DISTRICT BASKET BALL CHAMPIONSHIP WON BY THE EMMA TEAM SAT.

ENTHUSIASTIC REPRESENTATIVES FROM MOST EVERY TOWN IN THE DISTRICT—HIGHLY ENTERTAINED

EMMA FIVE WON CUP AFTER HARD FIGHTS

Hardest Fight of the Games Made When Pleasant Valley Surprised Everybody With a Real Kick When Pressed by the Fast Team. Close Guarding Marked Good Players.

Possibly the most enthusiastic crowd of sport-lovers that has been in Lubbock during the last year assembled on the local athletic field Saturday to witness the Lubbock District University Interscholastic League basketball finals played. The sixteen counties in the league were represented by a team of four counties, that team having eliminated the other teams in their counties, and were here to contest for the district championship.

The first game Friday evening was between Emma and Plainview, which was forethought to become the closest contest of the season, and none was dissappointed in that prediction, Emma five were on their toes from the beginning, holding an impregnable line of defense against the Plainview five at their every attempt to reach the goal, which was keenly and frantically battled with, and a brake in the alertness of the Emma team in about the first quarter enabled Plainview to rally, with a series of neatly made goal pitches tieing the score nineteen to nineteen at the ending of the first half.

The Emma five were not at all checked at the immediate run-up of score which tied the first half, but made a bolder attempt to block the opposing team in their every attempt to gain, which was marked with that undescribably perfect teamwork which the Emma five have so well learned, and which proved absolutely reliable on this occassion. Free goals and an attempt or two by the Plainview team to rally marked the beginning of the last half, with more than one quarter of the last half being consumed by Emma team fumbling the ball over the field with once in a long time a little interference by Plainview players, but without results, as the Emma guards were always on the lookout and tossed the ball to and fro to their fellow teammates, outwinding the Plainview five and placing their side of the score at forty-seven, while Plainview held ten less counts, the last five minutes of the game being spent in Emma making a joke of their opponents akwardness with perfect teamwork, keeping the ball away from both goals, marking time with the precision of an old town clock. Needless to say the game was appreciated by all who saw it, the alertness of the two teams being the subject of all the commentors. Plainview has something to be proud of in that basketball team, for any five who can at all cope with the swiftness and accurateness of the Emma five must know something about the game.

Lamesa and Pleasant Valley fives offered the next forty minutes entertainment (the games being played in twenty minute halves), but the lack of teamwork on both teams was noticeable, with good goal pitching saving the situation, marking the players of the first class. The first half was run neck and neck, with the score standing with Lamesa leading with twenty-two to eighteen. Pleasant Valley placed her best players on the field through the last half, and rallied, winning the game with the score standing at forty-two to thirty-nine, and met the Emma five in the championship contest proper Saturday morning.

Saturday morning at ten o'clock a better crowd than was expected attended the final game between Emma and Pleasant Valley teams, the concensus of opinion being that these two teams were far unmatched, as the Pleasant Valley-Lamesa game on Friday had been so slow it was thought the Valleyites had nothing to come in with, which was proven absolutely incorrect and unreliable when the Emma team started their run for a landslide of goals Saturday morning, for never on the local court before has such splendid guarding been shown as they displayed. The Emma five are fast numbers and are hard to cope with, but the fact that at the end of the first half the score stood eight and eight shows that they were not so free to put the old ball over the loop as they had been on Friday with the Plainview five, which a comparison with the first half of the Plainview-Emma games will show, but the first goal in the last half was made by Emma, and a lead was kept until the end of the game when the score stood seventeen to twelve in favor of the Emma team.

The entire city of Ralls and the county of Crosby have something to be proud of in the Emma team, and here we must also say that the people of Pleasant Valley must keep in mind that their team proved the best and fastest opponents of the two teams the Emma bunch met on this occassion, according to one of its leading players.

Professor Dupre, superintendent of the Lubbock Schools presented the winning team their well won silver cup, which will bear the names of the participants in the Emma team, and date on which the cup was won. Lubbock having won the cup last year.

The large crowds from the other towns in the district came out with a good attendance, showing their interest in the respective teams, and we are in hopes they will realize that the entire citizenship of Lubbock was especially glad to welcome them on this occassion.

The other contests in the University Interscholastic League of the Lubbock District are to be held in Lubbock on April 13th. and 14th., and we wish to remind those who might become interested in these events that the same men who participated in these basketball games will be here with their fellow school mates in contests to prove athletical and scholarly superiority. These men have demonstrated what they can do in a skillful physical contest and their ability to be leaders and winners will be tried in the other events, and we believe there is no one but who can be entertained in many or all of these contests. Your presence will prove your interest in school work or your absence will prove your indifference to the progress of the present day students, therefore be sure you make the proper account of yourself on these days.

Let's all boost this meeting and let Lubbock become the Olympia of the Plains.

TO BUILD NEW BRIDGE AT COLORADO CITY SOON

Colorado, Texas, Jan. 31.—State and Federal aid for the construction of a concrete viaduct across the Colorado River in the western city limits has been granted, according to information received by County Judge J. C. Hall from J. Windrow, engineer representing the State Highway Commission at Austin.

The proposed viaduct will be approximately 350 feet in length and will cross the river on the route of the Bankhead Highway. Plains also are being made for completing a gap in the highway west of Colorado.

Construction work on the viaduct is to be commenced within the next sixty days.

DIED

Mrs. Frances Wright died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Hinson here Thursday evening. Deceased leaves three children in Lubbock, Mrs. Hinson, Mrs. W. H. Meador and B. F. Wright, who have many friends to join them in regretting this great loss. Mrs. Wright had reached the age of eighty-one years, eleven months and twenty-five days. Remains were shipped to Memphis, Texas, from the Rix parlors Friday morning and interment was in the cemetery there. Mrs. Hinson went to Memphis to attend the funeral.

S. L. Miller, brother of the well known local groceryman, H. E. Miller, has been in Lubbock the past two months, coming here from St. Augustine, Texas, and last week made arrangements to sell the goods of the Panhandle Cigar Company to Lubbock customers. Mr. Miller is a good mixer, and able salesman and the people of Lubbock are fortunate to have him make his home here, for he will prove a booster for everything for the good of Lubbock.

Hamilton Sheppard, Miss Foster, Mrs. E. A. Logan and sons, Armon and Charles and Leo White, were here Saturday from Littlefield.

Sam Cates Is Now Confined in the Lubbock County Jail After Being Arrested in California Last Week

Sheriff Holcomb, accompanied by Brite Mitchell, sheriff of Crosby county, left Lubbock Saturday, January 28, for Austin, where they received proper papers for the return of Sam Cates, who broke jail in Lubbock, Friday, September 30, 1921, with Hughlett Smith which case is well known to Lubbock people.

The officers received their papers at Austin Sunday morning and left immediately for San Antonio, where they caught a Southern Pacific train for El Paso, then on to Riverside, California, where officers had Cates in jail. Reaching that place Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock, and went directly to the jail where they found that the officers had the right man.

Among the first things they inquired into in their first conversation with Cates was the manner by which he had gotten out of the jail in Lubbock, and he confessed before Sheriffs' Holcomb, Mitchell and the sheriff of Riverside county, California, and Deputy Sheriff Boatwright who captured him, that he and Smith worked out a plan for turning the combination on the jail with a belt made of strips of their cot, opening the other doors and locks with a mechanical device constructed of the lumber in the cot, using as a guide to direct their work on one of the taps they had to take off a small looking glass which was fastened to a long cot rail. The wrench they constructed of two pieces of the cot, making a V shape instrument of it, pounding the tap off after several tedious attempts, and when they finally reached the top of the jail and the open windows, made a ladder of what sheeting and other cloth they had in their cell and swung to the ground.

Much interest has been shown in this delivery, but the Sheriff told an Avalanche reporter that the confession from Cates was but little different to the plan it was thought they had used to get out of the cell, as some of the instruments, including a small steel bar about the size of a pencil which they used in some manner, was left in the cell, together with parts of the cot.

Cates and Smith parted at Lubbock and have not heard or seen anything of each other to this time. Cates made his way to Seminole by night, taking two nights and a part of the third morning to reach that place, and caught a mailhack to Midland. While on the mailhack Cates sold his watch to the driver for enough to pay his fare to El Paso, and claims that when he stepped from the train there he passed by three policemen who failed to be attracted by his presence, and he made his way into Mexico unmolested. From there we have no further report on his rounds until his arrival at Indio, California, where he worked three months in the F. J. Tebo restaurant, where he made many friends. It is said that he told an intimate friend of his being wanted in Texas for forgery, who told another friend, and the news finally reached the deputy sheriff, who recalled that he had received a card from Holcomb, of Lubbock, and as the card had been misplaced he wired Holcomb and received instructions to arrest and hold Cates until his arrival. Cates was arrested, and locked that night in the Caliboose at Indio, and carried to the Riverside jail the following morning, where he was interviewed by a Reverside Review reporter and stated that he had been an attorney in Texas for five years, and had killed his law partner, Judge Burton, a full account of which was published in the Sunday's issue of the Review, together with the untruthful report that he had become tired of dodging the law and had given up to deputy Boatwright. The following Wednesday's issue of the Review published another account of the account, giving an account of Sheriffs' Holcomb and Mitchell, and deputy sheriff Boatwright's statements concerning the prisoner. The article is quite lengthy, and headed: "Biggest Liar from Texas Asserted" with sub-head: "Lone Star State Sheriff is Emphatic about Sam W. Cates." The following is an extract from the article, showing Boatwright's attitude toward Cates:

"Deputy Sheriff John Boatwright holds a grudge against Cates because of his statement that he "turned himself over to the authorities." According to Boatwright, Cates was cutting bread in an Indio restaurant when the arrest was made. The officer, followed by another deputy, stepped up behind Cates and ordered him to put up his hands. Due to the feeling of a revolver against his skin, Cates complied, Boatwright said, but kept the breadknife in his hands until ordered to drop it. Handcuffs were put on him, and although he at first attempted to feign ignorance of what his arrest was for, gave it up and admitted his identity within a short time, Boatwright said.

Cates was brought back to Lubbock with the two officers, arriving here Friday noon, many people interested in the case met the train to see the returned prisoner. He was rushed to the county jail and is now there waiting trial on a forgery case. Together with the punishment he may receive for this offense he has a 14-year sentence in the penitentiary for the murder of Judge Burton.

Sheriff Holcomb's statement to the Riverside Review that Cates is a "smooth customer" has proof in the fact that while at Indio he made many friends and saved money, and had a letter of recommendation made with signatures of many of the town's most prominent people attached thereto, according to a report received here. The Avalanche received a letter from Cate's employer, F. J. Tebo, Saturday, stating that "the boy made many friends here and was employed by me as a waiter. Was very faithful and honest while with me," and went on to say that he was interested in the trial and would appreciate information of the case at all times.

He had two hundred and fifty dollars in the bank, some nice clothes and other possessions when captured. In Indio he was going by the name of John Lewis.

B. O. McWhorter and wife left yesterday for Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. McWhorter will be placed under care of Mayo Bros. for an operation.

LUBBOCK NOW HAS A POPULATION OF NEARLY SIX THOUSAND FOLKS

ACCORDING TO THE CENSUS RECENTLY TAKEN BY A RELIABLE PARTY SHOWS ALMOST THIS NUMBER.

NO WONDER OUR CLOTHES WON'T FIT

There has been Three New Residents a Day Since the 1920 Federal Census is the Record for Lubbock as Shown by the Late Count—Much Needed to be Done.

"Wanted—Thirty-one men, women or children," was a sign Secretary Keen of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce wanted the Avalanche reporter to run in this issue of the paper. The only requirement is that these 31 folks have not yet been counted in the Census of the City. Do you know anybody that has moved to Lubbock within the past fifteen days? If so, report them by phone to 469 immediately for we have need of them. Why?

Because Lubbock has only 5970 folks living here according to the completed census rechecked, and we want to go over the 6,000 mark. To do so we must find 31 more folks and if you know of any new comers phone their names in so that they be listed. Roby Cathey won the $5 reward offered for the closest guess to the number in town. His guess was 5978 or just eight more than the actual number shown by the check.

A lot of interesting, funny and pathetic things were found in taking this census. For instance, there is one house in town with nine families living in it—or eighteen grown people under one roof. The largest family reported had 13 living in the family at the time the census was given in. Didn't say how many they had in other towns or with homes of their own. More than a hundred and fifty guesses were received in the contest as announced in the Avalanche more than a month ago and the estimates ran from 3876 the lowest, to 7025, the highest number guessed.

In the distribution of the letters B lead with a total of 688 names, beginning with that letter. Z brought up the tail end with two names starting with that little used letter. Smiths' were reasonably numerous with a total of 563 S's. As figured against the check of 4051 made in January of 1920 we have a consistant gain of three new residents per day for the past two years or in other words, at this rate it will take us ninty years to be as large as Fort Worth. But if we continue this rate of gain, or 33 1-3 per cent each two years, how long will it take us to pass 100,000? Or again if 376 population grew into 5970 in fifteen years, how long, with increasing facilities for rapid travel, will it take 5970 to grow to 100,000?

Another way to state the problem: If the schools were overcrowded in 1920 with a population of 4051 what condition are they in today with a population of 5970? What shape will they be in next year when we pass the 7,500 mark unless we get busy today to care for them?

"Towns Do Not Happen—They Are Built." And it might be added that they are only built around good schools, churches, and modest homes, with hard working, God-fearing mothers, fathers and children.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT ON MAIN STREET SATURDAY

According to an Avalanche reporter's view about the most peculiar near-to-accident happened on the streets here Saturday when a Ford coupe was backed into a running Essex car on main street, only battering up the rear fenders of each car and destroying the tail light of the Essex, and here is where the peculiar situation comes in—both cars were driven by ladies and not a single word, nor even a bad look was exchanged, and both parties drove on their way without being in the least disturbed. Again we say the world is getting better every day.

W. O. WILKISON STRONG BELIEVER IN FARM BUREAU

W. O. Wilkison was here Saturday from his farm three miles east of town to attend the Farm Bureau meeting at the Courthouse. Mr. Wilkison heartily endorses the plan of the Bureau and said that he saw in it an opportunity for farmers to regain the prestige they have never been able to maintain, but which they deserve from the gigantic business they operate. "One farmer is as helpless as a straw on the seas in these days of close financial conditions, and a whole lot of us together might make a pretty good ship, which would easily glide over the unsettled conditions" is the way he summed up his opinion of the Bureau for the farmers of this section. All together the farmers can do something worth while for themselves and make a business of farming and we are glad to see our farmers so well interested in this system of co-operation.

LUBBOCK WAS ATTACKED BY PEDDLERS WHO CAME IN DROVES AND FLEECED CITY

"Sucker Alley" has long been the name a certain street in Coney Island is known by, due to the fact for about five blocks, on both sides of the street, there is nothing but little cheap, petty thievery stands selling worthless trinkets, spun sugar candy, yallar lemonade, rubber balls, cheap jewelry and other worthless junk.

Lots of lights, noise, hawking and hubbub attends the sale of this junk and the cheapest wonder of cheap carnival attractions are displayed on every hand. Folks know they are throwing their time and money away when they go to the Island and yet through six months in every year for the past many years there is a veritable mass of humanity gawking up and down this "Sucker Alley."

Lubbock had much of the appearance of "Sucker Alley" last Saturday afternoon with a flock of bunco stands of every kind in the world holding forth with much hawking, Medicine Show Comedy and cheap attractions that serve as sugar to draw a crowd when they know they are getting stuck with a bunch of cheap goods—and yet they buy.

At one time Seven Joints were going—each one of them with its crowd—the manager of each raking in "Sucker Money" and already left town. He pays no tax, supports no schools, does not back up his goods, stands for nothing straight, honest or constructive—and yet he draws a crowd that spends their cash money with them—and then gets the banks, the merchants and the individual business men of the city to carry him until crop time again.

"You know, Bill, I can't see why we should pay $18 a pair for shoes at one of these here dry goods stores when we can get just as good ones here for a dollar and a half" says one dear brother that incidently lives in the city of Lubbock. I heard him say it myself and he didn't stutter. I glanced at his shoes and then at the man and so help me Shades of the Great Irish Mike if that man ever paid ten dollars for a pair of shoes in his life I am twins and if dollar for dollar you can't get better values, with a reliable firm to guarantee the values in any store in this city, than the two to three dollars they paid for that lot of fire sale, cutbacks, sample shoes peddled out Saturday afternoon may Debs be called a patriotic American. And yet "Sucker Alley" continues to draw its crowd.

Canned lasses, patent soap, razors, tire patch, books, leather goods, woolens, pills—all of these and dozens more are pawned off on the public of this city, and as soon as they make their clean-up they move on.

And yet the City, the County and the State has trouble getting enough tax money to run our schools, fix our roads, take care of our charitable cases and all that. They raise the tax upon private business, increase the valuations of local business properties and residence property and there is no way to touch these floating grafters that unload goods upon a gullible public.

A Ordinance is being prepared by the Retail Merchants' Association from samples taken from a number of towns over the state to be presented to the City Commissioners who have indicated that they will favorably consider any ordinance that will relieve this situation and it is hoped and expected that something will be done to take Lubbock off of the calling list of every cheap John Peddling scheme concocted anywhere in the United States. At present they all include this city in their routing and never fail to make a cleaning.

The beggars, one-armed pencil peddlers, blind violin players and similar other fortunate unfortunates used to pass the word along that Lubbock was a profitable stopping place until the efficient organization of the local Red Cross centralized the charity work of the city and educated the public into sending all of these people to the Red Cross office and if you could see the way they lie, squirm and get their statements crossed when the Red Cross Secretary starts to investigating their condition you would get a revelation into why they may be called the Fortunate Unfortunate. One legless beggar recently told the Red Cross Secretary that he averaged better than $10 per day just sitting on the streets and holding out his hat. He is a strong, healthy, able bodied man except for the loss of his two legs and might handle any number of business positions but with perfect legs and one hundred per cent more intelligence than he now has he couldn't make half as much as he makes by holding out his hat.

All of these folks are to be pitied and dealt with, but it is only thru intelligent investigation and consideration are they to be prevented from imposing upon the generosity of the general public.

A real citizen of Lubbock, and Lubbock is jealous of the standing of the City and County and the citizenship of both and the continued success of soap box peddlers, petty beggars, and fly-by-night skin game artists is not a recommendation to either. Compare their wares, their tales of woe and their skin game stories with solid facts, real goods and then see who to support and where to spend your money.

Commissioner of Agriculture, George B. Terrell Requests Farmers to Keep Cost of Producing Cotton and Report

To the Cotton Growers of Texas:

The last two cotton crops have sold below the cost of production. No business enterprise can stand when forced to sell its products for less than cost. Farming is the biggest business enterprise in the State. It is a sure business barometer, measuring the success or failure of all other business enterprises.

It should be placed on a sound business basis, and to do this it is necessary to find the average cost of production, so that money crops especially cotton, may be sold upon a cost, plus basis, as the products of all manufacturing plants are sold. I want two or three thousand farmers to keep the cost of producing cotton this season, as they did last year, and report to me upon blanks to be furnished by this Department.

Enter every item of cost upon a day book, from the time the breaking of land begins until the cotton is laid by. These items must include cleaninp up the land, breaking, harrowing, bedding, planting, chopping, hoeing and cultivating at current wages paid in other lines of work, and must include soil depreciation, taxes and interest on the investment.

I will furnish blank forms upon application, to be filled out, and return to this office when the crop is laid by.

In order to be able to price the crop we must know the cost of production, and in order to sell for the cost of production and a profit, the farmers must make the farms self-supporting and make the cotton a surplus crop, and be able to enforce the demand for a cost plus price. I hope to have co-operation of other states in this matter.

Raise less cotton, and more to eat.

George B. Terrell,
Commissioner.

HALE CENTER GIRL IS HERE FOR EYE TREATMENT

Miss Eunice Dent, of Hale Center, is here at the home of her Uncle, A. Judd, local groceryman, under treatment of a specialist for eye trouble. We learn the young lady had been bothered with the eye for some time, and when the specialist first started to work on the case it was thought practically hopeless, but through his untiring work and skill complete recovery is about to be realized.

London's fire department costs $2,500,000 a year.

Hale County Has Less Than 3000 Voters for 1922

Approximately 2700 county poll taxes had been paid up to 6 o'clock tonight according to B. H. Towery, county tax collector. Between 2600 and 2700 poll taxes had been counted, and the indications were that the figure would run well up to 2700. Predictions had placed the county figure at 2500. W. H. Murphy a few days ago, predicted that the number would be around this figure.

Guesses were necessarily erratic as no one could tell the number of women who would pay their poll taxes this year.

At the city hall up to 6 p. m. there had been paid 1120 poll taxes. The voting strength of the city is between 1100 and 1200.—Plainview Herald.

ROTARY NOTES

By L. T. Martin

When the hunter of Mil-I-Mo birds and the fished of eels, takes charge of the entertainment program in his Chesterfield way you can bet there will be something on that makes the Rotary Club all sit up and take notice and agree with him that who ever was responsible for having Dr. Burwell come to Lubbock for the express reason of reforming the Chairman of last week's luncheon, was on to his job and did an act of kindness for his friends. Notwithstanding the fact that the aforesaid Chairman claims the influence of the Doctor on his better half was wonderful, leads some to wonder if that is why she left home so as to allow him to get the full benefit of his reformer. But to leave all jokes aside, we are glad that the Doctor is a guest in the Wright home, for Neil is a good sport and sees that the Doctor has a place at the festive board of the Rotary Club each week for which every Rotarian is duly thankful. There are not many minds in Lubbock who have the ability of imparting the great truths as has Dr. Burwell and it is a real treat when he is persuaded to address the Club.

Dr. Burwell responded to the subject: "Spirit values in the business world." He brought it out very plainly that the difficulties of the world were not to be worked out on material lines, but to be successful must be worked out on spiritual lines. He sighted the great war and its lesson to humanity. Of China and how it has become the foot ball of the world and so plainly shows that before prosperity can come to the world it must become spiritually better. He sighted us to such minds as James Brice, former embassador from England, as saying the difficulties of the world are not material, but spiritual. It was a good message and one every Rotarian should take home to himself and by putting the Spiritual into his business he will not only have helped the community in which he lives, but himself as well. Come again Doctor for you are doubly welcome to bend elbows over the Rotarian festive board and for those who are unable to hear you in the church you are so nobly working for, are thankful for the crumbs of food for thought you drop in your talks at the Rotary luncheons.

Dolph (A. B. Conley), who is supposed to furnish the two minute man, did the act himself this week and gave a valuable talk of the general outlook for business in the year 1922. It is quite likely by the middle of the year that various steps will be taken to quicken business. Some plan to facilitate foreign buying will probably be attempted. The administration is going to do all it can this year to improve trade activity. The time has not yet come to buy heavily. Producing costs must decline still further. Wage rates are declining as rapidly as the cost of living will permit. The workers are now on the underside of the cycle, and will continue in a tractable frame of mind until employment increases. Continued easing in bank rates should be seen this year. Merchants are taking their losses in proportion to the size of their business. Sighting as an example that Sears Roebuck & Company took a loss of over $16,000,000. There is food for thought in the above and I guess Dolph was right in making the talk himself. He wanted to get the message to us.

L. D. Rankin was a guest of the Chairman and responded to the subject of: "Law and Order."

Gave us to understand that there was a law and order league in Lubbock and they stood ready to help in every way to the courts in preserving the law and the morals of Lubbock. He sighted that there was 26 indictments by the Grand Jury, and that the County Attorney would have to dismiss 23 of them for the reason that it was too expensive to prosecute.

President Walter appointed the following committees: To ascertain the number who will attend the 18th District Rotary Conference to be held at Mineral Wells, Texas, Monday and Tuesday, March 27th and 28th next. R. H. (Butterflake) Martin, Clif Hunt and R. F. Bayless. A stunt committee to cooperate with Amarillo and Plainview at the above conference; Jed Rix, Daddy Dickinson and O. L. Peterman.

President Walter put the question of dividing the 18th Rotary District. The 18th District then to comprise of the Panhandle, New Mexico and a part of Oklahoma. Question called for and it was the unanimous vote of the Club not to divide the district but to keep Texas a whole for the 18th District.

Briggs led the singing and every one seemed to enjoy the Rotary songs. It sounds good to hear a bunch of men turned loose and sing. The deep rumble of masculine voices always has a meaning and to hear them in song spells "Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Men."

Qut of town last week and missed the Rotary-Ann's meeting, thus no write up in these notes, but from what the boys are saying, we will have to go some for future night meetings to keep pace with the Rotary-Ann's. Some fool Rotarian must have been talking in his sleep by the article printed in the Society columns of the Avalanche. What a great story that would make on the Rotarians if the public could but read between the lines. A good Rotarian is always supposed to come clean with an account of why he does not attend the Rotary luncheon if he happens to be in a town where there is a Rotary club, on Rotary day. However, I have come to this conclusion; that it never pays to explain. Your friends do not require it and it don't make any difference about the other fellow. But honestly fellows, don't tell every thing you know. Of course you cannot keep Highpocket and Dolph quiet, but Highpocket tells Kathleen and she not only puts it in the paper, but she tells it to Francis and Lucile. Lucile, she tells Katie, Florence and Sallie; Francis she tells Ellen and Effie; Effie tells Vivian; Vivian tells Sophia Karper; Sophia tells Margaret Myrick; Margaret tells Maxine Dickinson and Nannie Conley; Nannie tells Lena and so on down the line of Rotary Ann's and they in turn to the different clubs. "My! Ain't it awful Mable."

The following guests were present at Wednesday's luncheon:

E. A. Morgan as guest of L. C. Montgomery; Joe Hess with J. O. Jones; Chris Harwell with J. A. Rix; Dr. Burwell and L. D. Rankin with Neil Wright; Ed Wilson with J. A. Medlock.

Luncheon Wednesday, Feb. 8th will be at the Manhattan and you will please phone into them the number of guests. A good program is being prepared, do not miss it. Don't forget the place and to telephone the management so they can prepare for your guests.

Walter Posey returned from a business trip to Austin and San Antonio, Sunday.

J. W. Jennings returned Monday from quite an extended visit to Waco, Austin and other points in the southern part of the State.

Woody was not at Rotary luncheon last week. Missed you, Woody.

Lu-Lu was in Austin and Houston last week and had a nice visit with Lawrence Jr., as well as attending to business.

Rotarian W. H. Meador was not at Rotary luncheon Wednesday on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Francis Wright, mother of Mrs. Meador and Mrs. Henderson. Mrs. Wright passed away Thursday and her remains were taken to Memphis, Texas, for interment. These good people have the sympathy of the Rotarians in this their time of sorrow.

J. A. STROUD IN RACE FOR HOCKLEY SHERIFF

J. A. Stroud, present sheriff and tax collector of Hockley and Cochran counties was here Friday, and authorized the Avalanche to place his name in the announcement column as a candidate for re-election to the office which he now holds. Mr. Stroud was elected when the county was organized last summer and from reports that come to us has made a splendid, efficient officer, and if the people see fit to re-elect him, he promises the same faithful service in the future. We ask that you at least give his candidacy due consideration.

The Miracle of Restoring Old Clothes

By what miracle are soiled garments, shiny, spotted and wrinkled returned from the dry cleaner's as fresh, as clean and as full of life as when new?

Really, there's no miracle about it all—just sound, common sense, scientifically designed cleansing equipment, and expert, conscientious care.

After careful inspection, which may bring forth all manner of forgotten things from pocket hiding places, the garment you send to us is gently revolved in a machine which sifts from the fabric most of the loose dust and street dirt. All the while a current of pure, warm air plays through the cloth, drying it thoroughly.

This drying is all-important—a single moist spot would interfere with the process which follows. This consists of a bath in a suds of refined gasoline or benzol, soft as fresh-fallen rain-water, and a specially prepared, mild soap. This rich, creamy lather is forced through and through the fabric by a gentle churning movement in a revolving cylinder which is perfectly smooth.

Then, after a whirl in a centrifugal machine which extracts the suds and the soil with it the garment is rinsed in pure, refined benzine. Another spin in the centrifugal leaves the garment almost dry and ready for its final visit to the drying tumbler, where the last atom of moisture, and odor, too, is blown away by a breeze of heated air. This also raises the pile, loosens the fabric, and restores its original springiness and lively vitality.

Then, of course, everything's carefully pressed—buttons are sewed on—little repairs are attended to.

That's the "Miracle"—may we demonstrate for you? It will add to the good looks and long life of every suit and dress. A word will bring our driver.

ALWAYS ON THE JOB

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO THE ALLEN BROTHERS POST, AMERICAN LEGION

Littlefield will be an out-post of Lubbock in the Legion.

The ex-service men of Littlefield sent representatives to the meeting of Allen Bros. Post Thursday evening to present their request to be taken as an out-post of Lubbock and were unanimously accepted.

Each meeting of this post is always a little bit better than the one before and say Buddy, have the boys been telling you what has been happening at these meetings. If you had been there Thursday night and had seen that Bolshevik on trial and everything else that happened there would be no further argument, you would report there every time. Of course there is always plenty of business on tap but take it from me you are missing a lot of fun. Bring a man with you next time—line them up in this organization. The Legion needs you and you need the Legion, so does every other ex-service man who you can get to listen to you long enough to tell him what it really means.

Littlefield turned to us when they found that they did not have enough men in their territory to make a strong post, now lets show the strength and make these boys believe they have lined up with the right bunch.

Remember men, you are the strength of the Legion, back up the organization that has pledged itself to "foster and perpetuate a 100 percent Americanism."

"He that is greatest among you must be your servant" is an old saying and as true as the truest words ever spoken. The Legion will win its place among the useful organizations of the country by its service. The Legion must be a servant of the nation, state, community, and our buddies. The greatest happiness comes through service to others. Keep your eyes open. Look for something to do. Win your place by rendering service.

The National organization is preparing an extensive campaign to educate America in Americanism, will this not be a service worthy of the men who created the largest organization of its kind in the world?

This Post is arranging for a debate on the Compensation Bill, both sides will be well represented and it promises to be very interesting. It is the desire of the post to have everyone in Lubbock to hear it. Watch for the announcement.

If your insurance has lapsed and you want reinstatement get the blanks at the Red Cross office in the courtroom, see the Adjutant for any information on anything. I mean concerning Legion work.

Post No. 1 of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War has opened a club room at 101 1-2 West 9th St., Fort Worth, Texas. Allen Bros. Post has had a letter from this organization in which they extend a welcome to all members of the post to visit them while in Fort Worth. They are offering their assistance through the American Legion to disabled ex-service men and would be glad of the opportunity to render assistance whenever needed. The Disabled American Veterans is a National organization composed entirely of Disabled Veterans working in co-operation with the American Legion, U. S. Veterans Bureau, and other institutions for the welfare of Disabled Veterans.

The Argument for Adjusted Compensation

You would not take one of two men equally paid in your employ and send one out on a particularly dangerous mission which he gladly undertakes out of his loyalty to you, risking his life, leaving his family, ready to encounter or surmount any difficulties gladly to serve you—meantime multiply the wage of the man retained home in safety many times—and on the first man's return not give him at least an even deal with the other. Of course you wouldn't, even if you hadn't promised him that you'd see he got a square deal when he returned.

Yet that is what the opponent of the Adjusted Compensation Bill is asking the United States to do.

It is not a question of sentiment, of paying for a man's service or his patriotism, because no man can put a price on that, nor can any man pay for it. It is an insult to even suggest it. But there is no reason for penalizing the man for offering his life to his country in dangerous days and there is every reason for giving him a square deal.

The above is from a letter sent by National Commander MacNider to Joseph H. Defrees, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"Judge, Yer Honor, I Ain't Guilty to this here charge of not bein' a soldier in the Army!" was the way a certain ex-soldier plead before American Legion court last Thursday night in the Justice Court room previous to the regular meeting at 8 p. m. A bunch of the ex-service men were sitting around passing yarns about the late, lamented war, kidding each other about the different branches of service when the argument arose as to whether a "Pigeon Raiser" or that branch of the Signal Corps that attended to the Carrier Pigeons, was entitled to be known as a soldier. The argument waxed hot on both sides of the question until finally it was agreed to submit the question to open court by trying Crack Lockey for not being a Soldier.

Able attorneys were appointed on both sides, with Judge K——, but it won't do to let that out—in the chair. The jury sentenced the prisoner to thirty days diet on prunes and corn willie.

The regular business meeting consumed less than 45 minutes and among other matters taken up was the formation of an Out-Post at Littlefield to be composed of the fifteen ex-service men who have maintained a regular Post at this place for the past two years. Due to the small number, it has been hard to maintain an active organization and they requested the Allen Brothers Post of this city to take them into this Post as an Out-Post. This is allowed under the constitution of the National Legion and the Lubbock Post was glad to welcome the Littlefield delegation to this meeting and to take them in as a regular part of this Post.

It was agreed upon that the Legion would hold a dance in the very near future to which everyone is invited. The admission will be twenty-five cents at the door and ten cents per dance. It is held for two very definite purposes: First, to have a good time, and second, to raise a few pennies to clear up some back obligations. It was voted that all ex-service men wear their uniforms to all regular Legion dances.

George Washington's birthday will be fittingly observed and every business house and residence in the city will be requested to display a flag upon that date. One of the policies of the local American Legion has always been and to an increasing extent will be the proper observance of all National Holidays and the entire citizenship will be asked to assist in this matter upon each National Holiday.

Numbers were drawn from the hat and holders of the same number staged a boxing exhibition that brought a lot of fun from the bunch if not to the boxers. Dr. Cravens put up a wonderful exhibition.

This was followed by some old time clog dancing by several of the nimble toed brethren to the tune of the old Break-Down Fiddler that sawed a wicked harmony. Incidentily, it was a surprise to see how many of the men present had a sawing acquaintance with the old fiddle.

Hamburgers, pickles and punch were served from the luncheon fund built up last meeting—night and there is enough on hand for another feed next meeting night, the first Thursday night in each month.

The evening closed with a silent toast to the activity of the Legion, not only of the American Legion, but to the French, British, Italian and Belgium Legions the world over from the Legion Loving Cup, a relic around whose briming lip many a mystic romance and tale of love, war and army escapades is woven. Following this the Littlefield representation was asked to drink a toast to any phase of the war from the same mystic mug and they were to the point.

In short, the Allen Brothers Post of the American Legion has a real interesting meeting once each month and does a lot of active work between times in the way of securing work for ex-service men, corporation with the Red Cross in filing compensation claims, claims for back pay and assisting needy ex-service men. The Legion stands for something definite and with the motto: "100 per cent Americanism" means something in the life of our Nation.

The Federation of Women's Clubs In the Seventh District Plans Extension Work of Much Importance

Special from Canyon:

The creation, recently, of the 7th District of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs with headquarters at Plainview, has developed a plan of study which will bring closer together the women's clubs of this district and the West Texas State Normal College at Canyon. Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner of Claude is chairman of extension work in the district and to her is due the plan which is now being worked out whereby credits may be given by the West Texas Normal for work done in the Women's Clubs. Mrs. Warner is a pioneer worker among Texas women and her heroic work in organizing and developing club activity in rural communities is almost a household byword, wherever, in Texas, women's work is known. Mrs. Warner's present plan of coordinating the work of the women's clubs with the West Texas Normal is a realization of one of her fondest hopes. Now that the Panhandle and Plains country has been organized into a separate district, she proposes to inaugurate the work of extension immediately. A committee representing various clubs of the district met in Canyon February 3 and 4 to lay their plans before the authorities of the College and together with them to formulate courses of study for adoption at once by the many study clubs in the district.

President J. A. Hill of the Normal College is enthusiastic in his support of the women and states that the plan is thoroughly in accord with his ideas of the service which a teacher training institution should render to its constituency. The women of this country are probably more interested in the training of their children than in any other subject and for this reason those institutions which train the children's teachers are objects of vital concern to to every mother. Because of their mutual interest in the child the Women's Clubs and the Normal Colleges of this state ought to be able to establish a common working basis and render a reciprocal service. Such is the object of the approaching conference and in anticipation of it, President Hill appointed, several weeks ago, a committee consisting of Registrar, John S. Sumphreys and Deans, L. C. Allen and H. W. Morelock. This committee has made a tentative course of study and will present it to the committee when it comes to Canyon next week. As already outlined in brief by Mrs. Warner, the following statements explain the purpose of this extension work:

1. It is one of several plans set on foot, to stimulate interest in the upbuilding of the 7th district.
2. College credits will be an inducement to increased club work in the Panhandle and Plains country.
3. It will bring the women and the colleges closer together.
4. Its purpose is especially to train for leadership in rural centers.
5. It will afford opportunities for college women to continue their education after leaving college and to secure credit therefore.
6. It will add to the educational work of Texas, the work of 65,000 women, which work for the past 24 years has been without credit or notice in official bulletins which give educational statistics.
7. The plan will furnish means of measuring and accrediting what women learn in club work.
8. Says Mrs. Warner with warm enthusiasm, "The plan is for the good of our homes and communities." "Better than card clubs and other useless ways of recreation." But here it is in brief. "I would like to get the women to thinking about a never ending system of education."

Mrs. Carl G. Goodman of Abernathy, President of the 7th District, is an enthusiastic as Mrs. Warner and together they have arranged for the meeting at Canyon.

Mrs. Goodman in a letter to President Hill thus writes about the plan: "I am most enthusiastic about Mrs. Warner's idea concerning club work and college credits. It will standardize club study and will offer a hope of recognition to women who have been denied educational apportunities and so stimulate interest as nothing else could do."

The committee on its visit to Canyon will be entertained by the College and the Women's Book Club of Canyon.

ACUFF SCHOOL ITEMS

The Acuff school has enrolled over thirty new pupils since the beginning of the new year. We have another teacher and hope to have the fourth teacher by another year. There is no reason why Acuff could not have the largest and best school in Lubbock County.

Boast your school, and your school will boast you by making more people come to Acuff to live, thereby building up your community.

The Parents and Teachers in the Acuff community met Friday, Jan. 27 and organized a "Parent-Teachers' Association." The meeting opened with a short program given by Mrs. Kelly and her primary room. Three officers were elected as follows: President, Mr. Brashear; vice-president; Secretary, Mrs. D. F. Pounds; press reporter, Mrs. Ivan C. Baucom. Miss Darby was appointed chairman of the By-Laws and Constitution Committee, and Mrs. E. R. Davis, chairman of the Program Committee. A number of community needs were discussed. The association adjourned to meet Friday, Feb. 10, at two-thirty o'clock, with the following program:

Opening exercises—High School.
First needs of our school—Leader Miss Darby.
The benefit of the Parent-Teachers' Association—Leader, Mrs. Bauhear.
The need of music in our school. —Mrs. Meek.

We want every parent in the community to be present at the next meeting.

There wil be a box supper and cake walk at the Acuff school house Friday night, Feb. 17, 1922.

The Acuff boys basket ball team met the Idalou second team on the Acuff court Friday afternoon and were defeated with a score of 17 to 2 in favor of Idalou.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Middleton, Mrs. McCauley, W. P. Brown and Wesley Brown are back from Lubbock, where they visited for several days.—Stamford Leader.

WEST TEXAS "SHINNERY."

At this time when the need of moisture is apparent in the "tight" land districts of West Texas the sand lands of Jones, Callahan and Eastland counties are ready to "carry on" for another bumper crop year. In the driest years this "shinnery" makes prolific yields of the crops indigenous in those sections, not to speak of the big crops of peaches, pears, apples and berries, which do well there. In the "shinnery" districts there is considerable timber and though it may appear a paradox, it is necessary in most of the undeveloped sections of the "shinnery" to clear places for farms and homes because of the "jungles."

This great scope of sandy land is selling in the raw state at between $10 and $15 an acre, with the demand being very limited. In a country such as that where the lands never fail to produce, where possibilities of fruit culture are great, it is a wonder that the average homeseeker overlooks its possibilities. A settler in the "shinnery" for sixteen years, after varied farming experience in a number of other states and in other sections of Texas, is authority for the statement that this undeveloped country year in and year out, makes more profit for the farmer than any other country under the sun that he has knowledge of.

When the skies of West Texas were undimmed by the welcome clouds of rain in 1918 and the land was parched for want of nature's sustenance, the shinnery was producing an average crop. It was this part of West Texas which was a bright spot in the recollection of the farmers and orchardists. Yet with this memory very few farmers have been induced to take up land in that territory and develop it as it should be developed. It is possible that the great labor attached to clearing its wild scramble of timber is accountable for delay in its being exploited. But experience has proved its adaptability for every crop grown in the West and to many unknown in that section. Under such conditions opportunity is extended in a most liberal way to the small farmer. In time it will become one of the choicest trucking, farming and fruit growing sections of West Texas.—Fort Worth Record.

And it was not only the shinnery sections of the West part that put it over the "tight lands" of other sections of the State, but almost the entire territory comprising West Texas (real West Texas, we mean) it over the rich (?) black lands of the fertile East. Year after year this section of the country, is raising a surplus of "diversification," and it will make more people independent than anything else they can raise, and it is done with a very limited amount of rain, sometimes, but it always makes a substantial yield. It has been a long time since it rained a good, real wet rain in this section, but even this need not cause anyone any real anxiety, and the old timers are not worrying. Mr. Newcomer, just "calm" yourself and sit steady in the boat, and get ready for a great "draught," for you will make more than you can gather, and you will become prosperous and be happy.

TAX THEM OUT OF EXISTENCE.

Irresponsible street salesmen drop into our towns once in a while and take out hundreds of dollars that ought to go into the tills of the local tradesmen. These fly-by-nights pay only a small auction tax, sell their goods of doubtful merit, like they were hot cakes, and then they are gone. They pay no taxes to support schools and city institutions and you can't find one when you need a donation for some worthy public cause. Why is it that so many men will dig up good money and pay over to these fakirs when they can't even pay their local merchants who have befriended them in time of need? The City Council ought to make the peddler's tax so high that it would drive out such questinoable competition and thus save many a dollar, both for the merchants and the patrons of these quick-fire artists.—Plainview News.

Every town has its portion of this kind of people, and it is a problem to handle them satisfactorily. It is true indeed that they take thousands of dollars out of town each year that should be spent in town, with people who are interested in the development of the town, who spend hundreds and sometimes thousands of dollars each year in helping build schools, churches and a hundred and one other things that come around for consideration during the year. Then too, the people often buy a quality of stuff from the street peddler that they would not look at in a local store at half the price they pay for it, and take it along and gloat over what a splendid bargain they got. People should take these things into consideration, and play the game fair. The home man should certainly have preference over the street peddler. Public sentiment is the best way on earth to put the street fakir out of business.

Lubbock will grow only in proportion to the way our schools are conducted. Lubbock has the reputation of having the best schools, and has the highest points of any school for a town of its size of anywhere in the West, but this cannot be maintained without proper facilities.

Ignorance is more expensive than taxes. Let's educate the boys and girls who come to Lubbock, and we will never regret the few dollars spent for this purpose. We are in favor of raising the tax rate for schools from 50c on the $100 valuation of property to $1.00 and then reducing the valuations about forty percent.

Every parent who has a child in school should visit the schools of Lubbock. It would be an eye-opener to you, and if you have one spark of interest in your child's education you will be rearing to vote for most any size bond issue, for the building of a new high school.

JIM FERGUSON BOBS UP.

Like the bad dollar, Jim Ferguson just keeps bobbing up. This time he has had the gall to offer himself as a candidate for the office of United States Senator subject to the Democratic primaries. In the election of 1920, when the Democratis needed all the sasistance they could get, Jim persuaded a bunch of fellows to follow him in the organization of another party which he chose to call the American Party, and thereby diverted a lot of votes from the "father" party, and helped the Republicans get into power, and now he is back in the Democratic ranks, and is offering himself as a candidate for the high office of United States Senator. In making his announcement he referred to the past in his record in Texas as follows: "This being a National office, I am in no way disqualified to hold it. The American Party having dissolved, my announcement is made subject to the Democratic primaries. The same Senate which attempted to impeach me, and composed largely of the same members and of the same faction last year, voted to hang my picture in the hall of fame beside the picture of all the great Democratic Governors. As they forgave me, I gladly forgive them, and now return to the house of my fathers. The whys and the wherefors will be discussed later."

It will be remembered that Jim WAS impeached according to the records of the State for some alleged unbecoming action that he was mixed up in while he was governor of the State. After this, much to the disgust of a lot of good citizens of Texas, the legislature voted to hang Jim's picture in the hall of fame in the State Capitol by the side of Democratic governors. This, in our opinion was far from right, and those legislators who had to do with this should certainly be remembered most kindly the next time they run for office and grant them the privilege of staying home. While we are confident that Jim will never go to the Senate, it is unfortunate that the Democratic party must suffer the humiliation of having a wishy-washy man of Jim's type to break back into the ranks, and have the nerve to want to go to Washington as a representative of this great State. The voters of Texas should see to it that nothing but a true blue Democrat is elected, and one with a good record behind him, who will have nothing to hamper him in his work for worthy measures and who can be depended upon to at all times stand out for the measures that have for their purpose the moral betterment of the United States.

STANDARDIZATION OF COTTON.

Cotton is often judged by the company it keeps. If one or two farmers produce cotton of a good grade and staple while the other farmers in the community produce a lower grade and a shorter staple; the two farmers will more than likely have their crop penalized. This is more apt to be the case if farmers sell their cotton on the street. A community with a reputation for good staple cotton is beneficial to the farmer who has cotton of less value.

It has been demonstrated that there is a distinct advantage in the community standardization of cotton. If a buyer can go into a community and secure a hundred bales or more of cotton of a uniform grade and staple, it is to his advantage to pay a better price, for he can fill an order without scouring the country in order to complete his shipment. there is another advantage in community standardization of cotton. It is found in the fact that to bring about a uniformity of staple, good seed must be purchased so farmers gain by having a better cotton for sale.

There are several varieties of cotton, all of which meet with requirements of good staple. Some varieties will do better in certain sections than others. Farmers in each community should determine which to adopt and then stick to it.—Farm and Ranch.

There is certainly some great advantages to the standardization of cotton, and farmers, we believe should take these advantages into consideration in the planting of cotton. "Cotton is cotton" will no longer stand the test, and we are confident that the Farm and Ranch position is well taken and should have the serious thought of the framers throughout this country.

A CITY OF SIX THOUSAND.

According to the recent count, Lubbock has a population of nearly six thousand—to be exact, 5970, the first of last week when the job was completed and count checked and rechecked to make sure it was right, just lacked thirty and as it has been about ten days since that count was made and as we have not stopped growing, the average of three new citizens a day put us over this number and on we go to seven thousand. Lubbock is one of the fastest growing cities to be found anywhere. We are growing so fast that the city dads can't keep clothes big enough or enough of them to hardly make us presentable, but we are going to have our income increased soon, and then we will be able to buy some more clothes and doll up and look like we wanted folks to come to see us. The thing for Lubbock to do is simply to keep everything lined up for a continued progressive move. Keep moving and keep faces forward.

That Lubbock county has made great progress during the past two years, we refer you to the poll taxes of two years ago and those of today, to see that we have almost doubled our voting strength during that time.

Now since the poll tax and tax paying is about over, you must begin thinking about your income tax report. It is just one blank thing after another in this old world, still there are none of us that really want to leave it.

Most everybody gets what he wants most in life. The trouble is that so many poeple imagine they want something different from what they're going after.

Remember that ignorance is more costly than taxes. Line up for a new school building in Lubbock, and for the new buildings in the remote portions of the district.

Quityerchin and get down to business. You can't make business good by grouching.

A thought for today:

"Hope builds as fast as knowledge can destroy
In Folly's Cup, still laughs the bubble joy.
One pleasure past another, still we gain,
And not a Vanity is given in vain.

Cooper-Woods Party

It is ever the unique and original things that add that beauty and charm for which we all seek—this truth holds good as we peep behind the curtain of our social stage, and note the rare quality of genuine displayed in social affairs.

One of the prettiest afternoon parties of the season was given Friday, when Mesdames Cooper and Woods entertained with a combination Bridge and 42 party at Mrs. Cooper's beautiful home.

The Forty-two party guests were: Mesdames Faulk, Conley, Stevens, Adkins, O'Hair, Middleton, Pierce, Murray, Trinkle, Cosby, Rutledge, Cole, Davis, Starnes, Robertson, Penney, Lemon, Moore, Bradley and Hunt.

The Bridge guests were: Mesdames Thomas, Wilkinson, Slaton, Mast, Winn, Castleberry, Arnett, Krenger, Boerner, Hilton, Conley, Smith, Miss Rosson, Swift, Miller, Malone, Smith, Powell, Simpson, Sears and Bellah.

Mrs. Conley and Pierce won high score in 42. Mrs. Pierce was presented with a set of Ice Tea Glasses. Mrs. Thomas won high score in bridge and received a leather hand-painted book ends.

After the games, a delightful surprise followed when Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Woods distributed Menu cards bearing the following items, of which each guest was allowed to choose three:

Eye Opener, (Coffee).
Meat Extractors, (Tooth Picks).
Toothache Generators, (Stick Candy).
Devil's Mixture, (Devil's Food Cake).
Maiden's Delight, (Candy Kisses).
Crystal Dew Drops, (Water).
I Scream for More, (Ice Cream).
Travelers of the Desert, (Sand Witch).
Queen's Relish, (Queen Olive).
Forbidden Fruit, (Angel Food).
A Call for Aqua, (Salted Almons)
Moon Shine, (Cotton covered with Whipped Cream).

Be it know, however, that the names in the parenthsis were not on the Menu and can you imagine the chagrin on the countenance of one guest who ordered Meat Extractors, Crystal Dew Drops, Queen's Relish and received on a large dinner plate one tooth-pick, a glass of water and one green olive.

The second course, however, proved a more substantial lunch, when Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Woods served a delicious salad course. The hostesses are to be complimented upon the delightful arrangement and variation of the afternoon's program.

The Swift-Arnett Party

A beautiful home is a requisite of a beautiful party, and the new Swift residence made a delightful setting for one of the prettiest parties of this season of pretty parties when Mrs. Swift and Mrs. Bass Arnett entertained an afternoon and evening party of bridge and 42.

Mrs. E. A. Conley won high score in the afternoon's bridge and Mrs. Lon Mullican in 42. Mrs. Winn and Mr. McLarty won for the evening's bridge.

A dainty luncheon was served, both in the afternoon and evening, carrying out the touch of brightness added to the room with the color scheme of crimson worked out with crimson caranations and dainty Valentine hearts.

Mrs. Roger Pierce Party

Mrs. Roger Pierce entertained January 27th, with a delightful Bridge Party in compliment to her sister, Miss Gladyse Rosson, of Fort Worth, who is her house guest for a few weeks. Five games were played, after which a delicious salad course was served to Mesdames Overton, Martin, Winn, Woods, Sears, Johnson, Weaver, McLarty, Penny, Powell, Hilton, Swift, Smith and Misses Wilkinson and Rosson.

Junior Class Play Given at Ropes Sat. P. M.

"The Deacon's Wife" as presented by the Junior's of the Lubbock High School, at Ropesville Saturday night was greatly appreciated and enjoyed by those people, and sure it was good, for those school chaps know how to put a play like that over and there was nothing left out to keep this play from being well equipped with their personal characteristics, which made the affair all the more enjoyed.

That those young people know how to manage was also well demonstrated, for after all expenses were paid they had the neat sum of thirty-four dollars left, which is sure a nice little income for the first time the play was staged.

People of Lubbock need not be disappointed that they did not see this play, for they are going to be given an opportunity to see it right here in our own home town before long, as those pupils have been told, and it is true, that they have something out of the ordinary to show, and of course won't miss showing it to mama and papa and all the rest of the family, so let's don't disappoint them and all buy a ticket and enjoy one of the funniest evenings that has happened by in a long time.

They are all there, the entire personnel of this play knows their business, and there will be but a few quiet minutes after they start, even the between acts parts are worth the admission, and all the other fun just comes in for good measure.

Keep an eye on those youngsters and as soon as the announcements are out that they will play in Lubbock, start boosting the play and don't quit until the last minute for selling tickets is gone, and the play is on in full sway, for we are sure this play is worth the consideration of the entire populace of this town. Boost, back and boom this play for all it is worth and let's show those Junior's that they are appreciated in Lubbock.

AT THE CHURCHES

Cumberland Presbyterian

Seventy-six members were present at the Sunday School with twenty-seven absent. Good lessons are reported.

Rev. Baker preached in the morning hour on "The Modern Church," as revealed by the Lord Christ.", Text. Rev. 12: 1-2. The full church going strength of the church is reported present, but at the evening hour bad weather caused a slight decrease in attendance, but a good sermon on "Our Greatest Concern" was delivered to those who were fortunate enough to attend. Rev. J. F. Baker is a splendid talker and the value of his sermons to the church is hard to estimate.

Methodist Church

A larger crowd than has attended the Sunday School for a long time was on hand Sunday and a splendid lesson was reported from the various classes. The enthusiasm that seems to be aroused in the members is helping a great deal in increasing the number of attendants as the regular members are bringing new ones who are falling in line. Old members, let's keep this good work up and see if the constant attendance cannot be raised a little above par. The splendid classrooms provided for every department should be filled to capacity, and a little more such work as was done through last week can bring that favorable attendance about.

Rev. Ferguson preached a fine sermon on "The Passover" from Exodus 12, chapter 1st to 11 verses.

A good representation of the church membership heard this sermon, but it is pitiful to note that the small children of the Sunday School left before the preaching hour. Parents should encourage their children to attend these sermons, as Rev. Ferguson likes to preach to the children as well as to the grown-ups. Members please insist that your children stay for some of these sermons.

Church of Christ

Additional classrooms and a better workshop, together with increased efforts on the part of teachers, has given new life to the Bible Study work. Well prepared lessons and earnest attention and enthusiasm are reported. Our number has increased to 185.

The seating capacity of our new quarters was filled with an attentive audience at the eleven o'clock service. Brother Smith's sermon, as previously announced, was on instrumental music in Church worship, Text. Gal. 1, 6-12. He showed clearly that while musical instruments were used in church worship during the Jewish Age, there is no authority for it's use in the Christian Age.

At the evening hour Brother Smith spoke to us on the subject previously announced: "A Creed That Needs No Revision," Text. 2nd. Tim. 3: 16-17. In his usual forceful, yet kind, persuasive manner, he showed that God's inspired word, which needs no revision, which is simple, yet profound, clear and concise, all-sufficient, is by far the best creed. Human creeds are not inspired of God, hence need revision.

Everyone is welcome to all our services.

Here Is An Idea of One Day's Work by the Secretary of the Lubbock Chapter Red Cross

An idea of the work of the Red Cross in this city is best had from an actual report of the Secretary's activities during an average day. Each day is a separate story of many phases of our city's life but few in the city are acquainted with. The following detailed report of one day's activity is interesting and is a true report of one such day:

Office interview: Two negroes who wanted work.

Wrote two letters regarding the claims of ex-service men.

Received telephone call reporting a family who needed immediate help. Promised to investigate.

Office interview: Woman who wanted a man and his wife to work. Telephoned woman whose husband had been unable to find work, arranged for an interview with the woman who wanted help.

Office interview: Man whose son, an ex-service man, is in the hospital at Little Rock. Made arrangements with the father which had been asked for by the Medical Social Worker there. Wrote letter to the hospital.

Office interview: Girl who had secured a position for. She was out of work and wanted place. Telephoned family for whom she had been working, found her services were satisfactory. Telephoned a woman who had asked for help, arranged an interview for girl.

Noon—Office interview: With local physician asking the assistance of the Red Cross in helping a sick man go to his home.

Office interview: Woman wanting work. Would wash, iron, scrub or do anything. Nothing could be found for her. An hours work each day was found for her twelve year old daughter.

Consultation with Exalted Ruler of the Elks and the County Judge regarding a family who had been helped by individuals as well as organizations, for more than two years. Man is unable to do heavy work, cannot find light work. Woman has found very little work.

Office interview: Woman reporting an old man who was sick and had nobody to help him. His horses had run away or had been stolen the night before. Reported this to sheriff.

Office interview: Adjutant American Legion regarding the claims of ex-service men.

Home visit: To family reported in forenoon. Family living in tent. Man, woman, boy age three, girl age two, baby two days old. Man had been out of employment for some time and unable to work at present because there was no one to stay with the woman. The baby was being fed with a spoon, from a tin cup, because there was no bottle. They needed groceries, coal, and clothes for the baby. Man was told to call at office later in the evening to get clothes and bottle. Groceries and coal promised.

Gave order to local grocery for groceries, and telephoned an order for coal. Bottle was bought for the baby.

Office interview: Man came for clothes for baby. While in office he was questioned regarding his service record. He would call later, bringing his discharge, and file a claim for additional travel pay which is due him.

Office interview: Woman who had secured help through the Red Cross came to say the help was very satisfactory.

Taught at Mexican school in the evening.

A summary of the month's work for January includes among other items: 93 office interviews; visits to 46 homes in the city, including 24 among the Mexicans; 36 letters dealing with the problems of local ex-service men; filed two claims for compensation; filed one claim for additional travel pay; and made two claims for medical treatment for ex-service man; secured hospitalization for one ex-service man and sent his wife home to her parents; made two trips to Lorenzo to assist in straightening out martial relations, and taking care of one infant which is waiting adoption; found employment for six needy folks in the city and the thousand and one minor details that come up in every day's work as outlined above.

In order to fully appreciate the problems of the organization it is necessary for you to come down and see the flow of humanity that passes through the Red Cross office; hear their problems, and then go home and thank God that you have a home, are well and happy with a reasonable chance to enjoy life.

LOCAL MAN WILL ENTER BUSINESS IN SANTONE

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Welch left Saturday for San Antonio, where Mr. Welch will be engaged in the confectionery business with his father, C. E. Welch.

These people have been in Lubbock the past two years, and have made many friends here. Mr. Welch was at one time with the mechanical force of the Avalanche as linotype machine operator.

The business which he will enter at San Antonio will be established soon in a new brick building which his father has made arrangements for, and is well located. The Avalanche wishes him all success in this undertaking.

Come to Lubbock.

DECIDE NOW!
To-Morrow May be too Late

We have taken time and given much thought to a presentation of facts relating to the Panhandle Cigar Company and to its growth which necessitated more capital for handling of the business in an efficient manner. You have been told of Mr. Shaw's beginning; of the small investment and the almost unbelieveable but true growth of that investment to thousands of dollars in a very short time; of the ownership by this company of the famous Hamilton Fish and Shaw Hand Made Cigar and the demand for these goods; of the various sundry articles which are distributed through the Panhandle Cigar Company and the territory being served by the Company. We have made an honest and frank effort to give you all the facts regarding the company as a prospective stock-holder, we believe you have a right to know the absolute truth. We have endeavored earnestly, but not over-enthusiastically, to give you an insight into the possible growth of the company and its subsequent earning power. As far as we can determine there has been nothing kept back from you in this matter.

Location and Facilities Favorable

Being an entirely new concern in West Texas, the Panhandle Cigar Company's growth has been unequaled. Very little territory in this section of the State has passed the opportunity of letting us serve it, because of our location, railroad facilities and delivery service. Because of our unexcelled facilities and goods, we have little competition and unless we filled the needs and demands of the territory we serve, we know that the field is too good and that competition would surely come. Now by raising our capital stock to an amount only necessary for caring for the business as it should be cared for, the service we shall be able to give, will establish the Panhandle Cigar's business solidly.

Looking For Men With Vision

You have been and are now offered what we think and have tried to prove an opportunity of becoming a stock-holder and sharing in the big profits that are to come. You have witnessed the growth of wholesale concerns established in West Texas, just as the Panhandle Cigar Company is being established, and you are aware that the investors made money quickly. Within a short time there will be no stock for sale in this company. Already we have sold stock in greater quantities and in shorter time than at first predicted or looked forward to. We knew the condition of the investing public's mind and it was to those who had vision and faith in West Texas that we looked to as prospective stock-holders with us. The time is now here when we must insist that those willing to join with us, express their faith in our company and the great territory it serves, come in immediately. We want our stock in the hands of men who have the nerve to back their faith and foresight enough to grasp the unusual opportunity offered. We do not want to leave the impression that we are begging for capital—our company is now making us money and there are people who realize this to an extent that their money is being put into it upon a simple statement of the opportunity the future promises.

Opportunity for Sane and Profitable Investment

We have covered our proposition throughout the campaign thoroughly and can see no reason for a continuance of unnecessary expense. If you are interested, either write us or call for complete details of how you can become a stock-holder in West Texas' newest and most "promising wholesale establishment."

Proposed Capital Stock $100,000
Shares $1 each in lots of 50 and up.

Some Interesting Facts Regarding Rural Life in the Panhandle As Shown By Questionaires Sent Out Recently

1. How many rural clubs are there in your county?
2. Have you a County Federation of Women's Clubs?
3. How many Mothers Clubs are there in your county?
4. Have you a County Home Demonstrator?
5. How many Girls Canning Clubs have you in your county?
6. What is the total membership in the Canning Clubs?
7. Have you a county nurse?
8. How many school children have had physical examinations?
9. Have you a restroom in your county?
10. Who provided it, and where is it?
11. How is the restroom maintained?
12. Have you a county library?
13. Have you a Community Home in the county?
14. Is there a marketing system for home-grown products in the county?
15. Do you want the Farm Bureau in your county?
16. How many rural schools are there in your county?
17. Is public school music taught in any of them?
18. Do any of your rural schools serve hot lunches?
19. Are there any consolidated rural schools in your county?
20. How do the children get to school?
21. Have you a County Superintendent of Schools?
22. Is the superintendent a man or a woman?
23. Is there a farm in your county without a hen, a hog, or a cow on it?
24. Does your county feed itself?
25. Have you had a county clean-up campaign?

This is the list of questions that was sent out last Spring to fifty counties in the then First District of the Texas Federation by the district chairman for Rural Life. The motive of the questions was to collect material for the district report on rural life. Ten years ago there was not a rural organization in the district. There were few restrooms. There was no such character as the County Home Demonstrator. A free county nurse was unknown in this country. No child was ever given a physical examination. They were all mental. And then the mental examinations were not to ascertain the size and strength of the child's mind to determine what it most needed, but instead they were all merely tests of memory to prove what the child had memorized in history or geography and the like. With all the millions of such tests no one ever thought of such a thing as measuring the child's mind or examining its body to see why its mind did not work any better. The idea of serving something hot to a school boy had never been considered. Consolidated schools were scarcely known. Nor had many of us ever stopped to think where our food came from just so we had enough to eat.

Of the fifty questionnaires sent to fifty different counties in the great First District, forty were answered and returned. Each sheet returned would have made a wonderful story. There were counties in which every question was a negative one. There were other counties in which every question had a positive answer. There were two motives in the mind of the chairman who sent those questions to those fifty counties. The first motive was to learn what was being done along rural lines. The second motive was to discover what was not being done. And the results were both surprising. It is surprising how much is going on in the country these days. It is also surprising how little when compared with the great untouched possibilities in rural life. We cannot give the story of every one of the forty counties here. But since there will never be another report covering the same territory, as the First District was divided last Fall and the new Seventh District formed from it, we are giving the old district these figures to encourage us all to "press forward."

Every answer that follows is the total of the work that was being done in the district. However, these figures are far below the truth, because many of the answers were, "I don't know."

Rural clubs reported from the fifty counties, 97. County Federations, 8. Mothers Clubs in the rural districts, 53. County Home Demonstrators, 17. Girls Canning Clubs, 97. Total enrollment in Girls Canning Clubs, 1,365. County nurses, 15. Total school children who had had physical examinations, 46,522. Total number of restrooms in counties, 17. Provided and maintained by clubs, by the county, and almost every way. County libraries, 9, of various kinds, were reported. Two Community Homes were being talked about. A few egg circles were reported in the marketing business. Number calling for the Farm Bureau, 16. Number of rural schools reported, 832. Most of the answers were, "Don't know." Public school music was taught a little bit in four schools. Sixteen schools served some kind of a hot lunch. Seventeen consolidated schools were reported. The children got to school "any way they could." Most of the schools had county judges instead of county superintendents. There were five women county superintendents in the district. Only two counties reported farms without a hen, a hog, or a cow. Most of them said, "No." Others said, "Don't know. Think not." One said, "Found plenty by looking it up." Most of the counties said they fed themselves. Those who thought about it said, "No." There had been five county clean-up campaigns.

Suppose you look over this list and see what your county is doing and what it needs to be doing. Just one more word. The best reports came from the counties with Home Demonstrators.

A small matter, this—yet only one of the risks incurred in sending the washing "out."

In what you wear, as in what you eat, purity and sanitation are important—and these you can be sure of only in a thoroughly modern laundry like ours.

Consider these things—what you send us is washed in billowy, purifying suds, in four fresh waters; it is rinsed not once, but three or four times, in more clean, clear water. Then ironed at 212 degrees and more, and wrapped, finally in a sunlit room, and in a dust-proof package.

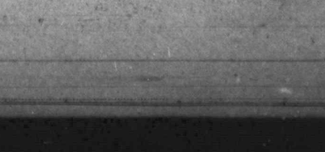

Not mere cleanness—but practical sterilization.

Fort Worth-Plains Railroad Meeting Held at Slaton

Slaton, Texas, Jan. 30.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon representatives from Throckmorton, Russell, Aspermont, Clairmont, Post City, and Slaton assembled at the club house in a largely attended meeting to discuss the proposed Forth Worth to Plains Railroad. Each visiting town was represented by from seven to ten delegates.

The meeting was opened with music rendered by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce band and orchestra after which B. M. Holland, president of the Chamber of Commerce was elected permanent chairman of the meeting and S. P. Bailey secretary. The resolutions committee is composed of E. P. Hufford of Post, Judge Vardiman of Clairmont, Roy Reynolds of Aspermont and F. M. Culberson of Slaton.

Each representative came here with instructions to pledge the right of way through their respective counties as well as property for terminals in the towns through which this road is to pass. These prominent visitors made inspiring talks, among them being J. F. Hartford, manager of the Post interests at Post City. He stated that this route had been surveyed by the Santa Fe a number of years ago and that Mr. Post's engineer accompanied their party and had Mr. Post lived the road would have been built already. He also stated that Post City was organizing a company for another cotton mill to be built at an early date and that a railroad was needed to the east of them to bring in the raw material to these cotton mills.

Delegates Speak

Mr. Jones, manager of the Post Tex Mills at Post City, also made an interesting talk telling of the necessity for this proposed road and the wonderful country it would develop.

Messrs. Nicholson and Grindstaff of Aspermont pledged the support of their county which is now undeveloped and needs this railroad to handle the heavy live stock and other shipments. Messrs. Vardiman and Hunter of Clairmont each told of the extreme need of a railroad through their county, stating in 1921, 20,000 bales of cotton, about 35,000 head of cattle and many other farm products were either driven or hauled out of the country to market; that this proposed road would open up 100,000 acres of the richest virgin soil in Texas in settlement; that it is especially adapted to the growing of long staple cotton and that during the past year cotton in that section brought a premium of 4 cents per pound over that grown in other sections. Numerous speakers were heard. The meeting closed tonight and the representatives declare that they will be in Fort Worth when the meeting is held there with propositions that cannot be ignored. They are after this railroad and will go the limit to get it.

"Fat men have a great reputation for being good-natured. And there's a darn good reason for them being so, because if trouble starts a fat man can't run fast, nor he can't defend himself—so there you are."

Setting Him Down

A pretty girl was dancing with a bachelor. "There will be many sad hearts when I marry," he told her.

"How many are you going to marry?" she asked.

Comment On the News

"The women of Tibet can marry as many as ten men at once." Thus once more variety is proven to be the spice of life.

A man is reported to have "shot his wife through the window." Now what part of the anatomy is that?

A feature writer has found that "many women becomes brides after 50." The reward of hope and patience.

"Man run over by steam roller." Probably the only thing that could broaden his brain.

As Newspapers Report It

Every woman is either beautiful, charming or attractive, when really large numbers of them look like bad news from Russia.

Every householder who chases a burglar is clad in pajamas, when really most of them wear old-fashioned nightshirts.

Everything falls with a deafening crash, when really the noise is seldom heard around the corner.

Every death is a tragic loss, when really a good many of them are blessings to the community.

Every new movement is a commendable project, when really lots of them are shrewd schemes to land a few more suckers.

Every politician is a progressive statesman, when really the average one is so pin-headed that his hat is full of holes.

Handy Mother

"What? Reading again, Mary?"

"Well, darling mother, there is nothing else for me to do. You do everything about the house, don't you?"

Too Sweet for Names

"What are the names of the young couple who just moved in next door?"

"We won't know for awhile yet. They've just been married, and he calls her Honey and she calls him Sweetie."

One Born Every Minute

"But why do you reject me? Is there another fellow?"

"Possibly. Do you think you are the last of the species?"

Get Busy

Don't talk of what you're going to do,
Don't boast until you're wholly thru,
Success means work—it's up to you.
Get busy!

The idler won't get far ahead;
You can't get rich by lying abed;
The wise man in his wisdom said:
Get busy!

There's work that's needed to be done;
There's work enough for everyone;
Don't think your life should be all fun—
Get busy!

Endeavor gives to life new zest;
Don't look around for a cosy nest,
But just start in and earn your rest
Get busy!

Idiotorial

Cooking, says a feminine writer, is an art in which every woman should be thoroughly versed. But she didn't mention what variety of cooking she meant, for some women will gladly cook your goose but not your dinner. Cooking is at the bottom of many divorces, as lots of grass widows are girls who claimed they could cook and afterwards proved they couldn't. The sins that are committed in the name of cooking would drive St. Peter to distraction. Many a bride has sprinkled lavender water on onions to keep down the odor, while a sure mark of the inexperienced housekeeper is the one who serves deviled tongue and angel cake at the same time. Just because a girl walks with mincing steps is no sign she can make mince pies. Some women can sit perfectly still and cook up more trouble than Carter had oats. The easiest way to scare off a tramp is to offer him some of the biscuits your wife cooked for your breakfast.

WITH LUBBOCK BUSINESS MEN

Maybe there are some people who pay small attention to claims and statements made by Henry Ford, but according to information which we have learned this week, one of the biggest and strongest corporations in the country doesn't slight Henry's remarks and evidence of such is made by the fact that this corporation's salesmen use thousands of Ford cars, or did, and now have been notified to turn them all into the companw and other cars will replace the Ford, the reason being, we learn that in a statement given to a newspaper recenly, Henry said in effect that he was making manufacturing preparations or had them in mind that would make the big implement manufacturers "hard to catch." What he has in mind must have been that through his organization, implements would be made and sold to the farmers at such prices that would make them universally used.

A Lubbock business man to whom the above corporation sells it's products, or rather a portion of them, received the information above detailed through the company's representatives.

Liff Sanders, for a long time active in church work of Lubbock, was here yesterday from his home at Crosbyton, where he is minister of the Church of Christ. He has many friends in Lubbock who are always glad to have him visit here. He is well pleased with the work of the church of Lubbock and the new building.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS FROM POST CITY POST

Last week Judge H. G. Smith joined in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. Chas. Morrow and Miss Naidene Young. Miss Younge is one of the teachers in our school and a most accomplished young lady. Mr. Morrow has lived among us a long time and a splendid young man now traveling out of Fort Worth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Morrow of Post. We extend congratulations and wish the very best in life for the happy couple.

W. C. Rylander, S. P. Robbins and Jno. Penny, members of the Big 3 Agency of Lubbock were on ourstreets Saturday. While here they made arrangements with Geo. Barnett to handle their life insurance business in Garza County, Geo. will devote only his spare time to this work.

A. Sid Garrett, of Chihuahua, Mexico, a big cattleman and well known to all of the older settlers of Post and Garza County is visiting Post this week. Mr. Garrett will be remembered as a cowboy of the U. S. Ranch. He tells us he organized Garza County and as justice of peace married the first couple ever married in the county, held the first court, arrested the first man, sold the first town lot, introduced the first man who spoke in the county in 1907, took acknowledgement of the county site and presented papers for the organization of Borden County. He is greatly elated over the growth and prosperity of Post.

Sweetwater M. E. Pastor Resigned Account Ill Health

The resignation of the pastor of the First Methodist church here. The Rev. R. A. Clemments, has been accepted by the local board of Stewards, according to an announcement which was issued last Sunday.

Rev. Clemments has been suffering from after effects of an attack of influenza since he came to Sweetwater last November.

Since Rev. Clemments arrived here, he has been able to fill his pulpit only three times, leaving shortly after his last sermon for Mineral Wells in the hope of regaining his health. The announcement is to the effect that Rev. Clemments will not undertake any active steps in church work for some time.

A successor to fill the unexpired term of Rev. Clemments has not as yet been named. Rev. D. B. Doak, of Abilene, who has preached here several times has been mentioned by Dame Rumor as a possible successor. Rev. Doak is a powerful speaker, and his appointment would be a most pleasing one, according to reports.—Sweetwater Reporter.

Both the resigning pastor and the prospective pastor of the Sweetwater church are well known in Lubbock. Both are strong preachers, and the many friends of Rev. Clements will learn with much regret that his health has broken down, and forces his abandonment of church work for the present.

SOME ASPECTS OF FARMERS' PROBLEMS

By Bernard M. Baruch
(Reprinted from Atlantic Monthly)

To take a tolerant and sympathetic view of the farmers' strivings for better things is not to give a blanket endorsement to any specific plan, and still less to applaud the vagaries of some of their leaders and groups. Neither should we, on the other hand, allow the froth of bitter agitation, false economics, and mistaken radicalism to conceal the facts of the farmers' disadvantages, and the practicability of eliminating them by well-considered measures. It may be that the farmers will not show the business sagacity and develop the wise leadership to carry through sound plans; but that possibility does not justify the obstruction of their upward efforts. We, as city people, see in high and speculatively manipulated prices, spoilage, waste, scarcity, the results of defective distribution of farm products. Should it not occur to us that we have a common interest with the farmer in his attempts to attain a degree of efficiency in distribution corresponding to his efficiency in production? Do not the recent fluctuations in the May wheat option, apparently unrelated to normal interaction of supply and demand, offer a timely proof of the need of some such stabilizing agency as the grain growers have in contemplation?

It is contended that, if their proposed organizations be perfected and operated, the farmers will have in their hands an instrument that will be capable of dangerous abuse. We are told that it will be possible to pervert it to arbitrary and oppressive price-fixing from its legitimate use of ordering and stabilizing the flow of farm products to the market, to the mutual benefit of producer and consumer. I have no apprehensions on this point.

In the first place, a loose organization, such as any union of farmers must be at best, cannot be so arbitrarily and promtly controlled as a great corporation. The one is a lumbering democracy and the other an agile autocracy. In the second place, with all possible power of organization, the farmers cannot succeed to any great extent, or for any considerable length of time, in fixing prices. The great law of supply and demand works in various and surprising ways, to the undoing of the best laid plans that attempt to foil it. In the third place, their power will avail the farmers nothing if it be abused. In our time and country power is of value to its possessor only so long as it is not abused. It is fair to say that I have seen no signs in responsible quarters of a disposition to dictate prices. There seems, on the contrary, to be a commonly beneficent purpose to realize a stability that will give an orderly and abundant flow of farm products to the consumer and ensure reasonable and dependable returns to the producer.

In view of the supreme importance to the national well-being of a prosperous and contented agricultural population, we should be prepared to go a long way in assisting the farmers to get an equitable share of the wealth they produce, through the inauguration of reforms that will procure a continuous and increasing stream of farm products. They are far from getting a fair share now. Considering his capital and the long hours of labor put in by the average farmer and his family, he is remunerated less than any other occupational class, with the possible exception of teachers, religious and lay. Though we know that the present general distress of the farmers is exceptional and is linked with the inevitable economic readjustment following the war, it must be remembered that, although representing one-third of the industrial product and half the total population of the nation, the rural communities ordinarily enjoy but a fifth to a quarter of the net annual national gain. Notwithstanding the taste of prosperity that the farmers had during the war, there is today a lower standard of living among the cotton farmers of the South than in any other pursuit in the country.

In conclusion, it seems to me that the farmers are chiefly striving for a generally beneficial integration of their business, of the same kind and character that other business enjoys. If it should be found on examination that the attainment of this end requires methods different from those which other activities have followed for the same purpose should we not sympathetically consider the plea for the right to cooperate, if only from our own enlightened self interest, in obtaining an abundant and steady flow of farm products?

In examining the agricultural situation with a view to its improvement, we shall be most helpful if we maintain a detached and judicial viewpoint, remembering that existing wrongs may be chiefly an accident of unsymmetrical economy growth instead of a creation of malevolent design and conspiracy. We Americans are prone, as Professor David Friday well says in his admirable book, "Profits, Wages and Prices," to seek a "criminal intent behind every difficult and undesirable economic situation." I can positively assert from my contact with men of large affairs, including bankers, that, as a whole, they are endeavoring to fulfill as they see them the obligations that go with their power. Preoccupied with the grave proolems and heavy tasks of their own immediate thoughtful personal attention or their constructive abilities to the deficiencies of agricultural business organization. Agriculture, it may be said, suffers from their preoccupation and neglect rather than from any purposeful exploitation by them. They ought now to begin to respond to the farmers' difficulties, which they must realize are their own.

On the other hand, my contacts with the farmers have filled me with respect for them—for their sanity, their patience, their balance. Within the last year, and particularly at a meeting called by the Kansas State Board of Agriculture and at another called by the Committee of Seventeen, I have met many of the leaders of the new farm movement, and I testify in all sincerity that they are endeavoring to deal with their problems, not as promoters of a narrow class interest, not as exploiters of the hapless consumer, not as merciless monopolists, but as honest ment bent on the improvement of the common weal.

We can and must meet such men and such a cause half way. Their business is our business—the nation's business.

The late John R. Ralls, being well known, and having considerable interests in Lubbock and having played an important part in the development of the Lubbock country, the text of his will may be of interest to many of our readers and we reproduce same from the last issue of the Ralls Banner:

First: I will that all of my just debts be paid, including my burial expenses and expense of last sickness.

Second: I desire my executor named herein shall erect a two crypt mausoleum over my grave, to be selected by said executor, not to exceed in cost the sum of Seven Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($7,500.00) and I further require that my body be buried in the cemetery at Ralls, Texas, in which cemetery I now own a lot.

Third: I will the sum of Two Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($2,500.00) to each of the children of my two sisters, the children of Mrs. Minnie O. The names of my said two sisters' children I cannot not recall, but the first named sister has two children and the second named sister has one child.

Fourth: I further will that my executor pay to J. Ralls Baker, son of W. C. Baker, of Altus, Okla., the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00. upon liquidation of my estate as above provided. Said J. Ralls Baker being the son of a lady raised by myself and wife, and named after me.

Fifth: I further will that my executor shall pay over to the authorities of the Methodist Church South and the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, at Ralls, Texas, the sum of Two Thousand ($2,000.00) each, conditioned that said authorities for the said two churches shall within twelve months after my death erect and complete church buildings in the town of Ralls, Texas, costing not less than Four Thousand Dollars ($4,000.00) each.

Sixth: It is my will that the residue of my estate be divided share and share alike, between the children of my two brothers, P. B. Ralls, of Ralls, Texas, and E. M. Ralls, of Comanche, Okla, living at the time of my death. However this bequest to the children of my said two brothers is not to take effect as to the share of each individual child until that child is twenty-one (21) years of age, and, should there exist in the judgment of my executor any reason for withholding same in any special case, then said executor is authorized to withhold the payment from any individual child of such legacy, until said child is twenty-five (25) years old.

Seventh: It is further provided that my executor shall so execute this will as not to financially damage the community interests of my wife, and that the administrator thereof shall be had in harmony with her interest where possible, but no undue delay shall be occassioned by the fact that she desires some other course to be followed, if in the judgment of my executor it is necessary to take a different course.

Eighth: I hereby constitute and appoint my brother, P. B. Ralls, executor of this, my last will and testament, and I hereby direct that he shall have full power to handle, sell and dispose of my said property as though it were his own property in carrying out the terms and provisions of this will; and I further direct and demand that no bond or other security be required of him by anyone, or the County Court of Crosby County, Texas, or any other Court as such executor.

Ninth: It is my will that my said brother, P. B. Ralls, be free to carry out the terms and provisions of this, my last will and testament, and I will and demand that no other action shall be had in the County Court, or any other court in the administration of my estate, than to prove and record this will and to make and return inventory and appraisement of my estate and list of claims, and that no court shall supervise or control by any order or judgment, his action as such executor.

DEPENDABLE MERCHANDISE

BARRIER BROS. HAVE ABLE BUYER IN EASTERN MARKETS

Paul Barrier left Sunday for the eastern markets to buy merchandise for the Barrier Bros. store.

Mr. Barrier is an experienced buyer and the customers of that store may feel that they are well represented in the first purchase of their goods through his selection. The Barrier Bros. store has long since established a reputation among their customers and the large volume of business they do is brought about by the keen insight they have to the needs of the trade, and their willingness to offer good service at all times.

C. L. Dixon and C. L. Hale of Tahoka, were here Sunday taking a good look at Lubbock. They are in the Insurance and Real Estate business at Tahoka.

H. C. Burrus was here Monday enroute to Brownfield. He is a groceryman of Slaton, and says business in that town is still on top. While in Lubbock he visited with Chas. Burrus, well known local man.

PARENTS AS EDUCATORS

Lessons in Mother Nature's Kindergarten

By Mary Francis Davis

One of the greatest privileges which a mother can enjoy is awakening and developing a love of nature in her children. This can be done by devoting a small amount of time each day to the concentrated observation of flowers, trees, birds, goods, snow and other beautiful offerings of nature. Mother Nature herself will outline the yearly program to be followed.

During the winter months, when much time is spent indoors, the hours may be improved by telling stories of animals, birds, ants, and bees, and showing pictures of these useful friends. There are many interesting things to be seen outdoors on winter walks. It is easy then, when trees are bare, for children to learn to recognize them by their barks. This is a good time to discover and examine nests which the birds deserted when Jack Frost told them to fly to the warm Southland. When snow comes, catch some hard dry flakes on a slate, and let the children examine the beautiful crystals. Speak of the snow as a soft, white blanket covering the tiny seeds which are down in the ground, waiting to grow.

Then comes Spring with her helpers, the March winds, the April showers, and the warm sunshine. The children can be outdoors more at this time, and love to romp with the strong March wind, which is sweeping and blowing the dead leaves about. Watch for the first wee green shoots as they peep through the ground, followed soon by crocuses, daffodils, bloodroot and the tiny woods flowers. It is a great joy to be able to take children for walks in the woods at this season, but the little city boys and girls need not be denied the fun of seeing the little seeds awake. Try this interesting experiment.

Give each child a sponge, and have him moisten it and place it in a saucer in a sunny window. Then sprinkle it full of ordinary mixed grass seed or, if you keep a canary, and have bird seed, use that. Do not tell the child what will happen, but let him watch for the changes that will come. Bring pussy willow stalks, and branches from other bushes into a warm, sunny room, and observe the budding of the flowers and leaves.

Lead your little children to think of the April rains as kind helpers, and repeat to them "Come listen to the pitter patter of the April showers." In these verses we have the thought of the April showers bringing out the sweet May flowers.

As the Spring and Summer birds and flowers come, tell the children their correct names. It is a splendid plan to collect pictures of familiar birds and flowers, and paste them in scrap-books on rainy Summer days. These books will help the children to remember their Summer friends when Jack Frost and Winter come again.

As Autumn comes on, notice the party dresses of gold and red which the leaves put on, and watch the flowers change. Many seeds are falling from the flowers and trees to the ground.

Then the Autumn leaves flutter down and warmly cover the little seeds, which are ready for a long sleep, after their happy summer. Notice that most of the birds have gone, the squirrels have finished gathering their nuts, and are staying in their warm hollow trees, and the little woods animals have found cozy nooks for their long winter naps. Watch for the first signs of frost on the grass and ice on the puddles. Then with the first snowfall, Winter has surely come, and our cycle of the season is complete.

In addition to the physical benefits gained by spending more time outdoors, children will gain a broader understanding of the processes of Nature in these lessons; and more important a new bond of sympathy and interest will be formed between the mother and her little ones.

The case is set for argument on March 6, but by the action of the court today, it will be postponed until April 24.

The request was based upon the failure to receive testimony taken by the commissioner appointed by the court in an effort to locate the line which the court decided should be the south bank of the river.

MEMPHIS WOMAN FREED ON MURDER CHARGE

Memphis, Texas, Jan. 31.—Mrs. Bernice Vallance, charged with the murder of Floyd Barham, Feb. 11, 1921, was acquitted by a jury here at 2:45 this afternoon. The jury had been out since 6 o'clock yesterday evening.

The Vallance case went to trial Monday of last week. The court room was crowded each day, the case having interested this entire section because of the prominence of the people at Palaska, Hall County, where they both lived, and because of the reported romance existing between the two.
