Splotched Letters Clue to Baby Death Mystery

WATER-SOAKED MISSIVES TELL MARRED STORY

Found on Lake Shore Near Where Baby's Body Discovered

WHO IS MOTHER?

Stationery Bears Postmark of Central Texas City

Several water-soaked letters, found on the shores of Lake Wichita near the spot where the body of a baby was discovered Wednesday afternoon, were being studied Friday by officials in the hope that they might furnish a solution to the case which has thus far remained a mystery. City detectives and officers of the local welfare council admitted yesterday that the letters might give clues which would clear up the entire affair; they also declared, however, that nothing might come of the find and in this connection it was stated that thus far nothing of value had been learned from the missives.

The letters were brought to the police department Thursday night by the small boy who found the baby's body the day before. The papers, he said, were covered under a pile of women's clothing that lay near the body and which, because of its rotted and unsanitary condition had not been disturbed by the police.

An inspection revealed that they had apparently been written to a young woman, some from her mother and others from a younger sister. No reference was made at any time to anything which might have been connected with the baby, it was said; most of the space was devoted to a recounting of family affairs, stories of "parties" and similar matters.

Many of the sheets were so water soaked as to be illegible. On others the writing could be made out with difficulty, while still others were in a comparatively fresh state of preservation. All had evidently been in the water for some time. They bore postmarks from a central Texas community and were mailed to the girl at another small Texas city.

Just what importance may be attached to the letters must be limited by the success that attends efforts to locate the girl. Even if she is found, it was pointed out, she may have had nothing to do with the body in the lake. There is, in fact, a well defined suspicion that the letters were merely "blinds" placed with the body and which have no direct connection with the person or persons who are believed to have weighted the body of the infant, placed it in a pasteboard box and dropped it into the water.

A thorough investigation will be made, however, and all angles of the new find run down before the case is given up.

COOLIDGE VETO OF BONUS BELIEVED TO BE CERTAIN

Economy Views Pointed Out As Opposing Issue

President Sanctions Borah Speech Against Large Expenditures

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Endorsement by President Coolidge today of the views expressed in the senate Tuesday by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, opposing large governmental expenditures and bonus legislation strengthened many in Washington in their belief that Mr. Coolidge will veto the soldier bonus bill.

The president discussing with visitors today in his declaration in his Associated Press address against "determined assaults by organized minorities on the public treasury," reiterated his frequently made plea for economy and in that connection called attention to Senator Borah's address.

Criticizes Burden.

The Idaho senator in his address criticized additions to the tax burdens of the American people, and opposing the bonus bill, declared it was the duty of congress to start to curtail expenses even if congress had to refrain from doing certain things which might be pleasant and politically expedient to do.

Mr. Coolidge told his callers that he regarded the views of Senator Borah as outlined in his address as fundamentally sound and the result of logical conclusions. He made plain that his endorsement of Senator Borah's declarations was general, and not applicable to the senator's discussion of any particular bill, but his remarks were interpreted by many of his callers as meaning that he stood with Mr. Borah in opposition to the bonus bill.

Is Second Expression.

The statement of the president's views today was the nearest approach to a definition of his position on bonus legislation since his Lincoln day address in New York in which he declared his opposition to a bonus as a matter of principle, regardless of the form it might take.

Indications developed during the day that the paid-up insurance bill passed by the senate Wednesday after having previously passed the house probably would reach the White House with a week.

Coolidge Seeking to Ward Off Break With Japs On Immigration

President Making New Arrangement in Hope of Pleasing Nation; No Details Known.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—An arrangement with respect to Japanese immigration which will satisfy those advocating exclusion and which at the same time will avoid any affront to Japan, is being attempted by President Coolidge.

The president is hoping that the arrangement can be effected, and with that end in view will continue his conference on immigration legislation with congressional leaders and Secretary Hughes. Just what sort of arrangement the executive has in mind was not disclosed at the White House where the announcement was made today that a compromise move was in progress. None of those who have conferred recently with the president would discuss the matter.

President Disturbed.

White House officials would not go so far as to say that the president would veto the immigration bill, now in conference between the senate and house, should the proposed arrangement fail of acceptance, but visitors to the White House have found the executive greatly disturbed over the situation resulting from adoption by congress of the provision for Japanese exclusion.

Chairman Colt of the senate immigration committee, who was one of the six senators who voted against the immigration bill, conferred with the president today and laid before the executive his reasons for viewing the exclusion question as unnecessary, illogical and generally harmful to American interests. Senator Colt later attended the first meeting of the senate and house conference on the measure, but it was not disclosed whether he carried to the conferees any suggestion from the president.

The latter had to be carried home by his friends, but said he felt no bad effects beyond stomach cramps. Both remained quite sober.

Chas. F. Murphy, Tammany Chief, Stricken By Death

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Charles F. Murphy, grand chieftain of Tammany Hall and for many years a powerful factor in democratic councils of the state and nation, died today of heart failure induced by acute indigestion.

A product of the East Side's picturesque "Gas House District" he had, first with fists and then with brains, fought his way from the stoke-hold ward of politics to the quarter-deck of party fame and financial fortune. In a span of 65 years he had been a poor man's son, ward heeler, bar tender, saloon-keeper, office-holder, financier, and finally local director and national adviser to his party.

Plenty of Names

He had graduated from the sobriquet of "Fists Murphy," through that "Charley", and at the last, "C. F. M.", the initial by which all knew him, although few of those who obeyed those commands had ever seen him. And always from merest youth, his name and that of Tammany, were linked together.

He retired last night after a busy day and a hearty dinner, to be awakened this morning by feverish chills and the pangs of indigestion. Characteristically, he insisted upon breakfasting at the usual early hour. Immediately he became alarmingly ill and died a few minutes later in the presence of his physician, a priest, his daughter, Mabel, and her husband, Surrogate James A. Foley.

Ruled for 22 Years

The taciturn genius who had ruled the destinies of Tammany Hall for 22 years as successor to the late Richard Croker, remained conscious to the end, unaware that death was near. He submitted quietly to the hypodermic injection when his physician recognized that collapse was imminent and his only comment was of surprise that indigestion should have awakened him, and that his heart caused him pain.

Mrs. Murphy, who was in Atlantic City, was summoned home. Although her husband died before she could entrain, she was not aware of it until she was met by friends at this end of the journey.

Tammany was the first to learn that death had invaded the home of its leader. Its party's big wigwam on 14th street half-staffed its flag and went into mourning. Party chiefs and Tammany workers assembled from all out-lying wigwams to pay tribute to the memory of their leader and speculate as to his successor. Police and traffic reserves controlled the throngs that gathered about the old fashioned mansion where he died.

Death a Blow

Coming at a time when Tammany was girding itself for a strenuous presidential campaign and so soon after his protege, Governor Alfred E. Smith, had formally entered the lists for the democratic presidential nomination, Mr. Murphy's death was mourned by high political leaders as a great party misfortune.

Fear in some quarters that Governor Smith's aspirations would be seriously handicapped, were off-set by assertion of Murphy's team mates that the leader had schooled his organization so perfectly that his death would have no detrimental effect.

The funeral will, in all probability, be held from St. Patrick's Catholic church, in Fifth avenue.

Last Two Entries Go To Minnesota Before Air Currents Fail

By The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 25.—With a maximum airline distance of 1,100 miles 73 miles less than the American record, made by W. T. Van Orman, pilot of the balloon entered by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of Akron, with C. K. Wellam as aide, the most remarkable air classic ever held in America was brought to a close today. Van Orman landed at Rochester, Minn.

Captain H. E. Honeywell, piloting a balloon under the banner of the Kansas City Co-operative club, and with Captain T. E. Boudinot, of Kelly Field as his aide, came second with an estimated airline distance of 1,050 miles, made when they landed at Sanborn, Minn., at 8:30 a. m. today.

Major Norman W. Peek, pilot, and Lieutenant William A. Gray, aide of S-14 army balloon, nosed the Detroit Aviation Society contest out by about 20 miles for third place. This makes Major Peek, representative of the army in the Gordon Bennett international race to be held at Brussels in June. S-14 made an estimated airline flight of 1,020 miles and landed at St. Ansgar, Iowa, at 4 a. m. today.

The American record is 1,179.9 miles, established in 1910.

SAYS HE PASSED OVER VERNON, TEXAS.

By The Associated Press.

SANBORN, Minn., April 25.—Captain H. E. Honeywell, pilot of the balloon "Honeywell" in the national balloon races, which landed near here today, related his experiences on the trip tonight to the Associated Press:

"After leaving San Antonio about 5 p. m. Wednesday, we traveled at a moderate speed all night, crossing into Oklahoma at Vernon, Texas at 6 a. m.; encountering a snowstorm at 12,000 feet, near Eureka, Kans., we dropped down to a more favorable current, carrying us at express speed and outran a train near St. Joseph. Continuing on a northerly course until 3 a. m. battling air currents, and electrical storms, we succeeded in weathering out until daylight, and finally landed at 8:08 a. m. at Sanborn, Minn., due to back tracking. We had on board about 500 pounds."

HONEYWELL BALLOON SEEN OVER WICHITA FALLS

The report of Captain H. E. Honeywell that his balloon crossed the Texas-Oklahoma border near Vernon at 6 o'clock Thursday morning indicates that it was his ship that was seen over Wichita Falls a few minutes earlier the same morning. Several Wichitans reported having seen the big balloon as it sailed above the city too high for identification.

The time corresponds so nearly with that reported here that there seems to be little doubt but that Honeywell's balloon was the one going over Wichita Falls. Furthermore, it was the only one which reached this vicinity, all the others taking off from San Antonio in the long distance air race leaving Texas at points further to the east.

31 MILLION FOR NEW HARBORS

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—River and harbor improvements, at an estimated cost of nearly $31,000,000 would be authorized under a bill unanimously approved today by the house rivers and harbors committee. The measure provides for 29 new projects, modification without additional expense to the government of seven already authorized and for three surveys.

Among the projects listed in the bill are those for construction of an inland waterway between the Mississippi river, New Orleans and Corpus Christi, Texas, at a cost of $16,609,000, a waterway connecting Gravesend and Jamaica Bays, New York, $2,000,000; improvement of the Delaware river between Philadelphia and Trenton, N. Daugherty Committee Puzzled As to Next Investigation Move

Means Disturbed by Loss Of Papers on Atty. Gen. Office

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Perplexed, but not perturbed, the senate Daugherty investigating committee divided its attention today among witnesses who described defaulted anti-trust prosecutions in Chicago. Papers that are needed to cite M. S. Daugherty of Washington Court House, Ohio, before the senate for contempt, and the phenomenal spiriting away of the secret records of Gaston B. Means marked the various proceedings.

Means Grave.

Means, upon leaving a long executive discussion with Chairman Brookhart and Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor, was grave but not hopeless.

The senators themselves professed puzzlement but unconcern, and let it be known that the loss was his worry and not theirs, and that no senate weapons would be brought to the task of seeking the recovery of the papers.

The resolutions citing M. S. Daugherty for contempt for failing to appear as a witness or to open the record of his bank, in which the committee claims H. M. Daugherty, his brother and former attorney general, had huge sums of money, "were checked over and completed to the last dot." They would go in, it was said, at the opening of the senate session tomorrow.

Thompson Testified.

At the hearing, the committee continued with Chairman Huston Thompson of the federal trade commission on the stand. He described a commission investigation which culminated with formal recommendation to the department of justice that Sherman law proceedings be instituted against stationery producers, with particular reference to an association of stationers in Chicago.

Laurentic's Treasure Being Salvaged.

LONDON, England.—There are now only 154 bars of gold worth $1,200,000 on the wreck of the Laurentic, which was sunk during the war, and the salvage ship Racer will shortly endeavor to recover this, said Commander G. C. C. Damnant in the course of a lecture at the Institution of Mechanical Engineers.

Four boxes of gold weighing 140 pounds each were recovered in such short time when the work was started that it seemed as if operations would be finished in a week. A fierce gale sprung up, however, and the wreck collapsed, making salvage work very difficult. Of the 3,211 bars which went down with the ship, 3,057 have been recovered during operations extending over six summers at a cost of two and one-half per cent.

Some of the best riders, ropers, bulldoggers and other experts of range art are entered in the contests. Winners in these events will be sent to the international rodeo events to be held soon in London.

Friends of Noble Bird Lover Mistook Viscount for Tramp

LONDON.—Viscount Grey's enthusiasm for bird research was the basis of an amusing story in the house of lords recently. During a debate on a bill which prohibits the use of dogs for vivisection purposes Viscount Knutsford related how in company with Lord Montague he had been shooting in the New forest on a sonking wet day. Driving home they saw what appeared to be a poor old tramp trudging along. Lord Montague remarked:

"We must give this poor devil a lift." When they got up to the poor devil they discovered he was Viscount Grey of Fallodex, who had walked four miles to see whether a certain bird was to be found by a certain pond.

BERNSTORFF'S CLUB RENTS HOME NEAR REICHSTAG

BERLIN.—Count Bernstorff, former German ambassador to Washington, who recently announced himself as a democratic candidate for membership in the new reichstag from Schleswig-Holstein, was the founder of a democratic political club in 1919 which has now attained a membership of 2,000 and has opened club rooms near the reichstag building.

The democratic party has been referred to in the opposition press as the party without members, but its leaders take the position that it is a party for educated, open-minded voters who endeavor to understand realities rather than indulge in patriotic fancies.

10 Per Cent Tax on Mah Jongg Sets Approved By Senators

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The senate got down to business on the tax reduction bill with a rush today, agreeing to more than a score of finance committee amendments to the measure as passed by the house.

Upon request, Chairman Smoot of the committee put off until Monday further consideration of some of the more important amendments.

Senator Jones of New Mexico, speaking after a roll call to get a quorum on the floor to discuss the proposed increase in the corporation tax, said he wished "to disabuse the minds of senators who entertain the impression that this bill is going to be before the senate for a number of days."

"It is my judgment that this bill is going to pass much sooner than any statements in the press would indicate," he said.

While the main controversial amendments made by the committee were passed over today, many of considerable importance were agreed to.

The proposed new ten per cent tax on mah jongg sets, and a ten per cent tax on all slot matchines operated by coins were approved.

T. O. Red River Dispute Report Given to Court

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The boundary commissioners in the Oklahoma-Texas Red river case today presented to the supreme court their report showing the survey and location of the boundary along the big bend area which includes the Red river oil wells.

The commissioners also presented a report showing the survey and location of the medial line of the river in the vicinity of the oil wells.

The court ordered that all exceptions to the report must be filed within four weeks and Chief Justice Taft said the purpose was to enable the court to close up the matter during the present term as far as possible.

The reports were accompanied by maps showing the boundary and medial lines and the relative location of adjacent oil wells. Copies have ben delivered to the attorney general of the United States and to the attorneys general of Oklahoma and Texas.

The court was advised by the commissioners that they had marked the boundary line by wooden posts called "witness posts" set along the bank at varying short distances from the boundary and from each other. Permanent reference monuments have been located at intervals in Texas and Oklahoma bluffs, overlooking the river valley.

By accurate surveys the witness posts and monument were located with reference to each other. Permanent bench marks near the boundary were also placed and their location noted with reference to the witness posts and to the reference monuments.

The commissioners said all oil wells within 300 feet of the boundary had been accurately located upon the ground and the position of each given, whether in Texas or in Oklahoma.

Offers to Share Time On Platform With Governor

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, April 25.—Thomas B. Love of Dallas, democratic national committeeman from Texas, today wired Governor Neff an offer to divide time on the platform here next Monday night with the governor. Mr. Love is supporting William G. McAdoo as the democratic nominee for president and Governor Neff is advocating an uninstructed delegation from Texas.

Mr. Love said in the telegram that he would speak in support of the proposition that the Texas delegation be instructed for Mr. McAdoo.

"While I shall adhere to the record I shall have some things to say which in fairness, I think you should take the opportunity to immediately explain," he said. He offered to allow Governor Neff to open and close the discussion.

Little Theatre Scores Success With "Mollusc"

Following its first night's success in presenting "The Mollusc," at the Hotel William-Mary, the Little Community theatre scored the greatest success in its history last night when the "standing room only" sign was hung for the first time since the organization of this popular club. This pleasing comedy was presented in style that rivals professional performance, and last night's large crowd was accounted for by the general approval with which the first showing was greeted.

To Peter Ames Vincent, who directed the production, goes much of the credit for its success. But without the unusual talent with which he was favored, he could not have accomplished such delightful results. Miss Bessie Dee was stage manager, with Allan Montgomery electrician.

Members of the cast were: Roy Dee as Richard Baxter; Mrs. Porter Oakes as Miss Roberts; Miss Margaret Blackburn in the role of Mrs. Baxter (the Mollusc), with Paul Barnett as Tom Kemp.

THINKS LONG VOYAGE NO BAR TO WINNING CUP

LONDON, England.—Lecturing on the "America's Cup" which Sir Thomas Lipton has been trying to annex for some years, Major B. Hukstall-Smith said the cup was worth winning back and he believed it could be done if yacht clubs and yachtsmen encouraged the sport of yacht racing and gave designers the opportunity.

The lecturer commented on the general opinion that because the British yachts had to cross the Atlantic, they were handicapped in having to be more strongly built. He doubted whether that would bear the cold light of scientific examination. He believed the reason was one of design, and expressed the opinion that the time would come when British designers would rise to the occasion and recover the cup.

No More "Heathen" Peoples In Salvation Army Lexicon

Officials of the Salvation Army determined on the use of the new term during "Self-Denial Week," when $100,000 was raised for schools, hospitals and special settlements among "non-Christian" nations.

Metro-Gildwyn Join Forces.

One of the largest mergers in the history of the motion picture industry was consummated recently by Marcus Loew, who heads the consolidated interests which will be operated under the name of the Metro-Goldwyn corporation. The corporations included in the merger are Metro Pictures, Gildwyn Pictures and the Louis B. Mayer company. Their combined authorized capital stock is approximately $60,000,000. Distribution of Cosmopolitan productions is included in the merger.

Mr. Loew, as president of Metro Pictures, heads the new combine. The board of directors of the new corporation includes F. J. Godsol, president of Goldwyn Pictures, which was developed largely by Samuel Goldwyn who has since withdrawn from the organization and is producing independently and Edward Bowes, vice-president of Goldwyn.

The consolidated organization will take over for release in the approaching season several large films which are being produced abroad. These include "Ben Hur," now being filmed in Italy by arrangement with A. L. Erlanger; Rex Ingram's "The Arab," recently filmed in North America; Marshall Neilan's "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," now being completed, and Eric von Stroheim's "Greed," which has been a year in the making.

Directors for the new corporation include Clarence Badger, Reginald Barker, Frank Borzage, Charles Brabin, Edward Cline, Alan Crosland, Scott Dunlap, Emmett Flynn, Hobart Henley, E. Mason Hopper, Rupert Hughes, Robert E. Leonard, Fred Niblo, Harry Rapf, J. Parker Read Jr., Victor Schertzinger, Victor Seastrom, King Vidor, Robert Vignola and others.

Florence Vidor has been placed under a long term contract with Regal Pictures company and will start productions very shortly. This production of "Baraba Frietchie" will be an elaboration of the screen version of the Clyde Fitch plya that was very successful on the stage with Julia Marlowe starring.

Miss Vidor has a wide circle of movie admirers. One hears the term "beautiful but dumb" applied to many, but never to Florence. She is beautiful, but never dumb. Recent pictures in which she appeared are "Alice Adams," a Booth Tarkington story, and Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street;" also the very popular "Marriage Circle" directed by the German director, Ernst Lubitsch, and "Borrowed Husbands," a Vitagraph picture.

What About Directors

Some time ago, you remember, there was a discussion on in moviedom as to whether movie stars earned their salaries; later Samuel Goldwyn caused a flurry of question and argument by announcing that there are only 33 good players appearing in Hollywood productions. Now comes Helene Chadwick and remarks that there are only seven good directors in Hollywood—just like that! Says Helene: "We hear much about actors who can't act, but how about directors who can't direct. I observed that when an actor does a great piece of work the director gets the credit, but when an actor is not allowed to interpret a situation as he thinks it should be played the actor receives the blame. It is my contention that more pictures have been failures through incompetent directors than through lack of talent on the part of the players. A good director can make almost anyone act, at least to a point where the acting will get by. A poor director frequently prevents a capable actor from giving any indication that he is an actor." So thats' that!

Film booking offices are to distribute Truart Film corporation productions in all parts of the country with the exception of New York state and the Philadelphia, Chicago and New Haven territories. The first productions to be distributed under the new deal are "Broadway Gold" starring Elaine Hammerstein, "The Empty Cradle" with Mary Alden and Harry T. Morey in the leading roles; "The Unknown Purple" with a distinguished cast; "Women Men Marry" with E. K. Lincoln; two Richard Talmadge pictures, "Let's Go" and "On Time" and "Drums of Jeopardy" also starring Elaine Hammerstein.

There is to be a shakeup in the United Artists corporation. It is said that within a very short time Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin and D. W. Griffith, through their representatives, will announce plans for the readjustment of the present distributing system. The high cost of distribution is given by Doug. Fairbanks as the cause of the present action.

MISERY IN HEAD, COULDN'T REST

Ohio Lady Was Suffering From Womanly Weakness, But After Taking Cardui She Grew Strong and Well.

Chillicothe, Ohio.—"Cardui is my standby as a tonic," says Mrs. Mary Smith, of 677 Orange St., this city, after relating her experiences in the use of that well-known medicine for women.

Some years ago, Mrs. Smith says, she found herself in such a serious condition from some womanly weakness that she could do no work and scarcely could get up or down.

"I had misery in my head," she says, "and just ached at times till I couldn't rest. I would have dizzy, fainting spells and just stagger. I didn't have an appetite.

"Some one told me I needed a good, woman's tonic. I asked and was told Cardui might help me. I began to use it and, after a short time, I could see I was being gradually made stronger.

"I quit having the weak spells. I ate and seemed to relish what I ate. I could sleep strong and well and when the . . . came around, I had very little trouble."

Home-Wrecking Is Always An Inside Job | Dorothy Dix | Lays Blame For Stolen Affections on Lack of Effort

The Mother and Father Who Use a Cowhide to Beat Both Sons and Daughters Into Submission—Will People Laugh if a Bachelor of 64 Marries?—What Is Puppy Love?

Dear Miss Dix—Both my husband and myself are old-fashioned enough to believe that "sparing the rod spoils the child," and the result is that our children get quite a few whippings. Some of our neighbors criticize us for the way we whip them, but we think it is for their good.

We have five young hopefuls, three girls and two boys. While they were small I used to take the strap to them, but since they have got older I turn them over to their father, who has a good stout cowhide for the purpose of correcting them, and he applies it very vigorously when they need it. He makes no distinction between them, but whips the girls just as severely as he does the boys. Neither does the age make any difference. The oldest girl, who is past eighteen, has been whipped three or four times since she was sixteen. My husband is especially strict with the children when they are between twelve and fourteen years old. When I was a girl I got more than a dozen whippings after I was sixteen, and I was more than twenty-one when I got the last one.

Do you approve of our methods?

VERY STRIRCT MOTHER.

Answer:

I do not. I think your methods are horrible and brutal, and I cannot understand why your children do not run away from parents who treat them so cruelly.

Certainly the picture of a big, husky man vigorously applying a cowhide whip to the tender white flesh of his young daughters, while the mother looks on applauding, is so revolting as to be almost unthinkable. Surely your method of breaking your children's spirits and making them cower before you must be efficacious, or else an eighteen-year-old girl would not submit to it. The marvel is that you have not driven her out on the streets to seek the protection of any man who promised to treat her kindly, and not beat her like a dog.

While a child is still so young that it cannot reason it may possibly be necessary to give a gentle smack to keep it from pulling at things, or to make it remember that it mustn't do certain dangerous things because it hurts to do them, but beyond that very mild and gentle form of corporal punishment a child should never be struck. To be beaten degrades a child in its own sight, and it degrades the parent in the child's eyes past all rehabilitation.

For every child knows that parents never whip except when they are angry and that the parents are venting their rage upon it because they are big and strong and the child is little and weak, and cannot fight back. Certainly there is no more cowardly act than for a six-foot man to pound a two-foot baby.

You cannot instill the principles of right living in children with a cowhide whip, nor can you hold them in the straight and narrow path by fear. In a little while they will be big enough to defend themselves and you dare not touch them. Then you will have no influence over them because they will no longer be afraid of you. They will have no affection or respect for you, and they will be determined to do the things they have been beaten for doing.

You said you took your beatings meekly, Very Strict Mother. Remember you came of a different era from your own children, who are American-born, and who belong to this new free generation. They will not endure what you endured. They will revolt. They will not stand being beaten and to their dying day they will loathe you and their father. So be warned in time and do not strike your children again.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a bachelor 64 years of age and very lonely, and I begin to feel that I have missed something that I might have enjoyed had I managed differently in the past. I have a lady friend two years younger than myself. We have known each other all our lives and have been on friendly terms always.

So I asked her the other day if she would consent to marry me, so we might spend our last days together. She replied that if I had asked her 35 years ago she would have said "yes," but that it is too late now and that people would laugh at us for getting married at our time of life. But it seems I cannot give her up. Shall I keep on proposing until she gives her consent?

A LONELY OLD BACHELOR.

Answer:

Certainly. All she needs is sufficient urging. And as for people ridiculing an elder bachelor and an old maid for getting married, that is nonsense. They will give you the glad hand instead of the laugh. Old people need companionship far more than young people do, and they can do nothing more sensible than to get married and provide themselves with companions, provided they marry some one of their own age and whom they have known for many years, so that they have a lot of common memories and interests.

But think of these 35 wasted years, Old Bachelor, when you might have had this woman who has loved you so long and so patiently at your side as your faithful wife; when you might have had a real home; when you might have had children, and now have grandchildren about your knees. It is a high price a man pays at the last for evading the responsibilities and burdens of matrimony.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—What is puppy love? JACKIE.

Answer:

Puppy love, son, is immature love, immature taste, the feeling young boys and girls have when they are attracted to each other one day and are tired of each other the next. You know how indiscriminate a puppy's appetite is—how it will chew on old shoes and eat the laundry soap, or anything else that happens to lie around handy? And you know how sniffy and contemptuous a wise old dog is of everything? That's puppy love, and a man's love.

When you are a boy you can fall in love with everything in skirts and you will be ready to follow every new skirt that floats across your path, and when you're a man you look back and laugh to think that you ever could have been interested in the petticoats that allured you. Because they won't be your taste at all. You will have outgrown your appetite for old shoes and laundry soap. Your own taste will be formed. You will know that you admire and need in a woman, and when you fall in love you will be in love for keeps. DOROTHY DIX.

Miss Black-Eyed Susan.

"Well, anyway," thought Thelma bitterly, "if I can't be the May queen, I'll have the prettiest costume of any of the dancers!" Thelma had been told that she was to be in the dance of the flowers as well as in the butterfly solo dance.

"There are six flowers," said Nancy, at rehearsal, "one for each color in the rainbow. Betty is a wild rose, Alice is a blue iris and Natalie is a green and white water lily. What kind of a flower would you like to be that is orange, Thelma?"

"A black-eyed Susan," answered Thelma, "with a skirt of petals." She practiced with the others till they all knew their parts perfectly, then the little butterfly dancer ran home to cut out a costume of orange cambric like you see above.

"I look like a queen even if I'm not one," she decided, looking in the mirror.

HAMON'S FABLED WEALTH.

There are many gifted liars in this land of the free. Many witnesses who appeared before the Walsh senate oil committee testified that they had been told that the late Jake Hamon spent a million dollars during the republican campaign of 1920.

Now Henry E. Lunsford of Kansas City, skilled accountant who examined Hamon's books after he was killed, says that at no time did the entire estate amount to more than one million dollars and that if Hamon spent any large amount of money during the campaign he was spending the funds of someone else and not his own.

All this reminds the writer that the executors of the Hamon estate reported that Hamon was facing bankruptcy when he was pistoled out of this vale of tears. He had been advertised to the world as an oil king, a railroad king, a dashing plunger who had amassed a fortune of many millions but newspaper correspondents created the most of the Hamon wealth in their picturesque tales of his sudden rise from poverty to affluence.

He contributed $25,000 to the republican campaign fund in 1920 and he entered the same in his daily ledger. Those who were close to Hamon and familiar with all his business operations and deals never regarded him as a wild spender.

He was a glutton for work; he gained his knowledge in the rough school of experience; he was a crude type of humanity to be the self-elected leader of the republicans of his state and he had been snubbed most contemptously by General Leonard Wood and former Governor Frank O. Lowden before he transferred his political affections to Warren G. Harding.

And this is the way Al Jennings rocked the world when he journeyed from California to Washington at the expense of the American tax payer.

CHIEF AGENTS OF CIVILIZATION.

Governor Neff in his recent campaigning, declared in all his speeches the church house, the court house and the school house the three great agencies of a real civilization. He said it at Glenrose and the people applauded, regardless of recent happenings in that beauty spot of Texas. President Colidge in his New York address made this declaration:

"One newspaper is better than many criminal laws. One school master is better than a legion of baliffs. One clergyman is better than an army with banners. These are our guarantees of internal peace and progress."

Lawmakers and those who hope to be lawmakers away down here in Texas should get the significance of this declaration, "One newspaper is better than many criminal laws."

It must be admitted that there are times when the president is very level headed as well as extremely cautious. It is an immortal truth. One real newspaper is better than a hundred criminal laws. Pittiless publicity of the legitimate kind makes rogues run to cover and keeps many weak men in the narrow path.

JONES AND HIS LOAD.

Senator W. A. Borah of Idaho has ben telling Jones some truths. He pointed out to Jones that while in 1894 the tax per capita in this country was $12.50, in 1922 it was $68.63 while the state and federal tax bill in 1913 was $2,194,000,000; in 1922 it was $7,061,000,000.

This brilliant Idaho senator reminded Jones that we, the American congress and state lawmakers have imposed a burden upon the people of this country the like of which has never been recorded in the history of the world. And then the congress voted a bonus that will add four billion dollars to the national debt.

Really the cost was frightful to make the world safe for democracy. Jones favored it and now Jones must pay for fifty years to come. Poor Jones, he is the digger. Proud Senator Sorghum; he is the spender. That is, he votes the appropriations.

THE QUICK AND THE DEAD.

According to an American economist the cotton crop of 1923 was worth $1,500,000,000 in the raw and to this another four billion dollars was added by manufacture. If Texas had the cotton mills to consume its cotton crop Texas would be the most prosperous of all the American states and its wealth per capita would be the highest to be found anywhere in the world. Why not turn the raw into the refined here at home?

The Kiss of Pharaoh

Quickly the official withdrew and Tutankhamen turned eagerly to El Caleb.

"Thou hearest?"

El Caleb nodded.

"Even so, O Egypt. Dost thou desire that I should remain at thy side or . . . ."

He moved to leave the apartment but the young king called him back.

"I have no secrets from thee, El Caleb. Thou knowest that. I desire thee to remain."

The high counsellor bowed and returned to the side of his master. Meanwhile Herotah had risen to her feet and was regarding the young king questioningly. He caught her glance and smiled tenderly, moving toward her and enfolding her in his strong arms.

"Fairest one, who am I, thy son in the sight of Amon, to require thee to withdraw at such a time? Nay, I would have thee always at my side, Herotah, and with thee . . . . El Caleb, who, with thee, is such a friend as no man, not even a king, could deserve. Only the secrets of death shall come between us, dear friends. Until that day ye shall abide with me always."

CHAPTER XXIV.

A Startling Command.

He was standing thus when the curtains over the entrance parted again and the official returned to announce the messengers from the court of the emperor of Bazur-Ashi. As the young man nodded his assent, the official stood back and three swarthy soldiers, whom their bearing and armor distinguished as men of high rank, passed into his presence.

They bowed low as they entered, yet El Caleb, a man of shrewd judgment, was quick to notice the suggestion of insolent indifference in their bearing.

The high counsellor stepped forward, frowning, and spoke to them.

"Our king hath been gracious to grant you immediate audience, but ye must needs be brief in what ye have to say. Speak, I beseech you, and if ye bring news of the evil high priest, of the deposed Aton . . . more, if ye can say one word to ease the anxiety of our king for the safety of the royal Rana . . . proceed with all haste, and Egypt will assure you of his gratitude."

The leader of the messengers, an imposing figure in his shining armor, smiled quietly and his hand moved to caress his stubby beard.

"We bring unto thee," he began, ignoring the high counsellor, and addressing himself to the monarch, "words from the lips of our monarch, the emperor of Bazur-Ashi. News hath reached our emperor, O Egypt of the death of Pharaoh Akhnaton and thy coronation."

"Even so," Tutankhamen cut in, obviously annoyed by the other's refusal to voice his message. "This thing is known throughout other countries than that which thou dost represent."

"Pharaoh Akhnaton," the messenger proceeded, "was a friend of our great emperor. The high counsellor of Akhnaton, one Hiljah, hath escaped from thy prisons, Pharaoh Tutankhamen, and even now enjoyeth the hospitality of our monarch in the palace of Bazur-Ashi."

The king's brow clouded with anger, and when he spoke his voice was coldly sarcastic.

"So it would seem, from the little thou didst speak unto my servant who received thee. Thou shalt know my wishes a while hence. Proceed."

"There is also at the palace, O Egypt, the fairest of the fair, whom thou dost aspire to place upon the throne of this empire as thy wife."

Tutankhamen stepped forward angrily, and raised his hand.

"I see, from thy voice and bearing, that thou speakest not as a friend to our cause. Remember, thou," and his words rang with a withering scorn, that I am ruler of all Egype, and that this mighty kingdom is, through me, the master of the world. Continue, I command thee, but see thou well that thine insolence appeareth not so evident in what thou has further to say. I would have respect from thee, and if thou dost not so respect the digity of my presence . . ."

The soldier smiled, fearing not to interrupt the words of the king.

"Remember, O Pharaoh, that she whose safety is very precious unto thee resideth in our midst, in the kingdom of Bazur-Ashi! Our royal monarch did require our safe return unto his palace, and our lives, O Egypt, are assured by the life of her whom . . ."

Tutankhamen gasped.

"Upon thy knees, thou son of insolence! El Caleb," and he turned sharply to the quiet figure of the counsellor, "do thou summon the slaves that stand without, and have these fools removed from my presence."

El Caleb, who had been watching the scene without a word, nodded slowly and passed from the apartment. As he went Tutankhamen turned again to the soldiers, his anger growing every moment.

"Did ye not hear me? Upon your knees, this instant, or your lives shall pay the penalty of your insolent disobedience to my commands! Do ye not know the folly of disobedience to the words of a king?"

The leader nodded, but neither he nor his companions made any move to obey.

"Pharaoh, we know thee not as king. Our ruler is the emperor. Him and him alone, will we obey."

But now the slaves had entered and six towering Nubians stood silently behind the soldiers, awaiting a sign from their royal master.

"Upon your knees!" Tutankhamen stormed: and then, after a momentary pause, he signalled to the slaves, who raised their strong arms and grasped the soldiers around their throats, forcing them easily to their knees.

"Now," Tutankhamen flared. "ye shall deliver your message thus. What is it that ye have to say unto me? Speak quickly ere, through mine anger, grievous harm be done unto you. 'Tis only love of her whom ye have cruelly stolen from this palace that saves you from death upon this instant."

The leader did not hesitate to deliver the remainder of his message with all speed.

"Our emperor, Pharaoh, desireth many things with which he did command us to acquaint thee."

"What is it that your emperor desireth of me?"

The soldier spoke quickly for several minutes, and when he had done Tutankhamen was standing erect, a figure of stone, it seemed. For some minutes the silence was tense, broken only by spasmodic gasps from Herotah, who had been listening in amazement to the impudent demands which the soldier had made on behalf of his emperor. At length Tutankhamen stepped slowly forward and, with his right hand, he drew his sword and struck the leading messenger sharply across the cheek with the gleaming side of the weapon.

"That," he cried, his eyes narrowing and his handsome features contorted with rage, "is my answer to thine emperor! Return thou, with haste, into the presence of thy king, remembering the pain that the blows of Pharaoh's sword caused thee. Depart with all speed, fools ere the messengers of the emperor of Bazur-Ashi no longer enjoy the safety of the traveler."

He motioned the slaves to remove the messengers from the apartment, and as he turned, Herotah ran forward and clutched anxiously at his shoulders.

"My son," she urged, "thou speakest without thought. What of thy love thy Rana . . . thine, my son, and mine? Upon the return of these messengers her life will pay for thine anger. Before you speakest finally to these men consult in solitude with thy god, Amon, and Amon alone, will advise thee."

Suddenly the anger that burned within his breast passed away, and, motioning the slaves to wait with the messengers until he should return, he moved across the apartment and passed into the gloom of his own chamber.

It was a long time ere he returned. His features were pale, but there was a light of sanity within his eyes that gladdened the hearts of El Caleb and Herotah. The young king walked directly up to the leader of the soldiers from Bazur-Ashi and spoke calmly, yet his words cut across the silence of the chamber like a whip-lash.

"I spoke to thee anon," he began slowly, "with anger in my voice. Thou hearest now, and perceivest that such emotion hath left the breast of Pharaoh Tutankhamen."

"'Tis true, O Egypt, even as thou sayest!"

Tutankhamen smiled.

"Thou knowest that I passed from hence, a while since, to lay this matter before Amon, the god of Egypt and Egypt's king?"

"Even so, O Egypt!"

"Thou dost recall that I spoke to thee of thy return to the kingdom and the court of thy master, the emperor of Zazur-Ashi?"

"Even so, O Egypt!"

The young man paused, and when he spoke none within that chamber was so calm as he.

"I spoke wrongly, then, of return. There will be no return to thy master. Tonight thou shalt find death within the dungeons that lie beneath the palace of Thebes. Soon mine armies set forth for the kingdom thou shalt never see again. Amon hath spoken thus through the mouth of Pharaoh Tutankhamen." He turned and motioned quickly to the waiting slaves. I, Pharaoh, have spoken. So be it, even as I have said."

So Goes It

The rule is that a man is not proud of his birthdays until after he has attained the age of 75.

When they get to be fifty, they begin admitting it and some of them write articles on how it feels to be fifty. But not until they reach the age of 75 do they begin to go on up.

Chauncey Depew leads the list. He celebrates birthdays so openly that it seems like he has one every few minutes. Having attained the ripe old age of ninety he probably will have one about every six months from now on.

TIMELY REVIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"WOMEN NEEDED IN PULPIT TO BRING PURITY IN PRIVATE AND POLITICAL LIFE"

Woman in the pulpit will bring about purity in political as well as in private life. Woman is a worthy medium for those divine messages usually interpreted by man. It has been proved in the religious organizations in which women, as well as men, are spiritual executives.

This is the opinion of Miss Edith Picton-Turbervill, the first woman in England to preach under the sanction of the Episcopal church. She arrived recently in the United States, partly to attend the women's peace conference.

"The Christian message will never be fully delivered in the churches until women alongside of men give their interpretation of it," she said. "God doesn't speak through masculine medium alone. Men throughout the ages have interpreted His message.

"After all, men and women have different ways of looking at a thing, different minds, a different approach. God doesn't speak through one sex. Just as in ordinary political and national life woman's contribution is needed, so it is in the churches.

Started as Social Worker.

"Twenty years of social work brought me into political life," Miss Picton-Tubervill, who was a candidate for parliament in the recent English elections, explained. "I know now that fundamental changes for the welfare of the people won't come through legislation, but through spirituality.

"Women will create a truer purity in sex life if they preach. For example, in the Society of Friends where women have always preached with men, there has never been a divorce. In Britain, if you ask what society has done most to give hope to the hopeless and love to those who have never known love, you will be told the Salvation Army. And the Salvation Army is an organization in which women, as well as men, may be generals. So I am persuaded that there will not only be more purity under such conditions, but more all-around humanity."

"It has been said that people will not come if a woman preaches. I speak only from experience, but when I preach the church is full. And when Maude Royden preaches her church overflows.

"I believe strongly in the labor party. The Labor party is not out to make all equal in every way—that would be the program of a lunatic. But it does mean to give all equal opportunities."

SPEAKING OF SHEIKS

Though his love-making ways are unique,
As the photoplay writers reveal,
The life of the average shiek,
To us had but little appeal,
We always considered more fun might be had,
In a lingering billing and cooing.
So we never have envied this rough-working lad,
His precipitate method of wooing.

This stealing a partner for life,
No doubt is a short way to court,
But it's likely to get one a wife
Of a quite incompatible sort.
Far better proceed with a little less haste;
For by making proposals too snappy,
He may get a girl who is not to his taste,
Which makes a chap very unhappy.

We haven't statistics at hand,
But we'll wager the drinks or cigars,
That out on that far stretching sand,
They have some good fast family jars.
And that many a shiek who bore off on his horse,
A lady who turned out a Tartar,
Spends the long after years in the throes of remorse,
A poor hapless, marital martyr.

We don't work so fast over here;
The speediest lover will find
That a girl needs six months or a year,
Before she can make up her mind.
And though we admit that we sometimes choose wrong—
For they're not all as fair as they're painted—
If the time that we woo is sufficiently long,
At least we get fairly acquainted.

Race Inferiority

By DR. FRANK CRANE

When former Senator James D. Phelan of California, appeared before the senate committee on immigration, to urge the exclusion of Japanese from the United States, he said:

"The ultimate purpose of the Japanese is to establish themselves in this country on an equality with Europeans and themselves enjoy citizenship. If they were to be admitted under the quota law they would win their first victory in the campaign for racial equality."

Here is the very point that is the sore spot in our relations with Japan and other nations of complexion different from our own.

The intimation is that the Japanese are an inferior race and that is the very intimation that the Japanese properly resent. That they are a different race and that it might be difficult to absorb them into our citizenship they do not deny. But different does not mean inferior.

Race pride and the belief that our own blood and stock is better than that of other races is a vicious conviction that is common to almost every race.

The Chinese have it, the Arabs have it, the English have, the French have it, and, just before the war, the Germans had it pretty bad.

I do not believe there is a savage tribe in the heart of Africa or on the islands of the seven seas that does not believe that its people are the chosen of God and a little better than their neighbors.

There is no objection to the United States saying that immigrants from certain countries shall be excluded and from certain other countries shall be admitted. That is its privilege. The objection comes to our statement that we exclude any race because its blood is inferior.

The Hindus, the Chinese and similar nations, are proud and cultured people. God made the negroes as well as the white folks. We have a right to say that these races are so different from us that we cannot at present absorb them into our national life without danger to national health, but we have no right to say that they are of a lower order.

The record of Japan, during the brief time that it has occupied a place in the family of nations, has been above reproach. She has never violated a treaty nor broken her word. She has always manifested a keen sense of honor and a proper pride. To go out of our way to insult her would me most unfortunate.

We should remember that wars usually grow out of just this sort of thing. They are the outcropping of long cultivated ill will.

There is no doubt in the world that Japan would heartily co-operate with the United States in any program of immigration that we might desire. But we must approach the Japanese as equals and self-respecting gentlemen.

SOILS AND SOIL PHYSICS.

Some Leguminous Plants.

Yesterday we discussed the part played by leguminous plants in supplying nitrogen to the soil. We told how nitrogen fixing bacteria lived on the roots of certain of these plants and how these bacteria had the power to take nitrogen from the air and put it in such shape that it could be used as food by plants.

Not all leguminous plants are known to act as hosts to these beneficial bacteria. To illustrate—the common mesquite tree or bush that grows over a great deal of this valley is a legume. So far as we have been able to determine by the inspection of mesquite roots none of them have nitrogen fixing bacteria on them. The same thing applies to mesquite growing in California and Arizona.

It may be that in certain parts of the world mesquite roots do have nitrogen fixing bacteria on them. It is at least entirely possible.

However, the matter of greatest interest is the kind of farm crops commonly grown that can and do act as hosts to nitrogen fixing bacteria.

Beans of all kinds can carry the bacteria. Peas the same. Alfalfa, sweet clover and all other true clovers are very commonly the best kinds of plant for the bacteria.

Corn, wheat, oats, barley, the various sorghums, millet, the various true grasses and such similar plants do not have any nitrogen fixing bacteria on their roots as far as we are able to learn. No scientist has ever been able to cause nitrogen fixing bacteria to grow on the roots of such plants.

The difference between the two classes of plants is at once apparent. The legumes improve the soil they grow in. The other class of plants exhaust the nitrogen from the soil they grow in and thus gradually wear it out.

OIL NEWS

OIL DISCOVERY BOOMS ARTESIA

Illinois Producers Company Starts Other Tests Near Strike

Special to The Record News.

ARTESIA, N. M., April 25.—Activity in the Artesia oil field is going forward at a rapid rate since the Illinois Producers well No. 3, has proved to be a producer of great magnitude. This hole, which has been drilled to a depth of 1,900 feet into a productive sand of 45 feet to 50 feet strata is now standing with 1,600 feet of oil in the hole. The well was capped early this week and drilling ceased for a short time. Many believe that the oil has risen to the surface by this time as the oil was rising rapidly at the time it was capped. According to drillers, the oil rose several hundred feet.

The Illinois Producers well No. 2, which was recently brought in as a strong gas well with over one-half million cubic feet of gas production, is gaining in production and gas pressure. The roar from this well can be heard for miles, when the valves are opened. Illinois Producers No. 1, is supplying sufficient gas for fuel in the drilling operations on the other wells.

Van Welsh, official of the company, has been in Artesia during the past week and has commenced an extensive building program in the field, prior to setting up of several rigs and an extensive drilling program. The lumber is being hauled from Artesia to the site of the field, which is a few miles east of town. Martin Yates, local manager of the operations of the company, is confident that an unusually productive field has been opened up since the bringing in of the well No. 3. T. S. Flynn, another prominent official of the company is expected in Artesia this week.

Several options have been secured on property near the railroad at Artesia for the purpose of selecting a site for a tank field and refinery. As soon as enough wells have been produced to warrant the installation of a pipe line, this will be constructed to the refinery site at Artesia.

Business and residence property at Artesia is advancing in value and many real estate transactions are being made daily. The demand for houses is greater than the supply, and a building program is evident.

The Howard interests, who are drilling south of Artesia near the Hawkins well No. 1, are going forward with their operations. A new standard rig was recently unloaded by this company at Artesia and will soon be in operation. The Windsor-Tigner well is being drilled across the Pecos river near the Illinois Producers boldings. In reality, the Artesia oil field has proved a paying field.

Graf a-Hampton Open New Area

Grafa and Hampton's Hobson No. 1, two miles east of Sunshine Hill and three miles south of the Hirschi producing district, has been completed from sand found at 926 feet and is estimated as 75-100 barrel pumper. The oil is said to be 42 gravity. The well extends the Baldwin and Jackson area one mile to the east.

Rigging Up

By SUMMERS

Operators report roads in bad condition in Archer and Wichita counties. Heavy hauling is hampered by deep ruts and swollen streams in various fields.

Supply houses report various companies are awaiting better weather conditions before hauling to the oil fields equipment contracted for prior to the rains.

The main Wichita Falls-Archer City-Olney road is slippery and muddy and very little traffic is being carried on along this important highway.

A few hours of wind and sunshine will aid greatly in drying up the mud and traffic will again become normal to the various oil districts.

The rain will be of much benefit to many operators. Water is plentiful this spring and the rain increased the supply for drilling purposes.

C. C. Cannan's Allen No. 1, in the Kingsbury extension of the Luling field has caused much concern to its owners because the well for a time defied crew and ran wild as a mammoth gasser. It is now showing for a good producer and the owners are erecting a battery of storage tanks to take care of the crude until pipe line connections can be made.

The Luling district is receiving more attention than any other area in south or southwest Texas and is next to Archer county in the amount of development in the state.

BRIDWELL-HEYDRICK EXPECT PRODUCER

Bridwell and Heydrick's L. F. Wilson No. 2, lot 8, section 23, American Tribune New Colony Lands survey, Archer county, was bailing late Friday afternoon from sand found at depth of 1,587 feet. The well is expected to make a good producer, according to a member of the firm.

KNIGHT-HINES TEST DRILLING 950 FEET

Knight and Hines' Helen I. Musson No. 1, 31-5s-9w, Cotton county, Okla., is drilling at reported depth of 948 feet. The test is of interest to Wichita Falls operators because of the fact several oil men have attempted to secure acreage in that district.

Looks now as though the year 1924 might be a banner one for southpaws. At least the initial efforts of some of the lefthanders indicated that. Jack Bentley, Art Nehf, Walter Ruether, Joe Shaute, Dinty Gearin and one or two others were hooking 'em around the batters' necks in good style in the first few games.

Humble Completes 150-Barrel well

The Humble Oil and Refining company's No. 1, section 1, T. & N. O. R. R. company survey, abstract 316, Wichita county, has been completed from sand encountered at depth of 1,5.5 feet and is estimated as 150-175 barrel pumper daily.

TEXHOMA COMPANY MAKES LOCATION

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company has made location for Burnett B-3. The test will be an offset to the east of the Gulf Production company's No. 2 well in section 1 and is 150 feet north, 160 feet east of the west 20 acres of the northwest 40 acres of the south 160 of section 5, S. A. & M. G. survey.

Four or five more days until somebody will start discussing whether or not the ball is livelier than last year. What's the difference? The discussions never amount to anything.

GULF COMPLETES 100 BARREL WELL

The Gulf Production company's Burnett No. 2, section 1, T. N. O. R. R. company survey, Wichita county, was completed Friday from sand encountered at a depth of 1,525 feet and is estimated good for 100 barrels daily. The well is an offset to the Texhoma Oil and Refining company's producers in section 5, S. A. & M. G. survey.

Ex-German Soldiers to Farm Extensive Estates in Persia

By The Associated Press.

MADGEBURG, Germany.—Detlef Schmude, a former captain in the German army, is about to lead a company of his former soldiers into Persia, where two big estates west of Teheran comprising about 25,000 acres have been put at their disposal. The land and climate are suitable for the cultivation of cotton, rice, tobacco and tea.

Schmude has been the leader of a colony of ex-soldiers who have been cultivating land near Voelpke, but the colonists are dissatisfied with the agricultural and political situation in Germany.

Time of game, 2:40. Umpires, Estill and O'Toole.

By The Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., April 25.—Tanner's Spudders pulled out of a hole in the ninth for the second time in as many days, but went only far enough to tie the count, and the third game here, today, ended in an 8-all knot, called at the end of the ninth on account of darkness. Wichita Falls used four pitchers in an effort to stem the Gasser tide, while Ira Thomas near exhausted his roster of shoving in sixteen players, including two moundsmen.

Twice did Shreveport place three men on the bases with none out, batting hard against Tanner's best to lower a Wichita Falls five-tally lead. In the first instance, the side was retired through the efforts of Ed Wetzel and splendid support. The second time, following directly in the sixth frame, was not so good for the Spudders, and Thomas' men jumped into a tie with five runs.

Gassers Get in Front.

The seventh saw the home club reach out and take the fore, with a lone run. This stood until the ninth, when a last effort of Wichita forced in the tying run. Long innings and extra time caused the seesaw affair to be called.

A game was started off for the third trip of the series here that promised to be close. The first two innings Lefty Wright and Foreman held back batsmen from a tally. The visitors broke ice in the third with a single marker. This was evened by the home club in the same inning. A repetition of inning three came in the fourth, when each outfit was content with a run.

Spudders Lead in Fifth.

A nice appearing 2 to 2 tie was annihilated by the Spudders in the fifth, as two counters trickled across. Shreveport failed to hold the pace and slumped behind. Wichita advanced another when they were not content until three scores were chalked up in the sixth.

The Gassers did it all in one jump. Making up for an inning lost, the Thomas men tore up the paths for five scores and once more made it anybody's game.

Following the holocaust of Gasser tallies in the sixth, the Spudders were retired runless for the seventh. Shreveport caught the jump and went on ahead by a single score, their time at bat in that session.

Rally in Ninth.

Nothing remarkable happened in the eighth. Wichita Falls then duplicated their feat of the day before and rallied in the ninth for a tying run. Shreveport was helpless and the trade-out was called. It was growing dark.

John "Lefty" Wright began hostilities from the forum. The good southsouper was efficient and effective until the fifth. Ed. Wetzel was relief and took up the pitching duties in the fifth, with runners on first and third, and none down. The mighty Sullivan walked, filling the bases. The fast plays, Tanner to Jonnard, and Wetzel to Jonnard to Coombs, retired the side without loss.

Wetzel Passes Out.

The sixth saw Wetzel's departure. Two singles and a base hit filled the bases. Zeider walked, forcing in a run. Dick Morgan assumed the position of responsibility. Two errors and sacrifices drew in four more runs for Shreveport before Morgan could get it ended.

Hippo Hodges walked two men after going in at the beginning of the ninth, but that was the total action on the part of Shreveport.

Wichita Falls scored after the following manner: Third inning, with two men down, Tanner and Weiss walked. Fitzgerald singled, scoring Tanner, but Weiss was caught off third, rounding. Fourth: Callaghan whiffed. White singled to center, and scored on Jonnard's double to right. Jonnard was thrown out trying to make it three bases. Wright grounded out. Fifth: Coombs grounded out. Tanner singled and took second on Weiss' single. The skipper went to third as Fitzgerald forced Weiss. Turgeon was hit by a pitched ball and went on to fill the bases. Callaghan singled to center, scoring Tanner and Fitzgerald. White forced Callaghan.

Jonnard Hits Homer.

Sixth: Bubber Jonnard socked the first, Coombs to second on Orr's boot It was a home run. Wetzel grounded out, but Coombs singled. Tanner to first, Coombs to esecond on Orr's boot of Tanner's grounder. They both scored as Weiss doubled to center. Fitzgerald flied out, Turgeon walked and Callaghan popped out.

Ninth: Fitzgerald made first on Orr's error. Turgeon sacrificed him to second. Callaghan singled to left and Fitzgerald scored, as Callaghan went on to second. White made the second out, when he skied. Jonnard was walked. Smith, batting for Morgan, grounded out.

Berger Shines In Managerial Role

Josephus Berger, known well here and there as former Spudder shortstopper, has stepped himself into something of a like situation as he left the "City that faith build." For, Joe is lined up to have a great swatting club, but yet weak in the hurling quarter. He is manager of the Denver Bears.

As for the general Denver proposition, Berger was thought to be stepping into a hard situation. Previous results were of the kind to make managers leary of the Western league Bruins.

But these things seem to have taken their proverbial course, and Joe is building for Denver a real club. With the addition of Buzz Murphy to the outfield, .300 hitters will be a thing of plenty, it is expected. The once famous Denver infield, famous for its sieve-like capacity, is also given a boost.

George Cutshaw, veteran big league outfield is also a Detroit castoff. He release last fall from the Tigers, is now coach and utility man for the Seattle Pacific Coast league club. It is an interesting coincidence that the regular second sacker of the coast outfied is also a Detroit castoff. He is Cliff Brady. The Tigers brought Brady from Rochester a couple of years ago, ostensibly to break him into the second base job, then held by Cutshaw. In a spring game Brady broke his leg and the accident cost him his chance. He has recovered from the injury now, however.

English are enthusiastic over a new game called "knurr." It's a combination of golf and baseball. The cuss words of both games are appropriate for use of dubs in the new pastime.

Cedric Durst, once slated to fill George Sisler's shoes at first base, is expected to be one of the stars of the Los Angeles Pacific Coast team this season.

They Said Bob Was Finished 12 Years Ago—Critics Did

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Twenty-one years ago he broke into professional baseball.

Twelve years ago the big leagues called him "through" and sent him to the minors.

Six years ago two clubs argued for his services.

Two years ago the critics said "he has a few games left in his system but his days as a regular are ended."

The other day he turned the champion Yanks back with six hits.

All of which gives the wise boys another chance to guess regarding the future of the gentleman under discussion—John P. "Jack" Quinn.

And the best guess now is that he will be pitching until his eyes go bad or his feet get tender. His arm seems to be immune from injury or ailment.

Arm's a Tough One.

This statement regarding the well known soup bone is not exaggerated. Quinn says seriously that in his 21 years as a pitcher he has never known a really sore arm. And this is remarkable in view of the way he has dragged that arm around, across and through the country. From the dampness of the coal mines around Connellsville, Pa., to the sunny southern sun of Georgia, the cold evenings of California, the sultry heat of a New York summer and the chilly winds of the Great Lakes region the arm has gone on its pitching way without complaint.

Quinn began life as John Quin Picus. When he started to play baseball however, the only time he heard his real last name was when, as captain, he'd choose up sides. Then all the kids would holler "Oh Jack, Pick-us."

After cavorting for three years with the Pennsylvania state outfit at Connellsville, Jack got a chance to show his stuff with Macon in the South Atlantic league. After winning six and losing five games for that team in 1907 he moved to Richmond in the Virginia league. He broke into 17 games with that club and won 14 games without a defeat. The Yankees, got him in the draft that fall.

Had One Big Year.

Quinn had but one good season with the New Yorkers in the four seasons he toiled with them. That was in 1910, when he won 18 and lost 12 games. The Yanks released him to Rochester in 1912 and no other clubs objected. The following season—1913—he was sold to Boston. He failed to get going in the Hub, however, and the next spring jumped to the Baltimore Feds.

When the dove of peace picked out a landing place Quinn was sent to Vernon in the coast league under the baseball treaty terms.

He had won 52 games and lost but 39 for the coasters when, in 1918, the White Sox and Yanks started arguing for his services. The Yanks won the argument. Over the two campaigns of 1919 and 1920 he won 32 and lost 24 games for the Hugginites and then, the following season, was sent to the Yankee farm—the Boston Red Sox park.

He turned in 13 victories in 1922 and the same number last year for the Red Sox and lost a total of 32 games in the two campaigns. This with a second division outfit.

Now, at the ripe old age of at least 39 he seems to have still that "few games more" left in his system that were mentioned two or three years ago.

Cy Young, Walter Johnson and a few others have it on Jack as a great pitcher but it must be admitted he has been a glutten for punishment.

Today's Iron

By T. T. HUNT.

Mons. Bubber Jonnard, the rising young Spudder backstopper, rose into the limelight on a Friday. He was the most important batsman on the club, outside of what other opinions might be. Besides getting himself a coveted home run, he doubled and sent in another tally. He was purposely walked in the ninth.

Bubber was also called on to watch his step and he produced when there were three men on base and a negligible number out.

Buddy Tanner led his club in scoring with three runs and tied Dashiell for honors.

Petit Turgeon was the only swatsman left out. He walked once and was hit by a pitched ball another time.

The bat boy had a great day for Shreveport, but they didn't let him bat. Then, too, there was Ira—he was not officially recorded with a time at bat.

Two tie contests and a rain-out in the Texas in one day. Both tie games were called without extra innings.

Having run down a good center fielder and another left gardener, Thomas sent in fresh ones.

Three fast double plays in which Tanner, Jonnard and Coombs featured, were all of that variety for the day.

Santone was no doubt somewhat put out by the sandstorm of yesterday. On the other hand, it might have saved them a beating at the claws of the Crabs.

Beaumont has it in for the Buffs again.

Changes in the Texas rag race were few, frequent and far between following the latest results.

Wichita Falls, winning, could not have gone ahead of San Antonio, but could have drawn away from the poor company of Fort Worth.

Ty Deplores Friendship Between Rival Players

Cobb, the dynamic Georgian of cyclonic temper, has never given peace a fair trial, and now he publicly deplores friendship and fraternity between players of rival ball teams, says Wetsbrook Pegler of the United News.

"Let us have fight," sums up Ty's attitude, according to Pegler.

The Tiger manager's point is that players who do not work up a healthy hate for their rivals are likely to be too considerate in the use of their spikes when sliding to base, too slow to take advantage of a rival's professional errors, and in other ways work more for a friendly baseball rivalry instead of closely and hard-fought contests.

PITT DEFENSE BREAKS DOWN

Both Teams Maul Agate For Number of Hard Drives

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, April 25.—After obtaining a lead of one run, Pittsburgh's defense collapsed and Cincinnati made it two straight from the Pirates by winning today's game 10 to 4.

As result of this victory while the New York Giants were losing to Brooklyn 3 to 2, the Reds moved into first place in the standing of the National league race.

Hargrave of Cincy and Grimm of the Pirates both hit homers with runners on the bases.

Both teams pounded the ball hard. Luque, ace of the Reds, was touched for 11 safeties, while Morrison of Pittsburgh gave up 13 hits. Score:

British Go Down Before America In Penn Carnival

PENN STATE DECISIVELY BEATS CAMBRIDGE IN MEDLEY RELAY

Clarke of Johns-Hopkins Defeats English Champ in Special Furlong Race—West Defends Pentathlon Title

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—Britain was defeated by America in two international tests today, the opening day of the Pennsylvania relay carnival, when Cambridge university's quartet met decisive defeat in the college sprint medley relay championship after Eric Liddell, British sprint champion, was conquered by Louis Clarke of Johns-Hopkins, in a special furlong race.

Pennsylvania State's crack quartet took the sprint medley honors, beating Georgetown by 20 yards with Cambridge third, another 10 yards in the rear.

West Defends Honors

The successful defense of his pentathlon, or all-around honors by Charles West of Washington and Jefferson, Pennsylvania's triumph in the distance medley relay title event, and Verne Booth's victory in the two-mile individual run were other outstanding features.

West captured the national all-around college title for the second successive year when he was victorious in the pentathlon. West had the low total of 13 points.

West clinched his crown when he won the 1,500 meter run, last of the five events making up the all-around program.

Penn State's quartet during the race twice broke his stride. Despite his nervous condition, he ran the race in good time but there were several men ahead of him.

"On the take-off Kenneth Hackler gained about ten yards on his opponents. He ran the race in good time, too, but at the last of his lap somebody darted ahead of him.

Get Take-off

"Again we gained on the take-off, Captain McNatt being all set. Here was where we won the meet for the other teams thought McNatt was Jim Reese. The result was they let McNatt set the pace, though he was severely crippled on account of his ankle. They continued to let him set the pace for the first two laps and then in the third passed ahead of him. Had he not been permitted to set the pace, we would have lost out.

"Jim Reese started the last race far behind. There were about six men ahead of him. Reese let the other boys set the pace for the first two laps. In the third lap he ran at top speed, easily passing all opponents, and finished fully fifty yards ahead of his nearest competitor."

COACH TELLS OF TEXAS VICTORY

How Captain McNatt, Lame, Was Mistaken For Jim Reese

AUSTIN, Tex., April 25.—Mistaking of Captain Richard McNatt of the Longhorns, who was badly crippled, for Jim Reese, the sensational runner, by the other teams entered in the Kansas medley relay race of Lawrence enabled the University of Texas to win first place and lower the worlds record, in the opinion of Coach Clyde Littlefield.

Eleven Entrants

There were 11 teams entered in the medley race at Kansas, including Northwestern university, Grinnell college, University of Iowa, University of Kansas, Creighton university, Kansas state, Iowa state, Drake university, University of Nebraska and Oklahoma A. & M.

Coach Littlefield tells the following account of the race:

"George Ritchie ran the first distance for the Longhorns. Before the game he was extremely nervous and

Rain Holds Up Junior Net Meet

Thursday's rain cut into the elimination contests of the Junior college tennis aspirants, forcing the remainder of these matches to be set for next week.

One game was played Thursday, in the boys' doubles, when Beck and Brothers defeated Haney and Friley 9-7. This brace will carry over to next week and be completed along with other matches.

Those in charge of the net trials express themselves as being anxious to get them finished in time for the junior college tournament, to be held at Waco under auspices of Bayor university early in May.

5 More Days To Render Property For City Taxes

Only five more days remain in which tax renditions on city property may be made, according to an announcement made Friday by City Tax Assessor and Collector Hyer. Deputies in the tax office have been busy for some weeks past checking over renditions of the city and bringing in assessments that were missed on the first round, with the result that this work is now practically completed.

After the assessment time limit expires, the tax rolls will be put in shape for the board of equalization which is to be appointed to go over all renditions and make whatever adjustments are deemed necessary.

An unusually small number of renditions are to be placed on the unrendered roll this year, Mr. Hyer stated.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Money invested in factories or homes should be protected by fire and tornado insurance. Appraisals insure insurance.

Frequently owners of property discover after a fire that through insuring on original cost the amount collected from the insurance companies will not replace the destroyed property. This frequently causes the failure of a business.

Most insurance policies have a provision known as the "Co-Insurance Clause" which states that the companies are liable only for such proportion of the loss as the insurance bears to 80 per cent of the value of the property.

If a property would cost $100,000 to replace today, $80,000 insurance should be carried. If only $40,000 is carried and a $20,000 loss occurs, the owner will only collect $10,000.

To determine today's value every property owner should employ an appraisal company and carry insurance on the basis of their report.

CANYON BOY "TAKES CARE OF HIMSELF"

By The Associated Press.

CANYON, Texas—Claude Boone, Jr., 13, believes a boy can shift for himself when it is necessary. A district interscholastic league meet was to take place at Canyon, but at St. Francis where Claude lives, no arrangements had been made to send him. He got to Amarillo about noon of the day of the contest, only to find that there was no train or service car by which he could get to Canyon to the meet; finally he found a truck driver who was willing to take him. He arrived in Canyon 15 minutes before the declamation contest for rural boys of his age was to take place. He was entered. He won. When the state contest takes place at Austin in May there will be no prouder contestant for state honors than Claude Boone, Jr., who believes a boy must do his own managing.

May Establish Free Employment Agencies

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas—Free employment agencies permanently maintained in the larger cities of the state are being considered by the state department of labor, according to State Labor Commissioner Joseph S. Myers, who said today that such work conducted by the department in the past had been very successful.

Last season free employment offices were established by the department in San Antonio, Laredo and El Paso for the purpose of supplying information to the large number of farm laborers originating at those points and directing their movement to other sections of the state where acute shortages of labor, especially farm labor, existed. Offices also were maintained at Waco, Dallas and Fort Worth to act as distribution centers for this surplus labor. The results were so gratifying that Commissioner Myers feels warranted in organizing the work for the forthcoming season upon a much more comprehensive scale, he said.

Snow Blasted from Railway To Move Trains in Alaska

By The Associated Press.

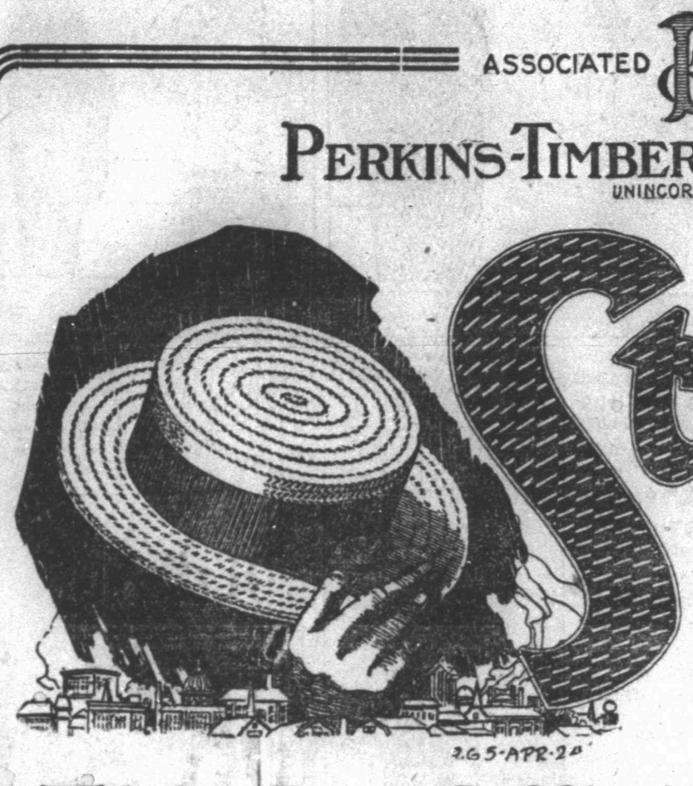

FAIRBANKS, Alaska.—Snowslide problems on the government's Alaska railroad present difficulties never encountered by transcontinental railroad companies during the milder winters in the states, where rotary plows usually are enough to open the roads.

In the latter part of this winter 600 kegs of black powder were used in a month on the Alaska railroad to remove an avalanche of snow, 71 miles from Seward, that had wrecked snowsheds and blocked traffic. T powder was exploded in the keg c tainers, instead of by the former me od of pouring the blasting mater into coyote holes. Gas helmets we used by the men to enter the smo filled snowsheds to place the kegs place for blasting. The final bla which cleared the line of the last 100,000 yards of snow, consumed nea ly two tons of powder.

In places along the right-of-wa where plows failed to work succes fully and where the snow was not e cessively deep, steam was employe The steam pipes, leading from the r tary engine, cut paths through t snow.

NEW BUILDING CAUSES SUIT

Bauch Sues for $2,417 Damages from Kahn Heirs Friday

Alleging that the action of the defendants in putting up a new brick building on Seventh street near their business location had flooded the basement of the plaintiffs and caused damages of $2,417.50 to leather stocks the Bauch Leather company Friday brought suit of that amount against Mrs. Minnie Kahn, executrix of the estate of Alex Kahn, deceased, et al. The case was filed in the 30th district court.

The petition recited that in February of the present year, the defendants started construction of a building on Seventh street between Ohio and Indiana avenues, the location of which was such as to act as a barrier to the natural drainage of the territory. As a result of this construction it is alleged the basement of the plaintifs, in which was stored a large amount of valuable leather, was flooded and the goods damaged.

FERTILIZER SALES IN TEXAS INCREASE

By The Associated Press.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—Fertilizer sales in Texas in 1924 are about 40 per cent greater than in 1920, according to G. S. Fraps, state chemist with office located here. Sales to April 1 have been 108,700 tons, while last year they were 75,500 tons, Mr. Fraps said. The fertilizers sold are also said to be of higher grade, while the farmers are paying more attention to the selection of the kind of fertilizer to be used. The 11 standard fertilizers recommended by the agricultural workers in Texas have proven very helpful to the farmers, Mr. Freps said.

COWBOY "WILLIAM TELL" ACT RESULTS IN TARGET'S DEATH

HARDIN, Mont.—A "William Tell" stunt, without the apple, resulted in the death of Henry Abendroth and the conviction of William Cosgrove for manslaughter.

The two men were employed on a nearby ranch as cowpunchers. Abendroth, holding out his hat, challenged Cosgrove to shoot a hole through it. Cosgrove, reputedly an expert shot, fired and missed. Abendroth then placed the hat on his head and told Cosgrove to try to hit it in that position. Cosgrove fired again and Abendroth fell shot through the head.

Cosgrove was sentenced to from one to two years in the penitentiary, but the sentence was suspended and he was released with an admonition.

Mrs. Johanna Tell and the man she killed, Charles Blaha.

Her mind is easy now. Her face is bright. She is able to sleep. The terrible secret so preyed upon her that Mrs. Johanna Tell voluntarily appeared before New York police and told the startling story of how she shot and hacked with a hatchet her employer, Charles Blaha, to death, and then buried his body. She was not believed until police dug up the body of Blaha on his small farm. Self defense is her plea. Mrs. Tell and her daughter, 14 lived with Blaha, for whom she was housekeeper.

TWO MORE HELD FOR ROBBERIES

Two men are being held in the city jail pending filing of formal charges against them in connection with several robberies here in the past few months. They were returned Thursday night from Channing, Texas, where they were arrested on request of the local police department.

In their possession at the time of the arrest was found a large kit of carpenter's tools, thus far unclaimed, and a quantity of groceries identified as having been stolen from the C. H. Parker grocery here.

Efforts are being made to locate the owner of the tools.

COLLECTION OF NOTES SOUGHT

Priddy Starts Action Against Business Men's Oil Company

Evidence in a case for the collection of two promisory notes of $6,750 each was being heard Friday by Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court the style of which was W. M. Priddy vs. The Business Men's Oil company et al.

The case is an outgrowth of some business transactions early in 1919 when oil activity in the newly discovered Burkburnett pool was at its height. The petition of the plaintiff recites that at that time he sold to the defendants a small tract of land on the Van Cleve tract, accepting some cash and the balance in notes.

In combatting the suit the defendants, who are residents of Fort Worth allege that the land was sold them under misrepresentations, that the plaintiff had told them proven production was being obtained on three sides of the tract purchased and that other allegations were made.

Mr. Priddy flatly denied these claims when he took the stand Friday afternoon.

The case will be continued today.

THIEVES GET $140 FROM GAS STATION SAFE ON EIGHTH

Thieves were busy again Thursday night, taking advantage of the heavy rains after midnight and breaking into the filling station and auto accessory shop of Henry Hund, Eighth and Lamar, where $140 was obtained from the office safe. The strongbox was opened by breaking off the combination dial and driving the tumblers back with a punch.

The job, police believe, was the work of the same gang that has been active throughout the city for some time past and who, during that time, have entered a number of filling stations, grocery stores and other business houses.

Nothing else of value was taken from the store, robbers evidently wanting nothing but cash.

City Detectives Boone and Hart, who were assigned to the case, stated that the robbery occurred about 1 o'clock Friday morning during the heaviest part of the storm that swept the city at that time.

ELECTRA VOTES ON ROAD BONDS

Little Opposition Expected Today on $500,000 Issue For Highways

A heavy vote with little opposition evident was forecast last night for the special road bond election scheduled to be held in Electra Saturday and in which voters in special road district No. 1 will ballot on whether or not a $500,000 road bond issue shall be floated. The district was created recently by an order of the commissioners court.

Should the bonds carry, and those interested in the case seemed to think Friday that little doubt existed that they would, Electra will practically complete her road building program by construction of three new highways. One of these will extend south from Electra to the Archer county line, another will run from Electra to Sunshine Hill and the third will traverse that territory between Electra and the Clara community.

Three voting boxes have been provided, north Electra, south Electra and Mt. Carmel. Polls open and close at 7 o'clock.

MAKING CHECK OF OCCUPATION TAXES

A check of occupation licenses issued in Wichita county during the present year is being made by P. J. Florence, a deputy from the state comptrollers office. All firms in Wichita Falls that are liable to occupation tax payments are also to be checked over, Mr. Florence stated.

Records at the county tax collector's office were declared by the deputy to be in splendid condition.

COTTON MARKET SHARP ADVANCE

May Contracts Go As High As 30.70 in Days Trading

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The feature in the cotton market today was the very sharp advance which followed the stopping of a few notices and carried the price up to 30.70 for May contracts, or 115 points net higher. New crop months were slow to respond but October sold at 24.09, or 33 points above yesterday's closing quotation.

The market closed at net advances of 23 to 110 points and very steady.

The opening was unchanged, and soon rose on steady cables. Selling developed on the early weather map, and prices dropped slightly. The May notices were estimated at only 1,700 bales, however, and the market soon turned firmer on covering by May and July shorts. The western belt forecast for lower temperature seemed to stimulate buying and the advance became more rapid late in the afternoon on bullish week-end figures and better reports from the stock market.

All positions made new highs for the day in the late trading and the close was within five or six points of the best. Two private crop reports were published, one pointing to an increase of six per cent and the other of 8 per cent in acreage. Port receipts today 7,953; U. S. port stocks 527,000; exports 14,634, making 4,950,693 so far this season.

WEATHER BOOST GRAIN PRICES

Legislation Pending At Washington Also Has Effect

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 25.—Cold weather over Canada and the Dakotas did a great deal today to lift wheat prices here, and so too did uncertainty over proposed legislation at Washington. The closing in the wheat market was firm, 5-8 to 7-8 cent net higher, May 103 1-4 to 103 3-8 and July 105 1-4 to 105 3-8, with corn 3-8 to 3-4 cent up, oats showing 1-8 to 1-4@3-8 cent gain, with provisions at 5 to 15 cents decline.

Notwithstanding some enlargement of corn receipts here, corn and oats responded readily to the advance of the wheat market.

Liquidating sales of May lard weakened the provision market.

STOCKS SHOW BIG RECOVERY

Rails and Steel Lead Out To Overcome Short Interests

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The brisk recovery in stock prices, accompanied by more active trading in today's signalled the partial retreat of an overcrowded short interest.

Led by U. S. Steel common, which closed 2 1-2 points higher at 100 1-2 on buying based on expectation of favorable developments at next week's dividend meeting, active industrials rebounded 1 to 9 points above yesterday's final figures. Rails presented a more spotty appearance, strength of Nickel Plate being offset by the weakness of Norfolk and Western.

Abundance of call money at low rates, which was explained by the fact that the local federal reserve bank's ratio was the highest in nearly seven years, was a contributing factor in the covering movement. Call money, which opened at 3 3-4 per cent, was reduced later to 3 1-2, "outside loans" being available below this figure. Time money rates eased slightly, short term funds being available at 4 1-4 per cent. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Reports of market improvement in the oil, copper and shipping industries furnished the back-ground for a substantial advance in those groups, net gains of 1 to 2 1-2 points being recorded by Pacific Oil, the Pan-American issues, Marland, Cosden and Standard Oil of California.

Foreign exchanges were again slightly reactionary. Demand sterling ruled about 1-4 cent lower around $4.37 1-4, and French francs were quoted slightly above 6 1-4 cents.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, April 25.—Conditions in the cattle yards today were unchanged. Nothing was good enough to develop all that was in the market, and in several departments the trade was not given a test. Receipts were estimated at 2,500 head of cattle and 500 calves.

Calves sold freely on a strong basis. One car of south Texas calves sold at 8.75. Most deals ranged from 5.00 to 7.50.

An advance of 5 cents was recorded for hogs. Only 800 head were here. One car sold at 7.40 and another load went at 7.35. Most of the supply found an outlet at 7.00 to 7.25.

Pigs were purchased at 5.50 to 5.75.

Another decline featured the trade in the sheep house. Prices were called 25 to 35 cents lower. The best wethers here went at 8.25 and some of good quality had to sell at 8.00. Receipts were close to 2,200 head.

The Mother Pool of This District Is To Be Found

There can be no question but there is deep oil in Wichita, Archer and Baylor counties, and it's surprising there has been no greater effort to locate it.

The producing districts will be greater in area than the upper sands, production will be more uniform, the wells will come in larger and the oil of very high gasoline content.

And the best tanks to put it in will continue to be M & V'S.

Loneliest Outpost in World Established on the Kara Sea

By The Associated Press.

LENINGRAD.—What is said to be the most lonesome outpost in the world for human beings has been set up at Karsk, on the Kara sea, an arm of the Arctic, in the form of a wireless and hydro-meterological station. The Kara sea is blocked by ice the greater part of the year, being passable for ships during only a few weeks in summer.

The Academy of Sicences in Leningrad announced recently that four smaller stations also had been established on the Kara sea by the Soviet government, each of these being combined with a hydro-meteorological bureau. The wireless station at Karsk keeps in touch with vessels in Polar waters and sends out weather forecasts regularly. There are but two men at the station, and, because of the ice and weather conditions, it is possible to send them supplies only once every year. The chief recreation of the meteorologists and wireless operators is hunting and fishing.

Smokestack Among Old Towers Angers Rothenburg Citizens

ROTHENBURG, Bavaria. — Rothenburgers are up in arms because the town council has granted a factory the right to erect a smokestack 200 feet high in the center of this picturesque medieval city which is regarded as Germany's most perfectly preserved ancient town.

Hitherto there has not been a discordant note in this old walled city. It stands just as it was in the days when Tilly entered it during the Thirty Years' war, and is one of the most popular Bavarian centers for tourists.

Rothenburg stands on a high hill and the residents insist that the factory might much better be located in the valley beneath it, where the smokestack would not break the skyline of picturesque roofs and sombre towers.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—Cotton developed decided strength in old crop positions in today's trading. Opening steady and slightly higher, prices soon showed gains of 23 to 24 points but this initial gain was lost on favorable crop news, May, July and October dropping 40 to 20 points under the previous close with new crops losing the most. The market soon rallied and continued on the upgrade practically all day, with small reactions due to liquidation. Near the close all months reached the high points with May 302, July 92 and October showing net gain for the day of 75 to 96 points on old crop months and 27 to 30 on new crop positions.

The steadiness at the start in the face of an unfavorable Liverpool was due to the absence of May notices in the local market and the circulation of notice for only 1,500 bales in the northern market. The moderate reaction which followed was due to beneficial rains in Texas. The market soon turned firmer on a forecast for more rains in the belt and colder weather.

Near the close the strength of local spots and a report that a big New York operator was covering freely started a sharp upturn. On this bulge May advanced to 30.60, or within a few points of five dollars per bale for the day.

BRADSTREET HAS CHEERFUL VIEW OF CONDITIONS

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

The advance of the season and more settled spring weather tends to counter balance the reaction from Easter buying, and make for more cheerful reports as to crops, and likewise for slightly better advices as to retail trade. The latter is, however, decidedly irregular, and does not seem to have come up to the expectations based upon the later—and longer—Easter season. Wholesale trade and industry generally tend to contract, than expand. Collections have sagged slightly. The decline, however, from a year ago at this date, when, it will be recalled, trade was active and industry at high tide, does not seem very great, and clearing returns point to a larger business, but the long-continued cautious buying at wholesale seems to be finding its counterpart in retail trade, which hitherto has been esteemed to have been quiet because of weather and seasonal conditions. Failure for April to date has run a shade larger in numbers than a year ago.

Weekly bank clearings, $7,476,523,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Cottonseed oil was easy today, closing bids being near the bottom, 10 to 15 points net lower. Aside from liquidating sales in May there was little feature to the trading. The weakness in lard had a bearish effect upon sentiment. Sales, 9,700 barrels. Prime summer yellow spot 9.80. May closed 9.93; July 10.53; September 10.32; October 9.85, all bid.

LAUNCH DRIVE FOR FARM FUND

Campaign to Start Next Monday to Raise All Of $6,000 Needed

The actual campaign for the raising of the $6,000 from the business men of Wichita Falls for their pledged one-third of the cost of the experimental farm will be launched Monday, according to announcement made at the business council luncheon of the chamber of commerce Friday noon at the Kemp hotel.

Men who are to serve on committees to raise the funds are asked to meet at the chamber at 9 o'clock Monday morning to begin work.

The following have been named on committees:

J. T. Gant, Marvin Smith, C. C. Cabiness, Jack Barnard, E. S. Goodner, J. C. Mytinger, James King, Dr. Felix Collard, L. L. Dixon, Milo Connelly, Burton Stayton, J. Wilkie Talbert, D. J. Carithers, Claud Oates, George Mobley, H. R. Hanks, Dr. Austin F. Leach, C. U. Daniels, F. A. Rogers, Will Daniel, George Keith, C. E. Basham, Lester Jones, H. G. Smith, Joe Huckins III, Ben A. Kaufman, John S. Riggs, L. C. Priebe, J. L. Downing, L. O. Landon, C. Y. Tully, F. D. Keim, Carl Williamson, J. M. Baber, J. N. Prothro, W. S. Curlee, Charles I. Francis, Charles Pogenpohl, J. W. Akin, F. G. Swanson, Harry Bray, C. E. McCutchen, G. C. Wood, W. P. Ferguson, C. H. Clark, H. Griffin and J. M. McFall.

It was explained that the landowners who have pledged the $12,000 had their money in sight several of the larger ones having pledged $500 towards the cost of the farm.

A committee composed of Dr. Collard Mr. King and Mr. Prothro was appointed to investigate and to make recommendations to the directors of the chamber of commerce concerning the proposed costs and program of a celebration to mark the presentation of the farm to state authorities.

Landowners and citizens of Iowa Park are to be invited to attend the next meeting of the business council when it is hoped that the $6000 Wichita Falls' share will lbe ready to be placed in the bank.

Reports from several trade trippers including R. E. Shepherd E. S. Goodner George Wilson Ira L. Cain and Claude Miller were made concerning the recent trade extension trip.

M. A. Bundy chairman of the trade extension committee of the chamber of commerce praised the co-operation of the boosters who went on the first trip. He announced that 56 business and professional men of the city had agreed to make the second trip May 20, 21 and 22 when Quanah, Altus, Wellington, Snyder, Lawton, Grandfield and other points will be visited; plans are not yet perfected.

It is thought the railroad and Pullman tickets will sell for $25 each, and the drawing rooms or compartments for $30. One hundred and seven men are expected to make the trip.

A. H. Britain, president of the chamber of commerce, thanked the men who went on the trade extension trip for their time, efforts and money spent towards making the trip a success. He praised the work of Mr. Bundy in promoting the trade trip.

Ed Byer, advance man for the trippers, was given a unanimous vote of thanks. Briefly he expressed his thanks to the council for its action.

A short talk on the value of the farm to Wichita Falls was made by Guy R. Jones, county agricultural agent.

Explanation of the demonstration of the agricultural department of the state under the direction of Dr. B. Youngblood, was given by C. H. Clark. He stated that in a recent soil survey made of Wichita county, $16,000 had been spent. He also stated that in the next two years about $50,000 would be spent in this district by the state.

A short talk on irrigation was given by Jack Sheers.

W. B. Hamilton, chairman of the boys' work committee of the Rotary club, announced a loyalty parade to be given Friday afternoon, May 2. Every boy under 21 is asked to be in this parade. The Boys' Week programs throughout the country are sponsored by the Rotary clubs.

Following the parade, every boy who has participated in it, will be admitted to the ball park to see the game between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth, according to announcement from R. O. Harvey, president of the baseball club.

Old Home Town Stuff

THINGS YOU SAY, DO AND SEE AND SOME YOU DON'T

After checking up Friday on the number of dogs they had executed in the last two months and then reflecting that there still seemed to l e just as many on the street as there ever were, local cops were somewhat discouraged. "For every one we kill," they said, "it seems that two come to town."

Farmers who appeared in the city Friday wore expansive grins when questioned concerning the value of Thursday night's rains to agricultur l conditions in the territory.

Two marriage licenses were issued Friday by the county clerk's office. The week's average is still low.

Bond forfeitures were the principal items of business in city police court Friday morning. A number of defendants who had posted bonds and who failed to appear when their cases were called city hall endorsements stamped on their checks next month.

Walter Kaufman, a Dallas attorney, was in the city Friday on business.

The spring straw hat sully that was beginning to bloom out in good shape took to cover Friday in the face of threatening weather. Haberdashers were wondering what effect continued dampness would have on their straw sales Saturday when the "season" opens officially.

Wichita Falls Unhealthy Place For Stray Dogs; Cops Killing Hundreds

Wichita Falls has been an unhealthy place for homeless dogs during the last six weeks.

At least, it so appears from offhand estimates made Friday concerning the number of canine fatalities in the city since the cops started their campaign against untagged, friendless and wandering vagabonds of the four-footed variety. An average of 10 a day have been shot at the city pound, it was declared, although one night saw 32 dispatched via the Winchester route. Added to these figures are an average of three or four daily killed in the residential sections of the city.

The menace of stray dogs is a periodic one and one which the police are forced to cope with every spring. Diligent searches through all sections of town and wholesale executions at the dog pounds have, in the past, served to save the city from being literally over-run. All the stray pups have by no means been rounded up this spring, but officers declare that the campaign against the dogs will continue until their number has been reduced to a minimum.

The present drive has been singularly marked by an absence of complaints against mad dogs. Last year a number of animals infected with rabbies were found and killed, but so far this spring only one or two such complaints have come in.

Dogs captured by the dog catcher are taken to the pound, held 48 hours and if no one appears to claim them, are shot and burned.

City Gets Rain And Plenty Of It During Day

Texas weather, noted for its variability, ran true to form Friday.

Sultry murkiness unpleasantly warm gave way early in the evening to the crisp chill of November; a mottled sky at times changed to impenetratable leaden gray, back to broken shades and finally to cloudless clearness. Stars were shining brilliantly at 9 o'clock last night, with indications of clear weather Saturday.

Following the heavy rains of Thursday night, the weatherman contented himself Friday with making threats. No appreciable amount of rain fell after noon until 6 o'clock, when another and what proved to be the last heavy downpour drenched the city again. After that the cloud broke, the sun came out for a time and after nightfall the clouds cleared away entirely.

The rain, according to wire reports, was general over all of northern Texas. Severe storms were reported from Denison and Whitesboro on the east, while Amarillo on the west sent word of heavy rains and low temperature there.
