'64 Livestock Prizes To Be Allotted Tuesday

Tuesday, Dec. 3, is earmarked for the 4-H & FFA Livestock calendar for a special budgeting meeting of all Mitchell County agriculture teachers with the county agent, Buddy C. Logsdon.

Meeting will be in the Extension Service office, courthouse annex, at 6:30 p. m. The session has been called to allot amount of cash prizes for the livestock show to be held here Jan. 9, 10, and 11.

Announcement of the division of prize money will be made following that meeting, Logsdon said.

Monday evening in the Million Room, Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative building, a study session was called by Alfred Hackfeld, president of the Mitchell County 4-H & FFA Livestock Show.

The new rules recently drawn up and distributed for the '64 show were studied in detail.

Among new requirement for the 1964 will be entry forms for all entries, filled out by either agriculture teacher or county agent as feeding coach. Official entry forms are expected to speed the weighing in and classification process for the three-day show and exhibits.

All contestants in the show manhood award division will wear a number card this year for identification by judges.

January '64 livestock for young student feeders is shaping up into the biggest number of swine entries in the history of the livestock event here. A total of 125 pigs are being judged, Logsdon said.

Calves on feed for the show total 24 head, sheep 45 head. Judging of swine will be at 1:30 Friday, Jan. 10 with judging of lambs, Saturday morning and judging of steers set for Saturday afternoon, Jan. 11.

Show will be staged in Mitchell County Agricultural building, west Highway 80 here.

Construction started in mid-November on a new Lone Star Gas Co. natural gas compressor station at Hermleigh, the Record learned this week.

The station now under construction will make additional gas available for Sweetwater and Abilene area, according to T. J. Skrabanek of Dallas, superintendent on Lone Star's compressor department.

Completion date is late March and the station is expected to be in operation by April 1, next year.

Construction work is being handled by Lone Star's Engineering Department plant construction crew under supervision of Floyd Wells.

Purpose of the new station, according to Skrabanek, is to compress about 25,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily from a supply source in Coke County. Gas will be injected into 12-inch pipeline that extends from Snyder to Sweetwater and then on in to Abilene.

Location of the station is on the Hermleigh-Roscoe highway, 13 miles southeast of Snyder. The new station will have two 3330 horsepower compressor engines. These engines are controlled automatically to adjust to the amount of gas coming into the plant.

The station will be virtually unattended and its operation will be observed from the Snyder Compressor Station, Lone Star officials said.

Top Winner to Get $25 Plus Ready Lite Installed

Christmas lighting contest for the '63 holiday season in Colorado City's residential section will offer a top prize of $25 cash in addition to the three electrical appliance prizes.

Colorado City Record is donor of the $25 cash award. Texas Electric Service Company has donated three prizes—Ready Lite installed; an electric blanket, and an electric carving knife.

First prize winner in the annual home lighting contest will win both the Record award of $25 and TESCO's Ready Lite. Second prize will be the electric blanket and third prize offered is the electric carving knife, just in time for the turkey season.

Mrs. L. L. Comer is chairman for the Chamber of Commerce sponsored citywide contest this year. Serving with Mrs. Comer on the planning and rules committee are Mrs. Ben Sparks and Mrs. Alan Conley.

Everybody in Colorado City limits is eligible to compete with the exception of employees of Texas Electric Service Co.

Official entry blanks will be necessary for contestants wanting to compete in the seasonal lighting display for home competition. Entry blank can be had for the asking Wednesday (Dec. 4) and deadline date for entering the contest is Monday, Dec. 16.

Judging date will be some night between Dec. 16 and Dec. 25, Mrs. Comer said.

Hours of display have been set for 6:30 p. m. until 11 p. m. Judges will choose winners on four important features: artistic merit, lighting techniques, originality and ingenuity.

For the convenience of home lovers wanting to help make Christmas in Colorado City a brightly lit one, entry blanks may be obtained at Marshall Variety Store, Ben Franklin Store, Taylor Hardware, Village Market, and the Chamber of Commerce office.

The Chamber, officials of TESCO and the Colorado City Record expressed the hope Saturday that the 1963 Christmas lighting contest for residential areas here will create keen interest, along with neighborly competition between holiday-minded citizens throughout this town, as the season draws nearer.

Out-of-town judges are to be named, Mrs. Comer said, for the choosing of the three homes winning prizes for their Christmas lighting effects.

Residential lighting committee hopes, she said, to include one man judge capable of judging lighting techniques.

She began by telling of his birth into a peasant family of Germany. Then following his life through college where he studied for the legal profession Mrs. Henderson told of his journey to a monastery where he became a priest.

In his search for peace of mind, he left the monastery to return to college where he became a professor of the Bible, she said. While searching the scriptures, she told members, he found that for which he had searched so long. From his future studies, he became the founder of Protestantism, she related.

Members present for the meeting and program were Mmes. Robert Bayman, Bill Carter, A. G. Dibble, Gregory, Henderson, Holbert, Jerry Koenig, Arlene Morris, Neff, H. Jene Steadley, Dwight Tomb, Joe Weaver, A. Paul Gilbert, Wayne Griffin and Smith.

BY MRS. ROBERT AYCOCK, JR.

African Continent Program For Zetagathian Study Club

"Portrait of a Continent—Africa" was the program given by Mrs. Robert Aycock, Jr. to the recent meeting of the Zetagathian Study Club.

Mrs. Aycock stated that the title of her talk was really presumptuous, that it was not a portrait, only a cameo or introduction to this so-called dark continent, the second largest land mass on the globe. She told of the great importance to America of this continent because of the influence of its emerging nations on our own policies and social life. She said that the larger geographic features of the continent had influenced or controlled the types of people, their customs, attitudes and relation with the outside world.

In describing the geographic regions, the speaker told of six separate zones.

The Mediterranean area one of European culture and economy, with a climate much like that of Spain, France or Italy. Egypt lies to the East and is Arab, not African. The land of the Nile and desert is a country wholly dependent on one thing for life—the river, she said.

Second area described was the Sahara Desert, which divides European-Arabic Africa from Africa proper. Mrs.

Aycock said of this desert, "It stretches from ocean to ocean and covers twice the size of the United States. It is partially sandy dunes and partly rocky barren mountains, some rising 9000 feet high. In this desolate land there is no life to influence—but its presence very definitely creates a feeling of two African—as has kept the foreigner out until recently."

The equatorial inland of Africa was described as being largely a high plateau with out the large tropical areas one might expect. On the east the two Niles and their tributaries flow so slow they form vast swamps, while next is a very wide strip of parklands with tall grass, rich soil, and favorable climate, which make it a pleasant and profitable land, the speaker remarked.

She told of tropical Africa, more grasslands, then a repeat of the desert where gold and diamonds are mined, and concluded with the temperate zone. In speaking of the temperate zone of South Africa, Mrs. Aycock said that it was a land of war. She told how the English drove the Dutch Boers into the interior, the effects of which are still felt in this country.

Club members were told next of the mountains, Kilimanjaro and Ruwenzori, and lakes, Victoria, Tanganyika, Kiva, and the crater lakes of Ethiopia.

People of the dark continent were divided into five groups by the speaker, the northern population of Berbers, Ethiopians, Colonialists, Apartheids, and the native blacks.

Of the northern Berbers, she stated that they were of the Moslem religion, but were scorned by the Arabs which number 10 percent of the population. Mrs. Aycock said that although the Ethiopians are dark, they are caucasian and practice a form of Christianity.

Colonists are those sent to govern by European rulers, or the poor who found opportunity in a new land, or younger sons of nobility seeking their own fortunes, she said. Although most have been kind, considerate and helpful, they are resented by the natives who see in this paternalism a feeling of superiority by the whites, the speaker remarked.

"Southern Africa is isolated because of a group of people called the Apartheids who are white people who believe in complete separation of the races, and since they control the government they force every colored person to carry a pass, not be out after dark, not use public facilities. Animals are treated more kindly," Mrs. Aycock related. She stated that the largest group of people in Africa are the native blacks. She told how, because the interior of Africa was so inaccessible the white man only lived on the fringes and the natives remained living in ways made most convenient by the climate, vegetation and animal life, with many forms of religions. "One thing every pygmy to the giants, had in common, however, was a warship and fear of the dead. And the dead are opposed to change so tribal man is having difficulty adjusting to the new," Mrs. Aycock said.

She concluded her talk with descriptions of conditions in Africa today which were brought about by the geographical and population differences already mentioned. Although most of Africa is now self-governing, there is much confusion and there will continue to be constant change. New nations are divided into two groups, those favoring the Communist bloc, and those favoring the West. All of these things are important to us, she said and we can only hope, for the benefit of all, that the Africans can find solutions to their problems before they become greater world problems.

Mrs. Henry Lewis hosted the meeting in the Terrace of the Baker Hotel. Next meeting will be Thursday with hostess Mrs. Ray Noble.

Members present were Mrs. J. S. Craddock, Jr., Trevor Crawford, Jim Edison, R. P. Fee, Jr., Larry Kinard, Curtis Latimer, Lewis, Noble, Bob Reilly, W. S. Rhode, Bob Robinson, O. B. Trulock, Jr., Aycock, Don Butler, Warren Anderson, Bob Carver.

Gin Reports Slow Down Over County

Noticeable slow down in cotton gin reports came this week with a total of just 482 bales processed in the last seven days.

County total, including gin receipts at China Grove, now stands at 25,332. Nov. 29, 1962 reports showed only 18,000 bales but ginning was faster late last year and 1,292 bales had been ginned this same week last year.

New totals for the season are producers, 3,767; Gular, 1,171; Swift, 1,678; Farmers, 3,017 - Colorado City gins, total 9,573.

Loraine gins have a new total of 7,827 with 2,317 for Gular, 3,730 for coop no. 1, 1,780 for coop no. 2.

Buford has ginned 1,962. Planters at Westbrook, 1,824; the gin at China Grove, 4,146. About half the China Grove gins are generally from Mitchell County so a more nearly correct total of cotton grown in this county to date would be, approximately, 23,250 bales to date.

Nobody Hurt In 3 Mishaps Near C-City

"Slick Wednesday" brought three highway mishaps on rainsprinkled highways near Colorado City.

Mrs. Jimmie Treadwell and J. T. Rich were driver of two vehicles in collision just north of town on highway 208 at 6:33 p. m. Neither driver was injured.

Driver of a '57 Chevrolet truck, Gerald Sparks of Colorado City, was unhurt when his truck hit a culvert eight miles south of town, on highway 163, after the vehicle's tie rod apparently dislodged, about 4 p. m. the same day.

Bob Truesdell of Santa Clara, Calif., was driving a truck-trailer headed for Dyess Air Force Base, Abilene, about 7 p. m. on Interstate 20 at Westbrook the helium transport trailer overturned after a skid believed by locked brakes.

Texas Highway Patrolman Buddy Hertenberger investigated the series of accidents.

Dan Latimer Secretary Of Fraterniy

Dan Latimer, TCU sophomore, was recently elected secretary of the Phi Eta Sigma, the honor society for men, at Texas Christian University.

Latimer was inducted into the organization last spring as one of the 13 freshmen men. Initiation requires a 3.5 grade point average.

He is also a member of Le Cercle Francais, the French Club. Latimer has earned a letter by playing intramural football for his dormitory.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Latimer, 149 West 11th Street.

The longer you live the shorter the time between seasons. Armistice (Veterans) Day just swooshed around the corner looking over one shoulder to greet Thanksgiving. And here it is December!

Next thing you know, you'll meet yourself coming back at this rate.

COUNTING the days 'til Christmas used to be the most exquisite joy, the finest of the holiday fun. All you had to do, when very small, was count. And maybe write a revised letter to Santa Claus.

Counting the days 'til Christmas now is a mixed blessing. Twenty shopping days to go. And go. And go. 'Til the gift list equals the pretty packages you wag home to mail or to save for the home tree.

Go until the refrigerator sags with anticipation. Go until it's time for the cookies and carolers. Time for friends, fruitcake, and family.

These are the three rules for December:
Remember, remember and remember.

THANKSGIVING this week was a more solemn day than is the American custom, staggering under the immensity of national grief. Still, the day fulfilled for many families its basic purpose: thankfulness.

Wasn't there a society somewhere in Gulliver's Travels that held ingratitude to be one of its major, punishable crimes?

The longer you live, too, the surer you become of certain values. Values to be grateful for.

SEVERAL years ago, like the beauty of dawn after a long and achy night, came knowledge of the most splendid of all God's gifts.

It was the knowledge, the absolute certainty, of family love, family devotion, family faith—no matter what the score.

YOU can be broke—and frequently are—frustrated, frightened, sometimes discouraged.

You can never be defeated to the death-in-life so long as you can count among your blessings a mother, a father, a sister, a brother, a son, a daughter or even a grandchild—a husband, a wife—who cares what happens to you. Cares what you choose to do about what happens to you. It is one of God's truths—designed for cherishing. Family love.

Christmas comes counting the hours, the days, Thanksgiving's for counting the infinite ways God has been lavish, God has been kind... Thanksgiving is mostly a state of mind.

CITY families appreciating the day included Mrs. R. P. Price, her four daughters, their husbands and children. The Price family had a Thanksgiving celebration at their Lake Colorado City cottage, first time they'd all been together in a while, what with the way families have of scattering once high school and college days are done.

Here for the Price family party were Marcella Price Fee, her husband Bob Fee, their sons Bob Fee Jr., his wife Pat and son Jim... Roland Fee and his wife Mary Jo of Dallas... Loyce Price Ewald and her husband Arnold of San Angelo... Frances Elaine Price and her husband Johnnie Prude of Lubbock, plus the Prude son and daughter Bill and Judy... Our Kack Price McClellan and her husband Fred completed the family roster.

UP at the house of Sarah Carter Smith and her husband Cecil was another family dinner party. Guests were Sarah's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Carter... a sister Lue Hock and her son Jim, here from Lubbock... Louise Bollinger... Cecil's parents Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Smith... plus some friends, the Charles Watsons and four children of Hamlin.

DROPPING in on various friends in C-City Thanksgiving night were Nova Lee and Eldon Mahon, Jana, Martha and Brad, now of Ft. Worth. The Mahons had the holiday dinner in the Loraine home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Mahon.

FAMILIAR FACES were the laughing countenances of Maxie Lee and Charles Root after seeing, with most of the rest of us, Jimmie Stewart's antics in "Take Her She's Mine."

Ditto Peggy Bodine Ratliff, husband Bob, children Mike and Kathy, and Peggy's parents Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bodine... Also the Tommy Moseleys.

Saw Dora Wulfen Winn (Mrs. Everett H.) just back from a two-weeks stay in Corpus Christi with her cousin Mrs. T. M. Gannaway... Mrs. J. A. Sadler Sr. and Mrs. C. P. Gary Christmas window shopping.

And saw two other couples unblest by visits from grownup children and so, as a matter of course, dining out—Bill and Josie Ree Randle and Maude and E. S. (Mac) McCord.

SAW old friend and Democrat-buddy Dave Womack, in the midst of a coffee crew, saying that he and wife Wilma were to go to Lamesa for Thanksgiving turkey. And would meet daughter Betty Harris (Mrs. Leron) her husband and daughters Phyllis, 11, and Martha, 15-months-old, of Odessa, there.

The Womack granddaughters came home with them.

Betty and Leron, son of the Glenn Harrises of Buford, will join the families here this weekend.

BRIEF ENCOUNTERS brought nice greetings from Mrs. J. D. Norman, home from a visit of several weeks in the home of daughter Sara, Sara's husband Rodney Lee, Waco attorney, and their children Rebecca and Ralph Norman. The family was planning Thanksgiving dinner in Coleman at the home of the Jane and Barney Popcoe. The third Norman daughter, Irene, Brownfield teacher, spent the Thursday holiday there, too.

THE JENKINS family, Peggy and Leon, are treasuring the November issue of "The Braniff B-Liner," which published on page 10 pictures and a clever featurette about their granddaughter Jan Waldren.

Jan is daughter of Capt. Bill Waldren and Louise Jenkins Waldren. One of the "Flying Jenkins twins," Louise and her twin sister Loyce were among the first 12 airline hostesses trained for duty aboard Braniff's DC-2's in 1937-38. The Jenkins twins were first twin sisters ever to fly any U. S. airline, the B-Liner notes.

Capt. Waldren—father of Jan—is one of Braniff's senior flight captains, now flying big jets on the Mexico-New York City routes.

Point of the Braniff's paper feature tale is that Jan Waldren, 24, has for two years now been a hostess for Trans World Airlines, based in Los Angeles. She's a Hillcrest High grad (Dallas) studied at Tech, at SMU and for a year in University of Lausanne, Switzerland.

The Waldrens, by the way, are parents of a son, Bob, who is 22, and another daughter, Mary Lou, 14.

Whitaker Sons Home For Holidays

Mrs. Harold Martin talked on the study of cities. Mrs. Percy Bond spoke on people as individuals, and told of the importance of the churches in the cities.

Mrs. Bruce Johnson showed slides of Methodist Temple Church in Chicago, and told of the importance to the city of this church.
