County to seek grant to study nuke dump

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Commissioners made three official appearances Monday, and still managed to conduct a regular meeting of the commissioners court.

Commissioners attended the 11:30 a.m. ceremony which made Hereford an official participant in the state's sesquicentennial celebration next year, then dined as guests of honor at a Friends of the Library luncheon. After lunch, the court toured and approved a new "barn" which provides additional storage for the Deaf Smith County museum.

Regular business included a report from Precinct 3 Commissioner Troy Don Moore about a recently-formed "ad hoc" committee that will pursue a grant from the Department of Energy to study the effects of site characterization in Deaf Smith County.

A site north of Hereford is expected to be nominated later this year for further study by the DOE as a possible location for the nation's first underground repository for high-level nuclear waste. The county recently learned that the Nuclear Waste Policy Act provides for funds to reimburse the community for any expense it might incur as a result of the DOE's activity.

The committee, of which Moore is a member, met May 7 with Steve Frishman of Texas Governor Mark White's Office on Nuclear Waste Programs. Frishman's office receives such a grant and he suggested the county go through his office to apply for its own grant.

Moore suggested, and the court agreed, that the county be the lead agency in pursuing the grant. Plans are to form an intergovernmental cooperative comprised of representatives of the county's taxing entities, which would use the grant to commission an objective study of the effects site characterization would have in the area.

"I sense the urgency of this thing," Moore told commissioners. "We need to get it on a local basis, and we should already have been working on this."

Commissioners also discussed buying a central computer system for the courthouse, which would allow some departments access to Statewide, $109.2 million were returned to 1,003 cities which have the one-cent tax.

Windmill Spill

Weather, and possibly termites, took toll on the county museums's antique windmill Monday afternoon when a gust sent it toppling through a fence and into the parking lot. The mishap occurred shortly after county commissioners had been in the museum yard to tour the new exhibit barn which has just been completed.

'White oil' producers lose bout

AUSTIN (AP) — "White oil" producers have lost an early round of what could be a long bout with Phillips Petroleum Co. and other major companies over oil and gas production in the Texas Panhandle.

The state Railroad Commission voted 3-0 Monday to adopt a staff recommendation that a lawyer for independents said could shut down a large number of oil wells operated by independents.

"Well, it's a defeat. They adopted the examiners' proposed order, which is a defeat for me," said Austin lawyer Ivan Hafley, who represents Panhandle Independent Producers' Group.

Independent producers claim the impact of the commission ruling could ruin the Panhandle economy, a claim Phillips disputes.

The Panhandle Field is the largest gas field in Texas, underlying 1.5 million acres in eight counties — Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, Potter, Carson, Gray, Wheeler and Collingsworth.

Oil and gas reserves are worth an estimated $27 billion, and Phillips and others have been aligned for 3½ years against independents who produce white oil, a water-white liquid produced by chilling vapors to as low as 20 degrees below zero.

The practice was started after a 1977 letter from then-commission legal counsel Fred Young. The staff says the letter "created an ambiguity which has been exploited."

An oil well is defined as a well that produces one or more barrels of oil per 100,000 cubic feet of natural gas.

Phillips alleges that independents achieve this ratio only by using refrigeration units, or "LTX units," to chill gas to a liquid the independents call crude oil.

The commission staff has stated that classifying a well as an oil well has its advantages. For example, an oil well can be drilled on 10 acres, a gas well on 640 acres. The staff also said an oil well's gas production is not as restricted as that of a gas well, and gas from an oil well has priority for sales when gas production is curtailed because of low demand.

Phillips alleges that independents, who own only oil rights in the huge field, are taking away gas Phillips and other major companies eventually would produce.

The independents say Panhandle communities would lose much of their tax base if the white oil wells are plugged, but Phillips contends that allowing those wells to continue to produce will deplete gas reserves faster.

Phillips filed its original complaint in September 1981, and what the commission adopted Monday was a staff-recommended order that defines oil as a liquid in the reservoir.

Hafley argued that white oil was a liquid but vaporized as the pressure in the reservoir dropped.

"You've got to look at what Mother Nature did," he once said. "Mother Nature put them down as oil or Mother Nature put them down as

Firemen suspect arson

Hereford Fire Marshall Jay Spain is investigating a rash of intentionally set fires that began Friday evening and continued through early Sunday morning.

Spain blamed an arsonist for a fire late Friday evening at 437 Ave. E. A vacant house sustained moderate damage after a fire was started in a closet of the house.

Firemen made another run Friday around midnight, to apartments at 428 Long. Spain said a storage building and fence had been doused with charcoal lighter fluid, then set fire. There was minor damage to both.

Around 4:15 a.m. Sunday, volunteers were called to a location four miles east of Hereford on U.S. Highway 60, where a junked car had been set on fire.

Other weekend calls included a kitchen fire, a trash fire, a malfunctioning fire alarm and a fuel spillage washdown.

Every time we hear a disc jockey playing the top 20 tunes, we get the shakes thinking what the bottom 20 must sound like.

We were pleased to hear County Commissioner Troy Don Moore report yesterday on the ad-hoc committee that is being formed to study the possibility of a nuclear waste repository being put in Deaf Smith County.

As Moore stated, "We should have already been working on this." The committee, formed of a representative from each taxing agency in the county, will apply for a grant from the Department of Energy to study the impact of a site characterization.

As we understand it, the committee plans to take a neutral, objective position on the issue. We need a credible group here to talk to DOE, not Austin or Washington politicians who may be more interested in scoring points with voters across the state. We are the ones who will be affected, not Austin.

Members of the ad-hoc committee include Moore, Joe Reinauer, city commission; John Fuston, school district; Frank Zinser, hospital district; and Jim Bob Perrin, Walcott school district.

Bingo prizes doubled

AUSTIN (AP) — Members of a Senate committee, grumbling that charity bingo in Texas has turned into "commercial gambling," have approved a bill that would double daily bingo prize limits to $5,000.

The measure is scheduled for Senate debate within the next two weeks, provided Senate and House sponsors can work out their differences.

The measure was approved 11-0 Monday with the understanding that Sen. Ike Harris, R-Dallas, would try to work out an agreement with Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, and Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-LaMarque, that would keep the measure from going to a Senate-House conference committee.

The bill, a rewritten version of a House-passed measure, would put strict limits on the rents paid to commercial bingo hall operators and the number of games each could hold daily.

Animal wastes floated everywhere

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Wastes and contaminated food from the cages of 24 rats and two monkeys floated as fine powder into the crew quarters of space shuttle Challenger where astronauts breathed "that dust," the commander of the seven-day Spacelab 3 mission said Monday at a news conference.

Astronaut Bob Overmyer said he was concerned about the health effects of the dust, but that none of the seven-man crew has shown symptoms of illness since the mission ended May 6.

The animals were housed in $10 million experimental cages in Spacelab 3, a science module carried into orbit in Challenger's cargo bay. Animals feces and food particles escaped from the cages during the mission and were carried by air currents through a tunnel and into the astronauts' living quarters.

"Any pieces of feces in the cabin where we're eating and living and breathing is bad," said Overmyer. "There was always a cloud of dust particles that had been in intimate contact with the animal wastes and we're breathing that dust."

Halfway House director jailed

SARITA, Texas (AP) — The new director of a shelter for Central Americans has been jailed after a search of her car at a checkpoint revealed a Nicaraguan hiding in the trunk, authorities said.

Lorry Thomas was in the Cameron County jail in Brownsville after she refused a $20,000 unsecured bond Monday on a charge of transporting an illegal alien, her attorney, Lisa Brodyaga, said.

Last month, Ms. Thomas took over as director of Casa Oscar Romero in San Benito after the previous director, Jack Elder, was convicted and sentenced for transporting two Salvadorans.

U.S. Border Patrol sector Chief Sylvestre Reyes said Ms. Thomas, 41, and the Nicaraguan were arrested about midnight Sunday at the checkpoint about 50 miles south of Corpus Christi.

Draft notifies 70-year-old man

CHICAGO (AP) — Paul Marino was so flattered by his notice to register for the draft that he decided to travel from his home in California to a center here to find out what kind of job they might offer a man pushing 70.

"If they'd give me a 69-year-old's job, I might consider that," said Marino, who served in the Army during World War II and spent 25 years with the U.S. Postal Service before retiring seven years ago. "Maybe the mail division" could use him, he said.

Marino flew from his home in Ceres, Calif., to present his notice today at the system's central data office north of Chicago.

Pickens seize still in limbo

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A three-month battle by oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr. to seize control of Unocal Corp. remains in limbo after Pickens won another skirmish in court but failed to gain more time immediately from company shareholders.

In a victory for Pickens, a Wilmington, Del., Chancery Court on Monday issued a preliminary injunction forbidding Unocal from proceeding with an offer to buy back about 29 percent of its stock at above-market prices unless an investor group headed by Pickens is permitted to participate.

Unocal is offering to pay $72 per share, or $3.6 billion, to repurchase 50 million of its shares. The move would benefit shareholders who participate but would burden the company with debt, making it a less attractive takeover target. Unocal wants Pickens excluded from the offer.

Unocal Chairman Fred Hartley said the company will appeal to the Delaware Supreme Court.

Pope heckled in Holland

MAASTRICHT, Netherlands (AP) — Pope John Paul II got an enthusiastic welcome in the Roman Catholic heartland of the Netherlands today, but also was subjected to heckling and obscene gestures en route to the only outdoor Mass of his Dutch tour.

Police said they detained three people "preventively," including one carrying a box of tomatoes he apparently was planning to hurl at the pontiff.

A day after defending in the Protestant north his refusal to let women become priests, John Paul was driven from the Hague to Maastricht, on the southern border with Belgium. Bad weather prevented a planned helicopter trip over the nation's southern farmlands.

gas, and what subsequent phase changes they go through because of pressure reduction doesn't make any difference."

The commission order states that all "oil" wells in the Panhandle Field equipped with an LTX unit must be retested within 75 days of the effective date of the order to see if they meet the gas-oil ratio. Any well not retested will be sealed.

Hafley was asked if some white oil wells might pass the ratio test, and he said, "Oh, some of them might. You can't categorically assume that every well connected to an LTX unit automatically fails the gas-oil ratio and will be plugged."

"I think you can assume that a substantial portion will."

Commission examiner Patrick Thompson said Monday the order does not apply to gas already produced, and such production would not be declared illegal.

Thompson, however, described the Young letter in 1977 as "very dubious support" for white oil production. He said operators should have made a greater effort to get the commission's OK on such production. One independent operator who sought approval, Thompson said, was "informed in no uncertain terms that the practice was prohibited."

Hafley was asked if the commission order would give Phillips "everything it wants," and he replied, "Yes."

Joe Cochran, a Fort Worth lawyer representing Phillips, said, "We are very pleased with the decision. It has been a long haul."

He said the decision was "based on clear law and proven fact."

Asked about the effect on the Panhandle economy, Cochran said, only a couple of hundred out of over 11,000 wells use the LTX units, but Hafley put the figure at "somewhere between 500 and 1,000."

He said he would ask the commission within 15 days to reconsider its decision, and if that fails, he will go to court to overturn the order.

Friona Industries gets bigger buyout offer

Eller Enterprises, Inc. a privately owned affiliate of David G. Eller, has announced that it is increasing to $19 net per share its previously announced cash tender offer for all outstanding common shares of Friona Industries, Inc., and the tender offer is being automatically extended so that it will currently expire at midnight on Wednesday, May 22, 1985.

Eller Enterprises initially commenced its offer to purchase all outstanding common shares of Friona at a price of $17.25 net per share on February 8, 1985, which offer was scheduled to expire on Friday, May 17, 1985. As of May 8, 1985, a total of approximately 6,500 shares have been tendered pursuant to the offer to the depository, Allied Bank of Texas. Eller Enterprises also stated that it has obtained financing arrangements with regard to the financing of its offer so that it currently has the capability of purchasing all outstanding shares at $19 per share.

In February, Friona announced the execution of a series of agreements with CHS and its affiliates including, but not limited to, an Agreement of Merger, all of which were essentially conditioned on the ability of CHS to obtain financing on terms satisfactory to it, sufficient to fund the acquisition of all of Friona's outstanding common shares at $19 per share cash.

CHS Holding, Inc. has still not announced that it has obtained firm financing arrangements and its current bank commitments continue to be non-binding and expire on May 15, 1985.

Other weekend arrests included four for driving while intoxicated, two for driving without a license and two for public intoxication. Police made an arrest for theft of services after a man consumed a $7.54 meal at a local restaurant and had only 18 cents to pay for it with.

Weekend thefts included the burglary of Skeeter's Tire, which resulted in the $1,050 loss of tires, tools and a battery. Joe Smith, 307 Ave. F, told police someone entered his residence Saturday night and swiped his new boots and cowboy hat, several articles of clothing and some groceries.

A local convenience store reported the theft of $205 from a coin-operated game machine, and a local car wash owner said a man did not return a rented chamois when he said he would.

Police also responded to reports of barking dogs, harassment and several juvenile complaints.

Assaulted women complain to Hereford police

Hereford police took reports from six women who said they were assaulted by their husbands over the weekend. Police arrested one of the men and a complaint is expected to be filed in at least one other case.

One of the women was treated at Deaf Smith General Hospital after her husband allegedly attacked her with a pair of scissors and cut her hand. She told police he came home late and wanted her to get up and fix him something to eat. When she refused he grabbed the scissors, the police report said.

Other weekend arrests included four for driving while intoxicated, two for driving without a license and two for public intoxication.

COUNTY

files in other departments. The court heard from County Clerk David Ruland, Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul, Tax Assessor-Collector Nell Miller and District Clerk Lola Fae Veazey, all of whom said it is time for the county to make the switch.

County Auditor Alex Schroeter said a computer would help but reminded commissioners of the importance of finding a supplier who would set up workable programs and train courthouse employees to use them.

Ruland said he and Miller both pay about $5,000 per year to farm part of their work out to a computer service, an expense that would be eliminated by the purchase of a computer system.

Another possible money-saving measure was outlined to the court by Jail Administrator David Castillo, who asked that a full kitchen be installed in the renovated jail.

Castillo presented the court with figures from Potter and Randall counties which showed that preparing fresh food at the jail is much less expensive than serving T.V. dinners. Prisoners at the county jail have been dining on T.V. dinners since former sheriff Travis McPherson convinced commissioners it would eliminate the problems of prisoners' food being tampered with.

County Treasurer Vesta Mae Nunley told the court the packaged dinners have doubled in price since the switch was made at the jail. The prison population has also risen, and Castillo said money saved by cooking becomes more significant with an increase in prisoners.

Castillo asked that gas and electrical hook-ups for a full-service kitchen be installed, and the court could then gradually budget appliances and other items needed to outfit the kitchen. He said trustees could be used to do the cooking.

Commissioner James Voyles told Castillo that the possible saving of several thousand dollars a year for jail food was enough to convince him. Commissioners agreed to install the hookups.

The court set June 10 as the date for a public hearing on the proposed budget for fiscal year 1985-86.

Mrs. Craig Smith was appointed to the county's Child Welfare Board, and Ernest Brown was approved as the Walcott School representative to the Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor,

I am disappointed to see that the new Bag & Save Grocery store here in Hereford is selling wine & beer. It's located right in the front door so everyone that goes there must walk right by it. Up until now none of the grocery stores in Hereford sold liquor, and I'm sorry to see the owners of Bag & Save make the decision to start now.

We already have liquor stores all up and down 25-Mile Ave. and in other parts of town. But a grocery store is a place we take our children, a place we all must go, and I certainly oppose liquor being sold in our grocery stores. I hope the people will not just sit back and let this happen. I encourage those who oppose this to speak up and make their opinion known.

Letter To The Editor:

The faculty, parents and students of St. Anthony's School would like to express our gratitude to the people of Hereford for their community wide support at our annual school carnival.

Our local merchants were so generous in their donations for our auction, and the community's participation was the reason for our carnival success.

The money raised from our carnival goes directly into the funding of our school so our local children may have the opportunity for Christian education.

Thank you again

Ann Landers

Surviving spouse gets it

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just had a painful flashback to my own experience when my husband died. It made me so angry my ulcer is acting up.

When Hugh (not his real name) passed away, his grown sons and grandchildren came to me and said, "We want everything that was Dad's before he married you 10 years ago." Fool that I was, I let them walk out with his jewelry, most of the furniture, valuable art and a load of beautiful silver and china.

Last year my only brother lost his wife to cancer. Her freeloading sisters cleaned out her closets and jewelry box while her husband and daughters were visiting at the hospital. The daughters did not get any of their mother's nice things because there was no will. I was furious when my brother said he was too worn out and heart sick to fight about it.

After church on Sunday, I visited a shut-in whose husband died six weeks ago. She had just gone through a similar experience. His brother and sister showed up, made themselves at home and picked up whatever they wanted.

Ann, what do we owe the blood relatives of a deceased spouse? This is a growing problem especially for stepparents and a second wife or husband of any age.—FEELING MIGHTY LOW IN MISSOURI

DEAR MISSOURI: If a spouse dies and there is no will specifying that certain objects be left to designated individuals, everything belongs to the surviving spouse.

For the umpteenth time, I urge all readers who do not have a will to write one immediately and take it to a lawyer. You can then be sure that everything you own will go to those you want to have it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is suffering from Guillain-Barre Syndrome, a neurological disease that weakens the muscles and in extreme cases can cause severe breathing difficulty, paralysis and even death. Is there a support group for relatives? I am devastated.—L.A. WOMAN

DEAR WOMAN: Yes, there is a support group and there are 18 chapters. Write to Guillain-Barre Syndrome, P.O. Box 262, Wynnewood, Pa. 19096. They will send you literature and the address of the support group nearest you.

Here is a quote from M.F.K. Fisher that may be useful. I love it. "I will not bow. Absolutely not bow. I say, 'Brother pain, come in and sit down. You and I are going to take this thing in hand. And I will not give in.'"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There was a great deal left unsaid in your response to "Heartsick and Confused." I refer to the mother who found birth control pills in her daughter's possession.

I will not argue the morality of premarital sex. I would, however, like to point out that the daughter behaved in a responsible manner. She deserves credit for protecting herself against pregnancy and the pain of choosing between abortion and putting her child up for adoption.

That mother may have been upset when she discovered the girl was sexually active, but she should have been proud that her daughter was sensible enough not to have sex without protection. My daughter wasn't, and she put herself and the whole family through hell, not once, but twice.—STILL HEARTSICK IN OHIO

DEAR OHIO: Your point is well taken. Young women who are sexually active should also be sexually responsible. Thanks for making a point of it.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new life styles? Does anything go? Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. For a copy, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

4H Around the County

By SUSAN RANEY
County Extension Agent

Spring time seems like the perfect time of year for new things. Baby animals are being born on the farms, tulips and iris are in bloom, spring crops are coming up and new clothing is being made by 4-H'ers enrolled in the 4-H clothing project.

This year's enrollment in the 4-H clothing project has doubled, according to Deaf Smith County 4-H Coordinator, Susan Raney. This increase is due mainly to the additional clothing project leaders who are able to take on more and more 4-H'ers who want to learn to sew.

Learning how to make clothing is the main focus of the clothing project, but not the only one. 4-H'ers learn how to shop for fabric and ready-made clothing; how to take proper care of their clothes, how to model, how to accessorize, and most importantly they learn about personal grooming and exercise. All of these factors are related to clothing, states Raney. She adds that if a person doesn't look good on the inside, they won't look good on the outside, therefore, the importance of proper nutrition is also brought into the 4-H clothing projects.

To culminate all of the efforts of the youth enrolled in this year's clothing project, 4-H'ers are invited to participate in a variety of activities. They have already performed several community services such as making miniature pillowcases for the Hereford Day Care Center and making slippers for Senior Citizens. They will also be able to participate in a fashion show for parents on Tuesday, May 14th. At this show, 4-H'ers will be modeling ready-made clothes from a local fashion shop.

In June, all 4-H'ers are invited to enter the County 4-H Fashion and Project Show. At this county competition, 4-H'ers may enter one of four fashion categories: Non-tailored daywear, Tailored daywear, Active Sportswear or Evening/Specialty-wear. Awards will be given to each outstanding junior, intermediate and senior in every category. Other awards will include Best Model, Most Creative, Best Wool entry and Best Cotton entry.

Along with the fashion show will be a project show for youth to enter their handmade crafts in the following categories: fibercraft, woodcraft, leathercraft, latchhook, needlepoint, crochet, knitting, candle wicking and counted-cross stitch.

The 4-H fashion/project show is open to any 4-H member from 8 to 19 regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

For additional information concerning the 4-H Clothing project, fashion shows or project show, contact Susan Raney at the County Extension Office or call 364-3573.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Hypoglycemia misunderstood

Hypoglycemia, or low blood sugar, is a physical disorder that's often mistakenly self-diagnosed as an easy explanation for anxiety, nervousness or lack of energy.

Hypoglycemia is somewhat rare and should be diagnosed by a physician after appropriate blood testing, advises Mary K. Sweeten, a nutritionist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. For those with a diagnosed condition, the doctor will prescribe treatment based on the patient's individual needs.

People who are not hypoglycemic, but complain of the symptoms, may be helped by following a more healthful lifestyle, suggests Sweeten. Skipping meals, not eating a variety of nutritious foods, poor sleep habits, lack of exercise or personal problems and stress may contribute to the problem.

The nutritionist recommends the following to alleviate nutrition-related symptoms:

- Eat nutritious meals and snacks.
- Eat more complex carbohydrate foods, such as whole grain breads and cereals, with fruits and vegetables replacing candy and other sweets.

- Eat several small meals a day.
- Eat more fiber-rich foods.
- Eat slowly.

-Carry a nutritious snack, such as a can of orange juice or crackers and cheese, to eat if symptoms arise when away from home.

In northern England, it was once considered unlucky to leave the house on the first day of the new year until someone else had come in.

Australian swimming star Annette Kellerman became the center of a controversy in 1910 when she wore the first one-piece bathing suit.

Hereford High School sprinter Lisa Redmon just missed out on receiving a medal at the state class 5A girls' track meet in Austin Saturday when she placed fourth in the 100-meter dash.

The top three runners in each event won medals. The 100-meter dash had the top six runners

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T Communications"), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of rates for its services. The new rates will be effective May 14, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the PUC. All customers and classes of customers would be affected by the proposed rates.

AT&T Communications has filed a reprieve of its tariffs designed to more closely recover access and other costs for WATS and 800 Service and all private line services including Channel Services, Foreign Exchange (FX), DATAPHONE® Digital Service, and OCC Facilities.

Also proposed is the institution of a charge for Directory Assistance to begin to recover access costs incurred for such service and increases in rates for operator assisted AT&T Long Distance calls. The initial minute charge for all AT&T Long Distance calls, and additional minute rates for AT&T Long Distance calls 51 miles or less are proposed for increases to reflect the access charges approved by the PUC for such calls.

The proposed new rates for all services would result in an increase in adjusted test period revenues of $139 million or 12.7 percent.

A complete copy of the proposed tariffs are on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Traffic increases during Memorial Day

Memorial Day is the first holiday of the year when Texas highway traffic increases considerably, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Major V.J. Cawthon, Region 5 DPS Commander, cautions motorists of the increased dangers of holiday traffic.

"Memorial Day signals the begining of summer fun and outdoor activities. It also signals the beginning of more traffic on our highways. With increased traffic, the danger of more accidents and more deaths always follows," he said.

Heavy holiday traffic will bring out the best and worst driving habits, Cawthon noted.

Cultural Club meets Friday

Winnie Wiseman read a poem entitled "Just For Today" when members of Cultural Extension Homemaker Club met Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. John Hunter.

Roll call was answered with "my favorite salad" by 13 members present.

Nell Pope, president, presided over the business meeting and read correspondence from Susan Raney, assistant county extension agent, and Louise Walker, county extension agent.

Several articles were turned in to Hunter for the club yearbook and it was announced that Walker is selling spices for the council. She was also taking orders for ginger scissors and several were placed.

Jewell Hargrave introduced Walker who presented a program on "Cooking and Eating Light."

The next meeting was scheduled at noon May 24 at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Microwaves safe to heat any foods

Warnings about the safety of heating baby food and infant formulas in a microwave oven have led to some confusion and unnecessary concern, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutrition specialist.

"Parents see a precautionary statement on the labels of some baby food products and assume it applies to all baby food," says Dr. Alice Hunt. "Others have simply heard second or third hand that microwave cooking is bad for baby foods."

But parents can be assured that microwaves are safe to heat any food, including baby food, she says. "Microwaves simply supply the energy which causes the food molecules to vibrate and causes the food to become warm."

Hunt notes that the problem, if there is one, arises from the speed and unevenness with which microwaves heat food, causing splattering and hot spots.

Baby food products which cause the most concern are dense, high protein products like plain meats and poultry, high meat dinners, egg yolks and meat and poultry sticks, says the specialist.

These foods have a tendency to form a dried layer on their surface that can prevent steam from escaping during heating. When the film is disturbed, by taking the food out of the oven or stirring with a spoon, the trapped steam suddenly escapes and the food splatters, Hunt explains.

To avoid this problem, some baby food manufacturers put a precautionary statement on the labels of their dense, high-protein foods, she remarks. But they don't put a warning label on plain and mixed vegetables or vegetable and meat combinations, since these products have a higher water content and heat more evenly.

"Any baby food that is warmed in a microwave oven should be heated on a medium or low setting just to lukewarm. Also stir the food frequently during microwaving to promote even heating and the dispersion of any steam pockets that might be forming," recommends the specialist.

Infant formula can also be safely heated in a microwave oven if certain precautions are followed, Hunt maintains.

First, heat the milk only to barely warm, not boiling. Remember that the container may remain cool, while the milk is too hot.

Microwave the bottle of milk without the top at a medium setting until warm, which is about one minute per six ounces from refrigerator temperature. Attach the nipple and cap and shake the bottle to redistribute the heat.

"Most importantly, let the bottle stand a few minutes before testing the temperature, and always sprinkle several drops on your inner wrist before giving the bottle to the baby," she cautions.

HBO Gains Access to Film Library of Over 4,700 MGM/UA Films

HOME BOX OFFICE SIGNS MOST COMPREHENSIVE FILM AGREEMENT EVER!

New York, March 20—In its most comprehensive film licensing agreement ever, Home Box Office, Inc. has gained access to the film library of MGM/UA for the next ten years. The scope of the agreement, made with MGM/UA Home Entertainment Group, Inc., exceeds any other in HBO's history in both the number of films included and the length of the licensing contract, according to Steve Scheffer, HBO executive vice president, film programming and HBO Enterprises.

Under terms of the non-exclusive agreement, which is effective immediately, HBO and Cinemax TM have the right to select approximately 800 titles from the over 4,700 MGM/UA films, including more than 250 award-winning titles, during the next decade. The library, the largest in the world and generally regarded as the most valuable, dates back to 1928 and includes the Warner Brothers films made prior to 1948 as well as the individual film libraries of both MGM and UA.

"The impact of this agreement on the future direction of the programing for both HBO and Cinemax will be significant," Scheffer said. He said the agreement covers virtually all MGM/UA films released through December 1983. HBO and Cinemax will begin airing selected MGM/UA titles in June.

Among the MGM/UA titles which won Academy Awards for Best Picture are "An American in Paris," "The Apartment," "Ben Hur," "Casablanca," "Gigi," "Midnight Cowboy," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Mrs. Miniver," "Rocky," "West Side Story," "Grand Hotel," "The Great Ziegfeld," "The Life of Emile Zola," "In the Heat of the Night" and "Annie Hall."

Films which received Academy Awards for Best Actress include "Butterfield 8" (Elizabeth Taylor), "Gaslight" (Ingrid Bergman), "The Good Earth" (Luise Rainer), "Johnny Belinda" (Jane Wyman), "Network" (Faye Dunaway), "Coming Home" (Jane Fonda), "Mildred Pierce" (Joan Crawford), and "I Want to Live" (Susan Hayward).

Academy Award-winning titles for Best Actor include "Captains Courageous" (Spencer Tracy), "Elmer Gantry" (Burt Lancaster), "The Goodbye Girl" (Richard Dreyfuss), "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" (Robert Donat), "The Philadelphia Story" (James Stewart), "Sergeant York" (Gary Cooper), "The Story of Louis Pasteur" (Paul Muni), "Separate Tables" (David Niven), "Judgment at Nuremberg" (Maximilian Schell).

"The MGM/UA film library has, without qualification, the largest and highest quality inventory of theatrical films in the world," Scheffer said. "This library is unquestionably one of the most valued treasures in the entertainment industry. It's been said that 'MGM has more stars than there are in heaven,' and those stars are featured in these films. Many of the films are classics which will now be seen on television, uncut and uninterrupted for the first time, and state-of-the-art film-to-tape transfers of the selected films will assure that their play on HBO and Cinemax will be of the highest technical quality."
