Towering six-foot, seven inches, Michigan State University sophomore Chet Steiner measures the height of Jo Ellen Pyle, a mere six foot, two inch freshman on the campus at East Lansing, Mich. Jo Ellen was one of the many girls who answered Chet's newspaper advertisement saying he would like to meet some tall girls. He has averaged 10 calls a day. Some of the girls were curious, some angry, and others serious. He thought Jo Ellen might do if she stood on tip toe.

GOP Leader Sees More Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa said today Republicans intend to continue to "call attention to the failures, weakness and confusion" of Kennedy administration foreign policies.

Hickenlooper, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, accused the Democrats of glossing over the hemispheric danger presented by the Soviet military bastion in Cuba.

"The Republicans are not going to follow blindly a mistaken and troublesome policy," he said in an interview. "We intend to continue to call attention to the failures, weaknesses and confusion of recent policies. All you have to do is to look around the world to see something is wrong."

Although he did not couch it as such, the statements of Hickenlooper—senior GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee —obviously were made in answer to charges by Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., that Republicans were endangering free world unity by "divisive partisanship and irresponsible attacks on our nation's foreign policy."

Fulbright directed his criticisms in a weekend statement primarily toward New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa. Rockefeller and Goldwater are possible candidates for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

In a major defense of President Kennedy's policies, Fulbright assailed Rockefeller for the governor's assertion that the administration is to blame for "the present disarray within the Atlantic alliance."

Fulbright said Rockefeller and Goldwater were "professing sympathy and support for the disruptive policies" of the French government under President Charles de Gaulle.

Fulbright said Scott, a former Republican national chairman, was "even more intemperate" in saying that the administration is "neutral to its enemies, friendly to the neutralists and hostile to its friends."

"Aside from its factual inaccuracy," Fulbright said, "this kind of statement carries the sort of ugly insinuation which did so much to poison our political life a decade ago."

Hickenlooper challenged Fulbright's contention that the Democrats in Congress had helped rescue former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's international policies.

Instead, Hickenlooper said, the Democrats directed "violent criticism at a foreign policy that helped maintain a comparatively peaceful world."

Ship Pirates Are Ready To Surrender To Brazil

Venezuelans To Get Asylum

BELEM, Brazil (AP) — Under constant U.S. air and sea watch, the hijacked Venezuelan freighter Anzoategui was anchored in Brazilian waters today with her pro-Communist captors reported ready to surrender to Brazil.

A Brazilian government source said the ship will be taken into custody, but the government has indicated that the pro-Communists who seized the Anzoategui will be given asylum and not turned over to Venezuela.

Wilmar Medina Rojas, leader of the band that seized the ship on the high seas last week, was quoted by Havana radio as sending this message to Rio de Janeiro:

"We are anchored in the territorial waters of Brazil between the mouth of the River Amazon and Maraca Island. We are awaiting Brazilian authorities aboard. Signed, Wilmar Medina Rojas."

Maraca Island is about 300 miles northwest of Belem. The river Amazon flows into the sea near the northern tip of the island.

KEEPING WATCH
The naval base here earlier announced that Brazilian ships were keeping watch on the 3,127-ton freighter. Another destroyer, the Bertogio, was putting out from Belem on an ocean survey mission. The navy base said she could easily be diverted to the Anzoategui.

The Havana broadcast said two members of the Armed Forces for National Liberation (FALN) are en route to Recife, Brazil, to negotiate asylum for the hijackers.

The pre-Communist foes of the Venezuelan government seized the ship after she put to sea last week in an effort to embarrass President Romulo Betancourt, an enemy of Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

But the incident failed to accomplish one aim—to prevent his visit to the United States. Betancourt flew to San Juan, Puerto Rico, and will leave from there Tuesday for Washington.

The U.S. research vessel Gibbs, manned by civilians, is keeping a sea watch on the freighter 23 miles to the east, said an Associated Press dispatch from Paramaribo, in Surinam, Dutch Guiana.

The freighter anchored off the Brazilian island Sunday.

SMALL BOATS
Two small boats were seen to visit the freighter ship Sunday night, shortly after a tracking American plane saw the freighter stop suddenly deep in the water of the island.

In Washington, Edwin M. Martin, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, told a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee the ship was anchored just off the island.

The Pentagon fixed the position as 3,000 yards off shore.

Martin said the ship apparently had anchored to await what he called a pickup from Brazil and promised asylum in that country.

He said the freighter's captors evidently felt that they had accomplished their mission by reaching Brazilian waters and that there was no need to take the ship 300 miles farther to the Brazilian port of Belem.

The U.S. Defense Department said a tracking American plane saw the 3,127-ton freighter ship stop dead in the water suddenly off the Brazilian island about 7 p.m.

The island lies about 300 miles northwest of the Brazilian port of Belem, where the hijackers had indicated they might seek refuge.

NO IDENTITY
The report from the tracking plane gave no hint of the identity of people in the boats that appeared alongside the freighter.

Communist gunmen stowed away on the Anzoategui early last week and with the help of one or more members of the crew took over the ship Wednesday after it sailed from Venezuela for New Orleans, La., and Houston, Texas.

Although Fidel Castro's regime offered the hijackers asylum in Cuba, the ship was located Saturday off the northeast coast of South America. It appeared to be heading for Brazil, where Portuguese rebels who seized the liner Santa Maria in 1961 found asylum.

Venezuelan destroyers sped along the South American coast, trying to intercept the Anzoategui.

Badly Needed Rains Come To Wide Area

By The Associated Press

Drenching rains came Monday to farms and ranches over a wide area of South Central Texas where moisture was badly needed.

Rainfall up to 3 inches was gauged. It was general from Austin southward to the Texas border. Indications were other dry areas also would get moisture as rain clouds moved northward.

Campbellton (one word), south of San Antonio in Atascosa County and George West measured 3 inches. Other rainfall included: Boerne 1.8 inches; Kingsbury 2.04; San Antonio 2.50; Flatonia 1.65; Beaumont 1.94; Belmont 1.45; Luling 2.04; Yorktown 1.70; Dixon 2.38; Blanco 1.26; Columbus 2.10; Elgin 1.35; Taylor 1.37; New Braunfels 1.53; Rock Springs 1.43; Hutto 2; Whittsett 1.20; Imogene 2.50; Refugio 1.99; Laredo 1.90; Lometa 1.05; Crystal City 1.94; Pleasanton 2.75; and Hondo 1.57.

Ranchers in the Brownwood area were jubilant over a slow steady rain that set in Sunday night and continued through Monday morning.

There was an unconfirmed report of a twister being sighted early Monday in the Fairbank area north of Houston, but there were no reports of damage.

Heavy rain fell during the morning in the Beaumont area of the upper Texas coast. Good rains also fell at Galveston, Houston and College Station.

Several families left their homes along a section of Alazan Creek in San Antonio Monday as the heaviest rain in many months drenched Bexar County. The water rose sharply.

By 9 a.m. the Weather Bureau had recorded 2 1/2 inches of rain for San Antonio in 24 hours. Two wooden bridges across Alazan Creek were washed out by the rushing water.

By early this morning 55 barricades were up at San Antonio high water locations—most of them on the West Side.

There was fog before daybreak at Brownsville, Childress and Wichita Falls.

Five-day forecasts issued Monday called for light rain much of this week in North Central and Northeast Texas, and for somewhat less frequent showers in most other sections. Temperatures were expected to run near normal to a few degrees below.

Top marks Sunday afternoon ranged from 74 degrees at Brownsville down to 35 at Wichita Falls.

Last Contact

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP)—Ten scientists and 10 U.S. Navy men at Scott Amundsen South Pole station have had their last physical contact with the outside world for eight months.

The weather forecast indicated more showers possible this afternoon although the temperatures were to stay around the same through Tuesday.

Weekend rainfall reported at Texas Electric Service Co. stations showed: Switching Station (Big Spring) 45 of an inch; plant one inch, Chalk 40, Champion Creek (Colorado City) 30, Colorado City 11, Eskola 10, Sweetwater 27.

Other reports from the county indicated the rainfall for Howard County was fairly uniform. The Knott gin showed 25 of an inch, Brown Community 35, Lomax 25, Forsan 30, Ackery 25, Wilkinson Ranch 25, and Vealmoor 25.

Mrs. J. D. Gilmore reported 38 of an inch at Forsan Friday night, 26 of an inch Sunday night, totaling 64 of an inch in two showers. Snow amounted to four inches, or about 4 of an inch moisture, giving area about an inch, softening ground and causing water to run in bar ditches.

Mrs. Lenn Carter, Garden City, said the official gauge there was 31 of an inch Sunday. Lee's Store upward of half an inch, and Bigby Ranch west of town about half an inch.

The February moisture, in Big Spring, falling since the 9th, showed 62 of an inch, Feb. 11, 29; Feb. 10, 10; Feb. 15, 45; and Feb. 18, 15, including snows, has soaked into the ground. Some cars, getting off the pavement Monday morning, stalled and had to be pulled out.

Temperatures in the high fifties and sixties are forecast for the next two days, and the lows will be in the forties.

Lake J. B. Thomas gained no water from the showers. At the lake, the gauges showed only .15 inch precipitation.

HOW FAR DOES A HOUSEWIFE WALK?

Reporter Finds Out, And Now He's In The Doghouse

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—How far does a housewife walk during a normal day's work?

The question was bound to be asked during all this physical fitness business and 50-mile hikes.

"Oh, 15 at least," said Ted Sirmons, an Atlanta Constitution reporter. "My wife Pat is an average housewife—well, almost average—and to hear her tell it she does a good six or eight miles before lunch."

Simmons was talked into getting a pedometer or walking meter and finding out how much ground she covered during a normal day in a relatively small apartment occupied by themselves and their three children.

"I could tell she was worried right from the start," he wrote. "By 11 a.m. she had only done two and a half miles, and she insists she usually travels that far just trying to get me out of bed."

"As a matter of fact, she implied that I got up considerably more quickly than usual just to cut down on her mileage. This I denied."

Simmons checked the meter at noon and it registered two and three-quarter miles and Pat explained she'd been having a coffee break. At 2:30 p.m. the reporter left for the office. The meter read just over three miles.

"Anyway, the gist of it is, she fell considerably short of the 50-mile mark," he wrote. "I called about 10 p.m. from work to check again and she said: 'Six and a half miles, wise guy.'"

"Unfortunately I couldn't control the roar of laughter that followed. Unfortunate for me, that is."

"That's about the story. Sorry it didn't turn out as planned. Six and a half miles is pretty good in a small duplex, I guess."

"Anyway, I hope no one mentions physical fitness to me again soon. It's kind of hard to exercise in a doghouse."

Humphrey To Split JFK Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said today he will try to have the administration's tax cut and tax revision proposals taken up separately instead of as a package—a move which he said has drawn favorable response from President Kennedy.

Humphrey, assistant Democratic Senate leader from Minnesota, said in an interview: "as of now the tax program is in trouble."

He indicated the President may be willing to shoot only for tax cuts this year in the face of rising opposition to his tax program.

There have been calls from both sides of the partisan aisle for the administration to divorce its proposed $13.6-billion tax cut from the proposed tax revisions that would bring the government an estimated $3.4 billion a year.

Over the weekend critics labored the proposed tax cuts as being either too small to soup up the nation's economy or too inflationary unless offset by cuts in government spending.

Budget Director Kermit Gordon, who has contended that slicing the budget to match tax cuts would be self-defeating, carries the administration program before the tax writing House Ways and Means Committee today.

Humphrey said Kennedy coupled tax cuts with revision at the behest of the Treasury Department.

"This generated a flood of mail on Congress criticizing the tax reform proposal and sabotaging intelligent discussion of the impact on the economy of a tax cut," said Humphrey.

"It is my view that in the national interest we must above all, even at the sacrifice of tax reform, get a tax cut bill on the books this year."

Republican opposition to the administration program seemed to be hardening, with some Democratic assistance.

Rep. William Miller of New York, Republican national chairman, said in a Los Angeles interview Saturday: "We Republicans believe it is foolish and perfectly suicidal to grant tax reductions without reducing federal expenditures more than for space and missiles."

Youth Pushes Girl To Safety, Is Killed By Car

VENICE, Calif. (AP) — Police say David Brimley, 17, pushed his girl friend to safety when a speeding car bore down on them in a crosswalk Sunday. But he didn't have time to save himself, and was killed.

Officers estimated that the car was traveling 90 miles per hour. It ran a red light, police said, and hit another car before it caromed into Brimley.

Brimley was knocked 172 feet. Brimley's date, Paulette Lewis, 16, became hysterical.

After hitting Brimley, the vehicle crashed into two mail boxes and a street sign and knocked down a power pole.

Investigators reported that three young men leaped from the car and fled.

City, Area Get Rain

More showers Sunday night and Monday morning boosted Big Spring's total for February and for the year, to 1.01 inches of moisture. The precipitation through Saturday night had totaled .86 of an inch and 15 of an inch was added last night.

The weather forecast indicated more showers possible this afternoon although the temperatures were to stay around the same through Tuesday.

150 Expected Tonight For YMCA Banquet

Approximately 150 are expected for the formal dinner benefiting the YMCA this evening at Cosden Country Club.

Proceeds from the $100 a couple affair will go to the Y's sustaining division composed of supporters of the Y who make plus investments to help underwrite the work of the institution in the community.

Addressing the group will be John Ben Shepperd, Odessa attorney and former attorney general of Texas. Shepperd, much in demand as a speaker, has not been accepting engagements during the past two years because of a press of business, but he made an exception to help the local YMCA.

The black-tie event ranks as one of the major social occasions of the winter season.

Those attending will also be entertained by Linda and Kathy Mason, twin daughters of Maj. and Mrs. Willard A. Mason, who have a show-stopper in their act duplicating the Carol Burnett-Julie Andrews interpretation of "Big D."

Another package of musical dynamite—almost as explosive and unpredictable—will be the Slumtown Symphony from Lamesa. This aggregation, headed by Richard Crawley, starts out with ballads and Western hoedowns, but there's no telling where it will go from there. Included in the troupe which has become Lamesa's best known good-will spreaders are also Bob Crawley, irrigation supplies; Jack Sanjers, meat company operator; Jerry Bartley, teacher; Leon Brown, farm machinery parts manager; B.I.I. Butler, irrigation supplies; Mrs. Lavoy Miller, housewife; Henry Sellers, school choral director.

Shepperd is general counsel for Rodman & Noel interests of Odessa. He is a past president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and toured the Americas during his tenure, a past secretary of state for Texas, attorney general and served as president of the National Attorney General Associations. Currently he is on the Texas Industrial Commission and the state historical survey committee. Much of the resurgent historical interest in West Texas is due to his efforts.

R. H. Weaver, president of the YMCA, will preside. Arrangements and promotion of the dinner have been in charge of Raymond L. Tollett and Ralph McLaughlin. The Rev. Donald Hufferford, rector of the St. Mary's Episcopal Church, will read the prayers.

Balloon On Way To Launch Pad

A balloon train containing the giant tandem balloon that will lift a 36-inch reflector telescope some 80,000 feet to study the planet Mars moves past the telescope in its housing at the launch site in Palestine. Weather and high winds have delayed the balloon's flight for over a week. The project, being conducted by Princeton University and University of California scientists, seeks to determine if organic life exists on Mars. Launching time now is tentatively set for 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A reader has written, taking issue with some of these articles; and I wish to let him be heard through this column.

His thoughts and arguments are more or less typical, and I am glad for each reader to hear both sides, and weigh things for himself.

I am printing all of the letter except the salutations and personal references. The letter says: "From reading your article in the paper each day and reading other 'Church of Christ' literature, I find that you believe that members of other denominations will not be saved and that one must be a member of the 'Church of Christ.'"

The phrase "Church of Christ" is used by me only in the Bible sense. It means the church which belongs to Christ. It does not mean a denomination of any kind. It is the family, or house of God (1 Tim. 3:14, 15).

As the letter says further down, the true church of Christ is composed of all born again believers. That is why one must be a member of the church to be saved. No denomination is the true church of Christ. That is why one cannot be saved by substituting denominational membership for membership in the Lord's church.

Nation Is Mostly WarmBy The Associated Press
Fairly cold weather prevailed today across northern sections of the Midwest and New England but generally temperatures were at or above seasonal levels in most parts of the nation.

There were many wet spots but no severe storms were reported. Temperatures in New England and upstate New York moderated after Sunday morning subzero readings, including 21 below in Watertown, N.Y., which reported 58 inches of snow.

A fresh batch of cold air spread into northern parts of North Dakota and Minnesota and the mercury dropped to near zero in some areas. The cold belt was expected to extend into the upper Mississippi Valley and the upper Great Lakes region.

One freezing line extended from northern Maine to southern South Carolina, with some freezing marks also reported in northern Georgia and Tennessee. It also was freezing from the northern Plains and upper Mississippi Valley to the upper Great Lakes region.

Temperatures were mostly in the 20s and 30s in other sections of the country except for the 40s and 50s in the Pacific Coast and the 50s and 60s in extreme South-east areas.

Settlements Cause
Tax Men To Shudder

EDITORS—Why does the Internal Revenue Service seem content to settle the tax debt of a prominent person for a fraction of the claim against him? Do his abet and little fellow get equal treatment? Whitney Shoemaker, who covers The Associated Press, explores these questions in the following article.

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tax collectors shudder every time they read in the papers or hear on the air that the government settled a debt with a well-known personality for, say, 20 cents on the dollar.

From experience they know losers in past disputes with Uncle Sam will write letters demanding to know why this big shot got off for one-fifth when they had to pay something like one-half.

Angry taxpayers will stand up at meetings, denounce the government for compromising with wrongdoers and ask if honesty really pays.

Lawyers at the Internal Revenue Service insist there is no surrender. What really happened, they say, was that the government finally ascertained and accepted all it could expect if the case went through court.

"It is a false impression that we are giving away something and not getting all we are entitled to," says Rudy P. Hertzog, associate chief counsel at IRS.

"Who the taxpayer is, whether he is prominent or unknown, has absolutely nothing to do with it," puts in Leo Bardeheuer, assistant director of the appellate division.

Then why is there frequently such a difference between the amount the government asserts an individual owes in back taxes and penalties and the amount it eventually accepts?

Hertzog says it's mainly because in this kind of dispute IRS is unable to obtain sufficient data to derive an accurate figure. Sometimes it may result from a court decision modifying the law. But primarily, Hertzog contends, it's because available records are incomplete and the taxpayer or his attorney is unwilling until the case reaches the court stage to make a full disclosure.

Two Washington attorneys who are always on the other side in tax contests find themselves generally supporting the government's case. One says it puts an "unfair slant" on the tax collector's job to complain that he is settling for so much on the dollar.

Occasionally, this lawyer says, he has felt IRS entered some items in its bill "for trading purposes." He also expresses doubt the government suffers seriously

At Last—
A Dust Scale

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Well, they've finally invented it—a dust scale.

It has springs the size of a pinhead, made of glass-like substance. It can detect weight changes of a thousandth of a millionth of a gram and a gram is less than one-five hundredth of a pound.

On to the obvious question: why?

To measure cosmic dust. There is a lot of dust in space, much of it sub-microscopic. Scientists fear these clouds could scour a space ship enough to damage it. To understand the risk, they have to weigh the dust. So the government got Electro-Optical Systems Inc., of Pasadena, to invent the dust scale.

The only problem remaining is to get the scale to the dust. The space ship for it isn't ready yet.

Collision Kills
Four People

By The Associated Press

Four Wichita Falls residents died Sunday when a pickup truck and a trailer truck collided in fog near Wichita Falls. They were James Pittman, 27, a mechanic; Raymond Moody, 60, trucker, and Bobby Hawkins, 13.

Christi, Tex., a $3,405 case was settled without any payment when later evidence substantiated charitable contributions.

All these are settlements of disputed tax liability. In a different type of case, the government will compromise for a smaller amount when liability is undisputed if,

Hertzog says, "This is all we can reasonably hope to collect in the foreseeable future."

Thus a chap in California who owes $7,250 won a compromise for $1,800. He must pay $700 at once and the balance at $40 a month. His income is estimated at $500 a month.

Purcell Joins In Effort To Move Farm Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six members of the House Agriculture Committee have started a bipartisan move to expedite farm legislation.

Composed mainly of newer members of the committee, the group has invited colleagues to join their discussion meetings.

Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., one of the group, summed up their views and goals:

"We have a common objective in that we want to see measures enacted which we feel are good for agriculture, regardless of partisan politics."

"Some of us on the committee, both Democrats and Republicans, got to talking about the situation one day. We came up with the conclusion that too often a meritorious measure gets sidetracked if it's suddenly brought up for consideration and, rightly or wrongly, tagged as strictly an administration or a Republican bill."

Describing Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn., as a leader of his party in the effort, Purcell said they were not trying to bypass top Democrats and Republicans on the committee.

"We think we actually are in a position to help them and hope to do so," the Texan said. "We think that by talking over these measures among ourselves we can sometimes reach agreements which otherwise might be difficult if not impossible to reach."

Others in the informal group, Purcell said, include Reps. D. R. Matthews, D-Fla., Elliott Hagan, D-Ga., Don Short, R-N.D., and Paul Findley, R-Ill.

Communism Loses Major African Battle

By HANS BENEDICT
An AP News Analyst

VIENNA (AP)—Communism has lost a battle in Africa. The defeat will influence the future course of young nations on the Dark Continent.

The battle was lost in the minds of African students who went behind the Iron Curtain and found Communist talk about the equality of man only a lure.

They are coming back with the same accusation of racial discrimination they once hurled at their white colonial masters.

Ghanaians and Ethiopians left Communist Bulgaria last week. They led what may total an estimated 350-500 African students after a series of incidents which exploded into a violent protest demonstration in Sofia.

The Africans, most of them in their 20s, told of racial abuses, forced political indoctrination, police brutality, arrests and fear of deportation.

Bulgarian authorities hurriedly assured African and Western diplomats that the incidents were nothing serious.

But the young Africans, some of whom one day may guide the destinies of their nations, said an arrival in Vienna that they had learned a lesson.

Some had accepted scholarships because they sympathized with communism. Others went to get a free education. Whatever their political affiliations and motives, they all seemed to have been hit where it hurt most—their dignity as colored people.

"We categorically declare that there is more racial discrimination against Negroes under communism than there could be in a capitalist country," they said. "We have been insulted in every possible way—we were called black monkeys and jungle people and the people spat out before us."

Political indoctrination to spread communism in Africa through Africans, was a major part of their course of study, the students said. Lectures on Marxism-Leninism and Soviet and Bulgarian party history were compulsory.

African student organizations were banned while other national groups were allowed to organize. Africans in the Soviet Union have voiced similar grievances. Conditions in Hungary and Poland are reported better. No reliable information is available from Czechoslovakia, where large numbers of colored students are living, or from Romania.

Facilities at Sofia University and various provincial training centers were described as generally poor.

Labor Wants Quick Tax Cut

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Organized labor's high command indicated today it wants a broad quick tax cut to help solve the nation's unemployment problem rather than the gradual reduction proposed by President Kennedy.

Labor union chiefs here today for opening sessions of the AFL-CIO Executive Council said they were convinced Kennedy is right in pushing for a tax slash to help the economy, but wrong in the method he has advocated in Congress.

The union leaders are leaning increasingly toward the view the administration should plug for a tax cut that would favor lower bracket taxpayers retroactive to Jan. 1 and omit for the time being any accompanying reforms and loophole plugging.

Walter Reuther, an AFL-CIO vice president and head of the Auto Workers Union, called last weekend at a Washington news conference for a $10-billion annual tax cut implemented by the simple formula of granting every taxpayer a $153 weekly tax credit.

It was reported that AFL-CIO President George Meany is planning an alternative proposal, but pegged to the same idea of concentrating tax relief on the worker-taxpayer category.

Schools, Hospitals Show Effects Of Flu Spread

By The Associated Press

Some schools closed and hospitals in several cities suspended visiting hours today in a grim effort to slow the spread of influenza.

Pneumonia-influenza deaths continued above epidemic proportions for the fifth week in figures obtained from 108 cities by the communicable disease center of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Outbreaks of Asian type flu were confirmed in New York, Maryland, North Carolina, Kansas, Michigan and the District of Columbia.

A physician in Albany, N.Y., who recently visited Baltimore was the only confirmed case of Asian flu in upstate New York where at least seven schools closed for part of last week.

The health commission of Milwaukee, Dr. E. R. Krumbiegel, predicted an Asian flu outbreak would reach epidemic proportions in that city.

The Wood Veterans Administration hospital in Milwaukee ended all visiting hours until further notice after Director D. C. Firms estimated 75 cases of flu in the hospital compared with 26 the day before.

Visiting hours were suspended until further notice at Memphis, Tenn., city hospitals where more than 500 patients were treated for upper respiratory infections.

Dr. Glen M. Clark, chief of staff of the city hospitals, said many doctors were down with the infection. Other doctors and nurses gave up their weekends to treat long lines of patients in the emergency wards. Many of the victims were children.

At least 25 Memphis policemen were absent Sunday with respiratory infection and several firemen were ill. Flu cases were on the increase in other portions of Tennessee, but still under normal levels.

Dunn Case Could Have Wide Effect

PECOS (AP)—A legal fight that started as a local squabble between Dr. John Paul Dunn and the Reeves County Hospital board could become a precedent setting case defining the powers of county hospital boards throughout Texas.

Dunn was denied a temporary injunction Saturday. It would have forced his reinstatement to the only hospital in the county. His lawyers gave notice of appeal to the state's 8th District of Civil Appeals in El Paso.

Dist. Judge W. E. Ward said, in denying the injunction, that the case was complicated and that legal precedents in Texas were limited and subject to conflicting interpretation.

The principal issue revolved around the definition of powers the Texas Legislature granted to county hospital boards.

Counsel for the Pecos hospital argued last weekend that the board held broad powers and its decision was not subject to judicial review. They also contended that instead of seeking relief in the courts, Dunn should apply to the legislature for a change in the statutes which created the hospital boards.

Dunn's lawyers, who claimed the physician did not receive a fair and impartial hearing from the board, contended the legislature did not empower hospital board "to bypass due process of law" in determining and administering the standards of physicians who practice in a publicly owned hospital.

Dunn, a member of the hospital's medical staff for eight years, was notified by letter Jan. 2 that he was not being reappointed. After a series of legal moves, the board held a hearing of his case and announced it was sticking to its decision. The request for a temporary injunction followed.

More than two days of testimony reflected a bitter fight between Dunn and the board which has split many residents of this West Texas city of 15,000 into opposing camps.

During the legal fight, Dunn was allowed to continue treating patients in the hospital. After Saturday's ruling, hospital authorities said he would be denied the use of its facilities when his present patients are dismissed.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to satisfy everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Actually, there are at least 18 scalp conditions that can cause hair loss. No matter which one is the cause of your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair (or at least some fuzz) on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to act.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered promptly, by mail and without obligation. —Adv.

KAY MCGIBBON

Kay McGibbon Picked As Yearbook Beauty At SMU

One of ten Southern Methodist University co-eds to be honored as a Rotunda Beauty, with a page picture in the student annual for 1963, is Kay McGibbon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. McGibbon of Big Spring.

The Rotunda Beauties were announced in a surprise presentation at the Rotunda Ball in the SMU student center ballroom Saturday night. The honored girls were presented bouquets as they appeared before the crowd.

Miss McGibbon is a senior at SMU and in the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She has been active in music activities on the campus.

Before transferring to SMU, she was at Indiana University, where she was an ROTC sweetheart for 10 universities in the Midwest.

She was a popular figure in Big Spring High School, having been a member of the Student Council, in the F.H.A., Tri-Hi-Y, the Court Jesters and in the Latin Club, and one of the student cheerleaders. She was a Key Club Sweetheart. Miss McGibbon recently was cited by her sorority for scholastic standing.

Southern Belle Is Handsome Hillbilly

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Donna Douglas has such beautiful teeth that it's not surprising she began her career as a model for toothpaste ads. But she has not taken her gift for granted. She brushes her teeth after every meal.

"My dentist said that it's the best assurance there are no food particles left around the gums," Donna explained.

Donna is from the South and the day we met for lunch, she was dressed in pink with a soft ruffle around her throat.

"We are taught in the South not to compete with men. They like to place women on a pedestal of femininity. I think it's much nicer to get what you want with charm than to demand it."

Donna is in CBS-TV's fall series, "The Beverly Hillbillies," and she put herself on a diet before beginning the role.

"In Louisiana we eat lots of fried foods cooked with bacon grease and hot biscuits with jam, and these are some of the foods that send up the calories. I have had a struggle to change my eating habits," Donna confessed. "If you don't avoid foods that make you gain, you'll be eating your weight back as fast as you take it off."

Donna is a natural blonde, but for TV she lightens it slightly. It is beautiful and shiny, and I wanted to know how she takes care of it.

"I spent a fortune trying to find a routine that would keep my hair healthy. With fashion you can try on something and if it doesn't suit you, you don't have to buy it. But with cosmetics and shampoos you are stuck if what you have bought is not what you want. I use a protein shampoo, a cream heating cap and a fortifying rinse. I'll be glad to pass this information on to anyone who wants to write me because I am sold on what these products do to rebuild the hair shaft."

Brandt Wins Berlin Vote

BERLIN (AP)—West Berliners gave their Socialist mayor, Willy Brandt, a smashing vote of confidence Sunday in their first municipal election since the Communists built their Berlin wall.

Brandt's anti-Communist Socialists won 89 of the 140 seats in the city's new Parliament. They had 77 deputies in the 133-seat house elected four years ago.

West Berlin's small Communist party, never represented in Parliament, lost a third of its popular vote. This was blamed largely on the wall. The Communist vote declined from 31,570 in 1959 to 20,887 ballots. In percentage of the total votes, they decreased from 19 to 13 per cent.

The Christian Democrats, led by Franz Arnheim, deputy mayor in Brandt's coalition government of Socialists and Christian Democrats, won 41 seats, a drop of 14. They lost over 160,000 votes.

The Free Democrats, not represented in the old house, doubled their strength and entered the new city Parliament with 10 deputies. Political observers agreed that the city election outcome gave no new key to the West German political situation. Berlin, like most big German cities, is a traditional Socialist stronghold. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party is strong in small towns and rural areas. The Christian Democrats are largely a Roman Catholic party.

Another Cuban Blockade Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., says another blockade of Cuba may be necessary if Soviet troops on the Caribbean island cannot be forced out by economic pressure or other means.

Republican National Chairman William Miller says the Kennedy administration should consider reimposing the naval quarantine that led to removal of Soviet bombers and missiles from Cuba late last year.

These views and a welter of other congressional opinion about Cuba came in a series of statements and television interviews over the weekend. The consensus from members of both parties was that Communist subversion in Latin America is a bigger problem than the Soviet troops in Cuba.

Stennis said in a television interview that steps to combat the Soviet position in Cuba should include "first, economic pressure, and getting the Organization of American States to cooperate on that as far as they will. And I think unless we get results otherwise we will be driven to a blockade and one step will have to follow another unless results are obtained."

Miller, a House member from New York, said in another television interview that in addition to considering reimposition of the naval quarantine the government should work with the OAS to place economic sanctions against Cuba. In other developments:

The House subcommittee on Interamerican Affairs begins hearings today on Communist subversion in Latin America. Assistant Secretary of State Edward M. Martin was scheduled as the first witness.

The Senate International Affairs subcommittee hears today from Paul G. Hoffman about a U.N. special fund grant of $1.5 million in agricultural assistance for Cuba. Hoffman is American manager of the U.N. fund. President Kennedy has said no U.S. money will go into the project.

Concern over the spread of Communist subversive activities in Latin America—and the role played by Soviet troops in Cuba—was again voiced by Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y.

In a television interview prepared for New York stations, Keating said "these activities can kill the already faltering Alliance for Progress program, dry up private investment in Latin America, topple governments, and doom plans for long-term economic development and stability."

"We cannot meet this danger by firing missiles or invading Cuba. But if we do not meet it in other ways, we shall see one country after another fall victim to communism."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said in a statement that "the battle is on" for control of Venezuela and that President Romulo Betancourt should be assured that the United States will not tolerate any attack on his country.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a television interview said Cuba is "extremely important" politically, but I do not regard Cuba, as such, as a threat to the physical security of this country or any other country in the hemisphere."

Trees For Airport Entrance

Unfavorable weather for outside work this morning turned out to be ideal weather for transplanting trees as county employees began the work of beautifying Howard County Airport. Twenty-five Chinese elms donated by the U.S. Experimental Station were planted along the entrance road to the airport. They were obtained through the air transportation committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Shown planting one of the trees are, left to right, Harold Gilmore, Ernest Wallace, Cecil Hart, Harvin Hart and Clifford Hart.

President Forces Leadership Into Light

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the give and take of a fast-moving news conference President Kennedy sometimes crashes through the careful restraints worked out by his official advisers and voices in loud, clear words some hard truth of international relations they would prefer to soft pedal.

In the last few days under the stress of question and answer the President has thus thrown the insight of sharp understanding on one of the problems involved in the present disarray of the Western Alliance. This is the problem of U.S. leadership.

It arises in many different contexts and it appears to be much on the President's mind. A little more than six weeks ago in a year-end review of his administration he stressed the need to get things done even at the cost of disagreement and unhappiness in friendly camps.

U.S. SADDLED

He does not conceive of the United States as being in a popularity contest. He sees it in today's dangerous world as saddled with a lonely responsibility to see that the necessary things get done at the right time and in the right way to save the world from nuclear destruction and from Communist conquest.

The problem as Kennedy sees it—the problem which is at the core of his differences with French President Charles de Gaulle—came clear in a few flashing phrases at his news conference last Thursday. Kennedy was talking about creation of a nuclear force under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Missiles with nuclear warheads may have to be fired on five minutes notice, he said, and the decision to fire may have to be almost instantaneous.

AUTHORITY

"Who is going to be delegated on behalf of Europe to make this judgment?" the President asked. "Someone has to be delegated with that authority."

"If it isn't the president of the United States it will have to be the president of France or the prime minister of Great Britain, or someone else."

His remark appears to have been more generous than practical. It does not appear to be possible that the total and final control over nuclear forces almost entirely supplied by the United States would be handed over to the chief of a foreign government.

The issue which the President therefore sharply posed is the issue of American leadership. In the present state of international affairs it is essential to the question of whether the Allies now, in changing circumstances, will accept that leadership as a more or less permanent, more or less decisive arrangement.

LESS AUTHORITY

So long as the United States has a clear monopoly of atomic power it was in position to make its will felt not only in the military but in other fields of foreign policy.

With the postwar growth of economic prosperity in Western Europe, with the rise of Soviet nuclear weapons capacity, with the development of limited nuclear power in Britain and the less advanced production of such might in France, the forces which once placed the leadership of the United States beyond contest by any of the Allies have given way to an entirely different set of policy influences.

These have given De Gaulle his opportunity to chart a different course for France based on French prosperity in a profitable European economy and French nuclear power sufficient to nourish dreams of new glory.

FRUSTRATING

What Kennedy seems to find frustrating and annoying and sometimes frightening is that, underlying the changes in national well-being and in the conditions of nuclear power, the stark facts of the power balance which really count are the same.

At this level of international relations there is still only the United States and the Soviet Union; the decisive power to survive or perish still rests in the Kremlin and the White House.

The problem is not so difficult for Soviet Premier Khrushchev because his international relations rest on a system of central control and his allies are satellites or else they break away completely.

For Kennedy the task of exerting leadership and expressing it in permanent organizations among allies is extremely complicated and sometimes very delicate. The Western Alliance is built of nations which subscribe to democratic ideas of free choice and voluntary association. They do not cheerfully accept leadership bordering on dictation except under great outside stress and danger.

WIDEST POWERS

For Kennedy, one need is to obtain the maximum powers of leadership he requires for the military safety of the West. For men like Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, who see the realities about the same way Kennedy sees them, the problem is to go along enough without appearing to abandon national independence.

For De Gaulle, the problem is simply to set up a rival concept and different system and try to establish a leadership of his own.

De Gaulle certainly knows that if final authority for the firing of nuclear weapons in some great emergency must be given to one man, it will not be a French figure which is the trigger.

A committee of NATO presidents and premiers could be created to work out guidelines of conditions under which nuclear weapons might be used. But even here, the ultimate authority of the President would have to be accepted because only he controls the massive resources to be effective.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today by a 5-4 vote that two acts of Congress which strip citizenship from persons who stay abroad in wartime to avoid military service.

The court majority said the two acts failed to provide procedural safeguards which the Constitution demands, and therefore they could not stand.

Justice Goldberg delivered the majority opinion. Justice Harlan dissented in an opinion in which Justice Clark joined.

The high court majority reasoned that the two acts amounted to "punishment" by withdrawal of citizenship. They declared that punishment can never be constitutionally imposed except after a criminal trial and conviction.

Justice Goldberg's opinion explained: "What we hold is only that, in keeping with cherished tradition, punishment cannot be imposed without due process of law. Any lesser holding would ignore the constitutional mandate upon which our essential liberties depend."

Goldberg said the majority recognized that draft evasion, particularly in time of war, "is a heinous offense and should and can be properly punished."

"Dating back to Magna Carta," he added, "it has been an abiding principle governing the lives of civilized men that no free man shall be taken or imprisoned or disseised or outlawed or exiled... without the judgment of his peers or by the law of the land."

One of the statutes involved is a section of the 1940 Nationality Act calling for loss of nationality by draft evaders who leave the country. The other is a section of the 1952 McCarran Immigration Act which says a native loses his citizenship by remaining outside the United States to evade military service during wartime.

The court ruled on two appeals by the Justice Department from decisions by lower tribunals that Congress lacked authority to deprive Americans of citizenship in two cases.

One case involved Dr. Joseph Cort, a physician born in 1927 in Boston, Mass. He went abroad in 1951 and eventually settled in Communist Czechoslovakia. The other case involved Francisco Mendoza-Martinez of Delano, Calif., who went to Mexico in 1942, admittedly to avoid military service.

Goldberg, reviewing the legislative and judicial history involved in the two cases, said the court majority concluded that Congress by the two sections "decreed an initial punishment for the crime of draft avoidance in the special category of cases where in the event leaves the country. It cannot do this without providing the safeguards which must attend a criminal prosecution."

Justices Douglas and Black, adhering to the majority view, noted that they felt that Congress has no power to deprive a native-born person of citizenship.

Justice Stewart, in his dissent, said it was clear to him that the punitive intention of the laws "are far overbalanced by the fact that this legislation dealt with a problem of wartime morale reaching far beyond concern for any individual affected."

Justice Harlan said in his dissent that he couldn't agree with the facts that were presumed in this case.

C. J. Clark, manager of the Montgomery Ward Store, this morning said he had not heard of any plans for a further demonstration. All employees are on the job as usual, he added.

Ike Is Linked To Guatemala Red Overthrow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Thurston B. Morton has linked former President Dwight D. Eisenhower with plans for the 1954 overthrow of the pro-Communist government of Guatemala. And he says Eisenhower was ready to make sure it succeeded.

Morton, a Kentucky Republican, was assistant secretary of state for congressional relations when Guatemala was invaded by anti-Communists. He quoted Eisenhower as asking when the attack plans were made: "Are you sure this is going to succeed?"

After being assured that it would, Morton said, Eisenhower responded: "I'm prepared to take any steps that are necessary to see that it succeeds. For if it succeeds it's the people of Guatemala throwing off the yoke of communism. If it fails, the flag of the United States has failed."

Morton's comments were made Friday at a Republican dinner in Baltimore. Film clips of his statement on Guatemala were shown Sunday on a television news program.

Eisenhower was not available for comment.

There has been widespread acceptance in the past of the thesis that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency played a role in ousting the leftist regime of former Guatemalan President Jacobo Arben Guzman.

No Foreign Ship Authority

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court decided today the National Labor Relations Board has no jurisdiction over labor relations on foreign flag ships employed along seamen and calling at U.S. ports.

Justice Clark delivered the 5-0 decision.

The Justice Department and the Labor Board took opposite stands on the board's authority in arguments before the high tribunal.

Solicitor General Archibald Cox said it was the considered belief of the executive branch of the government that to permit board jurisdiction over foreign-flag ships would embarrass the United States in its international relations.

Dr. Ruilman Calls Hospital Test Success

HOUSTON (AP)—The director of state mental hospitals said today a state-sponsored experiment treating certain mental patients in their own home towns instead of state mental hospitals has proved successful.

Dr. C. J. Ruilman of Austin told the Houston Chronicle the experiment is due to be expanded. He said it was initiated less than a year ago at El Paso.

He said patients whose illness could be treated with short hospital care or on an out-patient basis were handled by El Paso psychiatrists in hospitals.

The El Paso Hospital District furnished the beds, nursing care, medicine and out-patient clinic space and the state provided psychiatrists' fees, Ruilman said.

He said as a result only 97 patients from El Paso were admitted to the state's Big Spring mental hospital over a seven-month period last year.

"Normally, we would have expected at least 324 patients from El Paso," he said.

"And we don't know yet how many we have saved from long-term hospitalization by prompt treatment in their own communities, where they could stay with families and continue work," he added.

Test Ban Plan Is Unacceptable

GENEVA (AP)—The chief American disarmament negotiator said today Soviet Premier Khrushchev's nuclear test ban inspection proposal has taken on the form of an ultimatum and is unacceptable to the United States.

William C. Foster said the United States welcomed Khrushchev's offer to allow two or three on-site inspections per year as showing a genuine desire to move toward a test ban agreement.

"We did not assume the number mentioned by Chairman Khrushchev to be an ultimatum which the United States had no choice but to accept," Foster told the 17-nation disarmament conference.

The United States and Britain demand eight to ten inspections per year as a minimum for an adequately safeguarded treaty.

Foster said the United States "evaluated the Soviet offer of two or three on-site inspections as evidence of a real willingness to open negotiations designed to reach an effective test ban agreement."

"It was, therefore, a very real surprise when we were told literally that the Soviet Union would not negotiate on the question of numbers above two or three."

The frozen Soviet position "has shaken our belief that the Soviet Union really desires agreement," Foster said.

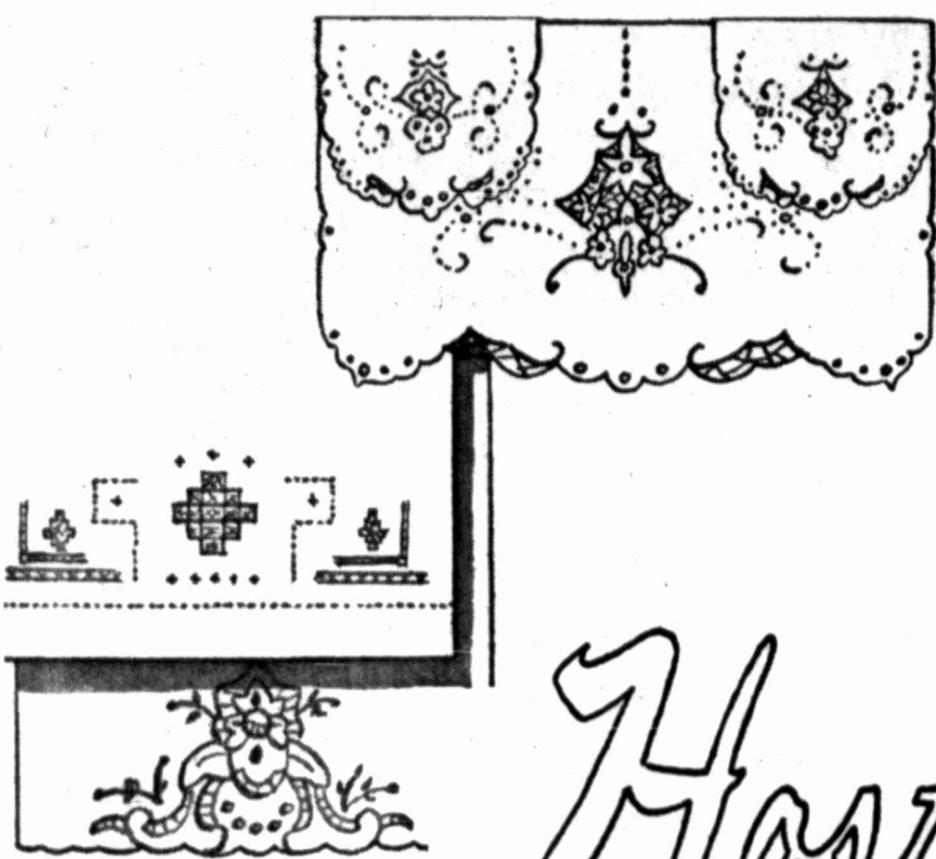

Foster told Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov that on-site inspections would not interfere with normal activities in the inspected country and would include complete safeguards against espionage.

He called on Kuznetsov again to discuss details of the inspection procedure. Kuznetsov has refused to negotiate on these details unless the Western powers first accept the two or three inspection quota.

Polls Say Fidel Not So Popular

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. policymakers have poll results which they say indicate Fidel Castro is unpopular in Latin America. Outside of Cuba, they say, many rural people have never even heard of the Red premier.

The polls, received by the U.S. Information Agency, were mentioned by President Kennedy last week at his news conference.

Kennedy saw subversion—both from Cuba and from local Communists unconnected with Castro—as the biggest present threat to the Americas, more serious than the military buildup in Cuba.

U.S. Information Agency officials said:

1. One survey taken in a Latin American country late last year after the Cuban crisis showed 45 per cent of the campesinos—country folk—were unable to identify Castro.
2. Of those in this survey who had heard of Castro, 63 per cent had a poor opinion of him.
3. In a series of polls in seven

Latin-American nations over a two-year period Castro never got endorsement from more than 15 per cent of the people polled.

4. In the same countries more than 50 per cent of those polled expressed a bad, or very bad, opinion of Castro.

5. In two Latin-American cities polls showed the ratio of unfavorable opinion toward Castro, as against favorable opinion, tripled between 1961 and late 1962.

The names of the countries where the surveys were made were withheld by USIA on grounds that the local polltaking organizations and their governments would be embarrassed by such a disclosure.

Kennedy cited USIA polls in his 1960 campaign contention that America's prestige abroad had fallen under Republican leadership. USIA says it uses the surveys to decide how it should aim its overseas propaganda most effectively.

The President said he had been able to speak "with some confidence of the reduction in Castro's standing" because of the results of these studies.

"We have to wait and see both what our prestige is abroad and at home when we get clearer ideas in the next two years," he said.

DEAR ABBY

So Animals Can Count!

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the cat who won't eat meat on Friday. It's no mystery. Animals can count. If an animal is used to getting fish every seventh day, he is puzzled and uneasy if he doesn't get it. When my mother was a girl, she had a pony who knew when it was Sunday. Every other day the pony would take the road to school, but on Sundays the pony would head right for the church. Cows can count, too. Otherwise, when a herd enters the barn, no matter in which order they come in, why does each cow go to her own stall?

DEAR ABBY: As a former teacher and college dean, may I add a few words to the young man whose father refused to regard D as a passing grade.

Though systems differ, D usually means "passing but unsatisfactory." A former Dean of Admissions at Harvard summed it up well. "D means 'just got by.' How would you like to eat an egg that 'just got by'?" Sincerely,
John V. D. Southworth

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old son seems to be obsessed with those smutty girlie magazines (pictures of women) and I can't do anything about it. I have found them hidden under his mattress, in his closet and almost everywhere I look. I keep throwing them away, but he keeps buying more. Is this typical of a normal 15-year-old boy's behavior, or is he headed for trouble?

PALO ALTO
DEAR PALO: All normal 15-year-old boys have a normal curiosity, but your son's curiosity appears to be insatiable. He should be talked to by his father. If he has none, a mature, clean-thinking, intelligent, adult man could relieve the boy's curiosity by encouraging him to ask questions, and freely discussing his fascination with the opposite sex. Excessive preoccupation with sex can be damaging.

AF Claims Good Launch

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force says the first silo launching of its big Titan 2 was a partial success—despite the fact that it exploded in the sky and chunks of flaming debris showered down on the base below.

Most of the shattered parts fell into the sea, but some small pieces, blown by the wind, sent newsmen and civilian contractors scurrying after the missile destroyed itself Saturday. No one was injured.

The Titan 2 blew up 56 seconds after launch, at an altitude of 18,000 feet. An Air Force spokesman said the Titan blew itself up—apparently because an automatic signal in its guidance system indicated a malfunction somewhere aboard.

It was the first time the Titan 2, this nation's most powerful intercontinental missile, was fired from its bombproof, underground silo.

Sea Mystery Is Written In Total Silence

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—The SS Marine Sulphur Queen's mystery of the sea was written in total silence.

The complete radio silence is the most baffling puzzle involved in the disappearance of the 523-foot tanker that left Beaumont Feb. 2 on a routine, five-day run to Norfolk.

Not one word has been heard from the Sulphur Queen and her 29 crewmen since Feb. 2. Yet the former wartime T2 tanker carried two high frequency radio transmitters with emergency batteries. She also had a radio telephone.

"The radio silence is the thing that's got me stopped," said David Pike, 33, the regular second mate who passed up the Sulphur Queen's 64th run between the Gulf and Atlantic coasts to take a two-month vacation.

NOT DANGEROUS
The Sulphur Queen carried 15,000 tons of molten sulphur, but that was not considered dangerous.

She passed two recent inspections. The Coast Guard pronounced her in good shape.

The Sulphur Queen's master, Capt. J. V. Fanning of Beaumont, was a seasoned mariner of 30 years.

The Coast Guard says at least 21 ships should have passed the Queen on her trip across the Gulf of Mexico, around the Florida Keys, and up the Atlantic Coast. Yet search planes that flew more than 500 hours over Gulf and Atlantic waters found no trace of debris, oil slick, nor flotsam.

The Coast Guard formally called off its active search for the tanker Wednesday night, 11 days after the Queen left Beaumont. An inquiry will start Monday at Beaumont.

CLINGS TO HOPE
The Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. clings to hope the vessel and the 29 men from 14 states still will be found.

"There appears to be no reason for the vessel to have sunk, especially without distress communications," the Houston firm said. "The cargo of molten sulphur is not hazardous."

The Sulphur Queen was built in 1944 as the Esso New Haven, a wartime oil tanker. The Marine Transport Lines of New York bought her in mid-1960 and had her converted into a sulphur carrier.

In January, 1961, the Queen, under a long-term contract with Texas Gulf Sulphur, was put into service as the first ocean-going vessel in the sulphur industry devoted exclusively to the transport of molten sulphur.

LITTLE SERIOUS
Her first 63 voyages were completed with nothing more serious than a bit of generator trouble. She delivered more than 926,000 tons of sulphur to Baltimore, Tampa, Jacksonville, Fla., Savannah, Norfolk and Carteret, N.J.

After a couple of wartime tankers broke in two, all the T2s were drydocked and strengthened with metal straps across their decks and hulls.

Pike recalls that the Queen was being converted in Baltimore when another T2, the Pine Ridge, broke in two off Cape Hatteras late in 1960 with the loss of seven men.

"Because of that, extra strengthening was built into the Sulphur Queen in addition to the metal straps," he said. "The Queen is a good-riding ship." The Queen actually was an ocean-going pioneer in the transportation of molten sulphur. As late as 1959, only 15 per cent of the nation's elemental sulphur was delivered in molten form. It is estimated over 75 per cent was delivered that way last year.

LIQUID SULPHUR
Texas Gulf mines its sulphur by pumping boiling water into its sulphur wells along the upper Texas Coast. The water melts the sulphur and it is pumped to the surface in liquid form.

The Sulphur Queen had four separate insulated cargo tanks. For sulphur to remain fluid, it must be kept at a temperature of about 275 degrees. The Queen's tanks were steam-heated by means of internal pipe coils fed by two boilers capable of producing 32,000 pounds of steam per hour.

The peculiar physical characteristics of sulphur require a constant temperature, below 240 degrees the sulphur begins to solidify and above 320 degrees it becomes sticky.

Merchant ships do not have to report regularly and no serious concern for the Sulphur Queen was made public until Feb. 8.

NORMAL ACTION
Normal procedure called for her to radio her estimated time of arrival at Norfolk 48 hours ahead and again 24 hours before making port.

"Neither message was sent by the Sulphur Queen," said Coast Guard Lt. Richard Wescott at Portsmouth, Va.

An all-ships broadcast seeking any word about the tanker went out the night of Feb. 7. Early theories indicated the tanker had run into foul weather and been forced off course. Her Gulf path was known to have had winds of 25 knots. Her Atlantic course had winds of 40 knots and seas 14 feet high.

"There was some bad weather along her route," Wescott said Feb. 8, "but there is no real reason to fear any disaster."

There was later speculation the Queen developed complete power failure and was drifting helplessly, waiting for a ship or plane to spot her.

There was some fear she had drifted into Cuban waters, but the Cuban government said it knew nothing of the tanker's whereabouts.

WIDE RANGE
Search planes ranged as far south as Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula and as far east as 400 miles over the Atlantic.

The search covered 23,000 square miles and produced no clues.

"We're undoubtedly looking for the remains of a sea disaster," the Coast Guard said on Feb. 12.

Rain Contributes To Death Tally

By The Associated Press

Streets and highways slippery from rain contributed to a week-end toll of 18 violent deaths in Texas.

Fourteen persons died in traffic accidents. Seven of these fatalities were attributed to the weather.

A Devotional For The Day

God shows his love for us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us. (Romans 5:8, RSV.)
PRAYER: O Lord, we pray that by the merits and death of Thy son Jesus Christ, and through faith in Him, we may obtain forgiveness of our sins and all over benefits of His Passion. Amen.

The Four Freedoms

Under the slogan "Help to Plant the Seeds of Freedom," the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa. is launching its 1963 freedoms roll-call. Emphasis this year is on seeking to encourage parents to impress on their children the basic freedoms of this nation. To this end, parents are asked to write to the foundation and request a copy of Freedom's Handbook, making a contribution if possible, as a guide for teaching heritages of the nation.

Those who don't do this have resort to a basic source—the Constitution of the United States of America, and more particularly the First Amendment.

This spells out our four basic freedoms—Freedom of Religion, Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Press, and Freedom of Assembly and Petition.

Now there are many other rights detailed in subsequent amendments of the Bill of Rights—rights such as those to bear arms, to be secure from search and seizure or from loss of property without due process of law; the right to be notified by indictment before being tried and to be confronted by accusers, compel witnesses to testify for the defense, to have legal counsel; the right to a fair and speedy trial by jury; the right to reasonable bail; the right of citizenship, etc. These rights, in the main, simply secure our freedoms, and without the freedoms we couldn't keep the rights.

Freedom is something that people have, or they don't have. When we go to pinching it, we risk cutting off its circulation.

Odious Mystery Of Ulbricht

The case of Karl-Heinz Bartsch is triply embarrassing to Walter Ulbricht's fumble-fingered Red regime in East Germany.

East Germany which carried out no denazification program after World War II, recently has been savagely attacking the deficiencies of West Germany's admittedly less than thorough effort at permanently purging former Hitlerites from leadership posts. But Bartsch, appointed to head up a drive to get East Germany's Communist farm system off dead center, turned out to be a former Nazi SS volunteer. His case is reminiscent of the exposure four years ago of a member of the East German Communist Party Central Committee as a former SS guard in a Nazi concentration camp.

The Bartsch incident, in one fell swoop, discredits Ulbricht's propaganda against the Adenauer government in West Germany, throws the farm program modeled on Khrushchev's Soviet plan into confusion and makes a mockery of communism's claim to being the antithesis to fascism, not to mention its overblown reputation for internal-security intelligence.

This ironic incident is hardly calculated to help Khrushchev's prestige in his struggle to sustain personal control of the worldwide Communist movement. And it deepens the mystery as to why Khrushchev continues to tolerate such a wood-headed puppet in control of strategic East Germany.

The nearly universally despised Ulbricht is becoming such a liability to Khrushchev as to be something of an asset to the West. Why his head has not fallen by now is an intriguing enigma of communism's intraparty politics.

David Lawrence Paying The Bill, Getting Nothing

WASHINGTON—The United Nations has reached a turning point in its history. Sentiment in the United States for withdrawal from the international organization has just been given strong new impetus. For the American people will be asked through Congress to decide whether taxpayers' money shall be channeled into Cuba through the U.N. to help Castro maintain his inhumane regime. Hundreds of innocent persons have been executed by the gangster government in Havana, yet the U.N. puts its stamp of approval on such a government by furnishing funds to sustain the domestic position of a cruel dictator.

DEMOCRATS AS WELL as Republicans have denounced the U.N.'s action on the floor of Congress.

The point is made by President Kennedy that none of the money to be spent in Cuba will come directly from the funds furnished by the United States. But funds can always be redistributed or reallocated to achieve a political objective. The fact remains that the American government is paying a large share of the expenses of the U.N., and it is no secret that the United States is trying to help liberate the people of Cuba by putting the squeeze on the island's economy. When the U.N. flagrantly ignores the policy of the United States, it brings up the broad question of whether financial aid by American taxpayers shall be extended blindly and without any opportunity to keep the funds from being used to defeat the foreign policy of this country.

U.N. OFFICIALS argue that they are not interfering in the internal politics of Cuba. But, realistically, anything that bolsters the Cuban economy is an intervention, especially at a moment when the United States is trying, by means of a shipping boycott, to weaken the Castro government and bring about its downfall. It will be said that the United States cannot expect to influence the actions of an international organization in which it has only one vote. But neither is the American government obligated to supply money for an organization whose projects run counter to American foreign policy.

THE U.N. HAS BEEN in deep financial trouble lately, and this country has helped out by paying for more than its share of the expenses of the organization. Congress, however—and not the State Department or the White House—has the final say as to how the taxpayers' money shall be loaned or given away. The U.N. bond issue had a tough time getting through Congress last year, and there are renewed expressions of doubt now.

'NOTICE HOW HE WAGS HIS TAIL'

James Marlow The Factions And The Actions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Factions seem to have gotten off the ground in Washington except the Republicans' attack on the Kennedy administration's handling of foreign policy, particularly Cuba. Abroad—

Spats and chat in the allied family. President Kennedy says it's due in part to the Russians, because they're quieter. He said "we're enjoying the luxury of internal dissension." But the spat, if it gets bad enough, can wreck the family.

SPAT AND chat in the Communist family, too. Russians and Red Chinese call names, express disgust with each other, but Premier Khrushchev drools over the Chinese ambassador. If the spat gets bad enough, goodbye Communist family.

Grumbling but not much excitement in Congress when Kennedy sends his record peacetime budget: $98.8 billion. The usual cries: expenses must be cut. Not much fire in the fust.

Kennedy sends Congress his aid to education program, will soon send one on medical care for the aged. Comparative calm in Congress. Neither program seems to have much chance. No wonder. Kennedy himself was skeptical of their chances before he ever sent them to the Hill.

There is no trouble at all in removing the ice tray. And the ice cubes are separated only by a plastic material. All we have to do is bend the plastic, and out pop the cubes.

The trouble here is that you can't tell where the ice cubes will squirt. Since we got our new refrigerator, our plastic ice shooter has struck down with flying ice one fine old lady and two innocent children in the building across the way. The lawsuits are still pending, and we have asked for a change of venue.

Clank, clank, clank! There never was a secret drinker in our home. The neighbors had no need for a hearing aid.

First a man would develop a thirst. Then he would adjust the gears of the refrigerator. Three days later the ice was ready.

Naturally, by then the ice tray was stuck to the bottom of the freezer area.

But that wasn't really too much of a worry. You could either try to pull out the ice tray by main force, or to wedge the tray out with a table knife. At least you had a choice.

Once you removed the ice tray from the refrigerator, the task became much simpler. All you had to do then was to get the ice cubes from the ice tray.

We employed one of two simple techniques. We could bang the ice tray against the sink, or hold the tray under the hot water faucet. Then a couple of fragments of tired ice would tumble out. We would put this small crystal reward into the guest's glass. After a preliminary sip, he would sigh and say, "My, that tastes good. But could I have a little more ice?"

Those were in the old days. Since then, of course, we have bought a new automated refrigerator.

To Your Good Health Atomic Cocktail Suitable For Some Goiters

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Do you recommend the atomic cocktail for goiter? Do all goiters respond to it? Please explain different treatments.—P.R.

Yes, I recommend the atomic cocktail for suitable cases. A goiter is a thyroid gland which has grown larger than normal. The causes and results are not all the same, though.

The best-known cause is lack of iodine. Some areas, including the Great Lakes region, were known as "goiter belts." The reason: There was almost no iodine in the soil, hence none in foodstuffs grown in these areas.

The thyroid gland produces a hormone called thyroxine. It has to have iodine (even though in only small traces) to do so. With iodine lacking, the thyroid gland, following nature's desperate urge to produce even under handicap, enlarges. The result: Goiter.

Use of iodized salt now has put an end to the majority of simple goiters from that cause.

However, there are also toxic goiters, which become overactive from some other cause. (Cysts and tumors are two causes of such enlargement.)

The atomic cocktail is used in some of these. The "cocktail" essentially is a small amount of iodine which has been made radioactive and then dissolved in a glass of water.

Since iodine automatically is conducted to the thyroid (where that element is needed), so is the radioactive iodine. This radioactive properties quiet the overactive activity.

It is, indeed, used instead of surgery, the same end result being achieved by removing part of the gland, and leaving only the amount of gland tissue needed to provide enough thyroxine.

Thus for some goiters, administering iodine alone may be a successful treatment. In others the atomic cocktail or surgery may be necessary.

The atomic cocktail is usually confined to patients over the age of 40.

It does not by any means eliminate all need for surgery. A goiter may be of such size that it interferes with breathing and swallowing. Or there may be special characteristics which make it mandatory to act immediately. Then surgery is the answer.

That's why I recommend the atomic cocktail only in suitable cases.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss lack of pigmentation in the skin. My skin is getting worse and seemingly there is nothing that can be done. Is it from lack of vitamins? Is it hereditary?—MRS. D.M.

This is called vitiligo—loss of pigment in patches of skin. Heredity probably is a factor. Certain skin infections can be involved. Damage to the skin (as from severe sunburn) sometimes can leave areas where pigment will not accumulate sufficiently. And other times no specific cause can be detected.

I hope it will make you feel better to know that: 1—There is nothing harmful to health in this condition. 2—Sometimes it clears up regardless of age. You had better get back to your doctor.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of the leaflet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

THE MOST powerful muscles known to the animal kingdom are the hind legs of the grasshopper. His leap has been compared to a man hopping over a five-story building. If a man had the same sort of gear, he could cover 100 yards in just three hops.

The grasshopper's leg muscles are so powerful, science has discovered, that at maximum tension they can snap the tendons to which they are attached like threads.

If you hold a strong jumper in your hand with its legs doubled up and produce a leap by exciting the antenna at the posterior of its body you will hear a faint click—the breaking of the tendons. After this experiment, the little animal can never jump again.

BIRDS HATE fog with a passion. Sailors on ships at sea often get prolonged visits from birds seeking refuge in foggy weather. Most birds will stop singing when fog descends.

It's believed by many authorities that birds keep on course by studying the position of the sun. There can hardly be much visual navigation when a bird is blinded by a fog.

A few years ago, a flock of starlings descended upon a boat called the Pellicula off Falmouth, England, during a fog and remained there, living on cockroaches, potatoes and fish throughout the journey across the Atlantic ocean to Venezuela.

Inez Robb Putting Sense Into Diplomacy

The President of the United States has asked Congress to establish a National Academy of Foreign Affairs to train American diplomats just as diplomacy by insult appears to have reached its finest flower both here and abroad.

Plain speech—or the knuckle-duster approach in foreign relations—has in recent weeks raised the hackles on nations that were, at least on the surface, kismet cousins in the world arena. Our Secretary of State, thanks to a few blunt words, has so infuriated Canada that I am prepared to hear that our Northern neighbor is contemplating a wall to keep our dollars in and our citizens out.

AS FOR le Grand Charles, he has recently been so busy insulting his friends that he has had no time to dust off his enemies. Khrushchev has violently denounced the Franco-West German rapprochement. And the third Afro-Asian Peoples Solidarity Conference, just to keep in practice, used the most insulting language to condemn Great Britain, France, the United States, the United Nations, Israel, Portugal and South Africa, to name a few.

IN SUGGESTING a National Academy of Foreign Affairs, it is difficult to know whether the President is contemplating the perfection of the new insult technique or a return to old-fashioned diplomacy, once described as the ability "to do and say the nastiest things in the nicest way."

That ability—"to do and say the nastiest things in the nicest way"—kept the world wagging along on an uneven keel for centuries during which diplomacy was conducted behind closed doors. It was the rapier vs. the bludgeon approach that has come to characterize "open diplomacy" openly arrived at.

THE DEMAND for "open diplomacy" openly arrived at developed out of World War I, in a misguided belief that this was the only way to conduct foreign affairs in a democratic manner. In recent years there has been a growing belief that perhaps a few closed doors in the conduct of foreign affairs is not a bad idea and that maybe—for once—Grandpa knew best.

Surely this nation has reached a maturity that demands that the two major political parties stop regarding the big and important foreign posts as political plums. For 100 years diplomatic appointments to such foreign posts as London, Paris, Rome, Madrid and even Berlin, in the old days, have been handed out by Republicans and Democrats alike as rewards to the rich party faithfuls who contribute handsomely to the party war chest.

THE GOING PRICE of London and Paris was pegged at a contribution of $50,000 some 30 years ago. How inflation has affected the asking price, deponent knoweth not. But that is surely a preposterous way to run a railroad or a diplomatic service.

We live in a world in which diplomacy can no longer be entrusted to amateurs, no matter how rich or how successful in the business world. This nation needs a highly trained diplomatic corps, assigned on merit and adequately supported financially. It will be useless to train gifted men and women if the nation refuses to maintain them as tradition demands in such expensive posts as London and Rome.

IF CONGRESS acts on the Presidential suggestion and establishes a National Academy of Foreign Affairs, it has a corollary obligation to ante up the money to support its graduates in the manner expected of diplomats of the world's richest country.

Should Congress decide to strike, the diplomatic iron was never hotter.

Holmes Alexander A Case Of Confidence

DENVER—Who invented honesty? Religious teachers and moralists say it was heaven-sent. Less cerebral persons have called it man-made. Ben Franklin, the supreme realist, called it merely the "best policy."

Alexander Hamilton also believed honesty to be the creation of merchants and money-changers. Not that he thought persons successfully engaged in business to be more inherently honorable than workmen and clerks, but he maintained that the rich had more self-interest in living in a community where the word and the bond are both valid.

WE COME AGAIN to a question that has bedeviled the Kennedy administration from the start. Does the New Frontier inspire the confidence of the business world? If not, why not? Confidence in the government's square-dealing—"the promises men live by," it has been called—becomes increasingly important as federal spending mounts. Much of the almost $100 billion asked for in the 1964 budget will be spent for purchasing goods and services at home. The Defense Department and NASA buy huge amounts of materials, as well as Congressional committees, hire persons and corporations to prepare intricate reports upon which momentous decisions are based.

BUT THE WILLINGNESS of businessmen to undertake government contracts rests on this matter of confidence. Business wants its profit of course—but it also wants to feel that a contract, once clinched, is fairly binding. It would prefer not to be heckled by bust-business politicians and vilified by the Liberal press. But if these annoyances are inseparable from doing business with the government, businessmen would like to hope that the government will stick by its word—will not cut and run under attack.

THE KENNEDY administration will get a chance to prove its staunchness—and a chance to build business confidence—in the matter of its helium stockpiling program. Businessmen throughout the Western and Southwestern States hope Interior Secretary Udall, who comes from Arizona and might be a Democratic candidate next year against Sen. Goldwater, will stand up to pressure. Though several companies are directly and indirectly involved, one example will suffice.

LAST YEAR, having signed a contract with the Interior Department to produce and sell helium, the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company, in association with the National Distillers and Chemical Corp., commenced construction of the biggest helium-extraction plant in the world. Located near Liberal, Kan., a 20,000-population farm belt town, the construction work brought 500 jobs to the community. It also brought in a power plant, built for $7 million by a third company—Western Light and Telephone Company.

IS ALL this investment a genuine business "risk"? If the company should experience a financial or technical breakdown and fail to produce helium, it gets no money. If the government should change its policy—as in the case of the Skybolt missile—the contracts would be cancelled. But if all goes well, this company—and three others to date—would sell helium to a monopoly buyer at the fixed price of $2.00 per thousand cubic feet.

NOW, THE NEGOTIATED price-fixing is questioned by the Government Accounting Office (GAO), which says that $2.00 is a higher rate than the government should have to pay on a contract which involved no "risk investment." There will be a good many opinions as to how much helium is worth. A private firm in Arizona, the McGee-Kerr, buys it for $4.00 per unit. The State of Arizona owns some helium-bearing land, and sells the gas for $7.00 per unit. Secretary Udall is required by the National Helium Act of 1960 to procure this substance at "a fair market value." He seems to have agreed in principle to seek a lower rate, and the companies will strenuously resist the mark-down.

WHATSOEVER the equities are in dollars and sense, there is the bigger matter of the government's relations with the American business community. I take it that the Secretary and the President would be just as well pleased if this controversy had never arisen. New enterprises are needed. Helium is needed. But when windfall profits are alleged, there is a tendency in government officials to cut and run, rather than to stand and fight for business. The helium imbroglio may be a new test case in which the administration can win confidence—or lose some.

Old Lady At 24

PEARL HARBOR (AP)—The grand old lady of the Pacific is the Fleet Marine Service Force's older Cimarron.

She's the Navy's oldest ship in continuous active service—she'll be 24 in March.

The Cimarron served in every major Pacific campaign in World War II and was active throughout the Korean War. During the Korean campaign alone, the Cimarron pumped 115 million gallons of fuel to U.S. Navy vessels.

She's due for rotation from the Seventh Fleet after another tour in Far East waters.

Cooks in her galleys and at Pearl Harbor Naval Base are beginning to bake the old lady a cake. They feel she deserves one.

Prospects Up For Peace In Steel Talks

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Prospects are mounting that 1963 steel-labor negotiations, if undertaken at all, can be settled on a peaceful and moderate basis, without entangling the Kennedy administration in another furor.

That is the impression gained by newsmen at an hour-long question and answer period with the man most involved, President David J. McDonald of the AFL-CIO Steel Workers Union. McDonald never said as much, but he dropped strong hints.

The union, on or before May 1, is permitted under its two-year contract with the major steel-producing companies to reopen negotiations on wage hikes and other matters, including pensions, insurance and extended vacations.

McDonald insisted there has been no decision whether the reopening option will be exercised. But it would be a major surprise if the union passed up the opportunity for at least some gain. Furthermore, there have been extensive discussions in secret sessions of the union-industry Human Relations Committee.

McDonald described the discussions—conducted in Pittsburgh in January—as merely exploratory. Since the chief negotiators for both sides comprise the membership of the human relations group, there is every opportunity for a leisurely and successful resolution of mutual problems.

McDonald said he has had no word from the White House or anyone in the federal government. He said the union is taking into company earnings statements for 1962 reflected the worst yield in a decade.

About this time last year, when the government was faced with the prospect of a possible midyear steel strike, Kennedy urged both sides to make an early and moderate settlement.

With the active aid of then Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, now a Supreme Court justice, a modest settlement was reached—three months ahead of the deadline. Much of the spade-work had been done by the Human Relations Committee.

Kennedy got into hot water with business after the steel industry unexpectedly had raised its prices, only to cancel the increases under strong administrative pressure.

McDonald, here for a winter meeting of his union's international executive board, discussed with newsmen plans for the extended vacation proposal the union has negotiated with can manufacturers.

Workers under the plan get three months paid vacation every five years, once they have completed 15 years of service. This is in addition to a regular annual vacation.

Periodically extended vacations is McDonald's test idea to help create jobs for workers displaced by machines. McDonald said he considers the plan feasible and practical for the steel industry.

Gov. Connally Undergoes Knife

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. John Connally underwent 40 minutes of surgery for hernia today and was declared later "in good post-operative condition."

Connally entered St. David's Hospital Sunday night.

Dr. W. B. Swift who performed the operation, said:

"The governor is in good post-operative condition. The surgery was uneventful. We feel the governor will do real fine."

Floods, Slides

ROME (AP)—Floods and landslides are leaving their mark on European Mediterranean areas troubled earlier this winter by unaccustomed snow and freezing weather. Seventeen dead were counted today in Italy, Spain and Portugal.

A weekend of cold gales and heavy rain brought a rash of landslides in southern Italy. These claimed seven lives and injured at least 100 persons at Naples and Salerno. Flash floods forced hundreds of Sardinian islanders from their homes.

Art Lectures Open Tuesday

At the Tuesday night meeting of the Las Artistas Art Club, Mrs. Charles Burks will give the first of a series of lectures based on the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art books and prints. Mrs. Burks, a new member of the club, is art instructor at Goliad Junior High School and a painter in her own right.

The first book to be reviewed is "What Is Painting," in which 12 paintings will be analyzed and compared, including "Whistler's Mother" and the "Mona Lisa." The prints will show comparisons of similar subject matter from both realism and modern distortion, and Mrs. Burks will explain why different painters chose to paint as they did, how much reaction to painting is intellectual, how much emotional.

The seminar is a comprehensive approach to the general principles of art appreciation, for deeper understanding of painting and its symbolism and the basic clues of interpretation.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Big Spring Federal Savings and Loan Bldg. Members are urged to bring visitors.

Local Farmers, Ranchers Add To Screwworm Fund

Howard County farmers and ranchers have donated more than $700 to the current fund being raised to continue the war in Texas against screwworm flies, Herb Helbig, county farm agent, said today.

"I do not know how much was donated last week," he said, "but the Feb. 10 report showed the new contributions to be more than $700."

He added that this is an extra contribution by cattlemen, the original quota assigned for this county was met.

Meantime, the Southwest Screwworm Eradication program's survey date center reported that the number of screwworm specimen sent to its laboratory has decreased sharply in recent weeks. More than 50 per cent of the specimen have proved not to be screwworms at all.

Only four of 15 specimen studied in the week Feb. 3-9 were screwworms. This was the lowest number of confirmed infestations since the program began. The war was started against screwworms in West Texas Feb. 14, 1952.

The officials regard this development as proof of the effectiveness of the campaign. However, officials also warn against any false sense of security. Special vigilance is now necessary more than ever to make certain no screwworm case is allowed to go undetected. One case which is not discovered could cause hundreds of infestations within a few weeks and undo all that has been accomplished in the past year through sterile fly release and cold weather.

It is pointed out that the screwworm fly lays an average of 400 eggs. If half of these eggs hatch as females and all are allowed to complete their reproductive function, three generations would produce a potential 16 million screwworm flies.

Firemen Whip Ice House Fire

The fire at the vacant Southern Ice Co. plant, 105 N. Johnson, kept firemen at the scene from 8:34 p.m. Saturday until 2 p.m. Sunday. The roof of the 50-foot high structure caved in early Sunday morning and permitted firemen to get at the fire.

An 18-inch-thick cork roof, and walls, prevented access to the blaze for several hours. Two firemen were in the "bucket" of one of Texas Electric Service Company's cranes when the roof caved and were ready to start pouring water on the building.

"There were only two openings into the old storage vault which had not been used since 1937," Fire Marshal A. D. Meador said Monday. "We did not know where to start chopping to get at the source because we couldn't tell where it was. The cork finally started coming out in burning chunks and we kept a line laid to prevent the gin from catching fire."

Cause of the fire had not been determined Monday morning.

Boys Find Gun, It Doesn't Bang (Fortunately)

One more "bang" and a boy may have been shot. Lester C. Wilbanks, operator of Wilbanks Trailer Ranch, 112 Harding, reported three boys playing with a .38 calibre revolver which they said they found on a vacant lot. He told officers he was taking trash out to the alley and saw the boys pointing the gun at each other and yelling "bang."

"I looked at the gun after they said, 'Look Mister, we have a real gun,' and found three live cartridges, and one spent cartridge, in the cylinder. The next one up was live. If it had not been a little rusty, and clogged with dirt, that hammer would have pulled back easy and fired the next time."

The gun was turned over to police. "We don't know how the gun got in the vacant lot," Capt. Lindy Oldfield said.

Murder Trial Begins In District Court

Jose Torres, indicted for the murder April 18, 1962 of Andrew Garcia Perez, 25, went on trial in 118th District Court Monday morning.

Individual members of the special venire were being interrogated as to their qualifications as jurors at noon.

Much of the morning had been spent in the general qualification of the venire. Of the original 100 called, 42 were left in their seats when the court ordered the individual interrogation of the panel to begin.

Torres' case was one of three capital offense indictments set down for disposition today.

His case and that of A. C. Elliott, charged with rape, were announced ready when court convened.

Jerry Lee Parker, charged with the club murder Aug. 26 of Stanley Williams, aged retired farmer, was continued. Warren Burnett, Odessa, his attorney, had notified the court that a previous commitment precluded his attending court here today.

The state elected to proceed with the Torres case. It was not believed that Elliott would be tried this week. Usually a murder case takes too much time to permit the scheduling of more than one matter in any five-day week.

Torres, 25, is alleged to have shot Perez to death in a beer tavern at 501 1/2 NW 4th. The shooting occurred as climax to a quarrel over money. Three shots were fired but only one of the shots struck Perez.

Rainbow Girls Collect $90

Heart Fund lapel tags sold at a brisk pace Saturday as the Rainbow Girls added $90 to the campaign proceeds in four hours. Seventeen of the girls sold the tags in the downtown business section and in College Park Shopping Center.

Sales were dampened somewhat by a brief shower, but the spirits of the workers remained high, according to Mrs. O. H. Daily, who headed the workers.

She said the turnout of workers was also smaller than expected. About 30 girls had indicated they would take part in the sale.

Proceeds have been turned in to Mrs. Tommy Hubbard, one of the co-chairmen for the Heart Sunday appeal.

Next on the list of activities to raise funds for the Heart campaign is a show for youngsters at the Ritz Theatre Saturday. Admission will be a donation to the Heart Fund.

Sunday the biggest event for the Heart Fund takes place as numerous workers made a door-to-door canvass of the city. They will invite donations from citizens and will leave envelopes for mailing at residences where no one is at home.

Two Plead Guilty To DWI Charges

Two DWI pleas were accepted in Howard County Court Monday morning.

Jose Castillo Bejil, arrested on IS 20 east of town, was assessed a fine of $100 and sentenced to serve seven days in the county jail. Highway patrol officers said that Bejil was involved in an accident Sunday night in Big Spring and fled the scene. He went east on IS 20 several miles and then turned around and headed back to Big Spring—on the IS 20 road set for eastward moving traffic.

Clayton Clifton, charged with simple DWI, was fined $50 and sentenced to serve three days in the county jail.

Twirlers Win Top Awards In Festival

Big Spring was well represented at the Lubbock Seventh Annual Valentine Festival Saturday. Local girls placed in the top rankings among more than 200 twirlers from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma who competed in the event.

The contest was held in the Idalou school gymnasium, near Lubbock. It was an official event of the National Ball Twirling Association.

In the Miss Valentine majorette contest, ages 15-21, Dean Terrazas captured fourth place.

In the advanced twirling solos, Carol McCombs won third place in the 11-12 age group. Sandy McCombs placed fourth in the 15-16 age group, and Dean Terrazas placed third in the 17 and over age group.

In the intermediate solos, Mary Palmer placed first in the 13-14 age group.

Duet twirling was divided by the combined ages of the two twirlers. Carol and Sandy McCombs won first place in the 20-28 age group. Mary Alice Terrazas and Carol McCombs were second in the under-20 combined age group, and in the senior duets Sandy McCombs and Dean Terrazas captured second place.

In the trio twirling event, the Big Spring trio (Sandy McCombs, Carol McCombs and Dean Terrazas) capped second place.

Dean Terrazas captured third place fancy strutting and Carol McCombs won third in military strutting. Dean Terrazas and Sandy McCombs won second place in duet fancy strutting.

In the corps twirling event, Dean Terrazas, Carol McCombs and Sandy McCombs participated with the Matador corps, which placed first.
