How's that?

Halley's comet

Q. When can we observe Halley's comet?

A. The comet is visible in October and November, but hard to see at the end of October because the moon is too bright. The best view will be Nov. 8-18. The comet rises at the beginning of full darkness and is highest at midnight. You may be able to see the comet with the naked eye in December as soon as the sky gets dark in the evening, according to Astronomy magazine.

Homecoming

Aspiring Greek gods and goddesses adorned in togas, cartoon mice, hippies and astronauts trudged Big Spring streets Friday afternoon.

A typical Main Street crowd? Not hardly.

High school students took time out from driving through the Sonic and other fast food restaurants on the Gregg Street circuit to take a walk through the past in this year's homecoming parade.

The event drew crowds along the route, watching as witches, moonshiners and the man in the moon flew by.

Winning this year's high school class float competition, according to Big Spring High Student Council sponsor Sharion Richardson, was the sophomore class with their float depicting the landing of the first man on the moon.

Other winners were: second place, the freshman class for its Prohibition float; third, the seniors for their Vietnam War float; and fourth, the juniors for their First Olympiad float.

Winners in the non-class competition are: first, Goliad Middle School, for Walt Disney's 50th Anniversary; second, Runnels Junior High, for the Salem Witch Trials float; third, the Industrial Cooperative Training club for its Industrial Revolution float; and fourth, the Office Education Association, for its float on the explosion of the modern office.

U.S. deficit hits record high $211.9 billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government reported Friday that it spent $211.9 billion more than it received in revenues during the past fiscal year, resulting in the largest annual budget deficit in U.S. history.

Although the shortfall was $10.3 billion less than the Reagan administration had initially projected for fiscal 1985, which ended Sept. 30, it was nearly 15 percent higher than the $185.3 billion deficit of the previous year.

In all, the government spent $945.9 billion in fiscal 1985 against receipts of $734.0 billion, according to a statement issued jointly by the Treasury Department and the Office of Management and Budget.

The final tabulation for the 1985 accounts comes at a time when major deficit-cutting measures are being debated in Congress, including one calling for a balanced budget within six years.

The flow of red ink last year brings to $733 billion the accumulated deficits of the four full fiscal years of the Reagan presidency. Until now, the highest deficit had been $207.8 billion in 1983. By contrast, the deficit for fiscal 1982 was $127.94 billion.

There have been federal deficits in every year since 1969, when a $3.2 billion surplus was reported.

The final deficit total for the year was $600 million above the administration's projection of last August, but was nearly 5 percent lower than the February estimate of a $222.2 billion deficit.

Officials said the deficit was held below the February estimate because of lower-than-projected military spending and declines in interest rates, which lowered the cost of paying interest on the $1.8 trillion national debt produced by decades of deficit spending.

Nonetheless, the Treasury said it paid $178.9 billion in 1985 in interest on the debt, an increase of 16.3 percent from 1984.

Spending for programs administered by the Department of Health and Human Services — including Social Security — made up the largest chunk of federal spending: $315.6 billion in 1985, an 8 percent increase from the previous year.

Defense was the second costliest program, with spending of $244.1 billion in 1985, an increase of 10.5 percent.

The administration predicted that the deficit for the current

Jet aborts takeoff

GRAPEVINE (AP) — A Delta Air Lines jumbo jet with 226 people aboard aborted its takeoff at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport Friday night after some of the jet's fuel caught fire, officials said.

No one was injured as about 15 passengers fled down an emergency slide, and the remaining passengers and crew safely evacuated the plane minutes after the 7:41 p.m. CDT fire, Federal Aviation Administration spokeswoman Gerrie Cook said.

The Lockheed L-1011 Tristar, the same model as the Delta plane that crashed at the airport Aug. 2 and killed 137 people, was taxiing to runway 18L to begin its flight to San Francisco when the fire broke out, Ms. Cook said.

The jet experienced what Delta spokesman Jim Ewing called "a stack fire," which occurred when the pilot accelerated and ignited "a pool of unused fuel in the tailpipe of engine No.2."

The pilot activated an internal extinguisher in the engine and prevented an engine fire, but a grass fire started below the plane, Ewing said.

A flight attendant, who apparently saw the flames from inside the plane, "released the internal emergency chute and some of the passengers deplaned," he said.

"Nobody got hurt. The fire department came right out and extinguished the little grass fire that was there," he added. "It's not like the engine caught on fire."

Welch error could cost mayor's seat

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayoral candidate Louie Welch, who has made morality the No. 1 issue in his campaign, was already behind incumbent Kathy Whitmire in the polls when he blurted out on live television that a way to stop AIDS would be to "shoot the queers."

Welch, who held the mayor's office for five two-year terms, was awaiting a live interview Thursday night about his proposals to halt the spread of AIDS when a microphone inadvertently left on by a technician picked up his comment.

"I pulled a Reagan," Welch said, comparing his gaffe to President Reagan's "bomb the Russians" remark.

"I apologize but I don't think I had the gay vote anyway. There was nothing serious about it.

"It was a moment of levity before we went on camera. It was an unfortunate choice of humor."

Political analysts agreed the remark would not help Welch in the Nov. 5 non-partisan election. After losing an early lead in the polls, he was trailing Mrs. Whitmire, a two-term incumbent, by a hefty margin.

Yuppie dragon claws way to top

AUSTIN (AP) — With Halloween approaching, an Austin real estate company has found an unusual way to celebrate — mounting a 40-foot-long dragon on the side of one of its high-rise buildings.

The 500-pound, styrofoam monster appears to be clawing its way up the side of the First City Centre downtown.

The Watson-Casey Companies, a real estate development firm, says the dragon is the star of its second annual Halloween Creature Show.

The dragon is the work of Austin artist Daniel Miller, who fashioned the dragon's skeleton out of metal conduit, then constructed its body out of styrofoam bricks.

Scales, talons and other details were carved on the creature, and Miller coated the dragon with a water-based liquid plastic that dries nearly as hard as rock.

As a final touch, the artist airbrushed blue, red and green paints over a base coat of silver to produce an iridescent effect. Amber light bulbs give the dragon's eyes a glow.

The sculpture, which required more than 500 man-hours to complete, then was mounted on the side of the building and secured with steel cables.

Boast leaves New England steamed

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — This western Massachusetts city Friday mailed three boxes of vivid New England leaves — waxed ones at that — to Texas tourism officials who boasted "New England ain't got nothing on Texas" for fall foliage.

"There's gold in these hills," Paul J. Walker, executive director of the Greater Northampton Chamber of Commerce, exclaimed in response to a Texas Tourist Development Agency boast this week.

"Fall foliage started in New England. After all, New England was here before the West was discovered."

Walker said he waxed leaves from trees in this Connecticut River Valley city of about 30,000 and packed them Friday. One box will go to the tourist agency in Austin, another to the Texas Chamber of Commerce and one to Walker's son in Dallas.

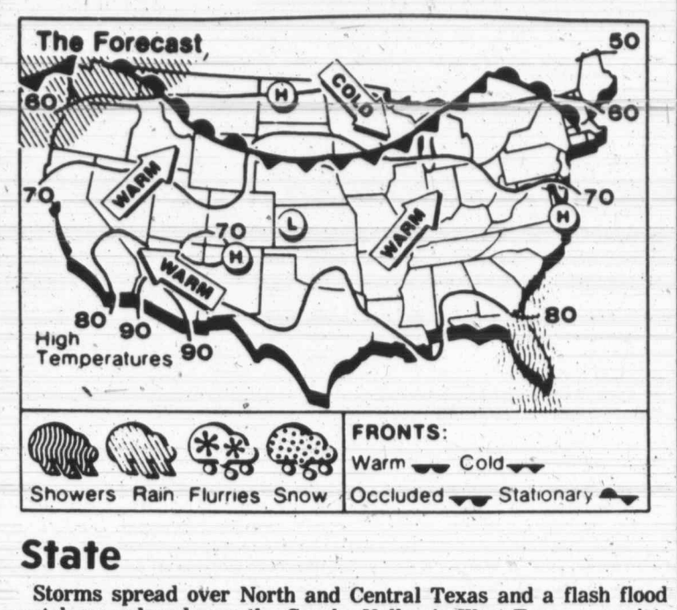
"I hope I don't make him homesick," he said.

O.C. Garza, spokesman for the Texas tourist agency, said the claim came after an announcement of a hotline to advise foliage viewers of good spots in Texas in November, when the leaves begin turning.

"One thing I've been trying to emphasize," Garza explained, "is that Texas has 11.5 million acres of timberland, bigger than the states of Vermont and Massachusetts combined."

Garza, who conceded he has never been to New England, said he hadn't expected much response from New England.

Weather



State

Storms spread over North and Central Texas and a flash flood watch was placed over the Concho Valley in West Texas as moist, unstable tropical air pushed up over a weak stationary front Friday.

The humid airmass gave cloudy skies to most of the state, although fair skies prevailed over the Panhandle and the Trans Pecos, the National Weather Service said.

At mid afternoon, the front was along a line from near Wichita Falls to San Angelo and Sanderson.

CRIMESTOPPERS 263-1151

Crimestoppers will pay up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction or indictment of people who entered the Senior Citizens Center between 1:50 a.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday.

The people, according to a Crimestoppers news release, set fire in the building and burglarized and vandalized two vending machines. Estimated damage is more than $35,000.

The burglary and fire has shut down the services provided by the Senior Citizens Center, including the "Meals on Wheels" program for the elderly.

The Medicine Shoppe also has offered to pay $500 more than the amount Crimestoppers will pay as a reward.

All persons providing information will remain anonymous.

Call Crimestoppers at 263-1151.

'Good Samaritan' boys find, return lost money

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Two College Heights Elementary School boys and their father became good Samaritans Thursday by returning a $100 bill to its rightful owner.

Dave Crockett of 1710 E. 17th was with his sons Shane, 7, and Heath, 6, at a weekly auction across from the state hospital when the boys spied the money on the ground.

The Crocketts told the auctioneer they had found "a sum of money," the father said, but no one claimed to have lost any.

After the auction, they saw two San Angelo women, names unknown, "digging through the garbage can, kind of frantic," he said. After determining the women had lost the money they found, the boys returned the $100 bill.

"I raised them to find the owner and give back something like that," Dave Crockett said, adding that he was proud of his sons for the deed.

County clerk's office collects more fees this fiscal year

The Howard County Clerk's office collected more than $104,000 in fees for the fiscal year 1984-85 than they did the preceding fiscal year, according to a balance sheet released from the clerk's office.

Total clerk's fees amounted to $172,624.64, and total court cost fees amounted to $212,778.10 for a total revenue of $385,402.74. The total is $104,231.39 more than the sum collected last fiscal year, according to the balance sheet.

Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray attributed the increase to more cases filed on the docket and a significant increase in fees collected for recording documents in her office. She said there was an approximate $22,000 increase in this recording document area alone.

Court costs are charged for indefinite and temporary commitments at Big Spring State Hospital, misdemeanor cases, probate cases and civil cases. Last year's court costs amounted to $130,603.70.

"In general, we had a good increase overall," Ray said.

The revenue her office collects is deposited into the county's general fund every month, Ray said.

She said a monthly financial report is prepared for County Auditor Jackie Olson's office, and a total annual report is prepared every September.

District court cancels jury

Persons who received jury notices to appear in 118th District Court Monday morning need not report, said District Clerk Peggy Crittenden.

The case was settled on Friday, Crittenden said.

She said the district clerk's office mailed 140 notices.

Television set stolen in theft

Roland Lozano of 906½ S. Aylford told Big Spring police Friday afternoon someone he knows entered his residence Thursday and stole $665 worth of property.

The stolen items, according to the police report, include a 13-inch color television, an automobile battery charger and a sit-up incline bench.

Trooper arrests DWI suspect

A Department of Public Safety trooper arrested Lloyd Wallace Farmer, 55, of Snyder on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

The arrest was made at 1:15 p.m. Friday after Farmer was stopped on Highway 350, seven miles north of Big Spring, according to a sheriff's report.

He remained in county jail Friday in lieu of bond.

- A Howard County sheriff's deputy transferred Henry Rodriquez, 18, of Route 1 Box 5021 from Crosby County to county jail Friday morning.

Rodriquez has been charged with burglary of a building. He remains in county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

- Taylor County sheriff's deputies arrested Mrs. Fred Solis, 36, of Snyder on a Howard County warrant charging her with issuing a bad check. She was released on $200 bond.
- Deputies arrested Isidoro Trejo Galan Jr., 33, of 808 Nolan for a DWI judgment he received in August. He will serve 30 days in jail.

January of a referendum that would have banned discrimination due to sexual preference in city hiring.

President of the Houston Chamber of Commerce at the time, Welch spearheaded efforts against the proposal, while Mrs. Whitmire, 39, a Democrat, backed the gay rights effort and has received the support of the city's gay community in her previous races.

In debates and other campaign appearances, Welch has stressed the morality issue, contending that prostitution, homosexuality and the spread of adult bookstores have made the city a less attractive place to raise a family.

On Thursday, he characterized AIDS in the city as epidemic and said if elected he would require AIDS testing of anyone arrested for prostitution, require that health cards be issued for food and health service workers, and close homosexual bath houses.

In the six-county Houston area, statistics released this month by the Houston Health Department this month showed 370 confirmed cases of acquired immune deficiency syndrome since 1980.

Whether or not voters agree with Welch, few consider "moral" issues paramount in the campaign, according to a Houston Post-KPRC-TV poll released earlier this week.

Ewing said the plane was carrying 213 passengers and crew of 13 and that it had flown from Atlanta to New Orleans before arriving at D-FW.

Tom Taylor of Detroit, a passenger in the first-class cabin, said he knew there was a problem when passengers "started running forward. The pilot told everyone to be calm, that everything was under control and there had been a fire."

Taylor said he could see a "big glow" from inside the plane, but that most of the passengers remained aboard the plane before being bused back to the Delta terminal.

Tom Fiedler, also of Detroit, said, "The crew handled the situation very well. There was really no one panicking."

The airport was closed for five minutes while fire fighters extinguished the flames, Ms. Cook said. She did not know the extent of damage to the plane.

FAA and National Transportation Safety Board investigators were to probe the incident, Ms. Cook said.

"Normally, when a pilot advances power in a case like this, the lit fuel is blown out of the engine" without incident, Ewing said.

fiscal year, which began Oct. 1, will decline to $177.8 billion.

The House earlier in the week approved and sent to the Senate a package of spending cuts that would reduce the deficit by $60 billion over three years.

A separate plan, calling for sharp, annual reductions in the deficit until the budget is balanced by 1991, has been approved by the Senate and is being negotiated by a House-Senate conference committee.

That measure is attached to a bill that would raise the national debt ceiling to more than $2 trillion.

The final deficit figures for fiscal the old fiscal year 1985 were released as the administration was beginning to assemble a budget for fiscal 1987. President Reagan will present that budget plan to Congress in late January or early February.

In their initial budget requests, most federal agencies have exceeded spending ceilings ordered by the president, according to administration officials.

Efforts to prepare a new budget are complicated this year by the president's endorsement of the budget-balancing amendment, which will require deeper budget cuts next year than the president proposed last February, officials said.

Crash cause remains undetermined

MIDLAND (AP) — Almost two years after a plane crash here that killed eight people, including six KOSA-TV newsmen, federal investigators have officially listed the incident's cause as "undetermined."

The National Transportation Safety Board released that ruling on the case Thursday, according to Jerry Jameson, an NTSB air safety investigator in Washington.

A Beechcraft King Air B100 was carrying the six television employees, the pilot and another person when it approached Midland Regional Airport for a landing about 1:50 a.m. Nov. 26, 1983.

Witnesses said the plane suddenly veered, stalled and crashed into a field about 750 feet from the runway and burst into flame. The KOSA crew was returning home from covering high school football playoff games in Wichita Falls and Fort Worth.

ABC to air spot

NEW YORK — ABC television, which refused last summer to accept a public service announcement about preventing unintended pregnancies, has decided to broadcast a revised version, a spokesman said Friday.

No time has been scheduled yet for initial broadcast of the 30-second spot, produced by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, said ABC spokesman Jeff Tolvin.

The revised version, which CBS and NBC have also accepted, replaces the contraceptive reference with the statement, "There are many ways to prevent unintended pregnancies."

Patient awaits donor

PITTSBURGH — A Jarvik-7 artificial heart implanted to save the life of a 47-year-old factory worker was "performing beautifully" Friday as doctors searched for a suitable human heart donor, hospital officials said.

Meanwhile, across the state in Hershey, Anthony Mandia, 44, of Philadelphia continued to improve with the Penn State artificial heart, a different model also designed as a temporary blood pump.

The Pittsburgh patient, Thomas J. Gaidosh, "will receive the next available heart. They (doctors) feel comfortable he could withstand the procedure," said Tom Chakurda, a spokesman for Presbyterian-University Hospital, affiliated with the University of Pittsburgh.

Guilty plea expected

BALTIMORE — The espionage trial of John A. Walker Jr. was postponed Friday so he could appear in court Monday together with his son, and a government source said that the father is expected to plead guilty at that time.

The government source in Washington, who refused to be identified by name, said that the elder Walker is expected to offer his full cooperation with the government. That could include testifying against his long-time friend from the Navy, Jerry A. Whitworth, who is charged on the West Coast with supplying the senior Walker with sensitive communications and code secrets for sale to the Soviet Union.

The source added that the government would insist that the elder Walker serve significant prison time.

NY takes aim at AIDS

NEW YORK — The state's Public Health Council voted today to give authorities the power to combat AIDS by closing gay bathhouses and other establishments that make facilities available for certain sexual practices.

Dr. David Axelrod, state health commissioner, said the object of the regulation proposed by Gov. Mario Cuomo was not to penalize homosexuals or to get rid of the bathhouses and other meeting places.

After a period of uneasy calm, violence erupted again in Cape Town. A barricade blaze in Belgravia Road in the suburb of Athlone draws two spectators.

48 arrested

Anti-apartheid activists taken in pre-dawn swoop

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police arrested at least 48 prominent anti-apartheid activists in the riot-torn Cape region Friday in a pre-dawn swoop that one black leader called "an open declaration of war upon the people of Cape Town."

News reports put the number held at more than 60. Civil rights lawyer Essa Moosa said he had compiled a list of 48 people taken into custody without charge under South Africa's security laws, but he said there could be more.

Apparently in reaction to the arrests, youths in mixed-race suburbs of Cape Town put up burning barricades and stoned cars late in the day, reporters said.

Police reported 20 incidents of rioting Thursday night to Friday morning around the country. Gangs of stone-throwing rioters smashed shops, banks and cars as they swarmed through mixed-race townships east of Cape Town.

No deaths were reported Friday after a week of turmoil that has killed at least 12 people.

The Cape Town detentions came a day after President P.W. Botha lifted a three-month-old state of emergency in six small towns out of 36 areas covered by the decree, saying calm had returned in the six districts.

But Botha warned he would extend the emergency to other areas if necessary to put down anti-apartheid rioting. Cape Town, engulfed in violence for two months, is not among the emergency areas.

Most of those arrested Friday were leading members of the United Democratic Front anti-apartheid coalition, which the white-led government says is an internal arm of the outlawed African National Congress guerrilla movement.

Front publicity secretary Murphy Morobe warned the government and police that "this indiscriminate detention and harassment will evoke a response that they may not be able to handle."

Morobe said the arrests were an "an open declaration of war upon the people of Cape Town," and added, "our people are becoming angrier."

Among those arrested are Zoli Malindi, the front's Cape area president, vice president Wilfred Rhodes and executive members Christmas Tinto, Ebrahim Rasool, Mildred Lesia and Mountain Quimbelda, all black or of mixed-race.

Also held were Charles Villa-Vicencio, a white religious studies teacher from the University of Cape Town, and the Rev. Lionel Louw, a mixed-race lecturer at the University of the Western Cape who is president of the Western Province Council of Churches.

In Pretoria, police headquarters confirmed that an undisclosed number of Cape Town activists had been picked up because "the intensity of the lawlessness made certain steps imperative."

Siege declared to justify arrests

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Raul Alfonsin declared a 60-day nationwide state of siege Friday in order to satisfy legal requirements for holding 12 rightist army officers and civilians under arrest.

Alfonsin had ordered the 12 arrested for 60 days on suspicion of participating in a campaign to undermine his 21-month-old government. But a judge challenged the special arrest order, saying it could be made only under a state of siege.

"Constitutional guarantees and rights will remain in effect" except for those of the 12 suspects, Alfonsin said in his decree imposing the state of siege.

He said in the decree that the step was in response to "increasing acts of material violence." At least 12 small-scale bombings have occurred in little over a month, but there has been none of the widespread violence or social unrest normally associated with state of siege declarations.

Alfonsin said political activity and party gatherings would be permitted and elections for national, provincial and municipal legislators would be held as scheduled Nov. 3.

Under a state of siege, the president is empowered to suspend civil liberties, such as the right of a detainee to appear before a judge within 24 hours of his arrest. Political gatherings and campaigns can be banned.

Normally the decree must be ratified by Congress, but the constitution allows the president to act on his own when the legislature is not in session. Congress recessed last month.

Rebels land in Cuba

MEXICO CITY — Two planes carrying 99 Salvadoran guerrillas exchanged for President Jose Napoleon Duarte's kidnapped daughter arrived in Havana Friday, the official Cuban news agency Prensa Latina reported.

A guerrilla leader who went to the Cuban capital to meet the flights told reporters at Jose Marti airport that the kidnapping was "an extreme last resort" to obtain medical treatment for the rebels, the agency said."

The group apparently included all 96 wounded guerrillas and three of the 22 political prisoners released Thursday as part of the exchange agreement.

U.S. hostage escapes

BOGOTA, Colombia — An missionary pilot has escaped from leftist guerrillas who kidnapped him and three other Americans weeks ago. He flew out of the jungle on a foggy, moonless night, his lights out, not knowing if he had enough gas to make it, a spokesman for the missionary group said Friday.

The guerrillas have demanded a $130,000 ransom for the three missionaries they still hold, said Mel Wyma of the New Tribes Mission of Sanford, Fla.

Paul Dye, of Saginaw, Mich., was flying a missionary couple and a copilot out of a remote southeastern village on Oct. 5 when they stopped the single-engine plane in Morichal Viejo, his wife told the AP. Rebels seized the plane and flew off with the four Americans.

Dye escaped on Oct. 10, Wyma said in a telephone interview, but did not explain why it wasn't announced earlier.

Hijack suspect nabbed

ROME — Rome police have arrested another Palestinian who may have been involved in the hijacking of the Achille Lauro cruise ship, Italian news agencies reported Friday.

The news agency ANSA said the unidentified man was picked up several days ago and was being held in a northern jail awaiting interrogation by magistrates in Genoa where the Achille Lauro cruise began.

ANSA said the latest man arrested was believed to be "implicated in the organization of the hijacking."

Arms cuts doubted

BRUSSELS, Belgium — The United States asserted Friday that the Soviet Union had not reduced its force of 441 nuclear-tipped SS-20 missiles, despite pledges to dismantle part of the arsenal.

The U.S. statement set the stage for the Dutch government to approve NATO deployment of 48 American-made nuclear missiles on its soil. The Dutch government has said it will accept the cruise missiles if the number of SS-20s exceeds 378 as of next Friday.

Study: Child abuse causes multiple personalities

CHICAGO (AP) — Child abuse is a major factor causing multiple personality disorders, with 97 percent of people treated for exhibiting markedly different personalities having been abused as children, the largest study of its kind indicates.

The study also showed that patients with multiple personalities tend to be female, highly intelligent and highly creative, said Rosalyn Schultz, a St. Louis psychologist who led the three-member research team.

It also indicated that such patients have imaginary companions at later ages than is considered usual.

"To have imaginary companions up to the age of 6 is considered a normal phenomenon," said Schultz, who presented the findings Friday at the Second International Conference on Multiple Personality-Dissociative Disorders.

"After the age of 6, there is concern that they are used to defend against a variety of stresses," she said in an interview.

Multiple personality disorders, just beginning to be considered a legitimate mental problem by organized psychiatry, are believed to be caused by overwhelmingly traumatic experiences.

Ninety-seven percent of the patients studied reported they had been abused as children, many over long periods of time starting from birth, she said.

For your gardens

By DON RICHARDSON

A good time to purchase bulbs

October through November is an excellent time to purchase bulbs while you still have a good selection in the garden shops. They may be planted at any time with the exception of tulips and hyacinths.

Chill tulip and hyacinth bulbs in the refrigerator until mid- or late December before planting. The lower part of the refrigerator is best. Do not leave the bulbs in air tight plastic bags during refrigerated storage.

Plant bulbs in well prepared beds so the base of the bulb is at a depth that is three times the diameter of the bulb. In sandy soil, set slightly deeper and in clay soil less deeply.

Start collecting those leaves for the compost pile. Be sure to have extra soil available so that each 6-inch layer of leaves may be covered with several inches of soil. Always wet the layer of leaves thoroughly before adding the soil. Add about one pound of a complete lawn or garden fertilizer to each layer of leaves to provide the necessary nitrogen for decomposition.

In addition to bulbs, check your nursery or garden center for started plants of snapdragons, pinks, sweet william, poppy and calendulas. Planted now they will usually provide a riot of spring color.

Keep that Christmas cactus in a sunny spot where night temperatures can be kept below 65 degrees F. Buds will drop if you allow night temperatures to go about 70 degrees F. or if you allow the plant to become excessively dry. They should also be kept in total darkness from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. for about 30 days in October to initiate flower buds.

If you have saved seed of your favorite plants, allow them to become air dry then place in an air tight container and store in the refrigerator. Be sure to label each packet carefully. Remember seed from hybrid plants will seldom resemble the parent plant.

Prepare beds for planting pansies as soon as they become available at the garden centers. They need a well-drained soil and be exposed to at least a half day of sun. Best to use started plants as seed is difficult to handle.

If you are planning to save caladium tubers for another year you had better dig them in late October, and allow to dry in a well ventilated but shady area. After 7 to 10 days, remove leaves and dirt, then pack in dry peat moss, vermiculite or similar material for storage. Pack tubers so they don't touch each other. Dust with all-purpose fungicide as you pack. Place container in an area where temperatures won't drop below 50 degrees F.

Focus on the family

Strong, healthy families

A seminar for parents, "Building Strong and Healthy Families," will be conducted from 9:30 a.m. to noon Saturday, Nov. 9, at the Lakeview School Gymnasiuim. Topics to be presented include:

- Children's growth: What is normal? by Glenda Low, Lakeview School nurse;
- Being an Informed Patient, by Naomi Hunt, county extension agent;
- And Latch Key Children: Teaching Responsible Self-Care, by Viola Barraza, Lakeview school social worker.

The program is planned to teach families the importance of maintaining good health and how to reduce health care costs. The seminar is sponsored by the Extension Home Economics Committee, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Lakeview Head Start school.

There is no charge for the seminar and child care will be provided. Persons who plan to attend are asked to register by phoning the County Extension Office, 267-8469, or the Lakeview School Office, 267-7452. Please let us know if you are coming and if you will need child care so that we can prepare adequate supplies.

HALLOWEEN:

Halloween can be a fun time for the entire family, but the real trick is to get everyone involved. Visiting in homes, hospitals and community centers can be arranged for a worthwhile family Halloween. This can be a real joy to shut-ins and senior citizens if it is properly planned in advance.

For a community or neighborhood activity, try a progressive party. The children can have a special trick-or-treat at each home along the way. Each stop should be different. The final stop could be "special treats" with several neighbors working together to provide the refreshments.

A ghost-story time can take place almost anywhere — in a large room, a grove of trees or in a yard. People attending this activity should come prepared to tell stories, and a prize should be given for the best Halloween tale.

A costume party is another favorite way to celebrate Halloween. Each person comes to the event in a special costume and is allowed time to parade in front of the group. Prizes can be awarded in different categories such as most original costume, scariest costume or funniest costume.

When planning your Halloween celebration, remember to make sure it is appropriate for the age group in attendance. Just because something is fun for adults doesn't mean it will be for children.

If parents and other adults take the responsibility for planning and supervising Halloween activities, the occasion should turn out to be safe and happy for the entire family.

4-H'ers study opportunities

By LIBBY WALLACE
Lucky Acres 4-H

The Lucky Acres 4-H Club met Monday, Oct. 21, at the Texas Electric Reddy Room. The program was "4-H Opportunities" given by Leigh Ann Wallace. The next meeting will be Monday, Nov. 11, at 7 p.m. at the Texas Electric Reddy Room. The program will be "Foods and Nutrition" by Carrie Bruton. Be sure to be there.

November will be loaded with lots of activities. On Nov. 2, the Foods and Nutrition Project Day will be held at the County Fair Barns. Some of the fun and interesting things that will be done are tasting exotic foods, making crepes, comparison shopping and making Christmas table decorations for a community service project. Don't fail to make this and be there at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Saturday, Nov. 16, the 1985 County Food Show will be held at Elbow Elementary School. The theme is "4-H Nutrition for America." The junior and senior division first place winners of each food category will then be eligible to participate in the District Food Show, Dec. 7 in Ozona.

Barrow feeders: There will be a workshop beginning at 9 a.m. today at the County Fair Barns for barrow feeders. This workshop will be conducted by Norman Kohls, county extension agent in Glasscock County. Reminder: Barrows must be fed by Dec. 1. If you need help in obtaining a barrow, contact Don Richardson at the county extension office.

Sheep feeders: Validation for all sheep will be Saturday, Nov. 2. If you need help in obtaining a lamb, contact Don Richardson at the county extension office.

IMPORTANT REMINDER: Entries for all animals to be shown at all major stock shows are due in the county extension office by Dec. 1. The exception to this is the San Antonio Livestock Show, which entries are due Nov. 15. Also, you are required to have your Social Security number this year.

Plant addition brings jobs

Western Container, Big Spring's Coca-Cola bottling plant has more than doubled in the last year, said general manager Gene McKinney.

The plant expanded its operations by building a 50,000 square foot addition. It is 98 percent complete and should be occupied by the first of November, he said.

What this means for Big Spring is more jobs. The plant has hired an additional 41 employees since last year, including 11 more truck drivers, and expects to hire more, he said. New personnel will be required in truck driving, mechanics, machine operations, quality control and maybe management, he said.

The plant will soon extend its services further north, he said. The company already services Texas and parts of Louisiana, Colorado, New Mexico and elsewhere.

Three new machines are now being installed, raising the total to nine machines purchased since January. The 50,000 square foot addition onto the 90,000 square foot plant will give the company more dock space, more warehouse space and allow them to install more equipment, McKinney said.

The company is part of a co-op which purchased another bottling plant in Houston last November. The new plant blows bottles from a preform the Big Spring plant manufactures. The local plant also blows the bottles from the preform.

"This allows us to expand our (preform) facility here," McKinney said. "We keep adding management and more production-type workers."

Western Container is not a publicly traded company; it is privately owned. It operates by a process of "backward injection" McKinney said.

"We operate in such a manner that lets (buyers) have a marketing advantage," he said. "They can purchase the packaging at a lower cost."

The plant also warehouses vending machines and supplies like cups, so buyers can get the merchandise there and not have to stock it themselves, thus saving money, he said.

Successful managers know rules made to be broken

By TOM PETERS

Survival as a banker, health care manager or computer maker increasingly calls for constant and rapid innovation. And the key to such innovation is surprising: active encouragement of — and public support for — defiance of the rules you, as manager, made yourself.

Innovation, regardless of how well targeted a company's research dollars are, is a messy process. It doesn't happen according to plan. It comes from the wrong place, at the wrong time, with the wrong set of customers. (How many bankers or brokers 10 years ago anticipated that Sears, Roebuck would be an emerging principal competitor? How many hospital administrators imagined that their own staff doctors would band together to form competing walk-in/outpatient surgical centers?)

When it comes to innovation, unpredictability is the norm. And so there is only one solution: Don't just stand there; do something! Ordinary people must regularly step up to the plate to make those constant tries that lead to innovation. I call those people experimenters, or better yet, product or service champions.

Champions must be defiant. All innovation — changing a minor procedure or developing a radical new product — disturbs the status quo at every level within the innovator's organization and within the potential customer's organization. Because innovation means change, people in every function fight it. The champion and his or her team must, therefore, be thick-skinned and persistent — determined to stay on course despite obstacle after obstacle. (Some hurdles are inherent in the course of doing business; many are purposefully constructed by those who oppose change.)

A few true "monomaniacs with missions," as Peter Drucker calls them, will leap over the hurdles without help, but there are never enough of this sort around. Your role as manager is to turn much larger numbers of people into semi-monomaniacs with missions; to do so, you must publicly support their clear defiance of rules and decry those who create bureaucratic obstacles for them.

In a previous column, I described such public support by senior managers at Hewlett-Packard. They awarded a "medal of defiance" to an engineer who had persevered in the face of gloomy market research estimates of his product's potential sales. Another example: A successful Honeywell manager reports that he simply spends a lot of time chatting with his project teams, recounting stories of his own defiance of the rules when he was in their shoes. He never directly orders his team to "cheat," he says, but he clearly spells out to them what he himself did.

At 3M, the process of demonstrating support is even more indirect, yet it is pervasive. Almost all members of 3M's Hall of Fame are heroes widely known for persisting against all odds and for using every conceivable device to squirrel away people and resources and to keep unpopular and long-odds projects alive.

Today, management bookshelves are crammed with treatises containing magic formulas to revive entrepreneurship. Nearly all, however, ignore the messy attributes of innovation and, therefore, the certain need for persistent — to the point of irrationally — champions. For such champions to exist and thrive in your organization, you must encourage an attitude of impatience, of "Try it, for heaven's sake." And that attitude can prevail only if you support and reward cunning, expediency, guile and defiance of the very structures and systems that you yourself so painstakingly created.

Vote in water plan election

By JOHNNIE LOU AVERY

Nov. 5 is an important date! These days, many elections are decided by a small minority of eligible voters. This may be the case that Tuesday when 14 constitutional amendments are voted on by Texans statewide. The water issues on the ballot are extremely important to all the state but most critical to West Texans.

In 1968 in a similar election concerning water issues, the measure was defeated by a small margin of 5,000 votes. During that particular election, West Texans voted in favor of the issue by a large majority, but the voter turnout was only about 15 percent of the registered voters.

The 5,000 majority votes cast against the constitutional amendment in that 1968 election could have easily been offset if even one additional voter per precinct in West Texas had gone to the polls.

Three seminars are being offered to help in money planning that should be of interest to both business owners and individuals. These workshops are sponsored by University of Texas of the Permian Basin for only the cost of materials.

Nov. 6 will be a tax planning workshop to counsel in deferring and converting monies to saving on taxes.

Nov. 12 will be a women's credit rights session. The premise is that women have more rights in the world of credit now than ever before, but those rights are of little use if one doesn't know how to exercise them.

Nov. 13 is a pension and retirement workshop for small business owners and self-employed individuals.

• Big Spring Federal Credit Union is changing its name to Big Spring Government Employees Federal Credit Union. The credit union last year expanded its coverage to include all government employees, instead of just veterans.

The union decided to change its name because when new government employees moved to Big Spring, they wouldn't know a credit union was available to them, said manager Cleo Young. The move should improve the company's assets, she said, by bringing in more loans and more capital.

W.R. Grace & Co., which operates an agricultural chemicals plant in Big Spring, reported a 29 percent decline in income for the year's third quarter, compared with last year at this time. Continued pricing problems in the fertilizer industry were primarily responsible for the decline, according to a company news release.

The company's net income for the year's third quarter was $24.8 million. Last year during the third quarter, the company earned $34.9 million. Earnings per share were 47 cents, versus 67 cents last year, a decrease of 30 percent.

For the first nine months of this year, Grace reported a 28 percent decrease from a comparable period last year.

Grace's agricultural chemical business recorded a $4.8 million loss for this year's third quarter, as compared with a $2.4 million operating income after taxes in the 1984 third quarter.

Brenda Nichols of Lamesa was fourth-place winner and Lucy Fletcher of Snyder was ninth-place winner of the Town & Country Food Stores Inc.'s Muscular Dystrophy Labor Day telethon for their fund-raising efforts.

The corporation presented a $75,000 check to the Muscular Dystrophy Association from the telethon. Each of 107 Towne & Country stores participated throughout the summer with individual store projects and a Win-A-Bike program.

Insurance crisis leads to spiraling prices

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN (AP) — They blessed the Freeport shrimp fleet as usual this year, but, for lack of insurance coverage, they did away with the traditional boat parade on the Brazos River.

"Insurance companies don't even want to take our calls," said Kenny Vandergrift, a Texas Shrimp Association director.

Texas Stadium, the Irving home of the Dallas Cowboys, paid $83,000 for $70 million worth of liability insurance in 1984. This year, the stadium could get only $40 million in coverage. It cost $400,000.

"We dropped a bunch of coverage. I'm not going to pay that. It's blackmail," said Jim Francis, executive vice president of the stadium.

"Eventually, the fans are going to end up paying for it," he added.

State Board of Insurance Chairman Lyndon Olson sees the problem every day as business groups come to his office for help.

"It is a serious, grave crisis," he said.

Insurance for many Texas businesses and government entities has become almost prohibitively expensive or flat unavailable.

It's a widespread problem:

• Texas restaurants are expecting the worst when many of their policies expire in February. The new policies will be far more expensive — if available at all — for things like liquor liability coverage, according to the Texas Restaurant Association.

"It has to translate into higher menu prices," said Richie Jackson, an association vice president.

• The oil business has been down in recent years and the tank truck business has suffered with it. Rising insurance bills do not help. Steer Tank Trucks of Dallas, with 250 trucks operating nationwide, paid $650,000 for insurance last year. This year the same coverage costs $1.5 million.

"I feel like a prizefighter. I get knocked down, I crawl back on my feet and get knocked down again by this latest blow from the insurance companies. It's hard to take," said Terry Shope, company vice president.

• The city of Dallas has had no liability coverage since January. Too expensive, said Mark Ferraro, the city's risk manager.

"There's a lot of fingerpointing now about who's to blame," said Ferraro.

Simply put, insurance companies once again have to make money by selling insurance. For several years, big money was made by investing cash raised through premiums. Selling insurance was merely the method to raise investment cash.

When interest rates were high, commercial insurance was sold at bargain basement prices.

"They competed themselves into the ground," said Olson.

"They would cutthroat the prices. They knew they would make it up on investments," said Daniel Gutierrez, a Harlingen city administrative assistant.

Harlingen budgeted about $250,000 for insurance this year. The city will spend about three times that amount.

"We made a lot of cuts in our budget in order to come up with this money," said Gutierrez.

Most commercial insurance lines have been caught in the crunch.

Tom Hardy, with the Alexander and Alexander insurance brokerage firm in Dallas, said he has had trouble finding directors' and officers' liability insurance for companies that need that protection for their executives. The problem is acute for financial institutions and energy firms, he said.

Some companies opt to do without, according to Richard Meek of Houston, president-elect of the Professional Insurance Agents Association.

"You are taking a chance and rolling the dice," he said.

The bottom line, the insurance industry says, is that rates were too low for several years, and courthouses have become unfriendly places for insurance companies.

"The current trend toward liberal jury awards is a dangerous one and could force many businesses into insolvency," said Jerry Johns, president of the Southwest Insurance Information Service.

Planning income taxes difficult this year due to possible new tax laws

NEW YORK (AP) — The tax planning season has arrived with a special new twist this year.

Time is growing short for taxpayers big and small to juggle their income, deductions and investments to minimize the tax bills they will have to pay for 1985.

And the annual exercise is complicated by the fact that the rules may be drastically changed some time in the not-so-distant future.

Lately, prospects appear to have dwindled significantly for passage of President Reagan's tax-reform proposal, or any other overhaul of the tax system, in time to take effect on Jan. 1.

But surprises are still possible. Many advocates of tax reform contend that it is not only desirable, but necessary, because the present unwieldy system is in danger of toppling under its own weight.

Even if it must be played in the dark, tax experts say, the game is worth the effort.

"Because a dollar you save now is worth more than it will be next year, lowering your taxable income in the present year has been a longstanding principle of tax planning," says Albert Ellentuck, national director-tax at the accounting firm of Laventhol & Horwath. "Never has it been more applicable."

If no changes are made in the tax laws, such a strategy will have its usual merits. If tax brackets for most individuals are lowered in 1986, as Reagan has proposed, there could be some added benefits.

The Reagan proposal also would nearly double the personal exemption for each member of a family covered by a tax return in 1986, from $1,040 to $2,000.

"Because of the proposed reduced rates and the increased personal exemptions — which will shelter more of your income from taxes — it especially makes sense this year to try to defer income until 1986," Ellentuck says. "Likewise, increase your tax-deductible expenses now."

A typical worker may be limited in the income-shifting tactics he or she can employ. "But there are some things you can do," Ellentuck notes. "If you expect a bonus, for instance, ask your employer to delay giving it to you until January."

If you want to defer interest income, says the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse, you can consider buying a Treasury bill that matures in 1986, or a special bank certificate of deposit that is set up like a Treasury bill to pay all interest at maturity next year.

Advisers say it makes particular sense to see that state and local taxes are paid up to the fullest extent possible before the end of 1985. If tax reform is enacted, deductions for these taxes on federal returns may be eliminated or curtailed.

Charitable contributions are a prime discretionary item. "If you want to increase 1985 deductions, accelerate the payment of pledges and contributions you intend to make in future years," says Price Waterhouse.

Another point to bear in mind, Ellentuck notes, is that deductible expenses charged on credit cards before yearend can be taken on your 1985 return, even though you may not pay the credit-card balance until next year. In such cases, a dated receipt or credit-card slip should be kept as substantiating evidence.

"If you haven't already done so," Ellentuck adds, "you should also contribute as much as you can to your individual retirement account.

"While individuals have until next April 15 to place a 1985 IRA contribution, the sooner you do so the sooner it will begin to earn tax-deferred interest."

Steers take Bronchos to trenches, 34-16

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

Chalk this one up to the trenchmen.

The linemen in Black and Gold on both sides of the ball get first mention in Big Spring's 34-16 win over the Odessa Bronchos last night at Memorial Stadium.

The win snapped a two-year district losing streak for the Steers, and all but eliminated any hopes the high-flying Red Hosses from Odessa had of gaining post-season play.

To say the game was an upset would be an understatement. The Steers went into the game against the Bronchos (ranked 23rd in the Harris Poll) a sound 27-point underdog.

But much to the delight of the homecoming crowd, the Steers, led by their men in the trenches, simply dominated the Bronchos. No doubt the Bronchos will remember such names as Jay Burcham, Luis Puga, Tim Green and Matt Burrow, because of all the pain the Steer linemen inflicted on them. The list goes on and on because it was total domination — Big Spring-style.

"We whipped them physically on both sides of the ball," said a happy Steers coach Quinn Eudy after the game. "Our line's play on both sides complimented each other."

How much did the Steers line dominate?

Take, for instance, the fact that the Bronchos went into the contest with the No. 2-offensive team in the district, averaging almost 400 yards and well over 300 yards on the ground. But the Steer defense played tough, downright nasty in fact, limiting the Odessa Wishbone to 197 total yards.

Included were six fumbles and two interceptions. Half the fumbles were caused by vicious Steer hitting. The two interceptions resulted from a swarming pass rush, which sacked Odessa quarterbacks Shawn Gilliham and Garry Powell three times. Even better, Big Spring scored 17 points off OHS turnovers. A sweet change for a team that has had nine turnovers in the past two games.

Take, for instance, the Steers offense, which rolled almost at will. The front line paved the way for sophomore Charles White to get 100 yards on 21 carries and junior Phillip Matthews to gain 84 more in 20 tries. Despite four turnovers of their own, the Steers accounted for 343 yards total offense.

And to top it all off, the Steers survived their old nemesis, a bad third quarter. Again it plagued the Steers as they saw a 23-0 lead fade to a 23-16 margin in 12 minutes of play. But after that, the Steers went back to their normal aggressive style for the remainder of the game.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Steers began their masterpiece second quarter. Each team made impresssive drives in the first quarter only to see them end with a fumble. Big Spring's miscue came at the Odessa 2-yard line while Odessa's drive was halted at the Steer 21 on a recovery by safety Sean Jackson.

Jackson had a banner night as he recovered three fumbles, intercepted a pass, returned it 35 yards and made a touchdown-saving tackle on a kickoff.

Ira slaughters Grady, 84-38

By CHARLIE ALCORN

LENORAH — Texas Six-Man football is a wild hybrid of the original game with more offense and scoring than the normal 11-man fare. Nowhere was this more visibly evident than Friday night at Grady Stadium where the Ira Bulldogs pummeled the Grady Wildcats, 84-38.

That's right folks. 84 points. 122 total. The kind of point production most high school basketball teams would be hard pressed to match.

That comes to 12 touchdowns and four two-point conversions for an Ira team that came into the ball game with the reputation of being a ball-control offensive team.

It was a night of big plays for both teams as this anticipated defensive struggle erupted into a human highlight film starring Ira running back Steven Densmore, with six touchdowns and a host of Bulldog performers.

Densmore, a 140-pound senior with neither impressive speed or spectacular moves, nonetheless ripped the Grady defense for 206 yards rushing on 20 carries with touchdown runs of 17, 55, 40, 12, two, and one yard. But he was as tenacious as his team's nickname, bulldogging through the hapless Wildcat defense with reckless abandon.

Ira quarterback Jay Clark also had a fine night, exhibiting a deft passing touch that had been all but unused through the season. The senior signal caller ended the night completing nine of 15 passes for 274 yards and six touchdown tosses of 22, 20, 33, 12, 40 and 50 yards.

Clark's favorite receivers were split end Donnie Davis, who hauled in two touchdown passes of 12 and 50 yards, and junior Brent Bearden, who had touchdown catches of 20 and 33 yards.

Grady did put up 38 points of its own, a modest point total by comparison that would have won most games. Quarterback Luis Gonzales actually outpassed his rival with 311 yards on the night, but the Grady offense could not keep the big-play pace.

The game was close in the early going, with both teams trading touchdowns on their first possessions. Grady tied the game 6-6 on Gonzales' 35 yard pass to Terry Deatherage at the 6:19 mark in thefirst period. Ira then reeled off 20 unanswered points behind three Clark touchdown passes against the Grady secondary that repeatedly let the Ira receivers get behind them.

Gonazales connected with running back Arnold Velasco on a 52-yard touchdown midway through the second period to keep the Wildcats within striking distance at 26-12.

Ira threatened to put the game over the 45-point automatic win limit with three long touchdown runs, a 39-yarder by Michael Martini and two by Densmore, that made the score 46-12 at halftime.

Grady came out of the locker room and immediately drove the ball for a touchdown behind the running of Velasco and Michael Mitchell on the first possession of the third quarter. Velasco took the ball in from two yards out to give the 'Cats some 45-point rule breathing room.

Ira running back JAY CLARK turns the corner on Grady defender WADE MILLER in Six-Man football action last night.

The two teams traded touchdowns late in the third period. Densmore scored from the one to stretch the Bulldog lead to 52-18. Grady again drove successfully from their 30-yard line with Gonazales hooking up with Velasco on a two-yard touch pass that made the score 52-26 at the end of the third period.

Ira exploded for 24 fourth-quarter points but could not put the game over the 45 point limit until Clark hit Davis on a 50-yard pass-run touchdown with 13 seconds left in the game. Reyez Juarez's two point kick finally ended the scoring at 84-38.

Gonzales hooked up with Deatherage, who was the Wildcats' leading receiver with six catches for 146 yards and two touchdowns, on a 52-yard bomb with 46 seconds remaining to round out the Grady scoring.

ODESSA — The mighty Mojo machine from Odessa Perminan shut down San Angelo Central's vaunted running attack in a 28-7 District 4-5A win.

Odessa upped its district record to 4-0-1 and 7-0-1 overall. The Bobcats dropped to 3-2 in district and 6-2 overall.

The Mojos held San Angelo's running game to a mere 142 yards in 35 carries. C.L. Bowman rushed for 81 yards in 18 carries and Don Hall was held to 56 yards in eight carries.

Permian added single touchdowns in each quarter of play. Nolan Watson snagged an 18-yard scoring pass from Greg Anderson in the first period. Woody Bryant was successful on the first of four extra point kick tries.

The Mojo added another first half tally when running back Marcus Lott scooted into the endzone from 16 yards out.

San Angelo's only score of the evening came in the third quarter when receiver Mike Epley grabbed a 5-yard scoring pass from quarterback Mario Martinez. Neal McSpedden was successful on the extra point kick.

Permian added the first of its second half tallies when Watson caught a nine-yard scoring pass from Jason Harrington.

They added a final score in the 4th quarter when Mark Seider hit paydirt from six yards out.

Kansas City Royals third baseman GEORGE BRETT tests his right eye and washes it out with solution after hitting it while tumbling into the dugout chasing a pop foul in the seventh inning of KC's 6-1 victory over St. Louis Thursday night.

Liebrandt set for WS Game 6

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Charlie Leibrandt say he won't be looking into the dugout if he gets to the ninth inning against the St. Louis Cardinals in Saturday night's Game 6 of the World Series.

"I'm going to try to get the leadoff guy first," the Kansas City Royals left-hander said. "Then, I'll leave it up to (Manager) Dick Howser. See what the circumstances are."

Leibrandt lost Game 2 of the World Series against St. Louis 4-2 after taking a two-hit shutout into the ninth inning. With the Cards leading the best-of-7 series 3-2, Leibrandt and Cardinals right-hander Danny Cox will be paired in a Game 6 rematch.

The 29-year-old Royals pitcher gave up the four ninth-inning runs on a walk and four hits, including Terry Pendleton's three-run double.

"I felt good when I came out in the ninth inning last time," said Leibrandt, 17-9 during the season and the winner, in relief, of the seventh game of the American League playoffs against the Toronto Blue Jays.

"Even after I gave up the leadoff hit to Willie McGee, I thought I could get out of it," he said. "I just never did. I can be a little more objective about it now, but not then. I was just trying to figure out how to get that last out, and it really bothered me for a while."

Now, Leibrandt says, he won't think about the ninth inning until it comes.

"If I get into the ninth inning tomorrow (Saturday) night, which I hope I do, it'll mean we're in pretty good shape," Leibrandt said at a news conference during an off-day Friday. "I hope it works out a little bit different this time."

Leibrandt lost under similar cirumstances in Game 4 of the AL playoffs against the Blue Jays, taking a 1-0 lead into the ninth inning before Toronto scored three times and won 3-1. After the World Series loss, Howser was severely second-guessed for not going to his bullpen, particularly to Dan Quisenberry.

"Quisenberry has been our stopper all year," Leibrandt said. "We're probably leaning that way a little more now."

The Royals lost the first two games of the Series here, then took two of three at St. Louis, including a 6-1 victory in Game 5 Thursday night behind Danny Jackson's five-hitter. In this Series, the Royals' pitching staff has held the Cardinals to a team batting average of .196.

"We're on a pretty good roll right now, the pitchers I mean," Leibrandt said. "We've been able to keep St. Louis out of big innings. We've kept their speedsters off base to a great extent and made Jack Clark hit with the bases empty a lot of the time."

The Royals' team ERA in the Series is a sparkling 2.45, with the Cardinals having scored only 12 runs in the five games.

Part of the Cardinals' lack of offensive punch probably can be traced to the playoff injury of leadoff hitter Vince Coleman, the mainspring of St. Louis' running offense. Coleman's replacement in left field, Tito Landrum, has per-

Mustangs trample Klondike, 34-0

KLONDIKE — The Wilson Mustangs destroyed the Klondike Cougars, 34-0, in the 7-A North district game Friday night.

Mustang Ruben Garcia scored the first touchdown with 7:47 left in the second quarter on a two-yard run. The PAT was wide.

The Mustangs scored again with 1:47 left in the first half on a seven-yard pass from quarterback Mark Burtch to fullback Tim Rojos. The two scored on the two-point play afterwards, leaving the score at 14 for the first half.

Burtch scored again in the third quarter on a 35-yard pass to end Rudy Guzman with 4:52 on the clock. Garcia kicked the PAT and the score was 21 at the end of the third quarter.

Burtch scored on a 21-yard pass to Garcia with 5:47 left in the fourth quarter. Garcia kicked the PAT.

With 4:06 left in the game, Wilson scored on a 65-yard interception return by Guzman, and the PAT failed.

Klondike's two recievers were Wesley O'Brian who caught four passes for 49 yards and John Matthews who caught three passes for 40 yards. The leading rusher was halfback Cisco Arredondo, with 15 yards on six carries.

Klondike remains winless at 0-8, while Wilson moves to 5-3 with its victory.

G-City Bearkats claw Sands, 28-6

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Bearkats trampled the Sands Mustangs 28-6 in the 7-A South district game Friday night, leaving the Bearkats at 4-4 and Sands at 3-5 for the season so far.

Garden City scored first with 9:30 on the clock on a 36-yard pass from quarterback David Montgomery to halfback Frankie Ramirez. Bobby Madrano kicked the PAT.

Sands retaliated with 5:42 on the clock on a 35-yard pass from quarterback Jerry Long to end Ricky Ferguson. The two point conversion failed, leaving the score at 7-6 for the first quarter.

Garden City came back in the second quarter with 7:48 on the clock when tailback Abby Madrid scored on a 21-yard run and also scored the two point conversion.

The team scored again with 6:10 in the second quarter on a 10-yard pass from Montgomery to Ramirez, but the two-point conversion failed, leaving the score at 21-6 for the first half.

Garden City's last touchdown was during the third quarter with 34 seconds on the clock when Montgomery scored on a one-yard run and Madrano kicked the PAT.

Garden City's leading rusher was Madrid, who carried 16 times for 84 yards. Sands' leading rusher was Lee Young, who cleared 12 times for 67 yards.

Owls soar over Stanton, 29-13

STANTON — The Buffaloes lost a heartbreaker Friday when the Big Lake Owls used a persistent scoring attack to win, 29-13.

Stanton dropped to 1-2 in District 8-2A play and 3-5 overall. Big Lake is 2-1 in district and 5-3 overall.

Big Lake scored the game's initial touchdown with 8:19 remaining in the first quarter when quarterback Scott Lipsey threw eight yards to wingback Robert Saldivar. Saldivar added the extra point kick.

The Owls added to their first-half point output with a safety in the second quarter when they tackled Buffalo running back James Vidal in the end zone. Penalties had given Stanton poor field position.

Stanton got on the scoreboard in the third period when quarterback Kevin Glaspie threw an eight-yard pass to Kevin Glaspie. Micheal Holt was successful with the extra point kick.

The Buffaloes drove the ball from their own 44-yard line. The big gainer was a 26-yard run by Holt who finished with 37 total yards on six carries for the evening.

Big Lake tallied its final score in the fourth period when tailback Gil Castillo ran six yards for the touchdown. The kick was good by Saldivar. The drive started after Tim Tatum intercepted a Glaspie pass at the Big Lake 40-yard line.

Stanton added its final score in the game with 53 seconds remaining. Vidal ran the ball into the end zone from two yards out.

The drive started after Stanton stopped Big Lake on the Buffalo one-yard line. Penalties against Big Lake aided the drive.

Robert Tello and Tommy Smith turned in outstanding defensive performances for the Buffaloes.

Forsan Buffs bite Bulldogs, 41-0

LORAINE — The Forsan Buffalos annihiliated the Loraine Bulldogs 41-0 in the 7-A district game Friday night, leaving Forsan undefeated and Loraine at 2-6 for the season.

The Buffalos scored three points on a safety with 8:52 on the clock in the first quarter. Halfback Bruce Strickland then scored on a 38-yard run with 1:11 on the clock, and the PAT failed.

Strickland blocked a punt for a safety with 26 seconds left in the first half, earning the team a further two points. Forsan had 11 points at half time.

The third quarter saw the most action, when the team scored four times. Halfback Wayne Wright scored on a 64-yard run with 11:42 on the clock, and the PAT failed.

Wright scored again on a one-yard touchdown and the PAT was passed from quarterback Brent Nichols to end Lee Morris with 9:32 on the clock.

Tom Cates recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown with 8:01 left in the third quarter. Strickland kicked the PAT.

Wright scored again on a 48-yard run with 5:28 on the clock, and the PAT failed, leaving the team with a score of 38 at the end of the third quarter.

Strickland scored the final time on a 19-yard field goal with 11:55 left in the game, earning the team three more points.

Wayne Wright was Forsan's leading rusher, with 159 yards on 10 carries. Strickland had 92 yards on nine carries and 16 tackles on defense.

Broncos stampede Coahoma, 34-0

SONORA — The Sonora Broncos defeated the Coahoma Bulldogs 34-0 in the 7-AAA district game Friday night.

John David Martinez scored first on a one-yard run after two minutes of play, and the PAT failed.

Martinez scored again in the second quarter on a one-yard run. The PAT was successful when Esau Ramirez caught a pass from Micky Sharp with 4:52 left in the second quarter, leaving the score at 14 for the first half.

Halfback Steve Love scored on a 47-yard run in the third quarter and Martinez kicked the PAT. Tight end Mike Fuller caught a 27-yard pass from Sharp with 6:16 on the clock and the PAT failed.

Sammy Mata scored on a 5-yard run in the fourth quarter and Martinez again kicked the PAT with 8:45 left in the game.

Ballinger bowls over Wolves, 39-7

COLORADO CITY — Ballinger's Bearcats proved to be too much for Colorado City as they downed the Wolves, 39-7, in a District 7-3A game.

The Bearcats upped their record to 7-1 overall and 3-0 in district. Colorado City dropped to 4-4 overall and 2-1 in district.

The Bearcats were paced by halfback Timmy Kozelsky's 191 yards rushing in 10 carries.

The Ballinger bunch scored their initial touchdown with 9:43 remaining in the first quarter when quarterback Eric Lugo ran the pigskin in from 21 yards out. Cory Lee was successful with the extra point kick.

Timmy Kozelsky made the games outstanding play of the evening when he darted, dodged and plowed through Colorado City tacklers on a 97-yard scoring run with 4:36 remaining in the initial period. Lee was again successful with the kick.

Colorado City posted its only score of the evening when Sammy Rivera scored on a 3-yard run with 2:54 remaining in the first quarter. Willie Baken was good with the extra-point kick.

Rivera grounded out 177 yards in 24 carries on the night.

Ballinger added one more score before the first half ended when Terry Sprambler ran the ball into the endzone from 12 yards out. Lee was successful with the kick.

Ballinger added three touchdowns in the second half. Kozelsky scored on a 39-yard run. Spramber snagged a 24-yard scoring pass from Lugo. And Bobby Gomez caught 24-yard aerial from Lugo.

The Wolves never gave up though. They blocked the extra point kick attempt after Ballinger's last tally.

Steers

Ed Lewis fumbled and Big Spring recovered at the Bronchos' 36. The Steers drove to the 18 and had to settle for a 35-yard field goal by Carrol. The lead was 10-0 with 5:15 left in the half.

Lightning struck quickly again for the Steers as they forced Odessa to punt. Matthews fielded Jeff Wright's punt at his own 35, dodged a couple of would-be tacklers, and followed the wedge up the middle on his way to a 65-yard punt return.

"I think that's the first punt return for a touchdown we've had since I been here," said Eudy. "We had some good blocks and Phillip just attacked the wedge."

The homecoming crowd went wild and the Odessa squad was stunned as Big Spring had put 17 points on the board in a little over three minutes.

Jackson set up the next Big Spring score when he picked off Garry Powell's pass and returned it 35 yards to the Bronchos 30. But the play was brought back 15 yards for clipping.

This time Speck engineered a five-play, 45-yard scoring drive. The clincher was a 29-yard scoring strike to Matthews. On the play Speck was rushed heavily, eluded the pressure and somehow got off the pass with a defender hanging onto his leg. His bullet stuck in Matthews' chest. Tha PAT failed, giving the Steers an insurmountable 23-0 halftime lead.

Sensing their playoff hopes going down the drain, the Bronchos came out scrapping in the third quarter. The Odessa defense rose to the occasion and stopped the Steers on a fourth-and one situtuion from the 45. "It was a bad call, said Eudy of the dive attempt. "I'm just glad the kids overcame it in the end."

Following their defensive stand, OHS drove the ball in on six plays. The big play was a 20-yard run by Garry Powell. Ed Lewis scored from the two with 5:06 remaining. Gilliham score the two-point conversion and the margin was cut to 23-8.

Garry Powell picked off Speck's pass on the Steers' next possession and the Bronchos were back in business at the Big Spring 48. It looked like the Steers had forced a punt, but OHS punter Wright kept the ball and ran 26 yards to the Steer 20.

It didn't take long from fullback Jaime Keese to score from the 1. Lewis ran in the conversion and all of a sudden the Bronchos were within striking distance at 23-16 with 1:47 left in the third period.

But that's when the Steers put their foot down, shutting the door on the Bronchos and their playoff hopes.

Following a exchange of fumbles by each team, Odessa fumbled the ball away again. The ever-present Jackson recovered his third fumble of the night at the Odessa 8. It took Big Spring three plays to score. Speck got two on a quarterback sneak, Matthews got two on a dive and Speck capped it off with a four yard keeper.

On the extra point attempt, holder Brian Reid kept the ball and plowed into the end zone. This gave the home team a 31-16 lead.

The final Big Spring score was set up when Todd Coker, Mike Cahill and Jimmie Rogers stopped Gilliham on a fourth down play at the OHS 20.

Carroll came on to add his second three-pointer of the night, this time from 20 yards out. The Steers had the game wrapped up with 2:33 left.

Eudy concluded by saying that throughout all his team's adversity this season, the effort has alway been there. "I've never had any complaints about our effort. The kids alway give their all. This time we put it together in a total concept."

The win leaves Odessa with a 6-2 season record and 3-2 district mark. Big Spring is now 1-4 and 2-6 for the season.

Nuggets bounce Warriors, 119-105

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Alex English scored 47 points, 30 of them in the second half, to match his career high and lead the Denver Nuggets to a 119-105 victory over the Golden State Warriors Friday night in a National Basketball Association season opener.

Calvin Natt, Denver's other starting forward, scored 21 points and had 11 of them in the final period. Natt sent the Nuggets ahead to stay by tipping in a shot with 5:06 remaining to break a 96-96 tie.

Denver trailed by 16 points midway through the second period of the game, which was played before a crowd of only 6,593, less than half the capacity of the Oakland Coliseum Arena. But the Nuggets drew even, 50-50, in the closing seconds of the first half.

Guard Eric Floyd was Golden State's leading scorer, with 32 points. Center Joe Barry Carroll scored 21 on his return to the NBA after playing pro ball in Italy last year, and forward Larry Smith scored 19 for the Warriors.

The Warriors began the season without veteran forward Purvis Short, the NBA's fourth leading scorer last season, and guard Chris Mullin, the St. John's All-American who was their top draft pick this year. Both are missing because of contract holdouts.

Liebrandt

formed admirably, hitting .368, but he has driven in only one run while batting fifth in the lineup against the Royals' left-handers.

"I've never seen Coleman play, so I can't say how much they miss him," Leibrandt said. "But they certainly must miss 110 stolen bases."

The Cardinals, with either four or five switch-hitters in the starting lineup, were only four games over .500 this season against left-handers, and so far the Royals have started three against them — Leibrandt, Jackson and Bud Black.

"Anytime you have a team full of switch-hitters, the batter is going to be at a disadvantage when he's hitting right-handed," Leibrandt said. "They see more right-handers during the season. When they hit left-handed, they're a step closer to first, and left-handed pitchers probably have better pickoff moves."

The 28-year-old Cox, an offspeed pitcher despite his 6-foot-4, 230-pound size, worked seven innings in Game 2 against Leibrandt, giving up two runs on seven hits but not figuring in the decision.

While the two 20-game winners on St. Louis' staff, John Tudor and Joaquin Andujar, were in the spotlight, Cox won many of the biggest games of the season for the Cards. He won the third game of a three-game October series against New York after the Cardinals had lost the first two to drop only a game ahead of the Mets in the National League East. Then, he won pivotal Game 3 of the playoffs after the Cards had lost the first two to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"He's not overpowering, but he spots the ball real well," Cards catcher Darrell Porter said of Cox. "He mixes his pitches so well that he gives me the most trouble in calling a game, so you can understand why the hitters have trouble with him.

"Danny's a good pitcher to have in this kind of situation because he's been so consistent all year," Porter said.

Cox' main problem is that he has suffered with a chronically sore elbow that bothered him again in his last start in the Series, preventing Cards Manger Whitey Herzog from using him on three days' rest in Game 5.

No team ever has won the Series after losing the first two games at home. And, after the Royals were down 3-1, they also were told that of 34 previous teams in similar situations, only four had won.

But the Royals have been no strangers to adversity this postseason. They lost the first two games to the Blue Jays, at Toronto, then fell behind 3-1 in the new best-of-7 playoff format before rallying to victory.

"I could say that maybe we don't start trying until it's too late, but that's not really true," Leibrandt said. "But it seems we do concentrate better when we're behind.

"It's great now to bring this series home," he said. "Everybody in Kansas City is really excited. Nobody expected us to win.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, OCT. 27, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's new moon, which is the joining together of the moon and the sun in the same degree of the heavens, requires that you be careful not to use poor judgment. Be calm and objective.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be poised in handling your affairs today so that others will not disturb you. Be practical and avoid one who is undependable.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You may find that an ally you had depended on for help will not be cooperative at all. Don't enter any argument between partners.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Problems are apt to crop up where handling duties are concerned, but take them in your stride.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) The good time you had anticipated may not materialize today, so be willing to change your plans.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Kin represent security for you so don't plan any changes for the time being, but go along with conditions as they are.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You could make mistakes while driving like everybody else, so be particularly careful now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Before you pay some bill, be sure it is correct and avoid problems arising. Choose practical activities today over pleasure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't try to get your own way exclusively in some situation, but be cooperative for good results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to run away from some problematical affair, but it is best you handle it tactfully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do not be forceful in trying to gain a personal aim or you could get into trouble. Be patient and tactful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have outside duties to handle, but be sure you are diplomatic with others. Spend the evening at home.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study new ideas well before you attempt to put them in operation, or you could get into much trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will have the ability to carry through conscientiously with a plan once decided upon. Teach to first get expert advice before tackling it, otherwise your progeny could wind up doing the wrong thing and not even get paid for it.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, OCT. 28, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You start this new week on a somber note so don't force any issues and listen to what others have to say. You're caught in a conflict between the practical and the idealistic.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You may not get the help you anticipated from bigwigs, so be with friends who have fine ideas to give you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be with outside allies who can help you to solve problematical affairs. Avoid stubborn partners.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Rely mostly on yourself in order to get good work done today, since others are not very cooperative.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Find some form of pleasure that is not too expensive and will make you happy. Do nothing to make your mate resentful.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Remember to improve conditions at home as you have planned and don't run off to any new interests on the spur of the moment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study any visits you want to make early since others are rather high-strung today and arguments could arise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want and need a good time so plan for it and don't let some boring financial matter disturb you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get yourself calmed down and then others will be more willing to help you to advance in life. Get much accomplished.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get that plan better developed before you bring it to the attention of others. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) See what you can do to help your friends at this time instead of expecting assistance from them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day to be wise and say little when making deals with others, especially bigwigs. Not a day for handling credit.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study your ideas well and test them out in private before you bring them out in public.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be blessed with a wonderful charm and others will do almost anything for your progeny. One who will be good at investigative work, but will need more rest than others to build up the body and energy. One who will never change his or her mind once it is made up.
