Evacuation Of Germans From City Indicated

Capture Of Great City Of Ukraine Said Imminent

BY HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Aug. 10—The Red army drove to within 11 miles of Kharkov today and brought the city's trunk railroad to the west under fire, leaving the menaced German garrison only one winding rail route of escape.

There were indications that the Germans already had begun to withdraw from Kharkov to avoid the rapidly growing threat of encirclement and the fall of the biggest city in the Ukraine appeared imminent.

Red army mechanized and motorized forces raced through the northern Ukraine in the wake of Nazi units reported to be "in utter confusion" at some points. The Russians sliced in behind the laggards and trapped garrison after garrison.

New Threat Developed

The latest threat to the already undermined German position at Kharkov came when Soviet troops who occupied Murfa, 30 miles west of the city, fanned southward and reached Kiritovka, nine miles north of the Kharkov-Poltava railroad.

The trunk line thus was brought within easy reach of Soviet guns. The only Kharkov railway still in German hands was the roundabout road southwestward to Dniepropetrovsk and Zaporozhe, twin strongholds of the Dnieper river bend.

All along the swiftly shifting battlefront of the northern Ukraine, the Germans' main defenses were smashed. Numerous isolated strongholds were encircled. The Germans were pulling out from many sectors, their retreat disorganized, leaving masses of equipment.

Already the outposts guarding the approaches to the Dnieper were within the orbit of Red army spearheads.

Germans Reel Back

The Germans reeled back along a 50-mile front under concentrated tank, artillery and air blows that drove them from villages at the rate of four an hour and forced them to abandon sufficient tanks in 48 hours to equip a panzer division.

A front dispatch to the government newspaper Izvestia said the Ukrainian steppelands were dotted with the wrecks of German machines reminiscent of the litter marking the path of the German retreat from Stalingrad last winter.

Izvestia quoted German prisoners that they never had undergone such bombardment from artillery and aircraft. Some units were said to have lost upward of half their personnel.

Airmen Blast 4 Jap Bases

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 10. — Allied bombers ranged the whole length of the Southwest Pacific battle area yesterday, dropping 224 tons of bombs on four Japanese strongholds—Vila, Salamaua, Bairoko and Amboina.

There was no attempt at interception by enemy planes.

The heaviest bombloads were released on Salamaua and Vila, presumably the next major objectives of a two-pronged thrust directed at the great enemy base of Rabaul, New Britain.

Salamaua Hammered

Successive flights of Liberators roared over Salamaua, dropping 103 tons of bombs in 40 minutes. When the last left the target area the airdrome, town and harbor of this northwestern New Guinea base were obscured by clouds of smoke from fires and explosions.

Liberators teamed with medium bombers, under a fighter cover of Wildcats, in two attacks on Vila airdrome, dropping 63 tons of bombs and setting large fires.

Across Kula gulf, torpedo and dive bombers smashed 22 tons of bombs upon much-battered Bairoko harbor, 10 miles north of Munda.

Former Dutch Base Blasted

Two thousand miles westward, Liberator bombers "in strength," the communique said, carried out a night assault on Amboina, the former Dutch naval base on the island of that name. Fires and explosions were visible many miles

May Plans To Introduce New Draft Measure

Bill Proposes To Prevent Induction Of All Fathers

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House military committee announced today that he would introduce on September 14, the day Congress returns from its summer recess, legislation to prohibit the induction of fathers.

Moreover, May said the bill might provide for the discharge of fathers already in the Army, regardless of whether their children were born before or after Pearl Harbor.

Army Big Enough

May told newspaperman that the Army now has approximately 10,000,000 men, and "I think Congress might determine the Army is big enough, with the 80,000 18-year-old youths they are getting each month."

The military affairs chairman said a bill preventing the induction of fathers, would be "dropped into the hopper soon after the chaplain's prayer is finished" on September 14. He expressed belief President Roosevelt would not veto such a bill.

GEN. HERSHEY WON'T MAKE PREDICTION

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10—(AP)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey frankly admits "there are too many imponderables involved" right now to venture a guess as to what may happen in the father-draft situation.

"You tell me what the situation in Europe, in Russia and in the Pacific will be in two weeks or a month, and I'll tell you how the draft will be working," said the major general, here to testify before a House military affairs subcommittee.

Closer Allied Accord Seen

By HARRISON SALISBURY
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The United States and Great Britain were understood today to have embarked on an important effort to achieve closer cooperation with Russia with a view of taking full advantage of an opportunity to bring the war to an end much sooner than was regarded possible even a month ago.

The medium has not been revealed but there is a tendency in London to discount recent suggestions that a conference among President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin is to be expected in the near future. But, it is thought possible that leaders might engage in parallel discussions.

Discussions Suggested

It has been suggested that some leader such as British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden might confer with Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov simultaneously with discussions which Axis and neutral sources have suggested may be held between Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill.

The pressing necessity for full understanding among the Allies has been emphasized by the rapid developments of the past two weeks. It also has been made clear by numerous statements in the Soviet press that the Russians are not entirely pleased by the fact that the United States and Britain engage in frequent consultations of which the Soviet Un-

Politics Urged For Farmers

Get into politics and stay there; remain awake, map a program and let the Texas legislature and Congress know the farmer wants something, that he needs something, and has an organization to militantly fight his battle — this was the keynote of A. B. Tarwater's talk this morning in Hilton hotel at the opening session of the district meeting of the Texas Federation of Farm Cooperatives.

John A. Lloyd of Floydada presided and opened the initial meeting at 10 o'clock. G. L. Jackson, president of the Plains Cooperative Cotton Oil mill, welcomed the delegates numbering more than a hundred, representing 30 or more West Texas counties and virtually every kind of farm cooperative unit in the area. Several farm women are present.

L. T. Mayhugh, president of the federation, responded. The federation represents about 850 farm cooperative units in Texas. One man said: "This is the biggest and best district meeting we have had so far," the Lubbock meeting is one of seven, five of which already have taken place. "There are more 'big shots' here than at any other meeting," said another member.

Several Leaders Present

The meeting will close about 4. Dr. Virgil P. Lee, head of the Production Credit association, Houston; W. J. McAnelly, president of the bank for cooperatives; B. E. Stallones, representing the South Texas milk producers, and several others from the Houston area and the Rio Grande valley, are in attendance, and were to be heard during the day.

Warning Is Sounded On Judicial Trend

WACO, Aug. 10 (U.P.) — There is a trend in the United States to destroy the independence of the judiciary system, according to Chief Justice James P. Alexander of the Texas Supreme court.

Judge Alexander warned that no nation has ever destroyed its independent courts and retained liberty for its citizens.

Under the system of boards and bureaus which the United States is building up, the individual is losing his right to a fair and impartial hearing when he is charged with law violations, Judge Alexander said in an address at Waco yesterday.

Small courts are set up within the bureau to hear and weigh evidence and the regular courts must sustain the orders of the bureau if, upon appeal, evidence is found in the record which sustains their orders, he explained.

Judge Alexander added that many of the laws establishing the boards and bureaus are written to prevent court review of the bureau's acts.

Leaders Given In Victorious Pacific Action

U. S. HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Aug. 9. (Delayed). (AP) — The names of top admirals and generals responsible for planning and executing the victorious New Georgia campaign were released for the first time today by Admiral William F. Halsey's headquarters.

Plans for the New Georgia campaign were drawn by Halsey as South Pacific commander, in collaboration with his staff and Army men under him in this area, including Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commanding Army forces in the South Pacific.

The plan of operations was then submitted to General Douglas MacArthur who had been designated over all commander for both South and Southwest Pacific areas. The blueprint for action in both areas was then correlated and received final approval in Washington from the chiefs of staff of both Army and Navy—the American high command.

Halsey Was Responsible

When the plan was approved, Admiral Halsey was responsible for its execution in the South Pacific.

Halsey was also responsible to Admiral Chester W. Nimitz who as commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet is in command of all forces, including Army and Marines in the Pacific ocean area, but not including MacArthur's Southwest Pacific command. Halsey thus was tactical commander of the South Pacific area while MacArthur and Nimitz collaborated through the joint chiefs of staff in Washington.

This is the latest interpretation of commands in the Pacific which have been somewhat a puzzle as to spheres of influence.

Daily Allowable Is Increased In Area

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP) — The railroad commission in effect increased daily allowable oil production of the Panhandle field 23,276 barrels by an emergency order exempting the field from shutdown days.

The order became effective yesterday. The field had been operating on a 24-hour per month basis.

Another order lifted the Sullivan City field, Hidalgo and Starr counties, from shutdown days for the rest of the month. It had been permitted 22 producing days in the general proration order for August.

Auditor Recommends State Printing Plant

AUSTIN, Aug. 10 (U.P.) — State Auditor C. H. Cavness, in an audit of affairs of the state board of control, today recommended that the state consider establishing a state-owned printing plant.

Cavness noted that occasional orders for printing have been given to a print shop in the Texas school for the deaf and to the print shop of the Texas prison system.

"We wish to suggest," he said, "that a perhaps worthwhile study might be made of the possibility of establishing, at some future date, a state-owned plant to handle all state printing, etc. Some other states have such plants."

Capricious P-38s Have Erased Skepticism In Pacific Fighting

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Aug. 2 (Delayed).—A year ago this month the Lockheed Lightning — the P-38 — made its debut in what was to be the testing ground of the hard-to-handle, twin-bodies fighter in the southwest Pacific.

Results of the initial test—in their first 12 days of combat the P-38s shot down 54 Japanese planes with a loss of two aircraft. And the pilot of one of these two was saved.

Conflicting operational reports had preceded the P-38 to this area. It was sensationally fast and maneuverable, some fliers said, was its radical design was impracticable. It was hard to land and risky to take off, said others; it had promise, but it was full of "bugs."

A squadron of daring young pilots who had been flying other fighter planes in this area took over these untried, capricious new planes and flew them into their first test of fire.

The original P-38 squadron now is a top-ranking fighter unit with

Troops Patrol Italian Areas

Air Raids Spur Activity Of Strikers; Underground Active In Peace Demands

(By The Associated Press)

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 10—Agitation to bring about a nationwide general strike in Italy and force the Badoglio government to make peace with the Allies continued today as troops patrolled strike-ridden industrial areas in the north.

Use of troops was reported by the Swiss telegraphic agency in dispatches from the Swiss border town of Chasso, which said the strikes intensified in volume following heavy RAF raids on Genoa, Turin and Milan Saturday night.

Military Intervenes

Military intervention succeeded in halting the walkouts in Genoa, the dispatches said, and work was resumed. German troops stationed in the area helped extinguish fires which followed the raid, the Gazetta Del Popolo was quoted as saying.

The renewed air raids, however, spurred strike activities as well as underground political opposition to the government, whose failure to respond to peace demands has raised public resentment to new heights, reports stated.

NAZI NEWSPAPER APPEALS FOR HOME FRONT LOYALTY

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 10—(AP) Adolf Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, appealed today for loyalty on the home front as the attitude of the civilain population toward the heavy bombings of the reich and the military reverses in Russia and Sicily became a cardinal element in Axis plans for carrying on the war.

Newspaper Makes Appeal

The Beobachter's appeal, addressed to those from the evacuated zones and inserted into its news columns as a small box, said, "you who come from the air raid emergency areas have shown exemplary conduct. Be likewise true to your foster district with your confidence to help maintain the inner front."

The newspaper added in an editorial, "the attitude of the home front is the deciding one." The first Nazi newspaper to do so, it flatly acknowledged that something had been left out of the Axis war plans. The Allied air war, it said, was not "calculated with" and "today is the special worry of the German leadership."

Footprints Of Babies To Be Used In Mixup

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10 (U.P.) — Two tiny footprints will tell Mr. and Mrs. Harry James Hardwig whether Patricia Lynn is their baby or a child they were given in a hospital mixup.

One print was that of the child Mrs. Hardwig bore a few weeks ago. Hospital attendants told her it was a boy. The other, taken yesterday in superior court, was that of the baby girl Mrs. Hardwig was given when she left the hospital.

The Hardwigs have filed a $500,000 damage suit.

The Hardwigs claimed that a Dr. J. M. Andrews, who attended the birth, signed a birth certificate for a boy. When they took the baby home, however, they found the child was a girl.

Key Nazi Port Hit In Raids

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Aug. 10 — A large force of four-engined British bombers struck heavily last night at the German industrial center of Mannheim-Ludwigshafen, shattering key war factories and other objectives with upwards of 1,000 tons of explosives in what may have been the first of another "Hamburg" series of raids.

The Royal Air Force shifted its offensive back to the Rhineland to end Germany's one-week respite from Allied block-busters, and left huge, spreading conflagrations racing through chemical, tank and other war plants in the twin cities spanning the Rhine.

Ruhr Is Target

Farther north along the Rhine, twin-engined Mosquito bombers hammered targets in the other great German industrial area, the Ruhr.

Only nine bombers were lost in the two raids, which Allied observers regarded as surprisingly few in the light of frenzied German preparations to meet the growing aerial offensive from the west.

The concentration of vital targets in Mannheim-Ludwigshafen, whose inland port handles a volume of traffic second only to Hamburg,and the fact that last night's raid followed so closely on the string of nine attacks on Hamburg, raised the possibility that it may be marked for destruction.

On the basis of the formula of a one-ton bomb to blot out 1,000 population, some 6,500 additional tons of explosives would have to be rained on the two cities of 450,000 total population to complete their knockout.

Hundreds of tons of explosives were sent crashing down on the twin cities, site of two large railway switchyards, at least 13 motor

British, Yanks Effect Junction Near Key Pass

Showdown Fight Expected To Seal Fate Of Enemy

(By The United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Aug. 10—Retreating German troops have begun wholesale demolition of communications in northeast Sicily, impeding but failing to check a general Allied advance which effected a junction of the American Seventh and British Eighth armies between Randazzo pass and the center of the line.

Seventh and Eighth army columns driving against Randazzo, key junction dominating the narrow defile between Mount Etna and the Caronian range, met west of the pass and plunged in today for a showdown battle expected to seal the fate of the cornered defenders of Sicily.

The junction of the American and British spearheads was believed to have cut off unknown numbers of German troops making a sacrificial stand before the mouth of the pass, one of the most vital Sicilian objectives remaining in Axis hands.

Blowing Up Roads

The hard-pressed Germans, struggling to slow down the Allied advance in all sectors, started a campaign of blowing up roads on a scale never before witnessed in the Sicilian campaign, which went into its second month today.

Announcing that American doughboys captured 1,500 German prisoners in landing behind the lines near Cape Orlando Sunday night — a feat which resulted in the fall of the enemy's northern coastal anchor positions at San Fratello and San Agata — a naval communique said heavy U. S. warships continued to batter a way for the Seventh army.

British destroyers shelled the coastal road and railway at Ripostо, north of Acireale and nine miles south of Taormina on the east coast, after blasting at similar targets at Taormina.

British Making Progress

The British Eighth army was making considerable progress in its drive to circle Mt. Etna and has passed Bronte on the road to Randazzo, the bulletin said.

American troops, assisted by French Moroccan Goums, are pressing eastward along the Tyrrhenian seacoast road in company with the amphibious force which landed in the Axis rear at San

Kidnaped Baby Returned Home

ALBANY, Ore., Aug. 10 (AP) — Tiny Judith Gurney, kidnaped from the Albany hospital last Tuesday, was found alive and healthy last night, and police today investigated the bizarre story of a 26-year-old Army wife charged with the abduction.

District Attorney Harlow Weinrick said the woman, Mrs. Catherine Wright, fooled her husband, a young couple living with her and neighbors through nine months of feigned pregnancy, then appeared at home last Tuesday with a two-day old baby.

Confesses To Charge

She confessed to a child-stealing charge, Weinrick said, but only after her story of giving birth to the child in the Albany hospital had been refuted by nurses and doctors who said she had not been a patient and by a doctors' examination which Weinrick said proved she had not borne a child within five years.

There was evidence of an earlier birth, but Weinrick did not disclose what had happened to that child. Neighbors said Mrs. Wright had no child at home until last Tuesday.

Weinrick said this is the story of the kidnaping:

After months of declaring she was going to have a baby, Mrs. Wright inspected the Albany hospital, six blocks away Aug. 1, then stole the child from the nursery in early morning Aug. 3.

To friends she explained Tuesday the doctors had permitted her early return home because of the hospital bed shortage and because

Local Labor Said Farmers' Solution

Farm labor problems took on a somewhat brighter hue in a statement made today by H. H. Williamson, director of the A. and M. College Extension service, who is here attending the district meetings of farm cooperatives.

Williamson said there seems to be no limit of emergency which local labor cannot meet when necessary. He referred to the successful wheat harvest, which first seemed impossible, but which was handled without migrant labor. He then referred to the potato harvest, which he said at first seemed impossible, and yet is being worked out successfully, if not satisfactorily.

In Johnson county, around Denton, and in a few other counties where harvest hands and hoe hands were badly needed, he said business men, clerks, townspeople, and even women and children, went out at dawn and lent a hand.

Mexican cotton pickers, he said, now are in Colorado harvesting beets, and some of these men will come through here next fall on their way back home from California and other western states.

"The farm labor problem is by no means solved," he said, "but there are some brighter rays beginning to show."

Wallace Says Report Untrue

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Vice President Wallace, discounting reports that he may be called on by President Roosevelt to assume general control over agricultural production, pricing and rationing, declared today he intends to keep hands off price and food administration problems.

"Nothing To Reports"

"There is nothing to those reports," Wallace told an interviewer. He referred to a statement published recently by Spade, a magazine circulated among Agricultural Adjustment administration (AAA) county committeemen, that the vice president was the "biggest bet" to head a possible new production-price-rationing setup to supersede the Office of Price administration (OPA) and the War Food administration (WFA).

"I have not given the OPA any advice and I have not given Marvin Jones (the war food administrator) any advice and I don't intend to," Wallace said.

Wallace declined to discuss next year's political outlook or to elaborate on his recent public espousal of an economy of plentiful production in the postwar period.

He disclosed that he plans to speak in Chicago Sept. 11 at a rally which will be one of several staged by supporters of the Ball-Burton-Hill-Hatch resolution for international postwar collaboration.

Wallace said he had been impressed on his recent trip to Detroit and to Iowa with the "good job" that is being done by workers and farmers to produce war goods, often against great difficulties.

Weather Excellent For Texas Cotton

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP) — Weather conditions this season have been generally excellent for all phases of development of the cotton crop, the United States Department of Agriculture said today in announcing that a Texas yield of 3,275,000 bales was indicated as of Aug. 1.

This compared with 3,038,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight produced last year and 3,419,000 bales in the 1931-41 average.

The USDA cautioned that "while present prospects indicate that Texas has another cotton-year in the making, the influence on August weather will be a dominating factor as to the final out-turn of this year's crop."

Prospective Yield High

While the acreage remaining for harvest this year, 7,830,000, is the lowest in Texas since 1900, the prospective yield at 201 pounds per acre has not been exceeded during the past 30 years.

Growth, fruiting and development have been good in most areas since the crop was planted. Boll weevil, leaf worms, and other insects were doing little damage, and weather conditions have favored control measures.

In the coastal area, where the tropical storm damaged the rice crop, the center was east of the cotton area, and cotton losses were relatively light. The district promises exceptional yields this year, particularly in Fort Bend-Wharton sections.

South central and coastal bend areas have a large crop made, if it can all be saved.

Conditions Are Good

East Texas prospects are exceptionally good this year, and boll weevils are not doing their usual damage.

The blackland area has a good crop in sight, and the yield is expected to be well above average. In West Texas the outlook is very favorable. The High Plains crop, with favorable moisture conditions, is making excellent progress after an irregular start due to earlier drouthy conditions in extreme western counties and spotted damage by hail.

The eastern half of the Low Plains and adjacent areas were very dry, and, while cotton had held up fairly well to August 1, rains were badly needed to check deterioration.

Hot Weather Hurting South Plains Crops

South Plains cotton is suffering from the hot weather, according to the weekly crop letter of Anderson-Clayton & Co.

There already is some deterioration in three of the southern tier of South Plains counties, the letter said, and these counties are in the area where there is the largest acreage and so far the best crop conditions. This deterioration will become general unless lower temperatures or rain falls during the current week, the report stated.

Older cotton shows a stoppage of growth and some blooming in the top. Between 5 and 10 per cent of the acreage still is in the weeds. Insects have been inactive for several days, due to the heat. The weather has been excessively hot, with 105 temperatures almost daily for a week. A few scattered thunder clouds reduced this briefly on Wednesday, but there has been little rain throughout the area.

Rationing Problems Discussed At Clinic

Many problems were explained and discussed at a clinic attended by 60 members of nine county ration boards of the area in Hilton hotel Monday.

The seriousness of the tire shortage was outlined by J. Doyle Settle, district rationing officer, in a speech in the morning session. The July 1 inventory showed 7,270,000 tires, of which 4,057,000 are new, in hands of dealers and wholesalers of the nation, while the minimum demand to keep essential transportation going this year is expected to be 8,000,000, he said. Approximately 2,000,000 certificates are outstanding, holders having been unable to find tires and 2,500,000 working inventory is needed, leaving an actual inventory of 2,770,000 tires, he said. Synthetic tire production goal is 5,000,000 for remainder of the year. Boards were asked to review supplemental gasoline rations carefully in order to reduce mileage so that tires will last through the next six or eight months' critical period.

J. B. Mooney, price officer, discussed price control and complimented price panels on their aid in giving information to merchants.

Other Officials Speak

Howard R. Gholson, district director, gave introductory remarks. Miss Helen Montgomery, information officer, discussed distribution of information to the public and Alton M. Reeder, rationing attorney, discussed the enforcement program.

Counties represented were Gaines, Lynn, Garza, Crosby, Hockley, Cochran, Lamb, Hale and Floyd.

A similar clinic is to open at 10 o'clock this morning in the theater at Spur for boards of Kent, Stonewall, King, Cottle and Motley counties.

Record Of P-38s

109 enemy planes to its credit.

"When General (H. H.) Arnold, the air force commander, was out here a year ago," says 2nd Lt. Jack G. Barry of Denison, Tex., "he told us he was anxious to know what the P-38 would do. General (George C.) Kenney, commander of the 5th Air force, said he was confident the planes would be all right, but his confidenne was based on faith and not on accomplishments.

"This squadron did a hell of a lot to convince the War department that the P-38 was a good deal. This squadron is tied up more than any other with the success of the P-38 in this war."

From August until January, this squadron was the only one flying P-38s in the southwest Pacific area.

First To Dive-Bomb P-38s

"Our squadron," adds Barry, "was the first to dive-bomb with P-38s. We dive-bombed Lae for the first time November 25. Capt. Bob Faurot's bombs destroyed a Zero just taking off.

"All along, we had expected most of our fighting to be at high altitudes where the Lightning was without question superior to the Zero. But our first fights all ranged from 8,000 feet to water level.

"Our first real scrap was on December 27, when we shot down 13 Japanese planes. The fight lasted 45 minutes. After we had shot down 54 planes in our first 12 days, we noticed that the Japs were getting reluctant to tangle with us. Several times, 10 or more Zeros have given up and turned tail after a little fighting with two or three of our planes."

The squadron has lost but four pilots in combat.

Dr. Walton Resigns Presidency Of A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 10. (AP) — Frank C. Bolton was acting president of Texas A. & M. college today, following the resignation of Dr. T. O. Walton, who headed the institution 18 years.

Walton, a native Texan and one-time student at the college, resigned because of ill health. His health had not been good for the past two years and he has been bedridden much of the time recently. In his letter of resignation, which was dated Aug. 6, he said he was resigning on advice of his physician.

The resignation was accepted Saturday but no announcement of it was made until last night. The announcement was made by F. M. Law of Houston, president of the school's board of directors.

Dr. Bolton, who assumes temporary direction of Texas A. & M., has been with the institution for 25 years and at present is dean of the college and vice-president. He formerly was dean of the school of engineering.

AN AMERICAN
Two-Gun Story

THEY are 40 millimeter anti-aircraft cannon; produced in quantity for the first time in the U.S.A. by Chrysler Corporation, and installed on fighting ships, on shore defenses, and going with the armies into action on land.

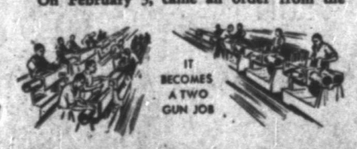

We saw the gun for the first time at the Frankford Arsenal on January 4, 1941. It had never been made in large quantities. Its drawings and specifications were not designed for volume manufacturing methods. Our first step toward making them in large numbers was to re-dimension every part to meet our volume production requirements.

To help speed this work, one of the guns was promptly shipped to us at Detroit with the existing drawings and specifications for its more than 1500 parts. When the gun arrived it was taken apart and studied piece by piece to determine how each part could best be made. At the same time our engineers and draftsmen began the new drawings and specifications for all the parts.

On February 3, came an order from the U. S. Navy to build a pair of test guns at once. As work on these first two guns advanced, our technicians and production specialists continued their efforts toward simplification of construction and assembly, and determined the tools and equipment that would be required for large quantity production.

A study of the gun by our planning and purchasing specialists indicated that the making of more than half the parts could be subcontracted to other companies. We began at once to place orders with some 1836 subcontractors, located in 281 towns in 30 states.

On June 20, 1941, we were authorized to set up to build the gun in two types—water-cooled, twin mounted guns for the Navy, and air-cooled, mobile mounted guns with single barrels for the Army.

The two test guns on which we had been working were now completed. Within ten days they were tested by the U.S. Army Ordnance Department and approved.

Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler plants were given their assignments to manufacture certain parts of the guns that were best suited to their facilities.

As gun production got under way the experience gained in years of car and truck production, and the cooperation of Army and Navy engineers, aided us in developing manufacturing short-cuts which saved much time, material and use of machine tools.

One part formerly machined from solid brass was changed to a combination of steel and bronze, saving 50,000 pounds of precious brass per month.

We formed the gunsight plate from powdered metal. This was faster, saving not only machine time but material, too.

We made the flash-hider from a plain steel tube instead of a solid forging, saving greatly in time and over 50% of the material.

Gun barrel drilling time was cut in half, and rifle grooving was reduced from six hours to forty-five minutes. Many other time and material saving short-cuts were worked out as gun production moved ahead.

The care and precision with which each part is made enables us to put the guns together in one-thirtieth the time required before we applied quantity production methods.

From the South Pacific came a thrilling action story, reported by the Incentive Division, U. S. Navy. A fine American battleship, under the command of Captain Thomas Leigh Gatch, in 30 minutes of swift, deadly action, destroyed 32 Jap torpedo planes—many with 40 mm. anti-aircraft guns.

Southern All-Stars Are Looking Better

May Gain Ground In Friday Clash

WACO, Aug. 10. (AP) — The South All-Stars, who have taken it on the chin five times in eight games staged by the Texas High School Coaches association, appear capable of making up some ground against their North rivals here Friday night when they climax the annual coaching school with a gridiron battle for war relief.

Four members of the 1942 state championship Austin eleven are on the South squad, including Bobby Coy Lee, one of the greatest punters in schoolboy history, and the South also has Keith Evans, the great end from Odessa who landed on the all-state team.

South's Squad Largest

The squad outnumbers the North All-Stars who have only 17 players against the South's 20.

The North comes up with two all-staters in Goble Bryant, Sunset (Dallas) tackle, and big Jack Ray, Breckenridge fullback.

The series between schoolboy stars who had finished their eligibility the season before started in 1935 and since then the North has won five games, the South two and one was a tie.

Other players are to be added before Friday night's game which is expected to attract 10,000 fans but here are the squads to date:

Medwick Hikes His Hit Mark To .304

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP) — Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox still are pacing the batters in the major leagues, but the averages today told a story of greater interest.

Joe Medwick, the once-great clouter of the Cardinals who was batting .272 when the Brooklyn Dodgers sold him to the New York Giants about three weeks ago, now has boosted his average to .304 and is tied for eighth place among the National league hitters.

Musial added five points to his average during the week, raising it to .345, and took a commanding lead over all rivals for this year's batting championship in the senior circuit.

Appling, the veteran White Sox shortstop, moved to within seven of his 2,000th hit and bolstered his batting pace to .333 to continue at the top of the American league.

ROONEY, WEISSMULLER

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mickey Rooney and Johnny Weissmuller, "Andy Hardy" and "Tarzan" of the movies, will pinch hit for Bing Crosby and Bob Hope in exhibition matches at the Chicago Victory Golf tournament, Aug. 19-22.

Sports Roundup

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP) — Al Schacht has landed in Africa — and the comedy situation is well in hand . . . The Pagliacci of the balls and bats is making with his gags at USO shows for the soldiers . . . isn't it about time Texas Tommy heard "let up" on his well-worked bargain gee-gee, Boysy, for a spell and gave him a vacation.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Art Siegel, Boston Traveler: George Marshall, president of the Washington pro football Redskins, was asked what terms he'd given Andy Farkas, his holdout halfback . . . "The same as the Allies gave Badoglio — unconditional surrender," snapped George.

1,000 RUNS

The run Luke Appling scored Sunday was the 1,000th of his career . . . which is a lot of running-even if you walk.

EARLY SALES BIG

The N. Y. Journal-American, aiming at $100,000,000 for its Aug. 26 War bond Polo Grounds game between Giants-Yanks — Dodgers club and a service team, has $40,000,000 already in the till in bonds.

ON THE FLY

Artie Dorrell, the Texas welter, has finished his air cadet course in the U. of Arkansas and has been switched to San Antonio . . . That was no running guard that kayoed Moose Krause, the Notre Dame line coach, on the Indianapolis Highland Park golf course the other day — it was a golf ball.

PICKUPS

Best-looking Army paper sports section to hit this desk is the one Sid Gray is getting out in the Camp Davis (N. C.) A. A. Barrage . . . Sid tells the one about Wallie Schneiter, the camp ball club's catcher, asking for a tryout with the Phillies . . . Bucky Harris sent him a letter several weeks ago saying "meet us in early August and we'll look you over. If you can handle our pitchers, you must be a wonder." . . . Only one Navy team — the Skyjackets of Norman, Okla., will be permitted to play in the National Semi-Pro Baseball tourney . . . They're piloted by Lieut. Charley Gelbert, the old big-leaguer . . . Maxie Shapiro, the last guy to whip Lightweight Champ Bob Montgomery, is now Buck Private Shapiro of the Greensboro (N. C.) Army Air Force Basic Training center. Lt. Joe Petritz, USNR, the ex-Notre Dame tub-tumpher, is at the New Orleans Armed Guard center, and would like his old pals to make the postman ring six or seven times.

Says Army Trainees Have Time For Fun

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 10. (AP)—Athletic Director Carl Voyles of the College of William and Mary said today that the statement that Army trainees did not have time for intercollegiate sports is "the bunk."

"In fact, the A12 program was patterned after the academic schedule at West Point just as the V-12 program was patterned after the program at Annapolis."

Navy Orders Ex-Pony Star To Sea Duty

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 10 (AP) — Four Navy officers have been transferred from the Navy's preflight school here for duty elsewhere.

A star gridiron performer at Southern Methodist university from 1935 to 1938, Lt. (j.g.) Dan Patterson has been ordered to sea duty. Prior to joining the Navy last year, he was football coach at Ozona, Texas, High school for two seasons.

Eastern Women Pacing Tourney

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 10. (U.P.)—The Women's Western Amateur Golf tournament today turned out to be a links show starring Eastern shot-makers.

Two brilliant young Eastern performers, Catherine Fox of Glen Ridge, N. J., and Kay Byrne of Rye, N. Y., tied for medalist honors yesterday with two under par rounds of 74 and in a three-way tie for the next spot was another Easterner, long - hitting Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia.

Identical Scores Posted

Miss Fox and Miss Byrne had identical nines of 36-38 for their rounds yesterday. The former had five birdies dotting her card and the latter four.

The 74 Cards were two strokes above the course record for the Evanston Golf club. The record 72 was compiled by Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., in the Western derby of 1939.

Tied with Miss Germain as the closest pursuers of the pace-setting duo were Claire Doran of Cleveland, O., and Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., the Illinois state titlist with cards of 78.

Today's feature pairings pit Miss Fox against Marian Schuster of LaGrange, Ill.; Miss Byrne against Mrs. F. W Zimmerman, Chicago, and Miss Germain against Mary Jayne Garman, Hammond, Ind.

Sacrifice Wins For Tech Over Federals

Tech Faculty scored in the seventh on a sacrifice to beat the Federals 4-3 Monday in a business and professional softball league contest.

"Whizzer" White, dependable Tech pitcher, had difficulty in finding the plate, giving free passes to 11 men. He held the Feds to five hits and fanned eight. Federal Pitcher Marshall Howard was touched for eight hits.

In an exhibition contest Squadron J of the Army personnel at Texas Tech, comprised of former members of the 309th, erstwhile B&P contender, walloped Tech Pre-Radar 10 to 1. Fontana pitched four-hit ball for the winners and but for a wild throw to first by Catcher Bill Abbott in the third would have gained a shutout.

Earl T. Gregory, ace Pre-Radar hurler, was bumped for nine hits.

Murr and Abbott of Squadron J got two hits for three trips, including a homerun each.

Wright Beats Avila In Last Wartime Showing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—In his final ring appearance for the duration, Chalky Wright, former featherweight king, stopped Angel Avila of Mexico in the seventh heat of a scheduled 10-rounder last night. Wright weighed 130, Avila 126.

Wright, veteran Los Angeles negro battler who will join the Maritime service Friday, outclassed Avila throughout. He poured vicious straight rights and stiff left jabs into the Mexican's face almost at will.

STAYS AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Aug. 10 (AP) — Standard Lambert, Austin High school football coach, last night accepted the school board's offer of a salary increase after he had been offered a similar position by Lufkin High school.

Cheer Up, Hunters! Shotgun Shells To Be Available, Is Word From Senator's Office

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The War Production board was reported today ready to allocate enough materials for the manufacture of 100,000,000 shotgun shells for hunting this fall—one-sixth of the output in peacetime years.

The disclosure was made by the office of Senator Bushfield (R-SD) which said WPB officials had agreed to the program after it was explained that game birds were causing great damage to crops.

Earlier Word Voided

WPB authorities some time ago said there would be "some ammunition" for hunting, but emphasized at that time it would be held to a minimum. Later, it was said in some quarters, a hunter would have to show that he was eliminating pests — and thus giving the farmer a break — before he could get shells.

The Bushfield announcement indicated release of the ammunition would be without such strings attached, however.

The plan was said to provide for allocation of shells to the 48 states primarily on information supplied by the Federal Fish and Wildfire service on the estimated game population.

The shells will be distributed through regular channels of the wholesalers and jobbers to the retail hardware stores with the farmers given first preference.

Majors Interested In 'Nursery' Loop

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Aug. 10 (AP)—Going as close as possible to the cradle for baseball players, East St. Louis' "nursery" league for boys 10 to 15 years of age is attracting the attention of major league teams.

The St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Pirates, Cincinnati Reds and Cleveland Indians are among the clubs expressing interest in such leagues as a sources of future talent, especially since the war has curtailed development of players.

The juvenile program, being sponsored by the East St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce, is the brain child of Ray Rice, a professional baseball player for 10 years. He caught for Albany of the Eastern league last season.

East St. Louis had been divided into six sections, each with two uniformed teams. One competes in the "A" division composed of boys 13 to 15 years of age. The other team competes in the "B" division with boys 10 to 12 years old.

Rice is commissioner of the league and supervises its four night games each week.

The younger boys play on a miniature diamond. Bases are 60 feet apart, instead of 90, and the pitcher's mound is 42 feet from home plate, instead of the regulation 60 feet 6 inches.

Ponies Open 1943 Grid Grind; 35 Seek Berths

DALLAS, Aug. 10 (AP)—Southern Methodist university opened informal football practice Monday—the fourth Southwest conference school to swing into action.

Thirty-five candidates reported to Coach James Stewart, most of them were Naval V-12 trainees.

Texas A. & M., Rice and Texas Christian already have opened practice. Arkansas and Texas will begin two weeks from now.

Savold Beats Nova; Mauriello Is Next?

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP) — Lee Savold, continuing his spectacular string of fight successes in Chicago by making Lou Nova his fourth consecutive knockout victim, may be matched against New York's Tami Mauriello in another outdoor show here next month.

A bout between these two heavyweights was in the air today after the Paterson, N. J., slugger thrilled a crowd of 12,653 at Wrigley field last night by chilling Nova in 1 minute and 40 seconds of the second round of their scheduled 10-round go.

It was Savold's second victory over the Yogi-Man.

Kid Shortstop Signs For $10,000 Bonus

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP)—Dick Lajeskie, 17-year-old Passaic High school athlete, said today he had agreed to accept a $10,000 bonus to sign a contract with the New York Giants baseball club.

The youthful shortstop, who batted .490 with his high school nine this season, said he would meet Eddie Brannick, Giants' secretary, in New York to sign the contract. He will be paid $400 monthly as long as he remains with the club, he said.

TOURNAMENTS CARDED

HOUSTON, Aug. 10 (AP) — The Amateur Softball association's state tournament will be held here Sept. 3-5 and the Southwest Regional tournament Sept. 7-8. No district meets were held this year and any amateur team may enter the state tournament. No entry fee will be charged service teams. State meet profits will go to Army and Navy relief societies.

Barlell Nears Two Milestones

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (U.P.) — Rowdy Richard Bartell, the little holler guy of the infield, was approaching two major league milestones today as his steady performance remained one of the few bright spots in the dolorous basement life of the New York Giants.

Dick is the lightweight who in recent years has been signed annually as a utility infielder, or accident insurance, and yet always winds up playing more games than the regulars. Now, after 17 years on the Big Apple, Bartell undoubtedly will play his 2,000th ball game and take his 3,000th base this season.

Nears Select Class

The only active players who have passed the 2,000-game mark are Paul Waner, Joe Cronin and Mel Ott, so it's a select class into which Bartell will move. That trio and Ducky Medwick are the only active players to have passed the 3,000-base point, and Dick needs but 36 bases to join them in this category.

Rowdy Richard will be 36 on Thanksgiving Day, but he keeps rolling along like Ol' Man River. He has thumped the ball at a .298 clip in 73 of the Giants' 100 games this summer for 70 safeties to become the fifth active player in the majors in total hits and runs scored.

Bartell served long years with the Phils, Giants and Cubs before going to the Tigers. When Detroit released him in May, 1941, it was believed that Dick had reached the end of the trail as a regular. But the Giants took him on as a utility man and for the past three years he has seen almost as much action as anyone in the squad.

Zivic Defeats McCoy By Four-Round TKO

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10 (AP) — Fritzie Zivic, rubber-legged former welterweight king, beat Sergeant Kid McCoy last night by a technical knockout in the fourth round, the referee ending the scheduled 10-rounder after the soldier had been floored twice. Zivic weighed 149½ and McCoy 153.

Zivic is to meet Lightweight Champion Bob Montgomery in Philadelphia Aug. 23 in a non-title bout.

CARDS WIN EXHIBITION

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 10 (AP) — The World Champion St. Louis Cardinals stopped off here tonight, en route to New York and defeated the Columbus Red Birds, Junior World series champions, 10 to 4, in a seven-inning exhibition contest.

The golden bear of California, a variety of the grizzly, has long been extinct.

Cards, Yanks Look Like Sure Winners

Only A 'Miracle' Could Beat Them

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major leagues need a miracle team right now just like a buggy needs a horse.

The baseball standings today show the St. Louis Cardinals in front of the National league by 13 games and the New York Yankees on top of the American league by nine.

Practically everyone is taking for granted that the pennant races already are over.

Break Could Come

But it was just about this time last year that the Cardinals began their amazing drive to overhaul the Brooklyn Dodgers and go on to beat the Yankees in the World series.

On this date a year ago the Redbirds were nine games back in second place, but starting on August 11, they won 11 of their next 12 games and never let up the pressure. They showed what still could be accomplished in the remaining two months of the present season if there was any challenger of the 1942 Cardinals' calibre around.

In the National league this year the Dodgers, of course, already are out of the running and neither the second place Pittsburgh Pirates nor the third-place Cincinnati Reds are manned strong enough for a sustained drive even if the Cardinals should crack.

Senators Threaten

The distance between first and second in the American league is not so great and the Washington Senators have surged back into second place by winning nine of 11 games.

Opportunity will be knocking for the last time as the teams embark on another intersectional series this week, starting with a pair of games in the American league—New York at St. Louis today and Boston at Chicago tonight.

All clubs were idle yesterday.

GALBRAITH WINNER

W. C. Galbraith, an Army engineering student from Oklahoma City, plastered a 7-6 victory brand on Morley Jennings, Tech director of athletics, on the Lubbock Country club's links Sunday to win the 1943 City Golf championship. First prize was a $50 war bond. Jennings, as runner-up, was awarded a $25 bond.

What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say—
The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 300 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them.)

CONSISTENCY

Dear Plainsman: Why don't you be consistent?

You are against labor racketeering and against O'Daniel, yet O'Daniel is about the most rabid battler against the labor racket the country has.

You are against bureaucratic rule and against John L. Lewis, yet you boosted Allred ,a New has had the nerve to openly fight a bureau, namely, the War Labor board.

You are against the New Deal, yet you boosted Alred, a New Deal supporter, and opposed O'Daniel, a New Deal opponent.

Are the roaches gnawing on you?

Sincerely yours,
A Puzzled Reader.

(Dear Puzzled Reader: Nope. There may be flies on me—but no roaches! Re: Wilbert Lee—I can answer your queries about my attitude toward him quickly and simply. Here's the answer: I've never in my life seen a man who plays both ends against the middle who had a sincere bone in his body. As for Johnny Lewis, it wasn't for fighting a bureau that I opposed him. It was for interfering with the war effort and needlessly endangering the lives of men on the fighting fronts. The Plainsman.)

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

Dear Plainsman: I want to thank you personally for your recent, fine article concerning "religious tolerance."

I well remember the gist of the article in question. You wrote that it was good the Jewish, Catholic and Protestant faiths should be fraternizing in such good harmony and accord.

I recall a recent incident of religious tolerance being practiced by the legislature of a certain state about a bill concerning the religious practices of a certain church—not Jehovah's Witnesses, however.

It seems as if this bill authorized to close this church entirely on account of its practices, yet this same bill was completely defeated when it came to vote. This is inestimable proof that the ideals of religious freedom are being preserved. I have not mentioned the name of this church nor the state on account of ethical reasons.

But I do know this particular incident is no exception. No legislation may restrict any man as to his beliefs on account of the United States Constitution, or the Bill of Rights. Yet, any restriction (not against a religion however) may be imposed on any religious body, individual or otherwise, who hampers the progress of defense or safety of the general public.

This church and its body of similar churches had no cause for a bill brought before its state legislature for any matter as stated above; and anyway, they have contributed widely to war bonds and stamps, "Infantile Paralysis" funds, Red Cross, etc. Their bill against them was about certain functions concerning its services. This is why the state legislature of that particular state never passed its vote for such a bill.

As an example for such fine legislating as this, and by such fine statesmen who voted against the bill, no similar bill will ever be passed anywhere in our country as long as Democracy remains.

Thank you very kindly, I am,
Very truly yours,

THE HAND is NOT faster than THE EYE!

Consider this: 80% of your motions are controlled by your eyes. Faulty vision inevitably slows you down and causes butterfinger actions.

If you, like most of us, are engaged in some sort of war work — devoted to speed and precision—faults of vision just can't be tolerated.

Find out about your eyesight, if not for your own sake then for the sake of your country at war.

The Plainsman Says:

That Girl on Broadway says platonic love is exceedingly rare—and not very much fun.

We read in the paper the other day where a Michigan millionaire keeps seven dogs.

He's probably trying to give the impression that he's poor.

IN a legal petition filed in connection with a libel suit against the Tyler Telegraph by former Governors James E. and Miriam A. Ferguson, it was set out that the once potent "Farmer Jim" is suffering from a complete nervous collapse and, in general, is a victim of extremely bad health.

Although The Plainsman never voted for either Mr. or Mrs. Ferguson, and editorially argued long and loud against many of their political philosophies, he hopes the legal petition's characterization of Mr. Ferguson's physical condition is as exaggerated as some legal petitions are.

We were, in their hey-day, an implacable political foe of both Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson. But personally we wish them well, as we did even in the heat of a half-dozen hectic campaigns.

The Plainsman never had many contacts with Mrs. Ferguson. Few people did.

Even when "Ma" was governor-in-name, or campaigning, it was "Farmer Jim" who did the talking—who was out in front; who was governor-in-fact.

But we did have many contacts with Mr. Ferguson and we never knew a more courteous, a more agreeable, a more amiable gentleman. He was a glorious fighter, too, and we never saw him exhibit anything but fairness in battle.

And when it came to personality, James E. Ferguson was a hum-dinger. He was "all broke out" with it!

THE new crop of voters, and recent additions to the Texas citizenry from other states, may think they've seen something in the way of a campaigner in the cheap, tawdry, medicine show tactics of Wilbert Lee O'Daniel, his fiddle band and his campaign truck.

But Wilbert Lee never saw the day when he could arouse and hold a crowd like Jim Ferguson did, without radio, without trappings and without "gittar"-playing yodelers.

Making allowances for improvement in transportation via paved roads and more and better conveyances; and by advanced radio ballyhoo, Jim Ferguson was a better drawing card, too, than Wilbert Lee was at his peak. "Farmer Jim" always drew twice as many people to hear him speak here—without even the aid of a public address system—than he got votes. Like Wilbert Lee, he couldn't sell his candidacy to the majority of Lubbock county citizens, but they liked to hear him, anyhow.

Perhaps our personal affection for "Farmer Jim," together with the mellowing which comes with time's passago, causes us to be somewhat blinded now.

But as we look back across the years—from this very day to the period between 1924 to 1934—it occurs to us that perhaps "Old Jim," as he was called, was just about as much sinned against as he was sinning.

We weren't in Texas in the second decade following 1900, when Jim Ferguson first met political triumph and then disaster. If we had been here, we'd have been too much of a kid to know the score, anyhow.

But we were here, actively editing daily newspapers, throughout all the second Ferguson political dynasty. And while we wouldn't vote for "Jim" or "Ma" today, any more than we did then, we doubt now that "Farmer Jim" ever was as bad as he was painted.

Come to think about it, he couldn't have been. No man with Jim Ferguson's fighting heart and the real interest in the less vocal majority could be that bad.

JUST as something went out of Texas when barbed wire came in; and something went out of our state when the last longhorn ambled from its ranges, something will go out of Texas when Jim Ferguson lies down for the last time.

Gone with him will be an era of politics-by-personal-contact, which the radio has so largely nullified.

Gone with him will be—for a time, at least—an era in which men sought and held high office on their own, rather than as tools, or fronts, of this, that, or the other special interests and pressure groups.

When he is laid to rest will pass from the plains, the mountains, the coast and the rolling hills of central Texas the greatest rough and tumble political fighter since Joe Bailey and Jim Hogg. Perhaps the greatest of all time.

For whatever else he may or may not have been, Jim Ferguson was no phony. He did things for the people he claimed to champion.

He was a Texan, born and bred—not an Ohio-Kansas importation with a flair for theatricals and poorly metered verse.

His mind was keen and shrewd—but not sly.

Instead of hiding from those he claimed to represent—of running on and off of platforms at all possible speed — Jim Ferguson mixed and mingled with the people; he shook their hands; he heard their stories; he knew their hopes and their desires.

And whatever else he was, Jim Ferguson was no hypocrite; he donned no flowing robes of purity while lambasting a straw-man foe; and he didn't quote Scripture while pulverizing the Commandment which reads: "Thou shalt not bear false witness . . ."

To "Farmer Jim" Ferguson, old and sick, but, we wager, still stout-hearted, we say:

"God rest you, sir."

RANDOM REASONING: An economist is a guy who works either for a college or a government bureau . . . A mortician is an undertaker with a cut-away coat . . . An editor is a fellow who thinks he can run the country better than the President and the President is a fellow who thinks he can edit the newspapers better than the editors. Instead of worrying over how some of our temporary wartime residents disparage Lubbock and prefer their own home towns, let's hope our own people, temporarily living elsewhere, have the same loyalty to Lubbock . . . Mr. Roosevelt's administrations haven't yet caused grass to grow in city streets, but they have brought vegetable gardens to nearly every vacant lot, which is one of the best ideas this country has ever had . . . There has been a lot of criticism lately over the fact that General Eisenhower doesn't make as much money as some skilled mechanics on war plant assembly lines, and that is a cockeyed situation. But neither does the general make as much money as a lot of guys in unessential business, so maybe we Americans ought to pay our generals more.

One Is Beloved

(Copyright, 1943, NEA Service, Inc.)

YESTERDAY: Lovely, twenty-four year old Sue Davenport leads an enjoyable life with her brother, Allen. She is perfectly satisfied with things as they are, but Allen begins to wonder why she doesn't get married.

Chapter Two

RIVER BLUFF

"It doesn't seem to me—well, normal, Sue, for you to be so indifferent to men at your age," said Allen. "You're as emotionally immature as a child. You ought to be blushing and palpitating, jumping when the doorbell or telephone rings, half out of your wits with joy one day, dissolved in tears the next—"

"What on earth have you been reading Allen? The Development of the Emotions in Females Between Nineteen and Thirty? or some such idiocy? Out of my wits with joy one day, dissolving in tears the next! It sounds exactly like a Victorian female." She half closed her eyes until the long black lashes tangled. "Old stuff Buddy! Girls don't behave like that in these days, I assure you. Not even Barbara — lately at least."

"Doesn't she?" He seemed relieved. "I remember she used to, and I suppose I've been subconsciously expecting you to do the same—like catching the measles. But," he said, "I understand now it's not necessary to have those kid diseases any more. Maybe it's the same with sentimetal attacks."

"Maybe it is," she agreed, and both fell silent watching the leaping flames on the hearth. But when, two hours later, she laid aside her book and came to tell her brother goodnight, she said a trifle forlornly: "Are you disappointed in me, "Allen? Do you think I'm a hard-hearted little green apple that's never going to ripen? I wouldn't mind falling in love, you know," she told him seriously. "But—but one can't, can one? By sheer will power, I mean? Just pick out an eligible man and say 'I will now fall in love with this eminently desirable person!'" She seated herself on the arm of his chair and laid her head somewhat wearily against his shoulder. He tightened him arm about her protectingly.

"No, Sue dear, of course that isn't how it comes. And I've made a fool of myself as usual, getting you all stirred up like this. A hangover from those first weeks afted Dad died when you and I were left alone. I suppose I leaned over backward, trying to be a whole family to you. Now forget it, Sue, promise me! It would serve me right if I'd stirred you up so you fell for the first young pipsqueak who comes into your life after tonight!"

He looked up and seeing tears in her eyes, pulled out his own big handkerchief and dried them tenderly. "Forget it," he said again. "Forest has nothing on me when it comes to talking rot, it appears."

"Well, but, Allen—but, Allen," she answered unsteadily, "you don't want to marry me off, you don't want to get rid of me right now—do you?"

"Darling goose, I do not! What I really want you to do is to trot off to bed and put this whole silly conversation right out of your mind! You're a grownup woman now and there's genuine good sense under that curly mop of yours. Remind me of it if I start maundering again!"

Happy, Gay Years

Sue, lying wakeful long after she had heard her brother seek his own bed, pondered this surprising talk. She went over it again and again: its first note of warning, the curious persistence Alle had showed; Allen, whose advice was usually given in the fewest possible words!

Was he trying to prepare her for some news of his own, or was he really worried about her wholeness of heart?

She thought back on the last five years. They had been happy years, gay years, with Maggie to look after the housekeeping and nothing for Sue to do but entertain her brother's friends, sitting with demure dignity opposite him at table, shop with Barbara in the mornings, drive her own small car about as she would, run down to Kansas City every week or so for a play or a party, keep up her French with old Madame Loiselle, her music with Scarletti . . . it had all been fun, fun! Surely it was not going to end now?

"Why should it, idiot?" she inquired of herself as the clock in the living-room struck twelve. "What on earth are you getting yourself so worked up about? Allen has these attacks of conscience every so often, just as he said. There was that time he decided I was too thin, and made me drink raw eggs and cream twice a day—ugh! And there was the evening he caught Forest teaching me to smoke, and simply raised old Ned about it; This tonight means nothing — absolutely nothing!"

Nevertheless she tossed for another hour before she finally fell asleep, her hand tucked under her cheek as usual but a faint frown knitting her black brows even in slumber.

The next afternoon she went to the river bluff again, this time driving her car right up to the great stones which protected the edge against the thousand foot drop.

The spot had always been a favorite one with her. Her father had brought her here when she was a child, pointing out the changes the sullen river had made, showing her the flat country on the other side where once the Indians had roved undisputed.

She remembered one glorious day when a tall, gentle-voiced newspaper man from Denver had pointed out the exact spot from which the Pony Express rider had boarded the ferry boat on the first lap of his picturesque journey.

"Why do you always want to come up here?" Barbara demanded now and then. "It's always the same old view."

But it was never the same view, Sue told herself; never were river and sandbars and low lying hills below quite the same. Born in one of the most picturesquely interesting of all Middlewest towns, she had been steeped in its history and traditions. From where she stood she could see the spot on which candy kettles had boiled for more than a century. She liked to think of the young Frenchman brought especially from St. Louis to cater to the bold fur-trader's sweet tooth; of the unpretentious log cabin in which "molasses stew" was made for the '49 emigrants, enduring the long winter in camps about the village, "waiting for grass." It thrilled her even yet to remember that specially made "sticks" of wintergreen, clove, mint, a dozen flavorings brought all the way by train from Boston itself, had been pressed by mothers and sweethearts into the hard young hands of the boyish Express riders to lighten their dangerous journey.

Violent Crash

The trees had been cleared from this high point and a level parking place made for motorists who like herself loved the superb view. It was deserted this late October afternoon. Sue sat in her car, her lip caught beneath her teeth, still puzzling over Allen's inexplicable words of the evening before.

"Hi!"

Something crashed violently into her car from behind, sending it forward until its wheels were stopped by the great rocks; bumping her head smartly against the wheel and driving her teeth through the scarlet satin of her lip. As always when she was frightened rage seized her.

"Have you no sense at all?" she cried. She was out of the car in a flash and standing before a roadster in which a very white young man sat limply. "With practically an entire block of vacant ground, must you choose the identical spot where one lonely car is parked? Or were you trying to commit suicide and I got in your way?"

To her mounting fury he made no answer; merely essayed a sickly smile at her and slumped a little further down on the sloping seat of the smart car.

"I believe you're drunk!" she said with icy contempt.

He sighed like some one emerging from ether.

"No—I'm not. I damn well wish I was though," he assured her earnestly. "I thought—" he gulped and wet his dry lips with his tongue—"but George, I thought for one awful second that I 'd pushed you right over rocks and everything." He fumbled for his handkerchief; dabbled at his suddenly wet forehead. "I don't dare get out just yet: 'fraid my knees would give way under me."

She was not in the least appeased by his obvious fright. Her eyes were enormous in her small pale face, and smouldered underneath their inky brows.

"I'm waiting for you to explain!"

"Brakes. Nothing held. I grabbed the emergency but—"

"And do you usually drive on high hills without any brakes?"

The color was beginning to creep back into his face, and he sat a little straighter.

"Look here! Let me explain, won't you? I haven't touched this car for month. Lent it to a friend who was touring the Ozarks. I picked it up about fifteen minutes ago—downtown somewhere—and drove it up here to have a look at the river. Uphill all the way, so I didn't consider the brakes were all shot to h—pieces until I tried to stop alongside of you and . . . didn't. It's the truth," he insisted, seeing her strenness had not abated under this explanation.

"You ought to have looked before you started up here!" she

THE NAZIS THROUGH THE SWEDISH MIRROR

It was considerably more than a straw in the wind when the Swedish government announced the other day that the movement of German troops and materials across Sweden between Germany and Norway will be halted this month. Further enhancing the significance of this development was the announcement that Germany has agreed to the new restrictions.

The meaning of the two announcements is entirely and unquestionably clear. The Swedes have demonstrated, by this step, that they no longer stand in terror of Nazi Germany. By agreeing to the restrictions, the Nazis have confessed that there is nothing they can do with the defiant Swedes. The presumption must be that Germany has entered into a new agreement because it couldn't do anything else.

The United Nations never have condemned Sweden greatly because railroads in that nation were used by the Nazis. Undoubtedly this was a most helpful collaboration with the enemy, but it was a forced collaboration. The Swedes had to do as the Nazis said, or suffer direful consequences, and there wasn't anything the United Nations could do to protect them.

Obviously, all this has changed. Sweden no longer fears the bully—and Sweden is in a peculiarly advantageous position to be sure of its ground. Sweden has proclaimed to the world the conviction existing in that nation that the doom of the Nazis has been sealed and cannot be far away.

FRICTION between the President and his Secretary of State is no recent phenomenon. Cordell Hull has never been a New Dealer. He has stoutly protested and resisted heavy pressure toward setting up U. S. Government import-export corporations, a-la Amtorg. Moreover, he is personally offended and offically handicapped, by constant dealing with foreign countries directly, through other agencies instead of through his office. He believes the Secretary of State should be in a position very close to that of the British Foreign office; that through it should funnel all international intercourse, including economics, propaganda and diplomacy — everything but military affairs. There are deals in progress now with foreign countries on airplanes, aluminum, rubber and other essentials, of which his office knows only by hearsay . . . Sumner Welles, who would succeed Hull if he should resign, is equally irritated. Not long ago, he got so angry he slammed down his desk and stayed away two weeks—no leave, no vacation—just walked out . . . Neither of these public servants would leave the government in the lurch in times like these. But they are fighting . . . Hull has one ace in the hole: He has kept his own firm hand on issuance of all passports . . . Among those who didn't get one was Eleanor Roosevelt.

They say its reeks with campaign propaganda — and if that is eliminated, it leaves a travelogue . . . Donald Flamm, who sold WMCA to the interests who have now bought the Blue Network, will probably get first chance to buy back his station.

THIS reporter last December announced first to the world that the soldiers in Africa were singing "Dirty Gertie from Bizerte." At least 1,000 requests for the lyrics, by mail, telephone and telegraph, came in. We can now announce the successor, popular with the boys in Sicily: "Venal Vera from Giziera." And don't ask for it — can't be mailed.

"Well, Where Do We Go From Here?"

U. S. Sailors Off Sicily Entertained By Enemy Propaganda

Traitorous American Girl Radios For Nazis

By ERNIE PYLE
Journal Roving Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY, (By Wireless. Delayed.) — It is an axiom that the closer you get to the front in wartime, the less you know about what is going on. During the invasion of Sicily we would often say to each other that we wished we were back in the states so we could find out how we were doing.

During the first two days we in our sector had no word at all about the two American sectors to our right. Even though we were within sight and sound of their gunfire we knew nothing about how they were faring. You were faring. You in America knew, but we didn't.

ERNIE PYLE

We aboard ship were better off than the troops on land, for we did get some news by radio. Many of the troops inland didn't know about the bombing of Rome till nearly a week later.

On our ship, what news we did get came mostly from BBC in London, the German radio in Berlin, and our little daily newspaper assembled from world-wide short-wave broadcasts picked up during the night.

Ernie Edits Paper

Our skipper, Comdr. Rufus Young, feels that a lack of news is bad for morale, so he did all he could to give the ship's crew the news. He asked me to edit the daily mimeographed paper, and took one radio operator off his regular watch and just gave him his own time to sit and sample various air channels for news.

This operator was Frank Donohue, radioman second class, of Jamaica, L. I. He started in as a child with the Commercial Cable Co. and has been a radio operator for 18 years, though he is still a young man. He was working for Press Wireless when he joined the Navy a year ago.

HE HAS had so much experience taking down news dispatches that he has a good news sense. He took as much pride in our little paper as I did, and it got so he would sort out the stories by subjects before waking me at 3 a. m. Then while I assembled and rewrote the stuff he would bring us cups of coffee and cut the stencils for the mimeograph.

It was always daylight when we finished, and I would stop on the bridge to talk for a little while with men of the early-morning watch. Off Sicily, as everywhere else in the world, dawn is the most perfect part of the day, if you've got the nerve to get up and see it.

We did our work in a big steel-walled room where about 30 other radio operators were taking down code messages by typewriter, so it did seem sort of like a newspaper office. Throughout the invasion period we missed getting out our paper only one day. That was on the morning of our landings. Getting up at 3 a. m. every day and not getting any sleep in the daytime almost got me down before it was over, but there was considerable satisfaction in feeling that I was not entirely useless aboard ship.

Hear Axis Propaganda

Such a privilege would doubtless seem fantastic to a German soldier, but we listened every night throughout our invasion to the Berlin broadcasts and to a special propaganda program directed at American troops.

The master of ceremonies on this program is a girl who purports to be an American and who tries to tell the boys that their sweethearts will marry somebody else while they are over here fighting a phony war for the "Jewish" Roosevelt, and that there will be no jobs for them when they get home. The boys listen to her partly to get mad, partly to get a laugh, and partly because the program always has excellent music.

The girl calls herself Midge. The soldiers in North Africa called her Axis Sally, and the boys aboard our ship nicknamed her Olga.

THE biggest laugh the boys had had since joining the Navy was the night the traitorous Olga was complaining about something horrible President Roosevelt had done. She said it made her almost ashamed to be an American!

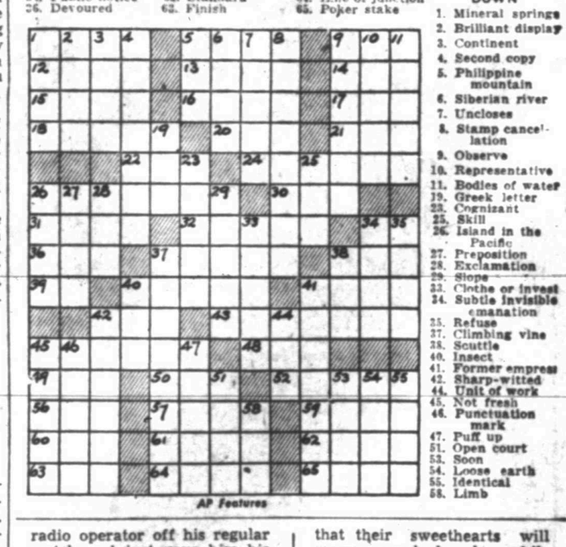

Olga has a come-hither voice, and she speaks straight American. Every night you'd hear the boys conjecturing about what she looked like. Some thought she was probably an old hag with a fat face and peroxide hair, but the majority liked to visualize her as looking as gorgeous as she sounded.

The most frequently expressed opinion heard aboard ship was that if they ever got to Berlin they'd like first to sock Olga on the chin—and then make love to her.

Crop Bans Out, Jones Asserts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (U.P.)—Farmers were assured today of a government program of unrestricted production in 1944 and abandonment of the 10-year-old New Deal policy of rigid crop controls.

War Food Administrator Marvin Jones said in a radio address last night that the 1944 food program now being formulated would be on a "purely voluntary" basis.

Jones has said previously that he plans no crop controls except on tobacco, and his statement last night was taken as confirmation that acreage restrictions are out for the duration.

Individual Planning

Under the planned 1944 program, each farmer will work out his production plans to suit himself, although the WFA will make suggestions as to needed crops. Seed and fertilizer will be given to farmers whose plans meet the general requirements of the new program.

The former system of direct benefit payments for cutting acreage will be reduced or eliminated on most if not all crops. The 1944 program will be announced step by step as it is completed, though it not expected to be ready until after Congress recovenes.

Jones said the success of the 1944 program depends on the farmers, as "this country is too broad, too far flung, too varied in its production to have the work done by directives from Washington."

He said the new goals, calling for tremendous food production and proper handling and distribution of that food, can be achieved only if there is teamwork by all concerned. He appealed for an end to "useless bickering, conflicts and arguments."

Turk Envoy's Wife Said Killed In Italy

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP) — The German radio said today in a Rome dispatch that the wife of the first secretary of the Turkish embassy in Rome had been killed by Italian police when her husband failed to hear the challenge of a patrol which sought to halt his automobile during a curfew August 1.

The broadcast which was recorded by Associated Press, did not name the woman but the Turkish embassy in London said she was Madame Nurettin Vergin.

said. The official announcement of the board explained that since the attorney general has ruled that the executive director is a state official, it is felt the salary should be paid out of the state appropriation rather than with federal money. The salary is itemized in the state appropriation at $5,000 and when paid with state money is limited under the law to this amount.

Was Not Applicant

Winters was not an applicant for the job, but was requested to accept the position, the board said, adding that his selection was by unanimous vote of the three members, Marvin Leonard of Fort Worth, Dr. Tom Taylor of Brownwood, and Hubert Johnson of Waco.

One of the complaints of a legislative committee that recently called for removal of Murchison and resignation of two board members was that salaries had been raised in the department. Murchison has been drawing $6,000 a year. The extra payment has been out of federal funds.

Neighbor Reports To Police

It was not until last night that a neighbor reported to police that diapers had suddenly appeared on Mrs. Wright's clothes line. Police investigated but no one answered the door. Mrs. Wright then suggested to her husband, Sgt. Jesse Wright, home on one of his infrequent leaves from nearby Camp Adair, that they visit friends in Portland. Police arrested them before they had gone a block, and held Wright as a material witness.

At the hospital the baby was identified from footprints.

Judith, eight ounces heavier than when she disappeared, was restored to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Gurney, who had pleaded by press and radio for the kidnaper to give up the tot.

Warships Shell Axis In Sicily

Agata yesterday, the bulletin reported. Enemy resistance was described as "desperate."

(The Italian communique, recorded by the Associated Press from a Rome broadcast, said "the enemy offensive in Sicily continues to develop with powerful support of air and naval forces. In spite of tenacious resistance of Italian and German troops, some positions had to be evacuated under the violent attacks of enemy armored units.")

Two Ships Claimed Hit

(The communique said Axis planes hit two Allied cruisers and four other ships with torpedoes and bombs off Sicily and sank three steamers off Augusta.)

The Allied forces were letting go with their heaviest punches and letting the groggy, reeling Axis forces have everything in the book — sea-borne bombardment, air and ground attack and heavy artillery fire — on a 24-hour schedule in an effort to squeeze the enemy into quick submission in the small remaining portion of the island.

In the American sector the German rearguard dug in at Cape Orlando, just 43 miles from Messina and some 10 miles northeast of San Agata, near which American infantry slipped ashore behind the German lines to trap an unestimated number of enemy troops and erase the heavily-fortified positions.

Good Neighbor Unit Named By Governor

AUSTIN, Aug. 10 (U.P.) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today announced appointment of a good neighbor commission to promote understanding with Mexico.

Members are: Dorrance Roderick, newspaper publisher, El Paso; Mathias De Llano, president of the Laredo Chamber of Commerce; R. E. Smith, regional director of civilian defense, Houston; Horace Guerra, land owner and banker of Rio Grande City; County Judge Oscar Dancy of Brownsville, and Andreas Rivera, manager of the Mexican business department of the National Bank of Commerce, San Antonio.

The committee will have divisions for public relations, commerce and industry and for human relations, including the receipt and investigations of any complaints of discrimination. First meeting of the commission is to be held some time in August.

Co-Op Meeting

extension department of A. and M. college, College Station, and a number of specialists from that branch of the state's farm service work are present. Amarillo sent a half a dozen representative men. Three or four prominent East Texas cooperatives also are represented, including a cheese factory owned by the farmers. All local cooperatives, including ginners, oil dealers, cotton oil mills, the hospital at Amherst, and numerous others are registered.

Tarwater said little in behalf of the AAA in his talk this forenoon, but he said farmers have learned one thing: "We know now what a subsidy is." He said the AAA was born of a need, and perhaps has served some good in giving the farmers compensation somewhat in comparison with the tariff benefitting business and industry.

Hospital Plans Studied

At a pre-session gathering of leaders in Lubbock hotel last night, there was a unanimous vote by about 35 present to undertake the building in Lubbock, or perhaps the purchase of, a hospital to be operated as a cooperative for farmers. Texas has two such institutions now in successful operation, one owned outright and the other operated by employment of all resident physicians. The latter is in Cass county.

Extension department representatives described the success of the farmers cooperative hospital in Amherst as being entirely satisfactory, and it was stated that a number of Lubbock business men, as well as farmers in the county, hold memberships in the institution and patronize it regularly.

While nothing except tentative action was taken last night on the hospital project, it was decided that another meeting in two weeks will be called and a trip to Amherst will be made to learn details of its operaion, with a view of organizing the local hospital on a similar plan.

Insured Fire Losses Reported For City

Insured fire losses totaling $50,579 in Lubbock during the first seven months of 1943 were reported this morning by Guy Casey, city fire marshal.

The figure is more than double the $22,837 loss during the same period of 1942. However, several heavy losses late last year increased the final total for 1942 to $122,665, the fire marshal reported.

Of last month's loss, $4,648 occurred in a fire in an auxiliary building of Stinson's cleaners, 1708 Broadway, according to the report.

Mrs. Davis Dies In Friona Home Monday

FRIONA, Aug. 10. (Special)—Mrs. H. C. Davis, 58, died at her home in Friona about 9 o'clock Monday night.

Funeral services are to be conducted at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Baptist church in Friona. Rix Funeral home of Lubbock will direct burial in Friona cemetery.

Stock Market

GAINS REGISTERED

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP) — The stock market today partly overcame its recent lethargy to roll up a large number of gains ranging from fractions to around 2 points.

Volume continued relatively low at about 700,000 share for the five hours.

Buying in various leaders was encouraged by the idea the recent selling on the Italian news might have run its course. On this theory it was figured prices could add a bit more to the recoveries of last Tuesday and Wednesday but market followers still were undecided as to how the list would respond to further important war developments.

Most pivotal groups were well ahead in the final hour. Prominent gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Case, Harvester, United Aircraft, Eastern Air Lines, Pan American Airways, Westinghouse, Western Union, Homestake, McIntyre Porcupine, Pullman, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Standard Oil (N.J.), Pure Oil, Pepsi-Cola and American Locomotive.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP) — Purchases of wheat by traders who previously had been sellers reversed the price trend today and prices at one time were up around a cent a bushel from the day's low points.

Commission houses and a big elevator firm bought rye after prices had declined a cent a bushel and on the ensuing advance short sellers were forced to cover themselves.

Trade generally was quite and the market lacked incentive.

One feature of trade was a tremendous business in cash corn sales. It was estimated that 3,500,000 bushels, the largest single day's business in the history of the board of trade, had been purchased for deferred shipment from the country. The sales were made at ceiling prices.

Wheat closed ½-¾ cent above yesterday's finish, September $1.43¾-½; oats unchanged to ¼ up, September 69-69½; and rye advanced ¾-1¼, September 98½-¾.

ion merely is "kept informed." A parallel discussion technique would be particularly valuable in the event of the necessity for a quick decision on some specific matter such as a new peace proposal from Italy. It also would prove helpful in clarifying the present German situation which now is clouded by a welter of rumors, part of which emanate from the Goebbels propaganda machine and part the natural result of current events.

Sources Are Skeptical

The best informed sources in London are skeptical of the whole series of reports regarding purported developments following a meeting of Hitler, Goering and Nazi military chiefs.

These appear to be the only known facts: Germany's military position is deteriorating progressively; there is an obviously widening gap between the Nazis and the old-line army chieftains; there is friction within the Nazi organization due to efforts to shift and escape responsibility for the decline of Germany's fortunes.

This strain and internal struggle is believed to have begun with Germany's failure at Stalingrad. It has been greatly increased by the ouster of Mussolini by Italy, the shattering Allied bombardment of Hamburg, the failure of the U-boat war and general Russian successes on the eastern front.

The Black Sea port of Varna doubled in population within 25 years after Bulgaria became independent in the 19th century.

Another Rome Bombing Urged

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP)—A demand that Rome be bombed again was sounded by the British press today as the Sicilian campaign moved rapidly toward climax with Premier Pietro Badoglio's government showing no sign of heeding Allied surender demands.

Urgin a repetition of the July 19 bombing, the London Daily Express declared "we should remind a million Italians in their capital that their need to force a decision from Badoglio is still more pressing than ours."

This expression of opinion coincided with a Rome broadcast indicating that, for the moment at least, Badoglio had no intention of cutting his ties with Adolf Hitler.

Said Insult To Honor

"To expect that Italy should desert Germany at this crucial moment of the war and trade her national honor as an escape from fighting is an insult," said the broadcast, which was recorded by the ministry of information.

"Mussolini's downfall was a political and not a military event," the broadcast added. "From the military point of view it enhanced Italy's will to resist. The fall of the Fascist government enabled Italians to face the facts as they are, and the facts are not so bad that nothing can be done to retrieve the situation."

Raids On Germany

vehicles and automotive parts factories and 10 chemical factories.

The raid was the first in force on Germany by the Royal Air Force since the nine attacks on Hamburg in 10 days ended the night of Aug. 2. Last Saturday night, the bomber command broke its lull in operations with shattering raids on Milan, Turin and Genoa in northern Italy.

Last night's raid was the 57th of the war on Mannheim, second largest inland port in Europe, and the first since April 16 when Ludwigshafen across the Rhine on the west bank, also was hit.

Patman Asks Crude Oil Price Increase

DALLAS, Aug. 10 (AP)—Declaring effective prosecution of the war is threatened by a possible oil shortage, Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana today called upon Fred Vinson, director of economic stabilization, to grant an increase in crude oil prices "without delay" to stimulate needed oil production.

In Dallas for a few days, Patman sent a telegram to Vinson asking him to "take the matter in hand, since Prentiss Brown (OPA administrator) and Commerce Secretary Harold Ickes have disagreed" on the need for a price increase.

Brown has opposed the hike, but Ickes, who was warned that the oil shortage may force more stringent gasoline rationing on the midwest and southwest, has recommended a 35-cent-a-barrel increase.

Patman declared that Vinson has "unquestioned authority" to end the dispute between Ickes and Brown and authorize the price hike.

Gene Krupa Awaits Outcome Of Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Gene Krupa, the bass drummer, is at liberty on $5,000 cash bail pending outcome of an appeal from his state prison sentence on conviction of using a minor, his valet, to transport narcotics.

Informed that the district attorney's office did not object, Juvenile Court Judge Thomas M. Foley authorized Krupa's release yesterday.

The band leader completed a 90-day county jail term last Thursday on a misdemeanor charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor by ordering the valet, 19-year-old John Pateakos, to bring him a package of marijuana cigarets.

Youth Questioned In Aged Man's Slaying

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP)—A 14-year old boy confessed that he killed a 77-year-old neighbor, saying he was "mad" because the neighbor owed him a year-old $1 debt for picking berries, District Attorney Burritt L. Haag said today.

The boy was held without charge for investigation, Haag said. The neighbor, Frederick R. Buckingham, of nearby Castenea township, was shot through the head with a shotgun Saturday night while sitting on a bench on his front lawn.

News Briefs

Police said this afternoon a dog owner in 2100-block Twenty-Eighth street had promised to keep his dog in his backyard from now out. Three children had been bitten by the dog, officials had been informed. Patrolman had been asked to watch for a 12-year-old runaway boy, described as 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighing 90 pounds. He was dressed in khaki shorts.

County court officials said Roger May had been convicted of liquor law violation this morning, by a jury of W. C. O'Mara and five others, and fined $100 and court costs.

Mrs. R. E. Hendrix this morning said she and her husband estimated their loss, uninsured, in Saturday's fire that destroyed three rooms and a back porch of their eight-room residence two miles east of the courthouse on East Broadway at $4,000. She said she believed either a rat or defective wiring had caused the fire. Her most important furnishings, including a large refrigerator, also were burned. The family, which had lived in the Lubbock vicinity 20 years, asked that appreciation be said for the fire department and approximately 300 persons who gathered to assist in removing furniture and helping fight the blaze. Hendrix has two farms in Lubbock county and 20 acres at the "home place."

West Texas Fields May Hike Oil Flow

AUSTIN, Aug. 10—(AP)—Continuing its investigation into the ability of Texas fields to produce more oil, the Railroad commission was informed at a hearing today that of 21 West Texas pools whose present output is 118,160 barrels daily, 118 might boost the flow an additional 200,000 barrels a day.

These were some of the estimates of possible increase: Slaughter field, from its present rate of 32,507 daily to 90,000 barrels a day; Wasson, from 34,021 to 140,000; Seminole, from 5,575 to 25,000.

Other fields which operators testified might increase production included: Jordan, Magnolia Sealy, Sand Hills (Ordovician), Henderson, Sand Hills (Permian), Spencer, Waddell, Walker, Johnson, Estes, Keystone lime, North Ward, Penwell, Scarborough and Apco-Warner.

A reduction was recommended for the Kermit field, and there were differences of opinion on whether production should be increased or decreased from Magnolia Sealy south and Keystone Colby fields.

Blanks Ready Today For Labor Leaders

AUSTIN, Aug. 10 (U.P.)—Printers have promised to furnish the secretary of state's office today with permit blanks for labor union organizers, which are required under the Manford act effective today.

Form for labor union reports have not been prepared so far. Unions that have inquired about filing the reports have been advised that they have until next Feb. 1 to file them.

Long before that time a court ruling is expected on validity of provisions of the act. Test cases have been filed both by American Federation of Labor and CIO representatives. The American Federation of Labor suit is set for hearing Oct. 18 in the 98th district court here.

The part of the act requiring organizers to file applications for permits before soliciting members for his organization provides that the application must show the organizer's full name, his labor union affiliation, if any; and a description of his credentials and a copy of them.

When such applications are filed properly signed, the secretary of state is directed to issue him a card labeled "labor organizer" over the secretary of state's signature and seal. The card will show the organizer's name and union affiliation and have a space for his personal signature.

U. S. Ambassador In Argentina Recalled

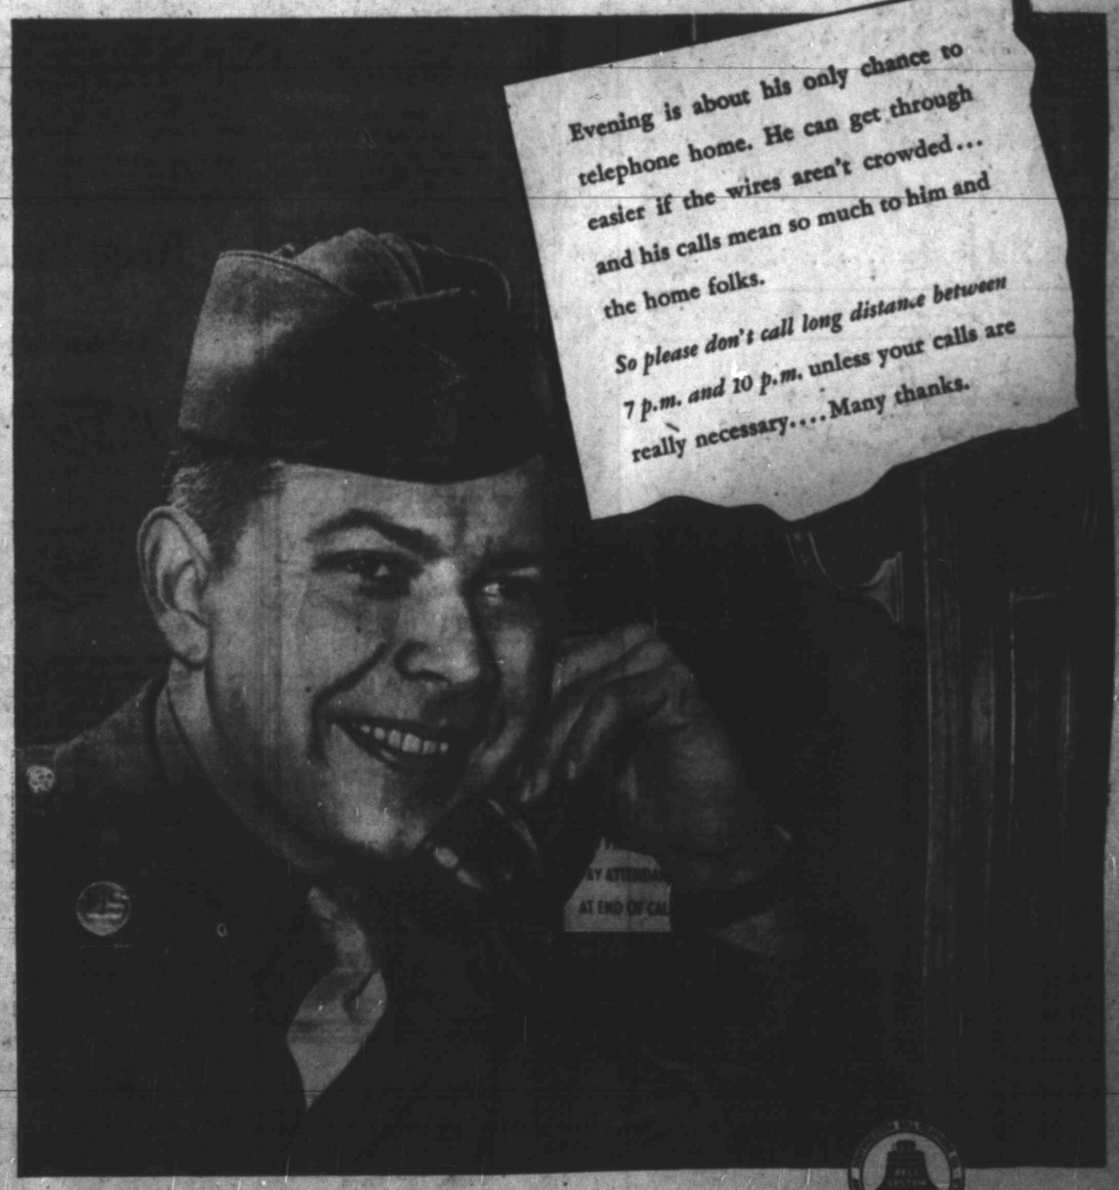

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP) — The recall of American Ambassador Norman Armour from his post in Argentina raised the question tonight whether he would ever return to Buenos Aires, a capital which still maintains relations with the Axis.

Secretary of State Hull was noncommital when the subject came up at his press conference today.

Asked why Armour was leaving his post, Hull said he was coming back to Washington for conference or consultation concering all phases of the United States' relations with that part of the western hemisphere and with special reference to Argentine developments as they relate to the general international situation.

Writer Thinks Japs Savages At Heart

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

A west coast reader has written to reprove me, courteously and in sorrow rather than in anger, for referring to the Japanese as "barbarians" and "savages."

He says that having lived among the Japs for 43 years, he has found them cultured, courteous and democratic. That they will return to democracy when they get out from under the military dictators who now hold them down.

I hasten to admit that it isn't good form to toss opprobrium about loosely. Obviously, too, 73,000,000 Japaness cant all be bad.

I still feel, however, that the vast majority of the Japanese are savages at heart.

Records Savage Report

I have before me a dispatch from J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press war correspondent with United States troops on New Georgia island, out in the Pacific. He records a report made by Lieut. Nicholas T. Kliebert about the manner in which Jap soldiers bayoneted helpless wounded Yankee soldiers to death. In one instance five of the savages (?) propped a wounded man against a tree and took turns bayoneting him.

"They cut one of the poor lads from the top of his head to his feet," says the lieutenant, "meanwhile laughing deliriously. Then they shot him through the head."

On March 10, 1942, the British government indicted Japan for barbarities at Hongkong paralleling those during the sacking of Nanking in 1937. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons that Japanese forces occupying Hongkong committed such horrors as the bayoneting of fifty helpless, bound officers and soldiers, and the indiscriminate raping and murder of Asiatic and European women.

Is Nipponese Pattern

Of course, one instance of that sort, or ten, shouldn't condemn an entire nation. But that's the pattern of the whole Nipponese fabric. It may be said that Jap soldiers are merely carrying out orders, for the purpose of terrifying enemy people. That's not good enough, however, for no civilized soldier would execute an order of that sort.

One of the outstanding caracteristics of the savage is that he strikes by stealth. The Japs struck at Pearl Harbor while two of their emissaries talked peace in Washington.

I'm one of those who believe that human nature can be changed. On that basis the nature of the Nipponese can be changed—in the course of generations.

Meantime it's vital that we recognize what sort of people we are up against. We have a bitter job to do, and that is to render them so utterly impotent in the military sense that they won't in a hundred years be able to arm themselves again to commit aggression.

Registry Book Given SPAAF By Tech Head

Members of the personnel of South Plains Army Air field will find it easier to locate old friends and acquaintances because of a gift from President Clifford B. Jones of Texas Technological college.

Dr. Jones has presented the glider pilot training center with a large, elaborately bound book in which personnel of the field may sign their names, home town, and colleges attended.

"I hope that through this medium the men in service at SPAAF may have the opportunity of making the acquaintance of others from their home towns or alma mater and as a result may develop friendships that will go far in furthering the neighborly spirit and teamwork that is the essence of victory," Dr. Jones said.

The book will be placed on a special stand in the west wing of the enlisted men's service club at SPAAF and will be available at all times for personnel of the field.

ODT's Information Office Closed Here

The closing of the joint information office here of the Office of Defense Transportation was reported here Monday. It was opened in February.

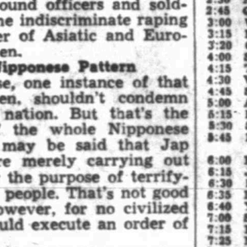

It was said at the ODT office a study of traffic and vehicle flow revealed that sufficient conservation is not warranted by leaving the office open, which could only be maintained at a "financial burden on the carriers."

Simultaneously, the ODT authorized closing also of the Muskogee, Okla., joint information office.

It was said abandonment of the offices will not relieve carriers in the territories from the provisions of general orders ODT 3 (revised) and ODT 17, which require that an effort be made to obtain full loads before making return truck trips. Carriers now must check with other carriers.
