

Carter Asks For Oil Tax Support

CLAUDETTE'S WAKE — A store owner and two helpers keep eyes on flood waters which followed in tropical storm Claudette's wake in Port Arthur Wednesday. Heavy rains moved into the coastal areas as the downgraded storm moved inland. It was the second time in three months that floodwaters had plagued the Golden Triangle area bordered by Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange. Rains up to 15 inches were triggered by the storm. Story on Page 14, Sec. A. (AP Laserphoto)

'Massive' Fight Seen In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter appealed Wednesday to the American people for help in winning passage of his windfall profits tax on the oil industry and said if the proposal is defeated "we cannot reach our energy goals."

At a news conference broadcast nationally in prime time, Carter forecast "a massive struggle to get the windfall profits tax bill" in the Senate.

The measure already has passed the House. Carter also defended the rapid-fire changes in his Cabinet. "I have no apologies to make," he said.

Needed To "Create New Team"
 The president said he felt the need to "create a new team to work with me" and "I had the choice of dragging it out or getting it over, in effect, in 48 hours."

As for criticism of his decision to name Hamilton Jordan, a close aide since his days as governor of Georgia, to be White House chief of staff, Carter denied Jordan's authority would extend beyond the presidential staff.

"He will not be chief of the Cabinet, I will be chief of the Cabinet," said Carter. "He will not be the chief of the Congress. The Congress is an independent body...He will be chief of the White House staff."

Carter's appeal for public support for the windfall profits tax came within hours of another defeat in the House of Representatives for part of his energy program.

Rationing Debate Halted
 The House abruptly halted debate on legislation to give Carter standby authority to ration gasoline after unexpected adoption of an amendment sharply limiting his flexibility to use the power.

Carter said the House action "illustrates the timidity of the Congress in dealing with a sensitive political issue."

"I need your help," he said. "I need the help of the people of America."

Carter also was asked about Sen. Henry M. Jackson's prediction that Carter probably would not be able to win the Democratic presidential nomination in 1980 and that the likely candidate would be Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

"Judgment Not Good"
 "Three or four years ago, I was running for president against Sen. Jackson," said Carter. "And at that time he predicted he would be the next president. His judgment wasn't very good then."

On other matters, Carter criticized a Republican proposal for an election year tax cut, saying he believes Congress and the American people have enough judgment "to know that you can't get something for nothing."

Carter said a tax cut in times of rampant inflation would be an irresponsible action. "We all have to make some sacrifices based on a belief and a confidence in the future," said the president, who has made balancing the federal budget one of the primary goals of his administration.

"Nothing Against Press"
 Asked to explain his decision to end the practice of holding two Washington news conferences each month, the president asserted that "I have nothing against the Washington press corps or the Washington press."

Carter noted he has had more than 50 news conferences exclusively with the Washington press corps, but that he now wishes to hold these sessions in other parts of the country as well.

"I would like to let my voice be heard and felt and questions be heard by me and felt at various places in the country," the president said.

Carter once again remained, for the record, noncommittal on the question of seeking re-election in 1980. But he said he viewed it as a compliment that some Republican leaders "are advocating that I should not run again."

Decision Due Later
 "I have considered all the options and my decision will be made later this year," the president said.

Turning to foreign policy, Carter defended the administration's policy toward Nicaragua, where President Anastasio Somoza's regime was toppled earlier this month.

The president said he didn't see any

Government Forms Slow Coming

By NANCY DORN
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

PRESIDENT Carter's emergency building temperature regulations went into effect July 16, but many local business owners may be violating the guidelines because the Department of Energy has not yet issued information locally on complying with the order.

The regulations set a 78-degree maximum for cooling, a 65-degree maximum for heating and a 105-degree maximum for hot running water in most public buildings.

Walter Armstrong, assistant director of sales and service for Lubbock Power and Light, said his office has received calls about the regulations since Carter's speech on July 15.

LP&L received a copy of the federal regulations Wednesday.

The regulations also require businesses to file a "Building Compliance Information Form" with the Department of Energy and post a "Certificate of Building Compliance" by July 16.

The penalties for non-compliance can run from $5,000 to $10,000 a day. Armstrong said he has been checking with the Lubbock post office where the forms were to be available for the public for the last 10 days, but that none had been received.

A spokesman for the Washington, D.C., energy office said the forms and certificates were just now being printed and would arrive in Lubbock in three weeks.

Jay Kosminsky of the DOE said the delay was caused by the regulations being put into effect sooner than the Energy Department expected. Legislation was passed in May, but Carter rushed it into effect after the Iranian crisis, he said.

Kosminsky said that although the compliance forms are not available, the regulations are in effect. He said DOE inspectors already are out in the Washington, D.C., area along with other parts of the nation.

Kathy Kimberlin at the Dallas DOE office, which supervises the Lubbock area, said that for now compliance is on an "honor system."

"You're just supposed to do it," she said.

Miss Kimberlin said the thermostat control probably would be enforced by

'Dark Horse' Management Firm Voted Hospital Trial Period

By KIM COBB
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

OFFICIALS for the county hospital district voted late Wednesday night to hire a "dark horse" management firm to run Health Sciences Center Hospital for a 90-day trial period.

Pending approval by the county commissioners, Brookwood Medical Services Inc., of Birmingham, Ala., will manage the teaching hospital for $10,000 monthly fee plus expenses with plans to negotiate for a three-year contract at a later date.

Board members came out of a three-hour closed executive session at 11 p.m., after saying at the start that they would arrive at a decision one way or another.

The top contender for the management position, the Houston firm of Lifemark, informed the board earlier that they had withdrawn their bid. Lifemark representatives told board chairman Jack Strong that the job was too big for them.

"It like to scared me to death," Strong said of Lifemark's withdrawal. He admitted that the Houston firm had appeared to be the most qualified of those offering their services.

Calling the Brookwood firm a "crash team," Strong said the Alabama company had not appeared as strong as Lifemark. But he said the 90-day trial period agreed upon by the board would indicate whether or not the firm could handle the job.

The task ahead of the management firm includes clearing up unpaid patient bills totaling more than $7.5 million.

The Brookwood proposal includes recommending an administrator to run Health Sciences Center Hospital as well as furnishing five key administrative personnel. This move would have eliminated the job of associate executive director George McGowan had not McGowan turned in his resignation Tuesday.

Brookwood representatives appeared at the county teaching hospital in the last few days for a quick survey of the facility. Their relatively late appearance created speculation that they were not a serious contender.

But Strong said Brookwood "had a team of people who seemed to know what they were talking about." He noted that the administrators chosen to run the hospital in the interim period probably will not be a permanent choice. He also said the new administrator will have to lay off "a lot" of people and probably will be unpopular.

Strong said he could not speculate as to how the county commissioners will react to the board's decision.

Other contenders for the management job were:

—American Health Care Management, whose representatives proposed a six-month contract at $10,000 per month plus direct expenses for on-site personnel.

—Hospital Corporation of America, which recommended a one-year contract at a $497,000 fee for the first year and a $347,000 fee for the second year, and —Hospitals of the Southwest Inc., a Lubbock firm, which offered to manage the teaching hospital with the full-time service of Highland Hospital administrator Jerry Howard, for $288,000 a year.

Club Security Guard Cleared Of Charge

By KAY BELL
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

ALTHOUGH the intent of the city's public accommodations ordinance is good, the statute is "poorly written," according to attorney Warren Goss.

Goss criticized the wording of the ordinance following the acquittal Wednesday of his client, Russell Sikes, who was charged under a section of the statute.

A six-man municipal court jury took only 15 minutes to find Sikes, a former security guard at Studio One discotheque, innocent of denying a Dallas man entrance to the club June 16 on the basis of an unposted dress code.

Dress Code Challenged
 Ollie Dailey filed the complaint against Sikes under the section of the ordinance making it "unlawful for any place of public accommodation to have entrance requirements, dress codes or identification requirements for patrons, customers, participants, visitors or guests unless such requirements are clearly posted at all public entrances to such building, room or facility."

Although Sikes testified that he did refuse Dailey entrance to the 713 Broadway club and there was no written or posted dress code, Goss argued, "The facts are not really in issue here, but let's look at what he (Sikes) is charged with."

Goss contended the charge was improperly filed against his client, an individual, and should have been brought against the club and its owners. Sikes, Goss said, was simply an employee of the nightclub and, under threat of his job, was required to do what management asked.

"Studio One should be on trial here," Goss said. "I don't know why, but it seems Mr. Sikes has got to be put up here and made an example of. Gentlemen of the jury, I am thoroughly confused by this whole situation."

"Botching Up" Charged
 Goss railed at the city for "botching up" the complaint and urged the jurors not to accept "this kind of slop as proper law enforcement."

Deputy City Attorney Jack Chappell argued that all evidence, including Sikes' testimony, clearly indicated a violation of the ordinance, enacted last November.

However, the panel apparently gave greater weight to Goss' criticisms of the statute's wording.

Following the verdict, Chappell admitted the city is "starting behind" on enforcement of the ordinance. Sikes two-day trial was the first test of the ordinance.

Two other complaints in connection with alleged public accommodations ordinance violations also have been filed against the 22-year-old Sikes but trials on those charges have been postponed "indefinitely" because of other cases being handled by Goss.

Co-owners of the club Roger Freeman and Rodney Holloman also face separate charges under the ordinance. However, they have pleaded no contest to the allegations in Municipal Court and

DC-10 Makes Safe Emergency Landing

CLEVELAND (AP) — A United Airlines DC-10 with 172 passengers aboard made a safe emergency landing in Cleveland Wednesday after its right wing engine failed, an airline spokesman said.

The pilot, whose name was not disclosed, landed Flight No. 4 at from Los Angeles to Newark, N.J., at about 4 p.m. at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport. There were no injuries.

Earlier, the airline said the pilot landed after shutting down the right wing engine because of excessive vibration. But late Wednesday, United's head of operations in Cleveland said the engine failed.

"We have determined that the engine did fail. But we can't be sure of the reason," said Jim Guyette.

He said the defective engine would be removed today and sent to a maintenance overhaul team in San Francisco for analysis.

Gas Ration Bill Snags In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders abruptly halted debate on a new standby gas rationing bill Wednesday night after the unexpected adoption of an amendment sharply limiting the president's flexibility to impose rationing.

In a vote which clearly caught Democratic leaders by surprise, the House agreed 232-187 to a Republican-sponsored amendment that would give Congress two shots at rejecting any presidential rationing plan — first when he drafts it and then when he tries to invoke it.

After the vote, White House lobbyist Bill Cable denounced the amendment as making "the bill worse than existing law."

Sponsors of the measure, claiming the amendment would make it virtually impossible for any rationing plan to be approved, quickly removed the bill from House consideration.

Resumption Unknown
 House leaders said they didn't know when it would be brought up again, but hoped it would be before the August congressional recess.

The vote was a major setback to President Carter's new energy plan and to congressional leaders who had hoped to overturn last May's rejection by the House of the president's first rationing proposal.

It was also a blow to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, who had told reporters earlier in the day that passage of the bill appeared assured and that Democrats were lining up 10-to-1 to support it.

O'Neill had tried to arrange a final vote for close to 8 p.m. CDT. Congressional sources said O'Neill chose this time — the start of Carter's nationally televised news conference — so the president could point to the vote as a gain for his energy program.

Carter Empty Handed
 As it turned out, Carter wound up empty handed.

The amendment which sent the House into confusion and brought consideration of the rationing bill to a grinding halt was sponsored by Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman, R-N.Y. Supporting the proposal were 79 Democrats and 153 Republicans.

Gilman claimed the amendment "would just allow the Congress 30 days to examine the president's plan and veto it if it so chooses."

But Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., manager of the bill, complained: "How many obstacles does this House want to put up to block this emergency plan?"

He noted that the proposal before the Area Given Scant Chance For Showers

Plenty of sunshine, along with 90-degree temperatures, will prevail across the South Plains for another day, but the hot, dry weather may be dampened by widely scattered thunderstorms anticipated tonight.

Weather service forecasters say rainfall amounts probably will average less than a quarter-inch, although in isolated instances may be as much as an inch. Across the area, the chance for rainfall was rated at 20 percent.

The mercury will climb to the lower 90s for today's high, dipping to the lower 70s by tonight. Wind speeds will be light and variable.

Widely scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms, mainly in the eastern portions of the South Plains, are in the weather outlook through Monday.

Across the state Wednesday, temperatures were generally in the 80s and 90s, except for readings near the 100 degree mark along the Rio Grande Valley.

Forecasters are predicting variable cloudiness with scattered thunderstorms for most of the state today.

Less-Severe Cutbacks

Ordained For Amtrak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House approved cuts in Amtrak's passenger rail network Wednesday, but the reductions are less severe than President Carter originally recommended.

On a 307-118 vote, the House sent the Amtrak bill to the Senate, where new attempts are expected to block any cuts in the deficit-ridden rail system. A House effort to freeze Amtrak service at present levels was defeated Tuesday.

The House bill would restore about half of the cuts proposed by the Carter administration. Under the bill, about 5,500 miles of Amtrak's 27,500 miles of rail service would be eliminated, instead of the 12,000 miles proposed for elimination under the Carter plan.

The bill would preserve all commuter trains at least until April 1, 1981. The Transportation Department had proposed eliminating many commuter trains in October.

The administration had said $1.4 billion could be saved over the next five years by eliminating lightly traveled routes. But the gasoline shortage and soaring Amtrak ridership figures fueled opposition to the proposed cutback.

The House bill would set national standards to determine which trains would be eliminated. Under the formula, long-distance Amtrak trains must carry an average of 150 or more passengers and lose no more than 7 cents per passenger for every mile traveled.

Short-distanced routes would be permitted if they carried at least 80 passengers and lost no more than 9 cents per passenger mile. Each one of four quadrants of the nation would also be entitled to at least one long-distance Amtrak train.

Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., chairman of a House Commerce transportation subcommittee, said the standards would clear the way for a "cost-effective and fuel-efficient" Amtrak system.

Florio claimed the bill would weed out some money-losing trains that in the past were continued because they served districts represented by influential lawmakers.

Among the restored trains would be the Washington-to-Montreal "Montrealer," the New York-to-New Orleans "Southern Crescent" and probably the Chicago-to-Texas "InterAmerican," congressional sources said.

Trains that would likely be eliminated include the Chicago-to-Seattle "North Coast Hiawatha," the Boston-to-Kentucky "Hilltopper," the Washington-to-Chicago "Cardinal," the Chicago-to-Houston "Lone Star," the Chicago-to-Miami "Floridian," the New York-to-Kansas City "National Limited" and one of two New York-to-Florida trains, the sources said.

But one Commerce Committee source who asked not to be identified said the "Cardinal" was likely to be retained in an expected compromise with the Senate.

The "Cardinal" travels through West Virginia, home state of Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd and Rep. Harley O. Staggers, chairman of the Commerce Committee.

ART STANDARDS SET
TOKYO (AP) — Artists in China could face dismissal from their state jobs if their artistic performance fails to meet political standards, a Japanese news agency reported from Peking. Artists judged unfit at annual screening sessions could be transferred to other kinds of work, the Kyodo report said.

Carter Federal Reserve Board Nominee Receives Wide Praise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter Wednesday named monetary expert Paul A. Volcker to be chairman of the Federal Reserve Board in what was widely praised as a perfect appointment to one of the most important jobs in government.

The immediate reaction in the financial community and in Congress was that Volcker's appointment will be good for the dollar abroad and for success in the fight against inflation at home.

Volcker, 51, will succeed G. William Miller, who Carter named last week to succeed W. Michael Blumenthal as secretary of the treasury. Carter had promised to name someone who would be quickly recognized as a good choice, and he made clear he felt he had found his man.

"Mr. Volcker has broad economic and financial experience and enjoys an outstanding international reputation," Carter said. "He shares my determination to pursue the battle against inflation at home and ensure the strength and stability of the dollar abroad."

The Federal Reserve Board chairman is sometimes referred to as the second-most important person in government after the president because of the considerable influence the board has over the nation's economy through its manipulation of interest rates.

Volcker, who stands 6-foot-7 and looks like he would be more comfortable on a basketball court than in a bank board room, has established over the years a reputation as one of the nation's top monetary experts.

"He chose the right man — the best of all possible choices," said stock market analyst Larry Wachtel of the Wall Street firm of Bache Halsey Stuart Shields.

Volcker has been president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York since 1975 and previously was undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs from 1969 to 1974 in the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon.

The appointment was widely praised both at home and abroad, and the dollar quickly gained strength on international money markets after the announcement. Stock prices rose on Wall Street.

The appointment is subject to Senate approval, but there was little doubt that confirmation would be quick.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, which has jurisdiction over the appointment, said Volcker "is a man of great intellect and proven leadership ability...The president has shown outstanding judgment."

Proxmire had voted against Miller for the job last year. Volcker is expected to pursue somewhat more conservative policies than Miller, especially in encouraging higher interest rates. He has dissented in the past from Miller's more moderate approach.

The Banking Committee scheduled a hearing on Volcker's nomination for Monday. Hearings on Miller's nomination as treasury secretary begin Friday before the Senate Finance Committee.

But Miller called Volcker "an excellent choice," saying the appointment "guarantees continuity in the conduct of the nation's monetary policy and provides a recognized leadership that is required if we are to assure a sound dollar internationally."

Once nominated by the president, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board is independent of the White House and is responsible to Congress instead. However, there are frequent consultations and close collaboration between the administration and the board on economic policies.

Although Volcker's name won't win instant recognition in most American homes, he has had a major influence over economic policy for some time.

While at Treasury, he helped to engineer the two formal devaluations of the dollar in 1971 and 1973 that were forced on the United States because of its weakening position in the international economy.

As president of the largest of the 12 district Federal Reserve banks, Volcker has been a member of the 12-member Federal Open Market Committee, which sets targets for key interest rates. Miller has been chairman of this committee, while Volcker was vice chairman.

Volcker voted in the opposition two months ago when Miller successfully advocated holding interest rates unchanged. However, the Federal Reserve Board voted an increase in the discount rate, or bank lending rate, to 10 percent last week, an all-time high, with Miller concurring.

Struggling Family Wins $1 Million

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A father of four whose family has been living on $70 a week while he's been on strike for two months is the New Jersey State Lottery's 69th millionaire.

Florhram Santiago, 30, of Newark, a $150-a-week loading machine operator at a Hillside bindery, will receive $50,000 a year for the next 20 years as the grand prize winner of the "New Weekly Lottery."

Mary A. Sagun of Maywood won $100,000 and Marie Gallo of Secaucus won $50,000 in the lottery drawing at Caesars' Boardwalk Regency casino hotel here Wednesday.

A gray Siamese cat from Jersey City, owned by Andrea Ruiz, 15, won $500 for being one of the 205 lottery finalists.

Santiago, who speaks no English, said he "had a lucky feeling" that he would win the big prize.

Santiago jumped in the air, ran to the stage and clenched lottery director Gloria A. Decker after his name was called. The shy Puerto Rican native cried and shook nervously as he was given a certificate and was interviewed by reporters.

"He's happy because he needed the money. He wants to buy a house for his wife in Puerto Rico," said his brother, Renaldo, 16.

Santiago said life would be better in Puerto Rico for his wife, Margarita, and their three girls and boy. Santiago left Puerto Rico 11 years ago.

Santiago said he earns $150 a week as a loading machine operator. His Hillside plant has been on strike for two months and the Santiago family has been living on $70 a week strike benefits, he said.

Kennedy Offers Own Energy-Saving Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., proposed his own $58 billion plan to reduce oil imports Wednesday, but said he was not trying to compete with President Carter.

Instead, Kennedy said, he hoped for a "melding" in Congress of the president's energy proposals and others now working their way through the House and Senate.

Among the major features of Kennedy's plan announced by him and Sen. John Durkin, D-N.H., at a news conference:

—Grants of up to $750 for homeowners and renters who install insulation.

—Low-interest loans to businesses that install energy-saving equipment.

—A multibillion-dollar competitive program of grants for development of new sources of energy, including but not limited to synthetic fuels.

Kennedy offered some specific criticisms of the president's new energy proposals, but insisted that he is in "general agreement" with Carter.

Asked if his plan should be considered a replacement for Carter's proposals, Kennedy replied: "I think there is going to be a melding of the programs."

Kennedy said he would substantially limit the power of an Energy Mobilization Board proposed by Carter. He also said instead of placing heavy emphasis on developing synthetic fuels, there should be federally sponsored competition for both conventional and unconventional energy sources.

Kennedy has opposed the president on a number of issues, including health care. He was asked if making his energy proposal is not just another sign that he will challenge Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

"I have always been enormously interested in the issue of energy," he said. He never specifically answered the question.

Kennedy said his energy proposals would save 4 million barrels of oil which otherwise would be imported.

He said the grants for weatherizing homes already has been a proven success in Canada. There, he said, the goal is for 70 percent of residences to be insulated or insulated for the first time.

Convicted Bundy Could Face Electric Chair

MIAMI (AP) — Life or death for Theodore R. Bundy, convicted of murdering two sorority sisters, now rests with a droll judge who's fond of quoting the Bible and saying, "Bless your heart, Mr. Bundy."

Bundy, 32, was found guilty late Tuesday of strangling two women at the Chi Omega Sorority house in Tallahassee, Fla., on Jan. 15, 1978.

The jury deliberated six hours after a 4 1/2 week trial that was televised under Florida's cameras-in-the-courtroom law.

Bundy, a law school dropout, was convicted of attacking three other women the same morning the slayings occurred.

The first-degree murder convictions could send the Tacoma, Wash., resident to Florida's recently reactivated electric chair. But first the same jury that convicted Bundy will meet to consider punishment.

Judge Edward D. Cowart set Saturday and Monday to hear penalty arguments.

"We certainly will ask for the death penalty," said Larry Simpson, lead prosecutor.

Under Florida law, the normal rules of evidence are eased for the penalty phase of a murder trial, and prosecutors can offer "aggravating circumstances" they couldn't tell the jurors about earlier.

Bundy's jury is expected to hear about his Utah conviction for the 1975 kidnapping of Carol DaRonch in a suburb of Salt Lake City and about his two jail escapes in Colorado. He faces trial there for the 1975 murder of Caryn Hernando Cortez, the Spanish conqueror of Mexico, entered Mexico City in 1520.

Campbell, a 23-year-old Dearborn, Mich., nurse who was vacationing at an Aspen ski resort.

The jurors can consider the nature of the crime itself. In the Chi Omega murders, Lisa Levy, 20, and Margaret Bowman, 21, were garroted with panty hose. Miss Levy was bitten on the buttocks. One nipple was nearly severed from her breast, apparently by a bite. Miss Bowman was pounded so fiercely with an oak club that her head was split open.

Bundy also is accused of murdering 12-year-old Kimberly Leach of Lake City, Fla., in February 1978.

Defense attorneys can argue that Bundy is mentally disturbed — something they've said before. Public defender Ed Harvey tried unsuccessfully during the 4 1/2-week trial to have Bundy re-examined by a psychiatrist. Harvey said his client suffered a "debilitating" mental disorder.

But no matter what the lawyers say or the jury recommends, the final decision on the sentence is up to Cowart, a husky, 54-year-old grandfather who has sentenced three men to death — once ignoring a jury's recommendation of leniency.

John A. Spenkelink was executed at the Florida State Prison May 25 to become the first U.S. execution carried out against a prisoner's will in 12 years.

Bundy predicts Cowart will impose the death sentence.

Cowart, who was appointed to the case after the original trial judge was disqualified, has carefully shielded his personal feelings toward Bundy. Even when seemingly linked by Bundy's courtroom antics, Cowart would cut the defendant off with a smile, a touch of biblical verse and a characteristic "Bless your heart."

AN EDITORIAL:

Big Brother On The Bayou...

HOUSTON IS embroiled in an effort to find a way out of a dilemma forced on it by a federal abuse of power.
Citizens will vote Aug. 11 on an amendment to the City charter that would replace the present 8-member City Council with a 14-member governing body.
Instead of all members being elected at-large, as now is the case, nine would be elected from districts or wards and only five of them would represent the entire city.
The situation is similar to that in Lubbock, where a federal court case is seeking to deny local voters the right of self-determination in local government.

THE HOUSTON VOTE was forced by a Justice Department denial of a City Council plan to annex more area to the city.
And just how did the federal lawyers get involved in a purely local decision on whether to annex territory? Congress gave the bureaucrats that power under the federal Voting Rights Act.
Giving racism a standing in law, the lawmakers decreed that any changes in election boundaries would have to be approved at the Washington level before they could go into effect.
If moving a boundary would even infinitesimally dilute the voting strength of a racial minority, the bureaucrats are primed to nix it.
Since an annexation changes the boundaries for electing a mayor and city councilmen, developers or fringe area residents wanting the advantages of municipal services must get approval from the Justice Department.
The government lawyers, for example,

ANOTHER EFFORT to let the "voice of the people" be heard has hit a brick wall in the House of Representatives.
On a showdown vote on a constitutional amendment which would have halted forced busing as a desegregation tool, the House Tuesday voted 219 to 206 to defeat the proposal.
Actually, the measure needed a two-thirds vote of the House under the method by which it was brought to the floor, so a total of 75 more votes was needed to get the proposed amendment before the states.
THE AMENDMENT, known as the Mottl amendment for its major sponsor, Rep. Ronald Mottl, D-Ohio, had been forced out of the House Judiciary Committee by a seldom-used procedure.
A total of 218 House members had signed a petition circumventing the committee.
However, in four hours of sometimes colorful, often emotional debate, opponents were able to marshal an even larger margin against the amendment than either side had anticipated.

ART BUCHWALD:

President Barely Passing College Of Hard Knocks

WASHINGTON—The beauty of the United States government is that it gives "on the job training" to its Presidents.
The four-year course is free, and also provides an intern salary of $200,000 a year, plus free housing.
When Jimmy Carter applied for the job in 1976 he didn't realize it meant he would have to move to Washington, D.C.
"I'm just a poor country boy from Georgia," Jimmy told his mother. "I don't see why I have to move to Washington to learn how to be President of the United States."
"But, Jimmy, it will be good for you to go away from home for four years, and it will give you a chance to find out if you want to be President or not."
SO JIMMY went off to a town he despised, as a green intern freshman President of the United States. At first he was surprised how much he liked it. Everyone was real nice to him and tried to show him around.
They told him, as a freshman President, not too much was expected of him. All he had to do was study papers and smile a lot.
Jimmy excelled at this and everyone thought he was going to make a good student.
But in his sophomore year, life got harder for him. For one thing the training program required him to talk to congressmen and senators and people in the power structure.
JIMMY DIDN'T want to talk to anyone in Washington, because he suspected that they were all up to no good.
He joined a fraternity made up of good ol' boys from Georgia and they would sit around the first house at 1800 Pennsylvania Ave., grinning about what a lousy place Washington was and how nobody liked them because they came from the South, and people thought they were a bunch of Hicks.
What Jimmy couldn't learn was that in order to get things done as a President, you had to talk to other people in Washington whether you liked it or not.
SINCE JIMMY wouldn't play ball, he discovered his grades slipping with the public.
He couldn't understand it, because he worked very hard in his office and never lied or did any of the naughty things other Presidents had been accused of.
Jimmy's junior year was the worst. Everything seemed to go wrong.
He flunked economics and energy and barely got a passing grade in foreign relations.
The taxpayers who put up the money for his "on the job training" were muttering they had made a mistake, and he would never make a President even if he finished the course.
In desperation Jimmy started talking to people to find out what he was doing wrong. They told him "everything."
HE ACCEPTED their criticism and started to tell anyone who would listen he had made a lot of mistakes but he was now prepared to rectify them. But he couldn't do it alone. He asked everyone to help him.
"What do you want us to do?" they asked.
"Be the people I thought you were and not the people I think you are," he said.
"Okay," they said. "We will if you act more like a President."
Jimmy promised in his senior year of training he would act the part of a President. It was a little late to catch up, but Jimmy was told by his advisers if he didn't do it now, he would flunk the entire course.
If he wishes out in his final year nothing will be lost. The "on the job presidential training program" has had a lot more failures than successes. That's why we seem to be looking for a new applicant every four years.

"AND IN NEXT YEAR'S CAMPAIGN, YOU PROMISE TO CLEAN UP THE MESS IN WASHINGTON"

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Tempest In Tea Cup

LONDON—News traveled fast to Washington from No. 10 Downing Street that Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, a Conservative with the wit to know her own mind, is not going to be pushed around by President Carter's liberal activists in the State Department.
That knowledge, relayed to Foggy Bottom as Thatcher was deciding to move faster than the Labor government toward terminating sanctions against Rhodesia, poses this word of caution for Jimmy Carter: the power shift to the tough-minded, self-confident Tory now running affairs here could spell trouble between the U.S. and its closest ally.
Former Prime Minister James Callaghan, one of the shrewdest foreign leaders in understanding the free-wheeling ways of some of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's top aides, smelled the trouble at once.
In a telephone conversation with President Carter just after losing the May 3 election to the Conservatives, Callaghan gently but pointedly warned Carter that he would now be dealing with a different cup of tea in Margaret Thatcher ("Attila the Hen" she is called by some subordinates and bureaucrats in awe of her tart tongue and sharp mind).
Be generous, Callaghan admonished Carter, be understanding; there are rough waters ahead, but they can be negotiated and the alliance can take the pressure.
WHAT CALLAGHAN was correctly predicting was a clash of wills and policies when Thatcher's Tory ideology collides with McGovernite influences still dominant in key bureaus of Vance's State Department.
The strains will go beyond political disagreements over sanctions and recognition for Zimbabwe-Rhodesia.
For example, even though Thatcher gave a quick, public nod to the new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT II), she has raised far tougher questions than did the Labor government over highly controversial "non-circumvention" clauses of the treaty affecting U.S. weapons and technology support for Europe.
One British official who privately congratulated Carter after Thatcher publicly supported SALT II was surprised at Carter's heated response. Yes, said the President, but I wish she were saying the same thing in private.
LIKEWISE, THATCHER is taking a stand on the Middle East far more sympathetic to the Palestinians' demand for a homeland on the West Bank than the Labor government and many U.S. politicians.
This puts her in the generally pro-Arab European camp, adding to world pressure on Carter to start hearing down on Israel.
But the Rhodesian tangle marks the greatest contradiction between Thatcher and Carter's African experts, led by United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young.
Thatcher rejected post-election pressures originating not in Carter's White House but in Young's office and the State Department's African bureau.
INDEED, THERE was anger not only at 10 Downing Street but in the British foreign office—more disciplined and less ideological—over Carter's technically accurate but highly misleading statement about the vote that approved the new Rhodesian constitution.
Carter, taking the lead from his African advisers, said on June 7 that "only 60 percent" of the whites "supported the new constitution."
In fact, the constitutional balloting, with only whites eligible to vote, produced a "yes" vote of 85 percent (in a turnout of more than 71 percent).
Carter's aides ratcheted that 85 percent down to 60 percent by adding the entire 29 percent who did not vote onto the negative column, a device that would give Carter himself only 37 percent of the vote in 1976.
"CAN'T THEY do simple arithmetic in the White House?" one top-level Thatcher official complained to us.
It was not a matter of simple arithmetic, but an American propaganda effort that backfired at 10 Downing Street. Thatcher has now used conservative Republican Sen. Jesse Helms to convey to President Carter her refusal to extend sanctions beyond their November expiration date.
She spent 50 minutes with Helms in an unpublished July 4 meeting in London; Helms never got close to a Labor government.
Carter understands what has happened at 10 Downing Street. He is likely to follow Thatcher's lead in the former British colony. Whether he does or not, Thatcher is one woman not interested in the woman's prerogative to change her mind.

JAY HARRIS:

The Hot Ones...

THERE WAS A time not so long ago when no one would have raised an eyebrow, let alone a window or a howl, over President Carter's thermostat-setting order.
Summertime meant hot weather, open windows or transoms and fans, along with a sprinkling, at theaters, of "Cooler Inside" signs.
And wintertime meant all sorts of heating devices, from the once trusty pot-bellied stove to "modern" open gas flame heaters and steam pipes and units. And in each season, people dressed appropriately.
Then, things changed. Mankind, or at least a goody portion of it, started controlling the climate inside. Things haven't been the same since. Not only did man get used to it, but sealed buildings came along.
AS A RESULT, the President might have been far better off finding some other way to save from 195,000 to 350,000 barrels of the nation's 20 million barrel daily use of crude oil.
If reports from over the nation are any indication, Mr. Carter may have lost more than "his cool." A lot of people, from restaurant owners to department store managers, are "hot under the collar," figuratively and otherwise.
As things now stand, the White House has ordered most thermostats in government and public buildings set at a warm 78 degrees, starting next month. Come winter and snow and icy winds, the limit is 65 degrees.
Since the latter problem is some weeks down the road, it is the here and now that has a lot of people on the griddle, from Washington's steamy Foggy Bottom to New York's and Houston's glassed-in skyscrapers.

ACTUALLY, THE controls already have taken effect in Washington. And so has the grumbling. Most Federal offices have decreed more informal dress, for both men and women.
Ties and long sleeved shirts are still in, but coats are optional. At the White House, while new Chief of Staff Hamilton Jordan is "dressing up," others are dressing down. Women may show up in sun dresses.
But, not everyone could say "no sweat" to the President's order. In Washington, before his resignation, Energy Czar James Schlesinger was caught by a photographer wiping his brow. In Indianapolis, a federal judge broke tradition and allowed lawyers to take off their coats to argue their cases. And in Houston, a county judge kept his shirt and robe on, but whacked off the sleeves on the latter.
In some stores in the South, fans were moved into dressing rooms. And in others, customers were told if they bought Fall and Winter items and didn't want to try them on in the heat, that later if they didn't fit they could exchange them.

ONE OF THE problems in enforcing Mr. Carter's edict is that the edict itself is somewhat confusing.
The order says that thermostats should be 78 degrees or higher somewhere in an area controlled by a thermostat, not necessarily throughout the building.
U.S. News & World Report noted that one restaurant took its reading in the kitchen, thus keeping the dining area as comfortable as ever. Too, many businesses today utilize highly technical computers and other equipment, which if the room gets too hot puts the sophisticated equipment out of shape quicker than the people running it.
Another problem involves offices with hundreds of individual thermostats and systems already designed to save energy. After all, with utility bills what they are, most everyone already is energy conscious.

AS THINGS now stand, violations of the rule could lead to fines of up to $10,000 a day.
But, as USN&WR noted, that appears to be more bark than bite. The government plans to add fewer than 200 persons to check on compliance, relying on state inspectors and "patriotism" to make it work.
The problem, as is the case with too many Big Brother pronouncements from Washington, is that what may work for one segment of the nation won't for another.
For instance, even before the President's shirt-sleeves approach to things, Florida residents, as well as others in such climates, were mopping their brows. May, usually a dry month in the sunshine state, was a doozy, with up to 18 inches of rain in Pinellas county in one day. June, which is supposed to be wet, turned out dry. And July, also usually "cooled" with afternoon showers, also is coming up dry and warm.

DICK BOTHWELL, whose Of All Things column brightens up The St. Petersburg Times, unburdened himself on the subject.
Women, Dick argues, have the best of it in hot weather. While men, some of whom must have been born in coat, tie and suit and will die that way, sweater, women enjoy clothes which are more attuned to the weather.
Dick also makes the point that in most parts of the world, with the exception of the U.S., most of the natives dress to suit the climate. This is true, whether you are sweating out 120-degree temperatures in Egypt or a 110-degree sizzler on a hot highway in India.
But, what of those hardy folk of yesteryear who made today's air conditioned comfort possible? How did they manage to survive the rigors with only ceiling fans or hand-held ones and a tall cool one to keep cool? It was easy, although some of them did envision today's crisp world. We recall a former Lubbock city manager who suggested "air conditioned sidewalks" for this tropical paradise. They laughed. But the idea became a reality in today's malls.
But, maybe Dick Bothwell has a point. He says modern man really doesn't know how to cope. It ain't the heat or humidity, but the stupidity.

L. M. BOYD:

NOVAK

WASHINGTON—One of the reasons for Sen. Ted Kennedy's good showing in the Presidential polls is that he does his homework—staying abreast with, or ahead of, public opinion.
Kennedy took over as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee last January. One of his first moves was to order a staff study of crime across the country. By June, Kennedy had his figures: Serious crime was on the increase.
Whereupon, Kennedy made a speech to the National Governors Conference meeting on crime control, endorsing a tougher approach to crimes by defendants free on bail.
Last week, Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell announced that violent crime soared 17 percent during the first quarter of 1979, and the number of serious crimes climbed 11 percent over the figure for 1978.
KENNEDY'S POSITION, of course, was a switch to the right. That should not be surprising. Although he's the darling of most liberals, Kennedy refuses to be locked into some of the more lurid liberal positions.
Kennedy has offered a sop to left. He is still opposed to preventive detention, but the rest of his platform, while not spectacularly stern, gives considerable comfort to moderates and conservatives.
Kennedy's concern is with current bail procedures, which he says are not working. Most state and federal laws say that in deciding whether to set bail a judge may consider only whether the defendant is likely to appear for trial.
Those laws do not permit a judge to consider a defendant's potential danger to the community.
KENNEDY IS right. A federally-funded study of the District of Columbia found that 17 percent of all arrests for serious crimes were of persons out on bail. The federal figure is somewhere around 18 percent.
Kennedy offers four ways to help reduce crimes committed by individuals out on bail. The first is a piece of nonsense.
After deciding on bail, Kennedy would have the judge attach restrictions to the defendant's release—require him to stay out of certain neighborhoods, give up his weapons, seek employment. There's no way such procedures could be enforced.
However, Kennedy believes judges should use their contempt power to enforce compliance with bail orders and jail offenders charged with another crime while on bail.
THAT WOULD give the repeaters considerable pause. So would Kennedy's proposal that consecutive sentences be doled out for bail offenders; concurrent sentencing is how common, allowing two crimes for the price of one.
In short, Kennedy has a program for protecting the rights of the community at large, rights that continue to be assaulted by habitual offenders free on bail.
He is speaking in effect, for the mass in the street who can't understand why judges are always loosing career criminals on the public.
Through one of those happy coincidences that pursue all the Kennedys, he has picked up an awful lot of brand new votes.

Man's Remarriage Declared Invalid

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Kenneth L. Palmer thought he divorced his first wife, Doris, in 1977. So did Palmer's second wife, Judy, who married him the next day. Now the state's highest court has ruled the original marriage is still valid.

"Legally, I guess I'm still married to Doris," said Palmer, a Sioux Falls businessman, of his 27-year-marriage to his first wife. "But I don't feel morally I am."

But Doris Palmer's attorney has another version.

"He knew when he got married the second time that the judgment wasn't final. He knew there was a chance this very thing would happen," said attorney Carleton Hoy. "He just isn't married to that second lady, period. That second marriage is void."

Palmer was thrown into marital limbo by the South Dakota Supreme Court ruling July 5. He has filed for a rehearing before the Supreme Court and will know in 15 days if the court will hear the case again.

The state's high court ruled in a 3-2 decision that Palmer did not prove "extreme cruelty" — one of the grounds for divorce in South Dakota.

The divorce was originally decided in Palmer's favor by a circuit court judge on March 24, 1977. Palmer married his second wife in Las Vegas the next day.

KENNETH PALMER

But, acting on a legal technicality, the trial judge set aside the judgment April 12, 1977. Palmer's second wife's legal status was cloudy for two days until the judge determined that statutory requirements for the divorce had been fulfilled.

So, believing the divorce was final, Palmer said his vows with his new wife for the second time.

"We didn't have any indication they would appeal until several weeks later," he said.

Hoy said the first Mrs. Palmer does not especially want Palmer back; she just wants what she considers a fair property settlement.

Hoy said she got the couple's house including furniture, an $800 savings account, $250 a month for four months, a car and an agreement from Palmer to pay the $18,000 mortgage on the house.

Hoy said the property division, as decided by the circuit court judge, "just plain wasn't sufficient."

Unless the high court grants a rehearing Palmer and his first wife could have to go through the entire divorce procedure again, which dragged through two years the first time around. In the meantime, attorneys for both sides agree the second Mrs. Palmer has no legal standing as a wife.

Job Safety Rules Now In Book Form

WASHINGTON (AP) — Businesses large and small may be interested in the new book of regulations issued by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

This is the first compilation of job safety standards since the agency dropped nearly 1,000 trivial or nit-picking rules last fall. Since then, both employers, union officials and government inspectors have had to rely on reprints of the various rules still in effect.

The new book, general industry standards, sells for $8.50 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. Ask for stock number 029-015-00054-6.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

Church Ushers Execute Precision Drills

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It was like a military drill, done in the service of the Lord.

Frank Evans stood in the middle of the Sheraton Hotel ballroom and placed his white-gloved right hand on the knot of his necktie. Then he touched his hair and his right leg.

Without uttering a syllable, Evans had just signaled 12 church ushers — men and women — to attention, issued an "about face" and then ordered them to execute the commands.

For nearly 20 minutes on Tuesday, Evans flashed 21 signs and the ushers carried them out — just as they would in a regular church service — as an audience of about 2,000 persons looked on.

The signals were made at the 69th annual convention of the National United Church Ushers Association of America Inc. which opened Monday and continues through Friday.

About 2,500 ushers from 800 churches in 23 states and the District of Columbia have gathered here, the birthplace of this interdenominational organization.

In many churches, ushering is loosely organized, with a minimum of instruction. But in churches served by members of the association, ushers not only stick to the book — "The Universal Church Ushers Manual" — they rehearse regularly to perfect precision.

"Basically, it's all very simple," said Isaiah Tatum, 56, of Los Angeles, national chairman of the training program. "It is difficult to be reverent when there is confusion and noise and ushers making incoordinated moves. What we try to do is enhance the spirit of reverence, not shake it."

Tatum said the 21 signals all revolve around worship.

"Whether a sign calls for an usher to escort a worshiper to a certain pew or prepare for communion, the purpose is to bring everyone in the church closer to the presence of the Lord."

The organization's original purpose was to develop fellowship among church ushers everywhere.

In 1919, Elijah Hamilton, a layman at Philadelphia's Mother Bethel A.M.E. Church, called for ushers from several cities and states to meet here to form a national organization.

Egypt Hoists Flag Over Sinai Strip Lost To Israel In 1967

BIR NASSEB, Egypt (AP) — Egypt hoisted its flag over this desert oasis Wednesday and resumed control of a 75-mile long strip of Sinai territory controlled by Israel since the 1967 Mideast war.

Military bands from both countries played their national anthems and honor guards stood at attention under a blazing desert sun during a brief ceremony marking the second phase of the five-part Israeli withdrawal from Sinai.

An Egyptian soldier kissed the red, white and black flag then raised it over this town near Abu Rudeis on the Suez coast which was decorated with banners and giant portraits of President Anwar Sadat.

The simple half-hour ceremony took place with little of the fanfare or celebration that marked the first Israeli withdrawal from the northern Sinai town of El Arish two months ago. A day after the first Israeli pullback, Sadat traveled to El Arish to lead the rejoicing over the end of Israeli rule.

Under the peace treaty signed in March, two-thirds of Sinai territory occupied by Israel in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war will revert to Egyptian control by next January in the current five-stage withdrawal. All of Sinai will be under Cairo's jurisdiction by 1982.

Israeli opposition leader Simon Peres met with Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil to discuss the present round of Mideast peace negotiations. Those talks deal with Palestinian autonomy in Gaza and on the West Bank of the Jordan River. Peres called on Palestinians to join the peace process.

"In the Camp David agreement, there is a say for the Palestinians, and there is a say for the Jordanians," Peres said. He said the West Bank Palestinians are "for all practical and legal reasons citizens of Jordan."

In another development involving the West Bank, the Israeli Supreme Court allowed resumption of work on a new Jewish settlement despite Arab protests.

The high court rejected claims by Reserve Gen. Matti Peled, representing West Bank Arab landowners near the town of Modi'im, who argued the new settlement of Matityahu would not really serve Israel's defense needs.

But the court agreed with the head of Israel's military government in the occupied territories, Gen. Danny Matt, who claimed the settlement was essential for defending Tel Aviv's Ben Gurion Airport, eight miles to the northwest.

The court ruled earlier that the military government could requisition private land for civilian settlement if the settlement clearly served state security.

Work on the Matityahu settlement was halted in May when the Arab landowners appealed to the high court.

The 2,400-square-mile piece of Sinai territory returned Wednesday is a mostly barren coastal plain, stretching 75 miles along the Gulf of Suez and extending 30 miles inland to a mountain range in western Sinai.

The region's only residents are about 4,000 Bedouin Arabs. Sheiks from various Bedouin tribes observed the transfer ceremony from a platform erected nearby.

Bir Nasseb, a gathering spot for wandering Bedouin tribesmen sits at the end of Wadi Firan, a dry riverbed used throughout the ages as a main route across southern Sinai.

The sector is known in Israel as the "oil corridor" because Israel's Suez oil wells are located off its coast. Under treaty provisions, Israel keeps the wells, which provide a third of its oil needs, until November.

No United Nation soldiers were in sight during the flag-raising ceremony. The mandate of the U.N. Emergency Force, which has been stationed in Sinai since 1974, expired Wednesday morning, although a U.N. spokesman said it would take six weeks for the 4,000 peacekeeping troops to dismantle their camps and leave.

The United States and Israel are negotiating for a replacement force to monitor treaty provisions in Sinai.

Sex Chromosome Defect Cited In Mental Cases

BOSTON (AP) — There are more males than females in institutions for the mentally retarded, and scientists say a recently-discovered defect in some sex chromosomes may be the cause.

The discovery of what is called the "Fragile X Syndrome" was discussed this week by Dr. Park Gerald of Harvard University at a genetics conference at the Jackson Laboratories in Bar Harbor, Maine.

Dr. Gerald said males typically make up 55 percent to 70 percent of those institutionalized as mentally retarded.

The Boston Globe reported in its Wednesday edition that the disorder was so named because it appears under microscopes as a defect in the X chromosome, one of two in each cell that determines sex.

Research indicates the defect usually is inherited and transmitted via the mother to son.

Males inherit one X chromosome from their mothers and one Y chromosome from their fathers. They suffer retardation if they get the mother's faulty X chromosome.

Females usually do not suffer this form of retardation because they inherit an X chromosome from each parent, including a normal one from their fathers.

The Globe said early surveys indicate 2 percent to 3 percent of all males in institutions for the retarded suffer from the chromosome defect. This would mean the disorder is the second-greatest known cause of mental retardation.

Down's Syndrome, or mongolism, which affects males and females equally, is the leading known cause, affecting about 3,000 babies annually in the United States.

Scientists estimate the Fragile X Syndrome affects about 300 babies a year in the United States, causing moderate to severe retardation.

Gerald said it is impossible to diagnose the ailment in a fetus, but he suggested screening families for Fragile X if there is an unexplained case of retardation.

He said that if the trait appears, it probably means future sons have a 50 percent chance of inheriting the defect and future daughters have a 50 percent chance of carrying it.

Two Houston Policemen Acquitted In Gun Slaying Of Youth

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge Wednesday acquitted two fired police officers of conspiring to violate the civil rights of a slain teen-ager by planting a gun near him after he was shot during a high-speed chase.

It was the third federal court trial within 18 months involving officers who were fired after investigations within the Houston police department.

U.S. District Judge John Singleton Jr. said the actions by officers Walter Earl Plaster, 53, and John Stephen White, 28, were "improper and shocking," but he said the government had failed to prove its case against them. He issued the ruling before the closing arguments had been scheduled to begin.

The indictment had alleged a conspiracy to place a "throw-down" gun in a car belonging to Billy Keith Joyvies, 18, of Houston, who was shot fatally during a July 11, 1975, chase that began after a constable reported a tool box stolen from a pickup truck.

There was conflicting testimony during the two-week jury trial on whether Joyvies was armed. Prosecutors argued that a "throw-down" gun was used to make it appear the youth was armed.

"The government has the duty to produce sufficient evidence to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that each of them (the defendants) had the specific intent to violate a right Billy Keith Joyvies was guaranteed," Singleton said.

"The evidence in this case simply does not support any reasonable inference that either officer had this intent," the judge added.

Singleton said the "senseless shooting" of Joyvies was not a matter before the court.

"We cannot permit ourselves to be carried away with the bizarre facts leading up to the shooting," he said.

In a similar "throw-down" case, former officers Danny Mays, 32, and Norval Wayne Holloway, 28, received five-year suspended sentences on May 14 from U.S. District Judge Finis Cowan. Cowan said the defendants had been punished enough.

Mays and Holloway were found guilty of lying to a federal grand jury in covering up the fact that Randall Alan Webster, 17, of Shreveport was unarmed when he was shot to death in a 1977 high-speed chase that began after a van had been reported stolen.

In February 1978, three officers were found guilty in the case of Joe Campos Torres, 21, a karate expert who drowned in Buffalo Bayou near police headquarters after having been arrested May 5, 1977, in a bar disturbance.

The Justice Department is appealing the sentences assessed in the Torres case by U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling, but Singleton's ruling cannot be appealed.

Terry Wayne Denson, Stephen Orlando and Joseph Janish

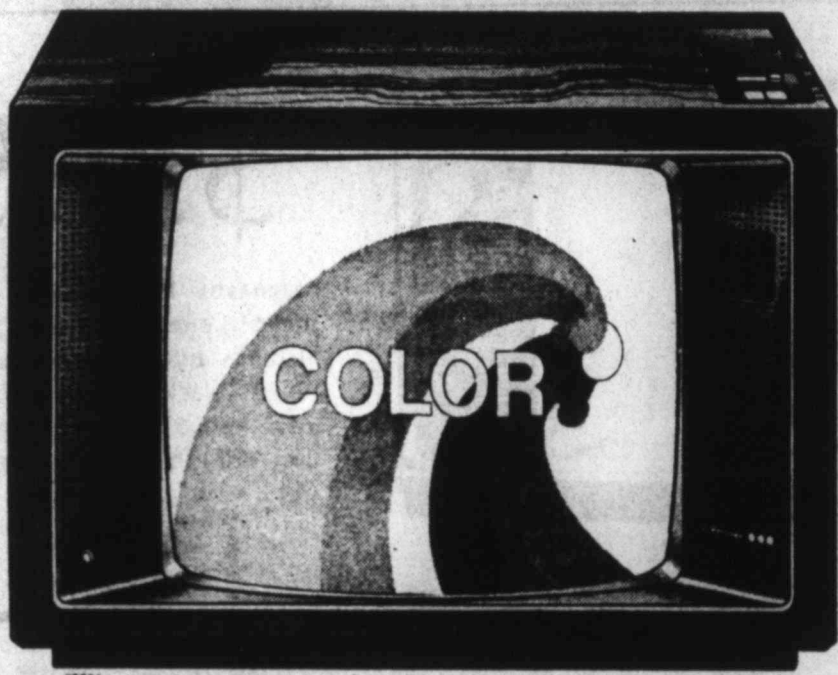

drew five-year probated sentences on a charge of civil rights violations resulting in death, and one-year prison sentences for beating Torres.

A three-judge 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals panel agreed with the Justice Department that the suspended sentences were improper but refused to order Sterling to sentence the defendants again. The full 5th Circuit Court now has been asked to rule on the matter.

Singleton ruled in the Joyvies case shortly before lawyers were to begin final arguments. His ruling cannot be appealed.

807 Turks To Face Mass Trial

ADANA, Turkey (AP) — Inside a torrid, sunbaked stadium in this cotton-producing region, 807 men, women and children accused of participating in a rampage of sectarian killing are facing the largest mass trial in Turkish history.

If the six military prosecutors get their wishes, 330 persons will be sentenced to death by hanging and 10 of them will be women.

The week-long rampage of killing, raping and looting left 111 persons dead, several thousand injured and turned hundreds of buildings of the southeastern town of Kahramanmaraş into smoking rubble.

The rioting triggered declarations of martial law in Turkey's most troubled provinces last December, an order which Premier Bulent Ecevit's fragile government has managed to extend for eight months. A further two-month extension falls due next August.

The gory incidents reviewed at the mass trial, policed by 1,000 troops, form a microcosm of some of the passions sweeping eastern Turkey.

On Dec. 19, an explosion rocked an open air theater showing a film about two ethnic Turks fleeing harassment in Soviet Turkestan. Extreme right-wing militants planted the bomb and shouted "the Communists did it," the prosecution claims.

The bomb, according to investigators, was designed to provoke the larger and conservative Sunni Moslem community against usually left-leaning Alevi (or Shiite) Moslem minority.

Two days later, two left-wing Alevi schoolteachers were assassinated in an ambush.

The funeral cortege for the slain Alevi teachers was met by a Sunni mob of about 10,000, chanting "Moslem Turkey" and "down with the Communists." Stones, clubs, wooden clogs flew. One Sunni was shot dead in the melee.

That night the two Moslem groups barricaded themselves in the neighborhoods of Kahramanmaraş, a town of 130,000, about 70 miles from the Syrian border. Firearms were distributed and the rampage began, according to the indictment, which documented tales of grisly violence.

A group of armed Sunnis dragged Kalendar Teklu — an Alevi — from his home into the street and pumped a round of bullets into his head. "What are you doing?" pleaded his wife. "We are sacrificing him for Black Son" — a popular name for Social Democrat Ecevit — came the reply.

Suleyman Metin, a primary school inspector — another Alevi — was shot in the stomach after assailants hurled gas-soaked rags into his living room. Metin offered to surrender with his family, but was clubbed, shot and his body set afire as his wife and three daughters looked on in terror.

Ecevit clamped a dusk-to-dawn curfew on the town, flew in 5,000 troops, and finally established martial law after an all-night Cabinet meeting.

A six-month investigation focused attention on the Nationalist Action Party, whose district chief, Hasan Balcioglu, is facing the death penalty. According to the indictment, the small right-wing military-style party masterminded the riots, especially through its Idealist Youth Club branches.

The 806 other defendants — most of whom are Sunnis — include police officers, teachers, students, artisans, farmers, a garbage collector, a judo instructor, 57 women and two deaf mutes who speak through sign language translators. They are defended by more than 100 lawyers.

Many of the defendants have denied the charges, or claimed testimony was obtained under torture or duress. During the trial, they live in a military detention center, and are trucked in 15 military vehicles to a small basketball and volleyball arena where they await court sessions in chains. Some women breastfeed their babies as soldiers armed with sub-machine guns stand guard.

A harsh verdict could lead to the eventual ban of the Nationalist Action Party, if it is linked to the riots.

One result feared by government officials is a recurrence of sectarian strife between the Sunnis, a large majority of Turkey's 40 million, and the Alevis.

The schism between the two Moslem groups was born over the question of who would succeed Prophet Muhammad after his death in 632. The Alevis — a name derived from Ali, the prophet's son in law — have preserved Turkish culture, as opposed to the Arabic influences of arts and languages on the Sunnis.

Despite martial law, violence has continued in Turkey. A total of 1,700 persons are estimated to have died in the past two years, giving this NATO nation with borders on Iran, Iraq and the Soviet Union an image of growing instability.

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittleman, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Step 2: Now find the corresponding number for the month you were born. If your month is February, and your year numbers were preceded by a B, your month numbers would be 8 for Physical, 3 for Emotional and 31 for Intellectual. Enter your own numbers in the figure chart for Step 2.

Step 3: In the figure chart, enter your day of birth three times, one each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I). (If you were born on April 3, for instance, place a 3 in each column.)

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's rhythms.

These numbers are yours permanently. Check them each day for your biorhythm reading.

GANG VIOLENCE CURBED
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — A mile-long strip of Whittier Boulevard in East Los Angeles will be closed at night during weekends in an effort to curb gang violence that has resulted in three killings this year. Tuesday's decision by the county Board of Supervisors came on a proposal by the Sheriff's Department, which sheriff's captain Kenneth Smith described as "a last resort." Supervisor Ed Edelman noted that in 1978 there were 12 gang-related murders along the popular cruising strip and 111 felonious assaults.

Storm's Remnants Flood Texas Coast

BEAUMONT (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements mobilized the National Guard Wednesday to help evacuate Texans stranded by flooding in the wake of tropical storm Claudette.

Remnants of the storm left at least one person dead as it brought rains up to 15 inches to the upper Texas coast and forced hundreds of residents to evacuate.

Clements' press secretary, Jon Ford, said the governor ordered guardsmen to Freeport, Jones Creek and Clute in Brazoria County. Guardsmen were called to Port Arthur earlier in the day, he said, and 12 trucks and two Jeeps were working there.

It was the second time in three months that floodwaters had plagued the Golden Triangle area bordered by Beaumont, Port Arthur and Orange.

Bridge City in Orange County and Lakeview in south Jefferson County appeared to be the hardest hit areas. The two communities are connected by U.S. 87 which runs parallel to the coast.

About 35 evacuees took shelter at the Bridge City Junior High School after being forced from their homes in and around the city.

Another 56 flood victims were housed in a bus terminal at Lakeview.

The only flood-related death was in Beaumont where Lewis Yokum drowned when his car stalled in the bottom of a flooded underpass.

Deputy Fire Chief Fred Carter said Yokum's body was recovered from one of three cars pulled from under 10 feet of water in the underpass.

Drivers of the other two cars were not located.

"They might have been able to get out their cars or they might have been swept away by the current," Carter said.

Law enforcement officers at Port Arthur reported difficulty keeping streets open during the height of the early morning deluge.

"The pumps have been able to keep some of the water away and off the streets, but the heavy rain made them almost useless at times," Patrolman David Davis said.

Water was up to the doors at some Port Arthur homes and crept into some businesses. Traffic was restricted to four-wheel-drive vehicles in many areas.

A spokesman for Gulf States Utilities said more than 10,000 homes in the Golden Triangle area were thrown into darkness during the night. Dave Smith said electricity had been restored to all but about 2,000 customers by Wednesday.

Industry Unhampered

The vast Southeast Texas petrochemical and oil refining industry was not hampered greatly by the storm.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said about 1,900 homes lost service in Jefferson County and another 1,000 homes lost service in Orange County.

Claudette, meanwhile, was downgraded to a tropical depression and continued moving northward between Lufkin and Beaumont.

To the west, a weak cold front lay just south of a Wichita Falls-Abilene-Midland line sparking thunderstorms along both sides of the front. Clouds covered most of the state except for western and southwestern portions. Temperatures were mostly in the 80s and 90s.

Evacuee Evelyn Leopold said she left her home early Wednesday when water began lapping at the walls of her home in Beaumont.

"Standing In Water"

"When I was standing up and water began coming in through the all, I decided it was time to leave," she said. "I tried to lift what I could but it was too much. The bed and everything are still standing in water."

Ann Gautreaux said she left her trailer home north of Bridge City when water came within two feet of her doorstep.

"We were lucky. Our trailer is on a hill," Mrs. Gautreaux said. "We started wading out and it was waist deep by the time we reached the highway. It was already about two feet deep in my neighbor's trailer when we left."

Ready For Evacuees

Ralph Wallace, principal at Bridge City Junior High, said the school had 45 classrooms and was prepared to handle a large group of evacuees.

Wallace said Red Cross officials had authorized expenses for feeding the evacuees.

"We bought milk, orange juice and sweet rolls this morning and we're making sandwiches for lunch," Wallace said. "We hope they'll be home for supper."

Floods struck the same area in April, forcing thousands of evacuations.

House Members Praise Califano

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House continued to meet Wednesday night through President Carter's televised news conference. One of the subjects discussed was the president's controversial firing of HEW Secretary Joseph Califano.

As Carter was defending his actions in replacing the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, members of Congress were giving short speeches in Califano's support.

"There was no one in the Cabinet who was more loyal than Joe Califano to this administration," said Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif. "It's regrettable this has taken place."

House Democratic Whip John Brademas of Indiana and House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., were among those praising Califano and expressing displeasure with his departure.

Mace Threat Denied

Sikes also took the stand Wednesday, refuting statements made by prosecution witnesses that he threatened Dailey with a can of Mace or a blackjack.

Sikes said managers of the club explained the dress code and said if there were any questions, he should refer the problem to management for a final decision.

When he told Dailey his clothing did not meet Studio One's dress requirements, Sikes testified, he called for the manager to settle the dispute.

"But Mr. Dailey didn't wait for the

Get Out In Country, Carter Urges Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says he's going to get out into the country more often, perhaps once a week, and is urging his top appointees to do the same.

That was among the messages Carter conveyed to 250 top officials from throughout the government during an extraordinary "town meeting" at the White House Tuesday afternoon.

The president told them they should get out in the country to see if their programs were really delivering. The meeting was described to The Associated Press by one participant who took detailed notes but asked not to be named.

They assembled in the East Room — assistant Cabinet secretaries, agency heads, department lawyers — some of them worried that the president's personnel review might cost them their jobs.

And though he told them there may in the future be "some involuntary separ-ations," Carter also said "but not many."

For an hour, Carter described the country's woes, his own failings, and his administration's problems. He took questions and defended his much-maligned personnel evaluation forms, spoke at length on the need for loyalty, particularly during his coming election season.

He also criticized the Washington press corps and reassured his team that he valued them.

They applauded when he entered and when he finished and then, at his request, they lined up to shake hands and be photographed with him as they left. Outside, they described the session in terms like "very moving," "really inspiring" and "very persuasive, very effective."

In his talk, Carter reviewed the growing distrust in government and society's institutions that he laid out in his July 15 speech to the nation, adding that the president's voice must be heard to reverse this trend.

On his own failings, he said, "I have not succeeded in making mine a major voice." He added that perhaps a Winston Churchill or a Franklin D. Roosevelt might have. But unlike the wartime crises they faced, America was not being unified by a common external enemy.

Carter said that he had made mistakes and that he was not a person who easily admitted making mistakes.

When he turned to what he called his "fitness report" form, he said it was important, and asked that each person there think about filling one out on themselves and correcting their problem before someone else pointed them out.

Running through what he considered the most important questions, he said there was no doubt about the competence of anyone there. But, he asked, were they using that competence to produce the best performance.

And on "the most controversial one," loyalty, he said he recognized that some would think that test "borders on encroachment on personal beliefs."

Since only the toughest problems reached the White House, he said, he expected his aides and Cabinet members to be on opposite sides. Once he made a final decision, everyone should support it, or it wasn't really a decision.

"If you can't," he said, "then the only option is to resign."

That didn't mean he wanted subservience, only cooperation, the president indicated, suggesting that challenges would lie ahead in the coming campaign season and cohesion was essential.

That did not lay the forms to rest, however, the participant said.

During the question period, Army Secretary Clifford Alexander reportedly said the forms were so "unartful" and "sophomoric" that they undermined the validity of the useful judgments recorded on them.

Carter replied that he had looked only briefly at the form, but thought it a reasonable tool and had found it adequate for the White House staff. But he welcomed suggestions to make it more professional in the future.

To another question, the president replied that new chief of staff Hamilton Jordan was neither a super Cabinet secretary nor head of congressional relations. In other words, the official said, administration officials could still appeal Jordan's decisions to the president.

"The Washington press has grossly distorted this (new job), which is something they've called for in the past," the participant quoted Carter as telling the audience.

The president reportedly sprang to the defense of his congressional lobbyist Frank Moore, who in the past had been privately criticized by officials in that room as well as by congressmen. He called Moore's staff the best in the White House — small, experienced and qualified.

Chicanos Hit Immigration Practices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of Mexican-Americans urged members of Congress on Wednesday to hold hearings into alleged abuses by the border patrol and custom officials against Mexicans and U.S. citizens of Mexican descent.

Herman Baca, chairman of the Committee on Chicano Rights, carried at a news conference a list of what he called documented abuses in recent months against illegal Mexican aliens and U.S. citizens of Mexican descent.

"And that represents the tip of the iceberg," said Baca, whose organization is based near San Diego, Calif.

A spokesman for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service called Baca's charges "wild allegations" and said the agency would welcome congressional hearings "in which we will get the opportunity to present the facts."

Investigation Asked

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who met with Baca and other Mexican-American civil rights activists Tuesday, asked the Senate Judiciary Committee on Wednesday to conduct a thorough investigation of the allegations.

In a letter to committee chairman Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Cranston cited a "rapidly growing feeling among many members of the Hispanic community, based upon numerous incidents, that the border patrol itself is not under the effective control of the commissioner of immigration or of the attorney general."

"If this is true, then our nation has an extremely serious situation along the U.S.-Mexican border, one which could threaten our security," Cranston wrote. "I have visited that border ... and it is clear to me from all accounts that the U.S. government is failing to prevent needless violence and bloodshed."

"Violence Escalated"

Cranston also sent Kennedy a 14-page memorandum from Michael H. Walsh, a U.S. attorney from San Diego, Calif., who said that "the level of violence at the border has escalated seriously in recent weeks and months."

Baca and a Chicano committee delegation met Wednesday with Cranston, Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., Kennedy staff members and Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif.

Roybal told Baca he hopes to push for hearings by an Appropriations Committee subcommittee later this year into the actions of the U.S. Customs Service along the U.S.-Mexican border.

The jurisdiction of that subcommittee, of which Roybal is a member, is limited to the Customs Service, which is part of the Treasury Department.

Immigration Service Hit

Baca focused his criticism against the Justice Department's U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, which includes the U.S. Border Patrol.

The Mexican-Americans accused the border patrol of repeatedly violating the civil rights of Mexican-Americans and Mexican citizens illegally or legally in the United States. Baca said the abuses range from improper searches to physical violence, including fatal shootings.

INS spokesman Verne Jervis declined to comment on individual cases cited by Baca. But he said, "The border patrol is a well disciplined organization" and under "strict orders" to use weapons only in self-defense.

Jervis said the patrol, which includes about 2,200 agents, makes nearly one million apprehensions a year.

Attorney In Club Entry Case Slaps Statute's Wording

appealed to the county courts.

Despite the Sikes' verdict, Chappell said he thinks the ordinance is valid.

"The verdict doesn't mean that with a different set of facts a different jury wouldn't reach another verdict," Chappell said.

"It (the wording) makes it harder to prosecute but I wouldn't say it was an error," Chappell said, adding that at this time he does not intend to make any recommendations concerning ordinance revisions to City Attorney John Ross.

Goss, however, charged that the ordinance is "extremely ambiguous and places an extraordinary amount of pressure on employees and contractors." He said he decided to try the case in Municipal Court in an effort to point out the problems within the city ordinance.

"The complaint was based on a statute that is poorly written and the prosecutor had the burden of carrying on with a statute that is extremely difficult to apply to individuals," Goss said.

But Chappell defended his decision to file the complaint against Sikes by saying, "I don't think you can transfer liability."

Wednesday's verdict shortly after noon climaxed more than three hours of testimony, frequently punctuated with arguments between the two attorneys and with interim Municipal Court Judge Fred Senter.

Prosecutor Testifies

In a surprise move Wednesday morning, Goss called Chappell to the stand as the defense's first witness in the trial.

Goss told the court he wanted Chappell to testify in an effort to "prove the calculated prosecution of this case and that my client is in double jeopardy."

Goss based the double jeopardy contention on the complaints already filed against and pleaded to by Freeman and Holloman — the only persons who should be charged according to the ordinance, the defense attorney argued.

After a heated debate among Goss, Chappell and Senter concerning the relevancy of Chappell's testimony, the prosecutor took the stand. However, Chappell objected from the witness stand to Goss's first question about the other complaints, charging that the defense attorney was "on a fishing expedition."

"What have we got to hide here?" Goss shouted, rising from his chair at the defense table. "Why don't you tell them the truth?"

Following the exchange between the two attorneys, Senter ruled Chappell's testimony irrelevant to the charge against Sikes and excused the deputy city attorney from the stand.

Mace Threat Denied

Sikes also took the stand Wednesday, refuting statements made by prosecution witnesses that he threatened Dailey with a can of Mace or a blackjack.

Sikes said managers of the club explained the dress code and said if there were any questions, he should refer the problem to management for a final decision.

When he told Dailey his clothing did not meet Studio One's dress requirements, Sikes testified, he called for the manager to settle the dispute.

"But Mr. Dailey didn't wait for the manager," Sikes said. "He kept getting more offensive and kept coming at the door and I did push him."

Sikes said, however, he did not shove Dailey violently nor did he threaten him with any type of weapon.

During prosecution testimony, Sharon Parr of 3002 Fourth St. and her brother, Roy of 2205 Seventh St., Apt. B, related their recollections of the alleged incident.

Miss Parr told the jury Sikes pulled "something" from his belt or back pocket after shoving Dailey and threatened the 23-year-old Dallas man with the object. Parr said Sikes pulled what looked like a blackjack from his back pocket but stopped before actually going toward Dailey with the weapon.

Fire Continues On Tanker

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Crude oil gushed from the burning Atlantic Empress Wednesday as firefighters failed to quench a fire engulfing much of the supertanker about 150 miles off the coast of this Caribbean island.

On Wednesday night, after two days of pouring foam on the blaze, oil company and salvage officials called off the attempt temporarily and said they would try again this weekend when they will have more foam, chemicals and equipment.

The Empress and the supertanker Aegean Captain collided July 19 about 20 miles off the island of Tobago. Both ships caught fire and 27 crewmen are missing and presumed dead. Fifty-two survived. A fire aboard the Aegean Captain was put out last weekend.

Capt. Lothar Friis of the Bugier, Reederer and Burgung salvage firm said the blazing hulk of the Empress was more than 130 miles northeast of Tobago, which itself is about 40 miles north-east of Trinidad.

Friis said the firefighting effort, which began Tuesday, had quenched small fires, but was frustrated by a "massive fire" covering the back part of the main deck.

Oil pollution experts said the spillage of oil had increased, but still was not a threat to any Caribbean shoreline.

Carter Sees Struggle Over Oil Profits Tax

whom he nominated to head the FRB, as "a conservative in that he believes in controlling inflation and assuring a sound dollar."

The president said his consultations with civic and governmental leaders at Camp David, Md., earlier this month convinced him that inflation "is the biggest single threat to people and the nation in the months ahead."

Carter, saying he is more concerned about rampant inflation than recession, declared that "this is a time for stability. I think it's a time for the continuance of our present economic and budgetary policy."

Questioned further about the Cabinet shake-up, Carter refused to discuss reasons for ousting HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. But he did say that Patricia Roberts Harris, nominated as Califano's successor at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will have his support just as previous secretaries have.

"I have no doubt that she will be a superb team player," the president said.

House already gave Congress veto power over any rationing plan the president tried to put into force — and that the Gilman measure, in giving Congress two votes on rationing, would make it that much harder to ever implement it.

Similar Try Rejected

The vote came despite a 234-185 vote moments before which rejected a similar attempt to make it harder for the president to impose rationing.

Dingell later told reporters the House leadership would attempt to reverse the vote sometime in the next two weeks.

"I think we can turn it around. I think we will turn it around," he said.

House leaders had hoped to put the rationing legislation on the president's desk before the August recess. That goal is now clouded since even if the House can end its own battle over the plan, a final compromise must be worked out with the Senate.

A 1975 law now in effect also gives Congress two votes on any rationing proposal submitted by the president — when it is drafted and when it is actually used.

Factor In Rejection

This complex two-step procedure was viewed as a factor in the House rejection last May 10 of Carter's first rationing plan. And it was this procedure that House leaders hoped to avoid in the current bill.

"It's a rotten piece of legislation," said Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio. "It gives the president the power to put any kind of plan he wants into effect."

The bill would require a 20 percent shortage over a 30-day period before the president could invoke rationing — a safeguard sponsors said should be adequate to guard against capricious use of rationing authority.

The House soundly rejected, on a 329-93 vote, a proposal by Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., that would have reduced this "trigger" to 15 percent.

"Major Shutoff"

Dingell had claimed that rationing would be used "only for a major shutoff of petroleum supplies" like another Middle East oil embargo.

For a while it seemed almost assured that the bill would pass without major modification.

"The Democrats were sleeping and just lost control of things," said one source close to the GOP House leadership.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Scott of Houston; a brother, Austin Davis of Tucson, Ariz.; and two grandchildren.

Canyon Man Arrested Carrying Revolver Through Airport Here

A rancher from Canyon had an unscheduled layover at Lubbock International Airport when police arrested him for carrying a gun in his suitcase.

Police reports show that the man was carrying a .38 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver, along with five .38 special bullets, in his suitcase. Airport officials called Lubbock police after the suitcase passed through a screening area, where security guards first suspected that a gun was hidden in the luggage.

The man was taken to the Lubbock County Jail, and police notified the Federal Bureau of Investigation about the incident.

Police also investigated two car thefts Wednesday.

Joe Cox, 64, of 4630 55th Drive, told police he was showing a pickup truck to a man who he thought was interested in buying the vehicle. Cox said the man took the truck for a test drive and never returned. Cox told police the vehicle was a 1977 Chevrolet Silverado, with Texas plates KZ-4479. The cream and brown truck was valued at $3,475.

Police reports describe the suspect as a Mexican-American male, about 36 to 45 years old, medium height with a heavy build. Cox said the suspect was wearing a straw hat.

In another incident, someone apparently stole a car from the lot of Tucker Auto Sales, 405 N. University Ave. between 7:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Tuesday. Owner Ben. A. Tucker told police that the keys were not in the car, and were still in his possession. He described the car as a 1969 Buick station wagon with Texas plates AYH-68.

The brown four-door car was valued at $1,095.

A Lubbock man who reported a burglary early this morning was arrested because, police said, the intruders apparently overlooked taking one thing — marijuana seeds.

Officers asked the 25-year-old man's name after entering his apartment and finding the seeds, reports state. The reply was, "None of your — business."

The man, after being told it was against the law to refuse to identify himself to peace officers, was again asked his name and the reply once more was, "None of your — business."

Police said they had to wrestle with the man before handcuffing him and taking him to the county jail. He was booked on suspicion of failing to give his identity, using loud and profane language, possession of marijuana and resisting arrest.

In other activity, a 25-year-old Lubbock secretary said a man who had come to her house about 9 p.m. Tuesday to watch television attempted to rape her.

The woman said the suspect, a 32-year-old white man, began making advances toward her and took her clothes off despite her resistance. She said, however, that the assailant fled her residence about 1:15 a.m. today before completing the rape.

The victim ran to a neighbor's house where police were called.

Police went to Health Sciences Center Hospital about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday and were told by a 22-year-old man that he was stabbed in the right shoulder with a fork and bitten on the other shoulder.

The man, who was treated and released, said his attacker's first name was "Ricky." However, reports indicate the man refused to give further details and said he would not file charges.

Two men who apparently got into a fight on 34th Street shortly after midnight today filed separate reports with police, each naming the other as a suspect.

One man, age 19, said the altercation resulted in his getting hit in the eye with a beer bottle. He was treated and released at Methodist Hospital.

The other subject, also 19, suffered a cut over an eye and also was treated and released at a hospital. No arrests had been made by early today.

Gary Lynn Blackmer, a chemistry professor at Texas Tech University, told police about 11:15 p.m. Tuesday that his car had been burglarized in front of his 5301 11th St. residence and $1,180 in property stolen, including camping gear and baseball equipment.

Edward Frank Miller, 58, of 3424 Ave. R was in serious condition in the surgical intensive care unit at Methodist Hospital Wednesday night. He underwent surgery Wednesday morning for injuries he received in a car-motorcycle accident at 21st Street and Avenue P.

Gloria Ann Arenivas, 19, of Loving, N.M., remained in critical condition Wednesday night at Health Sciences Center Hospital with head injuries suffered Sunday in a one-car rollover about a half mile west of Lubbock. Angela, her two-year-old daughter, was in serious condition at HSCH with injuries from the same mishap.

Rachel Boulware, 16, of Snyder remained in critical condition Wednesday night at Methodist Hospital with injuries suffered July 17 in a traffic accident near Snyder.

James Baily, 39, of Anton remained in critical condition Wednesday night at Methodist Hospital with a gunshot wound in the head suffered July 2.

Keith Russell Bullion, 29, of Lorenzo remained in serious condition Wednesday night at Health Sciences Center Hospital with injuries sustained Saturday when he drove off a cliff on his motorcycle, five miles north of Slaton.

Joe Servin remained in satisfactory condition Wednesday night at Health Sciences Center Hospital with injuries resulting from an industrial accident Tuesday morning at Maxey Lumber Co. and Home Improvement Center, 124 N. University Ave.

Rayford Ball

Service for Rayford L. Ball, 68, of 2520 24th St. will be at 1:30 p.m. today at Sanders Memorial Chapel with the Rev. Thomson Carlton, pastor of St. Luke's United Methodist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of Sanders Funeral Home.

Ball died at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at Highland Hospital after a short illness.

Ball had lived in Lubbock since 1944 when he set up his law practice here. He received his bachelor's degree from North Texas State University and his law degree from Southern Methodist University. He retired in 1978.

He was a member of several organizations, including the Yellowhouse Masonic Lodge, where he was a past master, Scottish Rite, York Rite, Khiva Shrine Temple in Amarillo and a past worthy patron of Eastern Star Post 76. He was also a member of St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Florence; two daughters, Linda of Odessa and Mary McKinney of Albuquerque, N.M.; two sons, Rayford Jr. of Odessa and John Thomas of Garland; two brothers, Graham and Sam, both of Wichita Falls; four sisters, Minnie Reeves and Beula Mae Hoggard, both of Graham, Pauline Nabors of London, and Winona York of Balboa, Canal Zone; and six grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be C.A. "Bill" Holmes, W.L. Hampton, Forman O. Marvin, James B. Ward, Charles C. Sherrod and Shannon J. Keltz.

The family suggests memorials to the Scottish Rite Learning Center.

PLO Officer's State 'Hopeless' After Shooting

CANNES, France (AP) — The Palestine Liberation Organization's military operations chief was listed in "hopeless condition" Wednesday after an assassination attempt the PLO has blamed on Israel.

Zuhair Mohsen, 43, who also commands the Syrian-backed Saiga wing of the PLO, was shot in the head at close range Tuesday night as he approached the doorway of his apartment in this French Riviera resort city, French police said. His condition was called "hopeless" after a "delicate operation" at St. Roch Hospital in nearby Nice.

Mohsen arrived last Friday from Monrovia, Liberia, where he headed the PLO delegation to last week's summit of the Organization of African Unity.

Mohsen entered France without the knowledge of the French police or the counter-espionage and security service which normally keeps tabs on such persons, sources said. He had many passports, including a Chilean one on which he apparently was traveling, they said.

In Beirut, PLO leader Yasser Arafat blamed the attempt on a hit team trained by the Israeli secret service, Mossad, and said the team was directly attached to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's office. A high-ranking Syrian official made the same accusation over the state-run Damascus Radio.

From Beirut, Arafat dispatched a high-level delegation, including Mohsen's brother Majed, to investigate the assassination attempt and report back to him personally. Majed Mohsen and two others arrived in Paris and flew immediately to Nice.

A PLO statement in Paris pointedly reminded the French government that the assassination attempt was only the latest in a series of killings of senior PLO officials "on French territory."

Despite the PLO accusations, Western diplomatic observers in France suggested the attempt might be the beginning of another round of internal warfare among the factions operating under the PLO umbrella.

In addition to the Israelis and Egyptians, Mohsen made strong enemies within the PLO itself, and has been a frequent critic of Arafat's leadership. Although he was nominally in charge of the PLO military department, he did not in effect control the bulk of the guerrilla forces, who are loyal to Arafat's Al-Fatah faction.

Other diplomats in France speculated there might be a connection to the seizure of the Egyptian Embassy in Ankara earlier this month by the Palestinian group called Eagles of the Revolution.

That group is believed to have strong links with Saiga.

In Beirut, the Marxist Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine blamed the attack on "the Camp David Alliance" of the United States, Israel and Egypt.

The PLO high command in Beirut warned "this crime will not go unpunished."

Saiga held the "Camp Dapid alliance responsible for this crime" and vowed "painful reply."

"Our decisive reply will come sooner than expected," the Saiga statement added without elaboration.

By Wednesday evening, no one had claimed responsibility for the attack.

From the distraught Mrs. Mohsen, who apparently witnessed the shooting of her husband, police got a basic description of the shooting.

Mrs. Mohsen opened the apartment building's remote-controlled entry doors after she recognized her husband on the closed circuit tv surveillance system, sources said.

As he walked across the fourth-floor landing to the apartment door, which Mrs. Mohsen was opening, a man hidden in a service stairway shot him in the front of the head from six feet away, they said.

A watchman reportedly saw two men flee the building. One was described as possibly Arab and the other as a large man in a white suit, apparently European, who fled in a locally-registered red Fiat car.

Citizen Transportation Committee Speaks Out

By NANCY ALLEN
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

Jane Taylor, spokesman for the Citizens for Improved Transportation, Wednesday called for better coordination of that group's contracts to maintain its cost of transporting elderly and handicapped persons throughout the city.

"We need to try and get all the agencies to come in (contract with CFIT for transportation) at once, to hold the cost down," she said.

Mrs. Taylor acknowledged that she has been an ongoing concern of CFIT's since the formation of the non-profit organization in 1976.

"We started with the hope of all the agencies (which use CFIT transportation) fitting together. Unfortunately that loaf of bread has never been baked."

CFIT Acting Director Len Spouse announced new contracts with South Plains Area Council of Governments and Llano Estacado youth program. CFIT also serves agencies including Texas Mental Health and Mental Retardation; MBFA, a Baptist federation, and until recently, the City of Lubbock.

In spite of CFIT's problems, Taylor said the Lubbock non-profit organization still is able to transport elderly and handicapped patrons for less than similar groups in other cities.

"We have done a good job of keeping costs down," she commented. A one-way trip on a demand-response lift equipped van in Arlington costs $5, compared to CFIT's cost of $2, Taylor said.

During the past quarter, CFIT transported some 4,500 passengers, including elderly, wheelchair-bound and semi-ambulatory persons, Spouse said. That represents a 92 percent total increase over the previous quarter, according to Spouse.

Mrs. Taylor's informal treasurer's report marked CFIT's assets at some $5,000, which she said would be spent within the quarter on maintenance and insurance.

"We're solid," she commented. "Three years ago we didn't even have the money for a postage stamp."

Health Department Director Dr. Marjorie Orr was present at the meeting to request transportation to burgeoning health department clinics.

"We've more than doubled our maternity, newborn and venereal disease clinic service in the past year, and we have no transportation service," said Dr. Orr, who also is a CFIT board member.

"I don't know how much we would increase if we had transportation."

CFIT, which serves elderly and handicapped, however, was not able to oblige. "I wish I had an answer for you," replied Mrs. Taylor.

Orr later commented she was not surprised at the response. "Every time I get the chance, I let it be known we need transportation at the health department," she said.

Judging of both bantams and standard ards will be Sept. 22-24, according to Steve L. Lewis, general manager. Entry fees of $1 per bird will be levied.

Regular premiums will be paid according to the number of entries in each class, Lewis noted. Ribbons will be given through four place.

Special awards will be presented for bantams and standards.

The Texas State Meet of the Silver Wyandotte Club of America also is planned in conjunction with the show. The club offers the following specials to members in good standing at the time of judging: rosettes to the best large silver, best display large silver, best silver display and best silver display bantam. The district director's special of $5 will go to the best silver, large or bantam.

Jay Miller of Albuquerque will judge the entries.

Other show officials include Runt Burch, superintendent; Norris Sellers, assistant; and Donita Johnston, secretary. Sellers is president of the Lubbock Bantam Club.

What some have termed the best Fair Park Coliseum year in fair history has been booked, featuring 11 shows in the eight-day run.

An open horse show and fiddlers' contest will launch the fair on opening day, followed by this lineup:

City Attorney Doubts Legality Of Tax Limitation Election

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
 Avalanche-Journal Staff
 The Lubbock City Council is expected to decide today whether to call a tax limitation election in response to petitions submitted by the Lubbock Property Owners Association.

Although the petitions calling for an election on three proposed charter amendments probably bear the requisite number of valid signatures, City Attorney John Ross has said he may recommend no election be called because of "serious legal questions."

The three amendments would limit the tax rate to the current $1.12 per $100 valuation, freeze the assessment ratio at the current 60 percent of market value and require voter approval for any increase in the rate or ratio.

But Ross questioned whether these amendments are "subject to the initiative process" by which voters can petition the council for a charter amendment election.

Also, Mayor Dirk West has said recently enacted state tax reform legislation which abolishes assessment ratios has rendered such a charter amendment election meaningless.

Ross is expected to present his legal opinion on the amendments and make a recommendation on calling an election at the council meeting.

City Secretary Evelyn Gaffga also will deliver her findings to the council on the number and validity of the signatures on the three petitions.

Also at the meeting, to begin at 9:30 a.m. in City Council chambers, council members will discuss the implementation of that tax reform law which must begin this fall.

At 1:30 p.m. the council will hold a public hearing on the proposed annexation of 740 acres of land between Indiana Avenue and University Avenue between 107th Street and 114th Street.

The Lubbock Property Owners Association has announced its opposition to this and other future annexations, citing an abundance of undeveloped land within the city limits and the cost to taxpayers to provide city services to annexed areas.

Council members also will hear the recommendation of the Tech Terrace Neighborhood Committee that a second barricade be removed from the streets around Tech Terrace Park.

B METRO
 Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
 Thursday, July 26, 1979

The committee wants the council to remove the barricade at 23rd Street and Flint Avenue and leave the two remaining barricades at 25th Street and Flint Avenue and 25th Street and Gary Avenue until Oct. 15.

The council voted in April to install barricades at four locations around the park for a 90-day trial period in an attempt to prevent the traffic congestion around the popular gathering spot. Later, council members agreed to remove one of the barricades.

The first jet grants funded from a portion of the hotel/motel tax may be awarded at the meeting. A representative of the Cultural Affairs Council will recommend the council award grants totaling $26,500 to four Lubbock organizations.

Council members will discuss a draft of a Fair Housing Ordinance which the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development would like the city to adopt.

was the obvious way to get that 11th trick. So South proceeded to give West a chance to put the bite on his unfortunate partner. He simply cashed his king and jack of diamonds and led another diamond to West.

West laughed, muttered a sarcastic "Thank you" and claimed the rest of the tricks. There was no problem. He cashed his queen of spades, leaving dummy with three clubs and three hearts, his own hand with four hearts and two clubs and East with a hot potato.

East had only six cards. They could not include four hearts and three clubs and South had that 11th trick. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Experts," P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Individual questions will be answered if accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of Jacoby Modern.

DEADLINES

Any information for a daily edition must be in our office two days in advance of publication. Sunday edition deadlines are 5 p.m. the preceding Tuesday for articles with pictures and noon the preceding Wednesday for articles only. Only Friday and Saturday weddings will appear on Sunday; wedding announcements must run within five days of the event. Engagement announcements must be submitted at least five weeks prior to the wedding date.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

In duplicate bridge over-tricks are most important. In rubber bridge they aren't worth much, but if you can get one at no risk to yourself it is worth going after.

After the jack of spades lead produced the king from East, South could count nine top tricks.

At trick two he led a diamond to dummy's ace and when East dropped the queen, South was sure of a 10th trick.

How could he get the extra 30 points for five odd without any risk? Obviously East was going to be long in hearts and clubs. A squeeze against East

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am being treated for Parkinson's disease with a drug called Sinemet. I've had side effects, including terrible shaking. My doctor doesn't seem to offer any other help for me. What do you advise? Are side effects to be expected? How does this drug work? — N.F.

Sinemet is a combination of drugs that is effective for Parkinson's, but not without side effects, especially early in use.

The two drugs are levodopa and carbidopa. The levodopa works by crossing the brain barrier where it helps the brain produce a substance called "dopamine." It is a deficiency of dopamine that causes Parkinson's symptoms.

The problem with levodopa by itself is that much of its action is lost before it gets to the brain. The carbidopa minimizes this loss, thus allowing more levodopa to reach the brain. For some, the amounts of levodopa used has been limited by side effects. The combination can reduce side effects and allow more levodopa to be used. The proportions of the two drugs can be varied (increasing the amount of carbidopa). This can be arranged with the manufacturer.

others. If a specific vitamin is involved in such membrane cracks it usually is niacin (nicotinic acid).

FOR MRS. G.L. — The best way to raise the head of your bed at night (for your hiatal hernia problem) is to place blocks under the bedposts. Be sure they are sturdy. I know one patient who was jolted awake in the middle of the night when his engineering work collapsed. Thought he was in the middle of an earthquake.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What is wheat germ, and will it help give me energy? How many calories in it? — O.O.

Wheat germ is the part that sprouts when planted. It contains a lot of things — thiamine (B1), other B vitamins, vitamin E, some protein (about 26 percent), fats (about 10 percent) and carbohydrates (about 47 percent). There are 363 calories in 100 grams, which figures out to about 60 calories per tablespoon.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Explain "walking pneumonia." — M.Y.

It means one has a mild form of pneumonia and is walking around when he or she should be in bed. That's all.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr.

Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is it true that hemorrhoid surgery is hell, that a person is better off without it, and that hemorrhoids can be treated without surgery? I've heard it leaves a person a practical cripple. My decision hangs on your answer. — D.M.

I wouldn't want your decision to hang on what I tell you, nor would I want it to hang on scare stories you've heard. Sounds like you've talked with a friend who has had a bad experience and who is passing his expertise on to you. If you need hemorrhoid surgery, you need it, and you may as well get it over with. It's not pleasant, but what surgery is? You may have rectal discomfort, but that is usually eased in time with simple sitz baths. You may have some loss of bowel control for a few days or a week.

The chief factors in making a decision for surgery are the seriousness of the hemorrhoids and the amount of trouble they have been giving you. Your doctor should be able to answer the first question and you the second. Hemorrhoidectomy is neither hell nor a rose garden. It's discussed in greater length in the booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Dr. Ruble: In a recent column you answered a reader who complained about cracks at the corners of her mouth. You said it might be a vitamin deficiency, but you didn't suggest what she should do about it. Please elucidate. — N.L.

You couldn't have read the same item that I wrote. Perhaps you skipped or something was left out. I suggested the deficiency as being of the B group. It goes without saying that if you have a deficiency the answer is to correct it, either by food or supplements. I mentioned that a deficiency in one vitamin often indicates a general deficiency in

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm a tenth-grade student and recently learned that my eighth-grade teacher is dying of cancer. He was one of the best teachers in the entire school. Several of us went back to visit him even when he wasn't our teacher anymore. He always found time to talk to us.

I would like to see that wonderful person again, but I've heard he has lost a great deal of weight and is very pale. I'm afraid the shock of seeing him might be very upsetting. I wouldn't know what to say. Please help me think straight. I am — Confused And Frightened In Ontario

Dear Confused: Go to visit your teacher TODAY. Simply say, "I came to thank you for being one of the best teachers I've ever had."

Behave as if it were an ordinary visit. Don't stay too long. Keep the talk cheerful and pleasant. You'll never know how much your presence will mean to him.

Pass the word to other students. Urge them to drop by also — calling first, of course, to establish a convenient time. Too many people wait to give flowers to those who can no longer smell them.

When the rights of women surfaced as an "issue," I cranked up my courage and purchased a firm orthopedic mattress for the spare bedroom. I now sleep there when my spine has to be flat, or when I get cold.

Do you know what happened to our marriage? It's better than ever! I don't miss my aches and pains, and he doesn't miss a complaining me. I should have done it years ago. — Right Turn

Dear Right: Another example of solving a problem by discussing it. Too many people suffer in silence when four or five well-worded sentences could put an end to an annoying situation. Silence may be golden, but words can be diamond-studded, if you choose the right ones and say them at the right time. Cheers, woman!

Dear Ann Landers: Is it proper for two married sons and a daughter to chip in and buy their mother a wedding ring?

Our parents have been married 35 years. Mom's wedding band must have come from the dime store. It is worn thin and looks like junk. We want to buy that dear lady a lovely replacement. Is it proper? — A, B And D

Dear A, B and D: What a sweet thought — but the answer is no. A wedding ring should be given by the husband. Slip Pop a check and put a bug in his ear.

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know where you get your information, but this is for "Concerned Children." Alcoholics Anonymous WILL go see people. In chapter five of the AA book, "How It Works," part of the Twelve Steps states, "As a result of these steps, we try to carry this message to alcoholics." It's called "The Twelve Step Call." I'm sure if these children got in touch with a group close to their home, someone would be more than happy to come out and talk with their alcoholic mother. — A Member

Dear Member: Sorry, you are wrong. Alcoholics Anonymous will send someone out to speak to the alcoholic only if he (or she) requests it. When family members or friends or neighbors telephone they are advised to contact Al-Anon. Children of alcoholics are told to contact Alateen.

Teaching your kids about the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers' booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex" can spell the difference. Send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request, to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

To be conservative with my food dollars, as well as having desserts ready in the freezer. I save stale bread, biscuits or rolls for bread pudding.

If necessary I freeze them until I have a sufficient amount to make a large mixing bowl full of crumbled bread.

For the basic pudding recipe, I add heated milk, eggs and sugar, then divide the mixture into three small bowls.

(Note from Heloise: The amount of milk, eggs and sugar needed will depend on the amount of bread crumbs used.)

A general rule of thumb is to use approximately one-eighth cup sugar and one egg to a cup of milk. (The pudding should be "soggy" before baking, so add crumbs accordingly.)

Flavor one bowl with vanilla and stir in one cup coconut; add lemon extract to the second bowl and add nutmeg and/or other spices, also one cup raisins to the third bowl.

Pour into buttered baking dishes, cover and freeze for later baking.

When ready for a dessert, remove from freezer (no need to thaw) and bake at 360 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes. Serve hot or cold with sauce of your choice, or top with whipped cream or a substitute.

This saves the bother and mess of making up pudding each time one is wanted and provides a ready-made, different-flavored dessert for emergencies, as well as to save on the old budget. — Evalyne Sheppard ner and the only shoes my husband packed were his old, comfortable, worn black shoes and no polish.

Ugh! I remembered something my grandfather used to keep his shoes like mirrors years ago.

I looked in my train case for my small jar of petroleum jelly. A few tissues and small dabs of this gel made my husband's shoes look like new!

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

My friends and relatives tell me I make excellent fudge and cookies. However, I have a weight problem, and at times it takes a lot of will power not to overindulge when packing boxes.

On the days when I feel the temptation will be too great, I simply remove my false teeth.

The problem is solved. — Sara Likacs

DEAR HELOISE:

About doffing shoes at the door...I'm all for it but just learned recently one of the benefits...

My sister's family always changed to slippers or moccasins for wearing in the house. Her carpets are not worn in spots as mine are from traffic, or in front of chairs, etc.

Now that the "horse is out of the stable" we are also wearing slippers. They're more comfortable and so easy on my carpets. — Fluky

DEAR HELOISE:

With a family of eight at home, we take a lot of showers and baths at our house, but I only have to wash the bathroom rug once a week.

To freshen it up daily, I put it in the dryer for a few minutes. Removes the lint and makes it dry and fluffy again. — Barbara Porter

State To Take Bids On Three Highway Jobs

A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation will take bids Aug. 22 and 23 on three highway projects in Hale, Howard and Briscoe Counties.

The highway department will take bids Aug. 22 on improvements to 9.3 miles of Interstate Highway 27 in Hale County.

Improvements planned include grading structures, salvage base, asphalt stabilized base, asphalt concrete pavement, continuous reinforced concrete pavement, safety lighting, signing, pavement markings, delineation, guard fence and concrete median barriers.

Estimated cost of the project is $19.3 million. Sections of IH 27 to be worked on include areas from the Lubbock County line to north of Abernathy and from 7.3 miles north of the Monroe Overpass to the Hale County line.

The highway department also will take bids Aug. 23 on safety improvements for 14.6 miles of Interstate Highway 20 in Howard County.

The department also will take bids Aug. 23 on improvements to be made on various roads in Briscoe County.

State Court Agrees To Decide On City's Sovereign Immunity

AUSTIN (AP) — The doctrine that "the king can do no wrong," has enabled Houston to avoid paying the owner and tenants of a house that burned down during a police shoot-out with three escaped prisoners.

But the Texas Supreme Court agreed Wednesday to decide whether the sover-

Lubbock Court Child Custody Ruling Upheld

AUSTIN — The relationship between parent and child has "constitutional dimensions" and can be legally severed, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday in a case from Lubbock.

Without further comment, the state's highest court let stand rulings from a Lubbock trial court and the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals, placing two unidentified youngsters in the custody of Lubbock County Children's Protective Service as managing conservator.

The mother of the two children was not identified in the court opinion, also to protect the youngsters' identities.

The separation was complete, final and irrevocable, the lower court said, "except for the child's right to inherit."

According to the charges, the Department of Human Resources proceeded to remove the two young girls from their mother's custody, alleging she had "knowingly allowed the children to be in certain surroundings which endangered their physical and emotional well-being."

The oldest child, identified only as G.M., was allegedly sexually abused by her stepfather and brother for approximately one to two years.

The other girl, B.G.C., was said to have been in the same room when G.M. was sexually abused.

In a case first filed in Scurry County, the Supreme Court also rejected legal malpractice charges against attorney W. James Rosser.

The suit was brought by Walter E. Cox, who alleged Rosser was negligent by failing to include a deed from Cox to a third party in an express lien. Also, Cox alleged Rosser should have included a third party in a foreclosure to a deed of trust.

Both a Scurry County trial court and the Eastland appeals court had earlier rejected Cox's contention.

Education Service Center Schedules Open House

Films and other instructional materials provided for public schools through the Lubbock-based Region XVII Education Service Center will be shown to interested citizens during a quarterly review session Friday.

The open house is set for 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Media Division of the service center, 1218 14th St.

The service center, one of 20 in the state, is funded by federal, state and local funds and provides optional services to public schools in a 20-county area.

Requests to review certain materials may be made by calling the Media Division, 763-5014.

ein immunity doctrine removed the city's obligation to pay. It will hear the case Nov. 14.

Waltraud Steele, the owner, and Jutta H. Mazingo and Robert L. Ingram Jr., the tenants, sued the city for their property losses.

A Houston district court and the 14th Court of Civil Appeals in Houston upheld the city's position that it was protected by the doctrine of sovereign immunity.

Miss Mazingo and Ingram were not in the house when the escaped prisoners took refuge in it on Oct. 10, 1975.

The suit says police officers who besieged the house and exchanged gunshots with the escapees fired an "incendiary device" that set the house on fire, burning it to the ground.

All three escapes and one policeman were killed in the shoot-out.

Waltraub sought $30,000 for the house and Miss Mazingo and Ingram sued for $9,180, which they said was the value of their possessions inside the house.

The court of civil appeals said state law does not allow such suits.

It said "the Legislature has not seen fit to provide that the community shall bear the cost when the property of innocent individuals is destroyed as a result of actions taken by law enforcement officials in the performance of this duty to protect the safety of the community as a whole."

In another sovereign immunity case, the court said state prison inmate Walter Cuddy can sue the Texas Department of Corrections for injuries he received while on a work detail at Huntsville State Park.

Cuddy was riding on a trailer, he said, when the tractor pulling it ran over some tree limbs, which snapped back, twisted around his legs and jerked him from the trailer.

The 14th Court of Civil Appeals said that normally a prisoner can't sue for injuries inflicted in connection with keeping him in custody.

But, it said, the "methods and procedures used by the TDC to clear paths in the Huntsville State Park were incidental at most to police protection."

Availability Of Gas For Weekend Noted

By The Associated Press

Higher gasoline prices and somewhat tighter supplies are expected for Texas motorists this weekend.

A survey of 420 service stations by the American Automobile Association indicates a smaller number of stations will be open at night while awaiting August allocations under federal supply regulations.

As opposed to 3 percent a week ago, 7 percent of the stations reported having already exhausted supplies of at least one grade of the July allocations.

The AAA survey indicates this availability of supplies: AMARILLO — 36 stations surveyed, with 58 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 38 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, and 63 percent on Sunday.

AUSTIN — 15 stations, 93 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 86 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, and 80 percent Sunday.

BEAUMONT-Port Arthur — 17 stations, 41 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 47 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday and on Sunday.

CORPUS CHRISTI — 20 stations, 65 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 40 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, and 50 percent Sunday.

DALLAS-FORT WORTH — 76 stations, 96 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 88 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday and on Sunday.

EL PASO — 30 stations, 70 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 30 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, and 66 percent Sunday.

WACO — 15 stations, 53 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 46 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, and 26 percent Sunday.

HOUSTON — 53 stations, 94 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 88 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, and 79 percent Sunday.

MCCALLEN — 22 stations, 77 percent by 8 p.m. weekdays, 31 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, and 72 percent Sunday.

MIDLAND-ODESSA — 15 stations, 53 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 33 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, 53 percent Sunday.

SAN ANTONIO — 40 stations, 72 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 67 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, 80 percent Sunday.

TYLER — Availability good, some stations open both Saturday and Sunday.

MISCELLANEOUS CITIES — 81 stations, 79 percent closing by 8 p.m. weekdays, 55 percent by 6 p.m. Saturday, 67 percent Sunday.

INTERSTATE HIGHWAYS — Good supplies in small towns and rural areas, with few indicated problems except at night in the larger cities.

City Eyes Energy Conservation To Cut Costs

By SYLVIA TEAGUE, Avalanche-Journal Staff

Good citizenship may be one reason for city of Lubbock energy conservation plans, but city officials admit they're mainly out to save a buck.

"It was mainly the cost that got our attention more than anything else," City Manager Larry Cunningham said.

And, although energy conservation ideas were revealed to city division directors shortly after President Carter's national entreaty for energy conservation, Cunningham said the timing was coincidental.

Cunningham said he had no specific goal in mind of how much energy the city should save through such measures, but said "we're looking at saving where we can and trying to save every bit we can."

That may include incentives for city employees to ride Citibuses and car pool to and from work.

Cunningham said city employees may be given fare discounts for Citibuses if it is determined city employees live near bus routes which would take them to their destinations.

So far the indications are "very favorable," Assistant City Manager Jim Blagg said.

Many city employees who take municipally owned vehicles home at night will be required to provide rides for at least one other fellow employee beginning next month, Blagg said.

Police who have patrol cars under the fleet plan and department heads and directors who work longer hours than most city employees will not be required to car pool.

However, about 170 other employees will be giving fellow workers a lift, he said.

Some of those who take vehicles home now may be the ones needing a ride to work because city officials plan a cutback in the number of vehicles taken home.

Cunningham said the examination of the "home storage plan" for vehicles had been under way for some time and some areas may be abandoned.

However, he said any cutbacks should come only after careful consideration of the possible effects. "We don't want to give up one problem that's going to cause problems somewhere else," he said.

Department heads now are reviewing operating programs "to see if they can minimize the use of vehicles" which are taken home and those used on city business, Blagg said.

City officials hope to recognize fuel savings on inspections performed by city employees by having inspectors receive more instructions over the telephone and by radio rather than driving to the office and by better scheduling inspections by location to minimize driving.

Currently the city uses about 80,000 gallons of gasoline each month and about 20,000 gallons of diesel each month, Blagg said.

Thermostats in most city buildings have been raised to 78 degrees, Blagg said, but those facilities cooled with chilled water air conditioning may have lower settings.

The chilled water system runs more efficiently at 74 degrees and "might even use more energy" if set at 78 degrees, he said.

With such a system, "you either get cool air or hot air going all the time," he said, so the thermostat setting doesn't determine the energy savings.

By hooking both chilled water and conventional systems into the computerized energy management system, more energy has been saved than "by simply setting the thermostats at 78," Blagg said.

Currently the Civic Center, airport and city hall are linked to the management system, and Cunningham said other city facilities may make the connection in the future.

City buildings may be better weatherized, he said, and sunscreens may be installed in municipal buildings.

Illness Causes Murder Trial Delay

CROSBYTON (Special) — The scheduled murder trial of a 57-year-old Lorenzo woman in the shooting deaths of an elderly Lorenzo couple last October was postponed Wednesday because of the inability of Crosby County Sheriff Fred Owen, who has been ill, to take part in the trial.

District Judge Denzil Bevers of Lubbock continued the 72nd District Court trial without setting another trial date for defendant Paula Bruce.

The woman first was charged with capital murder in the Oct. 2, 1978, deaths of Valton Gandy, 73, and his wife, 68-year-old Cora, who were found shot to death in the driveway outside their rural home a mile north of Lorenzo.

The charge was reduced to murder after co-defendant John Thomas Carter, 34, of Lubbock was found shot to death in his cell March 7 after the opening of his capital murder trial in Crosbyton. The death was ruled a suicide.

Three Theft Suspects Arrested

Lubbock police arrested three persons Wednesday morning in connection with an April 25 theft, and recovered about $1,000 worth of property believed to be stolen.

Acting on a confidential tip, detectives obtained a warrant to search a home in central Lubbock. Detective Lloyd Brown said he and corporals J.D. Ussery and Garland Lucas searched the home at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Among the confiscated property were several components to a stereo system and a Home Box Office unit. Brown said the property was stolen April 25. Also confiscated were a number of guns and 5 1/2 ounces of marijuana seeds.

A 21-year-old woman and a 19-year-old man, both residents of the house which was searched, were arrested, Brown said. A 23-year-old man who was visiting at the time of the search was also arrested. Brown said the three were watching television when detectives served the search warrant, and offered no resistance when taken into custody.

Reservations are being accepted by the fair association at P.O. Box 208, Lubbock 79408. Orders must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Reservations will be processed in the order in which received, thus assuring early purchasers of the best seats. However, orders will not be filled until mid-August, when the box office opens and tickets go on sale at five other locations.

Utility Informed Of Mandate For Public Hearings

Because Lubbock Power and Light is a "non-regulated utility," according to the U.S. Department of Energy, LP&L officials must hold 11 public hearings over the next three years primarily on rates and the cost of providing electric service, the Electric Utility Board learned Wednesday night.

Carroll McDonald, LP&L director of sales and service, said utilities in Lubbock, Austin, San Antonio, Garland and Austin sell over 5 million kilowatts of electricity each year and fall into the non-regulated category.

Federal grants are available to the affected cities to offset the costs of holding such hearings, McDonald said.

Also at the meeting, board members were told LP&L now has 778 more customers than at the beginning of 1978, while competing Southwestern Public Service has 51 less customers.

However, total sales of electricity are down because Lubbockites are "doing a good job of conserving energy," McDonald said.

Transportation Free To Wood Pool

Free transportation to George Wood Pool begins today for swimmers living in the Mae Simmons Park area.

A passenger van provided by the city parks department will pick up swimmers at 1 p.m. Monday through Friday at Green Fair Manor Apartment office, the Mae Simmons Pool and the Mae Simmons Community Center.

It will return to those locations at 4:30 p.m.

In June LP&L had a net gain of 74 customers.

McDonald told board members representatives of 17 cities with municipal power systems had organized the Texas Public Power Association last week in Austin.

The organization is an outgrowth of efforts earlier in the year to have legislation passed permitting city-owned utilities to serve unincorporated areas without receiving permission from the Public Utility Commission.

Anti-War Film Classic Remade

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The TV remake of "All Quiet On The Western Front" summons memories for Lew Ayres who starred in the movie classic which won the Academy Award for best picture 50 years ago.
Ayres, 71 and still active in films and TV, became a star playing a young World War I German soldier in the original film of Erich Maria Remarque's landmark novel.
It is ironic that Ayres, a pacifist and conscientious objector in World War II, who went on to distinguish himself by serving as a non-combatant, should have attained stardom in a war film.
"I think remaking 'All Quiet On The Western Front' is a good idea," he said. "The theme has so many beautiful and meaningful points for society. It was truly meaningful 50 years ago."
"Essentially it was an anti-war film but that's not what the story is about. It's a world embracing kind of philosophy that showed for the first time the enemy being human beings like anyone else."
"The blast of propaganda that made home folk look as if they held superior morality and ethics was diminished. The story has nothing to do with state policies. But it made us more globally conscious and provided more universality one way or another."
The TV adaptation of the story, a three-hour CBS special, stars Richard (The Waltons) Thomas in Ayres' role and Ernest Borgnine in the part originally played by Louis Wolheim. It traces seven German schoolboys marched off to the horrors of war in 1914.
Delbert Mann, with whom Ayres has worked in the past, is directing the TV film on locations in Czechoslovakia.
"I don't know the names of most of the people involved in the new project," Ayres said. "The generation gap, I guess. But I hope the film will create the same sort of climate that we did a half-century ago.

"All Quiet On The Western Front" thrust me to the forefront in movies. People still say that it's the one picture they remember me in. I'm grateful for what the picture did for me personally."
"This week I'm attending a Screen Directors tribute to Lewis Milestone who was the genius director of the picture. His action war scenes stand up to this very day. No one ever filled them more realistically."
"Actually, I wanted to see a similar movie made from the Japanese side of World War II. Not as propaganda but from a human side. Thirty years ago I tried to put such a film together but no one was receptive."

"They only wanted to show the victorious side of America over the Japanese, which was vindictive but understandable. I thought it was a time to build bridges between the two nations."
"I'm not saying there aren't times when strong resistance isn't in the cards. Nor do I say universal peace will be found by universal pacifism to cope with the nature of man. There would be times and places where people have to defend. That's why we have police forces."
Ayres has dedicated his recent years to study of science as it applies to religion and vice-versa. He tours with his 2 1/2 hour film, "Altars of the World."

All-Star Game Week's Most-Watched Show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the first time in 1979, NBC had the No. 1 show in the national Nielsen ratings, scoring with the "50th Baseball All-Star Game."
The July 17 All-Star game was the top-rated show for the week ending Sunday, edging CBS' telecast of the Miss Universe pageant, according to Nielsen figures released Tuesday.
CBS won the week, however, marking the fourth time in the last five weeks that CBS finished first or tied for first in the weekly ratings battle. CBS' average rating for the week was 14.7, compared to ABC's 14.5 and NBC's 13.9.
Each ratings point represents about 750,000 homes, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co. The networks use the Nielsen ratings to determine advertising rates.
The All-Star game won the week with a rating of 24.4. The rest of the Top-10:

- "Miss Universe Pageant," 22.7 (CBS);
 - "The Jeffersons," 20.7 (CBS);
 - "Three's Company," 20.7 (ABC);
 - "Fantasy Island," 19.7 (ABC);
 - "Alice," 19.2 (CBS);
 - "Taxi," 18.7 (ABC);
 - "Sunday Night Movie: 'War Games,'" 18.6 (ABC);
 - "Dallas," 18.4 (CBS);
 - "Mork and Mindy," 18.0 (ABC).
- The All-Star game, the Miss Universe pageant and "War Games" were the only programs in the Top 10 that were not repeats.
Baseball's big events have been kind to NBC.

Good Execution, Direction Add Punch To 'Any Wednesday'

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
A-J Entertainment Editor

Pick up a copy of Muriel Resnik's comedy "Any Wednesday" and it becomes immediately obvious the play has, well, possibilities. But that's about it. It's a cute and tidy little effort with a happy ending which, at best, is meant to be absorbed and quickly forgotten. But on numerous theatrical occasions, good execution and direction can add punch to an empty line and hilarity to an otherwise bland confrontation.

A prime example of just that is the Country Squire Dinner Theater's current production of "Any Wednesday."

Not that the play boasts all that much consistency. There are still moments which drag, and several bits so bad no actor could pull them off. But it must be said that, thanks to the direction of Pamela McCormick and performances by Miss McCormick, Freda Williams, Richard Privitt and Brad Williams, the end result is a pleasant enough diversion with quite a few especially funny moments.

The title comes into play when we learn that tycoon John (Privitt) meets his mistress Ellen (Miss Williams) every Wednesday in her tax deductible apartment. His wife Dorothy (Miss McCormick) is kept in the dark but, thanks to the actions of an uninformed secretary, both Dorothy and an angry businessman named Cass (Williams) happen upon the adulterers' hideaway "executive suite" on the very same day.

From this point, it's a montage of comic confrontations and hidden identities, with the love story and happy ending so blatant it can be predicted an hour before the play's conclusion.

As a director, Miss McCormick knows how to turn to props and visuals when the dialogue turns dull. The laughs she gets out of a bowl of rather watery dip is but one example, as the audience is forced to put the ongoing conversations aside in favor of the mystery of whether the guests will actually taste the runny mess. And as an actress, she boasts an admirable command of the stage, creating a likeable, if somewhat snobby, character which demands attention.

Freda Williams shows her versatility as the rather naive mistress Ellen. This actress has been outstanding in several different sorts of roles during the past year in Lubbock (her work at the Lab Theater and in the Squire's recent "The Sound Of Music" immediately come to mind) — and she is pleasing enough here. But though the funniest part of "Any Wednesday" is no doubt Miss Williams' comic reactions upon meeting for the first time her lover's wife, it is also quite obvious that the part offers little in the way of a challenge.

A-J THEATER REVIEW

Richard Privitt seems to concentrate these days on playing egotistical rascals of the upper class, but he adds a new dimension here with his childlike whining and especially his love of games. His eyes positively light up when he discovers a new fun party game, and there are a lot of laughs drawn through his playing tactics.

Brad Williams, on the other hand, must rely mostly on an overcooked enthusiasm to get laughs out of his rather thankless part.

In short, while enjoyable enough, this

"Any Wednesday" is really nothing particularly memorable. It's a cute show, an entertaining bit of fluff and nothing more. That Pamela McCormick is able to make good use of running gags and ho-hum situations here is proof enough she should be allowed to test her skills with more challenging material in the future at the Squire. And the same goes for the talented cast.

Indeed, it is the actors, rather than the audience, which deserves better treatment here. "Any Wednesday" is little more than theatrical exercise for these four.

Australian Film Industry Booms

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Australians are coming!" was a cry here in the film world during recent years. Now it appears the Australians have arrived.

The results of an eight-year drive by the Australian government to pump life into its film industry can be seen in festivals and movie markets around the globe. Certainly the United States has become aware.

Two Australian features, "The Last Wave" and "Picnic at Hanging Rock," have opened to acclaim in Los Angeles. Another, "Newsfront," has been well received in New York.

Both "Last Wave" and "Picnic" were directed with a brilliant visual flair by Peter Weir and produced by twins Hal and James McElroy.

Jim McElroy, 33, admittedly is obsessed with film making. For some time he has been coming to the United States about three times a year, prospecting for deals and distribution. He happily noted a change in climate.

"Three years ago, I couldn't get in the front doors of the studios. Today I am welcomed."

Poll Shows Cabinet Changes Win Carter No Vote Of Confidence

NEW YORK (AP) — More Americans approve of President Carter's recent cabinet shakeup than disapprove, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says. But even with this margin for approval, public attitudes toward recent events in Washington do not add up to a vote of confidence in the president.

To start with, two out of five Americans either don't have an opinion on the cabinet changes or they haven't heard of them. Among those who have heard of the changes:

—Most say the switches were made to enhance Carter's chances for re-election next year.

—Nearly half say the changes will not mean improvement in the government's ability to handle the nation's problems; and —About half say that the changes were made too hastily.

—In addition, the poll provides some evidence that the "Tuesday morning massacre" last week — when Carter got resignations from all his cabinet members — has eroded some of the benefits of Carter's speech to the nation July 15. The poll was conducted Tuesday, before Carter's prime time news conference Wednesday.

Last week, the entire top level of the executive branch offered resignations. By the end of the week, Carter had reshuffled half of his cabinet, with five of the top executives leaving the government.

Carter said the changes would make the executive branch function better and eliminate cabinet members who were unable to fully support Carter policies.

Asked about the recent cabinet changes, 39 percent of the 803 adults interviewed said they approved of the switches. Twenty-one percent said they disapproved and 22 percent were not sure.

Eighteen percent of those interviewed nationwide by telephone said they had not heard of the changes.

The respondents were then asked: "Of course, presidents make decisions for many different reasons. Which of the following would you say is the main reason President Carter made the changes in his cabinet ... to make government run better; to get rid of people who weren't loyal to him; to improve his chances for re-election or to get rid of people who weren't doing their jobs?"

The answers were:
—Improve chances for re-election, 43 percent;

—Get rid of people not doing their jobs, 21 percent;

—Get rid of people who weren't loyal, 18 percent; and —To make the government run better, 14 percent.

The remaining 4 percent gave a combination of reasons or were not sure.

Those who had heard of the changes were then asked about specific aspects of the changes and the reasons behind them.

Seventy-two percent agreed with the statement that the changes were made to improve Carter's political prospects, 24 percent disagreed and 4 percent were not sure.

Forty-seven percent of those who had heard of the changes said they will not improve the government effectiveness in handling the nation's problems. Twenty-nine percent said the shakeup would improve the handling of problems and 13 percent said it would make government less effective. Eleven percent were not sure.

The Avalanche-Journal is one of the few things left in the world that is worth considerably more than the price you pay for it.

The Avalanche-Journal means value. Value that is both tangible and intangible.

Intangible value that comes with the quality of news coverage you receive by reading The Avalanche-Journal — a level of editorial excellence on the local, national and international levels unparalleled in West Texas.

Then there are the tangible benefits derived from reading the Avalanche-Journal. The cash benefits. The money you can save by subscribing to the A-J.

For instance, we publish a variety of store coupons each week. By using just some of them, you can save enough on purchases to more than pay for that week's A-J. Add to this the many advertised sales and your savings are greater.

All this boils down to one point. Subscribing to The Avalanche-Journal is more than getting a newspaper. It's making a profitable investment.

Message To Washington

MESSAGE — I am the owner of an independent hardware store in Edinburg. In November of last year we billed the Fish and Wildlife Service $45.00 for merchandise they had received. To date, according to our records, we've not received payment.

After several inquiries we were sent a copy of a "check information request." When anyone asks me for proof that I paid a bill, especially the Internal Revenue Service, I must show both sides of a canceled check. I cannot be certain that they have not paid this invoice, but until they can show that they have, in a business-like manner, I must assume it is still outstanding. Any help you can provide will be appreciated. — C.M., Edinburg

SEN. BENTSEN RESPONDS — The director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service tells me that, according to their records, a check was mailed to you on Nov. 8, 1978. The form you received was a Treasury Department form needed to obtain a copy of the canceled check. I am assured that if you will complete the form and send it to the Treasury Department you will receive either a copy of the canceled check or verification the check was never cashed within four to six weeks. If it turns out that the check was never cashed, a duplicate will be issued to you.

MESSAGE — I have been a U.S. citizen since Oct. 8, 1975. I am extremely concerned about my relatives living in Vietnam. It is very important to me that they be allowed to come to the United States. My husband and I are willing and able to provide for them once they arrive. Please send me the necessary information on all procedures to secure their entrance into the U.S. Thank you for your assistance. — V.S., Clute

SEN. BENTSEN RESPONDS — The United States, under a recent agreement between Vietnam and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, has submitted a list of names of qualified Vietnamese immigrants. The list will be expanded as additional approved immigration petitions are received. I am enclosing a brochure on family reunification which explains the procedures that must be followed to include the members of your family on the list. At this point, though, it is too early to determine what people the Vietnamese government will allow to leave that country.

Do you have a problem with government? Message to Washington cuts through the red tape to get answers to your questions about Social Security, veterans matters, immigration matters and other problems you may have run into in your dealings with the federal government in Washington. Write Message to Washington, c/o Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C., 20510. Inquiries to Message to Washington are sometimes edited before publication, but the intent and substance of the inquiries are maintained.

Votes By Members Of Congress Listed

Roll Call Report Service

HOUSE

VIETNAM — By a vote of 291 for and 122 against, the House adopted an amendment preventing U.S. funds from being used by the World Bank to aid Vietnam. Since the World Bank cannot accept U.S. funds bearing restrictions on disbursement, the amendment would disallow the U.S. contribution to the bank. The amendment was a part of HR 4473, a foreign aid appropriations bill headed for final passage and the Senate.

Rep. C. W. Young, R-Fla., the sponsor, said that in view of the boat-people tragedy and Vietnam's invasion of Cambodia, "I find it difficult to see American tax dollars being appropriated (for the World Bank) and then being used to make loans to Vietnam."

Rep. David Obey, D-Wisc., an opponent, said the World Bank already has a freeze on loans to Vietnam, and that this amendment therefore "will not cut off one dime for Vietnam."

Members voting "yes" favored the amendment.

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, Charles Wilson, D-2, James Collins, R-3, Ray Roberts, D-4, Phil Gramm, D-5, Bill Archer, R-7, Jack Brooks, D-8, Jake Pickle, D-10, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, Jack Hightower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Richard White, D-16, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent Hance, D-19, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, Tom Loeffler, R-21, Ron Paul, R-22, Abraham Kazen, D-23, and Martin Frost, D-24, voted "yea."

Reps. Jim Mattox, D-5, Bob Eckhardt, D-8, James Wright, D-12, and Mickey Leland, D-18, voted "nay."

Reps. Manuel Lujan, R-1, and Harold Runnels, D-2, voted "yea."

METRIC SYSTEM — The House defeated, by a vote of 122 for and 289 against, an amendment to kill the U.S. Metric Board by eliminating money for its operation in fiscal 1980. The Metric Board was established in 1975 to expedite the nation's voluntary conversion to the metric system.

The amendment was proposed to HR 4392, an appropriations bill later passed and sent to the Senate with $1.6 million for the Metric Board part of its total price tag.

Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., the sponsor, noted that Congress made the conversion voluntary, and said that "Americans do not need to pay a federal agency to tell them what to decide."

Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Tex., an opponent, said that if Crane wants to do away with the board, he should try to repeal or amend the 1975 law that set it up, not attack its budget.

Members voting "yea" want to eliminate the U.S. Metric Board.

Hall, Collins, Gramm, Archer, Leath, Wyatt, de la Garza, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler and Paul voted "yea."

Wilson, Roberts, Mattox, Eckhardt, Pickle, Wright, Hightower, White, Leland, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "nay."

Brooks did not vote. Runnels voted "yea." Lujan voted "nay."

SHIP SUBSIDY — The House rejected, 135 for and 272 against, a $69 million subsidy for construction of three dry-bulk ships by American shipyards. The money was in addition to $32 million already in a fiscal 1980 appropriations bill for the U.S. Maritime Administration's subsidy program. The bill (HR 4392) was passed and sent to the Senate.

The subsidy program is designed to keep the U.S. merchant marine independent of foreign countries in time of emergency. It provides U.S. shipbuilders with 50 per cent of the cost of building a ship, so that they can better compete with foreign builders.

Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., the sponsor, said delays by the Administration make it necessary for Congress to appropriate the extra $69 million in advance of legislation authorizing construction of the three ships.

Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., an opponent, called for an end to the subsidy program, saying "the U.S. shipping industry, which we are trying to promote, considers it an albatross around its neck that it is forced to buy a ship built in the U.S. at twice the cost it can be built elsewhere."

Members voting "yes" wanted to appropriate more money for ship-construction subsidies in fiscal 1980.

Wilson, Wyatt and Frost voted "yea."

Hall, Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Eckhardt, Pickle, Leath, Wright, Hightower, de la Garza, White, Stenholm, Leland, Hance, Gonzalez, Loeffler, Paul and Kazen voted "nay."

Brooks did not vote. Lujan and Runnels voted "nay."

SENATE

NUCLEAR POWER — The Senate rejected, 35 for and 57 against, an amendment to impose a six-month moratorium on new construction permits for nuclear power plants. The moratorium would have begun with the Oct. 1 start of fiscal 1980. The six months would have been used to consider regulations limiting nuclear plant construction in populous areas. The amendment was offered to a bill (S. 562) authorizing operations of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. It was later passed and sent to the House.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., the sponsor, said the amendment would increase confidence in nuclear power by "letting (the public) know we are sitting these reactors where they will do the least damage if there is an accident."

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., an opponent, said that due to the energy shortage "we must continue to build and operate nuclear plants and without further delays."

Senators voting "yea" favored the moratorium.

Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John Tower, R, voted "nay."

SENATE OFFICE BLDG. — The Senate voted, 49 for and 46 against, to appropriate an additional $57.4 million to continue construction of a third Senate Office Building. The vote came during consideration of HR 4388, an appropriations bill later passed and sent to conference with the House. Since Congress last year halted construction, little work has been done on the steel shell of the proposed Philip A. Hart Senate Office Building.

Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., a supporter, said that "the completing of that building is the only responsible thing that the Senate can do...as between leaving that building an uninhabitable hulk and finishing it off, at a time when the Senate needs space, there is no choice."

Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., an opponent, asked: "Is it right for us, 100 senators sitting here not exactly in undignified surroundings, to proceed with this building that will cost $200 million and say to the people, 'Well, you save, you fight inflation, but not us. We need more staff. We need bigger offices. We need rooftop restaurants. We need paneled offices. But you save, you peasants out there, but not us.'"

Senators voting "yea" favor construction of a third Senate office building.

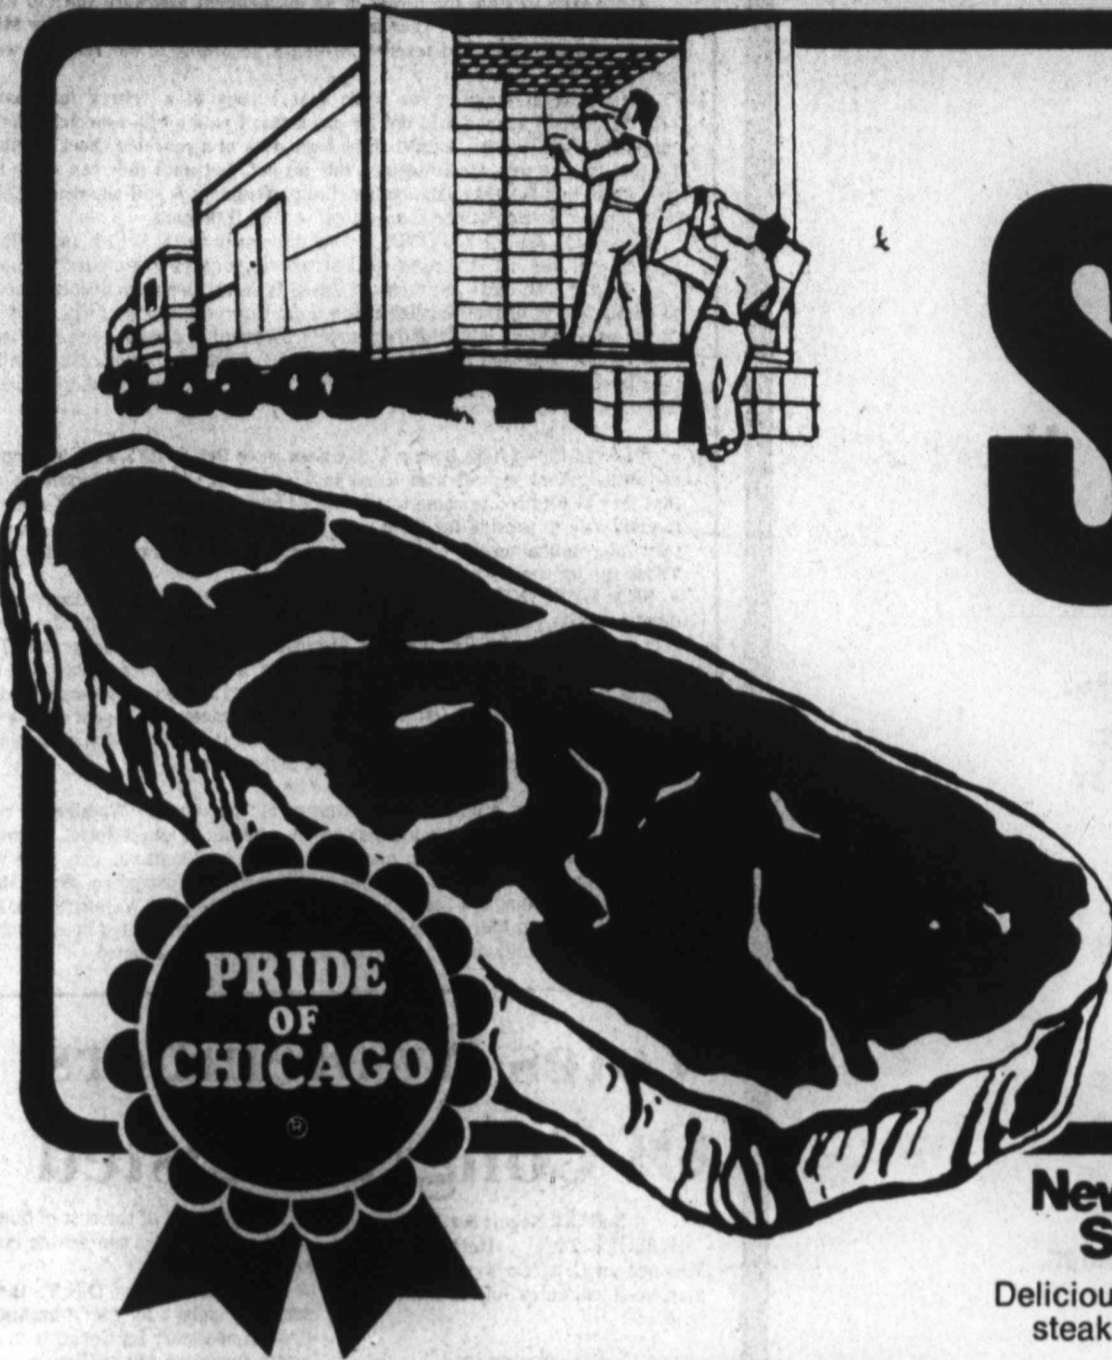

Bentsen voted "yea." Tower voted "nay." Schmitt voted "yea." Domenici did not vote.

James Says Starting Spot At SMU Not Locked Up

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

FORT WORTH — Craig James the fullback almost became Craig James the hood ornament Wednesday afternoon.

Following a luncheon with news media gathered for the Texas High School Coaches Association all-star football game, James joined a handful of South teammates in front of the TCU student center. The objective of the meeting was to spot as many high school cheerleaders as possible as they strolled by before all-star head coach Bob McQueen ordered them back to the dorm for a nap.

However, in his excitement to join mate Matt Harlien — who was engaged in a conversation with a TCU coed — James bounded out into the street, failing to notice an oncoming auto.

Somewhere, McQueen is giving thanks to an alert motorist.

"I think she's in love with him," one of the North all-stars laughed as he pointed to James and the girl in the car. If she isn't, SMU's Ron Meyer and Temple's McQueen are.

James, an SMU recruit who set a Class AAAA rushing record last season with 2,411 yards in leading Houston Stratford to the state championship, has drawn more praise at the all-star camp than most ears are meant to hear.

"James has really lived up to his fame as a running back," said McQueen. "You can tell there's really something special about him."

Along with gaining the multitude of yardage, James, who will start in the South's backfield with fellow-SMU recruit Eric Dickerson, also scored 275 points as a senior.

"This (week) has really been a lot of fun," said James. "There's not a lot of pressure on you. We have to work hard, though. And the coaches keep an eye on you. But with all those girls, I can see why."

The week became even more pleasant for James, as well as Dickerson, when both learned that last year's startling running backs at SMU, Tim Johnson and Derrek Shelton, had transferred to Lamar University, joining former Mustang offensive coordinator Larry Keenan, now head coach at LU.

That could easily mean that after Saturday night's all-star game at TCU's Amon Carter Stadium, James' next start will be Sept. 8 against Rice.

"A lot of the players have been saying that Eric and I have a position on a college team all locked up before we even get there, now that the two main backs have transferred," James said Wednesday. "There's even some resentment."

"But that's not true at all. With the group of freshmen coming in, I'm sure it will be real battle. I didn't really think I would have a chance to start as a freshman."

"Any college team that would have openings for freshmen wouldn't have a very good program. Don't get me wrong. SMU has a great program. This is a special situation now, with the running backs gone."

But for now, the highly sought runner is worrying more about the North than about the Ponies. That's his top priority — after dodging cars.

Alborn Vows Owls To Stay In Conference

FORT WORTH (AP) — Rice coach Ray Alborn, clamping a firm hammerlock on rumors the private school may be on its way out of the Southwest Conference, said Wednesday the Owls "will be in the SWC when I'm dead and gone."

"And Alborn, the second-year coach trying to guide Rice from the dark recesses of the SWC cellar, emphasized he plans to live a long, long time."

"We wouldn't have just spent $1 million on improving our facilities if we were going to check out," said Alborn at the 47th annual Texas High School Coaches Association School.

Alborn, a former football player at Rice, said "We just put in new Astro-Turf. We want to have a program."

Rice, playing a killer schedule, was 2-9 in 1978 during Alborn's debut.

"I can think back to when I was playing and Rice was competitive every year and I think it will be that way again," said Alborn. "With the 30-scholarship limit, you are going to see some interesting races. It's going to be like it used to be where the winner sometimes had a loss on his record. The upcoming races are going to be great for fans and writers — but mighty tough on coaches."

The enthusiastic Alborn, who demands an all-out effort from his players, said schoolboy footballers were starting to get back on Rice's wagon.

"The reception we have been getting is unbelievable," said Alborn. "We've got some 240 parents and kids coming in this weekend and some 200 the next."

"Of course, the academic reputation of Rice is excellent. And we are going to have a football team to match."

Alborn refused to list a timetable for Rice's return to gridiron respectability. The Owls face such non-conference powers as Louisiana State and Oklahoma this year besides the regular SWC schedule.

"We plan on beating a lot of folks," said Alborn. "The schedule is made (in advance of his coming). Of course, play-

Baylor Aide Gets A&I Coaching Spot

KINGSVILLE (AP) — Ron Harms, offensive coordinator at Baylor, was named head football coach at Texas A&I University Wednesday.

He replaces Fred Jonas who resigned earlier this month after serving as head coach for two years.

Harms served as offensive coordinator here before taking the same job at Baylor in 1976.

ing Oklahoma, LSU and Texas on consecutive weekends is a thrill. I can't locate the individual responsible for our schedule. I'm serious, I can't find the guy. Nobody will own up to it. But we sure could jump into national prominence if we win just one of those games."

DARRELL SHEPARD

Coogs' Shepard Plans To Enroll At OU

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Darrell Shepard, the Odessa High quarterback who wavered between two Southwest Conference schools in the recruiting wars two years ago, has confirmed he will enroll at Oklahoma this fall.

Shepard, who had two disappointing years at the University of Houston, will be eligible to play for Oklahoma this season.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association had ruled Shepard ineligible for competition in post-season bowl games after the publicity of his ownership of a sports car just after he signed with Houston in 1977. He redshirted one year at Houston and played less than 30 minutes the other.

"I liked the program in Houston, but I didn't want to sit out of bowls for the next three years," Shepard said. "OU was right behind Houston when I signed two years ago, and since Woodie is here, it seemed the best place to be."

Woodie Shepard, Darrell's brother, threw a clutch 49-yard halfback pass to spark Oklahoma's winning drive in the 1978 Oklahoma-Nebraska game. He quit the football squad in 1977 but returned this spring.

Rangers Threatened

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Several members of the Texas Rangers say they received threatening telephone calls at their Kansas City hotel while playing the Royals July 12-15.

At least 10 Rangers — including manager Pat Corrales — reported such calls, but there were no incidents during the four-game series and most of the players dismissed the calls as the work of cranks.

"Kansas City has great, enthusiastic fans except those who call up and threaten to kill you," said Texas third baseman Buddy Bell, who called the two calls he received "very amateurish."

"At least," he added, "I hope they were."

Kansas City general manager Joe Burke said he was not aware of the calls, and the Rangers did not request extra-security precautions at Royals Stadium.

"We don't condone anything like that and we would hope that our fans would not do anything like that," Burke said.

The threats came while the Royals, three-time defending champions of the American League Western Division, were mired in their worst slump since 1975.

U.S. Tracksters Win Three Moscow Golds

MOSCOW (AP) — The United States track and field team exploded for three gold medals, a silver and a bronze at the pre-Olympic Spartacade Wednesday. John Powell won the men's discus, Wardell Gilbreath the men's 200 meters and Henry Marsh the 3,000-meter steeplechase.

"We enjoyed watching the flag go up and hearing the national anthem," said coach Jimmy Carnes of Gainesville, Fla., who had been fed up with Soviet wins through the first four days of the games. "It felt great and now we're ready for some more."

They were three exciting victories, in many ways unexpected.

Powell was only fifth going into his last throw, but he erupted with a tremendous roar and grabbed the gold with a final heave of 206 feet 9 1/2 inches.

Gilbreath, a former sprinter at New Mexico Junior College, was an underdog in the 200 meters, but he dominated the race with a clocking of 20.84 seconds. Teammate Don Coleman, second at the AAU championships, was a distant silver medalist in 21.05.

Marsh had been trailing the pack throughout the steeplechase but the 25-year-old runner from Eugene, Ore., stunned the crowd with a comeback on the last lap to win by several yards in 8:28.09.

"I was doing badly. I picked up a Misha doll," Powell, 32, a former San Jose, Calif., policeman said. "It told me to try a little harder and throw a little farther. It sure helped."

Misha the bear is the symbol and mascot of the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow.

Powell was a last minute addition to the American team. His ordeal in Moscow lasted 48 hours, from his landing Monday night through his win in the finals.

He qualified on Tuesday but entered Wednesday's final with a string of mediocre throws, well off his normal standard. The cold, humid weather in Moscow this week, which has persistently hampered competition, had put him off, but his last throw was good enough.

"I'm glad somebody asked me to come," he said. "I think I'll come again. I wasn't aware that this was the first gold medal for the United States, so that makes it a double pleasure."

The 6-foot-2, 244-pounder will fly back to the United States to take part in the National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs.

Gilbreath was beaming after his win. The sprinter from Houston had failed to qualify for the AAU Nationals after a poor qualification run in his own hometown. He had a quick start and coming down the homestretch he eased up when he saw Coleman was so far back.

Jays' Homers Gun Down Rangers

By The Associated Press
 Otto Velez and Rick Bosetti belted home runs to back the pitching of Dave Stieb and reliever Tom Buskey as the home-staying Toronto Blue Jays defeated the Texas Rangers 8-3 Wednesday.

The victory snapped a seven-game losing streak for Toronto and left Stieb, 3-1, as the only Blue Jays pitcher with a winning record.

Stieb allowed nine hits before giving way to Buskey with one out in the eighth.

Ranger Pat Putnam started the inning with his 13th home run to cut the Toronto lead to 5-3 and Richie Zisk tripled out on one. Buskey came on to strike out Jim Sundberg and Eric Soderholm.

Toronto took a 3-1 lead in the first inning. Alfredo Griffin led off with a double and scored from third two outs later on a wild pitch by John Henry Johnson. Rico Carty walked and Velez followed with his 10th home run of the season.

Bosetti led off the second with his sixth homer of the season.

Texas had taken a 1-0 lead in the first on an RBI single by Al Oliver. The Rangers got their second run in the fifth on a run-scoring single by Putnam.

ANGELS 9, YANKEES 5
 Rookie Ralph Botting took over when fireballer Nolan Ryan felt something pop in his elbow and allowed three hits in 1 2/3 innings for his first major league victory as California defeated the New York Yankees 9-5.

who had yielded 17 hits and 11 earned runs in three previous appearances, covering 4 2/3 innings, struck out six in ending the Yankees' four-game winning streak and lowering his earned run average from 21.21 to 10.80.

What was expected to be a pitching duel between Ryan and New York's Tommy John saw both starters gone by the third inning — Ryan flying back to California to have his elbow X-rayed and John removed after a combination of Angel hits and Yankee errors.

ASTROS 6, CUBS 4
 Major league strikeout leader J.R. Richard fanned 12 Chicago batters and Craig Reynolds' sixth-inning single delivered the winning run as the Astros beat the Chicago Cubs 6-4.

Richard, 8-11, raised his strikeout total to 174 — six more than California's Nolan Ryan — before being knocked out by Chicago's three-run eighth. He combined with Joe Sambito to hold Chicago to five hits, two of them by Scot Thompson.

REDS 6, PIRATES 5
 Heity Cruz cracked a 10th-inning double to score Dave Collins and give the Cincinnati Reds a rain-delayed 6-5 victory over Pittsburgh.

BRAVES 13, CARDINALS 4

TIGERS 11, BREWERS 2
 Steve Kemp's two-run single broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning and the Detroit Tigers went on to an 11-2 romp over Milwaukee.

INDIANS 2, TWINS 0
 Rick Waits hurried a two-hitter as the Cleveland Indians topped Minnesota.

Waits, 10-8, had his bid for a no-hitter spoiled by Bombo Rivera, who delivered a leadoff single in the bottom of the seventh. Rivera's hit was a clean line drive over the head of first baseman Mike Hargrove. Roy Smalley followed by flying out to left and then Rivera was erased as Ron Jackson hit into a double play.

BEFORE THE TROUBLE — California's fireballing right-hander Nolan Ryan smiles as he swings a bat in the dugout prior to Wednesday night's game with the New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium. However, it's strictly for fun, since the American League allows a designated hitter for the pitchers, and later, Ryan sustained an injury of undetermined severity after delivering a pitch to Reggie Jackson in the second inning. Ryan gingerly fingered his right elbow after the pitch. He threw two practice pitches but shook his head when he was unable to continue and walked off the mound. (AP Laserphoto)

Midnight, Rainbow Meets Set At Treasure Island

Plenty of spots are still open for local golfers wishing to compete in the Rainbow Classic benefit golf tournament which will be held at Treasure Island on Saturday, according to tournament officials.

Tourney officials for the Arthritis Foundation Benefit report that 110 golfers have already signed up for the affair that can accommodate as many as 288 golfers.

The entry fee is $15 — which is tax deductible — since all profits from the tourney, scheduled the same weekend as the Men's City Championship, go towards the Arthritis Foundation. The tournament is being sponsored by the Avalanche Journal.

But the Rainbow Classic isn't the only tournament scheduled at Treasure Island this week. TI's water-delayed Midnight Partnership Tournament starts at 9 p.m. today and will wind up around midnight Friday.

Thirty-six teams already fill all the spots in the 36-hole affair that will pit the teams into four flights that offer gift certificates to the best scores in each flight.

The tournament was originally scheduled last week end, but was delayed by rainy weather.

As for Saturday's benefit tournament, most of the golfers have shown more concern about the summer heat than the threat of rain.

Golfers may sign up for four tee times: 9 a.m., noon, 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. Not surprisingly, 61 of the 110 golfers who have registered thus far have elected to tee off at 9 a.m. And many of the others have signed up for the 6 p.m. teoff.

Regardless of when they play in the Rainbow Classic, all of the golfers will have a shot at the gold nugget that goes to the first golfer able to shoot a hole-in-one on the 18th hole at Treasure Island.

Lubbock Racers Clinches '79 SCCA Crown
 Malcolm Garrett Jr., racing at Texas World Speedway last weekend, captured his fourth straight victory in the Sports Car Club of America's Trans Am Road Racing series and with it clinched his second consecutive Southwestern Division championship.

Garrett, who drives a Datsun 710 in SCCA B Sedan competition, now holds five wins and a second place for six outings, and the 58 points he has garnered place him beyond mathematical reach of his nearest competitor, David Elle, also of Lubbock. Elle, ironically, drives the Datsun 210 formerly campaigned by Garrett. Elle did not race last weekend.

Starting behind a D Production Alfa and a TR-7 by virtue of third-fastest qualifying time in the field of 34 cars, Garrett started and finished first in class and notched a second over-all, trailing only the Alfa of Houston's Tom Mankin at the checker.

The race, a major event on the SCCA calendar that attracted drivers from all over the country to the Bryan track, was run under grueling temperature conditions. Fifteen drivers suffered varying degrees of heat prostration.

"The air temperature was 100 degrees at race time, and that, coupled with a relative humidity somewhere between 70 and 80 percent, made it pretty uncomfortable," Garrett related. "Inside the car it had to be at least 120."

Next on the Southwestern Trans Am schedule is Texas World Speedway the weekend of Aug. 18-19.

Akers Likes High Early Ranking

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

FORT WORTH — Fred Akers wouldn't have any other way, thanks. And that goes double for his players, down to the last man.

The subject: The University of Texas' lofty pre-season ranking, which happens to be as high as No. 2 in the whole college football world, according to at least one national magazine. And the way Texas Football Magazine tells it, the Horns should already make their reservation for the Cotton Bowl, Jan. 1.

"That's what we work for all year," explained the UT head coach, referring, of course, to the ranking. "I know I'd be disappointed if we weren't up there, and my players feel the same way."

"Anyway, somebody's got to be there."

This time, it's the Horns turn.

But for Texas to win the SWC title, and possibly a national crown, Akers says the team must "be able to play as close to our potential as possible and avoid the costly injuries."

And if they don't?

"With our schedule — which I think is perhaps the toughest in the history of Texas football and one of the toughest in all of football this year — if we don't stay healthy then we'll be in trouble," explained the former Lubbock High head coach. "We just aren't blessed with a lot of depth, especially at the runningback position."

Akers almost saw his depth department at linebacker destroyed in early June when Linebacker Steve McMichael suffered a severe hand injury after a short battle with a radiator fan. McMichael lost the battle, and in the process almost lost a finger, Akers said.

"He's a fortunate young man," said Akers. "It could have been a lot worse. It's a miracle he didn't suffer some kind of ligament damage, but he didn't. He's working hard, right now, and should be able to play without any trouble."

So Akers noted, the world may have lost a mechanic, but he gained a football player.

Asked if he ever worried about off-season injuries, like the one suffered by McMichael, Akers replied: "If I did I'd go insane. You have to realize that these guys that play football are competitors, especially the defensive people. They're the kind that slide into second base at a meaningless softball game. That's the kind of people I want around...aggressive ones."

"But they're the kind I don't like to see on a motorcycle."

Akers, who was attending the 47th annual Texas High School Coaches Association clinic, is especially excited about the defensive unit, one he says "could be the best around."

"If I had to list our strengths in order," commented Akers. "I'd have to start with the defense. We have nine starters coming back and all are excellent football players. It should be hard for people to score points on us this year."

While the defense is tops on Akers list, the kicking game is at the bottom. With the departure of all-American Russel Erxleben, the Horns lost what Akers called "the best kicker in the history of the country. He was just like having a twelfth man on the field, the way he was able to punt the ball."

"But," Akers continued, "we feel like we recruited the finest high school kicker in the country in Jeff Guy. But you've got to remember, he's never kicked a ball in a college game yet. There's a lot of pressure out there with 80,000 people screaming at you. I know I couldn't do it."

Sandwiched in between the defense and the kicking game, on Akers' one-to-four ranking, are the offensive line and the runningback problem. "We've got a lot of work to do, with both of them" said Akers. "I thought our offensive line was a little below average last year, now they're average. And we've got to find more help at runningback."

"Everybody kept saying, 'Texas has all the runningbacks it needs,'" said Akers, "but that's not so. We only recruited three last year. And until they play, they're just rookies."

So with all the so-called problems, why is Texas considered the best around? Akers gives three reasons.

"By finishing strong against A&M and Maryland, our defense; and finally, tradition."

Promoters See Red After Ali Exhibition

DENVER (AP) — The Muhammad Ali-Lyle Alzado exhibition July 14 may have cost as much as $100,000, and several persons who worked on the bout at Mile High Stadium have been informed by the promoter that they won't be paid immediately for their efforts.

The eight-round fight drew 11,128 paid fans, who accounted for a gate of $209,770.

Ron Kauffman, Alzado's business agent and president of Combat Promotions, said Wednesday the promoters didn't yet know their exact loss on the bout. He said, however, that total expenses were about $300,000, leaving a deficit of about $90,000.

Local promoter Lyle Pedersen put the figure at about $100,000. "The promotion had to lose that much when you figure that Ali was guaranteed $250,000, the insurance policy cost $23,000, the rent for the stadium was in excess of $30,000 and there was about a $10,000 stadium set-up charge," Pedersen said.

Alzado, the Denver Bronco defensive end who said afterward that the bout was a test to determine whether he should enter professional boxing, reportedly was guaranteed about $95,000.

In addition, New York promoter Hal Conrad reportedly received a $15,000 fee for his work here.

NBC reportedly paid $85,000 for the rights to televise the event.

In a letter signed by Kauffman, workers were told this week that because of "poor ticket sales," the promoters "will not be able to immediately settle the financial obligations incurred by the promotion" of the exhibition card.

"It is our intention to honor our debts," the letter continued. "We ask your cooperation and patience. Our best efforts will be put forth to pay our creditors within a reasonable length of time."

Kauffman said Wednesday that "off the top of my head, about eight or 10" persons were sent the letter. And he said the debts involved "$15,000 total, maybe. That's a ballpark figure."

One of those who received the letter was boxing judge and referee Ray Keech of Denver, who still is owed $100 by Combat Promotions.

Keech, who took an unpaid extra day off from his job as chief of security at the Denver Public Library to work the card, said he wasn't upset but that the delinquent payments underscored the need for a state boxing commission.

"I mean, you give a guy $250,000 for an exhibition like that, and you can't pay the officials, and some of the others," he said.

Keech said that out of "a thousand" other fights he has worked, he never had payment withheld before.

Wright Posts Opening Win

Doris Wright had the easiest time of it in the opening battles for the Hillcrest Country Club women's championship Wednesday, as she posted a 5-3 win over Co Maryland.

Other championship-flight matches were closer, as Karen Downing won 2-1, and Betty Stumbaugh and Billie Kenney won by 3-2 margins.

Today, action begins at 8:30 a.m. with the third flight consolation, followed at 8:40 by second flight consolation, 8:50 first flight consolation, 9 a.m. championship consolation, 9:10 by third flight, 9:20 by second, 9:30 by first, and 9:40 a.m. by the championship flighters. All these groups will go off the first tee.

The nine-hole flight will start play at 8 a.m. on the tenth tee.

Philadelphia Golf Opens

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — British Amateur champion Jay Sigel sees golf as fun, not final.

Sigel, 34, of nearby Newtown Square, Pa., says he's satisfied to play the game for therapeutic rather than monetary value.

Sigel has set a rather modest goal as he prepares for today's first round of the $250,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic at Whitmarsh Valley Country Club.

"I'd like to make the cut," said the insurance broker. "I'd like to stick around for the last two rounds. That's fun."

His goal is a part of his golf philosophy — play for fun.

Sigel made up his mind when he was a student-athlete at Wake Forest on an Arnold Palmer scholarship that golf for him would be an avocation. It seems he accidentally put his hand through a glass pane and the wound necessitated 70 stitches to close. He didn't play golf of any kind for 11 months.

"I didn't think I would have a chance (in pro golf). I didn't know how good I'd get after that (injury). I didn't think that I could play day-in and day-out," Sigel explained Wednesday.

Sigel insists, however, that he has no regrets about taking the amateur route.

"I have a very nice life. I run a junior golf tournament, I like my work, and I'm a husband and father," he explained.

This will be Sigel's first appearance in the 17-year-old Philadelphia Classic. Business commitments have kept him from playing in the event before. He almost had to say "No, thank you" again this year but managed to postpone some other affairs.

While the rest of the field shoots for shares of the $250,000 prize money, Sigel, as an amateur, would get a watch or a trophy if he won the tournament.

Sigel, however, is a realist. He doesn't expect to win in a field that includes defending champion Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Ben Crenshaw, Lou Graham, Jerry Pate, Ray Floyd, Bob Gilder and Bill Rogers.

Also in the field are former Philadelphia Classic champions Don January, Bob Murphy, Dave Hill, Dan Sikes, Jerry McGee, Tom Jenkins and J.C. Sneed, plus Tom Watson, the PGA tour's top money winner ($387,386) and runner-up Larry Nelson ($235,386).

For Yaz: 400 Down, 3,000 (Hits) To Go

BOSTON (AP) — The pressure is off Carl Yastrzemski, but not for long.

The 39-year-old Boston Red Sox star is caught up not only in yet another tension-packed pennant race, but in a long-running statistical competition.

In addition to the enemy pitchers, the opponents are Yaz himself — struggling against pain and the fatigue of a long season — and baseball's immortals.

The names of the greatest players in history stare out at Yaz from the pages of the record books.

After a drought of nearly one month, Yaz slugged career home run No. 400 Tuesday night at Fenway Park against young Mike Morgan of the Oakland A's. Now comes a potentially tougher chore — rapping out 39 more base hits for a total of 3,000.

When — and if — he reaches that milestone, Yastrzemski, 40 on Aug. 22, will have accomplished a feat that eluded the likes of Babe Ruth, Ted Williams, Ty Cobb — every American Leaguer in history.

Only three National Leaguers — Hank Aaron, Willie Mays and Stan Musial — hit at least 400 homers and also had 3,000 or more hits in their careers.

The Red Sox have a friendly little clubhouse wagering pool to guess when Yaz will reach his goal. Most early predictions were for dates in August.

Yastrzemski complains: "They won't let me in the pool." But behind the laughs, Yaz is taking the stats seriously. And he'll have to play in discomfort.

"I'm hurting," he concedes. The Achilles tendons in both heels are painful and Yastrzemski is heavily taped for each game.

Those close to Yastrzemski say the 19-year veteran badly wants to get hit No. 3,000 this season. Never mind that he plans to return next year. And Yastrzemski himself says the time between homer No. 399 on June 30 in New York — off former teammate Luis Tiant — and No. 400 was pressure-packed.

He conceded Tuesday night he hadn't felt so much tension since he broke into the Red Sox lineup in 1961, billed as "the new Ted Williams."

Yaz never has had Williams' raw power. But he's proved to be durable, an excellent left fielder and prolific.

Williams finished with 521 homers and 2,654 hits, though his career was twice interrupted by military service.

Yaz' durability is the key. Through good health and bad, he's plugged away, usually hitting best when it counted the most.

Yastrzemski's career homer No. 1 came on May 9, 1961, in Los Angeles, his rookie season, against Jerry Casale — once a homer-hitting Boston pitcher, but then with the old Los Angeles Angels.

Yaz' first major league hit was on opening day, April 11, 1961, at Fenway Park. The pitcher was Ray Herbert of the old Kansas City A's.

Casale and Herbert could scarcely have known that their little mistakes would merit mention two decades later. As for young Morgan, in 1961 he was months short of his second birthday.

The rookie Yaz showed few signs that he'd be a Hall of Famer. His "inside-out" lefthanded swing produced only 11 home runs, mostly to the opposite field.

He didn't hit 20 homers in a season until 1965, and it wasn't until the 1967 pennant year that Yaz became a full-fledged power hitter, slugging 44 and winning the triple crown of home runs, RBI and batting average.

He never hit that many homers again, but continued to be a dependable long-ball hitter. Yaz never has had 200 hits in a season, but he's almost always had at least 150.

And as the season winds down, each Yastrzemski base hit will take on extra significance. The only thing he wants more than that round number of 3,000 is a World Series victory.

ALL SMILES — Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox reacts with a big laugh as he talks about his 400th career home run against the Oakland A's. (AP Laserphoto)

Top Seed Advances In Dutch Tourney

HILVERSUM, Netherlands (AP) — West Germany's Uli Pinner, the No. 1 seed, moved into the quarter-finals of the Dutch Open tennis tournament Wednesday by beating Australia's David Carter 6-1, 6-1.

Pinner, who made it to the finals at Stuttgart last week before losing to Argentina's Guillermo Vilas, overpowered Carter in just over 40 minutes.

Defending champion Balazs Taroczy of Hungary, the second seed in the $75,000 championship on the Melkhuise court here, secured a berth in the quarter-finals by beating Alejandro Pirola of Chile 6-3, 6-2.

Spain's Angel Jimenez, who eliminated third-seeded Tom Okker in the first round of the tournament, lost to 1973 Wimbledon champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia 7-6, 6-2.

Fourth-seeded Buster Mottram of Britain eliminated Claus Eberhard of West Germany 6-1, 7-5; fifth-seeded Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia beat Eric Deblicker of France 6-3, 7-5; France's Jean-Louis Hallet defeated Kjell Johansson of Sweden 6-4, 5-7, 7-5, and Peter McNamara of Australia overcame countryman Noel Philips 6-3, 6-2.

Simmons Picks Right Time To Return

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Clearly, with a tough string of games away from home just ahead, it would have been difficult for Ted Simmons to pick a much better time to return.

Simmons, the All-Star catcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, was back behind the plate Tuesday night for the first time in a month. And, as if a wand had been waved, hope sprang anew in the breast of the National League club.

Any fears that Simmons would be rusty from 30 days of inactivity were quickly allayed when he doubled and singled to help the Cards triumph 7-3 over the Atlanta Braves.

But equally important, if less discernible, was his steadying influence on Pete Vuckovich, a gifted although sometimes erratic battery mate.

Vuckovich, visited at the mound by his catcher, responded by digging out of a jam in the third inning when Atlanta put runners at second and third with none out.

Afterward it was clear sailing for the Cards until the ninth, when Bob Horner homered. And Vuckovich, a perspiring figure, let it be known where he thought much of the credit lay.

"He knows me like a book," Vuckovich said of Simmons, whose pitch selection helped manufacture eight strikeouts. "I don't have to think out there. I just worry about my mechanics."

St. Louis manager Ken Boyer also spoke of what the reinstatement of Simmons as cleanup hitter meant to an attack which, in recent weeks, had dwindled.

"When you lose your best hitter, it's going to have an effect," Boyer said.

Freyss Trips Ashe In Austrian Meet

KITZBUEHEL, Austria (AP) — Arthur Ashe, the 1975 Wimbledon champion, was upset by little-known Frenchman Christopher Freyss Wednesday in the second round of the $75,000 Grand Prix tennis tournament.

Freyss, 22, who is rated 156th in the latest rankings issued by the Association of Tennis Professionals, beat Ashe 6-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Ashe led 4-3 in the third set but Freyss rallied to win the last three games.

Another upset victim was eighth-seeded Gianni Occeppo of Italy, who lost to Pavel Slozi of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

In other second round matches, top-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis defeated Ferdi Taygan 6-4, 6-4; No. 3 Wojtek Fibak, Poland, defeated Andreas Maurer, West Germany, 6-3, 6-4; No. 4 Chris Lewis, New Zealand, defeated Antonio Zugarelli, Italy, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4; No. 6 Heinz Guenthardt, Switzerland, defeated Ricardo Cano, Argentina, 6-4, 0-6, 6-4, and No. 7 Zeljko Franulovic, Yugoslavia, defeated Miguel Mir, Spain, 6-3, 6-0.

"Hitting is contagious. Sometimes, if the pitcher looks two or three batters ahead, he can pitch around a player to get himself out of an inning."

To stay in shape during convalescence from a broken bone in his left wrist, Simmons had done running and lifted weights as part of his daily rehabilitative routine.

He spent an extended period in the batting cage the night preceding his return. And his only discomfort when he rejoined the lineup was stiffness which resulted. "I didn't have any difficulty catching," he said.

Earlier this year, as Simmons was putting together his most successful of 10 major league campaigns, the Cards inched ahead in the National League East standings with a 32-21 record on June 11. Now, they're 46-46 and seven games back.

A 15-game trip to the parks of all five division rivals begins Friday night. It could hold the key to St. Louis' hopes for rising from fifth place.

"Ted was a tough bat to have out of there," teammate Keith Hernandez said of Simmons, a .326 hitter with 53 RBIs and 18 home runs. "I'm glad he's back for the upcoming trip. It's make or break for us."

New Orleans Hikes Suit Sum

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The City of New Orleans added $35 million Wednesday to its suit against the Utah Jazz of the National Basketball Association because of the way the team abruptly left New Orleans for Salt Lake City.

City attorney Donald Hoffman, who earlier had instituted an $18 million damage suit against the Jazz, filed an amendment to his original suit.

Included is a request for triple damages for violation of state antitrust laws — the same as asked by the Superdome management and the state in asking $60 million from the Jazz and the league.

The total amount now sought from the Jazz in the series of suits filed by the city, Hyatt Management Corp., and the state is $114 million.

Hoffman's move came in Civil District Court in New Orleans, where Judge Steven R. Plotkin had opened hearings in a lawsuit aimed at keeping the team from playing anywhere but New Orleans.

The Jazz owners announced in April that they were moving the team to Salt Lake City. They cited sagging attendance and difficulty in getting home playing dates during the crowded Mardi Gras season in late winter.

The move was approved by the league and welcomed in Utah. A season ticket drive was opened and team offices were moved to Salt Lake City.

Injuries Plague Tampa Bay

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Although the National Football League season hasn't started yet, the hurting for the luckless Tampa Bay Buccaneers has.

Veteran Dave Green, Bucs' punter for three years, is sidelined with a torn Achilles tendon suffered during practice Tuesday. A Bucs' spokesman said Wednesday it will be at least 10 weeks before Green can think about punting again.

During an agility drill with defensive linemen Green reportedly was trying to step over some fallen blocking dummies when he came down hard on his left leg. He was helped from the field and taken to the hospital. He underwent surgery late Tuesday.

Bucs' coach John McKay called the injury "a tremendous blow to us. I must say we certainly have been luckless when it has come to injuries to key people, from the start."

The injury-prone Bucs, a struggling 7-39 after three seasons, had been hoping to get off to a good start this year, or at least a healthy one.

Green, ranked fourth in the National Conference in punting with a 40.9 average, wound up seventh in 1978 in the NFL for the second consecutive time.

Green was a 17th-round draft choice of the Cincinnati Bengals in 1972, but spent that season on the taxi squad. He was the regular Bengal punter in 1974 and 1975, and was placed on waivers the following year.

Ex-UT Receiver Sees Better Times Ahead

SUWANEE, Ga. (AP) — Alfred Jackson expected a lot of himself when he entered pro football last year. He spent his college days rooming with Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell and both expected to have a great rookie year. Campbell did, but Jackson's had his ups and downs.

However, this year, Jackson says he's ready to make his mark with the Atlanta Falcons.

Last season — his rookie year with the National Football League team — the 24-year-old wide receiver made some embarrassing mistakes, especially on kickoff returns, that caused him to be benched and criticized by the fans.

Jackson attributes part of his problem to lack of concentration. But he also says he felt the pressure of his illustrious college roommate: "A little peer pressure, I guess," he said.

Early in the 1978 season Jackson got most of the blame when the Falcons nearly lost to the New York Giants. He fumbled the opening kickoff and the Giants recovered and scored. Later the Giants chose to punt after a safety and Jackson, forgetting that the rules were the same as for a regular kickoff, did not field the punt. The Giants recovered.

Falcons coach Leeman Bennett benched Jackson for two games.

"Mentally, it made me sick — knowing that I was good enough to play, but that I wasn't because of my own fault and nobody else's," Jackson said in an interview this week.

Wide receiver coach, Ted Plumb, a former wide at Lubbock High School under Fred Akers, then saw that Jackson was trying too hard to make up for his mistakes.

"He attempted to press so hard and do so well at everything," said Plumb. "You know, you begin to read the papers, and the fans are on you, and the team is on you, and all of a sudden you're going to show the world. That can break concentration."

Then, six weeks after the Giants disaster, Jackson became a hero.

It was the celebrated "miraculous reception" which beat the New Orleans Saints and started the Falcons on their way to the playoffs. Quarterback Steve Bartkowski threw a 57-yard bomb which was tipped by receiver Wallace Francis into the hands of Jackson, who scored to win the game 20-17.

On To Stephenville

The Phillips Ready Built Homes softballers will now turn their attention to the state level after winning the city championship.

The team won the city slow-pitch crown with a 22-0 record and will head for Stephenville Aug. 3-5 for the state TAAF championships. The 24-team tournament is a double-elimination affair.

Plainview, which finished second to Phillips in the playoffs, also qualified for the Stephenville tournament.

July Crop Harvest Normal, State Says

A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Officials with the Texas Department of Agriculture report, in their mid-summer survey, that crop development and harvesting is proceeding basically on schedule for July, with only isolated hitches.

According to the July report, corn production is expected to total 120 million bushels, 17 percent below the 1978 crop. Yield is estimated at 100 bushels per acre, same as the 1978 crop.

Officials are also expecting a 1979 wheat crop of 133.3 million bushels, compared with only 54 million bushels last year. The estimated yield of 30 bushels per acre compares with last year's yield of 20 bushels.

Elsewhere on the Texas farm scene, while the nation's first bale of cotton was hand-harvested in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and ginned on June 24, general harvest operations were not expected until late July.

Harvest of grain sorghum has started in South Texas and is beginning to move northward.

In other developments, officials report a near-completed oat harvest, with production estimated at 16 million bushels, 16 percent above last year. A yield of 40 bushels per acre is up slightly from last year.

Texas barley production is estimated at nearly 2 million bushels, a whopping 33 percent above the 1978 harvest. Adequate moisture during the winter and spring months was especially beneficial to the Texas barley crop.

Rye production is estimated at 460,000 bushels, or 20 percent above 1978, and again, the yield-per-acre has increased slightly from last year.

The department notes that this summer's acreage estimates for commercial vegetable harvesting are down 4 percent from last year.

When totaled, cantaloupe acreage for 1979 is expected to be 6,000, same as a year ago. The Texas summer tomato crop is estimated at 2,800 acres, or 7 percent below 1978. And watermelon acreage dropped 8 percent, to 22,000 acres.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

A CROP INSURANCE BILL SUPPORTED by the Carter administration has been approved by the House Agriculture Committee on a vote of 21-20.

The bill extends the current disaster program for 1980 and under some conditions for 1981. In 1981 in counties where federal crop insurance generally is offered, producers no longer would be eligible for disaster payments.

Rep. Glenn English, D-Okl., offered a National Cotton Council-supported amendment to assure disaster payment eligibility for 1981 where an adequate crop insurance program was not available.

The attempt failed, 20-15, as did a weakened fall-back amendment. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock and Charles Stenholm of Stanford were among those supporting the amendment.

THE COMMITTEE THEN APPROVED, 25-6, an amendment allowing the secretary of agriculture to authorize disaster payments in 1981 if on a national or county basis he determined that federal crop insurance provided inadequate protection.

Also approved was an NCC-supported amendment providing the secretary with authority to continue the disaster program if necessary to achieve compliance with 1981 set-aside or diversion programs.

Earlier, the committee had approved NCC-supported amendments to delete a requirement that eligibility depend on compliance with Soil Conservation Service conservation practices and to drop a $200,000 limitation on subsidized federal crop insurance.

One other provision allows the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. to offer two separate insurance policies — an all-risk multiperil policy or a policy which covers every risk except hail, lightning, and fire.

Amendments to increase the premium subsidy failed. The bill provides government subsidies of 30 percent on insurance premiums for up to 65 percent of a farmer's normal yield. Farmers could elect to insure their crops for 50, 65 or 75 percent of established yield but could receive subsidies on no more than 65 percent of the yield.

MEANWHILE, SEN. WALTER HUDDLESTON, D-Ky., said this week that insurance industry and producer dissatisfaction may prevent crop insurance legislation from getting through Congress this session.

The Senate Agriculture Committee, of which Huddleston is a member, sent its version of crop insurance legislation to the Senate floor last week.

But Huddleston told a commodity club luncheon in Washington that there is still controversy surrounding several of the bill's provisions.

"We've come about as close to a consensus as we can get," he said of the committee's work on the bill.

Huddleston predicted that representatives of the private insurance industry would try to make changes in the bill when it reaches the Senate floor.

THE SENATE THIS WEEK DEFEATED by a vote of 46-38 an amendment to the Export Administration Act which would have restricted U. S. hide exports.

Sens. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, and Howard Baker, R-Tenn., offered the amendment. Proponents urged passage of the amendment to protect the domestic tannery and footwear industries from increased costs of production resulting from competition for U. S. hides in the world market.

Critics, including the National Cattlemen's Association, cited potentially higher wholesale prices for beef if U. S. meat packers were unable to sell hides on the export market and potentially adverse effects on the U. S. balance of trade.

COTTON FUTURES WERE FRACTIONALLY changed at the close Wednesday, ranging from 10 points higher to 15 points lower, after the slowest session in many weeks.

Volume was estimated at only 2,650 lots, compared with 4,050 in each of the previous two days. Prices fluctuated in a tight 50-point range.

Floor brokers said there was no background news and cotton awaited dollar-related developments from Washington. Early in the day, speculators took profits on Wednesday's gains fed by news that heavy rains were hampering the cotton crop in China.

Brokers said the market already had discounted the downgrading of tropical storm Claudette to a depression.

No rain had fallen in Texas' Lower Rio Grande Valley or in the Corpus area. Forecasts indicated spotty showers of one-fourth to one-half inch might fall today in the valley, where about 6,000 to 7,000 bales have been harvested.

The valley crop is opening rapidly and some sources tentatively believe the cotton might exceed earlier estimates of around a bale per acre. The valley is thought to have around 360,000 standing acres, with as many as possibly 300,000 under contract.

Cotton in the Mid-South has shown rapid improvement during the past two to three weeks, sources said.

Late Selling Forces Prices Lower

By Reuters
CHICAGO — Cattle futures closed 122 points lower to 17 points higher on 33,996 cars Wednesday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

August was weakest with only February ranging higher. A cash cattle connected commission house led the late selling, which forced prices to the lowest levels since January.

Although a U. S. Department of Agriculture cattle inventory report, released after the close, was expected to be constructive, traders were concerned about beef, which continued weak-toned despite light slaughter this week.

Wholesale beef was unchanged at 94 1/4 cents asked, f.o.b. river. The six markets expect 7,400 head today.

Cash cattle were steady to off $3, with the best steer top at $65.50 at Omaha. Slaughter totalled 107,000 head.

Comments by floor traders on the cattle inventory report were neutral to constructive with belief that futures will open higher today, particularly the nearby, on a return to bull spreading.

The total of 118.5 million head in the USDA report was off 3 percent from a year ago and near the low end of private guesstimates of 117.4 million to 122 million head.

The USDA's call crop projection of 43.5 million head was down 1 percent from the 43.8 million head born in 1978 and near the high end of the range of 42.5 million to 43.7 million head in pre-report guesstimates.

This was the smallest since 1963, however, and the fifth year in a row of declines since the record high crop of 50.9 million head in 1974.

Other categories of the report were at the low end or well within the range of guesses except for the 5.8 million head of beef cow heifer replacements, which were up 8 percent from a year ago.

In contrast, however, other heifers fell 12 percent to 7.8 million head, while 500-pound and over steers were down 6 percent to 16.9 million.

Feeder cattle futures closed 55 points lower to 50 higher on 5,708 cars. January was off the most with May at the best gain.

The slump pushed prices to one-month lows, down 770 points from the recent high. Weakness in beef and mostly lower cash feeder cattle brought pressure.

The six markets expect 3,700 head today. Cash feeders were off $4 to up $2, with the best top at $143 at Louisville.

Hog futures closed five to 47 points lower, led by December. Sales totaled 7,473 cars.

The discount under cash brought support but this was quickly overturned on increased hog runs and mostly lower cash hogs. Weakness in some pork products overshadowed continued strength in cash hams at noon.

Deliveries total 49 thus far. Wholesale hams were off to 2 1/2 cents at 67 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

The six markets expect 28,000 head today. Cash hogs were off $1 to up 50 cents, with the best top at $40.50 at Peoria, lowest since November 1977. Slaughter totalled 304,000 head.

Pork belly (bacon) futures closed 155 points higher to 70 lower on 3,152 cars. Prices slumped to new lows across the board before rebounding in closing trade.

Traders were unwinding bear spreads in a sharp reversal from early selling, which followed weakness in cash bellies and continued heavy production. A reduction of 6 million pounds in out-of-town stocks prompted early buying, which lifted prices 56 points.

Deliveries total 176 thus far. Wholesale bacon was off two to 3 1/2 cents at 38 to 40 cents a pound, f.o.b. river.

May Mileage Figures Show Drop From '78

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of gasoline shortages, travel on U.S. highways was down by 1.9 percent in May compared to the same month last year, the Federal Highway Administration reported Wednesday.

That's the first time since November 1974 that travel in any month was less than in the same month the previous year, the agency said in its monthly report on traffic trends. The May increase in the last five years has ranged from 4 percent to 6 percent.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By William A. Doyle

Q. Years ago, the New York Stock Exchange had a monthly investment plan for buying individual stocks on a steady basis with small amounts of money. I used that plan to accumulate shares of three stocks, which I later sold at a nice profit because I needed the money.

I am now in a financial position to start investing again. I want to do it with individual stocks — not mutual funds. But every broker I ask tells me that the monthly plan was killed by the powers that be. If this is true, isn't there any way to invest small amounts in individual stocks on a steady basis?

A. Yes, it's true that the New York Stock Exchange plan — MIP, for short — was laid to rest on March 15, 1976, as that exchange threw another shovel of dirt on the coffin of what had been its rallying cry for small investors, "Own your share of American industry."

Through MIP, you could invest as little as $40 a month or every three months in most of the stocks listed on the NYSE. When MIP was killed, most brokerage firms gave up all thoughts of handling orders that small.

A handful of brokerage houses, however, set up arrangements similar to MIP. But most of these have folded. The one still going strong is Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith's "Sharebuilder Plan."

That plan will take investments as small as $20 to buy full and fractional shares of stocks listed on the New York and American Stock Exchanges, as well as some 550 over-the-counter stocks.

And the brokerage fraternity is about to get competition from an unexpected source — the National Association of Investment Clubs (NAIC).

NAIC has set up a new plan to handle investments of as little as $25 a month. Right now, only 12 stocks can be purchased through the plan. But Thomas E. O'Hara, chairman of NAIC's board of trustees, is confident the number will increase. O'Hara, a former public member of the NYSE board of governors, is well aware of small investors' interest in such plans.

NAIC's plan is an extension of the dividend reinvestment and stock purchase plans many companies make available to their stockholders. One hang-up with such plans is that, to get started, an investor usually must buy an individual stock through a broker and pay what might be a fat commission.

Through NAIC, an investor will pay

$15 dues and then a one-time $5 charge for each of the stocks in which he or she wants a steady investment. Past that, the costs — if any — will be determined by the individual company's dividend reinvestment and stock purchase plan.

The result should be that total charges through the NAIC plan figure to be lower than commissions on small investments at almost all brokerage firms — with the possible exception of Merrill Lynch. Commissions on Merrill's "Sharebuilder Plan" are 5 1/2 percent on investments up to $100 and are scaled down on larger amounts.

With NAIC getting into the act, we may see a resurgence of small investors' use of such plans. Details on the NAIC plan can be obtained by writing the National Association of Investment Clubs, 1515 East Eleven Mile Road, Royal Oak, Mich. 48067.
