Officers Recover $15,000 Variety Of Stolen Goods

Officers have continued to unravel the tangled two-state route of a 25-year-old New Mexico man whose arrest here last week has led to the recovery of what Sheriff Lowell R. Sharp says is "at least $15,000 in stolen goods."

Sharp said he and a deputy spent most of a week working with officers from eight other Panhandle and Eastern New Mexico counties where household and farm items had been taken and were recovered.

HELD IN THE county jail here on $7,500 bond is Jackie Joe Hooper, who gave his address as Portales but was living on a farm north of the Roosevelt County town. Hooper was arrested March 16 when his pickup truck was struck by a Santa Fe freight train about a mile west of Hereford.

He was charged with burglary after admitting two barn breakins in the Hereford vicinity.

Sharp said "holds" have been issued on Hooper by sheriffs in three other Panhandle counties and Curry County, N.M.

ALSO A 35-YEAR-OLD Portales man, Robert Rodgers, has been picked up there and released on a $2,500 fugitive bond after he refused to waive extradition to Texas on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property.

The sheriff here said some of the property Hooper is believed to have taken was found in Rodgers' possession. Rodgers has insisted that he did not know the goods were stolen, Sharp said.

5-Year-Old Assaulted, Man Jailed

A 37-year-old Hereford man has been given 120 days in the county jail for the aggravated assault on a five-year-old boy, and a youth accused of stabbing at a policeman and who was held until his 17th birthday is now free on $2,000 bond.

These cases were among those handled by County Judge H. C. (Hank) Williams.

Emilio Rangel, 207 Jackson (rear) was given the four-month jail sentence after pleading guilty to the assault charge. He was accused of manhandling the child of a woman acquaintance.

JOE Y. LOPEZ will appear for a jury trial April 20 on the aggravated assault charge stemming from his alleged attack on a Hereford police officer March 4. Capt. Don Brush said his jacket was slit when the Lopez youth lunged at him with a vegetable knife.

Three other men will appear for jury trials April 20 and are also charged with aggravated assault.

They are Hollis A. Pugh, 23, and Edwin L. Youngblood, 23, both of Lubbock; and Robert G.

Noticeable Defects Are Cited

In event of a large-scale, localized emergency, the rescue services presently available in Hereford would show some glaring deficiencies.

This is the conclusion emerging from an informal conference last week called by W. T. (Bill) Thompson, director of civil defense. Representatives of 10 governmental, citizen and private business groups who might be called on in a local disaster attended.

Thompson, who directs the present loosely drawn CD program here as its unsalaried director, said the meeting was exploratory. "We decided to try to determine what our needs are and to try to come up with answers later."

TAGGED AS three areas deserving of attention were:

(1) A lack of ambulances. Thompson said only one ambulance is available at any given time here, and the closest possible supplementary equipment is located at Dimmitt. Only one ambulance is located there. In the event of a major disaster (train wreck, tornado, explosion) "we would have to wait until they (ambulances) were brought in from other communities," Thompson said.

(2) The absence of an auxiliary emergency headquarters. "It was noted that in the case of a tornado, for instance, the courthouse and the city hall are located so close together that they could conceivably both be wiped out," Thompson commented.

(3) Little planning for emergency communications. No auxiliary power source is available for the sheriff's department radio, which handles both that department's radio traffic and that of the Department of Public Safety. Nor does the police department have a stand-by generator, he said. "If power went out we could very well be without communications," Thompson surmised. "There isn't even a single amateur here in town that has emergency power."

THOMPSON SAID city and county officials have agreed that emergency services here should be set up through the existing facilities and personnel, such as the police and fire departments, the sheriff department and the highway patrol.

"We are organized (as a Civil Defense program) and we have met qualifications by having a director appointed and have set up a plan for an emergency which has been approved,"

Spray 'n Pray (Their Alma 'Mater' Is 'School of Hard Knocks')

VEGA — "There are lots of diseases and problems. . . and I think we have had them all."

The spokesman laughed when he said it, but it was more the resigned mirth of a man caught in a revolving door than any outright merriment.

Up above a cluttered desk, a diploma identified the young speaker as William Bryon Johnson, recipient of a B. S. degree from Texas A&M.

BUILT IN TWO segments, the 41,000 square feet — nearly an acre. The primary building material is fiber glass, light - emitting slabs that are hail - resistant and less expensive than the fragile glass panes.

Johnson and his partner, Roger Gruhlkey of Amarillo, value their expanding operation at about $100,000.

They have been in their new quarters for two years and, they straight - forwardly admit, are learning more about growing tomatoes indoors each day.

"I THINK WE are on the right track," says Johnson. "I knew it was technical to begin with but it is more technical than I ever dreamed."

Both the enterprising tomato producers answer questions candidly, noting with amusement the clandestine, antiseptic antics of some greenhouse tomato growers.

A long list of critical factors stare the growers in the face, each one capable of bringing on financial ruin if unchecked. Temperatures, humidity levels, insects, fungus diseases — all require a close watch.

To maintain temperature levels, the Vega producers have 18 heating units. Their total output would meet the heating requirements of three 2-bedroom houses. The fuel bills: In the winter, $500 to $600 a month for gas and $100 for electricity.

WHAT IS THE temperature range for the 10,000 tomato plants?

"It's according to the outside temperature — whether it is cloudy or clear," replied Johnson "But generally we try to hold it below 80 in the daytime. Sometimes we can't hold it above 60 when it gets zero outside. It may drop to about 50 degrees."

In the summer an evaporative cooling system takes over. One entire wall of the two greenhouses is excelsor water pads; the other is electric fans. An emergency generator (not used so far in their two-year occupancy) stands by. If the temperature drops at night, an alarm system alerts an employe who lives next door. "It is all automatic," Johnson adds.

THE OVERHEAD, emphasizes Johnson, is so high that top-level production on every crop is a must to make a profit. Seed (they use a top

Expansion Plans Aired By Brick Manufacturer

BY LARRY FUHRMANN
Staff Writer

A unique cog in the expanding wheel of Hereford industries is Hereford Tile & Brick, Inc., which is producing brick for this area at the rate of 22,000 a day.

This industry is not a newcomer to Hereford. It officially came into being Feb. 18, 1957, when James W. Witherspoon, Hereford attorney and then chairman of the Industrial Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, put up the capital to aid B. B. Breeding in its establishment.

From this small beginning, Hereford Tile & Brick has grown to substantial proportions and has laid plans for further expansion.

DOME - SHAPED kilns standing alongside U. S. Hwy. 60 make an interesting and imposing addition to the evening skyline as a traveler approaches Hereford from the east. The ruddy glow permeating the air above the kiln is picturesque.

Plant superintendent for this expanding firm, which has invested some $150,000 in the last two years, is Bill Seyfert. This is his specialty — he has been in the brick business now for 18 years. Gerald Turner, his assistant plant superintendent, has a similar record of 16 years in this line of work. Major stockholder is J. R. Hickman.

"WE HAVE AN almost completely new staff since I came here two years ago," Seyfert explained. "Every employe of the company was taught the trade here at our plant." The 18 employes, including two truck drivers, work eight hours a day five or six days a week.

GROWER SAYS

'Cost-Price Vise' Hurts Wheatmen

When Leo Witkowski went to Washington, D. C., for the first time in 1954 to officially represent farming interests, he was on a mission to let the government know the dismal picture of the drought of the Fifties.

Last week, Witkowski was back in Washington to spread the word on what he calls a "cost-price squeeze" that is gradually tightening the noose around the wheat farmer's financial neck.

The 51-year-old farmer carried with him the support and sentiments of wheat growers in 30 major producing Texas counties. Witkowski, who farms six sections about 20 miles southeast of Hereford, is serving his second term as president of the Texas Wheat Growers Associa-

CC Schedules Friday Meeting

A general membership meeting of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for noon Friday at the Jim Hill Hotel. An Amarillo Chamber of Commerce staff member will speak on motor freight handling.

Jim Eubank, manager of the Amarillo chamber's transportation department, is a nationally-recognized authority on the subject, according to W. T. (Bill) Thompson of the local chamber.

Eubank's appearance will be sponsored by the transportation and communications committee of the Hereford chamber. He will discuss the techniques in speeding up the handling of local freight by proper routing and other measures.

The meal will be buffet style and dutch, Thompson said.

grade to achieve high quality) cost $800 a pound. Fortunately, Golden Spread Growers use only two or three ounces a year to start their young plants in a separate greenhouse, the site of the pair's first efforts four years ago.

Two growing seasons, differing in length from 40 days in summer to 60 days in winter, are followed in this artificial environment. The winter cycle starts with the transplanting of young tomato vines in early fall: Production begins about November 1 and ends near February 1. April 15 is the starting production date for the other run. It ends about August 15.

"ONCE THEY (the plants) begin to bloom they have to hand-pollinated every day by an electric vibrator," Johnson explained. "The reason for this is that when they are grown outside, they are pollinated by the wind. We want to make sure most of the flowers make fruit—about 95 per cent of them if we can."

What this means is that 30,000 blooms must be touched for a second or two every other day for days on end by an employe carrying a small power-driven vibrator.

"Once a week you have to prune the plants and keep them wrapped around the string supports," he continued.

DISEASE IS THE most feared development, "a real problem, especially in the wintertime."

"We spray on a regular two-day schedule for disease, fungus and insects," Johnson revealed. We spray according to what the humidity indicates might break out — we try to stay ahead of it, you know, the 'pound of prevention' thing."

During one particularly crucial outbreak, the harried growers armed themselves with toothbrushes and, plant by plant, battled the virulent disease.

BUT THE most frustrating experiment of all was a cucumber catastrophe.

Pollinating cucumbers requires more than an electric vibrator, dutifully notes Johnson. Nothing but nature's pollinator — the bee — will do. But bees in a greenhouse?

Right, minced Bill, "we ran through a hive every two or three weeks."

"They weren't used to being in a greenhouse and were always trying to get out. They would get stuck in the cracks and crevices and go through the fans and hit the wall and die. That is why we are not going to grow cucumbers again."

VIRTUALLY all of Golden Spread's top grade tomatoes are purchased by Safeway for distribution to 19 Panhandle (including Hereford) and Eastern New Mexico stores.

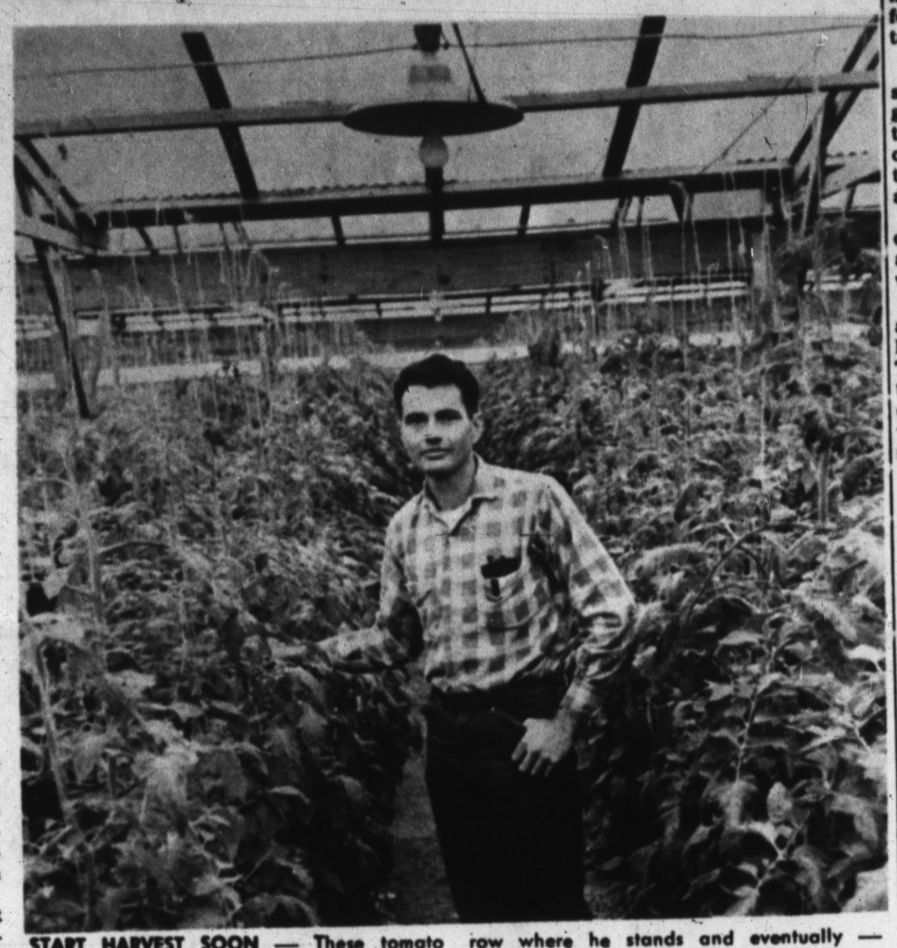
The Vega producers market under the name "Sunripe Quality Hot House Tomatoes."

Growing tomatoes under such exacting conditions can be a weary task, Johnson and Gruhlkey stressed. "I'm not trying to discourage competition," confides Johnson, "but people should know that you just can't start growing tomatoes in the backyard."

Both smile when they tell of annual sessions of greenhouse growers where everyone can "cry" on the other fellow's shoulder. "There are really some sad tales," smiled Johnson.

But these two enterprising young business — men-agriculturists are convinced that — given enough time to thoroughly work out all the bugs (and that sometimes could be taken literally) — they will have a profitable undertaking.

"It is being done in other places — profitably," said Roger.



START HARVEST SOON — These tomato plants will be producing marketable produce in two weeks or so at the Golden Spread Growers, Vega. Bill Johnson, partner, said the plants will be routed over the row where he stands and eventually — before the end of the season about August 15 — will form an archway of tomatoes. (Staff Photo)

Special Service Honors Aging Methodist Donor — Mrs. Alice Ward

A 93-year-old Hereford woman, who has been teaching a Sunday School class evey week for the past 73 years, was honored at a special service of the First Methodist Church last Sunday, when she donated lots in downtown Hereford, valued at $30,000, bringing her total contributions to the Northwest Texas Annual Conference to more than $150,000.

Mrs. Alice Ward, who is residing in King's Manor, a Methodist home for the aged, presented the deed to the property in the 400 block of Main to the church after the special service.

THE REV. HERSCHEL Thurston, pastor of the First Methodist Church, recounted the many contributions Mrs. Ward has made to the Methodist Conference including a $50,000 contribution to McMurry College in Abilene; a $30,000 gift to King's Manor; a $30,000 gift to Westgate Hospital and now the $30,000 property.

"Mrs. Ward also deeded a section of land in Moore County to the Northwest Texas Annual Conference several years back," Thurston said, "and the conference is still operating the farm."

Thurston explained that Mrs. Ward had been instrumental in raising more money for the church, many times agreeing to put up money for a project if the membership of the church would match it.

IN 1949, MRS. Ward donated more than $30,000 to the church for the construction of Ward Hall, and when the structure was remodeled in 1964, Mrs. Ward footed the bill once again.

She came to Hereford in 1896 from Mississippi, where she taught her first Sunday School class at the age of 19.

She continued teaching the class for several years and the family moved to Moore County, and she once again took a Sunday School class.

Over 30 years ago, she began teaching the Win One Sunday School Class in the First Methodist Church here and continues teaching that class today.

MRS. WARD HAS worked in gathering tons of clothes for the missions in Africa and every year attemps to send one ton to the Methodist mission.

She wrote a book titled "Gardening for the Master" which recounts the vivid hardships of her past.

The book recalls how the family suffered financially in the depression of the early 1930's and Mr. Ward died, leaving her in debt.

Mrs. Ward decided to clear up all the debts and continued working until she had recovered the family financially.

The Rev. Thurston recalled in the special service where a Sunday School teacher in one of the primary classes was placing some cardboard cutouts of Bible characters on the blackboard.

"Where is Mrs. Ward?" a 5-year-old boy innocently queried.

Government, Private Officials See Lack Of Ambulances, Extra Power

Thompson noted. But such planning largely concerns the events following a national disaster, notably a nuclear attack.

THE CIVIL Defense director said the concern of local emergency services at the moment is that a blueprint of action and a chain of command be designed to keep affected agencies from acting independently.

"It is most urgent that there is complete understanding among all agencies as to who would do what," he said.

The need for prior determinations was underscored during last year's Wichita Falls tornado Thompson related. "According to the city manager there, a lack of planning did hamper them severely. Everybody was trying to give orders. The Army Reserve even mobilized and moved in, trying to take charge, and nobody knew who gave them the authority."

THOMPSON said it would be stressed that purely volunteer organizations stay out of the picture until their help is requested.

And there are no plans to try to recruit and develop a "Civil Defense" corps unless present thinking is altered, Thompson reiterated. "My feeling about organizing a lot of volunteers is that you can't maintain their interest. You would waste a lot of time and money trying to train other volunteers . . ."

Attending the meeting were representatives of the Highway Patrol, sheriff's department, Citizens Band Radio Club, Civil Air Patrol, Defense Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service, Southwestern Public Service Co., Pioneer Natural Gas Company, Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative and the West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative.

Q. Should I refinance my home mortgage to buy a car, appliances, or make home improvements? The interest rate seems very low compared to credit costs for other types of financing.

A. While the interest rate is no doubt much lower, the catch to this plan is in the time you'll be paying the interest. If the refinanced mortgage will run for 15, 20, or maybe 25 years, the total interest you'll pay on the new funds you obtain will be very high. Instead of paying perhaps $250 to $400 interest on the purchase of a new car over the usual 3-year maximum term, you could wind up paying as much for interest as the purchase price of the car.

IN SYMPOSIUM HELD HERE

Youths' Problems Hashed Out

By LOIS DEDYNE
Women's Editor

Four guest speakers were on hand to present a program, "Youth Symposium," in the Community Center Thursday evening.

This was an educational program on "Moral Influences on Young People" which was sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Home Demonstration Council on some of the thing that have a moral influence on young people today.

Uneducated parents are causing conflicts between parents and students, and stands as the number one reason for school dropouts, according to Don T. Martin, acting superintendent of the Hereford School system.

MARTIN HAS served as counselor at Stanton Junior High School, is a teacher and former principal of Hereford High School. He has made a close study of the school dropout problem and efforts being made in Hereford to encourage prospective dropouts to continue their education.

Although the Hereford percentage is comparatively lower, on a nationwide basis, about 50 per cent of the students drop out of school before completion of high school, according to Martin.

Another factor attributed to the dropout situation is lack of funds. Many students feel that if they work, they will have money for spending and that lack of money will hinder them in participating in extra-curricular activities.

SOME STUDENTS attending school through the assistance of welfare agencies haven't funds to enable them to participate; therefore, they lose interest.

Overcommanding parents, related Martin, is another major cause for school dropouts. He said it is the responsibility of the parents to know the capabilities as well as the limitations of the child. Children can excel in one area but can not be compared to another child without creating a problem.

Curriculum is also a determining factor, according to Martin. Many schools have standards that are too high. On the local level, however, and especially in the junior high school, he said an attempt is made to make it possible for each child to pass in their work with reasonable effort. The situation may not be ideal, he said, but work is being done at all times to improve the system.

Lack of skill with emphasis on reading skill causes disappointment which results in dropouts.

EARLY MARRIAGES are misunderstood, according to Martin. He said that the average statistics show percentage wise that there is not a large increase in early marriages as compared with 20 to 30 years ago, and it is not a major factor in school dropouts.

To correct the problem of school dropouts, he said the schools can offer a larger variety of programs and add more vocational and training schools. As parents and sponsors, people need to be aware of the situations and must encourage an education, he said.

Judge H. C. Williams, Deaf Smith County Judge, when speaking about the over-all juvenile problems and their effect on the community, said one of the most important factors toward controlling juvenile problems can be found with the church-going family.

JUVENILE problems, he said, have been here for a long time and will continue to be here. It is a matter of parent responsibility and understanding of these problems with the parents being able to assume their obligations towards children.

Williams said that children need and want someone with authority to talk with, look up to and be supervised by.

"Children," he said, "must not be pushed into society. They must not be allowed to do as they please. Learn how to say no to them; yes is the easy way out."

HE SAID THAT parents must learn how to raise their children and give them the proper guidance. Almost 99 per cent of the children that come before the courts have parents that have shunned their responsibilities towards their children, he noted.

Bob Wear, minister of the Church of Christ, Littlefield, discussed teenagers and marriage. He has done considerable work with young people concerning problems dealing with early marriages.

Early dating, he said, leads to early marriages of which many end up in a divorce court. Young people should not be pushed into obligations they are not prepared to assume. He said, "It is the parents' responsibility to see that the children are prepared for adulthood" and that parents are obligated to assume the education and preparation of these children.

WEAR ALSO said "to thrust young people into mature situations they are not prepared for will result in them never being the person they were meant to be."

Reasons he gave for early dating are the acceleration of social development and pushing youngsters into social maturation, confusion about nature, marked increase in leisure time, more available money, social development before the youngster is ready to accept this and early maturation.

Social life he said begins at age 12 and at this same time begins the race to be popular. "Boys," he said, "in the sixth grade should be left to play marbles rather than encouraged to attend social gatherings and parties."

CHANGES ARE here to stay and adults must learn to deal with them, according to Wear. Changes must be made in the home life with accents on wishome, proper training beginning at an early age and with parents assuming more responsibility towards the young people and setting better examples. "Young people need example and guidance," he said, "rather than criticism."

Traffic safety problems pertaining to teenagers were discussed by Sgt. Cecil McNeil who is with the Safety Education Service of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Driving, he said, is a privilege and not a right. Any driver, according to McNeil, adult or teenager, when issued a driver's license, is given the same considerations if he should appear in traffic court.

In the event of a violation in the case of a teenager, however, it is required that one or both parents appear with the youngster for an interview to determine and attempt to correct the situation to enable them to become competent drivers.

AS A WHOLE, McNeil rated, today's youth with drivers education training have fewer accidents and are better drivers than those in any other age group according to studies that have been made.

Poor drivers he said are a result of lack of accurate knowledge, aggressive personality traits, unsound and immature judgement and lack of experience in complex driving situations.

RATHER THAN restrictions on driving, the alternate course is proper education, according to McNeil, so drivers will have the proper rescpect for others and their property when operating a vehicle.

Panel speakers were introduced by Mrs. J. D. Gilbert Jr., chairman of the Education Committee of the Home Demonstration Council and the program was in keeping with the Texas Home Demonstration Association study recommendations.

Production Factors Go Up While Wheat Income Falls, Says Grower

HIS WASHINGTON trek, however, was in the capacity of a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Wheat Growers.

He returned Thursday after a four-day stay.

Witkowski, who has lived on his Castro farm since 1938, said that testimoney (given by Anson Horning of Larned, Kan., president of the national association) before the House Agriculture Committee urged higher income levels for wheat programs in 1966.

"In most of the states, especially through the wheat belt, the cost-prize squeeze is hurting them (the wheat farmer)," Witkowski told The Brand Thursday. "Young fellows can't get started. You have to be in there a little while and hold on — for a while you are just kind of living off your depreciation."

WITKOWSKI said support organizations (such as the National Farmers Union, the National Livestock Feeders Association, feed grain associations and others) favor, at the present, a bill proposed by Rep. Wayne Purcell of Texas .

"It has one feature in there," explained Witkowski, that wheat growers especially favor. "He wants a longer ranged program, not just a one or two year program in that the price of wheat will be tied to the index of the gross houring earnings of manufacturing labor — if the price of labor goes up the price of wheat will go up."

"The wheat growers feel that the domestic portion of our wheat crop should be supported at approximately $2.50 per bushel or full parity," said the Hereford official. "This would mean a domestic certificate valued somewhere around $1.25 per bushel."

SUCH AN ARRANGEMENT would bring an increase in the price of a loaf of bread, Witkowski conceded, but he asserted that bread prices have been increasing "every year since 1945" while farmers recipts from wheat production have dropped.

While the wheat farmer's gross receipts have been falling, Witkowski averred, the items necessary for the production of wheat have been climbing. As the financial predicament of the wheat farmer worsens, banks are beginning to tighten up credit, he said.

The result, said Witkowski, is what has been coined as the "cost-price squeeze."

Wheat farmers in a broad area of the Great Plains and the West also are experiencing other difficulties at the moment, he pointed out.

EASTERN COLORADO, southwestern Kansas and parts of the northern Texas Panhandle are abnormally dry. "In Colorado and some parts of Texas, up around Stratford, they are chiseling wheat to keep it from blowing," he commented. "Some irrigated wheat has been blown out."

He said representatives from Oregon, who he talked with on his Washington trip, told how the recent heavy rains — which kept the area and north California in headlines a few weeks back because of the massive flooding — packed the ground sohard they are having to replant spring wheat.

Wheat farmers in Texas are now working toward the passage of a constitutional amendment which would permit enabling legislation for collecting a small levy per bushel for use in promotion and research.

"I WAS IN AUSTIN last week to testify with representative of the citrus vegetable, poultry, grain sorghum and wheat growers associations in support of this proposal," said Witkowski. He said the levy on wheat would be small, perhaps 2½ mils per bushel.

Witkowski has long been active in promoting wheat, although he grows feed grains, cotton, rye, barley, soy beans and has a section in native grass.

Still he finds himself spending an increasing amount of time on wheat matters. Counting up his travels since the first of the year, he guesses that he has traversed about 8,000 miles covering the country from Oregon to Washington, D.C.

He was one of the five men who drew up the charter for the Texas wheat growers group in 1950.

An assembly line operation, the plant starts with the clay and comes out with finished, baked brick. Seyfert said the company has both retail and wholesale sales, with brick going to Dumas, Portales, Lubbock, and other points within about a 150 - mile radius.

"All our bricks are sold right now," Seyfert explained. "We are expanding our facilities; however, we don't know how far this expansion program will go."

THE ACTUAL process of manufacturing brick appears to be a simple one, but a lot of steps are involved.

Clay from north of Vega and the Garcia Lake area, is hauled to the plant by their own drivers. The first step upon its arrival at the plant is the grinding of the clay into a powdery form, taking out chunks and undesirable particles.

Moving on a conveyer belt, the powder then is mixed with water and as much air as possible is removed in a vacuum chamber. This is done to make the material tighter.

SHOVED THROUGH a mold, the pliable clay conforms to the shape of uncut brick. A large cylindrical cutter slices into the clay making a brick 7 5/8" by 3½".

Two or three men remove the brick from the belt, grading and stacking in the same operation. Each man handles about 8,000 brick every day. The next 2½ to 3 days are the drying period for the brick. Long narrow tunnels for drying are kept at the right temperature, humidity, and air circulation to avoid imperfections. Removed from the dryer, the brick still feels soft and pliable.

The kilns, the dome-shaped structures made mostly of rejects, are then filled with the brick, each kiln having a capacity of 39,000. Each brick weighs four pounds, so when loaded there are 160 tons of brick in a kiln.

THE KILN IS loaded and sealed — and baking has begun. Progressively, the temperature reaches 1940 degrees, causing the ruddy glow above the kilns at night. The brick is baked for 60 hours; when done, it is finished. The bricks are strapped into "bales" for convenient handling.

The red product manufactured at the local plant is known as modglur brick. Seyfert explained that modifications can be made, however. Several coatings, applied before the drying process, have been developed to tint the face of the brick, varying from dark to light. Some brick is "patterned," which is done wih a roller before the brick is cut.

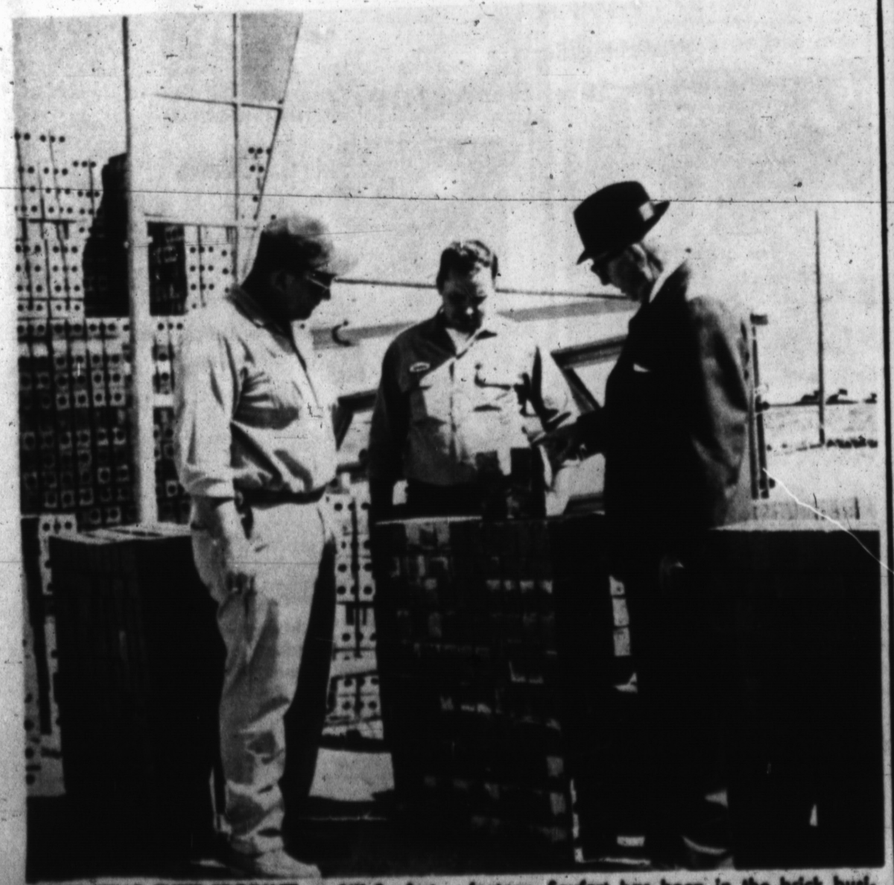
PRESENTLY expanding, Hereford Tile & Brick, Inc — the only industry of its kind within 200 miles — plans to increase its production from the 22,000 a day to 40,000.

Now being built at the plant site is a new kiln which will have a capacity of 90,000 brick. The natural gas - fired kiln will have an outer steel shell with two inches insulation inside. Still inside this is nine inches of insulated fire brick, which Seyfert explains holds the heat in without absorbing it; it also produces fast cooling.

Also to be added at the plant site immediately are four new 140-foot dryers, making a total of 12 dryers.

THE TONS OF brick moved by plant employees are handled by lift truck throughout the process, except in two operations. One is when the men stack and grade the brick as it comes from the cutter, and the other is in the final stages when reject brick is thrown out. The lift trucks are used to handle the 1200-pound brick bundles. Inside the main building, small cars on tracks (similar to railroad tracks) transport the brick from the conveyor belt to the dryer, where the lift trucks pick them up to be loaded into the kiln.

READY TO HEAT — The kiln is sealed when the soft, wet brick is all stacked inside. Then the heat is turned up progressively, finally reaching a peak of 1940 degrees. After firing, the brick is then bundled and ready for distribution. (Staff Photo)



INSPECTING THEIR PRODUCT — Bill Seyfert, Gerald Turner and Tom Dacus, general manager of Hereford Tile & Brick, Inc., inspect brick produced at the local brick factory. Seyfert has been in the brick business 18 years; Turner has worked in the business 16 years. (Staff Pohto)

Roy Pruitt, 51, Buried Saturday

Services for Roy Pruitt, 51, who was found dead early Thursday at the Reinauer Cattle Feeding pen southeast of Hereford, were held at 3 p.m. Saturday at the First Christian Church.

The Rev. Eugene Brink, pastor, officiated. Burial was in West Park Cemetery under direction of Gililland Funeral Home.

Pruitt, who had been a resident here since 1933 when he moved from Roswell, N. M., was discovered about 7:30 a.m. by an employe. Sheriff Lowell R. Sharp said the man apparently had been dead of a heart attack about two hours. The tractor on which he was sitting was still running.

Survivors include his wife; daughters, Mrs. Royce Rizel of Amarillo and Mrs. Mary Collins of Fort Collins, Colo.; his mother, Mrs. Pearl Pruitt of Alamogordo, N. M.; brothers, Cab and C. N. of Alamogordo and Bill of Roswell, and sisters, Mrs. Ruby Blevins of Roswell, Mrs. Nettie Purcilla of Capulin, N. Second Arrest Occurs In N.M.

involved a number of sheriff officers from both states and a Texas Ranger, is continuing. Other arrests have not been ruled out, officers said.

Hooper was taken into custody when the tires on his pickup were said by officers to match tracks left at the scenes of the two barn burglaries in the Hereford area. During questioning, Hooper admitted in signed statements that he had engineered the break-ins.

When officers were taken to his residence in Roosevelt County they found items which sheriff's at these locations claim had disappeared from Hedley, Gray, Carson, Potter, Bailey and Randall counties in Texas and Curry County, N.M.

"ALL OF OUR stuff was brought back," said Sharp. "I believe we recovered almost every item (taken in the barn burglaries). He estimated that it was about $5,000-$6,000 worth, including a welder worth $2,000.

Sharp said Hooper claims he made the barn break-ins here alone.

Other paraphernalia that turned up on the farm, located about midway between Portales and Clovis on what is called the "Cannon AFB Road," included about $2,000 in furniture taken from a Bailey county home, tires wheels, welders, stoves, carpet, and meat.

"I know there were at least four stock trailers recovered, plus a boat, motor and trailer which he sold for $750," the sheriff said.

Hooper will be brought before grand jury here on April 6.

Justice Wins 3rd Straight 100 Dash

A steadily improving Hereford Whiteface track team walked off with 31 points at the Levelland Relays held last Saturday, with Kenny Justice winning his third straight meet in the 100-yard dash.

The young Whiteface speedster ran a 10-flat 100 to get into the finals, where facing a brisk wind he ran a 10:1 for his best time of the season.

The steadily improving sprint relay team ran a 44:9, to take fourth place.

The mile relay ran a 3:40 to place fourth in their event, with speedster Walter Williams running in the sprint and mile relays, but not entering any other events.

Ricky Fangman placed in the discus for the first meet of the year as he threw the discus 123 feet.

John Perrin placed sixth in the high hurdles and Gary Goodin placed fifth in the low hurdles.

Snyder won the relays, while the Herd placed fourth in the overall meet with a total of 31 points.

This was the most points the Whitefaces have captured this season.

Eight teams were participating in the meet.

Canyon was the only other 1-AAA school having boys entered in the meet.

THE INK SPOT

Tag Deadline Is March 31

Deaf Smith residents have only three days in which to purchase their 1965 license plates, says Nell Miller, county tax-assessor-collector.

The county office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. to accomodate patrons. It is located on the second floor of the courthouse.

As of late Friday, only 3900 license plates for passenger vehicles had been sold, reported Mrs. Miller. The total is expected to exceed 5100, last year's total.

Two extra clerks are aiding with the rush as the deadline nears.

Minister Defends Sunday As Day 'Ordained For The Glory Of God'

Dear Editor:

I see a good thing in Hereford. I see a town that has some time for God. I see signs in store windows, "Closed on Sunday." I see store clerks and business men in Sunday School and Church with their families.

But now the trend is being reversed, signs are beginning to appear "Open on Sunday." Store clerks have little or no opportunity to worship with their families and rest. We are on our way to becoming a town with no time for God.

Biblically speaking, Sunday is a day ordained for the glory of God and the good of man as pointed out in the fourth commandment. (Exodus 20:8-9) "Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work."

THE FIRST FOUR commandments deal with man in his relation to God. Having stated the fact of the Deity, and urged the claims of God on man in the first three commandments, and before passing to the second half of the law which deals with man in relation to men, the present command is given: "Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy." It provides for the perpetual maintenance of a symbol of the relationship that exists between God and man.

Stripping the commandment for the moment of all explanatory, and expository sentences, it will be found to consist of two simple injunctions:

First: "Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy."

Second: "Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work."

THE WILL OF God for man is that he should work. It is also God's will for man that at the seventh day interval he should cease his work and worship and rest. The work of the six days, being the carrying out of a Divine purpose, is in itself practical worship of the highest description. The worship of the seventh day, in which man turns to the places of contemplation, meditation, and adoration, is work in the highest realm. Each compliments the other. He who never works is unfitted for worship. He who never pauses to worship is rended incapable of work.

The first word of God, therefore, is — "Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work." The complex system of present-day civilization makes it possible that some men may live without work. But that, of course, is not God's ideal. Man is placed in a world which contains all that is necessary for his physical being, but to obtain it he must work. The soil is stored with forces of life, but man must bend over it and smite it with labor before it will answer the demands his need is making upon it.

The harvest comes by the way of human work. Man needs bread and works upon the soil and the golden harvest is God's crown upon labor. This fact of labor is not the result of the fall. It is part of the original intention of God, for man was placed in the garden of Eden "to dress it and to keep it."

"SIX DAYS THOU shalt labour and do all thy work." Now, God says, "Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy." This word "remember" is a noteworthy feature of the commandment. This indicates that this part of the commandment could be easily forgotten. Man must be careful not to count each day the same. God knew that man might become so busy and involved in this world that the sabbath could just become another day. So God placed the eye-catching "remember" as the first word of the commandment.

The sabbath was made for man by God Himself; God ordained it so in His great economy, the kingdom government, for an explicit purpose: to think upon Jehovah, to commune with the Infinite, conscious of affinity with God, to be reminded again through worship, of who we are, where we are going and from whence we came, thus equipping us for taking hold with new consecration upon the work of the coming days.

THUS, THE SABBATH had its ethical meaning. From the quiet, calm, restful, worshipful Sabbath day, man returned to the necessary and swift movements of the six. As he did so, the integrity and justice of the things with which he had communed in the hours of rest touched and influenced him in all the hours of work. He delved deeply and measured justly and weighed righteously for six days, because on the seventh he became conscious of the balance of the sanctuary and the righteousness of God.

Thus, the two commandments are actually one, so inter-related that they can never be separated. To fail in obedience to one is to make it impossible to obey the other. Obedience to each creates the power to obey the other. Work makes worship; worship fits for work.

"Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy."

"Six days thalt thou labour, and do all thy work."

THE ISRAELITES were bidden to keep the Sabbath day as a commemoration of God's deliverance of Israel out of Egypt. They were to use the one day in seven for worship and rest. The Jewish men toiled the soil by hand and tread the grapes by foot. They worked from dawn to dusk to provide food and clothing for the families. Many of them were hired hands and were driven as slaves. They were very glad to come to the seventh day because they could worship and rest from their labors.

Little need be said on the change from the seventh to the first day of the week. The first disciples kept both days: The sabbath for rest, the Sunday for worship. The change of day in the Christian dispensation came without a Divine word being written commanding the change. The early Christian Church made no formal, but a gradual and almost unconscious transference of the one day to the other. The church was led by the Holy Spirit without proclamation or noise. We can be at ease about a change that the Holy Spirit led the early church to make.

I MENTION two occasions in the teachings of the Bible where it refers to the first day of the week. (1 Cor. 16:2, Acts 20:7)

The sabbath is not forced on us as an irksome obligation, but granted to us from God as a precious boon. This commandment was given for freedom — freedom from the toils of life, and freedom to worship, not freedom from worship. When Jesus was here He tried to show us what blessing the sabbath can be. He often taught, sometimes healed, and always worshipped on the sabbath.

The sabbath is as much a constituent part of the economy of nature as the alteration of day and night. God did not mean us to be drudges, and to spend all our lives in grim, sordid, worldly toil. Even animals need rest. The horse that is rested one day in seven will be stronger, healthier, and longer serviceable, than one that is worked every day.

ALL TOILING creatures alike, human and animal, after working six days, are entitled to this seventh day of rest. And even if employers, whether individuals or corporations, care not for the sabbath on their own account, they are bound by every consideration to give the sabbath to their employees, alike persons and cattle.

Let me remark in passing, that here only is the proper sphere of sabbath legislation. Society has the right to enforce the observance of the sabbath on the ground of the public weal — that is on sanitary, economic, ethical, and social grounds. But society has no right to enforce the sabbath on religious grounds, except to the extent that it ought to guarantee to every person the "freedom" of worship and rest.

The Constitution is not to enforce worship — but to guarantee one's freedom of worship. No employer has a right constitutionally to deprive a person this freedom.

AS I UNDERSTAND it, Supreme Courts ruling on "Blue Laws", concerning closing on Sunday (McGown verses Maryland, Supreme Courts ruling May, 1961) had nothing to do with religion. The "Blue Laws" were passed by Supreme Court because of economic, ethical, and social grounds. Supreme Court said — It is best for the whole economy of society. The question of closing on Sunday had not only to do with individuals, man by man, but the question concerned society as a whole . . . the totality of a nation.

For instance, homes are frustrated . . . a mother works on Sunday but the father is at home . . . a son works . . . the whole family is not free to worship and rest, which results in peevishness enfeeblement . . . thereby a society or a nation is crippled physically, mentally, and spiritually. We wind up doing six days work in seven.

THE MOST INSIDIOUS and dangerous attack upon the sabbath, however, is that of those who would, to use their own phrase, secularize it. The seven day work week is spreading like cancer.

The sabbath must be defended from all attacks . . . or we will live in a wide-open seven day, work-a-day city. This is absolutely unnecessary by any stretch of the imagination. Yet, signs continue to appear that read: "Open Sunday For Your Convenience." Of course, this is not true in every sense of the word. It could read "For Your Dollar — Open Sunday."

There are two things that we can do as individuals:

First: Be courteous but express to owners and managers of these businesses your conviction. Many managers and employees would rather not work on Sunday.

Second: If the owner lives out of town, then write him about your conviction, and commend those who are cooperating in defending the sabbath. Buy nothing yourself on Sunday.

WE SHOULD LET Sunday be a day of Christian worship and Christian thought. It is a day to remind us who we are, where we are going, and from whence we came. All around us is the world with its labors, cares, pomps, and vanities. And ever before us is duty, virtue and eternity. The sabbath day helps bridge over the troubled waters of this world to the peace and calm of heaven.

"Rember the sabbath day, to keep it holy."

"And have hid their eyes from my sabbaths, and I am profaned among them." (Ezek. 22:26b)

Before taking the last leap into a sabbath-less America, we may wisely pause to recall that France made the same experiment. By government order, for one year and two months, no observance of the sabbath was permitted.

RESULTS: LAWLESSNESS and licentiousness swept the land like a murky sea. For her own self preservation, France was compelled to restore the sabbath. Perhaps Emerson had it very close to the point when he said, "Sunday is the core of our civilization."

Search the scriptures and secular history and I think you will find that before the fall of every nation there was first a falling away from the church. The hope of our world today is through the message and mission of the church. What God gave the church to give to the world is just what the world desperately needs.

Must we write the name, Ichabod, over the doorways of our church buildings, shamefully declaring to the world. "The Glory of God is departed!?" Oh, God forbid that through our negligence, our lack of care, our indifference to the Lord's Day, and His Church, the Lord would be necessitated to withdraw His glory. Unless the Shekinah glory of Almighty God in Christ Jesus sheds its glory over our churches we are less than nothing.

Is it really necessary to open these stores on Sunday? You and I both know the answer. It is one resounding "NO!" By no stretch of the imagination can it be labeled as "essential business" for our town to operate wide open seven days a week. There is nothing to be gained. There is much to be lost.

Your Red Cross In Action

By Corinne J. Neely

March, besides being Red Cross Month, is recognized as the beginning of the tornado or disaster season in our area. Therefore your chapter is working on this angle with our volunteers who are in the "Disaster Preparedness plan." Dale Barkley, the dissater chairman, has revised and brought the plan up to date.

Since the Jaycees form the core of the plan (along with other representative group committee chairmen) they are being reviwed on the setup and 35 new disaster kits are being assembled for the group. Copies of the plan will be placed in the hands of the committees as soon as they have been memographed and assembled.

The Junior Red Cross will decorate the kits as one of their projects. High School Red Cross will bring their committees up to date and be issued new cards, as they too are a part of the plan.

April 1st, there will be a Disaster Conference in Amarillo, sponsored by the Red Cross in conjunction with Civil Defense and Texas Nurse's Association District 2. Mrs. Tillie Miler, our disaster nurse (in our plan) expects to attend, with other nurses from our county.

And we hope others interested will go.

Working hand-in-hand with the disaster theme and future needs of the chapter three women plan to attend the school session set for March 29, 30 and 31st in Amarillo. "The Care of the Sick and Injured" a Red Cross program, is being taught for instructors to preced the TV course in June. Only by follow up lessons taught can one obtain the certificate for the course (similar to the First Aid taught by TV in the past). The station is KFDA and our instructors to be trained are Mrs. Steve Clements, Mrs. Fred Stindt and Mrs. John F. Hickman. People in Deaf Smith County, Castro and Parmer will be eligible for class work and certification with us.

At our consultant meeting held here the 23rd with our field representative, Dick Strayer, seven of the consultants of ten were present. They were Mrs. John E. Smith, water safety; "Woody" Wilson, fund; Mrs. Millard Nobles and Mrs. Leroy Aven, Red Cross youth; Mrs. B. F. Cain, home services; Mrs. John F. Hickman, first aid; Mrs. Steve Clements, nursing services. Unable to attend were Mrs. W. S. Dameron, volunteers; Darrell Rose, publicity; and Paul Schroeter, disaster.

Mr. Strayer commended the consultants, the chapter and your executive secretary for the work achieved to this point in the new plan of combined Service area of three counties. Looking ahead to April, it too, is a month full of Red Cross business and meetings.

'Faces Nip Caprock, 6-4, Busy Week Lies Ahead

By WAIN MILLER
Staff Writer

Hereford's diamond-domineering Whitefaces emerged from two weeks of winter hibernation to pick off a 6-4 win over Caprock High of Amarillo here Friday afternoon.

The win was number three in as many games for Hereford in what has been a weather-hamperd, start-and-stop season.

(Hereford was scheduled to play a double-header with the Amarillo Sandies in Amarillo Saturday afternoon.)

ALTHOUGH A bit sluggish from two weeks of inaction due to small-scale blizzards, etc., the 'Faces performance Friday did show some bright spots.

Brightest of these was Mike Ranspot's seven innings on the mound. The senior southpaw fanned eight of the 26 Longhorn batters he faced, and gave up only five hits.

IN ADDITION, he was stingy with free trips to first, granting only four walks during the game which was slowed by temperatures in the 40's and a moderate breeze.

Seven Caprockers reached base, only to see the Hereford crew come through with a handy third out to put and end to that.

Prior to Thursday's workout, Ranspot had seen only one inning of action this season, although his reputation for pitching prowess had been carried over from two previous years.

FOR CAPROCK, a District 1-AAAA title contender, it was the third loss of the year as compared to a single win.

The Longhorns utilized two pitchers, but were unable to retain a 3-1 lead compiled during the first half of the game.

While this was transpiring in Hereford, the Whitefaces' only District 1-AAA competition — Dumas — was shellacking Amarillo High to the tune of 18-4. The Demons clouted 18 hits in the duel.

The win gives the Demons a 2-2 mark for the season, with both losses coming at the hands of the Borger Bulldogs (1-0 and 8-1) in a doubleheader. However, the Demons had opened their season with a 13-6 victory over the same Borger team.

THE PREVIOUS Hereford wins were at the expense of Bovina (16-0) and Plainview (18-12).

Coach Ronald Speed's Whitefaces will have the chance to compare themselves with Dumas in five games against Amarillo teams this week.

Hereford travels to Palo Duro to play Tuesday at 4 p.m., then hosts the Amarillo Sandies here at 4 p.m. Wednesday in a make-up for last week's cancelled game.

Palo Duro comes to the Whiteface ballpark at 4 p.m. Thursday, then the Whitefaces will host a double-header with the Sandies at 1 p.m. Saturday.

HEREFORD collected eight singles from the two Caprock pitchers during Thursday's game with center fielder Charlie Moreno and left fielder Steve Hodges hitting two for four. Ranspot's cold arm in the top of the first to get three men on by way of a wild pitch and two walks.

A sacrifice fly to Hodges allowed one run to score, then Ranspot fanned Longhorn third-sacker Joe Cox on a called strike. Gerald Palmer popped out to Ranspot to end the top half of the inning.

CHARLIE MORENO led off for Hereford with a single past third on a 3-2 pitch. Longhorn starter Phil Altman hit the Herd's second baseman Gary Stagner to put runners on first and second.

Then came the first of two double plays for the day by Caprock. Hereford catcher Lynn Cook grounded to shortstop, who threw to second to first to end the threat. Hodges fanned to end the inning.

Longhorn batters went down one, two, three, in the top of the second, with Ranspot getting credit for two called strike-outs.

FRANK CAIN led off for Hereford in the top of the second, hitting out to the first sacker. Rightfielder Gary Tucker got on by way of being hit by the pitcher, then stole second base.

Danny Loerwald boomed a fly to center field, which was limited to a single, allowing Tucker to reach third. With two outs, Ranspot singled and Tucker scored. Moreno lined out to shortstop to retire the side with the score one-all.

Caprock gained a 3-1 lead in the top of the third on three hits and one error.

IN THE HERD'S half of the inning, Stagner reached first on a walk. Then, with one away, Caprock came up with a second double play. Hodges had connected for a single, then Cain grounded to third, who went to second to force Stagner. Cain was ruled out at first on a close one.

The fourth inning was the big one for Hereford, as the Longhorns went down after four trips at bat. Pitcher Phil Altman hit a two-bagger to become the only Longhorn runner on base during the inning.

Hereford returned to earn four runs on three hits and two erros in the bottom of the fourth to make it 5-3, a deficit which Caprock never overcame.

LOERWALD reached first on an error charged against the Caprock shortstop. Then, with two away, Ranspot drew a base from a wild pitch.

Moreno came through with his second big hit of the day, which allowed Loerwald to cross the plate. Stagner then singled to score Ranspot. Cook followed suit with a hit, then went to second on an error in center field.

The error also allowed another Whiteface score by Stagner. Hodges' drive to first retired the side with Cook at third base.

Caprock succombed in order in the top of the fifth, with two strike outs and a fly to Hodges in left center field.

HEREFORD'S Frank Cain got on with a wild pitch in the bottom of the fifth, then Tucker reached first on an error by pitcher Phil Altman.

With this, Altman was pulled in favor of Gary McSwain on the mound.

Loerwald flied out to left, then McSwain fanned two to retire the side.

Caprock had no runs on no hits in the sixth, while Hereford scored one on one hit.

Stagner drew a walk, then (with one away) Hodges singled to allow him to score.

CAPROCK'S bid for a comeback in the top of the seventh was good for one run off two hits. Altman opened with a single, then Gary Turner hit to deep center. McSwain's long one to right field allowed him to reach first on an error, while Altman scored. A pop-up to catcher was good for the third and final out of the game.

The Hereford Kiwanis Club is about to embark on another of their yearly mop and broom sales efforts, so if you're in the market for a new dust mop, just give one of the Kiwanians a call, they will deliver.

Actually, the boys are super salesmen. We have purchased a broom from them every year since the thing has been going, and we don't even use brooms.

That doesn't mean that we never sweep the floors around here. It simply means that we use a treated type dust mop supplied by a janitorial service company. And by the way we have a surplus of brooms just in case the Kiwanians miss you during the mop and broom sale.

Incidentally, their trucks will be located on the parking lots of Piggly Wiggly, Cooper's and Taylor & Sons.

-HB-

And speaking of super salesmen, we're reminded of the time the salesman sold Emmett Milburn four golf-club-head covers as bootees for a dog. Now there's a real salesman.

All members of the local post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, are urged to be present Thursday night, April 1, for the nomination of officers for the coming year, according to C. W. Smith, Post Commander.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the VFW building in Veterans's Park.

-HB-

The Hereford Lions Club would like to express their thanks, not only to the folks attending the Sugartime Revue program Thursday and Friday, but also to the many merchants who contributed prizes which were given away during the intermission.

The program was a tremendous success according to Raymond White, president of the club.

-HB-

Speaking of the Sugartime Revue, we suspect that the Lions enjoyed the deal about as much as the audience. And, we might add, for what they lacked in quality, they made up in enthusiasm. It was a fine show.

-HB-

Don't forget. It's about deadline time for having automobiles inspected for the coming year. We suspect the automobile dealers who are set up as official inspection stations would appreciate getting your vehicles in soon to avoid the last minute rush.

Deadline for the state inspection is April 15.

-HB-

For the information of local Rotarians and others who are acquainted with H. Hicks Allen, District Governor of Rotary District 573, we might note that Allen is recovering satisfactorily from a heart attack suffered March 13.

Allen lives at Snyder and has served as governor of this district since last July 1.

Dan Finlan of Hereford this week announced plans to construct a $250,000 shopping center on 25-Mile Avenue at Grand Street. The center will consist of three main buildings with space for 17 businesses.

Finlan said construction on the center would begin in the near future.

-HB-

Contentment, we're told, is something that depends a little on position and a lot on disposition.

Tourist Group Meets Tuesday

Last-minute planning for an April convention of the International Parks Highway Association will be before the Tourists and Conventions Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

About 125 persons are expected to attend the confernece April 23-24. The association is the promotional organization for a network of highways running from Big Bend National Park in Texas to Prince Albert National Park in Canada.

Much of the route is covered by U. S. Hwy. 385 which runs through Hereford.

Those attending will include representatives of the parks located along the highways, service facility owners, county officials and chamber of commerce officers and manager. Guy Lawrence, Hereford service station owner, is vice president of the national group.

NEW TRASH LID LAW

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A new village ordinance here prohabits removing the lid of another person's refuse receptacle.

The law was enacted because of suspicion some people were putting trash into their neighbor's cans to save the $5.25 a quarter trash collection fee.

Mrs. Thurston's Mother Passes

Funeral services for Mrs. Willie L. Lovelace, 79, of Farwell, were held Saturday afternoon in Farwell. Mrs. Loveace was the mother of Mrs. H. L. Thurston of Hereford, wife of the First Methodist Church minister.

Mrs. Lovelace had lived in the Farwell area for the past 45 years. She died Thursday at a Clovis convalescent home, where she had been a patient for some three years.

Services were to be in the Hamlin Memorial Methodist Church, Farwell, with interment in the Mission Garden of Memories, Clovis, under direction of C. V. Steed Funeral Home.

Survivors, in addition to Mrs. Thurston, include three daughters, Mrs. H. C. Hamilton of Lubbock, Mrs. Dee Bilbrey of Albuquerque, N. M., and Mrs. Merle Bryant of Clovis; and four sons, Edgar of Vernon, Charles and Woodrow, both of Farwell, and Arlone, of Santa Fe, N. M. In addition, there are 19 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

APPROPRIATE ARTIFACTS

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — Ships of the U. S. Pacific Fleet are getting an assortment of oddities abord.

The Polaris-firing submarine Tecumseh, for instance, received a set of Shawnee Indian arrowheads from Pearl Harbor Naval Shipyard worker Paul Walley who was raised in Indiana's Shawnee country of Chief Tecumseh's day.

The Polaris submarine Daniel Boone has a squirrel rifle aboard — for obvious reasons.

And Pearl Harbor Shipyard received a gift from the Republic of Korea Navy recently — a turtle ship plaque and scroll. The turtle ship was an iron warship developed in Korea in 1592 which was immune to bows and arrows.

Although Germany ranks only 15th among the wine-producing countries of the world in quantity, German wines share top position for quality with those of France.

Texas OK For Meet April 2-3

AUSTIN (Special) — When Randy Matson is in the field, there's a mad scramble for second place.

It's no contest when this giant of a man with the world's loudest grunt is displaying his talents as the world's best shot putter.

The Texas A&M sophomore, still growing at 6-6½ and 258 pounds, will be one of the top attractions at the 38th annual Texas Relays at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium April 2 and 3.

ALTHOUGH MATSON doesn't hold the world record for the shot, he does own the world's best-ever indoor put — a 66-2¼ job done at the Dallas Indoor meet Feb. 13, and with the retirement of Dallas Long, Randy now is the world's best.

When Matson steps into the Texas Relays ring, stretches his great frame and gives forth with his mighty grunt, the Relays record of 59-9 will fall on the first shot. Bill Nieder of Kansas set that one back in 1956.

And maybe by the next grunt or two Nieder's Memorial Stadium mark of 65-7 (set in 1960 as an open event of the Relays) may fall. With two or three more grunts, even Long's 67-10 world mark could fall.

MATSON SHIES away from 70 feet talk (that's the next barrier in track) but the 19-year-old business major has 10 more good years before reaching his athletic peak.

No less an authority than Stanford Coach Payton Jordey says Matson is the best shot prospect in history, adding that he has "the speed of a sprinter and the strength of a mule."

Matson didn't waste any time hitting 60 feet after ridding himself of the 12-pound prep shot. A week after graduation from Pampa High School, Randy hit 60-6 at the US Federation meet in Houston. It took him eight more meets to hit 60 again but he's done it for 32 in a row now including a whopping 66-8½ in his first outdoor meet of the year on Feb. 27 against Baylor at College Station.

AS MENTIONED earlier, there's a mad race for second when Matson is in the field.

Among these at the Texas Relays will be Gene Crews of Missouri, Barry King of Colorado, Roger Orrell of Abilene Christian, Jim Lancaster of Baylor, Russ Polhemus of East Texas, Gary Schwarz of Kansas and Toby Belt of Texas.

Relays officials are moving the shot ring to mid-field at Memorial Stadium where more fans can get a better look at the world's greatest in action.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Mrs. Rachel Hunter of Hereford, Route 3, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Mona Dell to Mike Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Oneal of Follett. Miss Hunter is a graduate of West Texas State University and is presently engaged in teaching in Roscoe High School. The prospective bridegroom is now attending West Texas State University. Vows will be exchanged June 6th in the First Baptist Church, Dimmitt.

Irrigation Water's Use Must Be Efficient, Say Researchers At Halfway

HALFWAY (Special) — Efficiency of operation in modern farming is a must if today's irrigation farmer is going to realize the net returns necessary from his investment and studies here show efficiency in the use of the available irrigation water is at the top of the list for net returns.

Research personnel at the High Plains Research Foundation have come up with this formula toward getting the maximum effectiveness from irrigation wells. A farmer with a small well pumping 200 gallons per minute can put five acre-inches of water on two acres every 24 hours.

This amount of water will saturate most of the soil types found in the Plains of Texas three to four feet deep. A 400 gallon per minute well would apply this amount of water on 4 acres every 24 hours; a 600 gallon per minute well will cover 6 acres each 24 hours, and so on for the different pumping capacities.

THIS FORMULA should be utilized especially by farmers who are in the weak water areas and also by the farmers who are trying to cover too much land with too few wells. This information will be valuable to farmers so that they can more effectively plan the proper length of run, head of irrigation water, and time when irrigation must be started for maximum efficiency.

The proper timing of irrigation along with the proper balance of fertilizer can make the difference of a profit or loss in today's highly specialized farming. One example of the value of the proper planning of irrigation as well as the proper length of run was shown in the 1964 report from the Foundation on sugar beet production.

FIELD AVERAGES, using standard irrigation methods, yielded 28.13 tons of sugar beets per acre. This yield represented a net income of $148 per acre. Yield and net income were increased by the proper length of run of the irrigation water. Yield increased to 33.05 tons per acre and net return jumped to $208. This increase of $60 higher net return per acre was due to the length of run. The same amount of water was applied on all plots.

Higher yields and higher net returns can be obtained by using the same amounts of irrigation water if it is applied properly. This, along with the proper planning of an irrigation program to fit the farm, can cut the cost of farming.

RESEARCH AT the Foundation has shown that the most important single irrigation is preplant. For agricultural areas falling in the category mentioned earlier, either weak water or too few wells for the number of acres, adequate amounts of preplant irrigation water can be applied by starting early in the season, possibly in January.

Early planning of an irrigation program can help to insure that adequate moisture is available for the crop.

REASSEMBLING PROJECT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)— A Chattanooga man is offering a $25 reward for information concerning the person who is stealing his car bit by bit.

Charles Satterfield says the 1950 auto has been parked in his garage since it was sideswiped some time ago. He says the gradual stripping began about six months ago.

"They started by knocking the rear window glass out and proceeded to take all the tires, wheels brake drums and a few other things," Satterfield said.

The spoilers recently have removed the radiator, battery, carburetor and the contents of the trunk.

"Now they've started on the engine. There seems to be no stopping point," Satterfield said.

Police are checking several clues. Satterfield surmised that someone either is trying to rebuild another car or is starting from scratch.

Coffee Time

With Easter just around the corner — and spring weather with it — we hope, talk is still centered around fashions. Some of the women are wearing the new "short-short" styles but the newest accompaniment is eyes! Painted on the knees — the eyes are applied in color to match the costume!

This is an excellent time to start a few preparations and decorations for the Easter table. Dress it up and delight the family with an egg tree. Purchase oval shaped styrafoam and decorate to your own liking with ribbons and bows. Hang these with matching colorful ribbon from an attractively shaped branch which can be anchored with clay in an appropriate basket or pot.

Children can make their own candy eggs with candy chocolate or white cooked shelled eggs. Decorate with the variety of colors offered in the prepared frosting available in push button containers to make designs and flowers on the eggs.

The kiddos can make their own designs also for the cooked eggs with colored construction paper. They can draw their own designs and cut out and paste on the eggs. They are fun for the egg hunt also.

For a new beach fashion this year crochet your own "fishnet" cover up for use with last year's suit. Use white or contrasting color for a glamorous effect. A crochet matching hat adds a professional touch.

Even sun glasses have taken on a fashionable look for the coming season. They range from the slant eyed variety to six sided frames — round eyed version sculptured to appear similar to a daisy to a variety with an additional triangle. Guess that last one is to keep up with the space age.

With the damp weather, it is easy to get one's furs damp or wet when using. To dry, place them where the air can circulate and shake them dry. Be especially careful not to place them near a source of heat and be sure they are entirely dry before putting them away.

For the do-it-yourself seamstress — perk up the young ladies Easter dresses from last year with a slip-over pinafore in lace. Lengthen the dress with matching lace if it has no allowance for lengthening and add a little lace headband to complete the costume.

All children seem to wear out their clothing in the same place — seat and knees. With the warm weather on the way, the sidewalks will create a few more worn spots . . . so prepare in advance.

For the girls, sew on contrasting colored patches in designs such as red hearts or yellow flower patches. For the boys, knees in football or building block designs are interesting. It not only saves on mending at a later date but gives those blue jeans an added touch of interest.

Attended the Youth Symposium at the Community Center and Judge Williams passed on a rather impressing and amusing reference pertaining to the impressions TV can make on young folks. His story was as follows:

Youngster talking with grocer: May I purchase some DUZ please? I want to give my parakeet a bath.

Grocer to Youngster: Sonny, that will kill your bird! The youngster replied that it wouldn't because on TV he heard that DUZ does everything.

The next day the same boy was in the grocery store and to the grocer's question replied that the bird was dead. "You see, I was right — DUZ doesn't do everything," said the grocer. "Don't believe everything you hear on TV."

"Wasn't the DUZ," said the boy, "it was the wringer that got him."

• • •

Am sure I didn't give it to you exactly as the Judge told it, but it sure does get the idea across . . . See you next week.

What Dust Storms?

Eastern publicity centering around recent Spring dust storms has created a bit of a furror in some Panhandle circles this past week. People where the dusters blew hardest seem to resent most the inference that the Panhandle is back in the throes of its Dust Bowl status of the 1930's.

Here in Deaf Smith County, we expect a certain amount of wind — which usually brings with it a bit of loose dirt from New Mexico — each Spring and, consequently, have noted very little difference from conditions in 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963 and 1964. This, we figure, is a cheap way to import top soil; and we have probably come to accept the condition as preferable over the flood rampages of the Central States, hurricanes of the Gulf Coast, and bitter, below-zero temperatures of the Northwest.

Apparently some of our neighbors have been maligned through the Eastern Press, however, and here is how at least two of them view the situation:

REMEMBER MAE WEST

BEN EZZELL in The Canadian Record:

Nobody who lived in the Texas Panhandle or anywhere on what we now grandiosely call "the golden spread" during the mid-1930's, can seriously mistake what happened last week for a recurrence of the "Dust Bowl". This would be like comparing some of TV's curvaceous cuties with Mae West. It's just not the same thing.

Which doesn't mean that the early March dust storms weren't unpleasant . . . or even that they didn't do a lot of damage to winter wheat, in addition to dirtying up the landscape . . . because they were and they did. But this isn't a disaster area . . . and the Dust Bowl definitely was.

The Eastern newspapers played up the dust-bowl angle big last week. Even the staid conservative New York Times (of which we have a copy of the March 4 issue) captioned a picture of a blown-out wheat field with "The Dust Bowl in Grip of a 2-year Drought" and wrote grimly of closed roads, darkness at noon, sand-blasted paint and tractors buried under mounds of dust . . . and reading it we imagined for a moment that we really were right back in the big middle of the "dirty thirties"

But we aren't, and we aren't likely to be. There's been a lot of water under the bridge, and a lot of bridges without water under 'em, since the Dust Bowl closed up shop . . . and these occasional spring dusters are a sharp reminder to all of us that it did happen here once and it could happen again, if we let it . . . but we're not likely to let it.

A good example of why not was the wry comment we overheard last week from a young farmer who had just written off a wheat crop. "Well," he remarked wearily, "I chiseled my land until I got the blowing stopped, but I probably chiseled all of the wheat out of it." The point is that he did get the blowing stopped, and stopped quickly, and thousands of others were doing the same thing at the same time. They lost a wheat crop, but they saved their topsoil . . . for themselves and their neighbors . . . and the big blow was halted before it was well begun.

In the 1930's that wouldn't have happened. Land started blowing, and it kept right on blowing, because nobody knew what to do about it. Now they do know. . . and they do it. . .and we can thank thirty years of good sound soil conservation education and practice for it.

What happened last week was a pale copy of the black dusters of the 1930's. . . both in density and duration. Nobody but newcomers, newborn, or old folks with poor memories would make the mistake of equating that with the real black wooly ones we used to have.

OCHILTREE COUNTY

HAROLD HUDSON in The Ochiltree County Herald (Perryton): The publicity we received on dust storms this spring, especially in the Eastern part of the United States, has repercussions far beyond what might be first imagined.

But the "image" of our Panhandle country which is portrayed by these dust storm stories is damaging not only to our pride and prestige, but in more ways than that.

For example, we had a telephone call Tuesday from a man in the Southwestern Public Service Co. office in Amarillo, wanting to know if we ever saw or talked to the writer who painted such a black picture of our area.

We had to say that we never saw or heard of the man until we saw his newspaper article.

Our Southwestern Public Service Co. man explained that he was anxious to counteract some of this propaganda because Southwestern, a big outfit indeed, gets some of its capital from the money markets in the East, and the New York financial community is taking a long hard look at the Panhandle and South Plains now in view of the publicity which portrays it as a wind swept, bankrupt and starving expanse of prairie.

It will take a lot of selling to present our country as one of solid farmers, prosperous business houses, and an expanding economy.

Like any other rumor, the dust storm stories are hard to combat once they are spread out over the country.

We have wondered if oil company headquarters in Denver or Tulsa or Houston or New York will want to send people out here to choke in the dust they read about.

We don't like these dust storm stories at all, even though they do make sensational reading. We wish there were some way to put the true picture as graphically as the false one has been presented.

Space Program Gains Stature

The United States Gemini capsule went into orbit this week to establish the fact that man can maneuver aircraft in outer space. The entire experiment was considered a success from start to finish and, following closely, came a successful "shot" to the moon, which brought back evidence of what can be expected when man makes his landing there.

These finds are more important, perhaps, than most of us expect, and under normal conditions would have been the talk of the entire world. In reality, though, they were destined to occupy a back seat in most areas, because of Russia's orbit, which immediately preceeded the U. S. feat — and was obviously timed to counteract any favorable comment which the U. S. endeavors might attract. The Soviet accomplishment of putting a man on the outside of their craft in true Buck Rogers style was definitely an example of international showmanship at its best.

The U. S. method of scientific approach, along with ultra conservatism in protection of human life, is the way most of us like to do things in this country. Admitting that we are perhaps a bit sluggish when it comes to propaganda and adapting our advantages to the "Cold War", we are still operating on the same theories which brought our nation into a position of world-wide leadership — and the many improvements noted here attest to the fact that it is not only practical, but advantageous to the general public.

In addition, the fact that Russia went to so much trouble and spent so much money for the sole purpose of "downgrading" the previously announced Gemini tests indicates that the U. S. approach is making its mark in the international space race. Certainly, it confirms U. S. contention that our space achievements are second to none in the world.

Highway 385 To Be Widened

Lettings are scheduled in April for widening of Highway 385 approximately 11 miles north of Hereford. These improvements will no doubt prove of tremendous value to the area from several standpoints.

At present, the road is hazardous not only over the 11 mile stretch, but on into Vega, where it connects with U. S. 66, and this is especially true during harvest season when it is crowded with wheat, grain and beet trucks.

In addition to tourist traffic, 385 currently carries a heavy load of commercial truck traffic, including gasoline and butane vehicles from Moore County to the south, also west from here into New Mexico.

From Hereford into Littlefield, 385 has been widened and is generally in good condition. The 11 mile strip will help, but we hope that it is only a single phase of an overall project which will ultimately take the improvements into Moore County and on to Dallam County, thus providing safer transportation across the entire Texas division of the international route.

'The Whole War is Sickening'

TWO POLLS INDICATE

Texans Voice Opposition To Johnson Programs

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clark Fisher, D-Tex., says a majority of those who replied to a questionnaire he distributed in his district disagree with many programs proposed by a fellow Texan — President Johnson.

Here are some of Fisher's findings on such issues as:

— Medicare programs financed through social security: Opposed 83 per cent, for 13 per cent, undecided 4 per cent.

— Repeal of the national origins system to determine immigration quotas: Opposed 78 per cent, for 13 per cent, indecided 9 per cent.

REPEAL OF THAT section of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits states to enact right-to-work laws: Against 86 per cent, for 11 per cent, undecided 2 per cent.

— Federal aid to church-supported and other private schools: Against 84 per cent, for 11 per cent, undecided 5 per cent.

— Increased federal aid to lacalities for transportation and housing: Opposed 66 per cent, for 14 per cent, continue present programs 20 per cent.

Fisher also posed this question:

"DO YOU THINK the Federal government should carry on more research and make results available to those who seek more knowledge on the subject of birth control?"

The response favored the affirmative — 69 per cent, 22 per cent said no and 9 per cent were undecided.

Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., whose district includes 13 counties has completed in one county — Montgomery — the tabulation of the results of a poll that asked questions similar to those presented by Fisher.

Although Fisher's 27-county district is in the western part of the state and Dowdy's in the eastern section, the results of the poll were similar. Dowdy's constituents approved and disapproved in about the same proportion as Fisher's.

DOWDY ASKED these two questions not included in Fisher's questionnaire:

1. Should the Constitution be amended to permit voluntary prayer recitation and bible reading in public school?

2. Should the United States expand military operations in Viet Nam?

To No. 1, 82 per cent replied yes, 11 per cent said no, and 7 per cent were undecided. On No. 2 it was 51 per cent yes, 24 per cent no, 25 per cent undecided.

Backfiring Car Breaks Arm Of E. T. Gallagher

50 YEARS AGO

E. T. Gallagher is carrying his arm in a sling and bound in splints as a result of a kicking car. While cranking his car it backfired and broke the one above the wrist.

Mrs. J. W. English will deliver a lecture, "The Scarlet Robe on the Way to the Cross." This will be delivered in an Eastern scarlet robe at the courthouse Sunday at 4 p.m. No charges.

Mr. W. A. Conner, who has been the efficient carrier of Uncle Sam's mail on the star line between Hereford and Dimmitt, has turned the work over to Mr. T. A. Turnbow who will attend to the duties in the near future.

The Boys Agricultural Club spent a pleasant and profitable day at the cattle ranch of Mr. Rat Jowell Saturday. A biting wind just over the line from the north pole became so warmed up with the boys' enthusiasm that it was only a gentle spring zephyr and the icy shivers it sent down the spines of the young farmers were mere ecstatic thrills.

Editorial: Being on one of the trans-continental auto roads, hundreds of tourists will pass through this year on their way to the coast to visit the Golden State. If Deaf Smith Couny had a permanent exhibition, displayed in the basement of the courthouse where it rightfully belongs, there would be something worthwhile to show our visitors. Now is the time to begin.

10 YEARS AGO

John J. Hastins this week took over the duties of chief deputy in the office of Tax Assessor-Collector, according to Sheriff Lowell R. Sharp.

Mr. Hastings, a nephew of Henry Hastings, pioneer resident of this area, has until recently been handling the same position in the Wheeler County Tax Office at Wheeler.

The Hereford Lions Club took in $916.95 when they walked the streets Wednesday selling brooms, mops and other items from the Texas Blind Shops Caravan, according to Ray Cowsert, Mayor.

GEORGIA PROUD OF MARBLE

ATLANTA (AP) - What comes from Georgia? Peaches, certainly. But the Peach State can also claim to have to produced some of the nation's finest marble.

Marble from northwest Georgia was used in building the Lincoln Memorial in Washington.

Georgia marble also was used for state capitols in Rhode Island, Minnesota, Kentucky and Arkansas.

And Georgia produced what is believed to be the largest block of marble ever quarried — a 76-ton block that is part of the Buckingham Fountain in Chicago.

Panhandle Paragraphs

We figure we must be batting about .500 since we were unable to answer one question posed this week and successfuly fielded another. After our little piece about President Johnson and his civil rights speech and his announced intentions to repeal Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act, we received many calls but one of the callers posed this question: "How come it is legally and normally right to march and demonstrate in the state capitol of Montgomery yet it is illegal, unethical, and shameful to picket, march or demonstrate in the Congress or White House in Washington . . . how come?" We were unable to answer the lady's question then — and we're still unable to answer it now. We don't know. We guess some things are just unexplainable.

Since January 1, the Chamber of Commerce has received more than 50 inquiries for information about the Dalhart area. Sandhill cranes — by the thousands — have invaded farmers' fields west of Slaton in recent weeks. H. M. Cade, who lives about 6½ miles west of Slaton on the Union road, says the crane invasion on his fields happened "for the first time in all the years we've been here." That's a good span of years, too, for Cade has been farming there since 1922. In this area, the cranes have been prevalent for years in lakes around Tahoka. In recent years, hunting season on the birds has been open only west of U. S. 87.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Bindweed farm takes another look at the Viet Nam situation this week. It's not clear what he sees.

Dear editar:

According to an article I read in a newspaper last night, the American newspaper reporters in Viet Nam are complaining because the U.S. government won't let them move around freely in the country to report the news.

"Without freedom to report the news, the American public will not get a true picture of what's happening in Viet Nam," the reporters complained.

Now I'm not in favor of censorship ,outside maybe of reporting what this Bindweed farm made last year, but I'm afraid that if the reporters in Viet Nam think the only reason we don't have a clear picture of what's happening over there is that they aren't allowed to report it, they aren't taking a very practical view of the matter.

However, if one single reporter knows what's taking place, we ought to buy him a ticket home and let him tell us. I have a notion President Johnson himself would buy the ticket if he thought he could get the complete dope.

Moreover, I have an idea the Viet Nam people themselves would like to find out what's happening.

And even if we knew everything that's taking place over there, I'm afraid we still couldn't make heads or tails of it.

It may be that there are too many people in Viet Nam about like me. Regardless of how many experts come out here and tell me how I can make this Bindweed farm pay more and give me a richer and fuller life, and regardless of how right they are and how sound their advice is, I just never do get around to doing much about it..

On the other hand, if I had 200 million hungry Chinese slaving under a dictator and clamoring to break through my sagging forces, I might be hollering for all the help I could get.

Don't ask me the answers to such problems. Don't even ask me who to ask. In fact, if some of those reporters know what's happening in Viet Nam, why doesn't Congress subpoena them at once to come home and testify, so it can get in on it too?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Lone Star Study Hears Program By Mrs. Newsome About President

Mrs. G. W. Newsom brought a program about Washington, D.C. for the members of the Lone Star Study Club when they met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. J. J. Durham. Mrs. Baker Womble was the presiding officer.

Mrs. Newsom did not relate the physical features of Washington or the social life but confined her program to the growing ordeal which the president is undergoing.

She named the following as pressures from all sides: criticisms, wage demands, strikes, world problems, domestic troubles such as closing of veterans hospitals and defense institutions, also farm problems, fight against organized crime, sales of narcotics and pep pills.

The president's position she related is a lonely one and no one can make decisions for him.

"Peace of God", the thought for the day was brought by Mrs. Ed Warren. Joe Smith of Hereford High School explained for the group the two bills coming before the Texas legislature concerning the teacher's pay raise.

Hostesses for this program were Mrs. J. J. Durham and Miss Mildred Elliott with the following members in attendance: Mrs. R. G. Blue, Mrs. Opal Bookout, Mrs. Thelma Chisum, Mrs. H. E. Henslee, Mrs. Jim Higgins, Mrs. C. D. Kelton, Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr., Mrs. Vivian Major, Mrs. G. W. Newsome, Mrs. C. O. Phillips, Mrs. Ray Suit, Mrs. Ed Warren, Mrs. S. S. Williams, Mrs. Baker Womble and Mrs. V. E. Dodson.

Jazz Performance Is Program At Recent Music Study Meet

Ben Gollehon and his Jazz Band gave a performance for the members of the Music Study Club when they met Monday in the Community Center.

Four examples of Jazz were performed by the band and included for their program were selections of You've Got To Have Heart, What Ever Lola Wants, Lola Gets, a ballad, In My Solitude; Latin American number, Peanut Vendor; and The Preacher.

According to Mrs. Mountz, reporter for the group, the selections were exceptionally well performed.

Also for the program, Mrs. Bill Dameron sang Blue Skies (Irving Berlin) and St. Louis Blues (Handy) with Mrs. Joe Hacker accompaning.

Two numbers were performed by a dance group consisting of Judy Roberson, Debbie Wilson, Laura Fuston, Cindy Hale, Angela Grubbs, Joey Hopson and Edana Hopson.

Mrs. B. Y. Crosthwait was the presiding officer for this meeting with Mrs. Bill Dameron as program chairman. For her talk about jazz music she said that the most gifted "jazzers,, in an orchestra are free hand, spur of the moment men. They improvise and interpolate words and jingles into the text of the libretto. Jazz she said is a form and techniuqe of American popular music, characterized by fantasic elaborations in rhythmic accent and eccentric variations in harmony.

There were a number of guests present for this program in addition to the club members and punch, cookie and mints were served from a spring table with accents on bright colors and spring flowers for the decoration.

I'M TELLING EVERYONE I MEET

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Some Newark residents live on Easy Street.

That's really the name of it — Easy Street.

Miss Bishop, Glen Fuller Repeat Wedding Vows

Miss Marilyn Kay Bishop became the bride of Glen Wilson Fuller Thursday evening with the double ring ceremony being performed in the Avenue Baptist Church with the Rev. Gene Suttle of Dawn Baptist Church officiating.

For the wedding the church was decorated with an archway flanked with candle tapers featuring baskets of pink and white mums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bishop, 505 Avenue J. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Fuller Sr., of Dawn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a full floor length gown of peau de soie fashioned with a nylon lace bodice accented with sequins. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and crystal beads.

Her bridal bouquet feathered mums surrounded a cattleya orchid which was lifted from the bouquet for her corsage to complete her going-away ensemble.

For her heirloom she wore scatter pins belonging to her grandmother and her other jewelry was a single pearl drop.

Matron of honor was Mrs. H. S. Fuller Jr. of Canyon. Her empire sheath dress was of brocade cotton and acetate and her bouquet was of feathered mums. H. S. Fuller Sr., father of the bridegroom, served as best man and ushers were H. S. Fuller Jr., Canyon and Joe Fuller, Dawn.

Vanessa Bishop, sister of the bride and Brian Thompson were ring bearers and carried the rings on white satin and lace pillows. She wore a pale pink nylon dress with white hat and slippers.

Candlelighters were Mickey Bishop, brother of the bride, and George Ray Fuller, brother of the bridegroom.

Organist was Mrs. Carl Wimberly of Dawn and Miss Linda Lemons, Abilene, was soloist.

Musical selection other than the traditional wedding music were Oh, Promise Me, Whither Thou Goest, I Love You Truly and Bless This House.

Miss Sharon Lamm presided at the guest register for the reception in the Fellowship Hall of the Avenue Baptist Church. Decorations were in pink and white, the chosen colors of the bride. Mrs. Harold Hamby, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Dale Barkley served.

An orchid corsage completed the ensemble selected by the mother of the bridegroom and she wore a golden brown two piece suit with beige patent accessories.

The mother of the bride selected a beige brocade costume accented with black accessories and an orchid corsage.

For the wedding trip to Carlsbad Caverns the bride chose a pink wool suit accompanied by black accessories. The couple plan to make their home at 613 South 25 Mile Avenue.

She is a graduate of Hereford High School, member of the Rebekah Lodge and employed with Master's Cleaners. He also is a graduate of Hereford High School and is employed with the J. C. Penney Company.

Sure there's a difference between the luxury '65 Chevrolet and expensive cars

You can put most of it in your savings account

Maybe you've only seen them on the street so far. If so, come on in and see a Jet-smooth '65 Chevrolet right in our showroom. We think you'll do a double-take when you get up close enough for a look at that price sticker. Most people do. Because the major difference between this one and cars that cost quite a bit more is simply—price.

Take room, for example. Chevrolet has more of it than many expensive cars do. You get extra foot room with the new frame and forward engine design. And those handsome curved side windows are one reason for all of the extra shoulder room, front and rear.

And there's plenty of luxury. The smartly functional instrument panel is easy to read, puts everything at your fingertips as well. Color-keyed interiors feature tastefully rich fabrics and vinyls, foam-cushioned seating and plush deep-twist carpeting. And even the low-cost Bel Airs and Biscaynes include these luxury touches.

There's a great choice of power, from Chevrolet's economical, spirited 140-hp Turbo-Thrift Six on up. And that famous Jet-smooth ride is even better this year. A new Full Coil suspension, new wider tread and over 700 sound and shock absorbers work together to give you the feeling there's a foot of air between you and the road.

You can tailor the car exactly to your taste, too. Our catalog lists nearly 200 ways to do that—and our salesmen can show you how easily your present car and realistic monthly payments will have you driving a beautiful '65 Chevrolet nearly as quickly as you've read this message.

...WHEN A ROCKSLIDE SEALED THEM INTO THIS VALLEY! HERE WE HAVE SURVIVED FOR GENERATIONS... SEEKING A WAY OVER THESE MOUNTAINS!

A SHORT HIKE SHOULD BRING US IN SIGHT OF THE POMO LIGHTHOUSE!

CLEAR DAY, BUT THE OCEAN IS MIGHTY UPSET!

IT STAYS THAT WAY THIS TIME OF YEAR, SPUD — THAT'S WHY SMALL BOATS CAN'T APPROACH THE LIGHT TO LAND ANYONE —

TIM, WE HAVE NO MORE CHANCE OF REACHING THAT ROCK FROM HERE THAN A BOAT DOES FROM THE SEA!

OUR ORDERS ARE TO CONTACT THAT KEEPER, AND THAT IS WHAT I AIM TO DO!
