MICKEY DILLON SHOT IN BACK BY DEPUTY

Threats of Violence Follow Slaying Youth Held For Being Drunk

'GO EASY' ORDERS OUT

Enforcement Chief Passes Word Along That Care Must Be Taken

NEWPORT, Ark., June 17. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff George Johnson, charged with first degree murder after the slaying of Mickey Dillon, 22, of Texas, was transferred tonight to the state penitentiary at Little Rock "to avoid any possible violence," said police officers here.

NEWPORT, Ark., June 17. (UP)—Indignation repeatedly flared up in groups which gathered on street corners here tonight to discuss the death of 22-year-old Mickey Dillon at the hands of Deputy Sheriff George Johnson.

The deputy fired two shots into the youth's back Sunday night when the boy, son of a Texas ranger of El Paso, broke away and fled after being arrested on a charge of intoxication and possession of liquor.

Johnson, who today was charged with first degree murder, had been secretly removed from Newport to the jail at Batesville to protect him from the threatening anger of citizens.

When friends of the youth came from a hospital today and announced that Dillon was dead a crowd of shouting men rushed to the jail where the deputy had been placed by Police Chief Gus Martin and demanded the prisoner. Martin argued with them while other officers hastened to Batesville with Johnson.

DILLON NOT LISTED AS TEXAS RANGER

AUSTIN, June 17. (UP)—Records at the state ranger office here do not show any ranger named Dillon who might be the father of Mickey Dillon, killed by a deputy sheriff at Newport, Ark., officials declared today. A man by the name of E. P. Dillon, of Knippa, Texas, formerly was a member of the state ranger force, but records do not show him to be the father of the slain youth.

WASHINGTON, June 17. (US)—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman revealed today that he has sent out new orders to customs agents to go easy on shooting.

These orders were dispatched secretly last Thursday, within 24 hours before Lowman, as charged in the house, "whitewashed" Customs Border Patrolman Emmett J. White in the killing of Henry Virkula, and sought to placate an aroused public opinion with a warning against "highly colored" newspaper accounts.

Lowman made public his orders to agents, presumably in response to the intensified protests that followed his statement, shortly before a new outcry against the killing of Virkula and others arose in the house today.

Representative Clancy of Michigan assailed the Virkula killing as

Veteran Wichita Officer Near Death

Scores of Wichita Falls and Northwest Texas residents were shocked Monday to learn that Traffic Captain J. H. Scott, veteran Wichita Falls officer, was near death from a heart attack. Captain Scott is one of the best known Wichita Falls officers. He is shown above with "Scotty" mascot of the police and fire department, named in his honor. The white-haired officer and the dog have long been familiar sights on Wichita Falls streets.

Plane Brings Daughter of Stricken Officer to Bedside of Father Here

Little Improvement In Condition of Captain J. H. Scott, Near Death From Heart Attack

Mrs. Roy C. Moyston, only daughter of Traffic Captain J. H. Scott, who is critically ill at his home, 1617 Lucile street, arrived in Wichita Falls at 8 o'clock Monday night by airplane trip from San Angelo. She was located in Big Lake, Texas, early Monday by broadcasting over station KGKO.

The trip from San Angelo required two hours. Her father's serious condition from a heart attack made her decide upon the airplane trip, it was said.

Captain Scott was reported slightly improved Monday night, but in consideration of his age, 64 years, his condition is still very grave, according to Dr. R. C. Smith, attending physician. Numerous visits and telephone calls were made Monday by Captain Scott's many out-of-town friends following the attempt to locate his daughter over station KGKO, which broadcast at intervals the request for information of the stricken man's daughter.

Captain Scott was apparently feeling well when he left his men after having been on duty Saturday night, and nothing unusual was noticed about his condition until he had retired for the night. The attack was very sudden, and he lay near death Sunday. Dr. Smith said.

Captain Scott is a veteran Texas peace officer and has been a member of the Wichita Falls police force for over 11 years, having served as desk sergeant, night captain and for the last five years as head of the traffic department. He has hundreds of friends in Wichita Falls and other cities of Texas.

BORAH LOSES FIGHT TO CUT TARIFF HIKES

Upper House of Congress Also Passes Recess Resolution

FARM FUND VOTED

Legislative Action Comes As Hoover Ponders Men For Board

WASHINGTON, June 17. (US)—The senate late today, defeated the Borah resolution restricting tariff revision to rates on agricultural and related products. The vote was 39 to 38.

A few minutes before, the senate had voted down, also 39 to 38, an amendment to the Borah resolution, offered by Senator Jones of Washington, to restrict revision to "all products needing protective rates." Connally and Sheppard of Texas were among those voting with Borah.

The Borah resolution disposed of, the senate then adopted a resolution by Senator Watson of Indiana, providing that when the senate recess on June 19, it do so to reconvene on August 19.

Amendments by various senators seeking to set the reconvening date in September were voted down, following lively debate.

Speaker Longworth said he believed the Aug. 19 date for adjournment by the senate would be agreeable to the house.

BOTH HOUSES VOTE FOR RELIEF FUNDS

WASHINGTON, June 17. (AP)—Both the executive and legislative branches of the government fixed their attention today on carrying out the new law intended as a boon to the farmer.

President Hoover busied himself on determination of the eight men he will choose to compose the federal farm board. Congress at the same time was appropriating $151,500,000 for that board to use in its initial efforts towards making agriculture uniformly profitable.

The president recommended the appropriation early in the day, the house approved it with little debate and the senate adopted the house resolution with no debate. Mr. Hoover will sign it soon, thus creating the first $150,000,000 portion of the $500,000,000 revolving fund authorized by the farm relief law. The remaining $1,500,000 of the money appropriated is for expenses of the farm board.

The list of potential nominees to the board grows daily, one addition made today being Sherman Houston of Malta Bend, Mo.

Developments also saw no lessening of the speculation on James C. Stone of Kentucky and Carl Williams of Oklahoma, as board members.

Testimony on Charges Against Robison To Close Today

AUSTIN, June 17. (AP)—Proponents of the charges against J. T. Robison, state land commissioner, will complete their testimony before the house tomorrow. C. W. Trueheart, assistant attorney general until recently, will be the last witness.

Mr. Robison has been accused of incompetency. The charges are based on his handling of the fund contributed by purchasers of public lands to pay expences of reappraisement under the 1925 legislative act, alleged acceptance of gratuities and resistance of efforts of the governor, attorney general and Texas university board of regents to postpone sale of oil and gas leases on university lands.

It was reported today that after Trueheart's testimony, there will be a motion to dismiss the charges.

STRICKLAND CASE DELAYED

Trial of Clay County Man Set for Sept. 16

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, June 17.—Trial of Paul Strickland, Clay county farmer, for the murder of R. L. Williams last March, was re-set for Sept. 16 Monday morning when Judge Vincent Stine granted a defense motion for continuance.

The postponement was asked on because of the illness of the defendant's father, one of the principal witnesses, whose condition makes his attendance at the trial impossible, according to the terms of the motion presented Monday morning.

Members of a special venire of 175 men reported for jury duty when the case was called. Judge Stine excused 48 at once, and the whole venire was dismissed when the afternoon session opened.

Strickland was charged with murder after the body of Williams, his friend since childhood, was discovered in a field near the Strickland home on the night of March 18. The defendant himself led friends to the spot, according to information in the hands of county officials.

Williams, a nightwatchman at Bowie, and the father of eight children, had been a guest in the Strickland home on the night of the shooting. Mrs. Williams is suing Strickland for $76,000 damages in connection with the death of her husband.

TEA HONORING MRS. DE PRIEST STILL TALKED

Oklahoma Legislature Has Resolution Before It Censuring Act

FLORIDA VOTES BILL

U. S. Senate Stirred Up By Resolution Offered By Senator Blease

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 17. (AP)—A resolution censuring Mrs. Herbert Hoover for entertaining at the White House Mrs. Oscar de Priest, wife of a negro congressman from Illinois, was introduced today in the Oklahoma house of representatives and consideration postponed until tomorrow after it provoked prolonged argument.

Ferman Phillips, 21, the youngest member of the legislature introduced the resolution. It contained quotations from a resolution adopted last week by the Texas senate.

O. O. Owens of Tulsa county, a Republican leader, brought up a point of order that the Oklahoma legislature is in special session and could not properly consider the resolution because the subject was not opened by the governor.

FLORIDA SOLONS CONDEMN ACT

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 17. (UP)—One of the hottest debates in years in the Florida house of representatives today resulted in the passing of a resolution condemning "the Republican policy of entertaining the negro Republican's congressman's wife at a White House tea." The name of Mrs. Hoover was successfully eliminated from the caustically worded resolution.

SENATOR BLEASE HAS RESOLUTION

WASHINGTON, June 17. (US)—A flurry of excitement was created in the senate today by a resolution sponsored by Senator Cole L. Blease of South Carolina, touching on the recent entertainment of Mrs. Oscar de Priest, wife of the negro congressman from Chicago, by Mrs. Hoover, at the White House.

The resolution requested "the president and Mrs. Hoover to remember that the house in which they are temporarily residing is the 'White House'" and that five Southern states—Virginia, Texas Florida, Tennessee and North Carolina—"contributed to their becoming its custodians."

Guest of Honor

The preamble of the resolution recited that "the negro woman sat on Mrs. Hoover's right as her equal and as the guest of honor" and was followed with a dozen verses.

Republican leaders immediately demanded that the resolution and the verses be expunged from the congressional record. The verses were denounced by Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, as "obscene and indecent." Blease finally withdrew the resolution because it gave "offense to my friend from Connecticut."

The first objection was raised by Senator Edge of New Jersey. Vice President Curtis ruled that the resolution could only be expunged by unanimous consent and that was blocked by Blease himself.

No Reflection

"There's not a word in this resolution that reflects on anybody," shouted the South Carolinian. I don't care now if it is struck from the record. I had it read and that was what I wanted."

Senators Borah, Republican of Idaho, and Walsh, Democrat of Montana, objected to the wording of the resolution and urged Blease to withdraw it. Bingham declared that "it will give offense to hundreds of thousands of our fellow citizens."

"Well," said Blease, "if it gives offense to my friend from Connecticut, I'm willing to withdraw it, but not not because it might give offense to the negro race."

That ended the incident, but capitol cloakrooms and corridors buzzed over it for the rest of the day. In that connection there was much discussion of the reception to be given by Representative De Priest on Friday night to his colleagues in the house.

COUNCIL SEEKS WATER ADVICE

Aldermen to Feel Public Pulse on Bonds

City council members are going out onto the highways and byways and find out first hand what the people think about the water system here.

This was decided at a meeting of the council Monday night by the commissioners themselves, and was quite in line with mass meetings and conferences held by previous councils, civic clubs and other organizations.

Fairtrace Tells Needs

The water problem, it seems, is somewhat like Banquo's ghost, bobbing up at all times and places, irrespective of power or personage. City Manager George D. Fairtrace was held responsible for the latest seance, his annual report to the council coming out flat-footed for some very definite improvements in the water supply. Among other things, Mr. Fairtrace told the council that Wichita Falls needed to raise the spillway at Lake Wichita for a larger supply of soft water, and to construct a shallow canal around the lake in order to prevent seepage. A new filtration plant to provide pure, soft water and greater pressure, a flume from the lake to the plant to prevent pollution, and additional trunk mains to give better service and greater pressure to outlying districts were also listed by Mr. Fairtrace as needed improvements. A bond issue will be necessary to provide for the suggested improvements, Mr. Fairtrace said.

City commissioners agreed that

BULLET HALTS BANDIT AFTER $260 ROBBERY

LOOT IS RECOVERED

Woman Cashier of Majestic Calls Officers When Robber Runs

FORT WORTH, June 17. (AP)—A man who said he was Ralph Stuart, or Tuart, of Louisville, Ky., robbed the Majestic theater here of $260 tonight and was shot by officers in a chase that followed.

He was reported dying.

Mrs. Edith Williams, cashier, commanded by the robber to hand over the receipts, did so but managed to attract the attention of two policemen crossing the street. They pursued Stuart and shot him down as he was entering an automobile in a nearby alley. The money was recovered.

The holdup man first gave his name as Ralph Stuart and later as Ralph Tuart. An old hat he wore was bought in Fort Worth.

When he left the ticket window the policemen were crossing the street toward the theater. Mrs. Williams waved her arms to attract their attention as they stepped on the curb.

Halfway down the alley the robber turned and pointed his pistol at the officers but it failed to fire. The parked automobile in which he sought to hide or escape belonged to the treasurer of the theater.

This was the second time Mrs. Williams has been robbed at the booth. Several months ago a man held her and another ticket seller up and took $997.

In January 1927, Roscoe Wilson, treasurer of the theater, was robbed and killed by J. R. (Bob) Silver and W. A. Stone. Stone was assessed a 99-year sentence and the death penalty given Silver was commuted.

Court Order Snatches Pete McKenzie From Chair as Moody Refuses Plea

SAN ANTONIO, June 17. (AP)—For the fourth time, John M. "Pete" McKenzie today was saved from electrocution for the slaying of Detective Chief Sam Street here Sept. 10, 1927. Today's respite came in the form of a sanity hearing ordered after Governor Moody had refused to stay the scheduled electrocution at Huntsville early tomorrow.

Basing their claim on an affidavit by Mrs. W. F. Uzzell, department store employe, defense attorneys filed an application for a sanity hearing. District Judge W. W. McCrory ordered that McKenzie be returned to San Antonio for a sanity hearing next Monday, and the order was telegraphed to Huntsville.

McKenzie had won three stays from Governor Moody.

Detective Chief Street was killed when he attempted to arrest McKenzie, who had escaped the penitentiary, where he was serving a life sentence for slaying of an El Paso night watchman. McKenzie was indicted, tried and convicted within a week of Street's death.

AUSTIN, June 17. (AP)—"Wonder why they didn't do that before now?" Governor Moody asked today, when told of action of Judge W. W. McCrory of San Antonio in issuing an injunction to stay execution of John M. (Pete) McKenzie, who was to have been electrocuted tonight in Huntsville prison.

TRADE BETTER THAN EXPECTED

Industry's High Level Continues During June

NEW YORK, June 17. (AP)—Business and industry approached the end of the second quarter of the year last week with such extraordinary vitality for this time of year that a more active third quarter than last year's was generally regarded as assured.

Some seasonal slackening is expected, but the moderate decline in unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation during May, as reported last week, indicates this basic industry will continue operations at a high level for several weeks, at least.

Steel mills felt another slight falling off in demand from the automobile industry during the week, but demands from other quarters held up well and mills continued to produce at practical capacity. It was reported automobile stocks in dealers' hands were growing slightly, and a substantial decline in production appeared in the offing, although here, too, a more active quarter than during 1928 is generally looked for.

The widely forecast money pinch during June has failed to develop.

Building operations, however, continued to lag behind 1928.

Total amount of building permits issued during May, however, was somewhat above May, 1930.

Retail sales were helped last week by warm weather, and distribution generally was maintained at a high level. Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended June 1 was reported as slightly below the 1,000,000 car mark for the first time in two months.

The copper industry was cheered by the increase of only about 17,000 tons in stocks during May, despite the slump in buying, and while foreign buying has failed to appear in any volume as yet as result of the reparations settlement, prices held firm at 18 cents domestic and 18.30 cents foreign delivery to the end of August, and consumers stocks were said to be running low.

The petroleum industry remained optimistic over the prospect of controlling production, although the governors' conference as Colorado Springs failed to achieve tangible results.

Grain prices fluctuated irregularly as a result of the rough course taken by the farm relief measure through congress. Estimates of large yields were rather disappointing and were regarded as precluding any marked improvement in grain prices this year. With good prices for livestock, however, it estimated that agricultural income this year would approximate that of last. Hide prices improved further.

A surprising development was showing of May foreign trade figures, with an unfavorable trade balance of $14,000,000, the first in three years. In a large measure, however, this appeared to have resulted from an earlier than usual export movement of cotton, and a rush to import sugar before a higher tariff becomes effective.

The insolvency record for the week showed little change. R. G. Dun & company reported 426 failures, compared to 423 last week and 441 in the like week last year.

Iowa dairy products last year were valued at $160,000,000.

Tinkham and Methodist Board Of Morals Continue Their Row

WASHINGTON, June 17. (US)—Representative George Holden Tinkham, Republican, of Massachusetts, renewed his attack on the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals today when he reiterated his charges of a week ago that the Methodist church, through the organization, has conducted a systematized lobby in Washington.

The renewal of Tinkham's attack came with the explanation that he had not yet received an answer or acknowledgment of the categorical questions propounded last Sunday from Dr. Clarence True Wilson, head of the church organization.

Meanwhile, however, the Methodist board released a statement which, taking cognizance of Tinkham's questions, contained a scathing deunciation of the Massachusetts representative. It is charged that he has refrained from attacking the Catholic church for its alleged activities in congress because much of his constituency is Catholic, and that he had chosen the Methodist church because his district contained few of them.

"The two most contemptible notices which enter the human breast are sectional prejudice and religious bigotry," the church statement said. "Mr. Tinkham does not hesitate to appeal subtly or blatantly to both of these unworthy sentiments."

Tinkham in repeating his charges said that Dr. Wilson cannot deny that the Methodist board "had violated the corrupt practices act of 1925, a criminal statute which requires that any organization of whatever character making expenditures in two or more states in behalf of presidential or congressional candidacies, shall make a sworn return to the clerk of the house of representatives of such political expenditures," because it has made no such return. He added that the board is assuming the right of "choosing what laws it would obey and what laws it would not obey."

He cited several quotations from Bishop McDowell to support the charge that the Methodists selected the site for their headquarters across the street from the capital as a strategic point.

He further cited definite occasions, when, he charged, the board attempted to influence officials in appointments to judgeships and other positions, and congress in pending legislation. He charged that the board of public morals has officially expressed its approval of the acceptance, by congressmen, of funds from the Anti-Saloon league.

In defending its activities here, the Methodist board said:

"If a lobby is an organization which promotes legislation by underground, mysterious or reprehensible methods, then the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals is certainly not a lobby. What it does, it does in the open; what it says, it says where all may hear.

"The board does favor and promote by every legitimate effort the enactment and enforcement of legislation to suppress the legal or illegal traffic in intoxicating liquors. The board does, by public discussion and agitation, oppose nudity, blasphemy, profanity and the treatment of revolting subjects in the American theater; it does oppose commercialized gambling, prize fighting and the debauching of the young by publications which are indecent or which are clearly intended to excite lascivious feelings.

"If to approach a member of the United States house of representatives or the United States senate for the purpose of petitioning that he vote for prohibition legislation constiutes a lobby, then he board of temperance, prohibition and public morals is a lobby several times each year."

ROYAL UPSET

Queen Mary Appears With Skirts Much Higher

LONDON, June 17. (UP)—Society here has been stirred by the news that Queen Mary has recently appeared in public with her skirt greatly shortened.

The gown which has attracted attention is a pretty blue silk lace dress with the hem between nine and 10 inches from the ground. Heretofore the queen rarely has been seen with a skirt more than four to five inches from the ground.

It was widely commented upon in the discussion here that Queen Mary has chosen a time when most fashionable persons are lengthening their skirts—a development of fashion attributed to the queen's example—to appear in shorter skirts.

AIR ROUTE TO INDIA PLANNED

Soviet Works on New Passenger Service

MOSCOW, June 17. (INS)—A passenger and mail airline to India is planned by the soviet government, P. I. Baranov, chief of the military aviation division of the war commissariat, announced.

The route will be an extension of the present Tashkent-Kabul line, inaugurated last year, upon which service has been temporarily suspended due to the civil war in Afghanistan.

If the consent of the British-Indian government is obtained, the line will make it possible to fly from Berlin to India via the Soviet Union in five days.

Baranov, reviewing the gigantic strides of civil aviation in the Soviet Union in the last few years, said that 9,000 miles are being flown regularly every day by soviet pilots. The longest extension of the passenger service this year is the line from Moscow to Irkutsk, Siberia. When systematic construction of the newly invented all metal, triple motored plane of the A. N. T. type gets under way, Baranov said, it will be unnecessary for the soviets to use German planes for the passenger service on the international routes to Turkey, Persia and Afghanistan.

Service Clubs Place Big Sign on Highway

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 17.—A double sign, through the joint efforts of the Memphis Rotary club and the Lions club, has been placed on highway 5 just north of the city on the Hall and Donley county line, which makes known the fact that Memphis has both a Lions and Rotary club. The signs are constructed of glass, and upon each is an invitation to those belonging to such organizations. Also gives the day and hour that each club meets.

These two organizations have assisted in some very important movements for the betterment of Memphis and Hall county, and each club has in its program for this year projects that will be of a great benefit to their city and county.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.—Adv.

Distorted Evidence

No amount of statistical evidence, distorted in an effort to mislead the public, can disprove government figures showing the gain of Lucky Strike to be greater than the combined increase of all other cigarettes. SEVEN DIE IN CHANNEL CRASH

Four Passengers Escape As Plane Sinks

Pilot Braillie immediately radioed for aid, notifying the British air ministry of the airplane's danger and attracting the attention of a fishing trawler. He then turned the ship about and headed for the coast, losing altitude as he strove to reach Dungeness. According to R. N. Freathy, who saw the landing on the water, the plane came down easily and did not begin to submerge for several minutes.

A graphic account of how he saved his own life and the lives of three other passengers was recounted at the Royal Victoria hospital here by Tatham, the American. While the others were being treated for bruises and shock. Tatham said:

Tells of Escape

"We hit the water with a bang. All of us shot forward on the floor of the cabin, we could hear the sea lapping at us at the sides. All exits were stopped.

"Escaping from the tangled mass of bodies and baggage, I kicked a hole in the side or top of the plane —I don't know which—and scrambled out topside the best I could.

"Behind me was a girl. I pulled her out. Another man followed me and he and I together pulled his wife through the hole. We had to clamber the best way we could to those parts of the plane above water.

"After this, no one else appeared. We waited a bit, and then went down to investigate, the pilot and mechanic joining us. Water was getting into the plane, and the heavy baggage had been hurled forward, burying the seven remaining passengers. They were jammed beneath the baggage, or wedged tight. Despite our efforts, we could not release them. They were drowned or crushed to death as we looked on.

"Not until we were almost submerged in the water did the would-be rescuers give up the task. By that time, the remaining passengers must long have been dead."

County Clerk Issues Permit Under Terms Of New Marriage Law

Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, Monday morning issued the first marriage license granted in Wichita county since Thursday afternoon, the certificate going to the Oklahoma couple who made the first application under the new Texas marriage law. Miss Gladys Myrtle Brumley and Henry Michelsen, both of Kingfisher, were given the first license under the new regime.

Since the new law took effect on the morning of June 13, only two applications have been recorded in the county.

pecially, declaring that some agents adopt the motto: "Don't let them see you before you shoot." Representative LaGuardia of New York, and Schafer of Wisconsin attacked dry law killings as unjustified and contrary to law.

Schafer announced he would demand a complete congressional investigation of them after the summer recess.

Dry congressmen appealed for support of law enforcement officers.

The timing of Lowman's statement and other developments in the epidemic of shootings during the past week made it appear that the killing of Virkula has become a pawn in the great anti-rum smuggling offensive the government is launching along the Canadian border.

Morale Helped

The public defense of White, without a hint of its basis, and Lowman's promise that he would be given a federal court trial, served to nurse the morale of the hundreds of prohibition, customs and coast guard men massed on the border for the critical drive against smuggling.

Meanwhile, the public was assured that White had "a perfect defense" and by implication that no reckless shooting was going on, although the treasury felt called upon to send a sharp warning to agents to be more careful.

The border drive, now centered in the Detroit region, is the biggest the present enforcement heads ever have attempted and takes on greatly enhanced importance because of the repeated failure there and the repeated shocks to border patrol morale. More than a score of patrolmen were indicted on bribe charges a few months ago, and 11 already have been sent to prison.

The patrol has been substantially rebuilt.

Orders Reiterated

Lowman's latest orders were sent out with the direction that their receipt be acknowledged by each customs official receiving them. For the most part they are a reiteration of orders that were of long standing.

The text of Lowman's instructions to customs men follows:

"While the department's policy is well known to you in regard to the use of firearms it is believed that the matter should be further impressed on you.

"Care should be exercised in the use of firearms, and the promiscuous flourishing and display of firearms is prohibited. A weapon should never be drawn on a person except in self-defense or to prevent the commission of a felony.

"The unwise and unwarranted use of firearms by officers is a serious thing. While it is not intended that an officer should remain passive and jeopardize his own life or the life of an associate when danger threatens, it is intended that extreme caution and cool deliberation should control his actions. An officer should remember that he will be held strictly accountable and personally responsible for the fatal result of any use of firearms by him.

"Please acknowledge receipt of this letter."

PLATTSBURG KILLING CALLED "ACCIDENT"

WASHINGTON, June 17. (AP)—The killing by a customs patrolman of Arthur Gordon above Plattsburg, N. Y., was declared by Assistant Secretary Lowman today to have been accidental.

The assistant treasury secretary issued a statement describing the circumstances surrounding the shooting, as reported to him, in some detail.

He said Inspector Weldon J. Cheatham and F. L. Coveny had intercepted an automobile loaded with ale while patrolling near Mooers, N. Y. A collision occurred, he continued, after which "the rum runner immediately jumped from his car, crossed a fence, along the road and started running across a field toward a nearby woods."

Lowman said both inspectors gave chase, and that Cheatham had tripped "discharging his gun accidentally as he fell."

Gordon was said to have been found wounded shortly afterwards.

President Invited To Christen New Cruiser

WASHINGTON, June 17. (UP)—A delegation from Houston, headed by Assemblymen R. J. Cummins, today invited President Hoover to participate in the christening of the new naval cruiser Houston at the Newport News ship building yards next September. The Houston delegation was accompanied to the White House by Senator Connally, Representative McGoskey and National Committeeman R. B. Creager. The president took the invitation under advisement.

Babies Burn to Death While Mother Visits

ENID, Okla., June 17. (UP)—Two children were burned to death here today when their mother left them to visit a neighbor across the street. The victims were Helen Lopp, 9, and her brother, Jack, 2, both children of Arthur Lopp. Explosion of a kerosene stove was believed to have caused the fire. Mrs. Lopp had just stepped across the street when she noticed that the house was a mass of flames.

something should be done about the matter, and agreed to make a personal inquiry here and there among the citizenship of the town to find out if the public desires pure, wholesome water strongly enough to vote a bond issue. Action on Mr. Fairtrace's report was deferred pending the results of this canvass.

Audit Approved

It was also decided at the meeting to send a representative of the city of Wichita Falls to a meeting of the Texas Fire Insurance adjustment board to be held in Austin June 21 to seek lower insurance coverage of municipal buildings here.

The audit of the city books, recently completed by Smith, Allred and Lambert, auditors, was approved by the council.

A request from Lynn A. Boyd, asking the city to take over water lines laid by him in Hillcrest addition and adjoining properties was referred to Mr. Fairtrace for consideration. Paving of an intersection at Avenue K and Bell street, which was not paved when the other streets were made, was also referred to Mr. Fairtrace.

Permission for the closing of an unused alley fronting the property of Fred Weeks on Harrison street was granted by the council, since the consent of R. E. Huff, the only adjoining property owner, was given.

Falls home owners. Leaders of the club expressed the hope that Wichita Falls residents, in making their selections, would consider the adaptibility of the flower to this section of the state.

In the first ballots cast Monday, votes were also placed for the poppy, bluebonnet, the Texas state flower, and for the redbud, which was recently selected by Fort Worth as its official flower.

Leaders of the Garden club urged that all residents of the city interested in flowers and in the beautification of the city cast ballots during the next 10 days, in order that the final selection will represent a majority of opinion in the city. Ballots should be mailed or brought to The Record News. If mailed, they should be addressed to Flower Contest Editor care The Record News.

The committee of the Garden club which will judge the ballots and declare the official winner of the contest is composed of Mrs. Landon Cullum, Mrs. Ola G. Hamlin and Mrs. O. B. Kiel. Only one ballot for such person will be allowed, but each member of a family may cast a vote for his or her choice.

Mrs. E. H. Moore of Dallas is a guest of Mrs. John O. Fincher of Wichita Falls.

LIKE A NEW MAN "FROM HEAD TO FOOT," HE SAYS

"Sargon is the best medicine I ever took in my life! It built me up from a hundred and forty to a hundred and fifty-two pounds—a twelve-pound gain in weight! I haven't felt as well and strong in years!

"I had about as bad a case of stomach trouble as any man could have. It looked like every time I ate anything, a knot would form in my stomach and give me awful gas pains. Sometimes the pains would extend way over to my right side and I suffered agony. My whole system seemed poisoned. My liver was sluggish, my tongue coated, and I had dizzy spells that got me real worried about myself. I was fleuroscoped, X-rayed and took all kinds of treatments, but it never was clear just what was the matter with me. I know I kept getting worse, and losing strength and weight, until something had to be done; so I finally took my case in my own hands, and tried this new Sargon treatment I had heard so much about.

"What a medicine Sargon is! I could hardly believe the feeling of new life and strength that came over me, when Sargon began to straighten out my stomach trouble and build me up. Before I knew it, I had gained twelve pounds and was eating anything I wanted without having a sign of gas pains or indigestion. Why I wouldn't swap a bottle of Sargon for all the other medicines and treatments I've used put together!

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills stimulated my liver and regulated me perfectly, without a bit of the purging or griping so many medicines cause. My tongue has cleared up and I don't have those awful dizzy spells any more. I feel like a new man, from head to foot."

The above statement was made recently by B. R. Blackwell, one of the owners of the Butterfly Confectionery and residing at 706 Roosevelt Ave., San Antonio, who belongs to the Southside Christian church and is highly regarded.

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Renfro Drug Co., Eighth and Scott streets, No. 1 main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; in Electra from Lough's Drug store; and in Burkburnett from Burkburnett Pharmacy.—Adv.

What Power Rules Your Life?

There are two articles in July Cosmopolitan which should mean much in your life, because they show the Workings of Destiny in the lives of Two of the most Outstanding Men of Our Time in his autobiography in Cosmopolitan, states:

Calvin Coolidge

"I fully expected to become the kind of country lawyer I saw all about me, spending my life in the profession, with perhaps a final place on the Bench. But it was decreed to be otherwise. Some Power that I little suspected in my student days took me in charge and carried me on from the obscure neighborhood at Plymouth Notch to the occupancy of the White House."

In July Cosmopolitan this man who was led through dramatic scenes to the highest place in national history, recalls events of his boyhood.

We see him in the sugar camps; in the sheep-shearing; in his first trip away from home. His tasks seemed to him common ones—and yet through it all we see destiny at work.

To understand what was the Power which swept him to the Presidency you must follow his complete autobiography in Cosmopolitan.

John D. Rockefeller's father

John D. Rockefeller

His dual personality may be explained by newly discovered facts revealed by John K. Winkler. You will contrast the strong, purposeful character of John D.'s mother with the dashing, debonair "Old Doc" Rockefeller—his father—the itinerant medical man from whom John D. gained his earliest knowledge of business principles.

"To my father I owe a great debt in that he himself trained me to practical ways," John D. says. "He was engaged in different enterprises. He used to tell me about these things, explaining their significance; and he taught me the principles and methods of business."

"Doc" Rockefeller once told an Ohio crony: "I want to make my boys sharp. I trade with the boys and I just beat 'em every time I can."

Mr. Winkler's presentation may explain the Power that governed John D.'s life—the inheritance that brought him much criticism as a business man and great credit as a philanthropist.

Cosmopolitan each month publishes the important features and stories that create serious comment and sparkling conversation. Among the outstanding fiction in the July issue, for example, take

Popular Electra Couple Wed In Pretty Ceremony

YOWELL, Texas, June 17.—Against a setting in which an exquisite ensemble of floral decorations and graceful cathedral tapers harmonized with an elaborate musical service, Miss Mary Ellen Scott and Paul B. Brush of Electra, Texas, were married here Monday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rice Scott.

A beautiful ring service, arranged for the occasion and articulated with piano accompaniment using Schumann's "Traumerei" and Cadman's "At Dawning," was read by Rev. C. C. Klingman, pastor of the First Christian church of Electra.

The wedding ceremony was performed before a low altar of ferns, sprayed with white shasta daisies, and lighted at either end with white cathedral tapers, stately in ornate brass candelebras. At 6 o'clock the strains of "Liebestraume," by Liszt, given out from the piano by Mrs. W. L. Underwood, of Wichita Falls, introduced the musical selections which formed an impressive background for the entrance of the bridal pair. Kreisler's "Liebesfreud," and "At Dawning," Cadman, were played by Mrs. E. J. DeMontel, violinist, also of Wichita Falls, accompanied by Mrs. Underwood. Two vocal numbers followed, "Beloved, It Is Morn," by Florence Aylward, and "Oh Perfect Day," words and music of which were written for the Brush-Scott wedding by Mrs. Underwood, who played her own accompaniments.

The groom was accompanied by his brother, Kenneth, of Electra, to the marriage altar, where he was met by the bride, who entered on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's "Wedding March." She was gowned in a delicate creation of egg-shell and honeysuckle georgette trimmed in exquisite real lace, and carried a gorgeous bouquet of valley lilies and rosebuds falling in showers from a center of orchids. The bride's maid, Miss Christine Broadstreet of Shreveport, La., wore a model of platon beige chiffon and carried an arm bouquet of ophelia roses. At the first note of the wedding march, little Miss Virginia Joe Scott, sister of the bride, lovely in a frock of flesh organdy over taffeta, lighted the taper candles which illumined the brightly garlanded wedding suite of three rooms.

As the last vow was spoken, the exultant chords of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" sounded joyously from the piano as the wedding party moved to the adjoining dining room, where the bride cut a two-tiered white wedding cake. The table, for which the cake made the centerpiece, was beautiful in cape jasmine and profuse greenery. The bridal pair left at 7:30 o'clock for an extended honeymoon which will be spent in Chicago, on the Great Lakes, and other points. About July 5 they will return to a new home, recently completed on West Highland avenue, in Electra.

Mr. Brush is one of the most prominent young merchants of Electra, being a junior partner in the firm of Thomas, Slaton and Brush, and manager of the men's store. Mrs. Brush has been teacher of piano in the public schools of Electra during the last six years. Both have been active in social and civic life of that city, and are members of the First Christian church.

Guests at the wedding were received by Miss Ossie Scott and Mrs. C. B. Hockaday of Graham, cousin and aunt, respectively, of the bride. Other out-of-town guests were Miss Reba Brush, Electra, sister of the groom; C. B. Hockaday, Graham; Mrs. C. C. Klingman, Electra; Mrs. W. C. Stewart, Electra, and numerous relatives and close friends residing in this community.

LACK OF AUTO RUINS HOME

But It Must Have Been A Queer Home

Foolish Pair Who Plan Divorce in Order to Have a Car—New Protest Against Automobile Grafters. Who writes the Letters Dorothy Dix Answers.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man and have been married to the sweetest girl in the world for 18 months. I worship her and she worships me, but we have had a bit of hard luck and have had to sell our car. So at night there is nothing to do but sit at home and we can't stand that, so what do you think we had better do? She would go to work and help me buy another car so we could go around and have a big time, but a married woman has a hard time finding a job in this town. If she was not married she could get work very easily, as she is an expert stenographer. So we are thinking of getting a divorce. I could live with my people and save money, and in that way we could get another car and I could have dates with her three or four times a week and we would both be happy, and when I have worked up in the business world we could remarry. We can't stand this just sitting at home without a car. What do you think of our plan? —W.McL.

Answer—I think that you and your wife must have gasoline in your veins instead of blood, and a rubber tire in your breasts in place of a heart.

Certainly if you care more for an automobile than you do for each other, and if speeding it up in a car means more to you than having your own home and the nearness and dearness of husbandhood and wifehood, then by all means call a taxi and break the traffic laws beating it to the divorce court as quickly as you can. You are not fit for the responsibilities of marriage and you have no right to a wife, and your wife has no right to a husband until you learn a better sense of values, and to put love and duty and the sacred sense of the obligation you have assumed above the pleasure of feeling the wheels go round.

But if you break up your home and you and your wife part just for the sake of having a car, don't you think you will be making a pretty poor bargain? Don't you think that you will be selling out your birthright for a mess of pottage? I'll grant you that a car is a delightful luxury to have and that it is a pleasant diversion to ride around in one of an evening, but is it worth the price of the man or woman you love?

Is it worth having your young romance killed? Is it worth the thrill you got out of making your first home together? Is it worth the jealousy and suspicion you are bound to feel when you are parted and know that each is free to make another marriage, perhaps with somebody who can offer the bribe of a deluxe car?

Is it worth the sordid charges that you must bring against each other in a divorce court, because you have to offer to the law some better excuse for breaking your marriage vows than that you prefered an automobile to each other? You can't name a car as a corespondent, you know.

It seems to me that when you are willing to swap off a perfectly good husband or wife, and one that suits you, for a car, you are making just about the most disastrous trade that any people ever did make. For don't decieve yourself by thinking that after your divorce things will be just as they were before, and that when you have a new car and are making enough to pay for the gasoline, you can marry again and live happily ever after. We can't lay down life and take it up again just where we left it. Everything changes. We change ourselves And, above all, we can never recover the feeling of a vanished day.

If you give up each other now, you can never love again in the same old way. You can never have the same feeling about re-establishing a home. You can never get back the old trust and faith in each other that you have betrayed. Other people will come into your lives, other interests. Other men will take your pretty little ex-wife joyriding. You will go out with other girls. The chances are that you will marry others and it is this loss you are risking when you give each other up for the sake of a car.

You say that neither of you can endure sitting at home of an evening without an automobile. I suppose you cannot even vision the horror of those days before the automobile was invented when everybody sat at home and amused themselves as best they could. And, believe me, son, they were just as happy as you are tearing along a road at 50 miles an hour.

So why not content yourself for a year or two with the sedentary evenings that your parents and your grandparents found so enjoyable?

Why not learn how to read? You may think you don't like books, but that is only because you haven't the sort that appeal to you. Go to the public library and get them to give you books of hair-raising adventure, detective stories that will keep you so engrossed that the evenings will pass by before you know it. Then there is the pleasure of conversation. Surely you and your wife must have much to talk about that you can say far better sitting quietly at home than you could in a car that is whistling through the wind.

And it is mighty entertaining work fixing up a home. You haven't any idea how much fun you can get out of making furniture yourself and painting up things in the new, bright, gay colors that are so alluring and fashionable now.

But what I would really urge on you as a pastime is to put in these careless evenings trying to improve your technique in whatever occupation you follow. Go to night school and take a special course in your trade if you can. If you can't, get the textbooks on the subject and study them and get your wife to study with you so she won't be left behind.

If you will do that, you will find that you have no longer, boresome evenings with nothing to do hanging on your hands. The time will go by in a jiffy because you will be absorbed in what you are learning, and you will fit yourself to do so much better work that you will get better pay and so shorten up the time before you can have an automobile that hasn't been paid for with the wreck of your marriage.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I read your article on automobile grafter with much interest and would like to get your view on the other side of this question. How about the country people with their automobiles coming to the city and sponging off their city friends? I have a sister who lives in the country and when she gets lonesome she piles her entire faimly into the car and pays a visit lasting anywhere up to two weeks. We live in a few rooms and when she comes we have to pack in like sardines. And she never offers to help with any of the work, or to contribute to any of the expense for entertainment, but when she gets home she writes the most beautiful bread-and-butter letter. And that's all.

—A DISGUSTED SISTER.

Answer—What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, and just exactly the same strictures apply to the grafting country automobilists as to the deadbeat city ones.

One sins probably against the decencies of life just as often as the other, and they might score matters off and call it even if the grafters grafted off each other. But they don't. The panhandlers are foxy folks and they are wise enough to choose as their victims those who will not retaliate. Therefore, the A's who think it so lovely to descend with a car full of friends on country acquaintances, never choose the B's, who also have a car and are fond of gadding and would be sure to repay the visit, but they pick on the C's, who never leave home.

And the moral of the whole matter is to follow the golden rule and visit as we would be visited by, which being interpreted means never to be a self-invited guest, and never to go anywhere without a specific invitation. There are plenty of ways in which our friends can let us know when we are wanted.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Scientist Urges Healthful Use of Sugar

"An important thing to remember about eating is that we should enjoy our food," says one of the country's eminent food scientists. "Remember that sugar is one of the finest condimental foods in the world."

He goes on to explain that sugar is nature's incomparable flavor. It helps to relieve the monotony of our daily diets. It is an aid to nutrition and health because it adds to the enjoyment of eating, and for that reason enables us to eat a greater variety of other healthful foods, by improving their flavors.

"Sugar is wholesome," he said, "and it is inexpensive. Everyone can benefit from this flavor which adds so much pleasure to nearly all the other foods we eat."

The advice of this famous man can be carried out in planning almost all daily dishes. Fresh or cooked fruits are full of minerals, vitamins and other elements necessary in the diet. They are made more delightful to our taste by the addition of sugar.

The flavors of nearly all vegetables are very much improved by adding a pinch of sugar in cooking. Sugar in connection with chocolate or cocoa makes milk a delicious beverage. Most foods are made more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

CAPTAIN STAYS DESPITE GALE

Skipper of Battered Laurel Refuses to Leave

PORTLAND, Ore., June 17. (US) Alone on the comber-swept hulk of the freighter Laurel, from which the last of his crew of 32 men were removed today in surf boats, Captain Louis Johnson tonight still refused to leave and shouted above the roar of the dying gale to rescuers that he would "stick and see it through."

Seven men were taken from the after-half of the ship during the afternoon by life-boat guard crews. Last night 24 were rescued several hours after the Laurel, its steering gear disabled, had been driven ashore at Peacock Spit at the mouth of the Columbia river, by mountainous seas and one of the worst summer gales the northwest coast had experienced for years.

One of those aboard—Russell Smith, 19, of Dorchester, Mass.—was swept from the battered hulk by a wave and drowned. He was working his way on the ship in an effort to reach home after receiving a pathetic letter from his mother to return.

Cheated of more than one life after the prospects of rescue looked hopeless, the sea took its toll in injured. Sam Pedro, first cook, was pounded by lumber when he leaped into the ocean and so seriously injured he may die. Several seamen were removed to a hospital at Astoria to be treated for less serious injuries.

Captain Johnson shouted through his cupped hands to the rescuers that he would "stick" to the hulk until the storm dies down. In this way, coast guardsmen said, legal possession of the between-deck cargo will be retained for the owners and saved from salvagers.

The Laurel was bound from this city to New York.

Four Converts Added To List at Revival

Four additional conversions marked the Monday night meeting of the revival being conducted at the First Church of Christ by Evangelist S. A. Dunn Sr. of Dallas.

Large crowds were present both at the noon and evening services Monday, according to Rev. L. S. White pastor. Many persons from the business section of the city are visiting the church for the 30-minute meetings held at 12:15 p. m. daily, it was said.

Evangelist Dunn announced that his subject for Tuesday night's sermon is one of the most significant and impressive texts from the New Testament. The thief who on the cross addressed himself to the Christ, "Remember me when Thou comest into Thy Kingdom," will be the theme of the address.

MATCHING BAGS

It is a good trick this spring to save a bit of the tweed suit, the sheer broadcloth coat or the asperic frock and have a purse made to match. The best shapes are longer than they are wide.

Wellington Man's Bond Set at $5,000 In Slaying of Youth on City Square

Special to The Record News

WELLINGTON, Texas, June 17—Mat Austin, held for killing Jim Carl Johnson on the public square in Wellington Sunday afternoon appeared before a court of inquiry Monday and was formally charged with murder by Sheriff Claude McKinney. His bond was placed at $5,000.

Austin waived examining trial. Eight witnesses to the shooting were examined in the court of inquiry by Sheriff McKinney, County Attorney Luther Gribble and Justice of the Peace H. W. Myers.

Mr. Gribble said the evidence disclosed that the shooting grew out of a quarrel between Austin and Ray Riddle, a brother-in-law of the slain youth.

Austin is held in the county jail pending arrangement for bond. He will appear before the grand jury here Nov. 18.

Austin is a painter and paper hanger here. He is married.

Johnson was 19 years old and moved to Wellington two years ago from Memphis, Texas. Funeral services for Johnson were conducted here Monday afternoon. He is survived by his widow who was formerly Miss Vicie Burkhalter of Wellington.

Roosevelt 'Panda' Viewed by Experts

CHICAGO, June 17, (UP)—Scientists of field museum today examined the specimen of a giant "Panda" brought here by Kermit Roosevelt, to classify and determine in which zoological division it should be placed.

Roosevelt, back from a three months' hunting trip in Indo-China, said he had called the animal "Panda" for want of a better name. The animal resembles both a bear and a raccoon.

Roosevelt, who was en route to New York today, returned in advance of others in the expedition because of business. His brother, Theodore Jr., and several others remained in Asia and are not expected back for another six weeks.

The highest bidder at a United States marshal's sale in Portland, Me., bought a towboat for $7,500. He sold it for $70,000.

Fort Worth Girl Got Early Start

"When I was still a little tot mother started teaching me how to always have a clear, beautiful complexion," says pretty Anna Mae Baggett, whose home is at 2510 Pearl St., in Fort Worth. "When the least little blemish showed up, she would tell me my blood was out of order and give me Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) right away. NR Tablets are so effective, because they soothe, sweeten and stimulate the stomach and bowels. Ford against the Roxana Petroleum company went to the jury at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. The jury was excused for the night at 5 o'clock, to recommence their deliberations at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The plaintiff is asking damages on the claim that the company failed to properly develop a 640-acre oil lease in Young county.

Sam Spence, district attorney, will be in Graham when the first case is called. He expects the criminal work to be completed within the week.

Trial of C. A. Wright Reset for September

Trial of C. A. Wright, charged with a third burglary offense under the Texas habitual criminal act, first set for Monday, June 24, has been postponed until the September term of the 89th district court, Sam Spence, district attorney, announced Monday afternoon. The absence of several important witnesses who are out of the state for the summer is the principal cause for the postponement, Mr. Spence explained.

Wright was arrested in Oklahoma in April after the recovery of several thousand dollars worth of goods stolen from well-known Wichita Falls homes.

PLAINS SCOUTS TO HOLD CAMP

200 Expected to Attend Session Near Post

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 17.—More than 200 boys from all over the South Plains of Texas are expected to attend the annual encampment of the South Plains Area council, Boy Scouts of America in July, that will be held at the C. W. Post Memorial camp near Post, Texas.

H. B. Yates, scout executive for the council, has just returned from a trip over the area council and he reports a wide spread interest among the boys in all parts of the section.

Due to the unusual interest in the camp, officials expect to be forced to hold two camps with about 100 boys in each camp. The first group will attend from July 1 to July 10 and the second group will come in immediately thereafter to stay from July 10 to 19.

In addition to receiving a ten-day outing at the scout camp, the boys will be schooled in scout work, given an abundance of physical exercise through games and scout work. Scout masters from over the Plains section will be on hand to assist Yates in handling the camp and on certain occasions parents and interested friends will be invited to visit to see the type of work the scouts are doing at the camp.

The area council owns a 420-acre tract of land in the canyons near Post as the permanent site for their summer camp. The site was donated to the council by the heirs of the C. W. Post estate. Since it was deeded over to the council a few years ago several thousands of dollars has been spent in building equipment to better facilitate the holding of the annual encampments there. Practically every needed convenience is now found on the camp site.

Turning Men Into Gods

THE ISOLATED TRIBES of the mountains of Thibet consider Herbert Hoover a kind of god. They have corrupted his name into "Koovera," which is the old name for the Thibetan god of happiness. In some of their huts there are faded old newspaper photographs of the American president, mounted over little family altars to receive daily ceremonies of reverence.

And, as if one American god were not enough, the Thibetans have also elevated Henry Ford to their pantheon. Ford ranks much lower than Hoover, but is nevertheless considered a very potent kind of semi-divinity.

These rather odd bits of information are brought out by Prof. Nicholas Roerich, New York artist, who has just returned from a five-year trip into the obscure regions back of the Himalayas.

They bring a smile to the faces of American readers, naturally enough. The thought of the brisk, efficient Mr. Hoover and the nervously-active Mr. Ford seated in complacent somnolence on flower-bedecked altars to receive the prayers and sacrifices of ignorant barbarians is decidedly not the kind of thought one can entertain with a straight face.

Yet, after all, these Thibetan tribes are only doing what the whole race was accustomed to do a relatively short time ago.

In the early days of civilization any man who stood out above his fellows was believed to have some trace of divinity in him. If you could trace back the old myths of Greece or Scandinavia to their sources you would find that most of the gods they mention were originally human beings, whose exploits so dazzled their associates that they were defied.

We have pretty well got over that now. At least nobody in America has yet suggested that President Hoover be enshrined in a temple. Not even the most ardent Republican would propose such a thing.

When you stop to think about it, though, we do pretty much the same thing.

We don't deify our great men; instead we let their achievements convince us that we ourselves—all of us, from the highest to the lowest—have some sort of divinity in us.

In other words, we judge our race by the lives of its finest representatives.

We aren't so far wrong when we do that.

For scores of centuries man has been trying to demonstrate that he is somehow higher than the rest of the animal world. Sometimes his efforts have not been very convincing. There is always enough meanness and cruelty and ignorance and blindness in the world to make one pretty discouraged.

But there are, also, men whose lives prove that the race has magnificent capabilities. We don't deify these men any more; instead we reflect that the qualities they have we have, too. We let them represent the whole race—and we are right.

A Direct Move for Peace

RAMSAY MacDONALD'S decision to come to the United States to talk with President Hoover about armament reduction is one of the most refreshing things that has happened in the field of international relations in a long time.

It is always inspiring to find the leader of a government willing to cut across the ties of red tape and go directly to the heart of any problem in a new way. The British premier is doing precisely that—and he is, thereby, rendering the whole English-speaking world a service.

During the last few years we have chanted incessantly that a war between England and the United States is "unthinkable," but we have allowed ourselves to drift directly toward it. This meeting between Hoover and MacDonald should do more to stop that drift than a decade of ordinary state department negotiations.

Every friend of peace will applaud the British prime minister's action.

How Airplanes Bring Prosperity

THE WAY in which the airplane is going to bring new prosperity to Canada is pointed out by a writer in the June issue of the Review of Reviews.

This writer points out that Canada has virtually unlimited mineral resources, most of them untouched at present, reaching from Labrador around Hudson bay nearly to the Mackenzie river. And the airplane has made it possible to study this area in a way that never could have been done in the old days.

"Aerial exploration not only has removed many of the terrors and hardships of prospecting, but has opened to the seeker after mineral deposits territories far beyond his reach," says the article. "The past year found planes scouring the territories along the coasts of the Hudson and James bays, dropping off a party of prospectors here and there and returning later, at a given date, to bring them back to civilization."

A Benefit of Prohibition

SAY WHAT YOU WILL about prohibition—at least it gets some odd and peculiar news items into the daily papers. In Salt Lake City a maker of moonshine dumped his mash on the ground near his chicken house. His roosters ate of it, got woefully intoxicated, and proceeded to indulge in the strangest antics any Salt Lake City poultry ever attempted.

A prohibition agent, noticing their odd behavior, investigated. Result: the moonshiner is under arrest and two huge stills have been seized.

Yes, prohibition does give us some stories that are out of the ordinary.

Quotations Worth Noting

"We now know that the control of accidents must come through two sources: first, by insisting that physical conditions must be made safe, and second, by convincing human beings that the hazards of modern life must be respected."—W. H. Cameron, managing director of the National Safety Council.

"The senator said the agriculture department does not regard potatoes as perishable. I do not know whether the department may have issued any bulletin to that extent or not, but potatoes certainly are a perishable commodity, and extremely perishable under certain conditions."—Senator Borah, Idaho.

The GREEN SHADOW - By Herman Landon

INSTALLMENT TWO

Adele Castle is on the way to visit a mysterious Dr. Moffett, accompanied by the equally mysterious Miss Conway, who has told her Virgil Ellsworth Castle, her father, is in serious trouble and that Dr. Moffett can aid him. Adele has called up her friend, Paul Ainsworth, and told him to trail Miss Conway's car. Two items are featured in the newspaper Mr. Castle was reading before he left for his office; the pursuit by the police of "Mr. Graves," who was associated in a reputedly shady deal which netted $10,000,000, and the latest exploit of the "Picaroon," a crook who preys on the rich and then offers the return of his loot if they give one-tenth of its value to charity.

The blurred figure of a man stopped and dropped into a chair.

The House of the Green Lights

With scarcely a sound or a vibration the luxurious sedan swung down the street, picked up speed, and rolled smoothly toward its mysterious destination. Miss Conway leaned languidly back against the cushions and devoted herself to a gold-tipped cigaret. Adele was slightly disappointed to discover that the side windows were heavily shaded and that from the position her companion had assigned her she could not look either forward or backward without great difficulty.

They made numerous turns, and now and then they seemed to double back on their course. Their progress was moderate, however, and she knew Paul would have no difficulty keeping them in sight. Soon the motion of the car told her they were crossing a bridge.

"Brooklyn," she thought.

She glanced covertly at Miss Conway. The woman's eyes were half closed and her expression was uncertain in the dim light of the frosted electric bulb overhead.

A low buzzing sound came. Miss Conway leaned forward and brought the speaking tube to her ear. Adele could not make out the words that passed between the chauffeur and her companion, but the latter gave her an enigmatic smile as she dropped the tube.

The car was gaining speed, and Adele knew they were leaving the city behind them. Faster and faster they went. Now and then she caught her breath sharply as they made an abrupt turn. Probably they were on one of the Long Island highways. Now they were racing, with the engine throbbing in ecstasy and the wind whistling gleefully around the sides of the car. Faster—and still faster.

And then, quite suddenly, the car fell into a more sedate rate of speed. Once more the buzzer sounded. Miss Conway picked up the speaking tube and listened. Then she turned to Adele with a faint, mocking suggestion in her light-green eyes.

"We've left him far behind," she announced.

"Who?" Adele asked, startled.

"Our mad pursuer—the young hero you commissioned to follow us." She gave a clear laugh that yet had a trace of irony in it. "He should have known that a taxi can't keep pace with this car."

Adele's heart sank. The magnificent sedan was taking on the ugly aspects of a trap. She drew herself up and tried to look unconcerned. A dash of danger would be rather thrilling. Besides, she might be able to help her father, and to that end she was willing to risk a lot.

"Not afraid?" Miss Conway asked.

"Not in the least."

"You trust me, don't you?"

Adele merely smiled wisely.

"Do you know, my dear, I rather like you." The woman regarded her with an amused expression. "Before I saw you I was prepared to despise you. I would be despising you now if you had walked blindfolded into what might have been a trap."

"Well, isn't it a trap?"

"No, but I'm glad you are nobody's fool. I don't like to blush with shame for my sex. Ever so many pretty girls are imbeciles. You are one of the exceptions, and that's why I like you. Do you like me?"

"No," said Adele frankly, "but there are some things about you I admire."

"That's splendid! I would rather be admired than liked. But that doesn't alter the fact that I like you a lot. You were too shrewd to accept me on faith. And so, while dressing you got in touch with the young hero. That was a commendable precaution, even though unnecessary."

"Unnecessary?"

The Locked Room

"Oh, yes. Everything I told you was true. I see you don't believe me, but you will. No harm is coming to you. Dr. Moffett will outline a certain proposition. You may accept it or reject it, or you may ask time to think it over. You will be perfectly safe."

Adele studied the face of her companion. She was intrigued, fascinated, a little thrilled, but far from convinced.

They were moving at a very slow pace now. Soon she perceived they were crossing a bridge, so they must be turning back to Manhattan. Apparently they had made a detour of many miles to elude the pursuing Paul.

"If that's true," she said in reply to Miss Conway's last statement, "why are you so anxious that I shan't see where we are going?

"Can't you guess?"

"I suppose Dr. Moffett doesn't want me to learn his address. But if his motives are as fair and above-board as you say they are, why should he object to that?"

Miss Conway did not reply. Adele's contemplative eyes fixed on the nickel knob on the door. It would be a simple matter to throw the door open at one of the traffic stops and look out. It might be locked, of course. Or Miss Conway might be prepared against just such a move. Anyway, Adele decided to see her adventure through to the end.

The car lapsed into a crawling pace, then stopped. Miss Conway straightened from her reclining position. The chauffeur was holding the door open. Adele stepped out and looked up and down a block of old dwellings searching in vain for some outstanding mark by which she might later identify the locality. There were still hundreds of such blocks in Manhattan, despite the insolent crowding of the towering apartment buildings.

As if to assist her, the chauffeur took her arm and did not relinquish it until she had ascended half a dozen steps and stood before a door. It opened almost instantly.

Miss Conway gave her a gentle push from behind and she entered. The hall was dark, and she could not see the person who had opened the door.

"Straight ahead, please," said Miss Conway softly.

Adele conquered a misgiving and moved forward. The darkness and the strangeness of the house was a little disquieting, but she would not turn back now. With a little flutter at the throat she stopped before a door. It opened quietly and mysteriously. Another little push from Miss Conway, so slight and gentle that it might have been a gesture of encouragement, urged her forward.

She walked in, advanced a few steps, then stopped. She heard the door close behind her with a click which signified that a bolt had slipped back into its socket. Though she knew it was not yet noon, the room was in total darkness. The windows, if there were any, must be heavily shaded so as not to admit the faintest ray of light. She braced herself against the gloom that pervaded the curious and depressing stillness. She felt quite alone, and she wondered what had become of Miss Conway.

She waited tremulously. The stillness and the darkness grew oppressive. Merely to verify a suspicion, she went back a few steps and tried the doorknob. As she had expected, the door was locked. She shook off the vague dread which the discovery aroused within her. She must not be a fool, she told herself. She had walked into this with eyes wide open, and now—

Emerald Light

The thread of her thoughts snapped. A little click had sounded somewhere. The most curious light she had ever seen flooded the room—a green light so soft and rich it made her think of velvet. And not only that, but it was evenly distributed over the room, forming no shadows in the corners.

She gazed about her in amazement. The room was furnished in the fashion of a library with long and well-filled bookcases at three walls, a huge rosewood table in the center, easy chairs with leather-covered upholstery, a few rugs of soft Oriental hues, several pictures and pieces of statuary, the whole immersed in a steady flood of emerald light. What a curious light it was, so smooth and even so soothing to the eyes! It was soothing to her nerves as well. She thought, after she had recovered from her amazement, that the room had a pleasant, friendly, welcoming aspect.

"How do you do, Miss Castle?"

She swung around and stared. And then she swung round and stared in the opposite direction. Her startled eyes swept the green spaces. She must have been mistaken. She thought some one had spoken, but her overwrought nerves and excited imagination must have deceived her, for there was no one in sight.

"I am Doctor Moffett. I am very pleased to see you."

With a dull, quavering cry she stared about her again. This time she knew there had been no mistake.

Out of the soft green color tones that filled the room a voice had spoken. It was a deep, strong, rather pleasant voice, yet she was dimly aware of an unreal quality in it, as if the speaker wished to disguise his natural manner of speech.

"Won't you be seated?"

Mechanically she slipped into the seat beside her. The continued assaults on her nerves being becoming unbearable. But now, out of the velvety green light, a figure emerged. It was a shadowy figure that seemed to blend into the verdant illumination on all sides. She could scarcely distinguish the outlines, and the face she could not see at all. It seemed to be screened behind a soft emerald mist. Yet even this dim and fragmentary sight steadied her nerves. It was less weird by far than to hear a voice and be able to see no one.

About half a dozen paces from where she sat the blurred figure stopped and dropped into a chair.

"Mind if I smoke, Miss Castle?"

"Not—not in the least!" Adele stammered. It was a little uncanny to hear herself reply to a question spoken by a man whose face she could not see. She strained her eyes in the direction where he sat. The outlines of his figure were a trifle clearer now, but the face was still shrouded in what looked like a green fog.

A match scratched. A small yellow flame appeared at the end of a match, but the hand that held it was only a blur. The flame wriggled, expanded, burned clearly against the green background, then dwindled in size and brightness. Small puffs of gray smoke issued forth, forming wisp-like wreaths in the space where the face should have been.

Adele pinched herself to make sure she was not in a hypnotic trance. Her flesh responded with a stinging sensation. It was all real then. And already her nerves were growing calmer. She had reached the point of saturation where her brain could register no further surprises.

Dr. Moffett

"As I told you," came from the chair beyond the rosewood table. "I am Doctor Moffett. I suppose my name is unfamiliar to you?"

Adele nodded.

"Then," said Doctor Moffett, "in order that we may become better acquainted, let me tell you a little something about myself. The title that precedes my name is my rightful property. I was once a practicing physician specializing in diseases of the eye. The name itself doesn't matter so much. Names mean so little these days.

"Years ago I dropped the practice of medicine to devote myself to pleasanter and more profitable pursuits. I suppose you are wondering about this green light and why you can't see much of me, especially of my face. Well, there are reasons. There is nothing very mysterious about this light. You have seen the same thing occasionally in the theaters. As for my reason for sitting here in semiobscurity—"

He laughed, a deep, whimsical laugh. "I am telling you this so that you will feel more at ease in my presence. We can't have a satisfactory discussion unless you feel wholly comfortable. You are more comfortable already, aren't you?"

"Yes, Dr. Moffett," said Adele in a voice that still sounded a little uncertain.

"That's splendid. Just a few more words about myself. I am probably the ugliest man in creation. Also, I am very sensitive about my unfortunate looks. That's one reason why I don't wish you to see my face, and that one alone would be sufficient. There's another, however. You might recognize me if you should ever see me, and that would be very unfortunate for both of us."

He laughed again, and this time, the laugh sounded less pleasant than on the former occasion.

"Yes, it would be very unfortunate for both of us," he repeated, as if he wished to stress the point. "But we needn't worry about that. I am very careful not to show my face indiscriminately. You are not nervous now?"

"Not in the least," Adele assured him, straining the truth.

"Fine! We are going to have a practical talk, you and I, and that will require mental poise. Do you know, I never feel quite at ease except in a green light like this. It is the only kind of light that rests my nerves. Green soothes them, while most other colors irritate them.

"Did you happen to know that there is a separate nerve for each primary color? Well, there is. Green, for instance, has its own nerve, and so have blue and red. These nerves act as messengers, each carrying its own color sensation to the brain. Now, I am afflicted with a nervous ailment that has affected the nerves for blue and red so that these colors irritate me. With green it is different, and that's one reason why I am interviewing you in this sort of illumination."

Adele was growing a trifle impatient. It seemed a very long introduction. Again she strained her eyes in the speaker's direction, but the ugly face to which he had alluded was still masked in a green shroud.

"Just another preliminary word," Dr. Moffett murmured. "I have suffered a great deal in my life, what with my unsightly face and my nervous ailment. Perhaps the experience has hardened me. At any rate, I have no patience with idealists and visionaries.

"I am what you would call a man of hard practical sense. All my actions are calculated to serve my own selfish interests. My desires are the only law I recognize and obey. I always attain my objectives. If anything stands in my way, I sweep it aside. Do you understand me better now?"

She smiled mirthlessly. As if one could understand a man whose face was not visible to the eyes! Yet an impression of a sort had been sketched on her brain. She wondered whether Dr. Moffett would sweep aside a human obstacle as ruthlessly as, according to his own words, he swept aside inanimate ones.

"Yes, I think I do," she murmured in response, watching the ghostly puffs of gray smoke that drifted in front of the invisible face. Since she could not see the face, she fell to studying the voice more closely. Despite the deep and pleasant timbre of it, her impression that it was not Dr. Moffett's natural voice grew stronger.

"Good, Miss Castle. You must be weary of hearing me talk about myself. I have spoken this way only in order that we may understand each other better. Now we shall talk about something else. You have probably heard of Daniel Forrester?"

"I—I think so," Adele stammered. The newspaper headlines she had seen at breakfast that morning flashed back into her mind with sharp vividness.

Forrester's Partner

"We can dispose of Forrester in a few words. He was a man somewhat like myself—ambitious, hard, aggressive and ruthless where his own interests were concerned—a man who scoffed at laws and conventions. It was his ambition to be rich. To realize that ambition he organized one of the greatest and most ingenious swindling schemes the human brain has ever conceived.

"In a little while—less than a year—he massed together 10 millions. He would have piled up 100 millions if he had lived and could have avoided complications with the law. While he lived he was lucky. The authorities didn't become cognizant of the illicit nature of his operations until three weeks after his death."

A new dread took hold of Adele, succeeding the sense of weirdness she had experienced. She thought she could foresee the trend of Dr. Moffett's remarks.

"You see, Miss Castle, Forrester was shrewd and subtle enough to make a crooked game appear straight. And so he continued his operations unhampered until he died. Then a storm broke. Hundreds of victims began to squeal and whine. An examination of Forrester's duplicate books told the story.

"But it was too late to punish Forrester. A dead man can't be brought before a jury. Yet somebody had to be punished. The whiners had to be pacified—a pack of greedy, yellow livered fools who howled for vengeance when they discovered they had bit into a gold brick. A scapegoat had to be found."

Dr. Moffett laughed sardonically. "The authorities are still looking for the scapegoat. Maybe they will find him, but I rather think they will fail, unless I should tell them where to look. They are on his trail now, but it is a badly twisted trail. You see, the investigation showed that Forrester had a partner in his swindling operations, one who worked with him and shared in his illegitimate gains. The authorities found various traces of this partner scattered here and there, but so far they have been unable to learn who he is, although he has been mentioned in the newspapers as 'the mysterious Mr. Graves.'"

Adele started sharply, though she had been in a measure prepared. She had an uncomfortable sensation that a pair of keen eyes was looking straight at her out of the velvety green mist that covered the speaker's face.

"I see the name is familiar to you," Doctor Moffett remarked. "The authorities are now searching for this mysterious Mr. Graves. They are going over Forrester's papers again, hoping to find some clue to his identity and whereabouts. If they ever find him, it is almost certain he will be convicted. Public sentiment is strongly against him, and a conviction of that sort would be a feather in the prosecutor's cap. In all probability the mysterious Mr. Graves would be sent up for 10 years—perhaps 15."

Though she tried to hold it back, a faint moan of dread broke from Adele's lips.

"Did you say something, Miss Castle? No? Well, it is my opinion that the search will be fruitless. You see, some of Forrester's papers—the very ones that would reveal his identity and tighten the case against him—are missing."

"Missing?" Adele echoed in a hollow voice. "You mean——"

"Yes, I mean that through a fortunate occurrence those papers fell into my hands. They are now in my possession, safely hidden where no one is likely to find them. The mysterious Mr. Graves is really no mystery to me."

Adele felt a choking tightness at the throat.

"Who—who is he?"

The reply came after a pause which Doctor Moffett remarked. "The authorities are now searching." Wisps of cigar smoke whirled lazily in the air.

"Virgil Ellsworth Castle, your father."

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, June 17.—Approximately one year ago this month, Dorothy Lee packed her few belongings in the family hat box and migrated to Broadway from her home in Hollywood. Dorothy, born and raised on Harvard avenue in the city of flickering films, had concluded she was not destined to be shot at through the lens of a camera. Her exit brought a sigh of genuine relief from studio casting clerks, motion picture agents and even a lot watchman. They had tired of the daily task of informing Dorothy she was "not the type," etc. Since reaching 14 (she just arrived at 18) Dorothy haunted the studios night and day. Since her home was but a few blocks removed from the area of celluloid factories, the trips were costless.

Her willingness to play extra parts, at the customary five-dollar daily fee, couldn't melt the hard-boiled casting agents. They could not see Dorothy at any price. Finally, she came to cold cynical suspicious Broadway, and landed with "Hello Yourself," a musical comedy. She was given a principal berth, and made good.

Radio Pictures, about this time, was casting for "Syncopation," its first all-sound feature picture. Dorothy squeezed into a minor role. And again made good. Last week she returned to home and Hollywood, accompanied by a maid. A small army of photographers and newspaper men awaited her at the depot.

In her hatbox she brought home some Parisian frocks and a contract for two years under which she will be starred by Radio Pictures at $1,000 weekly.

Quick Watson, the Needle!

Radio audiences are being cleverly bunked into believing Helen Kane is a regular feature on a program exploiting a downtown women's apparel shop. Introduced as "The Miracle Girl," a baby-voiced canary croons the typical Kane numbers much after the style of Helen herself. But those on the inside know better.

"The Miracle Girl," is one of a small time vaudeville team who has studied the Kane records and mastered the peculiar delivery of the Hammerstein star. And, strangely enough, the store sponsoring the program is owned by a corporation of which Helen Kane's estranged husband is an official.

Add to the roster of big business the details of a modern jazz orchestra. Take, for instance, Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, recently voted the most popular stage band in America. Waring carries 22 musicians, a business manager, a publicity man, a valet, property man, electrician, and an expert orchestration man, who never appears before the audiences, but supervises all arrangements of melodies. In addition the organization has its own New York office, presided over by a personal representative who passes on all contracts.

The valet is responsible for the boys' appearance at all times, on and off the stage. The personnel must stop at the best hotel in each town played and no deviation from the path of prohibition is countenanced. Each member of the band is insured, and a waiting list of more than a score of expert musicians of the collegiate type, promises against desertions or violations of rules.

The Waring band receives $7,500 weekly in theaters and for each private engagement is paid approximately $2,500. When broadcasting, their fee is $5,000 per hour's concert. Recently, the band was engaged for a feature talking picture and received a bonus of $50,000 for signing the contract, the engagement netting Waring $80,000.

Every member of the Pennsylvanians owns his own automobile and while the majority of the traveling is done by motor, Waring presents each man with the amount of cash the jump would cost via railroad. Now, boys, get out your horns and stop worrying about last month's bank balance, if any.

The Cherry Season

Ripe, luscious cherries are among the most tempting of all fruits. They have been used by men for many thousands of years. The cherry tree grows wild in many parts of Europe, and the Caucausus of Asia. Cultivated cherries were familiar to the ancient Romans. It is related that when Lucullus returned in triumph to Rome after his victory over the Mithridates he carried back with him a cherry tree laden with fruit. The seeds of cultivated cherries have also been discovered in the ruins of the lake dwellings in Switzerland.

The cherry season is short and everyone should make use of the cherries while they are abundant. While cherries are especially wholesome when used by themselves, they do not combine well with many foods, and therefore have the reputation of causing indigestion.

During the hot weather it is a good plan to make a meal of cherries alone, and as much as a pound or more can be eaten in this way. Cherries also combine well with milk, especially if the cherries are chewed and milk sipped slowly in between. This quality of cherries and milk to make a good combination may surprise many people, but it should be borne in mind that even a small amount of bread or cake used at the same time would likely cause trouble in the otherwise good combination.

Cherry fasts, using no other foods for a few days, are especially valuable in pimples, whiteheads and other skin eruptions. Of course, enemas should be used at the same time just as in any fast regime.

Most of the world's cherries are raised in the United States, France and Japan.

The fruit is ordinarily eaten in a fresh condition, but a large portion of the crop is also canned, and a smaller quantity dried or made into jams, Maraschino cherries and cherry brandy.

Cherry seeds swallowed whole may do no harm, but the nut-like center should never be eaten because of the danger of hydrocyanic acid (a most poisonous substance) being present.

Cherries are best in their fresh state, but the dried cherries, and cherries canned without sugar are also wholesome. The Maraschino cherry is prepared by bleaching in a salt solution, rinsing thoroughly, and then saturating with glucose. The remaining pulp is then dyed red with coal tar dyes, flavored with almond oil or artificial Maraschino flavoring, and preserved in alcohol. The Maraschino cherries are often shipped in brine to the United States and processed in this country. Very little of the original value of the fruit remains and the combination of sugar, dyes and flavoring cannot be considered wholesome.

The principal acid found in cherries is malic, in which they resemble apples, apricots, blackberries, loquats, peaches, pears and plums.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pain in Stomach

Question.—W. L. writes: "I have already reduced 19 pounds by following your instructions, but I do not get rid of a pain which I have had in my stomach at intervals for a long time. Sometimes I feel like vomiting."

Answer—If you do not know what is causing your pain, I advise you to go to your doctor and have a diagnosis. This may prevent the development of a serious trouble.

"Teakettle" Tea

Question—W. G. H. asks: "What would you suggest to drink in place of coffee, as I am nervous, and I think that coffee is to blame?"

Answer—Substitute some "teakettle" tea. This is made by adding a small amount of cream to a cup of hot water. It makes a pleasing warm drink, and will not make you nervous.

Anemia and Blood Transfusions

Question—Ciara J. writes: "I am anemic and my doctor wants to give me blood transfusions. What do you think about this kind of treatment?"

Answer—Blood transfusions are the most helpful after a loss of blood through hemorrhages. If you have pernicious anemia you are in a serious condition and must not depend upon the advice which I can give you in such a short answer in this column. Transfusions of blood can at best be only temporary help. You must at once start getting rid of the vicious toxemia which is destroying your red blood cells. It may seem ridiculous to you when I tell you that you can best do this through fasting for 10 days or two weeks. You need so much information about this that I urge you to go to some doctor who understands how to apply the fasting cure; or, write me again, giving your name and address, so I can answer you personally.

WICHITA FALLS' WINNING STREAK CHECKED AT 11 STRAIGHT

INDIANS SCORE 23 TO 3 VICTORY

Galloways Open Last Road Series Today at Waco

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANTONIO, June 17.—Well, they can't win them all. And the Spudders certainly were due to lose. Overdue, in fact. And when they lost, it was by a score as to leave no doubt that it wasn't their day.

The winning streak of Jim Galloway's men, which had extended to 11 straight, was snapped by the San Antonio Indians today. The score was 23 to 3.

There is no chagrin felt in the Spudders' camp over the defeat, however, as they did not lose ground to other leaders, the pace-setting Steers and the third-place Sports also being defeated. Thus the Spudders still are a game and a half back of Dallas and two and a half games in the van of Shreveport.

Parade of Hurlers

Too, the Spudders didn't crack today, as they made only one error. Their pitching was away off, however, and the Indians piled up 12 runs in the first inning. The parade of Spud hurlers saw four go to the hill, three in the first inning, Goff, Galeria, Smith and Taber in that order, and none was effective.

The Tribe hammered 20 hits, with Chief Nason and Flippen getting four blows each. Ballew got three. Sixteen Indians batted in the first round.

The Spudders got 11 hits off Leon Baker, with Swenson, playing his last game in a Wichita Falls monkey suit, and Crouch getting two apiece.

Rabbit and Pete Rest

Skipper Galloway gave Benton and Turgeon a rest and Andrews and Eldred played around the keystone sack in late innings.

In winning 11 straight, the Spudders won eight on their present trek.

Galloway's men open a three-day stand tomorrow at Waco, and are home Friday. Steengrafe or Payne will hurl tomorrow.

Pyle Faces $56,500 Payoff For Bunion Derby

LOS ANGELES, June 17. (UP)—Having brought 19 of his original 91 transcontinental footracers safely into Los Angeles from New York, C. C. Pyle had two important pieces of immediate business on his program.

The first is the $56,500 payoff of the 15 derbyists who finished in the money and the other, a race here so that he and his winners may capitalize upon their honors.

Pyle said tonight that his accountants would require two or three days to check the daily time cards before paying John Salo, of Passaic, N. J., his $25,000 and 14 others lesser amounts.

Says He Can Pay

"The payoff will be late this week and all that veiled stuff about me not being able to make it is wrong," he said.

Meanwhile, he has two possible plans for a race here. One would a marathon, and the other a 26-hour team race.

John Salo, the Finnish policeman from Passaic, N. J., as winner of the 3 600 mile cross country bunion panic will be the featured performer of Pyle's entertainment, whatever it turns out to be.

Salo Bound Two Years

Salo, by finishing in the money, is bound by contract to Pyle for two years.

"Beefsteak, eggs and potatoes that my wife fed me won, not my legs," Salo said, giving credit to Mrs. Amelia Salo, who acted as his trainer. Now they are figuring what to do with the $25,000 he earned by 525 hours, 57 minutes and 20 seconds of activity.

Peter Gavuzzi, England, gets $10,000 for second place. Guisto Umek, Italy, $6,000; Sam Richman, New York, $3,500 and Paul Simpson, North Carolina, $3,000. The next 10 also have money due them.

They'll Wear New Uniforms

Wally Swenson (top) and Ed Taber have played their last game for the Spudders. Announcement of a deal that sends the pair to Bridgeport of the Eastern league was made yesterday. Albert Herman, a third baseman and Orin "Skinny" O'Neal are acquired by the Wichita Falls club in the transaction, which also involved a bundle of cash going to the Bridgeport club.

Swenson has been third baseman for the Spudders since 1927, when he was a member of the Texas league and Dixie championship teams. Taber came to the local club this spring from New Haven of the Eastern league. He is a lefthanded pitcher.

WALLY, TABER TO BRIDGEPORT

Pitcher and Third Baseman Acquired in Trade

Another Spudder of that 1927 championship team will wear regalia of another club. Wally Swenson, third baseman of the Wichita Falls team since 1927, when he helped win Dixie and Texas league championships, has been traded to the Bridgeport club of the Eastern league, along with Ed Taber, bespectacled lefthand pitcher.

Orin "Skinny" O'Neal, a righthand pitcher and Albert Herman, third baseman, are acquired in exchange for Swenson and Taber. President J. Alvin Gardner of the Spudders announced the deal yesterday, which also involves an unnamed amount of cash going to the Bridgeport club.

Their Records Impressive

Herman batted .321 and fielded .947 last season in 137 games in the Eastern league. He is a righthand hitter. The new Spudder third baseman is a collegian and played the past four years in the International and Eastern leagues.

With the seventh-place Bridgeport club last season O'Neal was fifth in the league in effectiveness with earned run average of 3.01. He won 13 games and lost 10. He was with Beaumont in 1924 and 1925 on option from the Philadelphia Nationals.

Swenson was a star third baseman in 1927, but illness and injury impaired his worth last season. Inability to "get going," both at bat and afield, this year caused the deal to be made for him. A conscientious and popular athlete here, his many friends wish him luck in his new field. Still a young man, a change of scenery should prove beneficial and Swenson should have many years of valuable service in baseball ahead of him.

Six Champ Spuds Left

The departure of the Swede leaves only six Spudders who were members of the 1927 club still wearing Wichita Falls regalia. They are George Payne, Milt Steengrafe, Pete Lapan, Pete Turgeon, Rabbit Benton and Howard Fitzgerald.

Taber was purchased last winter from the championship New Haven club of the Eastern league. He reported ill here for spring training and has been of little value to the Spudders on the mound, and has not pitched an entire game for the local team.

Players involved in the transaction were to leave today to join their new clubs. Herman and O'Neal are expected to report to the Spudders here early next week.

Dallas Moguls See Herd Shutout by Foreman

HOUSTON, June 17. (AP)—Buck Foreman had control today and when that slim righthander has control, the opposing nine is apt to be well under control. Buck twirled the Buffs to a 5 to 0 triumph over the league leading Dallas Steers.

Tod Morgan Ready To Defend Crown

CHICAGO, June 17. (UP)—Tod Morgan, junior lightweight boxing champion, announced today that he was ready to defend his title as soon as the Chicago stadium can match him with a suitable contender.

Morgan indicated his own preference would be Tony Canzoneri, New York Italian who recently surrendered his featherweight title by outgrowing the weight.

Canzoneri, already being considered as a likely opponent for Sammy Mandell, who also is to defend his title in Chicago this summer, may be given the chance to decide.

BRITISH NETSTERS WIN

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 17. (AP)—Great Britain advanced to the final round of European zone Davis cup play today, eliminating Hungary in the semi-finals, three matches to two.

OUR SPUDDERS are coming home Friday and it is in order that we accord Jim Galloway and his triumphant athletes a fitting reception. Indeed, there is a movement on now among some of the leading fans to welcome the Wichita Falls tossers with special ceremonies. Whether that movement materializes, and it has the hearty support of this column, it is at least meet that all fandom of this city and vicinity turn out to give the Spudders a tremendous ovation when they get back to Athletic park.

Until the Spudders started their long winning streak which they maintained on this present trek, gloom was thick at Athletic park. It seemed that nothing went right. Injuries and failure of some players to attain their real stride kept the club down in the race. And even the weather conspired against J. Alvin Gardner and the Spudders. There hardly has been a decent day for baseball any time the Spudders have been home this season.

NOW ALL is changed. The Spudders are in second place, challenging the Dallas Steers for the lead. Summer, and real baseball weather, is here. Like the great and gallant athletes they are, the Spudders overcame adversity. They are occupying their rightful place at the top of the heap. They have again emblazoned the name of Wichita Falls in flaming letters in the world of sports.

Let's EVERYBODY be out at the ball orchard Friday, and as Tex Guinan would say, give the boys a great, big hand.

Folks, they've got it coming to them.

Lou Meyer Given Race Prize Money

ALTOONA, Pa., June 17. (INS)—Cliff Woodbury of Chicago today was fighting grimly in Mercy hospital here for his life, with the same tenacity that carried him through a hundred automobile races on tracks throughout the country.

Woodbury was injured Saturday in the international 200-mile auto races here, in which Ray Keech, the nation's premier speed king, lost his life when six flying cars piled together in a holocaust of flaming wreckage, at the 150th mile of the race.

Keech's battered body today had been returned to his home in Coatesville, Pa.

Officials of the A. A. A. meanwhile reversed a decision of Tipton bowl officials, who awarded first place in the ill-starred race to Keech. Rules under which the race was run provided the contest could not end until drivers not involved in the smashup were flagged down.

Lou Meyer, previously declared second place winner, would get first prize money under the ruling. Drivers were given 24 hours to file a protest, and it was reported today such a protest would be filed.

Revised standing would be Meyer, first, $4,500; Cliff Bergere, second, $2,000; Deacon Pits, third, $1,500; Ernest Triplett, fourth, $1,200; Fred Winnai, fifth, $1,000; Abe Evans, sixth, $850; Speed Gardner, seventh, $750; Bob Robinson, eighth, $650; Jimmy Gleason, ninth, $550; Ray Keech, tenth, $550; Cliff Woodbury, eleventh, $450; Chester Hardoer, twelfth, $450; Lou Moore, thirteenth, $450, and Joe Lindau, fourteenth, $400.

YANKEES WILL TEST MACKMEN IN SERIES STARTING FRIDAY

A'S, CHAMPIONS PLAY 5 GAMES

Ruth's Ability to Return to Lineup Important

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, June 17. (UP)—The big test comes for the Philadelphia Athletics this week when they meet the New York Yankees in a five-game series in three days at Yankee stadium, beginning Friday.

Up until now no team has been able to check the Athletics and they have piled up an eight-game lead in the run-away American league race.

Unless the Athletics are playing way over their heads Connie Mack has assembled one of the great baseball machines of recent years. The Athletics have got off to one of the fastest starts in history. It took the Yankees until July 4 last year to pile up their 13½-game lead which was later whittled completely away by the Athletics.

Apparently it will take a crushing blow from the Yankees, similar to the one they dealt the Athletics in the vital September series last season, to prevent Connie Mack's club from coasting home to the pennant.

Opposition Overpowered

The swift pace set by the Athletics can't be ikept up all season unless Connie Mack has a super ball club. The Athletics have not lost two games in a row all season.

Thus far the Athletics have been able to overpower all opposition, winning most of their games by wide margins. They have had several long winning streaks, including one of 13 games. They have won 24 out of their last 28 games.

What would happen to the Athletics if the Yankees took five straight or four out of five from Philadelphia lends itself to unlimited discussion.

Bucky Harris, Detroit manager, believes the Athletics are overdue for a slump.

Harris and Cobb Differ

"The Athletics are not invincible," Harris said. "They are playing wonderful baseball right now but I don't think they can keep it up. The time is ripe for the Yankees to start the Athletics downhill. If the Athletics should win a majority of games in the coming series they may never be headed."

Ty Cobb, veteran American league star who closed his career with Athletics, does not think the Yankees can beat Connie Mack's team this season.

"The Athletics have acquired a winning psychology this season," he said before sailing for Europe Saturday. "I don't think the Yanks can win the pennant even if they sweep the coming series. The Athletics have learned not to lose heart when they drop a few games. That last September series against the Yankees helped to make the Athletics a great team."

Mack has Grove, Waberg and Earnshaw primed to work against the Yankees. Grove has won 10 out of 11 games. Ernshaw has won his last six games. Walberg has won seven out of nine. Quinn, who has won seven out of nine, also will work in the series. Rommel, who has won six straight, probably will pitch the other game.

Battle of Siege Guns

The series may hinge on whether Babe Ruth gets back into the game and is in form. When Ruth is hitting, he strikes terror into the opposition, and no team fears the Babe as do the Athletics.

Hitting and not pitching is quite likely to be winning factor. It may be the Yanks' siege guns—Ruth and Gehrig—against the Athletics' terrible trio—Foxx, Cochrane and Simmons. Foxx is hitting above .400 and Cochrane is just shy of that mark, with Simmons down around the .350 mark but leading the league above .300. Ruth is batting .321.

One of five games played between the two clubs this season, the Athletics have won three and the Yanks two. Last season the Yanks won 16 out of 22 played with the A's.

The Way It Goes

The longer that I live and see
The brief rewards of fame and power,
The more and more it seems to me
How vain the judgments of the hour.

I've seen raw luck inscribed as skill,
I've seen skill wrecked of all its worth
By luck, where, peering from a hill,
I've heard Fate laughing in its mirth.

I've lost to luck—I've won by luck
As any other cove has done,
To hear again the ancient muck,
The same old yawp—"The best man won."

The best man doesn't always win,
If luck should break the other way,
A lot depends upon the spin
Of blind Fate's mystic wheel in play.

But we must always have a crown
To hand some king who's set the pace,
To wait some day and hail him down
And put another in his place.

All those who ride the skyline heights
Are targets for a surer aim,
But those who dwell on lower flights
Have more fun often in the game.

It has been 16 years since Connie Mack and John McGraw met on a battlefield, and one of the last times this happened Christy Mathewson was tackling Eddie Plank. If they meet again, as they might, you can throw your calendar away. It will prove that years can be less than hours.

A lot depends upon whether Max Schmeling is easily discouraged. If he is, there are signs ahead of a melancholly evening. Senior Uscudun is no world-beater, but he is no party for an easily discouraged opponent to play around with.

In answer to Mr. George Rogers, whose interesting account of Minnesota's prospects appeared in a recent issue:

Dear Mr. Rogers: I seen your swell piece in the paper about how the Minnesota football club for 1929 will mop up on the mich. and maybe Wisconsin and that you have 12 backs what could make any club in the U. S. with four of them averaging 190 lbs. Well, I have saw a lot of minnesota backs on ferry field what I wished had been left in Minneapolis for one reason or another and I have even saw some whole miniesota teams what had wished the same, but still and all we ain't hoisting the white flag until the formalities has been dispensed with.

We only got 11 backs in ann arbor what could make any club in the country so you are one up right offen the bat and our four heaviest only average 189½ so you've outdrove us off the next tee, although if your mr. nagurski meets our mr. morrison, 208 fob, ann arbor head on, there'll be one less "ski" on your club until the following game and you'll have to call out the finns.

We ain't doing no early talking but the mich. will have 11 smart babies out there 60 minutes each week-end and wile we may not make as many first downs as the finns and the swedes and the swiss, you don't need to come equipped with no adding machines to keep track of minnesota scores. Even your prehistoric specimens will be able to keep it in mind.

Sincerely, Little Boy Blue of Ann Arbor.

P. S.—I'll see you at the Iowa game.

A gentleman from the Middle West writes us that our dope about Horton Smith is all wrong, as the Ozards don't overlook any Western plains, being little more than knobs. Possibly so, but that shouldn't affect Smith's chip shots to any great extent.

Bobby Jones says Winged Foot will be an easy course for any one who can play a full brassie as accurately as a mashie niblick. There are a lot of courses that would be easy for any one who could play a mashie niblick as well as a six-inch putt. The entire matter is comparative.

A number of those entered for Winged Foot express the hope that they will be out of the trenches by Christmas.

Louisville, Kentucky

In this tiny wisp of Raleigh smoke you taste a blend of--

31

RARE TOBACCOS

—and every puff of every Raleigh is identical. For Raleigh combs the world for the richest leaf, then blends the fibres (in an utterly new way) so that the irregular taste of a "mixed up" blend is just impossible. It is blended puff .. by .. puff and is already keeping more friends than most new cigarettes ever made.

THE OLD WAY: Cigarette tobaccos are mixed together pretty well in a large hopper before they are fed into the cigarette. Result—too often a "hot spot," a "flare" or a "sting." Mixed, but not truly blended.

THE RALEIGH WAY: The 31 choice tobaccos—special grades of Kentucky (Burley), of Turkish and of rare Virginias—are actually laid lengthwise to give you an absolutely uniform mellow blend in every single puff.

Even a substantially greater investment will not bring you all that Cadillac- LaSalle provide Exclusive Handling-Ease and Safety Features—Luxurious Fisher Coachcraft—Matchless Interior Appointments—Greater Dependability and Economy of Operation—Traditional Superiority and Social Prestige—All Are Yours in Cadillac or La Salle without a Penny Price Premium.

IT MAY, at first thought, seem almost an impropriety for Cadillac to state that even a substantially greater financial outlay over and above the cost of Cadillac or La Salle will not bring you the equal of these cars. Yet the facts at once disclose this to be actually and literally true.

Consider for a moment the indispensable safety of non-shattering Security-Plate Glass. This alone will ordinarily cost you a substantial sum extra. It is standard equipment in every Cadillac and La Salle window, door and windshield. For it is Cadillac's conscientious conviction that every motorist is entitled to this protection in these days of high speed and congested traffic.

The luxurious Cadillac-La Salle Fisher Bodies cannot be obtained in any car aspiring to compete with Cadillac and La Salle. Yet an actual survey shows that 94.4% of all motorists who express a body preference prefer Body by Fisher.

You can, of course, duplicate the quality of the exquisite upholsteries that are standard with Cadillac and La Salle interiors, but you will find that you will be obliged to pay extra to do so.

The vigor, stamina, flexibility, dependability and complete freedom from vibration of the matchless 90-degree V-type 8-cylinder power plant certainly cannot be duplicated elsewhere.

Nor can you secure in any other car brakes as smooth, sure, powerful and effortlessly responsive as the Cadillac-La Salle Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes, for this braking system is protected by basic patents.

Finally, Cadillac does not hesitate to say that it is, perhaps, impossible to place a true dollars-and-cents valuation on the Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission. Experienced drivers have said that they would gladly pay much more for the quick, quiet, clashless, almost uncanny ease of gear-shifting it provides. Women in particular—once they are familiar with this new transmission—will not willingly dispense with its freedom from "tugging" and "timing". No other car can possibly give you the Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission—at any price—for it, too, is protected by basic patents.

These exclusive features of themselves almost compel the choice of Cadillac or La Salle. But when you remember that, in addition, all the smartness, sophistication and social prestige inseparably associated with Cadillac creations are yours—without a penny price premium—it becomes perfectly plain that your choice must lie with either Cadillac or La Salle.

LA SALLE
$2295

La Salle is just as easy to purchase as many cars of far less value and far less prestige. And it is far more economical to operate. It is priced from $2295 to $2875. Cadillac $3295 to $3995. All prices f. o. b. Detroit. The General Motors Deferred Payment Plan makes it possible for you to enjoy your Cadillac or La Salle at once and pay out of income.

Construction Booms Gravel Industry

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 17.—Contracts for $210,000 worth of sand and gravel from the Panhandle Sand and Gravel company's plant near Quitaque have been signed for two highway improvement jobs in West Texas, A. B. Brown of Lubbock, president of the company, announced today upon his return to this city from business trips over the section.

The company that has the largest washing and grading plant in the Southwest has the contract to supply all the sand and gravel for the paving of 65 miles of highways in Hale county. This job will require 150,000 tons of sand and gravel. The other contract that has recently been signed is for 60,000 tons of the material for bridge construction work in Hall county.

"Our plant is sitting right in the heart of a section where a $50,000,000 highway hardsurfacing program is to take place within a few years. This program is already in progress with the paving in Hale and Randell counties," Brown said today.

Work is ready to start in Wilbarger, Cottle, Foard, Motley, Crosby, Dickens, Hall, Childress, Collinsworth and Wheeler counties within the near future.

Many other Panhandle and Plains counties are talking bond issues which are certain to materialize and be ready for sand and gravel before the present paving program is complete.

Lubbock county, where the sand and gravel company maintains headquarters, has been talking highway construction for several months. Several difficulties have been encountered but good road enthusiasts are confident that the county will provide funds within a comparatively short time for the hardsurfacing of the seven state highways leading into Lubbock from the county line in each direction. Lynn county just south of Lubbock is talking a $1,000,000 bond election for the near future. Swisher, Briscoe, Floyd, Lamb, Bailey and Hall counties are likewise talking hardsurfacing bond elections.

FIRST CONCRETE ON HIGHWAY 9

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, June 17.—The first concrete on Hale county's paving project was poured Friday at the north county line on Highway 9, according to District Engineer Joe H. Caldwell, who with H. A. Wallace, division superintendent was here from Lubbock to observe the beginning of the work.

Mr. Caldwell declared that with good conditions the contractors Cook and Stucker will be able to make about a mile per week in laying concrete and that within six weeks they will complete the stretch into Plainview.

One hundred and fifty working days were allowed the contractors in which to have the concrete highway completed on the 21-mile stretch into Hale Center.

QUANAH LAKE RESORT RUSHED

Pleasure Equipment Added At Lake Pauline

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, June 17.—Work has started on improvements at Lake Pauline, which when completed will make of this lake one of the most complete, modern pleasure resorts in Northwest Texas. This lake covers about 1,500 acres, and in former years has had limited facilities for swimming, boating and fishing. Since the West Texas Utilities company acquired the property and built the super-power plant there, with bungalows for employes, a community house, and landscaped the grounds surrounding, the further development of the lake proper as a pleasure resort is being proceeded with.

Concrete is being poured for the new bathing pools, and beach and bath houses will be combined in the plan being worked out. The bath house will be 66 feet long by 10 feet wide, equipped for both men and women, with towel and suit and check room in center. Front of the building will have open porch for extending to near the bathing pools built of concrete. A 90-foot pier is to be constructed. The high diving tower of the former equipment is to be left, but swimmers will have to swim across a considerable part of the lake to reach it from the new beach. It is expected the lake will be open within the next week or 10 days.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 17. (AP)—Early declines influenced by a favorable weather view were followed by rallies in cotton during late trading. Trade interests were credited with buying near months while there was a flurry of covering in the late positions which sent prices up from 18.55 to 18.76 for October. That delivery closed at 18.75, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 10 to 14 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 4 to 6 points in response to the relatively easy Liverpool cables.

Buying of near months by trade interests at a slightly wider difference between July and October helped the tone of the market in the advance.

No particular news factor was mentioned in connection with the late advance.

Private cables said there had been Bombay and continental selling in Liverpool owing to favorable weather reports from the South and complained of a poor demand for cotton cloths and yarns.

Exports today 17,635 making 7,861,064 so far this season. Port receipts 3,303. U. S. Port stocks 931,739.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 17. (AP)—After ruling easier most of the day cotton firmed up in late trading when shorts endeavoring to cover found contracts scarce. October, which had traded off to 18.45, rallied to 18.62 and closed at 18.60, or 7 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 5 to 9 points.

Liverpool cables were easier relatively and the market here opened at a decline of 4 to 6 points in sympathy.

The market became more active in the final hour under covering by shorts on the failure of an expected break in July to materialize.

Mills continued to hold for a premium over June prices on calls for later print goods and a quiet condition prevailed as buyers failed to come in at better prices. General Motors and Steel Advance To Give Stock Market Better Outlook

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 17. (US)—General Motors joined Steel in further advance of the market today. There was much said about "Durant buying" in Motors, but the main influence was from westerners who feel more confident of the money outlook, so think their favorite should more properly reflect its good earnings. Motors gained 3, Steel 2⅝, Chrysler 2⅛, General Electric 10, Packard 2½ and Consolidated Gas 2 points. Coppers met profit taking and dropped a little, but continued to reflect better absorption. Oils and rails remained rather quiet and somewhat irregular. Call money held at 7 per cent throughout, but there were several brokers able to get accommodations outside of regular channels as low as 6½ per cent. Turnover increased to over 3,500,000 shares.

Underwood-Elliott Fisher continues one of the main favorites for investment demand. Since the combination was formed the management has been efefcting economies of operation and strengthening financial position so that now Underwood, together with Business Machines, stand as the outstanding leaders of the industry.

The recent retirement of the Sunstrand funded debt out of earnings was an example of the methods followed by the management and also showed the tremendous improvement effected in Underwood's position in the last year. In 1928 Underwood owed money to the banks. Today it has about $7,000,000 cash, of which a good part is at work at a high return, and is cutting down funded obligations out of earnings. This was the method followed by Business Machines. The management of these two companies appear to be so close in their operating and management ideas that some day a merger would be no surprise.

Last week the street heard that "Cutten's coming back." Today the same cry went out regarding the other strong western group and the strength of General Motors was declared to be reflected in their activity. They have been out of dealings since February and would not return unless advised by powerful bankers that the money situation was more promising. They believed that General Motors was selling out of line with earnings as they look for this quarter to show a good gain over the same period a year ago in the report to be issued late next month. Union Carbide and American Can are regarded as reflecting their changed sentiment also.

Cerro de Pasco continues the favored of the Coppers to those who know he real factors of conditions of the industry and of the affairs of individual companies. Cerro is the lowest cost producer. Its earnings are running twice dividend requirements so that if the metal market escapes another upset it would seem that extra paymnt was "in the cards" for later in the year.

Murray corporation's move to a new high was no surprise to those who know the extent of increase in earnings and the outlook for record breaking performance in the third quarter when the new plant is operating in full. Cutten interests, it was maintained, had taken on a substantial block of Montgomery Ward. It was claimed also that buying of Fleischmann continued to be for good account.

Ease in money proved a surprise to some. However, the full effect of the mid-month turnover of funds will not be felt until tomorrow or Wednesday. Then the banks are called upon through checks for dividends, etc. The treasury department follows no definite procedure in drawing against checks for income tax payments so that the full effect of the June 15 operations may not be witnessed for another week. However, there is much less fear of the money market than prevailed a fortnight ago and while irregularity is looked for during the next two weeks, it is felt that no unreasonable advancing of rates is likely.

COTTON NOTES

NEW YORK, June 17. (UP)—Transactions on the local cotton exchange during May amounted to approximately 6,500 bales, almost seven times the quantity turned over in April. May business was handled in 625 contracts, while only 90 contracts were exchanged in April. Contracts handled during the first 13 days of the current month totaled 277, in which 3,000 bales have been handled, about twice the amount turned over in the first 13 days of last month.

The Russian cotton crop in Turkestan has been damaged five per cent by the locust plague.

The Fairchild cotton goods index for the week ended June 14 is 12.840, as compared with 12.862 for the previous week and 13.020 for the corresponding week in 1928. Average price on spot cotton at New York was 18.88, as compared with 18.85 in the preceding week and 20.96 last year.

The weather continues to act as the dominating influence in the local futures market, although weevil activity is becoming more and more of a factor.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 17. (AP)—For at least the moment, timely rains in Canada proved an overmatch today for friends of higher prices on wheat and the market flattened out. Moreover, newly harvested wheat began to arrive in Kansas City, and receipts of wheat there as well as at St. Louis were much larger than a year ago.

Closing quotations on wheat were weak 2 to 2⅝c a bushel below Saturday's finish. Corn closed ½ to ⅝c down, oats ⅛@⅜ to ⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 7c.

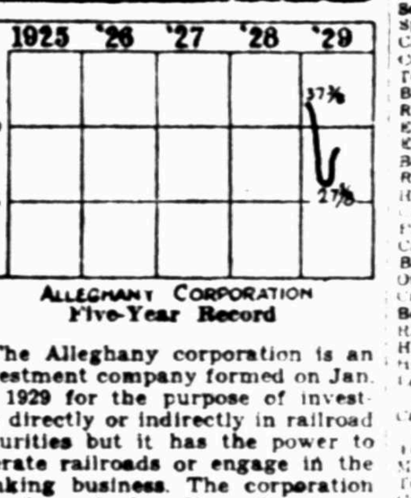

Adding to the downward impetus was news that ideal harvest weather prevailed in the domestic winter wheat belt.

Better weather conditions for corn, together with enlarged receipts, had a depressing influence on corn values. Oats went lower with corn.

Packers selling was the chief feature of the provision market.

STOCK-A-DAY

ALLEGHANY CORPORATION Five-Year Record

The Alleghany corporation is an investment company formed on Jan. 26, 1929 for the purpose of investing directly or indirectly in railroad securities but it has the power to operate railroads or engage in the banking business. The corporation was formed by Van Sweringen brothers and will acquire from them at a cost of approximately $84,000,000 stocks in the following railroad companies: Chesapeake corporation; Chesapeake and Ohio railway; Buffalo Rochester and Pittsburgh railway; the Erie railroad and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad.

Funded debt totals $35,000,000 in convertible 5 per cent bonds due in 1944 which are convertible into seven shares of 5½ per cent cumulative preferred without warrants and 10 shares of common for each $1,000 bond. Capital stock outstanding includes $25,000,000 in 5½ per cent cumulative preferred. Series A of $100 par and $3,500,000 shares of no par common. Of the common 2,250,000 shares are held by Messrs. Van Sweringen and associates. In addition 2,100,000 warrants are outstanding entitling the holder to purchase 1 share of common stock at $30 a share. No dividends may be paid on either preferred or common shares unless the aggregate value of the pledged collateral behind the bonds is maintained at 150 per cent of the principal amount of the bonds outstanding. The preferred has voting rights only when four quarterly dividends are in arrears or if for 24 months dividends at no time have been fully paid when the preferred elects two directors.

It is estimated the income available for fixed charges based on current dividend rates of securities owned and interest at four per cent on $45,000,000 the uninvested proceeds of the original financing. The balance available for common stock after fixed charges is estimated at 48 cents a share. As of Jan. 26, 1929 total assets were $130,704,000 of which $46,636,047 was cash. Book value of the common amounted to $19.54 a share.

POULTRY PRICE GOES LOWER

Grain Harvest Indicates Short Yield Here

Changes in poultry prices limited to two classes of hens were announced by local dealers Monday, the heavier fowls being priced at 20 cents and those weighing less than four pounds at 17 cents, a drop of one cent per pound since Saturday.

Grain now being brought to local buyers from the farms in this community indicates a per acre production of from 2 to 10 bushels on winter wheat. Lack of rainfall in April was said to have precluded a successful crop from wheat which appeared early in the year to promise a good season.

Oats, also in small quantities, are being harvested, but for the most part are being held for feed, it was said.

MEXICANS FACE FINES AND JAIL

Non-Citizens of U. S. Must Go Back Home

LAREDO, Texas, June 17. (US)—Thousands of Mexicans living in the United States will face arrest and prosecution after July 1 because they cannot prove legal residence in this country.

Under the old immigration law the worst punishment facing an alien was deportation. The new law does not provide for deportation, according to the authorities here, but for prosecution—a fine and penitentiary sentence. After the fine has been paid or worked out and the sentence served, then the alien may be sent out of the country. Under the new immigration law any Mexican who crosses the international line without a passport or entrance card is subject to arrest and prosecution. Those in the country have until July 1 to prove legal entry and take out naturalization papers.

Business Hurt

So drastic is the law that hundreds of Mexican merchants and tradesmen who came to American border cities like Laredo, El Paso, Brownsville, Houston and San Antonio fear to take a chance and American business houses have begun to feel the loss of their trade.

The new law was enacted, it was explained, to protect American labor. It is being rigidly enforced by the department of labor. In the lower Rio Grande valley, where vegetable fields and grape fruit groves have been developed the planters are hard hit. It is difficult to find American laborers, regardless of the rate of pay, who can stand the burning sun that parches this region six months of the year.

While Mexican consuls are aiding Mexican citizens residing in this country to offer proof of legal residence in the United States, the Mexican government has made little objection to the new law, for years Mexico has been concerned over the heavy migration to the United States.

Legalization for $20

The law of July 1, as passed by congress, gives the privilege to every alien to legalize residence in the United States provided he came to this country prior to June 3, 1921; that he has had continuous residence in the country since that date; that he is of good moral character; that he is not subject to deportation; that he can read and write some language or dialect; that he is in good health. A charge of $20 is made for the legalization of residence.

An alien cannot be naturalized until he proves a legal residence in the United States. Heretofore if the alien had no proof of entry to prove his legal residence he was required to return to his own country and then return to the United States. Under the new law this legalization can be done in his city of adoption.

To prove a legal residence the alien must produce two witnesses from each community in which he has resided since entrance in the country. If he has lived in the cities or communities within the period of June 3, 1921 to July 1, 1929, he must have affidavits from 20 persons stating that he is known to them as having resided in that community under that date. This is particularly difficult for the Mexican immigrant as he is naturally nomadic, working from farm to farm. Many of them stay through a season and then drift to another community. It is almost impossible, officials said, for the Mexican farmer to produce legal proof of residence.

Home Owners Better Off

Home owners and those who have been married in the United States are not finding it as difficult as others to prove their legal residence, as deeds and certificates can be produced. Many children born in the United States to Mexican parents cannot prove citizenship since their births were not recorded as provided by law. The Mexican of the upper class is worried over the new law as the peon. Many of them in stating their cases to the immigration officials say that their entrance to the country was marked by the payment of a "nickle" in crossing the international bridge at some border point.

"It would be better for Mexico if her citizens were deported," said vice Consul Fernando Rueda, of Houston. "They have become familiar with higher standards of living than they had in Mexico and they will carry back with them the ideals which will help make Mexico a better place for them to live. They have saved money, they have automobiles, and if they return they return they will improve Mexico.

Youth Builds Own Funeral Pyre and Blows Out Brains

CHICAGO, June 17. (UP)—Because he wore a number 7 hat and believed his head was too small, Benjamin Gisen, 16, blew out his brains and fell across a blazing brush pile he had built as his funeral pyre in a Wisconsin forest, according to a story advanced here by his father, Henry Gisen.

The elder Gisen, a prosperous farmer of Mound City, Kan., passed through Chicago en route to Rhinelander, Wis., to claim what little remained of his son's body. He discounted the suggestion that Benjamin had been killed by gangsters and attributed the tragedy to the youth's weird complex.

"He could not drive from his mind the obsession that he was a weakling and that his head was too small. I'm afraid he studied much too hard," Gison told interviewers.

Memphis to Construct Community Building

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 17.—The commissioners court of Hall county has donated $500 toward the erection of a community house which is to be built on the courthouse lawn. The court was presented with a petition from many of the clubs of the city and many individual citizens' names appeared on the petition. Permission for the construction of such a building was granted some time ago.

The proposed building would be a gathering place for community socials and entertainments of all kinds. Just where the building will be located on the courthouse lawn has not as yet been decided.

The court in making its donation to assist in the construction of this building, also ordered that such building or plans should be approved by the court before the erection of same.

SHAW'S SATIRE RAPS MONARCH

'The Applecart' Has Premiere in Warsaw

WARSAW, June 17. (US)—George Bernard Shaw's long expected "The Applecart," had its premiere at the Polish theater here. Translated into Polish by Florian Sobienowski it was favorably received by a fashionable audience even though some of Shaw's fiercest thrusts at English politics were naturally not appreciated.

The Applecart is an elaborate satire directed daringly against the whole theory of the British constitutional monarchy. In it he makes King Magnus, who is reigning in 1962, plan abdication in order that he may stand for election to parliament for the Borough of Windsor, and have his son who succeeds him appoint him prime minister.

In Shaw's latest extravaganza he even has Vanhattan, American ambassador, in the course of taking tea with King Magnus indicate the willingness of the United States to return to the empire in the status of a dominion.

When the Applecart is produced by Sir Henry Jackson at the festival in Birmingham in August it is bound to be a sensation, particularly in the first act which shows a bitter quarrel between the king and his ministers when the crafty King Magnus delivers a lengthy speech in defense of his conception of a monarchy. In the king's speech Shaw is treading on dangerous ground, because if there is one thing sacred to the British imagination it is their reverence for the monarchy. In the king's speech Shaw is dangerously close to turning his darts of irony on the hallowed institution.

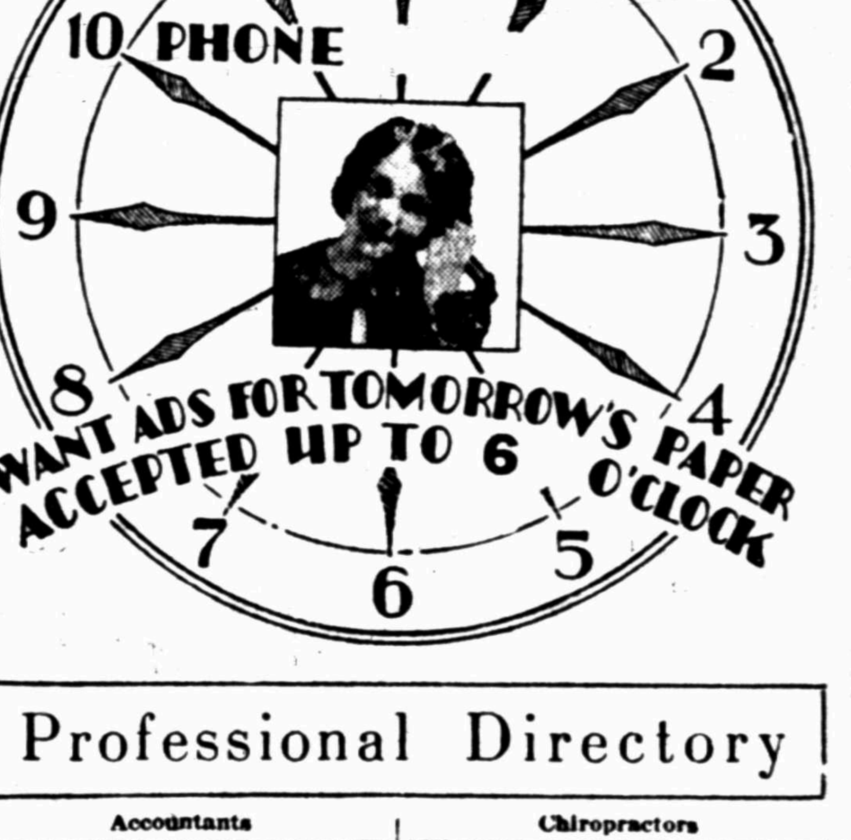

In one line Shaw has a character say:

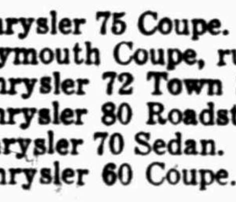

"If Magnus were the most stupid man in the country he would still be its king."

In the first act, which occupies an hour and a quarter, Proteus, the prime minister, submits an ultimatum to the king that he must sign a pledge, first, not to make any speeches; second, to stop influencing the press by backstairs methods; third, to never again allude to the royal veto.

The brief second act, which Shaw calls an interlude, reveals King Magnus under the sway of the beautiful Grinthis, who asks him to divorce the queen and install herself on the throne.

The third act reveals the king's plot to abdicate in favor of Prince Robert of Wales, and then standing for election as a commoner.

COUNTY ORDERS ROAD PAVING

Employment of Dairy Expert Set for June 24

A contract for the paving of 2⅞ miles of public highway in precinct three, near Burkburnett, was awarded to G. G. Burgess, Iowa Park builder, on a $6,244.75 bid opened in the regular meeting of the county commissioners court here Monday. One section of the pavement, covering 1⅞ miles, runs between Springtown and the Park-Clara road. The second connects with a railroad crossing on the outskirts of Burkburnett. Two other bids were received. The work is to start at once.

The court Monday called for advertisements for bids on the pavement of a half mile stretch of the old Burkburnett and Wichita Falls road, contractors to furnish all materials. The bids are to be opened on July 22.

The commissioners voted to delay action on the employment of a dairy expert for the county until June 24. Five applicants for the position have communicated with Judge John P. Marrs, county judge, and a sixth personally appeared before the body Monday afternoon. The employment of a man to aid in the development of the dairy industry within the county has been urged by a group of farmers and bankers since the passage of a law authorizing the appropriation several weeks ago. Members of the court have announced themselves in favor of the movement, and the start of the work is expected within the next few weeks, Judge Marrs explained.

The purchase of 12 beds and other equipment for the woman's ward at the county farm was authorized by the court Monday. The additional equipment will be used in space made available by the completion of the new superintendent's home last week.

The commissioners passed a formal order requesting members of the Wichita General hospital board to make an estimate of the appropriation to be sought from the county during the coming year.

Court Asked to Halt Drilling Of Oil Wells on 280-Acre Tract

Suspect Arrested In East Texas Shooting

NACOGDOCHES, Texas, June 17. (AP)—Charged with assault to kill, Ellis Eberlin was arrested near Chireno today for the wounding of Obie Munsell last night. Munsell was shot in the side of the head with a shotgun.

Attorney Serves Time For Contempt of Court

DALLAS, Texas, June 17. (AP)—G. H. Crane, attorney, began serving a three-day contempt of court sentence here today. He was adjudged in contempt Saturday when he refused to be seated and cease addressing the judge after a fight with another attorney.

Petitions asking that the Gulf Production company be restrained from further drilling on 280 acres of Wichita county oil lands were filed in the 89th district court Monday by Mrs. Grace Jennings and by J. C. Jennings and others. Judge P. A. Martin set Saturday, June 22, as the date for the hearing on the injunction pleas. The plaintiffs also ask for the cancellation of leases held by the defendant company.

The suit filed by J. C. Jennings named Lady Ruth Conyers, C. R. Conyers, Bonnie Margaret Awtry, Francis Awtry, Spurgean Jennings, Willine Jennings and Babe Helen Jennings as joint complainants. It asserts that the company has failed to properly develop a 120-acre lease on lands owned by the plaintiffs, and asks that it be restrained from drilling further.

The second suit, filed by Mrs. Grace Jennings, brings similar charges in connection with a 160-acre lease. The hearings are to be conducted at the same time.

Bridge Firm Starts Work on River Arch

Construction of the frame work of the first of the arches which are to span the Wichita river at Scott avenue will begin Tuesday morning, J. M. Isbell, county engineer, announced Monday afternoon. Both the north pier and the north bank abutment are now complete, so that work on the arch which is to join them can get under way, he explained.

During the clear weather of the past week the contractors have been able to make up for some of the time lost during the high water season, the engineer declared.

'It's the Grandest Medicine on Earth' Says Burk Farmer

Orgatone Restored His Health, He Declares; Gained 12 Pounds on Two Bottles

"When it comes to a kidney medicine I want to say that Orgatone lays them all in the shade," said J. W. Mitchell of Burkburnett, Texas, while talking to Mr. Allison of the Allison's Drug store, in Wichita Falls recently.

"I had a seige of kidney trouble for about 15 years," he continued, "and no matter what I would take seemed to do me the least bit of good. It was impossible for me to get a real night's rest owing to the fact I would have to get up seven or eight times during the night and the pains in the small of my back were something terrible. I began to doubt if I ever would get well and I'll tell you that I was feeling pretty blue when I took my first dose of Orgatone, but it's all changed now.

"Before I finished the first bottle I began to show a big improvement and I have just kept on getting better with every dose. My stomach is in fine shape now, and I eat anything I want, like meats, pastries and other things I didn't dare to eat for years, and I don't have a bit of trouble digesting them. I don't have that soreness in my back any more and I sleep eight or nine hours every night and when I wake up in the morning I feel just fine. I'm a very different man from what I was a few weeks ago and even when I am able to get about I can only remember how hard it was for me to endure the suffering that I have gone through. I am stronger and better in every way than I have been since I was 40 years old and if anybody wants to know what I think about Orgatone, just send him to me and I will tell him mighty quick that I think it is the grandest medicine on earth."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific preparation and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by Allison's Drug store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adv.

Court May Set Raley Suit for Sept. Term

A further continuance of the trial of an $18,000 suit brought by Guy C. Raley, tax collecter, against Wichita county, was expected late Monday afternoon when attorneys in the case were unable to complete other business before the courts. The case was called by Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Monday morning, but passed because of the enforced absence of T. R. Boone, attorney for the plaintiff. Harvey Harris, special representative of the county has announced that he will be out of the city later in the week.

Judge Cook said Monday afternoon that unless the case could be brought to trial early this week, it would be continued until the September term of court.

Mr. Raley is seeking a refund on commissions he claims to have paid into the county treasury for delinquent tax collections during the years 1923-1925.

Legion Post Pays J. W. Bandy Full Military Honors at Burial Service

The first military funeral to be held by Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion was solemnized at 10 o'clock Monday morning for J. W. Bandy, 33, member of the post, who was buried with full military honors in Rosemont Burial park.

The services were held from the First Southern Presbyterian church with Dr. Gaines B. Hall, pastor, officiating. The escort for the casket was made up of 25 members of the local legion post.

Active pallbearers were Dr. L. I. Lucey, O. T. Alles, V. N. Armstrong, Victor Nobles, C. C. Kirby and J. R. Friberg. A large crowd filled the auditorium of the church during the services.

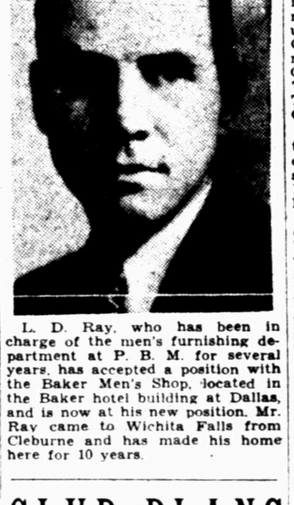

At the cemetery a bugler sounded "retreat," followed by a rifle salute of three volleys by a squad of men in uniform. The firing squad, under the command of Capt. C. R. Cowles, was composed of A. Nemo, R. C. Man, Henry W. Davis, D. C. Littlepage, J. H. Simmons, Jesse T. Ryle, Sergeant Lancaster and Thomas F. Cunningham, all of Pat Carrigan post.

After the salute, the bugler at the grave sounded "taps" and a concealed bugler in the distance sounded the echo. The buglers were Red Allen and Eugene Fletcher, Boy Scouts.

The services at the grave were conducted by Roy J. Daniel and Victor Nobles. The American flag which covered the casket during the services was afterward presented to members of Mr. Bandy's family by the legion. Color bearers for the ceremonies were C. W. Allen and Walter Crain, carrying the national colors and the flag of the legion. Color guards, in uniform, were Sergeant Holstein, naval recruiting officer, and Sergeant Montgomery, army recruiting officer. A cortege of about 50 automobiles formed the procession to the cemetery.

Mr. Bandy saw service overseas in a motor transport unit and also a machine gunner. Following his discharge from the expeditionary forces, he served in an aviation corps in the state of New York. His long illness and death followed a severe attack of pneumonia and influenza contracted while in the service from which he never fully recovered.

BOY SCOUTS OPEN CAMP

Many Improvements Made At Diversion

The first Boy Scout summer camp was officially opened Monday at Camp Ephriam Griffin at the diversion lake. Activities of the camp were begun Monday morning.

Extensive improvements have been made at the camp this year, giving the boys more time to devote to instruction and scoutcraft. The tents were ready for occupancy upon the arrival of the boys, whereas in former years they were required to erect their own tents. Camp utensils and a negro boy to wash dishes have been provided, the boys being required to act as waiters at meals, however.

Fountains have been erected to insure a supply of cool water for drinking, and the pump has been repaired and the tank half filled with water. The large tubs and wash basins have been placed on the concrete under the tank. A large level space about 65 feet in diameter has been made by leveling off the hill above the swimming hole, and large ricks have been provided to give all the boys a place around the camp fire, where a different program will be given each night, under the direction of W. R. McClure, who will be in camp the first two weeks.

An outline in detail of the daily routine for the boys was given Sunday night by Frank Creighton, scout executive, following the camp style supper which was served to about 40 visitors, members of the scout council and their families, who attended the open house held at the camp Sunday. At this time the visitors were taken on a tour of inspection by Scoutmasters William McClure and John Kauffman. An exhibition of methods of resuscitation was also given, and the swimming course in which the boys will be instructed was explained.
