

Housing Project Open House Set

Olton's new low-rent housing project will be viewed by the public at open house Sunday from 2-5 p.m.

Eighteen units in three different areas of the community will be open to visitors, according to R. C. Parsons, executive director of the Olton Housing Authority.

The project, built at a cost of approximately $230,000, is part of the nation's urban renewable program.

General contractor was Tatum Construction Co. of Lubbock. Architect was F. Olin Smith, Fort Worth.

Four of the duplex units, along with the Housing Authority office, are located on a site just east of the post office.

Three other duplexes are located at a site in the Latin American section of the community, and two others near Bohner School.

At the first site are two three-bedroom units, two two-bedroom units and four one-bedroom.

In the Latin American section are four three-bedroom units and two two-bedroom.

Near Bohner are four three-bedroom units.

Members of the Housing Authority board, which directs the affairs of the project, are C. R. Polk, chairman; Eldon Franks, Marshall Stone, Dr. O. H. Jones and Jerry Dennis.

Applications for rental of the units still are being accepted by the housing board. Application blanks and information on requirements for the renters may be obtained at the Housing Authority office on Tuesdays only.

Ruckus At City Hall Stirs Controversy

Deputy, Hatley Fined In Fight

Two versions of an incident at Olton City Hall Saturday were offered by the two principals in the affair, which came under heavy debate at the regular City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Homer Whisenand, Lamb County deputy sheriff, said in describing the incident, "I openly violated the law and paid a fine for doing it."

He said he slapped Elvis Hatley after Hatley began using abusive language and swinging at him. He said the argument started when he refused to help Hatley force a group of Latin Americans to come back to Hatley's labor camp.

Hatley said the deputy started the disagreement, slapped him with a blackjack and threatened him with a wrench.

Hatley said the argument started when he requested an officer to go with him for protection while he went to the labor camp to collect money for meals and groceries he had bought the workers.

Whisenand said the incident started Saturday morning when several Latin American farmhands came into the city hall police office. He said they complained they had been lured from Brownsville with promises of $1.25 an hour wages.

Whisenand said the Latin Americans told him that when they arrived, Hatley told them he would pay them 75 cents an hour. Whisenand said one told him Hatley owed him $67 in wages and had refused to pay.

The workers wanted him to force Hatley to pay the back wages and to pay the hourly wage they were promised. Whisenand said he told them he had no authority to enter into a labor dispute, and they left.

Whisenand said about 4 p.m. Saturday, Hatley came into his office and said he wanted Whisenand to force a group of the Latin Americans who had walked away from the living quarters he was providing to come back.

Whisenand said he told Hatley he would have to fill out a warrant to bring them back. At this point, the deputy said Hatley told him he didn't need a warrant and would bring them back himself, with a gun.

Whisenand said Hatley then began cursing and raving, and that the deputy slapped Hatley after Hatley took several swings at him.

City Judge Bill Smith said both Whisenand and Hatley were fined for fighting, but that Hatley was allowed to go home that afternoon without paying his fine.

Smith said that Hatley hadn't paid his fine by Tuesday afternoon, and was picked up and jailed for about two hours. Smith said when he arrived, Hatley paid his fine and was released.

In discussing a warrant mentioned in the council meeting, Smith said Hatley had signed a warrant, but it meant nothing because it was not filled out before a judge. He said the document did not bear the name of the person against whom it was to be issued.

Smith said he didn't know if it was supposed to be against the Latin Americans or against Whisenand.

In a meeting called at City Hall by Hatley Wednesday night, Hatley offered a different account of the incident.

He said a group of workers came in by bus and he bought them a meal and some groceries. He said they went on to the labor camp run by him, and when he arrived at the camp, he was questioned by the laborers about wage rates.

He said when the workers were told prevailing rates were 75 cents an hour for hoeing cotton and $1 an hour for tractor driving, they wanted to go back to South Texas.

Hatley said he had paid the workers transportation costs to come to Olton, but only wanted to get the money back he had spent on the meals and groceries he bought them after they arrived in Olton.

But he said he didn't want to go back to the labor camp unprotected and wanted a

Olton Area Crops Are In Good Shape

Lamb County crops appear to be in good shape after another light rain blanketed the area last Wednesday.

The only area suffering severe damage was the eastern third of the county, where hailed-out cotton and washed-in maize is being quickly replanted.

Although Olton recorded its first load of wheat Tuesday, most wheat growers anticipate harvest to get into full swing in about 10 days.

Cotton and maize that haven't received any hail appear to be doing very well for this early in the season, probably because of the last two weeks of timely rain.

Elevator operators don't anticipate a record wheat producing year, partly because of acreage reductions and partly because, as one put it, "Wheat just doesn't look as good as it did last year."

On the O. E. Patterson farm east of Olton, about 80 inch of rain was reported, along with heavy hail. Mrs. Patterson said they probably weren't going to have to replant anything. "But we're still waiting to see."

Another farmer east of town, Norman Smith, also reported heavy hail along with about 1.25 inches of rain. Cotton and maize loss was estimated to be about 20 per cent.

West of town, Homer Worley reported a slight amount of hail along with about 1.00 inch of rain, but said crops were looking very good in that area and nearly-ripe wheat appeared unharmed by the rain.

Northeast of town, heavy hail was reported on the farms of Paul Feathergill, L. G. Elkins, Cloma Fancher and Witt Lacey.

Replanting is expected in the area, especially of cotton.

Southwest, Elmer McGill said about .50 inch of rain was received along with some hail, "but not enough to hurt anything."

He said crops in that area looked very good and rain hadn't appeared to hurt the wheat.

On his south farm, he said hail was somewhat heavier, but damage wasn't too bad.

CRITCHFIELD IMPROVING

Tom Critchfield is listed in serious condition at Plainview Hospital after being critically burned in an anhydrous ammonia accident on his farm on May 27.

Doctors think he will eventually recover, barring complications. He has been removed from an iron lung which was first used after the accident in which his throat, mouth, and lungs were burned.

Relatives report he is still receiving oxygen to help his breathing.

Doctors are still not certain whether he will recover use of one of his eyes which was also burned in the accident.

Details of the accident are still unknown, since Critchfield hasn't been able to talk since the mishap.

Doctors say his condition is improving, but would not estimate time needed for recovery.

Chimp Part Of The Family

Take one young chimpanzee, feed him a regular diet of fresh fruits, keep him warm in cold weather, make sure he gets his bath regularly, his clothes are clean and his shoes fit, and what do you have?

Well, no one seems to know for sure. But the Lester Thompson family has a good idea.

Their daughter, Cherie, is the proud possessor of a year-old chimp with the jungle-sounding name of Tamba. The chimp was a Christmas present from her parents and came from a pet shop in Lubbock. Before that, the well-traveled brown ball of fur called Winter Park, Fla., home.

Tamba seems to have adjusted well to nearly human activity, but like any child seems to think the best way to find out about anything is to put it in his mouth.

Mrs. Thompson said his shoes were regular baby shoes, with an extra strip of foam rubber in the inside of the ankle because Tamba's ankles are so small. At the time, Tamba was busily investigating the foam rubber by tearing it from the inside of the shoe and placing it in his scientific investigating laboratory, his mouth.

During the day, Tamba spends most of his time in the Thompson's house or investigating the back yard. He goes across the street at night to sleep in Cherie's grandmother's carport. The carport was chosen because it can be heated, and chimps require warm temperature.

If the temperature is not warm enough, Tamba sometimes takes a cold, and as you probably know, there is nothing worse than a chimp with the sniffles.

Tamba's main playing companion now is the Thompson's other pet, a small dog named Schnapsie. But when he is a little older, he may graduate to slightly larger playmates--people.

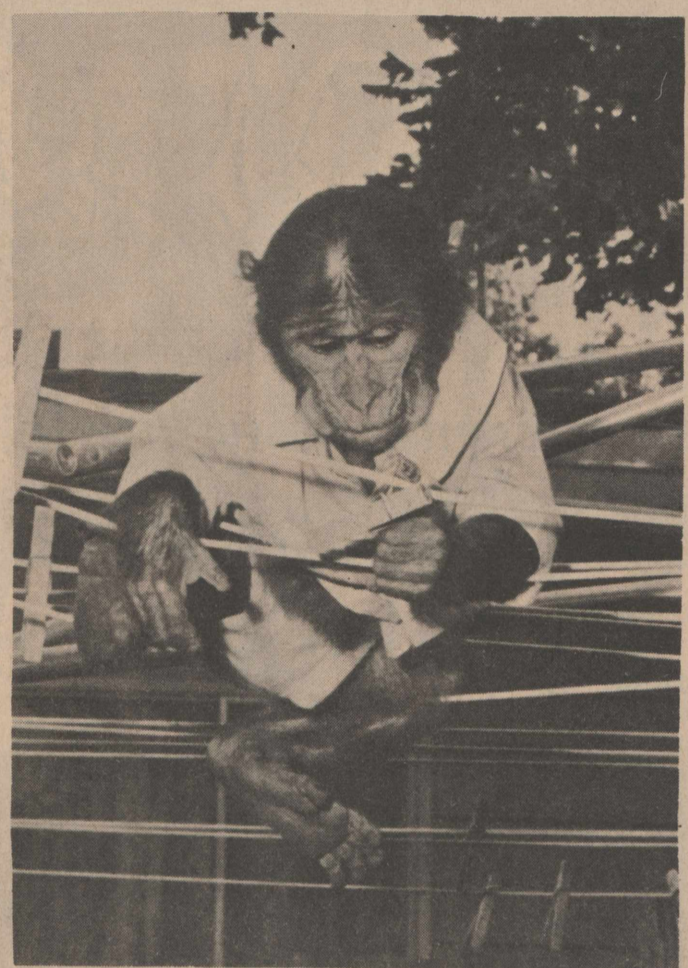

Cherie says she is going to try to teach the chimp to skate as soon as he is a little larger.

How? Well, it seems Tamba has almost an addiction for marshmallows, and if he wouldn't walk a mile for a well-known cigarette, he might learn to roller-skate for a marshmallow.

His favorite resting place? Aside from the carport, he seems to have taken a fancy to a tall willow tree in the Thompson's backyard, although the family washer seemed to hold more than a passing interest for the busy simian.

When last seen, Tamba and Schnapsie were seen running around the yard together, probably planning what they would do if they decided to leave their backyard home.

But there doesn't seem to be an overabundance of trees in the surrounding countryside for Tamba to climb on, so for now he is waiting for rollerskating lessons.

WELL, IT'S NOT THE JUNGLE, BUT--Tamba the chimpanzee seems to reflect on the lack of trees and vines to swing on in West Texas. Maybe he's decided a clothesline is a worthy substitute for a sturdy vine-covered tree.

Youth Center Rolls Merrily

Despite the lack of a permanent home, the Olton Youth Center continues to roll merrily along.

A campaign to collect trading stamp books is already underway. The books will be used to buy equipment for the activities of the center.

A bake sale is scheduled Saturday to raise money to start a fund to build a permanent building to house the center. Bake goods will go on sale at 8 a.m. at Cashway, Super Save, and Moore's super markets.

Tentative plans have been made for a car wash to raise more funds, but a date hasn't been set.

Game night last Friday attracted approximately 24 Olton youths.

Dance night on Saturday saw approximately 80 in attendance. Chaperones for the game night were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Melnecke and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Thompson. Chaperones for the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Ott Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Offield, Mr. and Mrs.

Students in high school or the first two years of college may attend the activities.

Joe Chester and Mr. and Mrs. Thompson.

Both game and dance night will be held at the Merry-Go-Round skating rink, the scene of last week's activities. On game night, those students who wish may also skate at the rink for 50 cents. No charge will be made for those playing ping-pong or board games.

On dance night, a $1 per person charge will be made. The Skyliners will again play at the dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Bub Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will chaperone the game night, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Struve, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Quigley the dance.

Swim Lessons

Swimming lessons begin June 14.

Special classes for five- and six-year olds and ladies will be offered. Cost for 10 one-hour lessons is $12.50. Further information may be obtained from Anne Nicholas at 285-2446.

SAYS GOVERNMENT REPORT

Money In Circulation At High Level In Lamb

The amount of money in circulation in Lamb County, a prime factor in determining economic vitality, is at a high level, according to a new Government report.

At the close of the last fiscal year, it shows, the supply of money in local banks, which comprises the bulk of the currency in circulation, was equivalent to $1,296 for every man, woman and child in the community.

There was an additional amount of money, small by comparison, in the form of cash in people's pockets and in the cash registers and safes of business firms.

The $1,296 per capita that is on deposit in local banks compares with an average of $1,288 per capita in the rest of the West South Central States.

The figures on the money supply and the way it is distributed have just been released by the Federal Reserve System in its first such report in two years. It lists the funds on hand in commercial and savings banks in every part of the United States.

An adequate supply of money on deposit is important for a community's economic health, it is pointed out. It is what keeps the wheels of industry greased.

This greasing takes place when banks put the money back into the stream of commerce through loans and investments, thus providing business concerns, farmers and others with necessary financial services.

The total on deposit in Lamb County banks at the end of the fiscal year, according to the Federal Reserve report, was $30,337,000, as against the amount on hand two years before, $27,457,000.

Included in this total were time deposits (savings accounts) of $8,019,000 and $18,779,000 in demand deposits (checking accounts) of individuals, partnerships and corporations as well as certain governmental and interbank deposits.

The amount in savings accounts, $8,019,000 was well over the previous total of $5,900,000.

Noteworthy in the trend toward more money in circulation is the extent to which bills of larger size--those of $20 denomination and up--have come into more general use. They have gained in number much more rapidly than have the smaller bills.

Council Debates

What started out to be a routine city council meeting here Tuesday night turned into wide-open debate when Councilman Robert Dennis questioned the hiring of relief police officer Pete McMillan.

That discussion led to other questions from Dennis about the city's role in a ruckus at City Hall Saturday afternoon between County Deputy Homer Whisenand and Elvis Hatley.

Prior to that, the council had set up plans to investigate implementation of a previously approved ordinance establishing a civil defense program here and had turned down a motion to increase water rates on a 3-2 vote.

The Whisenand-Hatley incident came up in the council meeting when Dennis asked Mayor Bill Thomas how McMillan, who is substituting for vacationing police chief Emmett Burrows, was hired.

After Thomas replied he had hired McMillan, Dennis said he thought the mayor had promised not to hire another officer without the council's knowledge.

Thomas said he promised he would "let the council members know who he was hiring." He said he sent Chief Burrows around with McMillan to introduce him to all the council members after he hired McMillan.

Council members Lester Thompson, Doug Jones, Parley Myers and Charles Sullivan said they had all met McMillan.

Then, commenting on the Saturday incident, Dennis said McMillan hadn't tried to stop the incident between Whisenand and Hatley.

He then said, "We should know more about the men who work for us."

Councilman Sullivan told Dennis that a policeman had a hard enough time because when they put on a badge and a gun, "...about 90 per cent of the people are against them anyway. And just because they are policemen doesn't mean they don't have just as low a boiling point as the next man."

After several more minutes of debate, Thomas said he was mayor and as long as he was, he would continue to hire city officials, and "If you (Dennis) don't like it, you can start trying to impeach me now."

Dennis replied, "I just thought your word was better than that."

"I haven't violated my word," Thomas retorted.

Earlier in the meeting, the council had discussed setting up a civil defense unit here. This had been brought into focus by last week's destruction at Hale Center when a tornado tore into that community.

Fire Chief Tom Smith, who had led Olton volunteers to help at Hale Center, told the council he had found little interest in the project when it was first brought up here in the latter part of 1963.

But Councilman Lester Thompson said he believed that interest had been aroused by the Hale Center tornado, and that Olton needs some type of organization to cope with emergencies here.

Edisy Hackler, attending the meeting as a Chamber of Commerce representative, said the Chamber was interested in seeing a civil defense unit formed.

She also suggested that a ladies auxiliary of civil defense could and should be organized to supply clothing and food to disaster victims.

The council later agreed on a trip to Lubbock, probably Monday, to meet with district civil defense authorities and get details about actually formulating a civil defense plan here.

In other activity, the council set the city tax rate the same as last year, $1.50 per $100 of assessed valuation, with values at 35 per cent of actual values.

The council noted that additional revenue might be needed as the city continues to make improvements, Mayor Thomas recommended that when such money is needed it

Four Escape Serious Injury

Four drivers escaped serious injury in two separate auto accidents in Olton on US 70. The first occurred about 5:40 a.m. Thursday when a late-model car driven by Haskell Emery Kirby of Muleshoe was hit from behind by a new pickup carrying mail by John Wesley Combs of Amarillo.

After the accident, which occurred on US 70 near Marshall's Cafe, Kirby was taken by night patrolman Harvey Castleberry to Olton Community Clinic, complaining of a neck injury. Kirby was x-rayed and released.

Damage to Kirby's car was estimated at $250 and to Combs' pickup, $300.

The other accident occurred at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at Avenue G. and US 70. A pickup driven by Kenneth Ray of Olton was involved in a collision with a station wagon driven by Felix Castro of Hart.

No injuries were reported in the mishap.

Damage to Castro's station wagon was estimated to be $300 and to Ray's pickup, $25.

First Wheat Arrives Here

The first load of wheat for the year arrived in Olton Tuesday afternoon.

Cut on the Johnny Talburt farm, about three miles southeast of Hart Camp, the grain arrived at American Grains Olton Elevator about 2:45 p.m.

Dan Gregory, manager of the elevator, said the moisture was 13.10 and the test weight was 63 pounds. The first load weighed about 12,000 pounds and Gregory said it would probably average about 35 bushels an acre.

Gregory said the variety was Early Triumph.

OLTON'S FIRST WHEAT--Luis Contreras, farm hand for Johnny Talburt, and Dan Gregory, manager of American Grains elevator, inspect the first load of wheat brought into Olton this year. The wheat was cut on the Talburt farm three miles southeast of Hart Camp and arrived at the elevator 2:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Aren't You Glad?

A LOS ANGELES TIMES COLUMNIST by the name of Jack Smith says he was looking at education TV the other night and came across an interview with J. Paul Getty, fondly referred to as the richest man in the world. The interviewer asked Mr. Getty why he didn't retire, cash in everything and go live on the beach, and Mr. Getty replied, "If I sold everything, where would I put the money?"

This set Mr. Smith to thinking about where, indeed, would a man with a billion dollars in cash store his loot. Said he: "Put it in a bank? I might be good sport to hand a teller a deposit slip for $1 billion but the poor devil doubtless would faint away or push the alarm buzzer."

"A billionaire with a real sense of sport could have a thousand times more fun by depositing a million dollars in each of 1,000 banks. But could a man with a million in each of 1,000 banks relax at the seashore? He would worry every second. What if a bank failed? The government only insures deposits up to $10,000 each. To be safe, the poor billionaire would have to deposit $10,000 in each of 100,000 banks. This would take some time. If he opened a $10,000 account every hour, eight hours a day, 40 hours a week, it would take him 48 years to deposit all that money. With each new account he would be given one of those little deposit books. Eventually he would have 100,000 little books. If each book weighed only a half ounce, the billionaire would need a 1 1/2 ton truck just to haul his bank books around."

Aren't you glad you're not rich?

Who Says We're Cheap?

We humans have been so preoccupied with watching the price of everything else go up that we have failed to notice that the price of us has gone up, too.

Just 30 years ago chemicals in the human body had a commercial value of about 98 cents. (Even at that price there is no record of anyone wanting to buy from anyone else.)

Today, experts say, those chemicals are worth about $800.

Now no matter how modest he may be, anyone who owns a body has to be at least a little proud of something like this. Any body that contains chemicals which have increased in value by 800 per cent can't be all bad.

The experts didn't say precisely what these precious chemicals are. But from the way some of us are acting, you have a nagging feeling that the base chemical may be acid.

FIVE YEARS AGO IN OLTON

Fire damaged the roof of the old Hart Camp school building Tuesday. The building belongs to Hart Camp Grain Co.

Major James was named mayor of Olton - third in six months - in an unprecedented city election Tuesday. The election had neither campaign nor candidates. James only reluctantly agreed to serve if elected on a write-in. Blank ballots were handed to voters at the polls Tuesday.

Olton defeated the Roden Drug team of Littlefield in a game Tuesday night by a score of 14 to 12. Both teams were guilty of errors. There was some lusty hitting and lots of scoring.

Six Olton business men toured several towns Wednesday in an effort to study sales promotion ideas to be used here.

Alva J. Spain defeated C. M. Moss in one of the closest races in years for the post of Lamb County Commissioner, Precinct 1.

Don Waldrip has resigned as Olton High School principal to study for his doctor's degree. He has been replaced by Joe Turner, former coach.

TEN YEARS AGO IN OLTON

General Motors has awarded the Chevrolet franchise for the Olton area to Fred Thompson, brother of Ed and Joe Thompson who operate Thompson Brothers Implement Co.

Olton's surprising American Legion nine took over undisputed possession of first place in District Two standings Tuesday night with a hard-fought 4-3 win over Lubbock's powerful Legion entry.

Work on city streets will begin some time between now and July 1, according to Ralph Douglas, city engineer.

Average daily attendance of white students in the Olton public school system will exceed 1,000 next year for the first time in history, according to a recent census enumeration and a ten-year "A.D.A." survey of school attendance here.

R. L. Slagle and family are moving back to Amarillo after living in Olton for almost a year. They moved here last August. Mr. Slagle is one of the outstanding amateur photographers of the area.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

59th Legislature List Of Achievements Long

AUSTIN—Political and Legislative history has been written in the 59th lawmaking session just ended.

Highlights:
* A $3,600,000,000 budget providing for expanded services in every area of state government and affecting every citizen.

* Record improvements in higher education, including creation of the powerful coordinating board for Texas colleges and universities.

* A $101,000,000 salary raise for school teachers $70,000,000, of which will be paid by the state.

* A sweeping overhaul in the entire system of state mental hospital and tuberculosis control administration.

Major public welfare expansions, including a proposed constitutional amendment to permit full state participation in the new federal medical care program for the aged, blind and disabled. A provision of the amendment would qualify non-citizens who have lived in the state for 25 years or more.

* Overhaul and extension of the state's program for water control and development.

* Congressional and legislative redistricting which will change the makeup and complexion of future legislatures, shifting the balance of power from rural to urban areas.

* If voters approve proposed constitutional amendments, the Senate will be enlarged from 31 to 39 members and terms of the governor and other statewide-elected officials now limited to two years, as well as those of state representatives, will be extended to four years.

Gov. John Connally emerged as the most powerful governor in modern Texas history.

WHAT IT WILL COST

Despite its record achievements, the 59th session handed a relatively-modest tax bill to Texas citizens.

Cigarette smokers will bear virtually the entire share of the cost. Tax was increased from eight to 11 cents a pack--the nation's highest state rate. This will raise $70,000,000 to $73,000,000 in new money during the coming biennium.

A one-time gain of $6,000,000 will be achieved by setting of a 15 months-from-date-of-death limitation on payment of the inheritance tax.

Teacher pay raise also will require financing at the local level. Present estimate is that the owner of a $15,000 home will pay $2.52 more in annual property taxes to school districts.

BILLS PASSED
Among the new laws passed during the final days of the regular session of the 59th Legislature were:

* Continuation of the Bay Study Committee, which is concentrating on the problems of water pollution;

* Regulation of the taking and processing of oysters and other shellfish for sale;

* Creation of Permian State College, if higher education coordinating board approves, at Odessa;

* Asking members of Congress from Texas to vote for keeping the section of the Taft-Hartley Law which permits Texas to outlaw closed union shops;

* Prohibition of the use of .22 caliber rifle ammunition to hunt deer, elk, antelope and wild sheep in counties not regulated by the Parks and Wildlife Commission;

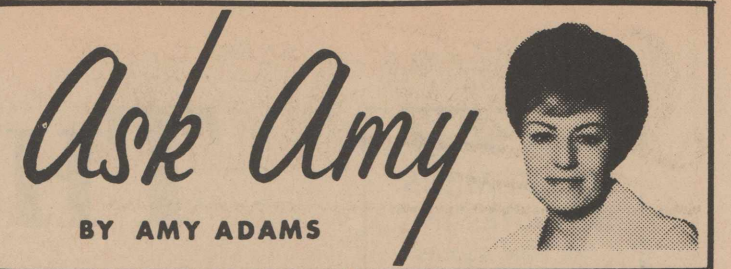

* Prevention of city councils from making residence within the city limits a condition of employment;

* Legalization of free games on pinball machines;

* Requirement for testing of all babies born in Texas for phenylketonuria (PKU), an in-born error in system which, if uncorrected, causes brain damage;

* Parents liability up to $5,000 for malicious and wanton damage by their children.

Ask Amy
BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:

For many years my husband has corrected me every time I point to an object to which I want to draw his attention. I am very demonstrative and poetic license rules my emotions.

Is it considered poor manners to point a finger toward the object of your enthusiasm?
Roberta Frost

you have been so kind as to remember me with, and may THE LORD bless you and guide you in your chosen vocation.

So may I again say "many thanks," and remain as you have said, a friend.

Sincerely,
Lonesome No Longer

Dear Roberta:

More times than not! It is improper to point at people. It is also improper to point at any object which would draw attention to yourself. Accept your husband's criticism. Draw his attention to the object of your enthusiasm verbally rather than pointedly.

Dear Amy:

Do you ever make personal appearances?
Also, if a reader writes you with a problem, would you consider it proper if they continued writing to you as time goes by as other problems arise or to make comments?
C. C. W.

Dear C. C. W.:

Because of so many requests for a "personal appearance," I am going to guest a national television show in the near future. Watch this column for further details, if you want to take a look-see.

I welcome mail from my readers. I have many people who have kept up a warm correspondence for years and we have become good friends as the following letter (one of many) indicates.

Dear Amy:

Since I wrote to you at Christmas time, my "gem" has indeed turned into a sparkling "PRECIOUS STONE." For my birthday on January 25th, she said "Yes," and we became engaged on St. Valentine's Day. We are planning on being married very soon.

I felt I should bring you up to date with these latest happenings so that you may know why you might not hear from me in the future... not because I have forgotten, but because of circumstances. Many thanks for your nice little notes of reply which

Dear Amy:

How do you change a man who talks to much? The man in question is my husband. Now that summer is almost here, he'll be sitting out on the terrace and talking up a storm to our neighbors like he does every year.

He tells them all our personal business and everything that goes on in our house. I've fought with him over his big mouth so many times, but it does no good.

Any suggestions?
Embarrassed

Dear Embarrassed:
If you've been fighting over this for years, and he still suffers from chronic indiscretion, there is little you can do to stop him. Persevere, my dear. The day is bound to come when he puts his foot in that big mouth. Then your troubles will be over... and his will start.

I am only in the 7th grade but I must make an important decision in a couple of months. Two different girlfriends are trying to talk me into going to two different high schools. When one girl tells me about her school, I think, "That school is the one for me." Then when the other girl talks about her school, I want to go to that one.

It is a battle between St. Steve's and Augustine's. What should I do?
A 7th Grader

Dear 7th Grader:

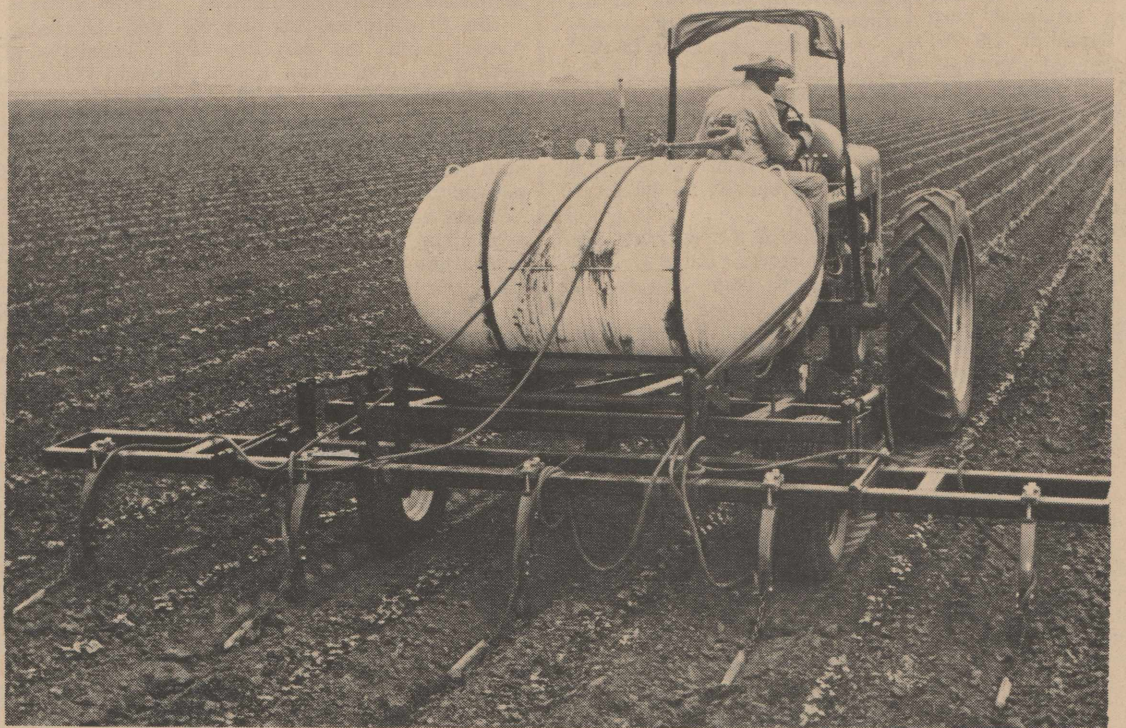

The intelligent approach in making the right decision is to discuss it with your advisor. Then visit both schools and decide which one appeals to you the most and make your choice.

Girlfriends can be helpful, but in your case, you seem thoroughly confused.

He said he talked to Whisenand on the phone, making the request. Hatley said Whisenand refused and he went down to City Hall.

He said City Policeman Harvey Castleberry and Pete McMillan said the county officer would have to be the one to go with Hatley.

At this point, Hatley said he told the officers he wouldn't go anywhere with Whisenand. Hatley said Whisenand and he exchanged several remarks and it ended when Whisenand removed his pistol and asked Hatley to step outside.

Hatley said he did and when he got outside, Whisenand slapped him several times. Hatley said he hit Whisenand back several times, before McMillan separated the two.

Hatley said they both then stepped back inside the City Hall. When this happened, Hatley said, Whisenand knocked him down on top of a desk with a blackjack, then grabbed him around the neck and threatened him with a wrench the deputy had picked up.

Hatley said Attorney Andy Stroebel, who had gone to the City Hall with Hatley, separated the two, while McMillan, Castleberry, and Mayor Bill Thomas made no move to stop Whisenand.

Thomas said earlier he separated the two.

Hatley said he offered to send for money to pay a fine right away, but that Thomas told him to go on home.

He said as he was leaving, Whisenand threatened him again.

He said he thought no more about a fine, until Whisenand and McMillan drove up while he was getting out of his car Tuesday and told him he was under arrest.

Hatley said he was taken to the city jail. He said he asked to make a phone call, but was refused.

He said he was kept in jail from 1:30 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. when Judge Smith came to the City Hall and allowed him to pay his fine and leave.

Hatley said he didn't ever try to sign a complaint, but he had signed a blank piece of paper of some type when he was picked up Tuesday.

Straw Gin

Collects Two

Straw Gin climbed into the Pee Wee League lead with a pair of wins.

C&S-PCA, tied last week with Straw, dropped into a three-way tie for second after dropping a pair.

Olton Butane-Hall Insurance and Super Save both split their two games to tie C&S-PCA.

In Thursday night action Straw downed C&S-PCA, 5-4 while the next night Super Save picked up its first win, downing Butane-Hall, 7-5.

Monday, Butane-Hall picked up its first season victory, with C&S-PCA once more the victim, 14-4.

Tuesday Straw cinched its loop lead a little tighter with an 8-0 win over Super Save.

Hatley said he called Mayor Bill Thomas Wednesday and asked that a City Council meeting be called to discuss the matter.

At the 9 p.m. discussion were Councilmen Parley Myers, and Robert Dennis and Justice of the Peace, David Maxey, along with representatives of The Enterprise.

At the same meeting, Hatley also produced a copy of a letter he said he had sent to a man in Harlingen who was supposed to recruit laborers for Hatley's labor agency.

The letter produced by Hatley said in part:

"The following wages are now being paid: hoeing cotton, 75 cents per hour; tractor driving and irrigating $1.00 per hour; hoeing sugar beets, $1.10 per hour."

Hatley said evidently wages to be paid workers here had been misrepresented in Harlingen. Hatley said he did not misrepresent the wages and had borne the cost of transporting the workers from Harlingen.

He said he was not trying to recover transportation costs lost when the workers decided to go back to South Texas, but wanted to get back the money he had spent on them after they arrived in Olton.

be raised from an increase in water rates.

Two property owners attending the session, C. C. Curry and Elmer Phillips, later requested better water pressure. "We have this problem in lots of different parts of town," said one councilman.

That discussion led to a motion to increase water rates $1.00 per month to all residences, to get added revenue to take care of needed improvements.

But the motion failed, 3-2, with Doug Jones and Thompson voting for it, and Dennis, Parley Myers and Sullivan against.

League

Marlos May picked up the win for Thompson, while Tommy Riggan absorbed the loss.

The Farmers played another squeaker Friday night, but they came out on the long end of the score, taking the Blue Sox, 9-8.

Halfway charged into the lead with a four-run first inning and picked up another tally in the second before the Farmers crossed the plate.

Four walks and a fielder's choice allowed the Farmers' to pick up a pair in the second.

Two walks and a homerun by Shipley made the tally 8-2 in the fourth, and the Farmers still looked as if they might drop their second game in two nights.

They picked up three in their half of the fourth when two walks, an error and a single by Tommy Riggan brought them back to life.

Then, in the last half of the last inning, a series of walks, an error and a single by Tommy Riggan brought them back to life.

Then, in the last half of the last inning, a series of walks, a hit batsman and singles by Steve Holt and Brown scored the needed four runs with only one Farmer retired.

The winning pitcher was Gary Kelley and the loser, Pinkerton.

A TORNADO STRIKES ON A STORMY NIGHT

REPAIR BEGINS THE MORNING AFTER.

HALE CENTER FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH...SYMBOL OF A TORNADO'S FURY.

...A TOWN LIES BLEEDING

It couldn't happen. But it did. At 9:35 p.m. a white funnel mowed a block-wide path through Hale Center, cutting residence and business houses down like a combine cutting the wheat ready to be harvested in the nearby farmland.

Raymond Nicholson, shop foreman for Tom Rambo's wrecked Hale Center American, summed up the feelings of many residents of the town.

"It just makes you want to sit down and cry."

But the residents didn't sit down and cry. Most were up all night after the funnel smashed through the town, salvaging what they could. And if there wasn't anything left to salvage, they helped clear the streets of scattered wreckage, so rescue and cleanup crews could make their way through the debris-filled streets.

Although 66 persons were seriously injured and three killed by the twister, most persons were thankful it wasn't more.

Most attributed the surprisingly low fatality mark to warnings issued by the Hale Center Civil Defense unit and television and radio stations.

One National guardsman sent to town to guard against looting and to help direct traffic, said the destruction was worse than Silverton disaster seven years ago.

Another Guardsman from the Eastern coastline of Virginia said he had been through several hurricanes. "But I've never seen anything like this."

The funnel touched down on the west side of town, almost directly in the center. It cut a block-wide path, moving northeast, and picked up from the ground at the railroad tracks on the northeastern side of town.

Mrs. Tom Rice, one of those killed, and her husband were caught apparently without warning as the twister demolished their frame house in the western part of town.

Mrs. Catherine Reed, who died Saturday from injuries received in the tornado, lived almost in the center of where the tornado traveled through the west side of town.

Mrs. Alma Woody's death was one of the most tragic stories in the whole tragic night.

Her son, Russell Woody, and his wife, Carolyn apparently saw the funnel approaching. They jumped into their car and drove to pick up his mother from her home directly in the path of the tornado.

Both Woody and his mother were caught by the winds before they reached the car. Alma Woody died five-and-a-half hours later in a Plainview Hospital.

Both Woody and his wife were taken in serious condition to Lubbock's Methodist Hospital. The hotel which Mrs. Alma Woody owned and in which she had lived until a few months ago wasn't touched by the disaster.

Woody's house, out of the path of the tornado, was unharmed by the winds.

A small frame building next to the hotel and which Woody used for his watch repair and jewelry shop, was also untouched by the funnel, while on three sides of the shop, brick and steel buildings showed gaping holes and walls without roofs.

An open door on a storm cellar on the Floyd Shackelford farm two miles east of Cotton Center stood as mute evidence of the fury of the tornado which killed Mrs. Shackelford and left her husband in critical condition.

The cellar, which Mr. and Mrs. Shackelford never reached, was the only thing besides the concrete foundation left of the Shackelford residence.

Most residents went to work immediately to clean up the town. There was speculation about rebuilding, but it was too soon to even think about anything other than trying to rid the town of at least part of the wreckage which was a reminder of the terrifying visitor.

For many, there was really no need for salvage operations because there wasn't anything left to salvage.

But it kept their bodies busy, and help keep their minds at least partially off the disaster. Communications were virtually destroyed with the outside world.

Telephone and electric lines were downed, the new Post Office lost much of its cargo when the twister smashed through it, and roads leading into the town were covered with debris deposited by the funnel.

But within minutes after the disaster, as if by magic, volunteers with heavy machinery, food, clothing, medical supplies and needed equipment began to appear.

Ambulances and fire trucks from towns surrounding Hale Center appeared, to speed the injured to nearby hospitals and to guard against possible fires.

Electrical and gas company employees worked around the clock to stop the danger from downed electrical wires and broken gas pipes.

As cleanup operations began in earnest, town officials began to make estimates of damage to the town. First figures were in the neighborhood of $8 million, although many thought this a conservative figure.

The city government faces the task of rebuilding a city hall and fire station, and finding new fire trucks to replace those completely destroyed by the funnel.

The school district faces the task of finding a place to house first, second and third grade school children who had attended the old elementary school building demolished by the wind.

The members of the Baptist Church must find a place to hold services until their church can be rebuilt or replaced.

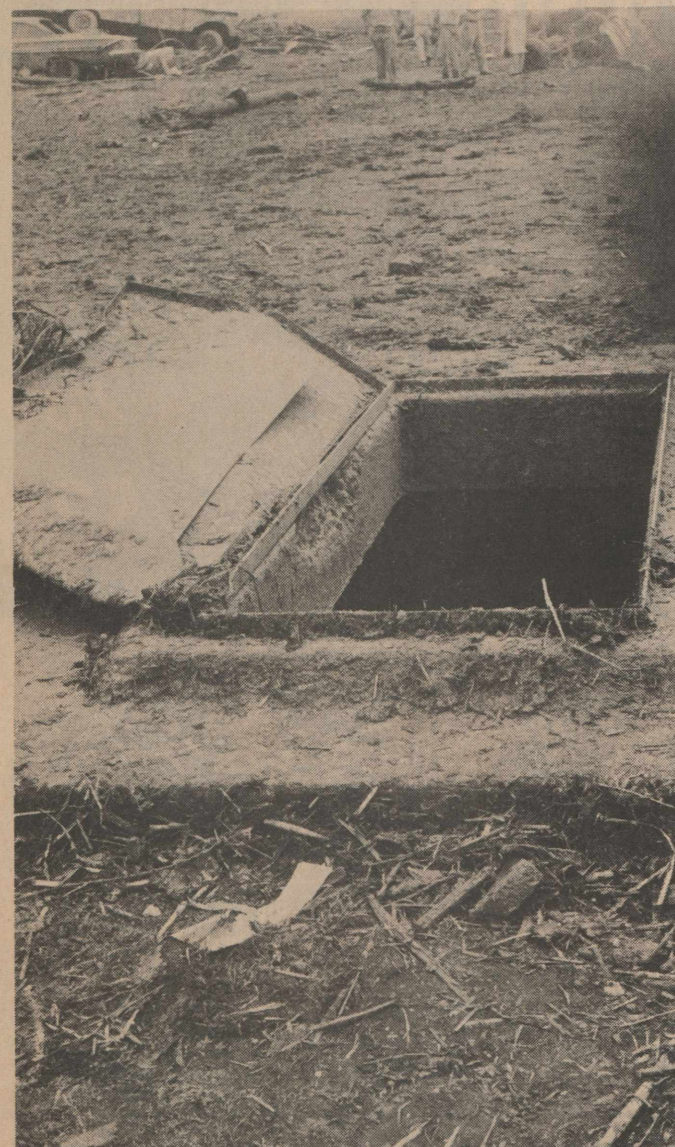

And more than a hundred persons must find a new place to live, clothes to wear and a new place to work -- all gone in the 10-minute fury which unleashed its anger on Hale Center.

Last week, Mr. and Mrs. were in Holdenville, Okla., where Mrs. Carson visited with her elderly father and with two sisters at Holdenville and with a sister from Sidney, Nebraska. Carson visited their ranch in Johnson County, near Tishomingo.

Each former pastor in attendance gave a talk for fifteen minutes, and special music and singing was enjoyed between each talk. Afterwards, the ladies of the church served the evening meal. The Carsons report that they enjoyed the reunion very much.

Early Claims Are Advised

Olton and area residents 65 or over who have not yet applied for Social Security benefits are advised to file a claim regardless of whether or not they are planning to retire in the near future. John G. Hutson, Lubbock Social Security district manager, explained that it may be to the benefit of an applicant to file when reaching age 65 to protect his Social Security rights.

"A number of people who applied last year found that they had lost some benefits by not applying earlier," he said. "We have found that the best way for a person to protect his social security benefit rights is to apply at 65 whether or not he intends to go on working. Even if benefits are not payable right away, there's an advantage in having your claim already approved when you actually retire."

WITH 4-0 SEASON RECORD

Earth Holds Top Spot In Babe Ruth

Earth bounded into the Babe Ruth League lead with a pair of wins that kept their record unblemished for the season.

Friday the Earth crew swept past Parsons Funeral Home, 14-3, and came back Monday night to keep Halfway in the cellar with a 28-19 win.

Halfway meanwhile broke into the win column with a 15-12 win over Trotter Insurance. In their Friday night win, Earth completely blanked Parsons during three innings of the six inning game.

And it wasn't until the fourth inning that the Funeral Home team managed to pick up a hit. Parsons picked up a single run in the first inning when Joe Dale Chitwood drew a walk and stole his way to the plate.

Their last two runs came in the final frame when Earth allowed three walks and Steve Spain singled to drive in both runs.

Garland Huguley picked up a single in the fourth for Parsons but died on base.

Earth picked up one run in the first, three in the third, broke the game open with eight more in the fourth. They added another pair in the fifth.

Tim Matthews and Harley Galloway each picked up homers for Earth, with Matthews leading off the wild fourth inning with his roundtripper.

The winning pitcher was Galloway and the loser, Manuel DeLeon.

Tight pitching and good defense by Earth was the rule again, for the first three innings of the Monday night win over Halfway.

Through the first three, Halfway had picked up a single tally on two hits, while Earth was stacking up 19.

But in the fourth, Halfway batted and walked its way back into the game with 13 runs.

It really didn't matter, as Earth just kept stacking up the runs, and were never really in trouble the rest of the game.

The winning pitcher was Bobby Cummings and the loser was Larry Goree.

Three seemed to be the magic number for Halfway in picking up their first win in the league, defeating Trotter Insurance Thursday, 15-12.

They picked up three in the first, second, third and sixth innings, and in between times, picked up one in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Trotter was still in the game through the fifth, when the score was tied at 10-10.

But Halfway held the Insurance team scoreless in the fifth and sixth, and the game was decided.

Phillip Lowellen was the winning pitcher and Jason Latimer the loser.

Trotter Insurance didn't change its league standings any in Tuesday night Babe Ruth League action, but it did uphold the wild-scoring tradition of the league with a 25-12 win over Parsons Funeral Home.

The Insurance team iced the game down in two big innings, picking up 11 runs in the top of the fourth and 9 in the fifth.

In the free-scoring fourth, Trotter picked up most of their runs the easy way as 12 walks were issued.

Lannie McClain picked up the only hit of the inning, his second triple of the night.

The fifth was almost the same, with the lone hit in that inning a single by Mike Trotter.

The game was called at the end of the fifth because of a time curfew.

The winning pitcher was Dusty Rudd and the loser was Jimmy Joe Schenck.

in the second, four in the third, and two in the fifth, while Co-Op managed a single tally in the first and fourth innings.

Gary Kelley picked up the win for the Farmers, while Carroll Blackwell took the loss for Co-Op.

Olton Co-Op Gin forged into an early lead in Olton Little League action, picking up a pair of wins on Thursday and Friday nights.

They trounced the Halfway Red Sox 19-6 Thursday and Friday racked up Olton State Bank, 9-2.

Meanwhile, Halfway's Blue Sox, tied for the lead last week, dropped into a tie for second with Ed Thompson Implement.

The Blue Soxers' loss to the Farmers, 9-8, coupled with a Thompson win over the Farmers, moved the two into a 3-2 tie for the number two spot.

The rest of the league was unchanged as a result of the action.

In Co-Op's 19-6 win over the Red Sox, Mark Lancaster picked up a pair of roundtrippers to lead the Gin team's slugging.

Kenny Jones picked up the win.

Co-Op sewed up the Friday game in the second inning when Robert Davis walked, Mack Lancaster singled, and both went home on Don DeBerry's single.

In the first, the Ginners picked up a single tally when Carroll Blackwell walked and went home on a single by pitcher Lynn Ramsey.

They added four bonus runs in the third when Ramsey drew a free trip to first, Hones was hit by a pitch, Davis doubled and Lancaster singled. Lancaster then followed the first three in on a pair of errors by the Bankers.

Two more runners crossed the plate for the Gin team when Jones doubled in the fourth and went home on another double by Lynn Gullett. Gullett picked up the last run on a pair of errors by State Bank.

State Bank picked up both their runs in the third inning when Neinst drew a walk, Mickey Mills singled and Robert Cooper drove both in with another single.

The winning pitcher was Ramsey, and the loser, Mills.

Thompson's win over the Farmers was a nip and tuck battle decided in the final inning.

Thompson picked up single tallies in each of the first three innings and looked as if they might win it in a walk.

But the Farmers came back in the bottom half of the third to pick up six big runs and the lead.

Steve Holt started the big inning for the Farmers. He reached first on an error by the third baseman. Joe Bob Daugherty and Ricky Riggan both then drew walks to load up the bases.

Tommy Riggan then walked to drive in one run and Mickey Crowder was hit by a pitched ball to drive in another.

Gary Kelley allowed another run to score when his fly ball to right field went as an error.

Walks to Rey and Robert Shaw drove in two more to finally end the scoring.

Thompson came right back in the top of the fourth to pick up five runs of their own on singles by David McGill, and Mike Parsons, doubles by Ken-

After sorghum has emerged, spray Atrazine to control weeds and grasses.

The idea is to spray Atrazine 80W herbicide right after sorghum has emerged, but before weeds are 1 1/2 inches high. This one application, moved to the weed root zone by rainfall, will control most annual broad-leaf weeds and grasses in sorghum for the entire season.

Control of weeds and grasses in sorghum with Atrazine can greatly reduce the need for cultivating. And so your crop goes through the entire season without weed competition for moisture and soil nutrients.

The results of weed control in sorghum are higher yields and lower production costs. And you can now graze or feed forage to livestock from treated sorghum fields 60 days after Atrazine application.

Contact your local supplier now for Atrazine 80W herbicide.

SECRETARY APPROVES STUDY--Orville Freeman, secretary of agriculture, approves the modernizing of the memorandum of Understanding between the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Lamb County Soil Conservation District as Donnell A. Williams, Lamb County Soil Conservation Administrator, looks on.

Secretary Freeman Commends Local Conservation District

Orville Freeman, secretary of Agriculture, recently approved the modernizing of the Memorandum of Understanding between the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Lamb County Soil Conservation District.

Freeman also commended the governing body of the District for their progressive action in updating the soil and water conservation program in the District.

He said, "This is an important initial step in helping private landowners move forward effectively with their resource conservation and development effort."

The Lamb County SCD Board realizing that the original Program and Plan of Work was outdated since 1946, updated the document. This SCD Program and Plan of Work will be their guide and the guide of many others who are interested in conservation. The document was recently published by the banks of the District and copies are available in the lobbies of the banks.

Secretary Freeman pointed out in a letter to the Supervisors that the primary responsibility of resource development and conservation rests with the people who own and operate the land. The USDA provides its assistance to the people who own and operate the land. The USDA provides its assistance to the people under arrangements which are designed to encourage leadership and initiative of local people.

A nation-wide resource development and conservation program on private lands has been accelerated during the past quarter century through soil conservation districts. The districts, organized under State law, stimulate local initiative and are governed by elected landowners and operators.

Since 1937, every State has enacted soil conservation district legislation. There now exists some 2,900 local conservation districts which include 92 per cent of the Nation's privately owned agricultural land. This includes 96 per cent of the farms and ranches in the Nation.

Widespread public attention was attracted to the need for soil conservation on privately owned lands largely as a result of dust storms in the Great Plains and gullying in the humid east in the early 1930's. Soil Conservation programs authorized during this period had as a major objective overcoming this menace.

During the 1940's, much progress was made through the evolution of the concept of soil and water conservation and the conservation objective. The objective of using each acre of agriculture land within its capabilities and the treatment of each acre in accordance with its needs for protection and improvements was evolved.

During the intervening years, it became recognized that soil and water management are inseparable and the soil and water conservation concept of leading conservationists has come to mean increasing agricultural income and efficiency through proper land use; protecting land against all forms of soil deterioration; rebuilding eroded and depleted soils; building up soil fertility; stabilizing critical runoff and sediment producing areas; improving grasslands, woodlands and wildlife lands; conserving water for agricultural and municipal as well as other uses; proper agricultural drainage and irrigation; and reducing floodwater and sediment damage for benefits to the public as a whole.

Modern resource conservation includes the planning and treatment of complete watersheds as resource units. That job is to coordinate the management of crop, range, and forest lands, and the treatments of water courses in the upper water sheds to minimize the damage of floods and sedimentation, and to improve the quality and regularity of water supplies. Soil and water management contributes to the rate of national growth, stimulates the economy of local communities, and contributes basically to the development of rural areas.

Bean Price Support Is Same

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced the national average support price for 1965-crop dry beans will be $6.32 per hundredweight, the same as for the 1964-crop.

Although the national average price support level in unchanged, the rates for 11 classes are adjusted to encourage a better balance between production and requirements among these classes. Rates for pea and medium white beans and for dark red kidney beans are reduced 25 cents per cwt.

Production of these beans has been increasing in recent years, and much of the added production has been taken over under the price support program. Price support loans rates on other classes of beans are increased 19 cents per cwt.

Price support on the 11 classes will be available for U. S. No. 2 or higher grade beans. The support rates are for cleaned and bagged beans with all charges, except receiving and loading out, paid through maturity date for price support loans on the 1965 crop.

The deductions from 1965 loan rates applicable to farm-stored thresher-run beans will be $2. per cwt to cover cleaning and bagging costs.

Premiums and discounts for the 1965 program are the same as under the 1964 program. Premiums for U. S. Choice Hand Picked and U. S. Extra No. 1 grade beans will be 10 cents per cwt., for all except pea beans, on which the premium for U. S. Choice Hand Picked grade will be 25 cents. U. S. No. 2 grade beans will be discounted 25 cents per cwt.

No change from the 1964 program is being made in the State and area groupings. Loans will mature on April 30, 1966.

The 1965 support prices for U. S. No. 1 grade in dollars per cwt., for all counties in Texas are:

Pinto, $6.47; Great Northern, $6.71; pea and medium white, $6.15; small white and flat small white, $7.52; red kidney, dark, $8.26; red kidney, light and western, $8.70; pink, $7.32; small red, $7.42; Large lima, $10.24; and baby lima, $5.59.

Olton Recalls 1957 Tornado

For Olton residents, the Hale Center tornado brought back memories of another tornado. This one was in 1957 and the town was Olton, instead of Hale Center.

Sweeping in from the southwest, the twister struck the town at noon on May 24.

Olton was a little luckier than Hale Center. No one was killed in the funnel. But an estimated 300 persons were left homeless by the savage twister, and damage to the community was estimated to be more than $600,000.

While narrow escapes were the rule in Hale Center, the same was true in the Olton disaster.

Narrowly bypassed was Bohner School, with 65 frightened children huddled inside. A nearby frame school building, evacuated just minutes before the storm struck, was demolished.

Credited with keeping the injury list low in the Friday disaster was early warning on radio, television and the local storm warning system.

Entering from the southwest, the twister struck the Ben F. Smith Grain Company, then started east, cutting a path through the Latin American and Negro sections of town.

Other near-tragedies were recounted.

Several told how 35 persons had crammed into a small cellar belonging to Mazzie Beath. When the tornado struck, the door was twisted off the small shelter and the roof started caving in.

Fearing the tornado's return, the cellar's occupants ran to a nearby church to take refuge, but found it in ruins. They then continued on to the school and took refuge in the brick building where principal Booker T. Graves stood watch over the children.

Graves described the tornado as one-half to three-quarters of a mile wide. He said the funnel looked like a giant magnet, drawing in clouds from all directions.

The storm first came down southwest of town, wiping out several homes in that area.

It then continued east about two miles from Olton, veering northward again for about 11 miles before lifting from the ground.

More than a dozen homes during the tornado's rural trip were destroyed. The J. A. Ragle farm east of town was almost completely demolished.

The elderly couple lost their $55,000 home, a car, a pickup, eight trailers, two farm hand houses and a barn completed only four months before.

As was the case in Hale Center, area residents rushed to Olton to help restore peace and order, and help with rescue and cleanup operations.

Within an hour after the twister, the Red Cross had set up disaster headquarters in the fire station, and in less than two hours, volunteer workers were serving food in the school cafeteria.

By 4 p.m., a truckload of food and clothing had been brought in from Silverton, Hereford and Morton.

Electrical power was restored to the city within an hour-and-a-half, and by May 27, area service had been restored.

By Sunday night, shelter, groceries and cooking and sleeping facilities had been arranged for all the homeless.

Then-mayor D. Y. Ray expressed thanks to police and sheriff departments from Lamb, Hale, Bailey, Hockley and Lubbock counties, as well as the Highway Patrol, for their prompt and able assistance in the disaster.

Singled out for its help was the Hale Center Fire Department. The Hale Center Fire Department lost both its building and equipment when the twister demolished the town square last Wednesday.

But the sentiment in Olton that day was the same as that expressed in Hale Center many times last Wednesday. "We're glad to be alive."

Upon arrival at the University of Texas Campus, each citizen was assigned to one of two political parties - the Longhorn or Pioneer. Each citizen then functions as a member of his party; he attends its conventions; caucuses and votes in its primary.

In Boys State, the American Legion provides the type of program where the young citizen has the opportunity to learn for himself that his government is just what he makes it. The boy "learns to do by doing." Highlight of Boys State will be a trip to the Capitol Friday morning where each elected

Boys State Official will be given an opportunity to serve in his respective office for a day, followed by the Governor's Ball Friday evening.

Outstanding speakers scheduled to appear are Department Commander Lewis W. Emerich, Houston; Bill Ellington, assistant football coach, The University of Texas; H. Roe Bartle, past department Adjutant, Austin; American Legion Auxiliary President, Mrs. Joe L. Matthews, Fort Worth; Zollie Steakley, Associate Justice, Supreme Court of Texas; H. Detection Is Main Problem In Curing Cancer Victims

Cancer can be cured. Almost a million and a third Americans are living proof of that fact. One out of four, statistics show, will have cancer -- the second leading killer of persons in Texas.

The problem is to detect cancer early - before it has spread - so it can be removed by surgery or destroyed by radiation. Cancer can insidiously creep up on a person with only subtle signs of warning. Frequent medical checkup are a person's best guard against the disease.

Uterine cancer, once a most dread form of the disease, could be dramatically reduce, the experts say. A simple, painless "Pap" test included in every woman's yearly health examination can detect this type of cancer in early treatable stages.

WHO'S NEW

Mr. and Mrs. Esteban Cano, Earth became parents of a boy named Esteban, Jr., June 3 at Community Hospital and Clinic. The baby weighed 7 pounds and 4 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Don L. Carson of Stockton, Calif. are parents of a son, born June 4, weighing nine pounds, four ounces. The baby is named Kelley Don. They have another child, Julie Carolyn, age two-and-a-half years.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Golden and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Carson Jr.

VAN ZANDT REUNION
A reunion of all Van Zandters from West Texas and elsewhere is scheduled Sunday at Mackenzie Park, Lubbock. Food, fellowship and dinner on the grounds make up the program.

Breast cancer, the leading cancer killer of women, can also be forestalled. Every woman should examine her breasts monthly for suspicious swelling, lumps or other signs. Literature is available from your health department or cancer society explaining breast self examination methods. Check with your doctor when you first detect suspicious changes.

Skin cancer can many times be averted by early observation of changes, too. A mole, for example, which grows or bleeds should be brought to the doctor's attention.

A proctoscopic examination should be made part of every man and woman's annual physical checkup for early detection and treatment of colon-rectum cancers.

And always be on the guard for cancer's seven danger signals; unusual bleeding or discharge, a lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere, a sore that does not heal, a change in bowel or bladder habits, hoarseness or cough, indigestion or difficulty in swallowing, or a change in a wart or mole.

If your danger signal lasts longer than two weeks, go to your doctor immediately.
