LINDBERGH FLIGHT DELAYED BY FOG

Jury Completed Indiana Trial

FORMER GRAND DRAGON OF KLAN EN ROUTE FROM PENITENTIARY TO BE FIRST WITNESS TO TESTIFY

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Feb. 13. (AP)—D. C. Stephenson, life prisoner at the state prison here, was started by automobile this morning to Indianapolis where he is to testify in the bribery trial of Governor Ed Jackson.

Clyde H. Jones, making the opening statement for the defense, declared that his side will "contend that if persons other than McCray knew of this proposition that the state has no case." He was referring to the alleged attempt by Jackson to bribe Governor McCray.

"The state has said that a man named Robert Lyons knew about what took place," Jones declared. "A man named Fred Robinson, a man named James Noel, and a man whose name the state has not given knew what took place. Under that circumstance the state has no case." Governor Jackson will testify in his own defense, Jones said.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 13. (AP)—The jury in the trial of Governor Ed Jackson was told today by the prosecution in its opening statement that it would prove that the defendant personally offered to put $1,000 in Governor Warren T. McCray's desk in December, 1923, if McCray would name James E. McDonald as Marion county prosecutor.

Emsley W. Johnson, special assistant prosecutor, in outlining the state's case told of the alleged efforts to get McCray to accept money in return for McDonald's appointment and of failure to bring it about. He said the prosecution would prove that Jackson, who was then secretary of state, visited Governor McCray in the executive office and declared in substance:

"Governor, you must do what we tell you. You cannot afford to deny us. We are powerful in Indiana. Step out in another room. I'll put $10,000 in a drawer in your desk and when you come back you will find $10,000 and never know where it came from."

The jury was obtained at midmorning, ending a task that had been under way since last Wednesday. Recess until 2 o'clock was taken following the state's opening statement. Clyde H. Jones of defense counsel, planned to take an

HOME TOWN TALK

By B. N.
Substituting for B. D. D.

All editions of the Times Monday wear a new type dress. With a few exceptions, this new type was employed throughout the Sunday editions. Of necessity the change has been gradual, as one typesetting machine after another was equipped with the new type face, known as Ideal. It is seven point on a seven point slug, a slug being a solid piece of metal from which one line of type in a newspaper is printed. Market quotations and classified advertisements are set in five and one-half point of the same face.

The new type began to appear in the Times early last week, in spots here and there, affording a graphic contrast to the former body type, which was six point on a seven point slug. In spite of the larger size of the new type and its markedly improved legibility as compared with the old, it occupies no more space in a column than did its predecessor.

The entire battery of eight Linotypes and two Intertypes — the latter installed last week—is now equipped with the new type face. Home Town Talk would be glad to know how many readers find it clearer and more legible than the old.

Extensive investigation preceded the change. John Dobbs, foreman of the Times composing room—where the printers put the paper together—made a special trip to Houston and New Orleans in connection with the matter. Officers of the Times Publishing company feel sure that the change will be appreciated by the readers.

Notes of optimism for the continued substantial progress of Northwest Texas in 1928 were sounded by speakers at annual chamber of commesce banquets in Childress Thursday night and Electra and Floydada Friday night. Statistics of growth during 1927 furnished a real basis for the 1928 forecasts. The banquet given by the Wichita Falls Real Estate board to the property own-

J. C. PARRISH, CLAY CO. PIONEER, DIES MONDAY IN DALLAS

J. C. Parrish, father of Frank Parrish, 2212 Talunar lane, died in Dallas at 4 o'clock Monday morning. Funeral services will be held in Henrietta at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. All of the surviving children were at the bedside when their father passed away.

Parents Seek Boy Missing Since 2 O'Clock Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Nichols of 1528 Blonde street, were conducting a search Monday for their 13-year-old son, H. L. Nichols, who failed to return home Sunday afternoon after leaving to play baseball with two companions.

The youth left his home about 2 o'clock in company with Harold White and Edward McMillan, according to his parents. No word has been received of the whereabouts of any of the three since, they say.

At the time of his disappearance the Nichols youth was wearing a light colored cap, a blue striped shirt, overalls and a brown checked sweater. He is about four and one-half feet tall, weighs 82 pounds and has light brown hair and eyes.

Anyone who has seen any of the three boys is requested to telephone Mrs. Nichols at number 2-2778.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR TWO OFFICERS MISSING SINCE TUESDAY

TWO MISSING PRISONERS HAVE NOT BEEN FOUND

Suspect Held in Florida Has Been Released After an Investigation.

HENDERSON, Ky., Feb. 13. (AP)—Two youths appearing to be 20 or 21 years old were arrested here today as suspects in the disappearance last week of two deputy sheriffs while they were removing two prisoners from LaFayette, Ind., to a prison at Pendleton.

The men gave their names as Font Hailey and Otto Gash. They refused to give their addresses and talked little.

DANVILLE, Ill., Feb. 13. (AP)—A mysterious telephone call to police here today advised them to search empty freight cars on the Monon tracks near Maple Point, just outside of Lafayette, Ind., in quest of the bodies of the two missing deputy sheriffs who are believed to have been murdered by prisoners they were transporting.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 13. (AP) The muddy Wabash, choked with ice, holds what Police Chief Eversole believes to be the answer to the question authorities have sought since last Tuesday to answer: What happened to Deputy Sheriffs John P. Grove and Wallace McClure?

The police head does not expect a river search will be possible for several days, because of flood waters. Meantime search parties again today were organized to scour the countryside for trace of the deputies and the two prisoners they were driving to the state reformatory at Pendleton.

Although there have been the usual reports of being "seen" in several sections of the middlewest, the two prisoners who were sentenced to serve 5 to 25 years robbery terms have not been found. The two, Samuel Baxter, 19, and John Burns, 20, were last seen Tuesday afternoon, several hours after the party of four left Lafay-

BANKERS CONVENE DALLAS FOR FIFTH DISTRICT MEETING

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Conservatism still guards the banker who remains the agent for the safe handling of fiscal affairs in his community, James Shaw of Austin, state banking commissioner declared in an address here today before the fifth district meeting of the Texas Bankers association.

Speakers also discussed the need for impressing farmers with the necessity for diversified farming and cotton acreage reduction this year; the prospects for 1928 prosperity that will be balanced and substantial but not of boom proportions; the benefits of cooperation between banks; the effectiveness with which the federal reserve system operates to keep business on an even keel.

W. M. Massie of Fort Worth, president of the association pointed out that Texas bankers had been faced with an "intolerable condition in which drastic conditions were needed" when the $5000 reward for dead bank robbers was posted by the association. He declared the reward would stand unchanged as long as members of the association supported it.

"We expect criticism from certain sources, and it has come from where we thought it would," Mr. Massie declared.

Dave Blackburn, president of the Citizens National bank of Denison was elected chairman of the fifth district and A. E. Childs cashier of the Morris County National bank of Napels was elected secretary.

FORMER COLLEAGUE OF EDITH CAVELL RETURNS WAR MEDAL IN PROTEST

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb 13. (AP) The controversy in England over production of the film "Dawn" whose central character is Nurse Edith Cavell, found an echo here today when it was stated that Madame Bodard, a former colleague of Nurse Cavell, had returned to the British government her medal of the Order of the British Empire.

Her action was understood to have been based upon her desire to protest against a recent letter by Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, to Herbert Wilcox, producer of the film, declining an invitation to witness the film on the ground that its production was repugnant to national feeling.

Madame Bodard is British by birth.

BODIES OF 29 RECOVERED AT CANADA MINE

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 13. (AP)—The work of bringing bodies of the victims from the burning Hollinger gold mine continued today with hope abandoned that any of the missing miners would be found alive.

Early this morning the number brought to the surface had reached 25. Rescue parties had located 14 other bodies at the 675 foot level and they expected to bring out the last of these before the end of the day.

It was officially announced that the fire, which had been burning on the 550 foot level since Friday morning, was under control. The workers continued to pour water on the blazing debris and the mine passages were being blocked with heavy canvas screens and the smoke and gas cleared from each section in turn.

High praise was given the United States bureau of mines rescue crew from Pittsburgh, Pa., the United States workers being given major credit for recovery of the bodies and control of the fire.

Early this afternoon 29 bodies had been brought out of the mine.

All the bodies brought out gave evidence that the man had died of gas poisoning.

Rescue crews were concentrating on the fifth level, some 600 feet underground and near the spot where the fire started. They said it probably would be some time before the blaze burned itself out.

HICKMAN TO TAKE STAND AGAINST PAL

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13. (AP)—William Edward Hickman, convicted kidnaper and murderer of Marian Parker, today definitely announced his intention of turning states evidence against his 16-year-old partner, Welby Hunt, when the pair appear Wednesday before Superior Judge Carlos Hardy to answer to the charge of murdering C. Ivy Thoms, a druggist, Christmas eve 1926.

"He had a lot of fun testifying against me. Watch him when I take the stand against him," Hickman declared.

This referred to young Hunt's testimony at Hickman's trial for the Parker slaying. Hunt testified that Hickman, in his opinion, was sane.

Despite all that his lawyers are doing for him, Hickman himself seems, to judge by his own statements, to have no hope or expectation of escape from the gallows. "All this thing was planned long ago for me," he declared.

Thoms Case Opens Wednesday

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13. (AP)—District Attorney Asa Keyes declared today that William Edward Hickman, slayer of Marian Parker, may be tried, convicted and hanged on another charge before his legal fight to avoid punishment for the Parker killing is decided.

Keyes pointed out that Hickman, who last week was declared sane by a jury in superior court here, has entered two pleas to the charge that he and Welby Hunt murdered C. Ivy Thoms in an attempted drug store holdup Christmas eve 1926.

In the Parker case, Hickman pleaded only "not guilty by reason of insanity." In the Thoms case he has pleaded "not guilty," and "not guilty by reason of insanity." The two pleas put up to the jury decision on his sanity and decision on his guilt, if he is found sane. A verdict in the Thoms case that Hickman is sane and guilty, unaccompanied by a recommendation for clemency, would send Hickman to the gallows, Keyes declared. The Thoms case opens Wednesday.

Gibson is alleged to have defrauded Shanghai merchants of about $7000 and Canadian authorities were informed a warrant had been issued for his arrest.

"I don't know a thing about this charge," he declared. "I never heard anything about it until I reached Victoria."

Gibson was said to be a lineal descendant of Patrick Henry, and to have had a distinguished war record

ATTORNEYS FOR STEWART FILE BRIEF IN COURT

SEEK TO MAKE PERMANENT WRIT HABEAS CORPUS FREEING ACCUSED

PLEAD SENATE WITHOUT POWER TO MAKE ARREST

Oil Magnate Taken Into Custody Result Refusal to Answer Questions.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Counsel for Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil company of Indiana today submitted to the District of Columbia supreme court, a 74 page brief in support of Stewart's effort to make permanent writ of habeas corpus freeing him from arrest by senate for refusing to answer questions asked by the oil committee.

The brief, submitted by Jesse Atkins, a Washington attorney, contended the senate was without power to arrest Stewart when he was at that time before a senate committee and under subpoena. Atkins argued that the power of the senate was no greater than that of a court and contended that in court if a refusal to answer was ill founded the only allowable procedure was to order the witness to answer the questions and then punish him if he refused.

The senate resolution, the brief said, "does not call for information essential for the exercise of the power of legislation but is an attempt at exercising a judicial function, beyond the powers of the senate, and authorize an inquiry into the private affairs of individuals.

The power of the senate to compel a private individual to appear and testify is confined to cases where the information is essential to enable the senate efficiently to exercise a legislative function and "does not include the right to make general inquiry," the brief contended. It was argued that Stew-

REGISTRATION OF LOBBYISTS WALSH'S PLAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, declared in the senate today that there were rumors that his resolution for an investigation of public utility power companies would be defeated "because it will dry up the sources of campaign funds for the next election."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Registration of lobbyists in Washington with the secretary of the senate would be required under an amendment to senate rules proposed today by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts.

The new rule would require all lobbyists to give their names, the legislation they oppose or advocate, and the names of the individuals, societies, corporations or other organizations by whom they are employed. It was sent to the rules committee.

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska suggested a mere rule of the senate would not accomplish the purpose, as it carried no penalty for failure to register. Senator Walsh replied that it provided that those who violated the provision could be hailed before the bar of the senate.

"What we want is some means of finding out who forms this invisible government surrounding us," Senator Walsh said. He added that it was difficult to legislate on the subject.

GOOD WILL AMBASSADOR LEAVES HAVANA 2:36 MONDAY MORNING 'SHIP' NOT SIGHTED ALONG ROUTE

CAIRO, Ill., Feb. 13. (AP)—The drone of an airplane motor was heard over Cairo at 2:29 p. m. today. The plane was not seen because of fog, but as this city was on the expected route of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh it was believed it might be his.

(By the Associated Press)

Flying through fog and rain along along his route from Havana to St. Louis, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was invisible to watchers from the ground after he left the Cuban capital at 2:26 o'clock this morning.

Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon no definite word of his sighting had come through. The opinion prevailed in aviation circles that he was flying very high to avoid the fog and rain and that the first news of him would come with his arrival at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Fog and mist enveloped Lambert-St. Louis field this afternoon as a small crowd awaited the arrival of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

An air of uncertainty spread over the field as 2 o'clock, the generally accepted hour of Lindbergh's arrival, passed and no word had been received. Some field officials, however, had estimated his time of arrival at 3 o'clock.

Because of the poor visibility landing lights at the field were lit at 2:45 p. m.

Members of the official reception committee, headed by Acting Mayor Walter Neun, and others remained under shelter because of the inclement weather. The crowd was estimated at 500.

Leaves Havana at Early Hour

HAVANA, Feb. 13. (AP)—His good will flight completed, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from Columbia flying field at 2:26 a. m. this morning for his home port of St. Louis, a flight of some 1200 miles. Night still hung over the waters of the straits of Florida as Lindbergh headed over them on the only water jump of his flight to Key West, Fla.

As the Spirit of St. Louis left the dimly lighted field only the steady throb of its motor traced its course to the open sea. From Key West Lindbergh's route led along the Gulf of Mexico to a point south of St. Louis from there it turned north to that city.

The plane was loaded with 225 gallons of gasoline half its capacity. It was estimated that this would carry Lindbergh for 20 hours. The flight, the fourth longest in his career, was expected to end at Lambert field, St. Louis, soon after 2 o'clock this afternoon. The three flights which have exceeded the present one in distance were New York to Paris, 3600 miles; Washington to Mexico City, 2200 miles.

The vessel is expected to tie up at her pier here by 5 o'clock. Her officers will be given a reception tonight.

COTTON BAGGING IS BETTER THAN JUTE SAYS REPORT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Cotton bagging is superior to jute as a covering for cotton bales, the department of agriculture announced today after a test shipment of four bales to Germany and return.

The bales covered with cotton bagging were much neater and in better condition generally than those wrapped with jute, a department representative in Hamburg declared. Breaking strength experiments following the shipment test showed the new product to be more durable.

"Adoption of cotton bagging probably would force the price of jute to unusually low levels," the statement said. "Decided economies in transportation and insurance costs would also result from the use of a lighter weight covering."

TRIAL OF FORMER MESQUITE MAYOR OPENS AT DALLAS

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Although the state had expected a motion for continuance, attorneys for John Lawrence, former mayor of Mesquite, Texas, announced ready today when he was called for trial on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Jack Kimbell of Mesquite.

Interrogation of 135 of 400 veniremen summoned was begun immediately, but no jurors had been selected when court recessed at noon.

Prosecuting attorneys indicated they would ask the death penalty for Lawrence in connection with the fatal shooting of Kimbell in the public square of Mesquite on October 6. Attorneys for Lawrence intimated they would plead self defense. One hundred and fifty witnesses have been summoned by the defense.

Will Rogers News Digest

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 12.—Talk about me even joking about our president, while the dignified United States senate went clear out of its way to take an unnecessary slap at him with a resolution that he shouldn't run again. Now off hand you would think that a senate resolution meant something but they carry no more authority than a chamber of commerce one does. The senate voted that Coolidge shouldn't run again but that each one of them were eligible. They wanted to show that the country was not entirely destitute of great men, that there was 96 men that could improve on Cal at any minute.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

DENY REPORT SANDINO GOES TO HONDURAS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 13. (AP)—Advices available in Nicaragua today indicate that a report received in the United States that Augustino Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel leader, is fleeing to Honduras is unfounded.

Sandino, who has been operating in Nueva Segovia, a northern department of Nicaragua, for the past six months, two weeks ago slipped southeast from his former stronghold of El Chipote to San Rafael Del Norte. He remained there a few days and appeared at several coffee plantations in the vicinity of the city of Matagalpa.

The exact whereabouts of the rebel leader are not known, but it is felt that he probably is from 12 to 15 miles northwest of Matagalpa in a mountainous region. The military authorities believe that as long as he has almost inaccessible region to his rear where he can retreat swiftly, it will be most difficult to capture him unless by surprise.

The rainy season is approaching, making transportation of troops almost impossible and consequently the clearing up of the northern districts of the Sandino bands is expected to be a slow procedure.

WIFE OF PASTOR OF DENTON CHURCH DIES

DENTON, Texas, Feb. 13. (AP)—Mrs. Mary Katte Galbraith, wife of Dr. William Fred Galbraith, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, died today after an illness of three years. Funeral services are to be held Tuesday with Dr. Robert Hill, Tyler, in charge.

POLICE ON TRIAL FOR MYSTERIOUS MURDER OF GIRL

COLUMBIA, Ala., Feb. 13. (AP)—The mysterious death last November 14 of Miss Louise Monteabaro, comely young sewing machine sales woman was up today for airing in the trial for her murder of Chief H. F. Blake and Officer W. M. Farmer of the Calera, Ala., police force.

The officers declared, when they took her body to Birmingham that the young woman committed suicide after she had been arrested for speeding on the highway near the town where they were on duty.

Friends and relatives of Miss Monteabaro expressed themselves as dissatisfied with this explanation of the death and instigated an investigation. C. C. McCall, attorney general of Alabama took personal charge of the quest for evidence.

It was declared that Blake admitted he fired his pistol "into the air" while pursuing the automobile in which it was alleged Miss Monteabaro was exceeding the speed limit.

Autopsies from which much important testimony was expected to develop focussed interest on whether there were powder burns about the fatal wound. It was reported that two autopsies varied on this point.

The presence of such scars, it was pointed out would indicate the shot was fired from close range; their absence, that the bullet sped from a distance.

HOUSTON BEGINS GIANT DRIVE FOR CONVENTION FUND

HOUSTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Five hundred solicitors started out Monday under the direction of 72 vice chairmen of the Houston finance committee to raise $350,000 for entertainment of the Democratic national convention here next June. A leader in each business, profession or industry, assisted by five men in the same line, were canvassing men in their particular line of endeavor.

The intention, R. N. Farrar, executive vice chairman said, is to get the total within two weeks, by Saturday night, if possible.

The first part of the campaign was confined to the business district, where about 7000 men are expected to make the larger contributions. Solicitors' activities are expected to widen a little later.

Meanwhile appeals to 7500 citizens were mailed out from the office of Roger Seaman, director of the campaign under Mr. Farrar, urging them "for Houston's honor" to contribute.

Cash is to be insisted upon where sums of less than $100 are donated. Contributors of larger sums may make the amount on four installments ending June 1. Those who give $100 or more are to be given season tickets to the convention. A group giving that amount may split the ticket among them.

Contributions from out in the state also have been coming to the office of R. S. Sterling, chairman of the finance committee. Monday a check for $100 came from the Columbus Chamber of Commerce. The total of like contributions and voluntary subscriptions in Houston has reached more than $100,000.

LINDBERGH FLIGHT DELAYED BY FOG

and San Diego to St. Louis, 1550 miles.

Cheers rose from the spectators on the field as the flier swept over them, leaving behind a message of good will and enshrined in their hearts. Miniature flags of 13 countries visited on his tour painted on the fuselage of the Spirit of St. Louis attested the affection of Latin America for "We." These represented Mexico, Guatemala, British Honduras, Nicaragua, Honduras, Salvador, Costa Rica, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela, the Dominican Republic, Haiti and Cuba. Lindbergh also made stops at two United States possessions, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Lindbergh, fit and smiling, arrived at the field accompanied by Ambassador Nobel Brandon Judah and Mrs. Judah at 1:50 a. m. The Cuban band struck up a lively march and the Spirit of St. Louis was wheeled from the hangar, while the flier walked about the field hunting a suitable place for a take off.

He returned to the plane, stowed his luggage and a few sandwiches aboard and taxied to the far end of the field at the opposite end from the hangars. Ambassador Judah and Mrs. Judah followed him in an automobile lighting the way.

He started from the polo field and as the plane sped over the bumpy ground, it passed close to one of the goal posts. Half way down the field he was in the air and rushing along just raised the plane to clear the hangars. The spectators and a large number of the Cuban flying corps cheered and threw their hats into the air.

For 15 minutes the sound of his motor was heard as he circled around apparently seeking his bearings. Lindbergh made a final circle over the field and gave three flashes of his signal lights in farewell to Ambassador Judah and Mrs. Judah.

Immediately after the takeoff Captain Laborde, Lindbergh's Cuban aide, announced that he was worried as a strange rustling sound came from the plane and he thought the motor might not be functioning properly. The lights of the escorting automobile were maneuvered to provide the best illumination possible in event of a landing.

Fears were soon dispelled, however, when a steady whir indicated that the motor was functioning properly.

After assurance of Lindbergh's safety was signalled to spectators the crowd started to melt away. The field was darkened. Another chapter had been added to the history of aviation and a new one begun.

COVERS 8000 MILES ON TRIP AND VISITS 13 COUNTRIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off today from Havana for St. Louis, home port from which the Spirit of St. Louis got its name, he left behind him an air trail untraveled in large part before the partnership of "we" blazed its way along the overhead route above mountains and jungles.

The flying colonel left Washington for Mexico City two months ago today, pushing on to the Mexican capital in a day and night of steady air travel. Since then he has covered 8000 miles and visited 13 countries and two United States possessions.

In two months the Lone Eagle has dropped in on Mexico, Guatemala, British Honduras, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela, the Virgin Islands, Porto Rico, the Dominican republic, Haiti and Cuba.

In nine months the flier, who was converted from an air mail carrier to an ambassador of good will from the United States to the whole world, has flown over 40,000 miles in America and Europe.

He started his flight to fame at San Diego, Calif., May 10, flying then as now, to St. Louis. His first flight in the Spirit of St. Louis was a record, for the 1550 mile trip from San Diego to St. Louis made a new distance record for airmen flying alone without a stop. He stopped in St. Louis only long enough to say what the monoplane bearing the Missouri city's name would do, and then continued to New York.

He made aviation history with his flight from New York to Paris, May 20-21, and returning to the United States, saw America first when he visited every state in a three months tour, covering 22,350 miles and including visits to more than three score cities.

He also made a number of side flights, going from New York to St. Louis, to Washington and Ottawa, Canada. The Spirit of St. Louis has made 468 flights with 468 hours in the air and traveled approximately 40,000 miles.

The flight to St. Louis now under way is the fourth longest single hop the plane has been called on to make. The flight to Paris, 3600 miles, was the hardest; next, to Mexico City, 2200 miles, and third, the opening test, from San Diego to St. Louis. In his tour of Central and South America only one flight was more than 1000 miles, the trip from Maracay, Venezuela, to St. Thomas, Virgin Island, being 1050 miles.

When he left Havana for St. Louis, Lindbergh started his 2327th hour in the air in his six years of flying, which has taken him over an estimated distance of more than 200,000 miles.

moisture making possible preliminary plowing for the spring planting and practically insuring a normal yield from the large wheat acreage of this section.

Blizzard in Colorado

DENVER, Feb. 13. (AP)—Coming from the northwest with a suddenness which caught this city unprepared, a blizzard swept Denver and vicinity Sunday afternoon and last night.

Accidents were numerous, but no deaths were reported.

Extreme cold was reported at Cheyenne, Wyo., with only a trace of snow, while Pueblo, Colo., on the south, reported a light snow.

Snow at Pampa.

PAMPA, Texas, Feb. 13. (AP)—A light snow from an overcast sky fell today following Sunday's rain and mist to increase the quarter of an inch precipitation already recorded.

Following a four month drought, the moisture will benefit materially the wheat crop.

Moisture Welcomed.

AMARILLO, Feb. 13. (AP)—Amarillo and this section of the Panhandle were hit by a heavy snow storm early today. Mild temperatures prevailed however and wheat farmers welcomed the wet snow.

Today's precipitation followed from one to two inches of rain and snow which fell over the south and east portions of the Panhandle yesterday.

Melts at Lubbock.

LUBBOCK, Feb. 13. (AP)—Three hours after cotton men here had been informed of a heavy snow in Amerillo and over the north Panhandle the tail end of the Rocky Mountain blizzard lashed across the South Plains, following Sunday's general half inch rain with a biting wind and sleet which since turned to snow. The mercury dropped to 40 at noon, but indications were that the fall would cease early in the afternoon.

Reports from over the South Plains said the flakes were melting as fast as they reached the ground promising more needed moisture for one of the heaviest wheat plantings in history.

Benefits Grain Crop

CLARENDON, Feb. 13.—Following more than an inch of rain that fell here Sunday, snow began falling this morning and continued until noon. Land, while a little dry before, will have plenty of moisture for spring plowing after the snow. Wheat is safe and chances for good crop almost certain.

art answered every question of public interest asked him and refused to reply to only those that dealt with private and personal matters, "the answers to which in no way could furnish information essential to the efficient performance of any legislative function of the senate."

"The petitioner," said the brief, "was arrested solely for the purpose of securing his attendance as witness before the senate. Until a witness has been duly subpoenaed and has refused to attend, there is no authority in the courts to attach him to secure his attendance."

After citing what it said would be the procedure in court, Stewart's petition continued:

"The power asserted and exercised by the senate in this case is unnecessary and is arbitrary and an invasion of the petitioner's constitutional right not to be deprived of his liberty without due process of law."

"We respectfully submit," the petition concluded "that it clearly appears that petitioner has answered every question put to him by the senate committee, the answers to which could throw any possible light upon the matters of public interest. His testimony shows that he knows nothing about any illegal, dishonest or dishonorable use of the bonds at one time belonging to the Continental Trading company.

"This case involves the most sacred right of the citizen. Petitioner in exercise of his best judgment conscientiously believed that his constitutional rights were invaded. It was, therefore, not only his right, but his duty to himself and to every citizen of the country to fearlessly stand upon his constitutional rights at whatever risk or cost to himself."

JURY COMPLETED INDIANA CASE

hour for his statement to the jury after which D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan and now a life convict, was ready for call as the prosecution's first witness.

Feared Jackson's Power

Fear of Jackson's power, along with that of George V. Coffin, Marion county Republican chairman, and Robert W. Lyons, Richmond attorney and former financial agent of the Ku Klux Klan, and others interested in McDonald's appointment kept McCary's lips sealed during the years that followed, Johnson declared. He said the state would prove that the scheme was connived in Jackson's office in the state house; that he put the matter to Governor McCray twice after Fred Robinson, then state purchasing agent, had been solicited as McCray's friend to present the alleged proposition.

Johnson said state witnesses will show that Jackson told Governor McCray that McDonald's appointment as Marion county (Ind.) prosecutor meant ten thousand votes to the Republican party. Johnson added that the state would show that Jackson represented to McCray that Coffin was a great political genius and that Lyons was a powerful officer in the Ku Klux Klan and that both were in position to help McCray who at the time was facing charges of embezzlement.

Johnson then told of Stephenson's appearance in the alleged conspiracy. He said Jackson informed Stephenson that the plan had failed and that the former klan leader sought to bring about McDonald's appointment. Stephenson sought an introduction to James Noel, McCray's attorney and he asked the lawyer to put the matter before his client. Noel, according to Johnson, said he would tell him of it.

Coffin and Robert I. Marsh, an Indianapolis attorney, were indicted with Jackson, but have been granted separate trials.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 13. (AP)—A jury for the trial of Governor Ed Jackson, charged with conspiracy to commit a felony and attempt to bribe, was obtained at 10:10 o'clock this morning.

The jury: David Porterfield, salesman; Fred L. Hollwegg, business man; Elmer Geiger, Greenwood farmer; Everett S. Penn, salesman; H. B. Hostetter, state secretary of the Presbyterian church; Persy L. Allen, machinist; Wm. H. Howard, secretary Indianapolis Board of Trade; Samuel H. Colbert, negro laborer; Hubert Adams, carpenter; Ira A. Minnick, business man; Ivan Fowler, farmer; Everet McClain, machinist.

The jury was completed after examination of two talesmen. Neither state nor defense made any effort to do other than fill the one vacant chair that confronted them when adjournment was taken last Friday.

While attorneys conferred with the court following the swearing of the jury, Governor Jackson remained in his chair, thoughtfully studying the 12 men.

William H. Remy, prosecuting attorney, said that D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, would be the first state witness.

Stephenson was named in the indictment brought against Jackson, George V. Coffin, Marion county Republican chairman, and Robert I. Marsh, Indianapolis. Coffin and Marsh were granted separate trials. The trio is charged with attempting to bribe former Governor Warren T. McCray in 1923.

Conference Sunday Night

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Belief that D. C. Stephenson, life prisoner and former Ku Klux Klan grand dragon, would be the first witness for the state in the bribery trial of Gov. Ed Jackson, became general today when it was learned that Prosecutor Will H. Remy and Emsley L. Johnson, his special assistant, held a sudden conference at Remy's home last night.

Although neither Remy nor Johnson would comment on the nature of their conference, it was understood it had to do with the advisability of bringing Stephenson to testify. Stephenson, while grand dragon, was said to have been friendly with Jackson when the latter was making his campaign for governor. Since his conviction, however, Stephenson has smuggled statements from his prison cell denouncing Jackson and making charges of political corruption in Indiana. Jackson's indictment grew out of investigation of the charges.

Stephenson was named in the indictment as having been a party to the alleged conspiracy to bribe former Gov. Warren T. McCray to appoint James E. McDonald as Marion (Indianapolis) county prosecutor in 1923.

One of the star witnesses for the state, Robert W. Lyons of Richmond, former financial agent of the klan, will be lost to the state unless the defense agrees to permit the state to take a deposition from him. Lyons was operated upon for appendicitis Saturday in a Dayton, Ohio, hospital.

MISSING PRISONERS NOT BEEN FOUND

ette. They left Grove's automobile in a Decatur, Ill., garage.

The firing of several shots at Maple Point, near here last Tuesday morning, and the finding of Grove's hat, coat and belt near there further substantiated the theory that the two deputies came to harm at the hands of Baxter and Burns.

The two escaped convicts have been reported seen in Chicago and Terre Haute, Ind. A man giving his name as Ernest Andress, 28, of Mt. Jewett, Pa., and answering the description of one of the convicts was arrested in Indianapolis last night. He was begging on the streets. Indianapolis police, however, did not believe he was either Baxter or Burns although he was held under high bond.

A suspect held at Orlando, Fla., was released after descriptions of the missing men supplied by Indiana authorities did not tally with the men held there.

Groves' automobile was returned to Lafayette from Decatur last night. Two additional bullet holes were found in the top of the machine, one near the center, and the other over the driver's seat. The hole in the windshield, previously reported, was in the lower right hand corner.

On the floor of the automobile was a rubber overshoe for a right foot. It is the mate of the overshoe found near Maple Point at the same time Groves hat and coat belt were found.

Will Question Couple

DANVILLE, Ill., Feb. 13. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Smith of Danville were to be questioned this afternoon by state's attorney on a report obtained by Special Investigator William Ryan, that John Burns and Samuel Baxter, fugitive kidnapers of the two missing Lafayette deputies, had changed clothing at their house last Tuesday.

In the new story Mrs. Smith is said to have admitted to Mr. Ryan that the two men changed clothes, but that she did not know where the change of clothes came from. Previously the Smiths had declared that Mrs. Smith had ordered the two men away, and that they had stayed no longer than time to smoke a cigaret.

Three deputies came from Lafayette this afternoon to assist in the questioning.

Find Bloodstained Overalls

DECATUR, Ill., Feb. 13. (AP)—The finding of bloodstained overalls crammed under the rear seat of the automobile in which John Burns and Samuel Baxter left Lafayette, Ind., for the state reformatory at Pendleton last Tuesday under guard of Deputy Sheriffs J. P. Grove and Wallace McClure, and which was abandoned in Decatur, Ill., adds strength to the belief of authorities that Grove and McClure were slain.

The suit was found by Theodore Grove, son of Deputy Sheriff Grove, when he came to Decatur Sunday, accompanied by Indiana police officers.

The overalls are similar to those worn by the prisoners when they left Lafayette.

The missing deputy's son said that his father was carrying a .32 caliber automatic pistol in his outside overcoat pocket when he left with the prisoners, and it is his theory that either Burns or Baxter extracted the gun from his father's pocket and shot the two deputies with it.

investigation" of activities of the committee against the Walsh public utility power inquiry resolution.

Who's Who Pamphlet.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Forces working to defeat the purposes of the Walsh public utility power inquiry resolution were charged today by Judson King of the national popular government league, with constituting the greatest lobby since the "anti-railroad-rate-regulation lobby of Roosevelt's day, summoned to defeat the Hepburn bill."

In a pamphlet entitled, "Who's Who in the Super-Power Lobby in Washington and Out," King declared that those who opposed the Walsh resolution in committee hearings "acted chiefly but not wholly under the direction of the joint committee of National Utility associations of New York and Washington."

A partial survey, he said, showed that "141 political jobs of 27 varieties, from a southern Democratic city boss to the treasurer of the Republican national committee, have been, or are, held by the 274 utility attorneys whose names are appended to the memorandum against the Walsh resolution." Chairman Cortelyou of the joint committee, feared a "political investigation," King charged.

NUMEROUS STORIES AS TO IDENTITY OF DAUGHTER OF CZAR

BERLIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—The furore in New York created by the arrival of a young woman claiming to be a daughter of the late czar of Russia, has its counterpart in Germany where a libel suit is now in progress growing out of numerous stories concerning her identity.

The libel suit resulted from a published statement that the former grand duke of Hessen paid about $5000 to quash a campaign for recognition of Frau Von Tchaikossky as the Grand Duchess Anastasia, daughter of the late Czar Nicholas. This statement came up in court today but the presiding judge adjourned the case for a month and urged the parties involved to settle their difference out of court.

Nacht Ausgabe, a Berlin daily newspaper, some time ago ran a series of articles purporting to prove that Madame Tchaikovsky, who is now in the United States, is the czar's daughter and the only member of the Russian royal family who escaped execution at Ekaterinburg, Siberia, in 1918.

No sooner had the series ended than another was started in the same daily with opposite purport, asserting that Madame Tchaikovsky was really a Polish peasant girl named Tchanskovsky. The writer of the first series, Frau Von Rathlef Keilmann, then published a statement in the Daily Rundschosu, asserting that the editor of Nacht Ausgabe himself admitted to friends that his paper had been given about $5000 by Anastasia's uncle, the former grand duke of Hessen, to prove that Madame Tchaikovsky was an imposter. A lively newspaper battle ensued, the upshot of which was the libel action.

Rosa Raisa on Radio Program To Sing 'Aida'

Rosa Raisa, star of the opera "Aida," which will be presented in Wichita Falls, February 29, will be heard over the radio Monday night through WEAF chain. She will be presented by General Motors and will be the star attraction of their "family party" at 8:30 and will be assisted by a concert orchestra under the direction of Roderic Graham.

Rosa Raisa has been with the Chicago Civic Opera company since 1913 and "Aida" in which she appears here is one of her greatest roles. She has a lyric soprano voice of unparallelled beauty.

Sunday night, although the static was bad owing to the unsettled state of the weather, Charles Hackett, leading tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera company, which will be here February 29, sang during the Atwater Kent hour. He was assisted by Nanette Guilford of the Metropolitan opera. Hackett is distinguished by being the first American tenor to sing at LaScala in Milan, the Constanzi in Rome, the Grand Opera in Paris, the Liceo in Barcelona, the Reale in Madrid, the Colon in Rio de Janerio, the Opera in Buenos Aires and the Municipale in Monte Carlo.

Mr. Hackett sang "Into the Light" by LaForge, broadcast for the first time, and this was one of Hackett's most popular numbers. He also sang "The Rosary," a song that is always loved. "Ah! Love, But a Day" and "At Parting" were heard and were enjoyed as all lighter songs are, but "Little Grey Home in the West" and "A Brown Bird Singing" must surely have been the favorites of the unseen audience of Wichita Falls folks who are now looking forward to hearing Hackett with no interfering static to mar the full power of the voice that has been proclaimed one of the greatest.

Appraising Work Is Completed in School District

Work of appraising recently constructed buildings outside the city limits but within the Wichita Falls Independent School district in order that renditions may be made for 1928 school taxes has been completed, W. R. Hyer, city tax assessor and collector, announced Monday.

Buildings having a true value of approximately $200,000 were appraised by Mr. Hyer. Seventy per cent of this total is subject to taxation. This true valuation is exclusive of the value of the land on which the buildings are located.

NEW ASSIGNMENTS IN ARMY COMMANDS

General Lassiter Will Assume Command San Antonio On Return to U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—New assignments for a number of major generals holding important commands were made public today at the war department.

Major General William Lassiter, commanding the Philippine department, will be relieved by Major General Douglas Macarthur, now commanding the third corps area, Baltimore, Md. General Lassiter goes to command of the eighth corps area, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, on his return to the United States, while General MacArthur will be relieved by Major General Fred W. Sladen, now commanding the eighth corps area.

Major General Malin Craig assumes command of the Panama Canal department, relieving Major General William S. Graves. General Craig is now in command of the division in the canal zone.

Brigadier General George Ler. Irwin, now at Fort Sill, Okla., will succeed General Craig as division commander in Panama.

The transfer of General Sladen to the third corps area is a change in his previous orders to command the eighth corps area which have been revoked. General Lassiter has been granted a 40-day leave of absence effective March 1 before taking over his duties in eighth corps area.

General MacArthur's orders become effective on his return from the Olympic games this year.

General MacArthur's trip to the Olympic games will be in connection with his duties as president of the American Olympic association. While the hockey and association football events of the games will take place during May, the other events at Amsterdam run from July 28 until August 12 and General MacArthur probably will not reach his post in the Philippines until some time in September.

General Graves, who surrenders command of the Panama department, Has been ordered retired for physical disability.

PLAN DOUBLE FUNERAL FOR HOUSTON COUPLE VICTIMS OF SHOOTING

HOUSTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—A double funeral was planned Monday for Thomas D. Martin, 59, and his wife, Eleanor, 48.

Martin shot and killed his wife here Saturday afternoon and a moment later was himself slain by his son Roy D. Martin, 30, at the son's home. The latter was charged with murder. He was released on nominal bond and expected to attend the services.

The elder Martin, it was brought out at the inquest, killed his wife with a pistol in a rage after she had left him. The son, the same hearing showed, shot his father an instant later with a shotgun.

HOUSTON REARS AUDITORIUM FOR DEMOCRATS

Houston, Texas, deeming nothing too good for the Democrats who will hold their convention there in June, is building a $200,000 auditorium for the gathering. The architect's drawing is shown above. Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe (left) and Jesse Jones (right), Houston publisher and national party treasurer, have been active in planning the temporary structure. Below is the turning basin of the Houston port, to which some convention delegates may come by boats on which they will live during the gathering.

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 13. (AP)—Rome was not built in a day, but an auditorium to hold 25,000 visitors to the 1928 Democratic national convention is to be completed by the city of Houston in 90 days.

Plans for the temporary structure, which will cost Houston $200,000, have been prepared for Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe, Jesse Jones, Houston publisher, and the committee on arrangements by the architect, Kenneth Franzheim of New York.

Bids will be opened soon and all contracts for construction, it is expected, will be let before February 10.

The steel framework of the big hall will grow up on site of what is to be Houston's civic center and which now echoes with the activity of workmen clearing away old buildings.

The auditorium will be of stadium type, with sloping floors and elevated boxes guaranteeing a clear view of proceedings for all the spectators. Special attention will be given to the acoustics of the main hall, and amplifiers will be introduced to assure distinct hearing.

A branch post office, four dining rooms, and special offices for officials of the party and the national committee will be built into the structure.

Provision is to be made for the host of news writers by the construction of special press stands, private offices and rooms for telegraph wires. Photographers and movie camera men will not be overlooked, accommodations being planned for half a hundred of them.

Suitable exterior decoration figures in the plans. Trees and shrubs are to be planted about the three entrances. Floodlights will illuminate the front of the building every night during the convention.

The thousands of Democrats who stay in hotels in the center of the city will have only about four blocks to walk to the auditorium. Others, who will come by boat and retain their sleeping quarters aboard ship will have a little longer trip from and to the docks morning and night.

The auditorium will pass into history—as a memory—soon after the convention, if plans now made are carried out. At the end of the sessions the big hall is to be razed to make way for permanent improvements planned to complete the civic center.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH ATTENDANCE AT '40 & 8' MEET

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Feb. 13. (AP)—Rain yesterday afternoon and last night cut short the attendance of the four-state convention of the Forty and Eight, American Legion society, but more delegates were expected today for the second day of the meeting.

A teepee bearing the autographs of General Pershing and Marshal Foch was to be presented to a local troop of Boy Scouts today by General Roy Hoffman of Oklahoma City, president of the Reserve Officers' association of America.

An Indian dance was planned for this afternoon by Osage Indians of the vicinity. This event was looked forward to with anticipation by Pelham St. George Bissell, chef de chemin de fer of the society, who is here on his first trip to the West.

Chief Bacon Rind, one time tribal chief of the Osages and still a powerful factor in their government, was to introduce Bissell at the opening of the convention today. Bacon Rind had one son in the world war. Often called the "orator of the Osages," Bacon Rind will appear as usual in his native blankets and it was regarded as probable that he would speak on the part the Indian played in the war.

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM PEACE OFFICERS' CONVENTION HERE

An elaborate program for the entertainment of peace officers here February 23 and 24 when the annual convention of the North Texas and South Oklahoma Peace Officers association will be held was announced Monday by Dock Dudley, Gainesville police chief, who is president of the association. All officers attending the meeting will be guests of the chamber of commerce at a dinner to be held in the Kemp hotel at 6 o'clock in the evening of February 23.

The pavilion at Lake Wichita will be used for the entertainment of the delegates, Mr. Dudley said, and pistol shoots will be held one day of the meet.

Mayor R. E. Shepherd has been selected to deliver the address of welcome and the response will be made by Ray Winder, prosecuting attorney from Gainesville.

Chief Dudley, who was in Wichita Falls Monday making final arrangements for the meeting, said that more than 200 officers were expected to attend the convention.

Smith, secretary and treasurer of the state police chiefs association; S. C. Kennedy, from the auto theft bureau of Dallas; Henry Lee, Fort Worth chief of police; Sheriff W. G. Brailey, Wichita county; Dr. J. G. Officers of the association for 1928 will be elected at the convention here.

POWER AND LIGHT

By ROVENA WRIGHT PHARES

The first of this tale is of bygone days
Which our parents used to know—
A story of time when the only light
Was a lamp or a candle's glow;
A story of times when the charcoal man
Drove up and down the street
And sold black stuff by the towsack full
To burn for the sad iron's heat.
Now these were the days of weary backs,
Of eyes that grew dull and strained,
Of blistered hands, long hours of work,
And darkness on days that rained.
But the latter part is a song of joy—
A song of the New Today—
When power is not a labored heart
Nor muscles which work and play;
When a woman pushes a switch for light,
Has an iron with electric heat,
And a vacuum cleaner to clean the rugs
Which she used to sweep and beat.
Now Electric Power is clean and cheap—
It will serve one night and day,
And it makes a home so easy to keep
And a pleasant place to stay.
It has brought us the gift of the radio,
The cooling breeze of the fan,
The curling iron, and electric range,
And the pad for the warming pan,
The handy toaster, and waffle iron,
A cabinet with frozen air
That makes ice cubes for cooling drinks
And preserves the food that's there.
At a motion this modern genie comes—
Like the one which Aladdin called;
Just press a button—the hidden wires
Are your servants when once installed.

What Has Happened So Far

Emily Day, daughter of very poor parents, has a great yearning to make a success. She finds it impossible to mingle with the socially elect of the little town where she lives owing to her poverty and the fact that her father is a factory worker. She loses her heart to Kent Rossiter, a rich young man, who is supposed to be engaged to Marilee Grainger. One moonlight night at a party, Kent kisses Emily and calls her beautiful. He goes away to study law, but she never forgets him. Meanwhile, Marty Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," tells her he too is going to be a lawyer and that some day he intends to marry her. She gets a job with Mrs. Frances Halden, a wealthy interior decorator, who tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. Mrs. Halden introduces her to Kingdon Coles, a dramatic critic, who proposes to her in vain. Meanwhile, Kitten, Emily's younger sister, is wildly seeking for thrills. She meets Ted Lanier on the sly. Stella Brent, a school girl friend of Emily's, finds herself deserted by Skeets Bradley, reckless son of a rich family. Kitten goes on a wild party with Ted without letting her sister know.

Emily gets a raise. Kitten climbs in a window late at night to elude her sister.

Kent comes home for the wedding of his sister Avis, who has thrown herself at Marty Nolan. Fearing her father's wrath she marries a man she does not care for.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXVIII

Lyall rocked the next morning to a new Nicky Wickert scandal.

The Star gave it little space—a mere item without names under the heading "Disturbance at Yacht Club."

But the story spread in the small town manner, over back fences, luncheon tables, party telephone lines and street corners.

By noon everybody knew that Mrs. Bianca Wickert had walked into a private room at the club the evening before and had pointed a little pearl-handled revolver at her husband. He was dining with a young and charming matron with whom he had no right to dine.

Mrs. Bianca Wickert was beautiful and hot-blooded; once she had been a dancer and in her native Madrid wives who had been dancers did not see their husbands debonairely deserting them for newer fancies without doing something about it.

Of course Nicky never had been a model of faithfulness. He was built on the general scheme of the butterfly, flitting here and there whenever a flower, for a moment, seemed brightest.

In his bachelorhood he had flitted to Seville where he was astonished to learn that love-making was likely to be taken seriously, especially by brothers and fathers. In consequence he came home married.

After that his style was shackled by the fact that when he began to flit Bianca also flitted, slightly in his rear and carrying whatever weapon came easily to hand.

Nicky's derelictions only annoyed her at first and she contented herself with throwing dishes and other such missiles at him and his feminine guests.

Later, when she began to grow really irritated, she took to wielding a slender knife—she had a way of carrying this in her garter whence it could be snatched without lost effort.

Once she used the knife in such a telling manner that a certain fashionable country club was strewn with most of a shredded Tuxedo mixed with odds and ends of pink chiffon. Nicky's preference at this time being a debutante addicted to pink chiffon.

The night of the Yacht club episode, however, Bianca lost her temper. And had not one of her husband's friends seen her undulating up the stair-case, black eyes burning in a white face, no knowing what might have happened.

As it was he followed and when the woman flashed out the lethal toy he knocked it from her hand.

She turned on him like a fury, screaming and scratching. But the steward came charging in with a pair of huskies and hurried her out the back way.

Still everybody heard her shriek, "I'll do it! But wait and we shall see!"

It was characteristic of Nicky that he turned to the charming matron with no more show of emotion than an eye-brow slightly raised and inquired is she would have red wine or white.

But the matron stared in a curious way and disappeared. It always was so with him; something disagreeable bobbing up just when things had started to go smoothly.

This was the story Emily heard shortly after she had unlocked the shop door and put the place to rights. Various persons stopped in with it, each adding something new.

She had met Nicky once when she dined with Frances at the Yacht club; he had been sitting alone and he got up and came toward them slowly, stopping by her chair.

She recalled clearly the long, sensitive hand he rested on the edge of the table, the dark face and the eyes with depths in them. The eyes had rested on her a long moment, piercing through her someway; she had felt suddenly warm, wrapped in a new, mysterious charm.

But Frances hadn't been pleased. Emily thought her almost rude in the brusque way she said, "Run along now, Nicky; we're busy."

He bowed very low with something of Coles' foreign manner and went. But he glanced back.

"Ought to be exterminated in the interest of public decency," Frances burst out.

"I thought him nice, dear."

"No." The only time Frances was cross with her, that turned out to be. They didn't mention him again.

Late in the day Kitten came in. Hair flaming in the sun, green skirts flying, eyes very golden under the dark lashes, she entered like a beam of light and settled herself under the old square of tapestry which Emily had admired so long ago and which still hung on the wall.

It occurred to Emily now that her sister was more beautiful than the gentle, blending colors over her head.

"Thought you didn't like the poky old shop, Kitten-cat?"

"Well, just dropped in. Nothing special; just wanted to stop."

But Emily saw a watchful look in the yellow eyes and knew her sister wanted something. She said, absently, "Hear about the Wickerts? Everyone's talking."

Red beat up the vivid face; Kitten drew a hard, excited breath. "Oh, tell me, Em, do!"

This was what she wanted then—news. Why was she so eager though? Sitting on the edge of the chair, hands tight.

"But you don't know him, Kitten? Never even seen him, have you?" Emily looked at her with a chill thing of fear in her heart. Too easy for such a lovely youngster to know Nicky Wickert!

"'Course I've seen him, Em. Who hasn't?" And Kitten grinned.

That reassured Emily. But the fear she had known for an instant was like a seed ready to spring up and grow.

She met Coles late in the afternoon. He came for her to the shop and Marty, standing across the street, saw him come.

Marty watched him help her into his car; scowled after them as they drove away. A few miles up the state road Emily glanced backward and saw Marty following. He had a noisy little flivver that he sometimes rattled about town in, and he chugged along a couple of hundred yards behind their machine.

They stopped at an inn around the bend from the Storm King. And hardly were they seated in the veranda dining room before she heard the flivver clanking into the yard; almost immediately Marty wandered through the door and took care to be given a table facing them.

He didn't appear to see them, yet Emily knew he watched every movement under his drawn-down brows.

It made her nervous at first. Hard to listen to the pleasant things King was saying, to smile and look happy, knowing one watched silently, glowering so.

To do a thing like that! And this was the one her mother called a "fine lad"! Agnes wished her to marry him, give her life into his keeping!

She began to contrast him with the man at her side; Marty's wide shoulders, the fighting jaw, face somber. And King so poised, so affable. She grew angry.

Driving homeward, with the flivver knocking along behind, she told King she would marry him.

"At least I think maybe I will, King!"

"Little golden sweetheart!"

He stopped the car, nearly causing a crash with the flivver, and kissed her, very tenderly.

NO OCCASION TO BE PROUD U. S. MERCHANT MARINE SAYS HARTLEY

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13. (AP)—Commodore Herbert G. Hartley, former commander of the U. S. S. Leviathan, believes America's merchant marine is "nothing to be proud of."

Nevertheless the proposal to place the merchant marine in private hands finds no favor with Commodore Hartley. He told interviewers the United States is making equipment that was built to help win the war, but never was intended for commercial use, and "not until congress gets behind shipping will this country take her right place among the maritime nations of the world."

The ex-skipper of the flagship of the United States lines is here to begin operations with the newly-formed trans-oceanic corporation, which is planning to furnish passenger plane service in connection with the fast passenger steamships.

"I am leaving the sea and the merchant marine," he said, "because of the deplorable condition of our merechant marine. There was nothing more for me to aspire for. The parting from my ship was the saddest experience of my life, yet what else was there for me to do?"

TWO GUARDS SLAIN IN CONVICT BREAK

Prisoners Led by Insane Murderer Are Subdued by State and City Police.

BRIDGEWATER, Mass., Feb. 13. (AP)—Led by an insane murderer, liberated inmates of the Bridgewater state farm overpowered and killed two guards this morning and were only subdued after a force of more than 60 guards, state police and city police from Brockton had invaded the institution.

The slain men were Eugene Amlaw, night supervisor of guards, and Wilfred Gerroir, a guard.

Gerrior met death at the hands of the murderer-ring leader as he came upon the maniac in the act of scaling a transom from his cell. The slayer clubbed the guard to death with his bare fists, ripped the guard's keys from his uniform and then freed four other dangerous prisoners.

The five set upon Amlaw, who was making his rounds, and slew him. Other guards who were in the night relief room barricaded themselves and sent out calls for help.

A preliminary investigation showed that the first man to escape had cut up his bed clothing and fashioned it into a rope and had obtained from some undetermined source a hook to which he attached his improvised ladder and swung it over the transom.

He pulled himself over and had just cleared the transom when Gerrior appeared. Gerrior was strangled to death in an unequal test of strength with the maniac.

The latter at once proceeded to liberate the other four and the five dismantled an iron cot in one of the cells. With a leg from this they waylaid Amlaw and clubbed him to death.

All five then hid in the corridor office of the supervisor, apparently in the hope that as the other guards ran out they would be able to fell them in single file. Sensing the plan, the guards telephoned for help before attempting a sortie.

When finally assured that the big institution was surrounded by other officers, the prison guards themselves rushed the five convicts and in a hand-to-hand battle overpowered them.

No other inmates had been liberated. The names of the prisoners involved were not immediately made public at the institution.

MEXICO CITY REPORTS TWELVE REBELS SLAIN AND THREE EXECUTED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13. (AP)—Official reports today said 12 rebels were slain and three captured and summarily executed in a battle between federal forces and rebels at Laurel Hill, nine miles south of Coalcoman on the border between the states of Colima and Michoacan.

Four hundred rebels took part in the fighting which lasted four hours. Official reports said they were under orders of a Catholic priest, Fransuco De Rio, and a rebel chieftain, Fermin Guetirres. The rebels were dispersed.

The casualties to the federal forces, who were commanded by General Juan Dominguez, were not stated.

Three rebels were also killed in fighting at Lamzata, a mining town in the state of Jalisco. The insurgents, commanded by chieftains Vargas and Caro, entered the town. They were subsequently ejected by federal troops which rushed to Lamzata from Laquemada.

With General Dominguez at their head, federal troops razed a number of rebel camps in the Coalcoman district and routed several bands last week.

Secretary of War Amaro, who has been directing the operations against the rebels in Jalisco, returned to Mexico City last night. He was confident that the rebels would be suppressed within three months. Beyond this he refused to comment on the situation.

President Calles and Amaro conferred shortly after the latter's arrival.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS SEEM TRYING TO DISARM OPPOSITION

TWO-THIRDS RULE IS EXPECTED TO PREVENT SMITH NOMINATION WILL NOT ASK MAJORITY VOTE

By MARK SULLIVAN
(Political Correspondent Wichita Daily Times.)
(Copyright, 1928, by Wichita Daily Times and New York Tribune.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The Democratic situation remains the what it was—Smith likely to have close to half the delegates either strongly for him or sympathetic to him, and the other half intending, with one degree or another of intensity, to vote against Smith to the end. Not all the anti-Smith leaders are "last-ditchers," but enough of them are to compose a third of the convention, and under the Democratic two-thirds rule one-third of the delegates can veto a nomination.

SULLIVAN

That description of the Democratic status looks like the picture of a situation in which Smith can be prevented from getting the nomination. There are qualifications, however.

One is the capacity of the Smith forces to get rid of the two-thirds rule if they wish to. The two-thirds rule is a tradition. It is not a continuing party law. The rules for each convention are adopted by the convention itself at the time it opens. True, every Democratic convention for nearly a hundred years has adopted the two-thirds rule. Nevertheless the coming convention can, if it wishes, get rid of it.

The point is, the rules of the convention are made by a majority of the convention. Smith will have either a majority or sufficiently close to a majority to be able, probably, to dictate the rules. If he and his advisers wish they can decree that in this convention a majority of the delegates shall be able to nominate.

It is understood, however, that the Smith leaders will not do this. They are following a policy of conciliation, of regard for Democratic tradition and of convincing the Democrats of the South and West that Smith and New York wish to "play the game" with amiability and toleration. As the minds of the Smith leaders now are, even if they should have a clear majority of the delegates and should therefore be able to make rules under which they could nominate Smith, they will nevertheless refrain from abolishing the two-thirds rule. They want to get the nomination for Smith by the consent of two-thirds of the convention, and more than two-thirds if they can. They want to avoid seeming to use their power in any way that could lay them open to the charge of ruthlessness.

To drop the two-thirds rule and adopt the majority one would not be an unreasonable action. The majority rule is the one that governs Republican conventions and nearly all similar gatherings. Many anti-Smith Democrats believe the two-thirds rule to be antiquated and wish it changed. Nevertheless the Smith leaders do not propose to be responsible for making the change and making it under circumstances when it would be advantageous to their candidate.

In all respects it is the intention of the New York Democrats and the Smith leaders everywhere to go to Houston in a manner designed punctiliously to disarm opposition. They are aware that some of the hostility to Smith is a hangover from the 1924 convention in New York, when Democratic delegates from the South and West were able to complain justly of the manner of some of the New York followers of Smith who sat in the gallery and who hissed William Jennings Bryan and otherwise acted in a manner that gave offense to the representatives of the South and West. Smith himself recognized this and deplored it; in the speech he made to the convention he asked the delegates to overlook the exuberance of some of his followers.

All this, one learns in New York, is to be carefully avoided at Houston, Texas, next June. Deliberate effort is to be made to overcome the impression of four years ago at the New York convention. The plan is that the Tammany and New York state delegation is not to have a special train to Houston. The delegates are to go as groups, with the minimum of celebration. There are to be no "rooters"—only the delegates. There are to be no bands blaring out "Tammanee-ee" across the prairies as has been the case on previous expeditions to convention cities in the West. There are to be no Smith marching clubs from the big eastern cities, and liquor is to be as completely under taboo as an Anti-Saloon league convention. The Smith delegations from New York, New Jersey and the East are to be chosen in all cases from the top layers of the local democracy—no ward workers—only distinguished lawyers and leaders in other lines.

The general purpose is to overcome the over-noisy and over-insistent impression that Tammany made four years ago on the Democrats from the South and West and to convince the rest of the country that there is a "new Tammany"—that phrase is coming to be almost a slogan among the New York Democrats.

This is not a mere device of ingratiation; there is a distinction between the Tammany of today and the Tammany of 10 years ago. Neither is the purpose merely one of overcoming the prejudice of the South and West for the temporary advantage of getting the Democratic nomination for Smith. The more permanent and quite sincere purpose is to give more "class" and "tone" to the democracy of the North and East and enable it in the future to have the respect of the South and West regardless of who is nominated by the Houston convention.

The same spirit is being shown by Smith's managers in an even more important respect. In parts of the country distant from New York there are "wet" Democrats who aspire to be governors or senators. These men count on Smith getting the nomination for the presidency, and reflect that with Smith at the head of the ticket it would be appropriate for wets everywhere to run for the offices to which they aspire. Occasionally these wets, in the course of following up their ambitions, travel to New York and hold out hopeful tenders of alliance with the Smith managers. The latter, however, do not "fall for" the idea. On the contrary, they are definitely and strongly hostile to it. After consultation among the Smith managers the verdict is "He's a wet—we don't want him." Smith managers do not propose that his nomination, if it should come about, is to be the signal for wets all over the country to join the parade. They are following a policy which prefers to see that the Democratic nominees for minor offices all over the country next year shall be a normal expression of the highest local standards of the party, that Smith's nomination shall not be seized as the occasion for making wet nominations for local offices.

These gestures of restraint and tolerance from the New York leaders will have some effect, for the South and West is appreciative of graciousness of manner. But the opposition to Smith in most of the South and some parts of the West is very deep. The reasons for the opposition are rarely stated with any completeness. That one of the reasons is religion goes without saying. But the over-emphasis on religion has obscured other reasons. Because religion as a handicap has been so conspicuously pushed to the front it has become common to say that Governor Smith's religion is the only reason he will not get the nomination.

The case has been put in this offhand way in the current number of the Review of Reviews by Henry Morgenthau, a distinguished Democrat, who served as minister to Turkey and in other high capacities during the Wilson administration. Mr. Morgenthau writes:

"The simple truth is that if Governor Smith, instead of having been born in Oliver street of Catholic parents, had first seen the light of day in some Protestant parsonage, as Presidents Cleveland and Wilson did, nobody would doubt for an instant that he would be the next president."

That way of putting it sounds so plausible that it has become almost a commonplace of every day talk. One newspaper, accepting and endorsing Mr. Morgenthau's way of putting it, said that Mr. Morgenthau "bluntly states a homely fact. This is a pungent and conclusive way of stating the one great obstacle—religious intolerance—which today stands in the way of Governor Smith's political advancement.

Against the nomination of Governor Smith there is in reality the only one reason—Governor Smith is a Catholic."

Yet the fact is, there is in this comment, as well as in Mr. Morgenthau's statement, an utter fallacy. The fallacy was pointed out and repudiated by the New York World, which is the leading Smith paper in the country. That an ardent advocate of Smith should have cried out against this way of stating the opposition to him was a clarifying and wholesome incident of current political discussion. The World said of Mr. Morgenthau's statement:

"This seems to us a very dangerous line of argument, and for ourselves, as supporters of Governor Smith, we hasten to repudiate it. It is as unfair as it is untrue, and the use of such argument in the campaign can have no other effect but to embitter the public mind. Mr. Morgenthau's statement amounts to saying that anybody not in favor of Smith for president must be a bigot."

This is precisely what many Democratic leaders opposed to Smith have come to feel. They oppose Smith for reasons having nothing to do with religion, but when they announce their opposition they are regarded as bigots—as if there could be no other reasons for opposing Smith except bigotry.

The World, answering Mr. Morgenthau, pointed out what should have been obvious, but was not; namely, that the entire Republican party is opposed to Smith being the next president. These Republicans are not bigots—they would be as much opposed to any other Democrat. In 12 out of the last 16 presidential elections the Democratic candidate has been beaten, though in no case was he a Catholic.

Not only do all Republicans oppose Smith for reasons having no relation to his religion. Many Democrats oppose Smith for the nomination because of reasons that have nothing to do with the church he belongs to. As the World put it:

"It is dangerously misleading to talk as if all Democratic opposition to Smith were bigoted, when, in fact, as everybody knows, there are great numbers of conscientious Democrats who oppose him because he is a wet; great numbers of sincere agrarian Democrats who oppose him because they think he is too closely identified with the cities, considerable numbers who oppose him because they think he lacks national and international experience . . . the World, for its part, is, as its readers know well, a supporter of Governor Smith. It was the first newspaper to propose him for the presidency and it has consistently given him support. But the World will have nothing whatsoever to do with any attempt to make Governor Smith's candidacy a test of American tolerance."

That listing of the reasons, wholly dissociated from religion, for opposition to Smith's nomination does not attempt to be complete. It could be considerably extended.

One reason weighing very heavily, which may be unfair to Smith, lies in assuming that Smith's position on some national questions may be identical with the position the Tammany delegation in congress takes on such questions. A fair judgment would say this is possibly the largest handicap Smith has.

Another handicap to Governor Smith, quite possibly undeserved, lies in ascribing to him the same sentiments about prohibition and the same way of expressing those sentiments as is occasionally practiced by the most belligerent wets in congress.

Democratic leaders from the South and West acquire most of their familiarity with national politics, quite naturally, through their experience in congress. The great majority of these leaders either are now in the senate or house or have been. Rather frequently they observe Democrats from the northern and eastern cities making threats against the South. The threats take the form of drastic enforcement of the fourteenth amendment (dealing with negro suffrage) in retaliation for drastic enforcement of the eighteenth amendment (about prohibition). As it is frequently put, the northern and eastern cities threaten that unless New York is permitted to make its own interpretation of the prohibition amendment the South will not be permitted to make its own interpretation of the amendment about the negro suffrage.

That is the way it is frequently put. In fact, the comparison is quite unjust to the South. As Senator Glass, of Virginia, explained in exasperation at these threats, the amendment about negro suffrage is not violated in the South—all the suffrage laws in all the Southern states have been held valid by the supreme court of the United States. In this statement by Senator Glass he was upheld by Senator Borah of Idaho.

The anger which the South feels at such threats by northern wets increases their hostility to all wets and to all proposals to give the presidential nomination of their party to a wet.

Of the subjects that have come up in congress during the last eight years none has been attended with stronger conviction than immigration restriction. Few laws ever passed by congress have had such nearly universal support from the country. In the passage of the original immigration restriction act the senate voted for it in proportions of 15 to 1 and the house in proportions of 10 to 1. The The opposition came chiefly from a small number of northern states having large cities in which there is a considerable population of aliens or immediate descendants of aliens. In congress the friends of immigrations restriction feel that Tammany is hostile to this policy. They think of New York City as a center and symbol of opposition to immigration. From this they pass, by an assumption that may readily be unfair, to ascribing to Governor Smith an attitude that he has never had occasion to take and which quite possibly he might not take.

Body Queen of 5000 Years Ago Discovered by Party of Americans Rich Treasures Found in Tomb

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.(AP)—Queen Shub-Ad, Sumerian ruler of approximately 5000 years ago, wore golden garters, golden earrings, a wig surmounted by a golden ornament resembling a large Spanish comb, a heavily beaded cloak and carried her rouge in vanity cases of the period—cockleshells.

Discovery of the queen's body in a tomb near that of her king was announced yesterday in a report from Leonard Woolley, director of the joint expedition of the museum of the University of Pennsylvania and the British museum in Ur of the Chaldees. Mr. Woolley said the treasurers found in the tomb were the richest ever unearthed in Ur.

The tomb of the queen was found abutting the king's burial vault, which had been robbed of its treasures, and in the center was a burial pit containing the bodies of more than 50 men and women, the warders of the tomb.

A sloping ramp led down into the pit, the report stated, and on the slopes lay the bodies of six soldiers of the guards, their crushed skulls encased in copper helmets and their spears shouldered. They had been killed in their places to remain as sentinels of the dead.

"The rest of the grave area was a shambles," Mr. Woolley said. "For in the narrow space were strewn 50 bodies of those sacrificed to the spirit of the dead. Along one side were men, their daggers on their hips; against the foot of the tomb lay the chief ladies of the harem, eleven of them wearing what must have been full court regalia, consisting of elaborate headdress of gold ribbon, wreaths of gold mulberry leaves hung from strings of Lapis Lazuli and Carnelian beads, silver pins with Lapis heads and great gold earrings.

"Above the hair of each woman was a silver palm with long points ending in inlaid rosettes of gold, shell and Lapis, and beside each lay cockleshells containing face paint and little alabaster unguent vases.

"At the head and feet of the dead queen were crouched the bodies of her attendants. Her headdress, worn originally over a great wig, was a marvelous sight. Coil after coil of gold ribbon surrounded the hair; above these and across the forehead ran a frontlet of Lapis and Carnelian beads, from which hung heavy rings of gold. Higher up was a wreath of gold mulberry leaves, then another wreath with large flowers whose petals were inlaid with Lapis and white shell.

"The queen wore a tight fitting necklace and gold garters around her knees. Over the upper part of the body was a cloak entirely covered with beadwork in vertical rows and horizontal groups and fringed with dangling gold rings. The cloak was fastened to the right shoulder with three gold and lapis pins, to each of which was fastened a cylinder seal. On one of the seals was inscribed the queen's name."

Those who buried Queen Shub-Ad, the report stated, following the prior death of the king, could not resist the temptation to break into the tomb of her husband and rob it of its great treasure.

It takes one minute for all the blood in the human body to pass through the heart.

KUROKOL

SMILES THE BIGGEST THING in being beautiful, says Miss Dorothy Kenyon. Millions know that and employ Pepsodent to make teeth dazzling white.

To Whiten Teeth
Free Them of Dingy Film
And thus protect them against many serious tooth and gum disorders

THAT cloudy teeth, yellowish, discolored teeth, can be made far whiter is now an accepted fact. Foremost dentists of the world are widely urging a new method. You can have clean, pretty teeth and gums like coral if you will start today.

To know how dazzling white your teeth really are you must combat a stained and viscous film that covers teeth. A stubborn, hard-to-remove film that old-type dentifrices did not fight successfully.

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you can feel this film. Under it are the clear, attractive teeth you envy in others. Combat it, and your teeth become many shades whiter—more glistening.

The enemy of teeth and gums

Film is the great enemy of teeth and gums; a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth and gum troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth, you can't have firmer, prettier gums unless you combat that film.

Ask your druggist or mail the coupon for Pepsodent. Don't expect the same results from old-time dentifrices.

Mr. and Mrs. Quarnstorm Observe Wedding Anniversary With Dinner

Served upon a tablecloth, in dishes and with silver given them as wedding presents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Quarnstrom, 1722 Ninth street, Sunday observed the 38th anniversary of their wedding by being hosts to a number of their friends at a dinner at their home.

The dinner also was made the occasion for the observance of their 37th year in Wichita county, in which they located a little less than a year after they were married in Illinois.

Soon after moving to this county, they located in the Friberg community, where Mr. Quarnstrom now owns a large farm over which he has active supervision. His success, he declared, is the inevitable reward offered by the fertility of Wichita valley land to anyone who will work.

Twelve close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Quarnstrom were guests at the dinner. They were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Friberg, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Littiken, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jordan, Misses Leona Rand, Jess Cowan and Jewell Gill and Clinton Friberg.

HARDWATER PLUS MELO MAKES SOFT WATER

Such greasy hands!

Hard water won't clean them

HARD water can't do much with greasy hands. Of course, you use lots of soap. You try to get a thick lather. But the water is too hard; it combines with the soap and forms a scum. How can you expect to clean greasy hands in that water?

There is one way. Use Melo. Sprinkle a little in the basin. The water is soft now. Just as soft as rain water. Soft water and soap and lots of lather; grease won't stay long on your hands. Get a can of Melo at your grocer's today.

Necklines Express Spring's Evening Mode

Square, Bodice Tops and Charmingly Ingenious Shoulder Straps Feature the Newest Formal Wear

By HENRI BENDEL
For NEA Service

NEW YORK.—Fashion battles, it seems, are going to be fought out on the necklines this spring. Winter concentrated on hem-lines and fancy sleeves. Spring moves up a bit.

The wider neck for daytime styles is now established. The newest thing in evening is the square bodice neck. It has been fully a decade since this simple, pleasing answer to the neckline question has had such wide approval.

Of course the shoulder strap style of gown allows much ingenuity in the way of decoration on those straps. They may be of different materials on different sides, they may be jeweled threads that sparkle as mlindy dances, or they may be flowers to give a lively touch to a somber frock.

Neckline Simplicity

The best gowns, though, in my opinion, are those that use this neckline to achieve severe simplicity. That calls for self-material in the straps and for such materials as taffeta, the square neck and straps should always be cut in one. Heavily beaded gowns or those that use enough flounces, drapes or bustles to give weight must of course have reinforced straps when they are fashioned of delicate chiffon.

I show today two spring evening gowns that by their severe simplicity of neckline attain a dignity and formal beauty that is tremendously smart.

First is a stunning import, for the older woman or the woman with fuller figure, that exploits the square bodice neck to advantage. This gown is of shaded red bugles running from a light tone almost to black. Red chiffon edges the top of the bodice to give it softness and on the left shoulder strap two beautiful shaded roses in red chiffon add their airy and colorful beauty.

Side Concentration

This gown's fullness is concentrated on the sides which feature a hip-yoke effect, with gathers above and below to detract from any tailored line it might give. Altogether this gown is the type that is a boon to the fuller figure and has an authoritatively stylish stamp on it.

For the slender young girl the square neckline and straps are cut in one on the moire side drape frock. This gown is new in many ways. First of all it introduces a new color for evening—brown. This is the first season brown has ever graduated from the semi-formal into the perfection of formality.

Its material is shot moire and the gold glints from the watered pattern liven the brown delightfully.

Stepped Downward

In the second place its cut is new. The square neckline steps down neatly under the arms and in the back steps down another notch to form a square but lower rear decolletage.

In addition to these style points this gown tries out successfully a new side drape that runs diagonally from the center front to the center back. From its bustle drape the ends hang in uneven chic.

The only ornament this gown allows itself is one single flower in browns and gold on the right.

Necklines and shoulder straps feature spring evening styles. At the left, an import of shaded red bugles, with square neckline and narrow straps, the left embellished with two roses; at right, a shot moire gown in brown, the neckline stepped down under the arms to a lowered back, and the side draped diagonally.

MARYE and "MOM"

Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

This is the first of a series of intimate letters exchanged by a modern daughter—Marye—and her "old-fashioned" mother—"Mom"—to be printed daily in the Wichita Daily Times. Another will appear tomorrow.

Dearest Mom:

Who in the world do you think I met today? But of course you can guess for it must have been in the papers about Norman Darling coming to visit his aunt.

She has an apartment in the building right next to ours and I didn't even know it! That isn't strange though because I never met her when Norman and I were engaged, and naturally I couldn't think of asking him for her address when I married Alan and came to this great city to live.

Norman was coming out of their building as I left ours this morning on my way to look for some orchid bath curtains, and we bumped right into each other on the street. At first I thought he wasn't going to speak to me because you know he was simply reduced to jibbering when I jilted him. But I smiled and we got on the bus together and I decided to let my shopping go because Norman looked so sort of sad I felt it was duty to cheer him up.

It's terrible to be responsible for a broken heart and I'm so happy with Alan that I want to make Norman forget me. I'm sure he will see that's best after we've had a few more talks. I'm going to have lunch with him again tomorrow and try to convince him that I never could have made him happy if we had married.

Today he said there'd never be another girl for him but he was so beautifully calm and resigned about it I couldn't mind his saying it even if it did sound just a little bit like making love to me. After all, I suppose I really treated him shabbily and if I can help him to enjoy his visit I ought to do it even if he does insist upon raking over the past.

He is going to stay two weeks, he says, so it looks as if I must give up a lot of time to making him happy again. It isn't exactly a hardship, though, to bat around with Norman. He always was nice looking, and now that he has that sympathetically melancholy expression he's just too interesting for words.

Fortunately, Alan and I agreed before we were married that we would continue to have our own friends and see them whenever we liked. So that's all right. But he will expect dinner sometime tonight so I mustn't tell you any more about Norman now.

With dearest love, MARYE.

ZOË BECKLEY'S CORNER

Unnecessary Miseries

"Dear Zoe: Can this be real love? I met someone while off at work; knew him only a short while; accepted one date and was perfectly happy in his presence. A year has passed, without seeing him. I have tried to forget him and when I think I have at last got away from thoughts of him, I dream of being with him—and I have to start all over again. Is it in any way possible to let him know where I am? —KID."

How many unnecessary miseries we cause ourselves!

How often we bear pain, disappointment, doubt and loneliness when by a simple act of our right hand we could end them! Now why doesn't 'Kid' sit down and pen a little note—nice, friendly note saying she often thinks of George Augustus and the pleasant time they had together, and wonders where he is, how he is and if he remembers her?

Of course George Augustus may be married and have two or three youngsters— Oh, no, it's only been a year, hasn't it? But of course he may be married, or away somewhere at the other end of the world, or gone into a monastery or something.

But on the other hand, perhaps he would be just tickled to death to get that letter, and say, "There's a good, sweet, tenehearted girl for you! By Jove, I must see her again!" And back will come galloping a joyous note; then another and another. And presently—

But that's enough for now!

"To Thine Own Self Be True—"

"Dear Zoe: I am 18 and have been going with a young man of 24 a long while. We live in different places and met at home during the holidays. We seem to care for each other, but Zoe, he insists on 'petting' and I don't like it so I told him not to ask for any more dates. Now I'm miserable, fearing I should write and ask him to forgive.

—M. L. B."

Don't be miserable. And don't ask him to forgive.

If he is worth anything at all he will at this moment be admiring you for your stand and thinking more of you than he ever did before.

It is absurd to think all men nowadays demand "petting" as the price of their attentions.

It is only the cheap ones who do, and the girls know it. But since this form of sense-gratification known as "petting" has become more or less common practice (and the girls themsleves have made it so) they keep on with it rather than lose the excitement of frequent "dates" and "good times."

They know the boys they "pet" with think cheaply of them. But they go on, hoping to meet one sooner or later who will succumb to their charms enough to turn serious and offer marriage.

This seldom happens.

It is the girls who take the middle course, being neither prudish nor vulgar, neither so stiff and formal that no one wants to speak to them nor so lacking in reserve and self-control that boys despise them afterwards, who land the decent men.

And who wants any other kind?

Is Anyone Quite Happy?

"Dear Zoe: Am married to a man with two children; we have one of our own. No matter how I try to prevent it, my husband gets mad every day and in his bad tempers says disgraceful things about me before the children, though they all know they are untrue. It is making a great difference already in the children. I cannot bear to raise them without a father's influence although I could earn my living and them, alone. Please tell me what to do. I must have happiness. —B."

Must we remind you, Friend, that complete happiness is not the common lot? If you left your man and you struggled along to support yourself and the children, you would have one kind of happiness, and not another. As you are, with all your husband's rages and faults, you have a percentage of happiness, though not 100 per cent. No one has 100 per cent.

Life has to be taken on averages. All joy is mixed with pain; all marriages bring problems to solve. Clearly, you must find some way to make the home atmosphere more endurable, more wholesome for the youngsters. Can you not, in some smooth, non-irritating way, make your husband see he is hurting you and hurting his children by giving way to his nasty tempers?

Can't you sympathetically make him realize the need for self-control? Can't you ask if there is something troubling him that you can help him solve? Can't you even suggest there must be something wrong with his health?

Without knowing you personally, it is impossible to point the exact method. But if you love him and get along with him outside this one exception of temper, you will find a way to show him he is making his home unhappy and himself too.

VALENTINE PARTIES FEATURED AT TIMES COOKING SCHOOL

Mrs. Plummer Shows Wichita Falls Women How to Prepare Dainties For Any Valentine Day Celebration

Just how to prepare refreshments for any kind of Valentine party or luncheon was explained Monday afternoon by Mrs. J. F. Plummer, noted cooking expert, in the first of her series of domestic art and domestic science lectures to a large group of women at the Memorial auditorium. Mrs. Plummer, who is lecturing under the auspices of the Wichita Daily Times, will also have something to say about Valentine salads, queen of hearts salad, and other holiday foods Tuesday afternoon.

Breakfast room appointments were discussed in the domestic art lecture, and several breakfast menus were given. The importance of bringing notebook and pencil to the lectures was stressed by the expert, and she also requested that each lady bring a spoon so that she might taste the various concoctions to be made during the week.

Mrs. Plummer was dressed in snowy white crepe de chine. Her kitchen, the arrangement of which she personally supervised, was furnished by the North Texas Furniture company, with a Westinghouse Electric stove, a Sellers cabinet and table, and a Herrick refrigerator, all in white. Mrs. Plummer explained that she always supervises the arrangement of her model kitchen, since she is a strong believer in the economy of steps.

Three maids are being employed to assist in the lectures because of the large crowds. Mrs. Plummer explains that the maids are not for her own convenience, but for the assistance of the ladies who want to turn in questions, and that all her lectures will be from the standpoint of the woman who does all of her own cooking and housework.

Guides for home decoration will be given Tuesday afternoon, stressing the choice of wall paper, draperies and rugs, and rearrangement of furnishings for spring and summer. In the domestic science lecture, she will feature a luncheon dish of mock veal birds.

Mrs. Plummer urges that questions be dropped in the question box and promises to answer all asked from the floor if possible.

"CHOOSING LIFE PARTNER" SUBJECT DISCUSSED BY CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

"Choosing a Life Partner" was an interesting subject for discussion at the meeting of the Young People's Group of the First Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society Sunday evening.

Interesting talks on the subject were given by Lydia Krizan, Marvin Robertson, Larry Robertson, Eleanor Pitman, Ruby Brown, Bonnie Holmgren, and W. H. Apple. Mattie Lou Sorrell led the devotional.

Larry Robertson, who is in charge of registration for the coming district convention, announced that so far 50 registrations had been received. The total for the convention ranges close to 100. Ruby Brown, chairman of the homes committee, asked that all who can take care of a delegate during the convention get in touch with her right away.

The young people's group will have charge of the social hour next Friday night, the opening time of the convention. Guy Curtis, educational director of the First Christian church, will probably be in charge of the social hour.

FORD CAR CONFORMED TO GERMAN REGULATIONS

BERLIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—Twenty-five cents worth of material and 10 minutes of time are all that are necessary to make the brakes on the new Ford automobile conform to German law, Herr Heine, manager of the local Ford company, declared today.

The new Ford system of working hand and foot brakes with the same mechanism is in violation of the German safety regulation prescribing a distinct mechanism for each brake. For this reason the latest Ford product was refused a license to operate.

Week's Foreign News Review

(By the Associated Press)

While all the world was waiting Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flying from Washington, December 13, by way of Mexico to the Central American republics, and the countries on the Caribbean sea, landed at Havana on Wednesday of last week. Business at the Pan-American conference was suspended for the day; the delegates joined with the Cubans and others in an exotic welcome to the youthful aviator, who was nearing the end of his memorable aerial tour.

The conference itself had a busy week, but developments were not entirely as expected. Although the sessions have passed the middle mark of the allotted time—six weeks—two most important questions have not been disposed of. These are the sovereignity of the American states, permitting, as the Argentine delegation and others contend, no intervention by any other state, and Argentina's insistence on some means being found to remove objectional tariff walls.

Equal rights for women has been brought before the conference. Women want a treaty within the next five years establishing the principle of women suffrage in all American republics.

The conference committee has adopted an international commercial aviation convention. Ambassador Fletcher for the United States said plainly that his country desired to protect the Panama canal, which must be kept open to the world's shipping. This was agreeable to the other delegates.

Permanent Pan-American union headquarters are to be established in Washington.

The British parliament was opened by King George. An important bill before that body relates to women's rights. It provides for the vote for women 21 years of age. The present minimum age is 30. Premier Baldwin promises that the new measure will be passed.

British statesmen decry the thought of war between the United States and Great Britain. Sir Austen Chamberlain says it is unthinkable. Britain also is willing if an agreement can be reached between the allied powers and Germany, that the allied troops numbering 60,000 in the Rhineland be withdrawn. But Britain will not move out alone.

Secretary of State Kellogg's advocacy of outlining the submarine meets with sympathic response from the British government, but abolition of the submarine must be universal.

Neither France nor Italy is quite as agreeable to this solution of the weapon of "cruel warfare." They feel they need the submarine to guard their coasts. Other countries have made no definite comment.

The Italian government is thought to be getting ready to meet the desires of the holy see at home for more territory, the extra territoriality of which shall be as solemnly respected as the present precincts of the vatican. Thus what is known as the "Roman question," arising from the fall of the temporal power of 1870, appears in a fair way of solution. It is understood that the state is opposed to any restoration of the temporal power but that in addition to territory, it will grant the pope an indemnity for the loss sustained by the holy see through the fall of the temporal power, and an additional allowance for the upkeep of the government of the church and is prepared to conclude a concordat with the holy see.

Television has become an accomplished fact. The image of Mrs. Mia Howe, wife of James P. Howe, of the London bureau of the Associated Press, was flashed across the Atlantic from London to Hartsdale, N. Y., by means of the televisor, the invention of John L. Baird, a British scientist.

Germany and the United States have been linked up by wireless telephone, felicitations being exchanged between Berlin and Washington, and Berlin and New York.

A committee of experts have submitted to the League of Nations a plan for the negotiation of regional pacts of non-aggression—these to be developed later into a general system of security.

Premier Poincare of France has received from the chamber of deputies a bill of health on his financial policy. The deputies, with the exception of the socialists and radicals credit him with having saved the franc, and having established France on a sound economic basis.

Federal forces in Mexico and United States marines in Nicaragua are carrying on campaigns against rebel elements. Minor engagements have taken place, but both Mexican federals and U. S. marines are placing their forces in such a manner as they hope will bring the rebel activities to a speedy end.

In three days of skilful maneuvering the giant aircraft carrier Saratoga has successfully negotiated the Panama canal. In a six-mile trip from Colon to Gatun it climbed a height of 85 feet. It then descended gradually, being lowered by the locks at Pedro Miguel and Miraflores to the level of the Pacific.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

Beef Fritters

Bits of cold left-over beef, useless for anything else, make a delicious meal for four people.

1 cup chopped cold beef
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup flour
1 egg beaten
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt

Beat egg, add milk, flour and baking powder sifted together. Beat smooth. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Drop by spoonfuls into Crisco heated to 360° F. or when bread crumbs brown in 60 seconds. Fry until brown and thoroughly cooked. Drain on brown paper. Serve with any left-over gravy or the following sauce:

3 tablespoons Crisco
2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons minced onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon parsley
1 bouillon cube
½ cup hot water
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Melt Crisco. Add onion; cook slowly until it begins to brown. Add the flour. Mix well, then add the parsley. Then the cube dissolved in the water. Stir over fire until thick, then add the Worcestershire and lemon juice.

Balloons

1 cup water
1 tablespoon Crisco
3 eggs unbeaten
1 cup pastry flour
½ teaspoon salt

Put water and Crisco in saucepan; bring to boiling point. Remove from fire. Add flour and salt. Return to fire, beat until it forms a paste which leaves side of pan. Remove from fire. Add the eggs one at a time, beating each in thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonfuls in moderately hot Crisco 350-360° F. or when a small piece of bread browns in 60 seconds; fry until puffed and well browned. Test with a toothpick; drain on soft paper; cool. Make slit in one side with sharp knife; put in teaspoon of sweetened whipped cream or jam. Dust with powdered sugar. Serve same day.

MRS. R. E. ATHERTON had been cooking for years but until she saw our suggestion to test Crisco by actually tasting it right from the can, such a test for shortening had never occurred to her.

She was so surprised and delighted with Crisco's taste that she sat down and wrote us all about it.

"I had always considered that for success in cake making the finest grade of butter was an indispensable essential. But one day I found myself short of butter, when I was especially anxious that my cake should be the best of its kind. Rather doubtfully I looked at my Crisco, and then, thinking how clean and creamy it looked, somewhat apprehensively tasted it. Greatly to my surprise I found it distinctly more palatable than the scrap of butter whose meagerness I had been bemoaning. I used Crisco for the shortening in that cake, which proved to be as good as, if not the best, I ever made."

See if the test suggested below doesn't give you, too, the surprise of your whole cooking experience:

Put a little Crisco on the tip of a spoon. On the tip of another, a little of any other shortening. Taste first Crisco, then the other fat.

Had you imagined there could be such a difference in the taste of cooking fats? Is it any wonder that such a sweet, fresh shortening brings out to best advantage the delicate flavor of foods you prepare with it?

When you try one of the recipes given here, notice that Crisco does not smoke at proper frying temperature or fill your home with cooking odors.

Fried Drop Doughnuts

A quick, easy way—no tiresome rolling and cutting. They should be fried slowly but you can fry slowly in Crisco without the doughnut soaking the fat or being at all greasy.

¼ cup sugar
2 cups pastry flour
3 eggs separated
¾ cup walnut meats
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ cup sweet milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup whole raisins

Beat egg yolks light. Add sugar. Beat until foamy. Then add milk, then nuts and raisins. Last flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg sifted together twice. Mix all together thoroughly. Last fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop from teaspoon into deep Crisco heated to 360° F. or when a bread crumb browns in 60 seconds. Fry slowly until golden brown. Test with a toothpick. When cool, roll in powdered sugar.

Fried Spinach Balls

A new and delicious way to make a little left-over spinach go a long way. Prepare them any time and fry in Crisco in two minutes when you are ready to use them or fry them when you make them and reheat them in the oven a day or two later.

2 cups cooked spinach, chopped
2 tablespoons Crisco
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons grated cheese
1 egg beaten
½ teaspoon allspice
Egg and more crumbs

Combine ingredients and let stand 10 minutes to swell crumbs. Shape into balls. Put egg in bowl with ¼ cup water. Beat together until mixed. Roll balls in crumbs, then in egg and then in crumbs again. Drop in hot deep Crisco 390° F. or when a bread crumb browns in 40 seconds, until brown. Drain on soft paper and serve.

You taste your milk . . .
You test your eggs . . . .
NOW—taste your shortening

Crisco's sweet flavor will delight you!

DIVORCE A FEDERAL QUESTION

The newest effort to invade the rights of the states is championed by Senator Capper of Kansas. It is not, strictly speaking, a new effort, for it was first made nearly half a century ago, but it is new in the form in which it now appears. It is a constitutional amendment authorizing congress to enact marriage and divorce laws.

Proponents of this amendment profess to see, in the wide variety of divorce and marriage laws now in effect in the several states, an argument for their measure. The fact that different ideas, different standards and different conditions have brought about a diversity of laws, is seen by Capper and as pointing to the need for uniform, standard statutes on the subject. It seems to us that this is a mistaken premise; that the very fact that these differences do exist, as between the states, shows the unwisdom of trying to conform them all to a single pattern. So far from showing the advisability of a federal law, these differences show the hopelessness of effective federal action.

The measure is declared to be aimed at the "divorce evil." There are plenty of figures available to show that divorces are not only more numerous than they used to be, but that they are increasing in number more and more rapidly. It can be shown that divorce is much more common in this country than in Europe; yet those who cry out the loudest against this condition would be the first to cry again if marriage were placed on the same basis in America that it has in Europe. Unfortunately, a low divorce ratio does not go hand-in-hand with a high moral standard. This country's high divorce ratio is due in large measure to economic conditions, which neither congress nor the states can correct. The fact is that theories of marriage are undergoing a readjustment in this country, and until that readjustment has progressed further, little would be gained by bringing the matter within the purview of federal legislation. It would not help, to let Washington try to legislate the remedy; it might seriously hinder.

The "divorce evil" is real enough, but its very nature and extent prove the unwisdom of making it a matter for federal legislation.

FORGETTING THE LESSON OF 1926

This is a critical year in cotton farming. Last year there was a slight reduction in cotton acreage. Weather, flood damage, pests and other conditions combined to keep the price steady. Broadly speaking, just about enough cotton was raised for the world's needs, the surplus being practically the same as a year ago. With the same acreage as last year, we can expect to see a somewhat lower price, for the Mississippi river doesn't go on a rampage every year and put a few thousand cotton planters out of business.

Present indications are that acreage will be increased. With the same acreage as last year, we could hardly hope for as good a price. With increased acreage, we may look for the experience of 1926 to be repeated. We would lose all that was gained last year by keeping acreage down.

Well, maybe if the lesson of 1926 wasn't sufficiently emphatic, that of 1928 will be.

MR. KRESGE'S $500,000

Some members of the Anti-Saloon League, it seems, doubt whether that organization should accept the recent $500,000 gift of Sebastian S. Kresge, owner of a chain of notion stores. Mr. Kresge's wife was recently granted a divorce, her suit naming a 17-year-old girl as co-respondent. Mr. Kresge's stores were found to be selling malt extract, hipflasks, and various other articles supposed to be used by the scoffiaws. Some Anti-Saloon Leaguers, it seems, question whether the moral influence of the league would be enhanced by using Mr. Kresge's money.

Rev. Thomas Nicholson, national president of the league, harbors no such doubts, no such scruples.

"Mr. Kresge did not give the $500,000 as a philanthropy" says the league president, "it was purely a business proposition with him. He saw that prohibition increased his own income, that it brought more nickels and dimes into his stores."

After all, $500,000 will employ a great many speakers and writers and organizers to carry on the league's work. The question of the money being "tainted" is an academic one, and this is a practical world. It is in keeping with what the public has come to believe of the Anti-Saloon League that it should accept this gift and blandly close its eyes to the habits of the giver.

THE INSANITY PLEA

The widespread sentiment against the insanity plea, resulting largely from the Remus and Hickman cases, is beginning to be reflected in proposed new laws on the subject. One Mississippi legislator has introduced a bill which would greatly simplify the matter, to say the least; it eliminates the insanity plea as a defense in murder cases. Doubtless such a measure will find much public support, both in Mississippi and elsewhere, but its lack of wisdom is patent. Some of the individuals who commit homicide are insane, and the law must recognize that fact.

We believe that the question of a prisoner's sanity should be determined in advance of his trial, and that it should be determined, if possible, by impartial medical men. We believe that an insane slayer should be kept under restraint. If new legislation is to result from the present agitation, we would like to see it along these lines.

Whether or not there is new legislation on the subject, the insanity plea has lost much of the efficacy that it once had. It has been overworked. The defense attorney who employs it now, even sincerely, is putting himself under a grave hadicap at the start. The insanity plea may win acquittal for a slayer, but it will be under circumstances that would likely have brought acquittal in any event. We are apt now to see the plea disregarded in cases where it should have weight. As one editor remarked, Hickman would have been declared sane even if there had been overwhelming and conclusive evidence of mental illness. It will be a long time before the insanity plea can be taken seriously.

THRIFT

I'm for thrift, but I can't see
Saving money needlessly
For the rainy day to be.

Save your money, I should say
For another's rainy day;
Save a bit to give away.

Thrift's the road to wealth, I've learned;
Money saved is money earned;
Holes in pockets gold has burned.

But I'd say don't clench your fist
And the muscles of your wrist
Holding what will not be missed.

Save your money, so that when
You encounter needy men,
You can help them, now and then.

Save it so that you can spend
In the service of a friend,
Save a little just to lend.

Save to keep the wolf at bay,
Save to meet the rainy day,
But save a bit to give away.

Remembering Washington

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine

Commemoration of the nation's dead great is a fruitful enterprise.

All truth—whether it be the truth of religion or the truth of politics—reaches its greatest power when it is incarnated in a great personality.

Truth is more dynamic in a man than in a manifesto.

More can be accomplished, for instance, by keeping alive and real the personality of George Washington, whose memory we celebrate this month, than by dinning the abstract principles of citizenship into the ears of the rising generation.

This is why the greatest leaders of religion and of politics have usually said "follow me" rather than "work out this program."

But keeping alive a great personality is as difficult as it is desirable, for when a distinguished leader is transferred from life to history his soul sets out on a Jericho road infested with biographical thieves who seem bent upon filching from him every vestige of his reality and shrouding him in a shimmering unreality.

George Washington has been a notable victim of this band of biographical thieves.

So much has been written about him that he looms distorted through a verbal fog; until the recent past it required a Sherlock Holmes search to get at the real Washington, buried by biographers.

Washington has been subjected to three biographical processes.

First, Washington was deified.

Like the divinities of ancient mythology, Washington was transformed from man to God by the ancient and approved method of stripping him of all human frailties and investing him with superhuman attributes as a prelude to placing him on a pedestal. Old Parson Weems, an ecclestical Munchausen, started this business of deification by which Washington was soon lost in a purple haze of heroworship.

Second, Washington was damned.

Distrust follows hard on the heels of deification. Parson Weems and his disciples created a Washington who was too good to be true, and the literary muckraker set out to expose the plaster saint which the sentimentalists had converted the very human Washington. The pendulum swung to the other extreme. The superman was painted as a profane and hard-drinking libertine. The deifiers are invariably followed by biographical buzzards whose appetites are so adjusted to the taste of carrion that at the first hint of weakness in a great man immediately they pounce upon it and lift it to the dignity of a major attribute of his character.

Third, Washington is being discovered again.

Beginning with Lodge, Scudder, Ford, Wilson, Witser, Hill, and others, a third sort of biographer has been giving us a Washington who was neither divinity nor devil; somewhere between the god and the rake, they have rediscovered the man, compounded of strength and weakness, sometimes swearing and sometimes praying, not the pink, priggish, prudish copy-book hero of Parson Weems, but a very human being that human beings can understand and be inspired by.

The Days of Real Sport

Your Boy —and— Your Girl

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counsellor

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their boys and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest answered in the column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Address Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

Heroines

Last week we asked the boys of this city to select from a list of names printed here the particular, outstanding Americans who appeal to them as heroes our readers should imitate. And the idea back of this test, which was so enthusiastically received by boys who read this department, was to help young men clarify their ideas on what makes a man important. It was a little lesson in real values, a bit of training in properly appraising human qualities and achievements. The response showed that most boys distinguished what is real from what just seems to be.

Today we give the girls a similar test. We expect that the brainy girls who follow this department will quickly and accurately appraise the relative importance of the women whose names are listed here. All are much in the public eye. Now, girls, if you were not yourself, which would you rather be. Read the list carefully and thoughtfully. Then put (1) after the name of that woman whose list, work, personality or success make her stand out in your eyes as the most important woman in this list. Put (2) in front of your second choice and so on.

Fannie Hurst.	Princess Illeana
Lindbergh's mother	Marie Jeritza
Helen Wills	Marion Talley
Peaches Browning	Colleen Moore
Gertrude Ederle	"My better self"
Ruth Elder	Ethel Barrymore
Grace Coolidge	Allen Poets Mac-
"My Mother"	Dougall
Mary Roberts Rhinehart	Clara Bow

Name .....

Address .....

City and state .....

With possibly three exceptions these are "popular" names. There are a score of other names equally, or even more distinguished. Now merely out of curiosity I should like to know, how many girls recognize the names of any of the following: Helen Ferris, Anna Garlin Spencer, Martha Van Rensselaer, Jean Norris, Anna Carroll Moore, Mary Dillon, Miriam Van Waters, Blanche R. Green, Peggy Holt, Jane Addams. Underscore the names of those you know about. No greater mistake can be made in school, or in the home, than to fail to bring to girls the names and deeds of woman who do. In every case these famous women in their chosen field were one of the girls who did.

Now grown-ups, parents and teachers, just use todays' idea for those girls—and that includes all—who want to do something, be something and get somewhere. It's lots of fun deciding whether one had rather be Ethel Barrymore or President Coolidge's wife or "just myself." And then do you know the big women who are not on the front page every day but are doing a lot to keep girls like "Peaches" from getting there? For example which of the women in the preceding paragraph earns $100,000 a year? Which is head of a large gas company?

The ballots from girls and teachers may be sent to Arthur Dean in care of this paper. Anyone wanting the results of the balloting should enclose S. A. S. E. This test will do wonders in inspiring girls and every teacher will be interested in discussing it with her classes. All will want the results of the balloting. So do your share by voting. I'll do mine by sending you the results in your Self Addressed Stamped Envelopes.

By the Way in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter today summoned the newspaper correspondents to his office and announced his candidacy for the presidency.

In a ringing declaration of principle, he altered the entire face of the political map and threw consternation into the camps of the several other candidates who had considered their victories assured. Senator McWhorter received the correspondents with a smile on his expansive face and a pink delphinium in his button-hole. He had even bought a package of cigarettes with which to treat the boys.

"The time has come," the senator began, "when I no longer can withstand the insistent entreaties of my many friends who believe that the dearth of available material within the party for the great office of the presidency should not allow me to remain silent.

"I have reached my momentous decision only after many hours of prayer and close consultation with my wife. While my well-known humility caused me to pause at the thought that one so unworthy and free from ambition as myself should aspire to this greatest honor which can be accorded from the hands of this great and free people, that trepidation soon vanished as I began to consider the other candidates in the field.

"As fast as I thought of a reason why I should not accept this summons from the people, that reason was displaced by another more cogent. The long and arduous campaign involved, to be followed by four and no doubt eight years in that lofty office, leave a man little time for aught else but the executive duties. But there is a call higher than that of personal inclinations and comfort and convenience. A time comes in a man's life when he must sacrifice himself for the benefit of his country and those who believe in him. Like those brave boys of ours who marched away to save their native land from the bloody Hun, I am about to deposit myself on the altar of patriotism. Service and sacrifice will be the keynotes of the McWhorter campaign.

"It will be a fearful fight. My enemies will maligne me and calumniate me in proportion to the gains of our cause. They will bring up that little incident of my boyhood days when I was falsely and viciously charged with cribbing in high school examinations; they will ask what become of the $66 which disappeared from the dog license receipts while I held my first political office—and I tell them right now that I dont know, and nobody could ever prove that I did; they will scrutinize my entire career in an attempt to impeach my unimpeachable private morals. But the plain people and the forces of right will prevail and a McWhorter will enter the White House for the first time.

Senator McWhorter announces his platform to the boys.

"I am for an adequate army and navy.

"I am for economy in government and reduction in taxes.

"I am for a balanced budget and enough money in the treasury.

"I am for aiding the farmer.

"I am for protecting the lives and property of American citizens.

"I am for the encouragement of business and prosperity.

"I am against federal encroachment on state's rights.

"I am for a wise foreign policy.

"I am for the kind of a tariff which will be most beneficial.

"I am for wider and better highways.

"I am for enforcement of the law.

"I am against the bolsheviki abroad and at home.

"I am against the government getting in anywhere it doesn't belong.

"I am for the sancity of the home and separation of church and state.

"And if any other candidate has a platform half as ambitious as that, I haven't heard of it. There are two or three planks in there that I haven't heard anyone else mention yet."

DAILY HEALTH TALK

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

The iceman's and the fisherman's scales are usually called in by the humorists to explain the remarkable weights assigned to new-born babies in the legends of the day.

One hears of infants so small that they are put to bed in cigar boxes, and of other giant specimens that put to shame the Gargantua of Rabelais. As usual, the scientists carefully record the results day by day in hospitals, where measurements are conducted carefully under controlled conditions. Thus they put to rout the stories that bring such acute disappointment to mothers whose babies are just the average size.

Average 7.26 Pounds

In three institutions in Philadelphia the weights of all babies born over a period of 18 months were carefully noted. The average birth weight of 1596 babies was 116.3 ounces, or 7.26 pounds. The babies born to private patients had the greatest birth weights; the colored babies had the lowest birth weights.

Mothers who had previously given birth to children had heavier babies than those who were giving birth to their first babies. Boys average about three ounces more than girls.

The big babies lost a little less weight during the first few days after birth than did the small babies. After the initial loss of weight a gain in weight took place; then the little babies gained two and one-half per cent more than the big babies.

The colored mothers nursed their babies in greater proportion than did the white mothers. Correspondingly the colored babies gained weight faster than did the white babies born under the same circumstances.

Some of the babies were bathed regularly in water, others were given olive oil rubs. These things did not seem to affect the weight of the babies in any way.

Sixty-two and four-tenths per cent of the babies born in the hospitals regained their birth weight before leaving for home at the end of two weeks. Most of these babies were fed every four hours.

Out of 1201 babies fed on a four-hour schedule 816 regained their birth weight before leaving the hospital, the average time required for gaining the birth weight being 9.2 days.

A call for a meeting of "Prohibition Democrats" has been issued, the meeting to be held in Fort Worth on February 28. The call is signed by Dr. G. C. Rankin, editor of the Texas Christian Advocate, and about forty others not quite so well known over the state. The object of this meeting is to urge upon the Democratic party to submit the prohibition question to a vote of the Democrats of Texas at the primary election to be held on July 5.

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

Some eflows get the first good seldown when they come back to the home town after being away a long time. They expect to have the whole town out to meet 'em, and maybe nobody notices who they are. A fellow that gets to be president of his lodge or something like that has got a terrible jolt coming when he gets back and finds out that the home town has been going on without him.

Well, there was one of these important boys come back to Kansas City after he'd been away for 20 years, and the town had kinda grown while he was gone. He walked into the President hotel and looked around. A guy that was sitting in the lobby got up just then, and the returned hero reaches out a hand and says, "Set down, gentlemen, set down!"

"Ah, go on, you old soak!" says the guy that stood up. "Where'd you get a license to tell me when I can get up and set down? Ya big still, I guess I can get up and buy a paper at the news stand when I want to, and if you make another crack like that I'll show you how to go through a window without opening it."

Now You Know

From a Streatham schoolboy's essay on clergymen:

"There are three kinds of clergymen—bishups, rectors and curats; the bishups tell the rectors to work and the curats have to do it. A curat is a thin, married man, but when he is a rector he gets fuller and can preach longer sermons and becums a good man."—Tit-Bits.

Dispensing With the Jury

The American Bar Association Journal prints in its January issue an article entitled "Reforms in Federal Procedure," written by Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney for the southern district of New York, which openly advocates the abolishment of trial with respect to "petty offenses" against the United States. As to what constitutes a "petty offense" Mr. Tuttle points to the case of Schick vs. U. S., an oleomargarine case, decided in 1903, wherein it is suggested that the test may be found in the nature of the offense and the amount of punishment prescribed; and in that case a fine imposed upon Schick by the court, without a jury, was upheld.

It is to Justice Hanlan's credit that he dissented in a decision which carries conviction to every informed mind. He pointed out that one of the serious grounds of opposition to the adoption of the constitution was that it made even secret trials possible in the federal courts, and to remove all doubt, the sixth amendment was adopted, declaring that, "In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury"; that never did the common law courts of England make an exception to trial by jury in the most trivial cases, save where an omnipotent parliament had altered the common law.

Blackstone, himself, was not pleased with these summary exceptions. He said:

"And, however convenient these may appear at first (as doubtless all arbitrary powers, well executed, are the most convenient), yet let it be again remembered, that delays and like inconveniences in the forms of justice are the price that all free nations must pay for their liberty in more substantial matters; that these inroads upon this sacred bulwark of the nation are fundamentally opposite to the spirit of our constitution; and that though begun on trifles, the precedent may gradually increase and spread, to the utter disuse of juries in questions of the most momentous concerns."

If the practice of this pernicious doctrine spreads, God pity the people of the United States in their wholesale summary punishment by our countless federal boards, bureaus and commissions which will certainly avail themselves of its convenience.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Origin of Bobbed Hair

In the riots in Canton recently women were put to death because their hair was bobbed. Bobbed hair was taken as a sign of communism. This sounds strange to the occident, where bobbed hair is scarcely communistic.

The old fashioned Chinese looked disdainfully upon short hair, holding that dignity is lost when the pigtail vanishes. Yet that very pigtail has not always been a mark of dignity. When the Manchus conquered the country they compelled the native Chinese, under penalty of death, to wear the pigtail as the distinguishing mark of an inferior race.

The bobbed hair fashion in the West is supposed to have other origins than pure fashion. One version is that it was first seen on girls who had served terms in the St. Lazare prison for women in Paris, where jailers clipped the hair of inmates. Those who served very short terms left the prison with their hair still short. "How attractive!" remarked people ignorant of whence these girls came. Thus the fashion grew.—New York World.

The Situation in Illinois.

Governor Small, Mayor Thompson and Senator Elect (but not seated) Smith sat down to talk in Springfield Tuesday night, got down to cases, and came to an agreement. Mr. Small revealed part of it in a statement in which he said their minds had met on the desirability of giving Chicago home rule in matters of local transportation and that he had seen the wisdom of consulting Mr. Thompson in making Chicago political appointments.

Furthermore, as might have been expected, the statement "reiterated the adherence" of the three statesmen, if Mr. Smith is to be regarded as sitting in officially, to: "America First; Farm Relief; Development of Inland Waterways and National Flood Control."

When Mr. Smith agrees to accept the advice and consent of Mr. Thompson in Chicago appointments Fred Lundin goes out on his head, taking his friends with him. Small gets Thompson's help in his candidacy for a third term. All these consequences of the agreement are announced or implied. But that isn't all of it.

The more important features are consequences of the agreement were not covered in the report.

It means that the Insull traction bills will be passed as paid for.

It means that Cook county will go Democratic.

It means that there will be some later shifting of the boss control of Illinois, and that it will leave the state with only two. One will be Mr. Small. The other will be Mr. Thompson. The other Republicans will be out or taking orders.—Chicago Tribune.

American Arches.

What the arch was to Rome the filling station is to America. When the Via Appie was still a highway to be bragged about and the young Roman gentlemen sped from Venusia to Tarentum at fifteen millia an hour, arches stood along the road to mark the advancing frontiers of the Roman state. History was written there. For each arch marked a new outpost and a new foothold for Roman culture. We are not Romans, but we have marked our own highways with appropriate symbols. —From "The Great American Bandwagon" by Charles Merz.

HOOVER COMES OUT CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

AUTHORIZES USE OF NAME ON BALLOT IN FORTHCOMING PRIMARY IN OHIO

PLEDGED TO CARRY OUT POLICIES OF COOLIDGE

Will Remain in Cabinet and Will Not Make Personal Campaign Before Primaries.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Herbert Hoover is out in the open as a candidate for president, pledged to "carry forward the principles of the Republican party and the great objectives of President Coolidge's policies."

Acceding to the wishes of a growing group of supporters, the commerce secretary has authorized them to enter his name as a candidate in the forthcoming Ohio primaries. He thus begins his campaign fully aware of that it means a fight at the outset with the forces of Senator Willis of Ohio, another announced candidate, whose friends are determined to give him his home state's 51 delegates to the Kansas City convention.

The senator, who recently accepted the challenge of Hoover's foreshadowed candidacy with the statement that it would be no "powder puff" fight, said last night that he was ready for the contest, and "perfectly confident of the result."

Hoover announced himself in a letter to Thad H. Brown, chairman of the Ohio Hoover for president committee, who conferred here Saturday with the cabinet member.

"I have received, through you and others," Hoover's letter said, "requests from very many Republicans of Ohio that I permit my name to be entered in the presidential primaries of that state. I do so."

Will Remain in Cabinet

The secretary will retain his cabinet post and he indicated that he will not be able to make a personal campaign before the primaries.

"My conviction that I should not strive for the nomination," he said, "and my obligations as secretary of commerce preclude me from making any personal campaign. I must rely wholly upon my friends in Ohio, to conduct it and to conduct it in a fair manner and with steadfast regard for Republican success in the state and the nation. It is my special desire that expenditure of money shall be strictly limited and rigidly accounted for."

Senator Willis followed the Hoover statement with one of his own declaring he was personally in no fear of the results of the contest now to develop.

"The people of Ohio know about my Republicanism," he said. "I have been there all my life, and all of my activities have been there. I have had a part in helping every Republican. My pleasure and platform are well known. When the primary is over Mr. Hoover will know then whether these self-appointed friends of his who have dragged him into this contest apparently against his own wishes have advised him correctly."

Direction of Secretary Hoover's campaign in Ohio will fall to Walter F. Brown of Toledo, now assistant secretary of commerce. He has gone to the state to aid the Ohio organization in selecting the convention delegates, whom the voters will be asked to elect.

Thus far there has been no indication whether the secretary will enter other impending primaries, although his supporters here are confident that this will be done. He likewise is expected to reply soon to Senator Borah's letter asking his views on the prohibition question.

OHIO REPUBLICANS ARE MARSHALLING THEIR FORCES

COLUMBUS, Ohio., Feb. 13. (AP)—Ohio Republicans, split into two factions by the presidential candidacies of Herbert Hoover and Senator Frank B. Willis, today were marshalling their forces to win Ohio's 51 delegates to the national convention for their favorites.

Announcements of conferences to organize both Willis and Hoover campaigns followed the statement of the secretary of commerce at Washington last night that he will be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination and will allow his name to be presented to voters of Ohio in the primaries.

Fred W. Warner of Marion, chairman of the state central committee, which has endorsed Willis, saw possible disruption of the Republican organization in Ohio through Hoover's action.

Warner said he had expected Hoover's entrance, but that "it is regrettable." He declared the move "imperils" the state organization, but that "Mr. Hoover will see a real battle before it is over." Warner said one purpose of the committee endorsement of Senator Willis was to "keep some semblance of a state party organization," and that the move of Hoover's friends in contesting for the Ohio delegation "will tend to disrupt the organization's work."

Colonel Carmi A. Thompson o. Cleveland, Willis' campaign manager, was to confer with friends of the senator here today on plans for the coming fight for delegates.

Charles A. Jones, the senator's private secretary, in charge of headquarters here, temporarily, said Warner will be here tomorrow to outline preliminary moves for the Willis campaign.

To start a vigorous effort, the Hoover supporters have the names of 4000 Ohio Republicans on petitions circulated during the past week. These will form a nucleus to extend the Hoover organization into Ohio's 88 counties, in 75 of which contacts already have been formed, according to Hoover headquarters. On the other hand the Willis group has the endorsement of the state central committee.

Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, son of Chief Justice William H. Taft of the United States supreme court, announced plans for formation of a Hooxer club in Cincinnatti and Hamilton county.

The Hoover amendment brought a statement today from Senator Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, in which he predicted a Republican party split in Ohio and a consequent Democratic victory there next fall.

"Let the Houston convention nominate Governor Smith," Senator Edwards said, "and Ohio will be found in the Democratic column because no matter how the Willis-Hoover primary fight terminates, Willis will not be the Republican nominee."

ABANDON HOPE FOR THREE OF CREW OF NAVAL TUG MOHAVE

BOSTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Hope for three members of the crew of the wrecked naval tug Mohave who fled the craft in a punt after she piled up on Harding ledge last night was diminished when the punt was found today washed ashore off Black Rock, Cohasset, nearly three miles from the scene of the wreck. The punt was right side up but filled with water.

Twenty-three other sailors, including Chief Boatswain Mate Patrick F. Powers, commander of the tug, were safe. Six were near exhaustion after a long row to Nantasket in an open dinghy that had only one pair of oars. The men had been ordered out in search of the three who were believed to have lost their lives, and failing to find them, had struck out for the shore.

The Mohave's SOS halted broadcasting and sent a flotilla steaming to her assistance. The destroyer Maury found the tug listing badly with a serious hole in her bow, while the coastguard boat 242 was successful in removing all of the survivors from their water-filled ship. Early reports had placed the victims as high as six.

The missing men were W. J. Enos, C. H. T. Reid and L. D. Liles. Naval officers who spent a large part of the night and early morning sweeping the seas with powerful searchlights expressed little hope that any of them could be saved.

Two officers of the construction corps were sent from the navy yard to examine the Mohave and determine what depairs will be necessary in order to salvage the tug. Three others were appointed by Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the naval district, as a board to investigate the accident.

The Mohave ran aground about an hour and a half before low water and the navy officers believe it will be comparatively easy to salvage the ship. A bulkhead will be constructed over the hole in the hull and after it is made water tight the oil will be pumped out and the tug lightened so that at high water it is hoped it can be floated with aid from other ships or if necessary by the use of pontoons and similar equipment.

Admiral Andrews expressed doubt today that the three men of the crew who got off in a punt after the tug ran aground had been lost. His doubt was based on the fact that the punt was found right side up. He believes the men may have got safely ashore and then set out overland.

SEAL MINE IN WHICH 13 MEN PERISH SUNDAY

WHITEHAVEN, England, Feb. 13. (AP)—The Haig mine pit where 13 men lost their lives yesterday in the third explosion in five years, was sealed again today. Fifty-six lives have been lost in the series of disastrous blasts.

The 13 victims were members of an exploring party of 21 who had entered the mine in search of the body of a miner lost in an explosion last December when four were killed. It was the first time the workings had been penetrated since the December explosion.

The searchers had reached the scene of the December explosion when four blasts occurred within 10 minutes. Foul air soon filled the mine balking all attempts at rescue.

The eight who reached the surface alive had left the main party to recharge their batteries and eat lunch. They were about 500 yards away when the explosion occurred.

"Just as we finished eating," said one of the survivors, "we heard a dull rumbling, then came a second explosion and we all started to get our apparatus and go to the rescue of the others. A third explosion blinded us and before we could find our equipment we were knocked semi-conscious by a fourth.

"Only one lamp remained lighted. Half crawling, half walking guided only by wagon lines, we struggled the two miles to the pit shaft. It seemed an eternity—and at times I never thought I could win through. The explosions had filled the air with a thick dust and we reached the surface completely exhausted."

Desperate efforts to reach the entombed men, several of whom were officials, were blocked by the foul air. Relief work was finally abandoned at noon and the mine sealed. The survivors said they found both original fires had burned themselves out, but that a third must have broken out.

TWIN CITIES FLIER IS BELIEVED TO HAVE SET NEW "LOOPING" RECORD

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 13. (AP)—For the second time within a week, a twin cities flyer has set what is believed to be a new world's record for looping the loop in an airplane—1,093 loops.

The mark was established yesterday by Charles "Speed" Holman of Minneapolis, chief pilot of the Northwest airways, who holds several air mail records between here and Chicago.

Flying the 200 horsepower plane in which he won the class A event in the National Cross Country derby last year, Holman beat the record February 4, at St. Paul by Gene Shank, young law student. Shank looped 515 times, or 200 times more than the old recognized mark.

Holman's feat was the more remarkable because his loops were consecutive—that is, he continued sweeping in one great circle instead of climbing to new altitudes after a series of somersaults. He was in the air slightly more than 24½ hours.

Shank's record also was broken yesterday by Lyle Thro, commercial pilot of Minneapolis, who had a 90 horsepower class B plane. His figure was 543 before he was forced down by motor trouble.

Mr. Keeling held up Governor Dan Moody as a likely candidate for president in a speech to the visitors.

FORMER BRITISH PREMIER GRAVELY ILL IN LONDON

LONDON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The Earl of Oxford and Asquith, former Liberal leader and British premier in the early days of the war, is gravely ill.

A medical bulletin issued today said that the earl, who took to his bed last week, had developed an acute attack of pharynighitis and that today there were signs of bronchitis.

Herbert Henry Asquith, who was born in Yorkshire in 1852, has long been one of the most prominent figures in British political life, being a member of the cabinet as far back as 1892, chancellor of the exchequer, 1905 to 1908. Prime minister and first lord of the treasury from 1908 until 1916 and secretary of state for war.

During the first two years of the world war he was succeeded as premier by David Lloyd George at the head of a coalition government in 1916.

The earl, with Lloyd George, was one of the leaders of the liberal party for many years, but in recent years had given up his leadership because of the poor state of his health. He and Lloyd George also differed sharply on the policies to be followed by the liberal party.

The countess of Oxford is the former Margot tennant who is widely known as the writer of an autobiography.

Furlough Extended.

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—S. W. Escue, doing penitentiary "time" is needed at home to prepare his farm that his wife and 12-year-old child may cultivate it, so Governor Moody granted him a 30 day furlough extension Monday.

Escue was sentenced to five years on conviction of passing a forged instrument and swindling.

CITY'S MEDICINE BILL RUNS HIGH

The city plays the role of humanitarian despite the fact that many believe that its chief function is to collect taxes from the citizens.

Records of the Wichita Falls city health department reveal that the city spent a total of $272.50 for medicines administered to unfortunates during the month of January.

The number of prescriptions prepared by Dr. H. D. Fillmore, city physician, runs into the hundreds every month.

CHICAGO WOMAN IS MOTHER CONDEMNED ACTRESS IN CANADA

CHICAGO, Feb. 13. (AP)—Mrs. Hazel Snyder, 40, of Chicago, who has since been remarried and requests that the name of her present husband be kept secret, today was identified as the mother of Doris Palmer McDonald, 20-year-old New York show girl, under sentence of death with her husband in Canada.

The mother had read reports of the girl's impending execution, but had been unaware of her true identity. Doris has refused to tell anything of her relatives, but with the discovery of the mother here, much of the girl's past life has come to light.

Unintentially the convicted girl dropped a hint of her past to a newspaperman, and the mother was located by a reporter for the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Mrs. Snyder lives with her mother, Mrs. Thomas Walker, 65, who keeps a boarding house in this city, the Herald and Examiner said today. Both were overcome with grief upon receiving the news. "Why didn't she let me know?" the mother sobbed. "My own, my very own little girl!"

The girl's father, who was recently divorced from the mother, is Lee Snyder of Wheeling, W. Va. A brother, Clyde, 19, lives here with the mother and grandmother. A sister now is a ward of Dr. Frances Palmer, Oklahoma City physician, who also reared Doris.

Dr. Palmer supplied additional details of the girl's life, the newspaper said. She said that in 1925, Doris went to New York and married Buster Allen. Later they separated and the girl returned to Oklahoma City to obtain a divorce. She gave birth to a child soon after, and Dr. Palmer said the ordeal permanently unbalanced her mind. In the meantime Allen obtained a divorce.

Subsequently Doris married George McDonald, with whom she was convicted of slaying a taxi driver near Montreal, and both were sentenced to be hanged March 23.

Doris has maintained her innocence steadfastly, but insists she does not wish to escape death if her husband must die.

The mother said the girl was christened Eleanor May Wilth Snyder. She was born in Pittsburgh, September 20, 1907.

"I must go to her," said Mrs. Snyder. "I must do something, if only to give her a mother's love and blessing during her last hours."

FORMER GOVERNESS ON HER WAY TO CHICAGO

MT. VERNON, N. Y., Feb. 13. (AP) Henry J. Prudden, head of a volunteer committee seeking clemency for Mrs. Doris Palmer McDonald, awaiting execution for murder at Montreal, announced today that Miss Margaret Gould, her former governess, was on the way to New York from Chicago, where Mrs. McDonald's mother also was reported to have been found.

Miss Gould was expected to testify as to her former ward's mental condition in an effort by the defense committee to obtain a commutation of the death sentence on the ground that Mrs. McDonald is subnormal and "lacking in normal responsibility."

The girl was adopted, he said, by Dr. Frances Palmer, a Mt. Vernon physician, when she was a child. Her parents were unknown except to members of the Palmer family and to Miss Margaret Gould, who was the child's governess until Doris reached the age of 18. It is Miss Gould who is coming to testify from Chicago.

Mr. Prudden and two others who now compose the McDonald defense committee were neighbors of the Palmer family, since moved to Oklahoma City, Okla., when Doris was a child. They learned her identity through Mt. Vernon police, he said, after Mrs. McDonald and her husband were sentenced to death last month for the murder of a taxicab driver near Montreal in December.

"It is unthinkable that this subnormal girl had a part in the slaying," he said. "Within the next few days the defense committee is to be enlarged by the addition of representatives of several civic organizations in Mt. Vernon. Then either Miss Gould or her affidavits will be presented to the authorities in Montreal."

NO TAX REDUCTION GARNER FORECAST

Democratic Leader Predicts Republicans Will Fa.. to Press Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The prediction that there would be no tax legislation at this session of congress was made today by Representative Garner of Texas, Democratic leader of the house ways and means committee, which drafted the $296,000,000 revenue measure now awaiting action by the senate.

The Texan declared that if the tax bill, which Republican senate leaders are holding up until receipts from the March 15 income tax payments become known, should be brought to the senate floor, that the Democrats would initiate a move to attach a tariff rider to the measure.

Garner contended that with the aid of independent Republicans the tariff rider would be approved, and that the house Democrats with the aid of western Republicans, could muster sufficient strength to pass it.

"It will then go to the White House where," he predicted, "it will receive a veto."

Garner also said that he had observed press statements by Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee that business conditions might not warrant a cut in revenue rates. Such statements, he added, do not indicate that Republicans are preparing to pass the tax bill. "No one as yet has challenged my statement that the tax bill is being held up deliberately because the Democratic amendment abolishing affiliated tax returns by corporations will increase the total taxes of large corporations by about $50,000,000," Garner continued. "No one either has challenged my statement that this amendment will increase the taxes of corporations in which Secretary Mellon personally is interested by $1,000,000 if not considerably more."

Fear Fifty Lives Have Been Lost In Gale Sweeping Western Europe Property Damage Has Been Heavy

LONDON, Feb. 13. (AP)—A crippled shipping limped into port today, as the toll of a gale which swept western Europe and the North Atlantic over the weekend was counted. It was feared that the deaths might mount to fifty. The loss of property was heavy.

Twenty five lives are known to have been lost in Scandinavia and nine in Great Britain. Accidents to shipping were just becoming known although the gale spent itself early Sunday.

After the dredge vessel Grinkel sank in the Mersey river six of the crew were missing and they were listed among the casualties today.

Houses were blown down, roofs carried away and a torrential rainfall which accompanied the hurricane caused fresh floods in the British Isles. The wind blew at an average of 70 miles an hour at Liverpool with occasional gusts reaching 104 miles while on the opposite side of England at Tynemouth it was only a gentle two-mile breeze.

The British steamship Snadown Castle, from Tyen to New York, reported by wireless that it was returning to Cobh with the forehold full of water. The steamship American Farmer arrived at Plymouth 30 hours late. Its propellors were damaged four days out of New York and it made its way through heavy gales. The steamship Montclare reached Liverpool 24 hours late.

Radio reports told of a thrilling struggle between the Tanker Varand and the sea on the ship's maiden trip from New Orleans to London. For 12 days the Varand has been in tow of the Dutch tug Zwarte Zee because of serious damage to its rudder post and propeller. The ship also had sprung a leak. Towing the tanker through the heavy seas became so difficult that another Dutch tug, the Seine, went to the assistance. The hurricane completely disabled the Seine, carrying away the compass, rails, ventilators and wrecking the wireless apparatus.

The liner Muenchen left her course to assist the crippled tug and two other Dutch tugs, which had previously gone to the assistance of the liner Burgerdijk also came to the aid of the Seine, which returned to Cobh under convoy. The Varand according to the latest advices was south of Ireland and still in tow.

Along the Scandinavian coast shipping was demoralized and the sea pounded with such force that millions of dead fish were washed ashore. Scientists attributed the death of the fish to sulphurated hydrogen which came to the surface from the ocean bottom when disturbed by the force of the gale. A fish famine is threatened because housewives refuse to buy the fish fearing they are poisoned.

SAFE BLOWERS IN NEW ORLEANS GET MORE THAN $3000

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13. (AP)—Safe blowers were active in the heart of the business district here early today, taking $2500 in cash and $500 in checks from a drug store safe while approximately $165 was obtained in visits to three other establishments.

Nitroglycerine in opening the safe at Katz and Besthoff's downtown drug store branch. Police expressed the belief that the robbers proceeded to the other establishments which are located in same building where the safes were opened after combinations had been hammered off. From the Mutual Homestead association $125 was taken. Approximately $40 was taken from the office of P. M. G. Ricks. No loot was taken from the Mortgage Guaranty company's office.

FIRE ON TENTH DESTROYS HOME TWO DAMAGED

The blaze started in the Thomas M. Sessums' residence, 1708 Tenth. Members of the household were in Dallas. Loss on this building was estimated at $4000 by fire department officials.

The home of B. W. Johnson, 1710 Tenth street, suffered damage estimated at $750. Members of the family awoke to find curtains in the bedroom already blazing.

The residence of George H. Fleming, 1706 Tenth street, suffered about $450 damage.

Fire Chief J. L. McClure said Monday that the alarm was not turned in until the flames had gained considerable headway and that both the Sessiums and Johnson residences were ablaze when firemen arrived.

EXPERTS CONCEDE PIRATES EDGE IN TRADE OF PITCHERS

PASSING OF ALDRIDGE MARKS DEPARTURE OF LAST HERO OF SERIES VICTORY OVER SENS

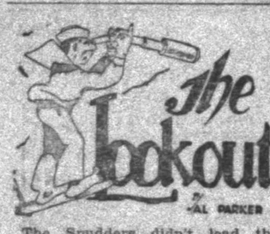

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—To judge from the reaction to the latest trade of the New York Giants, the club has clinched first prize in the keep-the-boys guessing contest.

Without yet having solved to their entire satisfaction just why Hornsby was traded to the Braves, the experts now are puzzling over the latest deal that sends Burleigh Grimes to the champion Pirates in exchange for Vic Aldridge, the Hoosier schoolmaster.

The Giants have taken their share of "riding" over the Hornsby deal and one of the assembled critics Saturday was bold enough to inquire whether "Charley Stoneham had taken John McGraw into his confidence" in trading Grimes.

Perhaps the explanation is that the Giants prefer a curve-ball pitcher who writes his own newspaper stuff to a spitball heaver with temperament.

The Spudders didn't lead the league in hitting last year, but they had the best hitting club in the league. Ask any Texas league pitcher. The Spudders are not going to lead the league in swat averages this year, but they stand a good chance of having again the best hitting club. The Waco Cubs outhit the Spudders by quite a margin in 1927, but the Cubs were not so potent a hitting outfit as the champs. That may sound foolish, but it is a fact. It has been a long time since the league has had as fine a hitting club as the Spudders. The batting strength of the Cubs was confined in four or five heavy wallopers, all of whom were real hitters. But when the pitcher wasn't engaged with that heavy section of the batting order, there wasn't much to worry over. With the Spudders, there was batting strength at both ends of the lineup and no easy spots anywhere for opposing pitchers. Good hitting from top to bottom is to be preferred over excellent hitting at one end and the ordinary kind at the other.

If George Staton, the young first baseman from the Virginia league, is as good as Frexy Gardner believes he is, the Spudders are going to have just as good or better hitting than last season. George Lafayette hit .291 last season, so Stanton will not have to be a murderous clouter to take the famous Frenchman's place in the hitting department. If he can hit better than .300, the Spudders promise to have a team in the field that, man for man, are .300 hitters. With Estell pitching and Joe Cobb catching, here's how the Spudders stack up:

Jenkins .363.
Benton .322.
Lamb .315.
Cobb .311.
Fitzgerald .305.
Turgeon .305.
Swenson .300.
Estell .321.
Stanton ?

Expecting an improvement over the team of 1927 would be asking too much, but in one department in particular the club should be better. It will be remembered that Catcher Joe Cobb was with the team only for the last month of the race. There is little doubt but that a receiving corps composed of Pete Lapan and Cobb will be somewhat stronger than that of last year, and there is a possibility that Joe Danning, the newcomer from the Eastern league, will prove a find and chase one of the veterans off the club.

One thing is certain. The Spudders are not going to get better pitching than last year. It may be just as good, but surely no better. Of course, Milt Stock gafo was out of it for about six weeks last season and there's no reason to believe the club won't receive his services for the entire stretch in the coming race. But that was the only time a Spudder pitcher was on the shelf for any length of time. The team will be fortunate, indeed, to get by this year as luckily in the way of absence of injuries and sickness.

One particular phase of the new arrangement at first base might be overlooked by some, but it is an important fact that a rookie is destined to handle the job, since the league raised its player limit to 18 men, it has decreed that two of the 18 must be rookies—men who have played a limited number of innings in A or higher class league. Stanton will fill one of the rookie jobs and will make it necessary to retain only one other youngster. The way the club shapes up now Sam Jones is destined to be the fourth outfielder, and he doesn't come under the rookie classification. He played too many games in the class A Eastern league last season. Neither does Herb Cobb. Sp, if the utility infielder is Joe Luciano or Ed Roetz, both of whom are entered in the rookie classification, the Spudders will be set for the rookie requirements without being forced to carry a rookie pitcher. Something else, it would not be surprising to see the league increase the rookie minimum to three at its meeting at Shreveport late this month. If such is the case, and the Spudders didn't have a rookie listed for some regular job, it would be necessary to make some serious concessions with the pitching or catching staffs.

The Southern association has raised its player limit this year to conform with that of the Texas league, but the Southern requires a minimum of three rookies. The Texas is quite likely to follow suit, next year, if not in 1928. The Southern's increase in the player limit will do away with the necessity of the Texas league winner chopping one or more players from the eligible lists in the Dixie series of the future. The Spudders had to leave off two last fall and Pete Lapan and Herb Cobb were not made eligible for the series. As it so happened, the Spudders never made a single change in lineup from the start of the series to the finish, so neither player would have had a chance to get into the series, anyhow.

Numerous telephone calls have been received the last few weeks asking the score of the opening Dixie series game. It was the game that Fussell bested Danforth in a great southpaw hurling duel, and quite likely, some of the boys are thinking the score was 1 to 0. But it was 2 to 0. In the fifth inning Jenkins and Swenson doubled for a run and then in the eighth, after Danforth had gone out for a pinch hitter, the hopefuls bunted in another run that wasn't needed off Hap Collard and Benny Karr. Collard walked Joe Cobb and then booted Fussell's sacrifice bunt. Karr came on at this juncture and filled the bases by throwing poorly to first on Lafayette's bunt. Turgeon's sacrifice fly scored Cobb with the second run. Four Spudders had come to bat without being charged with a time up, one of the freakish happenings of the series. That's the low down on the score of the first game, if there are any others still worried about it.

Goat and Hero, Too

Otherwise surface appearances all are in the Pirates' favor, for Grimes had by far the better record of the two last year.

Both Aldridge and Grimes have had erratic and checkered careers under various banners.

The Hoosier schoolmaster was both a hero and goat in the 1925 world series with Pittsburgh. Vic won his first two starts against the Senators. So did Walter Johnson, and the setting was laid for a dramatic tussle when they hooked up in the seventh and deciding battle in the fog at Forbes field. But Aldridge "blew up" in the first inning, let in four runs with his wildness and passed unceremoniously from the picture. Old Barney stuck it out in spite of the terrific hitting off his delivery, but was beaten and also lost the chance to join the immortal few who have three triumphs in one series to their credit.

The trading of Aldridge marks the passing from the Pirate fold of the last of their 1925 world series heroes.

Grimes Effective

Max Carey was the all-around star, setting the pace at bat, but Max became mixed up in the 1926 Pirate revolt, receiving his walking papers and now roams the outfield for Brooklyn.

Kiki Cuyler's double off Walter Johnson was the deciding hit of the series, but Kiki likewise earned the enmity of the management and now is with the Cubs.

Stuffy McInnis, whose steadying influence on the Pirates' defense and infield strategy turned the tide in their favor, hit the trail that all fading veterans do.

Grimes, one of the most effective twirlers in the league when right, has had a career of ups and downs in 12 years of major league experience. His holdout tactics in the spring while with Brooklyn were as famous as his spitball offerings in midsummer.

Last year Burleigh was a prime factor in the late-season rush of the Giants toward the top, especially during their sensational western trip. But he offset some of this distinction by being belted all over the lot by the Phillies in a crucial game that ruined the last slim pennant hopes of the McGraw clan.

Razorbacks Face Only Easy Games At End of Chase

Arkansas Quintet Seems Assured Of Its Third Consecutive Conference Championship.

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 13. (AP)—Two smashing victories over the heretofore undefeated Southern Methodist university Mustangs Friday and Saturday practically cleared the way for Coach Francis Schmidt's Arkansas Razorbacks to win their third successive Southwest conference basket ball championship. With but four games left to play against Rice and Texas A. & M., both comparatively weak teams, the Razorbacks should find the remainder of the season fairly easy sledding. However, should they lose two games and the Mustangs win all four of their remaining tilts, it would place S. M. U. back in the running.

Led by the Giant Pickel who seemed unable to miss a heave at the basket, the Porkers completely smothered the Mustang quintet Friday night, 48-26. The S. M. U. machine went entirely to pieces in Friday's contest and showed up little better Saturday, when the Razorbacks again displayed superiority in all departments of play to win, 34-22.

The T. C. U. Horned Frogs pulled out of the cellar position Saturday, when they invaded College Station and drubbed the Aggies, 30-26. This gave A. & M. undisputed possession of the basement.

Coach Fred Walker's Texas Longhorns, greatly improved since early season, dropped in on the Bears at Waco Saturday and plastered a 40-25 licking on the Bruin hoop artists.

Games this week promise little change in the percentage column. T. C. U. journeys to Houston Monday for a one-game tussle with Rice, Texas meets S. M. U. at Dallas, and Arkansas goes to Houston for a two-game assignment with Rice.

The conference standing:

Team—	Won	Lost	Pct.
Arkansas	8	0	1.000
S. M. U.	6	2	.750

LOCKHART SATISFIED WITH 16-CYLINDER CAR

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 13. (AP)—Frank Lockhart's 16 cylinder Stuz spiral, with which he will try to break the world's automobile record of 203.79 miles an hour for one mile at Daytona Beach, Fla., next week, was given its first test on the Indianapolis motor speedway Sunday, then placed in a box car and started for the South.

No effort was made for speed, the car being driven only in first and second gears. The fastest lap on the rough brick course was only 80 miles an hour. The machine is expected to go 150 miles an hour in second speed.

Following the test, Lockhart said the car indicated it had lots of speed and he said he believed he had a good chance to better the mark which was established a year ago by Major H. O. D. Segrave of London, Eng.

GIANT VANGUARD LEAVES FOR TRAINING GROUNDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—The vanguard of the New York Giants departed for Hot Springs Sunday to begin preliminary training for the baseball campaign. While cameras clicked and fans cheered, three players got aboard the Southwestern limited which will land them at Hot Springs in time to report to Roger Bresnahan, Giant's scout, on Wednesday.

The New York party was made up of Frank Hogan, young catcher obtained from the Braves in the now famous Rogers Hornsby deal, Al Spohrer, another backstop, and Pitcher Chet Nichols. Many players will join the trio at various points along the route to the training camp.

This will be the third meeting between Hudkins and Baker, each having been returned victor in the previous engagements.

TEAMS OF GIANT KEEPS PORKERS IN FRONT

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 13. With a squad of towering goal shooters averaging more than six feet in height, the University of Arkansas has all but cinched its third straight Southwest conference basket ball championship. The team has won all of its eight games and has but four remaining, these with the weaker members of the conference.

Considerable credit for the team's remarkable success is given to Coach Francis Schmidt, who came to Arkansas a few years ago to find basket ball being played only as an intra-mural sport. While stressing the importance of defensive tactics, his greatest attention is given to the development of a strong defense.

Two of the players, Captain Glen Rose, guard, six feet, five inches, and Tom Pickel, center, six feet, five and a half inches, made the All-Southwestern last season. Ralph Haizlip, forward, is the smallest man on the team at six foot in height. Wear Schoonover, the other forward, is six feet, three, while Roy Prewitt, who alternates at forward and center, measures six feet, two. Eugene Lambert, guard, is six feet, two. None of the men weighs less than 165 pounds and the average weight is 180.

The Arkansas team's strongest rival for title honors, Southern Methodist university, was beaten in a two-game series last week.

Two big factors in the University of Arkansas' campaign for its third consecutive Southwestern conference basket ball title are Tom Pickel (left), six feet, five and a half inch center; and Captain Glen Rose (right), a guard, who is a half inch shorter. Both were all-Southwestern choices last season. Pickel weighs 180 and Rose 190.

Boxing Most Universal Sport, Writes Tunney

Sports Speedily Becoming Vital Institutions in American Life and There Is Room for All Branches, Says Champion

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

"Isn't it a fact that boxing is more typically an American sport than baseball?" a dyed-in-the-wool fan wrote me a few days ago in the course of a letter comparing recent boxing crowds with those of years ago.

I do not think that the big attendance and gate receipts at recent fights prove exactly that. I would say rather that it proves that boxing is a more universal sport, but not more typically American for nowhere else has baseball attained great popularity. Still, the fact remains that no baseball game or other sport ever aroused as much sustained interest as a boxing event of the first rank nor have people traveled as far and at such great expense to see a game of any kind.

It isn't quite fair to compare the two sports in this manner, because of conditions. I cannot imagine boxing matches being held every day in a dozen important cities as are baseball games. The sport doesn't lend itself to that and therefore it must remain an event of occasional importance with the expectations of the public being gradually brought up to the pitch which has come to mean tremendous crowds.

On the other hand, baseball is in a class by itself. During the sporting events that took place in the A. E. F. in France, 600,000 more soldiers and sailors attended the boxing matches than attended the baseball games in the nine months that competitions were held. Neither football nor track events drew anything like the numbers attracted by the boxing matches. But there again, it was easier to stage boxing than baseball. The atmosphere just wasn't right for a highly organized game or perhaps the army life put the men more in the mood for boxing.

Sport Loving Nation

But whether or not any exact comparison can be made, the increase in attendance at boxing matches brings up a point which gives me a good deal of satisfaction as an advocate of sports of any character. Figures for the past few seasons prove beyond a doubt that America is becoming more and more a sport loving nation, a fact which cannot help be of benefit to the health and temperament to our whole race.

It indicates to me that America is taking its nose away from the grindstone more and more and mixing pleasure with the stern business routine to a greater extent every year.

There is no question but that there are literally hundreds of thousands more business men on golf links now than there were even five years ago. They are discovering that they can take a half-day from their business without the business going to the dogs and that they are better men for their outing the next day. That, alone, is a great thing. I think that if any criticism can be offered of the American people in general it was because of the old idea of all work and no play.

And the beauty of the situation is that increased attendance at all sports has increased proportionately.

Last summer more people witnessed the Davis cup tennis matches at Forest Hills than had ever before attended in any two seasons. The international polo matches were jammed, whereas before polo was regarded distinctly as class sport and more or less of a society event.

Ice Hockey Gains

This winter in New York ice hockey has taken on the rank of a major sport. I was told recently that the prices being paid for players has more than doubled, an instance being that three years ago the New York Americans paid a record price of $10,000 for Simpson, Rickey and Morrison, while this year Montreal gave Broadbent in tn trade for Hooley Smith and paid $22,500 in cash.

One manager told me that some players are being held for as high as $100,000. There again, is another fine winter sport coming to the front in the style it deserves.

Also, there is the remarkable record of the New York Yankee baseball club for last season. Ed Barrow, the business manager, recently made public the fact that there were 1,364,061 paid admissions at the stadium in 1927 and that including out-of-town games, 2,446,096 persons saw the team play.

This means that the Yankees played to more spectators than any other team in the history of the game. I am informed that other clubs made baseball records in attendance during 1927. And a nation which patronizes a sport in such a manner is getting out into the air more to its vast betterment.

Mutual Pleasure

Football ticket selling last year assumed all the aspects of a hectic day on the stock exchange. Never were there such crowds nor such prices paid for tickets. Only a few years ago, students and alumni of colleges constituted the attendance at the average game whereas last fall at the Army-Notre battle six policemen standing near me were the most enthusiastic rooters on the field.

Of course there are several hundred thousand men and women being graduated from the schools in the country every year and they become permanent fans, but the non-collegiates are attending as never before.

In short, the American public is becoming so thoroughly devoted to sports that they want something doing all the year around and it is a healthy sign not only that people are turning more from the terrific business grind, but that sports are being improved both in cleanness and from the spectator's point of view. They are becoming vital institutions in American life.

Promise of still greater attention to sports is indicated for 1928 and it does not make a great deal of difference which branch is called the national sport so long as the public and the athletes derive mutual pleasure.

Sooners Knock Off Dozen Wins In Succession

Oklahoma Quintet Almost in With Valley Crown, Several Teams Have Chance to Tie.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13. (AP)—Having "shown" the two Missouri quintets by taking all of a four game series, the undefeated Oklahoma Sooners Monday faced a three-week campaign with the view to clinching their first valley basket ball championship by annexing four of the remaining six games.

The 24 to 33 Sooner win over the Tigers at Norman Saturday, coupled with the shifts in fortunes of a half dozen other teams last week, left three squads with an outside chance for a tie or the title, three more as long shots for a possible tie and definitely eliminated Drake, Grinnell and Iowa State.

The Oklahoma Aggies again threatened Missouri by beating Washington, 24 to 20, Saturday, while the Kansas Aggies displaced the Bears in fifth place by trimming Drake, 46 to 30.

The standing of the leaders, indicating possibilities should the Sooners drop three or more:

Promoter Denies He Knows Hallas Is "Dutch's Man"

However, Ross Is Willing to Venture Guess That Greek Will be Opponent of Ketonen.

Positive denial that he knows the identity of the wrestler who is to meet Waino Ketonen in Monday night's feature bout at The Gym was registered Monday morning by Promoter Alec B. Ross. "I even went so far as to try to learn who had registered with Mantell when he arrived here Sunday, but I found that none had," Ross declared.

Ketonen is to wrestle somebody advertised as "Dutch Mantell's Unknown," and the promoter goes no further than to "guess" that it will be Billy Hallas, the Greek middleweight who has wrestled here several times and who has been in Amarillo, Mantell's home, for several weeks.

Whether or not Ross or Ketonen knows the identity of the "Unknown or whether the mysterious grappler is Billy Hallas or somebody else, plenty of excitement is promised. Since Ketonen's foe is linked with the name of Mantell, it is a certainty that something will happen. Mantell is just that way.

The preliminary calls for a finish encounter between Teddy Waters, the Childress product and Cyclone Hayes, both well known hereabouts. They are welterweights.

Fight Situation Clearing In At Least Two Ranks

Featherweight and Light Heavyweight Champs Definitely Established; Bantams Uncertain.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—The heavy fog that blanketed fistic title situations at the start of the year is lifting.

It is still a bit murky in the lightweight and bantamweight classes but the atmosphere is cleared in the featherweight and light heavyweight ranks.

Tony Canzoneri's victory over game little Benny Bass in their sensational 15-round match last Friday night may not have been decisive enough to satisfy all the critics, but at least it gives the feather fold an undisputed champion for the first time in two years.

It also appears likely to stimulate action in this 122-pound division, partly at the expense of the bantam ranks. In every state except New York, Bud Taylor is recognized as the Bantam champion, but the Terre Haute terror has been keeping company mostly with featherweights and may decide to forego further 118-pound activity altogether. Charley (Phil) Rosenberg and Bushy Graham, bantam titleholder and contender, respectively, a year ago, also plan comebacks as featherweights. They are due for reinstatement this week after a year's suspension.

The present exodus to the weightier class will leave the bantam division depopulated unless the flyweights stars growing up. Just now, so far as the flyweights are concerned, Izzy Schwartz and Frankie Genaro, New York boxers, have rival support as title claimants.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

STORM BREAKS PAN-AMERICAN HAVANA MEET

ALLEGED EXCESSIVE TARIFFS PROVOKES DEBATE BEFORE COMMITTEE

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

Takes Issue With Head of Argentine Delegation Defending Attitude of U. S.

HAVANA, Feb. 13. (AP)—The storm over the question of the inclusion of clauses in the convention which would permit an investigation by the Pan-American union of alleged excessive tariffs in commerce between the American republics broke with full force this morning at the meeting of the committee on Pan-American union affairs.

Honorio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation, in a short speech repeated emphatically that he would not sign the convention unless the preamble contained the required economic clauses.

Charles Evans Hughes, head of the American delegation, delivered a long speech in which he pointed out that all the countries were opposed to Dr. Pueyrredon because what he insisted upon would affect the vital sovereign rights of the nations. He argued furthermore that the injection of economics into the Pan-American union would destroy it and thus prevent it from doing the good which it now was accomplishing.

"I think in the subcommittee we were all agreed on the preamble as far as it went," said Mr. Hughes. "The chairman of the Argentine delegation found it acceptable as far as it went. But the Argentine chairman wanted an additional clause, and has again presented his views regarding that clause.

"Now that clause was not favored by the other members of the subcommittee. There must be some reason for this concurrence of views, and it is not difficult to say why. We are desirous of promoting Pan-American cooperation, not destroying it. The economic barriers, tariff walls and obstacles to the free flow of commerce, which were dwelt upon by the chairman of the Argentine delegation, consist of provisions supplied by the legislative powers of states, in what is conceived to be the economic interests of those states.

"In our discussions it clearly appeared that the United States did not cherish their sovereignty any more than other states cherished theirs. The right to protect the people of a country in deciding what duties shall be imposed, what export taxes shall be levied, is the very essence of soverignty, each of your countries has provisions relative to the import and export of raw materials, which it considers necessary and well devised and which may be discussed only internally by the legislatures as the representatives of the people.

"What Mexico will do with her oil export taxes; what Chile will do with her nitrate export taxes, what Ecuador will do with her export taxes, are all matters which these countries have expressed as constituting the essence of the exercise of their soverignty. Each country has its own provisions, and from the point of view of each country these provisions are not artificial or unjust.

"Of course, in one sense, everything relating to commerce is artificial, as having been legislated to satisfy peculiar exigencies. But these things are not artificial, since they are devised for the benefit of the people. To introduce into the Pan-American union this most delicate subject, namely, the exercise of the sovereignty of peoples, would be to invite the destruction of the Pan-American union by arousing controversies and discussions, by putting it in controversy with legislatures.

"If any particular country has a special interest in any particular goods, the proper way is to have recourse to negotiation and to present facts to the legislatures, so that each country may decide the matter according to its best interests.

"I think it was for these reasons, not for any special reason affecting the United States only, that all but the chairman of the Argentine delegation felt that we ought not to introduce special economic problems into the preamble of the Pan-American union."

"It was to save the Pan-American union for the good it can do," continued Mr. Hughes, "not to prevent it from dealing with subjects which would destroy it, that the Argentine chairman's motion was opposed.

"It was quite apparent early in the discussions that the majority of the delegates were not favorable to giving the Pan-American union political functions. Our friend, Doctor Urbina, from Mexico, said the other day that it was difficult to say what was political function or power. Certainly it is difficult to draw the line.

"We in the United States have learned to consider tariff as a political matter. I suppose the same is true in other countries regarding taxes and duties. No country can live without revenue. I notice that the chairman of the Argentine delegation added his own vote against giving the Pan-American union political functions—but he did this not for the purpose of preventing the Pan-American union from achieving its purposes.

"I will not enter into a discussion of the limits between economic and political matters, but I will say that we seek as much as Argentine full cooperation between the American states for the common good. We must not destroy the Pan-American union by making it a tariff commission or a tax commission, or any other commission, which will make it impinge upon Domestic affairs."

Doctor Pueyrredon then insisted that it be left on the record that in the sub-committee, while he was agreeable to the preamble as far as it went, he had always stressed clearly and emphatically that his approval was dependent upon the inclusion of economic clauses.

After Mr. Hughes had spoken, Jacobo Varela, of Uruguay, proposed that any convention agreed upon here need not be actually signed by the delegates, but that agreement be left directly to the parliaments by sending to the interested governments a certified copy of the agreements reached at Havana.

The proposal caused much interest, as many of the delegates saw in it a hint that, whereas Doctor Pueyrredon was not willing to sign the preamble, his government might be willing to take the other view.

DECLARES GERMANY READY FOR TREATY OUTLAWING WARS

BERLIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—While no official proposal from Secretary of State Kellog for a German-American arbitration treaty has yet reached the German foreign office, its spokesmen declared today that Germany would greatly welcome such a project.

It was stated that Germany's entire post-war policy has been one of building up a system of substitutes for the resort to force and that she is willing to go as far as any nation in the application of the principle of arbitration.

FEAR INTERNATIONALISM EMPHASIZED BY SMOOT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—A warning against a "share of political internationalisms" was given in the senate today by Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, in commemorating the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

Urging adherence to the policy of nationalism, Senator Smoot declared "it is impossible to defend the American flag and an international flag at the same time." He said "the revolutionary movement" circulates 600 publications here.

The Utah senator levelled his attack on women's peace organizations along with others which he said were teaching within the country "a doctrine of internationalism."

"Within the confines of the capital of the nation, having branches in the several states and abroad, are organizations teaching the doctrine that patriotism is a false doctrine and hostile to peace," he said. "There are organizations of women, I am loath to say, doubting the wisdom of patriotism and demanding a definition of that word. They scoff at loyalty, devotion to country, as nothing but contributions to war.

"In the name of 'peace' there are numerous organizations, with foreign alliances and American memberships, complaining of the statement that communism, bolshevism, socialism, liberalism and ultra-pacifism all tend to the same end. Yet they do. All these organizations are either willing or unwilling agents of disintegrating forces, as perilous as the rebellion Lincoln faced."

TRIBUTE TO DIXIELAND BY SENATOR ROBINSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The tribute of the land of Dixie to Abraham Lincoln was given in the senate today by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic party leader.

"As a representative in this body of what has come to be known as the new South I bow my head today in reverence," he said. "I cut a wild rose blooming in the garden of Dixie and lay it on the tomb of the great, humble, awkward, immortal Lincoln whose courage and charity excels that which has been exemplified by the leadership of armed forces nowhere, at no time in the annals of human history."

Senator Robinson's expression that had Lincoln lived the breach between the North and South would have been healed much sooner, was concurred in by two other Democratic speakers, Bruce of Maryland, and Heflin of Alabama.

GENERAL REVENUE FUND MOUNTS TO $755,000

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—The state's general revenue fund, which had slumped into the "red" with the year opening scarcity of collections, rose from $68,000 to $775,000 last week, State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher reported Monday.

The latter figure represents the credit balance at the close of Saturday business. Mr. Hatcher said that tax collectors in the smaller counties have remitted their collections and that when big sums collected by the large counties come in, the fund will build up rapidly.

COMMITTEE CONSIDERS INSULL COMPROMISE ON TEXAS WATER RIGHTS

FORT WORTH, Feb. 13. (AP)—Consideration of a compromise offered by the Insull interests of Chicago relative to the water rights of the Colorado river was given by the committee recently named by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at a meeting here today. Major John B. Hawley of Fort Worth retained by the West Texas organization as one of the consulting engineers met with the committee.

Besides Dr. P. C. Coleman, Colorado, chairman, others who attended the meeting were Clifford B. Jones of Spur, J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls and W. B. Hallmark of Dublin.

Under the proposed compromise agreement which was discussed at the meeting, the Insull interests will release half of their water rights already granted, providing the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will indorse the building of dams along the Colorado.

The conference here today was behind closed doors.

DISTRICT JUDGE SOPER TO BE QUESTIONED ABOUT FOOD PRODUCTS DECREE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Federal District Judge Morris A. Soper, of Baltimore, who approved the consent decree dissolving the Ward Food Products corporation on April 3, 1926, is to be invited to appear before the senate judiciary committee.

That committee has before it majority and minority views as to this decree, which likewise dismissed the complaint in Judge Soper's court against the Continental Baking company, brought by the department of justice under the Clayton act.

The majority report, made by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana and Borah, Republican, Idaho, recites that Judge Soper ordered the decree entered before hearing all of it read and adds that "the record leaves the painful expression of, perhaps not impatience, but undue haste on his part, considering he had before him a decree to arrest the monopolization of the nation's bread."

HUNGARIAN STUDENTS STRIKE IN PROTEST TO ENROLLMENT OF JEWS

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 13. (AP)—Demonstrations and lively fistic encounters took place at Budapest university today where the Christian students proclaimed a strike as a protest against the government's intention to increase the quota of Jews permitted to enroll in the university.

The students barricaded the university doors and forced those seeking admission to prove their identity. All students attending lectures in defiance of the strike order were expelled from the class rooms.

The students at Szedegin university likewise declared a strike.

COUPLE SHOT TO DEATH BY HUSBAND OF WOMAN

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Feb. 13. (AP)—Mrs. Daisy Lawrence, 17, and Emory Yarbour, 30, of Cinderella were killed by the young woman's husband, Robert Lawrence, 19, in his home in East Williamson Sunday, the state police reported today.

According to the police, Lawrence said he shot the couple when he found they were on intimate terms. Lawrence surrendered, and was lodged in the Mingo county jail.

ADAMSON NAMED P. O. INSPECTOR AT AUSTIN

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13. (AP)—Appointment of J. W. Adamson, postal inspector here, as chief postal inspector at Austin, Texas, in charge of work in Texas and Louisiana, was announced today.

Word of the appointment was received by Mr. Adamson on his 49th birthday anniversary, yesterday, but announcement was withheld until today, the 16th anniversary of his postal inspection service.

The appointment will mean to Mr. Adamson that he may emerge from a life of seclusion—an almost constant hiding necessary in his career of tracking criminals.

He will succeed J. C. Lindland, formerly an inspector here, who has been transferred to the Denver bureau.

TENNESSEE MEMBER CONGRESS DISPUTES CLAIM OF PRESIDENT ECONOMY IN NATION'S AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The declaration of President Coolidge in his recent address at the semi-annual business meeting that his administration had effected "constructive economy" in governmental expenditures was disputed in the house today by Representative Byrns of Tennessee, ranking Democrat on the appropriations committee.

He said it was "about time the people were becoming aroused to the fact that despite the persistent and misleading propaganda of the past years there has been no reduction of governmental expenditures."

"On the contrary," he said, "there has been a heavy increase which cannot be justified on the plea that it was 'constructive economy'."

Mr. Byrns cited figures which he claimed showed that the estimated 1928 governmental expenditures were $479,000,000 more than in 1924, the first year of the Coolidge administration. He also criticized the president as having failed to give any credit to the Wilson administration for the reduction of the public debt.

Mr. Coolidge had laid stress on the reduction of the debt by $8,500,000,000, he declared, but he did not mention that after the world war the Democratic administration reduced the debt by $2,545,000,000 in 19 months, while the six years of the Harding-Coolidge administrations represented a decrease of $5,539,000,000. He added that the Coolidge administration "inherited" the Wilson regime's "cash assets" of the war including back taxes, sale of surplus war materials and loans to railroads, amounting to $3,786,000,000.

"The total amount of the debt reduction in the six years which the Harding-Coolidge administrations supplied the money was $1,752,000,000, and that during a period of high taxes," he asserted.

A number of financial transactions of the Coolidge administration were pointed out by Mr. Byrns who asked if they were in the interest of "constructive economy."

"Was it constructive economy which in 1922 brought about the scrapping of the newly completed modern battleships and others in the process of completion at a cost of $278,000,000," he asked, "and in 1928 the recommendation of a new five-year naval construction program to cost $1,250,000,000?"

FORMER OFFICER CITED TO ANSWER CONTEMPT CHARGE

Judge C. M. McFarland announced Monday that he has cited W. M. Davidson, a former city policeman, to appear in the county court at law Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt.

The citation grew out of Mr. Davidson's alleged refusal to endorse a check for $500 made payable to him and three other officers as a reward for their capture here of two Arkansas bank robbers about 18 months ago.

The entire reward is claimed for the police relief fund by its trustees. Mr. Davidson contends that part of the reward should be paid to him individually, and attributes his refusal to endorse the check to a desire to protect his claim.

BAKER URGES NATIONAL STOLEN PROPERTY BILL

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—More than $500,000,000 worth of stolen property is disposed of yearly by "fences," the middlemen of crime, according to former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker.

Speaking of the national stolen property act, which is now before congress and which was prepared by a special committee of the national crime commission of which he is acting chairman, Mr. Baker asserted that federal legislation is imperative if the fences are to be curbed.

Because of the operations of the fences, he said, robbery had assumed the proportions and some of the methods of big business, even the robbers themselves being no longer the old fashioned type of lone hand yeggmen but fairly well educated and enterprising young men supplying a national market.

"Obviously," Mr. Baker said, "where the theft occurs in one state and the receiver has his secret fence in another state, neither state is in a position to deal effectively with and punish the whole crime."

The national stolen property bill would permit the federal government to prosecute interstate shippers of stolen goods. Congressman F. H. La Guardia of New York, who introduced the bill, said that if the fences were removed 95 per cent of the large crimes would be eliminated.

HORSE BRINGS $1.25 AT LAREDO AUCTION

LAREDO, Texas, Feb. 13. (AP)—The ruler who offered his kingdom for a horse wouldn't have gotten much money value, A. R. Kahn of the local customs service declares.

For a horse, one of several animals recently seized by officials when smugglers along the Rio Grande abandoned their mounts when pursued by officers, sold at auction here for $1.25.

WOMAN PLACED ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF FATHER

WENTWORTH, N. C., Feb. 13. (AP)—Pale from her confinement of five months in jail, Mrs. Alma Petty Gatlin, 20-year-old Reidsville girl, was arraigned here today and pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder, growing out of the death of her father, Smith E. Petty.

The young woman is accused of having slain her father as he sat at breakfast table nearly a year ago, and then to have buried his body in the cellar of their home.

BEGIN CHOOSING OFFICIALS FOR NOVEMBER POLL

Selection of officials for each voting box in the county, to serve at the general election in November, occupied the attention of the weekly meeting of the county commissioners' court Monday. Approximately 200 such officials must be named, and the task was less than half complete when the afternoon session of the court began.

One Republican, it was announced, would be named for each voting box.

The court also planned to call later in the afternoon a public hearing on the proposal to order a special audit of the 1927 county records. Some of the members expressed the opinion that the court would reject the proposal.

A Buick roadster for the use of the sheriff's department was ordered purchased from the Dixon Motor company. The purchase was ordered after bids were opened. The sheriff's department, it was explained, now has only two cars, both small.

RAILROAD BROTHERHOOD TO SEEK NOMINATION OF PINCHOT FOR SENATE

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 13. (AP) J. A. Fox, of the legislative committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Fireman announced today that nominating petitions for former Governor Gifford Pinchot as candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, had been sent into 15 counties for circulation.

Mr. Fox said the petitions were sent out as the result of insistent demand that the former governor become a candidate, and without the consent of Mr. Pinchot.

Two years ago Mr. Pinchot was a candidate for the senate, running third in a field of three. The nomination was won by Senator-elect William S. Vare, Pinchot finishing behind George Wharton Pepper, then senior senator from Pennsylvania.

DAIRY DEVELOPMENT UNLIMITED, CURTIS SAYS TO KIWANIANS

The dairy industry is in no danger of being overdone because so many different uses are being found for milk today other than for human consumption, Don Curtis, manager of the Producers Creamery company, told members of the Wichita Falls Kiwanis club Mouday noon.

The Holstein, Jersey, Brown Swiss Gurensey and Ayrshire are the only breeds of dairy cattle worthy of consideration, Mr. Curtis said.

"The cow is known as far back as history goes, and in many instances there was a heavy penalty for anyone guilty of killing a cow, showing the high regard with which the ancient peoples looked upon the animals," Mr. Curtis declared. "Following the ancient period in the history of the cow comes the medieval period.

"This medieval period dates from the birth of Christ to about 1600 A. D. It was then that the cow came into general use and cheese began to be made. The present breeds of cattle had their beginning in this period, although they were not very well pronounced.

"The invention of gun powder aided materially in the development of the cow. It enabled the people to kill the wild cattle for meat and to save the domesticated animals for further development.

"The third period in the development of the cow dates from 1600 to 1880. The different breeds of cattle were introduced in this country during this period and there was a wider use of milk.

"The fourth period in the cow's history is from 1880 to the present time. This is the period in which the greatest strides have been made in dairying."

History tells us that cattle existed in all countries, with the exception of Australia, New Zealand and America, Mr. Curtis told the Kiwanians. It is not definitely known, he said, whether or not Christopher Columbus brought cattle with him on his last two trips across the Atlantic. If he did he left them in either South America or Mexico. However, it is known that De Soto brought cattle with him on his last trip to America and distributed them through the Southwest as far north as Kansas, Mr. Curtis said.

The program was in charge of J. M. Baber, chairman of the Kiwanis agricultural committee.

George Hathaway, Clovis Childers, Virgil Evans and Clarence Baker, members of the Kiwanis Pig club, were guests of the club Monday.

Dr. V. E. Wratten was appointed chairman of the "On to Seattle" committee. Dr. R. H. Peterson was also selected as a member of the committee. The Kiwanis international convention is to be in Seattle on June 17 to 21, inclusive.

BEGIN SECOND TRIAL FORMER CANTON CHIEF FOR MELLETT MURDER

LISBON, Ohio., Feb. 13. (AP)—The second trial of Seranus A. Lengel, former Canton police chief, for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton editor, opened quietly here today in strange contrast to the first trial last july in Canton.

Only a handful of spectators was in the courtroom of the little Columbia county court house where the trial was taken on a change of venue from Canton.

Lengel was convicted at Canton and had served five months of a life sentence before an appeal gained him liberty and a second hearing. The entire day was taken up with the examination of prospective jurors.

Four others, Patrick McDermott, Ben Rudner, Floyd Streitenberger, and Louis Mazer, are serving penitentiary sentences for their part in the killing.

WOMAN'S SUIT AGAINST HOSPITAL FOR DAMAGES STARTS IN COURT HERE

Trial of the suit brought by Mrs. J. Will Morgan against the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital for $40,000 damages for alleged loss of eyesight got under way before a jury in the 78th district court Monday. Most of the morning was required to complete the jury. Indications were that at least two days would be required for the trial. A mistrial resulted from a previous attempt to dispose of the case.

EDWIN MEREDITH FAVORS RETURN TO 1920 POSTAL RATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The postoffice department is adopting a "penny wise, pound foolish" policy in keeping the present rates on second and third class mail, Edwin T. Meredith of Des Moines, Iowa, former secretary of agriculture and a farm magazine publisher, today told the house postoffice committee.

He argued that lower second and third class rates stimulated the volume and the revenues of the first class and higher mail rates.

"Advertisements, catalogs and news items produce first class mail letters," he said.

The West is being penalized by the high rates on newspapers and magazines, he asserted, as eastern publishers are becoming unable to afford the sending of their publications to the states west of the Mississippi river.

Mr. Meredith advocated a return to the 1920 rate base for newspapers and magazines, urging this change in the bill before the committee which proposes the reduction of the rates to the 1921 basis.

Representative Ramseyer, Iowa, a Republican on the committee, declared Mr. Meredith took a wrong view in arguing for a reduction of the rates for second and third class below a profitable basis and said "the postoffice should be run on a profit just as if the government operated the railroads."

"But there is a difference between hauling a ton of coal and a franked tariff speech of a good Republican congressman," retorted Meredith, adding that the postoffice department apparently was "striving towards as high rates as possible to cut down its volume of business."

Hailstones weighing more than a pound have been reported on good authority, according to the United States weather bureau.

LATE MARKETS

COTTON — GRAIN — STOCKS — PRODUCE

RALLY IN PRICES OF COTTON AFTER EARLIER DECLINE

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13. (AP)—An early decline of 9 to 12 points in the cotton market today, on poor Liverpool cables and reports of rain in the Western drought section was followed by a recovery of 8 to 9 points on covering by shorts. Near noon the trading was light as the traders were disposed to hold off in view of the holiday in New York. At the highs March traded at 17.83 and July 17.87, or 1 to 3 points under the previous close. At midafternoon the market was quiet and at or near the highs.

Exports 22,800 bales.

Trading was fairly brisk at the opening of the market today despite the holiday in New York. First trades showed losses of 4 to 9 points in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables and reports of relief for the drought section of the West. The market continued to ease off after the start until at the end of the first half hour March and May had traded off to 17.75 and July 17.78, or 9 to 12 points down. October eased off 13 points to 17.60.

The market quieted down around the lows, but prices gradually rallied on covering by shorts. About midmorning March was trading at 17.83, May 17.84 and July 17.87, or 8 to 9 points above the lows and unchanged to 3 points down from Saturday's close. Although telegrams were received reporting snow in Amarillo and Lubbock, Texas, as well as rain in the drought sections of that state, they had little effect on the market.

At noon prices were little changed from the highs with trading almost at a standstill.

Cotton futures closed steady at a net decline of 5 to 6 points.

STERILIZATION OF UNFIT FAVORED IN REGION RESOLUTION

AUSTIN, Feb. 13. (AP)—Sterilization of unfit men and women to prevent birth of the degenerate children based upon a law similar to that in effect in other states and upheld by the United States supreme court was advocated as a Texas measure, in a resolution adopted by American legion members of the tenth district in session with Travis post No. 76, it was announced Monday.

"This resolution was endorsed as being the most effective manner of eliminating criminal classes from society, members of the legion who voted for the motion, said afterward. Speakers at the meeting declared that nine-tenths of criminals tried by Texas courts in recent years were physically or mentally defective due to abberations occurring in the first, second or third generations preceding."

Governor Dan Moody, addressing the legion meeting attended by ladies of the tenth district auxiliary as well, said that it is the "duty of Texans to see that over 100,000 legionnaires who will attend the national convention at San Antonio in October are well entertained."

Walton Hood of San Antonio, state commander, reviewed what the legion has done for disabled veterans of the world war and their dependents and dwelt upon the obligation of the able-bodied veterans to those wounded in action.

Minister Blames 'Whispering' for His Resignation

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 13. (AP)—The Rev. M. D. Austin resigned as pastor of the Deer Park Baptist church here last night because of a "whispering campaign" conducted against him regarding a 10-year-old alleged affair and because of threats that caused him to fear for the safety of himself and his family, members of his congregation said he told them yesterday. The entire board of deacons of the church also resigned.

Charges were made against the Rev. Dr. Austin 10 years ago in Tennessee, seven years before the minister came to Louisville. The Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, cleared Dr. Austin of the charges at a meeting November 9. He declared them to be without foundation in fact.

The wholesale resignation Sunday night was the result of an agreement several weeks ago that if the deacons and the pastor were unable to smooth out the difficulties all should resign.

The dramatic announcement yesterday left many of the congregation in tears, church members said. Dr. Austin refused to make any statement last night except that he intends to remain in Louisville for a while. He asked members of the church to care for his family should he be called away from the city or should any other event separate his household.

Dr. Austin reported receiving an anonymous letter couched in "the vilest language I have ever had to read." It was signed, "four members."

He preached his farewell sermon last night without mentioning the communication or the fact that he was occupying the church's pulpit for the last time. At no time during the controversy has the basis of the charges against the minister been made public. Dr. Austin declined to divulge the nature of the communications.

ASK FOR RECEIVER FOR CITY OF INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 13. (AP) Appointment of a receiver for the city of Indianapolis to take charge of municipal affairs and "accomplish the executive and administrative functions of the office of mayor until the conflicting and controversial claims now existing can be judicially determined" was asked in a suit filed in superior court today by John E. Burns and Roy Murphy, "on behalf of better citizens and taxpayers."

The complaint asserted that commerce and industry are injustly affected by the uncertainty as to the legality and performance of the administration of the city's affairs and that the inability of the city to maintain funds has brought about the abandonment and neglect of proper maintenance and repairs of public streets and highways.

At present L. Ertslack, a Democrat, is serving as mayor, but his right to the office is being contested by Ira Holmes, a Republican attorney, and Joseph Hogue, Republican, and city controller in a previous city administration. The tangle was brought about when John L. Duvall resigned as mayor following his conviction for violation of the corrupt practices act.

MEREDITH STARTS BOOM FOR NEWTON D. BAKER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Newton D. Baker, secretary of war under President Wilson, was boomed by Edwin T. Meredith, of Iowa today as one of the leading choices of the "dry and progressive Democrats" for the presidential nomination.

Mr. Meredith, who is a former secretary of agriculture, declared he was not a candidate. He asserted that there was a strong anti-Smith or anti-wet sentiment in the middle west among Democrats and that the Iowa delegation to the Democratic convention at Houston "would be for a dry and progressive candidate."

"Baker has taken a stand on foreign policies, the dry question and other issues which should gain him the support of the progressive Democrats of the country," Mr. Meredith said.

Speaking of the Republican presidential situation, he declared that in the middle west and Iowa there was a "good deal of Hoover and Lowden sentiment but the support for Lowden was the stronger."

AMONG the DERRICKS

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

The Consolidated Oil company has made locations for two new 2500-foot deep cable tool tests to be drilled in the territory adjacent to the Rock Crossing pool in southeast Wilbarger county. Consolidated Oil No. 1 N. Bates is located in the enter of the northeast quarter, and west half of northwest quarter of section 42, block 2, H. T. C. survey, about four miles south of the pool. The same company's No. 1 Waggoner is 150 feet each way from the northeast corner of the south eighty, of the northeast quarter of section 24, block 2, H. T. C. R. R. survey.

Hamer and Jennings have completed their No. 1 Burnett, located in section 9, H. T. B. R. R. survey, southeast of Electra in Wichita county, making 35 barrels from the sand at 1530 feet. The well offsets to the east the Jennings-Conyear No. 1 Jennings.

Mel Richards has completed his No. 2 Curry, located in the Pandem pool, Brown county. The well is producing between 50 and 60 barrels, accompanied by approximately 1,500,000 cubic feet of gas, the sand being topped at 1096 and penetrated at 1107 feet. The same party has spudded in on his No. 3 Curry offsetting No. 2.

Christie brothers have abandoned their No. 3 Fannie in section 5, S. P. R. R. survey, Jack county, at a total depth of 2430 feet. A sand showing some oil and gas was tested at 2058-65 feet, but failed to show the makings of a commercial producer.

The Oil Operators trust finished its No. 2 E. J. Bouldin, located in the southeast corner of the Chacon survey, abstract 146, as a 25 barreler from the sand at 916 to 930 feet. The same company's No. 3 was also completed in the 820-828 pay, good for 30 barrels.

Fain-McGaha O-1 W. T. Waggoner, located in the northwest quarter, of northeast quarter of section 50, block 4, H. T. C. survey, Wilbarger county is junked and abandoned as a dry hole at a shallow depth of 1317 feet.

C. C. Williams and associates' No. 1 A. C. Casey, located in southwest corner of section 1486, T. E. L. survey, north Young county, is a dry hole at 750 feet.

J. C. McFarland's B-2, Katy right-of-way in Muenster townsite, Cooke county, is completed in the sand at 1651-78 feet as a 15-barrel pumper.

Shappell Oil company No. 12 Kemp-Kempner in southwest corner of block 18, W. V. F. L., Wichita county, is on the pump making 25 barrels from the sand at 1619-25 feet.

Sigler and McGinley's No. 1 A. B. Hinton, located in the northeast corner of A. Coates survey, abstract 129, Montague county, has been finished in the sand at 768-89 feet, with a daily output of 20 barrels of oil and 1,500,000 feet of gas.

HUMBLE'S EARNINGS FALL $12,285,000 DURING PAST YEAR

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 13. (AP)—Earnings of the Humble Oil & Refining company fell from $19,385,000 in 1926 to $7,100,000 last year, according to the annual report of President W. S. Farish to the annual stockholders' meeting here today.

No real improvement is in sight, Mr. Farish told the gathering. That conclusion was forced on him, he said, by a look at the general situation and a study of conditions in the entire industry.

"Therefore," his annual report recited, "it is my judgment that any measure of prosperity that comes to the industry this year must come through the utmost caution and conservatism on the part of each individual unit of the industry, large or small. We must temper our efforts to produce crude and as refiners we must not over produce our markets for gasoline."

Production, the report pointed out, was 15,494,868 barrels in 1927 as compared with 17,092,364 barrels in 1926 and the average prices received for crude in the two years was $1.23 and $1.84 per barrels, respectively.

The oil industry has attributed generally decreased earnings to overproduction of crude. Mr. Farish voiced much the same sentiment. "We feel that there is too much crude and products in storage now," he said, "and that any policy that would lead to adding to this burden would be ill-advised."

The cure for overproduction Mr. Farish indicated is cooperation. "It seems to me," he said, "that the entire industry has awakened to the fact that only through cooperation and intelligent conservation in our oil pools can we lessen the burden of high peak flush production in individual pools, which in turn tends to lessen the burden of overproduction in the country as a whole.

"I regard the necessity for cooperative effort in the production of oil . . . as the matter of greatest importance to our industry and to the public at large."

The report shows that the Humble drilled 332 wells in 1927 as compared with 340 in 1926.

All directors were reelected. They in turn reelected these officers:

W. S. Farish, president; R. L. Blaffer, vice president and treasurer; H. C. Wiess, F. P. Sterling, J. S. Bonner, W. W. Fondren and James Anderson, vice presidents; E. E. Townes, general counsel; J. C. Townes Jr., general attorney; F. O. Freese, secretary and assistant treasurer; James S. Crate, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer; H. Millsaps and William A. Merrick, assistant secretaries; L. H. Atwell, comptroller; George R. Cooke, assistant treasurer; Paul Millsaps, cashier; L. P. Marshall, assistant cashier.

EDITOR OF POULTRY MAGAZINE PREDICTS DROP IN EGG PRICES

DALLAS, Feb. 13. (AP)—America is in a position for over production of eggs which may send the price to a low mark during the next few years, Paul Mandeville of Chicago, editor of the United States Egg and Poultry magazine, today told 400 delegates to the convention of the Texas Poultry, Butter and Egg association.

"Spring weather during the winter has been favorable to a large production of chickens, which will mean a larger production, possibly an over production of eggs during the next few years," he said. He added that the low price of pork and the high price of beef had done much to stimulate egg trading.

Clarence E. Gilmore of Austin, chairman of the Texas railroad commission was to deliver an address at the afternoon session and officers were to be nominated and the 1929 meeting place selected at a banquet tonight. The convention will extend through tomorrow.

EXTEND GOHLKE POOL HALF MILE TO NORTHWEST

With several hundred feet of oil in the hole from the sand at 1558 feet, the wildcat test of D. O. Johnson and associates, located in the northeast corner of subdivision 26, L. F. Wilson lands, Geraldine townsite, Archer county, is showing for a well. The test, in the event of making a producer, will mean an extension of over one-half mile to the northwest of the new Gohlke pool, uncovered by the F. H. Gohlke well in block 232, Parish lands, about 10 days ago. The pay, which was encountered at 1558 feet, was drilled to 1560.

COMMITTEE FRENCH CHAMBER AIMS AT U. S. OIL CONCERNS

PARIS, Feb. 13. (AP)—The report of the petroleum committee of the chamber of deputies on the organization of a petroleum commission to control importations into France, will recommend measures, which, in the opinion of the representatives of American petroleum interests here, will discriminate seriously against the Amelrean industries.

The object of these measures is supposed to be the development of refining in France with French capital, to the exclusion of any other, and restriction of imports to crude petroleum.

This bill is separate from the measure placing a duty of 12 francs a ton on crude petroleum, which will come up in the chamber tomorrow. There is less objection to the latter, because it merely changes the position of crude oil with reference to refined, and might make it profitable to import the crude product and refine it in France.

The bill setting up a practical monopoly in the sale of petroleum as amended by the report is considered a blow at the Standard Oil company and the Royal Dutch.

BLUE CURTAIN CLUB PLAYERS ARE GIVEN ESPECIAL MENTION

Mrs. Fay Yauger and Raymond Strong, members of the group of Blue Curtain Players who represented Wichita Falls Junior college at the first annual one-act play tournament of the Texas Junior College Forensic association at Gainesville Saturday and who won second place with their presentation, were given special mention by the judges of the contest, according to word received here Monday.

It was also reported that Wichita Falls received one vote of the three cast by the judges in the contest for first place. Judges in the finals were Francis W. Emerson of Sherman, Miss Ruby Walker of Denton and Miss Gladys Ray of Whitewright.

The play presented by the local group was "The Try Out" written by Miss Juanita Kinsey, who is director of all Blue Curtain productions. It was based on the story of just such a contest as the Gainesville one and was very cleverly worked out in verse form. Parts in the play were taken by Raymond Strong, Fay Yauger, Dorothy Reed, Pansy Mills and Weldon Carter. Miss Helen Grace Gould accompanied the players to Gainesville, taking the place of Miss Kinsey, who was unable to go. The contestants returned to Wichita Falls Sunday afternoon.

Weatherford Junior college won first place with "Helen of Troy" by Phillip Moeller, and third place was won by North Texas Agricultural college with "Suppressed Desires" by Susan Glaspell. Gainesville, Decatur Baptist and John Tarleton colleges were eliminated in the preliminary contests.

"The Try Out" was the only original play winning a place.

ROCKEFELLER IN RADIO ADDRESS WARNS AGAINST 'SHARP' BUSINESS DEALS

NEW YORK, Feb. 13. (AP)—John D. Rockefeller Jr., back from Washington where he testified in the senate's Teapot Dome investigation, warned of "sharp" business practices in a talk over the radio. He did not mention the oil industry.

Mr. Rockefeller, whose talk was broadcast by station WJZ, listed integrity, obedience to law, clean living and loyalty as the four fundamental qualities underlying character.

"Is there any one of them that can be omitted or ignored without hazarding continuing business success?" he asked. "It is true that money is often made by trickery and sharp practice, but successful business is not established on a foundation so shifting.

"Regretfully must we admit," he said, "that instances are not lacking of corporations and individuals who set themselves up as superior to law. But when condemned as they are sure to be in the court of public opinion, even the most worldly-minded is bound to ask himself 'Does it pay?' and to admit that no business can be permanently successful which is not law-abiding."

He touched on violation of the customs laws by the rich and disregard of the 18th amendment by those who felt it an infringement of their personal liberty. "Law is law," he continued, "whether it affects personal liberty, social well-being or business. So long as it remains the law of the land it should be obeyed. The alternative is anarchy."

BORAH URGED TO QUIZ CANDIDATES ABOUT "DRY" FUND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—The inquisitiveness of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, concerning the prohibition views of presidential candidates has brought him a suggestion that he ask also whether they would favor a $200,000,000 appropriation for "vigorous and faithful enforcement."

The suggestion has come from Representative Laguardia, Republican, New York, who advised the senator to demand positive and full answers from the candidates, and asked if it might not be well to "ascertain by real enforcement and the total cutting off of liquor supply whether or not the people of the country really want" prohibition.

Laguardia said the reason "prohibition is so popular in many of the dry states" is because "we have less than one half of one per cent enforcement." Picking out the senator's home state, Laguardia said he had been informed that liquor can be bought in every county in Idaho and added:

"It was not so very long ago that competition in your state was so keen that it resulted in a price war, bringing the cost of liquor from $14 a gallon down to $8."

The New Yorker complained that federal enforcement officers are not sufficient in number to do the job, observing that Idaho, Montana, and Utah, comprising one district, have 50 federal agents, or one to each 60,000 square miles.

"No wonder so many people vote dry in that section of the country," he said. "I am sure that your standing in the nation and congress as one of the foremost leaders of prohibition is such that you could easily prevail upon the treasury department to increase this personnel to 1660 good agents for Idaho alone and make that state as dry as you would desire to see the whole country. Personally, I doubt that 1660 men could do it, but it would give a good basis to figure the actual number of men required to enforce prohibition according to your formula in the rest of the states."

PIRACY IS REPORTED OFF COAST OF CHINA

SHANGHAI, Feb. 13. (AP)—The first piracy on the north coast of China in two years brought forth two Japanese warcraft to recapture Japanese merchantmen from the pirates.

The Japanese steamer Hirao Maru, outbound from Shanghai, encountered a steamer flying a Japanese flag accompanied by a Chinese junk near Haichow. The junk approached the Hirao Maru and as it neared the ship it was seen the junk was filled with pirates.

The pirates fired on the Japanese steamship, wounding the Japanese captain and killing one sailor. The Hirao Maru finally escaped and arrived at Tsingtao Sunday. The Japanese destroyer Tsubaki from Port Arthur and the gunboat Tsushima, from Tsingtao started on the trail of the pirates.

It was reported by wireless today that the Tsubaki recaptured the ship from the pirates near Haichow after severe fighting. The Japanese steamship was identified as the Haitsu Maru. It was presumed here that the vessel had been seized by the pirates. The fate of the ship's crew was not reported.

DOWNPOUR DELAYS ENDURANCE FLIGHT TO START TUESDAY

FORT WORTH, Feb. 13. (AP)—Prevented from taking off by rain and a muddy runway yesterday and this morning, Al Henley and Joe Hart, Oklahoma aviators, announced today that they will start the endurance flight tomorrow morning from the municipal airport here.

The plane in which they hope to set a new world's record for continuous flying was in perfect condition this morning, but the fliers felt that the runway had not dried sufficiently to take a chance of going up.

More than 2000 persons gathered at the municipal field yesterday morning in the hope of seeing the start of the endurance flight and just as the big plane was being passed for the start the rain began falling. Within a few minutes it was apparent that the flight would be delayed.

This morning there were but a hundred or more at the field. The fliers did not care to take a chance on a crack up, for the plane would have carried at least 525 gallons of gasoline and an accidently possibly would be serious.

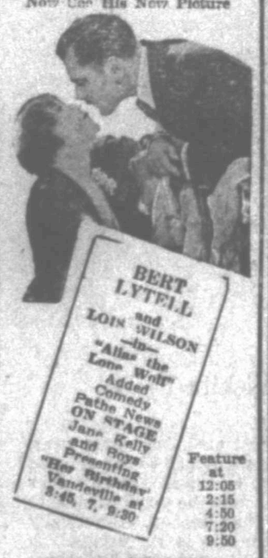

It is planned to make several test flights today, carrying sand to the weight of the gasoline. Everything will be in readiness for the take off early morrow morning, it was announced.

Nothing Better.
