COMPANY ASKS OTHER FIRMS TO ANNOUNCE HIGHER PRICE

Governor Woodring of Kansas Negotiates With Big Purchaser

POOLS SHUTDOWN

Executive Confers With Murray Before Final Statement

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 23. (AP)—Success in a mid-continent area effort to obtain a dollar a barrel for petroleum, through an arbitrary shutdown of production, was indicated today when Gov. Harry H. Woodring said a major purchasing company had offered to raise its price to that amount.

The governor declined to reveal the name of the company.

Company Negotiating

He said the company was negotiating with other major purchasers in the mid-continent area to determine whether they would meet the $1 price. Martial law was invoked in Oklahoma several weeks ago by Gov. W. H. Murray to enforce a shutdown in his effort to force crude prices to $1, and Gov. Ross S. Sterling of Texas later took similar action.

In addition to the Ritz-Canton field shutdown, ordered last night, the Kansas commission also has directed wells in the Raymond pool, Rice county, closed more than a year, to be kept out of production. One-fifth of the state's present 102,000-barrel average daily production, it was estimated, comes from the former.

Favors Shutdown

Governor Woodring in commenting yesterday on the Ritz-Canton order said he was "in full accord with the efforts made by Governor Murray of Oklahoma and Governor Sterling of Texas to force the price of oil to $1 a barrel." The order was issued after many mid-continent purchasers had raised their top prices to 70 cents.

Woodring said today he was in communication with Governor Murray and that he would issue a statement later, presumably after further negotiations with oil companies.

OPPONENTS OF LAW PREPARE FOR SUIT

AUSTIN, Aug. 23.—Oil field martial law was nearing its close Sunday, but a new factor from within the oil industry itself threatened to prolong the military regime indefinitely.

The railroad commission Tuesday will hold hearings at Austin to set up rules and enforcement machinery under which it is planned quickly to turn control of the four-county East Texas field back to the commission, withdraw the troops, and gradually reopen the field. But a group of independent refiners has employed Webster Atwell, Dallas lawyer, for a possible suit in federal court to enjoin operation of the new enforcement law, it was revealed by those connected with the movement.

If the commission's enforcement of the new law is tied up, prolonged use of troops and extended air-tight shutdown of the East Texas field appeared inevitable.

A group of independent refiners will put on a demonstration against the martial law regime in Austin, three blocks from the governor's mansion, Monday night with Alvin M. Owsley and C. C. McDonald as speakers.

Owsley has promised to invade the East Texas martial law zone later and in defiance of Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters' orders, and attempt to make a speech protesting the shutdown.

Unless the litigation develops, it appeared the martial rule may have ended before the Owsley demonstration reaches a climax in East Texas.

OIL MEN PREDICT ANOTHER RAISE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 23. (AP)—Gentlemen of the oil industry rested serenely today, confident that week-end developments meant an end to at least one of their major ailments—low crude prices.

Under the impetus of a sadly depleted flow of oil from three of the major producing states of the mid-continent area—Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas—crude oil purchasers generally established prices ranging upward to 70 cents a barrel for oil at the wells.

There were jubilant forecasts from many oil sources today that the closing initiated nearly three weeks ago by Governor Murray and joined in subsequently by the north and south neighboring states would soon bring back the still higher price sought. Storage is running low generally and the demand from refiners pinched for crude with which to operate was expected to finish the job.

On the other side of the question came the fear of the ultimate consumer that the benefit to accrue to the oil men would result in payment of higher prices for motor fuel in a short time. Refiners, those who still are giving spot prices on the United States motor grade of gasoline, quoted it yesterday at 5 to 5½ cents a gallon in tank car lots, f. o. b. plants. Oil men forecast the gasoline market would show still greater strength this week.

CONTRACTS MADE TO EXPORT ETEX OIL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (US)—Contracts have been made for purchase of about 2,000,000 barrels of East Texas crude oil for shipment to the Netherland West Indies for refining, the volunteer committee on petroleum economics advised Secretary of the Interior Wilbur today.

The major portion of the gasoline will be returned to the United states, it was said.

Contracts for increased shipment of East Texas crudes to Europe also have been reported, the committee said. An increase in the

TROOPS SEARCH KILGORE FOR 'FIREBUGS'

Firemen Halt Three Set Blazes Shortly After Churches Burn

General Wolters Orders Soldiers and Rangers to Aid Civil Authorities Protect Oil Town and Hunt For Incendiary Suspects

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

KILGORE, Texas, Aug. 23.—Fear of incendiary fires kept Kilgore citizens wakeful tonight, as Texas troopers stood guard in streets of the town which is headquarters for a martial law regime in the East Texas oil fields.

The two churches of Kilgore burned to the ground shortly after noon and only the vigilance of soldiers, Texas rangers and civilian peace officers frustrated attempts tonight to ignite four other buildings. No one was known to have been injured.

In each case, the incendiarist attempts were detected by rising smoke in time for firemen, state troopers and civilian officials to stamp out blazing, gasoline-soaked rags which had been thrown under the buildings.

Two Suspects Held

State rangers arrested two suspects who were held in jail tonight. Others were sought.

The four buildings saved from burning were a gin house, a wholesale grocery, a vacant warehouse and a small hotel.

The city was in a state of confusion tonight as residents waited expectantly for the scream of the fire siren. Hundreds stood about in the streets, half in fear of going to bed.

Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, commanding the martial law zone existing in four counties, said he was not ready to make a positive assertion as to who might be responsible for the fires.

"It may be and may not be," he added, "that the public opposition of some to martial law has inflamed and agitated those persons naturally 'red.' It is impossible to say yet who is doing it and what may be the motive."

Jail Guarded

A special guard was kept about the frame building used as a "hold-over" jail here where prisoners are held before transfer to the county jail at Longview, after an anonymous telephone threat had been received that the flimsy structure would be burned.

No reports of incendiary activity had been received from other towns in the area and General Wolters said he hoped the outbreak would be confined to this point.

General Wolters evidently believed the situation serious, more than 3,000,000 barrels of crude oil being stored in tanks scattered over the vast field. He indicated he was thinking of what would happen if incendiarists ignited some of those tanks.

"I'm sitting here on a powder keg," he said, as he set up temporary headquarters at the city jail tonight.

Patrols Increased

"These incendiary activities perhaps were put on to hide something else or to try to distract our attention from some place else. Our patrols out in the fields were increased to capacity strength tonight. There is no telling what may happen."

Meanwhile, civil officers, aided by troopers, were bringing in prisoners in a general roundup of vagrants. General Wolters prepared, with the concurrence of local officials, to give some of them a "sunrise order" to leave the military district of Gregg, Smith, Upshur and Rusk counties before dawn.

Now and then a citizen would appear at the jail and be sworn as a special officer, so he could carry a pistol in protecting his property. The jail building was crowded with armed men, soldiers, rangers, civilians, special and regular officers.

Guardsmen occupying the 600 square miles of the East Texas oil fields heretofore had been kept out of the towns and used altogether in patrolling oil wells to prevent them from being reopened. Civil authorities were left to carry on law enforcement in the municipalities.

Soldiers Requested

General Wolters made plain that he ordered troops into Kilgore at the request of civil authorities and that they merely would be there to cooperate, not to take over all law enforcement or to suspend the operation of civil government in any way.

Kilgore's two churches burned to the ground under mysterious circumstances during the two-hour period beginning shortly before noon. This afternoon, gasoline-soaked rags started fires at a seed

BUM BARTERING

Shipowners Complain of Neglect in Brazil Wheat Deal

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (US)—President Hoover will be asked to intercede in behalf of American shipowners who stand to lose upwards of $2,000,000 in revenue for transportation charges in the American wheat and Brazilian coffee deal, as a result of official bungling, it was learned today.

The failure of the federal farm board to stipulate that the 25,000,000 bushels of wheat bartered for 1,050,000 bags of coffee should all be transported in American ships has aroused the American Steamship Owners association.

BULLET SQUAD SPRAYS THREE

Victims Lined Up, Like St. Valentine Massacre

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (AP)—In a manner reminiscent of the St. Valentine's day massacre in Chicago, three men were lined up against a slaughter house wall in Brooklyn tonight and sprayed with bullets.

One man was killed and the other two were critically wounded.

Police said they believed machine guns were employed by the gangland executioners.

Victim on Parole

The dead man, Lony Ferrari, 25, who police said was paroled from Sing Sing prison last April after serving a term for robbery.

The others, dying in St. Catherine's hospital, are Angelo Curianni, 23, and Murray Leonardi, 21. Each had three bullets in his body.

John Shumaker, a night watchman in the slaughter house, told police a carload of gunmen drove up to the slaughter house, pushed the three victims out of the car, and lined them up against the wall.

Gunmen Open Fire

Terrified, Shumaker said, he watched the gunmen hold the victims in position for a few moments, dart back into the machine and open fire.

"The three men slumped down," Shumaker told police. "It all happened so quickly, it was over before I knew what it was all about."

Curianni, who was partially conscious, told police at the hospital that he and his companions were at a dance when five men whom he said he did not know, entered the ballroom, pressed automatics against their ribs and told them to "come outside."

They were shoved into a sedan. None of the five spoke to them.

"I asked them what it was all about," Curianni said. "They didn't even answer us. They just looked at each other.

"Finally we reached the spot. They told us to get out and be quick. That's all I remember."

Chicago's Gold Coast Leaders Nabbed in Raid

CHICAGO, Aug. 23. (US)—Forty-three gold coast residents—patrons—and employes of the old Heidelberg cafe in the lower north side were arrested in a surprise raid early this morning.

Complaints had reached police against the character of the place and the entertainment it provided.

Of the 43 arrested, 12 men, including two of the patrons, were held after questioning and the rest released. Half of the persons taken were women.

War Veterans of 1917-18 Take Over El Paso as Legion Opens Convention

EL PASO, Aug. 23. (AP)—While most delegates disported in hotel lobbies and on streets, business of the annual convention of the Texas department, American Legion, began here today with a meeting of the executive committee.

Up and down streets, gaily bedecked with flags of many countries, marched legionaires in jaunty caps, often to the music of blaring bands, renewing old friendships and swapping yarns of the stirring days of '17 and '18.

In addition to the meeting of the executive committee of the Legion proper, La Society des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaeux, its women's auxiliary, the 8 and 40, and the Women's Auxiliary of the Legion convened formally for the first time.

Hal Brennan of Laredo, department commander, reported to the committee that the Legion in Texas was at its greatest strength numerically in history. On Aug. 8, there were 37,662 members, or approximately 13,000 more than last year at the same time.

R. O. Whitesker of Austin, state adjutant, discussed a new quota system soon to be used in the annual membership drive if approved by the convention. He said many inequalities in quotas had existed among cities in the past, and the new system, based largely on the 1930 census, would correct these.

Brennan also spoke on condition of Legion finances, the child health

ADVERTISING 17 CENTURIES AGO

EVEN from the very earliest developments of trade, there has always been some sort of an appeal made between buyer and seller. At a fair, which was held in a very famous city in England, in the third century, traders cried out their wares before booths. This was the first form of advertising. The modern method of printing developed in the 15th century, but it was not until 1647 that the first advertisement appeared in a newspaper, although newspapers had been in use since 1622. TODAY, we have hundreds of advertisements appearing every day in BOTH of these papers, the Daily Times and Record News. In the Classified Want Ad columns, there are advertisements to satisfy EVERY want. Whether in the market to rent, buy or sell, use the Classified Want Ad Columns as the most convenient, quick and economical way. Your Classified Want Ad will be accepted from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m., for publication.

YOUTH HIT BY BASEBALL BAT BROUGHT HERE

Charlie Boy Charged With Assault After Scrap At Game

FATHER IN MELEE

Umpire's Skull Fractured By Blow During Fistic Encounter

Struck with a baseball bat as he engaged in an affray during a ball game at Charlie late Sunday, Troy Rouse, 19, received a fractured skull. He was in a serious condition Sunday night at the Wichita General hospital here.

Homer Tomlin, 15, was charged with assault with intent to murder at Petrolia following his arrest by J. B. McGee, Petrolia constable, shortly after the fight. He was released on $500 bond after waiving a preliminary hearing.

Father in Mixup

Rouse was struck with the bat as he and young Tomlin's father engaged in a fistic encounter, according to the account given Constable McGee.

Rouse was umpiring the game in which the Tomlin boy was playing, according to an account of the affair given McGee by witnesses. The boy "razzed" the umpire after he had struck out while at bat. Rouse asked the father of the youth, who was present at the game, to silence his son, the officer was told.

The elder Tomlin, it was said, told Rouse to silence the boy himself. Rouse said that he would not strike a younger and smaller boy. Further words between Rouse and the father led to an exchange in blows.

Bat Stops Scrap

Rouse apparently was getting the better of the fight, it was said, when young Tomlin seized a bat and ended the encounter. Rouse was brought to the hospital here.

An orphan, young Rouse resides with several brothers about five miles from Charlie toward Thornberry.

The Tomlins are residents of Charlie, the father operating a restaurant there.

The elder Tomlin was not charged in connection with the affray.

50 Fliers Take Off in National Air Derby

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 23. (US)—With Cleveland and $25,000 in cash prizes as their goal, more than 50 men and women aviators took off from Clover field this afternoon on the first lap of a gruelling six-day handicap derby across the continent.

While thousands watched, the 19 women and 38 men, in ships of every type, left the field at one-minute intervals beginning at 2:31 p. m., for a 196-mile hop to their first over-night control point, Calexico, Calif.

Denmark-Bound Fliers Reach Northern Outpost

JURY RELEASED IN CLARK CASE

Lawyer's Murder Hearing Results in Mistrial

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23. (US)—Eleven to one for acquittal and declaring themselves convinced that they would never agree, the jurors in the David H. Clark murder case were discharged by Judge Stanley Murray at 11 o'clock this morning.

William E. Weller of West Los Angeles was the juror whose persistent belief in Clark's guilt of the murder of Herbert Spencer brought the trial to an end in a disagreement.

He would, he said, have agreed to compromise on manslaughter, but the others would not be swerved.

With Clark back in jail, Special Prosecutor Joseph Ford declared positively that the case would be re-tried, and characterized the vote of 11 jurors for acquittal as "ridiculous."

Clark and his attorneys expressed themselves as disappointed in the outcome but said that the close approach to an agreement was "an actual vindication."

The discharge of the jury ended a long session of debate behind the closed doors of the jury room that at times came near to blows.

Judd Wilson, one of the jurors, revealed that at times during the last two days the arguments became so heated that he took the cartridges belonging to one of the many guns among the exhibits and hid them.

"I was taking no chances," he declared.

Court Writ to Halt Movie Operators' Arrest

CHICAGO, Aug. 23. (US)—An injunction was issued unexpectedly this afternoon by Judge Ross C. Hall to prevent the arrest of operators in motion picture houses employing imported projection men unlicensed in Chicago.

The court writ halts the closing of motion picture theaters by police. It creates a new situation in the movie operators' battle which has affected all of Chicago's outlying picture houses for the last fortnight.

C. K. Cregier of the city department of electricity, said he had not been notified of the court writ. He added he did not see how it could prevent the arrest of operators who violate the ordinance by working without a city license.

Herndon and Pangborn Wait Japanese Permit

TOKYO, Aug. 23. (US)—Hugh Herndon Jr. and Clyde Pangborn, American round world airmen, who ran afoul of the Japanese air regulations when they flew here to prepare for a transpacific hop two weeks ago, had tonight not yet received permission to take off on their venture.

Their request was forwarded to the Japanese ministry of communications through the American embassy five days ago. The ministry has not yet replied.

BUSINESS MEN BUY

Baylor Sheriff to Return Pair to Face Charges Of Swindling

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Aug. 23.—The return of two men held by authorities at Jackson, Miss., on charges of swindling two prominent Seymour business men into buying fake "television" stock is expected within the next few days, according to C. Shawver, deputy sheriff.

Sheriff Arch Holmes left here Wednesday for Jackson and there identified the two prisoners as those responsible for the financial hoax here about two months ago.

Deputy Shawver returned Sunday from Austin, where he forwarded papers signed by Gov. Ross Sterling for the extradition of the pair.

The two men, claiming to represent a New York concern engaged in the manufacture of television equipment, sold two Seymour men approximately $500 worth of the fake stock. They received a sizable sum in cash, accepting the balance in notes.

Sheriff Holmes is expected to return the alleged swindlers here within the next few days in the event that extradition requests are recognized by the Mississippi governor. Felony warrants are held by Sheriff Holmes. The case is expected to come before the Baylor county grand jury, which convenes here Monday.

Newsie Discovers Secret of Success For Heartbreakers

EL PASO, Aug. 23. (AP)—At last, the secret of Rudolph Valentino's phenomenal screen success has been found. Jose Contreras, 9, newsboy, who has histrionic ambitions, is the discoverer.

"Aw, gee, all he did was kid the ladies," says Jose, better known as "Pee Wee." "That's easy. He didn't pay no attention to 'em, so they run after him.

"They like to think all the men are watching 'em. It makes 'em awful sore when some guy just passes by and don't know 'em. That's what I'm doing, and some day I'll be a bigger actor than he was.

"Naw, I never had a real girl. I don't want any of 'em bossing me. Course, there's some of 'em that are all right, but most of 'em just want some guy to spend all his money on 'em.

"I don't make much on the papers, so I can't afford it. I have to help take care of my mother. She tells me how to treat women."

WINTER RELIEF PLANS RUSHED

Unemployment Aid Planned in Many Quarters

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—With cold weather only a few months away, highly diversified and widespread activity has developed in the realm of unemployment relief.

President Hoover devoted the week-end to an intensive study of the problem with Walter S. Gifford, his new director of relief, at the chief executive's Rapidan camp.

Governor Roosevelt was at work on a message on the subject to be delivered to a special session of the New York legislature which will convene Tuesday.

Couzens Offers Million

In Detroit Senator Couzens offered $1,000,000 for the assistance of the city's jobless with the provision that $9,000,000 be raised from other sources.

A conference on unemployment relief was scheduled to begin tomorrow at Memphis, Tenn., on a call by Governor Murray, of Oklahoma. The program to be submitted by Murray has not been announced and there was somewhat of a misunderstanding existing between the governor and the Memphis Chamber of Commerce.

The United States Chamber of Commerce committee appointed to study relief was putting the finishing touches on its findings and its plan preparatory to submitting them to President Hoover by September 1.

Treasury Offers New 91-Day Obligations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22. (US)—On the eve of Secretary Mellon's return to Washington, acting Secretary Ballantine today announced an offer of $80,008,000 in 91-day treasury bills to meet the government's current needs.

The last offering—for $60,000,000—was made just a week ago today and oversubscribed nearly three to one at a rate equivalent to interest of 0.6 per cent per annum.

Like the three preceding offerings, the issue announced today will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders.

KING CONFERS WITH LEADERS OF PARTIES

Financial Crisis Expected To Bring Fall of Labor Group

MACDONALD SILENT

Labor Chieftain May Act as Minister of Coalition Government

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
(Copyr't, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

LONDON, Aug. 24. (Monday)—The MacDonald government will resign this morning, according to a final special edition of the Daily Herald, official organ of the Labor party.

King George is expected to call former Premier Stanley Baldwin to form a ministry, which may contain liberals, according to the labor organ.

Another possibility is an emergency government with some members of the present cabinet.

Majority Combination

A combination will be effected, under orders from King George, that will command a majority in the house of commons.

The possibility of a national emergency government with MacDonald at its head, which loomed as the greatest likelihood until late in the night, now seems remote.

Prime Minister MacDonald, who made a dramatic dash to Buckingham Palace late last night after a three-hour cabinet session, and then conferred with conservative and liberal leaders at Downing street until after midnight, retired five minutes after the last of the opposition leaders left, refusing to issue a statement.

But it is believed that King George asked the labor leaders, the great majority of whose rank and file refuse to follow them, to attempt to form a coalition government in an effort to find the solution to the struggle of balancing the budget and maintaining British credit.

Cabinet Meets Today

The present cabinet will meet at noon today for what is likely to be its final session.

Insistence by MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden on consent to cutting the doles as a part of the economy program, demanded by both liberals and conservatives, has split the cabinet, The Daily Herald, official labor organ, says that Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, President of the Board of Trade William Graham, Minister of Health Arthur Greenwood, First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander, and First Commissioner of Works George Lansbury are opposed to such a step.

The Daily Herald agrees that there is a possibility of a national emergency government including MacDonald and Snowden.

King Gives Audience

King George's dramatic intervention climaxed the tensest situation in modern British political history.

Despite his early arrival from Scotland and the fact that he spent practically the entire day in conferences, His Majesty was able to give a night audience of 25 minutes to MacDonald.

The king hastened to London when advised on Friday night that the conservatives and liberals were unable to agree with the cabinet on a solution.

High Voltage Wires Foil Chimney Sitters

TOKIO, Aug. 23. (UP)—Following a strike movement by workers at the Japan Electric Bleaching company at Hondamachi, near Tokio, officials took every possible precaution against any demonstration by a chimney-sitter.

Electricians wound strands of wire around the main chimney, and posted a warning saying the wires were charged with an electric current of a high voltage and that any person who came in contact with them would be killed. Although the truth of the notice was not accepted literally by the agitators, no one was bold enough to make an experiment.

Mexican Population of Texas as Law Abiding Native, Report Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—The Wickersham commission reported today there was no evidence that Mexicans in the state of Texas "run afoul of the law any more than anyone else."

A special study prepared for the commission's report on "crime and the foreign born" by Dr. Max S. Handman, professor of economics at the University of Texas, asserted it was a "remarkable thing," under the circumstances that the Mexican "is as well behaved as the community in the midst of which he lives."

Dr. Handman based his study upon conditions in San Antonio, the largest Mexican center in Texas; Eagle Pass, a border town with a population of between 60 and 75 per cent Mexican; and Waco, with a Mexican population of about 2 per cent.

Based on the last census, he said, there were about 110,000 Mexicans in these three centers as compared to the total populaiton of about 400,000.

Counting the total number of charges, he said, "we find that the charges against the Mexicans represent a little more than a fifth of the total, while in population they represent something between a fourth and a fifth, indicating that the Mexicans show delinquent tendencies less than their proportion of the population would entitle them to show."

"It is of interest in this connection," wrote Dr. Handman, "to record the fact that in very many instances on inquiry I was told by magistrates that their dockets were

TEXAS' VIEWS ON COTTON LAW ARE AWAITED

Replies to Questionnaire to Guide Sterling on Extra Session

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (AP)—Gov. R. S. Sterling today awaited expressions from cotton farmers and the public generally on the advisability of calling a special session of the legislature to enact cotton acreage control legislation.

The governor yesterday submitted a questionnaire to the citizenry and the members of the legislature asking submission of views on the subject.

Recent Bill Killed

A special session will be called if it is demanded, Governor Sterling said, at the same time warning advocates of the cotton acreage reduction plan that a bill to prohibit planting of cotton on the same land in successive years was killed by the senate at the special session recently ended. The bill was not considered in the house after being killed by the senate.

In event a special session is called, congressional redistricting and taxation probably will be submitted, it was indicated. A group of legislators are preparing a bill to provide for a state income tax on individuals and corporations.

The governor indicated he would be adverse to a special session unless assured in advance constructive legislation would be enacted.

McDonald to Speak

While Governor Sterling was awaiting an expression, J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, planned to make a series of addresses this week in the cotton belt of Texas. McDonald is an ardent advocate of cotton acreage reduction and will "beat the bushes" to acquaint farmers with the proposal.

The first meeting will be held tomorrow night at Mart. McDonald will speak in Mexia at 10 a. m. Tuesday, Corsicana at 2:30 p. m., and at Waxahachie at 8 p. m. The schedule for the remainder of the week was incomplete, the only other announced date being at Greenville Wednesday night.

McDonald said he hoped to persuade farmers to express themselves to Governor Sterling on control of cotton acreage by legislative action.

To Explain Plan

McDonald, in addition to urging the farmers and legislators to express themselves to the governor will explain his plan for cotton acreage reduction, voted down at the recent conference on cotton in New Orlearns. It would limit the 1932 acreage to one-third of the cultivated land of the South.

This limitation would give the world its normal amount of cotton for two years, do away with the ponderous surplus of more than 9,000,000 bales and at the same time keep open the channels of trade in the cotton industry, McDonald said.

Oil Purchaser Offers Dollar

Kansas Governor Orders Pool Shutdown

shipment of Texas crudes to foreign countries was predicted.

The volunteer committee, whose chairman is E. B. Swanson, chief economist of the petroleum economics division of the bureau of mines, estimated that 451,915,000 barrels of oil would be produced in the United States during the last half of 1931, an increase of 5.04 per cent over the last half of 1930.

The committee on April 6 made estimates of the likely crude oil and gasoline supply demand for the period April 1 to Sept. 30. The estimates were found to have been close to the actual developments in that period. Its latest report extends the survey to include the last three months of the present year.

The total crude oil demand for the last six months of 1931 is put at 491,315,000 barrels, an increase of 2.82 per cent over the last six months of 1930.

This estimated demand was divided: Refinery throughout domestic, 436,715,000 barrels; foreign crude refinery throughout, 25,600,000; exports, 14,000,000; losses, etc., 15,000,000.

To meet this estimated demand for 491,315,000 barrels, the committee divided the "supply" as coming from the following sources:

Domestic production, 451,915,000; imports, 25,600,000, representing a decline of 17.42 per cent; drawn from storage, 13,800,000, a decline of 16.82 per cent.

Educational Leaders To Aid Needy Students

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (US)—Educators of practically every state in the union have joined the movement to encourage and assist students to remain in school during the depression, it was announced by the president's emergency employment committee today.

The committee had called on all educational organizations to do what they can to aid students who need financial help and encourage others to remain in school instead of swelling the ranks of the unemployed.

Berlin Makes Plans For Big Radio Show

BERLIN, Aug. 23. (UP)—The latest accomplishments in the radio field will be on display here when the German Radio and Phonograph Exhibition is opened.

The tone-film industry will have a place as the newest branch of these industries, and the latest developments in television also will be shown.

Following this, the Seventh International Bureau Exhibition will run from Sept. 4 to 9, showing office furniture and fixtures.

200 Fires Raging in Forests of Three States

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 23. (US)—With more than 200 fires raging in the thickly timbered areas of Northern Idaho, eastern Washington and western Montana, thousands of men were today fighting desperately against odds that were almost overwhelming.

house and gin and under the structure housing a wholesale grocery concern on the main street. They were quickly controlled.

Jail Threatened

County officers were advised anonymously by telephone they "had better watch" their jail here, a building of flimsy frame construction. It is subordinate to the main county jail at Longview, the county seat. A special guard was thrown about the jail immediately, as a number of prisoners were lodged in it.

General Wolters first announced after the churches had burned that he would leave the investigation to civil officials. Later he personally joined in the inquiry after fires in the seed house and grocery establishment were discovered.

"I have directed my men to cooperate fully with civil authorities," said General Wolters. "Joint investigations by my men and civil officials show conclusively the fires were incendiary. Gasoline-soaked rags of the same sort were found in the seed house and at the grocery. Probably they started the church fires too, but that could not be said with finality because those buildings burned to the ground and any evidence in or under them would have been consumed."

Town Excited

As the fire siren screamed time and again, the streets filled with excited townspeople and city and county officers maintained a careful watch over the entire town lest other fires break out. Most of the buildings are of frame construction, hastily erected during the sudden increase of business resulting from the oil discovery. The fire department had apparatus at the scene of the seed house and grocery fires before they gained headway.

County authorities were forced to keep their prisoners in the menaced county jail because the police chief declared the city jail was "piled to the top."

General headquarters of the militiamen is at a camp a mile and a half from town.

Rangers Used

General Wolters stationed soldiers in Kilgore late today and sent eight Texas Rangers in to help them stand guard in the city to prevent further fires.

Police Chief Pike McIntosh declared "it looks like something is wrong. We are going to inquire into this immediately."

Meanwhile, widespread sources of military intelligence reports had informed brigade headquarters here there was no prospective attempt to violate the general order prohibiting meetings being held to protest against Governor Ross S. Sterling's declaration of martial law.

Brigade headquarters troops, two hours before the first fire in Kilgore, assembled under the pines at their camp to hear a sermon criticizing opponents of military rule, while other cavalrymen were out in the field continuing their patrol to see that no wells were reopened.

As the thin, high note of the bugle sounded "church call," the men marched to a shady knoll near headquarters. They thrust company guidons into the ground and sat wearing their side arms, while Rev. P. B. Hill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of San Antonio, inveighed against pacifism and gave them the admonition of David to Solomon: "Be thou, therefore, a man."

"God gave us this country," said the tall chaplain, "and it was not easy to gain. I agree with General Wolters when he said there was only one side to this occupation—the side of constituted authority."

Fort Worth Officers Get Theft Suspect Here

C. W. McDaniel, negro arrested here by police, was taken in charge by Fort Worth officers Sunday to be returned to Fort Worth to face charges in connection with the theft of a $500 diamond shirt stud recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bunch, 2129 Avenue G, Sunday were the parents of a boy. The baby was born at the Wichita General hospital late Sunday afternoon. Both mother and child were reported resting well. Mr. Bunch is of the faculty of the Wichita Falls Junior college.

'COIN' HARVEY PLANS PARTY

Picturesque Leader Opens Conference Today

MONTE NE, Ark., Aug. 23. (UP)—Dreams of a man for half a century to formulate a "perfect" financial system which would make prosperity permanent and abolish depressions will begin realization here, Aug. 25 to 28, when a new national political party will be organized.

The aged political warrier is W. H. "Coin" Harvey, one-time friend and colleague of William Jennings Bryan in the fight for 16 to 1 "free silver."

His dreams are to prevent bank failures by government operation of banking institutions; to formulate a "perfect" money system; to establish a moratorium pending permanent relief from the present depression by expenditure of public funds to employ idle labor in the building of public improvements.

Nominate Candidates

The convention will nominate candidates for president and vice president and will name a chairman of the campign committee. Harvey said that his recent trips throughout the middle west and letters he has received, point to an attendance of approximately 10,000 at the convention.

The new political party, as it is now called, is an outgrowth of Harvey's study of national finance. He was somewhat disillusioned in 1900 by the defeat of his friend Bryan for president and the failure of his scheme of a national money standard, free silver.

"I became disgusted with the trend of politics in 1900 and came to this place, which I named Monte Ne, to play the hermit and reflect on what might possibly save civilization," Harvey said.

Proper Time

"I think the time has arrived to get the attention of the people, a time for which I have waited, knowing that it would come, under the present financial system."

Several months ago "Coin" published a queer little booklet in which he set forth the platform of the new party. The publication is somewhat similar to his book on free silver entitled, "Coin's Financial School," which attracted nation-wide attention.

Utter lack of confidence in "Washington politicians" prompted this singular man to issue the call for a new party.

Harvey's party platform is for an almost complete reorganization of the national and state governments. It would submit a referendum to the people to decide the most important questions of the day, such as prohibition.

Present System Usury

The party would roundly denounce the "present system of usury." It would be against charging interest on money. According to principles set forth in Harvey's booklet, money will be circulated by government employment of idle labor, all money "hereafter, to go into circulation without any interest thereon."

Several years after Harvey had founded Monte Ne, he began building a "pyramid to posterity" in which he hopes to place records of the present civilization, saving knowledge for peoples who will live thousands of years hence. He predicts the downfall of civilization if governments are not revised.

The convention will be held at the scene of his pyramid. A larger amphitheater approaching the site of the pyramid will be used to seat delegates, over which a large tent will be erected.

In this structure the convention will discuss means to:

Reserve all legislaitve power to the people; reduce the number of office holders and the expense of government to a minimum; and establish a permanent prosperity.

This aged political philosopher predicts that millions will follow his leadership in the new political movement. Votes in 1932 "ought to come with a tumultuous majority that emphasizes that the people are again in control of their government."

Receding Flood Leaves Thousands of Bodies

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23. (US)—With uncounted thousands of human bodies unburied in the flood districts around Hankow and other sections of Hunan and Hupeh provinces, added deaths at the rate of more than 1,000 a day are following in the wake of China's worst disaster.

The great Yangtze river after rising to 53 feet and six inches above normal, was reported gradually receding today. But the countless bodies of humans and animals cannot be buried in the sea of mud that remains.

Sayre Sheriff Lodges Higgilalban in Jail

T. C. Higgilalban, escape from from the Sayre, Okla., county jail, was lodged in the Wichita county jail overnight Sunday by Sheriff W. T. Belvin in Sayre who is returning the man following his capture at Bridgeport during the day.

Sheriff Belvin said Higgilalban is the third escape to be captured after a recent jail break at Sayre by four of his 18 prisoners. The man is charged with a felony.

Unemployment Aid Planned in Many Quarters

ment" for unemployed falling within the school age. President Hoover's emergency committee for employment was encouraging the idea.

At Tarrytown, N. Y., new construction work aggregating a half million dollars and largely financed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was provided to give employment to local workmen.

Gifford, who is president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, will establish his headquarters tomorrow in the department of commeroe building, thereby beginning actual work on the problem four days after his appointment.

The discussions at the camp, which took place before a big open fire in the social hall of the retreat, dealt primarily with organization. Fred C. Croxton, who will be Gifford's assistant, attended the conferences and furnished material gathered by the emergency committee which will be merged with the new organization.

The party will leave the camp for Washington early tomorrow. A steady rain kept the president and his guests indoors most of the week-end.

Telegrams from Governors Rolph of California, Emmerson of Illinois, Gardiner of Maine, and Winant of New Hampshire, were received assuring the president of their cooperation with the Gifford group.

Town Wants to Dodge Onus of Kid's Name

SILVER CITY, N. M., Aug. 23. (UP)—Silver City wants to shake off its reputation as being the home of Billy the Kid, notorious southwest desperado.

Billy was only a village bad boy here; he spilled no blood in his home town, the Silver City Independent avers. Billy merely broke into a Chinese laundry one Saturday night; was arrested, placed in jail, climbed out of the chimney and escaped.

Billy never returned to Silver City after that, the Independent claims. And yet Silver City is known chiefly as the home of Billy the Kid, the Independent deplores. The tradition that Silver Citians are quick on the draw because of Billy's activities is very distasteful to the Independent.

CRIME BLAMED ON NATIVES

Wickersham Report Defends Aliens

groaning under Mexican cases and that Mexicans from the overwhelming number of their charges, but in no instance have I found this impression borne out by a study of the facts.

Strange Names Misleading

"This does not mean that the magistrates were willingly perverting the facts in order to make out a case against the Mexicans or that they were even prejudiced against the Mexicans. The explanation is very much simpler, it lies in the domain of that psychological fact that the stranger is conspicuous and the conspicuous is' remembered.

"The Mexican is a stranger and even when he forms a third of the population he is still a stranger and when a string of Goncias, Sanchez, Ramirez, Benavides parade before you day in and day out the Jones and the Blacks and the Smiths and the Johnsons are apt to fade from your memory and the Brown skinned Mexican with his dumb and speechless stolidity is apt to linger for a long time and give you a conviction that you have been doing nothing but trying Mexican cases."

NATIVE AMERICANS RESPONSIBLE FOR CRIME

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (US)—The Wickersham commission in its final report to President Hoover today found that Americans and not aliens are responsible for the crime in the United States.

The report is on "crime and the foreign born." As in previous reports, the commission said its investigation is incomplete and urged President Hoover to have the study continued so as to determine the crime incidence among Americans born of foreign parentage.

The commission, over the signatures of all 11 members, wrote a brief introduction to the voluminous report of 365 pages. The report proper was written by Miss Edith Abbott, dean of the Graduate School of Social Economics at the University of Chicago. She had as her assistants Miss Alida C. Bowler, of Ohio university; Dr. Jacob Horak, of Helldelberg university, Ohio; Dr. Paul S. Taylor, University of California; Dr. Max S. Handman, University of Texas; Paul Livingstone Warnshius, Presbyterian board of national missions, and Prof. Jesse F. Steiner, Tulane university.

The commission in its foreword said:

"The conclusions reached from the statiscal studies are that in proportion to their respective numbers the foreign born commit fewer crimes than the native born; that the foreign born approach the record of the native born most closely in the crimes of violence, and that in crimes for personal gain the native born greatly exceeds the foreign.

While the commission absolved the foreign born or alien, it said that the children of aliens might be at fault for the general assumption that "foreigners are criminals," and thus urged that an inquiry be made along these lines.

In conclusion the commission said "there was always present a temptation to rally public opinion around the cry of 'America for Americans,'" and added:

"At various points in our history this impulse has become especially acute and had important political and economic consequences. But, in the historical perspective of this impulse, it is interesting to note that each time the out cry is raised, the 'Americans,' for whom 'America' is to be reserved, include the descendants of a former generation of immigrants against whom the same outcry was earlier raised as a basis of discrimination or exclusion.

"Each generation of immigrants has had to be freshmen in the college of American citizenship. As they have advanced to the dignity of juniors and seniors, they, in their turn, have had the common disposition to regard the freshmen of their day as peculiarly unpromising, if not dangerous, college material.

"This commission is inclined to the belief that the future immigration policy of the United States can safely be determined on general economic and social grounds and that the difficulty of the problem of maintaining the social order, by inculcating a spirit of law observance and establishing an efficient system of law enforcement for those who will not observe, certainly has not been increased disproportionately by the conduct of the foreign born."

Women of Southwest Interested in Flying

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 23. (UP)—Feminine interest in flying is increasing rapidly in the Southwest, according to Miss Jean LaRene, district governor of the Ninety-nine Club, women pilots' organization.

Those in the section with licenses include: Miss Frances Woods, Altus, Okla.; Miss Edwina McConnell, Fort Worth; Miss Ilia Cosby, St. Louis; Miss Gerry Honomichl, Tulsa; Mrs. Edith McKanna, Wichita Fallas; Miss Mary Elizabeth Owens, Fort Worth; Mrs. Jimmie Kolp, Electra; Mrs. Debie Stanford, Houston; Miss Dorothy A. Lyon, Kansas City; Mrs. Ruth Stewart, St. Louis; Miss Josephine Woods, Altus.

Jap Police Order Longer Skirts for Waitresses

MISHIMA, Japan, Aug. 23. (UP)—Police inspected the legs of more than 150 waitresses of this city and decided that knees must be covered. An order was published that girls must wear skirts at least four inches below the knee cap.

In line with the tendency of Japan to go Occidental waitresses in all so-called "foreign-style" eating and drinking places were dressed some years ago in a Japanese conception of a French maid's uniform with a tiny skirt exposing the crooked legs of the girls. Nearly all Japanese women have bad legs because of their habit of sitting on the floor.

Illinois Auto Plates Use College Colors

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 23. (UP)—Illinois auto license plates have gone collegiate. The 1932 plates will have the same color scheme as that of the University of Illinois—orange and blue.

Numerals on the new plates will be orange, while the background will be king's blue.

Secretary of State W. J. Stratton has placed an order for 1,400,000 passenger vehicle plates for early delivery.

LINDYS REACH NEMURO, JAPAN

Flying Vacationists Finally Complete Hop

NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 24. (AP)—(Monday)—The flying vacationists, Charles and Anne Lindbergh, landed here today at 7:51 a. m. (4:51 p. m. C. S. T. Sunday) after a flight of 50 miles from Kunashiri island.

With their landing in the bay here today the famous Americans completed a flight they started last Wednesday at Petropavolvsk, Siberia. Motor trouble and fog caused them to make several landings in the Kuriles, a chain of islands extending northward from Japan proper.

Poor weather prevails over the Kuriles an average of seven out of each 10 days during the year.

While they were bringing their plane down, the Lindberghs messaged:

"We have been deeply impressed with the sympathy and assistance of the Japanese people, especially the citizens of Nemuro, since our departure from Petropavlovsk. We express our hearty thanks from the air."

Two Killed, Five Hurt in Crash

HOUSTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—Two men were dead and five others injured, one critically, as the result of an automobile accident late Saturday night on the Market street road at the Wooster schoolhouse.

Phillip Miller, 40, of Baytown, was killed outright.

William J. Magness, 25, of Goose Creek, who was riding in the same car, died at the Baytown hospital at 8:30 a. m. Sunday from injuries caused by the crash.

H. G. Kanderli, 27, Sunday still was in a serious condition at the Baytown hospital as a result of injuries to his spine.

The men were employes of the Humble Oil and Refining company.

New Mexico Jails Lack Prohibition Prisoners

SANTA FE, N. M., Aug. 23. (UP)—Prohibition evidently must be observed in New Mexico, for there were no prisoners serving sentences in the New Mexico state penitentiary during the 19th fiscal year on charges of possession and sale of intoxicating liquors.

The report of the state prison board for the last fiscal year shows that more than 500 prisoners were sent up for 39 crimes, but possession and sale of intoxicating liquors was not listed among the charges.

At the last session of the legislature, bills were introduced to permit the state to go into the liquor business by selling liquor at regular state owned dispensaries. The bill failed of passage, however.

LOAN COMMITTEE DISBANDS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (US)—The national advisory loan committee, which Secretary of Agriculture Hyde appointed last spring to supervise the loaning of federal funds to agricultural credit corporations and livestock loan companies, has disbanded, it was announced today.

center at Legion, the organization's legislative program and the service department. He said the Legion would complete the fiscal year with a surplus of about $15,000. All the legislative program was enacted, including provision for child welfare work.

Chaplain J. K. Ridgway of Kerrville reported briefly on work of the child health center. Brennan recommended that the work be carried on by the Legion itself and not in cooperation with the Women's Auxiliary as formerly.

A heavy increase in demands on his department as a result of the business depression was described by W. S. Goode of Austin, service officer. He said claims had increased 300 per cent, or from 350 at the first of the year to 2,000 at present. Brennan recommended continuation of the service with appropriations from the general fund to support it.

A committee was appointed to consider a uniform for members, and one of blue serge was demonstrated. E. D. Cox of Austin, past commander, suggested that the uniforms, whether wool or cotton, be bought in Texas.

La Society des 40 Hommes et 8 Cheveaux adopted a resolution criticizing reference to the adjusted compensation granted former service men by the last congress as a bonus.

Social Service Workers Condemn Baby Parades

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23. (UP)—At a time when hundreds of persons are preparing to stage annual "baby parades" at various seaside resorts, social service workers of the city have announced that such exhibitions are detrimental to the children who participate.

Walking for a long distance under the broiling sun, exposed to contagious diseases, with the nervout strain that is bound to come to young children from the excitement, say social service experts, make such parades extremely dangerous and harmful to the children.

General Grant's Walnut Tree to Be Exhibited

BERLIN, Ill., Aug. 23. (UP)—The historic walnut tree here which sheltered General Ulysses S. Grant after his march from Riddle Hill, has been sold and will be moved to Chicago for exhibition at the World's Fair in 1933.

The Danville Walnut Lumber company purchased the tree recently for $650. It will be cut into sections, moved to the exposition grounds and set up as the model walnut tree of the United States. It is estimated the walnut tree is 400 years old.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

A Madison, Conn., woman is authority for the statement that the Vatican has more than 11,000 rooms. It sounds like a staggering number but the size of the building was not the thing that struck us. We were merely thankful that we did not have to sweep and clean the rooms.

We have heard the relative virtues of apartments and houses discussed in the past year. With all the comfort one may have in an apartment, we are for the place where one may have a little bit of earth to call her own.

People remind us of how much less work there is to do in an apartment, but we doubt it. If the apartment is large, there's quite as much (except for the yard) as in a cottage and if the apartment is small, one must be so particular about putting away in its distinct place every little article. And even then, if there are men in the family, they stumble over the furniture.

Of course every person has a right to think as he likes on the subject. Each person is a critic at heart, anyway, though they may criticize quite different things.

Two people can never see exactly alike. If you would feel and think just as we do, you would have to have the same brain, the same heart and spirit and body. And if every one in the world were just the same, it would be a dull place to live.

So far as that goes, we do not fancy it would be pleasant to live with someone who said yes every time we said it. Who wants to be agreed with when they know they are in the wrong?

We know one woman who always agrees with the person to whom she's talking. And if you should chance to ask her a question which she could not answer, then remember the answer yourself, she will remark, "Well I just started to say—" whatever you have said.

But back to apartments and cottages, from which we wandered. One of the healthiest exercises we know for one who is not permanently disabled is working with dirt.

We hold that it is better to have a garden that gets yellow and full of weeds in August rather than to have no garden at all. No one else ever has such tomatoes and beans and radishes and peas as you may gather in your own garden.

And no one else can give you the thrill with flowers that you may find in your first rose bud or tiny plants creeping out of the earth where they slept through the winter.

People cannot always manage things as they wish. We live in an apartment, but oh give us a little house and yard every time.

Favorite Recipes Of Wichita Women

Even in a country where one does not see many cherries growing, the flavor of fresh cherries will be tasted in the recipe mailed by a Wichita Falls housewife who keeps her identity secret. We tried the recipe; delicious.

Cherry Ice

Press three fourths of the cherries and the juice from a number two can of red pitted cherries through a sieve. Boil three fourths cup sugar, one and one half cups of water and three tablespoons of corn sirup until it threads, then pour over one stiffly beaten egg white. Add three tablespoons of lemon juice and two tablespoons maraschino cherry juice and the crushed cherries. Freeze. This recipe serves eight with bountiful portions.

Mrs. J. O. Ammann has the following recipe which was given her by a prominent officer's wife in Washington. It has been pronounced most delicious by everyone who has tasted it.

Marshmallow Dressing

Cut 20 marshmallows in small pieces and chop one cup of pecans and one cup of raisins. Take the yolks of four eggs, four teaspoons of vinegar, a pinch of salt and one of mustard; beat well and put in double boiler and cook to the consistency of light custard. Just before removing from the fire, stir in the marshmallows, raisins and nuts and let stand until ready to serve. Whip one half pint of double cream and fold in the dressing at the last moment before using. Particularly good on frozen fruit salad.

FETE TO OPEN NEW FREE SPAN

Gainesville to Celebrate Bridge Completion

GAINESVILLE, Texas, Aug. 23. (AP)—The last of three new free bridges over the Red river, constructed jointly by the state highway commissions of Texas and Oklahoma, is expected to be opened Sept. 1, and a celebration officially opening the structure will be held in Gainesville on Monday, Sept. 7, Labor day.

Committees are now at work on plans for the celebration, which were outlined at a recent meeting of committees from chambers of commerce in Fort Worth, Denton, Ardmore and Gainesville, held in this city.

The program will include brief ceremonies at the bridge, marked by the cutting of a ribbon formally opening the bridge to public travel, a parade through the streets of Gainesville, and addresses by prominent Texas and Oklahoma citizens on the courthouse square.

Opening of the bridge was made possible through the action of Gainesville business men and County Commissioner Dave Cox, in whose precinct the bridge is located. Possibility of a delay until next year in the opening of the bridge was seen when the state highway commission moved to advertise for bids on construction of 4.4 miles of state highway No. 40 over a new route, which would have required an underpass under a railroad and building of a road across fields.

Gainesville citizens subscribed sufficient money to secure a 100-foot right-of-way across a ranch to provide a detour road connecting the bridge with the present highway No. 40, and Commissioner Cox laid out the road and as a result of a conference at Austin with the highway commission was promised aid from the state in graveling the detour. This work is in progress, and W. R. Ely, chairman of the highway commission, has assured the local celebration committee that the bridge would be open and the detour road in good condition before the celebration date.

Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma threatened to destroy the approach to the toll bridge which parallels the free bridge, north of Gainesville, but deferred action upon learning at that time that no approach to the free bridge had been built on the Texas side of the stream, leaving the bridge without an outlet into Texas.

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas has 495,490 farms, 301,535 of 60.9 per cent of which are operated by tenants, according to the 930 census. Only in the South are states with more than 50 per ent tenantry totals and Texas tands eighth among them, Mississippi leading with 72.1 per cent. Tenantry is steadily increasing hroughout the United States, but not proportionately with Texas or the South. In 1880, a half century ago, the Texas percentage was 37.6 or 33.3 per cent less than present conditions. The persistence of the increase is shown by the figures—31.9 in 1890, 49.7 in 1900, 52.6 in 1920.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

And what a contribution to the olution of unemployment problems and business betterment highway building is making! . . . Tarrant county is bring toward a close its $8,000,000 highway program, now two-thirds completed and getting more miles of road than it expected. One of its completed projects is widening of the Fort Worth-Dallas highway, which now from Fort Worth to the Dallas county line is wide enough to carry four lines of vehicles. The Dallas end of the route furnishes the "bottle neck" for the heaviest-traveled stretch of road in the Southwest, with no early prospect of improvement. . . . Down in South Texas Houston county's $1,450,000 road program is going ahead, including 65 miles of concrete, 58 miles of all-weather gravel and 18 miles of topped gravel roads with $323,000 being spent on laterals. . . . Fort Bend is concreting the highway from Rosenburg north to Walker county and south to Brazoria with around $1,000,000 available from district, state and federal funds. . . . Improvements on U. S. 66 in New Mexico are increasing travel on that transcontinental thoroughfare. . . . Maintenance allottments to the 18 divisions totaling $7,997,225 were made at the September meeting of the Texas highway commission. Notable is the building of new under and over-passes in place of grade crossings. Award of $60,000 to Potter county for an underpass, $12,500 for Callahan county west of Baird, $7,500 for half of one in Henderson near Athens, and beginning negotiations for an underpass at the Missouri Pacific crossing in Freeport were among the new projects undertaken. Plans for paving No. 64 from Wills Point to Canton were ordered prepared, completion of Refugio county's system with $389,000 available and for No. 117 from Panhandle to the Carson county line were other new construction preliminary orders.

DOLL AND DOG PARADE

Selfish Politics

NOTHING could better illustrate the attitude of the hard-boiled politician than John F. Curry's plaintive remark that Tammany hall is being persecuted by designing New York Republicans.

Naturally, the Republican party leaders in New York are undoubtedly delighted at the sorry mess that the Seabury committee has uncovered in New York City. It will all make fine fuel for the next campaign. They would not be human if they weren't pleased at the turn things have taken.

But Mr. Curry's complaint that Tammany is being "crucified" is something else again. The remark would be laughable if it had not been made in all seriousness. As it is, it provides us with a beautiful cross-section of the mind of a political boss.

Consider the situation in New York. Seabury's investigators brought to light crookedness on the police force, crookedness in the courts, crookedness on city contracts, crookedness in branch after branch of the city government—the revelations have been as shocking as anything in the history of American municipal government.

Obviously, Tammany hall, dominant in New York City, must bear the responsibility. But what does the head of Tammany say about it all? Tammany is being persecuted!

Back of this complaint, of course, there is the viewpoint of selfish politics at its worst; the viewpoint which places loyalty to party far above loyalty to city or state; the viewpoint from which duty to the party seems far more important than duty to one's community; the viewpoint from which a fight for decent government can be interpreted only in terms of partisan enmity.

That viewpoint, unfortunately, is not confined to Tammany. It exists, in greater or lesser degree, in every active political organization. It is, more than anything else, the one great obstacle to good government in the United States today.

Bombing No Snap

APPARENTLY sinking a ship at sea by means of bombs dropped from an airplane is not quite so simple a process as some aviation enthusiasts have tried to make us believe.

The army recently sent a squadron of bombers out to sink the hulk of an obsolete steamship off the Virginia capes. The bombers tried twice. The first time they went astray in the fog; the second time they rained bombs all around the ship, but it refused to sink. In the end the coast guards had to demolish it with shells to keep it from becoming a menace to navigation.

This tends to bear out the navy's claim that aerial coast defense work is a job for the navy rather than for the army. Bombing a ship, evidently, is a job that takes a good deal of practice. It can be done, as previous experiments have shown, but it isn't as simple a task as it might be.

Noble Possibility

PRIME MINISTER RAMSAY MacDONALD of England is determined to balance the British budget for the coming year. To do it, he proposes to reduce expenditures rather than to increase taxes—which, considering the load the British taxpayer bears, is fair enough—and it is his hope that no less than $500,000,000 can be lopped from the proposed expenditures.

A half-billion-dollar reduction is a big one; and how any government is to accomplish it is a puzzling question. Obviously, the easiest way to do it is to cut military expenses; and since other nations besides Britain are looking for ways of reducing expenses, the pending armament limitation conference ought to start with an excellent chance of success.

More Food for Russians

NO LONGER are Russian workers to be put on limited rations so that Russian wheat can be sent overseas to finance Russia's purchases of machinery and manufactured articles. Stalin reverses his old policy, and hereafter Russia will have more to eat—at the expense of her export trade.

There ought to be, in this, a ray of hope for the American wheat producer. If the greater part of Russia's cheap wheat is removed from the world market, farmers in sinful capitalistic lands should find it a little bit easier to get customers. Stalin's decision to feed to folks at home before selling to the neighbors may well mean a brighter sky for the harassed producer in Kansas and the Dakotas.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Talk about things that burn you up and knock you cold! . . . Hmmm . . . Nice people some people . . . I mean those people who devoted several columns of their newspaper to that touching story about the family that was dispossessed the other day . . . It was such a sad story without all the trimmings . . . The father was once in the coin . . . So much so—that he built a fine home for his tribe . . . Then things exploded . . . The market went fooofff—and the job went boffo . . . and to make things easier—along came infantile paralysis for the children . . . So the father had to take a mortgage on the home . . . And because he couldn't pay it when it was due or something—the landlord tossed the entire family out with their furnishings, including the stricken child's sickbed . . . So the newspaper yelled "Murder!" and made the landlord take the tribe back . . . For a few days, anyhow . . . Then when no one was looking the landlord tossed them out again . . . A very miserable story, and all that sort of thing . . . But another family, who never prospered, were ejected from a less fashionable apartment a few days later . . . But the newspaper that got so indignant earlier in the week ignored this story . . . Why not? . . . What! . . . And embarrass themselves? . . . The newspaper happens to be the landlord!

I certainly do not envy speakeasy impresarios . . . No, not even the ones who are enticing the biggest audiences . . . What a pasting they take every week or month . . . From the revenuers . . . And what a racket those babies have! . . . Oh, boy! . . . That was no gag that one about the agent who retired last week after saving $180,000 in a season . . . The less shrewd agents cannot fail to pocket $1,000 a week—considering that there are at least 10 speakies on nearly every street . . . What's a "C" note to an illegalad who wants to stall off a pinch? . . . He knows he isn't immune from a closing because he pays an agent some sugar, but he can "straighten matters" for a while and clean up while the cleaning up is good . . . In fewer words the revenue men are appropriately named, but what an amazing amount of revenue they exact! . . . Surely the government higher-ups know that their representatives are merely partners of the sin-spot owners? . . . The only guy who didn't cash in, perhaps, was Volstead himself . . . The big silly . . . He could be so rich by now . . . That William Rhinelander Stewart fellow keeps young . . . I mean, I imagine he does, considering that he knew a good-looker when the first Ziegfeld "Follies" opened—in 1907, and that he is still stage-ador-ing them.

The power of the press is amazing, at times . . . For many years Heywood Broun has been so indifferent to the comments about his baggy trousers . . . It gave him character, he used to say . . . Not until he appeared in a show on Broadway, however, did the clown comments of the reviewers get on his nerves . . . So yesterday he purchased his first pair of galluses . . . It is something to cheer about, though, when you consider what he has done for 125 actors . . . He organized a show and relieved unemployment a great deal . . . And he pays the chorus of men and women $40 per week instead of $35—which Equity rules . . . Funny about Tunney . . . He doesn't like likker, yet he is one of the enthusiastic members of the "Crusaders," the new anti-prohibition organization . . . That street scene in Harlem the other 2 o'clock in the yawning still grips me . . . When a sepia beats his woman in full view of passers-by—there is no interference . . . How that blackbird tossed that brownskin around! . . . And the huge crowd that witnessed the proceedings gave him a mess of elbow room, too, standing back at least half a block . . . Then when he wearied of slugging his frail phrail, he picked her up, tossed her over his shoulder and carried her off in the cave-man routine . . . Love is a beautiful thing.

This time last year the show season had begun . . . Tickled silly it is tardy, if they asked me . . . Sitting through the bad plays in this sticky spell isn't worth the cash you get for it . . . But the forthcoming entries are not coming in with sugary reports . . . Merely "fair," you hear everywhere . . . You can't figure the shows from the suburban reports, though . . . Not any more . . . "Band Wagon" came in buried under wow notices . . . And, while it is among the hits, you encounter citizens who wonder what all the yelling was for . . . The "Follies" drew the heaviest handicap of any show in years when it was in Pittsburgh . . . It was hammered mercilessly . . . But it is attracting $50,000 a week and is something to enjoy . . . They couldn't get me to see "Scandals" and "Vanities" at the shore Monday . . . Why see a show that went away to polish up its rough edges? . . . That's why we have "outta towns"—so shows can try their wings! . . . They can't rap "Scandals" to me—not with that grand score, which the creators piano'd for me in their studio . . . Yet, no one who heard it mentioned one of its grandest ditties—"If I Thought I Could Live Without You—I'd Die" . . . "The Rosary" isn't lovelier.

Wonder what's going to happen to May, that affable, red-headed waitress in that 47th street and 7th avenue restaurant that closed the other night after all those years! . . . May knew everybody and everybody liked May . . . Paid many a check for a hungry actor, May did . . . She knew how you liked your java or your ham 'n' eggs . . . And she can swap wiseys with the swiftest thinkers, too . . . Maybe some other beanery around there will beg her to work for it . . . Five dollars will get anybody a trip around the world that she can draw more customers to any restaurant than Rudy Valee! . . . May remembers me from away back . . . She gave the nickel-tipper the same service as the two-bit boy . . . I certainly hope May doesn't get a sour break after struggling that way for so long . . . And if she does, and she hasn't gone tall millinery on me, I wish she'd gimme a ring . . . Because I could get her a job in a restaurant Just Like That!

Wish I could get up enough courage to ride in a plane . . . The trains are so stuffy and the cinders get in your hair . . . Nearly every one I know rides in the air . . . Perhaps it isn't so terrible at that . . . Never thought I could get up enough "Moxie" to step on an accelerator . . . And now wheeee! . . . I don't think I'm afraid of anything that might happen in a plane—it's what might happen to Walda and Gloria . . . They love me so . . . There's nothing so heart-achey as seeing the corners of a child's mouth droop—just before the lovable things begins to cry . . . I mean little baby girls when they are 4 . . . They smell good, too . . . There ought to be a law prohibiting fathers of 4-year-old girls from biting them so hard . . . Wonder why it is that whenever you are in haste your shoe-lace always breaks? . . . A thing like that can keep me awake half the night . . . Or I could worry about something just as unimportant—such as a contributed "Things I Never Knew Till Now" item—to-wit: "U. S. railroads spend $7,000,000 a year blowing whistles" Worse yet is trying to remember why you dislike a feller you haven't talked to in years . . . On Broadway you fight so many people you can't keep up with the reasons.

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

WHERE SHIPS CROSS MOUNTAINS—The Oberlaendischo (highland) canal in East Prussia is noted for its extreme beauty, technicality, and uniqueness, even for a land with as many waterways as Germany. But it is best characterized by the fact that its ships actually ride over mountains. A chain of East Prussian lakes are joined by a 125-mile canal, built in sections, and divided by a series of hills. Transportation of the boats over the hills is accomplished by means of heavy railroad trucks on wide guage tracks, drawn by huge cables.

HARRY C. MORSE CAUGHT A LARGE TROUT ON HIS NOSE—Mr. Morse, now owner and manager of a Penn Yan, N. Y. theater, was 7 years old on Aug. 27, 1873. His mother, to celebrate the anniversary, took him for a rowboat ride on Lake Keuka—which ride almost cost young Morse his nose. Leaning far over the side of the rowboat he suddenly jumped back with a scream, attracting his mother's attention to his badly lacerated nose and the floundering trout simultaneously. The trout, which weighed eight pounds, had jumped out of the water, bitten the child's nose and held on to it with such tenacity that it was pulled into the boat.

"MARY FAITH" by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Mary Faith, comely, young orphan, is secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy business man. She gives up her position to marry Kimberly Farrell, shiftless, young lawyer. Mary Faith believes that loving a man hard enough will make everything come out all right in the end. It was this confidence that enabled her to marry Kim after he had once broken their engagement. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his jazzy friends, Clair and Jack Maidon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blond secretary. That night, he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving. Mary Faith, heartbroken at this turn of affairs, decides not to tell Kim of her coming motherhood. She and Mrs. Farrell decide to struggle to keep the home for the coming baby. Mary Faith obtains a position as typist. She refuses to accede to Kim's request for a divorce and asks him to wait six months before carrying out his desire.

As the bells are ringing in the New Year, Mary Faith's son is born. Kim, informed of this event, returns home and becomes, for a time, a proud and happy father.

Kim is restored to his old position which he had lost due to money irregularities. When his salary is increased, Mary Faith tells him to buy new clothes.

Mary Faith sees Kim walking with a girl from the neighborhood library. She accuses him of being a fast worker.

Clair Maidon tells Mary Faith that she should step out and be gay if she wants to hold Kim's affections. Kim again begins his visits to the Maidon flat.

Kim returns late one night, wet and ill. Mary Faith realizes he has been on a wild party.

CHAPTER XXXI

Two nights later Kim telephoned at 5 o'clock to say that he wouldn't be home for dinner. Some men he knew had asked him to go with them to a clam bake at the Shore club, he explained.

"No women present," he added, with a laugh.

"In that case, your jealous wife will let you go," Mary Faith answered him cheerfully. "Have a good time, Kim."

She was glad that he was going to the Shore club. It was fine for a man to spend an evening with other men occasionally—to get their viewpoint on things.

And the Shore club. It meant something for a man to be invited there. It was a solid sort of institution, where the oldest and best families in the city played golf and danced and gave dinner-parties.

So Mary Faith, who had no social ambitions of her own, was filled with a sense of pride in Kim as she turned away from the telephone that afternoon. He was beginning to know the right sort of people, to go to the right sort of places, to be liked and respected by his business friends.

It was a beautiful afternoon, sunshiny and breezy. Mary Faith put the baby into the perambulator and started off for a walk through the park. The baby, pink and bright eyed from his afternoon nap, sat up again the pillows of his little cart and played with a rubber rabbit that Jean Bartlett had brought him.

It was cool and green under the trees. Mary Faith spread a blanket for him near her favorite bench and sat watching him in great contentment while she darned Kim's socks. By the time she had finished them and put them into her mending bag, it was 6 o'clock and the factory whistles were blowing in the distance.

"Time to start home," she said to the baby. "Time to go home and find the baby's bottle."

Then she decided all at once that she wouldn't go home for dinner. She'd go back to the flat for the bottle and then take the baby to Mrs. Puckett's. It would be nice to show him to her friends.

Mr. McClintock was sitting on the front steps, reading the evening paper, when she came within sight of the old red brick building with its shutters and its bay trees and its starched white curtains. Mrs. Puckett was standing in the doorway behind him and she came hurrying down the steps when she saw Mary Faith. She took the baby out of the perambulator, exclaiming over his adorable littleness and his amazing beauty.

"Look at those eyelashes, Mary Faith! If they ain't yours to a T!" she cried. "And look at his little hands and, his feet—his little velvet feet!"

She horified Mary Faith by giving him a crust of bread to chew on when they all went in to dinner. "Pshaw, he can't eat it, Mary Faith. He hasn't any teeth," she said. And when Mary Faith wouldn't let him have it, she went upstairs and came back with an old-fashioned ivory teething ring.

"There!" she said to him. "That's all your smart young mother will let you have. But your Aunt Puckett is going to make you a little muslin bag full of raisins when you really begin to cut your teeth."

"I brought up my two little sisters after my mother died," she said to Mary Faith, heaping her plate with baked ham and potato salad and fresh tomatoes in aspic jelly. "There ain't much that I don't know about raising babies. . . . Just remember that, in case you ever need any help with this precious mite!"

Mary Faith smiled at her happily. She would never need help with the baby. She was sure of that, she told herself. And not until long afterward did she realize that she had tucked Mrs. Puckett's words into some pigeonhole of her mind that night, to be taken out later and remembered with relief and gratitude.

It was twilight when she started home, and the baby was asleep on his embroidered pillows. By the time she reached the drug store near her own corner, a familiar figure emerged from the doorway—Kim. He stood there for a moment, and then vanished around the corner. But when she reached the corner, he was not in sight. There was no one in sight, and there was no automobile, either. Nothing but a red tail-light that whisked out of sight at the other end of the street a second after she caught sight of it.

"But that must have been Kim," she thought, "and that must have been his car. What on earth was he doing here?"

The wonder of the thing had barely flicked her mind before it was gone. It couldn't have been Kim, she decided. Kim was at the Shore club, 20 miles away. The man she had seen had simply suggested Kim to her because of his height and his white suit.

The flat was dark and silent when she opened the front door. She switched on the lights as she walked in with the sleeping baby in her arms. No, Kim had not been here. There were no cigaret stubs in the ash-trays in the sitting room.

Mary Faith wheeled the baby's bassinet into Mrs. Farrell's bedroom, the largest and coolest room in the flat, and then got into her own bed, taking with her a library book called "A Philosopher Looks at Life."

She took a serious "high-brow" book from the library every now and then. She wanted to know about things—to be able to talk intelligently—to educate herself.

"Kim's college-bred," she had often told herself, "and I'm not. He's a lawyer and he'll keep on going up in the world, and I must keep pace with him. I mustn't let myself turn into a mere housekeeper and mother."

There would come a time, she figured, when Kim and she would have friends who were above the Maidons and their set. And when that time came, she would be ready for it. She would be a wife that any man could be proud of.

Hidden away on the top shelf of the pantry she had a book entitled "Etiquette," and even when she and Kim were alone, she served their simple meals as beautifully as a trained waitress could have served them.

"Some day," she often thought as she went about her work, "the McIntraes are going to ask us to their house for dinner, and we'll have to ask them here. And I'm going to know just how to do everything correctly."

She took exquisite care of herself. She had never let herself grow careless about her appearance as so many young wives do when the babies start coming and the household cares increase. Every night before she went to bed she burnished her dark hair with a hundred strokes of her hair-brush. She carefully manicured her nails, and she always saw to it that her clothes were spotless.

She was propped up among the snowy pillows of the bed, deep in the second chapter of her book, when she heard Kim unlock the front door of the flat and come down the little hallway to the bedroom.

After a year and eight months of married life, her heart still beat faster at the sound of his footsteps. Lately she never knew what mood he would be in when he stepped into the flat. The night before he had had hardly a word for her, and this morning he had forgotten to kiss her when he left for the office. She had been thinking of it all day, telling herself that doubtless he was

Q.—When playing auction or contract bridge with two packs of cards, where should the pack be placed after it is made up?—M. F.

A.—The still pack is shuffled by the partner of the player who is dealing. He places it at his own right, which is at the left of the next dealer. When he prepares to deal, he lifts the pack and offers it to the player at his right, who cuts the cards.

Q.—What is the approximate average salary of a major league baseball player?—M. T.

A.—The salary of major league baseball players ranges from a few thousand dollars a year to the $25,000 paid Cochrane, Gehrig, Grove, and Earnshaw, and the $80,000 paid Babe Ruth. The average good player receives about $10,000 or $15,000 a year.

Q.—Is the milky way always in the heavens?—N. L.

A. It is. This luminous band completely encircles the earth.

Q.—Why do leaves turn so as to how the under sides before a storm?—R. H. B.

A. Professor Humphreys of the weather bureau says that many plants undergo some changes on the approach of rain. The hanging of the leaves so as to show their under sides, when viewed laterally or at a distance, is owing to changes in the leaf stalk on the absorption of moisture. Similarly all noticeable plant changes on which weather predictions are based, result from variations in humidity, temperature, and sunshine. Plant signs however, are not regarded as reliable guides to coming weather.

Q.—I notice that you say that 2,700 francs, a year's cost of a French soldier, is over $700 in American money. Isn't this a mistake?—W. M.

A.—The franc is stabilized at 3.9 cents. The French soldier, therefore, is an expense of only about $145 to the French government.

Q.—Do the bells in carrillons keep their tone?—T. D.

A.—The Etude says that some of the most perfect chime bells in the world are several hundred years old, and were made in the 17th century by van den Gheyns, Dumery, or Hermony.

Q.—In what state is the longest residence required before a person could be elected governor?—R. S. P.

A.—Louisiana and Maryland require the longest residence—10 years.

Q.—Who started the prison reform movement in the United States?—J. H.

A.—The Prisoners Relief society says that it was started in 1888 by Dr. George H. Sandison, editor of the Christian Herald.

Q.—How far does a fly travel from its breeding place?—R. A. B.

A.—The bureau of entomology says that a house fly will travel a mile or so from its breeding place. If carried by a strong breeze it may travel several miles.

Q.—Who administers the oath of office to the speaker of the house of representatives in congress?—F. M.

A.—It is is usually administered by the oldest member in point of service, called the father of the house.

Q.—Where is the original home of the Moors?—E. C. A.

A.—The name was applied to the people of Morocco. The Arabs conquered the Roman province of Mauretania and converted the inhabitants to Mohammedanism. The race soon became mixed and these people upon invading Spain and Portugal were called Moors. Spanish writers soon applied the term to all the Mohammedans of northern Africa.

Q.—How many golf courses are there in the United States?—L. C.

A.—A survey in November, 1930, showed that some 5,800 golf courses had been built in the United States.

Q.—When will the Hopi snake dance be held this year?—D. T.

A.—The snake dance will take place between the 15th and 25th of August, and the night chant some time during the month. Definite dates have not been set for these famous religious dances of the Hopis and Navajos, two of the most colorful Indian tribes of the Southwest, because the exact dates depend upon lunar conditions satisfactory to the medicine men of the tribes.

Tomatoes and Vitamin C

The tomato was first found and cultivated in South America, but it did not become popular as a food until less than 75 years ago. It was looked upon with suspicion because the plant is a member of the night shade family which, however, includes such widely used plants as the potato and tobacco, which are also natives of America, having never been found elsewhere until America was discovered, when these plants were exported to Europe and Asia. The sale of tobacco is rapidly increasing each year. The potato crop in the United States alone is now valued at nearly $400,000,000. The value of the tomato crop is now second to that of potatoes over all other truck crops, so these three members of the night shade family are doing quite well for themselves and the American farmer.

The tomato has been cultivated from a small, watery, wrinkled fruit into many different sizes and colors. Some of the large "beefsteak" tomatoes measure over 20 inches in circumference. These large tomatoes are used principally for canning, with much tonnage being turned into canned tomato juice.

People are today eating tomatoes because they like them and also drinking the canned juice for the same reason. An increasingly large number of people are also using tomatoes because they have found them to have healthful qualities. Besides containing malic and citric acid the tomato has an abundance of mineral salts, such as potash, lime, magnesium and iron. They are especially rich in the first three important vitamins, A, B and C. The C vitamin, which prevents scurvy, is not destroyed through cooking tomatoes as it is with almost every other food. Tomatoes ripened in the field contain more vitamin C than those raised in hothouses. Many of the tomatoes in the market are picked green and allowed to ripen during shipment. It has been found that this does not interfere with the growth of the vitamins, as they continue to increase until the fruit is thoroughly ripe, whether the ripening takes place in the field or during shipment.

Every one from childhood to old age requires enough foods containing the elusive C vitamin, and there is no more valuable source from which to obtain it than in fresh or canned tomatoes. Pickles and chow-chow which are made from green tomatoes that have not been allowed to ripen do not contain any vitamin C.

Undoubtedly many people are suffering from scurvy in a mild form who could regain their normal health with the addition of plenty of tomatoes to the diet. The adult who is losing weight, is anemic and short of breath may be suffering from scurvy. Sometimes the gums bleed easily and the teeth loosen. The ankles sometimes swell, and one suffering from this disorder will develop large black and blue spots after the most trivial injury.

Scurvy is a disease very hard to diagnose, but the cure is certain if enough vitamin C is introduced into the diet. Those who have any of the symptoms I have named will do well to use plenty of tomatoes now while they are fresh and cheap, and later on the canned tomatoes and juice.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Conserve Your Vitality

Question—I. C. asks: "Following a nervous breakdown eight years ago I acquired intestinal indigestion, causing insomnia and a nervous stomach. Many doctors examined me and objected to my dieting but found nothing wrong with me. One thought I had adhesions and another gall bladder trouble. I was operated on, but my trouble became worse. Finally all foods bothered me. I have tried osteopathic and chiropractic treatments and seem to get some relief from them. I have pains in various parts of my body, and the principal trouble seems to be that any acid fruits or raw foods irritate me and the smooth foods ferment. I am under the care of an osteopath at present. His treatments relieve me, and he suggests a milk diet but hasn't told me how to take it. What would you suggest?"

Answer—I believe that the curative treatments which you are obtaining will be of benefit to you, if you will continue with them. If your doctor does not have a deep-therapy or ultra violet ray lamp, you should take short sun baths at least three times a week. You must do everything in your power to increase your vitality, as many of your symptoms are undoubtedly caused by a weakened nervous structure. Obtain plenty of sleep. Avoid worry or thinking too much about your symptoms. You will naturally have some gas until this condition is cured.

Dietetic Test

Question—The writer says: "One doctor I have been to says I have ulcers of the stomach and another that I have gall bladder trouble. Neither one seems to have benefited me with treatments. I am suffering a lot from indigestion. What do you think would be the cause?"

Answer—It is difficult to differentiate between the symptoms of stomach ulcers and gall bladder trouble without an examination. However, I would suggest that you try the orange juice fast for two or three days. If this burns your stomach, you undoubtedly either have stomach ulcers or an inflamed stomach, and it would be advisable to switch to the milk diet; if this does not agree with you, remove a portion of the cream and use more milk.

Mercurochrome Not Injurious as Tint

Question—Patricia wonders: "Can mercurochrome injure the hair in any way? I find that by brushing my hair lightly over with mercurochrome it gives a lovely reddish tint that is cheap and easy to apply."

Answer — The mercurochrome should not prove injurious to the hair.

Public Market Voted By Wellington Council

Special to The Record News

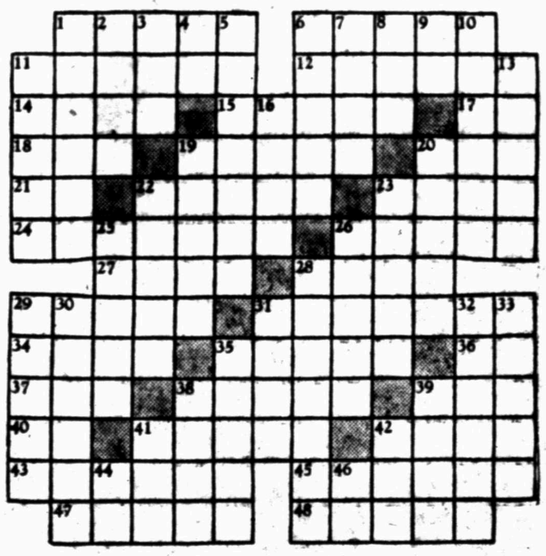

WELLINGTON, Texas, Aug. 23.—Wellington's city council has voted to establish a public market square in this city, adopting an ordinance providing that all produce, garden products, etc., must be sold at the marketing place established for this purpose and cannot be sold elsewhere within the city fire limits, unless such is done by house-to-house sales. The ordinance which becomes effective Sept. 1 was adopted by the council to prevent truck farmers establishing markets in the downtown area.

WINS SALES PRIZE

Special to The Record News

WELLINGTON, Texas, Aug. 23.—Jack Gibson, proprietor of the Magnolia service station in Wellington, has been named winner of the prize offered by the Magnolia Petroleum company to the dealer selling the most lubricating oil in this district during the month of June, according to a recent announcement from the company. During the past five years the Magnolia company has awarded only three prizes to service station managers in the district, all of which have been won by Gibson.

LESTER WHITE BLANKS BUFFS WITH THREE HITS, 2 TO 0

BUCK STANTON NOISY AT BAT

Bud Hungling Stars in Defensive Role

Special to The Record News.

HOUSTON, Aug. 22.—Big Lester White here Sunday afternoon turned in a mound masterpiece, limiting Houston to three hits to blank the league leaders, 2 to 0. White received expert help from Bud Hungling, the massive catcher, who picked two men off first, and caught two other runners trying to steal.

Buck Stanton had a perfect day at bat, with three bingles in three official times at bat.

The Spuds scored one in the first. Gerken was hit by a pitched ball. Allday lined a single to right, Gerken stopping at second. Stanton bunted down both runners. Badgro lined to left, Gerken tallying. Houston threatened in the second. With two down, Sturdy walked, and went to third when Sprinz singled to right center. The Buffs tried a double steal. Bud Hungling faked a throw to second, but tossed to third, and Sturdy was out, catcher to third to catcher.

In Houston's half of the fourth, Smith rolled to first. Selph lined a double over the third baseman's head. Peel rolled to Scharein, and the shortstop tossed to Euller, who tagged out Selph. Euller was spiked on the thigh by Selph, and time out was called. Scharein's throw was low, and Euller bent into the dirt to take the throw. Otherwise he would not have been spiked. After the wound had been dressed, play was resumed, with Medwick flying to left.

Old Bud Hungling picked two runners off first in the fifth. Sturdy fanned. Sprinz walked, and was picked off, Hungling to Stanton. Tom Carey was walked, and was out, catcher to first.

The Spuds scored in the sixth, when Stanton singled to center, was bunted to second by Badgro, and scored on Hunglin's line single to left. Fuss rolled into a double play, short to second to first.

In the eighth Gerken robbed Sturdy, making a neat running catch of the drive to right center. Funk, hitting for Sprinz, singled to center. Sanders, hitting for Carey, popped to second. Myers, batting for Hayne, forced Funk, short to second.

Browns Beat Grove, 1-0, Spoiling His Chance At Hurling Record

COFFMAN TURNS IN SHUTOUT

Champs Win Second Game, 10 to 0

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 23. (AP)—Robert Moses Grove will have to be content with being a joint holder of the American league record for consecutive pitching victories for the present at least, instead of owning the record tonight.

Already a joint holder of the record of 16 straight games, established in 1912 by Smoky Joe Wood of the Boston Red Sox and equalled the same year by Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators, Grove attempted to better it today at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, but ran up against a three-hit pitching performance by Dick Coffman, who shut out the A's, 1 to 0, in the first game of a double-header. The Athletics won the nightcap, 10 to 0, behind Waite Hoyt's airtight hurling.

Grove, as usual, was good today, but Coffman was a little better.

Coffman, in blanking the A's, became the first American league pitcher of the year to accomplish the feat. Scores:

YANKS WIN PAIR

CHICAGO, Aug. 23. (AP)—The largest crowd that ever watched a ball game in Chicago, over 52,000, saw the New York Yankees take both ends of a double header from the White Sox this afternoon, by scores of 10 to 4 and 9 to 1.

The record gathering saw Babe Ruth hit his 36th home run of the season in the first contest to go two up on his team mate, Lou Gehrig, in the race for major league honors. Score:

Rufus King Begins Defense of Grand American Title Today

VANDALIA, Ohio, Aug. 23. (AP)—The thirty-second grand American championship and handicap tournament, known as the "world's series" of trapshooting, will start tomorrow. Approximately 850 have entered.

In 1900 the first grand American handicap at clay targets was held in New York City. R. O. Heikes, then of Dayton, Ohio, won with a score of 91 out of 100 from the 22-yard line. Seventy-four shooters from various parts of the country participated.

Last year 966 shooters, representing every state in the union, the provinces of Canada and the Panama Canal Zone, took part. Rufus A. King Jr., 14-year-old boy from Wichita Falls, Texas, won with a scoer of 97 out of 100 from the 15-yard line.

Reis' El Lagarto Wins Boat Sweepstakes

RED BANK, N. J., Aug. 23. (AP)—In the squall-swept north branch of the Shrewsbury river, George Reis' El Lagarto today succeeded Victory Kleisrath's Hotsy Totsy, winner of the classic gold cup, as national sweepstakes speedboat champion. The Lake George, N. Y., craft won two of the three 15-mile heats and then loafed its way around the six-lap course to finish third in the final heat.

CARDS WHIP BRAVES TWICE

Leaders Take First, 16-1, And Second 1-0

BOSTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—The league-leading Cardinals took a double-header from the Braves today, winning the first game in a rout, 16 to 1, and taking the measure of Ed Brandt, 1 to 0, in the 11-inning nightcap. A crowd of 35,000 saw the games.

Mrs. Moody Wins Tennis Championship

By LEWIS BURTON
Universal Service

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody of Berkeley, Calif., is the womens' tennis champion of the United States for the seventh time. She came by that title again this afternoon with a gallant victory over Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall of England, in two sets, 6-4, 6-1, while 4,000 spectators sat in Forest Hills stadium, astonished at the ease with which she turned back the girl from overseas.

Mrs. Whittingstall, brilliant enough in the preceding two days to defeat both Helen Jacobs and Betty Nuthall, was swept off the court by Mrs. Moody in 34 minutes. For one set as Eileen charged down on the net and forced the Queen Helen of tennis into repeated errors, there was a lingering doubt in the minds of the onlookers as to whether Mrs. Moody would rush past this new foe as easily as she defeated the others.

Briton Takes Lead

The first set lasted 24 minutes, the second only 11. The high spot of the match was reached early as Mrs. Whittingstall won three games in succession to bring the count to 3-all and give Mrs. Moody notice that this was not to be child's play. Mrs. Moody accepted the notification, applied pressure for the remainder of the engagement and demonstrated how one-sided she could make it by limiting the English girl to only 14 points in the second set.

Intolerant of any opposition, Mrs. Moody took the last five games in succession with a smashing attack that sent Mrs. Whittingstall scurrying around the back-court and made her an easy victim for trap shots that barely dropped over the net, and for steaming placements on the opposite side of the court from which Eileen was located.

Mostly, however, it was the compelling influence of Helen's racquet forcing Eileen into error that decided the points.

Helen scored 59 points altogether, and 41 were made on erring shots by her foe from overseas.

Two Ace Shots

It was apparent early that Mrs. Whittingstall would base her attack on a volleying game, but she didn't have the chance to demonstrate until Mrs. Moody had won the first game with the aid of two service aces.

In the second game she commenced coming to the net, but she was plainly nervous and double-faulted twice to give Mrs. Moody a lead of 2-0 in games.

Though she lost the third game, Mrs. Whittingstall's plan of attack began to function then. The game went to deuce twice, but Eileen was still apparently nervous and she was passed three times at the net without so much as raising her racquet in the neighborhood of the ball.

Steadying then, she took three games in succession and squared the count with Mrs. Moody at 3-all. Four successive errors by Mrs. Moody cost her the fourth game at love. In the fifth game, Eileen broke through Mrs. Moody's service for the first time, getting one critical point with a sharply angled volley and taking the game finally by passing Helen as the American girl dared to rush the net for the first time.

Moody Given Battle

In the sixth game the affair took on all the semblance of a contest when Mrs. Moody was on the run, attempting vainly to make recoveries. Eileen won the game at 4-1, finishing it off with a trap shot.

Mrs. Moody's attack became fierce in the seventh game. She smashed over a service ace, forced the English girl to hit the ball into the net with her second serve, walloped a placement for a third, and then blasted another service ace for her fourth point.

It was now Mrs. Moody playing at her best, and for the remainder of the match she kept up that violent and determined pace. The eighth game went with Mrs. Whittingstall's service because Mrs. Moody hit the ball with too much ardor and overdrove the baseline, but the ninth game went to 40-love before Mrs. Whittingstall was conceded a point with a double fault, and Mrs. Moody took it behind her service.

Smashing Game

In the critical 10th game, with Mrs. Whittingstall serving, Mrs. Moody continued smashing at a terrific rate. One of these smashes went by Mrs. Whittingstall for a placement, and four others forced errors.

Tipton Sluggers Win Second From Oilers, 9-5

Special to The Record News.
ELECTRA, Texas, Aug. 23.—The Tipton Sluggers took the second game away from the Oilers, 9 to 5, here today. The Oilers booted the ball all around the lot for 12 errors, while Tipton was collecting 11 hits and 13 stolen bases. Petty was high man for Tipton with three hits out of five trips to the plate. Electra was short their regular catcher until eighth inning, which contributed to the numerous stolen bases. Score:

Indians Win Nightcap in Tenth, 7-6, After Steers Win First Game, 9-4

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 23. (AP)—Fabian Kowalik halted the Steers' attack on Chief Moore and the Indians won the second game of the double-header here this afternoon in the 10th inning, 7 to 6, after Dallas had taken the first game by clouting Hobo Carson for 14 hits, 9 to 4. Carson led the Indian attack with two doubles to drive in two runs while Higgins knocked a home run. Holman got a homer for Dallas in the second game. Kowalik struck out eight Steers.

GROCERS WIN FIRST, 8 TO 7

Teams Tie in Second Tilt of Title Play-Off

By MACK TURNER

Sullivans Grocery evened up the City league playoff series with Bailey-Moline Hardware Sunday afternoon at Katy Park by taking the first game 8 to 7 and tying the second 4 to 4. Sullivans lost the first game of the playoff Saturday to Bailey-Moline.

Handicapped by the one loss, the fighting little Sullivan nine battled from behind in both games, rallying in the closing two innings of the nightcap to earn a tie. Flip Hoskins started on the rubber for the Grocerymen, but gave way to Steve "Iron Man" Franklin, who covered himself in glory by saving the first game and tying the second. After pitching nine innings of baseball in the opening game only the day before, Franklin came back to hurl 9 1-3 innings Sunday.

Lupher Fans 13

Red Nichols started the first game, but gave way to Smokey Lupher, the ace and idol of the Hardware company nine, who finished the first game and hurled the second. In the 9 1-3 innings pitched by Lupher he whiffed 13 men and gave up only six hits, several of which were very scratchy. Wildness proved to be the downfall of both Nichols and Hoskins, while the weather-beaten arm of Iron Man Franklin was very little better off in this respect.

Lois Anderson, the fleet little Sullivan outfielder, proved to be the individual star of the day. Anderson collected two hits in four trips to the plate in each game. He ranged far and wide to pull in 13 chances in the outfield, among them one of the greatest catches of the year off the bat of Hienie Buss in the fifth inning of the first game. Buss was well past second base when Anderson finally camped under his drive to deep left after running with the ball for some distance.

Grocers Take Lead

Daring base running by Moody Eubanks in stealing second and third after reaching first on an infield hit, and a single by Mauldin gave Sullivans a one-run lead in the first inning of the first game.

Mike Smith started the Bailey-Moline second inning with a single over short. Two errors, a walk, a single by Griffin and a fly to the outfield gave Bailey-Moline three runs.

Sullivans took a big lead in the third inning on Nichols' wildness and chased over five runs. A hit batsman and two walks filled the bases with two men out. Nichols hit Anderson, forcing in the first run. Lois Anderson beat out an infield hit for two more runs. Aulcy Thorn then produced the telling blow, a triple to right field, that scored J. Anderson and L. Anderson.

In the fifth inning Jobe opened the round with a single to center and continued on to third when the ball got through Hills, and scored on a fly to center by L. Anderson. A double by Griffin in the sixth, a fly to the outfield and an error gave Bailey-Moline a run. Nichols was chased to the showers in the sixth when a walk, stolen base and a double by Mauldin gave Sullivans their winning margin. Bailey-Moline rallied bravely in the seventh and eighth to overcome the lead, but their three runs made in these two innings fell one short of a tie.

League Meeting Tonight

The league will hold a meeting tonight to settle the date for the final game of the playoff.

"Old Dependable" Mike Smith was the star stickman of the second game, drawing three bases on balls and a single in four trips to the plate. The second game was strictly a pitchers' battle all the way.

Lupher went into the sixth round holding a four to one lead over Sullivans, but weakened in the closing rounds. L. Anderson opened the sixth round with a slow roller toward second which McLarry could not quite reach. Anderson stole second while Mauldin was striking out. Jobe hit to McLarry, who let the ball trickle through his legs and Anderson raced across the plate.

Andy Starts Rally

J. C. Anderson started the last inning rally by beating out a bunt down the first base line. Anderson stole second and continued on to third when O'Neal's throw went into center field. Myers walked and stole second while Thorn was striking out. Franklin flied to deep center and Anderson scored after the catch. Eubanks beat out a slow roller to second and Myers scored with the tying run.

After Lois Anderson had taken long flies off the bats of McLarry and Hills in the last of the seventh, O'Neal walked and Smith singled, but Moody Eubanks came up on his left with Buss' hard smash and forced Smith at second base to end the game. Umpire Vaught then called the game on account of darkness.

U. S. Polo Champions Defeat Argentines

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 23. (AP)—Minus the services of their ten-goal ace, Lewis Lacey, the Argenine polo team from the Hurlingham club of Buenos Aires, was no match whatever today for the Hurricanes, open champions of the United States.

With Stephen (Laddie) Sanford, at No. 1, playing one of the most spectacular games of his career in front of the sharpshooting high-goal stars, Winston Guest and Capt. "Pat" Roark, the Hurricanes put the South Americans to rout. The final score was 18 to 4. The open champions outscored their opponents in every period.

Sanford contributed eight goals to the free-scoring party put on for the benefit of about 2,500 spectators.

HALL GIVES UNION SERMON

1,000 Attend Services on Auditorium Lawn

"Since Jesus Christ Himself declared that 'no man cometh to the Father save by Me,' the choice of a life-pathway is clearly marked for those who sincerely desire to guid their lives to the highest possible destination," declared Dr. Gaines F Hall, pastor of the First Southern Presbyterian church, before about 1000 persons assembled on the west lawn of the Memorial auditorium Sunday night for the fourth union service of local Protestant congregations.

Dr. Hall's address stressed the importance of a right choice in determining the course which an individual will travel, and the ultimate goal to which he will attain. He chose for his text the following words from Moses, given to the Israelites just before the lawgiver's surrender of command:

Farewell Message

"I call Heaven and earth to record against for this day, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: choose life that thou and thy seed may live."

"This was Moses' farewell message to his people," Dr. Hall continued. "A farewell message is one that most likely will linger longest in the hearer's mind and heart. It is significant that such a message comes from the lips of one of the greatest men of all time. As a statesman he planned and guided the affairs of a great nation on the march, living in camps. As a lawgiver, he gave to the world the foundation of all law. As a general he was leading and directing a vast horde of men, women and children, under most adverse circumstances. And in the shadow of death, he charges that 'they choose life, that they and their seed may live.'"

The fact of existence imposes upon every man the necessity for choosing a course, the speaker said. "All of us are travelers upon roadways of time, moving rapidly toward eternity. The sooner a man chooses the right highway, the greater his opportunities to reach his destination before nightfall. If I start to Fort Worth tomorrow morning, the success of my trip will depend largely upon my choice of a roadway leading out of this city.

"The entire trend of my life depends upon the start I make. Lot chose the cities of the plain, and lost all but his life. Judas chose between loyalty and tainted silver, and by his own choice, condemned himself to infamy and a miserable death. Christ chose a declaration of His Messiahship in Jerusalem in preference to flight from His enemies, and by his choice begot salvation for all mankind.

"Upon the Appalachian mountain ridge stands a cabin whose ridgepole divides falling raindrops into two currents, one leading to the Gulf of Mexico, the other to the Atlantic ocean. The destination of each particle of water depends upon which side of the roof it strikes. It is an involuntary choice by inanimate material. The choices we make are volitional, our preparation for them the aspiration and intelligence with which God has equipped us. Yet our beginnings of travel toward vast oceans of destiny are as finely divided as are the waterdrops which fall upon the mountain cabin. 'Choose ye this day whom ye will serve.'

Parents' Teaching

"Wisdom invites you, reason constrains you, God's word urges you to choose today. 'Boast not thyself of tomorrow, for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth.'

"Back of the choice of conduct or vocation made by every boy and girl is the disposition, character or teaching of a parent or a teacher, book or companion. The importance of careful choice of companions and books for our children is obvious.

"Why should a man choose Christ?" the speaker queried. "Because in the life which Christ lived, in the words which He spoke, in the lessons which He taught may be found the bread of life, and the healing waters for all of the sins which so grievously beset us. 'There is no other name by which we shall be saved' except that of Christ the Savior, no other life upon which may be built the fullest pattern of Godward living save that of Jesus the Great Teacher."

Sunday night's service opened with a 30-minute concert given by Leo M. Underwood's band, in which sacred melodies were featured. A singsong of favorite hymns was conducted by R. E. Shepherd, with Mrs. Shepherd, Dr. Hall's sermon was preceded by a duet, "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling," (Wildermere), sung by Mr. and Mrs. Willard Underwood, accompanied by Mrs. Shepherd. J. C. Hunt of the First Presbyterian church was the presiding layman.

The fifth and last union service to be conducted this month under the direction of the Wichita Falls Ministerial Alliance will be held next Sunday night with Rev. W. D. Bratton, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd as the speaker.

Memphis Girl Gets College Instructorship

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 23.—Miss Nelma Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop, received work this week from officials of Texas Woman's college at Fort Worth, to the effect that she had been chosen as a student teacher assistant in the department of history and social science for the coming school session. She held the similar position last year.

Miss Bishop has attended T. W. C. for the past three years and expects to receive her A. B. degree there next spring. She is a member of the Scholarship society and is majoring in Spanish.

MELONS ARE LUSCIOUS

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 23.—Home grown cantaloupes are a thing of the past here but truck loads of luscious watermelons are still brought to town daily. Some of the best melons can be had for 25 cents each. The best melons in this part of the country are grown in the sandy land northwest of this place and along Red river and North Fork.

Last Services Held at Archer City For Mrs. C. M. Gage, Pioneer Woman

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Aug. 23.—Burial services for Mrs. C. M. Gage, pioneer Archer City resident, who died in Dallas Aug. 20, were held here Saturday morning.

Mrs. Gage died at the home of her brother, Norman D. Dycus, whom she was visiting. Funeral services were held in Dallas before the body was forwarded here.

Mrs. Gage came to Archer City with her husband, the late Standish Gage, more than 40 years ago. She was 79 years old. Mr. Gage was a merchant here for many years.

She was a sister of the late Judge Frank E. Dycus of Fort Worth and her nephew, Harrold K. Dycus, is the present county judge of Archer county. She was a philanthropist of note and was a community and church builder. She was on the building committee that erected the First Baptist church of Archer City.

Accompanying the body here from Dallas were Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Dycus, Mrs. Frank E. Dycus of Fort Worth and her nephew, Frank Fisher of Weimer, Texas.

BROTHERHOOD TO AMARILLO

Firemen and Enginemen to Convene Wednesday

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 23. (AP)—The three-day convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Ladies' Society of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona will convene in Amarillo Wednesday.

This city is expecting to entertain 500 or more delegates from these three states, with a smattering from all sections of the nation, during the annual convention. Brotherhood officials announce that it will be the biggest tri-state meeting ever held by the organization.

Mayor Ernest O. Thompson will welcome visitors in behalf of the city, and Congressman Marvin Jones will extend them greetings in behalf of the state.

Speakers during the convention will include F. W. Lewis, vice president of the national organization, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Agnes G. Strong, grand president of the ladies society; A. R. Tillman, Albuquerque, safety supervisor of the Santa Fe; J. B. Briscoe, Amarillo, superintendent of the Santa Fe; O. L. Kinsley, chairman of the legislative board of the brotherhood, and Mrs. Janie Barr, San Antonio, chairman of the executive board of the ladies society.

Five Texas drill teams of 18 women each will compete for honors Thursday night. Teams have entered from El Paso, Wichita Falls, Houston, Fort Worth and Amarillo.

Local groups are offering prizes to the largest visiting delegation, and to the visitor coming the greatest distance.

MARY FAITH

worried about something at the office.

As he came through the doorway now, she smiled up at him and held out a hand. His own fell slackly away from hers as soon as he had touched it. "Still awake?" he asked tonelessly.

"Of course, I'm awake, Kim." She closed her book and laid it on the bedside table. "I want to hear all about the clam bake. I've never been to one, and I've been wondering if they're anything like corn roasts. What do they do? Build big fires on the beach and have supper there?"

Kim turned his back to her and began to take off his necktie.

"Yeah, that's the way they do it," he answered.

He took off his coat and Mary Faith got out of bed to hang it over the back of the chair. Then she took his pajamas from their hook in the clothes closet and handed them to him. She always waited on him as if she were his servant.

"I was sure I saw you tonight," she said presently, by way of making conversation. "I felt lonesome, so I took the baby up to Mrs. Puckett's and had dinner there. On the way home, I was positive that I saw you come out of the drug store."

He swung round then and looked at her. "Oh, you're crazy!" he said roughly. "So that's why you were cross-questioning me about the clam bake? Trying to find out whether I really went to one, or not——"

"Why, Kim, I was not!" Mary Faith's voice was full of indignation. "I thought it was you only for a minute or two . . . And if I asked about the clam bake, it's only because I wanted to know what kind of an evening you'd had. Kim, you know I'm not the kind of woman who suspects her husband of lying and cheating——"

"Well, all right. I'll take your word for it. Right now I'm too tired to do much talking."

He was tired. He staggered like a drunken man as he walked across the room to his bed, and he was sound asleep a moment after his handsome blond head touched the pillow.

THEATER CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

Organization of New Group Planned Here

Definite arrangements for the resumption of local amateur theatricals will be made at a meeting to be held in the ballroom of the Kemp hotel Monday night at 8 o'clock, when organization of the Civic Theater Players will be effected, according to information given The Record News.

Many of those formerly active in productions of the Little theater are to be aligned with the new organization, it was announced, and the production of plays under the direction of J. C. Strauss Jr., is expected to begin in September. Arrangements have been made for the use of the Memorial auditorium for the Civic Theater Players performances, affording the ample seating capacity which amateur dramatic organizations have never had before in this city. It was said that prices will be placed at a level so low as to make this entertainment available to practically the entire population of Wichita Falls.

Selection of plays for the coming season almost has been completed, according to those in charge, and the group will include several of the productions which have enjoyed outstanding popularity in New York during the past three years.

Panhandle Medics Meet at Memphis

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 23.—The Five County Medical society, composed of Hall, Childress, Donley, Collingsworth, and Wheeler counties, held its regular meeting here last Friday. Several druggists from Memphis and other nearby points were in attendance, guests of the doctors. A luncheon was served to 20 members and guests at noon at the Memphis hotel.

An interesting program was rendered. Dr. C. Hyder read a paper on "Heart Disease." "The Relation of the Doctor and Druggist From the Druggist's Standpoint" was the subject of the paper read by F. V. Clark. Dr. P. R. Jeter of Childress read the reply, "The Relation of the Doctor and Druggist From the Doctor's Standpoint." Following the reading of the papers a round table discussion was held.

TAXES REFUNDED

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 23.—Numerous property owners have been getting refunds the past few days on 1930 taxes of the county clerk. The refund amounts to 15 cents per $1,000 valuation, because of an excessive levy made last year.

Montague County Farmers Oppose Woman's Dismissal

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Aug. 23.—Owing to the failure of a large number of taxpayers of Montague county to pay their 1930 taxes, a county retrenchment policy has been decided upon, according to members of the commissioners court. Unless tax collection are improved in the next few weeks it will be necessary to dispense with the services of the home demonstrator, Miss Janie Parks, on Sept. 1, according to officials.

Owing to the excellent work of Miss Parks during the past year, much indignation is being manifested over the county at the action of the commissioners court. Farmers, farm women, women's clubs, civic organizations, business men and other taxpayers have expressed much concern over the matter and have roundly condemned the action of the court, it was learned.

The present campaign of food canning is the direct result of the home demonstrator's work, it is pointed out, and the large number of women's and girls' clubs organized by Miss Parks attest to the thoroughness of her labors, it was said. No one who has in any way cooperated with the home demonstrator has ever sought aid from the county Red Cross or other agencies, it is stated.

Pioneer Woman Dies at Age of 84

Mrs. Francis Bohannon, 84, died early Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. C. O'Neal, 1106 Burnett street, after a lingering illness. The body was forwarded Sunday afternoon by the Merkle Undertaking company to Abilene, Texas, where funeral services will be held Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Bohannon had made her home with her daughter here for the last several years. In addition to Mrs. O'Neal, she is survived by three sister, Mrs. Mary Allison of Okmulgee, Okla., Mrs. H. A. Womack of Floydada, Texas, and Mrs. Orville McMillan of Whitewright, Texas; and three brothers, Lonnie, Matt and Robert Clevenger, all of whom reside in Oklahoma.

Teachers at the schools are Wolf Flat, Mrs. James Hodge, Mrs. Ola Arnold, and Miss Bennie Dell Nichols; Deep Lake, Bryon Todd, Vera Lawerence, Ruba Lee Baker, Mattie Mae McMasters; Gammage, L. D. Reese and Mrs. E. W. Patrick; Indian Creek, Miss Sylvia Atchey, and Miss Ione Webster.

ESTELLINE-HULVER CLASSES TO OPEN

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Texas, Aug. 23.—The Estelline-Hulver consolidated schools will open the fall term on Monday, Sept. 7.

H. J. Jackson is superintendent and is here getting everything in readiness for the opening day.

T. L. McBride, former Lakeview and Newlin coach, has been employed at Estelline and is here getting his men lined up for a week of training before school begins.

R. Loyd Neelley is principal of the school and the following will be on the teaching force: Roy C. Shelton, Joe Allen Ballard, Miss Mary Foreman, Miss Lona Dean, Miss Elizabeth Dial, in the high school department; Mesdames Roy C. Shelton, Daisy Kennedy, H. J. Jackson, L. A. Tucker, R. Loyd Neelley and Miss Lilla Short in the grades. O. W. Marcom is principal of the Hulver school and Mrs. Dewey Britt assistant.

A new gas radiation heating system has been installed in the school here, taking the place of the old stoves.

The trustees announce that they plan to run the school nine full months.

NOCONA SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPT. 7

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Aug. 23.—The Nocona public schools, with W. J. Stone superintendent and assisting faculty of about 18 teachers, including the principal, will open Sept. 7 for the 1931-32 term. It is expected that the enrollment will be about the same as that of past session. More than 600 students listed in the school census, including Barrel Springs school district.

A large bus has been purchased to convey pupils to school here. Two or more other school districts may come into this district in the near future, it is learned. With the addition of these rural districts, Nocona bids fair to soon lead in schools in Montague county.

Nocona ranks second in school buildings, having a high school structure and a large ward building located on south side, then the gymnasium near high school building.

BONITA SCHOOL BUILDS GYMNASIUM

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Aug. 23.—It was recently announced by W. T. Thompson, superintendent of Bonita public schols, that Bonita near here is to have an indoor gymnasium and it is hoped that the structure will be completed by time the coming school year opens.

The gym is to be a spacious enclosure, costing approximately $3,000, and will be a credit to the community. Local citizens are donating the labor on building.

Likeness to Mother Unites Two Children

PITTSBURG, Kan., Aug. 23. (UP)—Mary Alice Chamberlain, 20, freshman at the Kansas State Teachers college, knew that she had some relatives, but she hadn't heard from them since she was adopted out of an orphans' home 11 years ago. And Victor Dawson knew that he had a sister named Mary Alice Chamberlain, but he had no idea where she was.

But while walking down the street here he saw a girl who reminded him of his mother, who had died when he was a child. He looked at the girl and decided she was his sister. Sidewalk introductions proved that he was right.

FARMER HELPS NEEDY

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 23.—J. B. Brock, farmer residing one mile north of the Electra bridge, gave a number of the families whose bread winner has been out of work lately, considerable of a treat Saturday in the way of fresh roasting ears. He disposed of some of the corn to those who could buy and the remainder he gave to heads of families who were unable to buy.

MONTAGUE BOYS WIN AWARDS

Terracing Prize Taken by Young Farmers

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Aug. 23.—Montague county boys were awarded the state championship banner for having done the most terracing during the last year. This is the third time in succession that the boys have led the state in this kind of work, in the banner contest.

This year the 31 Montague county boys amassed a total of more than 993,000 yards of terraces on 69 farms of the county. The nearest competing county's record was more than doubled.

This terracing was done in Sunset, Leona, Ringgold, Stoneburg, Valley View, Prairie Point and Bonita communities, under the supervision of County Agent Jameson, assisted by the cooperation of the following school superintendents: Myers of Sunset, Wilson of Leona, Roach of Stoneburg, Redman of Valley View, George of Ringgold, Frazier of Prairie Point and Thompson of Bonita.

Thieves Raid Home as Family Attends Church

Daylight burglars secured $14 from the home of W. W. Chestone, 103 Oriole street, Sunday morning while members of the family were at church.

After gaining entrance to the house by prying open a screen, the intruders thoroughly ransacked the place, according to the report to police. The money, $9 of which was in pennies, was concealed in a fruit jar in the house. Apparently nothing was taken except the cash, it was said.
