BANK BANDITS SLAY THIRD VICTIM

House Climaxes Six-Year Fight By Passing Boulder Bill

Envied Young Man—
Now They Wire—
Rations—
Can't Believe It—

Many high school graduates will envy young Lawrence Bash, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Bash, who leaves soon after graduation for a long tour of Africa in evangelistic work. It is an exceptional honor that has been given this Wichita Falls young man, in his selection by a noted evangelistic team for such an important assignment.

◇ ◇ ◇

A life of worthwhile work, combined with adventure, travel AND education such as opens to Lawrence Bash, would appeal to any high school graduate. Those who are not so fortunate as this 17-year-old boy should turn their footsteps toward college. Education, more schooling, is the most important thing for the high school graduate.

Time was not so many years ago when the school and college graduate sent out elaborately engraved invitations of high formality and dignified tone. Perhaps the custom is still followed, but this writer received a telegraphic bid to Baylor's exercises from a young graduate, with instructions: "Wire congratulations if you can't come." That's the modern graduate.

Of 2260 school children under the Red Cross rural nutrition service in Wichita county, 16 per cent were found underweight, according to the report of Mrs. T. B. Smith, executive secretary. At the end of three months, supervised diet, the number of underweight children had been reduced to 10 per cent, and general health conditions greatly improved, the report showed. Except for the tireless work of such organizations as the Red Cross and Parent-Teacher associations, we would pay more attention to a proper ration for cattle than for children.

Extension of mail service to 385 new homes is the most joyful news in months to approximately 5000 residents who have not had this service in the past. In most cities the free mail delivery is so accepted as to not even merit consideration. In Wichita Falls the growth of this city has for years been ahead of Uncle Sam, who just believes there "ain't no such animal," when we talk of population and business increase.

◇ ◇ ◇

W. E. George, general chairman for the arrangements for the dedication of the Memorial auditorium, expects 10,000 persons to attend the ceremonies, according to a news story. His expectation should be realized. The auditorium has been filled to capacity several times since its opening, but there are hundreds of Wichita Falls and northwest Texas residents who have never seen the building from the inside, or given it more than a brief glance in passing. The building should be open for two or three hours before the program Sunday, and those interested in the progress of this city should view it from top to bottom.

Romantic Messenger Boy Must Undergo Mind Test

CHICAGO, May 25. (US)—William Casaga, 18, a special delivery messenger boy who brightened his labors with romantic gestures before office girls that signed his receipt slip, must undergo a rigid examination at the psychopathic ward by order of the boy court.

POWER LOBBY DEALT BLOW IN INITIAL VOTE

Muscle Shoals Bill Is Sent to Coolidge By Senate

FARM RELIEF FAILS

Hoover's Candidacy Hurt By Veto Which Senate Upholds

WASHINGTON, May 25. (US)—The Boulder Canyon dam bill was passed by the house of representatives today.

Having been blocked for six years by filibuster, unwarranted delays and power lobby opposition, the great flood-protection, irrigation and reclamation project arose to a glorious climax in the first vote ever taken upon it in congress.

ALL TO BED

WASHINGTON, May 25. (UP) The senate recessed at 5:45 p. m. tonight until Saturday at 11 a. m., after having been in continuous session for more than 30 hours.

Senators, many of whom are aged men, were physically exhausted from their long session and could hardly keep their eyes open toward the end of the afternoon.

Sent to Senate.

A motion to strike the bill a death blow by recommitting it to the house irrigation and reclamation committee "for further consideration" was made by Representative Douglas of Arizona. That motion provided the test. The house rejected the motion by a roll call vote of 219 to 139.

All obstruction having been overcome, the house then passed the bill without a further record vote.

The measure was promptly sent to the senate, where Senator Hiram Johnson of California, surrounded by a group of power-lobby foes, announced that they are prepared to fight against adjournment of congress until the senate, like the house, "performs its duty upon this very vital and important legislation."

Passage Cheered.

A cheer resounded through the house when the Boulder dam bill was adopted. Unrestrained happiness was evident among the bill's advocates who for years had relentlessly fought against the opposition of the most powerful lobby in the recent history of American politics and against other foes who had thrown every possible obstacle in its path.

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL GOES TO COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, May 25. (US)—Dealing the "power trust" a smashing blow, the senate and house today passed the Norris-Morin bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals and sent it to President Coolidge for his approval.

An all-night filibuster against the bill in the senate crumbled today and the senate and house conference report on the bill was passed 43 to 34.

SENATE FAILS TO REPASS FARM BILL

WASHINGTON, May 25. (UP)—The senate late today failed to pass the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill over the president's veto and the measure passed by congress twice in practically a year, has again failed to become a law.

The vote was 50 to 31, four short of the necessary two-thirds.

This action, in the view of most politicians, throws the farm relief question directly into the Republican national convention with the possibility of a spectacular fight by the farm belt states.

The fight directly involves the presidential chances of Secretary Hoover who sides with the president, and of former Governor Lowden and Vice-President Dawes who supported the bill.

HOUSE REFUSES TO OVERRIDE VETO

WASHINGTON, May 25. (AP)—The house refused today to override the veto of President Coolidge on the Oddie bill to appropriate more than 10 million dollars for roads through western public domain and Indian lands. The measure previously had been re-passed by the senate over the veto but with the house's rejection it is cast aside.

Sea Chaperone An Aid to Cupid

A lot of good love matches are made on shipboard, according to Mrs. Catherine Moore, young widow, officially on the roster of a Pacific liner as "sea chaperone." Mrs. Moore is believed to be the first sea chaperone on the Pacific. She sees that everyone enjoys bridge parties, dances and deck sports.

$100,000 FIRE HITS PARADISE

Five Buildings Razed In Conflagration

Special to the Record News.

PARADISE, Texas, May 25.—Five buildings in the downtown section of Paradise were completely destroyed Friday when a fire broke out in a barber shop on the main street at noon. The fire started when an oil stove in the barber shop exploded, causing the building to catch fire. Flames spread to adjoining buildings and razed another barber shop besides the one in which the fire started, a restaurant, a milk receiving station, and the postoffice, the latter building also containing a drug store. The loss was estimated at $100,000.

barber shop besides the one in which the fire started, a restaurant, a milk receiving station, and the postoffice, the latter building also containing a drug store. The loss was estimated at $100,000.

Fire department apparatus was called from Decatur, 12 miles away, and from Bridgeport, seven miles. Both departments arrived too late to check the flames, which had about burned out.

A part of the mail in the postoffice was removed before flames swept the building. Partial contents of the other buildings, except the barber shop in which the fire started, were also removed. The extent of the damage to the buildings all of which were of wood structure, had not been estimated in figures but was said to be a considerable amount.

The buildings destroyed covered about half a block on the east side of the street of the town's two business blocks. The loss was partly covered by insurance. Several owners of the destroyed buildings have announced their intentions of starting reconstruction within a short time.

The body of Mrs. Howell, fully clothed, was found floating in Caddo lake near Mooringsport by fishermen yesterday.

NAGIE PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN MURDER TRIAL

Youth Denies Charge In Slaying of Zimmerman At Store

JURY COMPLETED

Additional Talesmen Are Needed to Fill Out Trial Jury

Jack Nagie, 24, arraigned before Judge P. A. Martin in 89th district court after the jury had been selected in his trial for the murder of Theodore Zimmerman, entered a plea of not guilty and court was recessed until 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Nagie's plea came a few minutes before five o'clock Friday, just after the final juror, S. D. Thomas, had been chosen.

When arraigned, Nagie, with head erect, replied to Judge Martin, "Not guilty of murder, your honor."

During the examination of 76 talesmen, which took practically the entire day, the state used nine challenges and the defense used 11, while 44 men were released for cause.

Death Penalty Sought.

Immediately upon being called to the stand each venireman was asked if he felt that there were times when the death penalty should be inflicted as a punishment for crime. A negative answer prompt dismissal of the prospective juror.

Most of the talesmen dismissed for cause were released when they declared they previously had formed an opinion from reading newspaper accounts of the shooting of Mr. Zimmerman and the arrest of Nagie.

A motion for continuance of the case put by W. J. Townsend, chief of defense counsel, when court opened Friday morning was denied. In making his request for continuance Mr. Townsend indicated that the defense would seek a suspended sentence in the event Nagie were found guilty.

More Talesmen.

At 3:45 o'clock, with only nine jurors selected, the court recessed to allow bailiffs to secure additional talesmen. A venire of 150 men had been summoned for Friday morning. Of this number 70 answered and were examined.

Mrs. Jim Lou Nagie, wife of the accused, was beside her husband throughout the proceedings. Time after time her hand wandered to his in a pressure of reassurance.

Assisting Mr. Townsend as defense counsel were E. A. Martin and John Davenport. Ben P. Allred, district attorney and Sam B. Spence and E. F. Fruechte, formerly assistant district attorneys, represented the state in examination of the talesmen.

It was through evidence uncovered by Mr. Spence that Sheriff W. G. Bralley located and arrested Nagie at his home in Corrigan.

Widow at Trial.

On a back seat of the court room, listening to the examination of talesmen was Mrs. Alline Zimmerman, widow of the man with whose slaying Nagie is charged.

Jurors who Saturday will hear the evidence in the case of the State of Texas vs. Jack Nagie include:

J. C. Wells, Mason Williams, L. H. Bull, F. C. Roye, J. E. Elms, A. B. Lupher, J. J. Lawrence, Ira E. Goodwin, George Taylor, C. W. Allen, S. A. Cochran and Mr. Thomas.

Italia In Losing Battle With Arctic Storm

Dirigible's Fuel Supply Wanes With Explorers Day Overdue at Spitzbergen Base

COPENHAGEN, May 25. (US)—In spite of the fact that General Nobile declared he expected to land the Italia back at King's Bay from its successful trip to the North Pole before noon today, the great ship is still struggling somewhere over the polar ice against fog, wind, snow and ice.

With its speed reduced to 25 miles an hour, buffeted by adverse winds, with great crusts of ice clinging to its sides, the Italia is believed to be in serious straits. Navigation has become extremely difficult if not almost impossible, according to messages picked up.

Fuel Supply Low.

Messages radioed from the Italia seem to indicate that though all is well on board up to a late hour this afternoon, the long period in the air and the stern battle against the elements are believed to have reduced the gasoline supply of the airship to a danger point and fears are expressed in aviation circles that the Italia may be forced down or crippled so that its return to its base at King's Bay may be impossible.

A message received from King's Bay states that a severe storm has risen, carrying northwesterly winds, while the last radio picked up from the airship stated she was encountering fog constantly and that "changing winds are making our progress very slow."

One of the four motors of the Italia was stopped on orders from General Nobile in order to save fuel and to economize on oil.

24 Hours Overdue.

General Nobile had hoped to accomplish the flight to the North Pole and return to his base at King's Bay in 40 hours. That would have brought him back to Spitzbergen about midnight of the 24th. (Central European time). According to those figures the Italia is now more than a day overdue.

Copyrighted by Associated Press

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 26. (AP)—(Saturday)—12:30 A. M.—At midnight 47 hours after the dirigible Italia had left the North Pole she still was missing from her base here.

While the Italia carried gasoline estimated here to keep her aloft for three or four days, it is now feared that the supply is practically exhausted.

The Italia left the North Pole at 2:20 a. m. and shaped her course along the 25th meridian east of Greenwich. At the start she was sailing above the fog at a height of 1000 meters, but her progress was impeded by adverse winds averaging an intensity of about 50 kilometers an hour.

Hampered by Ice.

Early in the forenoon General Nobile issued an order to descend beneath the fog banks where they have been following the appointed course, navigating, according to wireless messages, by the aid of the magnetic compass alone.

"We have suffered from abundant formations of ice crusts all over the airship," said the messages from the Italia. "These crusts often become detatched and are thrown with great velocity against the bottom of the ship. The damage thus far has been easily repaired."

Youthful Mexican Aviator Wins In Air Battle With Fuel All But Gone

MEXICO CITY, May 25. (UP)—Captain Emilio Carranza, 23-year-old Mexican aviator, gave this capital its greatest thrill since Lindbergh landed here, when he dropped down on Valbuena flying field today after a 1575-mile flight alone through darkness and fog from San Diego, with sufficient gasoline to sustain him only five minutes longer.

Carranza made the flight in 18 hours and 36 minutes. He lost his way in a fog after passing Mazatlan and had to return there to find his bearings.

The crowd waiting at the field, including President Calles, United States Ambassador Morrow, and high officials of the government and army, had grown anxious, for Carranza was overdue. He appeared dramatically out of the sky, escorted by 11 Mexican army planes, and landed to a wildly joyous acclaim.

Carranza disclaimed weariness after his long ordeal but he fainted as the crowd surged cheering about him. He was given a drink of water and revived in a moment.

AIRPLANES AND ARMED POSSES CONDUCT HUNT

Physician Brutally Slain When He Attempts To Give Aid

CASHIER NOT FOUND

Trail of Fugitives Glows When Warm Body Is Discovered

DIGHTON, Kan., May 25. (AP)—Fleeing before heavily armed posses aided by two airplanes, the four desperadoes who Wednesday shot down two officers of the First National bank of Lamar, Colo., today killed Dr. W. W. Wineinger of Dighton, whom they abducted last night.

Officers expressed fear E. A. Kessinger, assistant cashier of the bank, who was kidnaped in the holdup, also had been slain.

The killers were being hotly pursued late today and were reported to be in the vicinity of Modoc, Kan., after a mad flight over the western prairies.

Shot in Back

The body of Dr. Wineinger, who was lured away from home last night supposedly to dress the wounds sustained by one of the robbers in a gun fight in the bank, was found 25 miles south of Oakley, Kan.

He had been shot in the back of the head with a shotgun and apparently tossed over an embankment at the bottom of which his motor car was found. The body, which was still warm when found by possemen, was brought here this afternoon.

Dr. Wineinger was made captive through a ruse, one of the gunmen summoning him away from home with a story that a man had been severely injured in a tractor accident.

400 Hunt Bandits

Spurred on by the cold-blooded killings, more than 400 heavily armed men in motor cars continued the hunt for the desperadoes, assisted by the airplanes.

Lieutenant Reavis of Lowry field, Denver, scoured the countryside by air and dropped notes to the possemen as the chase proceeded.

The pursuers were prepared for a ditched battle as it was thought the killers would fight to the last to prevent being taken. The bandits were reported to be armed with a machine gun.

Two Fugitive Cars

Sheriff L. E. Alderman of Lamar arrived here early today by airplane and organized the search. The fugitives were believed to be traveling in two motorcars, which were sighted from the air near here this morning. The cars were hotly pursued up the brakes of the Smoky Hill river after the occupants of the plane notified officers here.

The robbers were believed to have in their possession $10,000 in cash and an equal amount in liberty bonds taken in the raid on the Lamar bank.

A. N. Parrish, president of the institution, and his son, John Parrish, the cashier, were shot and killed during the holdup. The younger Parrish wounded one of the raiders in the arm and in the side.

In the belief the desperadoes were attempting to escape west into Colorado or Wyoming, Sheriff George J. Carroll of Cheyenne, Wyo., organized a squad of expert riflemen, and left for Sterling and Hugo, Colo. The Cheyenne sheriff acted after receiving word that the fugitives had been sighted at Benkleman, in the extreme southwestern part of Nebraska.

Courtroom Behavior of Judges Under Fire Used as Evidence

CHICAGO, Ill., May 25. (US)—The courtroo mbehavior of the three judges, Emanuel Eller, Stanley H. Klarkowski and Otto Kerner, as observed by investigators of the Chicago Crime commission, the organization which seeks their removal from the bench, will be admitted as evidence but will have no bearing on the verdict.

Such was the decision handed down today by the extraordinary court of superior and circuit judges, who are hearing the charges against their colleagues.

Judge Taylor, the presiding jurist, said the court had decided to admit the reports of the observers for the sake of expediency, although it would not have any bearing on the verdict that the three jurists "paltered with crime" by accepting pleas of guilty to minor offenses from persons accused of felonies.

Business Leaders of City Show New Abilities at C-C Fish Fry

A large group of the city's leading bankers and business men demonstrated their ability to do something besides clip coupons when they attacked the stacks of fried fish and barbecue at the luncheon given by the chamber of commerce at the state fish hatchery at noon Friday.

An inspection of the bridge constructed across the Wichita river below the Diversion dam to provide an entrance into the state park was the occasion for the fish fry.

Numerous fishing dates were made after the business men had made an inspection of the 12 pools filled with black bass, crappie and bream. In each of the pools schools of bass above 10 inches long could be seen swimming lazily about. One look at these was usually sufficient to make any tired business man plan a trip to Lake Kemp.

Two captured crows and a flock of tame ducks at the home of the hatchery superintendent, near the spot where the meal was served, kept up a constant cawing and quacking as an accompaniment to the luncheon.

The chamber of commerce offices downtown were closed from 11 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. so that all members of the staff might attend the affair.

The state park is heavily wooded with mesquite, live oak and other trees and is an ideal picnic ground. It was almost inaccessable to Wichita Falls people until the new bridge was constructed by the chamber of commerce. Now the park can be reached in an hour of easy driving.

The meal consisted of barbecue, fried fish, potato chips, pickles, olives, coffee, peaches, cherries and apricots. "Seconds and thirds" were served and most of those present took advantage of them.

Cameron and Doe Win School Treasure Hunt

Paul Cameron and John Doell won the treasure in the high school senior class treasure hunt Friday morning.

The treasure was a small cedar chest, containing a silver treasure chest in which were 500 pennies. Over 75 of the seniors left the college at 6:45 and the winning car returned at 8:30. The second car to arrive was that driven by Edgar Cullen. Hard controls were placed on the municipal golf course and on the Kieth ranch between Wichita Falls and Henrietta.

Fifteen Seniors Awarded Diplomas In Holliday Commencement Exercises

HOLLIDAY, Texas, May 25.—Continuing the commencement week program, grammar school exercises were held in the high school auditorium Wednesday evening. Rev. R. L. Ely, pastor of the First Methodist church, gave the address, and Supt. A. F. Ligon awarded certificates of promotion to 15 students.

On Tuesday evening the senior class presented their play to a packed auditorium. Special music for the occasion was furnished by pupils of Mrs. T. B. Parrish, music and expression teacher. Between the act features were by the Holliday band under the direction of Prof. Paul Seeds of Wichita Falls. The band also gave a public concert on the street before the program.

The play was a three-act comedy drama by James P. Judge, entitled "Square Crooks" and told of the troubles encountered by two crooks who had determined to go straight and who were hounded by detectives and other officers of the law. It was exceptionally well cast, each actor performing his role flawlessly, showing a great deal of painstaking work on the part of the participants and their coach.

Both the senior play and the grammar school exercises were in charge of Miss Thelma Burger, head of the high school mathematics department.

Ramblin'

with

Marie Theresa

TWO topics of conversation are keeping the women of the city in a state of interested existence. One is the summer vacation trip which will take away a large group from the local social circles, the other is "what shall we do if we stay in town?"

Among local women who are planning interesting trips to break the monotony of the long summer siege is Mrs. J. J. Lory who is leaving early Tuesday morning for points in Wisconsin and Illinois where she will visit relatives until the beginning of the severely hot weather. She will then leave for Boulder, Colo., where she will remain until cool weather is an assured fact in Wichita Falls.

How nice it must be to know that you are going to miss the glare and the glitter of the hot north Texas sun and the burning sandstorms that make the summers an ordeal in this locality!

ANOTHER family that is eagerly looking forward to a cool summer is Mrs. Ted Harris and her lovely twin children, Dickey and Teddy. They will leave early Saturday morning for Washington D. C., where the twins will participate in the wedding of Mrs. Harris' sister, Miss Minnie Lee Williams, daughter of Congressman and Mrs. Guinn Williams of Decatur, but at present in the capital city, who is to be married Thursday evening, June 7, to Charles Raymond Wire of Washington. The wedding will take place at the Wesley Methodist church at Washington. The young couple will be at home at 3510 Runneymede Place after June 21.

Mrs. Harris and the children will leave Washington for Virginia and the Carolinas and spend the month of August in the Harris cabin in the mountains out from Ashville, N. C., a place called Chimney Rock. They will return in September.

FOR those who are going to try to keep cool in the city, the purchase of a bathing suit seems to give the greatest amount of pleasurable anticipation. The simple jersey suit will continue to be the smart type but the feminine love of the ornate may be satisfied with something on the order of prints transferred to jersey.

The innovation of printed vest and solid colored trunks is acceptable as is the low evening back top and the trunks which may be bought separately in order to achieve the desired color combination. Black trunks with a white or pink top will also be among the smart in bathing suits. Anyway, it will soon be time to don 'em, so hurry along and buy it now.

CHIC CHERIE

Cherie walked out in London on a fine morning to look at a church. Cherie is wearing a coat quite new in design—long, slim and perfectly straight until it adds a tailored pleated flounce about 10 inches from the bottom. It has a sailor collar and is made of lightweight woolen material. Cherie likes the church tremendously.

Later on she goes to see another church. What church it is we dunno, but we can tell you that the coat she wears is made of crepe satin and uses both sides of the fabric to good effect. The coat is straight, and trimmed with a wide scarf which is capable of innumerable drapes. The coat is satin banded with the crepe side of the cloth.

LATEST FASHIONS

It seems there were still other churches that should be looked at. Cherie looked at this one while wearing her new gardenia coat—of kashmir with the wide front bands and the bottoms of the sleeves made of velvet. The three gardenias on one shoulder give it its name and the round neckline is not her dress—it's the neckline of the coat.

Dina's evening gown is of purple lace with stiffened flounces slanting down the skirt. Cherie's gown is of brown lace, very billowy over a skimpy satin under-dress. Cherie is completely exhausted and agrees with Dina that it's bedtime. Why, to add, "Because we must get up early in the morning and go to church!"

No Heart Is Big Enough to Hold Two Great Loves at Once, Dix Says

Which of Two Men Shall She Marry?—Advice to a Childless Wife—Why Working for One's Family Is the Most Thankless, Unprofitable Job in the World.

Dear Miss Dix—I am in love with two men. One is crazy about me, while the other just likes me. The one who just likes me is very lazy. He doesn't like to work and never keeps a job but I am wild about him. I like the other fellow very well. He is industrious and has a good job. Which one shall I take?
—MAYFLOWER.

Answer: Neither. No heart is big enough to contain two great loves at the same time, and it is only a great love that justifies marriage and makes it worth while.

As long as you are undecided between two men it shows that you have no great affection for either. Rest assured, my child, that when you really do fall in love that you will know which man is IT, and that you will not consider the possibility of marrying any one else. The very idea of having to spend your life with another man will seem a fate worse than death. Something horrible and unendurable.

You say that you are crazy about the lazy loafer who will not work. Take it from me that you will not be crazy about him if you marry him, for there is no other one thing that disgusts a woman so quickly as a man to be just no-account.

Somehow, in this energetic country of ours, the measure of a man is his ability to do things. The go-getter is our ideal—the man who has strength and stamina and courage and intitiative, the man who isn't afraid of hardships or work. And so when we see a man who is just bone lazy, and who sits down on the do-nothing stool and lets somebody else support him, we have a sovereign contempt for him.

Women have this feeling very keenly, and no wife ever suffers a more acute mortification than does the one who is married to a man who cannot hold his own with other men, who is a failure where other men succeed, and who doesn't even try to support her and the children. Therefore, never marry a man who has not shown that he is industrious and has the ability to get along, for on that depends not only your comfort and wellbeing, but your respect for him and your ability to stay in love with him. For no woman can remain long in love with a man whom in her heart she despises and of whom she is ashamed.

Generally speaking, however, when a woman must choose between the man she loves and the man who loves her, presuming that the men are of equal worth, I think she does well to take the man she prefers. For the woman who gets the man she wants is content with her bargain and quits vivisecting her heart, whereas if she doesn't get the man she prefers she spends her time brooding over what she has missed, and counting her heart throbs, and wondering if she wouldn't have been happier with some other man.

Moreover, it is more blessed to give than to receive, especially to a woman in the matter of love, and the woman who marries the man with whom she is crazily infatuated is happy because she is always interested in him, and always busy trying to please him and keep him vamped. And she is grateful and appreciative of every attention he shows her, whereas if she marries a man for whom she does not particularly care she is bored and indifferent and nothing he does pleases her.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—My marriage has been such a happy one and my husband is so very dear and kind and good to me, but we have no children. This is a great disappointment to us, and I am afraid that in time it may make him unhappy, though he says not. Do you think this need ruin our lives?
—PATSY.

Answer: Certainly not. Such an idea is perfectly morbid. Get it out of your head as soon as possible.

It is natural and right that every married couple should wish for children, and undoubtedly life gives a keener thrill than the woman has who feels a baby's head upon her breast, and the man feels when little arms cling around his neck.

But children can be a curse as well as a blessing, and if there is no greater joy in the world than parents experience in seeing about them sons and daughters who have grown up into being fine men and women who are an honor and a credit to them, so there is no sorrow that can tear the human heart that equals that which a father and mother feel over wayward sons and daughters who bring their gray hairs down in shame to the grave. So if you miss the greatest of all happiness in not having good children, you escape the greatest of all griefs in not having bad ones.

Sometimes children bind a husband and wife closer together, and sometimes they separate them. Very often a mother's love for her children crowds out her love for her husband, and after the first baby is born she never sees him as a man again—only as her children's father. I often wonder how much of the philandering of married men is due to the fact that they are heart hungry for the love that their wives have transferred to their children.

More rarely a man absorbs himself in his love for his children and excludes his wife, but it is a common thing for husbands and wives to quarrel so much over the rearing of the children that they kill their affection for each other.

Look about you and you will see that the most devoted couples and the husbands and wives who are most chummy with each other are nearly all childless couples.

But if you and your husband feel that the presence of a child in your household is so necessary, why not adopt one? The asylums are full of orphan children crying for parents.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman of 35, unmarried, and have been supporting myself for the last 10 years by practical nursing and housework. For the last two years I have been helping my sister, who is a widow, by working in a small store and caring for her little girl, but I receive no salary for this, only my living. I have even drawn on my savings for my clothes. My problem is:: Shall I go on this way, or go back to my work and leave the child to her own mother's care?
ELSIE.

Answer: By all means go back to your own work. Make your own life. Have your own savings and your own independence.

Working for one's family is the most unprofitable job in the world. It is never repaid either with money or gratitude. Among most pathetic tragedies in the world are those of women situated as you are, who give up their own work in order to help out some sister or brother, or perhaps to take care of some old parent, and who after giving years of service without pay, find themselves penniless in their old age, and are looked upon as burdens.

Brother's wife dies, and he begs Martha to come and look after his children. Or Sister Sue wants to go into business and asks Martha to come and do her housework for her. Or the family think that mother and father are lonely and Martha ought to take care of them. And so Martha gives up her job, and becomes the family goat. And after a bit brother gets married and his wife thinks it is an awful imposition to have Martha around. Or Sister Sue's children get married and think it is perfectly frightful that they always have to be inflicted with old Aunt Martha. Or, father and mother die, and the other sons and daughters sigh when they think of taking on Martha as a burden. And all of them forget that Martha sacrificed her life to theirs.

Don't be a Martha. Don't work for your family. Strike out for yourself. They will respect you and love you the better if you do.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Pop Goes the 'Tato

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Masquerading as a bag of potatoes brought a lump to the head of a burglar here recently. Officer Forsythe noticed someone prowling about in a grocery store. He called two fellow officers and they broke into the store. They switched on the lights and searched, but it seemed the quarry had escaped until Forsythe brought his club down on a potato bag. "Ouch!" The bag came to life and a man's head popped out, causing him to be popped into a cell.

The engaging art of blending
FRENCH DRESSING

Under the glow of the dinner candles! . . . There's something truly enticing about a lovely cruet filled with crystal clear Wesson Oil. It lends such a delightful air to the salad course and all the preparations for mixing the French Dressing.

Certainly, one would go far to find a salad oil that was richer or more wholesome. Or one so exquisitely delicate in flavor.

For the real secret of the vogue of Wesson Oil is that it is deliciously good to eat. It's made of the finest oil that can be obtained and refined so carefully that only the pure nourishing food content is left.

Do you wonder that French Dressing these days has come, almost without question, to imply Wesson Oil? Or that many, many women keep a cruet of it on the table and use it on their salads or vegetables, plain—just as it is?

Or indeed, that thousands are using this choice salad oil for frying and for their baking?

REED DRAFTED

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri has been drafted again. He is at the head of the senate committee created to investigate the expenditure of money in senatorial primary elections. Hamilton Kean, is the Republican senatorial nominee in New Jersey, and Senator Thaddeus Carraway of Arkansas had a resolution adopted by the senators for an investigation forthwith as to campaign expenditures by the Kean forces. Senators Edward I. Edwards, Democrat, had no opposition for the Democratic nomination and did not spend a dime. Lucky man. Edwards is a teetotaler who is opposed to the Volstead act and thinks the 18th amendment a dismal failure.

LOOKING BACK

Former State Chairman Frank C. Davis, a link in the Love political chain, has decided that all the Reed delegates elected to the Houston convention will make a last ditch stand against the nomination of Smith and for the nomination of the Missouri senator. Eight years ago Delegate Davis voted with the vast majority to shut James A. Reed out of the San Francisco convention. Davis and those who voted with him declared Reed the enemy of Woodrow Wilson and a menace to the Democratic party and Democratic institutions. A practical politician knows how to make the grade. It is one thing this year and another the next.

NAMED JUDGE

Frank P. Culver of Fort Worth has been made a district judge by Governor Moody. Culver was a soldier and knew all about trench life in France and Flanders. Two years ago he was defeated by Bob Stuart for state senator and Stuart had the backing of the Fort Worth klan.

STILL BOSS

Senator Foxy Jim Watson remains the Republican boss of Indiana. He elected his candidate for state chairman over the candidate backed by Senator A. R. Robinson, backed by the forces of the Ku Klux Klan. It was a party split and Foxy Jim forced it.

The man who weds his daughter
Must have a pedigree.
His veins must bulge with blue-blood;
He's all for ancestry.
Yes, one of noble lineage
His daughter's man must be.

Until wealth came, he wasn't
So set on noble name;
His rules were not so stringent
For playing life's old game.
But since he has some money,
He's gunning for some fame.

His tactics make me chuckle.

Victims of An Extortioner

IN Mexico last November, four men including a Catholic priest, were convicted on testimony given by a government detective. They were not only convicted but shot to death. They were accused of a plot to assassinate General Obregon. Now the detective has been ordered to a penal settlement. He gave false testimony. He framed the four who were publicly executed by order of the government. Now he is a convict with the blood of innocent victims on his red hands.

Canadian Crop Best in Years

WITH an optimistic survey of the general crop conditions in the wheat districts of the western provinces of Canada, the Manitoba Press publishes its first general report of the season of 1928, and stated "with confidence that the prairie provinces have the largest area seeded to wheat by May 10 than has been the case since 1921, and conditions are first class." American wheat growers are fearful of a crop shortage in the United States. A heavy Canadian wheat crop will not make high prices for American grain growers. Canada is getting to be one of the great producing nations of the earth. New York state has a greater population than Canada, but Canada is marching on and fifty years hence it may be one of the powerful nations of the world.

Cordell Hull Snubbed

CORDELL HULL is a great Democratic leader of Tennessee. His campaign manager requested that a presidential preference primary be called in North Carolina. A meeting of the state committee of North Carolina was held. That committee considered the petition. They voted seventy-nine to thirty, to reject it.

Political leaders of North Carolina, like the practical politicians of Texas, are unwilling to permit the Democrats of the state to voice their verdict through a presidential preference primary.

Regardless of this, it is on the way. Some day the people will come out of their trance and smash the practical politicians who are bosses and create a political machine of their own.

They own the offices. They pay the taxes. They are the masters. Why shouldn't they assert themselves.

A High Court Decision

HIGHWAY contracts sublet in part comply with the law requiring bids to be advertised and the work awarded to the lowest, best bidder.

This is the decision of the supreme court of Texas.

A contract for the work was let to the East Texas Construction company at the lowest bid after advertising. Then a part of it was sublet to a bridge company.

The road district refused to pay part of the warrants on the ground that bids had not been advertised for in the work sublet.

This is what followed:

The supreme court of Texas held that the general contract was legally advertised, therefore, the part sublet was legal and the district is liable for the contract payments.

It goes without saying that the decision is important for contractors, material men, laborers and all concerned.

Many counties are financially unable to pay half the expense of state roads as is now the custom. The time is ripe in Oklahoma for a state bond issue. The only way in which we can arrive at preference of a majority of the people is to hold a primary election. Baked Stuffed Apple

Remove the core and scoop out as much as possible of the apple. Run this scooped out portion through the food chopper with the desired amount of nut meats. Heap into the apple "shells" and bake in a moderate oven. Serve hot or cold, with cream or milk.

Cup Custard

Beat three whole eggs and add a cup and a half of sweet milk, a cup and a half of seedless raisins, and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Pour into custard cups, being careful to distribute the raisins evenly. Place the cups in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until custards are slightly browned on top.

You will find that the raisins make the custard sweet enough without adding sugar or honey. Serve with a little plain or whipped cream if desired.

Sufficient for six servings.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question — Reader writes: "Will you tell me what causes a pain beneath the outer half of the eye? Also what causes black specks to be always present in the vision?"

Answer — Your trouble may be caused by improperly fitted glasses, sinus or antrum trouble, abscessed teeth; or the pain and the symptoms of black spots may be due entirely to liver congestion from autointoxication.

Question—Cook asks: "Will you please print a list of the salad vegetables?"

Answer — Young, tender beets, carrots, turnips and parsnips may be ground in their raw state; asparagus, spinach, and oyster plant also make good changes if used raw. Then there is lettuce, celery, cucumbers, parsley and watercress. Make it a rule to use one or more of these salad vegetables each day.

Question—Anxious writes—"What will help the fingernails to grow? The ones on my right hand haven't grown enough in several months to file, and those on the left grow very slowly. I have tried everything, and I would like to have your opinion."

Answer—You must be suffering from severe acidosis if your fingernails grow so slowly. You have probably eaten enough of those foods containing the nail-building elements, but these elements must have been destroyed by some systematic toxemia in your body. Take a few days' fruit fast, then live on a well balanced diet such as I suggest in my weekly menus, and take calisthenic exercises with your arms to increase the circulation to the hands.

The Day Book of a New Yorker
By CLARK KINNAIRD.

New York, May 25.—William H. Wall, who is chief detective of one of the world's largest department stores, tells of a big insurance man, considered wealthy and respectable, who has a habit of stealing clocks. When Wall apprehended him not long ago, the badly-frightened offender explained that he had a mania for hearing clocks tick, and couldn't resist impulses to steal them. He was released, with a warning, and put down in store records as a kleptomaniac.

Metropolitan department stores suffer huge losses annually from shoplifters, despite utmost vigilance. Their detectives snare all kinds of persons—young girls from fine families, working women tempted by need, society women, clerks and stenographers, mothers and mothers-to-be, professional thieves.

A surprisingly number of shoplifters are women of the better class. Women, because of their clothes, are better able to conceal stolen articles. Seemingly women of the better class steal things for the thrill of it. They carry off articles which they might easily afford.

There is the case of the wife of a noted musician, herself a concert artist, who got in the habit of stealing articles from Fifth avenue shops. When she was caught, an investigation revealed that for months she had been assembling a stolen wardrobe of children's clothes. She was childless. The stores accepted the shocked husband's payment for the goods and hushed up the matter, but the musician resigned in shame and took his wife to another city.

The daughter of a famous New York surgeon was among 21 shoplifters investigated in one store in one day. Another woman in the group carried with her a bankbook showings savings deposits of $2000. Her husband was manager of a big clothing manufacturing concern.

The second-hand clothes business has a luxury branch in smart-appearing shops on the fringe of the style streets. There are persons in society who scorn to be seen twice in the same gown, but who are reluctant to discard the creations immediately as a total loss. Hence the buyer of these garments has the welcome entree to many Park and Fifth avenue houses. These buyers reach prospective clients through discreet advertisements in society organs offering to "appraise" worn gowns.

Discerning women haunt the shops where the discarded gowns, wraps, hats and other finery of social notables are sold, and mothers and daughters, employed girls and the like who want to dress elaborately on slender purses are able to find many bargains.

When the fleet was in the river and the sailors thronging the towns, I looked in vain for the ships, scantily dressed ladies, anchors, coiled snakes and other such objects d'art that used to adorn the hairy arms of sea-going men. It used to be that the first thing a boy did after he enlisted in the navy was to visit a tatoo parlor. But the youngsters who are the modern gobs are tattooless.

Tattoo shops now are hard to find in New York. But there are a number of shops which specialize in removing tattoo marks by electrolysis. The process is slow, painful and dangerous, since blood-poisoning is sometimes a result. Charges for treatment are high, the lowest being $5 a square inch. Some customers have as much as 200 square inches of decorations to remove.

JOHN F.-X. MARKHAM, District Attorney of New York county.
MARGARET ODELL (THE "CANARY").
CHARLES CLEAVER, a man-about-town.
KENNETH SPOTSWOODE, a manufacturer.
LOUIS MANNIX, an importer.
DR. AMBROSE LINDQUIST, a fashionable neurologist.
TONY SKEEL, a professional burglar.
WILLIAM ELMER JESSUP, telephone operator.
HARRY SPIVELY, telephone operator.
ERNEST HEATH, Sergeant of the Homicide Bureau.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Vance believes Skeel innocent of the murder of Margaret Odell and that he lay hidden in a closet while the strangler did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. Mannix, under pressure, reveals that he had been calling the night of the murder, on a Miss Frisbee, who occupied the apartment adjoining the "Canary's." At five minutes to 12 he saw Cleaver sneaking out the side door of the building—the door thought to have been bolted on the inside all night. Cleaver later admits this, saying he had slipped in the side way and tiptoed out after hearing a man's voice in the Odell apartment. He says he saw Dr. Lindquist standing in the alleyway.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

At that moment Swacker came in and whispered something to Heath. The sergeant rose with alacrity and followed the secretary out of the room.

Almost at once he returned, bearing a bulging Manila folder. Handing it to Markham, he said something in a low voice inaudible to the rest of us. Markham appeared both astonished and displeased. Waving the sergeant back to his seat, he turned to Cleaver.

"I'll have to ask you to wait in the reception-room for a few minutes. Another urgent matter has just arisen."

Cleaver went out without a word, and Markham opened the folder.

"I don't like this sort of thing, sergeant. I told you so yesterday when you suggested it."

"I understand, sir." Heath, I felt, was not as contrite as his tone indicated. "But if those letters and things are all right, and Cleaver hasn't been lying to us about 'em, I'll have my man put 'em back so's no one'll ever know they were taken. And if they do make Cleaver out a liar, then we've got a good excuse for grabbing 'em."

Markham did not argue the point. With a gesture of distaste he began running through the letters, looking particularly at the dates.

Two photographs he put back after a cursory glance; and one piece of paper, which appeared to contain a pen-and-ink sketch of some kind, he tore up with disgust and threw into the waste-basket. Three letters, I noticed, he placed to one side. After five minutes' inspection of the others, he returned them to the folder. Then he nodded to Heath.

"Bring Cleaver back." He rose and, turning, gazed out of the window.

As soon as Cleaver was again seated before the desk Markham said, without looking around:

"You told me it was last June that you bought your letters back from Miss Odell. Do you recall the date?"

"Not exactly," said Cleaver easily. "It was early in the month, though—during the first week, I think."

"How, then, do you happen to have in your possession c/ incriminating letters which you wrote to Miss Odell from the Adirondacks late in July?"

Cleaver's self-control was perfect. After a moment's stoical silence, he merely said in a mild, quiet voice:

"You, of course, came by those letters legally."

Markham was stung, but he was also exasperated by the other's persistent deceptions.

"I regret to confess," he said, "that they were taken from your apartment—though I assure you, it was against my instructions.

"But since they have come unexpectedly into my possession, the wisest thing you can do is to explain them. There was an empty document-box in Miss Odell's apartment the morning her body was found, and, from all appearances, it had been opened Monday night."

"I see." Cleaver laughed harshly. "Very well. The fact is—though I frankly don't expect you to believe me—I didn't pay my blackmail to Miss Odell until the middle of August, about three weeks ago. That's when all my letters were returned. I told you it was June in order to set back the date as far as possible. The older the affair was, I figured, the less likelihood there'd be of your suspecting me."

Markham stood fingering the letters undecidedly. It was Vance who put an end to his irresolution.

"I rather think, don't y' know," he said, "that you'd be safe in accepting Mr. Cleaver's explanation and returning his billets-doux."

Markham, after a momentary hesitation, picked up the Manila folder and, replacing the three letters, handed it to Cleaver.

"I wish you to understand that I did not sanction the appropriating of this correspondence. You'd better take it home and destroy it. I won't detain you any longer now. But please arrange to remain where I can reach you if necessary."

"I'm not going to run away," said Cleaver; and Heath directed him to the elevator.

(Saturday, September 15; 10 a. m.)

Heath returned to the office, shaking his head hopelessly.

"There musta been a regular wake at Odell's Monday night."

"Quite," agreed Vance. "A midnight conclave of the lady's admirers. Mannix was there, unquestionably; and he saw Cleaver; and Cleaver saw Lindquist; and Lindquist saw Spotswoode——"

"Humph! But nobody saw Skeel."

"The trouble is," said Markham, "we don't know how much of Cleaver's story is true. And, by the way, Vance, do you believe he really bought his letters back in August?"

"If only we knew! Dashed confusin', ain't it?"

"Anyway, argued Heath, "Cleaver's statement about phoning Odell at twenty minutes to twelve, and a man answering is verified by Jessup's testimony. And I guess Cleaver saw Lindquist all right that night, for it was him who first tipped us off about the doc. He took a chance doing it, because the doc was liable to tell us he saw Cleaver."

"But if Cleaver had an allurin' alibi," said Vance, "he could simply have said the doctor was lying. However, whether you accept Cleaver's absorbin' legend or not, you can take my word for it there was a visitor, other than Skeel, in the Odell apartment that night."

"That's all right, too," conceded Heath reluctantly. "But, even so, this other fellow is only valuable to us as a possible source of evidence against Skeel."

"That may be true, sergeant," Markham frowned perplexedly. "Only, I'd like to know how that side door was unbolted and then rebolted on the inside. We know now that it was open around midnight, and that Mannix and Cleaver both used it."

"You worry so over trifles," said Vance negligently. "The door problem will solve itself once we discover who was keeping company with Skeel in the Canary's gilded cage."

"I should say it boils down to Mannix, Cleaver and Lindquist. They were the only three at all likely to be present: and if we accept Cleaver's story in its essentials each of them had an opportunity of getting into the apartment between half-past eleven and midnight."

"True. But you have only Cleaver's word that Lindquist was in the neighborhood. And that evidence, uncorroborated, can't be accepted as the lily-white truth."

Heath stirred suddenly and looked at the clock.

"Say, what about that nurse you wanted at eleven o'clock?"

"I've been worrying horribly about her for an hour." Vance appeared actually troubled. "Really, y' know, I haven't the slightest desire to meet the lady. I'm hoping for a revelation, don't y' know. Let's wait for the doctor until half past ten, sergeant."

He had scarcely finished speaking when Swacker informed Markham that Doctor Lindquist had arrived on a mission of great urgency. It was an amusing situation. Markham laughed outright, while Heath stared at Vance with uncompromising astonishment.

"It's not necromancy, sergeant," smiled Vance. "The doctor realized yesterday that we were about to catch him in a falsehood; so he decided to forestall us by explaining personally. Simple, what?"

"Sure." Heath's look of wonderment disappeared.

As Doctor Lindquist entered the room I noted that his habitual urbanity had deserted him. His air was at once apologetic and apprehensive. That he was laboring under some great strain was evident.

"I've come, sir," he announced, taking the chair Markham indicated, "to tell you the truth about Monday night."

"The truth is always welcome, doctor," said Markham encouragingly.

Doctor Lindquist bowed agreement.

"I deeply regret that I did not follow that course at our first interview. But at the time I had not weighed the matter sufficiently; and, having once committed myself to a false statement, I felt I had no option but to abide by it.

"However, after more mature consideration, I have come to the conclusion that frankness is the wiser course. The fact is, sir, I was not with Mrs. Breedon Monday night between the hours I mentioned. I remained at home until half-past ten. Then I went to Miss Odell's house, arriving a little before eleven. I stood outside in the street until half-past eleven; then I returned home."

"Such a bare statement needs considerable amplification."

"I realize it, sir; and I am prepared to amplify it." Doctor Lindquist hesitated, and a strained look came into his white face. His hands were tightly clinched.

"I had learned that Miss Odell was going to dinner and the theater with a man named Spotswoode; and the thought of it began to prey on my mind. It was Spotswoode to whom I owed the alienation of Miss Odell's affections; and it was his interference that had driven me to my threat against the young woman.

"As I sat at home that night, letting my mind dwell morbidly on the situation, I was seized by the impulse to carry out that threat. Why not, I asked myself, end the intolerable situation at once? And why not include Spotswoode in the debacle?..."

KEPT GETTING WEAKER, AND SO AWFULLY THIN

"I was so weak I couldn't go," says Mrs. W. C. Pace, of Albany, Ala. "I suffered so with my head and back for two solid years, in bed most of the time. I suffered from weakness and nothing I did seemed to do any good. My family was very uneasy about me. I kept getting weaker. I was very depressed. I just lived in dread.

"I read of a case something like mine, and decided to try Cardui, as it seemed to help the case I read of. I took two bottles of Cardui and found it was helping me. I took six bottles and it certainly got me up and around.

"I was so awfully thin when I began taking Cardui. I had fallen off to 118 pounds and after I got better I began gaining. In six months from when I began the use of Cardui I weighed 142 pounds. I did all my housework. Cardui got me up and going 10 years ago, and I am strong and healthy to this day and recommended Cardui for the wonderful good it did me."

By MARIE PREVOST

Speaking of moving picture actresses, Marie Prevost used to be a light comedienne with dark hair. Now she has light hair and plays heavy dramatic parts.

In her latest picture, "The Godless Girl," instead of displaying the dainty lingerie of society comedies, she shows off the heavy flannel nighties of a reformatory. And instead of feeding laughs to swallow-tailed comedians, she feeds food to pigs, scrubs floors and knows more about linoleum than limousines. She likes the following joke:

"The clerk in a photography shop," as Marie tells it, "smiled graciously as a middle-aged, well-dressed man entered and asked for a dozen photographs of his son which he had been asked to call for. The clerk quickly procured the desired pictures and before wrapping them displayed one to the gentleman.

"'It is indeed a splendid picture,' remarked the man; 'how like him. How very much like him!'

"The clerk heartily agreed with the father and, as she wrapped the pictures, told him that there was a balance of $40 due.

"The man smiled, bit at his lip gently, and remarked: 'Ah, more like him!'"

SPORTS OVERCOME FOUR-RUN LEAD AND WIN IN NINTH, 5 TO 4

ESTRADA BATS, HURLS VICTORY

Shreveport Only One Game Back of Spudders

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Today I am going to discard my nice new straw kelly which set me back five bucks and wear my old cap. This is at the behest of the Spudders, who recalled that when I wore my cap up to a couple of weeks ago, they were winning ball games and leading the league. Simultaneous with the purchase of the straw lid and the ban on the cap the Spudders started losing. Therefore, it MUST be the straw hat that has brought this malignant jinx to the Spudders. One hardly can see what else it can be.

It was the same old story yesterday. OUR Spudders piled up a four-run lead in the first three innings. Shreveport scored two in the sixth, one in the seventh and won in the ninth by tallying a brace of markers, 5 to 4. It was the third straight game in which the champions had established a lead, only to have the enemy come from behind to win. And it also marked the seventh consecutive defeat for Williams' men.

Estrada Is Villain

Oscar Estrada was the villain of the piece. Batting in the sixth inning for Al Williamson, who had yielded the four tallies and six hits, Oscar clouted sharply through first, scoring two runners. He then went to the hill and gave a superlative exhibition of chucking, allowing only one knock those last four rounds and turning back the homelings in order in three of the innings.

Tom Estill chucked a fair game, though the Sports bunched two hits in each of the innings in which they tallied their runs. The Spudders fielded fast and at times brilliantly. But Estrada stilled their bats; the Sports hit timely—and then, the jinx (my straw hat) still was hovering over OUR Spudders.

Phipps led the Sport attack of 10 hits, with three blows, one a double. Whelan and Cox each hit safely twice.

Benton Leads Spud Attack

Peter Kilduff, the veteran and excellent second baseman of the Sports, hurt his leg when he caught his spikes on the bag at second while rounding that base in the seventh inning. He retired from the pastime and was succeeded by Andy Woehrs, who contributed to the Sports' winning assault in the ninth.

The Inquest

OUR Spudders scored three runs in the first inning. Benton tapped safely to Williamson and went all the way to third on the pitcher's wild throw to first. Turgeon doubled to center, Benton scoring. Lamb singled to left, Turgeon racing home. Eldred walked. Jenkins bunted to Holman and the bases were filled when the third baseman fumbled the ball. Lamb scored on Roetz' sacrifice lift to Wilson and Eldred was doubled at third on the center fielder's perfect peg. Stanton flied to Phipps.

The champions counted their fourth tally in the third. Eldred doubled to right with two out. Jenkins was passed. Roetz singled to center, Eldred scoring. But again a riflelike shot by Wilson cut down Jenkins at third on Roetz' hit.

So it will be seen that this fellow Wilson had no small part in the ball game.

The Sports counted two in the sixth. Cox hit to deep short, Benton making an excellent stop and Stanton a splendid catch of Rabbit's throw. Holman was hit by a pitched ball. Deviveros flied to Jenkins. Turgeon threw out Tobin on a grounder deflected by Estill, Cox and Holman moving up a base. Both runners tallied on Estrada's hit. Roetz threw out Whelan.

The foe added another in the seventh. Kilduff walked. Phipps singled to center, Kilduff going to third. Woehrs ran for Kilduff. Wilson lifted to Turgeon. Cox singled to left, Woehrs scoring. Holman fouled to Benton.

Shreveport won in the ninth by scoring a brace of runs. Woehrs singled to left after one was out. Phipps tripled near the left field foul line, the ball eluding Jenkins, who made a hard run, Woehrs scoring. Wilson lifted to deep center to Lamb, Phipps tallying. Cox skied to Lamb.

Swenson, batting for Jenkins, flied to Cox; Roetz fanned; J. Cobb hitting for Stanton, skied to Phipps in the Spudders' half.

YANKEES BEAT MACKS TWICE

Ruth Hits No. 15 and 16; Other Homers Help Win

Philadelphia, May 25. (AP)—The famed home run bats of the New York Yankees were at their most terrible best this afternoon as the American league and world champions hammered the Athletics into submission in both games of a double-header before a capacity crowd of 40,000.

Lou Gehrig's eighth home run of the season with two on base in the sixth inning sent Howard Ehmke down to defeat by 4 to 2 in the first game of a double-header.

The Yanks then battered Rube Walberg and Eddie Rommel to win by 9 to 2 in the aftermath. This game was marked by 15 Yankee hits, good for 31 bases. Two homers by Ruth and Two by Dugan were in the collection.

Ruth's drives, his 15th and 16th of the season, gave him a lead of seven games, six days and four home runs over his record pace of 1927 when he hit 60.

Notes of the Game

The Spudders and Sports play a double header today at Athletic park, the first game at 3 o'clock.

Kiefer and Cvengros probably will be Carl's hill choices. Karpp and Thompson or Dickerman likely will work for Art Phelan.

Dickerman is the elongated righthander who a few seasons ago was with the St. Louis and Brooklyn Nationals. He recently has pastimed in the Pacific coast league and Southern association.

Al Williamson made his first start here yesterday of the season. He was returned to the Sports a few weeks ago by the Chicago White Sox.

Jenkins robbed Devive Deviveros of a hit with a corking catch of Bernie's drive in the second inning.

Wilson went to the fence to snatch Benton's smash in the second.

Roetz delivered with a hit in the third after Jenkins was purposely passed, the blow scoring a runner.

Eldred also was intentionally walked in the eighth, when the Spudders had their last chance to win. But Benton was out at the plate for the third out on an attempted double steal.

Rabbit made a two-base hit in that inning when the ball hit his bat while attempting to dodge a pitch. That was the only hit off Estrada.

Stanton's bat was hit by Estrada's wild toss in the seventh. But it was a foul ball.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 25. (AP)—Early declines were followed by advances on trade buying and covering in the cotton market today. October contracts sold up from 20.37 to 20.75. Turning a net loss of 15 points into a net gain of 23 points, and closed at 20.71. The general market closed steady, at net advances of 17 to 20 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 8 points and active months showed net losses of 15 to 16 points in early trading. This was considered the result of further liquidation and a continuation of yesterday's selling on the better weather reports from the south, and the relatively easy showing of the cables from Liverpool.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 25. (AP)—The cotton market developed a fair degree of activity after early recessions, principally on unsettled weather prospects, trade buying and reported price fixing. October sold up to 20.27, a recovery of 37 points from an early decline of 13 points below the previous close. The general market closed steady at 19 to 21 points higher.

The May option expired at noon at 20.40 although final trading in that position attracted attention. Traders appeared occupied with developments in the weather and the active covering by shorts who found contracts scarce with the result that the upgrade movement was fairly consistent.

The market was nervous at the opening. Liverpool came in 2 points worse than due and first trades here showed losses of from 3 to 6 points. The market continued to ease off during the first hour, July declining to 20.08, October 19.90 and December 19.87, down 12 to 13 points from the previous close. These figures were the day's lows.

Some covering was attracted by the appearance of the weather forecast which promised generally cooler weather and otherwise less favorable conditions for the growing crop. By mid-session a slight reaction had been overcome and July traded up to 20.24, October 20.07 and December 20.04, 16 to 17 points up from the previous close and 4 points net higher for the day.

Probe of Slayings By Dry Officers Asked

WASHINGTON, May 25. (UP)—A congressional investigation of shooting innocent citizens by prohibition agents was demanded in the house today by Representative White, Democrat, Colorado.

He urged passage of his resolution for investigating of the shooting of Henry Wiltfang recently near Denver, explaining he had received letters telling of 15 other "such outrages."

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE
Universal Service

CHICAGO, May 25.—Sick with leading the false life of a four-flusher, corn threw off its bull hide today and exposed its bear skin. The market broke badly. Wheat followed suit to a lesser degree.

At the close wheat was 1⅛ to 2¼c lower; corn was down 2⅛ to 3⅝c; oats were ⅛ to 2¼c lower; rye was down 1 to 2⅜c.

It was a shocking day for confidence founded upon private crop reports from here and there in contradistinction to the reports of governments and other agencies which at least are certain to have the recommendation of being general and unbiased.

It is difficult to get accurate, reliable reports on crop and demand conditions under the most favorable circumstances because of the highly uncertain nature of the conditions reported. In the case of such individual reports human nature is almost certain to give them a personal flavor.

Corn opened about where it closed the day previous, but it never developed any real strength at that level. Early it gave holders plenty of opportunity to get out of the market if they wished to do that. The decline was not fast or extreme at the start, and after corn broke down well through the bids the market righted itself and rallied a good ¾ of a cent.

If wheat were as easily damaged and destroyed as private crop reporters seem to think, it would have been discarded by nature long ago with the three-toed horse and the saber-toother tiger.

In the cash market wheat was 1 to 2 lower; corn was 1 to 2 lower; oats were unchanged to 2 lower; rye was quiet; barley was steady.

Talk of New Anaconda Pool Aids Copper to Lead Metal Stocks; Radio Scores Big Gains

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Coppers all moved higher as other groups dipped slightly in another four-hour session on the stock exchange, today. Further advance in the price of Red Metal was the main influence to buying of the coppers with talk of new pool in Anaconda giving added stimulus. Radio scored the outstanding gain of the session, as shorts scurried to cover but other favorites of the "Big Ten" held to narrow price range around the final price of the previous session.

Studebaker was the most active single issue but met quite heavy profit-taking after registering a new high. Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco and Smelting rendered the best performance in the copper group. Oils and rails were both quiet and slightly lower. Call money remained at 6 per cent with borrowers having no difficulty in getting accommodations.

Far Eastern currencies were the only active features in the foreign exchange market with the yen recovering while Chinese monies slipped. Cotton rallied after early weakness but other commodities dropped on more bearish weather advices.

Radio will go through 200 was the word sent out early and before the noon hour ended it had accomplished the promised feat. The main incentive to buying was highly illustrative of the psychology of the stock-buyer of the moment as it was the rumor that John J. Raskob will be elected a director of the corporation next week.

After the manner in which his General Motors' forecast made good the name of "Raskob" is all that is needed to bring about a flurry in any stock on the board.

Mr. Raskob's association with the radio management is no surprise as he has had the friendliest business and social relations with those dominating its affairs for quite some time. Studebaker, in which the interests responsible for strength in Radio are at work, is declared to be harboring a larger short interest than any other motor stock except General Motors.

STOCK-A-DAY

THE FLEISCHMANN COMPANY
Five-Year Record.

The Fleischmann company makes nearly all the compressed yeast sold in the United States. It is also a huge manufacturer of distilled vinegar malt and malt extract and of dried and wet grains for stock food. Its products are marketed through 900 selling agencies which deliver to 300,000 bakeries and retail selling agencies throughout the United States. In foreign markets the products are sold through jobbers. The company owns a fleet of tank cars and has a chain of country elevators. The corporation operates 12 yeast manufacturing plants in various parts of the country and Canada.

Sales have increased almost continuously for about 12 years. Net income also has gained except for a time during the war. Net income for 1927 was $19,423,596, or $4.30 a share on the common stock, compared with $18,464,548 in 1926. Gross sales were double those for 1919 and net was 10 times as much.

The company has no funded debt. Capital stock consists of 1,222,000 in 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par and 4,500,000 shares of no par common. Control is held by the Fleischmann family but the firm of J. P. Morgan and company has such a heavy minority interest that it is known as a "Morgan stock." Dividends have been paid at the required rate on the preferred since issuance. The present basis of the common is $3 per annum with extra of 50 cents a share was paid in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 75 cents on Jan. 3, 1928.

As of Jan. 1, 1928, current assets were $35,370,960, current liabilities $5,104,274 and net working capital $30,266,686. Book value of the common stock, exclusive of patents, was $11 a share. The use of yeast for health purposes stimulated by a strong advertising campaign has aided sales materially.

Curb

Leading Issues on New York Market

NEW YORK, May 25. (AP)—Price movements were irregular and trends confused on the curb market today. Accumulation of some industrial specialties and utilities caused wide advances in these groups, but most price changes were small.

Airplane stocks were irregular. Aero Supply A and B declined under profit taking. Transcontinental Air moved to a new top at 35½, but later sold off to 34½.

Announcement of an initial dividend lifted Bristol Myers to a new peak at 71⅞ and favorable trade news and individual developments sent General Ice Cream, Goebel, German General Electric, U. S. Gypsum, Lehigh Coal and Navigation, Safe-T-Stat and others to new high levels. Rubberoid sagged under profit taking and Atlas Plywood also moved downward after touching a new top at 93½.

American Gas and Electric, with a gain of about 3 points, was outstanding among the utilities, which showed group strength, but limited advances.

Most oils showed small gains.

Story That Tunney Will Retire After Heeney Fight Only Hokum

Runyon Can Believe Gene Has Become Lazy, But Not That He Will Pass Up Chances to Add to Bank Account

By DAMON RUNYON
Copyright 1928 by Universal Service

NEW YORK, May 25.—A gentleman more or less in the confidence of Mister Gene Tunney assures me that in his bout with Thomas Heeney, the rock of down under, Mister Tunney win or lose, is making his last pugilistic appearance.

The gentleman means that Mister Tunney will retire. He makes this statement on what he would have me believe is the authority of Mister Tunney himself.

"Mister Tunney will never pull on the old Everlasts again," the gentleman said. "He is sick and tired of the boxing dodge. He will have over $1,000,000 when he collects his bit from George Tex Rickard for the Heeney bout, and that's all the money Mister Tunney will ever need.

"As a matter of fact," the gentleman rambled on, "the way he lives, Mister Tunney can't spend the interest on $1,000,000. His tastes are moderate. He has no extravagances. He has become rather indolent the past year, not to say downright lazy, and the prospect of that old gymnasium grind making ready for a fight appals him.

Gentleman Farmer.

"He is giving it up. Mark what I tell you, he will announce his retirement after his fight with Heeney, and he'll mean it too. I think he is going on a tour of the world, and then settle down to the life of a gentleman farmer and student, if a guy can be both. Yes, sir, it's the kid's last fight."

To which I replied "you don't say so," and "is that so."

For, you see, I doubt that Mister Tunney will retire from pugilistic practice, though I don't doubt that Mister Tunney may think he will retire.

And if Mister Tunney were not heavyweight champion—if he held some lesser pugilistic office—I would really believe that he will really retire, and what's more, remain retired. I believe that he has enough firmness of decision.

As much, surely, as Jack McAuliffe, and Benny Leonard, the former lightweight champions who retired while still in possession of the title, though Leonard has commenced to stir around uneasily, and may steel himself to that final crack on the chin that is the inevitable lot of the old comebacker.

McAuliffe remained in retirement. It is too late now for Jack to be thinking of a comeback, though after looking over some of the current lightweights I must admit that he might do all right, at that. Jimmy Barry, of Chicago, who retired with the bantamweight title, also remained retired, and Fidel Labarba, who quit with the flyweight title to become a Stanford student, is still retired.

Heavy Title Valuable.

But the value of the heavyweight title nowadays is such that it not only isn't good business, but it isn't good sense for a champion to permanently retire with it.

A pugilistic title is worthless after a man passes the age when he can hope to defend it. It seems to me a champion would be serving a more useful purpose to humanity if, after he gets all the money he needs for himself, he would step in there at intervals with his title, and turn his end of the gate over to some worthy charity.

If Mister Tunney defeats Thomas Heeney, it is not improbable that Mister Tunney will retire about as Jake Demski retired, though I trust not so often, which will be until some fancy looking contender bobs up.

It got so a man couldn't pick up a newspaper that didn't have an item about Jake Demski's retirement. Old Jake read it so often he commenced to believe it himself. After 935½ retirements, Jake emerged to fight Mister Tunney twice and the terrible Sharkey man once, which was several times too many for the terrible Sharkey man.

Nobody Cares This Time.

Jake Demski has recently retired, and nobody cares much about that. It is only the champions whose retirements are an item of news. But I am convinced that Demski holds the world's record for retirements, though he never retired for as long at one stretch as James J. Jeffries.

If Thomas Heeney should chance to beat Mister Tunney, you can go and bet all the tea in China, and all the coffee in Java, that Mister Tunney will dismiss that retirement idea forthwith. He will be around explaining that it was an accident, that his long layoff hurt him, that he hurt his hand, that he couldn't perspire, that he couldn't get going, and that the worst he should have had was a draw, at that.

Mister Tunney will be so mortified and chagrined, in the event of his defeat, that even if he has $6,000,000 he will still be seeking that old return match, and won't the newspaper lads forget that he was a little snobbish, and priggish, and what-not-ish, in the heyday of his fame, and give him a little boost?

It will be the same old story.

The same old story. Human nature being what it is, they are all alike, these champions, under certain circumstances.

Gene Never a Buzzsaw.

As for Mister Tunney having become lazy the past year, I can see that. He never was any human buzzsaw of activity in or out of the ring, but he spent some dreary years trying to poke his pomposdour up out of fistic obscurity, and these years doubtless entailed sacrifice and perhaps a bit of privation.

Now that he has plenty, I can see how Mister Tunney easily turns to a life of leisure, which is another name for indolence! And why not? Who would not do the same thing? Mister Tunney has gone as far as he possibly can in his chosen calling, and like any man who reaches the peak of his particular racket, he is entitled to sit back and take it easy.

I have no quarrel with Mister Tunney on that score. I only regret that I can't do likewise. What is there for Mister Tunney to stew and storm about? He hasn't the incentive or desire to engage in stage or cinema effort, and what else is there for a heavyweight champion of the world?

Oh, yes, he might get married. But Mister Tunney's attitude toward his own profession has given me the impression that he doesn't care much about extemporaneous fighting.

DUNDEE-MEDILL DRAW

STRIBLING SUED

Ringside Fan Struck By Georgia Boxer Asks $5000 Damages

PENSACOLA, Fla., May 25. (UP)—W. L. "Young" Stribling, Macon, Ga., boxer, left by airplane for his home late today after making bonds in a $5000 damage suit filed by J. L. Smoker of Pensacola.

The suit was filed by Smoker for damages sustained when Stribling struck him after his match with Charles Rammell here last night. Stribling claimed Smoker, who was seated near the ring, "yelled a vile epithet at me," but was arrested on an assault charge. He was fined $5 when he pleaded guilty.

Wins Pyle's Race

Andy Payne, the big bunion and blister man from Oklahoma, looms as the sure victor in the transcontinental race, which ends today at New York. Payne has a lead of more than 16 hours over John Salo, the runnerup. The race started in March at Los Angeles. Payne will receive $25,000 for winning.

Bare Facts

NEW YORK, May 25.—Fritz von Opel dashes sideways to the front with an invention that will revolutionize traffic.

The word revolution means to turn a complete flip-flop. That's what Fritz intends to do.

His invention is the rocket automobile.

He fills the rumble seat of his car with sky rockets loaded with gunpowder, hair tonic and bird seed. This powerful mixture enables you to get 100 miles a gallon straight up in the air.

When Fritz wants to go anywhere he touches off a sky rocket and there is a roar that would make Vesuvius sound effeminate.

The Fritzmobile jumps away like a lightning bug with a short circuit.

He doesn't state what he does when he runs out of skyrockets.

The gunpowder is a good idea. We have tried every method of getting through traffic.

Fritz has solved the answer to the congestion parade.

Blast your way through.

MUNN STOPS ARGENTINO.

BUENOS AIRES, May 25. (UP)—Monte Munn, Nebraska heavyweight, knocked out Victtorio Campolo, heavyweight champion of Argentina, in the ninth round here today in the stadium. The bout was staged as a feature of Argentine independence day.

BUNION DERBY TO END TODAY

Andy Payne of Oklahoma Assured of Victory

By JAMES M. POWERS

PASSAIC, N. J., May 25. (UP)—John Salo, Passaic, N. J., Finn, who landed in Los Angeles March 4 for the start of C. C. Pyle's transcontinental derby with 20 cents in his pocket, returned home today to receive a conqueror's welcome.

Leading the pack in the next to the last lap in the cross-country Marathon, the triangular-jawed Finn swept into the Passaic school stadium today in first place after covering the 24.7 miles from Suffern, N. Y., in 2 hours, 49 minutes, 36 seconds.

A crowd of 50,000 lined the highway from Suffern and gathered in the stadium to give Salo a thunderous ovation.

Passaic declared a holiday to welcome Salo, runner-up to Andrew Payne, Oklahoma farm boy, who is the virtual winner of the race. Payne holds a lead of 16 hours, 17 minutes, 35 seconds over Salo and nothing short of a catastrophe can prevent Payne from winning.

Mr. Pyle Optimistic

Salo, who left a wife and two children to enter the marathon, is assured of second prize of $10,000, and Promoter Pyle predicts the Finn will earn another $50,000 by making personal appearances during the summer.

Pyle was in an optimistic mood today and again flatly stated that the runners will receive their $48,500 in prizes.

"The only runner who has much to say about the prize money not being paid is John Pederson, who calls himself the Galloping Swede, from Spokane," Pyle said. "He's in 47th place and he isn't concerned one way or the other.

"As far as Andy Payne is concerned, he'll make $100,000 besides his prize of $25,000 by playing state fairs."

Richard Ellis, who has been walking casually across the continent, took a sudden notion to run today and finished second in 2 hours, 53 minutes. Seth Gonzales, Denver pie maker, who finished first Thursday, came in third today in 2:53:22.

Finish at Madison Garden

The final lap to New York city will get under way at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon and the runners will be checked in boarding Wheehawken ferry and checked out as they disembark at forty-second street, New York. The leaders are due to reach Madison Square garden about 8:30 p. m. Each runner will be halted one minute upon reaching the garden for an introduction to the crowd.

The runners will cover 200 laps around the board track at the garden, the equivalent of 20 miles.

Promoter Pyle expects more than 10,000 spectators to witness the finish.

3 Records Fall In College Meet

Stanford Or Yale Loom As Victors in Trials

By FRANK GETTY

HARVARD STADIUM, CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 25. (UP)—Three intercollegiate records fell as the 32nd annual I. C. A. A. A. A. track and field championships commenced here today.

Stanford university, defending the championships in 1927, ran true to form by qualifying the greatest number of competitors for the finals on Saturday.

Yale, lone hope of the East to stem the western invasion which six years out of seven has carried away the intercollegiate title, placed 11 men, two fewer than Coach Dick Templeton's charges. Cornell, Harvard and the University of California tied for third place in qualifying honors with eight each.

Eric Krenz, stocky dark-haired Stanford weight man, established new intercollegiate marks in the shot put and discus, while Alf Bates of Penn State, defending champion, outdid his own record in the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet, 10 3-8 inches.

Bud Houser's record of 49 feet, 12 3-4 inches for the shot put was bettered today by Krenz's toss of 50 feet, 1 inch. Harlow Rothert, Stanford, also bettered Houser's distance, putting the shot 50 feet, ½ inch.

In the discus throw, Krense again showed the way with a record heave of 154 feet, 11 inches, besting by 4 feet 7 3-8 inches the previous mark established by Houser.

Mrs. Jones, Miss Turpie In Southern Golf Final

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May. 25. (UP)—Miss Marion Turpie, New Orleans, and Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago and Valparaiso, Fla., will meet for the southern women's golf championship Saturday.

Miss Turpie, medalist in the qulifying rounds and former title holder, eliminated Mrs. E. C. Doak, Atlanta, 3 and 2 in the semi-finals today.

Mrs. Jones defeated Mrs. Dalton Raymond, Baton Rouge, La., defending champion, 1 up.

Iowa, Ohio State and Illinois Loom as Big Ten Track Champs

EVANSTON, Ill., May 25. (UP)—Iowa, Ohio State and Illinois loomed as the three prominent contenders today for the 1928 track and field title of the Big Ten conference after trials were concluded in 11 of the 16 events.

The finals will be held Saturday afternoon.

W. H. Ketz of Michigan today added three inches to the former Big Ten hammer throw record with a heave of 160 feet 7 inches. The former mark was set by Shattuck of California in 1913 at a time when other than conference teams were permitted to compete.

Hester, also of Michigan, tied the 100-yard dash mark of 9 7-10 seconds set by Hayes of Notre Dame in 1922.

Each of the three favorites gave impressive performances both in the track and field trials today. Ohio State took four first places and four seconds in the track events. Iowa fell one behind this mark with four firsts and three seconds and Illinois put seven men in line for the finals by taking two firsts, three seconds and two thirds.

Of 50 qualifiers, Iowa furnished 14, Illinois 9, and Ohio State 6. The remaining 21 were split about evenly among the other seven schools. No trials were held in the pole vault or running high jump.

Simpson of Ohio State equalled the mark of 21.2 seconds for the 22-yard dash. Michigan, Northwestern and Ohio State appear certain winners in the dash events Saturday.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

THE FOUL STRIKE rule was introduced into baseball in 1901 when it was made effective by the National league. The American league did not agree to the adoption of the foul strike rule until 1903, when the warring rival major leagues made peace. The foul strike rule was written into the playing code in 1903, but as reiterated above was effective in the National league starting in 1901. This is in answer to queries from local fans, who for a couple of days debated and argued the matter. It was referred to this writer, but to me the foul always has been a strike, the rule having been made when the only ball I knew was bawl from a cradle.

◆ ◆ ◆

It seems that in the old days, or rather former days, a foul was merely that, and nothing more. A batter could foul off half a dozen balls with no result except the loss of a pitcher's temper and wear and tear on the throwing arm. Joe Cantillon once told me some of the old boys were so expert in fouling balls that they could foul them better than hit them fair. However, Joe may have been spoofing. He is quite a joker, is Pongo Joe, and figured once, it will be recalled, in a trade in which he swapped an indignant ball player for a dog.

'WAY BACK WHEN, in the early days of baseball, the batter could call the sort of ball that was to be pitched to him. If the ball he asked for wasn't tossed he did not need to strike at it and could stand at the plate all day until the particular sort of offering that pleased his fancy was thrown. That had a tendency to enlarge batting averages, no doubt. That also was in the days before wearing mitts and gloves came into vogue. Those were the good old days, the oldtimers tell me. Doubtless they were—to the oldtimers.

TWO SURVIVE IN TEXAS GOLF

Levinson to Defend Title Today Against Speer

AUSTIN, May 25. (AP)—Jack Speer of Houston, came back valorously late today to beat out George Rotan, also of Houston, for the privilege of meeting Lewis Levinson, San Antonio, tomorrow in the final championship play of the Texas Golf association's 22nd annual tournament here.

Rotan had Speer 1 up on the 13th hole but Speer kept earnestly down the course, steadily creeping up. On the last hole, he made it 1 up and eliminated the favorite Rotan.

The victory of Levinson, present champion, over Dennis Lavender, Abilene, lithe municipal champion, also drew the gallery's interest.

Both are among the youngest entered, and they fought doggedly but Levinson's superior skill told and he put down the Abilene 6 up and 5 to go.

Levinson had a hard time this morning in eliminating Leonard Atwell, Houston. The titleholder had to go 16 holes at par.

Championship quarter finalists this morning were Levinson, Speer, Levander, Rotan, Tinsley, Penick, Austin; Leonard Atwell, Houston; W. C. Hunt, Houston; M. L. Massingill, Fort Worth.

Tomorrow's championship finals will go 36 holes.

In the race for the Texas trophy, originally comprising the defeated 16 of the 32 who qualified for title competition, A. W. Whitten, Austin, will tie up with Tom Hayne, Austin, in finals tomorrow. Whitten put down Charlie Campbell, Temple, 4 and 3 while Hayne polished Jim Russell, Houston, 1 up.

High School Graduate to Sail June 20 for Mission Post in Africa

Lawrence Bash, 17-year-old son of Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, and 1928 graduate of the Wichita Falls high school, will sail from New York city June 20 for South Africa where he will be associated with Dr. Jesse R. Kellum and Charles H. Richards in an evangelical campaign of the southern part of that continent.

Leaves Here June 10

His duties with the famous evangelist will be pianist and leader in young people's work. Dr. Kellum, when conducting a revival in Wichita Falls last November, at the Christian church, was impressed by the boy's work and his piano playing. The latter part of April young Bash received a telegram from Dr. Kellum offering him a position on the tour, which was readily accepted.

He will leave Wichita Falls about June 10 and will go to Lincoln, Neb., where he will visit his grandmother, Mrs. Fidela Bash, two or three days. From there he will go to Chicago for a few days, and on to Washington, D. C. From there he will leave for New York city, where he will join Dr. Kellum and Mr. Richards, sailing June 20 for Liverpool, England. After a few days in London and other English cities, young Bash will embark from Southampton with his party about June 29, sailing south on the Atlantic along the western shore of South Africa and touching St. Helena and Ascension islands.

1200-Mile Overland Trip

The party is expected to land at Cape Town, South Africa, on or about July 20, in the midst of winter there. From Cape Town an overland drive of about 1200 miles will be made to Johannesburg, the leading city of the South African free state, and on to Pretoria, the administrative capital of the South African republic, where the first campaign will probably be held. The party will stay about two months in this city, from where they will tour other cities of the continent.

With the announcement of grades in the Wichita Falls high school, it was learned that young Bash came within only a fraction of one per cent of receiving the highest grade of any student in the school.

Today At the Theaters

STRAND: Norma Talmadge in "The Dove." Pathe news. On the vitaphone: Giovanni Martinelli singing "Vesti la Giubba" from "Il Pagliacci," and William Demarest in a dramatic skit, "Papa's Vacation."

MAJESTIC: Last times of Pola Negri in "Three Sinners." Krazy Kat cartoon. Comedy. Paramount news.

OLYMPIC: "Wolf Fangs" starring Thunder, the wonder dog. Fox newsreel. Comedy.

GARDEN: "Painted Trails." Serial. Comedy.

GEM: "Where the North Holds Sway." Serial. Comedy.

Norma Talmadge not only becomes a United Artists star through "The Dove," which is opening at the Strand theater here today, but she is also now one of the eight members of United Artists along with Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, David W. Griffith, Joseph M. Schenck, Gloria Swanson and Douglas Fairbanks.

From a brilliant opening on Broadway several seasons ago on the legitimate stage, "The Dove" swept its way into the high places in the American show world. Then United Artists decided to make the picture which Willard Mack had written. In six months it was completed, and it is now ready for presentation. It tells a tale of love, intrigue, action and romance on the red coast of Mexico. Roland West directed it, and Gilbert Rowland and Noah Beery are the featured players.

The play is greater than any play of the present generation, and with a normal direction on the part of Director West it should be the acme of entertainment. Such notables as Miss Talmadge, Mr. Beery and Mr. Rowland should add considerable to it and give Wichitans all they can ask for at the Strand.

The vitaphone will bring Giovanni Martinelli to the Strand on the same program. This star of the Metropolitan Opera company will sing "Vesti la Giubba" from "Il Pagliacci," acompanied by the New York Philharmonic orchestra. William Demarest will be seen and heard in another vitaphone act, "Papa's Vacation."

❖ ❖ ❖

Charlie Moorehead reported Friday that as yet he has not decided why restaurants almost always say they have apricot pie when peach pie is sought. Mr. Moorehead, manager of the Olympic, was named on a committee Thursday along with Manager Hans Smith of the Strand theater to see what could be done about it. The committee is asked to consider and investigate over the weekend and if possible get an answer ready by Monday.

❖ ❖ ❖

❖ ❖ ❖

And so is Pola Negri in the Paramount picture, "Three Sinenrs." A new picture will open there Sunday.

❖ ❖ ❖

Prices aren't so high at the Olympic as they used to be, and that means it is easier for the whole family to see the show than formerly. The prices now are 10 cents for the kids and 25 cents for the adults.

School Board Opens Bids On Two Building Additions at Meet Today

Bids will be opened at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the offices of Voelcker and Dixon, architects, for the new auditorium and cafeteria of the Austin school, and the addition to the Franklin school, according to an announcement by W. W. Brown, business manager of the schools of the city Friday.

The total cost of the additions and equipment and furniture will be about $40,000, it was said at the offices of Voelcker and Dixon.

The Franklin school is in a district that has grown faster than any other portion of the city in the past year. Classes have been held in the hallways all year long, and the need for more class rooms has been stressed many times.

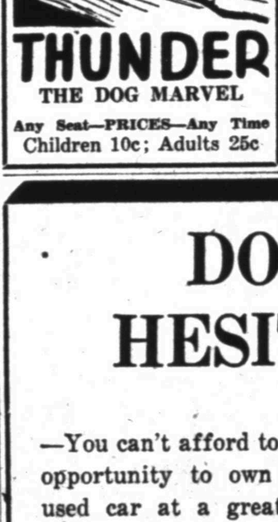

The auditorium and cafeteria for the Austin school, the largest grade school in the city, also will have the effect of increasing the class room capacity as it will make available the space in the main building now used for a cafeteria. The new construction will be separate from the present building, and will then be connected by a spacious enclosed hallway and stairway with the present building.

Man Faces Charges After Raid Here

Charges of adultery were filed against a Wichita Falls man Friday afternoon in county court following a raid by E. S. Richardson, Sid Johnson and John Saye, members of the constable's department, and seizure of about 100 gallons of alleged grape wine. Charges of violation of the prohibition laws will be filed against the same man Saturday morning, officers declared.

The adultery charges were filed by L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney, after a woman was arrested.
