Our last personal contact with pre-Castro Cuba is gone.

Prissy the cat died sometime Saturday morning, an independent feline if there ever was one, and a creature whose longevity has aroused the curiosity of practically everyone who came in contact with her during the last four or five years of her life.

Prissy was in her 20th year when she died, apparently succumbing to the infirmities of old age. We are not well-versed in such things, but we have been told that her age was comparable to something in the 125 to 130-year range for human beings, or perhaps even more.

Anyway she had been a part of our family for almost two decades, and nuisance that she often was, she is missed nevertheless. Knowing that she was likely nearing the end of her sojourn on this Earth, we checked her age again a few days ago with Mrs. Gene Best. She confirmed that is was in 1957 that the Best family made a trip to Cuba and brought some kittens back with them. At that time, Fidel Castro was still in the hills, although it was apparent that he had the Batista regime on the run.

Anyway, Prissy was one of the kittens that made it out of the country before Castro took over Cuba. A long-haired cat of uncertain lineage, she attracted attention wherever she was. She was given to our No. 2 son, Terry, by the Bests, who at that time were near neighbors.

Prissy was never a housecat in the true sense. Altough in her latter years she sometimes enjoyed the warmth of indoors during the dead of winter, she usually preferred the out-of-doors. And she seemed to have at least the nine lives attributed to cats, possibly more. There was the time she disappeared for nearly two weeks and we were sure that she had met her doom somewhere. But one of the kids found her in the shrubbery where she obviously had crawled after being hit by a car. She was around seven or eight years old then, and it appeared that her injuries were insurmountable. But she recovered.

Earlier there had been the inevitable skirmishes with neighborhood dogs. However, she managed to live several years in peace with a huge next-door canine owned by John Conley, now the assistant athletic director at Texas Tech who was athletic director and head football coach at Snyder High School at the time. Scooter, the Conley dog, a friendly animal, learned early that things went much better when he kept himself at more than a paw's reach from Prissy.

At 15 she seemed to be in her prime, but by the time she reached her 19th birthday, age had begun to take its toll. Still, she had been able to scale a six-foot tile fence, and it was only during the last 10 days to two weeks of her life that she was unable to move around at will. She was truly a remarkable cat.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, August 3, the 216th day of 1976. There are 150 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1492, Christopher Columbus sailed from Spain on the expedition that resulted in the discovery of America.

On this date:

In 1780, Benedict Arnold was put in command of the fortifications at West Point, N.Y., during the American Revolution.

In 1881, British troops occupied the Egyptian town of Suez.

In 1914, Germany declared war on France.

In 1943, during World War 11, there were anti-Nazi demonstrations in Milan, Genoa and other cities in Northern Italy.

In 1951, it was disclosed that 90 cadets at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point had been dismissed for cheating in examinations.

In 1961, the first jet airliner hijacking was attempted. A man and his son flying from Los Angeles to Houston tried, without success, to divert an airliner to Cuba.

Ten years ago: Premier Alexei Kosygin said the U.S. role in the Vietnam War isolated the nation from the rest of the world and jeopardized U.S.-Soviet relations.

Five years ago: Cuba closed its embassy in Madrid in a dispute with Spain over trade policies.

One year ago: A chartered airliner crashed at Agadir, Morocco, killing 188 people.

Industrial Scion Held

By MILLER H. BONNER JR.
Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A man wearing a black wig in the darkened mansion of millionaire T. Cullen Davis shot two persons to death early today and wounded two others, including Davis' buxom blonde wife, police said. Davis was arrested a short time later.

The gunman "put on a black wig and started shooting all my kids—he went wild," Mrs. Davis, 35, said from an ambulance stretcher.

Officers later surrounded a residence on the city's south side and used bullhorns to demand that Davis surrender. Police said the 42-year-old industrial scion emerged, head bowed, minutes later and was taken into custody for questioning in connection with the 12:30 a.m. attack.

Police identified the dead as Stan Farr, former basketball star at Texas Christian University, and 12-year-old Andrea Davis.

The wounded were Mrs. Davis, shot once in the stomach, and Gus Gavrel,21, shot in the chest. Both were in critical condition at John Peter Smith Hospital.

Davis is president of Stratoflex, Inc., a subsidiary of Kendavis Industries Inc. International. Stratoflex manufactures oil field equipment fittings.

Police said the Davises were involved in divorce proceedings and had been separated. Cullen Davis was heir to a fortune built by his father, Ken Davis.

A neighbor, retired businessman Clifford Jones, said Mrs. Davis, clad in a skirt and halter top, "ran better than a quarter of a mile," climbed over or through a barbed wire fence and reached his home "semi-hysterical." Jones summoned police and an ambulance after she told him a man was "killing everybody."

The Davis mansion is on a 140-acre estate in a secluded setting of West Fort Worth, scene in the past of gala parties. The elegant enclave is guarded by security forces and watch dogs.

Ambulance driver Daniel Bruner said Mrs. Davis told him she and Farr arrived at the mansion around midnight. She and Farr were confronted by a gunman who tried to force them into the basement, Mrs. Davis was quoted.

Bev Bass, a friend of Mrs. Davis' eldest daughter, Dee, 18, said she and Gavrel were approaching the mansion by car when the assailant fired at them.

He hit Gavrel, she said, and tried to shoot her, giving chase as she fled on foot.

"I've known him for years," recounted Miss Bass as police sought to quiet her, "and then I saw the look on his face as he chased me, trying to shoot me. I've never been so freaked out in my life. Can you imagine someone shooting your boy friend? I ran down the field barefoot."

Farr, a 6-foot-9 native of Texarkana, Tex., was a TCU basketball star in the middle 1960s. He later became owner of a now defunct night spot and more recently managed a country music club named the Rhinestone Cowboy.

MOST LIKELY A VIRUS
Identity Of Disease Probed

By PAUL CARPENTER
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - A mysterious disease has taken the lives of 19 persons who attended an American Legion convention last month and hospitalized 52 others, a state official said today.

State Health Secretary Leonard Bachman told a news conference that doctors and researchers still haven't identified the disease, which has symptoms of fever, headaches, chest pains and lung congestion.

"I think it is most likely a virus, but virus pneumonia is the closest I'd call it now," Bachman said.

But Dr. Jay Satz, head of the state health department's immunology division, said a bacteria could have caused the illness.

Other authorities have suggested swine flu as the possible cause, and investigators from the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta were here trying to isolate the cause of the deaths.

Bachman refused to release the names of the three latest victims.

"It may take some time to find all the victims," Bachman said earlier. "I don't think we've gotten all the deaths yet."

The ages of the 16 dead identified earlier ranged in age from 39 to 82. At least one death has been recorded as pneumonia. Autopsies have been ordered in many of the deaths.

All of the victims suffered the same symptoms, which included fever of up to 107 degrees.

Fresh Martian Soil Grasped

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Viking 1's mechanical arm thrust into Martian soil today for the second time, grasping fresh dirt to explore for basic units of life.

A shallow trench, dug neatly beside the place where Viking first scratched the rusty surface last week, appeared in a picture beamed back by the robot lander this morning.

By tonight the lander was to signal whether the dirt was successfully deposited in a funnel leading to the organic analysis instrument. A failure to get the dirt delivered last week was the reason for today's digging.

FROM PALESTINIAN REFUGEE CAMP
Red Cross Removes Injured

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An International Red Cross convoy finally got through to the besieged Tal Zaatar Palestinian refugee camp today to evacuate wounded from the Moslem enclave in Christian east Beirut, Moslem and Christian radio stations reported.

The Moslems' Beirut radio reported the first evacuee was brought out just before noon, and several more followed soon after.

A Palestinian spokesman said 91 wounded were taken out on stretchers within the first three hours. But a Red Cross spokesman in Geneva said 47 wounded Palestinians were evacuated. Neither figure could be independently confirmed.

The Palestinian spokesman claimed Red Cross workers came under Christian sniper fire just as the rescue mission was getting under way, but Christian spokesmen denied the charge.

Arab League mediator Hassan Sabri Kholi also reported that leaders of all the warring factions in Lebanon's long and bloody civil war agreed tentatively to sign an armistice Wednesday "barring a last-minute hitch." But fighting continued through the night, and hospitals and security sources estimated that about 50 persons were killed.

A limited cease-fire went into effect this morning at Tal Zaatar so nine Red Cross trucks and two ambulances could cross Christian lines. Four times before, Christian fire had driven Red Cross mercy missions back, but this time the convoy had an unarmed Christian escort.

Jean Hoefliger, the Swiss head of the Red Cross delegation, said he hoped the convoy would bring out 60 to 80 wounded Palestinians. They were to be taken to hospitals in Moslem western Beirut.

The convoy set up a first-aid station at a football field just outside the 74-acre camp which has been the target of a continuous six-week Christian assault. If the first evacuation is successful, Hoefliger will try to arrange daily cease-fires to owing out more wounded.

A Swedish medical team inside the camp estimates that more than 1,400 of Tal Zaatar's 30,000 residents have been killed and 4,000 wounded. Hoefliger and Kholi said Christian militia leaders have pledged in writing to allow the evacuation.

Law Enforcement Award To WTC

WASHINGTON—Congressman Omar Burleson today announced the approval of a $3,240 law enforcement education program award to Western Texas College by the Department of Justice.

The funds are awarded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration for making grants and loans to law enforcement students.

Taxi Service Discontinued

Snyder is without taxicab service this week.

City officials said that Mrs. Marie Goodwin, who has operated a taxi service here for several months, had advised that she had discontinued the service.

Anyone interested in applying for a taxi service franchise in Snyder may obtain information about submitting applications by contacting Juanita Farren, city secretary, at the city hall.

The city is anxious for another competent operator to take over the taxi service here, since a number of people in town, especially elderly citizens, depend on it for shopping, etc.

Council Meeting Is Postponed

The regular meeting of the Snyder City Council which had been set for Monday night was postponed until Wednesday.

Several council members were out of town on Monday and were unable to return in time for the meeting. The Wednesday session will begin at 7 p.m. in the council room at city hall.

WIELDS INFLUENCE THROUGH INTERLOCKING ORGANIZATIONS
Ralph Nader Is One-Man Conglomerate

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Ralph Nader is a one-man conglomerate.

Like the government agencies and huge corporations he criticizes, Nader wields enormous influence on American life through a maze of interlocking organizations.

He does not always practice what he preaches. The same man who urges openness in government and business, defends secrecy in his own operation.

The organizations directly linked to Nader are small: less than dozen groups with about 100 employes and an annual budget probably under $2 million.

It is impossible to determine the exact size of the budget for all of the Nader organizations because he funds some of them out of his personal earnings and refuses to disclose how much he spends. He also refuses to disclose how much money he makes; most estimates are in the range of $250,000 a year.

Nader's indirect influence is difficult to measure. Groups which are technically independent have been founded by former Nader employes. Or they have received funds from Nader organizations. Or they have joined forces with Nader units for specific campaigns.

"We share common goals and ideas," said Nader when asked about his influence on some technically independent groups, including state and local public interest research groups PIRGs - comprised mainly of students. (The PIRGs have a membership of over half a million persons and annual revenues of over $1.4 million.)

Pressed for specifics about his influence, if any, Nader avoided a direct answer. "There's nothing ominous about influence," he said, making a distinction between his influence over citizen groups and the influence of a large corporation over a government official.

It is the sort of distinction Nader makes frequently. He draws a line between what he will and will not disclose, both personally and financially. Corporation secrety becomes Nader's right to privacy.

Nader himself can be hard to reach. He often ignores phone messages, returning calls only when he has a point he wants to get across. Once he knows you, however, he can be charming and responsive.

He sometimes answers criticism by attacking the critic rather than responding to the substance of the charge. He refuses to allow interviews to be tape recorded.

While Nader gives some of his organizations a measure of independence, he remains clearly in charge. His personal eccentricities and life-style - the long hours, the passion for privacy - stamp the output of those who work with him.

Lowell Dodge, former director of the Center for Auto Safety - one of those technically independent groups with which Nader worked closely - described the various units as "organizations on the end of the arms of a ferris wheel with Nader at the center."

David Sanford, author of a book critical of Nader" says Nader's organization "has become so large and diverse and bureaucratic that it resembles the divisions of General Motors ..."

Nonsense, said Nader. "The whole list (of organizations) is smaller than many Chevrolet dealerships."

(Nader is right — in dollars and cents terms, at least, since the National Automobile Dealers Association estimated that the average Chevrolet dealership had gross sales of about $3.1 million in 1975.)

The Nader groups lack many of the trappings of bureaucracy. There are no organization tables, no structural hierarchy.

The Nader operation "was a series of many personal relationships," recalls John Esposito, a lawyer who worked at the center in its earliest days. "There were occasional attempts to be more efficient. It just didn't happen very much," he said.

The best way to try to trace Nader's organization is to start at the beginning.

Nader gained public attention just over a decade ago, with "Unsafe at Any Speed," critical of General Motors' Corvair. The impact was magnified by the disclosure that GM hired a private detective to investigate his personal life to try to discredit his charges.

(Nader sued GM for invasion of privacy and the eventual settlement of the suit provided some of the money to finance later campaigns.)

The first Nader organization was the Center for Study of Responsive Law, set up in 1969 as a tax-exempt group, funded by foundations. Its purpose, Nader said, was "to conduct research into violations of the public interest by business and governmental groups."

The center has an annual budget of $250,000 to $300,000, Nader said. A big part of its current money comes from a three-year, $317,000 Carnegie Foundation grant which expires at the end of 1976.

With the help of summer interns known as Nader's Raiders, the center was responsible for a series of reports about government and industry, including "The Chemical Feast," "The Interstate Commerce Omission," "Vanishing Air" and "The Closed Enterprise System."

In 1972, the Freedom of Information Clearinghouse was organized as part of the center to help win release of government-held documents under the Freedom of Information Act.

The importance of the center has waned as Nader shifted his focus from research to action. It remains his base of operations, however, and Nader has his offices in the center.

The Center for Study of Responsive Law is not listed in the telephone book, although you can get the number from information.

Staff members say listing the address would result in a deluge of visitors. The policy is nothing new. Esposito, who left Nader in 1971 and is now counsel to the New York State Consumer Protection Board, said that even in the early days of the center, "People had the idea that Ralph was some sort of public utility that everyone could tap into ... We didn't want people wandering in with complaints."

The major Nader operation today is Public Citizen, Inc., a fund-raising umbrella group established in 1971. Unlike the center, Public Citizen is not tax exempt and therefore is allowed to lobby.

The tax filings of Public Citizen — how much money is raised and what it is spent on — are a matter of public record. The names of contributors are not. Nader said he does not disclose the names "because we don't want them (contributors) exploited commercially or harassed. Beyond what the law requires us to do, we have the right to protect our contributors."

Public Citizen supports six Nader groups: the Litigation Group, the Health Research Group, the Citizen Action Group, the Tax Reform Research Group, Congress Watch and the Public Citizen Visitors Center. Public Citizen also makes contributions to some technically independent groups such as the Aviation Consumer Action Project.

The relationship between Nader and the aviation project illustrates the difficulty of trying to pinpoint the structure of the Nader organization.

Nader describes the project as "an independent educational group." At the same time, he says, it gets 80 per cent of its funds from Public Citizen. When Nader was bumped from a 1972 Allegheny Airlines flight because of overbooking, the Aviation Project — represented in court by Nader's Litigation Group — successfully took up his cause. Nader ultimately was awarded $25,000 in damages and the Supreme Court ruled that a passenger who is bumped can sue for damage in the federal courts.

In 1974, the latest year for which complete figures are available, Public Citizen raised a little more than $1.1 million, up slightly from the year before. The cost of direct mail appeals to raise the money was $338,430. Administrative expenses for the staff of Public Citizen itself were $48,229. The amount raised in 1975, said Nader, was just about the same "give or take 4 or 5 per cent either way." Nader said the final report was not complete because the group's accountant was on cacation.

Here is a look at the six groups and their 1974 budgets. (The major change from 1974 to 1975 was an increase of about 50 per cent in the amount received by the litigation group, Nader said.)

Litigation Group: $129,828. The legal arm of Nader's operation. Headed by Alan Morrison, it has seven full-time and two part-time lawyers. The group has been a party in over 100 cases involving anticompetitive industry practices, health and safety issues and government accountability. Morrison reports to Nader once a month with a formal summary of what the group is doing.

Health Research Group: $136,596. Focuses on health care, food and drug safety and occupational health and safety. Headed by Dr. Sidney Wolfe, the group has a staff of nine, including three attorneys. It has studied issues ranging from Red Dye No. 2 to black lung disease.

Congress Watch: $126,824. Nader's lobbying arm. The group is headed by Joan Claybrock and provides congressmen with research, technical analyses and legislative drafting services. It has lobbied for establishment of an independent consumer protection agency — still pending in Congress — for creation of a federal bank to loan money to consumer cooperatives.

Tax Reform Research Group: $72,374. The group works to reform the tax laws and its lobbying in the House Ways and Means Committee last year was credited with being instrumental in elimination of oil depletion allowances. It also publishes a newsletter, "People and Taxes" and puts out "consciousness-raising reports." Among recent studies was a survey of property tax assessments in 67 cities.

Public Citizen Vistors Center: $30,102. The center arranges guided tours of Washington at $2 per person including visits to legislators' offices, committee hearings and the House and Senate chambers. It publishes a bimonthly calendar, "Inside the Capitol," of events including agency and congressional hearings, exhibits, etc.

Citizen Action Group: $109,751. The organizing arm of the Nader organization. The group helps set up student-supported Public Interest Research Groups. Once established, these groups are technically independent, but the PIRGs are the closest thing to a broad-based, Nader-oriented network.

The Capitol Hill News Service, providing regional coverage of Washington, received $112,731 from Public Citizen in 1974, but that group became independent at the start of this year. It received what Nader called "a kind of good luck grant" of about $25,000 in 1975.

Grants totalling $38,500 also went to the Aviation Consumer Action Project and the Retired Professionals Action Group, working for the rights of senior citizens. The retired professionals recently merged with the Gray Panthers and is no longer directly linked to Nader.

Nader said he personally supports 19 persons, including those employed by the Corporate Accountability Research Group and the National Public Interest Research Group.

How much money does Nader provide? "That I don't disclose," he said. Nader argued that as long as corporation lobbyists and executives are not required to disclose personal finances, he is entitled to the same privacy. "I don't particularly like to share information with enemies," he added.

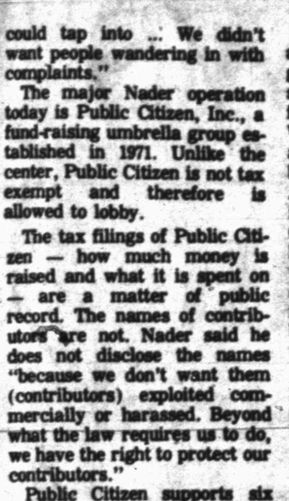

Among other groups linked with Nader either directly or indirectly:

—Center for Auto Safety: "That's not our group," said Nader, adding that he simply "suggested to Consumers Union that they fund an auto safety unit." Consumers Union paid the salary of the director through a fellowship, but cut back in recent years and most of the funding now comes from foundations such as State Farm and Allstate. Former center director Dodge said Nader never had any official connection, but "it was the understanding that the center would work with Nader ... he was influential."

—Professional Drivers: The group is comprised of Teamsters Union members and has been critical of the union leadership. Nader says the group is independent. The head of the organization, Arthur Fox, also works for the Litigation Group, however.

—Center for Science in the Public Interest: frequently described as a Nader organization, the group has no official connection with Nader although it was founded by former employes.

Gulf Fined

HOUSTON (AP) — A state judge has fined Gulf Oil Corp. $49,000 for alleged air pollution at its Port Arthur refinery.

State District Court Judge Arthur Lesher also ordered the firm Monday to install further pollution abatement equipment estimated to cost $10.5 million at the plant to reduce sulfur compound emissions.

He told Gulf to install a tail gas cleanup system on two of its sulfur recovery units before Dec. 31, 1977.

Lesher also ordered the corporation to change the catalysts in the two sulfur recovery units annually rather than every three years.

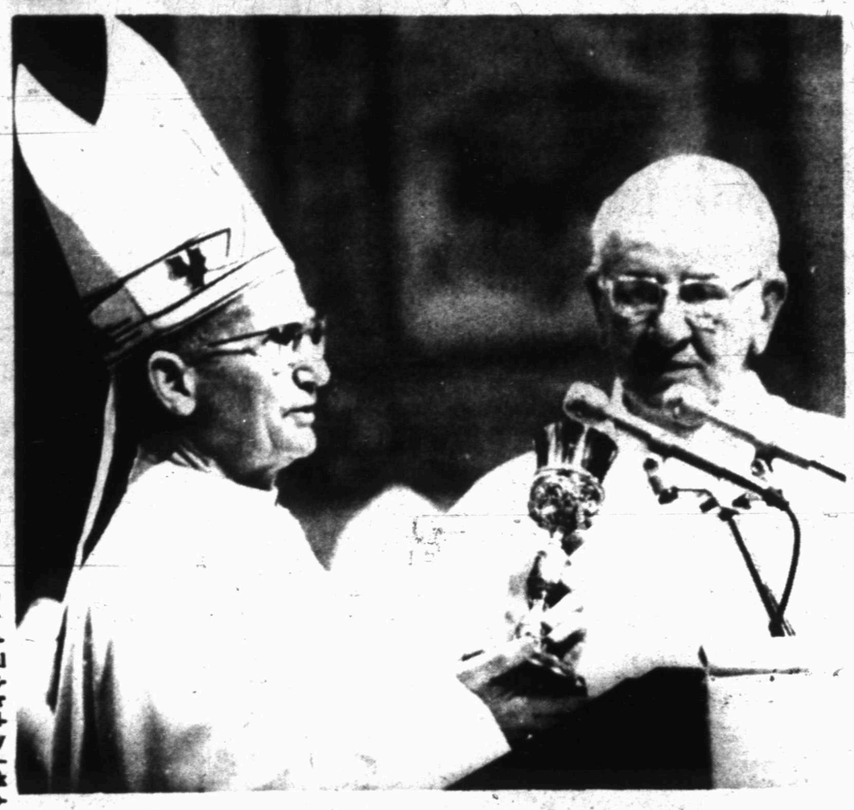

The suit, filed March 20, 1975 by the state attorney general's office, alleged the firm was violating a regulation of the Texas Air Control Board.

Tractor Bid Is Accepted

The Scurry County Commissioners met Monday morning and approved the purchase of a mower tractor.

Buchanan Equipment Co. of Snyder was awarded the $7,338 contract, the lowest of the three bids submitted. The new tractor is an International 574 Diesel Row Crop Tractor that is to be used in Precinct 2.

Searchers Look For Dead Today

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — Eight helicopters flew into Big Thompson Canyon today, their crews making a followup visual sweep for flood survivors, as ground teams assembled to renew the search among mud slides and debris for the dead.

The fatality count stood at 82, but authorities feared the toll would climb far higher.

Air rescue operations were halted abruptly early Monday night after officials said they had flown out all known survivors who wished to leave the devastated canyon.

An estimated 135 persons told rescuers they wanted to stay in motels and mountain homes on high ground where they had ample food and water.

But 10 of those, at Park Terrace Motel about six miles up the canyon toward Estes Park, changed their minds after spending their third night after the flood in the wet and cold Rocky Mountains, said Capt. John Englebert, chief of operations for the Larimer County Sheriff's Department. He said they are to be flown out today.

Contrary to predictions by the National Weather Service, skies were blue and bright over the canyon today, and an Air Force pilot at a makeshift helicopter landing pad in a farmer's field said flying conditions were "outstanding."

E. M. Stiger of the U.S. Forest Service said repeated trips over the 30-mile canyon showed no signs of critically injured persons along the Big Thompson River.

The emphasis today for the first time was on recovering the dead.

Cathy Sayler of the sheriff's department said 62 bodies had been brought out of the canyon and 20 others were pinpointed inside but not recovered.

Larimer County Sheriff Robert Watson said the death figure could reach 200.

"Who knows what's buried in all this silt? Some farmer will dig down in his corn patch some day and find a body," the sheriff said.

Flying close to the craggy canyon walls, military helicopter pilots Monday evening ferried to safety all remaining survivors who wanted to leave. The popular Colorado Rockies vacation spot had been turned into a death trap by a torrential downpour Saturday night.

"Some survivors refused to leave their mountain homes," Watson said. "They were in good shape and thought they could do more good where they were."

Besides the 77 confirmed dead, authorities said 260 persons were injured, an estimated 559 were unaccounted for, and the search for the dead was just beginning.

Officials said the 12-foot wall of water unleashed by the flood was so powerful that many of the dead were found with their bodies stripped of clothing.

Flood Warnings Posted

By The Associated Press

Flash flood warnings were posted today for parts of Colorado and Texas as scattered thundershowers fell along the High Plains and in the East and South.

Thunderstorms also roamed southern Atlantic and Gulf Coast areas as well as Northwest Texas and eastern Colorado. Showers or thundershowers were widely scattered in the northern Rockies and the northern plateau and ranged into the Northwest.

Rainfall during the night generally was an inch or less although locally heavy downpours hit parts of the Southeast.

Fair weather dominated most of the country from the Great Plains to the middle Atlantic states.

Unseasonably chilliness persisted overnight in much of the nation east of the Rockies. Temperatures again fell into the 30s in the Appalachians and in parts of the Upper Great Lakes. The 40s were common from the northern lakes through upstate New York.

Rains Halt Traffic At Merkel

By The Associated Press

Flooding rain blocked a stretch of highway for a time as menacing thunderstorms pounded parts of West and Central Texas today.

At the same time light rain fell in the Texas Panhandle and thundershowers stirred the Gulf of Mexico east of Texas' Coastal Bend.

All the wet weather lay within a 200-mile-wide belt of clouds stretching from around Dalhart in the Panhandle to near College Station, far to the southeast. It was clear to partly cloudy elsewhere.

Accumulated rainfall halted traffic temporarily on Interstate 20 near Merkel, 20 miles west of Abilene in West Central Texas, and a flash flood warning was posted in that area for a time.

During the night a tornado funnel spun overhead about 2 miles east of Merkel. There as no word of any damage.

Some of the heavier storms concentrated in an area embracing points near Abilene, Breckenridge and Rising Star. A broader storm sector extended from Seymour in Northwest Texas southward to the Brownwood vicinity.

Temperatures mounted as high as 99 degrees Monday at such widely separated points as Alice, Cotulla and Waco. The range early today was from 77 at Austin, McAllen and Waco down to 62 at Dalhart.

Turner Rites Set At Spur

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Linda Turner of Spur. She was a former resident of Snyder.

Services are set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at Lake Side Baptist Church in Spur.

Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Mildred (Black) Blanton, also a former resident of Snyder.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

City police officers logged one report of a traffic accident.

A 1975 Chevrolet pickup driven by Perfecto Castillo in collision with a 1970 Ford pickup driven by Reed Alan Wilson at 3:34 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Twenty-fifth Street and Avenue Q. A wrecker had to be summoned to remove the Wilson vehicle.

'Pass-Through' Hearing Ended

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission's "fact-finding" hearing on automatic flow-through of higher gas costs to consumers ended today with three witnesses calling for tighter regulation.

Examiner John Camp said the possibilities for commission action are "open-ended"— meaning it could issue some proposed rules, resume the hearing or take no action.

Jack Hopper of Austin, a private economic consultant who advised Lane Denton in his losing race for a seat on the commission, said the commission should send out audit teams to verify the gas purchase costs that utilities are passing on to customers.

"The fact that the commission is not here is an indication that the commission doesn't take much interest in this problem," Hopper said.

Bill McMorries of Amarillo, president of McMorries & Associates, consulting engineers, said automatic pass-throughs were a cause of rising gas prices.

He countered the utility companies' view that requiring hearings before higher gas costs could be flowed through would produce a welter of expensive proceedings.

"It is no more inconvenient for utilities to obtain prior approval for rate increases than it is for the consuming public to endure those increases," he said.

R.H. Aughinbaugh, Fort Worth director of consumer protection and public utilities, said the automatic pass-through is a reasonable measure but should be limited to 85 per cent of cost and closed in with safeguards.

In Monday's testimony, a small town gas company spokesman, who operates some gas wells of his own, said it was hard to understand why the big companies pay so much for gas.

"I really can't understand why a company such as Lone Star or Lo-Vaca seeks such high adjustments when their real problem is not watching their gas purchases," said Sid Sers of Brady Municipal Gas Corp.

Sers said his utility company was buying gas for about $1 per 1,000 cubic feet (mcf) while the giants were paying from $1.50 to $1.90.

Gas company witnesses said it would be unrealistic to expect their firms to stay in business if they couldn't recover their costs. Some other witnesses, however, said the pass-throughs often operated as a "rip-off" and could be manipulated unfairly against consumers.

"Pass-throughs are not a total evil, but public confidence is not going to be kept by permitting flow-throughs and putting the public at the mercy of the good judgment and acumen of the gas industry," said Port Arthur City Atty. George Wikoff.

Car May Put Bite On Thief

HOUSTON (AP) — A couple of passengers in a stolen car may put the bite on the thief who took it.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Powell said Monday their sports car, which was stolen Saturday, contained two rare and very poisonous Asian rattlesnakes.

Mrs. Powell, 23, said the snakes, which she purchased at $550 each for a friend who owns an exotic pet shop here, were in a shoe box on the floor in the passenger side of the car.

She said the rhinoceros vipers, commonly called "horned toad adders" were a little more than two feet long and "very poisonous like most rattlesnakes."

She said the car and snakes were stolen when her husband, 26, left the car motor running as he went inside their house.

Police said they will check out persons who show up at local hospitals with snake bites.

A detective predicted possibly other injuries for the thief.

"Can't you imagine some guy driving along at 70 miles an hour when a rattlesnake crawls out on the front seat," asked Lt. D. L. Singleton.

Hearing Opens On Air Bags

WASHINGTON (AP) — Automakers and insurance companies disagreed today over whether seat belts or a passive restraint system such as air bags are the best way to reduce deaths and injuries in car crashes.

Spokesmen for four auto companies said a public education program designed to increase the use of seat belts and to encourage enactment of laws requiring motorists to use the belts would afford the best protection.

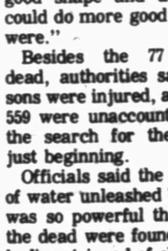

But insurance company representatives contended that passive restraint systems such as the air bag hold the best promise for reducing highway deaths.

Currently, the government requires automakers to provide seat and lap belts, so-called passive restraints such as air bags, which require no driver initiative to make them operative, or a combination of the two. Almost all automakers offer seat and lap belts, but General Motors has sold about 6,000 luxury cars with optional air bags in the past two years.

The conflicting statements came as Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. opened public hearings on what steps the government should take to best protect the American driving public.

Coleman has promised to decide by the end of the year whether new cars should eventually be equipped with air bags or other passive restraints or whether other options relying on increased use of existing lap and shoulder belts should be selected.

ONCE JUNIORS WORE CASUALS

Now They Call It 'Sweatshirt Dressing'

By ELLIE GROSSMAN

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Years ago, the high iron grill gates must have admitted fashionable carriages to this Manhattan townhouse. It belonged to one monied family then.

Now, its floors are rented individually. And, if you survive three "Barefoot in the Park" flights of stairs, you'll stagger into the offices of a former Chicken Delight delivery boy and a well-known junior sportswear designer who are running a new company called Michael Milea and Betsey Johnson.

Milea likes to talk, so while you catch your breath, he explains why he and Betsey are exponents of "sweatshirt dressing."

That is, junior clothing consisting of knit rugby stripe shirts, for instance: Sweatsuits, sweatshirt vests and culottes and a whimsical pair of striped long johns with drop-seat, all primarily in clear, dark solids and stripes in cotton and blends for fall.

"I think what's happening," he says, "is that we're realizing the reflection of social change which is power to the people in the streets. People want to relate to the blue collar worker: men wearing open shirts with hairy chests, carrying a thermos bottle. And the junior customer wants to relate to a certain extent to the new woman who is no longer sucking a lollipop, sitting naively on the couch waiting for daddy to come home.

"We're not saying this is the only influence today," he continues, adding that work clothes belong to a different category. "But it is the most predominant social influence in which we're enveloped. So we're creating 'field and stream' clothes for the junior customer, the woman between thirteen and thirty who wants to reflect that social feeling."

"Our prices are really good," Betsey adds. "They reflect a junior idea. A contemporary woman is much more serious about fashion and spends more money. Our clothes retail between $10 and $19 so there's money left over for the movies."

She holds up a soft cotton, chocolate brown nightshirt. "We're getting into this feeling," she says. "Shirts that can be worn inside or outside, easy and comfortable. They're getting longer and longer, going into the tunic." She gropes for words, then announces, "The growth of the shirt, that's what it's called," and laughs.

She's soft-spoken, friendly yet diffident, a redhead with frizzy bangs. Eleven years ago, she began designing, she says, "for a designer workshop boutique called Paraphernalia in New York, and over the years, I got closer to the garment center. My first real big impact came designing for Alley Cat (a junior sportswear firm).

"Let's see, I was the first designer to create designer sewing patterns for Butterick. I free-lanced for a couple of years – I really have to get a resume together - and now, in addition to this business, I'm doing a childrenswear line called Betsey Johnson Kids and children's patterns as well for Butterick."

A few moments ago, when she was showing the striped long johns, she turned to Milea and said, "There are a couple of these left over in the closet. Can I have one?"

That, she explains, "is a leftover from manufacturers who made me pay for everything I designed. It didn't matter that I worked for the company.

"The garment industry is a very cheap, tight, petty, greedy, vulgar and possessive industry. I'm not really complaining: I love to design clothes but I want to do what I believe in and that's always a struggle, then and now."

Still, if there's screaming and abuse to contend with, "that's the nature of the business. It's crazy and insecure and it makes people crazy. You have to be as strong as everyone else and I do have a bit of a problem with that. But I'm finally beginning to change."

Clearly, her new "manufacturer" - a street-wise and humorous young man-has the strength she needs.

"Our company has been in existence since February of this year," Milea says. "I've had a lot of jobs, in addition to delivering for Chicken Delight in Brooklyn for four years. I'd work three months here, three months there. Fortunately, I always got better jobs each time.

"I was a designer-production manager for a group of retail stores until I said, hey, why don't we do this for the wholesale market? And they fired me. Basically, I can't work for anyone else. So I created a company called Michael Milea, Ltd., which made a line of junior tops and it became an eleven million dollar business.

"When I divorced myself from that company, Betsey and I got together and we're moving along very nicely."

And the prognosis is good, despite Betsey's growing assertiveness: when she asked for that pair of long johns, Milea only hesitated a moment before saying yes.

Tender Steak Treatment

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Steak continues as a favorite of barbecue chefs and of their anxious and hungry guests. A good marinade adds flavor and also helps tenderize less expensive cuts of beef. Any leftover marinade may be heated and served as a sauce. Serve baked potatoes and your favorite fresh vegetables with the steak. Top potatoes or vegetables, hot or cold, with a sour cream dill topping.

DEVILED STEAK AL FRESCO

¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon onion powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon garlic powder
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 pounds boneless beef round or shoulder steak

To prepare marinade combine all ingredients except beef; mix well. Place beef in a snug-fitting bowl or doubled plastic bag. Pour marinade over beef coating both sides. Cover or fasten. Refrigerate for 4 to 6 hours. Place on a rack over hot charcoal. Grill 10 to 15 minutes, turning and brushing with marinade mixture 2 or 3 times. Or, if desired, place meat on a rack in a broiler pan. Place under a preheated hot broiler; follow preceding directions for cooking. Makes 6 to 8 portions.

SOUR CREAM DILL TOPPING

1 cup dairy sour cream
½ cup finely chopped dill pickle
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 teaspoons vinegar
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Blend together all ingredients; chill. Use to top baked potatoes which have been split open or serve over broiled tomatoes or dressing for cold string bean salad. (Enough for 6 potatoes, 8 broiled tomato halves, 1 pound of string beans.) Makes about one-and-one-half cups.

If a recipe calls for a tablespoon of minced raw onion and you want to substitute onion powder for it, try using a half teaspoon of the powder.

MARINADE STEAK—Special marinade tenderizes less expensive cuts of beef.

Don't Just Visit, Take Elderly Out

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd Inc

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column about visiting the elderly in nursing homes prompts my first "Dear Abby" letter.

I agree, it's a great service to visit an elderly friend or relative in a nursing home, but consider this: Instead of going there to sit with him while you both look at the same four walls he looks at day in and day out, why not give him a change of scenery?

Take him for a little drive and stop for a bite to eat. Or take him window shopping. Or treat him to a home-cooked meal with the family. Just being away from the institution will relieve his boredom and lift his spirits.

If he isn't able to walk, be aware that they now make lightweight wheelchairs that can be easily folded and tucked into the trunk of the car.

Abby, this is a plea to your readers who visit someone in a nursing home: Please turn those routine duty visits into special events by treating the patient to an occasional outing. It will do wonders for him. And for you, too. I know. I've been a volunteer in such a home for over 10 years.

BESS

DEAR BESS: What a pity you'll never know how much happiness your suggestion will bring to countless residents of nursing homes throughout the nation. Bless you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I am so glad I can write to you with this problem because it has bothered me for years and I can't go to anyone else with it.

You see, my parents were never married, which makes me illegitimate, right? I'm not exactly proud of it, but I don't let it bother me too much because there is nothing I can do about it.

I married a very nice man and we have two lovely children. I want so much for them to be legit.mate, but if I'M not, then THEY can't be either, and that is my problem.

What must I do to make my children legitimate? Thank you.

MEMPHIS MOM

DEAR MOM: You did it. You married their father. All children born to a married couple are legitimate, regardless of the legitimacy (or illegitimacy) of their parents.

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my wedding. I want my bridesmaids to wear southern belle-type dresses and enter carrying parasols instead of flowers.

I want them to walk down the aisle with their parasols open, until they reach the front of the church. Then they would turn to face the congregation and close their parasols, keeping them closed for the duration of the service.

My fiance and his mother say this would look stupid. What do you and your readers think?

BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: I think it might look as though you were trying to create a Broadway musical production effect. And for those who are superstitious, it's bad luck to open an umbrella indoors.

Opening lead — Q ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South let West hold the first trick with his queen of spades after East followed with the eight. West continued with the trey and East played the king.

South had a problem. Assuming West had led from a six-card suit he could duck that second spade, take the third, play three rounds of diamonds and hope that East would have exactly three diamonds. South saw that that play would fail if spades were 5-4 and decided on another line.

He won the second spade and led back the 10. West won and could have beaten the hand by leading anything but a spade, but West was a firm believer in the principle that a trick in the hand is worth two on the table. He cashed his last two spades.

South chucked a heart and diamond while dummy shed red cards. East chucked a heart.

West led the queen of hearts. South won and played his second-high heart to squeeze East. He had to unguard either diamonds or clubs and South had his ninth trick.

The answer is that we do make such a lead, but we don't make it more than once in a lot of deals. It is one play that won't really hurt you if you never make it.

Grace Talks Of Family Life

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Faith, love, discipline and respect for the husband's authority make for harmonious family life, says Princess Grace of Monaco.

"It would have been extremely difficult without the strong basic bond of our religion — and that we were in agreement on principles we hope to instill in our children," the former Hollywood actress said Monday of her 20-year marriage to Prince Rainier.

Freeze Melons For Winter

COLLEGE STATION—Freezing melons is easy and simple and watermelon, cantaloupe and honeydew melons are plentiful with low prices now, Mrs. Sally Coble, foods and nutrition specialist, says.

'Consumers may find this is the best time to buy and freeze some for use the year around," she added.

Mrs. Coble is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Use only top quality fruit. Remove seeds, peel and cut into slices, cubes or balls.

Cover with a cold sugar syrup, using two cups sugar to four cups water—or pack dry in bags using no sugar. Expel as much air as possible from the bag, seal and freeze immediately.

"When using frozen melons, serve them partially thawed, especially those frozen without sugar. Melon slices frozen in a sugar syrup will maintain their texture better and be firmer after thawing," she said.

Kitchen fun for children: give them some wrapping paper or slit bags and some fancy-shape cookie cutters plus crayons. The youngsters will enjoy drawing around the cutters and filling in the shapes with the crayons of different colors. If appropriate paper is used, the kids can make place-mats for the family table in this fashion.

Oakland's A's Are In Unaccustomed Position

ByTheAssociatedPress

The Oakland A's are in something of an unaccustomed position, sitting in third place and looking up at the American League's West Division leaders. They are even more unaccustomed to looking up at the Minnesota Twins, who aren't all that accustomed to being in second place, themselves.

The Twins hadn't won seven games in a row since 1970 — now they've won eight in a row and 13 of 15, including the last five against the A's. You remember the A's, the team that won three straight World Series until their string was broken by Boston last season.

This year, some harsh facts are beginning to present themselves to Oakland Manager Chuck Tanner.

"We just have to play better" he said Monday night after the upstart Twins got a seven-hit shutout from Steve Luebber for a 5-0 tiumph. "We have to play about .675 baseball now and we can't afford to lose to Kansas City. Before this series, we could do things for ourselves. But now the other clubs have to beat them, too."

And suddenly, the Twins are one of those other clubs to beat. There's a three-game series starting in Kansas City tonight, and it's a good bet that the A's will be playing the scoreboard game while the top two teams in the AL West start carving out a pennant race.

In the other AL games Monday night, New York edged Detroit 1-0, Milwaukee topped Baltimore 7-1, and Boston trimmed Cleveland 3-1.

"You just keep going out there and busting your butt and hope things change," observed Joe Rudi. "I keep looking people in the eye and do the best I can and hope that's good enough."

It wasn't good enough against Luebber, who picked up his first major league shutout and complete game with the performance. He struggled through it, to be sure — walking six and suffering a nervous moment in the sixth when the first two batters cracked singles.

The game Luebber pitched may be forgotten when World Series times come along, or it may be remembered for that very reason. It will be remembered, regardless, by Luebber, who went on to strike out the next two batters and induce Don Baylor to fly out.

Yankees 1, Tigers 0

Doyle Alexander, who has flirted with a no-hitter just about every time he's pitched for the Yankees, hurled a two-hitter to beat the Tigers. It was the fourth time since his acquisition from Baltimore six weeks ago that Alexander has entered the later stages of a game without permitting a hit.

The New York run scored in the third on Mickey Rivers' infield hit.

Red Sox 3, Indians 1

Carl Yastrzemski drove in a pair of runs and Rick Wise pitched a five-hitter to pick up his second victory over the Indians in five days and his eighth complete game of the season.

Brewers 7, Orioles 1

Von Joshua capped a two-run sixth inning with an RBI single, then highlighted a four-run seventh with another run-producing hit as Milwaukee cruised past Baltimore on an eight-hitter by Jim Colborn.

The triumph was the fifth in a row by the Brewers over the Orioles.

Peace Reached In Pro Baseball

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor peace has been reached in baseball.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, told the Select House Committee on Professional Sports that the new four-year agreement with management has been ratified overwhelmingly by the union membership.

With 15 of the 24 clubs having cast their ballots by Monday, the vote was 352-18 in favor of the pact which, for the first time, recognizes freedom of movement for the players.

Under the terms of the agreement, the result of 13 months of negotiation, a player with six years' major league service can become a free agent by notifying his club in writing after the season.

A player with five years of major league service has the right to demand a trade at the end of a season, and he may list a maximum of six clubs to which he doesn't want to be traded. If he isn't traded by the following March 15, he becomes a free agent.

Other key terms include the right of an unsigned player to become a free agent at the end of this season and a signed player to become a free agent after playing out the renewal year in his current contract.

The tentative agreement was reached between representatives of management and the union during the All-Star break three weeks ago, subject to ratification by the 24 owners and the players. The owners ratified the pact two weeks ago.

Miller told the committee that despite baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's comments to the contrary, "collective bargaining in baseball has been impeded because of its anti-trust status."

Miller said the union had tried repeatedly for the past 10 years to make modest modifications in the reserve system through collective bargaining.

"Despite its limited goals, which never included complete abolition of the reserve system, the club owners' response invariably was to the effect that they liked it just the way it was and that they would not change one comma in any of the relevant provisions," he said. "There was never any deviation in the club owners' position that players could never, on their own initiative, become free agents."

Miller said an arbitrator's decision on pitcher Andy Messersmith turned things around.

"Then and only then were the owners first interested in modifying the reserve system. But now they wanted it modified in their favor. We could have, with great justification, taken the same attitude the owners had expressed for 10 years ... but we did not. We agreed to modifications to arrive at what we believe will be a fair and workable system."

Miller also said that the baseball players union, in another vote, ratified 424-3 a new pension plan which will increase benefits 30 per cent over last year.

Football Season Tickets On Sale

Season tickets to Snyder High School varsity football games are now being sold to those who had season tickets last season.

Fans who had season tickets for the 1975 season may reserve their same seating facilities for the coming season. They will have the first opportunity to reserve the seats until Aug. 20, when the season tickets will go on sale on a first come, first served basis.

The season tickets are being sold at the school administration building and they cost $10 each. This is $2 per game for the five-game home schedule. Tickets to the games on a single-game basis will be priced at $2.50 each.

School officials have urged last year's season ticket holders to take care of their renewals as soon as possible and also to notify the ticket office at the administration building if they do not intend to renew their season tickets this year. This will clear the way for the seats not claimed to be assigned to others. Season tickets may be picked up any time from Aug. 30 on.

The Snyder High School Tigers will open their home season on Sept. 10 when they meet Borger. Other home games include Big Spring on Sept. 17, Lamesa on Oct. 8, Lake View on Oct. 15 and Lubbock Estacado on Oct. 29.

Duane Is Ready For Ram Game

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams might remember seeing Dallas' second-string running back duo somewhere when they line up for the Cowboy-Ram clash in the Coliseum Saturday.

Duane Thomas is back at full speed and will team up in the backfield with Ron Johnson Saturday as the "second set" of backs.

The recently-acquired duo will play behind starters Robert Newhouse and Doug Dennison, Cowboy coaches said.

Thomas, picked up after a brief hitch with the World Football League, had been hampered by a strained hamstring since he reported to the Cowboy camp July 5. Prior to that, Thomas played with Dallas and Washington.

Johnson is a former New York Giant in his first year with Dallas.

Center John Fitzgerald, who bruised a knee in Dallas' 17-14 loss to Oakland Saturday, is also expected to be available against the Rams.

Free safety Cliff Harris tore a knee ligament and was back in Dallas, where doctors said he should be ready for duty in six weeks.

Some Cowboys were being limited in their work because of minor injuries.

Dallas released three players Monday and said more might be waived Tuesday. Waivers were asked Monday on quarterback Reggie Jackson, defensive back Tommy Moriarty and defensive lineman Joe Harvey.

Saints Are Set To Cut 30

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Thirty New Orleans Saints were due to be cut from the roster today as Coach Hank Stram trimmed his squad to 63 players.

National Football League rules require these periodic parings to bring all the teams to final size by the start of the season.

Last year the final limit was 43 players. The league hasn't decided on the matter this year — without a players' contract, it's up to management to set the size. A Saints spokesman said a decision is expected shortly.

The spokesman said Stram probably will start quarterback Bobby Scott against the Oilers next week when the Saints meet Houston in the Astrodome.

Scott won the starting job from Bobby Douglass by directing both the Saints' scoring drives against Pittsburgh Saturday.

Scott, a five-year veteran from Tennessee, went in after Douglass failed to get things going against the Superbowl champion Steelers. Early in the fourth quarter he put the Saints on the scoreboard with a five-yard touchdown pass to Ron Bullock.

Later a bomb to Tinker Owens from the New Orleans 20 took the ball deep into Pittsburgh territory and set up Rod McNeill's scoring run.

Douglass and Scott have been vying for playing time while Archie Manning recovers from a shoulder operation.

The spokesman said six Saints were injured in Saturday's game. Elois Grooms has a bruised thigh, Ron Hornsby a sprained ankle, Jim Thaxton a bruised jaw, Steve Rogers a bruised calf and Lee Gross and Andy Dorris bruised knees.

Oilers Begin Tournament PlayWednesday

The Snyder Oilers will learn tonight when they will begin play in the State Teen-aged League baseball tournament at Brownwood and also the identity of their first round opponent.

Coach Charlie Freeman will draw a number from a hat at a session set this evening in Brownwood. It will decide both the opponent and the time of the first game.

Play in the state tournament begins at 9 a.m. Wednesday, with four first-round games booked for opening day. The double-elimination tournament will continue through Saturday.

The Oilers, champions of the Snyder Teen-Age League, won the regional tournament here last week, and they had to rebound to do it. After dropping their opening round game to Sweetwater, they came back to advance to the championship finals, sweeping two games from Sweetwater to claim the regional crown.

Olympics Stars In Meet Of Champions

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Television has its instant replays and now, it appears, so does the Olympics.

Some three dozen track stars, including Olympic gold medalists and world-record holders, will compete in the Bicentennial Meet of Champions beginnng 7:30 p.m., EDT, Wednesday, four days after the final Olympic race.

The main event will be what meet promoters had billed as a " dream mile."

New Zealand's John Walker, the 1,500-meter gold medalist in Montreal, will bring his world record 3:49.4 to Franklin Field's all-weather track to run against a field that includes four sub-3:54 milers.

Filbert Bayi of Tanzania, who briefly held the record of 3:51.1 before Walker dethroned him, won't be one of them. And that's where the dreamers got a rude awakening.

"When Tanzania pulled out (in the African Olympic boycott) they said Bayi wouldn't run in any other races with Walker," said meet coordinator Ron Stanko. "Kenya hasn't determined if they'll let Mike Boit (3:54.9) run."

The African boycott resulted from New Zealand's sports contact with South Africa.

The mile field includes former Villanovan Marty Liquori (3:52.2); 3,000-meter steeplechase gold medalist Anders Garderud (3:53) of Sweden; Irish Olympian Eammon Coghlan (3:53.3); Rod Dixon (3:53.6) of New Zealand; and Tom Wessinghage (3:54.4) of West Germany.

If the mile is the dream race, then the 100 meters is The Race That Might Have Been. Americans Steve Williams, the world record holder at 9.9, and Houston McTear will run against gold medalist Hasely Crawford of Trinidad and Don Quarrie of Jamaica, who won a silver in the 100 and a gold in the 200. Williams and McTear missed the Olympics because of leg injuries.

The 100 and 200 meters also will feature U.S. Olympians Steve Riddick, Mark Lutz and Dwayne Evans, bronze medalist in the 200, and Guyana's James Gilkes, who tried to re-enter the Olympics after his country joined the boycott.

The 3,000 meters and the 400-meter hurdles will be extensions of Olympic rivalries.

Lasse Viren, the first to win gold medals in the 10,000 and 5,000 meters in successive Olympics, will face Dick Quax of New Zealand. Viren nipped Quax by four-tenths of a second in the 5,000 at Montreal.

America's gold and silver medalists in the Olympic 400-meter hurdles, Ed Moses and Mike Shine, will be the favorites in the Bicen hurdle event.

Dwight Stones, fresh from his boo-shrouded Montreal bronze medal performance, will face fellow American Olympian Bill Jankunis in the high jump. Stones owns the world-record of 7-7¼. Jankunis has cleared 7-5¾.

The pole vault features U.S. Olympians Dave Roberts of Florida, the world-record holder at 18-8¼; Earl Bell of Arkansas and Terry Porter of the Pacific Coast Club.

Rangers Rout TL All-Stars

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Rangers return to the real world tonight after annihilating the Texas League All-Stars Monday night, 18-4, behind a barrage of big hits led by Joe Lahoud's fifth inning grand slam.

Lahoud, who picked up a couple of other hits in the rout, was named most valuable player for the game.

The Rangers open a home stand tonight in Arlington Stadium against the California Angels while the All-Stars return to their respective homes to lick their wounds.

Jeff Burroughs smashed a second-inning home run to start off the scoring, and the hapless minor leaguers were never in it after that.

The all-stars scored all their runs in the ninth inning, two of them coming on Lin Hamilton's homer.

Hamilton, who plays for Amarillo, was the only substitute available to the Texas Leaguers, and collected a double to go with his home run in two trips to the placte.

All the losers' runs came off Steve Barr.

Fritz Peterson picked up the win, giving up only one hit in the four innings he worked.

The Rangers collected aa total of 18 hits, and 10 of the Rangers had RDIs.

Wiggin Had To Revise Speech

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Paul Wiggin had to do a quick rewrite of his dressing room oratory.

"I was trying to decide in the middle of the fourth quarter what my speech was going to be," he smiled amid the excitement of the Kansas City Chiefs' locker room Monday night.

"I was going to say we were a young team, but played a lot of people ... but it's a strange game."

It was indeed. Wiggin's Chiefs, outplayed most of the evening by the Houston Oilers, sent their Naional Football League exhibition game into overtime with 92 seconds remaining in regulation and finally won 9-3 when Emmitt Thomas grabbed a blocked field goal attempt and dashed 68 yards to victory.

The Oilers, who had two touchdown passes nullified by penalties, mounted a 3-0 advantage on Skip Butler's 31-yard second quarter field goal and nursed it until Jan Stenerud's 22-yarder sent the game, which had been exceedingly dull to that point, into sudden death.

Then the Chiefs won without their offensive unit taking the field again. The Oilers seemed poised at victory at 9:20 of the overtime period when Butler lined up for what could have been the winning shot from the 33-yard line.

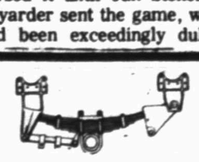

A pair of rookie linemen, Willie Lee and Keith Simons, each got a hand on the ball and Thomas did the rest.

The Oilers and Chiefs both substituted rookies and reserves throughout the night although Houston Coach Bum Phillips rushed his aces onto the field for the overtime period and Wiggin stayed with his fledglings.

"We were trying to win," said Phillips. "We were trying to win throughout the game, even though we took a look at a lot of people."

"Over-all," Wiggin concluded, "we accomplished two things: We won, and we got a chance to judge a lot of people."

Pros Beckoning Michael Spinks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Twenty-year-old Michael Spinks, one-half of the world's first Olympic gold medal brother duo in boxing, has arrived home to mull over his future, possibly as a pro.

But the man who has exerted a major influence in shaping his destiny said Monday he's advised Michael to take his time before making a decision.

"When he came off the plane he was talking. He told me, 'What I want to do is go back to school,'" said John Holaus, president of the Ozark Amateur Athletic Union.

"All I hope is that life can be made a little easier for him and his family," Holaus said. "It (professionalism) is one step out of the ghetto. Maybe God is in his destiny, but the almighty dollar means a lot too."

A smiling Spinks, wearing a sombrero given to him by his hometown coach, Ken Loehr, arrived at Lambert Airport with his mother, Kay, at his side.

"Mostly what I feel is gratefulness," he told a small but boisterous crowd. "Right now, though, what I need is sleep. I slept some Saturday night after the fight, but since the closing ceremony I haven't been able to sleep at all."

The rise of Michael to boxing's amateur pinnacle at Montreal came swiftly after he and his brother, Olympic light-heavyweight champion Leon, fought in a Russian-United States meet here in Januaryn 1975.

A high school dropout, Michael toured the Soviet Union last winter with an American team and gained valuable international experience.

On Monday, after being presented the key to the city, Michael retired to a quiet homecoming and awaited the expected arrival of Leon, 23, from Camp Lejeune, N.C., where he had returned to duty as a Marine corporal.

A noon civic ceremony is planned in the brothers' honor on Wednesday and afterward the St. Louis Amateur Boxing Association plans a celebration of its own.

Brundage Doubted Montreal's Ability

MONTREAL (AP) — Avery Brundage died believing the Olympic Games in Montreal would never take place, his successor disclosed after the Games ended.

Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee said: "It was the last thing Avery Brundage said to me before he died last year.

"His actual words were 'Those Games in Montreal will never take place.' I told him not to be too sure.

"We have had a lot of worries over Montreal. When I saw Avery Brundage for the last time, there were serious problems over construction of the stadium and other facilities. But we kept faith with Montreal, and in the end the Games did take place and they have been a tremendous success."

Brundage, after 20 years as a gritty and dictatorial president of the IOC, stepped down in favor of the jovial and diplomatic Irish lord in 1972. At that time, Montreal had been awarded the 1976 Olympics, but its troubles — construction delays, labor disputes and a soaring budget — had not begun.

Brundage died in May 1975. Montreal's building program was then in such a precarious state that some IOC leaders were talking of finding another city to take the Games.

The Olympics remain much the same from one host city to another, but the presidential press conference at the end of the Games has changed.

Brundage used to have a blunt answer to every question and never worried about hirting people's feelings. Killanin neatly turns the difficult queries aside, often by using his Irish sense of humor.

A French journalist asked a loaded question about friction between the English and French communities in Quebec Province.

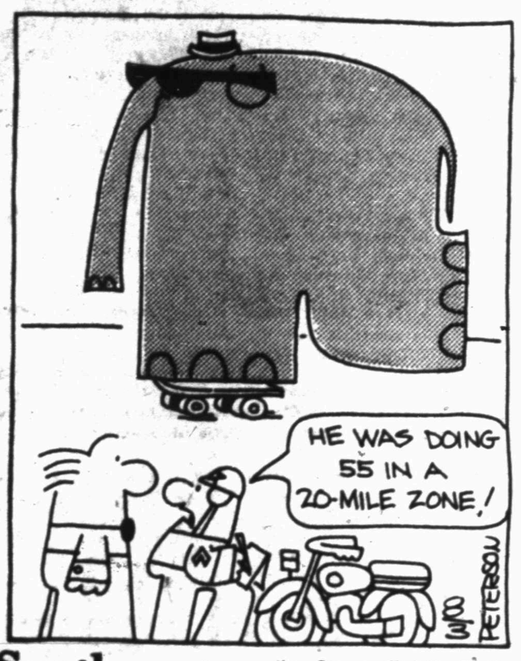

"I am not going to get involved in anything between French and French Canadians," he replied smoothly. "I have too much trouble with Irish and Irish-Americans."

Southwest Hearings Continue

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Southwest Airlines planned to continue presentng public witnesses today in support of its application to extend service to Austin, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Lubbock and Midland-Odessa.

On Monday witnesses from West Texas and the Lower Rio Grande Valley joined hands Monday in supporting Southwest Airlines' proposed expansion which they said would be mutually beneficial.

"We would like very much to tap that lucrative Midland-Odessa and Lubbock market," said John Austin, mayor of South Padre Island.

Terry Wimmer, president of the Texas Tech University Student Association, presented the Texas Aeronautics Commission examner with a petition from Tech students and a resolution from the student senate in support of the Southwest application.

"I would do a lot more traveling over the state if Southwest gets its permit," said Bruce Pearson, Midland geologist, who has his own plane. "The airlines have better pilots than I am and it would be cheaper with from one to three people."

Agriculture Commisioner John White spoke in support of extending Southwest's flights to Austin.

Marketbasket Bill Increases

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Bad news for consumers who like to start the day with a hearty breakfast! An Associated Press marketbasket survey shows prices for such staples as butter, eggs and coffee increased during July.

The increases at the retail store generally reflected trends at the wholesale level which, in turn, mirrored the over-all supply situation.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed the marketbasket bill increased last month at the checklist store in eight cities, rising an average of 1.7 per cent. The bill decreased at the checklist store in four cities, down an average 2 per cent, and was unchanged in the 13th city. Over-all, the marketbasket bill at the checklist store increased a little less than half of one per cent during July.

The situation represented an improvement over June, when the marketbasket bill went up at the checklist store in nine cities and the over-all total was up 1.3 per cent.

A comparison of prices at the start of August with those in January showed the marketbasket bill for food and nonfood items surveyed went up at the checklist store in eight cities, went down in four cities and was unchanged in one city. The over-all increase was 1.7 per cent.

The government has predicted that retail prices for food alone will increase about 2 per cent to 5 per cent this year, although the exact size of any increase depends to some degree on the crops still being harvested. The recent strike by California cannery workers could provide an unexpected boost in the cost of canned fruits and vegetables.

The major increases in July occurred in breakfast items. The price of a pound of butter went up at the checklist store in 11 cities, rising an average of almost 10 per cent. In June, the price of a pound of butter went up in nine cities, increasing about 5 per cent.

A strong demand for milk and other dairy products is blamed for the increase in the price of butter. An Agriculture Department spokesman explained that there is a particularly strong demand for cheese, which is a more profitable item for manufacturers than butter. The more milk used for cheese, the less there is available for butter.

In other developments:

—The price of a pound of coffee increased at the checklist store in seven of the cities surveyed. Coffee now averages about $2 a pound, an increase of more than 50 per cent over the past year. The increases are blamed on last year's frost in Brazil.

—The price of a dozen eggs went up at the checklist store in 12 of the cities surveyed. Higher prices for chicken feed, combined with lower production, are blamed for the boost.

—On the bright side, the price of frankfurters decreased at the checklist store in eight cities, as did the price of a pound of chopped chuck. Increased supplies, combined with scattered summer sales, were responsible for the drop in prices.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

In 1916, American troops under Gen. John J. Pershing pursued Pancho Villa 200 miles into Mexico without success.

SISTER-BROTHER RODEO ENTRANTS—Kelly and Keil Williams have been competing in AJRA rodeos two years and they will be performing in the AJRA Finals scheduled Aug. 10-14 in the Scurry County coliseum.

FIRST YEAR IN AJRA— Glenn Gray has been roping since he was eight (he's now 12) but this is his first year in AJRA. Nevertheless, he is qualified for the finals in roping and racing events Aug. 10-14.

GET ACQUAINTED WITH THE AJRA

By MRS. RALPH MILLER

Keil and Kelly Williams, the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Williams of Gail, have been members of the AJRA for two years. They are the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Williams and Mr. and Mrs. PeeWee Allen.

Keil, 13, competed in his first AJRA rodeo s last year in the 12 and under age group and had a very successful year. He was all-around cowboy of Crawford, Del Rio and Van Horn shows and was awarded two trophy buckles and a saddle for these honors. He competed in break-away roping, barrels, poles and steer riding.

He finished in third place for the year in steer riding and fifth place in the all-around standings for 1975. Keil has moved into the 13-15 age group of competition this year and has qualified for the finals in bull riding and tie-down calf roping.

Kelly, 10, started competing in the barrel race this year in the 12 and under age group and has done real well. She plans to add other events to her entree next year.

Keil and Kelly both said they have enjoyed being in AJRA. To them, it means meeting new friends, helping others, learning sportsmanship, responsibility, and just having a good time.

Glenn Gray, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Borden Gray Jr. of Borden County, has been roping since he was eight years old. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Borden Gray Sr. and great grandson of Mrs. Aubrey Gray of Snyder.

This is Glenn's first year in AJRA as a member but he has competed in several of the open shows the past two years. Glenn has placed in the following shows this year: Ft. Stockton, Clifton, Crane, Andrews and Carlsbad, N.M. He is qualified for the Snyder Finals in roping and racing events. Glenn will be a seventh grader in Borden County School this year.

Dr. Lamb

Get iron from vitamins

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My husband and I are each 50 years old. He is on a low cholesterol diet which I also use. Now we are both anemic. My question is how can we both get 18 milligrams of iron daily when the greatest sources of iron are in organ foods.

DEAR READER—There are five milligrams of iron in one cup of cooked mature bean seeds and four milligrams in a cup of cooked spinach. Neither contains cholesterol. Cook in iron pots and skillets. You'll get some iron from them.

Finally, I don't see why people with special considerations for their diet, as your husband has, need worry so much about getting all the vitamins and minerals they need from food intake. There is nothing wrong with taking one of the standard daily vitamin tablets with iron that you can get at the grocery store. Check the label and you'll find that those with iron usually contain 18 milligrams of iron. That could certainly make life easier for you.

Incidentally, I think anyone with an anemia should find out what is causing it. Is it really because of an iron deficiency? Is it another form of anemia that requires a different treatment, or is it related to an important blood loss? Your doctor can find out for you.

To give you more information on anemias, I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-3, Understanding the Anemias. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—We had a talk in our health class about some of the stars of the sports world using blood transfusions of their own blood to give them the extra help needed to do the event they are in. Could you tell me how this works?

DEAR READER—For the most part it doesn't work. The idea is to withdraw some of the person's blood and store it. Meanwhile the body replaced the blood that has been withdrawn. Then just before the endurance event, such as long distance running, the original blood is transfused back into the person.

This will temporearily increase the volume of blood in the circulation. The whole concept is based on the idea that the amount of work a trained person can do is limited by the amount of oxygen delivered to the working muscles. The amount of oxygen delivered is dependent upon how much blood is pumped to the musices. The reason the concept is a failture is that the amount of blood pumped is dependent upon the heart's capacity to pump blood. The increased number of red blood cells by the transfusion mechanism does not really improve oxygen delivery enough to make any important difference. Carefully controlled laboratory experiments have shown this.

I think there might be one important exception. The athlete who is going to compete at high altitude and has not trained at high altitude before competition might get some benefit from the temporary increase in red blood cells. A better idea though is to train at high altitude if you are going to compete there.

In summary then, the practice of "blood doping" that you are asking about has proved to be fairly useless and I do not approve of it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're very imaginative today, but it's also important to have the courage of your convictions. Don't neglect your bright ideas.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Family matters take precedence today. You can iron out the most pressing domestic problems if you have a mind to honestly try.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Persons who could do big things for your career have their eyes on you today. Do the type of job you'd want them to observe.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you think in terms of making a buck today, you'll be far more productive than if you followed an idealistic dream and came up with a cipher.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is your kind of day. Do as your instincts direct. You'll come out a winner, no matter what you lay your marker on.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's extremely important that you visualize today's events ending in a positive manner. Put your imagination to work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone whose help you need will be very receptive. Don't be too concerned about the mechanics, just get your views before them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have excellent prospects to give you something to cheer about today. Gains can come from several directions. Be alert.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Draw on your experience. It will put you a few steps ahead of the opposition. Knowledge acquired the hard way is now ready to reap you a harvest.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In business today, be less vocal than your counterpart. He can talk himself into giving you better terms than expect.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your dreams are not as unrealistic as some may think. In reality, they'll be quite happy if you succeed.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're much admired by your peers today. It's too bad you can't see yourself as others see you.

"I'm trying to use less electricity this summer, so why is my bill still higher?"

UNDERSTANDING YOUR ELECTRIC BILL

We know your electric bill is probably higher this summer – a lot higher – than it was last year. Even though you're making an honest effort to conserve electricity by doing things like turning lights off, raising your air conditioning thermostat and checking filters regularly.

A higher electric bill isn't much of a reward for that kind of effort. But, we want you to understand the reasons for it, and why it's important to continue using electric energy wisely.

The main reason for higher bills is that it's costing more to make electricity. Our rates had to be increased early this year.

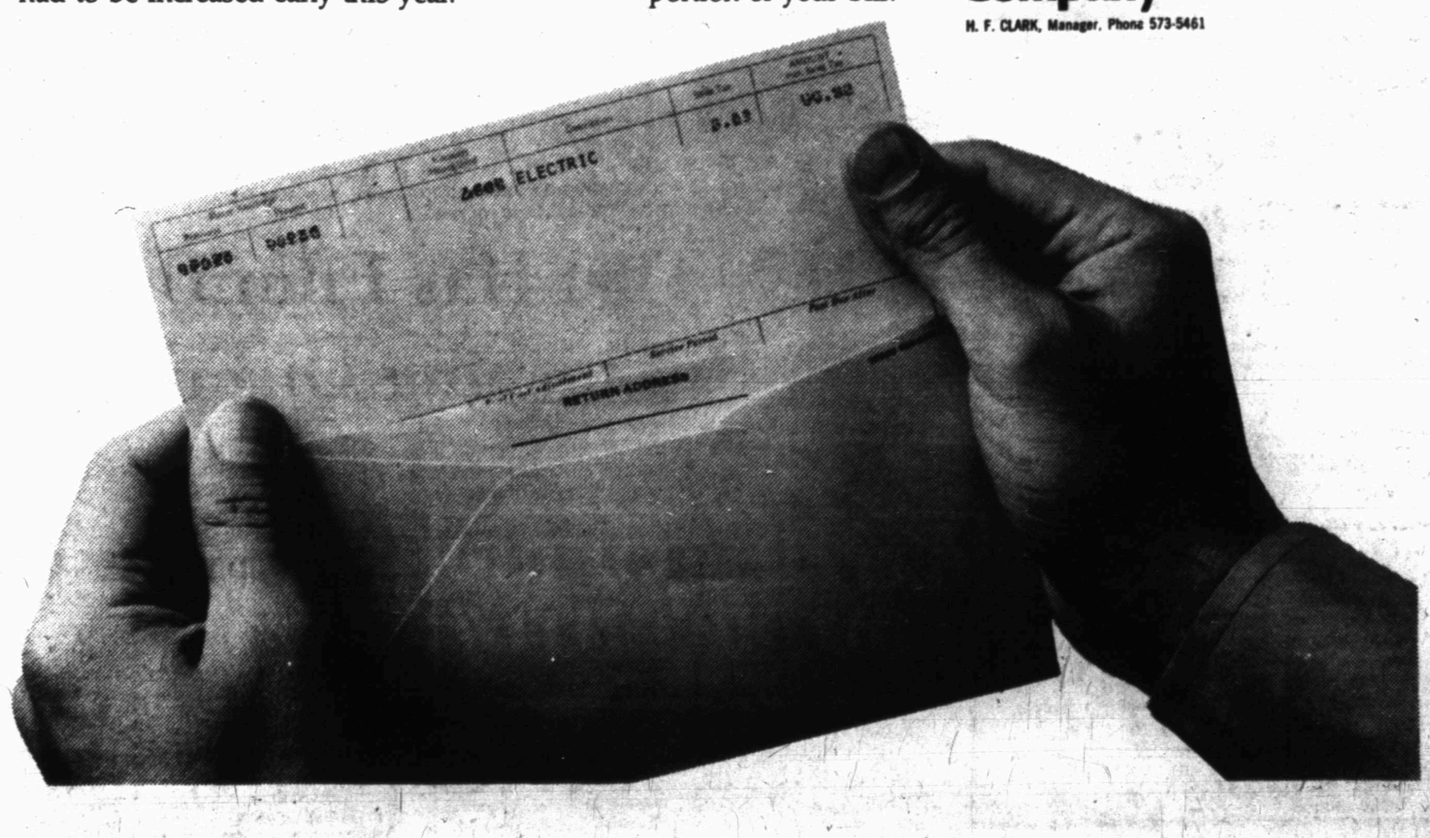

On top of that, fuel costs have gone up — although Texas Electric has been able to keep these increases to a minimum.

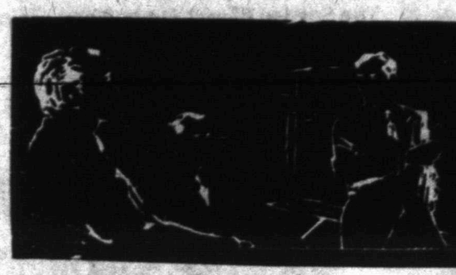

We'll continue doing everything we can to keep increases in your electric bills as low as possible. But it's just as important that you keep conserving electricity as much as you can.

For a free copy of our newest booklet on how to save electricity, give us a call. Or request one on the comment portion of your bill.

Bill's Auto Salvage Has Wreckers Around Clock To Help Motorists

All motorists know how frustrating it is to be stranded on the road without any help in sight. Motorists traveling in the Snyder area however, don't have to experience that feeling of helplessness.

Snyderites have Bill's Auto Salvage that operates two wreckers on a 24-hour a day basis. And to further help motorists, Bill's Auto Salvage is hooked up to two telephone hotlines that link it to 200 other wrecking yards.

"If we don't have a part for your car, we can get it," said Jimmy Farmer in reference to the telephone hotlines. Farmer, owner and manager of Bill's Auto Salvage, has been in the auto repair business for six years and he knows what he is talking about.

But chances are that Farmer will have the car part that you need. Bill's Auto Salvage has 25 acres of wrecked cars that are just bursting with spare parts needed to repair your own car.

The employes at Bill's Auto Salvage can install motors, transmissions, and rear-ends. They have in stock large supplies of tires and fenders. And they have a large and well equipped shop to work in.

In addition to auto repair work, Bill's Auto Salvage has a parking lot of used cars for customers to choose from. If you're looking for a good used car, go by Bill's Auto Salvage.

They currently have the following cars in stock: a 1974 Corvette, a 1969 Corvette, a 1968 Corvette, a 1963 Corvette, a 1974 Chevrolet pickup truck, a 1973 Ford LTD, a 1973 Pinto Station Wagon, a 1973 Gran Prix, a 1972 Monte Carlo, a 1971 El Camino, a 1973 Vega station wagon, a 1968 Mustang, a 1969 Chevrolet pickup truck, an original 1950 Dodge and a rare 1955 2-door Chevrolet station wagon.

Bill's Auto Salvage has also started doing body work to better serve its customers. Farmer said that he had hired Larry Sanford, an experienced body man, to do the body work brought in by the customers.

Bill's Auto Salvage is regularly open from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. till noon on Saturday. And remember, wreckers are on call 24-hours a day.

If you're looking for a hard-to-find auto part or a good used car, go by Bill's Auto Salvage. And if Jimmy Farmer doesn't have what you need, he can get it for you. Bill's Auto Salvage is located immediately off the traffic circle southeast of town on the Roby Highway.

This-N-That Has Film Detailing Care, Refinishing Of Furniture

Do you have any furniture you "would love to 're-do'", but don't have the courage?

If so, you need to stop by This-N-That. This-N-That recently purchased a videotape machine to show furniture care and repair films.

Formby's Refinishing Products supplies the films. Homer Formby appears in and narrates the tapes. On Channel 11, Formby hosts a furniture television program.

Specializing in antique and fine furniture care and restoration, Formby has refinished furniture for 28 years.

Homer is a third generation "furniture man".

So far, This-N-That has a 12 minute film including furniture cleaning, refinishing, paint removing, repair and many other furniture care aspects.

Edyth Jones invites everyone to view the film and receive the free booklet following the tape. Mrs. Jones explained, "We have everything seen in the film or can get it."

As for This-N-That, Mrs. Jones noted, "We have umpteen-thousand things. We specialize in arts and crafts materials, and we have a complete stock of macrame supplies."

This-N-That "opened for business" in 1971 in Snyder and has three employees, Mrs. Jones, Steve Wiman and Natosha Bills.

The store is located at 3907 College Avenue, and hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.
