a decree establishing reversion and divesting the title to and possession of the above described property and premises out of the defendants and vesting the same into the plaintiffs and for judgment removing any and all clouds from plaintiffs' title for costs of suit and other relief, special and general, legal and equitable to what plaintiffs may be entitled. Plaintiffs allege that above described property was plotted into a townsite known as Warfield and numerous lots and parcels of said property were sold to various defendants herein above named but that said defendants took the same subject to the rights of plaintiffs herein and therefore defendants rights, if any, are inferior and secondary to the rights of plaintiffs and said named defendants are made parties hereto in order that their rights, if any, may be adjudicated.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, and have you before said court, on the said first day of the next term thereof, this Writ with your endorsement thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, at office in Midland,
Texas, this 16th day of July,
A. D. 1931.

JUST AN OFF-DAY

MILWAUKEE—Patrolman Ray Smith, like the sailor who goes rowing in the park on his day off, can't resist running down criminals when he gets a day off. On one of his recent off days, Patrolman Smith took a trip to Chicago.

At Deerfield, Ill., he noticed one of three young men get out of an automobile and toss a revolver in the back seat. He arrested the three after notifying the police at Deerfield. The youths confessed to more than 30 thefts.

Marchetti took what he believed to be proof of his convictions to detectives. A woman in south El Paso smiled at him, offered him a drink and robbed him of $71 after rocking him to sleep in her arms, the little Italian complained.

"Always they do me that way," Marchetti lamented.

"I was a wealthy vendor in Brooklyn, N. Y., before women made me a wanderer."

Marchetti shrugged his shoulders in perplexion.

"I buy a little lunch stand in Hoboken. The trade is good and I make much money. I was lonely. A little girl used to eat in my place. She smiled so beautiful, brought me flowers. Soon we were married."

"One day I found her kissing my cook. I was angry. She hit me with a milk bottle. She ran away with the cook."

"My heart, she could stand no more. I sold everything and started to tramp around the big country to forget. Now I am betrayed again."
