LOVELY LADY VISITS

In Sweden, Santa Lucia Day kicks off the Christmas holidays as a young maiden dressed in white, wearing a crown of holly and candles bakes and serves buns to the family. Ingrid Little, a native of Sweden, illustrated the lovely story Wednesday to 100 fourth graders at Rockport Elementary School. Mrs. Little served the children cookies and buns as the classic "Santa Lucia" was playing softly in the background. The display, for the class who is now studying Europe in social studies, was most impressive to students and teachers alike.

Body Of Second Victim Discovered

The body of Jerry M. Durham, 18, was discovered Friday in the hull of a shrimp boat as it was raised by a crane at Harbor Island by the Army Corps of Engineers.

He was the second victim of a collision of the Gulf King 62 shrimp vessel and a Texaco tanker Anacortes.

The other victim was the shrimp captain, Charles Neal Fox, 20, of Fort Myers, Florida. John Tierotti, 26, of Middleburg, Florida, was the surviving crewman of the shrimp boat which sank in the Corpus Christi Ship Channel near the island, Wednesday, December 10, after colliding with a Texaco tanker Anacortes.

The discovery of the second body came after the Coast Guard announced an inquiry would be made Wednesday, December 7, one week after the accident.

The cause of the collision will be the subject of the Coast Guard inquiry scheduled for 1 p.m.

Coast Guard officials have subpoenaed Tierotti and six Italian crewmen aboard the tanker at the time, including the ship's captain, they have agreed to testify at the hearing, according to Coast Guard Capt. Gerald Hinson.

The tanker Anacortes was not scheduled to return to Corpus Christi until December 22, but Capt. Hinson said Texaco has been cooperating with the investigation and has agreed to schedule the Wednesday trip for the hearing. All witnesses will testify under oath and an interpreter will be provided.

Statements already taken from the witnesses indicate the shrimp turned into the tanker's path and physical evidence gathered by Coast Guard investigators support the theory, according to Hinson.

He also said that the purpose of the hearing is not to find fault, but to try and find out why it occurred so recommendations can be made in the future. He further said that it is not a liability hearing — that

BAYSIDE FATALITY

Officials work over one of the victims of this crash that killed one man and injured seven others in Bayside Saturday night, December 13. Aransas County paramedics were called to the scene of the collision to help out after a Refugio emergency unit experienced problems and could not respond. James David Leonard, 26, of Houston was killed in the collision that occurred on FM 136 about 6:35 p.m. Leonard was driving one of the vehicles involved. The other, a 1968 Ford Mustang, was driven by Jose Samano, 25, also of Houston. Samano was injured. Also injured were Sergio Saenz, 51, of Matamoros, Mexico, and Celia Avila, 26, and Catalina Ramirez, 26, both of Corpus Christi. All were passengers in Samano's vehicle. Timothy Edward Bielert, 25, Anna Bielert, 21, and Lanay Bielert, 2, all passengers in Leonard's car, were also reported injured. All were taken to Refugio County Memorial Hospital.

City Abandons Plans For Southside Park

By Pat Blair

Rockport's city council has abandoned plans to find land for a city park in the south part of town.

The decision came during a special meeting of the council at 5 p.m. Monday, December 15, during which council members also voted to apply for additional funds—an estimated $12,214—under its Step I wastewater treatment grant.

Council members also authorized Rockport Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr. to co-sign a letter being mailed to the Texas Department of Water Resources asking for a clarification of recent federal rulings that could adversely affect the city's grant status.

On the subject of the park land, Alderman Henry Bent—who originally proposed that the city seek land for a park in the south part of Rockport—told the council Monday night he was withdrawing that suggestion.

"I have had no response from the park board or realtors (on the availability of land for a park on the south side)," Bent told the council, "and I will retract any objection I had to buying land around Memorial Park."

Purchase of land near the existing Memorial Park was the city's earlier proposal, and Bent had objected to it because of the lack of parks in the south part of the city.

In Monday's session, the council authorized City Secretary Herman Johnson

Almost $300,000 To Agencies In Aransas

FEMA Funds Top $9.2 Million To Repair Public Facilities

Federal aid to repair public property damaged by Hurricane Allen has climbed to more than $9.2 million—including nearly $300,000 to government agencies in Aransas County.

The largest chunk of federal funds approved here were to Aransas County itself, where $138,535 in funds were authorized to repair damage from the August 8 hurricane.

Almost as much was approved for the Aransas County Navigation District No. 1, where $125,066 was authorized to help repair damage primarily to county beaches.

Another $15,853 in federal funds were approved for the City of Rockport and $1,717 to the City of Fulton.

Of the 114 applications received by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) from South Texas governmental units, all but two have been approved.

Dale Milford said two aid requests, submitted by Rancho Viejo and the Marine Military Academy, seeking a total of less than $25,000 are pending because of technical questions.

Milford added that FEMA hopes to have both these requests cleared up within a week, and "that effectively will complete FEMA's role in the public assistance side of the disaster recovery operation in South Texas."

The total dollar amount approved by FEMA to this point is 75 percent of some $12.4 million in public property losses identified by federal, state and local engineering teams. The remaining 25 percent will be funded by local and state governments under a federal-state recovery agreement, Milford said.

The largest outlay approved so far is in Nueces County where $3,374,459 will go to repair public property. Federal reimbursements approved to Cameron County totalled more than $2 million.

FEMA will also disburse more than $423,000 to the State of Texas to help repair various state-owned facilities.

Small plants called lichens produce an acid that can etch the surface of the hardest rock. Thus they slowly help break it down into soil. Boulders along the fronts of glaciers are often covered with lichens.

MAKING MONEY

These bikers were out for something besides their health Saturday morning, December 13. They were helping raise money for the Aransas County units of the American Heart Association, American Cancer Society and the Explorer Scouts in the third annual Josep Barton Bikeathon here. Bikers got started at 9 a.m. on the 20-mile route. No exact count was available on how many had participated, but the money raised will be turned in at the VFW Hall Wednesday evening, December 17. Money raised is divided three ways among the sponsors of the annual event. [Pilot Photo by Perry Carter]

Junior High Teams Play In Refugio

The seventh grade Buccaneers played in the Refugio Junior High Tournament with two teams participating.

Friday afternoon the B team battled Refugio's A team all the way before losing 25-20.

The Bucs' A team had their way with the outmanned Refugio B team, winning 44-3. High scorers were Jesse Avila and Ross Potter.

Saturday morning both teams were again in Refugio where the B team played Goliad. Although they were trailing in the third quarter, the Bucs came back to win 23-20. Bart Collins led the squad with 17 points and a good floor game.

The A team lost a squeaker to Woodsboro, 22-21.

Both teams played afternoon games, the A team losing to Refugio A and the B team losing to George West.

According to the coach, the boys gained valuable experience. The B team came through and fought back time after time.

Members of that team are Bart Collins, Manuel Tives, Michael Negrete, Jason Bradley, Keith Krenek and Michael Moers.

The next tournament action for the Bucs will be January 10 in Calallen, when they resume district play following the Christmas break.

Shrimp Landings Looking Good For October, But...

October shrimp landings in the Aransas Pass-Rockport-Fulton area looked pretty good for area fishermen, but the National Marine Fisheries Service was predicting a tie-up before the end of 1980 because of high fuel prices.

More than two million pounds of shrimp were landed in the Aransas Pass-Rockport-Fulton ports during the month of October — the highest of any port systems in Texas.

The total poundage topped the October, 1979, landings of 1.66 million pounds and brought this area's year-to-date totals to 10,865,200 pounds of shrimp coming in.

This figure was also running ahead of 1979's January-October catches of 9.6 million for the area.

The Brownsville-Port Isabel ports exceeded this area in total year-to-date landings, with just over 11 million pounds of shrimp brought in through the end of October.

Although the October picture was looking better for shrimpers, the National Marine Fisheries Service of the U.S. Department of Commerce was predicting that an increase in fuel costs combined with a decrease in shrimp price from October, 1979, will result in "a significant tie-up" of Texas vessels before the year's end.

Amendment In Mill To Allow Appeal

Senator Walter Mengden, Republican from Harris County, has pre-filed a state constitutional amendment — Senate Joint Resolution (SJR) 4 — to permit the state to appeal rulings of the intermediate Courts of Appeal to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals (TCCA) at the discretion of the TCCA.

In the November 4 election, voters approved a constitutional amendment, Proposition 8 (SJR 36), giving the 14 intermediate Courts of Civil Appeals criminal jurisdiction and changing the names of the courts accordingly.

Before the adoption of this constitutional amendment, which will go into effect on September 1, 1981, all criminal appeals were from the trial courts directly to the TCCA.

Senator Mengden stated that his proposed constitutional amendment would give prosecutors the ability to appeal a ruling of a court of appeal if the TCCA agreed to hear the appeal.

"Currently, Article V, Section 26, of the State Constitution prohibits the state from ever having any right of appeal in criminal cases. Texas is the only state in the nation that handicaps our district and county attorneys in this way. Naturally, this has an adverse effect on justice by giving the criminals an unfair advantage," he said.

Senator Mengden pointed out that what can happen now is for a defendant to appeal a conviction to a Court of Appeal, which might reverse that conviction on some minor technicality.

But a prosecutor would be unable to appeal that ruling to the TCCA because the state cannot appeal in Texas under any circumstances, Mengden added.

"This constitutional amendment allows for prosecutors as well as defendants to have an equal chance to appeal to the TCCA from the intermediate appellate courts. In both instances, these appeals would be at the discretion of the TCCA.

"But if an intermediate Court of Appeal makes an improper ruling, the state — and not just the defense — should be able to ask the TCCA to look at it," he said.

TO THE HOSTAGES . . . WITH LOVE

William Ratliff, principal at Rockport Elementary School, points out the signatures of some of the 781 elementary school students, teachers and aids and administration personnel on this giant "Christmas Card" for the American hostages in Iran. Students and teachers at the school started work on the card early last week, finishing it Friday, December 12 — in time for it to go into the afternoon mail for Iran. Monroe's Carpet furnished a tube and the tree-shaped card was rolled up and placed in the tube for mailing. Ratliff said the idea came from "a patron of the school" who called his secretary and suggested it. The caller didn't identify herself, he added, and she said the idea wasn't really hers but someone else's. "So we really don't know who thought of it," he said. "But we liked it, and we did it." Signees included Aransas County School Superintendent Joe Randow as well as the kindergartners enrolled at Rockport Elementary — and everybody in between. The card says, "Merry Christmas from Rockport Elementary," and the "star" on top is a Texas map with a giant armadillo and a gold star pinpointing Rockport's location on the Coast.

Perfect Gifts For 'Feathered Friends'

The feathered friends on your holiday gift list would like nothing more than to find their favorite foods in your backyard this winter.

The secret of attracting wild birds to your feeding stations is to provide the foods they like best and to put them in the right places, says "Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine."

Just as some birds would rather eat suet than nuts, many birds prefer to eat on the ground rather than from hanging feeders.

The National Wildlife Federation's monthly publication for children offers these guidelines for providing a variety of wintering birds with the right foods in the right places:

Ground Feeders include blue jays, sparrows, juncos, quail, mourning doves, pheasants, chickadees, and house finches. Their favorite foods are sunflower seeds, cracked corn (inexpensive, but will also attract starlings, grackles, and pigeons), wild bird seed mix and peanuts.

Feeders can be split fire-place logs (flatside up), hubcaps (for food or water), garbage can lids, trays, shallow pans or birdbath tops (for water).

Tabletop or Window Feeders include cardinals, goldfinches, grosbeaks, chickadees, purple finches, mockingbirds, and jays. Their favorite foods are sunflower seeds, shelled peanuts, wild bird seed mix, raisins and currants, and feeders can be trays placed on picnic tables, benches, or stumps, or attached to windowsills.

Hanging or High Post Feeders include cardinals, chickadees, goldfinches or other finches, pine siskins, redpolls, titmice, and nuthatches.

Their favorite foods are niger or thistle seeds, sunflower seeds, wild bird seed mix and peanut hearts or other nutmeats.

Feeders can be plastic tube feeders, round or square post feeders (some shaped like little houses), or recycled milk cartons, detergent, or bleach bottles, which have been cut open for easy access.

Trunk Feeders include chickadees, woodpeckers, nuthatches, and many seed-eating birds. Their favorite foods are suet or suet cakes, which can be mixed with peanut butter, seeds, and other treats.

Feeders can be wire mesh holders, plastic mesh bags (used for onions, oranges, etc.) or log holders.

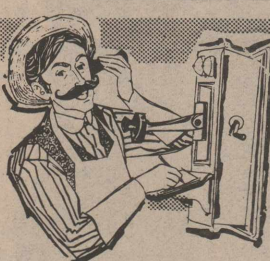

"Don't be discouraged if the birds don't come flocking into your yard the first day you put out food," advises "Ranger Rick." "Sometimes it takes a while for the birds in your area to discover your feeders. Once they've found them, they'll keep coming back so long as there is food for them."

Feeders should be kept clean and checked every day. Don't put out large amounts of food that could spoil or attract rats or mice. And remember that besides food and water, birds need cover.

Old, used and unwanted toys were made new, bright and shiny by members of Girl Scout Troop 516 under the leadership of Dale James and her assistant Margaret Garrett. The toys were donated by Rockport Elementary School students where the scouts collected them to work on each week. Everything from books and dolls to riding toys were mended and painted by the girls. The sleighful will now be given to the Lion's Club to be given to the Toys for Kids drive. The scouts made their own posters advertising the campaign and in their spare time made decorations to adorn their Christmas tree at the Aransas County Woman's Club. Clockwise around the table are Kerry Gannon, Michelle Brand, Vanessa Mejorado, Angela Griffith, Shelly Griffith, Angel Castillo, Christy Sorenson, Tressa Wallis, Melinda Matthews and Tina Wooddell. Not present for the picture were scouts Roxanne Singletary and Tina Wagoner. [Pilot Photo by Johnnie Littleton]

Outdoors & Travel

by E. L. "Buck" Rogers

If you'd like to take an Amazon safari, but don't care to swat mosquitoes, sleep in a hammock, or worry about 30-foot anacondas, I've got a suggestion.

A Napo River cruise is for you.

This river rises in the Andean slopes of Ecuador and flows southward to its confluence with the Amazon 4000 miles away. This is the route Francisco Orellana took in 1540 when he discovered the Amazon River, and it is the same one used by a big river cruiser operating there today. The Orellana actually resembles a motel more than it does a boat. It is 131 feet long, weighs 180 tons, and is powered with huge stern-drive diesels designed especially for these waters. A total of 54 guests can be accommodated in modern staterooms. Other features include a dining room, lounge, kitchen, crew quarters, bar, and big sun deck.

During four- and five-day cruises guests frequently get opportunities to go ashore to prowl jungle trails and observe the fauna and flora of a rain forest.

They paddle across jungle lakes in dugout canoes and visit Indian villages and river settlements. At one location, they motor up a narrow vine-draped stream and then silently float back down, observing and photographing the bird and animal life that abounds here. All shore expeditions are led by trained nature guides who also give lectures and conduct evening discussion sessions aboard ship.

Fulton Man In Stable Condition

John L. Lesley of Fulton was picked up by a Coast Guard helicopter about 4 p.m. Sunday from 60 degree waters eight miles east of Corpus Christi.

He was found clinging to a water cooler in the debris of his boat, Gypsy Girl, which sank, but the Coast Guard has said they did not know why. Lesley made no radio contact with anyone before the boat went down according to Lt. Steve Sparks, a Coast Guard pilot who rescued him.

Lesley was sighted by a petroleum company helicopter pilot, Harry Bates of Corpus Christi. He hovered over the stranded man until a Coast Guard helicopter arrived.

Lesley was dazed, cold and incoherent. He was suffering from a loss of body heat and when he regained consciousness said he had been in the water about three hours.

The Coast Guard searched the area until Lesley regained consciousness and told officials he was alone when the boat sank. He was at first identified by boat registration papers Coast Guard personnel found floating in the debris, Sparks said.

Near the flotsam was an oil slick measuring about 30 by 50 feet, according to Sparks.

Singapore boasts gardens lying next to each other and occupying 36 acres are Singapore's Chinese and Japanese Gardens. The latter, with its carp ponds, streams and waterfalls, is the largest garden of its kind outside Japan.

To Be A Libra

week or so ago—"Your role should now be that of a keen, shrewd observer. Be sure of all legal rights, accent on joint efforts, bring together those with opposing views. Give others the right to express their views."

This sounds like my son John—also a Libra.

Every day brings a new set of values ranging from the fact "that I should be smooth, easy to get along with, etc."

Now, what I want to know is who told him—Mr. Omarr—the editor that I was or should be the kind of a person that he said I am. I never met him or had any relations with him.

How can he describe me? Must I believe in him? However, he hits me correctly about 50 percent of the time.

Just read Friday's paper by Sydney Omarr. He said "Light is shed on areas 'previous dark.'" What do you think I should look for today?

He also states "You will make a 'marvelous' new contact—it should be the start of something Big." Do you reckon that you, the reader, may be my 'marvelous new contact'?

Just had a phone call from an oil operator who wants to lease my 100th interest in a 10 acre tract. Said my part to begin with should be about $77.

That's enough for this week. Just try reading your Horoscope a few times and find out what you do not know about yourself. It's fun—but do I believe or live by it? Do you?

Sew Easy

COLLEGE STATION — Plaids return to the fashion scene in the form of classic plaids as well as new shapes, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

With a few easy guidelines, homesevers can stitch up fashionable garments with plaids she points out.

To begin, choose a pattern with a few pieces, easy shaping and few seams. Too many details will break up the plaid designs.

Always check the back of the pattern envelope for suggested fabrics to make sure the pattern is suitable for plaids, she advises.

Avoid circular skirts and full dirndls that can distort the plaid.

Avoid fabric that is printed and not woven. Inexpensive printed plaid is often printed off-grain. This makes it impossible to match plaids.

Buy extra yardage to match plaids. Go by the nap fabric yardage. And a rule-of-thumb is to add the length of one plaid repeat for each yard bought, the specialist says.

When laying out pattern, cut each piece from a single thickness of fabric.

When two pieces are needed of the same pattern piece, flip the pattern over for one cutting.

When patterns are cut on the fold, use pins to mark top and bottom of the pattern piece, cut around pins, and flip over to cut other side. Make sure plaids match at notches and small dots.

For a more flattering garment, consider the dominant line in the fabric and place it at hemline and waistline. Avoid placing it at the hip or bust.

Match plaid lines both vertically and horizontally at the seam line and not the cutting line.

Places that need matching are front, back and side seams, sleeve breakpoint, plackets or tabs, center back of collar, shoulder, patch pockets, facings and openings such as buttonfronts, Miss Brown says.

When sewing, pin all seams carefully to prevent slippage. Also using an "even feed" or "roller foot" attachment will help prevent slippage.

Stitch seams from bottom to top to prevent distorting the grainline, the specialist adds.

Pirates Overcome Bobcats 67-60

By Bob Crawford

It took a while to happen, but the Rockport-Fulton Pirates finally decided to play four full quarters of good basketball Friday night, December 12, as they beat Refugio 67-60 before a home crowd in Pirate Gym.

Refugio raced off to an early lead of 13-10, but the Pirates held close. Then in the second period, Rockport seemed to come alive and kept the game close throughout the second period, eventually taking a one-point lead into the locker room at halftime 32-31.

Rockport got balanced scoring from the five on the floor to keep things even.

In the third quarter the Pirates assumed command and began to assert themselves with a strong running game. In that period the Pirates got two technical fouls called against them, and this seemed to fire them up.

Before the quarter had run its eight minutes, the Pirates were ahead 48-42. The highlight of the period was a slam dunk by Donnie Frels after he had been given a perfect pass from a teammate.

In the fourth period the Pirates kept the pace up. Refugio tried desperately to catch Rockport, but the Pirates got tougher, except when they forced up shots when they had a big lead.

Frels led the scoring with 20 points for the Pirates. James Walls, who had his best floor game of the season, also had a good scoring game with 16 points. Dennis Hull hustled on defense to stop his opponent, but he cracked the basket for 14 points.

Zach Green filled in for Micheal Simmons who was out with an injury, and Green dipped in nine points, most of which were crucial from the foul line. Pee Wee Solis rounded out the scoring with eight points. In a real thriller, the Freshmen Pirates battled and came within one point of the much taller Bobcats.

Eddie Bechtol pumped in 25 points to lead the Pirates, but it was the fine play of Bobby Dingenary and Jeffrey Dickerson in the last quarter that nearly

Lady Pirates Lose One, Win

By Bob Crawford

After beating Kingsville Monday night, the Lady Pirates ran into a little problem with Aransas Pass, a team they had beaten a week earlier.

Rockport jumped off to a 10-point lead, but Aransas crashed the boards and fought back to win 43-39.

Pirates took a 14-8 lead into the second period, but Aransas narrowed the gap to 22-18 by the half. Aransas put together a big 15-point quarter in the third period while the Pirates could manage to sink only six points.

Going into the last period, the Ladies trailed 33-28, and the margin for the loss had been established.

Monday night the Lady Pirates won handily over Kingsville for their fourth win of the season, equalling the entire output of last year's team in the win column.

Rockport jumped out to a 14-4 lead, and by the half the margin had increased to 30-12. By the game's end, the Ladies had put 70 points on the board in the 70-32 win. Foitik led all scorers with 26 points.

Moore had 20 for the night, and Genny Mundine ripped the nets for 12

Scott Leads Nominees

by Bob Crawford

Coaches of District 15-AAAA selected their All-District teams last week, and Rockport-Fulton's Bubba Scott was among those picked to represent the district on the first team offense.

Scott, a 6-foot, 225-pound senior, was picked by the coaches at one of the guard positions, joining members from Gregory-Portland, West Oso, Beeville, Tuloso-Midway, and Flour Bluff on the team.

Named to the Second Team Offense were running backs Dwayne Walls and Micheal Simmons.

On the defensive side of things, the Pirates gained two performers named to the Second Team. Scott and teammate Michael Arthur held down the defensive end positions on that squad. Eddie Naro, a junior linebacker, was an Honorable Mention selection.

The Pirates finished their season with a record of 3-7.

pulled the game out for the Pirates after the game seemed out of reach with Refugio ahead by as many as 16 points — the margin at the end of three quarters.

At the game's end the scoreboard read Refugio 59, Rockport 58.

Girls Take Third In AP Tourney

By Bob Crawford

For the second tournament in a row, Rockport-Fulton's Lady Pirates brought back a trophy from a tournament. This time the Ladies took third in the Aransas Pass Tournament.

The Lady Pirates opened the tournament on Thursday of last week with a laugh over the Aransas Pass JV team, 75-15.

Five girls hit double figures in the runaway game. Genny Mundine had 14 points, and Kim Foitik, Kelli Ondrej, Sundi Price and Darlene Dilworth hit the nets for 10 points each.

Rockport buried the JV team in the first quarter with an 18-3 blitz. From then on the game was all Rockport.

The second round did not prove to be so easy as the Pirates drew the Incarnate Word Angels. The Angels have been one of the top girls' teams in South Texas, and they did not disappoint with their skills.

Taking a 12-4 lead in the first period, the Angels flew high and stretched their lead to 29-16 over the cold Pirates. Terri Moore paced the Pirates with 16 points in the 53-31 loss.

In game three for third place, the Pirates avenged an earlier loss to Aransas Pass by beating the Pantherettes 56-44 behind the 29-point performance by Moore, still hobbled by a sore ankle.

Moore blazed the nets for 19 first-half points, and picked up good scoring support from Foitik. Foitik hit 14 for the game.

After a close first-quarter where the Pirates held only a three-point lead at 18-15, Rockport expanded their lead to 38-22 by halftime with a big 20-point second quarter.

Along with third place honors, the Pirates received an additional bonus by having Moore named to the All-Tournament Team.

The girls have a record of 9-4 as they enter the district race with a record of 1-1.

Seventh Grade Girls Lose

Tuloso-Midway eased by the Rockport-Fulton Lady Bucs Thursday, December 11, with a score of 18-12.

High scorer was Thuy Vu with six points. Regina Gatlin had four and Kim Meyer, two.

On Friday the Lady Bucs traveled to Refugio where they played George West and lost, 15-7.

Thuy Vu was again high scorer with four points. Norma Aleman contributed three.

Saturday the girls went to Refugio again to play their B team and won, 22-18.

Once again Thuy Vu was hitting the baskets, scoring eight points. Kim Meyer hit five times, Norma Aleman had four points and Regina Gatlin and Michele Dingenary had two points each.

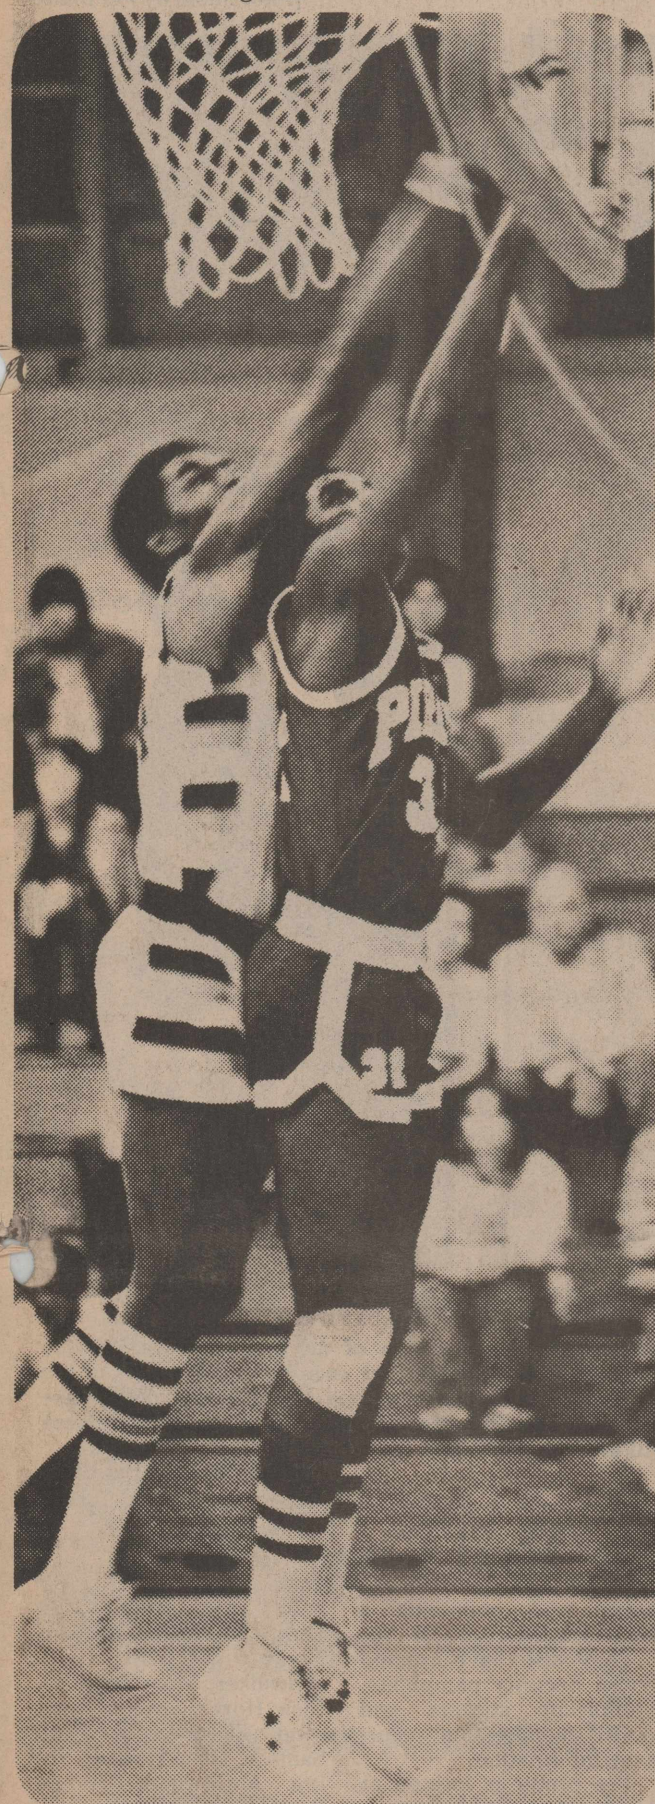

From there the Lady Bucs advanced to consolation, but lost to Goliad 23-2. Denise and Kim Meyer scored one each for the team.

Eighth Grade Girls Lose

In overtime last Thursday the eighth grade Lady Bucs lost a heartbreaker to Tuloso-Midway 21-19.

High scorers for the team were Jill Wendell with six points, Cindy Barrera with five, Leigh Falk and Johnnie Jordan with three apiece and Roxanne Flores with two.

Eighth Grade Boys Go To Finals

The eighth grade boys basketball team had a successful week, winning three games and losing one.

They won over Tuloso-Midway in a district game Thursday, December 11, 37-30, beat Flour Bluff Friday 34-24 and Calallen Saturday 33-14.

The victories over Flour

Bluff and Calallen advanced the Bucs to the finals of the Rockport-Fulton Tournament where they lost to Gregory-Portland, 29-20.

Rudy Solis, Luis Solis and Frank Conchola were standouts in every game during the week.

Wildlife Refuge Gets New Building

A new and bigger visitor's center will be officially turned over to personnel at the Aransas Wildlife Refuge Wednesday, December 17, although it isn't expected to open to the public for a while yet.

One of the more visible of recent improvements at the Refuge, the new "Interpretive Center" is part of a general "facelifting" begun about a year ago.

Also included in the project has been construction of a new maintenance building with solar heating system, a service station and storage building, a new equipment barn for the Refuge and a new non-polluting trash burner.

Contractor for the new construction has been Bruce-Anderson Company Inc., a nationwide firm headquartered in Bozeman, Montana, and with an office now in Houston.

Wayne Jacobson is general supervisor for the project that started December 1, 1979.

In addition to the construction work, the improvements program at the Refuge also included resurfacing of roads — although this was not handled by the construction contractor.

A major reason for the new construction was simply to add more space. "The existing facility has outgrown itself," Jacobson said, "and all the older facilities were pretty much worn out."

The new triangular-shaped visitors' center has some 6500 to 7000 square feet of floor space and includes a large reception area, a large, lighted display area and an amphitheater with seating capacity for up to 200 people for the showing of films and slides to mass audiences.

There is also a small room for private viewing of the Refuge's whooping crane films, as well as office space and work areas for Refuge personnel.

The reception area includes a panel that controls the track lighting along the display walls, so that the lights can be dimmed or brightened as required.

The front of the building includes an observation deck for visitors and the entire area around the building will be landscaped, Jacobson said.

Architects for the project were Total Design IV of Corpus Christi.

Benny Pena of Rockport was local foreman on the project and Jacobson said additional materials and equipment were provided by Wagly-Lilly Home Center and Wiring by Vossler, both Rockport firms.

"We try to use as much local labor and service as we can on a project," Jacobson said of his firm.

The Wildlife Refuge was created in 1937 as the Aransas Migratory Waterfowl Refuge, primarily to provide a haven for the whooping cranes.

Today, with 54,000 acres, the Refuge is haven for many other birds and wildlife species but the whooping cranes continue to be a main attraction for visitors.

The latest count on the birds, as of Friday, December 12, was 73 adult cranes and six young birds sighted at the Refuge.

Jacobson said Bruce-Anderson currently has 11 projects going nationwide including construction in a new refuge 80 miles outside Palm Beach, Florida, on the edge of the Everglades.

FINISHING TOUCHES

Workmen add the final touches to the exterior of the new Aransas Wildlife Refuge "Interpretive [visitors'] Center" Friday, December 12. The new building, part of a general facelifting at the Refuge, will be officially turned over to Refuge personnel today so they can start moving in. [Pilot Photo by Pat Blair]

Pet Talks

By Dr. Hap Lutz
Dr. Lutz is a graduate of Baltimore City College and Texas A&M University. He specializes in small and exotic animal practice. He was an instructor of small animal diseases and surgery in the Veterinary School at Texas A&M and was in private practice in Waco for 25 years.

DOGS FOR THERAPY
We are just beginning to realize the many ways dogs are man's best friend. In the pediatric section of a large hospital in Los Angeles, there lives a sheep dog. His purpose? To comfort frightened children who are away from home — possibly for the first time — and awaiting an operation. To listen to long stories that doctors and nurses don't have time for, but children need to tell. To provide something to hold onto and pat until finally a frightened hand relaxes and the child sleeps.

It comes as no surprise to those of us who live with dogs that they contribute to emotional health and psychological well-being.

One indication of the real therapy provided by dogs comes as a result of research done comparing the longevity rates of heart attack patients who own pets to those who do not.

Dr. Erika Friedman, in Pennsylvania, surveyed 92 heart attack victims in hospitals. Of these patients, 39 did not own pets and 53 did. Eleven of the 39 who did not own pets died within a year of admission to the hospital.

Only three of the 53 pet owners failed to live for at least a year after admission. Dr. Friedman, and others, theorize that pets have a positive emotional effect on coronary heart disease.

At Ohio State University, psychiatrists matched the personalities of dogs to the needs of emotionally disturbed patients who had failed to respond to traditional therapy.

Most of the patients chosen for the program were be-riden and uncommunicative. The results were astounding. Many of the patients were eventually discharged.

According to researchers, caring for the pets encouraged the patient to take better care of themselves, and provided a link that helped them rediscover their lost social skills and desires.

It comes as no surprise to us who work and live with pets that they contribute to our emotional health and psychological well-being.

Now, however, these personal and subjective observations are being confirmed by scientific observations and documentation. Pets are making some very real contributions to the welfare of society.

Wouldn't this be a nice time for you to give a pet to someone you love or to a friend?

Sheriff's Report

A 1980 green Chevrolet pickup belonging to the Fulton Boat Yard in Cove Harbor was reported stolen sometime between 6:30 p.m. Saturday, December 13, and 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

The vehicle, valued at $7,285, was parked on the east side of the shop. Bill Johnson, owner of the boat yard, said the pickup is used by several different persons and that several keys were out to the shop and the truck.

Johnson told sheriff's deputies the pickup had less than one-quarter tank of gas at the time of theft.

Thomas Kiobassa reported burglary of a residence on Pearl and Linden sometime before 4 p.m. Saturday, December 13.

Sheriff's deputies said the screen had been cut off the door on the east side of the house then a hole kicked in the wooden door for entry.

It is not known whether anything is missing. The residence reportedly belongs to George Kiobassa.

Jerry Shaw reported theft of a skiff from his property on Front Street in Lamar between 5:30 p.m. Friday, December 12, and 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

The boat was located near the water's edge on the back section of the property just off Copano Bay.

Frankie Gaydos reported two bicycles were taken from his residence on Star Route 1 sometime between 5:45 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday.

The bicycles, valued at $90 and $60, were beside the garage at the time of theft.

Doris Thompson at Midway Trailer Park reported theft of a bicycle valued at $75 from behind her trailer sometime between 7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Friday.

Bryan campaigned hard
A most indefatigable campaigner for the presidency was William Jennings Bryan, who died in 1898, in the first of his three unsuccessful bids, rode 18,000 miles in three months, speaking up to 100,000 words a day and once making 24 speeches in 24 hours.

FORMER OWNER

Wayne Jacobson, general supervisor for construction of the new Aransas Wildlife Refuge visitors' center, shows off a couple of doors that once belonged to one of the cattle baron owners of Blackjack Peninsula before it became a refuge. The doors were incorporated into the design of the new building. A single large ranch covered Blackjack Peninsula from about 1917 until around 1937 when the refuge was established. Concern Center Had Good Year

Concern Center volunteers have expressed thanks to local organizations and individuals who have helped them have a successful year of community services.

Those who have helped are The Castaways with their generous donations; the American Heart Association for the CPR courses and blood pressure checks; the American Red Cross for the eye scan and Dr. J. Martin Shaw for his assistance; the VFW for the use of their building for home nursing courses, CPR classes and the public eye scan; the Council on Aging Auxiliary for donating crafts for Sea Fair sales; the Chamber of Commerce for referral calls; The First National Bank for use of the Town Hall and Live Oak State Bank for use of the Board Room.

The Concern Center is sponsored by A.A.R.P. #1536 and has been in existence seven years as an information and referral service.

The Center compiles the Community Calendar, assists the local library in locating lost and overdue books and maintains a small job file.

They also have current Social Security pamphlets, Vial-of-Life stickers and AARP membership insurance information.

The center is located at 112 N. Magnolia Avenue.

Serving as volunteers at the center this year have been Leah King, Mary Holst, Velma Stuckum, Eleanor Sargent, Greta Schweiker, Mary Langdon, Elsie Hover, Evelyn Townsend, Flora Davis, Frank Samson, Olive Holmes, Irving McMahon, Bessie Browne, Mary Werbelo, Millie Flannery and Florence Samson.

Council On Aging

Elects Officers For 1981

Rev. John Bradshaw terminated his second year as president of the Board of the Council on Aging at the December 8 meeting at the United Savings Building.

New officers elected are Frank Samson, president; Dorothy Moeller, vice-president; E.H. Butler, treasurer; Edna Roberts, assistant treasurer; Kathryn Winkelman, secretary; and Douglas Ward, assistant secretary.

Samson has been active in AARP and the Concern Center since retiring and moving to Rockport. He is a retired Commander of the Coast Guard, and for many years served as director of safety at the University of Houston.

Members of the Board who have served three years included Rev. John R. Bradshaw, Cepha Jesse and Don L. Stone.

Bradshaw and Stone have given many years of service to the Board of the Aransas County Council on Aging, having been active since it was organized.

Other members of the board include Austin Copeland Jr., Minta Lancaster, Blas Ramirez and Richard Dominguez.

New members of the Board for 1981-83 will be elected at the regular January meeting.

The city has been notified that $40,000 in funds are available for purchase of land for a city park under the federal Coastal Energy Impact Program.

But in order to secure the funds, the city must make a detailed application pinpointing the land it will purchase, the cost and how it proposes to use the money.

More money is needed under the city's Step I grant for a wastewater plant expansion feasibility study to run a smoke test on the existing city lines.

Johnson told the council Monday that this is now a requirement under the Step

I grant guidelines and that the purpose of the test is to locate any leaks in the existing system.

Johnson said the estimated cost of the test is $16,286 of which $12,214 will be funded by the government under the Step I grant with the remainder to be paid for by the city.

The city has applied for the Step I funds through the Environmental Protection Agency as the first step in a project to double the size of Rockport's present sanitary sewer treatment facilities.

After the Step I feasibility study is completed, the city will apply for funds through the Step II program to design the project.

In other action relating to the Step I grant, the city council voted authorization for Mayor Falk to co-sign a letter written by Urban Engineering—the city's engineering firm—to the Texas Department of Water Resources asking for clarification of a new ruling by the EPA on Step I projects in flood plain areas.

A letter from the Texas Water Resources department indicates that the EPA will not provide grants for construction in flood plain areas.

City officials are concerned that the ruling, as presently worded, might adversely affect Rockport's bid for the sewer treatment expansion.

In other action during Monday's special session, the council officially adopted an ordinance annexing the Pine Tree Office Park property on Highway 35 North. The annexation was approved at the council's December 8 meeting.

The council approved payment of bills between November 7 and December 10.

WINNERS & LOSERS

A number of people are writing, wiring and calling their legislators about recently proposed regulations that many consider a real loser. They would reduce or prohibit the crop protection chemicals American growers use. This, scientists say, could cost us up to 50 percent of our food crop every year—and quickly drive up the cost of food.

RAILROAD TAKEOVER
On Dec. 26, 1917, the U.S. Railroad Administration took charge of the nation's railroads, which remained under government control until 1920.

VISITING AROUND THE TREE

Florence Samson, left, and Eldora Oldrich get together for a chat during the Council on Aging's Open House last Friday. Besides refreshments, visitors were treated to the opportunity to see—and buy—some of the crafts and artwork produced by Rockport's older citizens in the art and crafts classes being sponsored now by the COA.

Lou Ann At Home Among Art Folks

By Pat Blair
"When the light comes through, it's something that grabs at your soul," Lou Ann Simpson said.

It's an apt description for her fascination with stained glass creations — something she's been doing for about six years now, ever since she decided that "the best way to get a stained glass lampshade was to make one."

She was going to school in those days — in pre-nursing — and was "young and married" and stained glass lampshades were one of those unaffordable luxuries.

These days, Lou Ann has lots of lampshades — and suncatchers and mosaic pictures and windows . . .

What happened was she met a young craftsman of the art in Houston who hired her "and taught me his secrets." Lou Ann worked for him for about three years.

Now she's brought her stained glass creations to Rockport, setting up shop in the building that also houses Little Bay Real Estate.

And in addition to making stained glasses to sell, she also plans to teach the art, starting classes in January.

And in between, she plans to continue finding time to exhibit in art shows in Texas and Louisiana as she's been doing for the past three years.

The shows include the Texas Renaissance Festival held every fall in Magnolia — and Rockport's annual Art Festival and Sea Fair. Lou Ann said she's never shown in either of these local events, but she hopes to this year.

She and her husband, Gary, moved to Rockport about three weeks ago, after living in Corpus Christi about a year — and in southern Illinois before that.

"We always visited Rockport," Lou Ann said, "and I liked it here better than Corpus. I'm more at home here among the art folks."

She enlisted the aid of Virginia Chernovsky at Little Bay Real Estate to help her find a place for a shop — and Virginia suggested putting it in the Little Bay building. Lou Ann has a room for making her creations and displays them — along with some ceramic figures — in the foyer. She's open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

While Lou Ann is making and selling her stained glass creations — and experimenting with new forms, like "dimensional designs" — Gary is working as a supervisor with Frontier Construction Company on Fulton Beach Road.

But don't get the idea it's all lampshades and suncatchers for Lou Ann. Her work includes designing stained glass windows for residences and churches, bars — "and one bowling alley," she added with a laugh.

She designed stained glass covers for the ceiling fans for a seafood place in Houston, a custom-made wallhanging for a wildcat oil man, a stained glass window "for my mom's bathroom."

Because she enjoys being active in the community, Lou Ann has started work with a Brownie troop here. And she's finding time in her schedule to raise two children, a daughter, now eight, and a son, 20 months.

Then the topic comes back to her stained glass. Working with it, she said, "is unlike anything I'd ever done."

"I enjoy creating pieces. I build my pieces with the idea that they will last — they'll be here after I'm gone."

That's the age-old dream of every artist, every craftsman — to leave a piece of himself to be remembered by . . .

LOU ANN WITH 'FAVORITE'

Stained glass artist/craftsman Lou Ann Simpson adjusts this wallhanging in her new Rockport shop in the Little Bay Real Estate Building. The stained glass piece shows the dimensional effect Lou Ann has been working with lately, in which some of the glass is "lifted" to give a feeling of depth. Besides wallhangings, Lou Ann's work includes suncatchers, freestanding stained glass figures and stained glass windows and shades for residences, churches, bars — and even a bowling alley. Veterans Administration News

Q—I was unable to use my VA education benefits before my time limit expired. How do I apply for an extension?

A—The extension of the delimiting date for education benefits can be granted to veterans who can prove they were unable to pursue a course of education because of a physical or mental handicap, not the result of the veteran's own willful misconduct, during the period of entitlement.

Q—What portion of a home loan does the Veterans Administration guarantee?

A—The VA will guarantee up to 60 percent of a loan provided it does not exceed the maximum guaranty entitlement available to the individual. The current maximum guaranty entitlement for homes is $27,500. The maximum for mobile homes is $20,000 not to exceed 50 percent of the loan.

Q—If a veteran qualifies for VA education benefits under the Post Vietnam Era Contributory Program, is there a time limit on when these benefits must be used?

A—Yes. No benefits are payable to a veteran beyond 10 years following the date of last discharge or release from active duty.

The Legal Way

By E.J. DEMSON, J.D.
Copley News Service

Q. Both childless divorcees, we lived together unmarried for four years in California. We orally agreed that when either of us called it quits, we'd share equally in our net gains made during the four years in accordance with the community property law of California.

Our separation was caused by my transfer as a women's wear buyer to another store in the East. He's an established building contractor. He now says we had no such understanding. We both worked and had a joint account, both contributing to it, for the domestic expenses. I made a good home for him, he admits.

What does the law say about this situation?

A. You may have to wait for an answer. The 2nd District Court of Appeals of California in the Marvin vs. Triola case in August 1975 denied Triola's demand for a share of Marvin's property when they separated. They also lived together unmarried for six years.

Triola's lawyer announced he would appeal to the Supreme Court of California on the grounds of "unequal protection of the law."

Most Americans believe they shouldn't have to put up with inconvenience — from a stuffy nose to heartburn — so they take pills for everything.

That's the opinion of James O. Allen Jr., a pharmacist with the Food and Drug Division of the Texas Department of Health.

"I think we have grown to take drugs too much for granted," he said. "Even television bombards us daily about products that are supposed to eliminate every conceivable kind of pain and suffering."

In 1977, Americans spent

$8.5 billion for prescription drugs, for an average of six prescriptions for each individual. On over-the-counter medications, we used another $3.8 billion to alleviate our health problems, according to the National Center for Health Statistics.

About eight years ago when he was a practicing pharmacist before joining the Texas Department of Health, Allen says the most widely prescribed drug was propoxyphene, a pain killing drug better known as Darvon or Darvocet.

"Darvon's widespread availability led to overuse and abuse. When taken with alcohol, this drug has a synergistic effect as a depressant," Allen said. "The Federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) had to come out and warn patients not to take the drug with alcohol."

Also, it was reported that Secretary of Health and Human Services Joseph A. Califano Jr. considered banning Darvon entirely as an "imminent hazard," but instead, asked the FDA to increase the restrictions on its usage.

Allen says the most widely prescribed types of medications now are the tranquilizers. "I would say tranquilizers are taken for everything from a bad day at the office to shooting a high golf score," said Allen.

Recently, the FDA required drug manufacturers to send physicians a written warning about Valium and other tranquilizers in its class. The warning states that these drugs are not supposed to help people cope with everyday stress.

Federal officials say that such drugs as Valium and Librium should be used only in psychotherapy or to help relieve the anxiety caused by cancer, heart disease, ulcers and other serious health problems.

Tranquilizers were blamed for 1,550 deaths and suicides during 1978, one federal study reports. These drugs are not only habit forming, but are very dangerous when mixed with alcohol.

Since the taking of drugs is such a complex matter, patients should select a pharmacist with the same care with which they select a physician.

"Centralize all purchases in a single pharmacy that maintains patient records and provides personal consultations," advises Dr. James T. Doluisio, dean of the College of Pharmacy at the University of Texas.

"If two physicians give you prescriptions, you want the pharmacist to be able to tell you if the drugs are the same, or if you will have a bad reaction by taking them at the same time."

Patients should expect the same kind of advice from pharmacists about over-the-counter drugs, Dr. Doluisio added, and should be told about possible side effects of all prescriptions.

Pharmacists who maintain patient records generally ask first-time customers for a complete prescription history, similar to forms filled out in hospitals.

"A growing number of pharmacies maintain patient records," he said, "and if it costs a little extra money, it's well worth it."

There are a few general rules that apply to taking all medications. "Don't use old drugs," says Allen. "Even over-the-counter products shouldn't be kept as long as a year."

Keep drugs in a cool, dry place. "Moisture makes many medications lose strength or disintegrate, so the bathroom cabinet may be too damp or warm. A refrigerator is not the right place for drugs, except for the few that must be kept cold. The best temperature for most drugs is between 58 and 68 degrees Fahrenheit (13 to 18 Celsius)," he said.

Keep medications in the pharmacist's container, with its original label, so you will always know what it is and because in Texas it's the law. Technically, it is against the law in this state to carry prescription drugs in a container without proof that they were prescribed for you.

If medication comes in a brown container, it is light-sensitive and should never be put in a container that does not block light. If your medication changes in color or in some other way, ask the pharmacist whether it should still be used.

Some tablets, such as aspirin, may disintegrate, while others may separate. Nitroglycerine tablets, prescribed for heart patients to carry for emergencies, can deteriorate very quickly if removed from the container due to absorption of moisture.

For further information contact Bob Henna, Director, Food and Drug Division, Texas Department of Health, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756, Tel. 512/458-7248.

"My daughter the professor taught me a lesson. Now I'm earning 5 1/4% interest on my checking."

"I've always taught and practiced sound economics. But I never could figure out how to earn interest on my checking account. Then, this young, know-it-all professor tells me Gibraltar Savings pay 5 1/4% Day-By-Day Interest on checking. So, now I count on Gibraltar for the one account that lets me write checks and earn interest on my balance."

Thanks to my daughter the professor, I learned a valuable lesson."

Gibraltar's new 5 1/4% Day-By-Day Interest Checking does everything a checking account can do. Plus something no checking account could ever do. Earn interest. It pays 5 1/4% interest, compounded daily. And, if you keep $500 minimum in your account, your checking is absolutely free.

Even if you don't keep $500 in your account, you still earn 5 1/4% interest from date of deposit to date of withdrawal. Should your balance fall below $500, there's a small monthly charge of $5.00.

Count on Statewide Check Cashing from Texas' Largest.

Gibraltar is America's first insured, which means they've been insured by the FSLIC longer than anyone else in the country. They're Texas' largest savings association — a $3 billion giant with the state's strongest reserves. And with 71 offices in over 30 cities, you have check cashing privileges at any Gibraltar Savings in Texas.

So get smart. Look to Gibraltar for convenience, security, the highest possible interest allowed by law and now, 5 1/4% Day-By-Day Checking.

It's sound economics you can count on.

Rockport Woman Learns 'Damaging' Substance Is In Vanilla She Got From Mexico

It started when Beverly Newton came across an article about an Athens woman who found coumarin—a substance considered "damaging" to humans—in some vanilla she got from Mexico.

Mrs. Newton, a Rockport resident, became concerned that this substance might be in her vanilla too, since it came from Mexico.

She had her vanilla tested—and the results were positive. It did contain coumarin, she said.

James Anderson, district supervisor for the federal Food and Drug Administration in Dallas, said recently that coumarin has been found to be a "highly damaging substance" linked with liver damage in tests with laboratory animals.

The substance has been banned as a food additive in the U.S. since 1954.

Anderson said of the samples of Mexican vanilla that have been brought for testing, some do contain coumarin and some do not.

Dr. Gerald Sullivan, associate professor at the University of Texas College of Pharmacy, has been testing Mexican vanilla samples. He said at this point, his research has not proceeded far enough to determine if the coumarin in the amounts found is toxic.

Persons who have Mexican vanilla they would like tested for the presence of coumarin may send samples to Dr. Sullivan at the UT College of Pharmacy, Austin, Texas 78712.

He said the sample for testing should be securely sealed in a one-ounce prescription bottle, available from any pharmacist, and a stamped, self-addressed postcard should be enclosed with the name brand of the vanilla on the back.

Sullivan will use the postcard to advise of the presence or absence of coumarin in the sample.

Recent articles in the Austin "American-Statesman" have linked the presence of coumarin to two brands of Mexican vanilla, La Vencedora and La Pureza.

The articles also linked coumarin with rat poison but this, Sullivan said, is not correct. The substance used in rat poison is warfarin, a synthetic hydroxycoumarin.

Coumarin is a fragrant crystalline compound commonly extracted from Tonka beans and common in sweet clover and several other varieties of plants.

Commercially, it is used in perfumes and to add aroma to tobacco.

Ray Osborne, manager of the Billups on Highway 35 North shows the $1 silver certificate he found this week in the Wednesday, December 11 receipts. Typing on the front of the certificate says, "I landed in the Hawaiian Islands on the 19th day of December, 1943. Received this one week later at Pay Call at the Air Base at Ewa, Ohau, Hawaii." On the back, the unknown writer—he did not type his name on the bill—continued, "I landed at Honolulu Harbor Pier 28 on the Ship Lurline of the Matson Line. The day was very hot and dry but it rained later." Osborne says the certificate is in the 1935 series and was printed in Hawaii. The words "Hawaii" are printed on both the front and back of the bill. He said one of the clerks who works at Billups apparently received it, probably sometime Tuesday, since it was in the money that Osborne counted Wednesday morning. Asked what he planned to do with the certificate, Osborne said, "I'm going to keep it. I used to collect coins, but I haven't in a long time." This find just could make him a collector again. . . . Rockport Realty Seminar

A one day Real Estate Seminar, under the direction of Marvin T. Deane, a nationally known real estate educator, was held at Rockport Realty this week.

The seminar was an intensive and in-depth legal analysis of the new Texas Earnest Money Contracts. Twenty two associates of Rockport Realty, Key Allegro Sales and Sandpiper Real Estate were in attendance.

Deane was specifically brought to Rockport to give the special seminar so that the associates of the respective real estate companies would have the latest information concerning the legal aspects of the legally required real estate contracts.

Marvin Deane, who is nationally known and consults with many states concerning their Real Estate Activities, has taught real estate subjects for over 25 years. He is founder of American College of Real Estate, a member of the State Bar Association and National Real Estate Editors, and author of several books on real estate and law.

The seminar was part of the continuing program to elevate the professional knowledge and ability of the associates of Rockport Realty, Key Allegro Sales, and Sandpiper Real Estate.

With the ever changing and complex legal problems that exist with the listing and selling of real estate, it is important that individuals in the field remain current with the latest legal requirements.

Our Military

A graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School, Cpl. Whitfill joined the Marine Corps in September, 1977.

SIGNS GO HERE

Rotarian Alex Knox shows the empty space at the little triangle of land across from SeaAire Shopping Center where the "Welcome to Rockport" sign used to hang. The city's Rotary Club wants to see it hanging there again — along with the logos and plaques of the civic organizations that used to hang with it. All of the original club emblems have been destroyed, and the Rotary Club has undertaken to rebuild. The Rotarians are asking all Rockport civic organizations and clubs to make new signs or logo plaques "suitable for hanging" and bring them to Knox at the KOA Campgrounds as soon as possible so work can be finalized and the sign completed. Plaques or signs from the individual organizations should be 24 to 30 inches in diameter or square, Knox said, and painted with a high-quality, mildew resistant enamel or metal with a baked-on finish to resist rust, warping and chipping. Anyone who wants additional information can contact Knox at 729-5051.
