

Most Garza hospital staffers given token pay boost

Garza Memorial Hospital staffers received a token pay boost of one-half hour per week, or one-half hour per month, effective Monday.

Hospital Administrator Perry Hunsaker whose recommendations were in the end unanimously accepted, told the board the small increases would add around $1,700 to payroll costs in the next six months.

Salaries for hospital personnel are considered on an individual or merit basis.

Increases for hourly paid personnel were five cents or ten cents an hour.

While admitting in their discussion that the increases might be "bad politics" after the recently voted hospital district tax increase, directors emphasized that the hospital staff needs what encouragement financially can be given them in the face of continual inflation.

The increases overall figure out at less than two percent.

Hunsaker reported to directors that hospital occupancy dropped during April, compared the first six months operation this year to that of last year, and estimated that $50,000 in borrowing against next year's increased taxes will be necessary to finance the hospital through the remaining five months of the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

Average number of patients in the hospital during April dropped to 6.2 pulling down the average for the first seven months of the fiscal year to 8.1 patients.

Forty-three patients were admitted during the month. They stayed a total of 208 patient days for an average stay of 4.3 days per patient. While only 16 of the 43 patients were Medicare patients, 142 of the 208 patient days were by Medicare patients.

Seven babies were born during the month and 102 outpatients seen in the emergency room.

Administrator Hunsaker offered these comparisons in the operations of the first six months (through March) as compared to the same period the previous year. Total patients were up from 284 a year ago to 337 this year but total patient days were down slightly from 1,663 to 1,600, and the average number of patients in the hospital was down from 8.9 patients a day the previous year to 8.1 this year.

A total of $164,912 in charges were billed patients this year as compared to $108,653 a year before.

A total of $125,054 has been collected from patients this year as compared to $99,944 the previous year. Hunsaker said.

Counting tax collections, the hospital has received $197,877 in six months this year against a budget expectancy of $326,470 for the full year. He said expenses for six months total $207,627, which is $21,585 over the budget projection.

He said about $14,000 of the costs over the budget were in payment of guarantees to the three foreign doctors brought here by the hospital after the budget estimates were prepared. The $8,598 remainder of the overage went to (See Hospital, Page 12)

Dr. B. E. Young is outstanding citizen

Dr. B. E. Young was named "outstanding citizen through the years" and Mrs. Maxine Marks and Mayor Giles C. McCrary were selected as "woman and man of the year" respectively last Friday night at the awards dinner in the Post Community Center sponsored by the Garza Trail Blazers Club.

Each was presented with a plaque following a covered dish dinner attended by approximately 100 persons.

County Judge Giles W. Dalby, master of ceremonies, presented Mrs. Marks her plaque after Mrs. Marks had made the "outstanding citizen" presentation to Dr. Young who has been a strong community booster over the years.

The Rev. Tom Pass presented the "man of the year" award to Mayor McCrary.

The selections were made by a committee from nominations received from the public over the previous two weeks.

Dr. Young was cited for his 44 years of continuous service as a dentist in the big Post trade area, most of that time as its only dentist; his leadership in both the Boy Scout and Girl Scout movements here, and his long Rotary service, including two terms as Post club president.

County divides up its revenue sharing goodies

The Garza County Commissioners Court this week was completing its allocation of 1977 federal revenue sharing funds.

The court was still in session Wednesday morning at presstime, but this is generally how the distribution of "the goodies" are going to go:

The Southland School District is being allocated $10,000 for paving around its new school and $1,000 for a water storage tank to provide school and community more fire protection. Half of the paving costs will come from 1976 funds and half from 1977.

The city county park will receive $4,500 this year, which is $1,500 over their regular amount for major park improvements, see separate story.

For a new vocational training program at the Post Special School, $1,500.

Roughly $1,000 per block for eight to 12 blocks of share-the-cost paving within the city.

A total of $1,200 for meals on wheels program. This is all the county was asked to give although the request to (See County, Page 12)

Rites today for Elsie Nowell

Services for Miss Elsie M. Nowell, 44, will be held today (Thursday) at 3 p. m. in the Trinity Baptist Church with the Rev. Gene Prevo, pastor, officiating.

Miss Nowell died Sunday in the Lubbock State School following a brief illness.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Nowell of Post; three brothers, Dobby Joe of Mesquite, Kelsie of Post and Gene of Germany; and four (See Rites today, Page 12)

City, county to aid 'meals on wheels'

Both the city and county have been asked to help finance a new "meals on wheels" program for Post which would provide one good hot meal four days a week for old folks unable to cook for themselves.

The state department of public welfare will pick up the tab for 70 percent of the overall meal cost, beginning Sept. 1, with the city and county being asked to split the 30 percent match at $2,400 each.

Both city and county are looking favorably on the project at the present time, but the city has to hold a public hearing May 23 on how to spend its $43,000 in federal revenue sharing funds over the next nine months before taking action.

The city was told Monday night by Mrs. Chester Keeton that 34 persons already are eligible for the meals on wheels program and others are expected to be added.

Meals will cost $1.87 each and will be cooked at the Post Community Center. The cook and the bus driver to deliver the meals will be paid by the Green Thumbers.

through a heavy agenda and by the time they were ready to head for home the evening thunderstorm was all but over.

To start it off, nine abandoned houses were ordered demolished, seven via release and with no one appearing for scheduled condemnation hearings on the other two.

The council approved on second reading a resolution appointing American General as its representative to handle its new employee retirement fund.

Bob Schuster of the insurance firm explained the operation of the fund to the council and at Councilman Bill Pool's insistence (See City calls, Page 12)

Lots of park help

The city-county park board, hard-pressed to make ends meet in operating city-county park on a $6,000 annual budget, got even more help than it asked for Monday.

As Lewis Herran, park board chairman, told the city council Monday night, after budget overruns in recent years the park board is faced with less operating funds this year and some heavy replacement expenses in swimming pool equipment before the pool is opened for the summer.

Both city and county contribute $3,000 each annually for park operation, but the city's contribution is in salaries of park workers, including swim pool personnel.

Herran explained the park board now owes the city some $6,400 for costs in past years above the $3,000 annual city participation.

When the board pays this off from accumulated park funds, it will have only $1,800 left to operate on for the remainder of 1977. (See Park, Page 12)

School board takes look at possible future needs

School trustees wound up their May meeting Monday night with a 40-minute discussion of Post's future school needs from a capital outlay standpoint.

Touching off the discussion was a request by Lane Tannehill, high school track coach, for a new all-weather Resilite running track. The track, converted to the new metric distances, would cost $47,000.

No action was taken on the track request at the session, but Tannehill's presentation got the ideas coming.

One quickly presented was the proposal to reactivate the industrial arts facilities in the high school and convert them to use in the vocational agricultural program.

The industrial arts program was abandoned several years ago when the district was unable to obtain a suitable teacher, and was hard pressed financially to make ends meet, but the program has always been popular.

Before the discussion was over trustees were even mentioning a new school building.

As the first step in determining school needs from a capital outlay standpoint, the board requested that Shiver update an occupational survey of the parents of school children in the Post area. The last one was made seven years ago.

This will help establish future growth trends here.

In actions Monday night, school trustees:

- Accepted the resignation of Kevan Farrar, high school science teacher, and Mrs. Donna Caughron, junior high English teacher, effective at the end of the current school term. Farrar plans to enter dental school and Mrs. Caughron is moving from Post with her husband.
- Accepted the immediate resignation of Mrs. Kathleen (See School board, Page 12)

Showers soak area

Post and a lot of its rural areas got good soakings from thundershowers Monday and last Thursday nights.

The Thursday night thunderstorm produced .93 of an inch and the "come and go" showers Monday night added 1.11 inches more.

Besides that there was .13 of an inch recorded in a smaller third one Sunday evening.

This brings the moisture total of the past week (between Dispatches) officially in Post to 2.17 inches and for the year to date a welcome 7.06 inches.

All this of course was up to Wednesday afternoon when The Dispatch went to press.

As for the rural areas,

How about a youth center?

With the city council scheduling a public hearing for Monday night, May 23, on how to spend some $43,000 in federal revenue sharing funds, The Dispatch has its own proposal.

Why not get on with the Post Community Center project and build either the youth center addition, step 2 as we recall, or the fancy front entrance with the multiple and handy restrooms together with the rest of the outside trim, step No. 3.

Let's face it council. The Post Community Center to date has been a tremendous success.

Its usage has exceeded everyone's expectations by far more than the proverbial "country mile." It's the best project accomplished in Post in many years.

We happen to know that the young people who are scheduled to get the center two nights a week as a youth center have been "run off" several times so some other organization could use it.

Now if that youth center addition was built, this would no longer be a problem. You know it wasn't intended to be this way.

There wouldn't be any little arguments as to who might have scuffed up the woodwork or whatever.

In other words, the youth center deserves a home of its own.

We can easily "nibble" to death that $43,000 — but right there in one chunk you just about have your youth center. Two years would really wrap it up.

The Dispatch hasn't editorialized, campaigned, argued, and prodded for 19 years just to get part of a community center. We much prefer all of it.

The first and by far most expensive part of the community center development is behind us. Let's keep moving and finish the job.

What do you say? Why not a real improvement for the community rather than just "nibble" that $43,000 little by little until it's gone to sweeten up a little bit of everything for everybody but with little to show for it as a result.

Lubbock can build a jail with theirs. Let's build a youth center addition with ours.

What would you have done?

The hospital board 'agonized' last Thursday night over what amounts to a token pay raise to most members of the hospital staff.

They knew they are going to be berated by those folks who want to know how salaries can be increased a penny for a business which is being operated at a loss.

But they also know that it isn't the fault of a hard working hospital staff that the hospital is undergoing its present financial difficulties.

They knew that the pay checks of staff members have been eroded considerably by inflation over the last 12 months.

They knew that what they could offer would not actually offset even the rate of inflation.

But they know that good employees must be encouraged. They also knew that if they did not encourage their employees that they were liable to lose them in a highly competitive market.

The raises voted in the end offered the staff more of a psychological boost than a financial one. Those raises said to the staff workers who received them that they were recognized for doing a good job even in a bad financial situation.

Those hospital director jobs are the toughest 'free jobs' in town these days.

If you have a tendency to disagree with the board over this one, ask yourself first what you would have done if you had been sitting at the table last Thursday night.

Strong support for park

Just about everybody is proud of the city-county park — a scenic, recreational and picnic area which serves a whole lot of community needs.

The most surprising thing about this fine park is that it has been operated so well on a $6,000 budget.

So it should come as no surprise that when the park board asked for some additional funds this week they received a quick and generous response from both the city and county.

They even got some unexpected help from a group of students in a high school health class who are going to make park improvements their "project" for the closing weeks of school.

POST INSURANCE AGENCY

AUSTIN — Texas has a brand new world filibuster champ — Sen Bill Meier of Euleas.

Meier, 36, with 43 hours of (nearly) continuous oratory, broke the old record set in 1972 by former Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas.

A scholarly Fort Worth area lawyer, Meier is a sharp contrast to McKool. He stands six feet two inches tall and weighs in at 190. McKool is five feet three, and was 53 at the time he set his 42 hours, 33 minutes filibuster record.

Meier's strenuous verbal attack was leveled against a section of a workers' compensation law revision bill which closed job injury records of the state Industrial Accident Board to firms which copy and sell the data to employers.

"This is nothing more than the first chink in the Open Records Act," said Meier. "What do you say to other agencies which demand similar exemptions?" Although unsuccessful in stopping or altering the bill he opposed, Meier said he thinks his filibuster served a purpose.

"You can talk to the House through a filibuster — and to the people of the state," said Meier. "I hope the bill doesn't go through the House with the same meteoric speed it went through the Senate."

Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls, sponsor of the workers' compensation revision, said the bill would close job injury files only to those who would use them for commercial purposes. He said other sections would save employers $35 million in insurance premiums.

Budgets Move

The House finally agreed on a $15.3 billion biennial state budget bill after a tedious eight solid days of debate, during which $362.1 million was shaved from Appropriations Committee spending proposals.

Senators this week got down to work on their own version in order to get the heavy financial duties of the legislative session in the hands of a conference committee as fast as possible.

The Senate, meanwhile, is awaiting debate on an $820 million school finance bill.

Injections OK'd

A bill to substitute deadly injections for the electric chair as the legal means of executing condemned criminals in Texas has been sent to the governor.

Texas, thus, may become the first state to carry out court-ordered death penalty sentences by means of drug injections.

Assuming signature by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, the bill (HB 945) by Rep. Ben Z. Grant of Marshall would go into effect 90 days after the session closes May 30.

The legislation changes the method of execution in Texas for the first time in more than half a century.

Tax Reform Dead?

A far-reaching property tax reform bill passed by the House appears doomed in the Senate.

Hearing was delayed until late this week, and the sponsor Rep. Wayne Peveto, irate over continued opposition of some senators, threatened to force their bills off the House local calendar in retaliation.

Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells said he would make no effort to move the measure out of his Senate committee until sponsors can show him 21 votes to pass it on the floor.

AG Opinions

Legislators are prevented from representing prison inmates for a fee in private interviews with the Board of Pardons and Paroles, Atty. Gen. John Hill stated.

Hill said the board can forbid lawmakers from representing the inmates for pay in proceedings which are either non-adversary or non-public.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The legislature is free to change the name of the Texas Railroad Commission to the Energy and Transportation Commission.

The family code requires the reporting of sexual abuse, failure to provide adequate food, clothing and shelter, and any conduct sufficient for termination of a parent-child relationship.

Courts Speak

In spite of soaring gas rate increases since 1973, the Texas Supreme Court held Lo-Vaca Gathering Company and Coastal States Gas Producing Company don't owe Lower Colorado River Authority any damage awards.

An Amarillo policeman was upheld by the Supreme Court in an appeal from a discharge order by his chief for testifying that a convicted robber had a good reputation for telling the truth.

The high court upheld a New York Life Insurance Company decision not to pay off on a policy covering a 22-year-old Texan who died in 1975.

State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie is fighting a bill passed by the Senate to rescind board control over health insurance policy standards.

PICNIC FAVORITE—
 DOUBLE RICH CHOCOLATE CAKE

Chocolate cake is nearly everybody's first choice for a picnic dessert. Double Rich Chocolate Cake tastes like the kind of devil's food cake that wins blue ribbons at the fair, but this moist, rich cake is much easier to make. It starts with new Devil's Food Basic Bundt* Cake Mix. The kit contains high quality cake mix, plus glaze. You can add your own touches or use it for recipe variations.

DOUBLE RICH CHOCOLATE CAKE
 1 package Pillsbury Devil's Food Basic Bundt* Cake Mix
 3 eggs
 1/2 cup water
 1/2 cup sour cream
 1/3 cup soft margarine or butter or oil
 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Preheat oven to 350°. Lightly grease bottom only of 13x9-inch pan. In large bowl, blend Packet 1 (Cake Mix) and next four ingredients until moistened. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed (portable mixer—use highest speed). Pour into prepared pan. Sprinkle semi-sweet chocolate pieces over cake batter. Bake at 350° 30 to 40 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan on cooling rack. Blend Packet 2 (Glaze Mix) with 1 2/3 tablespoons warm water until smooth. If necessary, add water by drops until glaze reaches desired consistency. Drizzle over cooled cake. Store cake loosely covered. Makes 13x9-inch cake.

HIGH ALTITUDE—Above 3500 Feet; Preheat oven to 375°. Add 1/3 cup flour to dry cake mix. Increase water to 1 3/4 cup. Follow directions in basic recipe. Bake at 375° 30-35 minutes.

Bargain meat buys general this week

COLLEGE STATION — College economy buys in beef, dairy items are plentiful — but fresh produce needs special buy-attention this week, according to a Texas market report. Mrs. Betty Ciyatt, consumer marketing information with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System, outlined grocery buys as:

ground beef have reasonable prices.

PORK

There are many thrifty choices available — Boston butts, center and end chops, whole loins and quarter loins cut into chops. Special emphasis on smoked picnics and bacon.

POULTRY

Eggs are now a low-cost food choice. Some markets offer features on fryer DAIRY

Milk and all dairy products are especially plentiful this spring — as May milk production is expected to be well above the year-earlier three-year average, and March milk production was the highest for that month in more than a decade.

FRESH FRUITS

Winter pears are unusually plentiful — with attractive prices. Valencia and Navel oranges still available in volume, but grapefruit is declining seasonally — although feature prices appear on No. 23 and No. 36 sizes. Strawberries are more plentiful with quality generally good to excellent — and the now-moderate prices should drop. Be alert to selection, however, as adverse weather conditions quickly change both supply and quality of strawberries, oranges, grapefruit, bananas, pineapple and other fruits.

FRESH VEGETABLES

Most economical buys are mustard, collard, broccoli, carrots, cabbage, head lettuce, rutabagas — and turnip greens. Florida sweet corn on the market has relatively high prices; good-quality asparagus available at moderate prices.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Compare the cost per serving of different forms of a food to find the best value, price-wise.

Shower for Mrs. Trammell

A luncheon shower honored Mrs. Trammell, bride-elect of David Marris, Thursday, April 28 in the Reddy Room between the hours of 9 and 9 p. m.

Special guest for the occasion was Mrs. Jack Conner, mother of the bride.

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

LUBBOCK—A totally new system for cotton production and processing has been posed as one possible answer to the non-cellulosic component of "cotton dust" that is being blamed for a respiratory ailment called byssinosis in textile workers.

"The possibilities of such a concept loom even more important in the face of the recent proposal that stringent cotton dust standards be placed on cotton gins, compresses, cottonseed oil mills and others," notes Donald Johnson, executive vice president of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The new system as envisioned by researchers at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, Lubbock, calls for a semi-closed capsule cotton that protects the lint and seed from foreign matter, plus revised harvesting and ginning procedures that will afford further protection.

Elmer Hudspeth, agricultural engineer with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service at the Lubbock station, has submitted the idea to USDA's area director at College Station and will ask USDA for funding to implement all phases of the work.

Cotton breeder Dr. Lavon Ray of TAES already is looking at plants that will produce less trash in the material harvested. Some of his selections, along with exotic germ plasm being maintained and studied by other scientists, are said to be very encouraging, "and the chances for success of the total program are very high," states Hudspeth.

The TAES station at Lubbock already is renowned for its outstanding contribution in the development of stormproof cotton, mechanization and ginning innovations.

"I feel this total system, with adequate research, offers real possibilities for meeting dust and foreign matter standards, not only in gins but in textile mills as well," Hudspeth says.

Johnson, testifying before an OSHA hearing on proposed cotton dust standards in Lubbock May 10, stressed that the exact byssinosis-causing component of cotton dust is as yet unknown, and that reasonable and effective standards cannot be written to solve the byssinosis problem until the causative agent is identified.

"But we have no assurance that OSHA intends to be reasonable," Johnson comments, "so we would be foolish not to pursue the TAES and every other avenue to reducing the foreign matter in our cotton."

Med building dedication set

LUBBOCK — Gov. Dolph Briscoe will deliver the commencement address and dedicate the new medical school building for the Texas Tech University School of Medicine on Sunday, June 5, Texas Tech President Cecil Mackey announced today.

The graduation convocation will be at 2:30 p. m. in the University Center Theatre on the main campus. Following will be the dedication of the new medical-school building, 4th and Indiana, on the terrace of the north entrance.

Receiving the Doctor of Medicine degree in the medical school's fourth commencement ceremony will be 13 women and 31 men representing 23 Texas cities.

Interior space in the new building encompasses 811,437 square feet, or a total of 18 acres. Physically it is connected with the new Health Sciences Center Hospital for integration of patient care and teaching programs. Approximately one-third of the building has been finished and occupied. The remaining two-thirds consists of shelved-in space to be finished as program growth warrants. Cost of completed areas now totals more than $40 million.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Problems with special telephone directories marketed by independent firms or individuals not connected with the telephone company have come to the attention of our Consumer Protection Division.

Our attorneys are currently investigating complaints from several business consumers that they have been the target of possible false, misleading, or deceptive trade practices.

In most of the cases, this is the usual method of operation: An entrepreneur appears in a two- or three-county area or an area of small communities and begins to tout the advantages of an independent telephone directory. The directory would combine "white page" information about names, addresses, and telephone numbers of individuals for several nearby communities into one.

The next step is to talk with merchants in the communities or counties pointing out the advantages of advertising in the "yellow page" section of such directories.

"People from these other towns (or counties) drive over here to buy, so you should be advertising in a spot where all of them will see your message," the entrepreneur might say. "You can make your advertising dollar go much farther—don't just advertise locally."

Very often, the entrepreneur will hire local youngsters, well-known to town business persons, to sell the advertising, and it's these local fellows' names that appear on the ad contracts.

Advertisers are "encouraged" strongly to pay for their ads when they are placed, rather than later when they will appear in print, by significant "discounts."

The usual sequence of events is that the directory publication is delayed. "It's a little later than scheduled, but it'll be out by the Fourth of July," the merchants who have bought (and paid for) ads may be promised.

After that, it may be "We've had some printing problems, but the directories will be delivered before Labor Day, for sure." Two years later, there still is no directory, and even if it did come out, it would be very much out-of-date.

The entrepreneur usually disappears, and the merchants are out their money, with no advertising to show for it. Yet, because local folks they know were selling the ad contracts, merchants often are reluctant to file complaints or to prosecute. In turn, the sales persons, who made their sales in good faith, often would like to be able to refund the cost of the ads, but have no way to get in touch with the entrepreneur, who left with all the profits.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys caution business persons in small communities where such directories may be marketed to make sure the person or firm selling them is reputable. Check to see if there is a local office. If your community does not have a Better Business Bureau, often the local Chamber of Commerce can tell you something about the length of time a company has been operating.

Ask to see other directories that have been published. Check with some of the advertisers to be sure they were satisfied with the arrangements. And be sure never to pay in advance for such a listing.

If you have a consumer problem, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, El Paso, Lubbock, or McAllen. Outside those areas, call this toll-free number: 1-800-252-9236.

Texas beef producers on checkoff program

COLLEGE STATION — A survey of Texas beef producer attitudes indicates that the undecided vote is likely to be the key to whether or not the beef checkoff program is activated, according to Dr. Ronald D. Knutson and Frank Ewell with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Knutson, a specialist in policy and marketing, and his assistant Ewell base their conclusion on responses to a survey of producer attitudes toward current policy issues in agriculture. The sample included about 450 Texas beef producers. At the time of the survey 53 percent favored the check-off, 30 percent were opposed and 17 percent were neutral or undecided.

While the President has signed the beef checkoff program into law, at least 50 percent of the producers who register must vote in the referendum and two-thirds of those must vote in favor of it before the checkoff actually begins, point out Knutson and Ewell. Registration dates for the referendum are set for June 6-17, and voting will be from July 5-15.

The survey also showed that 53 percent of the producers felt they should have the right to request a refund from the program. This refund provision is provided for in the legislation if the refund demand is made within 60 days after the end of the month in which an assessment was made.

Sixty-five percent of the producers surveyed favored voting on the basis of a single vote per producer. This is also provided for in the legislation, note Knutson and Ewell.

Regarding the use of promotion monies, 62 percent of the producers surveyed indicated they opposed the use of producer promotion funds to assist packers and retailers to advertise their own brands of beef. This contrasts with advertising specialists who contend that joint advertising programs would be more effective in expanding demand than advertising beef alone.

CASES SETTLED OUT OF COURT ON VIOLATIONS OF THE U.S. PLANT VARIETY PROTECTION ACT ON ACCO COTTON PLANTING SEED

Plainview, Texas, May 5, 1977 — ACCO Seed announced today settlement of damages on violations against their protected variety of Paymaster 303 Cotton Planting Seed. All of these were settled out of court in ACCO Seed's favor.

The violations were committed during the fall of 1976 and early part of the 1977 planting season by a Hockley County seedsman, a Hockley County farmer, a Crosby County ginner and a Martin County co-op gin. All the parties acknowledged their violations and paid damages to ACCO Seed.

Under the Plant Variety Protection Act, those who without proper authority infringe the rights of a variety owner by selling or using, for prohibited purposes, a protected variety of cottonseed may be liable to the variety owner for treble damages, court costs, and attorney's fees and subject to an injunction against further infringement.

ACCO Seed will continue to vigorously enforce its rights under the Act for their protected varieties which include Paymaster 111-A, 101-B, 303, 266 and Paymaster Dwarf.

ACCO Seed, a division of Anderson, Clayton & Co., with one of its regional offices located in Plainview, is a supplier of sorghum, corn, cotton and alfalfa seed in the United States and foreign countries.

Proposed textbooks available

AUSTIN—Copies of every book submitted to the Texas Education Agency for the 1977 state textbook adoption will be available to all interested citizens for review at each of the 20 regional education service centers throughout the state beginning May 5, 1977.

The regional center for this area is located at 700 Texas Commerce Bank building in Lubbock.

Sample books will be on file in each center library during regular business hours, according to J. Henry Perry, Texas Education Agency textbook division director. All major publishers are expected to submit text materials for the Texas adoption in selected elementary and secondary school subject areas. Perry points out. The new materials may be adopted for a maximum of six years.

Books will be studied in detail by members of the State Textbook Committee and their local advisors throughout the summer, Perry adds.

The 15-member committee, which includes public school administrators and teachers will be appointed by the State Board of Education at its May 14 meeting in Austin. Committee members will also seek the views of other teachers in their own districts concerning each book or comprehensive system submitted for adoption.

A series of public hearing will be held in Austin in order to gather citizen viewpoints and opinion before the State Board of Education adopts textbooks at its November 12 meeting in Austin. The new materials will be available for students on September 1, 1978.

Carefully Selected Just for You

We choose our furniture for stock as carefully as if we were going to use it in our own home. The frame that is covered up and you never see determines how long it will last under constant use, so that is where we start.

We select a frame made of hardwood, usually oak, in which all corners are doweled, screwed and reinforced with glue blocks. Then we want it properly sprung up (trade talk) for that particular piece and its intended use. Sometimes this is a drop in coil spring unit and on others it is a Cadillac type zig zag flat type in both seat and back.

Now we select the cushioning materials. Jute, sisal or other suitable materials are used over the springs with cotton, polyester or dacron for cushioning to complete the platform. The back and seat cushions usually have a core of poly foam wrapped in cloud soft dacron. We have found this combination retains its shape and gives seating comfort longer than any other.

Now we get down to the nitty-gritty — the cover that you see and feel. First, we want covers with good hand. Covers that a blind person could feel quality with their hands. The colors must be accepted colors for our people in our area of the country. No wild west coast colors or experimental eastern seaboard colors for us. They must be well tailored with straight seams, uniform wetting and cushions must be closed with a zipper.

Our orders go directly to the factory where the furniture is made to our specifications, not because the factory wants to make it this way but because this is the way we want it made.

Our merchandise is very, very rarely shipped from warehoused stock. Sometimes it takes hours to select a half dozen pieces. Then we offer it to you at the lowest price possible, consistent with good business practice. We do all this for you because we want to SERVE you.

Tennis clinic possible here

Any persons interested in attending a tennis clinic this summer are asked to contact Greg Eubank, high school tennis coach, either at school (3184 or 2770) or at home (2104).

The clinic would be held in Post. Several qualified instructors already have inquired about conducting it, but enough interest will have to be shown to schedule one.

Eubank said a week's tennis camp here would offer children comparable skills development to a tennis camp at less than half the cost. Such a clinic would cost from $25 to $45 per week depending on the teachers.

call an organizational meeting for the minor league next week, probably next Thursday night. Watch for an announcement in The Dispatch.

The Post Little League will host the district tournament here this summer.

In preparation for this, field lights are being moved back for a regulation-sized field. Stands are being repaired and painted and numerous other odd jobs are available that league officers need parents of players to volunteer to help with.

Contact league officers or team managers concerning work days coming up for park improvement, Hart, the league president, requested.

FANCY THAT!

Little Known Facts About Our Trees And Paper

Campers often enjoy themselves in forests belonging to large paper companies. Company ownership of the lands means that roads will be built, and where roads are, people can follow.

In order to continue to grow, paper companies such as International Paper must have money invested in them. In order to attract that money they have to run their plants efficiently—the new ones at more than 90 percent of capacity.

Your newspaper may be even better in the future. A new type of newsprint has been developed that will be much stronger than the present variety, with improved printability.

Boaters ticketed for safety violations

LUBBOCK — Several citations have already been issued by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens for water safety violations on area lakes this week.

Among the violations most numerous are no life preservers and improper safety equipment on board. Safety laws are set to protect boaters and other water users from drowning or injuring themselves on Texas' public waters. Even with all the regulations and wardens working throughout the weekends on the busy lakes, approximately 600 persons will lose their lives in 1977 due to carelessness or neglect.

Common sense on the water or unloading or loading your boat is still the best prevention. A thorough check of safety equipment to be used on the lake should be completed before leaving home and will insure a safe start.

When you are checked by a Texas game warden, some of the items he will want to see includes the boat registration and certificate of number issued by the P&WD; life preservers accessible for each person on board and all 12 year old and under persons wearing their life preservers at all times; visible numbers painted, decaled, or otherwise affixed to both sides of the bow of the boat; lights if the boat is to be operated after dark; ventilation ducts and flame arresters in working condition on inboards; mirrors if the boat is towing a person or persons on water skis and located so the boat operator has a full and complete view beyond the rear of the boat.

The law concerning boat titles became effective Jan. 1, 1976 and all new unregistered motorboats in excess of 14 feet in length, and new outboard motors in excess of 12 horsepower upon the class of the motorboat. Class A motorboats are less than 16 feet in length and require one B-1 fire extinguisher or a fixed extinguisher system in the machinery space of the engine compartment. Class 1 motorboats are 16 feet to 26 feet in length and require one B-1 extinguisher or a fixed system in the machinery space.

All of these regulations are listed in the Digest of the Texas Water Safety Act available at all P&WD offices across the Panhandle and South Plains.

Girls' cage game changed

After next season, girls basketball in Texas won't be different from the five-player, all court boys game.

The University Interscholastic League, governing body for high school competitions in Texas, announced that participating member schools have voted to cut girls' basketball from six to five players on the court at one time.

Most states previously had switched from the half-court system, in which three players on each team played offense on one end and three on each team played defense exclusively.

The UIL vote, announced Saturday, narrowly passed 482 to 456 to adopt the standard five-on-five full-court basketball game used by boys for the girls as well.

But the changes will not take effect until the 1978-79 school year.

Husbands win new 'right'

A widower or a husband can get monthly benefits on his wife's social security record without proving dependence on her, under a recent decision by the United States Supreme Court.

Previously a man had to prove he was dependent on his wife to get benefits on her record if she retired, became disabled, or died after working long enough in jobs covered by social security. A woman did not have to prove she was dependent on her husband to get benefits on his record.

Starting with payments for March 1977, neither men nor women have to prove dependency. Husbands and wives can get reduced social security payments starting at 62 or full payments starting at 65.

Widowers and widows can get payments starting at 60; or starting at 50 if they are disabled.

Men who think they may be eligible under the court ruling can get information about applying for benefits by calling or writing any social security office, according to Jim Latimer, social security field representative in Post.

Phone union rejects General's pay offer

SAN ANGELO — Talks between General Telephone of the Southwest and Communications Workers of America Local 12171 reached the economic stages last week May 2-6 with the union rejecting a $13 million wage package that would amount to a 21.2 percent wage increase over a three-year period.

The union maintains the offer is insufficient in that it lacks either a cost of living adjustment or provision for reopening wage negotiations in the second or third year of the contract.

In addition, the union is opposed to the company's requested restructuring of certain jobs for a more appropriate ranking throughout the company.

The company is seeking to change job classifications based on skill, effort, responsibility and working conditions. The study of jobs conducted by the company shows most jobs were appropriately ranked. However, over the years changing technology, methods, practices, systems and other factors have caused some positions to become either overranked or underranked.

The proposal calls for adjustments through instant upgrades of the underrated jobs and a slowed wage progression for those overranked positions.

Union officials have indicated they are issuing a strike vote ballot to members. Such a vote would give the committee the authority to call a strike at anytime after the current contract expires May 15 if the committee feels negotiations are not progressing.

The union cites lack of satisfactory wages, wage reopening or cost of living adjustments, pension improvements, updating of life and hospitalization insurance, vacation and holiday improvements, dental plan and job downgrades as issues not resolved or unacceptable.

Fabulous Fallacies!

"Blind as a bat" is a well-known phrase, but actually many bats can see, although they have no night vision. Better than eyes is their sonar equipment that measures the echo of their squeaks.

Some people fear that pet food manufacturers use food that would be better given to people. But the meat and grain by-products—which are the principal ingredients of pet food—don't come out of the supply of food for human consumption. Although nutritious for dogs and cats, these by-products and feed grains are different from those in human food products.

Most people believe that gorillas are fierce, belligerent animals. But although they are commonly portrayed that way in cartoons and movies, they are actually slow, passive, moody beasts.

18 students inducted into honor society

Eighteen students from Post High School were tapped as new members of the National Honor Society

First place, second place, third place and last place! My athletic career started and ended in the latter. I guess that some of us were just not born to be athletes. I can remember working out day after day after day and all that I would ever come up with was two sore legs, a backache, and malfunction of the stomach (which in this case meant throwing up from inexplicable exertion.)

During the district track meets, I was one of the most important figures. I was the great leader who held the string while the boys crossed the finish line. It was an exhausting experience.

Once, when I did get to run track, I ran and ran and ended up in last place. But that's not the sad part. The sad part is that before crossing the finish line, I fainted dead in my tracks. My basketball record is not any better. My shooting record was about 1 in 50, and that was usually by accident.

I remember that I was so excited in the eighth grade because I got to play in the opening football game. But the next morning proved disastrous for I broke my ribs during practice. The embarrassing part of it was that the guy that I was tackling was supposed to feel the pain, not me. I can remember going to the doctor's office one time and he told me that I had athlete's foot which I thought was the preliminary step to becoming another Jessie Owens. Guess I was wrong!

But you know, being an athlete just makes some people want to just wish that way.

Cheerleaders are chosen

Cheerleaders for the next school year were chosen last week. Chosen were Cindy Kirkpatrick, head; Kelly Mitchell, Debbie Wyatt, Nancy Clary, Susan Sawyers, Karen Perkins, and Sharon Johnson, alternate. The girls tried out in front of the student body and then the students used their judgement in the choosing. Others that tried out were Beth Elliott, Sylvia Curtis, Christie Workman and Nancy McCowen.

The girls plan to give PHS their best next year, and with their kind of gymnastic ability and loud voices we're sure that they will carry the job off beautifully!

during second period, Monday, May 9. Following the tapping ceremony, in which current members filed through the halls of PHS sounding a chime, a reception was held for the new members.

Members were selected by a faculty council for meeting high standards of scholarship, service, leadership, and character.

Students inducted were as follows: Senior, Carita Wood; Juniors, Karla Kennedy, Gloria Martinez, Nancy McCowen, Steve Shedd, Debbie Wyatt, Danna Giddens; Also Sophomores, Shorty Bilberry, Lisa Cowdrey, Belinda Fluitt, Nita Gunn, Matt Lemon, Kerri Pool, Dale Redman, Larisa Shiver, Teri Taylor, Cindy Terry and Debbie Tyler.

"National Honor Society Members are expected to continue their outstanding contributions to the school and community," said Mrs. Linn, faculty adviser. Mrs. Joy Pool, also an adviser, remarked that she was looking forward to working with the new members.

The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and most prestigious national organizations for high school students. Chapters exist in three-fourths of the nation's high schools and since 1921, more than six million students have been selected to membership.

Sponsors for the contest were Coaches Chili Black and Mickey Long.

Post marine takes course

Marine Staff Sergeant George E. Rudd, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Rudd of 108 E. tenth and whose wife, Judy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Lofton of 616 W. Fourth St., all of Post, has recently completed the Staff Non-Commissioned Officer (SNCO) Leadership Course.

During the course at El Toro, Marine Corps Air Station, Santa Ana, Calif., students received instruction on personnel administration, Marine Corps history and traditions, infantry tactics and techniques of effective leadership. Practical application periods on close order drill and a rigorous physical fitness program complemented the classroom instruction.

A 1969 graduate of Post High School, he joined the Marine Corps in December 1969.

of central treatment plant needed.

Results showed that sprinkler irrigation is more economical for irrigating grassland and subirrigation more economical for shade trees. The latter, however, requires extensive filtration of the effluent, which process increases treatment costs.

Young also found that pressure collection was more economical than gravity collection.

Total system costs per second home are estimated to be comparable to the alternative costs for individual septic tanks.

Treatment plant proposed at lake

LUBBOCK — A Texas Tech University professor wants to kill two birds with one stone at White River Lake — save the lake from pollution and increase the beauty of the area.

Dr. Kenneth B. Young of the Agricultural Economics Faculty has evaluated a plan to replace individual septic tanks with a central treatment plant and to reuse the treated wastewater to irrigate shade trees and grass. His proposal could be adapted to other water-centered recreational areas because environmental problems at White River Lake are typical of other lake projects in West Texas, according to Young.

Cost per second home is comparatively economical.

Research shows that soils surrounding the lake are not suitable for septic tank drainage. There are currently 252 second homes and a few designated public camping areas at the lake site, each with individual septic tank disposal units.

"No wastewater pollution in the lake has been reported so far, but further development could cause a build up of toxic materials from septic tank drainage to occur in the lake. Because of this, development has been restricted until a solution can be found," Young said.

"White River Lake could be much more popular as a recreational site if there were some shade trees and grass around it. We can't afford, however, to use the lake for irrigation. White River Lake is an important source of municipal water. It must be conserved for that use.

"The proposed public system offers major advantages over septic tanks in safe-guarding the municipal water supply from pollution and in providing irrigation benefits for home owners and day visitors."

His research compared two sewage collection systems, pressure and gravity, and two irrigation systems, sprinkler and subirrigation, and their relation to the type

City calls---

(Continued From Page One) went along to increasing employes benefits by computing benefits at a six percent interest rate rather than five percent.

The plan will take effect June 1 and will provide monthly retirement benefits with the employes contributing the rest. Employes could receive benefits at age 65 providing they have been in the plan 10 years by the time they reach their 65th birthday.

Insurance officials will explain the plan in detail to city employes at a 9 a. m. meeting May 17.

Harold Lucas, chairman of the city-county airport board, appeared before the council to explain the board wants to erect a 20 by 50 foot terminal building at the airport with phone and restroom facilities for flyers as a part of an airport improvement program. He estimated the building will cost between $10,000 and $15,000.

Lucas had appeared before the county commissioners court that morning with a similar request.

County officials present told the council they had approved $5,000 for the building. The city told Lucas it still had $4,124 left in airport funds in its current budget which could be used for that purpose, and asked him to come back when he had building plans and cost estimates.

The council adopted on second and final reading an ordinance, appearing on page 4 of today's Dispatch, which will make it unlawful for local service stations to wash their driveways because the residue which is washed into the streets damages the paving.

Service Station Manager Joe McCowen and other service station owners were listed on the council's agenda to appear against enactment of the ordinance, but did not show up at the meeting.

County Judge Giles Dalby and County Commissioner Ted Aten appeared before the council to discuss the joint financing of several projects, including "meals on wheels", additional funds for city-county park, which is covered in a separate Dispatch story, and from $5,000 from each for the airport terminal building.

The county is prepared to finance these programs from its federal sharing funds jointly with the city, the council was told. The council said it was in general agreement but needed to hold its hearing first before acting on "meals on wheels."

The two county officials also said the county is ready to share the cost of an additional eight to 12 block of city paving with the city this summer. The curb and guttering costs are up to the city because this would enhance the value of the fronted property and raise legal questions.

Councilman Jim Jackson was named to replace former councilman Ed Sawyers on the joint city-county law enforcement committee as one of the city's two representatives.

The council decided to wait two weeks before naming a new White River water district director to replace Ed Bruton, who has resigned prior to his departure from Post with a Burlington promotion.

The council also heard from a group of high school students on a park project, listened to a "meals on wheels" financial request, and put off until the public hearing on revenue sharing funds, a request for an increased contribution to the summer recreation program.

In one of their final actions, they wrote "finis" to the future use of the city fire truck in hospital tax levy increase elections by passage of a several hundred word resolution drawn up by attorney Morton at the council's request at its April meeting.

The resolution was entitled: "Usage of City Equipment and Facilities." It sets up a strict procedure requiring written requests for usage of city equipment to the city secretary with the city manager given the sole authority to grant or reject such requests.

When asked if the resolution was similar to those of other cities, Morton replied to his knowledge no other city had need of one.

Mobile unit to aid vets

This is the fourth consecutive year that one of these 36-foot mobile offices has toured the state, providing free counseling and claims service to veterans and their families. The DAV Field Service Unit will be located at the South Plains Mall from 10:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m.

The traveling veterans' service facility will be manned by DAV National Service Officers who are fully qualified to assist veterans or their families in filing claims for Federal and State benefits to which they are entitled by law — disability compensation, pension, employment job training, education, hospitalization and medical care, social security, death claims and other matters.

Free assistance for veterans and their families will be available locally when a Field Service Unit of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) visits Lubbock next Thursday, May 19.

During the first three years of the DAV's nationwide tour with its fleet of 9 Field Service Units, 150,000 veterans and dependents contracted the mobile offices for assistance. As a result of these visits, DAV National Service Officers filed 7,600 new claims and re-opened another 46,000 claims for veterans benefits. A veteran need not be a DAV member to take advantage of this free service.

Postings-

It's been so long since anybody built a "new home" in Post we hope a lot of interest is shown and more badly needed homes are built.

Post is losing a pair of long time residents today when Mr. and Mrs. Joe DeArmon pack out their furniture on the moving van and head for their new "six acre spread" near Gilmer.

Joe told us this week that he will be within an hour's driving time of ten lakes so that ought to put Joe just about next door to heaven, Joe loving to fish like he does.

They moved to Post over 30 years ago on Feb. 17, 1947, when the postwar oil push got rolling after World War II. Joe says he plans from now on to concentrate on fishing, mowing his lawn, and working in his garden. Their new address is route 3, Box 10, Gilmer, Tex.

Ron Ines, the meteorologist from Lubbock who spoke at the Rotary Club Tuesday, fielded a lot of tornado questions with aplomb. In answer to one question as to why recently one Lubbock TV station showed a storm at Post while another showed nothing while a storm was in progress, Ines explained each Lubbock station had its own weather radar set. He admitted some were better than others, but wouldn't tell Rotarians which station to watch.

Park help---

(Continued From Page One) He also reported the pool was in need of a new diving board, $370; four new pool ladders costing $741, and an estimated $1,200 additional cost to rebuild the diving board platform.

"Our biggest request is to provide shade for mothers at the swimming pool, but we have no cost estimate on that or any agreed solution to the problem," Herron told the council.

He added that "we have lots of requests for park improvements we can't consider because we don't have the money."

County Judge Giles Dalby and County Commissioner Ted Aten, who attended the evening council meeting to discuss several joint funding with the city, told the council that the commissioners court had agreed to provide the park board with an extra $1,500 this year from revenue sharing funds if the city would match it.

That was no problem for School board-

(Continued From Page One) Fluitt, first grade teacher, and authorized the employment of Mrs. Dorothy McCook to replace her for the rest of May.

Accepted the three following low bids for the 1977-78 school year:

Borden Milk Co., 9.95 cents per half pint for plain or chocolate milk for lunchroom

Joe McCowen, Texaco, $22.50 for wash, grease and oil change of school buses.

The Post Dispatch, $472.45 for printing the football program.

Decided to rebid the gasoline and oil bids because of an obvious discrepancy, and not to accept any bids on anti-freeze because the schools had enough coolant left over from last year.

Voted to continue contractual arrangements with the Service Center for driver education, media services, title funds and computer services for both the tax office and central office.

Took no action because of cost to offer an art program in high school next year, although 83 high school students had enrolled for possible art courses for 1977-78.

Heard a report from Supt. Shiver that Joe Boerner of the schools' law firm is studying the handling of all the sales of tax delinquent property and will make his report and recommendations to the board in the near future.

Authorized up to $400 to the Satellite School Committee through Aug. 31 as needed to pay $30 a month rent on facilities, cost of telephone and salary raise for aide.

County-

Five thousand dollars for a terminal building for the city-county airport to come either from revenue sharing, or regular county funds, depending when it is needed.

Also, $10,000 to each of the four commissioner precincts, $17,000 for rural fire protection, $4,550 commission to county treasurer's office.

Funds for the summer recreation program also were assured.

A balance, but not a big one, may be left in the fund for future spending.

the city. It had $1,500 budgeted for park improvements so authorized a like amount to the park board.

But council members wanted to lighten the financial loan even more.

They propose to return $3,000 of the $6,400 the park board owes the city when the park board clears its account with the city to give the park board an added $3,000 cushion.

Since this involves a change in the city budget, which requires by law a public hearing, the council set its June meeting for a public hearing on such a budget change.

But this wasn't all the park board got Monday night either.

A group from Joe Giddens' high school health class appeared before the council with an offer to take on a written list of park improvements as a group project in the next three weeks before school is out if the city would authorize Green Thumb help and pay the cost of paint and lumber.

The council gave its approval for the group's "park improvement project" but advised the students and Giddens to work through the city-county park board and to submit their bills to the park board for payment via the $1,500 in park aid the city had just voted.

The group's park improvement plan included repairing picnic table benches which have been broken off by vandalism, repairing and repainting equipment in the park's recreation area, placing of additional trash cans over the park, installing additional water fountains, and providing more benches throughout the park.

The project proposal was presented to the council in written form and the group was on hand with Giddens to discuss the project with the council and answer questions.

Members of the group are Virginia Fuentes, Paula Perez, Diana Hernandez, Charlotte Medlin, Mike Hair, Timmy Dudley, Ricky Sanchez, and Isela Rosas.

Hospital-

The administrator estimated $189,000 additional income for the hospital in the final six months, which would leave about a $50,000 deficit to be handled through the bank loan.

Directors wound up the meeting around 10 p.m. (after a 6:30 p.m. start) discussing whether they could move fast enough on new heating-cooling units for individual rooms to get them installed before cool weather in the fall.

More advice and cost estimates will be sought by Hunsaker before the next meeting. The only estimate on such units made so far is "about $40,000."

At the start of the meeting, Jackson and Alexander were sworn in for new two-year terms and the board reelected the same officers for another year—Wayne Childers, chairman, Bo Jackson, vice chairman, and Gene Moore, secretary.

"It is a great obstacle to happiness to expect too much," Bernard De Fontenelle
