Oil prices rebound after lowest level since mid-70s

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices in Europe and the United States have rallied sharply because of a belief among buyers that the Reagan administration will pressure Saudi Arabia to help the depressed market by reducing its output.

Prices for West Texas Intermediate, the main U.S. grade, hit $11.60 per 42-gallon barrel in early dealings today on the New York Mercantile Exchange, up from $11.27 at Tuesday's close. The price had plunged as low as $9.75 earlier Tuesday, the lowest price in more than eight years.

In Europe, the cost of Britain's benchmark Brent crude from its North Sea fields jumped to $11 a barrel today after falling to $9.70 on Tuesday, the lowest level for that grade since 1973.

The markets began rallying after Vice President George Bush announced Tuesday he would tell the Saudi government on his upcoming Middle East trip that the price slide is hurting the domestic U.S. oil industry.

Saudi Arabia is widely blamed for the current supply glut and depends heavily on Washington's strategic support.

"This is a major change for the Reagan administration," said William Randol, an analyst for First Boston Corp., a New York investment firm. "The policy has been that lower is better, period. Now they're starting to realize that the euphoria of lower oil prices is like a party followed by a hangover."

Peter Beutel, assistant manager of Rudolf Wolff Energy Inc., a New York commodities futures firm, said buyers rushed in toward the close of trading Tuesday in the belief that Bush's trip will sway the Saudis into changing their policy.

"This just highlights the theory that there's no sure bet in oil," Beutel said. "It highlights the politically sensitive and volatile nature of the commodity."

The Reagan administration has credited falling oil prices with helping restrain inflation. But the U.S. oil industry has warned that cheap oil makes domestic production unprofitable and could lead to a return to the dependence on foreign supplies that hurt the economy in the 1970s.

All U.S. petroleum companies have been forced to slash the contract price they pay producers for crude oil, a cost that strongly influences what consumers pay. Citgo

Prices shock officials

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Gov. Mark White, shaken by plummeting crude oil prices, has asked President Ronald Reagan to give the state, and all oil-producing states, a helping hand.

"I would hope that he will respond," White told reporters Tuesday after oil prices dropped below $10 a barrel on the futures market. "The state and the nation obviously are in jeopardy because of the dumping of oil on the world marketplace."

Prices rose lightly above $11 a barrel at the close.

"The United States cannot afford a single-digit price per barrel of oil," White said in a letter to Reagan in which he advocated imposition of an immediate temporary variable tariff

Don't forget the "slogan contest" being sponsored this month by Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce and its retail merchants' committee. A prize of $200 in Hereford Bucks goes to the person who develops the winning slogan and/or logo to promote the community's growth and progress.

"Hospitable, Hustlin' Hereford" has been our mail slogan for some time. A few years back the chamber came out with some H-lapel pins that promoted the "Hospitable, Hustlin' Hereford" slogan. We've still got one of those pins.

The contest is open to all interested persons, so get your thinking cap on and come up with the winning slogan. The deadline is April 30. Entries should be mailed to Logo, Box 192, Hereford, Tx. 79045.

We took a spring break last week, travelling to Port Aransas where 150,000 college students were gathered for a beach party.

Luckily, we avoided the frenzied party chaos by staying off the beaches and not trying to catch the ferry on Saturday or Sunday. The ferry line into Port Aransas stretched more than seven miles at times on Saturday. We opted for the golf courses instead of the beaches and had no problems.

We stopped by San Antonio for a visit with Harlan and Donna Vanderzee, former Hereford residents. We also stopped briefly for a look at an antique fair in Comfort. Bill and Mary Lyles made the trip with us, and we had a good visit with their son, Jim, who is superintendent of the golf course at Rockport Country Club. Jim arranged for us to play several golf courses in the area and we had a relaxing week.

We were looking through a Port Aransas South Jetty newspaper while on the trip and ran across a beautiful "thank you" note in the paper. We'd like to pass it on to our readers:

Jet lands safely following explosion

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — An explosion on a TWA Boeing 727 today blasted a man, woman and child from the plane to their deaths as it flew over southern Greece, airport police said. Five other passengers were injured, police said.

Flight 840, bound from Rome to Athens with 121 people aboard, landed safely at Athens, police said.

An airport police spokesman originally said it seemed a bomb went off in the plane's cargo section, but later said it was not certain what caused the blast.

"It could possibly have been a technical malfunction between the cargo hold and the seating area," said the police spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

He said the explosion blew a hole in the plane's underside.

The bodies of the three people were found near the town of Argos, he said. "They apparently had been sucked out of the plane by the blast," he said.

The spokesman said the plane was carrying 114 passengers and seven crew members, and had been scheduled to continue to Cairo, Egypt.

Before the bodies were found, TWA spokesman Steven Heckscher said in London, "There was an explosion on board the aircraft... and there have been some injuries that don't seem to be serious."

"The explosion occurred as the plane was making its approach to Athens airport, and it landed safely," Heckscher said.

He said the injured passengers were taken to a hospital. The blast "seems to have occurred roughly... a third of the way down the aircraft from the front. It appears that there was considerable damage done to the aircraft. There were some windows blown out and I think a hole punched in the fuselage," Heckscher said.

The police spokesman said the blast ripped a 9-by-3 foot hole in the plane's fuselage below the right wing, but a spokeswoman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington said the blast left a 3-by-3 foot hole in the fuselage and that seat 10F was blown from the plane.

The police spokesman said the explosion occurred at 2:05 p.m. (6:05 a.m. EST) as the plane was flying at an altitude of 11,000 feet above the southern Greek town of Corinth, just before making its approach to Athens.

The airport control tower said the plane made an emergency landing at 2:30 p.m.

TWA officials at the airport said they were not authorized to release any information.

Airport officials said they were not aware of any threats against TWA flights out of Athens in the past few days.

Last Friday a TWA flight from New York to Bombay was delayed during a Cairo stopover when the airline received a sabotage warning. No bomb was found.

Reagan to give Pentagon verdict

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan, who has threatened to take on "the entrenched bureaucracy" to streamline Pentagon management, is ready to announce his official verdict on a study he authorized on the leadership of the Defense Department.

White House spokesman Peter Rousell, accompanying the president on his 10-day Easter vacation at his mountain ranch 20 miles north of here, said Tuesday the president's decisions on a commission report on Pentagon management reforms would be released today.

Reagan already has made favorable comments on the study, which was produced by a commission the president named last June headed by former Defense Secretary David Packard.

"I will implement the recommendations in here as quickly as I can, even if they run counter to the wishes of the entrenched bureaucracy," Reagan told Packard when he accepted the report on Feb. 28.

"I will act promptly and firmly on this," he added.

The study includes calls for strengthening the role of the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and creating a new civilian office to oversee Defense Department purchasing.

Packard said the Defense Department should be changed to run "the way any business is run" and avoid wasting money.

Pickens talks about Reagan

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A tariff on imported oil might help the U.S. petroleum industry, but there are too many non-oil-producing states to win support for such a fee, corporate takeover artist T. Boone Pickens said.

Also, Pickens said here Tuesday, President Reagan will not allow a tariff.

It's not because Reagan is against the domestic industry, he's for it, Pickens said. "But he's opposed to taxes, he's opposed to tariffs and he's going to have to work it out ourselves."

Pickens, in San Antonio to speak at a breakfast sponsored by Trinity University, said Texas faces hard times and the oil industry already has "taken a big hit" when it comes to layoffs.

His own Mesa Petroleum Co. in Amarillo has reduced its payroll from 900 employees to 400, he said.

By October, Pickens said, there is a three out of four chance crude prices will range from less than $10 a barrel to $18 to $20 a barrel.

And, he said, it will be 18 to 24 months before the price of oil is up to $30 a barrel.

Pickens, noted for his attempts to take over such petroleum companies as Phillips, Gulf, Cities Services, General American and Unocal, said prices at the gasoline pump likely will dip as low as 50 cents a gallon before they start easing up again.

The 13 nations in OPEC, he said, need to cut production to under 16 million barrels a day to get prices up to $18 to $20 per barrel, he said.

The current production level is about 17 million a day.

Part that caused crash destroyed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The chief of the Challenger salvage effort says searchers never will find the precise rocket joint section that triggered the space shuttle explosion because it undoubtedly was destroyed in the accident.

Air Force Col. Edward A. O'Connor, however, said Tuesday he was confident that surrounding pieces will be found and will help determine the exact cause of the disaster.

He also disclosed that a section of the suspected joint retrieved several weeks ago from the ocean floor has been positively identified as being a part of the shuttle's right booster rocket.

But he told a news conference that the section is on the opposite side of the area where a plume of flame shot from the joint 15 seconds before the shuttle exploded on Jan. 28, killing seven astronauts.

States, legal profession must attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — The legal profession must rid itself of mob-connected lawyers, while states must attack organized crime with electronic surveillance and grand juries, says a presidential commission investigating organized crime.

Law enforcement tools at the state level are vital if the power of the Mafia and the emerging clout of outlaw motorcycle gangs and ethnic crime groups is to be broken, the President's Commission on Organized Crime concluded Tuesday.

In its final report before going out of business after more than 2½ years, the presidential panel asserted that organized crime will reap more than $100 billion this year, will cost the country more than 400,000 jobs and will cut a typical person's income by nearly $80.

Organized crime's proceeds from heroin, cocaine and marijuana trafficking this year will total as much as $55 billion, concluded the commission, relying on a study performed for it by Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates of Philadelphia.

Crash victims returned to capital

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexicana Airlines jets bearing the bodies of more than half the 166 people who died when a Mexicana jet slammed into a mountain returned to the capital city, where coroners gathered evidence from relatives to help identify the dead.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Vincent Hovanec said Tuesday that nine Americans were among the 158 passengers and eight crew members who were killed when the plane crashed 90 miles northwest of Mexico City on Monday.

The airline previously had said there were five Americans on board.

Searchers recovered the Boeing 727's "black box" flight recorder Tuesday from the crash site on rugged 7,792-foot El Carbon mountain.

The federal Communications and Transportation Department said authorities would study the cockpit voice recorder and the flight data recorder in an effort to determine the cause of the accident. Enrique Mendez Fernandez, director of the Civil Aeronautics Agency, estimated it would take a month to determine the probable cause.

Strikers return to work at bases

SUBIC NAVAL BASE, Philippines (AP) — More than 1,000 striking Filipino workers blockaded the main gate of Subic Naval Base today despite the announced settlement of a 12-day strike at U.S. military facilities in the Philippines.

Base side gate was cleared by two groups of 50 Filipino riot troops who used tear gas to disperse strikers to a nearby road. There were no arrests.

Chief Petty Officer Jack Leigh, a Navy spokesman, said up to 40 employees used the side entrance to enter the base, but could not say how many of those entering were strikers returning to work or non-union employees.

Officials and union leaders said all gates were open at Clark Air Base and six smaller facilities, and workers returned to their jobs with the morning shifts.

An agreement to end the strike was reached by Philippine and U.S. officials in Manila on Tuesday, but there were disagreements between factions of the 22,000-member labor union, with some of the militants showing increasing anti-American sentiments.

Mexico's economy grew little, if any

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Miguel de la Madrid said that despite the nation's economic woes, the economy grew a moderate 3 percent last year. The government had earlier acknowledged that "there was unevenness" in the economy's 1985 performance.

"It was not possible to reduce the average annual rate of inflation that reached nearly 58 percent, a percentage that despite its dimension was less than the 100 percent registered three years ago," he said in the report, a summary of which was released late Monday by his office.

Mexico's economy grew at a faster-than-expected pace in the first half of last year, a clip that worried government officials and prompted them to hit the brakes to slow the economy in the last half of the year.

Some analysts believe the economy grew little, if at all, at the end of 1985.

Abilene bank officer balances time, money

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Mike Kissko's time is money.

In fact, his job is money.

"You just don't think of it as money any more," says Kissko, who probably "handles" more cash than just about anybody in Abilene.

Kissko, operations officer at MBank Abilene, is responsible for making the bank's money balance every day.

It's a monumental task, compared to balancing most people's checkbooks.

He wouldn't say how much cash he and the other vault tellers go through in a day, but it's got to be thousands and thousands of dollars.

"We 'sell' money to the tellers, and they 'buy' it from us during the course of the day," Kissko says. "As they run out of cash at their windows, they call us to replenish it."

"At the end of the day, we are the ones who have to make sure it balances."

Does it ever not balance?

Yes, but Kissko and his crew stick around until it comes into balance.

"Usually, it's just an error in filling out the form buying and selling the cash to the tellers. We have to get it in balance," he says.

There may be a temptation to pull a dime out of his pocket and stick it in the pile to balance out, "but the examiners wouldn't like that. We don't do it."

Kissko uses a bill counter in the vault, but it doesn't really relieve the pressure. It just counts the number of pieces of paper that runs through it. The human has to verify that all the bills in the stack are of the same denomination.

Every once in a while an old bill will show, but it's the coins that produce the most interesting specimens.

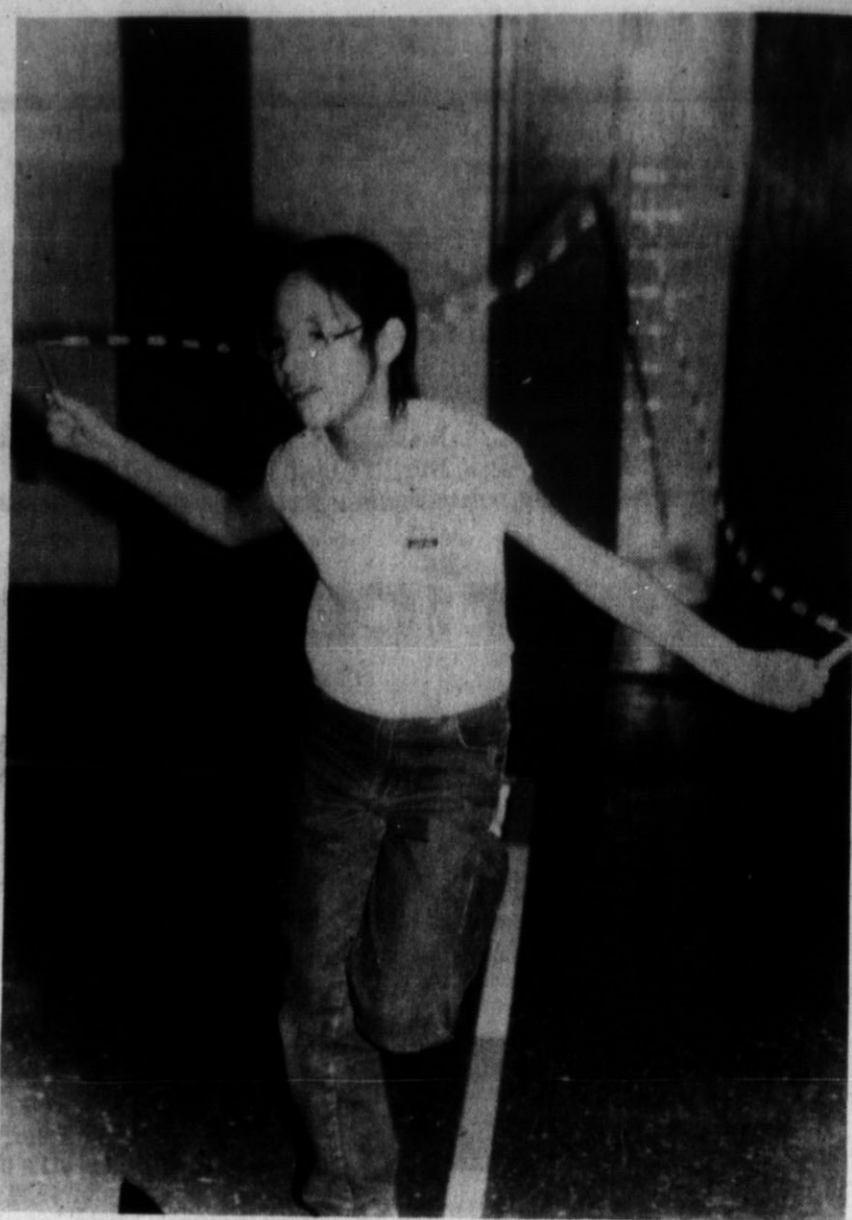

His crew found a couple of Nazi coins recently. A penny from the mid-1800s also has shown up.

But the job is not one for coin collectors. Kissko wasn't on the job long before he could tell when certain businesses' money was being counted just by using his nose.

Kissko's daily work is actually a smelly job.

"When you get home, it's really difficult to get the smell of the bills and coins off your hands," he says. "I guess money is dirty (as the saying goes)."

In addition, "you can smell that smokey scent when a barbecue restaurant's daily deposit comes in," Kissko says. "You can tell the same way when chicken establishments bring in their money, too."

on imported oil and refined products.

The Tuesday oil price crisis followed a federal court decision Monday in which Texas lost its challenge to the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction measure.

U.S. District Judge James Nowlin on Monday denied Attorney General Jim Mattox's request for a preliminary injunction against federal cuts of $6 million in a program to help the poor pay utility bills and $2.5 million in a program to fight drug and alcohol abuse.

Mattox's press secretary, Elna Christopher, said the attorney general would wait to see what action the U.S. Supreme Court takes on a suit challenging the constitutionality of Gramm-Rudman, the brainchild of Texas Republican Sen. Phil Gramm.

No date has been set for a hearing on a permanent injunction against the federal cutbacks, which would be the second phase in the Austin case.

White told an afternoon news conference that President Reagan had "pledged" in February to meet with the leadership of oil-producing states, but nothing more has been heard from the White House.

"The real, long-term solution to our domestic energy problem entails immediate action to impose a temporary, variable tariff on oil and refined products," White said in his letter.

Texas faces a $1.3 billion deficit in its two-year budget because of the slide in oil prices since the first of the year, said Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The state will have to borrow among state funds just to keep itself going until the Legislature meets in January, he said.

"It's not a good sign," said Bullock spokesman Tony Proffitt.

"But at the moment we are not planning to revise our expected revenue figures. Our budget forecasts were made on posted market prices of oil and the posted market remains within 50 cents of our forecast of an annual average of $15 a barrel for this fiscal year."

In his ruling, Nowlin said the state had not proven it was a victim of discrimination when the U.S. Department of Health and Human

Summit date undecided

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's capital has moved splendidly into spring. The forsythia and daffodils are in bloom, and so are the precious Japanese cherry blossoms, a prime attraction for the tourists who have returned with their cameras, strollers and street maps.

But as far as U.S.-Soviet relations are concerned, it might as well still be winter. Hopes raised at the "fireside summit" meeting in Geneva for a thaw are dwindling. If President Reagan is to host a second session with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev here in late June or late July, as the White House prefers, Moscow had better RSVP quickly.

"Time is getting close," Larry Speakes, the presidential spokesman, observed Monday. "It is getting critical to begin to set a date where you can do effective planning for a summit."

Last November's meeting was an icebreaker, the first U.S.-Soviet summit in more than six years. Smiles and handshakes won't be enough to satisfy worldwide expectations this time. So, most analysts agree, it will take at least six weeks to reconsider the "many conflicts" between the superpowers and try to find solutions Reagan and Gorbachev could adopt.

But Moscow still hasn't said it is coming. Arms control talks, meanwhile, are at a virtual standstill except for some movement toward reducing U.S. and Soviet medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe. The Soviets do not want to talk about trimming their arsenal in Asia, and unless they do the Reagan administration is unlikely to agree to even an interim cutback in Europe.

Gorbachev tried last weekend to coax the president into another summit to ban underground nuclear tests. But the proposal was brushed aside. U.S. officials, evidently doubting the Soviet leader was sincere, grumbled that the offer was never transmitted through diplomatic channels.

Rep. Les Aspin, the Democratic chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said even if Gorbachev was "demagoguing," Reagan should have called his bluff and seen if the Soviets were serious about a negotiated ban. U.S. and Soviet nuclear test blasts, except those conducted underground, were prohibited in a 1963 treaty. But the two sides have not moved from there to the comprehensive ban they committed themselves to seek 23 years ago.

Secretary of State George Shultz and Paul Nitze, the president's senior arms control adviser, questioned whether a publicly announced proposal by Gorbachev was the way to conduct serious negotiations. Their skepticism is important since they probably are the two most influential members of the administration on arms control with the exception of the president himself.

Shultz lectured the Soviets to stop grandstanding. "We will get somewhere in our relationship with the Soviets when we're able to have some discussions that are relatively quiet and direct," he said.

That opportunity may come in a couple of weeks when former Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, who was promoted recently to a top Communist party post, returns for farewell calls.

Shultz and Kenneth Adelman, the U.S. arms control director, indicated that the United States would not make new proposals on either offensive weapons or space-based defense systems when the fifth round of talks opens May 8 in Geneva.

The U.S. strategy is to stick with the American proposals already put on the table and wait for the Soviets to give ground. That could happen. When the Soviets broke off negotiations in late 1983 the U.S. side did not blink. Reagan waited. And the Soviets returned to the bargaining table in 1985.

Evidently, Reagan and his senior advisers are convinced the strategy will work again.

Latest fashions previewed at Division meeting

The newest spring and summer fashions were modeled during a style show at the Women's Division's quarterly meeting Tuesday evening at the Hereford Community Center.

The show was chaired by Jo Ann Hill and Betty Drake and was sponsored by local merchants. They included Anthony's in the mall, Louise's, Etcetera, Gaston's, Grandma's Korner, Little's and Helen's.

Those receiving door prizes donated by the merchants were Karla Vasek, $25 gift certificate; Traci Reiter, talc perfume; Billie Hopson, ice cream maker; and Linda Daniel, gift certificate.

During the brief business meeting conducted by Women's Division President Lanette Leasure, several announcements were made. Carolyn Macias has been selected as the Chamber of Commerce artist of the month and has her works displayed at the C of C office. Also, the beautification committee has selected the beauty spots of the month. The residential beauty spot for April is the Dudley Bayne home at 514 Star and the non-residential spot is Ag Analysis.

Members and guests were reminded of the 1986 Little Miss Pageant set for 7 p.m. Saturday, April 12, in the Hereford High School auditorium. Admission price to the annual event, sponsored by the Women's Division, is $2 per person.

L'Allegria Study Club's Annual Antique Show and Plant Sale is planned April 18-20 at the Community Center. Proceeds from the event benefit various community projects.

Also, St. Thomas Episcopal Church will again sponsor its annual Tour of Tables May 3 at the Community Center. Tables will be set up from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. that day with judging scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. The table displays will be open for public viewing Sunday May 4.

Other events planned include the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train to be in Veterans Park May 15 and the Women's Division's annual pet show set May 17 at the Bull Barn.

Leasure announced that there will be no tennis tournament due to lack of interest. Also, the winners of the recent membership drive who had enlisted the most new members into the organization will be awarded Hereford bucks at the next quarterly meeting.

Refreshments of punch, cookies and coffee were served to approximately 50 members and guests. Serving as hostesses were members of the beautification, Christmas lighting and Christmas tree committees.

Although the Women's Division's annual membership drive concluded March 31, interested women may join the organization at any time by contacting Peggie Fox, any organization member or the Chamber of Commerce office.

There are several committees that members may serve on including animal action, beautification, beauty spot of the month, blood bank,

Christmas lighting contest, Christmas tree ceremony, decorations, finance and budget, jubilee, fine arts, Little Miss Hereford

Pageant, Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant, membership, public affairs and publicity, sesquicentennial, tennis, tour and welcome.

Don't Elect My Husband!

Humorous skits are a tradition at the annual Hereford Lions Club election party, and president-elect Temple Abney's family got in the act Monday night. Karen Abney brought her "battered" children—Cassie, Tempie and Kristan—to the front to plead with Lions not to elect her husband. "He can't take the pressure and you see the results," she told Lions. Taking off the sunshades, each exhibited black eyes. (P.S.—He won anyway!)

Senior Citizens Opportunities

Activities scheduled this week (April 3 through April 9) at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center include the following:

WEDNESDAY — Ceramics 1:30 p.m.

STOLEN CARS

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Every 29 seconds an automobile is stolen in the United States, according to National Car Rental, which adds that only about 50 percent of these are ever recovered. Stolen vehicles are often taken by thieves directly to illegal operations called "chop shops," where they are stripped and reduced to untraceable parts. The parts are then sold individually for sums considerably greater than could be gotten for a whole and unaltered stolen vehicle.

National, which has a fleet of about 110,000 cars, says it has now begun marking its cars in many cities with vehicle identification numbers, both to prevent their theft and to facilitate their recovery.

Lunch Menus
THURSDAY — Meat loaf, white beans, broccoli with cheese sauce, onion slice, cabbage-green pepper slaw, fruit and cookie, cornbread.
FRIDAY — Catfish strips, baked potato, spinach, grape gelatin salad, apricot cobbler.

MONDAY — Chicken and noodles, turnip greens, carrot and raisin salad, lemon meringue pie.

TUESDAY — Baked ham with raisin sauce, scalloped potatoes, seasoned green beans, pineapple-cottage cheese salad, pumpkin custard.

WEDNESDAY — Barbequed chicken, pinto beans, potato salad, cabbage-carrot-raisin salad, fresh fruit, Texas toast, onion slice, dill pickles.

Seminars planned for women owning farms, ranches

Two special seminars for women who own farm and ranch land have been planned by Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

These seminars will be held in Odessa April 14-16 and in Austin May 6-8.

This will be the third year this seminar has been offered. It was first offered in 1984 with one program at San Antonio. The overwhelming response from Texas women landowners challenged Extension to schedule three programs in 1985 and four programs in 1986.

"In Texas over 75 percent of all land is owned by women. These women acquired this land in three major ways," indicates Wayne Hayenga, the Extension Economist and Attorney who will conduct the seminars. Much of the land owned and controlled by women was received by inheritance, either from their parents or a husband. However, there are numerous women who purchased land themselves or with a spouse as an investment. Other women are sole owners because they were previously married to a farmer and received the land in a divorce proceeding.

The seminars will start off with the in-depth look at the mineral estate. Negotiating an oil and gas lease is new to many landowners, and one can never tell when an oil company will come by and make an offer. One of the important things to learn is the minerals are not leased, but truly are sold. In addition to discussing how to negotiate with an oil company, several tax savings hints will be suggested because, as Hayenga indicated, everybody always negotiates with two parties. One, the oil company who is leading the minerals and second the Internal Revenue Service that charges taxes on the money received.

In the afternoon of the first day the seminar will look at surface leasing of farm and ranch land. Methods to use to negotiate leases with tenants, what items to include in leases, and how to evaluate a tenant's productivity are major topics. Introduced here will be Texas Extension Service's standard budgets so women get a feeling of "par" in farm production for both yield and expenses.

The second day will introduce basic income tax planning and give ideas to women landowners on how to structure their farm and ranch operation to save income taxes. Frequently, operating the farm and ranch business as a corporation or partnership can direct the income where the woman owner wants it to go, and thus, can save income, gift and estate taxes.

Buying, selling and trading land will also be discussed the second morning. The new rules for tax-free exchanges will be discussed, as well as the rules on the recent rule changes on interest rates required for family transactions.

Estate planning, both to save estate taxes and to make estate administration easier for loved ones are always of great concern to all. Farm and ranch owners particularly have an unusual problem in estate planning: they have a valuable asset with very little cash income. This by itself makes estate planning very difficult and if the farm is to go to one interested family member who wants to farm.

DR. GOTT Dermatologist can offer help

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A dry, scaly substance covers the outer parts of my ears, and the inside as well. The cream the doctor gave me makes it worse. Would a salve with cortisone help? What causes this?

DEAR READER — Many different types of skin disorder, including seborrhea and psoriasis, can cause scaling. I think you need the attention of a dermatologist, because, although cortisone cream may be appropriate, it's a good idea to establish a diagnosis before using it for more than an occasional itchy rash.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had to have a hysterectomy. Now my husband says that having sex with me is not like it used to be, and I don't have any feelings for it either. Please tell us what to do.

DEAR READER — A hysterectomy should not affect your ability to enjoy sex. If you and your husband believe that it is "not like it used to be," check with your gynecologist to make sure there is no other physical problem that is inhibiting you. Perhaps you both would be helped by counseling. Sex, like everything else in life, certainly does change with aging, but most healthy adults can continue to experience sexual fulfillment for many years.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am female, 77, and have been suffering almost constant pain for two years from the 30 percent deterioration of two vertebrae in the lower lumbar spine. Can surgery be done to correct this? My doctor has just given me exercises to strengthen the back muscles.

DEAR READER — I believe you are suffering from a loss of bone mass called osteoporosis. After menopause, women tend to lose excessive calcium from their bones. Surgery is not indicated; exercises are usually not helpful. You may be helped — and the calcium loss arrested — by taking calcium and fluoride supplements, hormones or drugs that are available to correct the leaching of bone calcium. These treatments are best prescribed by an endocrinologist, a specialist in metabolism.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My heart has spasms and one artery is 30 percent clogged. I am now on a low-salt, low-cholesterol diet, and take Cardizem (30 mg.), Persantine (75 mg.), Inderal (20 mg. four times a day) and nitroglycerine when I need it. Just how serious is this heart problem? Would it help if I lost weight?

DEAR READER — You seem to be describing angina, the cardiac-muscle cramps caused by inadequate oxygen supply to the heart. Bypass surgery can re-establish circulation to cardiac muscle, but the procedure is not recommended for every patient with angina.

Recent studies show that many angina victims fare as well with medicine as with surgery, and there is less risk. Although the situation is serious, you appear to be taking proper medicine. If you are overweight, I suggest you trim down. If you continue to have pain, ask your doctor to alter the doses of your medication.

What are the benefits of VITAMIN E? Dr. Gott's new Health Report tells what's true — and what isn't. Send $1 plus your name and address to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Vitamin E.

Troops rebuilding fort with touch of compassion

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — After grieving for the loss of 248 soldiers in the December crash of a military transport in Newfoundland, the Army has rebuilt the lost unit under a new commander who talks of infantry grit but also of compassion.

Lt. Col. Harry Rothman succeeded Lt. Col. Marvin A. Jeffcoat, who was killed in the crash as Fort Campbell soldiers were returning from Mideast peacekeeping duties in the Sinai desert.

Often wearing camouflage fatigues and green face paint, Rothman mixes with his troops, as GIs in training slog through mud and duck simulated enemy fire. "This is what soldiering is all about," he says. "This is the highlight of an infantryman's career."

Another job has been rebuilding. Of the three rifle companies in the 3rd battalion of the 502nd Infantry Regiment, one was annihilated in the Dec. 12 crash at Gander.

"My problem was how to reconstruct that company in particular," he said.

Rothman shifted some units that weren't affected by the crash into the company that was hardest hit. Then he took new recruits and spread them throughout the three rifle companies.

The headquarters and artillery companies did not lose as many men in the crash, but they also needed new blood. Fifty percent of the new men came from within Fort Campbell, Rothman said, while the rest were from other bases.

"When we first came back, of course we had several problems to deal with immediately — burials, assisting families with escort services," he said. "That was our first priority."

One important addition to the reorganized unit was a mental health officer to assist the medical platoon.

"Part of our program of reconstituting the unit was to make sure counseling services were available not only for the families but also for the soldiers who lost good friends," Rothman said, adding that at least 20 soldiers have sought counseling.

A training program "for the chain of command also made them aware of signs of stress, the shock of the aftermath and grief," he said. "You've got to have compassion for what they've gone through."

The crash caused some soldiers to reconsider their careers and leave the Army, but many more stayed.

"That says something for their training," said Sgt. Maj. Jerry Roy. "You can train people for years and months and none of it matters unless a person believes what he's doing is right."

When going on a picnic, put hot dogs in a wide-mouthed thermos and fill with boiling water. They will be ready to eat by the time you reach your spot.

Fasten sausages together on a meat skewer before frying—one flip with a spatula turns them all, and you cut down on spattering.

League Champions

The St. Anthony's III team won the YMCA "B" church volleyball league championship Tuesday night by defeating First Methodist in the finals, 15-5 and 15-9. Members of the league championship team are: front row from left, Theresa Fangman, Lisa Artho, Connie Backus, and Wanda Huseman; back row from left, Gary Fangman, Dennis Artho, Fritz Backus, and Bernie Huseman. In a semifinal match Tuesday, First Methodist defeated Church of Christ II, 16-14, 15-11. St. Anthony's III won its semifinal match on March 21, defeating Avenue Baptist II, 15-9, 10-15, 11-3.

After winning NCAA championship

Louisville is not 'Crumbums'

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — A year ago, Denny Crum's Louisville Cardinals were barely a .500 team, cast off to the Lake Wobegone of college basketball's postseason play, the National Invitation Tournament.

The NIT once was a big deal with the glittering lights of New York's

Youth basketball

playoffs scheduled

Playoffs start Saturday in four of the YMCA youth basketball leagues. Those leagues are the fifth and sixth grade boys' league, fifth and sixth grade girls' league, third and fourth grade boys' league, and third and fourth grade girls' league.

No playoffs will be held for the first and second grade leagues.

FIFTH & SIXTH GRADE BOYS
Saturday, April 5: Mavericks vs. Cougars, 11 a.m.; Panthers vs. Bullets, noon; Tornados vs. Cavaliers, 1 p.m.; and Sharks vs. Basketeers, 2 p.m.

Saturday, April 12: Winners of 11 a.m. and noon April 5 games, 9 a.m.; winners of 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. April 5 games, 10 a.m.; championship game, 1 p.m.

FIFTH & SIXTH GRADE GIRLS
Saturday, April 5: Hawks vs. Rockets, 9 a.m.; winner of Hawks-Rockets game vs. Celtics, 3 p.m.; Court Jesters vs. Pistons, 10 a.m.; winner of Court Jesters-Pistons game vs. Suns, 4 p.m.

Saturday, April 12: Championship game, 11 a.m.

THIRD & FOURTH GRADE BOYS
Saturday, April 5: Nets vs. Spurs, 8:30 a.m.; Mustangs vs. Nicks, 8:30 a.m.; winners of 8:30 a.m. games, 12:30 p.m.; Longhorns vs. Whitefaces, 9:50 a.m.; Bruins vs. Globetrotters, 9:50 a.m.; winners of 9:50 a.m. games, 12:30 p.m.

Saturday, April 12: Championship game, 10 a.m.

THIRD & FOURTH GRADE GIRLS
Saturday, April 5: Sonics vs. Lakers, 11:10 a.m.; winner of Sonics-Lakers game vs. Sparketts, 1:50 p.m.; Kings vs. Bucketts, 11:10 a.m.; winner of Kings-Bucketts game vs. Slam Dunkers, 1:50 p.m.

Saturday, April 12: Championship game, 10 a.m.

Madison Square Garden beckoning teams. Then the NCAA got smart and made attendance mandatory for schools invited to its party and expanded the guest list to 64 teams. Now, when you win the NIT, you can proudly proclaim, "We're No. 65."

Louisville made it to the NIT's Final Four last year — not quite the same as Destination Dallas this spring — before being blown away by Tennessee and finishing its season with a sorry 19-18 mark.

A cruel critic might have gone so far as to call them, well, Crumbums. It was, you may have noticed, a distinctly temporary condition. Louisville is back on top of college basketball today, proving that you can turn things around in a hurry in this sport with the right mix of upper classman and freshmen recruits and the sense to get them tournament tough, no matter what the price in wins and losses.

Crum brought in a hotshot freshman class headed by "Never Nervous" Pervis Ellison, Tony Kimbro and redshirted guard Kevin Walls. And he had the courage to play these kids, establishing depth on his team. So when seniors Milt Wagner and Billy Thompson each picked up a fourth foul with 12 minutes to go in the NCAA Tournament title game against Duke the other night, it was no problem for the long bench of the Cards.

Crum's team also played the toughest non-conference schedule in the country for the second year in a row. That's how the Cards happened to lose seven games. It's also how they happened to reach such a fine edge when it came time for the NCAAs.

Some schools like to load up their schedule on powder puffs, creating impressive won-loss records. Consider the other Final Four teams.

Duke's non-ACC opponents this season included Lamar, William & Mary, East Carolina, Appalachian State, Harvard and Stetson.

Can you imagine Johnny Dawkins against Stetson?

Kansas' non-Big Eight schedule included Southern Illinois-Edwardsville and Western Carolina.

Danny Manning against SIU-E? Outside the SEC, Louisiana State played Hardin Simmons, Oral Roberts and had a gruelling four-game road trip against Brigham Young-Hawaii, Hawaii-Pacific, Hawaii-Loa and Hawaii-Hilo.

There was none of that soft stuff on Louisville's schedule. Crum, armed with the security of a 10-year contract, doesn't need to impress people with cosmetic, inflated records. He needs instead to prepare his team for the tough tournament road. Anybody who saw Louisville knows that the Cardinals were ready.

The selection committee played hard ball with Crum's club, using it as one of a fistful of East teams sent West to dress up that region. The Cards were in a bracket that required getting past 32-2 Bradley, 28-5 North Carolina and 22-10 Auburn following the first round game against 19-11 Drexel. Louisville won each of those games handily, none by less than eight points.

When LSU had the Cards eight points down at halftime in the national semifinals, they merely switched into overdrive in a 17-1 run that buried the Tigers.

Against Duke, they never lost their poise, even when Dawkins' magic threatened to put them away. Instead, they hung tough, waiting for an opening. Then, when the Blue Devils seemed to forget in the last 10 minutes that they had the best guard in the country, Louisville boldly grabbed the opportunity to claim the national championship.

And they are Crumbums no more.

Rieves pitches complete game

Herd shuts out Caprock, 7-0

Several pitching masterpieces have been achieved by Hereford Whiteface varsity pitchers this season, and another one was accomplished Tuesday in Amarillo, when Donny Rieves hurled a shutout to lead Hereford over Caprock, 7-0.

Rieves pitched a three-hitter and struck out four Caprock batters in recording his complete game victory.

Rieves, who walked four batters, was backed by a Herd defense that committed just one error.

The victory keeps the Whitefaces within one game of District 3-5A leaders Amarillo High and Lubbock Monterey. Hereford is 2-1 in the district, and Amarillo High and Monterey are both 3-0.

Amarillo High beat Plainview 14-12 Tuesday, Monterey defeated Lubbock Coronado 14-1, and in the other district action, Palo Duro scored a 9-1 win over Tascosa.

Hereford, 9-4-1 for the season, plays at home Friday in a 4:30 p.m. game against Plainview. On Saturday, the Whitefaces play at Tascosa at 1 p.m., and next Tuesday, Hereford hosts Lubbock Coronado at 4:30 p.m.

Robby Collier hit a two-run double and stole home in the second inning to boost Hereford to a 3-0 lead in Tuesday's game.

Scoring the first two runs were Rodney Torres, who had walked, and Doug Watts, who had singled.

Watts walked in the fourth inning, stole second, and scored on a sacrifice fly by Stefan Hacker to increased Hereford's lead to 4-0.

All of the other Whiteface runs came in the fifth inning. Philip Webster singled and Kyle Streum tripled to drive home Webster.

The Herd then loaded the bases when Torres and Keith Anderson both walked. Watts picked up an RBI when he reached base on a walk. Collier hit a sacrifice fly to bat in Torres for Hereford's seventh run of the contest.

Showing Their Catch

Jim Gandy, left, of Hereford, was a member of a threesome that caught this yellow catfish last week at Falcon Lake near Zapata, Texas. With him are Wayne Jaeger, center, of Warrensburg, Mo., and Bo Milacek, right, of Omaha, Neb. The weight of the yellow catfish was estimated at 30 pounds. It was 36 inches long, and 23 inches around its widest part.

To No. 2 quarterback

Cowboys promote Pelluer

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas Cowboys reserve quarterback Steve Pelluer has been promoted to the No. 2 quarterback spot behind Danny White because backup quarterback Gary Hogeboom wants to be traded, Dallas offensive passing coordinator says.

The promotion came after Pelluer had practiced only a few hours Tuesday at the Cowboys mini-camp.

"Steve is our No. 2 quarterback," said Paul Hackett, Cowboys' offensive passing coordinator. "No question, he has a shot at No. 1. But it would be difficult to unseat experience. A young guy can learn a lot from (starting quarterback) White."

Pelluer was the third-string quarterback behind White and Hogeboom last season, but because Hogeboom has requested a trade, Hackett chose to make Pelluer No. 2.

"It's starting to look like I'm in a pretty good situation," said Pelluer, who met Hackett for the first time Tuesday morning. "I'm not worried about what happens and I'm not looking to get a break. I'm just trying to improve as much as I can and I've learned a lot from both (White and Hogeboom)."

Pelluer, entering his third year with the Cowboys, has played in just one regular-season game (other than 1984 when he was a field-goal holder in one game).

Last season against the New York Giants, a game that clinched the National Football Conference East title for the Cowboys, Pelluer took the field after White sustained a shoulder injury and Hogeboom went down with a concussion.

Pelluer led the Cowboys to a touchdown and a 28-21 victory. He finished the season completing five of eight passes for 47 yards.

"In his only opportunity, Steve was outstanding," Hackett said. "Steve came in in a pressure-packed situation and got the ball into the end zone against a tough defense. I was impressed."

Hogeboom said Pelluer's promotion did not bother him because he doesn't expect to be with the Cowboys next fall.

"I haven't talked to them (about it) but it doesn't mean anything to me," Hogeboom said. "They said they would try to trade me and that's all I'm worried about."

The Cowboys have shown an interest in obtaining another quarterback in case Hogeboom is traded.

They recently met with Orlando Renegades quarterback Reggie Collier of the United States Football League and former University of Texas-Arlington quarterback Roy Super Bowl XXI, scheduled for Jan. 25, 1987, will be played in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.

In first round of NBA playoffs

Hawks aim for homecourt advantage

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer
The Atlanta Hawks, who didn't even play in the postseason a year ago, are edging closer to having a homecourt advantage in the first round of the 1986 NBA playoffs.

"These last five or six games are going to be very similar and hold a lot of significance," Hawks Coach Mike Fratello said after Atlanta beat Washington 107-91 Tuesday night. "All the teams we are playing are working and playing hard for the playoffs. Playoff positions mean a lot, whether you finish fourth or fifth or whatever."

Atlanta's victory maintained a 3½-game lead over the Detroit Pistons for fourth place in the Eastern Conference. The fourth-place team plays host to the fifth-place team in three games of the five-game opening series.

"We really want to secure the homecourt advantage for the playoffs and tonight was a big step towards that," added Dominique Wilkins, who led the Hawks with 33 points.

Atlanta needs three victories in its last five games to tie the franchise record of 50 victories, set six years ago.

Kevin Willis had 26 points and 16 rebounds and Tree Rollins added 15 rebounds for Atlanta, leading a 67-48 advantage on the boards for the Hawks.

Bucks 116, Bulls 107
Milwaukee clinched its seventh consecutive divisional crown as Terry Cummings scored 32 points against Chicago.

The Bucks, who have won six straight Central Division titles after moving from the Midwest, led by as many as 13 points before the Bulls rallied to take a 102-94 lead with 4:44 left in the game. Michael Jordan led the spurt by scoring 20 of his 28 points in the second half.

Celtics 123, Cavaliers 105
Boston won its 12th consecutive game and kept alive its hopes of equaling the all-time NBA record for most victories in a season.

The Celtics, who need to win their seven remaining games to match the 69-13 mark of the 1971-72 Los Angeles Lakers, got 21 points from Dennis Johnson and 17 from Robert Parish to beat Cleveland, their likely opponent in the first round of the playoffs.

Rockets 125, Warriors 121
Akeem Oluajwon had 34 points, 22 rebounds and seven blocked shots as Houston extended its Midwest Division lead to three games over Denver with a victory over Golden State.

The Rockets led by as many as 25 points in the third quarter.

Lakers 109, Sonics 104
Los Angeles won its 11th consecutive game at home behind Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 25 points and James Worthy's 23 against Seattle. The Lakers, who have clinched the Western Conference title, led 105-93 with 3:34 remaining, but the Sonics scored nine straight points to trail by three with 1:35 to go. Two missed free throws in the final minute hurt Seattle's chances to get even, and a layup by Abdul-Jabbar with 16 seconds remaining sealed the verdict.

Mavericks 128, Suns 98
Sam Perkins and Mark Aguirre led a 32-18 Dallas surge in the third quarter that lifted the Mavericks over Phoenix.

Perkins, who scored 25 points, and Aguirre, who finished with 22, combined for 23 in the third period as the Mavericks extended a one-point halftime lead to 94-79.

Larry Nance had 26 points for the Suns, who are close to missing the playoffs for the first time in nine years.

Kings 109, Spurs 99
Mike Woodson scored 10 of his 21 points during a fourth-quarter spurt that carried Sacramento over San Antonio.

The Kings now lead the Spurs by two games in the race for seventh place in the conference.

Pistons 116, Pacers 108
Detroit rallied from a 20-point deficit to hand Indiana its sixth straight loss as Kelly Tripucka scored 31 points and Bill Laimbeer 28.

Herb Williams scored 24 points to lead Indiana.

Blazers 127, Nuggets 110
Kiki Vandeweghe scored 21 of his 24 points in the second half, and Kenny Carr added 21 points and 16 rebounds for Portland against Denver.

Alex English had only nine points after three quarters and finished with 18, 12 under his average, and fell from first to third place among leading NBA scorers.

Clippers 113, Jazz 109
Norm Nixon scored 10 of his 30 points in the fourth quarter as Los Angeles held off a late Utah rally.

The Clippers were outscored 27-18 in the fourth period.

Adrian Dantley scored 42 points to take over first place in the NBA scoring race.

Nets 111, Knicks 85
Kevin Ransey scored all 11 of his points in the third quarter, leading a 38-19 spurt that turned a close game against New York into a rout.

The Nets, who got 23 points apiece from Otis Birdsong and Mike Gminski, led 49-45 at halftime and 87-65 after three quarters. Darrell Walker led the Knicks with 25 points.

"(Dallas head coach Tom) Landry likes the idea of having three quarterbacks," Hackett said.

Hackett, who came to the Cowboys from the San Francisco 49ers, said he plans to implement a deceptive offense.

"Landry and I have the same philosophy," Hackett said. "We want to try to be deceptive by creating the illusion that we will do one thing and we'll do something else. This is just a matter of bringing new ideas to an already strong offense. I wasn't brought in to make changes."

Rube Bressler played first base and the outfield for 19 years in the big league and had a career batting average of .301. But he also found time to win 26 games and lose 33 as a pitcher.

'Don't write me out of GOP primary yet', says Hance

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican Kent Hance is warning reporters not to "write me out" of the GOP primary race despite a poll showing him running behind former Gov. Bill Clements and U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler.

Hance said his campaign has $1 million in the bank, most of which will be spent on final-month television ads.

"If y'all want to appear to be extremely intelligent on politics, don't write me out of this race," he said Tuesday. "It (a Houston Chronicle poll released Sunday) did not reflect all the elements that will be voting on May 3."

The Hance campaign collected $700,000 in March, according to the candidate, who said a "good part of it" came in through loans. A $900,000 television ad campaign will begin next week, Hance said.

He continued his attempts to brand Clements as a sure loser against Democratic Gov. Mark White in November. White beat Clements in 1982.

"Bill Clements spent $14 million as an incumbent in 1982 and why anyone would think he has a chance as a challenger is beyond me," said Hance.

Also at his news conference, Hance predicted possible riots in state prisons this year. He said state officials should try to get out of some of the federal court agreements under which the prisons are now run.

"I think this summer you are going to have real problems in the prison system. From the prison employees I've talked to, they're scared to death the top is going to blow off this summer," he said.

White and other state officials have been too willing to let U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler run the prisons, according to Hance.

"There comes a time that I think an officeholder needs to stand up to the federal courts," he said.

It is fair to ask the courts to revise agreements the state had signed because "it was signed off under a different administration and it was signed off when oil prices were at a different price," he said.

Hance called for a return to the building tender system in which "trustee" inmates are given some supervisory powers. That system was lambasted as brutal and unfair during the landmark prison reform lawsuit. But Hance said lawmakers could revive the system with safeguards to prevent abuse.

Also Tuesday, White said he was "dismayed" that Clements said Monday that layoffs of state workers might be needed to get through the budget crunch.

"That's very much of a last resort," White said of layoffs.

The governor has called for a 13-percent cut in state agency spending.

"Obviously, in the volatility of this market we're in, it's difficult to say no and never, but absolutely as a last resort. We're not going to see layoffs under the plan we've implemented," White said.

Hance said, "I think attrition, putting a freeze on, would help take care of it over the next couple of years. You might have to have some layoffs, but I hope we could avoid that."

State Democratic Party Chairman Robert Slagle took a look at the calendar and issued a press statement of his own.

"The Republican candidates for governor have been campaigning as if every day were April Fool's Day," he said.

Yarbrough is indicted for bribery

HOUSTON (AP) — Less than two years after he was paroled from prison, former Texas Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough remains in jail today accused of bribing a banker in a money laundering scheme.

Yarbrough was arrested in the lobby of a downtown hotel as he allegedly arranged to launder money for undercover agents posing as drug dealers, Assistant U.S. Attorney John Lenoir said.

A federal indictment issued Tuesday charged Yarbrough, 44, and another Houston man, George Neeley, 50, a used car salesman, with four counts of conspiracy and bribery.

Yarbrough was ordered held without bond by U.S. Magistrate Karen Brown pending a hearing later this week.

Neeley was arrested later Tuesday and was scheduled to appear before the magistrate today.

Honored by Peers

Austin Rose, Deaf Smith County Commissioner from Precinct 2, received a plaque and a wall hanging of the United States last weekend for being selected at Public Official of the Year. Rose's honor came from the West Texas County Judges and Commissioner's Association at its convention in Abilene. Rose also was elected to the association's board of directors and will serve next year on the Legislative Committee.

Former President Carter predicts

More troops headed to C. America

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP)

— President Reagan's foreign policy will result in a greater U.S. military presence in Central America, former President Jimmy Carter says.

"I would predict that there will be more (U.S.) troops in Central America two years from now," Carter said at a news conference which also featured former President Gerald Ford.

The two ex-presidents appeared Tuesday at Texas A&M University, also sharing a stage for a two-hour discussion focusing on U.S. intervention in foreign affairs.

Although both agreed the troop escalation was not inevitable, Ford disagreed with Carter's prediction, insisting the number of U.S. troops is no greater than in the past and would not grow.

Ford, however, said Reagan was making a mistake for not emphasizing that the Marxist government in Nicaragua would subvert neighboring Central American countries, eventually threatening Mexico.

"I happen to believe President Reagan has to be forceful in pointing out the subversive element," Ford said. "I happen to think it's a serious threat."

Carter, meanwhile, said he believed Reagan's assessment of the threat from Nicaragua "exceeds Americans' perceptions of a threat."

"I don't think our nation is in any danger," Carter said, telling reporters the United States was "the main obstacle" to resolving the Central American problems. In Nicaragua, the U.S.-backed contras attract little public support, he said.

"They are still looked upon as American employees paid by the CIA," Carter said.

Ford said Nicaraguan leader Daniel Ortega was the chief hurdle for the United States to overcome.

"I believe any strengthening of the Ortega government in Nicaragua is not in the best interest of the United States," he said. "Ortega's a bad influence not only for his own country but for all of Central America."

Ford predicted the House would change its vote and agree to some further American aid to the contras.

"There's no doubt in my mind that the Senate vote (approving the Reagan-requested $100 million in aid) forces the House to take some action. I'm confident there will be some compromise."

Carter, asked the same question, said he believed Ford was correct about the House turnaround, although he hoped the House would stand its ground and refuse to approve the aid.

Historian Stephen E. Ambrose, a University of New Orleans professor and biographer of Presidents Eisenhower and Nixon and who participated in the discussion, said if Reagan "wanted the $100 million so bad, he should have hit one of (ousted Philippine President Ferdinand)

Marcos' suitcases."

On other matters, the former presidents agreed the American confrontation with the Libyans in the Gulf of Sidra accurately could be hailed as a victory both by Reagan and Libya's Col. Moammar Kadafy.

"The terrorists got publicity," Carter said. "They also got recognition of status — elevation of status with a super-power. And it cemented their relations with their friends."

"But Ronald Reagan won a victory, too. A lot of Americans wanted to see Kadafy get a bloody nose."

Ford said one way to look at the confrontation was that it showed the superiority of the U.S. weapons in combat with Soviet-supplied Libyan weapons.

"The U.S. military hardware was far more effective," Ford said.

Carter said he believed the greatest threat for a war remained in the Middle East because the "contending parties are divided so philosophically." He also criticized Reagan for not getting more personally involved in peace initiatives there, saying the president's roving ambassadors were not sufficient. Ford said he feared an explosion if Iran took control of its war with Iraq and Kuwait and Saudi Arabia felt threatened.

Ford, Carter, Ambrose and columnist George Will, who acted as moderator for the discussion, appeared at Texas A&M as part of the school's Wiley Lecture Series. The four were paid a total of $60,000 for their appearance. A spokeswoman for the lecture series, Tracy Tamac, would not say how much Ford and Carter specifically were paid, although she said they accounted for the bulk of the money.

After 2 years, AT&T is still coping with Bell breakup

NEW YORK (AP) — The earthquake of the Bell System breakup occurred more than two years ago, but AT&T, its one-third of a million employees and 87 million long-distance customers are still feeling the aftershocks.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has to cope, in negotiations scheduled to begin today, with labor unions demanding job security. It is waging a $400 million campaign for long-distance customers. And during it all, it must make the transition to a new chairman.

Long-distance continues to make money for AT&T, but the company has suffered from declining rental revenue on communications equipment and slow sales of both phone equipment and computers. Revenues rose but earnings slipped 1.6 percent at the end of 1985 and Wall Street analysts recently lowered their earnings projections for 1986 and 1987.

Even so, AT&T continues to have 2.9 million shareholders, making it, according to the company, the most widely owned stock in the world, and Charles L. Brown, who led the company through its worst upheaval, believes the worst is over.

Brown retires as chairman in August. He discussed AT&T's past and prospects in an interview Tuesday with The Associated Press.

"Considering the trajectory that we have been on, the momentum is good and the company is in a good financial shape," he said. "There are a great many things that need to be done, but I don't think it's a question of a reversal."

Industry analysts expect James Olson, AT&T's vice chairman, president and chief operating officer, to succeed Brown, who has declined to discuss the subject out of concern it will hurt his own effectiveness.

Brown is a traditionalist, said analyst Kenneth Leon at L.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin. "Whereas Mr. Olson, we don't know yet what his management style will be. He has a higher energy level than Mr. Brown, a different flair. It could be Peter the Great moving AT&T out of the Dark Ages."

AT&T was the world's largest corporation when "Charlie" Brown became chairman in 1979. It had guaranteed returns on investment and a near monopoly on the nation's long-distance telephone service.

Today, the Bell System belongs to history and a shrunken AT&T — with less than a third the assets of its predecessor — is battling a host of competitors in long-distance service, communications equipment and computers.

Brown, 64, whose first job with AT&T was summer construction work in Cleveland during the Depression, was shaken by the company's breakup, as were many other career employees. He described the event in the latest annual report as "the most shattering reorganization in business history."

Brown aims to leave behind a company that is not just smaller than the old AT&T, but quicker, tougher and "largely free of the court and legislative and regulatory hassles of those (pre-divestiture) days."

AT&T was scheduled to begin bargaining with its unions today in the first formal contract talks since 1983, before the breakup of the Bell System.

O.K. Neal Suggests Service Counts

YOUR Justice of the Peace is very much aware that the People of Deaf Smith County elected him to serve. Many times a citizen will call him at home or go by the office, and have a problem not normally associated with the Justice of the Peace job. Because of this, the Justice of the Peace should have a personal, working relationship with other service agencies to be able to get the citizens of the county assistance when needed. Being on a first name basis with officials from TDHR, MH-MR, the Attorney General's Office, the Mexican Consulate, West Texas Legal Services and other agencies and JP's throughout the State, has allowed YOUR Justice of the Peace to assist YOU with problems when you had nowhere else to turn.

He feels that service also includes giving back to the County that hired him. He has served in the Lion's Club for seven years. He has also been on the Board of Directors of Operation Good Shepard and the Salvation Army. I am proud to have been able to serve YOU as YOUR Justice of the Peace. I would appreciate your vote and support May 3rd. Thank You.

Still O.K. for J.P.

WESTGATE RECEIVES SUPERIOR RATING

"No licensure violations were written on this visit" is a direct quote from the report issued by the Texas Department of Health resulting from its March 18, 1986 inspection of Westgate Nursing Home, 400 Ranger Drive, Hereford, Texas. "Yesterday on patient rounds, we found all the patients to be receiving excellent care" was a statement made by Mary Latham, R.N., a surveyor with the Texas Department of Health.

Westgate Nursing Home has been in operation since 1964. Westgate is a part of King's Manor, a retirement home sponsored by the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church. Since the grading system was implemented by the Texas Health Department, Westgate Nursing Home has consistently received notice that it is a "Superior Facility". As required by the State Health Department, this notice is posted in our front lobby.

Our home has both Medicaid and private pay residents. We accept short stay and long term residents. Rooms are available at this time and visitors are always welcome.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Flavor uppermost in a cheesecake

By Polly Fisher
 DEAR POLLY — My favorite cheesecake recipe always cracks in the middle during baking. How can I prevent this? — LUCILE
 DEAR LUCILE — Many cheesecakes crack while baking or cooling.

It affects neither the taste nor the texture of the cake. I don't think it looks so bad either. It's simply a characteristic of cheesecake. However, you may be able to minimize cracking by following these pointers:
 Bake the cheesecake in a "bain-marie" or water bath. This involves setting the cheesecake pan in a larger pan. Fill outer pan with water measuring about one inch on the side of the cheesecake pan. This diffuses the heat and allows the cheesecake to bake more evenly.
 Don't open the oven door during baking. Then leave the cheesecake in the oven after the baking period for an hour or two without opening the door. The delicate cheesecake batter, like custards, can be affected by sudden changes in temperature. After removing the cake from the oven, let it cool completely at room temperature before refrigerating.
 If, despite these precautions, your cheesecake continues to crack, you might try covering the cake with a topping. My favorite is sour cream sweetened with a little sugar and flavored with vanilla extract. You might prefer a fruit topping such as strawberries or cherries. Such toppings will not only disguise any cracking, but look beautiful.
 Finally, again, there's no reason to be embarrassed over a cracked cheesecake. I bet your guests won't find such cracking unattractive either! But they will rave over the delicious flavor and be amazed at your culinary prowess! So keep baking! —

PBS offers two views of Spain

NEW YORK (AP) — Small explosions were heard in Madrid the night Generalissimo Francisco Franco died.

Ten years later, Spain is still slightly intoxicated with its new freedom.

The documentary is by John Darnton, deputy foreign editor of The New York Times, who was the paper's bureau chief in Madrid from 1982 to 1984.

Since the old fascist died, Spain has evolved into a parliamentary democracy, joined the Common Market and NATO, legalized divorce and abortion and elected a socialist government.

However, he doesn't try to tell this very complex story in a single hour, but goes looking for the spirit of Spanish democracy.

For the serious side, Darnton talks to Juan Luis Cebrian, editor of El Pais, the nation's largest circulation newspaper.

"The Spanish people lost their fears... fear of speech, fear of travel, fear of doing something wrong, or doing something or saying something the authorities didn't like," says Cebrian, who founded his paper six months after Franco's death.

"The new generation doesn't know that. They are not afraid of doing everything."

The new generation, Darnton notes, is even free to ignore politics.

Agatha Ruiz de la Prada, a fashion designer and exponent of "La Movida," a sort of Spanish new wave, boasts of the "dazzling" young people "who are fighting against everything."

"Madrid is starting to be a bit like New York," she says. "That is, the phone rings too much, there are too many parties, too many attractive and wonderful people." She loves it.

Saura says inhibitions linger, however.

"I keep thinking that some day a film must be made about the civil war, a serious film," he says. "We are at the point where everyone says, 'No, let's go with the national attitude of harmony. Let's forget the past.'"

The documentary follows an hour with Spanish tenor Placido Domingo, starring in a lavish spectacle of zarzuela music.

Pairing the documentary with Domingo was an opportunity to say something about the role of traditions such as zarzuela in contemporary Spain. PBS, however, just lets the cameras roll, not even bothering to explain what zarzuela is. Having Ricardo Montalban tell you that Domingo "captures the heart and soul of Spain" doesn't help.

Zarzuela takes its name from a royal hunting lodge, the Palacio de la Zarzuela, and was born in the 17th century as an aristocratic divertimento. In succeeding centuries it took its stories from everyday life and developed a satirical edge.

Unless you mind having no idea what you're watching, it's an entertaining hour. Domingo is in splendid voice; the dancing is spectacular and speaks for itself.

Farm background helps woman in political job

Carla West was undecided about what kind of position she wanted when she graduated from Texas Tech a year ago, but after mailing some resumes and putting out feelers she stumbled into a dream job.

The Hereford High alumnae's extra-curricular activities, agriculture economics degree and rural background are used to the utmost in her post as an administrative assistant in Rep. Larry Combest's Lubbock office.

"I was shocked when I got the job, I was so fortunate to get this job," says West, the daughter of Bill and Dixie West.

Professional 4-H work and law school were a couple of her ideas for post-college, but now she has decided that the dream job she fell into won't be temporary.

"This is going to be my career — I love it!," she declares.

"One hundred percent of it is working with people" is the closest she can get to a job description. "I think that the experience I had in leadership and working with people were what prepared me."

While at Tech, she was president of the Texas college 4-H association, vice president of the student council, and recruited for the college a year.

In the Lubbock office, West deals with case work for constituents on specific agency problems in which the congressman — or an aide — can act on behalf of the citizen.

Travelers to Washington, D.C. often check into her office, too. "We have a whole tour packet nearly to give an idea of what's available throughout the city."

West can check with the Washington staff to see if the representative will have time for a short visit, too.

But, she says her position has turned into working primarily in the agriculture district.

CARLA WEST

"When you're so close down here to everyone, you get a feeling of how the laws are implemented and how they are going to impact," West said.

West travels with Combest, especially to meetings concerning agricultural issues, and collects the complaints and suggestions from the public.

Activity in the office varies with the season. Tax time gets the phones buzzing and anytime federal action impacts the district, it gets busy for her.

Sometimes she just listens.

"People know that the system is as good as it can be... They realize it is going as well as it can, but they are unhappy with it and they want to talk about it... express their concerns," West said.

"We get some really interesting calls," she smiles. "The perception of what a congressman can do is sometimes interesting."

Like the time a lady wanted something done about the trash collectors in her town.

"We provide information, too. A lot of kids in high school need information for school and we can get that or direct them," she said.

"People know that the system is as good as it can be... They realize it is going as well as it can, but they are unhappy with it and they want to talk about it... express their concerns," West said.

"We provide information, too. A lot of kids in high school need information for school and we can get that or direct them," she said.

THERE'S NOTHING PUZZLING ABOUT IT.

DRINKING AND DRIVING DON'T FIT TOGETHER

A MESSAGE FROM THE TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

This has been one of your major crusades for as long as I can remember. It may be your greatest contribution to the reading public. Keep hammering away at those lunkheads, Ann. You are saving lives.—A FAN IN MPLS.

DEAR MPLS: Thanks for those kind words. I intend to hang in there, in spite of the readers who tell me to get off the subject because I'm boring them to death. Better to die of boredom than lung cancer. It's a lot less painful. And cheaper, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you track down the source of one of the funniest lines I've ever heard? It is this: "Men have much happier lives than women. They marry later and die earlier."—FELIX IN ARIZ.

DEAR ARIZ: The man who said that was H.L. Mencken. Incidentally, very little is known about his married life. His statement suggests it wasn't anything to brag about.

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting—What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers

Watch him carefully

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I never had a good relationship with my father-in-law. He was coarse and crude, laughed too much and too loud, told off-color stories and was the exact opposite of my own father. I always felt uncomfortable in his presence but I never complained to anyone, including my husband.

Now I'm afraid I may have to say something because I don't like the way he plays with our 5-year-old daughter. He has always tickled her, which I read in your column was not a good thing to do. I asked him to please stop and he said, "It's fun. She likes it."

A few months ago I noticed he was touching her in ways and places I didn't approve of. He feels her little breasts and says, "These are going to get much bigger." Then he grabs her round little bottom and hollers, "I've got the moon!" He puts his mouth on these places and makes weird noises and bites her lightly.

I finally told my husband I didn't like what his father was doing to "Alice" and asked him to say something. His reply was, "You've been watching too much TV. It's put your mind in the gutter. Stop looking for trouble."

Every time Grandpa comes over I watch him like a hawk. He plays with our 10-year-old son once in a while, but he never touches him the way he does our little girl. I am beside myself with worry. No initials or city, please. No one must know we're having this problem in our family.—SOMEWHERE IN THE MIDWEST

DEAR MIDWEST: I'm glad you are watching your father-in-law like a hawk. Under no circumstances should the child be left alone with this man, but watching him is not enough.

Since it is obvious that your husband will not take seriously what you say, it's up to you to tell that dirty old man privately that if he doesn't keep his lecherous hands off your little girl you are going to make a major family stink, then DO it if you have to. And, for heaven's sake, explain to Alice the difference between good touching and bad touching!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from "Vancouver" and I am boiling mad. He wants you to tell your readers that cigarette butts are harmful for kids to eat. No kidding? I'd like to ask that joker, "Where did the cigarette butts come from in the first place?"

Nobody seems to be worried about the deadly second-hand smoke that the kid is breathing 24 hours a day, if his parents are smokers. For the life of me I can't understand how people with small children can keep on with that filthy habit. Don't they read the papers? Don't they know they are killing themselves?

Care needed in choosing wood sides

By The Associated Press

If you decide to use a premium grade hardwood veneer plywood for a home improvement project such as cabinetry, you may run into the problem of which side of the plywood will be the exterior.

Only the premium grades of hardwood veneer plywood — AA, A, and A1 — pose a problem in selecting the right face. These grades have veneers on both sides that may at first glance look nearly identical. However, subtle differences exist, says Wood magazine.

Expert cabinet makers select the "showing" side of panels first, grain second, and splices last.

According to Wood magazine, color is the overall tone of the wood. In most cases, you'll want a uniform veneer coloring all across the stock, or across each of several panels. In some species — where industry grading standards accept sapwood as well as heartwood for the veneer — there will be a color variation. Here, you'll want to make sure that the color variation occurs regularly enough to form a recognizable pattern.

April Fool's joke sends city back to bed

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Hundreds of people called authorities and a radio station to see if they could sleep late following another station's April Fool's Day announcement that Rhode Island's capital city would be closed today.

"We didn't think the entire city would be convulsed," said Glenn Stewart, assistant program director for WHJY-FM. "I don't know what it says about the listeners. I guess many people just didn't realize it was April Fool's Day."

The joke was the brainchild of disc jockey Carolyn Fox, who announced at 6:20 a.m. that the fictitious "Providence Labor Action Relations Board Committee" had decided the city would be closed and people should go home.

Fox gave out the telephone number of a rival station, WPRO-AM, for people to call for more information. "If they had called WPRO, they would have found out it was a joke," Stewart said.

But WPRO wasn't laughing. The station reported receiving hundreds of calls.

A police dispatcher who refused to give his name said the police station was swamped with calls, and people also were calling City Hall for information.

He said plans were being made to send a cruiser over to WHJY to "tell her to get it off the air." But Fox informed her listeners it was a joke before that became necessary.

After letting everyone in on the ruse at about 7:30 a.m., Fox repeatedly announced, "By the way, Providence is open."

She also made herself and Stewart the brunt of a daily on-air feature, known as "getting thrown down the stairs," that pokes fun at the biggest foible of the day — normally committed by others.

Bush plans to warn Saudis on plunging oil prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush is ready to tell the world's largest oil producer that plunging petroleum prices are threatening America's vital interests by causing chaos in the U.S. oil industry.

Bush, who will arrive in Saudi Arabia on Saturday on the first leg of a four-nation visit to the Persian Gulf, said at a news conference Tuesday the oil market must stabilize.

"I think it is essential that we talk about stability and that we not just have a continued free fall like a parachutist jumping out without a parachute, and that's what essentially has happened to the price of crude oil in recent months," Bush said. "And it's caused some hardship."

The Saudis, trying to gain control of the market from non-OPEC forces, have stepped up production to 4.4 million barrels a day, causing an oil glut that sent prices tumbling.

For weeks, the Reagan administration has been hailing the price drop as a barometer of declining inflation and economic growth. Energy Secretary John S. Herrington began changing that emphasis Monday, and Bush underscored the shift on Tuesday.

He said a low price helps keep inflation down and stimulates the economy, "but when it gets to damage your national security interest or gets to throw a significant number of financial institutions into turmoil, to say nothing of the people in the energy industry, that cuts the other way."

TAXES

TAXES noun a compulsory payment for the support of government.

Benjamin Franklin is credited with saying "In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes."

While we all must pay some taxes, now there's a way to pay less. It's with an Individual Retirement Account. This allows you an opportunity to place $2,000 a year ($4,000 if both you and your spouse work, $2,250 if only one of a married couple works) into a special account that is free of federal income taxes. Even the interest you earn isn't taxable.

Don't pay more taxes than you need to pay. Come to the First National Bank of Hereford and open your I.R.A.

A tax and/or interest penalty may apply for early withdrawal of your I.R.A.

First criminal trial conducted in Kenedy

SARITA, Texas (AP) - It's a new era for Kenedy County, a sparsely populated county located amidst almost legendary Texas ranches and dotted by mesquite trees, windmills and a single highway that cuts through the flat land almost within sight of the Gulf of Mexico. The first felony criminal trial ever conducted in the colorful 65-year history of Kenedy County has resulted in the conviction of a Lower Rio Grande Valley man on a charge of aggravated possession of marijuana.

The county is surrounded by massive Texas ranches such as the King Ranch and Armstrong Ranch and the Sarita Kenedy East Ranch. The county was formed in 1921 and is named for Mifflin Kennedy, a partner of Capt. Richard King, founder of the world famous King Ranch. On trial in the Kenedy County courthouse that dominates the mesquite tree lined landscape of this South Texas village were Eusebio Ariola, 26, Mae Alice Rodriguez, 31, and Alfredo Sosa, 21, all of San Benito. Presiding at the history making trial was District Judge Vernon Harville. Sosa and Ms. Rodriguez were granted instructed verdicts of acquittal by Harville. Ariola, however, was convicted, sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $100,000. All previous criminal jury trials involving Kenedy County have been held at Kingsville in neighboring Kleberg County, but officials say the increased number of drug arrests at the U.S. Border Patrol checkpoint south of Sarita has brought more activity to the Kenedy County Courthouse at Sarita. Two Border Patrol agents testified they stopped the van driven by Ariola and occupied by Ms. Rodriguez and Sosa and found 420 pounds of marijuana worth an estimated $336,000. A panel of 75 prospective jurors was called, and 36 qualified for jury duty. The county has a population of only about 500 people, with about 200 of those living in Sarita.

"There hasn't been a felony criminal trial in the county since formation of the county. We all are making history," assistant district attorney Jeff Babcock told the jury panel. David Diaz, attorney for the three defendants, said he was surprised at being the first defense attorney to try a felony criminal case in Kenedy County. "I had no intention of making history," Diaz told the jury, "but that be the case, so be it."

The Newspaper BIBLE

DON'T BELIEVE EVERYTHING YOU HEAR!

Dearly loved friends, don't always believe everything you hear just because someone says it is a message from God; test it first to see if it really is. For there are many false teachers around, and the way to find out if their message is from the Holy Spirit is to ask: Does it really agree that Jesus Christ, God's Son, actually became man with a human body? If so, then the message is from God. If not, the message is not from God but from one who is against Christ, like the "Antichrist" you have heard about who is going to come, and his attitude of enmity against Christ is already abroad in the world. (1 John 4:1-3)

Then the Lord said: The prophets are telling lies in my name. I didn't send them or tell them to speak or give them any message. They prophesy of visions and revelations they have never seen nor heard; they speak foolishness concocted out of their own lying hearts. Therefore, the Lord says, I will punish these lying prophets who have spoken in my name though I did not send them, who say no war shall come nor famine. By war and famine they themselves shall die! And the people to whom they prophesy--their bodies shall be thrown out into the streets of Jerusalem, victims of famine and war; there shall be no one to bury them. Husbands, wives, sons and daughters--all will be gone. For I will pour out terrible punishment upon them for their sins. (Jeremiah 14:14-16)

Crews get relief in three states

Wearry crews reported progress against wildfires in Tennessee, Alabama and Missouri, but scores of blazes burned today across thousands of acres of tinder-dry Appalachian forests as the toll in one of the Southeast's worst fire seasons ever neared 600,000 acres.

Michigan, New Jersey and Massachusetts. In West Virginia, firefighters attacked 54 new forest fires Tuesday, and more than a dozen remained out of control Tuesday night. The largest blackened more than 1,000 acres in Logan County, bringing to 30,000 the number of acres affected this year by 1,146 fires at a cost of more than $3 million.

Hundreds of forest and brush fires have raged in the past week in 13 states, mostly in the Southeast, and five people have died fighting the blazes since mid-March. Convicts, Job Corps members and volunteers have joined professionals on the fire lines.

Firefighters have been working nonstop for 16 days to contain the fires, using bulldozers and hand shovels to clear breaks in the steep hillside woods. West Virginia officials estimate that at least one-third of the fires were set and another third were caused by careless trash burning.

So far this year, dry weather has fueled 42,204 fires covering 583,056 acres of private and public land in 13 Southeastern states, said Bruce Jewell, spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service regional office in Atlanta. The charred acreage equals an area nearly the size of New York's Long Island.

Last week, officials described the volunteers as exhausted. "Now, they're just numb," said forester Coy Mullins, whose southern West Virginia district has been the state's hardest hit. "We're trying to pace ourselves."

Fires continued to burn today in West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Missouri, Alabama, the Carolinas and Pennsylvania. Large fires this week also were reported in Virginia, Michigan, New Jersey and Massachusetts. In West Virginia, firefighters attacked 54 new forest fires Tuesday, and more than a dozen remained out of control Tuesday night. The largest blackened more than 1,000 acres in Logan County, bringing to 30,000 the number of acres affected this year by 1,146 fires at a cost of more than $3 million.

"The fire crews can't keep it up for much longer," said state Forestry Division spokesman Dwight Barnett. "We were ready today to issue an alert for help from other Southern states but we didn't today because things quieted down."

Tax Tips

Eleventh in a series of "tax tip" articles provided by the Panhandle Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Q. What are the tax laws concerning deductions for individual casualty losses?

A. A casualty loss is any loss of property arising from theft, fire, storm or other casualty. A deduction for a casualty loss is subject to certain limitations: the loss arising from each casualty must exceed $100 and the total amount of all such losses must be in excess of 10 percent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income. The itemized deduction is reported on Schedule A of Form 1040 in the same manner as contributions, interest and tax payments. Internal Revenue Service Form 4684 assists in the calculation of the allowable loss to be reported on Schedule A.
