N. Viets Shell Fuel Boat Going To Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong gunners on an island in the Mekong River shelled a South Vietnamese landing boat loaded with gasoline and other fuels today. The boat exploded, sending greasy black smoke several hundred feet into the air.

Guarded by two South Vietnamese gunboats hugging its sides, the boat was hit as it tried to run a blockade about 25 miles south of Phnom Penh. It was taking the fuel to the Cambodian capital, where gasoline is rationed and in extreme short supply.

The boat was ablaze and drifting downstream late in the afternoon.

A South Vietnamese officer said the number of casualties aboard the boat or to the ambush troops from the gunboats' return fire was unknown.

The attack occurred from an island in a narrows of the Mekong, witnesses said. The boats were ferrying the fuel from Neak Luong, seven miles further downstream, and were trying to negotiate a series of enemy ambushes from islands and from the east bank of the river when the landing craft was hit.

Two tankers arrived in Phnom Penh today after enemy gunners shelled their convoy escort twice Tuesday, the Cambodia command announced.

The command said one sailor was killed and three wounded in the ambush 39 miles southeast of the capital.

There were unofficial reports that one tanker was hit by recoilless cannon fire in the earlier attack, but the command announced only that seven sailors were wounded.

Premier Lon Nol's government has been forced to convoy petroleum cargoes up the Mekong from South Vietnam since November when Communist troops cut Highway 4, the land link between Phnom Penh and the coast.

Gasoline now is severely rationed in the capital. Government officials said last month the city had less than three weeks' gasoline, but river convoys have reached the capital since then.

The Cambodian military spokesman announced today that Lon Nol inspected the southwestern front along Highway 4 this week and that his helicopter arrived at Kompong Seila soon after enemy mortar shells and rockets began falling there.

The spokesman said Kompong Seila, about 65 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, is the "center of resistance" and is under daily attack.

TRAFFIC SLOWED — Traffic was slowed considerably on Interstate-40 in and around the Amarillo area as blizzard-like conditions prevailed over the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles Tuesday after 40 mile per hour winds caused snow to drift as high as four feet in northern portions. (AP Wirephoto)

Cold weather is one of the many things that produce discomfort when they occur, but make better and better stories in the future. Consequently, each cold spell brings out its share of stories about weather in the past and how the people faced up to it.

Around the coffee table Tuesday morning, Jack McGlaun recalled winter nights when every suitable vessel was filled with water so that the valve on the water service line could be turned off to keep the line from freezing. It was really cold in those days.

And just think, observed George Patterson, how cold it really was when you had to break the ice the next morning on the buckets and pans filled with water on such occasions which froze solid, although kept inside the house all night.

Current cold spells never have a chance.

But there have been enough real cold spells in recent winters to dispel the talk back in the fifties about the possibility of a general warming trend which might eventually melt the ice cap in the polar regions and immerse the earth in water again.

During discussion about the purchase of a new ambulance at Monday night's city council meeting, it was mentioned that efforts are being made to establish federal requirements for the operation of ambulances. For one thing, standardized vehicles and equipment are being recommended and eventually they probably will be required. Moreover, a federal regulation has been proposed that would require a minimum of two persons with first aid certificates to travel in each ambulance. This undoubtedly would upgrade the service, but you also could count on it reducing the scope of service even further at a time when many cities, large and small, are having problems in providing any ambulance service at all.

A new type of doctor's degree for college teachers has been proposed by the Carnegie Higher Education Commission. It has proposed that only scholars going into research be granted the doctor of philosophy (Ph. D) degree. A doctor of arts degree is proposed for professors in senior colleges and universities, with an intermediate degree between the bachelors and doctors degrees for senior high school and community college teachers.

Bitter Cold Keeps Grip On Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bitter cold kept a numbing grip on Texas today and prospects were seen for snow spreading from West Texas as far east as the Fort Worth-Dallas area and as far south as San Antonio.

Travel warnings were up for extreme West Texas, primarily in the El Paso vicinity, where occasionally heavy snow fell during the night.

Thermometers plunged below zero again in the Texas Panhandle, going as far down as -9 at Perryton before dawn, and freezing weather extended southward to Jasper, Houston, Karnes City and Crystal City.

National Weather Service observers reported a huge mass of frigid air was trapped over the state, and looked for an influx of clouds to bring moisture in most sections tonight or Thursday.

Extended forecasts held out scant prospects for warming before Saturday.

Most of the latest snowfall peppered down in and around El Paso, closing some streets, and in the Hueco mountains toward the east, where highway patrolmen said 40 miles of U.S. 62-180 were ice glazed and dangerous. All routes were reported open, however.

While skies cleared in the Panhandle and over parts of far West Texas and some areas in East Texas, clouds thickened to the south and light drizzle fell near the coast from Brownsville toward Harlingen. The moisture was expected to move inalnd.

Official forecasts spoke of a slight chance for intermittent snow from around Fort Worth and Dallas southward to San Antonio, where it last fell in a trace recorded Dec. 30, 1969. A possibility of freezing rain mixed with the snow was predicted in the Alamo City.

The weather service said as much as three inches of new snow appeared likely in parts of extreme Southwest Texas by day's end.

Chances were seen for intermittent light snow ending tonight in north central sections of the state, occasional rain or freezing rain and snow in the south central and southeast sections tonight and Thursday, occasional light snow or possibly freezing rain in the southwest through Thursday, and intermittent light snow again by late Thursday in the northwest.

At Perryton in the upper Panhandle, most of the four inches of snow which fell earlier remained on the ground in scattered small drifts which crunched underfoot in the subzero chill.

Early morning temperatures at other points included Dalhart 2 below zero, Amarillo 1 above, Lubbock and Marfa 2.

State Bank Deposits Set Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Preliminary reports indicated today that Texas bank deposits—usually a barometer of business health—set all-time records at the end of 1970.

The high bank deposits indicated that although there have been soft spots here and there in the Texas economy, business remains sound in the face of what some term a general recession in the nation.

The general strength of the state economy had been pointed up earlier by other indicators.

The survey was made after the State Banking Commission and the U.S. comptroller of the currency asked for reports from all bank on their condition as of Dec. 31.

Texas banks for innumerable years have shown general increases in deposits each quarter as compared with a year earlier.

Harris County (Houston) remained the top banking center in Texas in amount of deposits as of Dec. 31, but Dallas was close behind.

Harris County set an all-time record with deposits of $5,971,725,874, compared with $5,284,623,931 one year ago.

Dallas deposits were $5,742,905,216, compared with $5,154,768,770 at the end of 1969.

Victoria reported a record, $191,461,833, compared with a year-ago total of $182,243,243,766.

Taylor County's bank deposits, also an all-time record, were $214,130,998. A year ago they were $191,745,629. Banks in Abilene, the principal city of Taylor County, had deposits Dec. 31 of $204,508,637, a record, compared with $183,[illegible] a year ago.

Dole Confirms Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert J. Dole confirmed today he is President Nixon's choice to take over the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee.

He said opposition from among his Republican colleagues has waned.

Dole, of Kansas, said in an interview his primary job as chairman will be to "re-elect Richard Nixon in 1972."

Dole's appointment to the post is expected to be officially confirmed by the committee during its annual meeting here next week.

Bank Deposits Set New Record

Snyder bank deposits and loans set new all-time records at the end of 1970.

This was revealed today in statements issued by both banks in response to calls from regulatory agencies.

For the first time in history, bank deposits here surged beyond the $35-million mark, with the total at the close of business on Dec. 31 amounting to $38,047,170.36.

Also, for the first time in history, loans were at a new peak of $18,022,244.40, marking the first time that the $18-million mark had been reached.

The deposits eclipsed the record set just two months earlier when the total was $34,529,976.17. The current total also represents a tremendous gain over figures for one year earlier. The total here at the close of 1969 was $32,650,824.33.

The loan total two months ago, or Oct. 28, effective date of the third quarter call for 1969, was $17,710,503.86, which at that time set a new record. The loan total at the close of 1969 was $16,394,550.59.

As of the close of business on Dec. 31, 1970, West Texas State Bank reported deposits totalling $15,303,414.89 and loans of $6,009,429.69.

Snyder National Bank reported deposits of $22,743,755.47 and loans of $12,012,814.71.

New Program Unveiled To Combat GI Drug Abuse

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today unveiled a sweeping new program to combat drug abuse among American forces in Vietnam. It includes search-and-destroy operations with marijuana plants as the target.

A 64-page directive to all field commanders estimated that more than 65,000 GIs were guilty of drug abuse during 1970, including more than 11,000 apprehended or investigated and five times as many who escaped detection.

It was the U.S. Command's first public acknowledgment that drugs have become one of its major problems.

The command said that of 9,253 drug violations by American troops during the first 10 months of last year, 7,065 were for use or possession of marijuana, 1,452 for use or possession of such "dangerous" drugs as amphetamines, barbiturates or LSD, and 736 for use or possession of narcotics, mostly heroin or opium.

The Army also has reported that during the first 10½ months of 1970, there were 25 confirmed drug deaths among Americans in Vietnam, another 64 fatalities in which drugs were suspected, and more than 700 hospital cases related to drugs.

The directive from Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, orders his subordinate commanders throughout the country to conduct ground and air search operations to locate marijuana plants, and to "utilize their resources, equipment and personnel in assisting the South Vietnamese government in eradicating the unlawful growing of marijuana," when the eradication work does not interfere with military operations.

The directive adds that while U.S. forces will search for marijuana, "under no circumstances will such fields, once discovered, be destroyed by U.S. forces."

Deaths Due To Asphyxiation

FORT WORTH (AP) — An elderly Fort Worth couple, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wolf, were found dead in their home today.

Investigators blamed the deaths on asphyxiation from an open gas heater which was still burning. The couple is believed to have been dead for several days.

Labor To Fight Antistrike Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor has vowed an all-out fight in Congress against President Nixon's attempt to win a new antistrike law and some other high-priority White House legislation.

"It's going to be a year of legislative fighting," said a spokesman for AFL-CIO President George Meany after Secretary of Labor J.D. Hodgson said the strike bill will have top White House priority.

"We will oppose compulsory arbitration any time, any place," the spokesman for the 13.6-million member labor federation said Tuesday.

Hodgson said the Nixon administration will press for the nation's first new strike law in a quarter century to deal with such "national emergency strikes" in transportation as the recently postponed nationwide railroad walkout. Congress on Dec. 10 passed a special law halting that strike, but it could resume March 1.

"Such strikes become something like an industrial H-bomb," Hodgson said.

The Nixon strike bill will be similar to one that got nowhere in Congress last year. It would give the president power to delay strikes up to 110 days, allow partial strikes against an essential industry or set up an impartial board to set a binding settlement.

Hodgson said other major Nixon goals in the new Congress include another try at the family assistance plan for welfare reform; turning most federal job-training programs over to the states; federal revenue sharing with financially strapped cities and states; further efforts to get more job opportunities for Negroes, and an attempt to curb what he called astronomical construction wage increases.

Muskie, Ford Use Bank Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential hopeful Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford are listed as receiving donations from a controversial bank campaign fund whose money was spurned by 18 other congressmen.

The Bankers Political Action Committee, now under investigation on two fronts, told Congress in a year-end report it wound up with $120,000 it couldn't give away.

At least 16 representatives, all serving on the House Banking Committee, and two senators are listed as turning down checks from the bank group.

But the final report by the campaign fund shows six other senators and 37 congressmen received a total of 167,000 in contributions, almost all of it in the last few days before the election.

Muskie, a member of the Senate Banking Committee, got $2,500 in campaign help from the group.

Ford and Democratic Whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana were listed as receiving bank fund contributions of $2,000 each.

The bank report also shows $1,000 given to Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

A House investigating committee is due to send its findings to Congress next Monday after a two-month probe of the bank contributions.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, asked for a Justice Department investigation also. Patman charged the bankers' donations were aimed at influencing the fate of a regulatory bill pending in the lame-duck session of Congress.

Of the 26 recipients listed in a pre-election report by the bank fund, all except eight rejected the contributions amid the controversy that resulted. Muskie was one of the eight whose campaign committees accepted the money, the final statement shows.

The bank fund, in its year-end report, said it also gave last-minute donations to 34 more candidates—all of them incumbents. And it added another $2,500 for newly elected Sen. William E. Brock, R-Tenn., one week after he won his tight race over incumbent Albert Gore.

Included among the latest recipients were nine of the 15 members of the House Rules Committee, the powerful panel that clears bills for House action.

Reader comments on mercy killings

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: In all that I have read concerning the subject of "mercy killing" I have yet to find what seems to me to be the most obvious answer.

Are not all those who are lying sick and helpless in their old age atoning for their past sins, and thus meriting heaven when they die? And by the same token, are not those caring for the sick ones [especially their relatives] securing for themselves a place in heaven?

And regarding putting suffering animals out of their misery, how can one compare humans to animals? An animal has no soul, and for an animal, death is final. However, humans do have souls, and the way we meet and bear up under life's trials and difficulties [especially incurable illnesses] will decide our fate in the hereafter. People today try to deny the fact of heaven and hell, and thus we've strayed so far from the basic truths. SANTA ANA

DEAR SANTA: You have a right to your opinion, but I couldn't disagree with you more! Come "Judgment Day," I believe we will be judged not on how we suffered and died, but how we have treated our fellow men and lived.

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on a letter written by the parents of a 19-year-old boy who wants to marry a girl who has had spinal surgery and is now an "invalid?"

Just who is the "invalid" in this case? Since when does a physical disability devaluate or eliminate all other mental and emotional capabilities?

Those parents, perhaps out of lack of understanding, are snobs. Their son shows more promise as a considerate human being than they do.

My seventh child was born three months after I was paralyzed from the waist down. [I suffered a spinal cord injury.] The rest of my life will be spent in a wheelchair. I have no bladder or bowel control and I am never without pain. My physical sex life is dead. My age is 46.

I am one of the luckier ones. Quadraplegics have a greater hell to live with. What is most difficult for me to endure is not my physical disabilities, but those who insist on judging me not on what I have—but on what I have left. Give me reevaluation—not pity.

I head my own household, have taken a foster son, drive my own car, do my own cleaning, cooking and shopping, and am going to college full-time. I go regularly to the V. A. hospital to visit the spinal cord ward, which is an oasis of the true meaning of life's real value in this sea of human disabled men—not invalids.

There is a myopia in today's society. Too many people judge others by their physical appearances and capabilities. Please print this letter, Abby. It's long overdue for those parents and many like them.

FBI Reports A Good Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — To FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, 1970 was a very good year.

More fugitives were located, more organized-crime figures convicted and more fingerprints checked than in any previous year in the agency's history, the FBI chief said today.

And, according to the FBI's arithmetic, it all was done at a profit:

"Fines, savings and recoveries in FBI investigations during the period reached the record figure of over $422 million, a return of $1.60 for every dollar appropriated for FBI operations," Hoover said in his annual report to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

However, Hoover reported a rise in new-left violence, aircraft hijackings and killings of police by black militants, and added:

"As long as crime continues to increase and dissident elements continue to strive violently to destroy our current way of life, law enforcement cannot afford to look back for long on past accomplishments, but must look ahead and seek new ways to meet old challenges."

In the calendar year 1970, Hoover said, 468 persons involved in organized crime were convicted as a result of FBI investigations. Convictions in 1969 totaled 319, the FBI said.

The FBI tracked down a record total of 32,000 fugitives wanted for violations of federal or state laws, including Angela Davis, who declared her innocence Tuesday to murder and kidnap charges in California.

Miss Davis was among several of the FBI's ten most-wanted fugitives to be captured in 1970. That list itself grew to a record number, totaling 16 before Miss Davis's apprehension in New York.

Although what Hoover termed "new-left terrorism" increased during the year, racial troubles in the schools took a turn for the better. While 160 racial incidents were reported in secondary schools since classes opened this fall, the figure is below the 299 recorded in the same period in 1969, Hoover said.

Urban racial disturbances, totaling 140 for the year, were down from the peak of the mid 1960s, Hoover said.

'Summit' Introduced By Wickes

ARGOS, Ind. — Wickes Homes, Inc., has announced introduction of another line of mobile homes, "Summit," bringing to five the number of major brands marketed by the firm. Others include Ritz-Craft, Valiant, Fashion Manor and Riviera.

Larry J. Ritzenthaler, president of Wickes Homes, Inc., said Summit will be an 'economy-priced' line and initially will be produced by the firm's Elkhart, Ind. plant. Plans for several models have been completed and are now in production.

The company is investigating a number of possible market areas and will expand production of the Summit line to more plants if the surveys prove favorable, according to Ritzenthaler.

The company offers a special sales program to dealers handling the Summit line. Dealerships are open. Further information on floor plans and pricing is available to qualified dealers who may query by phone or write Wickes Homes, Inc., Argos, Indiana.

The Summit mobile home is scheduled for introduction at the 35th National Mobile Home Show at Louisville.

Wickes Homes, Inc. operates plants in headquarters at Argos and in Elkhart, Ind.; Mifflinburg, Pa.; Maxton, N. C.; Thomasville, Ga.; Sarasota, Fla.; Vivian, La.; Neligh, Neb.; Snyder, Tex. and Chino, Calif.

Nixon Working On Speech

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — With the sound of his attack on the 91st Congress echoing through the near empty halls of Capitol Hill a continent away, President Nixon worked today on his greeting for the new Congress.

Nixon, spending the first day of at least a week's stay at the California White House, indicated he would be writing, sharpening his State of the Union address, which will renew calls for administration proposals rejected or not acted on by the 91st Congress.

Before leaving Washington Tuesday, the President said the just adjourned session "will be remembered and remarked upon in history, not so much for what it did, but for what it failed to do."

Republican congressional leaders said the attack was meant for the Democrats; congressional Democrats countered Nixon charges of failure with similar charges against the administration.

Veterans Get Assistance

Elmer Taylor, Scurry County Veterans Service Officer, has been commended for his work in 1970.

In a letter at the end of the year, Charles L. Morris, executive director, Veterans Affairs Commission, Austin, expressed appreciation to Taylor "for the faithful and competent services rendered our veterans and their families during the past year." Morris pledged continued cooperation of his office in assisting veterans.

"Veterans and their dependents also know of the important role that you have performed in behalf of them," Morris wrote Taylor. "Through the work of your office, your county has been enriched with veterans benefits in the amount of $387,734.

"The assistance given and the monetary benefits obtained contribute materially to the economy of your county, and awarding of benefits to these eligible veterans and their families is well-deserved payment for outstanding service rendered to the nation."

Lockheed Rejects Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp. rejected today the government's offer to settle its dispute on the controversial C5 transport plane project. The firm said it would seek to recover its losses through litigation.

Lockheed board chairman, Daniel J. Haughton, described the Pentagon's proposal for Lockheed to accept a $200-million "fixed loss" as "an excessive and unwarranted penalty."

Haughton said at a news conference that his company chose to take its case to the courts because "we have a strong legal position which should ultimately result in a finding substantially more favorable than the proposed fixed loss" offered last week by Deputy Secretary of Defense David M. Packard.

Under Packard's proposal, the Pentagon offered to settle the tangled dispute if Lockheed would take the $200 million fixed loss. Packard also offered an alternative plan—the route Haughton said Lockheed has chosen to go—which would involve drawn-out litigation.

Although Packard offered two proposals, he said the Pentagon preferred the fixed-loss plan. He estimated that, if Lockheed took its case to court, it stood the chance of possibly winding up with a $25-million profit or running its losses to as high as $480 million.

In a six-page letter to Packard, Haughton said Lockheed, the nation's largest defense contracting firm, probably would first take its case to the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals and if a favorable decision should not be forthcoming there, would appeal to the U.S. Court of Claims.

City Firemen Are Kept Busy

City Firemen answered three calls yesterday and two calls today.

They extinguished a fire in a pickup six miles north of town at 7:40 a.m. this morning, and they extinguished a grass fire at 11 o'clock this morning at Avenue G and Twenty-sixth Street. Owner of the vehicle is Junior Duke.

At 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, firemen extinguished a fire in a trailer house three miles southeast of town. Owner of the trailer is Nolan Treadway. Damage was minor.

A light shorted out at 125 E. Highway at 6:55 p.m. Tuesday.

A well house owned by C. W. Hilcher caught fire 1¼ miles southeast of Hermleigh at 9:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Skelton Is Identified

HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP) — A skeleton found in Hill County Tuesday has been identified as that of Willie Selman, aged about 48, of Fort Worth, missing since last July.

The sheriff's office here said there was no evidence Selman died as result of foul play although the case was still being investigated.

Selman was identified from the shoes he had been wearing and from his billfold which contained a driving license, officers said.

Battery Stolen

Thieves stole a battery from the pickup of G. M. Brown, 1007 Twenty-fourth Street, sometime between Dec. 22 and Jan. 5, according to a City Police report.

Young Moderns: How To Buy Home Furnishings

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Young married people try to stretch their pennies when they set up housekeeping, but some home furnishings are overpriced, poorly made and in bad taste.

The taste of an individual is a personal matter, and it may take years for a young person to educate herself to a better look in her home. But she can do something about getting her money's worth when she makes purchases for the home.

One giant step is being taken by some members of the home furnishings industry. More companies are endeavoring to explain what goes into their product in an attempt to educate dealers and salesmen.

At a recent home furnishings show at High Point, N.C., a sofa manufacturer had a sofa cut in half so that dealers and retailers could see what goes into the product and, hopefully, pass the information on to the consumer.

During the upcoming winter home furnishings show at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago, one company will show how their carpet is manufactured and a sewing machine manufacturer will display a profile of their machine showing how their needles tuft the carpet. It is all in the interest of showing the workmanship of the product.

Good companies are willing to tell what is in their product. But inferior merchandise often results from the manufacturer's efforts to market something inexpensive.

For example, a young girl saved money earned at an after-school job to buy a chest for her newly redecorated room. She had seen some campaign-style chests, but they were expensive. When she saw one advertised for $89, she bought it. But when it was delivered she noticed that the white lacquered side piece had a gash in it. The gash was a break in the thin surface and underneath was a saw dust like material.

Fortunately, she had purchased the piece from a reliable furniture store, and they were grateful to learn what the chest was made of. The store said it hadn't known, and the girl hadn't asked. She had been more interested in the color, size, hardware and price. She had assumed it was wood, she said.

In choosing a piece of furniture, buyers should be sure to learn all about it before they make a purchase. If the salesman is not specific he should be made to clarify his statements. Many people are intimidated by store personnel. They shouldn't be. They should keep in mind that they are spending their own money not the salesman's.

Supense Novel Is Intriguing

THE ORGANIZATION. By David Anthony. Coward-McCann. $5.95.

In this fast paced mixture of gunplay and sex, against a background of underworld treachery, the protagonist is Stanley Bass, an honest, small time gambler—poker—and part-time sleuth in San Francisco.

Stanley happens to know Jack Prince, a casino figure from Las Vegas, whose boss is the head of a criminal syndicate known as The Organization. Prince offers Stanley a job with the mob, but Stanley stays honest and turns down the offer.

Stanley meets a beautiful young woman, Brandy Kirkpatrick, and is shocked to learn that Brandy is bent on revenging her sister's suicide by killing the man she believes was responsible—Jack Prince. Falling in love with Brandy, Stanley talks her into the idea that the two of them should rob Prince of a $200,000 chunk of the mob's money, and let the mob kill him as a double-crosser.

At this early stage of the narrative, the reader might have a feeling that the plot is contrived. He would be right, but the author has planned it that way, for reasons which became apparent later.

Eventually Stanley is in flight for his life from both the police and the gangsters. But he assumes a new identity and makes his way back to San Francisco to straighten things out. That involves a battle of wits with an industrial tycoon who has secret ties with The Organization, and at the finish there is some bloody business to settle.

Call it a suspense novel, or thriller, or whatever, it is sharply written, has a sufficient number of plot switches and should satisfy the fans who enjoy spice with their gunplay.

Foods Of Ancient Alsace

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

A French province I visited all too briefly some years ago was Alsace, an ancient storybook land of cobbled streets where a couple of dollars puts you up at a friendly inn with a real feather bed.

The province also boasts some fine restaurants where for a reasonable sum you can buy a delectable meal and wash it down with one of the fine Alsatian wines. And the wines of Alsace are truly beautiful, from the smooth white Rieslings and Traminers to the Sylvaners and Gewurztraminers.

Alsace and neighboring Lorraine have often come under German domination over the years. This is reflected in their hearty German cooking, particularly in Alsace whose chefs perform feats of magic with sausages and sauerkraut.

The flatlands of Lorraine rise gently into the high farmlands of Alsace whose soil is considered by many to be the most fertile in all of France.

It is true dairy country with its crusty breads, its croissants covered with coarse sugar and its creamy munster cheese.

A good way to visit Alsace is to fly to Strasbourg and then drive by rented car down to Colmar. South from Strasbourg off the Route Nationale onto the winding Route des Vins and you are journeying back into the 14th century.

In the crisp days of autumn when the grape harvest is in full swing, university students, and wine lovers often work their way through the lush Alsatian vineyards helping the crew picking the grapes.

Wine is the principal preoccupation of Alsace, but a close rival is the famed pate de foi gras made from the livers of the plump geese raised in the region. Next in importance is the sleek pig and the province has become famous for its fragrant hams. Both the porkers and the beef cattle which graze on the fertile slopes of the Vosges Mountains contribute to the dazzling variety of Alsatian sausages.

Visit a charcuterie or processed-meat shop in most any Alsatian village and you'll see a rich display of pork, beef, veal and garlic sausages, homemade pates and cooked meats strung in neat rows from the ceiling and along the walls.

The French custom of stuffing vegetables in order to combine several flavors is popular in Alsace where the cooks stuff red cabbage with a puree of chestnuts and simmer the combination in red wine laced with the rich, creamy local butter.

My favorite Alsatian dish is one the natives have been perfecting for five centuries. It is a mouth-watering mixture of sauerkraut simmered in Gewurztraminer and cooked with four varieties of pork. The name is Choucroute Garni, and I learned it from Jean Pierre Stoehr, an Alsatian chef in New York.

CHOUCROUTE GARNI

1½ lbs sauerkraut
4 oz lard
¼ lb onion, finely sliced
1 clove minced garlic
8 oz Gewurztraminer
Salt and pepper to taste
¾ lb lean smoked loin of pork uncooked
Pinch thyme
1 bay leaf
2 cloves
½ oz juniper berries
¼ lb frankfurters
¼ lb knockwurst
½ lb boiled ham
1 lb peeled potatoes

Mash sauerkraut in warm water and strain. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Use a large casserole with cover which can be placed in oven. Smother onion slightly in lard 10 minutes, add garlic 3 minutes.

Add wine, sauerkraut, salt and pepper and mix well. Add loin of pork and spices wrapped in cheese cloth. Add water up to 2 inches below level of sauerkraut.

Bring to boil, cover and place in oven for about two hours, until meat is cooked. Fifteen minutes before, add frankfurter, knockwurst and ham. Cook potatoes separately.

Serve on platter with kraut heaped in center and fringed by potatoes and meat both sliced, adding some on top of kraut. Serves 4. Good with a chilled bottle of Gewurztraminer.

Sullivan Respected By Top Men Of Industry

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In being named a director of the mighty General Motors Corp., the world's largest industrial empire, Dr. Leon Howard Sullivan, has earned acceptance from what many people consider "the establishment's" peak.

Less than a decade ago, however, Sullivan was distrusted and avoided by many Philadelphia white businessmen, who feared the black minister's advocacy of selective patronage.

As originally expounded, Sullivan's philosophy had a simple goal: "Don't buy where you can't work." But it has evolved into more aggressively positive programs, and white cooperation has grown simultaneously.

Perhaps best known of his programs is the Opportunities Industrialization Centers of America, an organization with 90 branches, all devoted to training blacks and other minorities for work in business and industry.

Sullivan is widely known and respected in the top echelons of industry, and has as associates and advisers some of the best known names in corporate life.

While there seems little doubt that pressures from minority groups had much to do with his selection, executives familiar with Sullivan's record feel he is highly qualified on the basis of business experience and acumen alone.

After a harrowing year in which one brokerage house after another toppled into liquidation, Wall Streeters believe that the beginning of a firm foundation are finally being laid beneath the securities industry.

Few officials, either on the government or the industry side, now try to hide the incredible mismanagement and structural weakness that led to the 1970 debacle and threatened to bring the entire industry down.

While there remains a long road to be traveled before the confidence of individuals in their brokers is restored—most of the recent heavy trading has been by institutions—signs indicate that the stock market will be a safer haven for small investors than it has been in the past.

Chief of the changes is the passage by Congress of the Securities Investor Protection Act, which will lead to the creation of a nonprofit corporation to insure customers for up to $50,000 each if a broker fails to meet his obligations to them.

France Changes Drug Law

PARIS (AP) — France has started the new year with a new approach to the drug problem—cure rather than punishment of drug takers and a sharp increase in penalties for manufacturers and pushers.

The new law reflects the recent increase in drug taking and pressure from the United States to do something about the heroin factories in Marseille, where raw drugs from the Middle East are processed for shipment to the United States.

For the first time, use of drugs rather than simple possession is a crime. But proceedings may be suspended if the addict agrees to undergo remedial treatment. And judges may order drug addicts to undergo treatment at approved institutions in lieu of jail terms or fines.

Addicts are also guaranteed anonymity if they turn themselves in voluntarily for treatment.

Womack Gets Ten Years

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Ten years in prison is the penalty assessed Marshall Womack, 44, for conspiring to swindle the Odessa Home Savings & Loan Association of more than $1 million.

U. S. Dist. Judge Ernest Guinn sentenced Womack, from Bedford, to 25 years Tuesday but suspended 15 of those years. He also fined Womack $5,000 and ordered him to pay all costs of his trial.

Womack was convicted of conspiracy, falsifying records, sharing in proceeds and misapplying funds while an officer of the association.

Five-year prison terms were set for Kenneth L. Musgrave of Dallas, formerly president of the Odessa firm, and Jack Bryant of Abilene, lawyer for Musgrave. They were convicted with Womack last October at Pecos and now are free under appeal bonds.

The Pecos jury found Homer Koon Jr. of Gainesville innocent in the case.

Junior Editors Quiz on HOMING PIGEONS

QUESTION: How does a homing pigeon find its way home?

ANSWER: Pigeons have been domesticated from 3000 B. C., when they are known to have been raised in Egypt. Their natural ability to find their way back to the home roost, even if carried away from it, was noticed in early times. This was developed by mating birds with the strongest homing instincts. Such pigeons would be raised in government centers and then carried along with armies or travellers. When there was news to be sent back, a message would be attached to a pigeon's leg and the bird would be released, to fly by the shortest route back home. Even modern armies and navies have used pigeons in this way. Flights as long as 2,300 miles have been made. Just why homing pigeons should have such powerful homing instincts is not exactly understood, nor can experts tell us just how they find their way. It has been suggested that they are sensitive to electro-magnetic forces of the earth and that they may use sun and stars as navigational helps. But, like the yearly migration of birds, more remains to be found out before we can give a definite answer. 1-6

(Cindy Creer of Salem, Ohio, wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

1971 May Prove Interesting

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — What lies ahead in 1971?

Well, it won't all be fun. A glance into the old crystal ball suggests that what this year may well need most is a good cheerleader.

On the economic front, the picture is somewhat cloudy. Look for these things to happen:

The rich will look gloomy and make their yachts last another year in order not to flaunt their wealth. The poor will look less hopeful and become more gropeful. And the middle class, the backbone of the nation, will go through the wringer even more, although for years it has felt as squeezed as a fat lady in a phone booth.

People who get a pay hike will find it wiped out as the price of steak and love fests goes up. Those who don't get a raise will get healthier and lose weight as they find themselves less able to afford to eat so high on the hog.

More popcorn will be popped in the home as folks watch clean old movies on television because they can't ante up the dough to see naughty new movies in the film houses.

The government will promise to live within a miniskirt budget but will wind up with a maxiskirt one, as usual.

On the international political front:

From Indonesia more and more U.S. soldiers will be sent home suffering from drug addiction and fewer and fewer with battle wounds.

Russia and America will agree to continue to disagree, but less violently. They will also sign a joint pact to keep penguins from extinction, a pact which will be hailed by American diplomats as one holding vast potential in initiating joint action in other fields. Soviet diplomats will promptly deny this.

Red China will announce it has a secret weapon so terrible that it makes all war impractical and obsolete. The U.S. Defense Department will promptly reply that it has had the weapon all along but has hesitated to use it because the cost of repairing a destroyed China is more than U.S. taxpayers could sustain.

Further forecasts:

Sports: In pro football, the Super Bowl score: Baltimore Colts 20, Dallas Cowboys 17.

Pollution: The program against it will falter because the more old pollutants are discarded, the more new pollutants are devised to take their place.

The women's liberation front will gain a significant victory against sex discrimination by forcing all companies holding government contracts to put both "His" and "Her" signs on their washrooms.

Sure looks like an interesting year, doesn't it?

Mail Delivered After Many Years

ENTERPRISE, Kan. (AP) — Two postcards mailed 60 and 61 years ago in Colorado finally reached their destination in Enterprise, this week.

The letters were delivered to Mrs. Irene Eckman, a sister-in-law of Mrs. John Fielder, to whom the cards were addressed. Mrs. Fielder is dead.

One card was mailed May 9, 1910, in Haswell, Colo., by a former Salina, Kan., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Haynes, who were homesteading there. The other card, no longer readable, was mailed in November, 1909.

Postal officials here said they could not explain the delay.

More than 200 million calendars were issued in the United States in 1970, according to National Geographic.

GRABS REBOUND—Snyder's Jerry Brooks (24) goes high to grab a rebound during the basketball clash with Brownfield's Cubs here last night. Also in on the action are Snyder's Jim Fred Liner (22) and Brownfield's Howard McCalib (40). The Tigers won 69-50.

MVC To Expand?

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Missouri Valley Conference expansion will be one of the main topics Friday when faculty representatives and athletic directors meet in Houston for their annual winter convention.

The meeting, which concludes Saturday, is being held in conjunction with the annual NCAA national convention.

MVC Commissioner DeWitt Weaver said the expansion issue likely would dominate Friday's session. The league expanded to 10 schools recently and has adopted a plan to boost membership to 12, which would provide for a two-division basketball alignment.

Both Army and Navy lost seven of their first eight football games this season.

Snyder Tigers Clip Cubs 69-50 With Ease

It was all Snyder all the way.

The Tigers took a quick lead and maintained it throughout their 69-50 contest with Brownfield's Cubs here last night. Snyder led 21-10 after one period and 38-24 at halftime. They still led 51-35 after three periods and easily breezed to victory.

It wasn't one of Snyder's best games, but they more than outplayed the visiting Cubs.

Dub Preston, who was hot as a pistol on corner shots, tallied 19 points for the Bengals. Two other Tigers were in double figures: Tommy Washington with 16 points, and Jerry Brooks with 14 points.

For Brownfield, Mel Roberson collected 20 points and Van Garner posted 15.

The Tigers hit 14 of 30 shots from the field for 47 per cent in the first half and 13 of 31 for 43 per cent in the second half. Brownfield connected on 8 of 26 for 31 per cent in the first half and 7 of 17 for 41 per cent in the second half.

At the line, the Tigers dunked in 10 of 13 for 78 per cent in the first half and 6 of 10 for 60 per cent in the second half. Brownfield made 8 of 17 free throws for 53 per cent in the first half and 12 of 16 for 75 per cent in the second half.

Snyder was never behind and never seriously threatened throughout the game.

Tommy Washington was the leading Snyder rebounder with 8 rebounds while Jerry Brooks was runnerup with seven. Jim Fred Liner got six rebounds.

The Tigers held a slight 36-33 edge in this department.

The victory leaves the Tigers 13-3 for the season and 2-0 in District 3-AAA play while Brownfield fell to 7-12 and 0-2.

The Tigers face their toughtest test of the season Friday night in Lamesa.

Elsewhere in the district, Lamesa defeated Estacado 55-43, Dunbar beat Colorado City 77-57, and Sweetwater bested Lake View 76-47.

In the B team game, Brownfield emerged victorious, 47-44, with Lepard scoring 15 points and Flourpoy roping 11. For the Kittens, Jimmy Don Dyess was high point man with 18 points.

The Kittens trailed 11-12 after one period and 20-24 at halftime. Brownfield was still ahead, 33-30 going into the final frame.

Bullets Shoot Down Supersonics 109-101

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Spencer Haywood did his thing once again—and Baltimore joined the list of National Basketball Association teams doing theirs.

Haywood, recently signed by Seattle after becoming disenchanted with his contract with Denver of the rival American Basketball Association, was on the court again Tuesday night.

But the 6-foot-9 star, last season's ABA Most Valuable Player, couldn't keep the Bullets from shooting down the Super-Sonics 109-101.

In other NBA action, Detroit whipped Atlanta 98-90, Portland edged Boston 124-120, Philadelphia beat San Francisco 97-92, Chicago clubbed San Diego 116-103 and Cincinnati stomped Los Angeles 146-112. In the ABA, Indiana nipped Memphis 92-88, Texas blitzed Pittsburgh 142-133 and Utah trimmed Denver 114-99.

Despite winning, the Bullets announced they were filing a protest against Haywood's presence, becoming the sixth NBA team to take issue with Seattle's acquisition of the former University of Detroit star.

The clubs contend the Sonics violated an NBA rule which prohibits the signing of a player before his college class is graduated. Haywood, whose class graduates this June, turned pro after his sophomore year.

Several teams are also insisting that Haywood's name be placed in the upcoming NBA draft and say Seattle's action could result in wholesale raids of college players by the pros.

But Len Wilkens, the Sonics' player-coach, replied: "We're not the ones who are violating the rules. The ABA already has.

"He's not a college player," Wilkens said. "He's a pro. He is in the open market. I get tired of other teams suing us because we signed him. They wanted to sign him too."

Wilkens led Seattle against Baltimore with 27 points while Haywood scored 14, equalling the output in his NBA debut Monday night, a 124-110 loss in Milwaukee.

The Bullets, overcoming a nine-point deficit, rallied in the final period as Earl Monroe hit 10 of his 24 for points. Gus Johnson also tallied 24 for the Central Division leaders.

Sonny Liston Is Dead At Age 38

By MORTON L. SALTZMAN
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former world heavyweight boxing champion Charles "Sonny" Liston was found dead by his wife in their luxurious desert home Tuesday night. Authorities said he may have been dead a week.

Geraldine Liston found her 38-year-old husband's body lying across a cushioned bench and their bed in the master bedroom of their $60,000 home, Clark County sheriff's deputies said.

Lt. Bud Gregg said today there was no suspicion of foul play. An autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of death.

Liston's ring career spanned the years 1953-1970. Once considered the strongest of all heavyweights, he won boxing's most cherished crown with a stunning first-round knockout of Floyd Patterson in Chicago on Sept. 25, 1962.

Liston defended his title twice. He knocked out Patterson in another one-round victory and then lost the crown in a seven-round defeat by Cassius Clay, now known as Muhammad Ali, Feb. 25, 1964.

Gregg said Liston apparently was undressing to go to bed when he flopped straight back with such force that a rail of the bench was broken. He was wearing shorts and a T-shirt.

Gregg said other clothes were found nearby and that an unfired pistol in a holster was on the dresser in the upstairs bedroom. A fingernail file was on the bed under Liston's 6-foot-1 body.

The split-level home in the Paradise Valley residential area two miles east of the Las Vegas Strip has a swimming pool and is next to a golf course.

Gregg said Mrs. Liston found the body between 8:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. after she had returned from St. Louis, where she was visiting her mother. Gregg said Mrs. Liston left Las Vegas Dec. 26, and after she was not able to reach her husband by telephone, returned home.

She told friends of Liston's death before authorities were notified.

Deputies said Liston was in an automobile accident Thanksgiving day in Las Vegas, was hospitalized for chest injuries and facial cuts, was released, but later was readmitted to the hospital when he complained of the chest injuries.

In losing to Clay, Liston fought a listless six rounds, then saw his title slip away when he failed to answer the bell for the start of the seventh round. He claimed he suffered an arm injury.

He was blasted to the deck by Clay's mysterious "phantom punch" in Lewiston, Maine, on May 25, 1965, in a rematch. Some thought it was the punch that ended Liston's career but he launched a comeback in 1966 and at his death had a record of 47-3.

Liston, 38, was almost constantly in the news, either because of his stunning ring exploits that included 36 knockouts or because of his frequent runins with the law.

"I have been in the limelight two ways—good and bad," he once said. "Ever since I was born I've been fighting for my life."

Even before his pro boxing career began, he was involved with the law. "One night we wanted to do something exciting," he recently admitted. "We stuck up a restaurant and I wound up in jail." He served time in the Missouri State Penitentiary in the 1952 holdup.

Another term came in 1957. All through his career, including his championship years, he was in trouble with the law. He was arrested an estimated 20 times on various charges. Most recently, it was in connection with possession of a weapon.

He had a mean, fearsome scowl but was known as gentle and friendly out of the ring.

Clay called him "The Ugly Bear" and Sonny later said the defeat that lost him the title also lost him his dignity and his pride. It was the left arm that failed him—as medical reports later showed—but the word "quitter" hurt Liston and some say that day in Miami Beach when he lost his title was the last time boxing saw the real Sonny Liston.

The last time he fought, however, put him out of the ring for good.

On his rise to fame, Liston, a native of Pine Bluff, Ark., beat Wayne Bethea, Cleveland Williams, Zora Folley, Eddie Machen and Roy Harris.

Jockey Kennard Knapp likes to recall the year 1965. He won 23 stakes that year to lead the nation's riders.

Economic Squeeze Hits Middle Priced Cars

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business Writer

DETROIT (AP) — "The guy who is a little reluctant about trading in the family car for a new model is going to find himself the No. 1 sales target of the auto industry in 1971.

"We know a lot of people who generally trade every two or three years are sitting tight at the moment, because of inflation and other problems and we have to give them a good deal and convince them," was the way veteran auto dealer George Higgins of Ferndale, Mich., summed it up.

Higgins, with 37 years in the auto business, expressed his belief that all the industry's new 1971 cars are overpriced but he said it was because of economics, especially the wage package and other benefits won by the United Auto Workers in their recent negotiations.

"When the new price tags were posted and then increased again after the UAW and General Motors settled, the figures kind of jarred a lot of potential customers and made them think twice about getting a new car," he said.

Higgins noted that some customers, who normally buy a new car every three years, had switched their buying habits because of inflation and a general tightness of money. "Some of them are settling for late 1969 or 1970 models this time around."

A crosscheck of the auto industry showed most of the sales action is taking place in the highest priced and lowest priced ends of the line with middle priced cars being the slow movers.

One auto man explained it this way, "A lot of the people who buy big cars—Cadillacs, Chryslers and Continentals and the like—are professional men, such as doctors, top executives and such and they like the prestige of a big car. Also, a lot of them get help from their companies so the car purchase or operation their own pocketbook does not take the total rap."

He continued, "You also have a lot of buyers, who ordinarily might drive a medium sized Ford, Buick or Dodge, moving down to the compact or subcompact end of the line because of the economic squeeze."

Stuart Perkins, president of Volkswagen of America, took exception to that idea, saying, "We do not believe that the sharp increase in small car sales is related to the turndown in the economy as much as it is to increasing public awareness of the small car's advantages. In addition, the small car by its conservation of space, materials and fuel provides advantages for the community as a whole."

Higgins, one of the nation's top volume Pontiac dealers, said he was convinced there "will not be any real action in the auto market before April 1." He explained, "A lot of families across the nation were hit by effects of the GM strike, some are still paying Christmas bills and then it will be income tax time which will mean less money for new cars right then."

Some other auto men were just as convinced that the sales boom would start right after the first of the year, bearing out the prediction of GM board chairman James M. Roche Monday that calendar 1971 "shapes up as potentially one of the best in the auto industry's history."

A survey showed most GM dealers are getting almost a normal supply of new cars now, compared with the trickle that went to GM dealers during the [illegible]

"We are still short of Vegas but the pipeline should be filled in three or four weeks and we will be in a better position to take on both Ford's Pinto and the imports," said a Chevrolet dealer.

Higgins said his own research indicated that car buyers, while they might visit several showrooms to look at cars and get competitive prices, tend more and more to the idea of buying a car from the dealer closest to their home.

"Service is the big word today and people want assurance that they will be well treated by people they know," he said.

Dallas To Test Anti-Pollution Bus

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A new anti-pollution bus may be operating in the city by February next year, says Dallas Transit System manager Wilson Driggs.

A prototype engine, designed and built by Sunstrand Aviation of Rockford, Ill. and using a specially refined oil called tolune, will be tested at an initial cost of $658,793. Federal funds will meet $547,752 of this, with Dallas Transit, LTV and Sunstrand making up the rest.

Two years ago the Vought Aeronautics Division of LTV Aerospace started experimenting with a steam engine using a closed-loop freon gas system. Approximately $500,000 was spent on the project, which was abandoned when the freon was found unsuitable for bus operation.

Man Jailed On Mail Fraud Charge

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Eugene Harvey Simon, 40, formerly of San Antonio, was jailed for five years Tuesday for using the mails to misrepresent himself as a business associate of multi-millionaire Howard Hughes.

The grand jury indictment said he obtained Trans World Airlines tickets on credit to fly potential investors to look at Hughes property in Las Vegas. Although he represented himself as a broker for investing in the Hughes enterprises, he had no known connection with Hughes, authorities said.

He was said to have obtained a total of $50,000.

Simon pleaded guilty to four counts of mail fraud charges and was placed on probation on three of the charges. Because of a health problem, he was ordered to serve his sentence at the U. S. Medical Center in Springfield, Mo.

Wayne Incident Probed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A reported obscenity-spiced confrontation between actor John Wayne and a group of Vietnam war protesters waving Viet Cong flags was being investigated by police today. Wayne denied the incident occurred.

Gregory Kirkwood, 22, filed a complaint with police Tuesday seeking to have Wayne charged with disturbing the peace. Kirkwood said Wayne called him a dirty name.

Kirkwood told a reporter that Wayne became angered when he saw Viet Cong flags held by the protesters outside Memorial Auditorium Monday night after the film star and other top entertainers appeared at a gala marking the second inaugural of Gov. Ronald Reagan, a former actor.

A spokesman for Wayne, 63-year-old star of films dating back decades—many with patriotic war themes—said the actor was advised of reports of the incident and commented: "Mr. Wayne said there is no truth to the rumor or the story."

Kirkwood said he and his friends said nothing to Wayne, who came toward them on spotting the red and blue flag with a yellow star and shouted: "What the hell is that?" Kirkwood said Wayne repeated the question, this time using an obscenity.

Police said the complaint would be routinely investigated and a report sent to the district attorney's office, which would decide whether a charge should be brought.

Another witness was Lt. Robert Chapman of the California Army National Guard, a transportation officer on hand in civilian clothes to see that stars of the show—including Jack Benny and Frank Sinatra—got to the airport or their hotels.

Chapman said Wayne and the young demonstrators exchanged remarks, but that he could not hear whether Wayne used obscenities. He added that at one point Wayne "took one step forward to answer a response but there was no show of force toward them."

ORDINANCE NO. 391
AN ORDINANCE GOVERNING WATER RATES FOR THE CITY OF SNYDER, TEXAS; REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT WITH THIS ORDINANCE; AND PROVIDING AN EFFECTIVE DATE.
BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SNYDER, TEXAS:
SECTION 1: That from and after the passage of this ordinance and as hereinafter provided for, the City of Snyder through its Water Department shall charge and collect and every consumer of water shall pay for water furnished by the City of Snyder to said consumer, the amounts calculated by application of the following rates to meter readings:
WATER RATES WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS FOR THE CITY OF SNYDER FOR ALL MONTHS BEGINNING WITH FEBRUARY, 1971, BILLINGS:
Minimum charge per month inside city limits for 3,000 gallons or less $3.75
Minimum charge for multiple family dwellings, apartment, etc. when supplies through a single meter shall be as follows:
two family 6,000 gal. $ 6.55
three family 9,000 gal. 9.40
four family 12,000 gal. 12.20
five family 15,000 gal. 15.00
For multiple dwellings having more than five family dwelling units, the minimum charge shall be $3.75 plus 75 percent of $3.75 x the number of family units, and the minimum charge shall be calculated to the nearest 5c.
Excess over 3,000 gallons up to 275,000 gallons per month inside city limits $.50 per 1,000 gallons
Excess over 275,000 gallons per month inside city limits $.45 per 1,000 gallons
WATER RATES OUTSIDE THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF THE CITY OF SNYDER FOR ALL MONTHS BEGINNING WITH FEBRUARY, 1971, BILLINGS:
Minimum charge per month outside city limits for 3,000 gallons or less $4.75
For multiple dwellings the minimum charge shall be $4.75 plus 75 percent x the number of family units and the minimum shall be calculated to the nearest 5c.
Excess over 3,000 gallons outside city limits $.60 per 1,000 gallons.
SECTION 2: All ordinances, resolutions, or other actions of the City Council of the City of Snyder, Texas, in conflict with the rates, fees, charges or other provisions hereof are hereby repealed.
SECTION 3: This Ordinance shall become effective immediately upon passage on Second Reading.
PASSED ON FIRST READING, the 16th day of December, 1970.
PASSED ON SECOND READING, the 4th day of January, 1971.

Red China Painting A Rosier Picture For 1971

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's greeting to 1971 was less strident than its statements at the start of 1970. The cliches about revolution and the hate of Soviet and American rulers continue, but they are muted in the annual policy statement carried by Peking publications.

The mood the year is buoyant where in 1970 it was bitter and belligerent. The long, detailed indictments of Soviet "revisionism" and U.S. "imperialism" have been dropped and in their place appears an unusual promise that, in its international relations, Peking "at no time ... ever will behave like a superpower, neither today nor in the future."

All this seems a reflection of stability following three tumultuous years of Cultural Revolution purge. The third five-year plan "has been successfully fulfilled," rich harvests have been reaped for nine years running, industry is on the upsurge, prices are stable and "the market is thriving," Peking says.

The picture may be rosier than the reality, but it contrasts with the chaos of the Cultural Revolution.

Chairman Mao Tse-tung's campaign to mend the broken Communist party apparatus and reassert its dominance over the military has made progress.

The fourth National People's Congress and the fourth five-year plan began this year. It also is to be the 50th anniversary of the party, formed July 1, 1921.

Absent from this year's blueprint are 1970 references to "political power growing out of the barrel of a gun," the personal attacks on Soviet leaders, and threats to "drown" potential invaders.

Even so, it is doubtful that Mao and his men are preparing to beat their swords into rice cultivators. The old aims remain: to overthrow the Soviet leadership, defeat the United States in Vietnam and elsewhere.

The 1971 policy statement says the world "revolutionary situation is developing faster than was expected," that China is "closely united" with North Korea and Communist Vietnam "in the fight against U.S. imperialism and Japanese militarism."

Mao by Peking's admission continues to be plagued by "corruption and theft, speculation and extravagance and waste."

The policy statement discloses that Mao is dealing with these problems by gathering more power into his own hands and those of the small ruling clique, turning over leaderships tasks to once-reviled party seniors and building up the old Communist Youth League rather than the revolution's Red Guards.

Smoking Report Alarms Britons

By RODNEY PINDER
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The British government came under strong pressure today to act against cigarettes after the Royal College of Physicians reported that smoking kills more than 27,000 Britons a year.

Some sources predicted that within weeks the government would follow the United States' lead and order health warnings printed on cigarette packs. Further restrictions on advertising —cigarette commercials are already banned from television— were considered inevitable.

"The government must now take prompt action to see that effective preventative measures to discourage cigarette smoking are taken," the Guardian said in an editorial. Most other newspapers agreed and several urged curbs on advertising, although newspapers would be hit hardest.

The Daily Telegraph warned against a "monster horror blitz" against smoking, however, and asked: "Is it the duty of the government to terrify its subjects?"

"It can inform, warn, exhort and set an example," the newspaper said. "In restricting and prohibiting it should move cautiously."

The report from the Royal College of Physicians, one of Britain's leading medical bodies, said lung cancer was the biggest killer of cigarette smokers, but thousands die each year of bronchitis or coronary afflictions.

"The chances are that two out of five heavy cigarette smokers —25 or more a day—but only one out of five nonsmokers, will die before the age of 65," it said. "The man of 35 who is an average cigarette smoker—15 to 24 a day—is likely on average to lose 5½ years of life compared with a nonsmoker."

If nothing is done about the problem, it said, smoking could kill 50,000 Britons a year by the 1980s.

The report called for warning notices on cigarettes packs, a total ban on cigarette advertising, enforcement of smoking restrictions in public places, wider curbs on smoking at work, removal of cigarette vending machines from public places and laws limiting nicotine and tar content of cigarettes.

Dowdy Trial Is Delayed

BALTIOORE, Md. (AP) — Another delay has been ordered in the trial of ailing Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., on bribery conspiracy charges.

Word that the case has been postponed to March 8 coincided Tuesday with a disclosure that the East Texas congressman has been allowed to leave St. Elizabeth Hospital in Beaumont and go back to his home at Athens, Tex.

Reporting that Dowdy was "feeling better but still awfully weak," a friend said, "He's still a sick man."

Dowdy was charged last April with taking $25,000 to "corruptly influence" a now defunct repair firm in Baltimore. A federal grand jury indicted him on charges of conspiracy, perjury and carrying $25,000 in bribe money from Maryland to an airport in Atlanta.

Originally he was expected to go on trial Sept. 14. A series of defense motions to dismiss the charges was denied, and the case then was set for Jan. 20.

Further delay resulted from back surgery and respiratory illnesses suffered by Dowdy.

Child Dies In Fire

HOUSTON (AP) — One child died Tuesday and three others were seriously injured when they were trapped in a burning house in Northwest Houston.

Police said Crystaline Walls, the 11-month-old daughter of Mrs. Patricia Walls, died in the fire. Her three brothers, Louis 5, John, 4, and Douglas, 3, all were in serious condition from smoke inhalation.

That they are alive is due to the efforts of neighbors, police said.

Mrs. Walls told officers she left the children at home alone to keep a doctor's appointment. She is now expecting her fifth child.

Neighbors noticed the smoke and two of them, Willie McClough, 20, and Percy Robinson, 43, saved the children.

"I ran over and the door was locked so I kicked it in," McClough said. "There was too much smoke, so I grabbed a blanket and went outside to wet it."

Draping the blanket over his head, McClough went back in the burning building and brought out one child. Robinson then went around to the side of the house, smashed in a window, and helped get out the other children.

Could You Click As Locksmith?

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I will be retiring next year. I'm energetic and healthy and while we could get by, I'd like to start a new career. Since I'm mechanically inclined, a friend suggested I become a locksmith. I don't know what is involved. — F.P., Pittsburgh

Thanks to the Associated Locksmiths of America for this information. A locksmith is a security consultant, engaged in selling, repairing and modifying locking devices and furnishing keys for locks. The rising crime rate has generated an increased demand for qualified professionals.

EARNINGS vary widely, but a typical range is $4 to $6 an hour. Unlike the key cutter who only makes duplicate keys, the locksmith is a skilled craftsman who is paid for what he knows as much as for what he does. The locksmith should know the construction of all locks, and modern locks are operated by dials, push buttons and electric circuits, as well as by the traditional key.

AMONG SKILL REQUIREMENTS, the locksmith must be able to open locks for which there are no keys, or for which the key is unknown . . . make original and master keys . . change lock combinations to make existing keys useless . . make parts for locks when required. He must know how to establish master key systems using mathematical progressions . . . develop methods to open, adjust and repair locks by interpreting the manufacturer's reference books and applying his knowledge of locksmithing theory and practice, including construction characteristics of locks and use of key code books.

MOST LOCKSMITHS operate their own business. The self-employed locksmith tends to fit his line of specialization to the needs of his community; in an area where there is a heavy concentration of business or manufacturing firms, he may devote much time to keying and maintenance work; in a residential community, he may specialize in home security systems, auto locks work, and maintain a retail and service outlet for some other product.

SOME LOCKSMITHS work for large industrial firms, school districts, hospitals and government installations — performing, in essence, the same functions as self-employed locksmiths.

WORKING CONDITIONS. You need patience and physical stamina because you may have to spend 10-12 hours on a job, remaining in one position for long periods of time. Heavy lifting is often part of the job when safes and security systems are involved, and excellent vision is needed when keying unknown locks to read key impressions which may be very faint. Except for the occasional bench work, it is a strenuous occupation. Because of the physical demands, this is not an ideal occupation for women. While most women in this field are partners in a family business, there are a few who own their own shops and do actually perform the work of a locksmith.

TRAINING. There is no formal apprenticeship training, you learn on the job. Information on programs in public or private vocational schools is incomplete, but you could call your local school system to check availability of such courses. The Accrediting Commission of the National Home Study Council accredits 2 correspondence courses in locksmithing: Locksmithing Institute, 1500 Cardinal Dr., Little Falls, N.J. 07424, and Belsaw Institute, 315 Westport Rd., Kansas City, Mo. 64111.

TRADE PUBLICATIONS with helpful information: The Locksmith Ledger, 2720 Des Plaines Blvd., Des Plaines, Ill. 60018, and National Locksmith, 1119 S. 16th St., Milwaukee, Wisc. 53204.

FOR MORE INFORMATION. You can contact your local or state locksmith's association (call local locksmiths to locate), or write to the Associated Locksmiths of America, 11 Elmendorf St., Kingston, N.Y. 12401 (enclose stamped, return envelope).

KATHRYN HOLMES

Gail Student Competes For Fellowship

CANYON — West Texas State University junior Kathryn E. Holmes, 22, Gail native, has been selected as one of five WTSU students competing for two national graduate fellowships in college teaching.

Named by members of the university faculty, Miss Holmes will try for both a Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship and a Danforth Graduate Fellowship.

Recipients of each honor will be notified this spring.

Miss Holmes is majoring in English-education. A member of Alpha Chi, national honorary scholastic society, and Mary E. Hudspeth Society, local scholastic society, Miss Holmes consistently makes the Dean's Honor Roll. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holmes of Gail.

The Woodrow Wilson Fellowship nominees from WTSU are among 372 graduating seniors chosen by 43 Texas Colleges and universities this year.

The Danforth Graduate Fellowship program grants stipends, renewable for four years, in amounts of $1800-2400 for single recipients and $2200-2950 for married winners.

Four outfielders in Phillies history have gone through a season without making an error: Danny Litwhiler, Tony Gonzalez, Don Demeter and Johnny Callison.

SAYS HEART SUGEON
Artifical Heart Now Unethical

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Noted heart surgeon Dr. Michael E. DeBakey said Tuesday his work on an artificial heart continues but he believes any implantation in a human being at this time would be a violation of medical ethics.

DeBakey, president of Baylor College of Medicine, spoke to newsmen at a briefing about the progress of his research, started in 1964, into building an artificial heart.

He said some 18 animals have received artificial hearts in his laboratories and none has lived more than 12 hours. The most any test animal has lived with such a device in other research centers is 90 hours, he said.

It is for this reason, DeBakey said, that it would be unethical to use an artificial heart because the surgeon could not promise the patient more than 12 to 90 hours of life.

As for using an artificial heart until a transplant could be done, he said, "You do not know when you're going to get a donor."

Dr. Denton A. Cooley, a surgeon at St. Luke's Hospital here, used an artificial heart in 1969, placing it in the chest of Haskell Karp, 47. At the time, Cooley said it was necessary to do so to sustain Karp's life.

Karp lived 65 hours with the artificial device, which used an outside power source, but died a day after receiving the heart of a Massachusetts woman.

DeBakey said Tuesday efforts to make a useable artificial heart have been hung up on such problems as duplicating the natural lining of the heart.

The linings in use cause damage to blood cells going through the artificial organ, he said.

There are also problems in trying to get the heart to pump the right amount of blood for the body's changing needs, and to provide an energy source for the artificial organ, he said.

But research into the problem has provided doctors with much information about how the heart works, he said, and also has provided spinoffs in technology, such as better artificial arteries.

Hawaii Shipping Blight-Free Corn

By BEVERLY PETERSON
Associated Press Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — The harvest of 1,100 acres of blight-resistant hybrid seed corn soon will be en route from Hawaii to the Midwestern corn belt to help combat a destructive leaf blight which swept mainland crops last year.

The seed corn is being cultivated on Hawaii's "Garden Isle," Kauai, by Metcalf Farms for the Pride Seed Co. of Glenn Haven, Wis., and four other firms which supply 25 to 30 per cent of the nation's seed corn each year.

Damage from Southern corn blight was blamed by the Department of Agriculture for a decline in the nation's corn production last year of an estimated 14.7 per cent from an anticipated yield of 4.8 million bushels. It was the smallest crop in four years.

"It's sure going to help, getting this winter crop to the mainland in time for spring planting," Harold Barr, office manager of Metcalf Farm's operations on Kauai, said Tuesday.

"Here we are harvesting a crop and on the mainland the fields are covered with snow."

He said the hybrid seed has been tested and is "100 per cent effective" in resisting corn blight.

Richard Metcalf, owner of Metcalf Farms and president of Pride Seed flew some 15,000 pounds of blight-resistant corn seed to Hawaii last August along with 90,000 pounds of machinery.

Metcalf leased 400 acres of sugar cane land in the Waimea Valley on Kauai, 100 miles northwest of Honolulu, from Kilauea Sugar Co., and expanded the project as more land became available from Kilauea Sugar, which is phasing out its sugar cane operations.

Barr said 4,500 acres may be available soon and Metcalf Farms plans to cultivate some of that.

Barr said Metcalf's plans of growing the corn year-around still hold.

"We should be finished harvesting by the end of the month and start planting the middle of next month again."

Juvenile Crimes Dropping

HOUSTON (AP) — Although the crime rate in Houston is growing faster than the population, the increase in juvenile crime during the past three years has been negligible, officials say.

A spokesman for the Houston Police Department's juvenile division said most of the increase during the past few years is because of better record keeping by the police rather than an actual boost in crime.

"A few years ago you would pick up a kid for some minor offense, bring him to the police station, give him a lecture and send him home," a longtime juvenile officer said.

"Now when you take a kid to the police station even on a minor offense, he becomes a statistic," he said.

In 1967, a total of 4,254 juveniles were arrested for major crimes. The number in 1968 was 4,289 and in 1969 officers arrested 4,736.

In the district attorney's office there has been a decrease in the number of juvenile cases handled. In 1969 the office handled 1,010 compared to 1,484 in 16968.

Man Charged In Slaying

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Authorities jailed Whitmer J. Ballard, 44, of Odessa, Tex., Tuesday on a charge of killing a wealthy West Texas rancher in a Dec. 2 robbery at his home.

Search for Ballard began with his indictment by the Glasscock County grand jury shortly after the shotgun slaying of Steve Currie, 71, near Garden City, Tex.

Mrs. Currie had told officers she heard the shot fired while in another part of the house, went to investigate and was tied to a chair by a ski-masked intruder.

Leaving her husband dead on the floor, the robber fled after taking three pistols, a ring with two pear-shaped diamonds and other jewelry. He also made off with a locket containing pictures of the Currie's two granddaughters, Mrs. Currie told Sheriff Roy Pruitt of Garden City.
