THREATENED WALK-OUT IS AVERTED

H. N. F's. Mainly About PEOPLE

Kirby and the Primary He's Against It— So Is Harding— It Slows Legislation—

PRESIDENT HARDING IS AN advocate of the convention and not the direct primary for the nomination of candidates for office, John W. Weeks is a strenuous advocate of the convention plan and an immediate return to the old system.

All the old guarders, republicans and democratic alike, condemn the direct primary and advise a return to the old order of things. There is a distinguished Texan who has joined the chorus and this Texan is Colonel John Henry Kirby, leader of the protectionist democrats of exas, organizer of the southern tariff association and financial agent of most of the movements to save the people from themselves.

Edward B. McLean is the publisher of the Washington Post, the golf champion of President Harding and the official newspaper mouthpiece of the Harding administration. This interesting story is taken from the Post:

"JOHN HENRY KIRBY OF Houston, Texas, head of one of the large lumber companies of the southwest and a leader in Texas politics, at the Shoreband, declared his emphatic belief in the failure of the direct primary system. 'It looks as though all the states were playing poker and using only white chips' is the way he describes the situation as he sees it. Not only does Mr. Kirby believe that the direct primary system has lowered the standard of congressional personnel but he feels that it has resulted in slowing up important legislation by removing party responsibility and party control to a large extent.

"IT WAS BAD ENOUGH TO have the senators elected directly by the people,' he said. 'But the idea of having them also nominated by direct popular vote is far from theideals upon which this nation was founded. We must not forget that this country is not supposed to be a pure democracy but a republican government by delegated powers. The power originally comes from the people of course, but it is exercised through their representatives and not directly.

"If we are ever to see a restoration of the senate and house as the scene of the endeavors of the ablest men of the nation, we must get away from the direct primary system which opens the gates to another type of official,' Mr. Kirby declared after calling the roll of a long list of distinguished senators of the past and declaring that their equals in statesmanship and attainment do not adorn the senate chamber."

COLONEL KIRBY IS A FREE born American and entitled to his own convictions and their widest publicity. He would return to the convention system and the political bosses of old. Read between

MILK AND ICE FUND TO POOR IS OVER $300

Templars Send In Check For Fifty Dollars

If Christ were to come to earth today he would find in Wichita Falls an abundance of that rare trait of real religion—Christian charity.

The Record News knew there were many good people in this city, people who would open their hearts and pocketbooks to the call of the helpless, but it was not anticipated that checks would come in so fast and in such large amounts for the Milk and Ice fund to help the poor kiddies and the folks who are unfortunate and can not buy these necessities for their children.

Templars Give $50

Up to Saturday a total of $251 had beenreceived and Monday's mail brought in a total of $75 more. Of this amount $50 was contributed by Wichita Falls commandery No. 59 of the Knights Templar, an organization known the world over for benevolence. Two more substantial checks came in from individuals making the total receipts for the day $75 in cash.

OILS FACE BIG PROBE

Searching Inquiry Of 350 Companies Is Started

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Searching inquiry into the financial accounts and general business operations of more than 350 oil companies, including practically every refining, producing and marketing concern in the country, is made by the senate manufacturers committee in a questionnaire sent out and made public by Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, committee chairman.

The information sought by the committee, in connection with the investigation it is conducting into the oil industry and business methods, the questionnaires say, should be in the possession of the committee by July 15.

Financial Schedules Asked.

In each instance the questionnaires were accompanied by letters explaining that the information was requested under a senate resolution and would be made a vital part of the inquiry. Financial schedules of the oil industry, special reports on organization and business of companies in the oil industry and prices schedules for the oil industry for the period January 1, 1920, to June 30, 1922 each with blank spaces to be filled in by the recipient, are made a part of the questionnaires.

Refinery, wholesale and tank wagon prices are to be given with a view, Senator LaFollette explained, of learning the spread between the selling and service station prices of gasoline and oil. The differences between prices for crude oil and finished products also are inquired into.

The questionnaires call upon the oil concerns to state their banking connections, their current debts, their stock and bond obligations, stockholdings, mangament personnel and any inter-corporate relations.

TEXAS KATY LINES FREE

Receivership Ended; Property Ordered For Sale

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, July 3.—The receivership of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway of Texas was dissolved late today when Federal Judge James C. Wilson of the North Texas district signed three decrees filed last Monday by counsel for the trust companies and reorganization managers of the system, ordering foreclosure of three mortgages covering M. K. & T. property and authorizing sale of the road.

A. B. Flanary, Dallas attorney, was appointed special master to sell the properties at public auction. Mr. Flanary announced the sale would be held about August 15. The branch lines and extensions of the system will be sold at Denison. The line which runs from Shreveport to McKinney will be sold at Greenville.

Big Sale at Colbert.

The sale of the main line will take place at Colbert, Oklahoma and will be conducted by Byron F. Babbitt of St. Louis and Joseph F. Dobbyns of Oklahoma City, special masters appointed by Judge Sanborn.

Financial interests headed by J. and W. Seligman & Co., and Haligarten & Co. of New York have planned the erorganization of the road are are expected to buy it at the various sales, it is said. Judge Wilson reserved for future determination the question fo what creditors are entitled to priority of payment.

Dissolution of the receivership is part of the action recently taken seeking simultaneous termination of receiverships for each division of the Katy system existing in federal courts. A decree dissolving the receivership of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway company was granted by the federal court in St. Louis last Friday and a decree terminating the receivership of the Wichita Falls & Northwestern railroad, another Katy line was granted by the federal court in Oklahoma City last Thursday.

Waurika Road to Be Completed In Time for Big Christmas Trade

One hundred teams with 125 men will be put to work on the Byers-Waurika railroad within a week and construction of the line is expected to be completed by December 1, according to Capt. H. F. McFarland who will be in charge of the work. Captain McFarland was busy Monday making arrangements to get the various phases of the work under way.

Grading will start from Byers possibly by the latter part of the week and the work will be carried on toward the Red river. The grading will be done toward the river first and track laid so that the bridge can be completed as soon as possible, Captain McFarland said.

Track laying will start in about three weeks, Captain McFarland explained and besides the 100 teams and 125 men to be put on right away there will be about 100 more men put on as track men and surfacing men when track laying starts.

Material for the construction of the road should be under movement within two or three days and no delay in construction work is anticipated.

Every effort will be made to construct the road to Red river in record time so that trains can haul the bridge material over the road and on account of the length of the bridge, the construction will take considerable time and care. Bridge gangs will be ready and work started on the bridge just as soon as the first car load of material reaches there. When the river is crossed work beyond the river will be rushed.

With the road completed by December 1 as Captain McFarland expects, trains are expected to be in operation before Christmas furnishing Wichita Falls a through connection to Oklahoma City and other points of the northeast.

DUBLIN FIGHT GOES ON WITH GREATER FURY

Irish Insurgents Show No Sign Of Surrender

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, July 3.—Severe fighting in O'Connell street was in progress at 10 o'clock tonight. The national troops were maintaining unremitting pressure but at that hour there was no indication of surrender. All the approaches to O'Connell street had been barred, and some of the posts occupied by the irregulars were on fire.

CITY AWAITS RESULTS OF MORNING FIGHT

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, July 3.—The people of Dublin are now awaiting the results of the attack on the Gresham hotel and other premises in O'Connell street, which has been in progress incessantly since morning. The rebels hold positions in two areas near each other, with a wedge of regulars between.

Until late this afternoon on the southside of the city the people were moving freely; crowds thronged the streets or engaged in shopping, although many of the larger stores are still closed. All the entrances to St. Stephen's green were open and many people, basked in the sunshine there, away from noise of the guns in the O'Connell area.

Jail Crowded

Mount Joy jail has been converted into a war prison with Dermott Hagerty, secretary of the province, as governor.

During the course of the fighting a heavy barrage of machine gun fire from the armored cars and rifle fire fro mthe buildings opposite was answered by a brisk fire from the irregulars. The rattle of guns continued all day long and crowds of onlookers gathered outside of the line of fire. Now and then especially heavy firing or the bursting of bombs or grenades caused a stampede but the crowds soon returned, fascinated by the spectacle.

Up to the present time the casualties among the combatants are astonishing small, while the tool of civilians is heavy. Those who dare the guns seem to escape, while others going about their business fall by stray bullets.

Maintenance of Way Men Postpone Strike Pending Conference

Railroad Labor Board Has High Hopes of Keeping Additional 400,000 Men At Their Work; Gompers Denounces Outlawing of Strikers as Ridiculous and Infatuous"

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 3.—With striking shopmen formally branded by the United States railroad labor board as "outlaws" the board tonight directed its efforts toward the prevention of an extension of the walkout to some 400,000 maintenance of way men.

Following a meeting of the executive council of the United Brotherhood of maintenance of way employes and railway shop laborers in Detroit today, to canvass a strike vote, it was announced that the threatened walkout would be held up. Pending a conference with Walter L. McMenimen, labor member, and Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the labor board tomorrow morning. The conference was arranged at the suggestion of Mr. McMenimen," etc.

Members of the board expressed strong hopes tonight that the conference would avert a walkout. They declared that the only question at issue was one of wages and that the way already had been opened for a reconsideration of wage reductions which went into effect on July 1 simultaneously with the shopmen's walkout.

At that time Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the board announced that government reports indicating an increase in the cost of living since the board reduced its wage reduction decisions, that it could be made the basis of an immediate appeal to the board by employes for wage increases. Union leaders were quoted today as demanding only that the board hold up its wage cuts pending the appeal. The difference, it was

SENATE RACE BETWEEN TWO

Eastern Paper Has Political Views

By BASCOMB N. TIMMONS

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The run off in the Texas senatorial race apparently will be between Senator Charles A. Culberson and Former Governor James E. Ferguson, the Philadelphia Public Ledger in a copyrighted article asserted Sunday. It asserts there is a possibility of Culberson getting a majority in the first primary, although a run off with Ferguson is likely, the opinion is given as a symposium from correspondents in various parts of Texas.

Ferguson's gain has come within the last 10 days, the article declares, saying that before that time he had little strength.

The article asserts that both Thomas and Mayfield have lost support in great blocks within two weeks. Much of Mayfield's expected klan vote will go to Henry and dissatisfied farmer vote for Mayfield is expected, will go to Ferguson.

The article asserts that Thomas has lost support because he figured to get anti-klan vote, which he lost by cooing to the klan.

Culberson, the article says, has made tremendous inroads on the Thomas support.

Clarence Ousley's support, the article asserts, is largely one county support, being almost wholly in Tarrant county.

Henry and Mayfield are expected to divide the klan strength, keeping both of them out of the second primary.

STRIKE CALL JUST NIPPED

Board Request Halts Walk-Out Plans In Bud

By Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 3.—The United States railroad labor board late today averted temporarily at least a threatened strike of 400,000 maintenance of way employes of the nation's railroads in protest of a wage reduction.

Just as the executive board of the United Brotherhood of maintenance of way employes and railway shop laborers was mapping plans to send forth a strike call, the labor board made a request by long distance telephone that the union chiefs meet with the labor board in Chicago tomorrow in an attempt to adjust the differences between the railroads and their employes. The invitation was accepted by the five members of the union board. E. F. Grable, international president, left tonight for Chicago.

In addition to the invitation the labor board sent by telegraph to the union officials a copy of a resolution passed by the board today in which it announced any organization striking against the board's decision would be outlawed.

The labor boards invitation to the conference brought to an abrupt end a meeting of the brotherhood that began at 10 o'clock this morning. After the conference had progressed several unofficial word came from the conference room that a walkout "reasonably might be expected."

When the labor board invitation came the meeting was adjourned hurriedly.

"In addition to the brief statement announcing acceptance of the labor board's invitation, Mr. Grable declared that in the event the Chicago conference met with failure, "a reasonable length of time" would ensue before a strike call was issued. He said this meant at least 10 or 12 hours.

CITY CLOSES FOR HOLIDAY

Circus and Other Attractions Here

Courts and stores in Wichita Falls bow in recognition of the "glorious Fourth" today, when the rising of the "new sun" brings another anniversary of the declaration of independence.

Practically every business house in the city will be closed the entire day, only the drug stores and cold drink stands remaining open, while only the deputies of the sheriff's department will hold sway in the Wichita county court house.

The majority of Wichita Falls will turn out to see Lucille and other attractions at the Shrine circus, including Eddie Perdue, sensational ballyhoo artist, while a large number will journey over the paved highway to Electra, where the American legionnaires of that community have prepared an elaborate celebration, including fireworks display and a ten round boxing tourney that promises to be good.

All day long today, the pop-pop of crackers and the rat-a-tat-tat of other fireworks will be in evidence on the streets. Don't jump if one explodes under your feet; just remember the kiddies are "having a safe an' sane Fourth."

The explosion of fire crackers began here several days ago, and it is rumored on every hand that the kiddies of Wichita Falls have just been preparing for today. After having been pent up a year, the old boom that rings in the glorious Fourth ought to ring loud.

A large crowd of baseball fans started early this morning over the Wort Worth & Denver to Fort Worth where the Panthers and Spudders collide in a double header, while in this city there will be crowds trailing to Lake Wichita, where an elaborate display of fireworks will be held tonight, and crowds trailing to the circus.

Many old-fashioned picnic have been planned in surrounding communities to celebrate the famous day.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

the lines he says in his interview with the Washington Post that the people are incapable of selecting or nominating their own servants via the direct primary route. This carries with it the imputation that the American people are not capable of self-government after a trial of 146 years. If this be true then representative democracy is a failure and the hour has come for the elevation or coronation a supreme dictator in the seat of the father of his country.

OF COURSE THE DIRECT primary has been the agency for the demolition of many old guarders and their lieutenants in the two great political parties of America. Think of what happened to Harry S. New of Indiana. Think of what happened to the invincible bosses of Pennsylvania when Pinchot went over the top. Think of Brookhart. Think of what happened to Porter J. McCumber when the farmers and laborers and railway employes nominated Lynn J. Frazier United States senator. Think of what happened in Texas two years ago when the old guarders and their lieutenants went down in inglorious defeat. Think of what is going to happen this year the country over on primary election day. Think what may happen in the campaign year of 1924.

Dr. Republican Congress has failed to give the people the relief they demanded. Dr. Warren J. Harding has failed to give the people the relief his platform pledged them. Dr. Napoleon Financier of Wall Street, who promised to effect a miraculous cure of natural ills by repeated injections of the gold elixer, has failed to give the people the relief that Wall Street financiers promised two years ago.

This newspaper has no quarrel with any of the doctors aforesaid mentioned or with Wall Street and the school of physics. But when political physicians turn out to be quacks or prescribed quack nostrums it is the custom of the friends of the patient to dismiss the old and to call in the new.

THOSE WHO ARE CAPABLE OF reading the signs of the times are hinting two years in advance of the campaign of 1924 that a very noted California political physician, Dr. Willim Gibbs McAdoo may be called in at that time to make a diagnosis and to do his best to restore health and happiness to the afflicted and long suffering patient. Dr. McAdoo has a national reputation. He is particularly strong in all the territory west of the Mississippi river and from the Canadian border to the Gulf west of the river. Men say he would have a tremendous clientele in many of the states east of the Mississippi river in the north and south.

American women who are armed with the ballot now are particularly friendly to Dr. McAdoo. Colonel Kirby is for the doing away of the direct primary. It makes him sick when he looks at the senate in session and think of the mighty who have departed. Wow!

BONDS FORFEITED

Judge W. H. Chauncey issued an order of arrest Monday for a man and woman charged with vagrancy, neither of whom appeared when their names were read from the blotter.

Because they did not appear, each forfeited a bond of $25, which the court collected.

Old Dan Cupid Gets Rather Spry As Former Lovers Seek to Rewed

Dan Cupid played havoc in the vicinity of the county clerk's office yesterday.

He brought misery to officials of the "wedding bureau" and happiness to those who sought its comforts.

He shot an arrow, straight and true, right into the hearts of fair maidens almost by the score, and dragged several blushing grooms-to-be to the rail where marriage licenses are issued.

The clerks in the county office are of the opinion that Dan Cupid has entered some kind of a pact with the Fourth of July; nevertheless, whether a combine could be proven or not, eight pairs of people took the "fatal step" yesterday and bought the contract which binds—not necessarily for life, but for a time, anyway.

Several of those who sought wedding licenses came from Oklahoma, while several showed clearly that carefree widows have been busy in the past.

One man, so anxious to wed again, applied for a license twenty minutes after he had been granted a divorce, while another sought to renew the old ties, and got a certificate for the "girl he loved before." He literally ruined a divorce decree and took unto himself again his first and only wife.

Old boys, young boys—all sought the altar of Dan Cupid and ole Dan played his part well.

A third day of the shopmen's strikepassed in comparative quiet although a slight disturbance was reported at Perry, Iowa, where 20 laborers brought in from Chicago for shop work were stoned and run out of town. C. E. Johnson, general manager of the Kansas City Southern, reported to the labor board during the day that one of his assistants had been assaulted by strike sympathisers at Leesville, La., while repairing an air hose.

Fist Fights

Reports from various cities told of fist fights which caused only minor injuries. At Oklahoma City, C. E. Schaff, receiver for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, today notified Governor J. B. A. Robertson, that he anticipated violence against non-union employes of the road and asked the executive to be ready to afford protection. The first disturbance in Chicago occurred at the Baltimore and Ohio yards where a crowd threw stones at men remaining at work and smashed windows in a railroad coach.

M'CORMICK FOUND NOT GUILTY BY JURY

Police Chief J. W. McCormick was found not guilty of a charge of affray by a jury of five men in corporate court Monday morning, following a hearing conducted as it might have been before the federal bar.

McCormick was charged with fighting, in connection with an alleged assault upon J. Orville Bentley. The latter paid a $10 fine several days ago on a charge of using abusive language in connection with the alleged affray.

According to bystanders, who witnessed the affray, Bentley was said to have used obscene language directed at McCormick, the latter striking Bentley.

McCormick pleaded not guilty.

KEEP CITY'S PEACE

Don't disturb the peace in Wichita Falls.

It's aviolation of the city ordinance and of state laws, and Judge W. B. Chauncey believes in upholding those laws.

That was exhibited in corporate court Monday when the judge placed a fine of $10 each on a man and woman and $15 on a man for disturbing the peace.

During the session, one traffic violator added $5 to the city treasury upon his own plea of guilty.

BAD ACTOR IN TROUBLE HERE

He's Stuck $25 On Own Admission

"Then you admit that you're a bad actor?" City Prosecutor E. H. Gipson asked a youthful figure who stood before him.

"Yes, I'm pretty bad when I get mad," the youthful one responded. He had also just completed admitting that he had carried a gun, had used abusive language to a man and had "just pushed a woman three or four times," out of his way.

Testimony adduced at the trial in city police court tended to show that the youth had disturbed the peace through using abusive language and attempting to fight. He contended a "a drunk man kicked me in the back, and I don't allow anybody in Wichita Falls to kick me in the back."

Because he had admitted himself that he was a "bad man," and that he might be vicious when he "gets started," Judge Chauncey fined him $25 for disturbing the peace and turned him over to the county authorities.

The county will also investigate his having carried the pistol, which he said he intended to use.

Wheat Growers Hold For Better Market

Special to the Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., July 3.—Harry A. Joyce announced yesterday that local farmers are marketing only 50 per cent of their wheat.

The majority of the grain is testing No. 2 or better. The average weight is 60 pounds.

Railroads are supplying all cars demanded for the crop which affords excellent shipping accommodation.

AUTO THIEVES BUSY

Automobile thieves were again busy in Wichita Falls Sunday night.

Reports reaching the police department Monday morning indicated that a motor meter, the property of the Cliscbee Auto Service company, had been stolen.

C. A. Wilson, commercial agent of the Wichita Falls & Southern, departed Monday morning for Fort Worth on company business.

Officials Attend But They Did Not Get Invitations

It was just a little party, evidence brought out in police court tended to show.

And although the city officers had not been invited, they came as the "unexpected guests."

As a result of their sudden appearance at the "party," five defendants charged with vagrancy, two of which were women, faced Corporate Judge W. H. Chauncey in police court Monday morning.

The question of "guilty" was propounded to each of them, to which they both admitted and denied their guilt.

The "party" was a little expensive, it cost exactly $125, $25 each; they all "paid off."

30TH COURT CLOSED

Judge H. R. Wilson announced Monday afternoon that the 30th district court will be closed all day today, in recognition of the Fourth of July, but that the magistrate himself would remain in Wichita Falls to handle any emergency that might arise.

Judge Wilson intimated that he will not attend the state bar association meeting in Fort Worth today and tomorrow.

This Man Wouldn't Stay Down

The reward was not long coming—an increase in salary. Then he was made Foreman. Now he is Superintendent.

Woman Tears Sign From His Back

"Unfair to union labor."

The sign was being worn by a picket.

The "picket" was said to have been marching in front of a cafe on Seventh street.

According to a woman who must answer Thursday charges docketed against her in corporate court, "the man passed once too often."

The sign was torn from his back an dhe was said to have been struck several times by the woman.

"I wouldn't employ one of them—it's the waters' union—and they tried to picket me."

All principals in the case must appear Thursday in corporate court, to explain to the magistrate just who wore the sign, and why it was being worn.

Music On Program At Kiwanis Club

Penn's orchestra furnished the music, which the Kiwanians all enjoyed, while "Pete" Rogers furnished some enlightening sidelights on "juice" following the luncheon of the club held Monday at the Kemp hotel.

In his interesting talk, Mr. Rogers said that the electrical business is different from any other in the world, and that the local organization has but one aim—that of service.

He explained the mechanism of the electric plant, and sair that it is an ambition of each individual in the department to serve. In this connection, Mr. Rogers said that the "electrical business was one of the first to realize that service is the first essential factor in success."

Sterley, general freight and passenger agent headquartered at Fort Worth, in a general inspection tour over the Fort Worth & Denver lines.

From Fort Worth, Mr. Oates will motor to Rhome, from Rhome to Amarillo. The tour will include Memphis, Texas; Spur, Abilene, thence up the Wichita Valley en route back to Wichita Falls.

The agricultural agent will reutrn here on the twelfth.

FOR THE INFORMATION OF THE PUBLIC

Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway shopmen have joined in a strike called by the Federated Shop Crafts, railways employe's department of the American Federation of Labor, in protest against the decision of the United States Railroad Labor Board, establishing wage rates and working conditions of employes.

Efforts by the Railroad Labor Board to avert the strike through peaceful means have failed. The striking employes have not negotiated with the management of the railroad over the questions at issue with the Labor Board, nor was the railroad given direct notice of their purpose to strike.

Uninterrupted transportation service is of paramount importance. The M. K. & T. Lines will, therefore, operate scheduled trains, exerting every effort and employing all necessary legal resources to protect the public against inconvenience and loss.

To the end that there may be no misunderstanding of the matters at issue in the strike, consideration of the following facts is requested:

The management of the M. K. & T. Lines has complied with the orders and rulings made by the United States Labor Board since its organization, in effort to peaceably adjust disagreements with employes.

The United States Railroad Labor Board, after full and fair hearing, has declared that the wages established for railway shopmen, effective July 1st, are still above those paid in other industries.

There has not been, nor will there be, reduction in wages, or change in working conditions, of employes coming under the jurisdiction of the United States Railroad Labor Board, without the approval of that body.

As instances have arisen in which employes and the management are unable to agree as to the interpretation and application of rules established by the Labor Board and its rulings complied with. This policy will be continued.

Lower transportation rates without impairment of service are impossible unless accompanied by reductions in operating expenses. The Interstate Commerce Commission has declared reductions in freight rates to be necessary in the public interest in conformity with this declaration, the M. K. & T. has reduced freight rates, although the effect will be to decrease its revenues in a sum greatly exceeding the decrease in expenses which will result from the reductions in employe's wages effective July 1st.

The strike of the shopmen is in protest against the declaration of the United States Government through the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Labor Board that railroad employes and railroad managements should jointly make concessions to the end that the benefits of lower transportation charges, without impairment of service, may be passed on to the general public.

The strike is in defiance of the authority of the legally constituted agencies of the Government, provided to protect the public in its right to uninterrupted transportation service, at rates established after consideration of all interests; to protect railroad employes against demands that interfere with the maintenance of adequate transportation and facilities and service. The M. K. & T. Lines have consistently complied with the laws regulating railroads, and with the specific requirements of the Transportation Act. There will be no change in this policy. The support and encouragement of fair minded citizens and employes is earnestly solicited during the strike trouble to the end that train service may be maintained without interruption, and that the public and the railroad may be protected against losses which would retard business recovery.

Texas' Newest Well Puts 735 Barrels of Oil in Tanks in Day

BIG PRODUCER IN 1900 FOOT

217 Waggoner Offset To Bridwell

During the 24-hour period ending Sunday night the Texas company's newest completion, the No. 217 Waggoner, put 735 barrels of oil into the tanks, making this another unusually large completion for the new 1,900 foot sand.

The new well offsets the Bridwell and Heydrick No. 13 Waggoner. It is the first completion in the 1,900 foot sand reported since the early part of last week from the original pool.

Several other wells are due for completion in this sand within the next few days both on the Texas company Waggoner, and on other leases.

Completions Make Herron City Boom

HERRON CITY, July 3.—The Penn Cities district is very active and the McGarr No. 1 Herron got 15,000,000 feet of gas at 2,350 feet this last week. They have also made a No. 2 location on thi slease. The Penn Cities No. 3 Herron is drilling at 2000 feet. Miller, Horner and Taylor are still getting better than 200 barrels in their well on the Herron land. Mecks et al No. 1 Herron is drilling at 1300 feet. Whitehead et al, No. 1 Herron is drilling at 500 feet with a rig up on No. 2 location. Pimong Valley No. 1 Herron has a rig up and moving in tols. Wells & Spellings have the hole cleaned at 1200 feet and are preparing to drill deeper. Madden & Madden No. 1 Herron is a rig. Southland Oil company No. 1 Herron is a location. Young County Drilling company No. 1 A. E. Foster has a rig located near the school house.

Herron City is now the cynosure of all eyes. It is growing like magic and a great future is predicted for it. It is located ten miles south of Graham and about the same distance east of Oil City. Twenty-seven strings of tools are running and thirty-five rigs are under construction. The town is piped for water, the Extension Gas company is laying gas mains and Ben March of South Bend is installing an electric light plant. President Moore of the Oil Field Telephone & Telegraph company opened an exchange today and communicated with the outside world.

There are five proven sands in this section and the Tyrrell No. 1 well is a sensational producer at a depth of 2,485 feet.

The McGarr and Son No. 1 Herron got a 15,000,000 foot gasser this week at 2,348 feet.

Crawford and Harrison are drilling at 1200 feet in their Kisinger No. 1 and are preparing to set 10 inch casing.

HEYDRICK READY FOR TEST TODAY

Drilled into a sand from 1405 to 1420 feet, reported to be very good looking, the Heydrick, Flowers et al No. 1 Waggoner, in section 28, is reported preparing to test today. A good producer here will mean an important extension of the semi-deep sands to the westward, the new test being a mile north and west of the Grisham well, which opened up the 1600 foot sand for a southwest extension, and about two miles south and west of the Harvey-Cullum producers in section 31.

SOUTHERN DIVIDEND

Southern States Oil corporation, the new Haskell unit, has declared its regular dividend of 1 per cent monthly, payable on July 20, 1922, to stock of record July 1.

John O'Neil No. 3 Rio Bravo Shows For From 100 to 150 Barrels Daily

Swabbing from the top of the sand, at 1,920 feet, the John O'Neil No. 3, Rio Bravo, in section 31, South Electra, is showing for 100 to 150 barrels daily production, according to reports from the test Monday. The rotary is being moved off and a standard will be rigged up to drill deeper into the sand and give a thorough test.

The No. 1 is rigging up to fish out some under reamer slips lost in the hole around 1,400 feet. This test has been shut down for several weeks, waiting the test of the 1,900 foot sand. The No. 2, which has been shut down on the 700 foot sand for some time, will also start drilling this week, and will drill to the 1,400 or 1,500 foot sands, it i sstatcd.

The No. 3 gives a half-mile extension of the 1,900 foot sand, to the west fro mthe Harvey-Cullum producers on the Rio Bravo.

The No. 1 fee of the Rio Bravo Oil company offsetting the No. 6 of Harvey-Cullum, is reported drilling below 1,400 feet. A sand showing was reported here last week around 1,000 feet, but only partially tested.

CISCO HAPPY OVER WILDCAT

800 Producer Stirs Old Spirit

Special to The Record News.

CISCO, Texas, July 3.—Cisco is treading on high ground today and every man, woman and child in this little city appears to be elated over the bringing in late last week of the Gulf's Amos well, making 800 barrels at 2,985 feet. The moral effect of the well has been wonderful and has served to booster up the spirits of those who were beginning to doubt.

This new well is purely wild cat and undeveloped territory, but in an area that has the O. K. of the best geologists as being the biggest oil pool in this section of the state. This well is located on the T. J. Amos tract, and is being drilled by the Sam Nefly Drilling contractors, and is close to the big gasser brought in Friday morning southwest of the Gulf, at a depth of 3,142 feet, by Rembaugh Brothers, which is making 10,000,000 cubic feet of gas, and is rapidly blowing itself in as a producer. This well is on the Stubblefield tract.

Both of these wells are near Cisco —five miles distant, and are proving the claim often made that all was necessary to make Cisco a real oil city, as well as of the great supply and home city of the oil field, was putting the holes down. As a result of these two wells coming in there is quite a bit of excitement in oil circles, and acreage in that vicinity is in great demand, and good prices are being offered and paid for leases. Tools are on the ground now for two more wells which will be spudded in right away by T. L. Smith and others.

The bringing in of the Gulf well means much for Cisco, and should the Rembaugh's Stubblefield gasser blow itself in as a producer, which is confidently believed, it will bring production more closer. There has never been tests completed very near this city, but striking the pay in the Gulf, and, the big gasser making oil, and gradually comes in, proves this to be a good strike.

The Gulf produced the pay right on top of the sand. When the well is drilled deeper into the oil sand there is every indication that it will be one of the big producers in the Cisco field.

Reports from Roberts - Murphy state the drill is still in the chocolate lime, and work is progressing as rapidly as possible, and the Duett sand may be picked up any day.

New Oil Company

AUSTIN, July 3.—A permit to do business in Texas was granted Monday to the United Royalties corporation of Trenton, N. J., with Texas headquarters at Wichita Falls. The capital stock is given at 1,000 shares without par value. C. A. Rodgers is state agent.

5,000,000 FOOT GASSER COMES IN

By Associated Press.

SAYRE, Okla., July 3.—A gas well which experts declare is making 5,000,000 feet a day has been brought in three miles south of here on the edge of the north fork of the Red river. The nearest producing well is in the Cement field approximately 100 miles east. The well came in at 2,740 feet.

SILK WELL REACHES OIL IN PANHANDLE

Special to the Record News.

PANHANDLE, Texas, July 3.—Unusual interest was created here today by announcement that the Silk, Bullington and Clark well going down on the Burnett ranch had reached the first oil. No less interest was created in the Panhandle field when it became known that the Tipton well near White Deer had found gas and traces of oil at 1,000 feet. This well is 18 miles from the nearest gas or oil.

The Silk well less than a mile distant from the Gulf producer on the "6666" ranch and the logs being compared there is every indication that production will be brought in by the new well within the next three days. The first showing which was in lime was favorable for a 10-barrel production, it is said. Silk, Bullington and Clark have also spudded in on the Medley ranch, section 43, Block B2, Gray county.

INJUNCTION STOPS DEED FORECLOSURE

A temporary injunction restraining Joseph Danciger et al from foreclosing a deed of trust on an oil royalty was granted by Judge Napier to R. R. Robertson, Monday.

Robertson brought suit against Danciger et al asking restraining order and for damages, alleging that royalty contracts had been by the defendant.

SLATON MARKS BUILDING BOOM

40 Structures Start in One Week

Special to the Record News.

SLATON, Texas, July 2.—"There's no dimunition in building operations in Slaton," declared S. E. Stagg, secretary of the Slaton chamber of commerce. More than forty new residences were started last week and the list continues to grow from week to week. Slaton is rapidly forging to the front as the most rapidly growing city in west Texas. Among the latest news of building operation furnished the west Texas chamber of commerce is:

J. R. McAtee is breaking ground for his building, a one-story brick on Texas avenue.

W. E. Smart has let the contract for a one-story garage building 40x80 feet, on Ninth street.

Floyd Williams will also erect two or three one-story buildings near the theater building.

H. D. Talley will build a modern garage just north of the Big State garage.

The I. O. O. F. will soon start work on a two-story brick building.

J. W. Walter, S. S. Forrest and Capt. Paul P. Murray will start erecting new residences in the next few days.

The new laundry has opened and is turning out clean duds.

The chamber of commerce is seeking to bring several new industries to Slaton that are badly needed, including large hotel, ice plant, elevator, flour mill and wholesale houses.

No Board Meeting

Pending the return of the $850,000 school bonds which have been approved by the attorney general, there was no meeting of the school board Monday night. Secretary W. W. Brown said that when the bonds are returned there will be a meeting called which may be the latter part of this week.

Call Buildings Need Little Repair

Very little will have to be done to the buildings at Call field to make them ready for the Texas-Oklahoma fair. This opinion was expressed Monday by Seth Mayfield, secretary of the Texas Cotton Palace, Waco, who came here on invitation of the fair association to help the local men arrange for the fair. Mr. Mayfield said that all that will have to be done to the Call field buildings will be the re-painting and re-roofing. This work will be started right away, it was said at fair association headquarters.

Mr. Mayfield was given a vote of thanks by the directors of the fair association for coming here to help the fair association.

Fire Boys Smile

Wichita firemen are all tickled pink today. They have the price of a perfectly good celebration. Each man on the force, including Chief McClure has an extra $5 with no strings tied to it—a real July Fourth fiver.

Recently property of C. W. Snider caught fire and the fire boys did some hard work on the blaze. Late Monday Mr. Snider visited the firemen and gave every man on the force a $5 bill. There are 30 men in the department.

HUEY FINED $200

Following a hearing in the county court at law on an appealed case, Cotton Huey was found guilty by a jury of six men Monday of a charge of vagrancy and was fined $200. Huey had appealed his case from the corporate court.

The great problem for the future to work out is not whether the dead can come back but whether the dead-broke can come back.

COUNCIL HOLDS SHORT SESSION

Water Extensions Are Authorized

The city council in an unusually short session Monday night authorized water main extensions in the Sibley Taylor addition and in Floral Heights to the total value of approximately $11,000. The main extension will be in the Sibley Taylor addition; others being in various small extensions. The work is to be done as the money is earned by the water department.

The resignation of Judge W. B. Chauncey of city court was accepted by the council and the judge was extended a vote of thanks for his service to the city. No successor to Judge Chauncey was named by the council.

RAMSEY BODY SENT

The body of M. C. Ramsey who died at Call Field hospital Saturday was shipped by local undertakers to Carterville, Mo., Monday for interment. A brother, H. C. Loesches and a sister, Mrs. Spalding, both of Bonneterre, Mo., who were at the bedside of the deceased at the time of his death, accompanied the remains.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Roy Maroney was granted a divorce from Ercy Maroney by Judge H. R. Wilson in the 30th district court Monday morning.

Charges of evil associations and a "blemish on the family name" were considered by the court as sufficient grounds for the divorce.

CHILDERS WINS CASE

Judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $25 was the decree rendered in the county court at law Monday by Judge Guy Rogers in the case of J. T. Childers vs. J. B. Morriss.

The judgment represented commission alleged to have been due through the sale of an automobile.

A WEAK BROTHER

SENATOR HENRY L. MYERS of Montana charges that Williamson county, Illinois is 100 per cent disloyal to the United States and its constitution. Myers is an extremist. He loves the music of his own voice.

There are red-handed assassins in Williamson county, Illinois; there are white savages in Williamson county, Illinois. But there are thousands of patriotic people in Williamson county, Illinois. Illinois has a governor, and adjutant general, an attorney general, a national guard, courts and peace officers. If the Herrin assassins go unwhipped of justice then place the responsibility where it belongs.

When a mob burns a prisoner at the stake in Texas all the people of the community are not mobocrats or wild savages. It is best to fix the guilt first and then punish the criminal. There are many weak brothers in the senate and the house or representatives of the United States.

MORON RULE

"WHAT'S the matter with America?" William Allen White has made answer to the question: "America has moron majority. Here, according to the enlistment figures in our late draft, are 45,000,000 people with intelligence which stopped development at the green age of fourteen. Of the forty-five millions, twenty millions stopped growing up mentally at eleven and of the fifty-five millions left of our hundred millions probably twenty million stopped growing up before they reached sixteen. So we have a working majority of voters who have children's minds. Add to the political children a considerable minority of the mentally adult who have a blind spot of party prejudice, who will follow any party in any record of crime and you have furnished the morons in any community a political crystal around which to cluster." Reader, do you get it?

ROGERS' FAT MELON.

HOW would you like to be George T. Rogers of New Jersey? He is the inventor of the Adams process for extracting gasoline from crude oil. He sued the Texas Company in a New York court to recover millions of dollars in royalties. The court ruled that Rogers was entitled to 40 per cent of profits which it was estimated would yield him about $8,000,000. There appears to be money in petroleum. And Rogers has his unless a higher court knocks out the lower court.

THEY'VE TASTED BLOOD

"IT is quite evident that the political bosses of the old parties are determined to kill the direct primary," says the Fort Worth Daily Press. Political bosses of the old parties have a big job cut out for them. The direct primary nominated Beveridge in Indiana, Pinchot in Pennsylvania, Brookhart in Iowa and Frazier in North Dakota. When a jungle tiger tastes the blood of a man he becomes a man hunter. Having tasted blood in the direct primary contest the people are hungry for the blood of political bosses in other states. Woman has the ballot. She cannot be herded as men were herded in the good old days.

Jack Dempsey has agreed to fight a negro challenger. Flowers for the Etheopian. Flowers for the grave of honest old John Lawrence Sullivan, who never threw a fight for gold and who always drew the color line.

Congress is on its way home to remain at home until August 15 when it will make the return trip to Washington. This is as it should be. There are many voters in every congressional district who are willing to say it with brickbats. This is the price one must pay for breaking into the national congress and the public picture gallery.

Mrs. Frank Putnam of Wisconsin is telling her sisters that under the nineteenth amendment the women of America are half free and half vassal. Mrs. Frank Putnam should come to Texas. There are no half vassals here, although some of the men complain a bit.

A million Russian rubles are worth $2.86 American money. They make money by running the printing presses all the time in Russia. There are American political financiers who would start the printing presses in America and grind out money all the time. Thank the Lord they constitute a very scant minority.

DR. CRANE EDITORIAL

THE TWO EXTRA EMPLOYES

IN every place of business where fifty or more persons are employed there ought to be two extra employes. One should be an artist and the other a musician.

Every big department store, every factory, every steel mill, every mine, every government, every shipping company, every army, and every other enterprise where a number of human beings are associated in work should hire these two extra persons.

The artist should be employed to paint and draw and photograph and sculpture the persons and scenes incident to the common work.

He should not devote his time to making landscapes and marine pieces or Madonnas and field marshals.

He should depict what he sees.

The purpose is to show the people engaged in the work the charm and beauty and wonder and idealistic quality of the thing in which they are engaged.

"Everything," said Emerson, "is beautiful, when you see it from the right perspective." It is the artist's business to furnish perspective.

Team play and esprit de corps are developed by seeing one's particular occupation in its proper relation and subordination to the general purpose.

Americans have a long way to travel before they reach the point where they understand the economic value of beauty.

The idea that there is nothing beautiful about one's particular work, because it is sooty or sordid, is erroneous. Any thing is beautiful, if we know how to look at it, and that is the artist's business to show working people how to look at their work.

The other employe should be a musician.

Every mill and factory should be also a musical organization.

Only when people learn how to play together do they learn how to work together.

Especially should chorus singing and orchestral music be encouraged.

There is direct bearing between the making of right music and the doing of right work. No man can be a musician without discipline, without harmony. Nobody but a musician realizes how futile any man's effort is unless it is exactly gauged to the efforts of those about him.

Work is not disagreeable, work is not an affliction. Work is hard, simply because we do not know how to work and cannot bring the right spirit to it.

We need the artist and the musician to show us the joy and beauty of work much more than we need schemes or money by which to avoid work.

"Why should we try to run our government like Hanna did?" asks James M. Cox. We nibble. Why?

President Harding is up against it again. Senator Borah, republican, has launched his fight against the ship subsidy bill and warns the country that a block of senators are gagsters.

Taxpayers of Williamson county, in the state of Illinois, will be bankrupt for 50 years to come. According to an Illinois law the county is liable for damages, and must pay not to exceed $5,000 for each death. It is estimated that the Herrin rio and massacre created a total liability of $500,000 for the taxpayers. Jones of Williamson county, who is neither a mine owner nor a mine worker, must carry the load.

For twenty-five years I have, on all proper occasions, championed, and defended the cause of education. I shall not desert it now. I shall regard it as the crowning service of my public life if as govrnor I can inspire and aid legislation that will insure to the youth of Texas educational opportunities and facilities equal to those obtainable anywhere in the world. —Governor Neff.

Now it is said that the new sugar tariff will cause the American consumers $60,000,000 a year, but without protection the American sugar producer declares his industry will be destroyed. He is unable to face the competition of Cuban planters or the Hawaiian island sugar kings and their hordes of cheap laborers. In Cuba they work negroes; in the islands of the Pacific they work Philipinos and Japs and Chinese coolies.

Rippling Rhymes

LITTLE ROBERT

You've heard of little Robert Reed, who would not use the filthy weed. He figured in a moral pome that once was known in every home; when sinful children chewed or smoked, the name of Robert was invoked by parents stern, who pointed out the merits of that shining scout. This Robert, whom we know so well, now serves a sentence in a cell. He viewed the Volstead act with scorn, and sold bum liquor by the horn. "Ah, yes," he said, when interviewed, "I've pulled some boners, raw and crude. I've tried all kinds of stunts in crime, in many jails I've served my time. I'm jugged just now for vending beer, and recently I shoved the queer. But I can say with pride, indeed, I've never used the filthy weed. I robbed a church some years ago, and touched a blind man for his dough; I've sold gold bricks in hayseed towns, and swiped a toiler's handmedowns, and broke the laws that govern speed, but I've adjured the filthy weed." I said to him, "You are, in truth, a strangely moral, stainless youth. For harmless pranks, such as you've named, no mettled youngster can be blamed, but it is sickening, indeed, when spring lads touch the filty weed

HERE GOES FOR ANOTHER HEAVY WASTE, LOTS OF DISCOMFORT AND NOTHING GAINED

CIVILIAN RIFLEMEN TO PAY OWN WAY

By Associated Press.

D. Barton is notified Saturday in a telegram from Washington. The item has been striken from the appropriation estimates for the new fiscal year.

o o o

...nber, a Vote for Henry is a ...un the High Cost of Flivvering!

o o o

...Mr. Ford will run for the presidency of the United States of America if he hears the call. There is a lot of noise where Henry works, but if you make the call in a loud voice he will hear it.

His hat, so to speak, is in the piston-ring!

Ninety days 'trial! If he isn't as guaranteed in the preFsident's chair your votes will be refunded. No charge for replacements!

o o o

The Ford campaign battle cry: FORD AND A BUMPER CROP!

o o o

That the call for Henry as president will be made seems quite likely. But it may be inspired by various motives. A lot of people may ask him to run so they can go to the polls and get even with him. One good jar deserves another.

o o o

Hen will have the advantage of not having to speculate about the Jewish vote. He knows that so far as he is personally concerned there won't be any.

o o o

On the other hand, he can count on the unanimous support of a colony that plays quite a large part in American life: We refer to the "Shakers."

o o o

Muscle Shoals will help Hen as a campaign issue. On a platform of one quart of mussels to a person he should sweep the country. And sweeping the country with mussels is quite a trick. So far as is known, nobody ever has tried it. The question is—will a new mussell sweep clean.

o o o

The voters are tremendously interested in Henry's mussel plans. They don't know much about mussels, but they assume Hen will find a way to use them in a Ford car, thus enabling drivers to give gasoline stations the Grand Go By and stop for fuel only at recognized Ford seafood markets.

o o o

There is danger, obviously, that the opposition party may take a stand for Round Clams or something of the sort, thus clinching the so-called Chowder Vote and giving the Detroiter some hard bumps. But who should stand hard bumps better?

o o o

The early summer canvass shows considerable sentiment for Ford. That he is a man of parts, goes without saying. Some people say he toots his own horn too much, but that wouldn't be objected to if he'd improve the horn. The present Ford horn is enough to defeat any candidate.

o o o

Some opposition is being felt from the rural districts. "With an automobile man running for president," the ask, "what will become of the old time marching clubs?"

o o o

There is no cause for worry there. Most people who go out for automobile rides spend half the time marching.

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Bridge came to the rescue.

"My erudite friend means," he explained, "that the police chased him out of the United States of America."

Pesita raised his eyebrows. All was now clear to him.

"But why did he not say so?" he asked.

"He tried to," said Bridge. "He did his best."

"Quit yer kiddin'," admonished Billy.

A bright light suddenly burst upon Pesita. He turned upon Bridge.

"Your friend is not then an American?" he asked. "I guessed it. That is why I could not understand him. He speaks the language of the gringo less well even than I. From what country is he?"

Billy Byrne would have asserted with some show of asperity that he was nothing if not American; but Bridge was quick to see a possible loophole for escape for his friend in Petsita's belief that Billy was no gringo, and warned the latter to silence by a quick motion of his head.

"He's from Gran' Avenoo'," he said. "It is not exactly in Germany; but there are a great many Germans there. My friend is a native, so he don't speak German or English either—they have a language of their own in 'Gran' Avenoo'."

"I see," said Pesita—"a German colony. I like the Germans—they furnish me with much ammunition and rifles. They are my very good friends. Take Miguel and the gringo away"—this to the soldiers who had brought the prisoners to him——"I will speak further with this man from Gran' Avenoo."

When the others had passed out of hearing Pesita addressed Billy.

"I am sorry, senor," he said, "that you have been put to so much inconvenience. My men could not know that you were not a gringo; but I can make it all right. You are a big man. The gringos have chased you from their country as they chased men. I hate them. You hate them. But enough of them. You have no business in Mexico except to seek work. I give you work. You are big. You are strong. You are like a bull. You stay with me, senor, and I make you captain. I need men what can talk some English and look like gringo. You do fine. We make much money—you and I. We make it all time while we fight to liberate my poor Mexico. When Mexico liberate we fight some more to liberate her again. The Germans they give me much money to liberate Mexico, and—there are other ways of getting much money when one is riding around through rich country with soldiers liberating his poor, bleeding country, Sabe?

"Yep, I guess I savvy," said Billy, "an' it listens all right to me's far's you've gone. My pal in on it?"

"Er?"

"You make my frin' a captain, too?"

Pesita held up his hands and rolled his eyes in holy horror. Take a gringo into his band? It was unthinkable.

"He shot," he cried. "I swear to kill all gingo. I become savior of my country. I rid her of all Americanos."

"Nix on the captain stuff fer me, then," said Billy, firmly. That guy's a right one. If any big stiff thinks he can croak little ol' Bridge while Billy Byrne's aroun' he's got anudder t'ink comin'. Why, me an' him's just like brudders."

"You like this gringo?" asked Pesita.

"You bet," cried Billy.

Petsita thought for several minutes. In his mind was a scheme which required the help of just such an individual as this stranger—someone who was utterly unknown in the surrounding country and whose presence in a town could not by any stretch of the imagination be connected in any way with the bandit, Pesita.

"I tell you," he said. "I let your friend go. I send him under safe escort to El Orobo Rancho. Maybe he help us there after a while. If you stay I let him go. Otherwise I shoot you both with Miguel."

"Wot you got it in for Mig fer?" asked Billy. "He's a harmless sort o' guy."

"He Villista. Villista with gringos run Mexico—gringos and the church. Just like Huerta would have done it if they'd given him a chance, only Huerta more for church than for gringos."

"Aw, let the poor boob go," urged Billy, "an' I'll come along wit you. Why he's got a wife an' kids—you wouldn't want to leave them without no one to look after them in this God-forsaken country?"

Pesita grinned indulgently.

"Very, well, Senor Captain," he said, bowing low. "I let Miguel and your honorable friend go. I send safe escort with them."

"Bully fer you, ol' pot!" exclaimed Billy, and Pesita smiled delightedly in the belief that some complimentary title had been applied to him in the language of "Granavenoo."

"I'll go an' tell 'em," said Billy.

"Yes," said Pesita, "and say to them that they will start early in the morning."

As Billy turned and walked in the direction that the soldiers had led Bridge and Miguel, Pesita beckoned to a soldier who leaned upon his gun at a short distance from his "general"—a barefooted, slovenly attempt at a headquarters orderly.

"Send Captain Rozales to me," directed Pesita.

The soldier shuffled away to where a little circle of men in wide-brimmed, metal-encrusted hats squatted in the shade of a tree, chatting, laughing, and rolling cigarettes. He saluted one of these and delivered his message, whereupon the tall, gaunt Captain Rozales arose and came over to Pesita.

"The big one who was brought in today is not a gringo," said Pesita by way of opening the conversation. "He is from Granavenoo. He can be of great service to us, for he is very friendly with the Germans—yet he looks like a gringo and could pass for one. We can utilise him. Also he is very large and appears to be equally strong. He should make a good fighter and we have none too many. I have made hi ma captain."

Rozales grinned. Already among Pesita's following of a hundred men there fifteen captains.

"Where is Granavenoo?" asked Rozales.

"You mean to say, my dear captain," exclaimed Pesita, "that a man of your education does not know where Granavenoo is? I am surprised. Why, it is a German colony."

"Yes, of course. I recall it well now. For the moment it had slipped my mind. My grandfather who was a great traveler was there many times. I have heard him speak of it often."

"But I did not summon you that we might discuss European geography," interrupted Pesita. "I sent for you to tell you that the stranger would not consent to serve me unless I liberated his friend, the gringo, and that sneaking spy of a Miguel. I was forced to yield, for we can use the stranger. So I have promised, my dear captain, that I shall send them upon their road with a safe escort in the morning, and you shall command the guard. Upon your life respect my promise, Rozales; but if some of Villa's cutthroats should fall upon you, and in the battle, while you were trying to defend the gringo and Miguel, both should be slain by the bullets of the Villistas—ah, but it would be deplorable, Rozales, but it would not be your fault. Who, indeed could blame you who had fought well and risked your men and yourself in the performance of your sacred duty? Rozales, should such a thing occur what could I do in token of my great pleasure other than make you a colonel?"

"I shall defend them with my life, my general," cried Rozales, bowing low.

"Good!" cried Presita. "That is all."

Rozales started back toward the ring of smokers.

"Ah, Captain!" cried Pesita. "Another thing. Will you make it known to the other officers that the stranger from Granavenoo is a captain and that it is my wish that he be well treated, but not told so much as might injure him, or his usefulness, about our sacred work of liberating poor, bleeding, unhappy Mexico."

Again Rozales bowed and departed. This time he was not recalled.

Billy found Bridge and Miguel squatting on the ground with two dirty-faced peons standing guard over them. The latter were some little distance away. They made no objection when Billy approached the prisoners though they had looked in mild surprise when they saw him crossing toward them without a guard.

Billy sat down beside Bridge, and broke into a laugh.

"What's the joke?" asked Bridge. "Are we going to be hanged instead of being shot?"

"We ain't goin' to be either," said Billy, "an I'm a captain. Whaddaya know about that?"

He explained all that had taken place between himself and Pesita while Bridge and Miguel listened attentively to his every word.

"I t'ought it was about de only way out fer us," said Billy. "We were in worse than I t'ought."

"Can the Bowery stuff, Billy," cried Bridge, "and talk like a white man. You can, you know."

"All right, bo," cried Billy, goodnaturedly. "You see I forget when there is anything pressing like this, to chew about. Then I fall back into the old lingo. Well, as I was saying, I didn't want to do it unless you would stay too, but he wouldn't have you. He has it in for all gringos, and that bull you passed him about me being from a foreign country called Grand Avenue! He fell for it like a rube for the taped-wire stuff. He said if I wouldn't stay and help him he'd croak the bunch of us."

"How about that ace-in-the-hole you were telling me about?" asked Bridge.

"I still got it," and Billy fondled something hard that swung under his left arm beneath his shirt; "but Lord, man! what could I do against the whole bunch? I might get a few of them; but they'd get us all in the end. This other way is better, though I hate to have to split with you, old man."

He was silent then for a moment looking hard at the ground. Bridge whistled, and cleared his throat.

"I've always wanted to spend a year in Rio," he said. "We'll meet there, when you can make your getaway."

"You've said it," agreed Byrne. "It's Rio as soon as we can make it. Pesita's promised to set you both loose in the morning and send you under safe escort—Miguel to his happy home, and you to El Orobo Rancho. I guess the old stiff isn't so bad after all."

Miguel had pricked up his ears at the sound of the word escort. He leaned far forward, closer to the two Americans, and whispered.

"Who is to command the escort?" he asked.

"I dunno," said Billy. "What difference does it make?"

"It makes all the difference between life and death for your friend and for me," said Miguel. "There is no reason why I should need an escort. I know my way throughout all Chihuahua as well as Pesita or any of his cutthroats. I have come and gone all my life without an escort. Of course your friend is different. It might be well for him to have company to El Orobo. Maybe it is all right; but wait until we learn who commands the escort. I know Pesita well. I know his methods. If Rozales rides out with tomorrow morning you may good-bye to your friend forever, for you will never see him in Rio, or elsewhere. He and I will be dead before ten o'clock."

"What makes you think that, bo?" demanded Billy.

"I do not think, senor," replied Miguel; "I know."

"Well," said Billy, "we'll wait and see."

"If it is Rozales, say nothing," said Miguel. "It will do no good; but we may then be on the watch, and if possible egu might find the means to obtain a couple of revolvers for us. In which case——" he shrugged and permitted a faint smile to flex his lips.

As they talked a soldier came and announced that they were no longer prisoners—they were to have the freedom of the camp; "but," he concluded, "the general requests that you do not pass the limits of the camp. There are many desperadoes in the hills and he fears for your safety, now that you are his guests."

The man spoke Spanish, so that it was necessary that Bridge interpret his words for the benefit of Billy, who had understood only part of what he said.

"Ask him," said Byrne, "if that stuff goes for me, too."

"He says no," replied Bridge after questioning the soldier, "that the captain is now one of them, and may go and come as do the officers. Such are Pesita's orders."

Billy arose. The messenger had returned to his post at headquarters. The guard had withdrawn, leaving the three men alone.

"So long old man," said Billy. "I'm goin' to be of any help to you and Mig the less I'm seen with you, the better. "I'll blow over and mix with the Dago bunch, an' practice sittin' on my head. It seems to be the right dope down here, an' I got to learn all I can about bein' a greaser see? that I've turned one."

Wichitans Entertained With Dinner Dance at Wichita Club Monday

Complimenting Seth N. Mayfield of Waco, secretary of the Cotton Palace in that city, and an old-time resident of Wichita Falls, members of the old crowd who were the "beaus and debuants" several years ago, when the honoree was a also a resident here, and who are now mostly all married and have families, entertained with a dinner dance at the Wichita club Monday evening.

Mr. Mayfield, who was invited here to consult with directors on the coming fair, was a popular member of the "younger set" of the time when he lived here, and the dinner dance was given for the purpose of enabling him to meet those of the old friends who still remain residents here.

The affair was decidedly informal, conversation and talks occupying the time at the banquet table after which dancing furnished the diversion. Messages were sent to members of the "old crowd" who have since moved to other cities.

Those present were: Judge and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Mrs. S. H. Burnside, Mrs. E. B. Gorsline, Mrs. J. A. Kemp. Mr. and Mrs. Zundelowitz, Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Langford, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. BOONE-BRYAN NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED.

Of interest to a large number of friends was the wedding of Miss Margaret Louise Boone to Bradford B. Bryan Saturday evening. The ceremony was read at the home of the brides' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Boone, 1316 Fourteenth street, by the Rev. O. L. Powers of the First Baptist church.

SAMMY JAY GIVES HIS MESSAGE.

Sammy Jay has been the bearer of so many messages that no one knows better than he how to deliver one. He knows when to be polite, and no one can be more polite than he. First he went over to the home of Reddy and Granny Fox and invited them to come over to the hill where Prickly Porky lives and see the terrible creature which had frightened them so give Old Man Coyote a scare. Both Reddy and Granny promptly said that they would do nothing of the kind, that probably Sammy was engaged in some kind of mischief, and that, anyway, they knew that there was no such creature without head, legs, or tail, and though they had been fooled once they didn't propose to be fooled again.

"All right," replied Sammy, quite as if it made no difference to him. "You admit that, smart as you are, you were fooled, and we thought you might like to see the same thing happen to Old Man Coyote."

With this he flew on his way to the Green Meadows to look for Old Man Coyote, and as he flew he chuckled to himself. "They'll be there," he muttered. "I know them well enough to know that nothing would keep them away when there is a chance to see some one else frightened, especially Old Man Coyote. They'll try to keep out of sight, but they'll be there."

Sammy found Old Man Coyote taking a sunbath. "Good morning, Mr. Coyote. I hope you are feeling well," said Sammy in his politest manner.

"Fairly, fairly, thank you," replied Old Man Coyote, all the time watching Sammy sharply out of the corners of his shrewd eyes. "What's the news in the Green Forest?"

"There isn't any, that is, none to amount to anything," declared Sammy. "I never did see such a dull summer. Is there any news down here on the Green Meadows? I hear Danny Meadow Mouse has found his lost baby."

"So I hear," replied Old Man Coyote. "I tried to find it for him. You know I believe in being neighborly."

Sammy grinned, for as he said this Old Man Coyote had winked one eye ever so little, and Sammy knew very well that if he had found Little Mite, Danny Meadow Mouse would never have seen him again.

"By the way" said Sammy in the most matter of fact tone, "as I was coming through the Green Forest I saw Pete Rabbit over on the hill where Prickly Porky lives, and Peter seems to have been in some kind of trouble. He was so lame that he said he didn't dare to try to go home to the Old Briar Patch for fear that he might meet some one looking for a Rabbit dinner, and he knew that feeling as he did he would't be able to save himself. Peter is going to come to a bad end some day if he doesn't watch out.

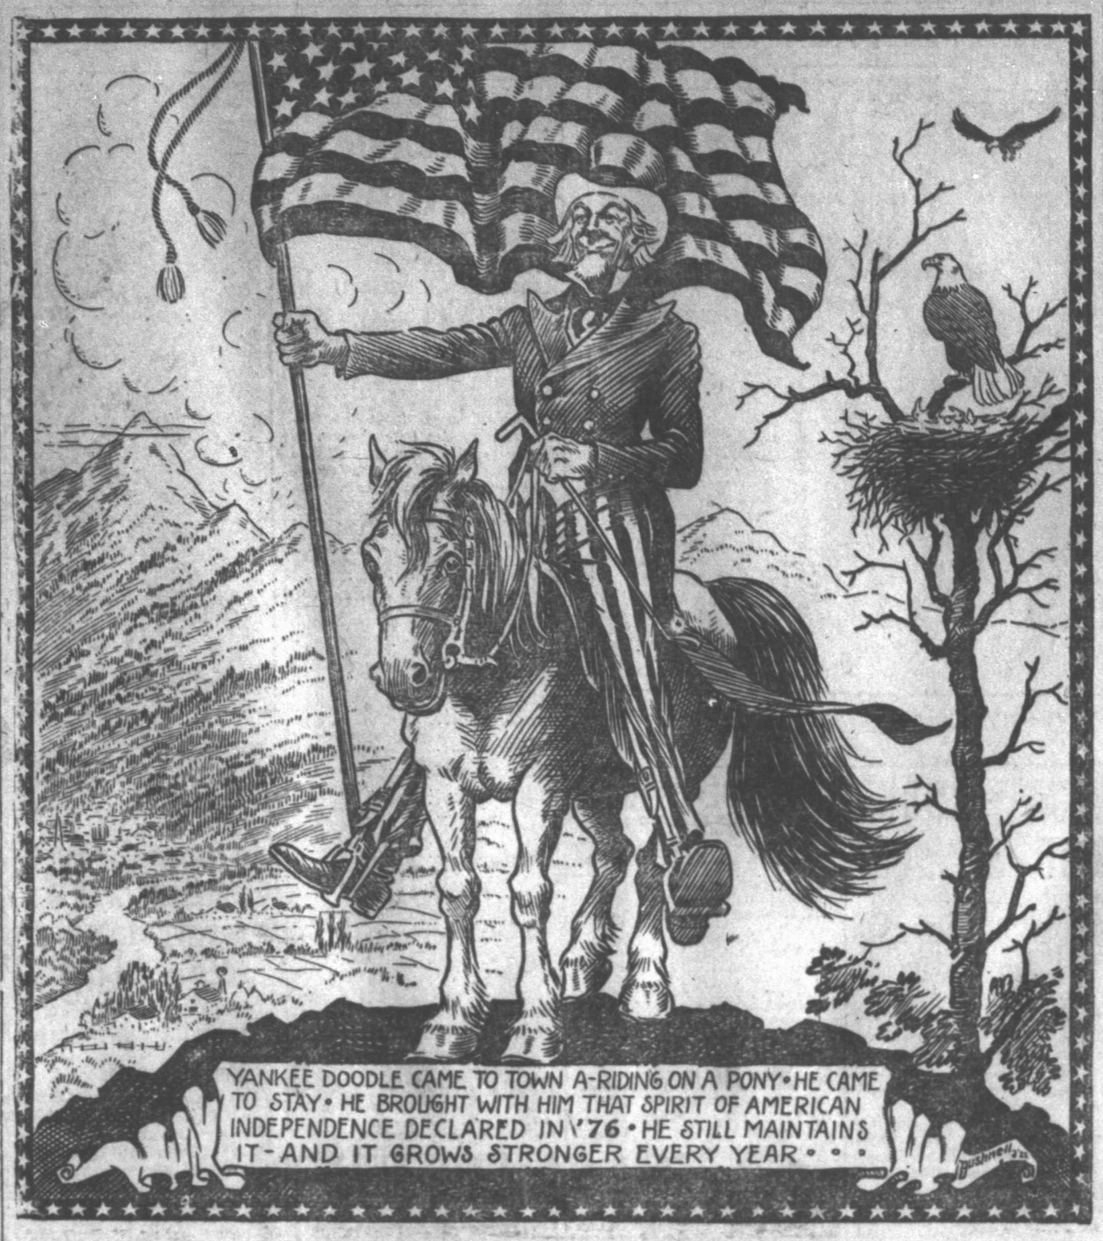

"That depends on what you call a bad end," replied Old Man Coyote with a sly grin. "It might be bad for Peter, and at the same time be very good for some one else."

Sammy laughed right out. "That's one way of looking at it," said he. "Well, I should hate to have anything happen to Peter, because have lots of fun quarreling with him and should miss him dreadfully, but I think I'll go up to the Old Orchard and see what is going on there."

Off flew Sammy in the direction of the Old Orchard, and once more he chuckled as he flew. He had seen Old Man Coyote's ears prick up ever so little when he had mentioned that Peter was over in the Green Forest so lame that he didn't dare go home. Old Man Coyote will start for the Green Forest as soon as I am out of sight," thought Sammy. And that is just what Old Man Coyote did do.

Beauty Spots

By MABEL CARTER

No. 29 of a Series.

Resembling the pictures shown in agricultural catalogues and magazines, where plots of gardens abloom with many varities of flowers are illustrated in rich colors in order to tempt the customer to buy of the seeds for sale in the spring just before gardening time, are among the many descriptions of the beautiful flower beds in the back of the F. W. Fisher home, 1648 Lucile, given by admiring friends.

An arched gate covered with rose vines covered with myriads of sweet smelling blossoms is the entrances on either side of the house to the garden, which includes beds of tulips, sweet peas, hollyhocks, July flox, dahlias, pansies, shasta daisies, four o'clocks and many other fragrant flowers arranged in various shapes and surrounded by small cement walks. The pansies which were attractive features of the garden during their blooming season, brought forth excalmations of admiration from all who beheld them, the blossoms being of unusual size and brilliance.

A pergola over a plot of well kept grass, which furnishes a green stretch of carpet where little folks love to play, is an added ornament. Rose and grape vines are planted here and will before another summer passes, completely cover the nook which will be a fragrant resort for friends to while away the hours in the out of doors.

Shrubbery of various kinds surround the house, while arbor-vitae artistically trimmed grace the corners of the yard and walks.

The home and grounds are among the many Wichita Falls' beauty spots.

The Slipover Middy Blouse Is a Midsummer Favorite

One of the most popular types of summer blouses is illustrated in the sketch, a slipover or middy affair. A generous range of fabrics both as to weave and yarn enters into the development of these smart, tailore garments. Lightweight flannels in white pastel, or high colors, or in striped or figured effects are frequently and very effectively used. Silks and silk crepes, linens and cottons are also good. As a matter of fact the blouse may very well be matched with a skirt, thus making up a charming little sports frock.

Usually a Windsor tie in contrasting color finishes the collar and the shoes or stockings may carry a color touch blending with the tie. Stockings with colored clox and shoes with colored tongues or insets are increasingly popular as the season advances. Sandals made entirely of bright colored leather are also among the favorite styles in footgear.

Georgette, which was rather laid on the shelf as a blouse fabric for some time in favor of crepe de chine and other heavier silks, has come into its own again, according to latest fashion reports. For midsummer year blouses of georgette both in tailored and dressy styles are very much to the fore. The fabric lends itself well to the frilly blouses that are so generally becoming and it also makes a very smart little tailored blouse, especially when finished with self or heavier silk bindings at all edges.

For fall no radical style changes have as yet been recorded in the blouse field, designers and manufacturers showing an inclination to continue to feature styles that have been good late spring and summer sellers. Among these may be mentioned the blouse that ties at both sides. They are very much in the limelight in the first fall showing. The straight smock type of blouse, usually somewhat elaborately embroidered, is also a favorite.

TODAY'S POEM

TODAY'S POEM.
Well Born.

Cradled in silk and smothered in lace,
As befitted one born to wealth and to place,
Surrounded by servants and hampered by toys,
'Twas little he knew of real boyhood's joys;

Tutors urbane and schools that were bought,
Shielded from work and anesthetized thought,
Till, sated and sick, bored with gold and with gain,
He sent a shot burrowing into his brain.

Then the papers recalled, as if connoting worth,
That he was a man of gentle birth.

Born in a sod house out on the prairie,
Lulled by the winds that swept over the grass,
Clean lunged and strong, wide visioned and wary,
With nothing to hinder of clan or of class;

He sang of the grandeur each day may be bringing,
Of the gold of the wheat and the jewels of rain,
And many a face lifted up at his singing,
And many a heart beat with courage again.

But the press of the world, as it counted his worth,
Said he was a man of lowly birth!

LESSON No. 9.
The Direct Current Generator.

One of the most important uses of the direct current generator is in the circuit of the arc generator, where it is used as a source of electrical energy in connection with the generation and transmission of sustained electromagnetic waves which oscillate with continuous amplitude. Lesson No. 7 explained how alternating current was generated and delivered to an external circuit or load through the contact of brushes with the surface of collector rings attached to the terminals of a coal revolving in a magnetic field of constant strength. Due to the fact that each brush makes continuous contact with the same end of the coil, the alternations of the current induced in the coil are transferred to the external circuit.

In the district current generator, however, the collector rings are replaced by a commutator consisting of copper segments by means of which each brush is connected first with one end and then with the other end of the revolving coil, this change in connection being made at the instant the current in the coil is reversing with the result that the current flows through the external circuit always in the same direction.

This action may be shown by means of the following simple diagram:

Assume that at any given instant the curent induced in the coil (CD) is flowing as shown by the arrows from side (C) through segment (A) to brush (E) and thence through the external circuit or load, returning through brush (F) and segment (B) to side (D). Brush (E) is therefore positive polarity and brush (F) negative polarity. Brush (E) will bear on segment (A) as long as the current in (C) flows in the direction indicated by the arrows. As soon as the current in (C) changes to the opposite direction the brush (E) will come in contact with the segment (B). The curent in (D) however, reversed at the same instant as in (C) so that it flows through segment (B), brush (E) and the external circuit in the same direction as before. By means of the commutator therefore the current is always delivered to the external load in the same direction.

In the direct current generator of commercial uses the single coil shown in the elementary diagram is replaced by many coils wound on an armature core, the magnetic poles (N) and (S) are replaced by several pairs of field poles and owing to the large number of armature coils the copper segments forming the commutator are greatly increased in number carying from 50 to 150 segments depending upon the construction of the generator.

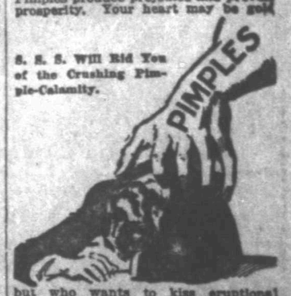

The lesson to follow will explain several types of the direct current generator.

SPUDDERS SUCCUMB SUDDENLY WHEN KAYOED BY LEFTS FROM JOHNS AND PATE IN TWIN GO

Ace Wheeler Hammered For First Game; Bescher and Miller Back in Line-Up; Hoffman Has Great Day in the Field; Al White and Kraft Knock Long Home Runs

Special to The Record News.

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 3.—The Panthers resumed their position at the head of the column today despite the split season when they took both sections of a twin engagement 8-4 and 7-0, shunting the Spuds to the cellar.

The left-handed members of the Panther staff turned the trick. Johns was stingy with hits when they meant runs in the first, while Pate was in top form and stopped the Spudders with four hits in the second, an abbreviated seven inning affair.

Mainly through the efforts of Coombs and Johns' clubs did the Cats win the opener. Wheeler was fairly effective, but was repeatedly battered after two were out.

Two terrific circuit clouts were registered in the first game, both White and Kraft driving the ball over the fence in deep center straight into the teeth of the wind. Kraft cleaned the bases of two runners in the second when he found one of Fincher's shoots to his liking.

The Spudders presented the line-up which carried them through the successful drive during the second month of the season when Bescher returned to right field and Jake Miller to left.

Dutch Hoffman was the fielding star of the day, accepting 18 of his 19 chances, a number of which were difficult, yet well played. He figured in three double plays, all of which came in the last game.

Fincher started on the mound for the Spudders in the last game, but had everything hittable, and retired only one batter of the first seven which faced him. He turned the job to Ruth with the bags choked and one away. Ruth fanned Moore and Pate forced Tavener at second. Kraft's homer with Coombs and Calvo aboard netted the three markers accounted in the opening round.

Wheeler's wildness cost him several runs. He passed four to the first station. Although he struck out 5 hitters, the second inning seemed to weaken his delivery. In that round he retired Kraft, Hoffman and Ewoldt on strikes.

Ruth had five strike-outs to his credit in the second game and gave up but four hits in the five innings worked. Hoffman seemed to be the only hitter to successfully solve the youngster's delivery, connecting for a double and triple.

Homer Summa led the Spudder attack for the day, accumulating four singles for the two games, seeming to show a liking for the slants of a southpaw delivery.

Wheeler received flawless support in his game, not a bobble being recorded, but Tanner and Adams both erred in the second, both resulting in runs.

Coombs was credited with three runs and but one time at bat in the second go, being passed twice and hit by a pitched ball on his first time up.

The two games today were necessitated by the game postponed from Sunday on account of rain.

The scheduled July 4 double-header will be played tomorrow. Arrangements have been made to accommodate a tremendous crowd.

Michigan City On Edge Today

By Associated Press.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., July 3.—Michigan City tonight is on edge for its first taste of glove fighting. The little city, nestling on the shores of Lake Michigan will have a lightweight championship contest for a Fourth of July celebration tomorrow when Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, N. Y. will make his third attempt to wrest the title from Benny Leonard of New York.

After several hours of wrangling, Davey Miller of Chicago finally was selected tonight as referee. Miller has been the third man in the ring at all important contests decided in the open air arena at Aurora, Ill., this season. He was the choice of Billy Gibson, manager of Leonard, but was opposed by Promoter Fitzsimmons.

The match will be for the lightweight championship so far as Kansas is concerned because he is confident he can win by a knockout.

LEGIONAIRES BUMP BOWIE IN 11-4 WIN

Special to the Record News.

BOWIE, Texas, July 3. — The American Legion of Wichita Falls swamped the local team today, 11 to 4, in the first game of the three game series being played here. Anderson, who pitched for the Legion, held the home team in every inning, allowing seven hits and making 14 strikeouts.

Every man on the Legion team was batting like a leaguer and pounded Bowie hurlers to every corner of the lot. It seemed impossible to stop the ex-service men and several twirlers mounted the mound in a vain attempt. Ross, Brooks and Wafford laid the ball over the fence for homers, while several two and three base hits were counted for the Legionaires.

The teams meet again tomorrow and Wednesday. Snappy contests are promised. Winsley will probably hold the mound for the Legion Tuesday. The game will be played before a large holiday crowd and should be one of the hardest fought of the season.

CHICAGO, July 3.—H. E. Honeywell of St. Louis, who sails for Geneva, Switzerland, from Montreal this week to participate in the international balloon race August 6, may come home without his balloon.

Mr. Honeywell expects to land in Russia, where the peasants, in 1912 seized his big gas bag when it descended and tore it up to make clothing.

He will be accompanied this year by the same aide who was with him on the 1912 flight, J. H. Wade Jr., of Cleveland. They took third place in the race from Stuttgart, Germany, in that year.

MORRISEY TO MEET SPARKS

Electra Legionnaires Bill Scrap At 11:30 Today

Ring followers of this section of the state will journey to Electra today for the 10-round bout between Speedy Sparks and Lee Morrisey.

The two fighters have met before and neither seems to be satisfied with what transpired in foregoing encounters.

Sparks has recently returned from Cincinnati where he won a number of hard fights and was proclaimed by sport writers of that city to be one of the coming numbers of his class.

Morrisey hales from Salt Lake City, but has returned from the Coast where he has been fighting for the past two months and is reported in excellent condition.

Fast preliminaries have been arranged and the meet which opens at 11:30 o'clock this morning should furnish plenty of action before the big barbecue dinner, which is held in connection with the Legion's big day.

HOGS MAKE BIG PRICE ADVANCES

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Everett C. Brown, president of the National Livestock exchange, issued a statement today that prices of hogs have advanced $4 a hundredweight during the first six months of 1922. He says this means that hogs are bringing $600 to $700 more car. With millions of hogs marketed in the half year at 28 packing centers, the difference to farmers has amounted to hundreds of millions of dollars, according to M. D. Brown, and has made practicable the recouping of severe losses sustained in 1920 and 1921.

FUSE BLOW OUT STARTS CAR PANIC

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, July 2.—Six persons were injured, none seriously, in a panic in a street car here as the result of the burning out of a fuse which filled the car with smoke late Sunday. There was a wild scramble for the door. R. F. Clayton, Waco, is among the injured.

Dancing in the front row of the Follies is no easy job, according to Pearl Howell. So she keeps in trim by swimming at Brighton Beach, near New York. Pearl outwits the beach censors by using a barrel to hide her one-piece bathing suit while going in and coming out of the water.

HOUSTON SUFFERS $30,000 FIRE LOSS

HOUSTON, July 3.—Damage estimated at $30,000 was caused about five o'clock this morning by a fire of unknown origin that damaged the thre story brick building occupied by the Hall Hardware company, 1109 Congress street.

MARKETS DROWSY

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Trading on the stock exchange today fell to the smallest total of any five hour session in almost four years, sales barely approaching 225,000 shares. Many of the popular rails and industrials were quoted at rare intervals and some did not figure at all in the days meagre and professional dealings. Similar conditions prevailed in the bond market.

ELECTRA READY FOR BIG CROWD

Barbecue and Prize Fight Booked

Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, July 3.—Everything is set for the greatest Fourth of July celberation that has ever been staged in Electra. The fatted calves have already been led to the slaughter and barbecuers were busy yesterday all day getting things in readiness to feed the multitude of visitors who are expected to be in the city. The stands have been built and those who hold concessions have erected numerous drink emporium on the outside of the baseball park. Within the ring is complete and stands leading off in all directions have been built which will accomodate some 2,000 people to witness the boxing exhibition.

Great interest is being manifested in the coming events of the day. Over 100 people were out to the park yesterday afternoon watching the preparations for today's program. Hackberry Slim was busy rounding up his cowpunchers and getting them in trim for the rodeo. Bill Smith was running round in ecriels preparing the barbecue. H. N. Bond, vice commander of the Legion post was a very busy man attending to the details of all the work. An enthusiastic crowd greeted Speedy Sparks and Speedy Jr., when they came out on the platform for a little light work getting in trim for the fast matches of today.

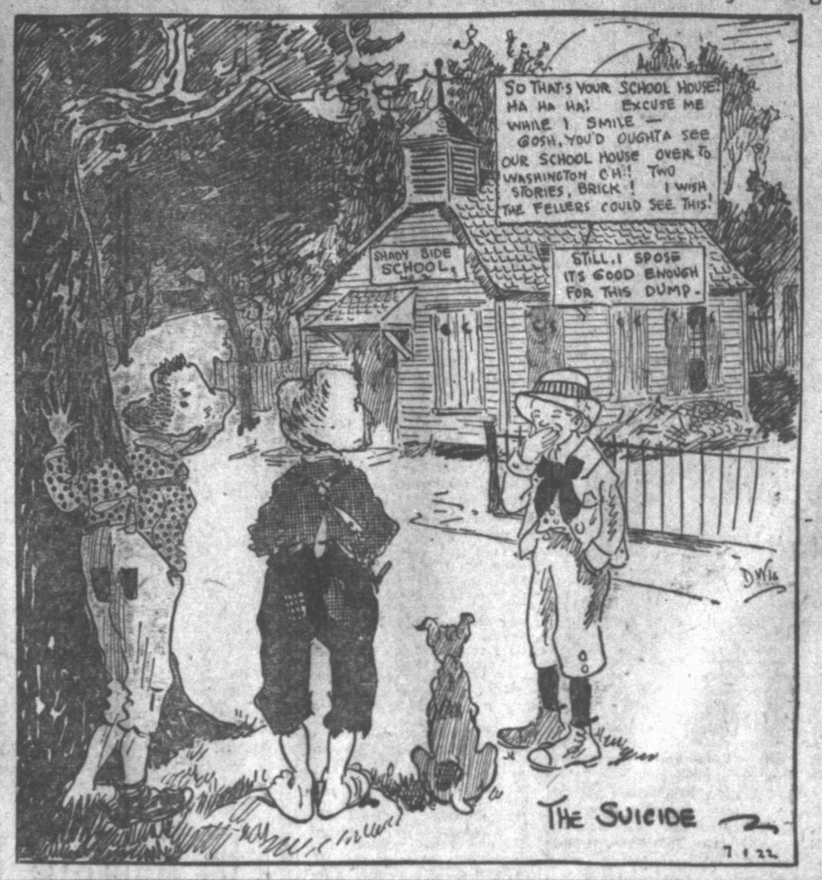

Sparks Looks Good

Sparks has returned from a very successful trip to Cincinnati, where he met and defeated Knockout Brown of Toledo at the Yokum club in a 10-round exhibition. The Cincinnati Enquirer carried nearly a column regarding the wonderful comeback of Sparks. At one time Sparks was a great favorite in that city having won 19 straight victories. He lost to Dowdy last winter. The Enquirer sport writer stated that Speedy made the best showing of his career in the fight with Brown and predicted that he will stage a real come back. He is to meet Dowdy again in Cincinnati next month, and if he wins is in line for a go with Jack Britton.

Lee Morrisy came all the way from California to meet Sparks. He is anxious to even up the old Burkburnett score in which Speedy got the best of the 10-round go. Morrisy has been in constant training and has had three fights since his last appearance in this city. He won all of them. He was offered an attractive purse to feature in an exhibition at Idaho Springs on the Fourth of July, but preferred to come back to Electra and try to stop Sparks' sensational climb to fame. While in California Morrisy took on the hardest job he could find, which was transferring cantaloupe crates from a truck to the cars. Morrisy kept this dizzy work up for five days and has developed a cantaloupe wallop, which is similar to the Egg Crate walloy of Charles Ray.

The boxing is attracting great deal of attention. Burkburnett and Bridgetown vies with Electra in anticipation of the coming event. Very little betting has been reported and what there is is said to be even. It is reported that Speedy's backers from Burkburnett will invade the city today and have a big enough bank roll to cover all comers. Morrisy's friends say that they will try to accommodate as long as their purses hold out.

STOCKS NEARLY DEAD ISSUE

Low Record Set For Inactivity

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Coming between the noon recess and tomorrow's holiday, today's session of the stock market was dull almost to the point of extinction. Total sales of 225,000 shares established a low record of operations for almost four years.

As an indication of the market's complete stagnation many of the United States steel were not quoted more important stocks including at all during the first hour and the several others of equal prominence remained unquoted throughout the day.

Extension of the railway shopmen's strike was in no perceptible degree a market factor. Rails as a group were steady to firm, net changes in the main being restricted to fractions although a few junior transportation displayed intermittent heaviness.

Much the same condition applied to representative industrials, but such issues as Studebaker and affiliated motors hardened, also equipments, coppers and popular uncalssified stocks, several of which displayed marked strength.

Dupont was the outstanding feature at a net gain of 13 3-4 points and Coca Cola added almost 2 points to its recent steady advance while Mexican petroleum finished at a gain of 1 1-2 points after wavering within a three point radius.

NEW YORK BONDS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Firmness was the chief feature of today's very dull bond market, the turnover being the smallest of any full session in many months.

Liberty issues contributed largely to the day's business, gains ruling in that division at the close. Foreign loans were mixed, however, with renewed heaviness in Mexican 4s and the large 5s.

Gains of one to one and a half points were received by Erie convretible Bs. St. Louis, San Francisco consolidated 4s, consolidated gas 7s and United Stats steel 5s, the latter showing more activity than at any recent period.

Gilt edge rails were less in evidence and moderate reactions followed offerings of Illinois Central refunding 4s, Denver and Rio Grande 4s, Seaboard 6s, St. Louis and San Francisco incomes and Cuba cane 8s. Total sales (par value) aggregated $10,815,000.

COTTON UP TO HIGH LEVELS

Heavy Trading On U. S. Report

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—Advances of very close to $10 a bale on the strongest months carried the price of cotton today to new high levels for the season, July touching 23.20 and October 22.94 cents a pound. Heaviest trading and widest advances were made in the first seven minutes following the issuance of the second condition figures of the season by the government. The percentage of 71.2 for June 25th on an increase of 10 per cent in the acreage indicated a yield of 11,065,000 bales; both percentage of condition and indicated yield were well under the average of expectations and a bulge of 160 to 165 points immediately resulted. Realizing checked the upward movement for a while but subsequently the market became even stronger and 25 points were added to the net gain on October. At the highest of the session prices were 186 to 195 points over the level of last week's close. The close was steady at net gains on the day of 181 to 191 points October closing at 22.80.

BUSINESS NEWS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON—President Harding has called the third semi-annual meeting of the business organization of the government for July 11, it was announced last night by Brigadier General H. M. Lord, the new director of the budget.

The program calls for a discussion of the work of the budget bureau under General Dawes during the fiscal year just closed when expenditures were about $500,000,000 less than at the beginning of the year.

WASHINGTON—This year's cotton crop will be about 11,065,000 bales, the department of agriculture announced today in its first forecast of the season.

That total production was calculated on a condition of 71.2 per cent of a normal on June 25, an estimate of about 34,852,000 acres in cultivation on that date.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK—The German mark fell to yet another new low level here today, being quoted before the opening of business at .023, or the equivalent of 100 for 25 cents. Before the war the current quotation for the mark in this country was 23 8-10 cents.

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS — Extremely heavy buying and a rise of $8 a bale were the immediate response by the cotton market today to the government's second report of the season on the growing cotton crop. In the first seven minutes following the reading of the report to the ring October rose 160 points to 22.70 cents a pound. This was 171 points over the level of last week's close.

BEARS SWAY WHEAT CALLS

Doing Big Business At Loss

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Below normal temperatures northwest, tending to check the spread of blackrust had a bearish effect today on the wheat market here. Prices closed weak, quarter to 1 3-8 net lower with July 1.16 3-8 to 1.16 1-2 and September 1.16 78 to 1.17. Corn finished 1-8c off to a like advance, oats at 1-4 to 3-8c decline to 1-8c gain and provisions ranging from 20c setback to a rise of 2 1-2.

Lessened apprehension as to blackrust was apparent from the outset in the wheat market and although prices rallied at times the close was at nearly the lowest levels of the day.

Persistent buying on the part of a big elevator company gave comparative firmness to the corn market. Some of this buying was said to be due to fire damage at Baltimore. Oats paralleled the action of corn.

In the provision trade, selling ascribed to packers more than counterbalanced upturns resulting from higher quotations on hogs.

VERNON ROAD IS INSPECTED

Changes Probably Will Be Made

By ERIC G. SCHROEDER.

VERNON, Texas, July 3.—Government representatives have inspected the plans for paving the Colorado-to-Gulf highway east and west out of Vernon and have indicated that several changes will have to be effected before work can progress. The alterations will be completed as soon as possible, and the plans forwarded to Austin for approval. When this latter action has been consummated, the specifications will be sent to Fort Worth, and upon their approval there will be returned to the local office. The commissioners' court will then advertise for bids on the enterprise. Meanwhile scores of tourists are daily passing over this vacation-highway.

Workmen are progressing excellently with their task of laying pavement south of Vernon. More than 1,000 feet of concrete have been poured with Paradise creek as a starting place, and over 300 feet are laid daily. Two thousand feet of concrete have already been laid between the Pease river bridge and the Fort Worth & Denver depot. Most of the Worth & Denver dpot. Most of the material for redecking the two Pease river bridges is on hand and work on this enterprise will commence within a few days.

A new ten ton caterpillar tractor has been purchased by the county for road work, and has been assigned to the Harrold precinct for the present. Two other ten ton tractors are kept in constant operation in the county.

County commissioners have spent between $7,000 and $15,000 each on main and rural roads since the issue of county bonds to the extent of $500,000. The allotment to each was $50,000. Several miles of road have been played in the western portion of the county, and drags are continually at work on highways over which considerable travel passes.

All of this intensified road activity in Wilbarger county is being carried out under the supervision of a particularly efficient commissioners' court and E. L. McHugh, county judge. Those composing the court are: A. M. Bourland, O. A. McCaleb, J. S. Archer and L. M. Luttrell.

Dope Thieves Busy

Special to the Record News.

VERNON, Texas, July 3.—Dope thieves Sunday afternoon entered the Baker Bros., Drug store in Vernon, helped themselves to a quantity of morphine and other narcotics, and made their escape, all without the immediate knowledge of the proprietor and his clerks, busy in the front part of the establishment. The marauders entered through the rear door by prying the lock. It was found later. The store is divided by a partition which runs through the middle of it, and this explains the inability of the store force to see the thieves during their visit. The drugs taken are government property.

BIG CROWD OUT TO SEE STOCK SHOW

A capacity house was out on last night at the Majestic theater to greet the Fox Stock company in their presentation of the new program that is on for the first half of the week commencing on last night.

The story on the program is a good religious story entitled "The Church and Its People" and is one that is written around the life of a young minister and a school teacher. Hazel Fox is seen to good advantage in the part of the school teacher and Leon (Jim) Bostwick, in the part of the minister, the two leading parts of the story. True religion finally wins out at the finish. A person will see in this story many different characters of life namely—the gold minister, the sinner, the hypocrite, the deacons, in fact good and bad people in every walk of life.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 a matinee will be given, then again for the last time on tomorrow night a big feature story has been announced for the last half of the week entitled "St. Elmo."

ONE MAIL DELIVERY

One mail delivery will be made this morning by carriers in the downtown district and there will oe no delivery of mail in the resident district according to announcement by Postmaster Ed Howard. Windows at the postoffice will be open from 9 until 10 a. m., the usual holiday hours.

DENIES NEW TRIAL

Motion for a new trial in the E. W. Patterson case was overruled by Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Monday, and Patterson was sentenced by the court to serve two years in the penitentiary.

Patterson was convicted some time ago of having received and concealed stolen property, which was alleged to have been taken from the J. L. Huffhines grocery store. During his hearing in Judge Martin's court, it was brought out that about $300 worth of goods had been found buried beneath the Patterson home

Judge Ed Napier departed Monday night for Fort Worth, where he will be in attendance upon the Texas State Bar association meeting, which convenes there for a two day session today and tomorrow.

Judge Napier announced prior to his departure that the 78th district court would be open again Thursday morning at 9. The magistrate will spend two days at the convention.

SOIL ANALYSIS TO BE MADE

Expert Meets With Irrigation Heads

M. D. Jackson, executive assistant of the United States experimental station, with headquarters at College Station, spent a great deal of Monday in Wichita Falls territory going over the Wichita river irrigation project with L. N. Lockridge, resident engineer. He is making a preliminary survey preparatory to having soil analysis made of the land to be irrigated by the project.

While Mr. Jackson could not say definitely when the analysis will be made he said that on account of the heavy work of the department and the comparatively few persons there are to do the work it may be some time before analizing the soil will be taken up.

He will meet with the directors of the irrigation district Tuesday night and discuss the project in detail.

BANK DEPOSITS HERE INCREASE

Show $600,000 Gain For Six Months

An increase of $600,000 in deposits during the past six months was reported Monday by the various banks in Wichita Falls.

The figures for the call Dec. 31, 1921, showed $19,548,027 on deposit and the figures for the period ending June 30 showed $20,156,530, making a gain of $608,500.

The big gain is said by bankers to be unusual for the first half of the year when deposits generally are expected to fall below the mark made during the last half of the year.

The unusually good showing made by the banks on the recent call is said to be absolute evidence of good business conditions generally.

MARTIN TO GRAHAM

Judge P. A. Martin adjourned the 89th district court Monday at noon, to reconvene Thursday morning at 9 a. m.

The magistrate departed last night for Graham, Texas, where he will enjoy the Fourth of July celebration at an old-fashioned picnic.

Judge Martin will probably be in attendance at the conference of the Texas State Bar association meeting, which will be held in Fort Worth today and tomorrow.

KAY'S LECTURES TO BE SENT BROADCAST

The Kay Bible class of the First Methodist Church, South, paid high tribute Sunday morning to their teacher John C. Kay when they voted to have his lectures to the class for one year printed in book form and one sent to each Methodist church in the state. Complete record of the lectures have been kept for some time and it is probable that 52 will be taken from last Sunday, it is said, to be printed and sent out to the various churches.

Rail Striker Awarded Auto By Maskat Temple's Circus

W. L. Baker of 200½ Seymour street, working as a machinists' helper at the M. K. & T. shops, was very much elated Sunday night when he observed on the bulletin board at the entrance of the Shrine Circus grounds that he had been presented a Ford sedan by the Shriners.

Mr. Baker went out on a strike with the shop men at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. After lunch he decided he needed a new shirt, among other things, which he purchased at Saul's store. Saul presented him with two complimentary tickets to the Shrine circus.

The car was officially delivered to him at 9 o'clock last night on the show grounds.

Baker is a married man and the father of a daughter. This is his first car.

Goodner, second vice president; T. B. Noble, treasurer and C. H. Verscoyle, secretary of the board George L. McGhee was employed as assistant secretary and will be actively in charge of the fair work. Second Payment Is Declared In Year

A second semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent was declared Monday by the board of directors of the Wichita Falls Building and Loan association, an institution which is working for the upbuilding of the city by erecting homes.

SAND FOR ROAD

With eight cars of sand placed on the ground last Friday, crews working on the new paved highways which traverse Wichita county were busy again Monday following a short lapse of time during the past week while waiting for material.

All paving crews and all machinery was busy, it was reported by County Engineer Isbell, except the plant on the Electra north road, which was stopped through the excessive rainfall that struck that vicinity Sunday afternoon.

ISBELL SEEKS ROAD FUNDS

He Goes to Austin For State Aid

J. M. Isbell, county engineer, will leave July 17 for Austin, where he will attempt to obtain more state aid for highways passing through Wichita county.

The engineer was instructed to make the journey to Austin through an order issued by the county commissioners during their meeting Monday. The aid wanted, it was intimated by county commissioners, would be used on the Burkburnett and Clay county roads.

The government appropriated approximately $50,000,000 recently for highways, $3,000,000 of which was allotted to Texas. Wichita county gets a quota of that amount, the county engineer attempting to obtain additional allottments for this county at the state highway commission's meeting in Austin on the 17th.

Deputy Finds "Stolen" Auto But Refuses to Accept Reward

He had lost his Ford touring car; he knew he had lost it, although it was right within his own sight all the time he was looking for it.

A very excited and frustrated young traveling salesman, who gave the name of Ben Wolf, entered the sheriff's office in the courthouse and stated in dignified terms:

"I wish to report the loss of an automobile."

He had left the vehicle sitting in front of the Western Union Telegraph company's office, just across the street from the Kemp, where Mr. Wolf was registered as a guest. When he came back the car was gone.

Wolf grew excited, the officers believe, and failed to look for his car when he saw that it had been moved from its parking place.

Deputy sheriffs, working under Fred Smith, discovered the auto a little later. It had been moved to the lot behind the Kemp hotel in order that the Shrine circus might pass. And all the while that Mr. Wolf grew anxious and hunted for his missing Lizzie, it was parked right behind the place where he slept.

The $25 reward he offered for its recovery was not accepted by the deputy who found it.
