Bitter Tirades Are Directed At The U. S.

Showing Of Anti-Nazi Film Causes Outbursts; Jewish Hatred Is Being Blamed

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, April 15—Nazidom, hitting out at any direct or implied criticism from abroad, struck at American churches today for allowing vicious machinations under the cloak of religious observances."

The inspiried nazi press loosed tirades against the showing in the Riverside Memorial church in New York of an anti-nazi film seeking to raise $400,000 for the relief of Christian German refugees.

Outbursts Are Bitter

The outbursts, in phrasing that showed their common origin, carried such headings as "anti-German lying film" and "Jewish emigrants stirring up hatred before the altar!"

The official German news agency, Deutsches Nachrichtenburo, said, in discussing the film which has Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Riverside church, for its chief figure:

"This film reveals with terrible clearness the unchristian methods with which a new anti-German drive is to be launched in the American churches by a small un-American clique whose aim is to misuse American religious sentiments for nefarious ends."

Indignation Professed

The Kreuzzeitung, which retains some of its traditional religious standing, professed "pained indignation," and added:

"We cannot believe the people of the United States do not realize whither these vicious machinations under the cloak of religious observances must tend."

The paper expressed the hope the case would not "tear the inherent friendship of the American people for Germany."

At the same time the press played up the lynching of two negroes at Duck Hill, Miss., sparing their readers none of the details of the torture.

The press in its anti-American campaign also has stressed disastrous economic consequences of the strike wave in the United States.

The attacks on American churches, economic and living conditions, however, was just one phase of the widespread onslaught on all anti-nazi activities.

WAR BLOCKADE IS READY

Fiery Texan To Declare War On Cocktail Parties; Says He'll Find A Substitute

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 15. — Rep. Maverick (R - Tex), refreshed from early victories in his campaign to change the name of hors d' oeuvres, extended maneuvers today to include the cocktail party.

"Let's not just change its name," he snorted, "let's abolish it."

Brandishing a batch of letters supporting his verbal thrusts at the tricky nomenclature of hors d' oeuvres, the burly Texan said the authors charged him with not going far enough.

"Almost to a man," he added, "they command that we declare war on these afternoon gatherings over anchovy and alcohol — and they aren't prohibitionists either."

He listed his objections to the cocktail get-together:

They give a timid talker too much false courage.

They give a large talker too big an opportunity.

They give the average man a cross between an ear ache and a stomach ache.

"Good conversation," he said, "can't be manufactured by soaking the tongue in a concoction with a name like 'Horse's Laugh,' or 'Red-Headed Archie'."

His remedy for curing the hors d' oeuvres situation was to call them dingle doos, which he said the average man could pronounce without a French lesson.

He doesn't know what he can substitute for the cocktail party—but he's invited to one this afternoon and may get an idea.

Teachers Already In Service Under Optional Clause In Amendment Adopted Today

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 15—The house overwhelmingly passed a senate bill today to set up a teachers' retirement fund with the state matching contributions of teachers.

The plan would become effective this fall with educators contributing 5 per cent of their salaries up to $3,600 a year. The state's share would be raised through special taxes yet to be levied.

Amendment Adopted

The house adopted an amendment providing that participation would be optional with teachers already in the profession but mandatory on all entering hereafter. Cost to the state at the outset was estimated at about $1,500,000 annually. The final draft of the bill likely will be worked out by a conference committee.

A bill appropriating $389,347.50 for support of 1937 summer schools at the various state colleges became a law when Governor James V. Allred filed it without his signature. The appropriation compared with one of $266,960.65 for last summer.

Rules Are Suspended

The senate suspended its rules to permit introduction of a bill which would extend the life of the centennial commission of control for two years. The purpose of the bill was to enable the commission to complete business affairs of the celebration.

Resuming consideration of a constitutional amendment which in its original form proposed a sales tax to support a general social security program, including old age assistance, the senate heard arguments on an amendment to substitute taxes on natural resources for the sales levy.

Among bills signed by the governor was one by Rep. Augustine Celaya of Brownsville prohibiting seining in ship channels.

Consent Is Obtained

Rep. W. E. Pope of Corpus Christi obtained the required four-fifths consent to introduce a bill permitting movement of all oil in storage in fields prior to March 1 on payment of stipulated fees ranging from 10 to 37 cents per barrel.

Another bill offered in the house would provide a uniform closed season of February, March and April on fishing in Medina lake near San Antonio.

Senate bills approved by the house included one making a $75,000 emergency appropriation to the prison system for supplies and another allowing Bexar county grand jury bailiffs travelling expenses of $25 a month each.

The house passed one of two bills designed to exempt notes held by state banks from the note tax.

Strange Sights Promised Here At Annual Engineering Show

Last-minute preparations will be made tonight for Friday afternoon's opening of an 11th annual engineering show at Texas Technological college.

A meeting of students and officials of the chamber of commerce will be conducted at 7 o'clock in the library of the engineering building.

The show will be opened Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and will continue through Saturday.

Great attendance is expected in view of promised good weather and the fact the district Interscholastic league meet will be in progress at Tech. Several hundred persons from 14 counties will be here for that program.

Five buildings will be opened for the show, chemical, engineering, ROTC, textile, and mechanical engineering shops.

A huge "walking" electrical sign has been swung into place at the entrance of the engineering building and promises to incite considerable wonder.

Exhibits and demonstrations will be "too numerous" to list, said Bill Davis, senior engineering student in charge of show publicity. He promised that those in charge had made adequate plans for giving the

Monday Night To See Start Of Big Plan

Foreign Arms And Volunteers Will Be Barred From Spain By Planned Ring Of Steel

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, April 15 — A non-intervention sub-committee today fixed midnight, next Monday, for putting into operation wide control schemes to halt the flow of men and arms to Spain.

The 27-nation "hands off Spain" committee immediately appointed another sub-committee to consider plans for the withdrawal of volunteers now fighting in the Spanish civil war.

Plan Naval Controls

The non-intervention scheme calls for naval patrols of the Spanish coasts and establishment of agents on Spain's frontiers to prevent foreign arms and volunteers from reaching either side in the civil conflict.

The long-awaited establishment of a land-sea patrol of Spain culminated months of effort by the big powers to put into force their plan to isolate the Spanish war as far as possible and safeguard the rest of Europe against possible repercussions.

Skeleton Staff Ready

The advisory board notified the sub-committee a skeleton staff sufficient to enforce the blockade of Spain ashore and at sea was ready at various control ports and frontier posts.

New observers it reported, were being recruited daily for the international patrol on the Spanish borders.

A new phase in international relations will begin when the warships contributed by Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy take up their positions as a combined fleet girding Spain.

To Share Costs

The estimated total cost for both land and sea patrols has been set at $5,000,000 a year. Viscount Cranborne, parliamentary undersecretary

Ohio Town Converted To "Preacher Rule" And Prosperity Rewarding Efforts Of Officials

By NEA Service

SHELBY, O., April 15 — Original objections to Shelby's "preacher government" have subsided and the municipal rule of Mayor D. B. Young and Police Chief LeRoy Coffey, both active ministers, is prospering.

"We don't want a preacher for mayor," the slogan of voters who opposed Young, was heard less and less after he was elected and began to put his theories into practice.

Patrons Get Rebate

First, he negotiated the purchase of a water company which accumulated a surplus and even gave patrons a rebate. Then he obtained a $200,000 WPA loan to rebuild and re-equip the municipal light plant. Receipts from the two plants, it was claimed, financed paving projects and extension of water and power facilities.

So when Coffey, an Ashland college theological student who preaches every Sunday, was proposed as police chief, Shelby citizens made no objections. A former Mansfield, O., policeman, Coffey established a police radio and signal light system, and supplied Shelby police with cruiser cars and a tar-

New Contracts For Coaches At Tech

Expert Denies Boom Now On

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, April 15 — There isn't any business boom, Col. Leonard P. Ayres said today.

Instead "we have not as yet definitely emerged from the depression," the Cleveland statistician and economist observed, charting general business as "15 per cent or more below normal."

"A good deal of bad economics is being talked in these days about emergency measures to prevent a business boom, extended controls to restrain bank credit expansion and increased federal powers to restrain commodity advances," he said.

Discussions Baneful

"These discussions constitute a kind of locking of the stable door before the family horse has even been acquired.

"The present discussions are baneful because they divert our attention and our efforts away from the three economic problems which really are of pressing urgency. These are the reduction of unemployment, the balancing of the federal budget, and the restoration of harmony in labor relations."

Texas Tech's Red Raiders will swing into the 1937 season—one of its most ambitious—with the same coaches at the helm, Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the college, announced this morning.

In a statement to The Journal, Doctor Knapp said:

"I am glad to announce that new contracts have been tendered and accepted by all three members of the coaching staff of Texas Technological college. Pete W. Cawthon continues as head coach and director of athletics; Russell T. "Dutch" Smith as assistant, and Berl Huffman as freshman coach.

Advancement Is Cited

"Particularly important, it is, I think, that the same staff will continue to direct teams of the college. During the seven-year period of athletics administration by Messrs. Cawthon and Smith, who have been aided by Mr. Huffman over the past two seasons, Tech has advanced wonderfully and especially in view of our new athletic plant and our plans for the immediate future, do I consider the college fortunate in being able to continue the association with the three coaches."

The coaching staff is working on spring football training at the present time and making preparation for a practice tilt with Texas College of Mines, of El Paso. Special guests at the practice game will be thousands of high school students from over West Texas to be here for the regular spring fiesta and band contest.

Tech boasts an ambitious schedule this fall, including the following games: Arizona State, Sept. 18

The pay of less than 50 cents an hour, however, is "small fry" beside the $50 a week in his four-week spending spree.

Coachron, who was driving, escaped with such minor injuries that treatment was not necessary, reports to police said. Pierson received fractured ribs, lacerations of the side of his head and severe bruises.

The driver told investigators that he lost control of the automobile when blinded by the lights of an approaching car.

Woman Nears Coma Again

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, April 15.—Just as the courts ruled she must be taken to the women's prison at Tehachapi to begin serving five years to life for her husband's slaying, Helen Wills Love has shown signs of lapsing into a coma such as made her mind a blank for seven days last month.

Dr. Benjamin Blank, county jail physician, said today Mrs. Love was "very ill," but that he was unable to determine whether this might lead her to extended sleep.

Eyes Kept Closed

Jail attendants said the woman had difficulty recognizing friends, her eyes were heavy-lidded, and she kept them closed most of the time. They said they feared she might be endeavoring to "will" herself into another coma to prevent her transfer from the jail to the prison.

In court she was held to be sane and sentenced. Yesterday, Judge Frank M. Smith refused a further stay of execution.

World's Affairs Just A Big Yawn To Human Hibernator

(By The Associated Press)

WATERTOWN, Wis., April 15—The world and its bustling activity this winter were just one long yawn as far as Watertown's human hibernator was concerned—he's interested principally with the coming baseball season.

President Roosevelt's inauguration, an epidemic of sit-down strikes, unprecedented floods, an historic controversy over the supreme court, and the abdication of King Edward VIII were a few of the happenings since Arthur E. (Turkey) Gehrke pulled up the blankets for his annual winter's sleep.

"How did life in the world look to you last winter from your bed, Turkey," he was asked today as he sat in his tavern visiting with friends.

"Right now," yawned Gehrke, "the important thing to me is how the Chicago Cubs are going to go this year.

"Sit-down strikes?"

"Well, I hope those Cubs don't sit down on the job of winning the National league pennant."

The 240-pound tavern keeper has spent each winter in bed for some 25 years because cold weather brings a "misery" in his stomach.

Hunt For Coveted Glamor Is Big Aim Of Modern Women

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The American Society of Newspaper Editors heard today that beauty, social ease and style have superseded children, church and kitchen in women's interests.

Alice Hughes, New York American columnist, said in an address prepared for the editors' fifteenth annual convention that the New Trinity constitutes glamor.

"Just as men seek adventure, so women covet glamor," she said. "It is not merely a synonym for romance. It is a romance with a big dose of wish fulfillment.

"Now mind you, I am not denying there is interest in the scientific diapering of babies and the proper way of preparing meat and potatoes. But I am saying these are the idiom of yesterday."

The annual address of their president, Marvin H. Creager of the Milwaukee Journal, was first on the editors' program. Leading newspapers from all over the country were represented.

President Roosevelt invited the editors to the White

Don't Delay In Calling The Cops If You See Prowler

If you see a prowler, don't delay in calling police.

Two such calls were received during the early morning hours today and in each case, Police Chief T. L. Johnston reported, there had been such delay that the prowler had disappeared when officers reached the scene. He explained that it is the very nature of prowlers to keep moving.

One of the calls this morning was from the 1700 block on Avenue B and the other from the 1900 block on Nineteenth street.

As City Recorder C. E. Luce explained, police should be called when a loiterer acts suspiciously in any residence neighborhood.

Pioneer Cowboy Is Claimed By Death At Matador

MATADOR, April 15 (Special)—Funeral services were to be held at the Methodist church this afternoon for Claud Jeffers, 64, cowboy of the "old school" who died of a heart attack at his home in Matador late Wednesday. Burial will be in Eastland cemetery here.

He was credited by cattlemen with having broken more ranch horses than perhaps any other cowboy of his time. It often had been his boast, relatives said, that he never had known a sick day in his life.

Jeffers went to work for the Matador in 1900, after having worked for the Pitchfork, the Swenson and other famous West Texas ranchers.

His method of bronc trainin, was unique among horsemen, in that he never used a spur. He would work the horse alone. He was range boss for the Matadors for 10 years and retired from active work about a year ago, doing odd jobs now and then when needed.

Born near Corsicana, June 6, 1873, he married Miss Bassie Stephens in October, 1906. To this union six sons were born, one dying some years ago. Survivors are: Elmo (Joe) Jeffers, Yuba City, Calif.; George, Jim Ward, Kenneth and R. C. The widow also survives.

Suggestions For Safe Driving

(Talk Number Two)

OUR BRAKES

One of the most important things in Safe Driving is to be able to stop when necessary.

Constant or regular checking of your brakes is absolutely necessary to make your brake service always dependable.

Everybody knows this—but somehow don't attend to it regularly and systematically.

Brakes give you plenty of notice when they need adjustment—the responsibility is YOURS.

Drive so you won't need to use your brakes too often or too suddenly. That breaks them down and causes frequent adjustments.

Electric Plans Being Outlined

Plans for a rural electrification project described as one of the largest in the Southwest were detailed here Wednesday afternoon by Ralph W. Moore, member of the president's national rural electrification committee.

The project, he said, will be known as the South Plains Rural Electrification project and will embrace territory in six counties from Crosbyton to Meadow and from Slaton to Littlefield.

Moore also is state master of the National Grange, and the itinerary of a South Plains tour was announced by Harold W. Gaulrapp, field organizer. Meetings in Lubbock, Hockley and Crosby counties are planned.

Of rural electrification, Moore said he had found greater interest in the South Plains portion of Texas than elsewhere in the state.

He is spending several days in this section meeting with those interested, to discuss the project.

Expect 3,000 Customers

"It looks like this South Plains project will have from 750 to 800 miles of high line, and around 3,000 or more customers," he said. "We hope to get the project over within the next two months. I feel certain it will go through in good shape."

Work is to begin this week in securing signatures at Crosbyton and other Crosby county points and also at Littlefield and other Lamb county centers. Anton, Hockley county and Shallowater, Lubbock county, as well as Roundup, on the Lubbock-Hockley line, are centers on this leg of the group.

Towards Meadow, Wolfforth and Ropesville are included. Slaton and Posey also are interested.

From Meadow is reported 175 farmers have signed up for the service in Hockley, Lynn and Terry counties. Around Lubbock, at least 1,000 signatures are reported. South of Slaton, the line will go into Lynn county and also extend into Garza county.

High lines of the Texas-New Mexico Utilities company serve the entire area, so that a minimum of high line construction only is necessary.

REA regulations call for a minimum of three transformers per mile of high line. The lines serve some of the most thickly populated area of South Plains and backers point out this minimum can be easily met.

Long-time loans from the federal government, through the REA can be secured at low rates of interest. Federal loans also for purchase of home equipment can be made. Installation of many irrigation plants, to be operated by electricity, is a feature of the program.

There has been alloted $52,000,000 for rural electrification work since the first of January, Mr. Moore said. Texas has had over two million dollars.

Muleshoe Plans Project

In the Muleshoe territory, a shallow water section, a project is likewise under way. William S. Kenneuy is sponsoring the work of securing signatures. At least 100 miles of high line will probably be built in that section, serving probably 300 to 400 customers. Lines would extend in several directions from Muleshoe, including eastward into Lamb county north of the sand hills. With 100 more irrigation wells in that section, and more going in, the load would be heavy.

In Hale and Floyd counties a third large project is being worked up. This includes a large irrigation section, probably the largest shallow water area in the southwest, with nearly 700 wells in the two counties.

A minimum of 2,000 or more farm customers is expected to be secured by workers in that section. Half of that number already have been signed up, it is reported.

Working with Mr Moore are Harold W. Gaulrapp, Dallas, a state grange organizer; Guy Travis, Lamesa, who has been working with the group; W. O. Perkins and A. B. Blunt.

Harry N. Roberts, a Lubbock engineer is also working with the group, making surveys of the territory and gathering facts and figures on costs, etc. Prof. Henry Clay, division of agriculture, engineering instructor at Texas Tech and officials of the Texas New Mexico Utilities company are likewise working on the projects.

Moore's itinerary for grange meetings follows:

Tonight Moore, with W. O. Perkins, county deputy, goes to Posey and Gaulrapp and Guy Travis, an organizer, speak at Becton.

Perkins was in charge at a meeting at Idalou, at which Gaulrapp talked last night. Moore spoke at Whitharral.

Gaulrapp spoke at Cone, north of Ralls Tuesday night, while Moore spoke before the Big Four Grange, near Crosbyton.

GLENDALE, Calif., April 15 (AP)—Pegasus, the winged horse of mythology, had nothing on a wild mustang colt that arrived here in an airplane today from Freidonia, Arizona.

Lincoln said it was first time he ever heard of a horse being transported by airplane.

Tommy Bridges Soon Will Be Back In Tiger Uniform

LAKELAND, Fla., April 15 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers headed northward this afternoon, cheered by word from Detroit that Tommy Bridges, their most dependable pitcher, probably would not be incapacitated for long.

Fearful that Bridges had suffered a rupture when he was struck by a batted ball, Manager Mickey Cochrane sent him to Detroit for an x-ray examination. That examination disclosed nothing worse than a torn muscle, which probably will keep Bridges out of action for two weeks.

It has been estimated that the public debt of the federal, state and local governments of the United States now exceeds $50,000,000,000.

WAIST REDUCED 4 INCHES; BLOAT, & GAS RELIEVED

Had Awful Sour Stomach, Belching Attacks From Gas—Constipation—Now He Tells How Van-Tage Relieved Him!

Mr. C. E. Doosing of 1507 E. Nevada St., El Paso, Texas, is Another Widely-Known Resident of this section who is publicly praising and endorsing the "Amazing Mixture of Nature's Roots and Herbs and Other Splendid Ingredients," known as VAN-TAGE, which is now being introduced and explained to the public of this city and vicinity at Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway. Mr. Doosing is a Railroad Man and is widely-known in many cities of this Great West. He says:

MR. C. E. DOOSING

Gas and Constipation Kept Him Miserable

"I have been helped so much by Van-Tage that I want other sufferers to know what this medicine did for me," said Mr. Doosing. "I developed a terrible upset stomach condition caused by severe gas pains after my meals. Food seemed to sour in my stomach and cause spells of belching, and the gas would bloat me up until I was just miserable. My bowells became so irregular and sluggish that I had to take laxatives all the time, and I had pains near my liver which seemed to be caused by this sluggish condition. I can truthfully say that I never found ANYTHING that did me as much good as VAN-TAGE. It worked loads of gas pains and bloating from my stomach, and my waistline has actually gone down 4 inches since that awful bloating has been relieved. My meals digest and I am not bothered with sourness or belching any more. My constipation has been relieved and I don't have to be taking all kinds of physics like I did. This Van-Tage is really A WONDER."

Acts on Bowels, Stomach, and Kidneys

VAN-TAGE helps invigorate bowel, stomach, and kidney action. Its 21 Great Herbs and other splendid medicinal agents (over 30 ingredients in all) have a surprising effect on suffering people. Another thing—due to the immense volume in which it sells, the price of Van-Tage is reasonable. So, don't hesitate. Get it—TODAY — at Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway. Adv.

Man Tells Of Finding Gold

BATON ROUGE, La., April 15 (AP)—George Maher, short, portly self-styled "gold finder" said today he had found a "buried treasure" and exhibited more than $100 in ancient coins as proof.

Maher said he and another man found more than $100 in gold and $300 in silver coins "about 60 miles" from here with Maher's "ground radio machine."

Plenty More There

His light blue eyes flashing under shaggy brows, Maher said he was "satisfied there was plenty more treasure" in the vicinity of his find. He refused to say exactly where the coins were buried, however, because "folks 'd be coming out there thicker 'n flies and take all there is."

"I been in this business mor'n 20 years," Maher said, "and I guess I've found more'n $100,000. Why, back in 1924. I found $20,050 buried all in one place. I sent my kids through the university, bought me a place and an automobile on that."

It was Maher and his strange "ground radio machine," which he claims is patented, that unearthed musty iron tombs before excavation of the present site of the skyscraper capitol building. The tombs were found to hold remains of Spanish soldiers of the time Louisiana was under Spanish rule.

Depression Hits

Maher was prosperous in the "gold-finding" business until 1927 when the depression hit him in the shape of a "bug in the ear."

"Since then I can still operate my machine," he drawled through tobacco juice, "but my ear has bothered me since then and I'm not as good now.

"I'm liable to make a humbug now and then and pass up plenty of treasure. So now I have some other feller run my machine and we share what we find."

Now! SCIENCE PROVES THAT BREAD, ITSELF Is not fattening

LEADING doctors and nutritionists, in a series of laboratory tests, have found that Bread, itself, is not fattening. In one test, a large group of women were given the same amounts of the same foods, and one-half of all the food they ate was Bread. The women of normal weight neither gained nor lost. The overweight women lost weight!

Bread helps to burn up body fat, protects the body from acidosis, and supplies energy for being active.

Let science be your guide when it comes to eating Bread. And science says that Bread is your best and cheapest energy food!

Stiff Season Is Predicted For League

(By The Associated Press)

The fat was in the fire today for the eight clubs of the Texas league, newly-launched in their quest for the 1937 pennant.

Managers of the circuit studied the results of the four opening games yesterday (including two night contests) for light on what they could expect from their generally untried outfits. At first glance it appeared the league was prepared to furnish stiffer competition for the fans than last year.

Yesterday's Winners

The winners yesterday were Dallas, Beaumont, Tulsa and San Antonio. They played before 23,644 patrons, of which the largest single group, 10,300, saw the Steers beat out the Fort Worth Cats in an explosive eighth inning.

The Cats' big Ed Greer looked like a winner as he held the Steers to three ineffective hits in the first seven innings he was on the mound. Then Dallas bunched six of its nine hits and capitalized on an error for five runs, their total for the night, to squeeze by the Cats 5 to 4. Al Baker and Curt Fullerton pitched for Dallas, allowing eight hits.

Buffs Drop Opener

At Houston 5,500 fans saw the Buffs drop their first opening game in 11 years. They lost to San Antonio 6 to 3, four errors, a balk and poor baserunning contributing to their defeat. Stevenson allowed the Missions 12 hits while Munerlyn and Liebhardt were granting Houston 10.

Galveston's faithful were treated to a fine pitchers' battle in which Boots Poffenberger, young right-hander, triumphed over Eddie Cole, Beaumont defeating Galveston 3 to 0. Cole pitched hitless ball for seven innings. A hit and an error in the eighth and a homer in the ninth was his undoing. Poffenberger granted four hits. The crowd numbered 6,696.

The 1936 champions, Tulsa rode home an 8-to-7 winner over Oklahoma City in an opening day game that, despite perfect weather, brought out only 1,148 patrons. Manager Bruce Connatser of the Oilers singled in the ninth to cap a three-run rally to overhaul an Indian lead.

Eight Champions Selected Here

Eight champions were crowned last night after final matches in the Texas Tech intramural wrestling tournament. Finalists in the light-weight division, both representing the College Club, failed to go through with their match.

In the 118-pound class, James Lattimore of the Dark Horses pinned Chandler Mathis of Kemas in 2 minutes, 30 seconds. John Kilgore, representing the Main Street team, pinned Bill Lyle of the Dark Horses in 2 minutes to win the 138-pound division; welterweight honors went to James Forbis of Kemas, who pinned James Rice of the same club in 2 minutes, 35 seconds. Jack Carr of Los Ratos won by forfeit from Roy Webb of the College Club in the middleweight class. Light heavyweight honors went to Los Ratos wrestler, Arthur Gamble, who pinned Orin Goulding of the same club in the longest match of the evening, 4 minutes and 56 seconds. Junior light heavyweight title was won by James Hays of the Dark Horses over Dutch Schultz of Kemas in the shortest match, 23 seconds. Frank Seale of Los Ratos pinned Leroy Mosley of Kemas in 2 15 for heavyweight laurels.

Total points favored Los Ratos by a margin of one, 18 to 17, over the Kemas club. Dark Horses were third with 13 points, Main Street fourth with five.

Mrs. M. M. Brown Wins First Prize In Golf Tourney

First prize in the regular ladies' day golf tournament at Lubbock Country club yesterday went to Mrs. M. M. Brown, victor in a field of 12 that turned out for the nine-hole handicap medal round.

Her total score minus handicap gave Mrs. Brown a net of 38, which was good for low score. Mrs. Guy McAfee and Mrs. Charles Akey tied for second place, the prize going to Mrs. McAfee in a coin-flipping contest.

Others competing yesterday were Mrs. Ford Benham, Mrs. J. H. Stiles, Mrs. Cliff Dean, Mrs. Olan Key, Mrs. K. L. Riggs, Mrs. A. E. Henry, Mrs. Sid Thrash, Mrs. W. F. Helwig and Mrs. Glenn Smith.

Texas Fishermen Eagerly Await Opening Day Of 1937 Season

BY DAVID A. CHEAVENS

DALLAS, April 15 (AP)—Fishing facts, fancies and fables to tantalize anglers impatiently awaiting opening day for bass and perch May 1.

Indications are that conditions are rosier on inland lakes and streams than in several years . . . Reason: few winter floods, plenty of clear water, lakes and rivers higher than last year and furnishing more food which makes the fish fat and sassy . . . Anglers who have inadvertently (of course) hooked bass and crappie during March and April report plenty of weight and fight.

Fish In Fire Hose

Firemen at Cleburne who extinguished a blaze at a dairy discovered they had also been fishing . . . Found a one-pound catfish, its whiskers jerking excitedly, in the suction hose . . . Then the dairy owner explained that it wasn't a miracle at all . . . The fish had been a pet in the water tank for years.

Waco fishermen are having difficulty restraining themselves after a long three-month closed season imposed by a special rule . . . Lake Waco, and streams above and below, is coming to be recognized as one of the state's best crappie spots . . . Some of them run as high as two and three pounds . . . That sounds like Caddo, where East Texas fishermen also are pawing the earth after their first closed season in years . . . Of course everybody knows how big they get in Caddo.

Don't Step On Snakes

Snake squirmings: James H. Sheehy, NYA man at Beaumont, no longer believes that a snake can't strike under water . . . He kicked loose from a four-foot moccasin which wrapped itself around his bare ankle while he was wading a lake near Nome . . . The reptile struck five times, puncturing his skin in nine spots . . . He suffered no serious ill effects after taking antivenom serum . . . Moral: don't step on snakes, in or out of the water . . . McFish Sparks told about a friend who was fly-casting last year and caught a small bass . . . He slipped the fish in his back pocket, tail flapping, and made another cast . . . About that time friends on shore heard him yell and he floundered out of the lake . . . A large moccasin had fastened itself to the fish in his pocket . . . Says he will string 'em hereafter.

Port Aransas tarpon rodeo will be held June 12 . . . Jetty fishermen will have their day in a special contest, something new in sea fish rodeos where usually you have to hire a boat . . . That ought to draw lots of fishermen who are inclined to seasickness.

Hooks Mess Of Fish

The Beaumont Enterprise's fishing columnist relays this from a Daisetta correspondent . . . Said correspondent set out his hook in the Trinity one afternoon and returned at 11 p. m., pulled up and thought he had snagged a log . . . His friend threw a light and cried that it was a bunch of snakes . . . They pulled some more and found that a large eel had taken the first bait . . . Then a 40-pound yellow cat had taken the eel . . . The eel slipped through the catfish's gills, handing outside . . . The correspondent reported it was a mess of fish . . . Can anybody match it?

Bozinis Wins Over Bennett

George Bennett blocked Nick Bozinis' famous "backbreaker" hold once but he couldn't do it a second time so sleek-headed Nicholas copped the main event before a rather thin population at the Auditorium grappling show last night.

Bennett must have been disappointed in the size of the crowd, or maybe suffering a bilious attack. At any rate, he looked more like a ham preliminary boy last night than the preliminary boys looked. Except for about three seconds in the second fall, which he won, and for a brief spurt or two in the third, Bennett looked terribly off his feed. Besides taking a lot of useless punishment without seeking retribution, he even shook hands with the grouchy Greek as a token of regret for having taken a light punch at his wicked adversary.

But He Can "Take It"

When Bennett was losing the first fall, for instance, it was most annoying to the majority of fans to see him make no effort to use a free right hand, or even an unoccupied set of teeth, to break the winning hold. He lost it in 20 minutes to a hammerlock.

Bozinis carried the fight practically all the way, and did some right snappy grappling aside from his illegal stuff. He practiced his art on the Bennett left arm, keeping it tied up most of the evening. It was while holding this in a hammer lock that he grabbed a crotch hold with his free hand, hoisted George and brought him down, back first across a well-braced knee and thigh. Two of these were enough to win, in 22 minutes. They had been preceded by a series of shocking slams.

After leading with his chin and his hair for 8 minutes, Bennett wound up and rocked Bozinis with a surprise series of flying tackles to win the second fall. It was virtually his only offensive gesture of the evening.

Kopecky Easy Winner

Another sleek-headed "foreigner," Gorilla Pogi, did not fare so well. But Gorilla figured in the best scrap of the evening, a 24-minute struggle with the clever and capable Ace Freeman of New York. They battled right sharply for the last 10 minutes, Freeman taking a lot of Pogi's foolishness in the first 15. They swapped holds fast in a fast match, and Pogi got so rough once that Referee Clements tried to forfeit the match to Freeman. He wouldn't take it, though, and soon was busting the Gorilla with a rolling somersault. A squeezing shoulder scissors, after Pogi had been thoroughly wrapped and ready for delivery forced his shoulders to the mat.

Old Joe Kopecky, coming back here after a long absence, took Art Belcher, Amarillo youth, in 7 minutes with three Irish whips, an airplane spin and a smother. Until he did that, Joe let Belcher look good. The veteran panther-man seemed to enjoy it, especially his arguments with irate fans.

Sixteen South Plains Areas Have Teams

Largest number of entries since the district organization was perfected is indicated for the District 3 interscholastic league athletic meet Friday and Saturday here.

Berl Huffman, Texas Tech coaching staff member and athletic director of District 3, said entries were still pouring in, and that Friday's preliminaries probably would see an average of about 30 athletes from each of the sixteen counties making up the district, in action at the Tech Stadium field.

Track and field, tennis and volleyball, form the variety program.

Consolidation Helps

Director Huffman said that the increase of larger schools through consolidation of numerous smaller and rural schools no doubt accounted for the unusually large number of entries. Heretofore, many athletes have been stopped at the county meets, rural and small Class B schools not competing in district meets. Consolidation of schools has raised the number of Class A teams, thereby producing more athletes for district competition.

Preliminaries get under way at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon in the track and field events, and in girls' volleyball. Tennis, for both boys and girls, begins at 10 o'clock Friday morning. Entries in rural pentathlon will begin competition at 2 p. m.

Saturday's finals, except tennis, will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Tennis players will resume at 9 o'clock Saturday morning after Friday's eliminations.

There will be an admission charge of 25 cents at the gate for Saturday's finals. Only participants and officials will be permitted on the field, Huffman said. Coaches, trainers, all school officials and fans are to occupy the grandstand.

Events To Be On Time

Participants will remain in the stands until their particular events are called, Huffman said. This is to cut down confusion on the field, and give spectators wider vision of events as they transpire. Each event will be called five minutes before actual starting time.

The starting times as presented in the program will be followed, Huffman said, and participants are expected to be ready.

Cooperation of coaches, participants and fans is kindly asked by track and field officials. Texas Tech athletes will assist the track officials in preserving order.

The schedule of preliminary events Friday follows:

10 a. m.—Tennis (boys and girls). Tennis balls will be furnished. All contestants must wear tennis shoes.

2 p. m.—120-yard high hurdles, pole vault, rural pentathlon and girls' volleyball.

2:20—100-yard dash.

2:40—220-yard low hurdles and running broad jump.

3 o'clock—440-yard dash and discus throw.

3:20 o'clock—220-yard dash.

The Saturday Pay-Off

Saturday's program of final events:

9 a. m.—Tennis.

2 p. m. — 120-yard high hurdles.

Sam Baugh To Rifle His Shots For Washington This Year

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Here are a couple of hot tips from Texas . . . . First, Sammy Baugh, Texas Christian sharpshooter, will be rifling passes for the Washington Redskins in the National football league next fall. . . . Second, L. T. (Tiger) Meyer, who scored all 16 Texas Christian points against Marquette in the Cotton Bowl game, is ticketed for the Chicago Cubs when he graduates in June. . . .

The Redskins got Baugh in the football draft last year. . . . Sammy turned down their first offer of $5,000 in favor of a $2,700 coaching berth at T. C. U., but changed his mind right quick when Washington upped the ante to $7,000. The Yankees were supposed to have the inside track on Meyer, a second sacker, but along came Scout Jack Doyle with a fatter bonus offer and Tiger is Chicago bound.

Just Ram It By, Is Johnson's Advice

BY DILLON GRAHAM

GERMANTOWN, Md., April 15 (AP)—Walter Johnson, perhaps the greatest speed ball pitcher of all time, suggested today that Rookie Bob Feller forget about spot pitching and "just ram that fast one past the batter."

Walter, who now cultivates 550 acres of rolling land, stopped his chores today to give advice to the young Cleveland sensation who may be the fireball king of a new baseball era.

"A strong boy like Feller with speed to spare and a good curve, doesn't have to worry much about a hitter's likes or dislikes," Walter began.

"Spot pitching, aiming a throw at knees or shoulders, is not a natural effort and it strains a hurler's arm.

The average pitcher, Johnson explained, has to consider a batter's weaknesses and pitch to spots.

"But Feller, from what I hear—I've never seen him, is not average. He's the kind that comes once in a generation. He's got fire to burn the ball by the batter.

"He'll have more success and his arm will last longer if he doesn't try to hit a certain spot," he said. "When he loses steam, he can turn to spot shots."

It's been around 30 years since Johnson broke in as a powerful gangling rookie with a pitch that smoked. Walter thinks Feller's case is something like his own. Bob is a thickly built chap, with long arms and big hands.

Louisiana has 4790 miles of navigable waters, or more than twice that of any other state.

SECOND TO THE BASHING of willow and ash against horsehide at the local park, or at any park we might happen to be, the most entertaining noise to these weary old ears is the clatter of the teletype machines as they reel off the box scores from major and Texas league baseball scenes.

The clattering started last night, and even the machines seemed to perk up and sing sweeter as the Texas League teams left the barrier for the summer-long race around the circuit. The big league scores 'll be coming in from Tuesday on. Sorry we can't pass the boxes on to you, but lack of space, or something, prohibits.

Locally the bashing of base blows is scheduled to start one week from Sunday afternoon. The Amherst Reds, pains in the necks of South Plains teams for two years, have consented to blast the new season open here on April 25.

But you may listen to the music and look over the players no later than day after the morrow, if you haven't already done so. A lot of railbirds have already been bitten by the bug, and they're out there watching the boys go through conditioning practice nearly every afternoon. The gates will go open Sunday for the public at large, and there'll be no charge. The Hubbers will begin and end their "exhibition" season with an intra-squad game.

THE OLD GAME STILL HAS A LARGE APPEAL

Bearing out pre-season predictions by experts and baseball men, fans of Texas indicated by their turn-out yesterday that it's gonna be a great year for the national pastime.

Variance in attendance at the different league parks was interesting to note. Dallas, a good baseball town, ran away with opening day attendance honors when 10,300 fans flocked to the park to see the Steers nose out Fort Worth last night, 5-4. Tulsa's league and Dixie champions drew somewhat less than 2,000. Galveston, losing to Beaumont, had one of its biggest crowds, nearly 7,000, but Houston's Buffs, losing their first opening day game in 11 years, attracted only 5,500 for the San Antonio game.

Largest opening day crowd a year ago, 7,500, saw Dallas open at Fort Worth; 4,000 turned out at Oklahoma City, less than 5,000 at San Antonio and 4,200 at Galveston, for a total of 20,700 compared with the approximately 24,800 yesterday. The difference would have been greater had Tulsa opened at Oklahoma City yesterday. Tulsa's short attendance was a minor surprise, and not a very nice way to treat the champs.

GETTING BACK DOWN to our size, all dope points to a big season on the South Plains.

There'll be more clubs operating around here since the palmy '20s, and better baseball. Everybody wants to play, and the fans are talking it up.

Within the past two weeks, the Lubbock Baseball association has had no less than eight out of town communications regarding games with the Hubbers, and they're still coming in.

RIVALRY WITH AMARILLO DUE TO BE RESUMED

Dutch Kaufhold, business manager of the Phillips "66" Oilers of Amarillo, wanted to bring his club here Sunday for an opener. Sammy Hale, who used to do quite a lot of big leaguing, is field manager of the club. This offer had to be turned down due to condition of the park, as well as the players. Although the boys—and about 35 of 'em have been working out with old Sport Wooldridge pretty regularly—say they're ready, but the field needs another week to settle after its new topping, and carpenters need a few more days to complete the new grandstand. Amarillo has been invited to play here early in May.

Two bids for opening games came in yesterday, one from the Sinclair Oilers of Coahoma, near Big Spring, the other from

Minstrel Show is Winner Of Arlington Feature Race

ARLINGTON DOWNS, April 15 (AP) — Minstrel Show, 3-year-old chestnut colt of the Milky Way farm, scored by a length and a half to win the feature race at Arlington Downs before a crowd of 5,000 Wednesday.

The winner, in close quarters early in the race, was permitted to race easily until the last stages where he drew away from the field to win handily. The time for the six furlongs was 1:13.

Zuni, owned by B. Hernandez, was second, a half length in front of Boston Mary, in third place. Minstrel show paid $7.70, $5.40 and $3.60; Zuni, a 41 to 1 shot, paid $22.90 and $9.30; Boston Mary paid $2.90.

Lo, winner of the first race, and Leros, winner of the third event, paid daily double players $21.20.

BRADDOCK DECISION DELAYED

Everything Failed Until The Gly-Cas

Mr. Bowen's Health A "Wreck" With Kidney And Bladder Disorder, Rheumatism; Had Been Unable To Work For Year; Gly-Cas Then Proves Advanced Merit

"Gly-Cas is the first medicine I have ever taken that I can say is truly dependable," said Mr. Clarence Bowen, 359 Whittington Ave., Hot Springs, Ark. "For years I had been badly constipated and often had bilious attacks, headaches and my entire system had become clogged with poisons. My kidneys and bladder were badly disordered too and for the past fifteen months I had been forced to get up seven and eight times each night. I could not get my proper rest or sleep in that condition and was always tired and worn-out it seemed. Rheumatism settled over my body too and my feet and ankles swelled and pained, wore a shoe two sizes larger than normal. Hips full of pain, was unable to work for the past year and really so crippled I could hardly get up or down. I tried baths, medical authorities, medicines of all kinds and all without results. Then Gly-Cas came to my rescue."

"I have just finished my third box and am feeling like a different person," he continued. "My bowels are fine, bilious attacks no longer trouble me, dizzy spells and headaches eliminated. I sleep good, kidneys are functioning normally, that dreadful rheumatism has been greatly improved, even those awful pains which kept me in constant misery have been relieved. It is wonderful to feel so well again and am really able to go back to my work. Gly-Cas is truly a medicine of outstanding merit."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug, 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns. Adv.

LUBBOCK is going to have a big new modern picture show—or perhaps we should say a spanking new cinema mansion.

It will be located where the Lindsey theater is—on the building just east of the Lindsey which day before yesterday was purchased by Mrs. J. D. Lindsey and her sons Ernest and Ralph.

The Lindsey family and the Griffith Amusement company, present operators of the Palace Lindsey and Texan, will operate the theater when it is completed.

This information was gleaned by The Plainsman yesterday from Ernest Lindsey and Hal B. Grady, but outside of these facts there is very little known to date.

Hal and Charley said it would be at least 90 days before construction can start, but that an architect already is busy on the plans and that the theater when completed will seat over 50 per cent more people than the Palace will right now.

It will have an 80-foot marquee — front entrance to us who are not in the show business—facing on Main street and the seating capacity will be around 1,600.

Of course it will be entirely modern, air conditioned, etc., etc., and another etc., thrown in for good measure.

TEN days or two weeks ago The Plainsman mentioned that a sales tax is all but inevitable for Texas.

Since that time discussion in the legislature has centered around whether or not a sales tax should be voted during the present session.

Yesterday some interesting figures compiled by Rev. J. Earnest Stack, editor of the Christian American, of Houston, arrived and we are herewith passing them on.

According to the Rev. Editor:

Lubbock county merchants do a total retail business of $13,641,000 per year, a 2 per cent sales tax would make this county's part $272,820 per year or an average tax of $6.98 per resident of the county.

Editor Stack is a Baptist and his figures are based on a recent census by the U. S. Department of Commerce. He is opposing the sales tax because he feels it would make it harder for churches to raise money for their operation.

A Lubbock mother who wished to enjoy an afternoon nap decided she might have better luck if she bribed her young son to keep quiet. Calling the six-year-old to her, she said:

"Bobby, if you'll be real quiet for 30 minutes I'll give you a bright shiny new penny."

"Thanks, mom," the kid returned, "but haven't you got a dull, dirty old nickel?"

AT its meeting last week the Lubbock Rotary club enjoyed a spelling-contest staged by competing teams made up of members.

The other day the crack spellers of the New York and Chicago fire departments tangled up in a spelling bee which saw some of the toughest words in the English language trotted out and vanquished.

From reports sifting in from various South Plains communities, The Journal is informed that once again the spelling contest is becoming popular in community gatherings.

That's all fine—and good news.

Not only does the spelling bee afford lots of fun and improve the minds of all concerned, but it indicates that as the nation climbs recovery's mountain our people are dropping the razzle-dazzle entertainments of the pre-depression years and are embracing the proven time-honored fun stunts of our fathers.

People must be light-hearted to engage in or enjoy spelling bees.

Also, they must be good sports and they must yearn to improve their learning.

All these things taken together indicate that despite what we've gone through, we've emerged from the crucible in pretty good shape.

If we hadn't, so many of us couldn't be satisfied with any sort of fun as wholesome as entertaining as cheap in cost yet so very worthwhile as the spelling bee.

'Eve's Orchard'

BY MARGARET WIDDEMER
Copyright, 19137, NEA Service, Inc.

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfield goes back to her 200-year-old house and orchard in Connecticut after five years in New York. She plans to rent, marry gay, city-loving Denny and return to Manhattan. "Uncle" Henry moves in to help her run the place. Then come Peter, the penniless artist, his languished wife Marylin and their serious young son Judge. Eve's neighbor, calm, practical George Cleveland, who loves her, comes over with his father evenings. One day George tells her the renting agent said Eve had given up the idea of renting. Eve denies this excitedly.

Mrs. Morton, trim and tense in her small glass-fronted office between the post office and the grocery, said in dismay:

"Mrs. Featherstone said so. She was out walking and I met her. She said you were all too happy there to want to rent. I suppose you thought it would be easy to go on with the old business your aunt was in—"

Eve turned to George. "There must be some mistake. She couldn't—" But as she said it she knew that Marylin's fatal inconsequence might have made just that mistake possible.

"I'm terribly sorry," Mrs. Morton said. "It's a shame, and with the renting season almost over, but I'll do everything I possibly can to rent it for you."

Marylin, lying among her pillows and papers with the breakfast tray still across her knees and the rose satin wrap Molly De Peyster had given her huddled about her, was just uncomprehending and then in an agony of penitence.

"Oh darling," she mourned, "what a horrible thing to do to you. I never dreamed it could make the least bit of difference. And when I said to you, didn't you love our being here and wouldn't you rather we kept on like this all summer, you said you were so glad we liked it and wished we could . . . and I thought that meant you didn't want to rent."

Marylin was too horrified and miserable for Eve to do anything but say, "Well, there's nothing to be done now, it may rent still."

Peter was more horrified than Eve. He even volunteered to go low-brow and do some book covers.

"That ought to help. And Uncle Henry says Judge ought to have more pleasure. I'll buy him a bicycle and give you the rest for extra rent," said Peter generously.

Uncle Henry and Peter and George held a council of war with Eve that night in Uncle Henry's end of the parlors. She felt one of her recurrent waves of guilt about concealing her intention of marrying Denny as soon as he came back. But she mustn't talk about it if it wasn't certain. And when they did marry, now that the country weather was getting more heavenly every day, Denny would probably just settle in here with her till fall; he liked the Featherstones well enough. So she said nothing to their assurances that with the help of Peter's money and Uncle Henry's greenstuffs they could carry on well.

"And with Denny's help," she said irrelevantly to herself, "we could afford a tennis club membership—"

Seeing her so bright-eyed and flushed and content, George Cleveland and Henry Dr. Remer smiled at each other, relieved.

Bridge Or Anagrams

Marylin called to Peter lovingly from the fire in the front room. "Darling, here's darling Daddy Cleveland simply champing for his chess!"

The older Cleveland, sitting near her with his usual air of having all the time in the world, smiled benignly at Marylin, stretched in her chair with an arm around her little boy. Peter smiled and crossed to get the chessmen. Judge got up and went into the back room to Uncle Henry. The group had settled into its accustomed evening routine.

For routine it had come to be, a settled evening arrangement of understood placid comfort. Both Clevelands seemed domestically inclined men. Mrs. Cleveland had tired of the country after a week of rain and was still obstinately at the Park avenue apartment. Her son was busy with his orchard and small fruits; her husband was a fanatic golfer, and his favorite club within driving distance of George's house. So he played chess with Peter the three weekend nights and George, drifting in with him, read the papers, or did mathematics about genetics on the round table where Uncle Henry and Judge carried on games of checkers or hunted for stations on Eve's little radio. Both father and son behaved in general as if this were where they most liked to be.

"At home my wife always retires after dinner unless we're doing something social," Mr. Cleveland said apologetically. "I don't know when George and I have had so much solid comfort as sitting round here. Hope we aren't overdoing it."

Everybody assured them sincerely that they were not.

"And it is such a comfort to have enough for bridge or anagrams whenever you like." Eve and Marylin agreed. The battered box of letters, the cards and chess and checkers were scarcely ever put away. The big old dictionary from the attic, in its iron stand, its calf covers coming off, its vintage that of Eve's grandfather, stood permanently in the niche behind the parlor fireplace. Sometimes the whole group was coaxed into a game of anagrams. Judge and all. There had been jokes last night about a return match, after Peter had won over everyone by six three-syllable words. He and old Mr. Cleveland were the best players.

"It's like the homes in library books," Judge said. "I didn't ever know they were real before."

It was the middle of May before Denny got back from the road. Six long weeks. He called up on top of a letter that had given no hint of it to say he was actually here, actually coming out the Friday afternoon.

Eve went over his room lovingly: had she forgotten anything? Daffodils on the marble table between the windows; the funny 1880 pillow shams that belonged on the towering elaborate walnut bed with a package of cigarettes and an ash tray beside it and the new novel Mr. Cleveland had brought over the night before last.

Everything. The wallpaper was certainly a disgrace, but that couldn't be helped. The room was furnished exactly as it had been since Eve's grandfather bought it new for his bride, and Denny who had seen the tall marble-topped bureau with its long glass sunken between the side drawers, had pronounced it priceless. "You must let me sleep in that bed," he'd said. "And if you come in and wake me up you'll probably find I've grown side-whiskers and a derby." She laughed now as she thought of it, excited. Tonight he would sleep here, and they would laugh about her period furniture together.

'Eve—You're Beautiful'

Too restless to stand still, she went out and gathered more daffodils in the back garden, went up and down the walks to see what had come up since yesterday and finally came to anchor in the portico in the rear.

Standing there on its high eighteenth-century floor, she drew a long breath of delight, looking down on lawn and orchard. All this heavenly outdoors to show Denny! Time and Uncle Henry had done wonders with the tousled wilderness the Jennings had left behind.

The long lawn stretched clipped and green to the tangle of fruit canes against the southern slope where the orchard climbed. Below them was the mat of darker green leaves that was the old strawberry bed. The high rosebushes, leafing out now, bordered the walk to the orchard; thick outside them flowered the two long ribbons of daffodils that had always been there.

Eve herself, standing in the May wind, was spring-like in the soft close-clinging green wool with a yellow braid girdle, the high wimpe-collar of creamy silk. She had brushed her hair to the top of her head in a new fashion, with a darling plume of rings across the top to see how Denny would like her that way. Peter, straying by on his way to get a detective magazine in the village for Marylin, said, "You look as if you were understudying the daffodils."

FREEDOM OF THOUGHT AND OPINION

From all outward appearances, dictators seem to be riding high, on the whole, in Europe. But every now and then a news item appears that suggests that all may not be right with them and that under the surface there is a great deal of dissatisfaction among those who are supposed to be "loyal subjects".

Such a story was published the other day, and has to do with Schiller's drama, "Don Carlos," which has been staged in Berlin and throughout Germany. At a certain point, during each presentation of the play, tremendous, fervent applause stops the show. Coincidentally, the yells and handclaps always occur just after the Marquis Posa demands of King Philip of Spain: "Sire, give us freedom of thought!"

The German press is said to be highly disturbed over the incident, and, if Nazi leaders are ruffled, too, it is not to be wondered. Oppressive measures can cork up surface opposition to regimentation; but such outbursts as those that have been taking place in the darkness of theaters can be even more menacing.

We in America might well consider the plight of the Germans, the Russians, the Italians and the rest of the dictator-ridden peoples in this strange era of ours when cramming opinions down the other fellow's throat has become quite a pastime. Freedom of thought and opinion is mighty valuable. So valuable, in fact, that to risk losing it is unthinkable.

A Thought . .

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 15.—All over the lot: When Greta Garbo isn't working, the press are allowed to tiptoe over the hallowed boards of the "Madame Walewska" sets. This is something less than a vicarious thrill, but there are other things and people worth seeing.

For example, I can stand and marvel for hours at the makeup on Reginald Owen, who is Talleyrand. He looks exactly like all the reproductions of paintings that you ever saw of the crafty French politician. And, in keeping with his character, he even seems to have developed a permanent limp, for he uses it even when not in front of the camera.

At the conclusion of a long scene with another statesman, it was funny to hear Owen say: ". . . In that case, I shall be spared the necessity—ah—of telling you—ah—that, dammit! I have forgotten my lines!"

Babel Of Accents

Director Clarence Brown is having a terrible time with his company's accents, which are Swedish, French, Russian, British, Austrian, and Kansas City. There is even a Persian in the cast, but he's no problem because he speaks Persian in the picture. Off-screen he speaks better English than most of the actors.

He is Dr. Ameen Fareed and happens to be a distinguished psychiatrist in these parts. Has been for 24 years.

When the studio needed a man for the brief role of the Persian ambassador, Dr. Fareed was persuaded to play it on the assurance that it would require only a couple of hours of his time in the morning.

When I saw him it was 4 o'clock in the afternoon and his scene hadn't been started and his patients probably were all developing fresh neuroses.

A pleasant little man of imposing erudition, he seemed just the person to ask whether most movie actors are crazy. But he wouldn't make any generalizations, merely observing that he always has had a lot of patients in Hollywood and found that the pace and strain of living is much greater in filmland now than it was 10 years ago. He added that insanity is increasing at a startling rate all over the country, probably due to such nerve-racking things as traffic, taxes and—

"And movies?" I queried.

"And movies," he agreed, scowling at his watch.

Full Corporal

They have done a pretty good job of transforming Charles Boyer into Napoleon. A little tall maybe, but by careful arrangement of camera shots he is made to look shorter. Also he stoops. Napoleon stooped, and that characteristic hand-in-his-weskit posture is supposed to have been the result of a stomach ailment.

Anyway, Boyer makes a suitable romantic Napoleon to play opposite Miss Garbo, who is Madame Walewska. Peter Lorre might have been better Napoleon, but what would the fans have thought if 24-sheet posters came out screaming: "Greta Garbo Loves Peter Lorre"?

Incidentally, Director Brown is certain that the title will be changed. And at this writing the story isn't even finished. Everyone is fairly certain, however, that it somehow will end with the ex-emperor at Elba, alone with his heartaches and his stomach twinges.

Garbo Scoided

On this picture Miss Garbo has been spending most of her spare time in her dressing room. Sometimes there have been as many as 500 extras on the set, as on the day when she danced the mazurka with Boyer and had a fine time doing it. She doesn't mind extras, but won't tolerate visitors. Clark Gable crashed the sound stage one day and was almost ejected.

The wan Swede's best friend in the company is the portly cinematographer, Karl Freund. They chat in German, nobody knows what about.

Freund is meticulous about lighting, and the other day, as he was adjusting the lights on a set, she tiptoed around behind him putting screens over some arcs, fitting others a bit.

He was pretty exasperated when he finally discovered what was wrong. "Miss Garbo," he said sternly, in English, "please attend to your own department!"

It probably was as neat a reprimand as she has received in years. She made a face at him.

Government's Move To Halt Climbing Prices Believed Forecast By FDR's Recent Speech

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Roosevelt's chief purpose in his recent statement as to "inflationary" prices of steel, copper and other basic products was to serve notice that the administration would not stand idly by and see prices ruin prosperity.

The promise that the government would curtail expenditures for purchase of durable goods and emphasize expenditures which would be reflected in consumer goods purchases was the first official step toward forestalling the economic collapse which many believe is threatened by the rising price level. Almost certainly, there will be other steps taken.

Dutcher

Aside from the obvious effect of the promise it was also meant as a reassurance to buyers. When in doubt as to whether prices will keep on going up, many are accelerating prices to an extent which would have been avoided had they purchased normally.

Last month this writer outlined a 10-point plan which had been proposed by administration economists to put the brakes on disastrous price inflation. The President has now moved on one front, then described as "Pressure through allocation of government purchases." Other points it may be interesting to recall, proposed federal action against monopolies and collusive bidding; selective taxation on profits; patent law revision; encouragement of consumer co-operatives; tariff reductions and government "yardstick" production to keep down prices of things the government buys.

Complaints On Price Fixing

Perhaps you overlooked it, but the Federal Trade commission has just ordered General Electric, Westinghouse and two other companies to cease price fixing with respect to turbine generators. It has also entered a price fixing complaint against the Cast Iron Soil Pipe association and 35 companies. (The government bought $18,000,000 worth of such pipe last year.) These incidents and similar actions now planned are not unconnected with the administration offensive against skyrocketing prices.

You may also look for abolition or reduction of the four-cent excise tax on copper imports, first imposed in 1932 and scheduled to expire June 30, this year? This tax has kept copper imports out of the country.

Roosevelt complained about copper prices. He said many mines could turn out copper profitably at five or six cents a pound and that others among them the great Anaconda of Montana, could make a profit at eight or nine cents a pound. Copper lately has been selling at 17 cents a pound and—according to the President—pushing up prices in all the durable goods industries which it enters. Senator Wheeler of Montana, long a reputed foe of the Anaconda company, angrily took issue, suggesting price reduction would mean American copper miners must compete with "African slaves and Mexican peons."

Says Steel Too High

Just what can or will be done about steel prices is not clear. Roosevelt branded steel prices as much too high, owing to recent large and rapid increases. The federal government bought $250,000,000 worth of steel last year. Government purchases of steel presumably will be curtailed, but much is needed for the army and navy. Manufacture of some steel by the government is possible, but not yet probable.

Although Attorney General Cummings recently said the Department of Justice inquiry into collusive bids by steel companies was practically at a standstill, the President has subsequently asked him for a report on progress.

The investigation followed char-

OPPOSES BABY RAFFLE

Dear Plainsman: I just recently learned that the Lions club is supposed to give away a baby at a carnival they are conducting in the near future. I have been a member of the Lions club a little more than three years and sat on the "ducking board" in the last carnival they had. But the idea of sane-thinking men who stoop so lo such an atrocious manner of g away a baby at a public car really burns me up. Rites For Explosion Victim Are Being Held In City

Funeral services were held at Rix Funeral chapel this afternoon for Charles Duncan, 33, former resident of Lubbock, who was killed instantly Tuesday afternoon when a 10-inch gas line on which he was working near Jal, south of Hobbs, N. M., exploded with terrific force.

V. F. Benson, who was working nearby, was severely burned but reports today said he apparently is out of danger. The blast, friends of the Duncan family said, occurred when a grader struck the pipe line. The blast was described as of such violence that Mr. Duncan's body was blown to fragments.

The Rev. Mr. Sterling, Baptist minister of Eunice, N. M., officiated at the services. Burial was in Lubbock cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Duncan are his widow and one son, 13, of Jal; his father, Ed Duncan, 1005 Avenue B; two sisters, Miss Sally Duncan of Los Angeles and Mrs. Osa Covington of Lubbock; and three brothers, Champ, F. P., and Overton Duncan, all of Lubbock.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, April 15. (AP)—The stock market struggled feebly to maintain its balance today but was only half-way successful.

Small declines were numerous near the fourth hour in unusually light dealings.

While trading forces were noticeably timid on the buying side, they were equally careful not to get too far out on a selling limb.

Industrial news, including another favorable batch of earnings statements, tended to cheer the boardrooms although some questioned whether much of this had not already been discounted more or less marketwise.

General Motors' Canadian labor controversy was a retarding influence, brokers said. At the same time it was thought, or hoped, this dispute would be kept over the border.

Bonds were mixed, providing little stimulus for stocks. A break in London metals and other staples brought a setback in domestic commodity futures. Flax at Winnipeg was down the limit and grains, cotton, rubber and copper futures lacked water.

Lubbock Scout Leaders Are To Attend Post Meeting

At least five Boy Scout leaders from Lubbock plan to attend the meeting at Post Friday night at which plans will be completed for erection of a new mess hall on the Post estate land set aside for Scouts, Earl M. McClure, council executive, said today.

Those to make the trip are W. G. McMillan, K. N. Clapp, Dr. F. B. Malone, Sam A. Henry, sr., and McClure. The meeting has been called by Marshall Mason of Post, camp director.

A preliminary session will be held, advices here said today, at Mason's place of business, followed by a dinner.

Tonight, McClure announced, Scouters interested in the Boy Scout movement will be guests at a kabob supper at City park here, starting at 6:30 o'clock, with E. B. Hicks in charge of arrangements. The opening of Scouters university next Monday night will be the chief topic of discussion.

Three Persons Pay Fine In Gambling Charges Here

Three persons paid fines of $20 each for gambling; a .22 rifle was stolen from the car of Weston Parris at 1617 Eighteenth street, and the old folks home complained of chickens running at large.

That describes almost exclusively matters brought overnight to the police department's attention.

John McCulloch made the arrests in the gambling cases, in 700-block Broadway.

DALLAS, April 15. (AP)—Ed Winters, 56, who police believed lived near Fort Worth, was killed last night when an automobile struck him as he crossed a street here. His skull was fractured and he was injured internally.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 15 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 4 to 7 higher, on improved Liverpool cables, trade and foreign buying. May 13.80; July 13.70; Oct. 13.27; Dec. 13.21; Jan. 13.25; March 13.30.

Trading was moderately active, however, and the initial advance represented only partial response to Liverpool. The trade was cautious owing to irregularity in other commodities and uncertainties regarding yesterday's advices from Washington to southern growers to liquidate loan cotton stocks.

The early slight advance attracted increased liquidation and offerings were more liberal during the first half hour. July eased off from 13.73 to 13.60. Shortly after the first half hour the market showed net losses of 4 to 6 points.

Scattered rains were reported in South Texas and Tennessee. The forecast also pointed to showers in the northeastern belt.

Liverpool was somewhat irregular. Opening advances were lost and then recovered on replacement and outside speculative buying.

Liquidation became more active later in the morning and carried all positions down to or below the low levels touched early this week. Old crop positions were relatively easy under local, New Orleans and commission house selling. July declined to 13.52 and prices at midday were within a few points of the lows and at net losses of 5 to 12 points. Easiness in other commodities influenced sentiment.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 15 (AP) — Cotton moved 2 to 5 points higher in quiet opening dealings on the New Orleans market today.

The advance was more to bring prices into line with the higher Liverpool quotations than any new domestic development. The English market opened 6 to 10 points higher under active Bombay crop report.

At New Orleans, May opened at 13.74, July at 13.67, Oct. at 13.24 and Dec. at 13.26. Before the end of the first half hour prices had eased a couple of points from these levels in dull trading.

Aside from scattered showers in Southern Texas the weather map showed no rains in the cotton belt. Temperatures were better, particularly in the northwest.

Little speculative activity developed in the early trading.

Following closely the pattern of recent sessions, early firmness was followed almost immediately by an easier tone and prices were down 50 to 75 cents a bale before midday.

There was no good reason for the advance, and it was considered the market was sinking under its own weight, rather than any good reason for liquidation.

Better weather might have induced some selling. Official forecasts indicated cloudy weather with possible showers were imminent.

The statement late Wednesday by Cully A. Cobb, head of the cotton division of the Agricultural Adjustment act, that farmers should liquidate their loan cotton rapidly was thought to have brought some liquidation into the market. Selling on the assumption his request would bring additional cotton on the market was considered the main reason for this liquidation.

Aimee Relates Love Affair

LOS ANGELES, April 15. (AP) — It was a love affair between Roberta Semple and Jacob Moidel, burley Ohio lawyer, that caused Moidel to be engaged as an Angelus Temple attorney, Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson testified Wednesday.

A defense witness, Mrs. McPherson was under cross-examination in the $150,000 slander suit brought against her general attorney, Willedd Andrews, by her daughter, Miss Semple.

Slander Is Charged

Miss Semple's suit accuses Andrews of having slandered her when he said she was expelled from the temple last October for having attempted to "blackmail" her mother.

Tuesday Mrs. McPherson told the court Roberta and Moidel combined to force her to sign some contracts she "knew were against God's will."

In an effort to refute this statement regarding Moidel, an attorney for Miss Semple asked Aimee if she had not of her own volition retained Moidel to represent her.

"Didn't you hire Mr. Moidel to represent you?"

For A Few Cases

"Yes, for one or two isolated cases but not as the attorney for all the temple affairs."

"And when you hired him, he didn't force you to do that, did he? He didn't have a dagger at your throat or a gun at your breast. You did it of your own free will, didn't you?"

"Yes, I wanted to please Roberta."

Asked to explain this statement, the evangelist continued:

"Roberta had fallen in love with Mr. Moidel. So when Vivian Denton filed her slander suit against me, I asked Roberta if Mr. Moidel, being an attorney, couldn't handle the case for me. I wanted to throw a few little things his way because she was in love with him."

Mrs. McPherson said the huge ruddy-complexioned lawyer had once smirked and told her he hoped to "marry a good-looking mother-in-law."

Thought Him Fine Man

At that time, she testified, she thought Moidel "a very fine man."

Later, she said, her opinion changed. But she said she did not try to break up the affair because "my mother had always told me that when you try to fight two people who are in love you only throw them closer together."

Nevertheless, she said, she had communications from persons at the temple while she was away that caused her to "wonder which side Mr. Moidel was on."

She clung to her story that Moidel thundered at her in a Phoenix, Ariz., hotel in March, Friday the 13th, 1936, in order to force her to give contracts to Roberta and himself and two other persons.

of state for foreign affairs, said the five principal countries—including Russia besides the four in the naval blockade—each will pay 16 per cent of the cost, the other 22 countries together sharing the remaining 20 per cent.

The land agents will operate on Spain's French and Portuguese frontiers.

Announcement that the cooperative isolation venture is to start, authoritative quarters predicted, probably will minimize opposition criticism of Great Britain's Bilbao policy.

A Local Situation

Diplomatic sources contended the issue over British protection of her merchant marine against a Spanish insurgent blockade of the besieged Basque capital was clearly a local situation.

Under international law, they argued, the British navy theoretically could escort merchantmen into Bilbao since the Basque government is willing. Even inside Bilbao, they said, Britain would regard an insurgent attack on her shipping as an act of piracy.

But authorized spokesmen expressed belief the British government would see that its merchant marine stayed outside the Spanish three-mile limit.

Cabinet Stands Firm

The cabinet, cheered by the 345 to 130 vote of confidence after last night's stormy debate in the house of commons, stood firm on its policy of refusing to recognize the Franco regime as a belligerent.

As if in answer to laborite and liberal charges of "cowardice" and aiding the insurgents to "starve out women and children," the government sternly warned the insurgents they would be held responsible for any damage to British merchantmen.

Lloyd George Sarcastic

How far Britain was prepared to go in such an eventuality was not disclosed despite the bitterly sarcastic question of former Prime Minister David Lloyd George:

"What do you propose to do—sue Franco?"

The renewed warning to Franco, outgrowth of the determined opposition effort to censure the Stanley Baldwin government for refusing to convoy food ships into insurgent-blockaded Bilbao, indicated Britain still held an apprehensive view of the international dangers in the situation.

First Reports Are Given On Drive

"Going like a house afire," summarized the comments of campaign officials as first and incomplete reports were made at noon today on the annual membership drive for the West Texas Museum association.

Although only five of the 28 captains working in Lubbock had reported at that time to Ray F. Hinchey, secretary-treasurer of the association, they accounted for a total of 72 members. Other captains were asked by Mr. Hinchey and by Dr. W. A. "Bill" Jackson, general chairman of the campaign, to make every effort to report during the day. The reports should be made to Mr. Hinchey at the West Texas Gas company.

"Very encouraging" was Dr. Jackson's comment, who said every indication points to success in reaching desired membership of 1,000.

Editors And Wives Are To Be Entertained Here

Preparations to entertain more than 100 editors and their wives from West Texas and eastern New Mexico were being completed at the chamber of commerce today as result of responses to invitations to attend the Engineering Show at Texas Technological college April 17.

A luncheon at Lubbock hotel at noon Saturday, April 17 and a special showing of exhibits for the editors at 2 p. m. at the show will be highlights of entertainment for the visitors.

Acceptances Received

The several personal invitations which have been sent out, the last being mailed today, have urged that the editors advise the chamber here as soon as possible as to whether they will be able to attend. Approximately 50 acceptances had been received at noon today.

Those who have joined in extending the invitation have been the chamber of commerce, as the civic organization, Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Tech, Cecil Horne, director of journalism and publicity at the college, and Chas. A. Guy, editor and publisher of the Avalanche-Journal.

Staffs Are Included

The invitations have included the staffs of the various newspapers in the entire area.

Other preparations are being made to insure that the newsmen will enjoy their stay. Automobiles will be available for all, while a guide will be assigned to each group of not more than five to escort them through the show.

J. D. Hassell, jr., president of the chamber of commerce, said that the program for the luncheon, at which the chamber will be host, will be completed probably not later than Friday.

ges by Secretary Harold Ickes that steel companies had submitted identical bids on steel needed for PWA projects, including New York's Tri-Borough Bridge.

Former Assistant Attorney General John Dickinson told the House Appropriations committee that "the Supreme court in the steel trust and the International Harvester cases 17 or 18 years ago, laid down rules to the effect that for one concern to follow the price of another concern does not necessarily mean a violation of the law. And there have grown up in a good many of these industries practices which enable one concern to take its cue as to prices from other concerns, without any clear and definite violation of the law unless a good many other factors and circumstances can be established." Cummings has said, in discussing steel bids, that anti-trust laws "certainly need some form of reformation."

The President's public prodding of Cummings indicates there may be something doing soon as to coercive bidding.

Reduces Varicose Or Swollen Veins

Simple Home Treatment Proves It At Small Cost

The world progresses. Today many minor ailments that took weeks to overcome can now be helped much more quickly. If you have varicose veins or bunches start today to bring them back to normal size and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at Mark Halsey Drug store or any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating and only a little is required.

In a short time the veins should begin to grow smaller and by regular use soon approach normal.

People who want to reduce varicose veins of simple swellings should not hesitate to try a bottle at once. It is so penetrating and powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Adv.

Eve's Orchard

Eve—you're beautiful" in his pleasant impersonal artist fashion. . . .

"There are simply thousands of daffodils." Eve said happily. "Isn't it incredible how persistent flowers are? They've just gone on and on blooming maybe a hundred years, for all I know. And oh, Peter, my apple trees are in bud. I was down through the orchard yesterday, and they'll be in full bloom in practically a minute now. I'd forgotten that daffodils could come from anywhere but a basket on the corner, or the florist's if you were extravagant."

"What I admire is the lawn," said Peter proudly. "Mowed by my own hand."

"It was heavenly good of you. And better yet to do the parlor floor. In fact, what with Judge weeding the vegetable bed and you doing mowing and floor-fixing, the place looks like a gentleman's elegant countryseat at least in spots."

"Well, as the neighboring nobility and gentry insisted on spending all their evenings here something had to be done about that floor, Marylin told me," said Marylin's obedient husband.

"They're a comfort!" Eve said. "Think of their giving Adriano orders to lend Uncle Henry anything he needs in the way of garden tools. And finding that wallpaper in their attic for Judge's bedroom."

"Personally I think he was all right in with us; always up quick as a flash when Marylin wanted anything in the night," said Peter placidly. "But the kid's so proud of it it's cute to see him."

"He says he sleeps better." Eve said reluctantly.

"Oh, very likely," said Peter. He grinned, dismissing the subject as unimportant.

Denny, unchanged and joyous, arrives for the weekend, tomorrow.
