COSTLY DAMAGE to the footbridge at Ruddick Park is inspected by city employee Walter Mitchell. Recent vandalism has led to the city taking a "get tough" position on destruction of property.

City park hit by vandalism

Damage to the recently completed foot bridge at Ruddick Park was the last straw for city officials.

Following a rash of incidents of vandalism lately, the city is cracking down on malicious destruction of city property. The city council is considering toughening the city's current ordinance and is offering a $250 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person or persons committing vandalism of city property.

The foot bridge, located behind the park's amphitheater, had only been built two or three weeks ago.

The rope handrail and 4X4 treated wood braces on the north side of the bridge were pulled up and thrown into the creek last Thursday evening.

The loss was estimated at $100.

"It was real disappointing," said park attendant Walter Mitchell, who has recently been working on the extensive preparations for the Bluegrass Festival.

Colorado City police were notified of the damage at 9:45 p.m.

"We're looking at several juveniles in connection with this," Lt. Patrick Taylor said Monday.

Looking back over police reports for the past few months, incidents of vandalism have been reported almost bi-weekly, said Taylor.

Destruction includes damaging the fence by the windmill at the park, a car crashing into a park post, an electric meter stolen from the overnight campgrounds, asphalt blocks dumped into a manhole and slats being kicked out of the pavilion and used as firewood.

With a city-wide emphasis on beautifying and rejuvenating Colorado City, city officials are unlikely to be tolerant of further vandalism.

While the vandals are not believed to be solely juveniles, in cases where minors are committing the offenses, parents may be held responsible, the city manager said.

Fuel spills into creek

Truck accident occurs on I-20

Two tractor-trailers collided on I-20 Tuesday afternoon, injuring one driver and spilling 600 gallons of diesel fuel over the roadway.

A Coke truck driver was transported to Mitchell County Hospital and then transferred to an Abilene hospital.

According to a hospital spokesman, the driver was listed in "guarded condition" due to possible internal injuries.

Diesel fuel and debris from the trucks were strewn along the length of Lone Wolf Bridge.

Despite concern over the fuel spilling into Lone Wolf Creek below, less than 5–10 gallons reached the creek and was contained, said State Game Warden Randy Bullard.

An almost empty soft drink box truck and a flatbed tractor-trailer were involved in the accident that occurred during Tuesday's afternoon rain.

The accident was the second major accident to occur at Lone Wolf Bridge this month.

According to Department of Public Safety Trooper Mark Negri, the eastbound box truck passed the Clothes stop sewer system

Citizens in the southern portion of the city were asked to curtail water usage after two sewer lift stations went down late Friday afternoon.

The blockage was due to clothes being thrown into the sewer sytem, said Steve Shutt, city manager.

City officials ordered pumping tanks from Snyder immediately and the stations were repaired Friday evening without extending into the weekend as at first feared.

Street light reduction could save city money

Observant Colorado City residents might notice this month that there's not as much light on some of the major city streets.

The decrease in the number of street lights lit is due to a survey currently being conducted by the city to determine whether some streets have too much lighting, while others might be under-lit.

The survey and lighting experiment is the first phase of a measure intended to put tax dollars to the best use by reducing costs and redistributing lighting around the city, said Police Chief David Montgomery.

"It's currently costing the city more than $80,000 per year to light the city's streets," said Chief Montgomery who is working with

With the Bluegrass Festival just a week away, the Chamber of Commerce is buzzing with activity. Telephones are ringing and visitors are dropping by in preparation for the bluegrass event.

House destroyed by fire

Lightning was believed to be the cause of a fire Monday night that destroyed a home north of the Colorado City airport.

The house was owned by Ross and Beverly Strain. No injuries were reported, according to the fire marshal.

The fire started around 10 p.m. during the thunderstorm that swept through the area.

The first firemen on the scene reported fire coming from several windows in one room, said Fire Marshal Billy Ray Williamson.

Wallace Unit inmates to begin training in garment factory

As the Wallace Unit celebrated its one-year anniversary last Thursday, the prison was also gearing up for the opening of their garment factory.

Training for inmates who will work in the factory begins next week and an open house is planned soon after for the staff to see the latest addition to the Wallace Unit's program.

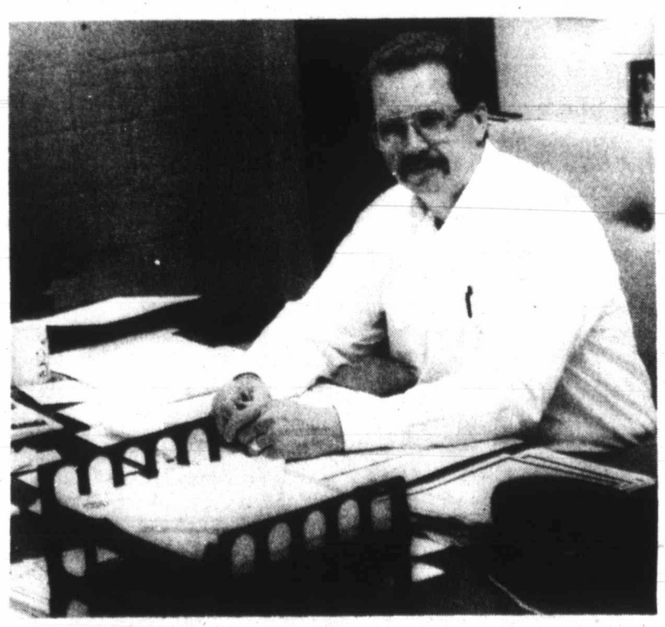

All Texas Department of Criminal Justice (TDCJ) units have some type of industry to produce goods needed by the state's prison system.

The Wallace Unit's industry is housed in a 24,700 square foot building on the west side of the facility, adjacent to the new state jail currently being built.

At first glance, the factory appears like any modern business—158 industrial sewing machines set up in rows for the seven production lines that will turn out linen and garments used in the state's prison system; supervisors with many years of industrial experience; procedures for quality control and regular maintenance of equipment.

However, it's industry with a difference—a security walkway around the outskirts of the production floor is bordered with bright yellow paint marking the area where inmates are required to walk; tools are kept under lock and key with a separate locked room for higher security-type equipment; and a large empty room at the entrance is designed for full body searches when the inmate workers leave for the day.

Committee formed to study day care

Editor's note: This is the first in a three-part series focusing on the day care situation in Colorado City.
By Susan Dunn, staff writer

It is a fact of modern life for most families that working parents need some place to put their children during the day. The problem is that in this country day care has traditionally been the responsibility of no one department—city, state or federal, according to community leaders.

Unlike the state-run day care facilities found in most European countries, parents and extended family members have had to take sole responsibility for child day care and the time has come when that is no longer feasible.

Most day care centers are funded by fees parents pay; the centers do not receive grants and the cost of better day care is often out of the reach of working parents.

The days when mothers have the option to work or not are over for most, yet a dilemma exists in which it costs more to keep the children in quality day care than the mother's paycheck provides.

A report in "Fiscal Notes," a publication from State Comptroller John Sharp's office, stated that the fastest growing group within the U.S. labor force is women with children; it is estimated that two of every three preschoolers and four-fifths of school-age children have working mothers.

The report goes on to state that "nearly two-thirds of the mothers in the work force are single, widowed, divorced, separated or have husbands who earn less than $15,000 a year. More than 11 million children now live in female-headed households."

Fathers are affected, too—by March 1990, more than one million children lived in households headed by single fathers and the U.S. Census Bureau reported in May 1994 a substantial increase in the number of fathers who stay home to take care of children while mothers work.

Experts in the field say that with Texas' high birth rate—the fourth highest in the nation—the day care problem is not going to solve itself.

It is easy to brush the problem aside and assume that families cope somehow with the situation. Most families do cope, with varying levels of difficulty, by enlisting other family members and friends to babysit, working in shifts so that one parent or the other is home at all times, or, in the worst cases, allowing children to stay home by themselves.

None of those are long term solutions.

New Discoveries Day Care Center in Colorado City, which is affiliated with Sweetwater's People For Progress, Inc. (PPI), offers a child day care program, as well as Head Start.

The problem with New Discoveries is that it is housed in what was originally a Shell Oil office building and the old building has been stretched to its limit.

Director Betty Cesares and her staff appear to do everything possible to make the rooms bright and cheerful for the children but the fact is, the building is worn out.

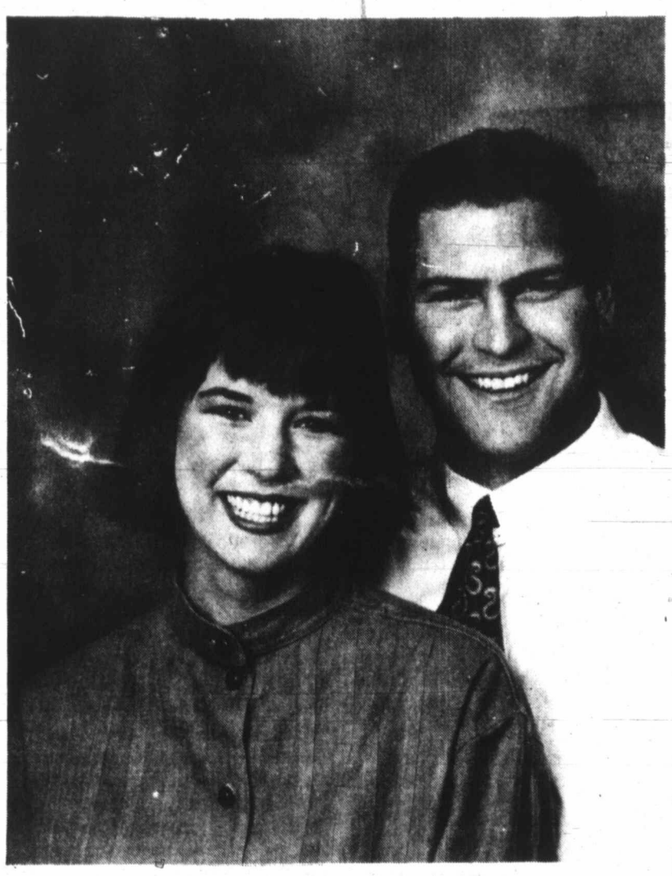

The building seems to have never been intended to be used by children.

The dark, narrow corridors and small rooms seem to be at odds with the murals and toys and while bright yellow paint around the windows should make the rooms cheerful, it simply accentuates the gloom. Cracks and water stains on the ceilings belie deeper structural problems in the building.

PPI has between $60,000 and $70,000 in grant money to be spent in Colorado City for the day care center, but repairs on the building would not accomplish much and even if they did, there is not enough

COOK'S CORNER

Mary Kay Williamson

Mary Kay Williamson enjoys cooking for her family. She only cooks for three - the baby is only seven months old, which keeps her busy, so she is always looking for easier meals to cook.

Mary Kay didn't really start cooking until she entered college. She explains, "mom was such a good cook, I didn't cook much in high school, she was always there to do it." She used the talents she learned from her mother along with her own to become quite a good cook. No, Mary Kay didn't say that—I did; I have tried some of her cooking first hand!

When Mary Kay met and started dating John, her husband of six years, she thought her cooking days might be numbered. You see, John is good at everything he does—except cooking, only Mary Kay did not know that. She thought he would be able to cook like he did everything else. In fact, she thought he would probably be a gourmet cook.

Quite the contrary...John doesn't know how to cook at all. While they were dating, Mary Kay had the opportunity to cook at John's house. When she asked for oven instructions, he confessed that the oven had only been used once. That was when he tried to cook a store bought pizza, leaving it on the cardboard and incinerating the pizza. At that point he gave up!

Luckily for John, Mary Kay enjoys cooking, especially trying new recipes. She is an avid collector of recipes and has a stack she would love to have the time to try. Since she is always busy with her framing shop, church and civic activities and motherhood, she is sharing three easy and quick recipes with us today.

Mary Kay is married to John Williamson, who works for TU Electric. They have two children, Samuel and Sean.

With the Bluegrass Festival just a little over one week away, Chamber Manager Dori Shutt tells me there is still a need for four or five volunteers to man the gates. If you are interested, call Bob Chalker at 728-2310 or the Chamber of Commerce, 728-3403.

If you are planning on attending the festival, be sure to get your weekend pass in advance at the Chamber office. Cost there is $13 for a pass, whereas they will be $15 at the gate. This pass is good all three days. Children 12 and under will be admitted free with an adult.

One more thing—the Risen Son Singers will be performing some good gospel music the Sunday of the festival from 10 a.m. - 12 noon at the park. Good gospel music on a Sunday morning in the park—what a way to start the day.

SBA honors long-time C-City business, Mitchell Co. Abstract

U.S. Senator Phil Gramm's West Texas Regional Director, Hans Klinlger, presented the 1995 Small Business Achievement Award to Mitchell County Abstract during a Friday, May 12 ceremony in honor of the bank's many years of service to the community.

In observance of National Small Business Week, May 7-13, Senator Gramm, a leading advocate of small business in America, sent his congratulations in the form of a personal letter read by Mr. Hodges.

"The small business owner makes a tremendous contribuuon to our economy, our competitiveness, and our entire way of life. They create wealth. They develop new products and services, in addition to refining and enhancing existing ones.

"They offer jobs and opportunities to millions of other Americans, and help fuel economic expansion for the benefit of all," Gramm said.

"In many ways, the small business owner has become the backbone of American democracy and the solid foundation on which individual communities are built. These men and women pay the bulk of taxes that our communities use to finance a police force, operate a school system and provide a health care facility.

"Small business owners are the very core of civic leadership. They are the people involved in trying to make a community a better place to live, work and raise a family," the senator said.

Gramm thanked the company for investing "in the economic future of our state and nation."

Project Celebration plans finalized; 85 will attend

All fundraising activities for Project Celebration have been completed and last minute preparations are underway for the big event to be held the night of graduation.

There was a basketball tournament held last weekend with eight teams participating. A team from Snyder, led by Brian Cave, won first place and a local team, led by Ismael Silva, came in second.

Lulu Boyd, Larry Hartwick, Boyd Griffin and Larry Paul Raschke volunteered as referees for the basketball tournament Friday night and all day Saturday and their help was very much appreciated.

The drawing for the barbeque pit and the senior afghan was also held last Saturday. The winner of the barbecue pit was John Alan Hughes and the winner of the afghan was Don Nell Luce, grandmother of senior Jennifer Morris. Two cases of oil were also raffled and the winners were Al Mendoza and Mary Reyes.

There are 57 seniors and 28 guests signed up to go to Project Celebration. The buses will leave from Calvary Baptist Church at 10 p.m. on Friday, May 26 and return about 6 a.m. on May 27.

All students must ride the buses to Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene and then back to Colorado City. There will be opportunities to swim, so swimsuits and towels will be needed. Any bags the students wish to take must be brought to 145 East 12 St. on Thursday, May 25 to be loaded into vehicles.

Donations have been made by the Colorado City Lions Club, Kiwaniannes, B&PW Club, Sonic, the Rotary Club, First Methodist Church, Robert A. Junell, Delta Kappa Gamma and the Volunteer Fire Department.

Gas 'n' Grub, B&B One Stop, Dairy Queen and the Fire Station have donated ice for the various concession stands.

Anyone who would like to help finance Project Celebration may send their donations to 145 East 12 St., Colorado City. All donations are greatly appreciated.

Dyess AFB to host Appreciation Day

Dyess Air Force Base will host a Big Country Appreciation Day on June 3. The day of aerial demonstrations and aircraft display is set aside to thank Big Country residents for their continued support and friendship to the men and women of Dyess, according to Lt. Col. Robert McMillan, air show coordinator.

The main gate to Dyess will open to the public at 9 a.m., with aerial activities beginning at 10 a.m. Activities will end at 5 p.m. There is no admission fee and parking is free. Special parking will be available for handicapped visitors with appropriate decals displayed.

Highlights for this year's show include a B-2 flyover, F-16 demonstration, Canada's F-18 demonstration and the Red Devils parachute team from the United Kingdom. Of course, no Dyess air show would be complete without aerial demonstrations from the B-1B Lancer and the C-130 Hercules, according to McMillan.

Dyess officials have more than 40 aircraft scheduled for display, both old and new. There will be several ground activities sponsored by various 7th Wing squadrons. Food and souvenir booths will also be on hand.

For more information, call the 7th Wing Public Affairs office at 696-2863.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Being one of the recipients of CIA, I want to express my thanks and appreciation to Jan Lemons and the Christmas In April volunteers who worked at my house.

Also, thanks to the TDCJ and Warden Cooper and the inmates for their help and cooperation.

Wonderful people helping people—may God bless each of you.

Mrs. R.E. Geiger

Letter to the Editor:

To the First Baptist Church and all CIA workers, a "thank you" seems inadequate to express the gratitude I wish to relate to all the wonderful Christmas In April volunteers who worked on my house.

Having all the repairs done has made my home more comfortable; being selected for this honor fills me with pride and thanksgiving; getting to work side-by-side with the volunteers was a joy I shall long remember.

At the risk of omitting a name, I will just say a thank you to all. I pray a special blessing upon all those who joined in the CIA project at my house and all the houses.

Your giving spirit reminds me of James 1:27, "Religion that God our Father accepts as pure and faultless is this: to look after orphans and widows in their distress and keep oneself from being polluted by the world." (NIV)

I am proud to live in Colorado City!

Sincerely,
Beatrice Davis

To the Editor:

Is the sick and disabled veteran the forgotten man or woman? The wars that they fought in have been dubbed THE UNPOPULAR WARS but they fought and today they are still fighting. Fighting to regain their health, their strength and some of their earning power. And they seem to have lost some of their confidence in their own fellow citizens.

Have Americans grown so callous that they can turn their backs on these men and women who have given so much? The Veterans of Foreign Wars of Post 9178 and Auxiliary in Colorado City, Texas doesn't think so. The VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary are pledged to serve the disabled and needy veteran and to aid and comfort the family.

Combat veterans themselves, the members of the VFW, and their wives, mothers, sisters and daughters who make up its Ladies Auxiliary have met the challenge by lending a helping hand in the battle against doubt, boredom, bitterness and despair. In veterans hospitals, at the seats of government and in this community, you will find VFW volunteers and members at work on behalf of all veterans.

Thousands of young men and women are bedridden for life and others are destined to spend the rest of their days in wheelchairs or on crutches as a result of wars they haven't fully understood. Many more have found themselves handicapped in adjusting to the challenges of a civilian life they felt has passed them by.

A grateful government has provided hospitalization where needed and disability compensation to those with impaired earning power but no governmental action, regardless of how well meaning, can provide the personal touch and the individual understanding that alleviated fears and eliminated despair.

The VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary in Colorado City have such a program, but funds are needed to carry on a program of this nature. While the VFW raises most of its money from its own members, the public is afforded the opportunity to help through the purchase of a Buddy Poppy during the annual VFW Buddy Poppy sale.

This year, from May 22 through May 31, Post 9178 and its Ladies Auxiliary will sell Buddy Poppies. When a VFW volunteer offers you a poppy, please contribute generously and wear your Buddy Poppy proudly. Do it with a great big smile on your face and remember that it is the most grateful investment you or your loose change can ever make.

Post 9178 and its Ladies Auxiliary are offering you a once-a-year opportunity to personally thank the uniformed lads who have made the supreme sacrifice and those countless men and women in hospitals who may never again be physically fit.

If your gratitude means more than lip service, buy and proudly wear your Buddy Poppy.

Evon Trantham
Buddy Poppy Chairman
Llano, Texas

Dear Editor:

Once again, Christmas In April did a splendid job. Did anyone drive around town and see all the different houses they worked on? Can you imagine so many people giving so much of their time, work, money and love to others?

"Thank you" seems so little to say to the ones from the middle school, the inmates and the employees at TDCJ for the scraping and paint my house at 330 Hickory St. received. Good job!

April 29 was the big day but prior to that, many people put in hours of work in preparation for it. Jan Lemons did so much but she was only the "leader of the pack."

May God bless each and everyone who helped in any way, anywhere.

Thanks again,
Geneva Bynum

FESTIVAL

are looking forward to meeting at the festival that will offer some of Texas's best bluegrass music.

Many man hours have gone into sprucing up Ruddick Park for the festival scheduled May 26 to the 28th. The event is expected to attract at least 3,500 attendees.

City employees Walter Mitchell and James Rich as well as Wallace Unit inmates have all put in hours and hours of park work in the last four months, said Dori Shutt, chamber of commerce director.

Monday, park attendant Mitchell was putting the finishing touches on the electrical boxes at the newly constructed RV parking area on the north portion of the park.

Services will include 42 full hook-ups, 22 set up for water and 7 with electricity and water.

The festival will feature seven bluegrass bands with a special guest appearance by Roy Thackerson. the Fingerless Fiddler.

Thirty food and craft booths have been signed up to set up at the festival so far. While the deadline for reserving a booth has passed, entries are still coming in, chamber officials say.

A variety of cuisine will be available from the various food booths.

Among the food available at the festival will be barbecue, steak, corn on the cob, barbecue sausage, funnel cake, curly fries, fajitas, and homemade ice cream.

One food booth has even said they will be offering "awesome blossom."

There also promises to be a variety of crafts available at the various craft booths such as wood crafters, jewelry, clothing, ceramics, hair accessories, hats and sterling silver.

Bob Chalker, a Chamber of Commerce Ambassador, is organizing gate workers to work the two park gates.

City Manager Steve Shutt advises citizens that parts of Ruddick Park will be closed to traffic during the festivities. Starting at noon Friday and ending Sunday night, the west half of the park will be closed. The north section will be closed except for RV's.

Advanced weekend passes are available at the Chamber of Commerce for $13. Children 12 years old and under are free. Weekend passes at the gate will be $15.

DAY CARE

New Discoveries has a cap of 100 children in the day care center and right now in Colorado City, 14 children are waiting to get in, including three babies for the nursery.

Not only is day care needed as a place to put children so parents can work, the time spent in day care must be productive for the children.

The benefits of skilled early child care, in addition to relieving parents to provide the necessary two incomes most households require, may be higher achievement levels for children throughout their school years and a higher success rate throughout life.

The Children's Defense Fund has estimated that for every dollar invested in high-quality preschool programs, taxpayers save $6 they would otherwise have to spend on remediation and crime.

The Texas Department of Human Services funds 96 vendors (child care providers) in a 19-county area of West Texas, including New Discoveries Day Care Center, with the cost to parents determined by income and area. The average rate for day care in Colorado City is $12 per day and it will soon rise.

With a limit of 20 students in each of two classes at the PPT's day care centers in Colorado City and Sweetwater, Head Start is exactly what its name says it is—a "head start" in education.

The program includes lessons and activities for each month, such as making friends, safety/health, nutrition, music appreciation, other customs and cultures, animals, languages and the seasons.

More than 51,000 Texas children will be enrolled in Head Start centers or programs this year.

Virgie Hurt, a teacher here in the Head Start program at New Discoveries, enrolled her son in Head Start when the family lived in Houston. She recalls that after the family moved to Colorado City, before the program was available here, her child was noticeably ahead of other children in school and went on to graduate in the top 20 of his high school class. He then went to McMurry University.

Head Start was introduced into our area five years ago. Brenda Russell, Head Start director, said that there are now 394 graduates.

Teachers are saying that children who have the benefit of the Head Start program do especially well in public school, according to Russell.

Children with disabilities, whom day care centers are often reluctant to take, are also accepted in Head Start. Approximately 13 percent of Texas children enrolled in Head Start this year will have disabilities.

The Texas Interagency Council on Early Childhood Intervention (ECI), created by the legislature in 1981, coordinates services with other state agencies to provide training for special needs children.

"There is a tremendous payoff for these kids to get blended in at an early age in day care," said Carmen Polhemus, director of Homespun in San Marcos, an ECI-funded agency providing therapy and services to infants and children up to age three in 13 counties of south central Texas.

"They can go into regular classes later rather than special education classes, resulting in great cost savings," Polhemus said.

New Discoveries offers the Head Start program in addition to day care and, according to several local parents, the program is a good one.

Most of the people interviewed for this article preferred to remain anonymous due to the controversial nature of the problem.

Some parents have said that in most other communities, however, parents have much more input in administering the program than they do at New Discoveries and that overcrowding has caused disorganization.

It is the opinion of a local mother that disorganization is caused by "too many people" at New Discoveries trying to run two programs—day care and Head Start—full time in very close quarters. If there were just more room, each program could be administered effectively.

"The best thing they can do is separate [the two programs]," she said. And she, along with other parents, has serious objections to the age and condition of the building. "They just need a new building—period. You can walk in there sometimes and smell the sewer."

It would appear that for day care centers to be beneficial to parents, children, the community and ultimately society, adequate facilities and skilled staff are essential.

City wide clean-up set

A city-wide Clean-Up Week is planned for June 4 to June 10.

Saturday, June 10, was approved as a free landfill day by the city council at their regular meeting last week.

The city will waive all landfill fees on Saturday but trucks will not be furnished to haul large items to the landfill as they have in the past.

Citizens will be responsible for taking their old tires, large tree limbs, used appliances (minus compressors), etc. to the landfill.

Thackerson to perform at festival

Seven bluegrass bands will perform at the upcoming Lone Wolf Bluegrass Festival. Among the performances will be a special appearance by Roy Thackerson.

Thackerson, who has a reputation as a top musician, will perform at the festival Saturday, May 27, at 4 p.m. and 9:15 p.m.

At the age of 6, he lost the fingers of his left hand and the sight in his left eye after a dynamite cap explosion.

Putting aside his handicap, he learned to play the guitar and fiddle. He uses a special gadget he calls a "gut strap" and delights audiences around the country with his music, performing with the best.

Thackerson has made several appearances on the Grand Ole Opry as a guest of Roy Acuff. He has also appeared on national television shows, such as "That's Incredible" and "The Ralph Emery Show" as well as other local television shows and commercials.

He has played in numerous fiddlers' contests throughout the country and has been a judge in numerous contests, including being a judge each year in the Grand Master's Fiddling Contest in Nashville, sponsored by the Grand Ole Opry.

LIGHTS

While working together on lighting improvements at the park the last few months, the chief and Ornelas also took a broader look at the city's overall lighting requirements.

With a city goal of achieving a 15-20% reduction in costs without reducing lighting, the inital phase of the survey consists of identifying areas where street lights could be turned off to see the overall effect.

In some areas, more energy efficient lighting could replace current equipment.

City officials said they hope to receive feedback from citizens on the lighting experiment—whether lighting is adequate in some places or whether it's too dark in other areas.

The two primary areas being looked at are Lone Wolf Blvd., in front of the high school, and Hickory Street in the downtown area.

The survey results will not only be used to take away lighting but also to add lighting, said the city manager.

"Initially, there will be no poles or lights removed," said the chief. "If citizens see lights are turned off on certain streets, that's not necessarily final but part of the survey. It's not a final decision."

Blood drive set here

A blood drive sponsored by the Tumbleweed Lioness Club will be held Wednesday, May 24 from 2:30-7:30 p.m. at the Civic Center. Interested donors may call Connie Simpson at 728-2271 for more information or to make an appointment.

Conducted by United Blood Services (UBS) of San Angelo, this drive will feature some procedural changes.

Donors are asked to make appointments; this will eliminate lengthy waits and allow for a more steady flow of donors.

Donors are also asked to furnish identification which includes full name and either a photograph, birthdate or social security number, such as a driver's license, social security card or UBS blood donor card.

UBS requires identification so they may update donor records and make sure all donor information is current and correct.

In the past, the donor completed the pre-donation questionnaire. Now the donor tech will ask all pre-donation questions and complete the form. This will eliminate misunderstandings and errors.

"We believe donors will find that these changes make for an even more pleasant donation experience," Angie Tyson, UBS Community Relations Representative said.

"By making appointments, donors are better able to schedule their days. Our donors are our most important resource and we don't want them inconvenienced by lenghty waiting periods," she said.

Walk-ins will still be accepted, but only after appointments have been taken, Tyson added.

"We're looking forward to coming back to Colorado City. The Lioness Club has always done a tremendous job of sponsoring the drive, and the citizens of Colorado City have always paticipated 100%," Tyson said. "That kind of dedication is a lifesaving gift to patients all across the Concho Valley."

City condemning old houses

Approximately twelve old houses a month are being condemned by the city in an ongoing city beautification project, according to City Water Director Kenneth Rich.

While the project has been going on for several years, Rich said there has been a renewed emphasis recently.

"Most are eye-sores and public health hazards," he said.

Homeowners are sent certified letters from the city advising them that their houses have been condemned due to their condition. After owners sign a release, the houses are torn down by city crews.

Some owners, with houses that have become burdens, have taken advantage of the project by contacting the city and letting them take care of tearing down the structures without charge.

However, some owners have ignored the notices.

"It's been slack lately," said Rich, which has prompted the city to turn over a list of ten condemned homes to the city attorney for handling.

Homes that have been torn down include houses at 1245 Cherry, 628 Rusk, one on Oak Street, 1818 Peach Street, 1705 Fig, 432 W. 3rd, 1822 Plum, 1100 block E. 7th.

Houses that have not been released include ones at 144 E. 11th, 102 W. 4th, 10th Street & Austin, 500 block of 2nd Street, 17th and Peach, and 128 W. 4th.

Sales tax rebates down

Mitchell County sales tax rebates were seven and a half percent less last month than they had been in 1994, according to a report released Friday by the state comptroller's office.

This month's sales tax rebates include taxes collected on March sales by businesses filing monthly returns and reported to the comptroller in April and those businesses filing quarterly returns for January, February and March, said State Comptroller John Sharp.

Mitchell County received a total of $40,816.72 for May, a 7.47 percent decrease from last year's $44,112.69.

Colorado City payments totaled $38,656.62. Last year's rebate for the same month was $40,982.46, indicating a 5.67 percent change.

Loraine received $1,047.57, a 37.12 percent decrease from last year's $1,666.23.

Westbrook's rebate showed a 24 percent decrease with $1,1253 this year compared to last year's $1,464.

Golf tournament Saturday

Colorado City's Wolf Creek Golf Course is hosting a qualifying tournament for the West Texas Rehab Golf Classic Saturday, May 20.

Nearly 20 communities in the Abilene and San Angelo areas are staging tournaments to qualify four member teams to enter the finals on June 12 at the Abilene Country Club. The format for the qualifying tournament is four person select shot scramble.

The series of qualifying tournaments and the finals are expected to raise $50,000 to benefit the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene and San Angelo. Last year the center provided almost $55,000 in services to 74 patients from Mitchell County.

For more information on this Saturday's qualifier at Wolf Creek Golf Course, contact Abel Alvarez at 728-5514.

Pancakes to be served

The Kiwanis Club will be holding a pancake breakfast May 27 from 7 to 9 a.m.

The breakfast will be held at Ruddick Park on the Saturday of the Bluegrass Festival.

Pancakes, bacon and coffee will be served.

The charges are $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

Bids awarded on sewer project

Rhode Construction Company was awarded the bid for the city's sewer project last Thursday. The project includes a new sewer treatment plant, mains, lines, ponds—everything not completed during the emergency phase.

Seven bids were received that ranged from $2 to $2-1/2 million, said City Manager Steve Shutt.

Rhode Construction, who completed the emergency phase of the project last week, had the low bid of approximately $2 million.

Their bid was within 1/2 percent of the price sought by the city, the city manager said.

Rhode is expected to begin work on the sewer treatment plant next week after paperwork with the state has been finalized.

Completion of the project will enable the city to handle its present needs and future growth, said Glenn Hemphill, project manager.

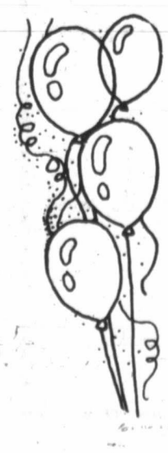

The water project is running three or four months behind the sewer improvements and will begin during the work on the sewer project, said the city manager.

AN ACCIDENT BETWEEN TWO TRACTOR-TRAILERS Tuesday spilled hundreds of gallons of diesel fuel on I-20 at Lone Wolf Bridge. Department of Public Safety Trooper Donnie Gilbreath, wearing rubber gloves, inspects debris scattered over the roadway while the uninjured driver whose truck had been struck retrieves personal belongings from his cab.

Water quality topic of meeting

The Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA) will hold a fact-finding meeting in San Angelo on Thursday, May 25 to hear comments from the public on water quality issues in the area.

The meeting, part of a state-mandated program to assess the water quality of the basin, will begin at 7 p.m. at the San Angelo Convention Center, 500 Rio Concho Drive.

The meeting is a follow-up to one held by the LCRA in San Angelo in April 1992 when more than 100 persons showed up to voice concerns about pollution problems created by an overloaded waste water treatment plant in San Angelo.

As a result, an assessment report by the LCRA in 1992 identified the plant and collection system as a major source of pollution to the Concho River, a tributary of the Colorado.

Subsequently, the City of San Angelo spent nearly $25 million to correct the problem following an enforcement action against the city by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC).

Water quality problems still remain in the San Angelo area, however. A 1994 assessment report by the LCRA identified fish kills on the North Concho River in San Angelo as a "high priority" concern in the basin.

The fish kills were attributed to polluted runoff entering a series of small impoundments on the North Concho, combined with minimal releases from the O.C. Fisher Reservoir immediately upstream to provide adequate dilution.

Co-sponsors of the meeting include the Upper Colorado River Authority, Colorado River Municipal Water District, Texas Alliance of Groundwater Districts, Glasscock County Soil and Water Conservation District, North Concho Soil and Water Conservation District, Lower Concho Soil and Water Conservation Authority, Concho Soil and Water Conservation District and the cities of Ballinger, Bronte, Colorado City, Eden, Paint Rock, San Angelo, Sterling City, Robert Lee and Winters.

The meeting is part of a program established by the Texas Clean Rivers Act of 1991, which requires river authorities and other designated entities statewide to conduct water quality assessments of their regions and submit reports each even-numbered year.

Assessments of the Colorado watershed are conducted jointly by the LCRA, the Upper Colorado River Authority and the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The TNRCC has named the LCRA to coordinate the Colorado River assessments.

For more information on the San Angelo fact-finding meeting, call Mary Ann Neely, LCRA, 1-800-776-5272, ext. 3261.

Big savings for cotton farmers

A decision by leaders of the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation, Inc. has set the stage for big savings for cotton growers throughout the state.

The Foundation board of directors voted May 9 to continue the financial relationship with Farm Credit Bank system and Production Credit Association. This will result in decreased interest charges on loans made to the foundation to pay for the eradication program.

The decrease will save the Foundation hundreds of thousands of dollars in interest charges over the course of the statewide program.

During the regular monthly meeting, the Foundation's board of directors also approved funding a project to research alternative treatments for boll weevil eradication.

Ray Frisbie of Texas A&M University presented a proposal which would fund testing of alternative methods to treat organic cotton crops for boll weevils. Under current foundation law, organic cotton crops will not be sprayed with the program insecticide, malathion, unless the organic grower gives permission. The only alternative is to destroy the crop to control the boll weevil in an eradication zone.

The research will be conducted by Don Rummel of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock. Rummel said he hopes to begin testing within the next few weeks. He will primarily test seven alternative treatment methods to gain an understanding of how effective these methods are against the cotton boll weevil.

The foundation will seek funding assistance from the organic cotton growers' association for the project the first year, with researchers seeking additional funding in subsequent years.

"We really feel like this experiment will benefit all cotton growers in the boll weevil eradication effort," said Woody Anderson, a Colorado City cotton farmer and chairman of the foundation's board of directors.

"We are hopeful the experiment will produce meaningful and significant results which will benefit cotton farmers," he said.

After the foundation's board meeting in Abilene, a public hearing was held by the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) and the foundation concerning the proposed rules for organic cotton production in an eradication zone. The changes allow the foundation more flexibility in handling the difficulties of organic cotton within an eradication zone.

The organic growers who were present and foundation representatives voiced their desire to further cooperation in resolving any difficulties associated with organic cotton. TDA and foundation officials plan to address concerns presented during the hearing.

During the foundation's board of directors meeting, Wayne Huffaker was sworn in as the elected director from the High Plains Zone. Huffaker has been serving as an interim director. He will continue in his position as secretary of the board.

Cotton producers from the High Plains passed the referendum last month to establish the zone and the assessment to pay for eradication.

The board also heard reports from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, United States Department of Agriculture and Program Director Osama El-Lissy.

"Apparently, he lost control, struck the guardrail, jacknifed, and then hit the flatbed truck," said Negri.

H. L. Scoggins, of Tioga, the driver of the flatbed, said everything happened so fast.

Uninjured, but with hands still slightly shaking half an hour after the accident, Scoggins said he had just pulled back onto the interstate after stopping in Colorado City for a pizza.

"He passed me, hit the bridge and then the truck exploded. I don't remember so much seeing the fire as feeling the heat.

"I jumped into the floorboard of the cab, while hanging onto the steering wheel because I remember thinking I didn't want to go over the bridge.

"Then I jerked my seat belt off and ran back down the middle of this interstate as fast as I could, going a long way before I finally stopped," said Scoggins.

The name of the injured driver was not released by DPS troopers.

Ranch tour scheduled

The Mitchell County Ranch Tour will be held June 7 sponsored by the Mitchell County Extension Service.

An estimated $20,300,000 annual income is derived from cattle, sheep and goats raised in Mitchell County, said Joe Raff, county extension agent.

The ranch tour will include stops to see Boer goat, emu and rhea operations, as well as a native grass pasture, wild horse ranch and cell grazing system.

Dr. Jackie Smith, TAEX economist, will be the guest speaker during lunch. Dr. Smith will discuss futures and how it relates to the cattle market.

The cost of the tour is $7, which covers the cost of lunch.

Participants will meet at the Mitchell County Extension Office in the Courthouse Annex Building at 8 a.m.

FACTORY

Initially twenty inmates will be trained for the factory, said Jim Sheridan, plant manager.

At capacity, almost 200 inmates will work there with six trained to maintain and repair the equipment.

Sheridan expects the factory to be at full capacity in less than a year.

Inmates are not paid for their work but it's still considered a plum job reserved for assigned state trustees.

Advantages are many—being inside an air-conditioned/heated building, working six-hour-a day shifts and learning skills that could earn them income once they're in the "free world", a term inmates use for life outside the prison walls.

The factory will initially produce sheets to meet the state prison system's high demand for linen. Production will consist of hemming and tacking.

"Flat sewing is the simplest form to get started on," Sheridan said. "Later they'll use more experienced sewing techniques such as needed for making items like shirts and boxer shorts."

The industrial division of the Texas prison system is a multi-million dollar operation.

"The purpose of the industrial division is for vocational training, to provide goods and services for state agencies and cut down on recidivism," said Sheridan.

Currently 42 types of factories are in the system—textile mills, factories that do woodworking, furniture, upholstery, soap plants, recapping, etc.

Clothing factories throughout the state have a variety of product lines such as towels, inmate clothing and socks, inmate and officers' jackets, officers' uniforms as well as contract items sold to tax exempt entities within the state of Texas.

Greetings from Loraine.

We will have a hot time in the old town tonight, that is if we do anything at all outdoors.

The temperature was stuck on 91° for a while today.

If you live in this area of West Texas, you will have to admit that our weather has not been boring lately. Aggravating, to say the least, but so changeable it is anything but boring.

We've experienced high winds, sandstorms, rain, hail, cold weather, fog, smog, dark and dreary and bright and sizzling—all this in just a few days.

We are thankful that aggravation was not followed by death and destruction here.

Bless those who weren't so fortunate.

The homecoming was held in Olustee, Okla. Later, the ladies went on to Altus to visit relatives there.

***

Beatrice Lee and her daughter Billie Rutherford from Lubbock went to San Angelo this past weekend to visit friends there.

***

Royce and Neysa Beights, along with their children, plus Bill and Lela Bowles and their family, all came together at the Beights home recently for a tri-fold family celebration—to honor their mother and grandmother, Lula Lafever on her 91st birthday, also Brandon Bowles' college graduation, along with celebrating Mother's Day.

***

Shug and Pat Bowlin from Midland and Kevin and Kim from Houston visited with Lela Bowlin this past week.

***

Billie Schroeder has just returned from a 10-day tour with Leisure Time Travel Tours, out of Abilene. On this trip, they toured Jefferson Davis' home in Biloxi, Miss., then on to the Bellingrath Gardens and Mansion near Mobile, Ala.

The brilliant foliage was mountain laurel, dogwood, salvia, caladium, allamanda, hydrangea and gardenia, among others that were viewed and enjoyed.

St. Augustine, Fla., the oldest city in the United States, was next on the tour with a walk in Old Town.

In Daytona they visited a race track (no race running).

The Kennedy Space Center was interesting and awesome, also the EPCOT Center.

Billie reported they next went to Disneyland (some going to Magic Kingdom). A fine time for all.

Next came Cypress Gardens and a water show, which was wonderful.

On the way home, they stopped off in Marshall, Texas and walked around the pottery compound.

A wonderful time was had by all.

***

A Mother's Day dinner for Leona Linam was held at Pres and Billie Powells' Sunday. Attending from Carlsbad, N.M. were grandchildren Duane and Denise Linam, plus Jill, Cutler and Tanner Holt.

***

D.C. and Dorothy Fowler went to Lewisville over the weekend to see their daughter Daphne and family.

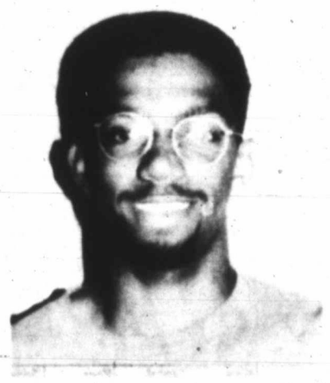

***

Iva Armstrong had a bad fall, but a big mass of petunias cushioned it quite a bit.

So, instead of Miss Muffet sitting on a tuffet, Miss Iva sat on her petunias and was proud of it!

No broken bones, just bruises—and mashed petunias.

***

Marie Hare of Loraine, who has been staying with a sister in Brownwood, had her family here in town Sundav.

Coming from San Angelo was daughter Betty, along with other relatives in the home.

We miss you, Marie, and hope you will be able to stay here soon.

***

Frank, Fay and Audrey Beights attended a retirement ceremony in Abilene honoring Chief Master Sergeant Clarence (Chuck) Watson and his wife Rachel Beights Watson on Friday, May 12.

He had served in the Air Force in numerous countries and states for 30 years.

He was Aircraft Maintenance Manager, 39th Airlift Squadron at Dyess Air Base for the past 18 months.

The Watsons have three children, David, Donna and Jay. His parents live in Cambridge, Maine. Clarence has always considered Mitchell County home.

On the back of Mr. Watson's program brochure for the retirement ceremony were these appropo words, since he was a "chief."

"May your moccasins leave tracks on many mounds of earth and may you walk with chiefs of tribes who live in peace on earth."

***

On Sunday, May 14 Audrey Beights and children, Frank, Fay, Weldon, Conejo, along with Chuck and Rachel, had lunch and visited in the Watson home in Sweetwater.

***

Scott Irwin, grandson of Kenneth and Juanice Butler, graduated from Baylor College this past Saturday, May 13 in Abilene.

Attending the graduation from Loraine were Juanice, Danny and Dawn Butler.

Scott's mother, Kennie Sue Irwin and sister Tama, both of Houston, were also in attendance.

Scott, graduating with a bachelor of arts degree, will enter the seminary in the fall.

Friends attending were John Chalfont from Austin plus Doug Monroe and Ruby Homad from Houston.

After the graduation exercises, family and friends celebrated by dining out at Northwood Inn, a historical home.

Scott's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E.B. Irwin from Eunice, N.M.

***

The three sisters then went to Abilene to visit Carla Astor and family.

Carla is Christene's daughter and she cooked dinner to help her mother celebrate her birthday and Mother's Day.

***

Mildred Rose enjoyed the company of her daughters Sherrie and Angela D. Rose of Ft. Worth over the past weekend. The children took their mother out to dinner Sunday.

***

Helping their mother celebrate Mother's Day was son Oscar Ames and daughter Ruthie Mae Griffen and granddaughter, along with son Ray Adkins. The children cooked the meal for Vera Mae Adkins.

***

***

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Britton from Big Spring visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Singleton this past week.

***

At the last city council meeting, May 11, the council approved annexation of a partial five-acre plot for the Loraine Cemetery.

Legal advisor to the city, Mark Piland, will do research and inform the city on what procedure to take.

***

Eva Wells accompanied her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Robinson, to the graduation of her granddaughter, Jay-Lynn Robinson, from Angelo State University. Jay-Lynn graduated magna cum laude. After the services, Mr. Wells went to the home of the Robinsons in Abilene, where she had a nice Mother's Day celebration.

***

Iva Armstrong did a bang up job of decorating the center for the luncheon honoring the Loraine School seniors of '95 on May 10.

School colors of black and gold were predominant in the overall decor, not only on the special table but other tables as well.

Alongside each plate was a beautiful cream and gold money envelope, a gift from Loraine State Bank, and inside each envelope was a love token $2 bill from the senior center.

Elaine McMichael gave an introductory and congratulatory address, which was filled with high ideals and aims to strive for in life, and it also offered words of encouragement.

Sponsors were Mr. Hurd, Mr. Kendall, Dee Herm and Mrs. Moffage.

The luncheon was enjoyed by all—turkey, dressing and all the trimmings were served to graduating seniors and elder seniors alike.

***

Jack Compton was a visitor to the center on the 12th. He had lunch with us and visited with friends.

***

We observed Mother's Day Friday with a lovely program starring Dorothy Johnson (a woman-woman show).

Mrs. Johnson was attired in a long dress and an old-style bonnet of long ago. She carried a cane in one hand and a Bible in the other.

Her "sermon" was enlightening and she kept everyone's attention.

A lovely poem concluded her program.

***

"Wilma and Charlie"

Telephone rings at the store...

"Charlie Brown here...."

"Charlie, come home quick. Your mother is stuck in the dog door."

"What do you mean, Wilma? Mama is in Arizona with her new husband."

"Charlie, I'm telling you true, that woman out there, half in and half out the dog door is your mama.

"She came while I was at the beauty shop and when she couldn't find the house key you gave her, she took matters into her own hands....

"She certainly miscalculated about the size of her rear end."

"Now Wilma, don't talk about my mama's derierre."

"Fine, Charlie, just come home quick."

"Charlie, for heaven's sake, you can find that out later. Right now, come home. The neighbors are coming over to see what's going on and cars are stopping....

"Charlie, the wind is blowing your mama's skirt up to the door and all her underclothes are showing...."

"Charlie, she's got a hole in her bloomers! This is so embarrassing!"

"Wilma, hush right now and call 911. Right now! Call me back when the men arrive to see about the call.

"Oh yes, Wilma. Put something over Mama's legs and underwear."

"Charlie, Bonzo came home and found your mama in his door and he's mad at her.

"He won't shut up barking! He keeps pulling the wrap off your mama's legs and "the hole" is in plain sight again.

"Charlie, I'm afraid Bonzo is going to bite your mama.

"Don't hang up, Charlie. "Two men from the 911 rescue team are here."

"Well, what are they doing?"

"They are cussing and swearing, the dog is barking, the preacher is here, he's praying and your Mama is bawling to high heaven.

"Wait, Charlie. Your mama's free at last and she ran to her bedroom. Bonzo won't get out of his "enlarged" door. He's afraid your mama will get in there again.

"Everyone has gone and it's quiet, and now I may have a nervous breakdown or a hissy of some kind!

Take good care and see you about town.

Local doctor addresses local alcohol problem

By Dan Scott, M.D.

Recent experiences have made me more aware than ever of the devastating effects of alcohol on our community as well as most communities in the United States.

A typical weekend list of emergency room visits could read:

1. Laceration to the eye obtained in a family fight. Victim and assailant intoxicated. 2. Broken hand from rollerblading accident. Victim intoxicated. 3. Patient fell and lacerated head because of intoxication. 4. Teenager run over by boat with severe lacerations to leg. Boat driver intoxicated. 5. Child battered. Father intoxicated.

6. Gunshot wound to the head, victim intoxicated, self-inflicted wound. 7. Elderly man with severe pneumonia and cirrhosis of the liver with 30-year history of alcohol abuse. 8. Middle-aged woman hysterical, depressed, hasn't slept for a week because husband is abusing both her and her children while intoxicated. 9. Prenatal baby born to alcoholic mother.

The list goes on and on.... The really tragic part of the story is that this is not unusual for most communities in America today. What is equally tragic is that the age of the victims of alcohol abuse is getting younger and younger.

It is noted that more people use alcohol in this country than smoke cigarettes and it is estimated that 105,000 deaths annually are directly related to alcohol use. This does not include deaths by suicide, accident and homicide. Alcohol abuse hits all ethnic populations, age groups and sexes.

Our community, like all communities, is seeing a younger and younger group of heavy drinkers. It is noted that in some polls as many as 28% of 8th graders reported periods of heavy drinking. It seems parental influence is fairly important, but peer groups more strongly influence adolescent behavior than what their parents' attitudes are.

I know that in our community it seems to be the primary entertainment activity of our teenage population and I only pray that our community will not be struck by a motor vehicle tragedy as experienced recently by a town in Colorado where six seniors in high school were killed when they raced to a train crossing and were struck by the train.

History has shown that similar instances have happened here in the past and will happen again. I am not sure, as a physician, that I have any special information that most people do not know about alcohol.

It certainly destroys the liver, is a major cause of depression and associated suicide and obviously is associated with a lot of accidents, both motor vehicle and in the home. Violent behavior is epidemic.

The question is, what can be done about it as individuals and as a community?

I know in the past I have worked in communities where the county was dry. Obviously, alcohol abuse occurred in these communities, but I have to say that it occurred at a much lower level than it does in communities where the sale of alcohol occurs.

I am told by local residents that Mitchell County used to be a dry community and that since becoming wet it has indeed changed the fact of the community. I don't know if that is true, but that is what I have been told.

It is probably not a good way to make friends to even discuss the option of making the county dry again, but I think it is an idea worth bringing up.

Other ways of prevention of course include trying to create strong family ties and values. The church plays a major role and local chapters of Alcoholics Anonymous and Al Anon can be of great help.

As with health care issues, however, prevention should always be first and foremost in our minds. I am sure this article will generate much debate and I hope people will write the newspaper with their own personal experiences and suggestions, in both preventing and treating alcohol related problems.

I think the only way to gain any measure of success in addressing this devastating health issue is first of all to openly discuss it.

Hospice to be established here

By Sandra Galyean, R.N.
Director of Home Care

Heart of West Texas Hospice is being established by the Mitchell County Hospital District to provide care for terminally ill patients in their homes.

Hospice offers terminally ill patients an alternative to routine home care and repeated hospitalizations. It is about living life to the fullest in secure and familar surroundings with family and friends. It provides palliative care, as opposed to curative care.

Hospice services include supportive social, emotional and spiritual services for the terminally ill, as well as support for the patient's family. The care is primarily provided in the patient's home so that peace, comfort and dignity are maintained.

Hospice care relies on the combined knowledge and skill of an interdisciplinary team of professionals—physicians, nurses, medical social workers, therapists, counselors and volunteers who coordinate an individualized plan of care for each patient and family.

Hospice reaffirms the right of every person and family to participate fully in the final stage of life.

Why is hospice care important?

Because it provides many benefits that aren't possible in a traditional health-care setting. Hospice means a coming together with family. Through hospice, the family is directly involved in making decisions and helping the person they love. Hospice enables people with terminal illnesses to make decisions about how and where they want to spend the rest of their lives.

What makes hospice special?

Hospice is special because it concentrates on care, not cure. Hospice emphasizes pain control and living life fully. Patients are urged to stay active for as long as they are able—to take part in activities they enjoy, to learn something new, to do something they have always wanted to do, to focus on the quality of life.

When someone has a terminal illness, his or her loved ones feel pain, too. Hospice treats patients and families as a unit. It can provide relief to caregivers who may neglect their own needs. Help is always available, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

A member of the hospice team will come to the patient's home whenever needed. Bereavement counseling is provided through individual and family counseling, volunteer visits, holiday programs, support groups and programs about loss and grief.

Who pays for hospice?

Services are reimbursed by Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance. Ongoing financial support is also received through local fundraisers, memorial gifts and volunteer contributions.

What are some of the services that volunteers provide?

Volunteers may assist patients and families directly by helping with household chores, errands, transportation, companionship and support.

How can I become a hospice volunteer?

For information about Heart of West Texas Hospice or how to become a volunteer, contact Nina Kemph, R.N., Patient Care Coordinator or Sandra Galyean, R.N., Director of Home Care, at 728-2657 or toll free at 800-728-2657.

Traffic fatalities increase in 1994

Partially because of one catastrophic 7-hour period last July, traffic fatalities in Texas increased by 3.5% in 1994 compared with the previous year, according to DPS statistics.

During 1994, 3,142 persons died in traffic accidents in Texas, 105 more deaths than the 3,037 fatalities reported in 1993. This is the first increase in traffic deaths in the state since 1988.

"Despite this increase, the traffic death rate, which is the number of deaths occurring for every 100 million miles driven, remained at the 1993 level of 1.8 last year," Jim Templeton, head of the DPS' Accident Records Bureau said.

Templeton said the 1994 increase would have been nearly a third smaller if fewer accidents had occurred during the July Fourth holiday.

"July 3, 1994 will be remembered as the deadliest day in Texas traffic history, with 46 fatalities," Templeton said. "During a seven-hour period that day, 13 people died in three accidents. [That] was the first time in history Texas had three accidents in one day with six or more killed per accident."

On the other hand, Templeton said, Texas had two days in 1994 during which no traffic deaths were recorded. "This is extraordinary," he said. "Normally we don't see a single deathless day. The last time we had one day without a traffic death was April 16, 1991."

The number of persons injured in traffic accidents also grew last year, from 298,891 in 1993 to 326,837, an increase of 9.3%.

In 1994, 37.2% of all fatalities involved alcohol or drug intoxication, the lowest rate of DWI-related deaths since 1986, when the Department first began collecting blood alcohol levels shown on traffic fatality reports.

"Another bit of good news was the lowest number of motorcycle traffic deaths Texas has seen since 1970," Templeton said.

"126 motorcycle fatalities were reported, a drop of 13% from 1993.

This was the lowest number since 1970, when 116 fatalities were reported," he added.

Bicycle Race

Bicycle riders from around the state are signing up to participate in the Tour of Lone Wolf, the first bike race to ever be held in Colorado City.

Riders will choose one of three courses, ranging from easy to more difficult. The 10 mile course is largely a flat course skirting the northern sector of Colorado City. The 30 and 62 mile courses are more challenging rides of rolling hills and valleys running near or through Westbrook and Loraine.

The bike tour will begin at the high school parking lot at 8 a.m. Saturday. Registration is $15 before May 18 and $20 after this Thursday, the 18th.

Mitchell County Hospital Auxiliary

The Mitchell County Hospital Auxiliary Gift Shop is open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m.-12 noon and 2-5 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday 2-5 p.m. All proceeds benefit Mitchell County Hospital.

Colorado High to receive scholarship

Colorado High School has been named a recipient of a $250 mini-grant from the Texas Department of Transportation's Abilene district for Project Graduation 1995.

In addition to the grant, Abilene district traffic safety coordinator Brenda Mitchell will visit the high schools and present their Project Graduation contact person with key chains for each of the graduates. They key chains bear the slogan, "CLEARHEAD: The Substance-Free Non-Brain-Dulling Party Formula."

"These graduation keepsakes are a reminder to the students to remain alcohol-free around prom and graduation time," Mitchell said.

For the last several years, TxDOT has made money available through its Traffic Operations division to support Project Graduation.

The money is divided between the state's 25 districts who then determine the amount of each grant based on the number of high schools participating in their individual district. Throughout the state, it is one of TxDOT's most popular and well-received projects offered, officials say.

Colorado High School is among 22 high schools in the Abilene district that will be receiving a $250 grant each for Project Graduation 1995," Mitchell said.

Project Graduation was originally developed to assist rural schools with their celebrations and began in 1984 with only two schools. In 1989, the first year the department provided mini-grants to rural schools, they had 59 recipients.

The program proved so successful, it was expanded to include all high schools. This year more than 500 schools will participate in TxDOT's Project Graduation mini-grant incentive program.

Mitchell said the mini-grants are not intended to fully fund a Project Graduation event, but to provide a small incentive for schools to start and support alcohol/drug-free safe events for the students.

Sixth grade band wins sweepstakes

The Colorado City sixth grade band, with 50 members, competed in the Snyder Invitational Band Festival May 13 at Snyder High School and came home with the sweepstakes trophy.

The band received a superior rating from all the judges for their concert performance and sight-reading. This was the first time the band sightread in a contest.

In solos and ensembles, the students were accompanied by Ruby Harper. Fifteen Colorado City soloists received superior ratings and 25 received top ratings in their ensembles.

Soloists receiving superior ratings were Jon Castillo, Andy Crockett, Ashton Anderson, Megan Merrell, Earlene Bashong, Tammi Turnbow, Kevin Wright, Jose Perales, Jessica Chaney, Sam Miller, Tommy Harris, Chase Ratliff, Julian Macedo and Lacy Dockrey.

Museum to exhibit local student's art

The artwork of two Colorado High School students will be featured in an exhibit opening Sunday, May 28 at the Heart of West Texas Museum.

Misty Hall and Ann Marie Ruiz will exhibit their artwork in partial fulfillment of requirements for their Art IV class. Works they have created throughout their high school years will be featured.

Both girls particularly enjoy working with acrylic paints because of the control they have over the medium and the freedom of expression it allows.

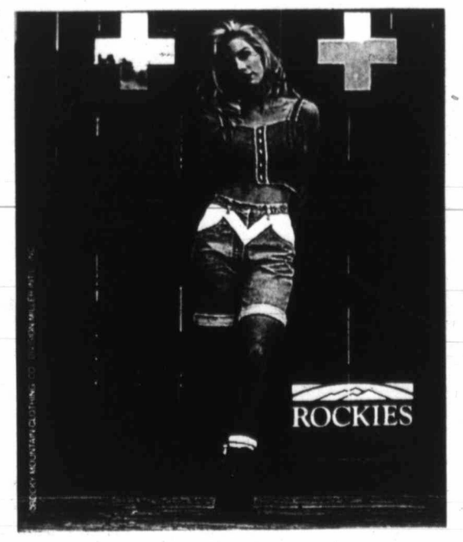

Misty is the daughter of Charlsa and Phil Hall. A lifelong resident of Colorado City, she plans to attend Western Texas College after high school graduation and then continue her pursuit of a degree in sociology at McMurry University.

Ann Marie is the daughter o Mary and Santos Ruiz and the oldest of four children. She plans to pursue a degree in either advertising art or business.

Everyone is invited to see the work of these two young artists on May 28 from 3-4 p.m. The show will be open during regular museum hours throughout June.

CHIEF LONE WOLF

By Jim Baum

The most significant Indian action in Texas history occurred near Colorado City in the year 1840. Approximately 130 Comanches were killed in the attack.

Dr. Harry Krenek, president of Western Texas College, Snyder, says you can call it a battle or a massacre, "depending upon your perspective." Call it what you want, the results are a fact of history and Dr. Krenek has researched the excursion forward and backward. In fact, he wrote his master's thesis on the incident which took place near here.

To put the circumstances into perspective, the Comanches were in an ugly mood. They felt betrayed because promises of land for them had failed to materialize. By 1839 Mirabeau B. Lamar had succeeded Sam Houston as president of Texas and Lamar wanted the Indians out of the republic.

And that brings us to Colonel John Henry Moore. No man who ever set foot in Mitchell County tracked Indians more relentlessly. His accomplishments are legendary. For instance, he ordered the first shot fired in the Texas Revolution. (That was at Gonzales when a troop of Mexican dragoons demanded the return of a cannon loaned to the Texans by Mexico. Backed by a hastily made banner which read "Come and Take It," Colonel Moore ordered a discharge of the weapon and the instant it roared, the war was on.)

But that was in 1835 and now, five years later, Moore found himself leading a contingent of some 100 men (more or less) including maybe a dozen Lipan Apache Indians on an expedition into present day Mitchell County. Their quarry was a marauding band of Comanches who never expected to be followed so far north. Little did they realize their annihilation was imminent.

Their fate was a dramatic reversal of what had transpired in recent months. A band of between 400 and 1,000 Comanches, led by Chief Buffalo Hump, took over Victoria, Texas. When the Indians departed, they took prisoners with them, as well as an estimated 2,000 hroses. Left behind were 15 dead residents of Victoria.

Next, Buffalo Hump hit Linnville. Five more persons were killed and the town was ransacked, pillaged and left burning. By now the Comanches had between 2,000 and 3,000 horses, plus a large number of prisoners.

The biggest problem the Indians had was moving so much loot. Their booty was cumbersome and the gigantic herd of horses was unwieldy, to say the least.

These factors combined for a showdown at Plum Creek. Pursuing militia and frontiersmen followed the great dust trail until it reached a strategic point. Then, all hell broke loose. Historian T.R. Fehrenbach says what followed was "more a massacre than a battle." More than 80 Comanches were killed while only one Texan lost his life.

In the aftermath, Indian victims were found brutaliy murdered. A few of the white prisoners had been hastily tied to trees, then shot with arrows. On the other hand, the attackers also had committed their share of atrocities. A wounded squaw, for example, was stomped by one man, who then pinned her to the ground with a Comanche lance.

It was only a matter of days later that Colonel Moore raised his force to begin a long, arduous trip up the Colorado River, beginning 'way down in Fayette County. Their mission was to inflict further punishment on the Comanches.

Colonel Moore and his force of 90 white men and 12 Lipans rode further west than any white man had ever been, "with the possible exception of Jim Bowie," historian Fehrenbach notes. Or, as Dr. Harry Krenek put it, "the very first white men to come to this part of the country came up as part of this [Moore] exhibition."

Unaware they were being trailed, the Comanches moved along some 150-200 strong. Meanwhile, the pursuers doggedly followed the raiders' trail. Frontiersmen sporting their muskets were led by Lipans who never missed a telltale sign. Then on October 23, 1840, the Comanche camp was located.

The men following Colonel Moore were "almost a roster of the outstanding leaders from the Texas Revolution and later," Dr. Krenek states. For instance, there was 31-year-old Micah Andrews, a veteran of the Texas Revolution.

His brother, Richard, was the first Texan killed in the war. Andrews County is named after the Andrews brothers.

There was also Henry "Doc" Baylor, only 22 years old. He later practiced medicine and served with the Texas Rangers. Baylor County is named after this gallant man.

Another member of the expedition was 32-year-old Nicholas Mosbey Dawson, an adventurer who would be killed in 1842 during what's known as the "Dawson Massacre," near San Antonio. (A Mexican force, using artillery, caught Captain Dawson and his group of some 50 men out in the open and killed all but 15. Several other Texans in the Moore force were also killed in the Dawson Massacre.) Dawson County is named for Nicholas Dawson.

Thirty four-year-old William Mosbey Eastland (Eastland County) was a veteran of San Jacinto. He would meet his death in 1843 after being the first man to draw a black bean in the Haciendo Salado. Eastland was executed by Mexican soldiers.

Still another frontiersman involved in the Mitchell County escapade was Richard Addison Gillespie. He would die in 1846 during the Mexican War. Henry Earthman also made the trip north to Mitchell County. He would be killed a month later in what some persons felt was retaliation for his part in Moore's raid. (Earthman's body was found mutilated by the Indians with his hands severed and stuck to trees. His heart had been cut out and the bottom portion used as a bowl for the Indians' pipe.)

These were but a few of the rugged frontiersmen who rode into what is now Mitchell County and finally caught up with the Comanche warriors, their squaws and children. Undetected, Colonel Moore and his men waited until the following morning to spring their deadly attack. What followed would be utter carnage. More Indians would die than in any other engagement in Texas.

June 12 is deadline

Low-interest loans available

Businesses in Borden, Dawson, Glasscock, Howard, Mitchell, Martin, Scurry and Sterling counties have until June 12, 1995 to file applications for low-interest disaster loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SGA).

The SBA's Economic Injury Disaster Loans are available for businesses dependent on farmers and ranchers sustaining crop losses from drought, high winds and hot temperatures which occurred June 1 through July 27, 1994.

Farmers and ranchers are not eligible for these SBA loans; however, nurseries that are victims of drought diasters may apply.

These loans are intended to assist businesses in offsetting working capital losses which they suffered as a result of the drought, high winds and hot temperatures reducing the crop income of area farmers and ranchers. Small businesses claiming to have been physically injured by the weather are not eligible.

Applications and further information may be obtained by calling the SBA toll-free number, 1-800-366-6303 or TDD (817) 267-4688 for the hearing impaired.
