Ike Is Greeted In Paris Today

PARIS (UPI)—President Eisenhower arrived in flag-bedecked Paris today to a welcome that was cordial and friendly but short of matching the tumultuous demonstrations that overwhelmed him in London and Bonn.

His companion of World War II, French President Charles de Gaulle, greeted Eisenhower with a warm welcome at Le Bourget airfield when his plane arrived from London.

Eisenhower pledged to concentrate with De Gaulle on the "single goal of peace with justice" for the world and the French President gave him high words of praise.

The two chiefs of state conferred privately for an hour before lunch, with only interpreters present, and planned another session after lunch, listed as "intimate" although 30 persons were present.

Eisenhower came here with his "peace is possible" campaign for the final and perhaps toughest round of talks with the major allies in preparation for his meetings with Russia's Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Tens of thousands of Frenchmen turned out along Eisenhower's route in Paris, cheering and applauding as he drove with De Gaulle into the heart of the city.

The cordiality was evident, even in the strongly Communist neighborhood near the La Villette stockyards, but there were no posters and not too many flags along that section of the route.

Cries of "Voila!" (there he is) and "Ike" greeted Eisenhower.

White-haired Michel Koulechofe, 70, wiped tears from his eyes and cried," There goes the man who won the war for us."

As the motorcade entered the vast Place de la Concorde, Parisians gave Eisenhower a rousing cheer and taxi drivers perched on the roofs of their cabs called to him.

On their arrival at the French Foreign Ministry where the temporary White House was set up, De Gaulle took Eisenhower's arm and escorted him inside as a military band played a march.

The President ended his memorable five-day visit in Britain with a plea that the United States and Britain maintain their close bonds for the sake of world peace.

Replying to de Gaulle's welcome address, Eisenhower at once indicated his determination to seek agreement with the French despite their deep suspicions of his trip and coming meetings with Khrushchev.

Terms De Gaulle Old Friend

"Now we have an opportunity in these troublesome times to talk together and to concert all our efforts to one single goal of peace with justice," said the President.

Eisenhower referred to de Gaulle as his "old friend and colleague" and said he was delighted.

The American President said that in the United States it was said "that for every American, France is a second home and I certainly feel at home in this country."

In his speech of welcome, de Gaulle addressed Eisenhower as the "forever glorious leader of the armies of liberty. You are president of a country which is dear to France above all in the world."

Impressive Official Welcome

The entire French cabinet was with de Gaulle as Eisenhower landed in a warm, brilliant sunshine to give Eisenhower one of the most impressive official welcomes of his tour so far.

Flashing breastplates and plumed helmets of the famous French republic guard lined up on the airfield made a colorful display.

The two presidents gripped each other's hand warmly, exchanged a few words of greeting and then walked the length of a 100 yard carpet which had been rolled out from the plane's gangway.

De Gaulle told Eisenhower, "you are a man, a man of intelligence, a man of heart, a man of honor. Since times are difficult quite naturally France and America must consider each other and understand each other. We shall do so in all friendship for the good of our peoples, for that of nations which serve the same cause as we and for that of the whole world."

FRESH RED WAVE

A fresh wave of Red troops from China, backed up by mule-packed heavy weapons, is advancing toward Red-invaded northeastern India, it has been reported from New Delhi. Red troops from China were reported massing all along India's 1,800-mile Tibetan border, black arrows. The reds also are said to have invaded the Indian protectorate of Bhutan. Dispatches from the border reported "bitter fighting" at the frontier post of Longju, which was believed to have been abandoned to the Reds.

India's Defense Crisis Is Eased

Nehru Tells Parliament Resignation Cuts Tension

By B. A. TIWAI
United Press International

NEW DELHI (UP) — Premier Jawaharlal Nehru told a tense capacity crowd in Parliament today that India's defense crisis had been eased by the withdrawal of Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya's resignation as army chief of staff.

Nehru heaped praise on Defense Minister V. K. Khrishna Menon, making no mention of the fact that he also offered to resign in the crisis touched off by his alleged playing politics with the armed forces.

The Premier also had nothing to say about the nation's other chiefs of staff, Vice Adm. R. D Katari and Air Marshal S. Mukerjee, who handed in their resignation along with Thimayya. It appeared likely, however, that they would follow the general's example and continue in their posts.

Charges Untrue

Nehru said there is no truth to reports that Menon had been allowing favoritism or political factors to influence army promotions.

"I myself have seen the files," he said. "There is no truth to the charge."

Virtually every member of Parliament was present at today's session, and the galleries were packed by diplomats and other visitors.

Thimayya's agreement to continue to serve presumably meant that the crisis had been settled, at least for the time being, although it was still possible that bitterness might erupt again.

Nehru also conferred today with the Dalai Lama, who came here from his refuge in Mussoorie to urge Indian leaders to support his protest to the United Nations over Communist aggression in Tibet.

The premier has already expressed his opposition to a U.N. debate on Tibet, but the huge crowd which turned out to welcome the refugee god-king appeared to indicate wide popular support for his plea.

As the Lama left his special air-conditioned railway car, the crowd surged forward shouting "Long live the Dalai!" "Down with Chinese imperialism!" and "Chinese, get out of Tibet!"

But Threat Continues

Second Major Rubber Walkout Is Averted

United Press International

Labor peace returned to the airlines and rubber industries today, but strikes or the threat of strikes continued to rock the business boat in rocketry, railroads, insurance and steel.

A threatened flight engineers' strike against Pan American World Airways was postponed indefinitely Tuesday night when flight engineers refused to teach classes training "third pilots" in the cockpits.

A second major strike in the rubber industry was averted Tuesday night when the United Rubber Workers Union and Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. signed a contract calling for 10-cent hourly wage increases for 18,000 workers.

But little progress was reported in other labor disputes around the nation:

—Negotiations were to resume today in New York in the nationwide steel strike after a five-day breathing spell. No progress was evident.

Canaveral Workers Idled

—A strike by equipment operators at Cape Canaveral, Fla., idled 800 construction workers engaged in building missile facilities at the major rocket testing site.

The Air Force said the strike, now in its third day, had affected "work on all construction projects at Cape Canaveral," but added that the walkout had not delayed missile launching schedules.

—The chairman of the Western Carriers Conference Committee, a railroad management group, criticized labor leader George E. Leighty for threatening a strike by 850,000 non-operating rail workers.

Theodore Short said Leighty seems "more interested in force than negotiation."

Agents Demonstrate

—Insurance company agents pressed their demands for wage and job security improvements with a sign-waving demonstration at the Prudential Insurance Co. of America headquarters in Newark, N.J.

Union leaders have warned that 10,000 Prudential agents in 34 states may strike Sept. 8 unless the company agrees to a new contract by Saturday.

—Members of the United Steelworkers Union walked out at eight northeastern Ohio steel fabricating plants when negotiators failed to reach agreement before contracts expired.

In Chicago, two meat industry unions and Armour and Co. meatpackers reached a last-minute agreement. Spokesmen said the pact would probably head off a threatened industry-wide strike.

ACCEPTS BUDGET

Commission Ups City Tax Rate

By MARVIN OLSEN
Daily News Staff Writer

At the close Tuesday of one of the longest City Commission meetings on record, the Commission voted to raise the city's tax rate from $1.42 to $1.52.

Meeting from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., the Commission also accepted a proposed budget of $1,332,179 for the 1959-60 fiscal year.

Commissioners discussed at length the budget's many provisions, both during and after Tuesday's public hearing, but in the end decided no changes were necessary.

The hike in the city's tax rate will give the city approximately $39,000 a year more in taxes. The money, as often explained by Mayor Ed Myatt, is badly needed to begin repayment of recent bond issues.

In addition to its budget and tax worries, the Commission Tuesday turned its attention to the requests of numerous residents who have asked the city to oil certain city streets.

It was emphasized by Mayor Myatt that the city has no provisions in its already tight budget for oiling streets. The city will, however, perform oiling work if residents can first procure the oil needed from an area lease.

Railroad Commission District Supervisor Jack Miller, appearing at Tuesday's Commission meeting, said if residents can find some waste oil, the next step will be up to the lease operator. The lease operator must then advise the Railroad Commission if the oil can be lawfully given away.

Certain types of waste oil—such as that used in cleaning tanks, or so-called "tank bottom oil"—cannot be given away without permission from authorities in Austin.

Saltwater accumulations of oil in area slush pits was described by Miller as "perfectly alright" for street oiling projects.

The question of oiling streets was raised by a group of citizens on 18th St. between N. Hobart and Banks. A petition calling for the oiling of 18th St. was signed by 21 residents.

Hotel Work Is Reported On Schedule

The construction of the new community Coronado Inn is on schedule and should be ready for operation around the first of the year, it was announced this morning by Benson Ford, Houston representative of Farnsworth and Chambers, the hotel contractors, at the monthly meeting of the hotel's board of directors.

Ford said that a definite completion date should be announced in about thirty days.

George Scott, chairman of the operations committee, reported to the hotel board of directors that all the hotel's furniture has been purchased and that the barber shop has been leased to Charlie Wilkerson. Mrs. Gladys Scott and Mrs. Jimmy Jones are planning to lease the beauty shop.

The hotel corporation's president, George Cree, Jr., announced that the annual stockholder's meeting will be held at 10 a.m. October 6, in the Cabot auditorium. Eight directors whose terms have expired will be up for re-election.

Floyd Imel, speaking for the Hotel Realty Corporation, said that work had been started on paving the street on the north and to the west of the hotel property. The cost of this project will be $20,063. Imel also told of giving an option to Standard Oil of Texas for 150 feet of frontage on Hobart street immediately south of the bridge crossing Red Deer creek. The purchase price on this property has been set at $27,500.

E. Roy Smith was appointed by the board to head the formation of the private club planned for the hotel and authorization was granted to Ford to order the necessary equipment and furnishings for the club. The board members, as individuals, agreed to underwrite this cost while the club is in the process of formation.

Also present at this morning's meeting were representatives of the American Hotel Corporation, the operator of the hotel. Stu Kimes, who will actually manage the Coronado Inn, made a brief talk on the problems encountered in opening a hotel and gave some suggestions on opening activities. His associate, Bob Walker, was also present.

Okie Liquor Sales Slow

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Oklahoma's liquor cabinets gleamed today with the first legal liquor since statehood in 1907 but early sales were surprisingly slow.

If Oklahomans were partaking with increased gusto in the liquor which became legal to sell only Tuesday, they did not show it. Police in the state's two largest cities, Oklahoma City and Tulsa, remarked that the day was "just as usual, no different." They reported no more than the usual number of drinks.

But it was a day of "firsts" for Oklahomans who had stealthily sought out their bootleggers and purchased their liquor on the sly during more than a half-century of probhition.

NO LONGER DRINKS

Ninety-year-old E. B. Early of Tulsa, Okla., left, inspects some of the first legal liquor to be sold in Jorel Murphy Liquor store in Tulsa, ending 52 years of Sooner prohibition. Early took one of the last legal drinks in an El Reno bar in 1906 just before Oklahoma became a dry state, and wanted to be around when liquor staged a comeback. Early no longer drinks.

Eight Negroes Attend White School In NC

United Press International

Eight Negroes attend white public schools in Durham, N.C., today for the first time.

In other school integration developments, limited integration in Winston-Salem, N.C., was scheduled to begin today for the third consecutive year. As in the case of Tuesday's school openings at Arlington, Va., and High Point, N.C., where Negroes attended previously all-white and predominantly white schools for the first time, no incidents were anticipated.

Several other North Carolina cities opened schools Tuesday to integrated classes without incident.

Other Virginia cities scheduled to hold integrated classes open next Tuesday when most other southern public schools open.

Dozen August Permits Issued

Permits were issued for the construction of 11 new homes and one new business building in Pampa during August, Building Inspector Jess Taylor reported Tuesday.

The permit for a new business building was given to Lewis Tarpley for the erection of a $12,000 structure on N. Hobart St.

A total of 53 permits for building or remodeling were issued by Taylor during August with a total valuation of $276,436.

Since Jan. 1, Taylor said, 208 permits have been approved for the erection of new homes in Pampa, or 26 more than at this time a year ago.

Figures also show there have been 22 permits issued for new business buildings since Jan. 1, and 89 permits for the remodeling of homes.

To date the city has issued 474 permits for building or redecorating, 60 more than over a similar period last year.

The valuation of new construction since Jan. 1 is $4,885,193.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT IS UP BY 205 HERE

Slightly under 5,800 students — 5,757 — enrolled in Pampa schools Monday and Tuesday, Superintendent Knox Kinard reported this morning.

Kinard said that figure will "be up a little" and should exceed 6,000 later in the semester. The enrollment is 205 higher than on this same date in 1958.

The largest increase over a year ago was surprisingly in the city's two junior highs where enrollment climbed by 121 to a total of 1,309. Elementry schools reported an increase of 93 while the Senior High unexpectedly dropped by five to 956.

Enrollment in the city's eight elementary schools totalled 3,299, with B. M. Baker reporting the top figure, 555.

In other elementary schools Wilson had 499 students; Travis, 365; Horace Mann, 473; Lamar, 496; Sam Houston, 439; Stephen F. Austin, 431; Carver, 192. All but some 33 students at Carver are enrolled in elementary classes.

Left to right: Francisco Calerone, 18; Ruben Rivera, 18; Nester Hernandez, 16, and John Maldanedo, 17. Hernandez was booked on a charge of homicide, the others with unlawful assembly. Three other youths were also booked on a charge of homicide.

POLICE OPEN FIRE ON REDS

CALCUTTA, India (UPI) — Beleaguered police units opened fire on Communist-led mobs in this teeming city at least four times Tuesday night, killing at least seven rioters and wounding more than 1,000.

The riots virtually paralyzed Calcutta, and it appeared likely that the army might take over unless order could be quickly restored.

The mobs had driven buses and trolleys off the streets, and thousands of travelers were stranded at the airport and the railway stations because there was no way for them to reach their destinations in the city.

A general strike scheduled Thursday by the Communists and their leftwing allies in a campaign against alleged food shortages appeared likely to make the chaotic conditions worse.

Police Capture Leaders Of Hell's Kitchen Teen-age Gang

By BRUCE AGNEW
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police today captured the alleged leaders of the Hell's Kitchen playground attack early Sunday that left two teen-agers dead and prompted state and city officials to call a series of top-level meetings on this city's rising youth violence.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller asked FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to enter the battle by attending an emergency meeting next week. State and city leaders were preparing for other conferences scheduled Thursday.

The cape-clad "Dracula" and "The Umbrella Man" were arrested early today after fleeing from a police radio car in the East Bronx. With them was a third youth who was not identified.

Denies Killing

Police said Sal. Agron readily admitted: "I'm Dracula, the guy you are looking for."

But the slender youth who in the attack wore a blue cape with red lining and silver buckles on his shoes denied killing either of the victims.

"I cut somebody early Sunday but I didn't kill anybody," police quoted him as saying.

However, a witness was reported to have said "Dracula" boasted he had done the stabbing after the attack in a darkened playground.

Four Charged With Murder

Agron said Tony Hernandez, arrested with him, was "The Umbrella Man," also wanted in connection with the murders. Four other youths already have been charged with murder.

Gov. Rockefeller was to meet Thursday morning with state leaders. That same afternoon, Mayor Robert F. Wagner had a conference schedule with city officials.

The streets already were being patrolled by an extra force of police. Mayor Robert F. Wagner Tuesday backed up Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy's move transferring 1,460 police to juvenile crime duty and indicated he favored tough measures in combatting teen gangs.

Toastmasters Hold Meeting

Joe Pafford served as toastmaster of the evening at the weekly meeting of the Pampa Toastmasters Club Tuesday.

Assigned speakers for the evening were Lloyd Kuntz, Robert McCreless and Otis Petty. All members present were called upon for brief, impromptu talks.

The club, whose chief aim is better speech through practice, meets every Tuesday evening at 6:15 in the Pampa Hotel. Any person interested in improving his speaking is invited to attend these meetings.

Time Ripe For New French Peace Drive

Foreign News Commentary
By ARTHUR HIGBEE
United Press International

PARIS (UPI) — All the political indicators point to a fresh effort by Gen. Charles de Gaulle for peace in Algeria.

Some predict de Gaulle may give Algeria self-government with close ties to France and cast-iron guarantees for the minority of one million Frenchmen in Algeria (a minority often forgotten by those who think immediate, outright independence is the only answer).

De Gaulle, a man who keeps his own counsel, may not go that far.

But the time is ripe for a new peace initiative of some kind—and some previously immovable forces now seem ready to step forward to meet it.

Modifies Public Approach

De Gaulle himself has perceptibly modified his public approach since he took power 15 months ago.

At that time he was referring to Algeria as "French soil, now and forever."

Last fall he indicated that France and Algeria were not one and the same thing: "The future of Algeria . . will be built on a double base — its personality and its close solidarity with metropolitan France."

In taking office as President last January he put it more strongly, speaking of "the Algeria of tomorrow, pacified and transformed, developing herself her personality and closely associated with France."

De Gaulle's prime minister, Michel Debre, seems more uncompromising than his chief.

Rebels Less Stiff-Necked

But slightly more than two weeks ago, in the middle of a characteristically fire-eating speech, he let drop these words: "It is through France and at the side of France that Algeria will find her opportunities and forget her future."

Thus Debre, indicated that Algeria and France are not synonymous — or so politicalty-keen Frenchmen took his words to mean.

The rebels, for their part, have been less stiff-necked of late.

Ferhat Abbas, premier of the Algerian rebel "government in exile," said in an interview with the German weekly "Der Spiegel" that he was ready to negotiate "without posing any prior conditions."

This was a marked change from the one-time rebel insistence that the French must concede Algeria's right to independence before the rebels would talk to them."

These changes of position on both sides may seem minor at first glance. But they are significant, and they came at a time when circumstances pointing to a fresh peace offensive are converging.

Congressmen Dropping Bills With Pre-Adjournment Ardor

THE LIGHTER SIDE
By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Now that it's time to adjourn, not all our lawmakers are so sure they want to quit after all. Once they adjourn, the voters will expect to see them at home.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.) apparently is one member who approaches this prospect without alarm. In fact he has cautioned his hometolks, by clear implication, not to let their enthusiasm at his return get out of hand.

Flowery introductions of congressmen can be dangerous he warned in his latest newsletter. He said a toastmaster introducing Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) recently got carried away, with the result that he identified Dodd as "a man of sterile character."

Reuss said this was distressing not only to Dodd but to his wife and their six children.

Despite the approach of adjournment, members are dropping bills in the congressional hoppers with their usual ardor. Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) has offered one to issue a special stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of William Jennings Bryan.

Douglas doesn't say, but this particular stamp, like Bryan, presumably would take three lickings.

Rep. Alton Lennon (D-N. C.) has just put in a bill to tax as a cigaret anything that purports to be one, whether made out of tobacco or not.

---

Sen. Everett McKinley (R-Ill.), the Senate GOP leader, proposes meantime to clear the air before quitting by installing an extra back page on the Congressional Record, Congress' own daily paper.

Dirksen concedes that two back pages may be difficult to arrange and will settle, he says, for an extra front page instead. Why that would be any easier he didn't explain.

Dirksen's problem is that Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) got unanimous consent the other day—presumably while Dirksen was temporarily off guard—to start using the record's back page each day to print a new table on spending.

The effect of this table so far, Dirksen notes, is to show how stingy the Democrats are as opposed to that big spender, President Eisenhower. As of Monday, Johnson's table purports to establish that the frugal Democratic 86th Congress has saved $696,200,778 of the money the President wanted to spend.

Figures don't lie, of course. But liars figure, and so do Senators. Naturally Dirksen was too polite to put the matter that way, but Senators got the clear impression from his remarks that he didn't concur in Johnson's mathematics.

What he said was that the situation reminded him of the attorney trying a plagiarism case who told the judge, "your honor, my whole case is one of the emphasis and accent." The judge asked him to illustrate.

According to Dirksen the attorney replied, "for instance, in the sentence, 'you, sir, are an ass,' the accent is on 'you.'"

So Dirksen is getting up some of his own spending tables, which he hopes to have printed on a second back (or front) page of the record. The accent and emphasis, he noted, will be somewhat different from Johnson's.

Most southern Democrats voted with house Republicans to put across the Landrum-Griffin labor reform bill, as a substitute for the less stringent Elliott Bill backed by House democratic leaders. Rep. William H. Ayres (R-Ohio) says a Democratic friend of his favored the Elliott Bill now has come up with an alibi for the southern defections.

"They heard the Elliott Bill was pro-union, and they thought that meant anti-Confederate," Ayres said his friend explained.

All sorts of bills are being lost in the adjournment rush, including a measure by Rep. Harland Hagen (D-Calif.) to set up a "simplified fonetic spelling sistem, and make it ofishul."

Maybe next year.

Crime Committed Every Four Minutes In United States

By HELEN THOMAS
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Murder, rape or assault with intent to kill was committed every four minutes in the United States last year, the FBI reported today.

The FBI's statistical crime clock expressed in graphic terms the 9.3 per cent rise in crime last year over 1957.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said an estimated 1,553,922 very serious offenses occurred in 1958 —an increase of 131,637 over 1957.

The figures were reached under a new uniform crime reporting system set up a year ago. They were drawn from the records of police departments representing 97 per cent of the nation's population.

Forcible Rape Leads Way

The FBI used seven major crimes as the basis for measuring the overall 9.3 percent boost. Under the new system, it no longer considers minor larcenies, negligent manslaughter and statutory rape as part of the crime index.

Forcible rape led the way last year with a jump of 13 per cent. Robbery and burglary followed closely with increases of 12.7 per cent and 12.6 per cent respectively.

Larceny over $50 rose 10.3 per cent while the remaining offenses showed a smaller climb, namely: Aggravated assault, up 2.6 per cent; auto theft, 2.2 per cent and murder, 1.9 per cent, the lowest rate of increase.

Juvenile Arrests Rise

The FBI's crime clock also indicated that a major offense was committed every 20.3 seconds last year and a murder occurred ever 64.2 minutes. Forcible rape was committed every 36.1 minutes; robbery every seven minutes.

Each day during 1958, the FBI estimated that 22 people were feloniously slain. Also daily were 40 forcible rapes and 311 other felonious assaults; 1073 larcenies over $50; 742 stolen cars; 206 robberies and 1,862 burglaries.

Of 2,340,004 persons arrested—248,439 of them females — in 1958, slightly over 12 per cent were under the age of 18, almost 20 per cent were under 21 and about 29 per cent were under 25 years of age.

The arrest of juveniles under 18 years of age last year rose 8.1 per cent over 1957, while adult arrests went up 1.8 per cent.

Services Held For Mrs. Day

Services were to be held in the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Carrol B. Ray, pastor, and Dr. W. M. Turner, district missionary from Lubbock, officiating.

Burial was to be in Ochiltree Cemetery under the direction of the Boxwell Brothers Funeral Home of Perryton.

Bragg objected to a policeman's attempt to arrest one of the bar's patrons. The hour-long fight ended when police reinforcements arrived and arrested several persons.

RAINS CAUSE FLOODS

CAIRO (UPI) — Heavy rains sent the upper Nile soaring to flood crest today, causing a virtual state of emergency. An estimated 500 irrigation engineers were recalled from vacation to reinforce teams manning river embankments.

Bishop's Troupe To Present 'Great Divorce' Sunday

The Bishop's Company of Santa Barbara, Calif. will stage a public performance of C. S. Lewis' "The Great Divorce" Sunday in the chancel of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

This religious drama will be presented at 8 p.m. for the benefit of the entire community, according to the Rev. William E. West, rector.

With the actors' touch, Lewis' novel comes alive as professional theatre at its best. Once a year, according to the author, the residents of Hell are invited to become passengers on an excursion bus that will take them to the very borders of Heaven.

The passengers include the cynic who expects mismanagement in either place; the artist who paints for paint's sake; the nagging wife who wants another chance to "make something" out of her husband. On the arrival of the bus, they are met by their counterparts from Heaven and discover once again there can be no marriage between Heaven and Hell, only "the great divorce".

Presented with a skilled cast, "The Great Divorce" is one of the six carefully selected plays in the repertoire of The Bishop's Company, first touring repertory company of its kind in the nation. Currently on its sixth national tour, the Company was founded in 1952 by Phyllis Benbow Beardsley who formulated the idea in 1939.

The group is an independent organization named in honor of Bishop Gerald Kennedy of the Methodist Church. The touring units travel from coast to coast 51 weeks of the year presenting drama in the church at its best.

Featured in administrative capacities, as well as leading actors with the Company, are six of the original members of the Company: Hal Bokar, supervising director and associate producer; Merle Harbach, booking manager; Minna Caldwell, promotion; James Wheaton, promotion; Elizabeth Wolfe, executive secretary; and Phyllis Benbow Beardsley, founder-producer.

Menu For Labor Day Picnic Includes Cranberry Punch

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Let's go to a Labor Day picnic in the back yard, at a nearby park, or out in the country. We've gathered recipes for food and drink, including a bright-colored zippy cranberry juice and tea picnic punch.

SPICED PICNIC PUNCH
(Makes 5 cups)

One cup strong, hot tea, 2 sticks cinnamon, 6 whole cloves, 1 lemon, thinly sliced, ¼ cup sugar, 1 quart cranberry juice cocktail, well chilled.

Add tea, spices, lemon and sugar to hot tea; stir until sugar is dissolved; cool. Discard spices. Combine tea and cranberry juice.

PICNIC MEAT LOAF
(Makes 8 servings)

One egg, slightly beaten, 1½ teaspoons poultry seasoning, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, 1½ pounds ground beef, ½ pound ground veal, ½ cup bread crumbs, 3 bay leaves, 2 strips bacon, pickle relish or chili sauce.

Combine egg, seasonings, meat and crumbs. Pack into 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Arrange bay leaves and bacon on top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until done. Pour off fat, cool and chill loaf. Serve with pickle relish or chili sauce.

SOUR CREAM TOMATO RELISH
(Makes about 1 pint)

One cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon oregano, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tomatoes, cut in chunks.

Mix sour cream and seasonings. Fold in tomatoes until well coated with sour cream mixture. Chill well.

PARTY POTATO SALAD
(Makes 1 pint salad)

One cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon horse-radish, ¼ teaspoon tarragon, 2 cups sliced boiled potatoes.

WOMEN TO INHERIT FASHION TREND FROM TEEN-AGE FAD

By MARY PRIME
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—This fall, women will inherit a major fashion trend from a teen-aged fad—boots.

"Teen-agers actually started the trend when they took up leotards. Girls couldn't get the leotards inside regular shoes, so they got boots. Then they found the boots contributed more than shoes to the completely covered-up look," said Jimmi York, a spokesman for a shoe manufacturer (Saval).

Although teen-agers and college girls accounted for most boot sales last year, the fashion already has taken hold among adults. Women in suburbs have adopted the leotard-boot combination, and city women who dislike galoshes have discovered that boots will save their shoes, yet look fashionable.

Sales On Increase

Women are buying boots all over the country, Miss York said. Boots recently were put into a store display window in Little Rock, Ark. Despite the 95-degree heat, customers were so intrigued that they bought eight straight pairs out of the window.

One reason for the boot boom is construction. Before, boots were heavy and full of fleece or fur. Now, they are light—no heavier than a regular shoe.

Another reason is the trend toward textured stockings and man-tailored clothes. Before these styles, it took "an awful lot of fashion nerve" to wear boots, Miss York said. "You need good legs to wear boots without leotards or something as a balance."

A third reason women have gone on the boot-kick is new styling. Boots are designed for every walk of life—country living, city shopping, theater, restaurants, cocktails. They are cut high or low, are tied, strapped, laced up the back, or just pulled on like a glove, according to the National Shoe Institute. Heels range from flat or slightly raised to wedgies and high, dress heights.

High-Heeled For Town

For town wear, boots are high-heeled with pointed or nipped-off oval toes. Some have cuffs of fur—real or fake—around the ankle.

There are mink and ox-trimmed boots, and some with fake Persian lamb. Others have metallic braid, beads, leather bows, or asymetrical straps across the vamps, fastened with buckles of different shapes.

Boots styled for the country rise to the ankle and are loosely cut, like a castle turret. There also are crushable kinds that swing above the ankle, caught by a drawstring into a ruff; uprising oxfords in solid colors or two tones; and high-riding corduroys decorated with embroidered braid that slims the ankle.

SPARK APPETITES

On a hot, humid day, a picnic is one sure way to pep up summer appetite doldrums. If the family hasn't shown much interest in eating, plan an easy meal to serve outside.

A menu convenient for packing and carrying to a picnic site, whether in the backyard or at a distant park or forest preserve, is this one: Giant Picnic Sandwiches, celery and carrot sticks, assorted fresh fruits, bakery cake and an iced beverage. Ingredients for the Giant Picnic Sandwiches can be wrapped separately for assembling.

A quick way to make sandwiches for a crowd is to buy a long loaf of uncut French bread and cut it in half lengthwise. Arrange the filling of lettuce, cheese, tomatoes and cold cuts on one half of the bread; spread the other half with a thick layer of dressing and place it on top. Slice the big loaf into hand-size, individual sandwiches.

For a delicious, zesty dressing for Giant Picnic Sandwiches, prepare the recipe below. This tangy dressing is made with lemon-lime carbonated beverage. Flavored with the oils of real lemons and limes, this beverage gives a refreshing accent to the easily cooked spread.

Lemon-Lime Dressing

- ⅓ cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 7-ounce bottle lemon-lime carbonated beverage
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup salad oil
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- ¼ cup finely chopped sweet pickles

Mix flour with salt and pepper and stir in lemon-lime carbonated beverage. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches the boiling point. Pour into a bowl and beat with a rotary beater or an electric mixer, adding eggs one at a time. Continue beating and slowly pour in oil. Stir in mustard and pickles. Makes about 2 cups.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After being married for eleven years and bearing five children for my husband, he still says he is "GOING HOME" when he goes to visit his parents.

It is a little town about sixty miles from here and he makes the trip about once a week.

I know it is natural for a man to want to see his parents, but it makes me very angry to hear him say, "I am going HOME."

Don't you think that after eleven years where his wife and children are should be called HOME? This may seem like a small matter to you but it is big to a woman whose husband feels more at home with his mother than with his own wife and children.

SECOND CHOICE

DEAR SECOND: Don't jump to any hasty conclusions. "HOME" to most people is the town they've grown up in. It's simply habit and doesn't indicate that your husband feels more "at home" with his mother than he does with you. Remove that chip from your shoulder.

DEAR ABBY: To "OLD FASHIONED" who wants to know "Where are all those lovely teen-age girls who used to sit with children for the joy of it?" May I say, "When parents start raising children who are a joy to sit with, perhaps teen-agers will again sit for the joy of it."

Yours truly,
FORMER SITTER

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is being married soon and before I announce her engagement I would like some advice. Our town has a habit of putting on huge showers for brides. Four or five women get together and invite everybody in town whether they know the bride or not. In my opinion it is just a racket to collect as many gifts as possible. Then when the wedding and reception list is made up, many of the guests are the same women who have brought a gift to the showers. How can I get it across to my friends that I do not care for this wholesale kind of affair?

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: Inform any friends who offer to give a shower for your daughter that you prefer they do not for the above-mentioned reason, which is as sensible as any could be. People are pretty sick of being soaked at showers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WONDERING:" Of course you should ask how "ALL" the children are. A retarded child's health and progress is particularly important to his parents. Only a very ignorant or thoughtless person would intentionally avoid mentioning the retarded child when inquiring about the family.

For ABBY'S pamphlet, "What Every Teenager Wants to Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to this paper.

... does your water heater GROWL AT YOU?
Old water heaters often get so ornery they do growl at you — and, in the middle of the night, that can shake you up a little. If you have a rumbler at your house, replace it now with a rapid recovery electric water heater — the hottest thing inside and cool as can be outside. Safe, too, with insulation all around and the elements inside. Put it anywhere at all — it has no vents because it has no fumes. No growls nor rumbles, either.

The Case of Jim Weatherall

How about this, White Deer's all-time grid great, Jim Weatherall was the top vote getter with 30 on the sports writers all-time all-Oklahoma football team. A 6-4 and 225 pound tackle during the 1949-51 seasons, Weatherall was traded last year by the Philadelphia Eagles to the Washington Redskins. That's not the beef. This is. Center Jerry Tubbs of the 1955-56 Sooner clubs polled the fewest votes (11) but the Breckenridge Bombshell was tabbed as the Big Red's Outstanding Lineman by nine of his 11 supporters. # Pampa to Use Three Teams

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

Pampa Harvester football coach Babe Curfman announced Tuesday that the Harvesters will use three separate units this year.

"Because of our small size," said Curfman, "we're going to have to use three teams. We'll play each unit from 10 to 15 minutes, then send in another team."

Curfman explained that he would not have an offensive or defensive unit, but that all three units would be trained to go either or both ways. He said that one team would be made up almost entirely of seniors, while the juniors, and perhaps a few sophomores, would be equally divided among the other two squads.

The main thing which prompted Curfman to turn to the "three-platoon" system is the extremely light weight of the Harvester squad. Very few men on this year's team weigh as much as 170, and even fewer top the 180 mark.

Against only one team, Curfman explained, heavier squads could use their manpower to wear down the Harvesters.

The Harvesters had light scrimmage Monday and Tuesday, and after Tuesday's scrimmage, Curfman said that he was "very pleased" with the result.

"We had our three teams running several new plays," Curfman said, "and for a squad running new plays for the first time, they really looked good."

Curfman added that all three quarterbacks — Buddy Rawls, Bobby Stephens, and Ronnie Smith — were throwing the ball well. "But our receiving could have been a little better," he continued.

He also said while the quarterbacks were hitting their passing targets, the defensive teams did a good job of covering the receivers.

Pass defense was one of the biggest weaknesses of the 1958 Harvester squad.

Curfman said that, overall, the squad is getting into much better condition than it was at the start of the year, and that the blocking, tackling, running of plays, and defense is improving.

He had a special word of praise for the sophomores: "About 35 of them are working out," he said, "and they're all looking good. Some of them will be on the varsity when the season opens, and a few may even stick with us all the way through."

The Harvesters have not yet started running their offense against a Wichita Falls type defense, or adapted their defense to Wichita Falls' multiple offense.

"We'll probably start getting our offense adapted to Wichita Falls' defense Monday," said Curfman. "The boys have already had some practice in defending against power plays off the T formation, and Wichita Falls will probably use quite a few of those plays. We haven't used our defense against a single wing yet, though."

The Harvesters open their season against the defending state champion Wichita Falls Coyotes Sept. 11.

This Could Be Panthers' Year

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the eighth in a series of articles on the pre-season prospects of area football teams. This article deals with the Panhandle Panthers of District 2-A.

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

Last year, the Panhandle Panthers were a good, solid ball club which had the misfortune to be in one of the state's toughest class A districts. They finished fifth.

This year, the situation may be different. Clint Williams, Panhandle coach, has six starters back from last year's team — including three all-district men — and Panther fans have a feeling that this may be their year.

Heading the list of returnees are Lealon Adcock, all-district fullback; Roy Bonner, all-district end who is being switched to halfback and A. G. Sullivan, all-district tackle.

Other returning starters are tackle Larry Moore, and J. R. Doughten, and guard Mike Stone. Moore and Doughten, however, started only during the first part of last season.

Other lettermen expected to be in the starting lineup are quarterback Jay Ray Howe, halfback Kenneth Ware, center Bob Medlin; end Billy Van Crawford, and guard Richard Smith. Some of the lettermen saw only limited action last year.

In addition to this all-letterman probable starting lineup, a 12th monogram winner, Butch Haskins, is expected to see quite a bit of action at defensive center.

Williams does not consider his team especially strong in reserve strength. However, he lists five men, besides Haskins, as possibilites for backing up the varsity. They are Eddie Waters, end up from the B team; Ronald Jay, back with B team experience; Kenneth Jay, back with no experience; Mike Smith and Gerald Bentley, freshman linemen.

Adcock is expected to be the mainstay of the backfield, being the fastest runner as well as the most powerful. Howe has had only limited experience at quarterback; and coaches Williams, Joe Spann, and Nolan Poteet do not yet know how good he is.

Bonner and Ware are considered "pretty good backs," but are not outstandingly fast. "We don't have any speed that will compare with White Deer's" Williams said. The Panhandle mentor picks White Deer, along with Canadian, as a top title threat in the district.

Panhandle will have a medium sized line, averaging about 160 pounds. The secondary defense is expected to be just adequate, with Medlin returning at lineside linebacker and Howe at defensive halfback. On offense, the Panthers will be tested in the first game of the season, a home contest Friday against the defending District 1-A champion Gruver Greyhounds.

The Panthers play Childress Sept. 11, Stinnett Sept. 18, and Sunray Sept. 25 before opening district play Oct. 2, by hosting Clarendon.

Fullmer-Webb Fight Slated

TORONTO (UPI) — The National Boxing Assn. today picked Spider Webb of Chicago to face middleweight champion Gene Fullmer for the NBA version of the world title.

Webb's selection was announced during the third day of the four-day NBA annual meeting. The NBA title is not recognized in either Massachusetts or New York state.

Fullmer captured the NBA's share of the world title when he knocked out Carmen Basilio last week in San Francisco.

Fullmer and Basilio both posted a $5,000 guarantee bond whereby the winner was committed to fight a challenger for the title within 90 days.

No date was announced for the Fullmer-Webb fight. Webb was ranked immediately behind Fullmer in the latest NBA ratings.

Tiger, Armstrong To Fight Tonight

CAMDEN, N. J. (UPI) — Dick Tiger, British Empire middleweight champion, aimed to snap fourth-ranked George (Ace) Armstrong's 17-bout winning streak tonight and register the first victory of his own U.S. invasion.

The 30-year-old Tiger, a Bustling battler inside in contrast to must British boxers, hoped to cash in on the ring rustiness of his Elizabeth, N.J., opponent in their 10-round, nationally-televised bout. Armstrong, 27, has been idle more than six months—since victories over Eddie Dixon and Italo Scortichini.

Tiger, who hails from Amaigbo, Nigeria, met Rory Calhoun twice since invading these shores in quest of purses and a chance to boost his 33-8-2 log. He drew and then lost a close decision to Calhoun.

Bowling League To Meet Tonight

The Garden Lanes Women's League will meet tonight at the Southwestern Public Service Building at 7:30 p.m. All members and any bowlers interested in a 9 p.m. league are invited to attend.

LINKS CONTENDER — Malcolm Douglass is expected to be one of Pampa's top contenders in the Top O' Texas golf tournament, which begins Saturday after qualifying rounds Friday. Douglass was a semi-finalist in this year's city tournament.

MARV OLSEN

Golfers generally are beginning to do some silent praying for rain before Friday, the day some 50 or more qualifiers tee off for the start of the Top O' Texas golf tourney.

The Country Club layout is being steadily nursed along to a peak condition by Mr. Warren and assistants, but rain is the vital element needed at the moment.

We noticed this morning that Jacksboro's Don Massengale led sectional qualifiers in Dallas Tuesday for spots in the National Amateur. Massengale, who is expected here today or tomorrow, chalked up a 143 total.

Amarillo's young John Farquhar, who may play the TOT, gained another coveted spot in the Amateur with a 150 total.

As most golfers are aware, Friday marks the start of action in the important Top O' Texas tourney. Taking the field will be at least 50 (possibly more) golfers who will be trying for spots in championship flight.

Thirty-two men will make up championship flight. Those failing to qualify will automatically be placed in the flights on the basis of their established handicaps.

The tourney proper begins Saturday and ends Monday. The tournament entrance fee is $12.50, which could entitle the golfer to four days of play and a crack at some $2,800 in merchandise and trophies.

Pairings for all flights will be announced at the buffet dinner which begins Friday night at 7:30. Tournament Chairman Thurmon Fain said that the cost of the dinner is included in entrance fees, but wives, girl friends and youngsters of the golfers will have to buy tickets.

Turning for the moment from the Top O' Texas, we were informed by Herschel Wilks last night that play on the new Celanese course probably will not begin until next June.

Wilks said that greens will be planted this month and will be carefully tended over the winter months.

Incidently, already some 100 Celanese workers have paid their $15 initiation fees at the Celanese course. The monthly cost to members of playing the nine-hole course is only $5.

The entire 90-acre layout was more or less donated to Celanese workers by the company and plans are in the making to work out a long-term lease on the land at no less than $1 a year.

Three Contenders Hit by 'Spoilers'

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Take it from the White Sox, Dodgers and Braves — a "spoiler" is a pennant contender's worst enemy in September.

The true "spoiler" almost always is a fellow who'll have to pay his way into the World Series in October but is happy to spoil the party for the contenders. And, more often than not, he's a pretty ordinary performer except where his favorite opponent is involved.

Jim Bunning of the Tigers, Larry Jackson of the Cardinals and Don Cardwell of the Phillies all pretty much fit that description today—much to the chagrin of the contending White Sox, Dodgers and Braves.

Bunning, rocking along on a so-so season, extended his career mastery over the White Sox to 10-2 Tuesday night when his three-hitter gave the Tigers a 4-0 win over the American League leaders. The loss snapped the White Sox' five-game winning streak and sliced their lead over the idle second-place Cleveland Indians to five games.

Jackson, a ".500-pitcher" since he joined the Cardinals in 1955 and struggling to beat that mark all this season, raised his career mark against the Dodgers to 12-5 with a two-hitter that gave St. Louis a 3-0 win. The defeat dropped the Dodgers 1½ games behind the idle first-place San Francisco Giants and to within two games of the fourth-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

Killebrew Clubs 39th

Cardwell, a 23-year-old right-hander had won one game up to July 1 but has been knocking off contenders—with happy abandon ever since. He's won a mere nine games this season—and seven of them have been against the four top contenders. He picked on the Braves Tuesday night pitching a six-hitter and hitting a two-run ninth-inning homer for the Phillies' 5-3 victory.

Harmon Killebrew hit his 39th homer as the Washington Senators downed the Boston Red Sox, 7-4, and Whitey Ford and Ryne Duren combined in a seven-hitter as the New York Yankees whipped the Baltimore Orioles, 5-0, in other games.

Harvey Kuenn hit a double and three singles to raise his average to .356 and lead Detroit's 12-hit attack on 14-game winner Bob Shaw. Bunning, meanwhile, walked two batters in the first inning but did not allow a White Sox runner to reach second as he struck out eight the rest of the way. It was his first shutout of the season.

Jackson's second shutout of the year ended Johnny Podres' four-game winning streak and prevented the Dodgers from moving to within a half game of the Giants. Ken Boyer, who stretched his hitting streak to 20 games, and Alex Grammas homered for the Cardinals.

Cardwell Homers Off Buhl

Cardwell, who had made only one single in 44 previous at-bats, homered off Bob Buhl in the ninth to hand the Braves their fifth loss in eight games. The Phillies had taken the lead with three runs in the sixth inning but Joe Adcock homered in the bottom of the frame to tie the score.

Killebrew tied Cleveland's Rocky Colavito for the American League home run lead and also completed the circuit of homering in every park with a 380-foot clout off Boston's Al Schroll. The Senators clinched the decision in the eighth when Billy Consolo singled home one run and Roy Sievers doubled home two more.

The Yankees sent Ford off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning with a salvo of five singles and a sacrifice fly against 20-year old Jerry Walker. The little lefty, who won his 14th game, was lifted in favor of Duren when the first two Baltimore batters singled in the seventh.

Hambletonian Slated Today

DE QUOIN, Ill. (UPI) — Rain or shine, Diller Hanover is favored to outdo his daddy today and give a 55-year-old native Illinois driver his first Hambletonian win and a record-breaking purse.

Heavy rains early today had the Du Quoin State Fair's one-mile oval "gooey" but it was in fairly good shape by the end of the day.

It could be fast by post-time today, observers said. The forecast is for occasional rain today with the temperature in the 70's.

Regardless of the condition of the track, the Hall Stables entry from Watertown, N.Y., is expected to remain the heavy favorite.

Gregory Collapses; Many Don't Report For SWC Practice

United Press International

Injuries and "no shows" made the biggest news on the opening day of fall football practice around Southwest Conference grid camps.

Most noteworthy injury was the as-yet unexplained collapse of Southern Methodist's talented halfback, Glynn Gregory, while the biggest name among the absentees was that of sophomore speedster Bert Coan at Texas Christian.

Three top-graded sophomores also failed to report at Texas A&M — end James Street of Nederland, guard Mickey Walker of Port Arthur and tackle Bill Vincent of Morgan City, La.

Gregory collapsed while running signals after about an hour's practice yesterday, but thorough examinations failed to disclose any reason for the fadeout. His heart and lungs tested normal, but he was running a slight fever.

Team physician Dr. K. E. Morgan said that the flashy Abilene youngster may have been ill with the fever before starting the work-out and the heat and exertion brought on the collapse.

DAYS OF IRON MEN AND WOODEN SHIPS—Workmen put new planking on the oak ribbing of the 162-year-old Constellation, the first commissioned warship of the U.S. Navy and sister ship of the famed Constitution. When the work at Baltimore, Md., is completed, the frigate, like the Constitution, will be a floating museum of early naval history. Originally called into play against the Barbary pirates, the Constellation destroyed 28 enemy ships during her long career which began Sept. 7, 1797. Contributions from many sources saved her from the scrap heap.

Safety Bill May Open Season For Gadgeteers, Foreign Cars

Last week the House of Representatives, over my vigorous protest, passed a bill requiring the Secretary of Commerce to prescribe safety devices to be placed on all government-purchased passenger vehicles. This legislation was widely advertised as a "Safety Bill". I am sure many people were misled by this questionable title and did not fully realize the serious import of the measure. There has been great alarm, and properly so, in this country over the fact that 40 thousand people lose their lives on our highways each year, many people receive injuries and much property is destroyed.

However, this most grave problem is not going to be settled by the passage of a bill which could very well be the forerunner of complete government control as to the design of an autmobile — both body structure and motor capacity — and required accessories and devices. The bill which passed applied only to government - purchased vehicles, but it was openly admitted in the debate that it was intended as the opening wedge to subsequenly include all automobiles under the supervision of the Secretary of Commerce.

Those of us who have wrestled with this problem for the past several years are well aware that unsuccessful attempts have been made in the past to obtain the passage of legislation subjecting all automobiles, government and otherwise, to requirements set up by a Board or Bureau here in Washington. When these attempts failed, the proponents of that theory simply changed their approach and decided to obtain passage of a bill applying only to government automobiles. This would enable them to get their foot in the door so the law could be expanded later to include all cars.

The reason more deaths have not occurred on the highways and more accidents and more loss of property, is because the autmobile manufacturers have constantly maintained a research program seeking and developing safety measures and devices for passenger cars. It was private enterprise that developed door locks which prevented the door from flying open on impact, deep dish steering wheels to lessen injuries to a driver in the event of collision, padded cowling and dashboards to soften the blow to the passenger in case of accidents, to name a few.

The engineering of the automobile, itself, has been the result of wide research in the safety field to make a safer car for the people to travel in. This is a subject on which many reams could be written. Had it not been for the great advancements made by the automobile industry in these areas, the death toll on our highways may very well have been doubled or tripled. As the matter now stands, only a very small percentage of the accidents are caused by defects in the machine or the highways. The overwhelming percentage of accidents is the result of human error. Until these are corrected, we can expect to continue to have accidnets and the resultant tragedies therefrom.

These human errors can only be corrected by proper education, proper observation of the traffic laws, uniformity in the traffic laws of the states, and by courtesy on the part of vehicle drivers. The death toll and the incidental losses cannot be cured by putting the automobile manufacturers under the edicts of bureaucrats in Washington. To follow such a policy would be an imposition on the American taxpayer and could cause some serious damage to the economy. It is estimated that if all government cars were required to be equipped with substantially all the devices contemplated, regardless of where the car was to be used, the additional cost would average in the vicinity of seven hundred dollars each.

Since the government maintains a fleet of passenger automobiles of approximately 225 thousand, you can see how much more it would cost to require heaters and snow tires to be placed on cars operated in Miami, Florida, while cars in Alaska could be required to have not only the heater and the tires, but also an air conditioning system. If the bureaucrat decided that everyone should have a seat belt, whether he wanted it or not, all government cars would be so equipped.

One fellow observed that he didn't like seat belts because they were too uncomfortable to sit on. It might also be added that an electronic device to dim the lights of other cars would be installed on all government cars even though many are never used at night. In other words, it would be open season for the gadgeteers to sell the American taxpayer a lot of gimmicks.

Economically, it could mean the beginning of a greater demand for foreign cars, not manufactured in this country. There has been considerable alarm about the tremendous increase in the imports of these foreign-made cars. Automobiles in this country are already too high priced, and to add more to that price would be an invitation for people to start buying the cheaper foreign-made models.

One Member was heard to observe that the next thing we know, rural mail carriers will be driving foreign-made cars, and some bureaucrat in Washington will require all of the farmers to shorten the posts supporting their mail boxes so the mail carriers will not have too much difficulty in delivering the letters from their low-slung automobiles.

Business Views

United Press International

The possibility of a nation-wide rail tieup loomed today in the wake of a demand by 11 non-operating railroad unions for a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase plus fringe benefits. Labor contracts in the industry are due to expire Nov. 1. However, under the Railway Labor Act, an actual strike would not begin for about three months after a strike call.

Manufacturers inventories in July rose to a seasonally-adjusted $53,200,000,000 despite the steel strike, the Commerce Department reported. This was a gain of $100 million over June, although earlier month-to-month increases had been running between $400 million and $500 million.

The price of copper was lifted from 30 cents a pound to 33 cents a pound by American Metal Climax, the only major U.S. custom smelter still strike-free. American Metal reached a union contract without a strike.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber has reached a contract agreement with the United Rubber Workers that may set a pattern in negotiations between the union and other rubber firms. The pact provides for a 10-cent-an-hour pay increase for 24,000 workers at 11 plants.

NOBODY KNOWS HOW ASPIRIN OPERATES

SCIENCE TODAY
By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — An astonishing fact about aspirin is that no one knows precisely how it works its wonders in relieving pain, reducing fever, and lessening rheumatic symptoms and other body inflammations.

This fact emerged from a thorough search into everything chemical and medical science does know about aspirin and its chemical relatives, a fund of information that is increasing at a tremendous rate.

Yet the key knowledge of just how aspirin brings about changes in the human body eludes science.

Take its ability to relieve pain. Science assumes that somehow this is related to the amounts of acetylsalicylic acid (which is aspirin) that get into the brain.

Aspirin Rapidly Absorbed

It gets to the brain by way of the blood stream, and it gets into the blood by way of the stomach and the small intestine. Of all drugs, aspirin is one of the most rapidly absorbed. It is absorbed intact and the peak level in the blood is reached within one to two hours.

Within three hours, the aspirin has been decomposed by the addition of the watery substances of the blood. This is the time that the pain-relief lasts. It seems mostly likely that body level and brain level are related.

"But no one has yet shown what levels in the brain correspond to effective analgesia (pain-relief)," reported the aspirin researchers. "Until this has been accomplished we shall probably not know the mode of analgesic action and may be not even then."

Among Safest Medicines

The researchers were employed House and reported to the tech-by the Pfizer Pharmaceutical House and reported to the technical periodical, "pfizer spectrum." They searched through mountains of scientific literature.

Another question they found unanswered was how aspirin helps the body to lose excessive heat by selectivity enlarging surface blood vessels. It works only when body temperature is abnormally high. If body temperature is normal, aspirin doesn't affect it.

Aspirin poisoning is common. But this is not surprising when you remember that Americans swallow 20 billion aspirins every year. This works out to more than 100 for each man, woman and child. In view of this enormous consumption, "it is among the safest of all medicines," the report said.

Three British Labor Leaders In Moscow

Foreign News Commentary
By WILLIAM J. FOX
United Press International

Labor party leaders in Moscow: Three of Britain's Labor Party leaders are in Moscow for talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in what a number of observers see as an answer to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's "peace mission" last February. The trip is thought to be labor's own effort to make some political hay in the forthcoming general elections. But the train of events set off by Macmillan has brought President Eisenhower to Europe and will bring Khrushchev to the United States in September —both notable advances in the world search for peace. And observers feel that the labor delegation — comprised of opposition leader Hugh Gaitskell, fiery Aneurin Bevan and Sir Dennis Heeley — will have to go far to beat the advantage racked up by Macmillan in that Moscow visit.

German tug-of-war: High sources in Jakarta say that the East Germans have been stepping up their efforts to gain full diplomatic recognition from Indonesia. But the West Germans, using the threat of economic pressures, have been holding it off thus far. The sources say the West German government at Bonn has warned the Indonesian government flatly that it would bring to bear pocket-book pressures.

Capital punishment in Colombia: The continuing rash of deaths from banditry in Colombia has caused some soul-searching on the part of the people about imposition of the death penalty. Like a good many Latins, Colombians have little use for capital punishment. But the continuing toll of killings by outlaws has brought considerable thought to the idea of adopting the death penalty for banditry and pillage. There is no death penalty in Colombia now.

Formosa Strait quiet: Diplomatic quarters in Nationalist China do not expect the Red Chinese to stir up any major trouble in the Formosa Strait this year. They expect the Communists to continue their light and sporadic shelling of the offshore Quemoy Islands. And they expect a continuation of clashes such as that of last week between Nationalist and Communist patrol craft in the straight. But they do not expect another serious attempt against Quemoy because last year's assault caused unfavorable reaction among the neutrals of Southeast Asia whom the Reds had hoped to influence. Instead, diplomats believe Red pressure this year will be concentrated against Laos, a remote and mountainous jungle land which the United States has pledged to help.

Fringe Benefits

It isn't often that we have much joy in reading pronouncements made by any union leader. In the main these utterances are self-serving of union goals and destructive of harmony in the management-employe field.

All the more reason why we should rejoice when something of honest merit comes from the pen of a labor boss. And in this instance we are about to bestow an accolade on the brow of one Thomas E. McDonald, business manager of the Cleveland, Ohio, Building and Construction Trades Council. Mr. McDonald's statement appeared first in the Partner's Magazine of April of this year.

"We have reached a point in our economy where it behooves both labor and management to do everything within their combined power to effect economies in our industry. We in the labor end of this partnership cannot continue to take from the industry without putting our fair share into it. . .

"In many instances our members seem to think that any time is starting time after 8 a.m., and quitting time is any time before 4:30 p.m. Anything exceeding a half hour is an acceptable lunch period, when our agreement calls for one-half hour for lunch time. Coffee breaks, something which is not provided for in our agreements, are merely a matter of a 'job condition,' and therefore of no concern to an employer.

"Let's take a good hard look at this 'coffee break' gimmick and see how it can kite the costs of job. Assume a house is being built and it requires 100 days for all the work required to complete the job. Let us also assume that for the 100 days, the job employed an average of six workers, starting with the excavators and ending with the decorators. By current wage scales it would also be safe to assume the average hourly rate to be $3.80 per hour. Now if each of these workers took a 15-minute coffee break each morning, the cost to the buyer would be $5.70 per day or $570 for the construction of the house. Some of our members will no doubt take the position that anyone who can afford to buy a house can well afford the luxury of our members' coffee break. Nothing can be further from the truth.

"We have yet to bear in mind that most home buyers need a mortgage to buy a home, and that somewhere along the line at least a part of this $570 becomes a part of that mortgage. It means that they are paying interest on all or a part of this 'luxury' for anywhere from 15 to 25 years, depending upon the length of time required to amortize the mortgage. Now all we need to do is add on another 15 minutes that we cheated at starting or quitting time, another 5, 10, or 15 minutes at lunch time, and you can readily see how our indifference to our responsibility increases building costs."

This makes most encouraging reading. It is high time that labor bosses awoke to the fact that these so-called "fringe" benefits are costly in the extreme. Sure, it's delightful to be able to loaf thru a day. But business has to sweat and strain to make a profit. And if there are no profits there will, in short order, be no jobs.

We hope union members will take this message for the good, sound sense it is.

Orval Watt's Law

Gresham's law, in economics, relates to an interesting phenomenon. Ever since the middle of the 19th century, observers had discovered that the worst type of currency in circulation in a given nation had the tendency of regulating the whole currency and of driving out the better currencies. Thus, Gresham's law is frequently stated as: "The worst currency in circulation always drives out of circulation the better currencies."

It has taken the passage of something close to 100 years and the emergence of Dr. V. Orval Watts, a modern economists of the libertarian school, to provide us with a clearer understanding of Gresham's law as well as another law in relation to circulating currencies. We are going to call this second law, Orval Watts' Law.

According to Watts, Gresham's law applies ONLY to currencies which are legalized and sanctioned by government. In a nation wherein the free market provides currencies none of which had been dubbed "legal tender," the reverse would be true; namely, that the best currency would drive out currencies of lesser value. Therefore, we will sum up Orval Watts' Law as follows: "When a nation is free and when the free market provides its own currencies, the best currency will drive out all other currencies."

Let us examine this postulate.

When a government issues a legal fiat that several types of currency are all equally "legal tender" or "lawful money," it will follow that Gresham is correct. As an example of the working of this law we have only to observe the present situation in the money market.

Today we have a considerable amount of silver still in circulation although gold has been made illegal as a medium of exchange. Silver dollars, half-dollars and other coins are "legal" and can be employed to pay all bills including taxes.

However, the government has caused great mountains of paper to be printed which paper has been legalized. The paper is not nearly as good as the silver. And, since both the paper and the silver have an equal legal status we see people all over the nation holding on to their silver dollars and circulating paper. Thus, the worst type of currency has largely driven out the better and more reliable forms.

But let us imagine a situation such as the one which existed in this nation from approximately 1790 to 1860. During this period, New England private banks were printing their own currencies. So were a number of other private banks. So good was the currency from the New England banks, as well as from a few other banks, that these private repositories and banking houses had secured nation-wide and even world-wide circulation and acceptance.

Currencies from these banks were sought after wherever trade occurred. And if other private banks got into the business of issuing their own currencies, unless these other banks were able to demonstrate an equal amount of reliability and conservativism it was likely that people would be unwilling to deal in these currencies, preferring the tried and tested currencies of the New England (and a few other) banks.

It appears that where freedom of choice exists in the market place, the receiver of currency will examine the nature of the currency he receives. He will resist acceptance of currencies with which he is unfamiliar or with which he associates unreliability. Thus, such currencies will have to be discounted and will lose value. The more reliable and better currencies will be in demand by both buyer and seller since a choice exists for both.

Thus, when freedom operates in the money markets, the better currencies will always drive out the worse media of exchange.

This should give us further room for thought. When a government compels by law the acceptance of certain currencies, people tend to retain whatever they fancy to be the best currency. They will seek to pass on currencies which they do not value as highly.

Too many people in our own time consider that the issuance of currency and the coining of money are and must be the exclusive function of a government.

As a matter of history, private currencies have usually been better and have been in wide circulation long before governments ever got into the money business. And even when government currencies and private currencies are both in circulation, provided only that government does not compel acceptance of its own currencies Orval Watts' law of currencies will still prevail.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES.

A Useless Survey

Labor Secretary Mitchell said: "The government will make a special survey of the construction, mining and metal working industries to get a picture of the unemployment resulting from the 41-day-old steel strike."

It is hard to conceive how any government survey will be worth anything. In the first place the survey will be made by people who believe in special privilege, who do not believe in the Declaration of Independence that all men have certain inalienable rights that they derive from the Creator and not from government. Of course there'll be unemployment when we have laws that permit one group of men to do things that would be criminal and subject to a fine and imprisonment if done by other groups of men. And yet we talk about a free government when we have such laws as this.

Unemployment Warning Of Sins

Unemployment is just a natural warning that we have been acting in a way that violates the last Table of the Commandments. It is too bad we have to learn that if we give some men the power to interfere with other people's equal rights; that they will, of course, abuse this power; that laws that give men the power to exploit others attract those who do not want to live by the sweat of their own brows but want to confuse their neighbors so that they can continue to have domination over their fellowmen.

The question is, how much unemployment, how much suffering, how much misery must we endure, and how low must our standard of living become, before we begin to realize that any law, any practice, any belief that is not universal and does not apply to everybody can only produce a lower standard of living, unhappiness, misery and suffering.

It is foolish to make a survey and still continue to believe that we should retain a law like the Clayton Amendment that exempts farmers and labor unions from anti-trust regulations, thereby giving them the legal right to interfere with men freely exchanging goods and services.

It is a common law in England that it is un-brotherly, arrogant, unjust and unfair for two employers to agree between each other that they will not employ a certain worker. And it is just as arrogant and unfair and unethical for two or a million workers to agree that they will not trade with a certain individual or exchange their services with a certain individual. They, of course, have a right, as individuals, to refuse to exchange, but they have no ethical, just or fair right to enter into a conspiracy or a collusion to keep another man from having the right to exchange the products of his labor with the world's highest bidder. The reason this is so important is, that if men did not exchange goods and services, most men would perish. Or if they survived, they would be just like beasts.

And these laws are made on the erroneous belief that they will help those who need help — the improvident. But instead of helping them, we take away from them their right to use the talents they have and cause them to be unemployed. And there is nothing more pathetic than to have a law that interferes with the slow and inexperienced worker using what talents he has and enjoying the pleasure that comes from accomplishment. It is establishing a caste system. It is completely contrary to the very concept of the Last Table of the Decalogue and to the Declaration of Independence.

It is useless to think that any law that Congress passes that does not make all people equal before the law as they are before God will solve the employer-employe problem. It will only confuse and confound the public as to the real cause of unemployment — namely, class legislation that gives working men the right to combine, and the laws that give the bankers the right to accept a man's deposits and agree to pay it back to him on demand and permit the same bank to lend this money for a period of time to a third party and rediscount this paper with the Federal Reserve Bank to protect the bank when it gets caught in a form of stealing.

Yes, it is useless to have the government make a study of unemployment because it will only muddy up the water and make it more difficult for people to have a natural society in harmony with the last Table of the Decalogue and the Declaration of Independence. To do so is a denial that the sins will find you out, that men can pick figs from thistles, and that whatever a man sows, that shall he also reap.

Strikes and unemployment are results of violating these eternal natural laws that no man made and which no man can un-make.

WILL MRS. KHRUSHCHEV VISIT U.S.?—DECISION HINGES ON MAMIE'S

WASHINGTON — The State Department is having an awkward time trying to unravel an unexpected hitch in the exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev.

This embarrassing dilemma involves their wives.

Mrs. Khrushchev is ready and eager to accompany her husband to the U.S., but only if Mrs. Eisenhower does the same when the President goes to Russia.

That's the quid pro quo dictim laid down by Mr. K.

But so far, Mrs. Eisenhower has not made up her mind about traveling to Russia.

For two reasons: Her mother's failing health, and the strenuousness of the contemplated trip. The First Lady feels it might be too much for her, and thus prove an added strain on the President.

Result — stalemate between the State Department and the Kremlin.

That's the real reason for those Moscow reports that it's still uncertain whether Mrs. Khrushchev will come to the U.S. Actually, she wants to do so very much. But her husband's blunt terms are a return visit by Mamie.

Ambassador Menshikov has made this frankly clear to Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy in discussing arrangements for the two trips.

Senate Foreign Relations Committeemen have been told the Soviet envoy "stressed" Mrs. Khrushchev's desire to accompany her husband, but added that "natutally" this would not be "advisable" unless Mrs. Eisenhower comes with the President.

Vice President and Mrs. Nixon are urging her to do that.

Both speak cordially about Mrs. Khrushchev. Mrs. Nixon describes her as "a kind and intelligent hostess" and as "speaking quite good English and knowing considerable about our country."

Mrs. Eisenhower has asked the State Department to convey her personal cordial invitation to Mrs. Khrushchev.

But as yet that isn't satisfying Mr. K.

HOPE HE'S RIGHT — William Boswell, head of the State Department's Office of Security, is confident "Premier Khrushchev can visit this country with a feeling of absolute security." That's what Boswell has advised Senator William Fulbright (D., Ark.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. In a special memorandum, he has been assured that "all the necessary precautions" have been taken for this . . . To date the Secret Service has received about a dozen letters deemed sufficiently threatening regarding Khrushchev to warrant investigation. No arrests have yet been made.

Assistant Secretary of State Foy Kohler was the source of those press reports that Dr. Milton Eisenhower brought back a secret Khrushchev proposal for a solution of the Berlin issue. According to the account Kohler gave newsmen, Khrushchev communicated this plan to the President's brother at a private discussion. That is flatly denied by aides of Vice President Nixon. They emphatically assert Khrushchev made this proposal to both Nixon and Milton Eisenhower at the same conference.

SIGNIFICANT MOVE — The Air Force is being authorized to establish four more ATLAS missile squadrons.

That will make a total of 12 of these 5,000-mile ICBM units.

There will also be one so-called "training" squadron at Vandenberg Base, Calif. Each squadron will have 10 of the intercontinental ballistic missiles armed with nuclear warheads.

The first two squadrons will become operational in the U.S. this fall.

Defense Secretary McElroy has issued the unannounced directive increasing the number of ATLAS squadrons to 12. He did this after it was approved at a meeting of the National Security Council, presided over by President Eisenhower.

IN AND OUT — Senate eyebrows are being raised over a curious aspect of the recent appointment of Major General David Shoup, Medal of Honor winner, as new Commandant of the Marine Corps. The term given him by the President is for only two years, while the law states specifically it is four years. What if anything will be done about this remains to be seen . . . The first "force out" of Navy captains will not be as steep as estimated. The inside word is the number will be around 275 instead of more than 300 . . . Neither the Air Force nor the Navy has yet got an answer to the question of whether their Surgeon Generals will be elevated to three-star rank as the President did with the Army's new Surgeon General — Lieutenant General Leonard Heaton, who operated on the President. Until he gave Heaton a third star, all Surgeon Generals have been two-star officers. Whether this additional rank will also be given the Air Force and the Navy Surgeon Generals is unknown.

The Doctor Says

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

There is probably nothing so bound with tradition and prejudice as the care of babies. Anyone and everyone offers free advice on how the baby should be fed, clothed and how it should be trained.

Most of this advice is worth what is paid for it — exactly nothing. It is given with the best intentions, but usually comes from a strange mixture of what grandmother did, or what somebody's neighbor or aunt said.

A few years ago, the late Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich and Mrs. Aldrich wrote a book called "Babies are Human Beings" which I hope is still in print. The main theme is that babies should not be treated alike, because their individual personalities would have little chance to develop.

As the Aldriches' point out, babies are different even at birth. In a hospital nursery for newborns, a great difference between one baby and another in appearance and behavior can be noticed. Every mother instinctively recognizes that her baby is "different."

One question which the Aldriches discuss is about fondling or loving babies. Conscientious mothers often ask whether fondling is proper. For some reason they sometimes feel that it may be wrong for babies to be rocked, hugged or mothered, and that the infant in order to be healthy must be raised as practically "untouched by human hands."

It is not good, of course, for a baby to have excessive fondling by friend and relatives. Like everything else, this matter can be overdone, as more people who come in close contract with the baby there is a greater chance of giving the infant some infection. To feel that a mother and father should not give the infant physical affection, however, is to inflict unintended cruelty.

Everyone thrives on some affection and probably infants most of all. Of course, it is good to fondle babies — good for the baby and good for the parents. This does not mean bouncing a baby around roughly or exposing it unnecessarily to colds or other infections.

Two principles should govern: treat a baby as you would like to be treated if you were young and helpless; and remember that signs of affection are appreciated even before a child can talk. The rewards of proper handling in infancy will be reaped when the child gets older.

Foreign Policy, Every American's Business

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

COPENHAGEN — Foreign policy is every American's business even though relations with foreign governments are the official business of the national government.

Therefore, while Eisenhower and Khrushchev and, nowadays, Nixon, are smiling, sparring, bantering, the journalism of the United States has a duty to correct many absolutely false beliefs among our people about the Russian mystery.

Thus: The Russian Revolution of 1917 was not a popular revolt but the collapse of a rickety old machine under the prolonged strains of war aggravated by treachery and implacable hatred inside and outside the country. Lenin and Trotsky were absolute strangers to the Russian people. The ignorance of those people and their inability to communicate thoughts among themselves made it impossible for them to raise any popular heroes known to them.

As the case stands today, Trotsky is eternally damned as a traitorous counter-revolutionist for a mere disagreement and rivalry with Lenin. Trotsky wanted to sweep the world with Communism. Lenin wanted to wait until he could consolidate the dictatorship over millions of miscellaneous, heterogeneous, illiterate clods in the homeland.

That homeland stretched into far places where no member of the Czar's family or court ever had set foot; into the Arctic Circle and to a point within 40 miles of American Alaska. There were wandering tribes no closer akin to the "pure" Russians of Moscow and St. Petersburg than a mammal to an amoeba — not necessarily enemies but absolute strangers.

Lenin and Trotsky presumed to enfold those millions within a system of slavery and massacre, by famine and deportation of populations, as well as by sword and gun. Lenin sent Trotsky to a prison camp in Siberia where, in 1944, Vice President Henry Wallace was the guest of General Goglidze, the butcher boss of the Soviet Secret Police and found him a charming gentleman. Trotsky escaped to Mexico but his following among Communists, especially in the United States, was so strong that the Kremlin sent an assassin almost half way across the world to brain him with an axe.

Now Lenin is a demigod in an atheistic regime, and the name of Trotsky is a horrible expression. Since Wallace's pilgrimage Goglidze, too, has been put to death by the new regime which seized power after Stalin died.

Harrison E. Salisbury, of the New York Times, wrote during a personal tour of this monster's domain in 1954 that General Lavrenti P. Beria, Goglidze's boss, also was executed. Eisenhower's friend, Marshal Zhukov, the hero of the Russian war with Hitler has been exiled.

J. B. Matthews, once a fellow traveler, gives a graphic description of a scene in which he says Felix Frankfurter assured a small group of his disciples in New York that Roosevelt soon would recognize Moscow. And Frankfurter, of course, not only introduced Alger Hiss and many like him into strong positions in the American government but testified that Hiss was a man of good character. Eleanor Roosevelt indignantly wrote that nobody who knew Hiss (as she did) could believe he was guilty.

The many separate Soviet "Republics" created and dissolved at will by Lenin, Trotsky and their successors down through Khrushchev, have been simply arbitrary geographical areas. Most of them embraced ethnic groups but, as Salisbury and other authorities have written, many were just wiped out by decree without even formal publication. And literally millions of human beings living in such areas were deported, to strange lands with little or no attention to family integrity. Hitler's deportations were petty by comparison and the sacrifice of life by Hitler's deportations and his concentration camps even taken at the worst estimate still is relatively very small.

I took pains to meet and form an estimate of Salisbury in Moscow during Vice President Nixon's visit. He is a calm, resolute, factual reporter capable of great courage alone in the most ominous conditions. He said he believed the vast slave area in which Stalin and now Khrushchev used human work-animals to build an empire was no longer the prison that it was when he went there in 1951. But many old prisoners, on being told that they were free to go home, have preferred to stay on in Siberia.

They had no homes back home, relatives were dead or scattered and the remainder of life could be no better "back home" than in areas which by years of life there had come to represent "home" to them.

Moscow has been the center of power since a little after the 1917 Revolutions. Racism, a term which Communists pronounce with loathing in the United States as concerns "Little Rock," is the rule of marriage and cultural conduct all over the empire. Slant-eyed people keep to themselves even as units in the army, where "integration" does not commingle Uzbek Herdsmen with Russian Slavs.

The Ukrainians were of German stock and sympathy. They hated the sluggish, dumb Slavs. It is a heritage of hundreds of years. That was why Russian generals conspired with Hitler's government to deliver the Ukraine to Germany.

Salisbury wrote that Stalin dissolved the Volga German Republic and drove 500,000 such farmers and city people to Central Asia where he came on some of them years later.

When Caucasian slave tribes seemed friendly to Hitler's armies close to Baku, they were herded eastward. They saw no reason to prefer oppression by Moscow to oppression by Berlin. Anyway, the Germans were more efficient.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK—THE IMPULSIVE MEANDER: You are sitting at home on a brick terrace facing a hot and flat, leaden and heavy Long Island Sound, a stretch of water on which one sailboat moves lethargically and seemingly against its will, and the telephone rings and Arthur is calling from Houston to say that although it is as hot there as "sixteen boar rats under a wooden box" you might like to fly down and visit for a few days. . You turn to your bride and ask her what she thinks and she thinks, as always, straight and true: "Let's."

So you check with your young and find them in a monolithic frame of mind: no Texas just now . . You arrange to have them make a visit to Maryland, send them off laden and pleased, book seats on a Houston-bound plane and inside a few hours are lancing across the blue, cloud-flecked skies of summertime, U. S. A. . . Inside what seems no time at all, you are in Houston and Arthur, who will not countenance use of his full name in public print, meets you at the airport in a station wagon in which an efficient and willing air-conditioner is humming...He has left it running while awaiting your landing and you step into its cool, relaxing interior . . He laces away from the airport, skirts his city on one of those long, looping beltways which are one of the prides of Houston, and before long you are at his country place, a haven of cool with tall trees swaying quietly in what gentle breeze exists . . You have passed in the murky distance the hotel Connie Hilton has taken over from an oil gambler of formidable color and adventure, and you tell Arthur of the night hot as this you and your brood walked into it in rumpled, stained clothes after 400 miles of hot driving, and caused about as much consternation in the lobby as though bankrupt Gypsies had just invaded the place. . . Arthur tells you he has an addition to the story: his aunt, an austere lady of impeccable dress whatever the temperature, was in the same elevator at the same time and was stunned when she learned this tattered, stained tribe was headed for the Presidential Suite . . She told him later that the least we could have done was to engage a motel room for a few hours, shower, change into fresh clothes and then enter the Shamrock Hilton . . "Four hundred miles of heat driving is no excuse," she had told him. . . You tell Arthur she is exactly right and you wish you had thought of it because to this day your girls shudder when they think of that worse than untidy entrance we all made.

Arthur has an open table barbecue waiting, plus frosted pitchers of beer, iced tea and iced coffee, and you sit down with eight of his Texas friends, finding as is customary that they are warm of heart, free of spirit, ladies and gentlemen with whom it is a pleasure to dine and talk . . Later, in a light made by a half a moon and the electric lamps set in the pool walls, you swim, talk, gossip and idle, achieving utterly nothing cosmic in the way of philosophy but finding yourself, toward 2 a.m., pleasantly drowsy and tired . . You sleep in a room crisp as an ice-house and when you wake it is noon, with the sun outside like a blowtorch. . . You and Arthur have an iced breakfast in a tiled haven, only the black, black coffee being hot. . He says only driving necessity need take you out into the sun and you do nothing all day but finish Moss Hart's compulsive book, read the newspapers, note the passing of Admiral Halsey, find only mild interest in the jockeying between Mr. Nixon and Mr. Rockefeller but feel that excitement will rise as next summer rolls around to convention time, discuss superficial facets of the steel strike, express a hope that de Gaulle will learn to become flexible and, that midnight board your plane back to New York.

THE GREAT POKER GAME

(Omaha World-Herald)

Before the great contest begins, let's take a look at the two principals.

First, Nikita Khrushchev.

He is the absolute boss of his country. Not only of its government and its armed forces, but also its political party, its industry, its arts and its press. He and his bureaucracy will decide what his people shall be told about his meeting with the American President, and even what they shall think about it.

He can make any promise he may care to, on behalf of the Soviets, and he can keep or break that promise as he may choose. It seems likely that he will continue in power so long as he lives, or until some younger Caesar upsets him.

And next, Dwight Eisenhower.

His only personal power derives from his role as Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces. In that role he could perhaps make certain commitments — concerning, for example, military bases overseas. But under the Constitution he has no power to enter into inter-national agreements (treaties) except with the advice and consent of the Senate.

He has no right whatever to edit the news, or to tell his people what to say or what to think.

He cannot pledge any foreign spending out of the public treasury, for in that field, after all, the Congress still has some voice.

And such power as Dwight Eisenhower does possess will terminate in 17 months, a fact which is as well known in Moscow as in Washington.

In such circumstances, Dear Reader, who do you suppose will be able to play the stronger game of poker?

The Russian, who can make any bet he wants to, and run any bluff, without saying by-your-leave to anybody?

Or the American, who, on almost any turn of the cards, will be obliged to say: "I'll have to ask the Congress?"

It is this basic inequality which long has caused many Americans to oppose any and all "summit" meetings.

The Almanac

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 2, the 245th day of the year, with 120 more days in 1959.

The moon is new.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this date in history:

In 1666, the great fire of London started and raged on for four more days.

In 1789, Congress established the Department of the Treasury.

In 1864, Civil War General William Sherman began his famous "March to the Sea."

In 1901, the "big stick" became the trademark of Vice President Theodore Roosevelt.

In 1930, two French aviators completed the first non-stop flight from Europe to the United States. Their plane was called "The Question Mark."

In 1945, the Japanese signed the terms of unconditional surrender aboard the U.S. battleship Missouri in Tokyo Bay.

In 1947, nineteen American nations signed the Treaty of Rio de Janeiro, agreeing to mutual aid in the case of armed aggression.

Thought for today: Former President Harry Truman said: "We shall not forget Pearl Harbor. The Japanese will not forget the U.S.S. Missouri."

Seymour Cruises Highways For Shots of Accident Scenes

By EVERETT R. IRWIN
United Press International

CRYSTAL LAKE, Ill. (UPI)—A man on a disagreeable mission will mingle with holiday-bent motorists over the Labor Day weekend.

James Seymour, 41, an upholsterer by trade but a traffic safety crusader at heart, will go out searching for Slaughter on the highways.

If he finds it, he will record it on film in the hope that his graphic movies in color will "jolt Americans into waking up".

"We've got to teach people what's going on on our highways," Seymour said as he hammered tacks into a chair in his shop.

40,000 Deaths Predicted

"Forty thousand people, more or less, are going to be killed on the highways this year. But that doesn't start to tell the story.

Affects Entire Family

"When a man's dead, he's dead. But when he or members of his family are crippled for life, there is untold misery, torture and financial hardship. It goes on for months or years and affects all the family."

Seymour's mother-in-law was killed in a traffic accident 19 years ago and he couldn't get it out of his mind, he said. Six years ago he began his crusade of cruising the highways on holidays and weekends, watching for a chance to take grim shots of accident scenes.

His car is equipped with cameras ready to shoot through the windshield as he approaches a smashed up automobile. He has two police radio receivers in his car, three in his shop.

"When I get wind of an accident, I'm on my way," he said. "If I'm in my shop, I don't even take time to lock up. Often I get to the scene before the police and ambulances arrive."

Roved 175,000 Miles

Since 1953, he's roved over 175,000 miles of highways, seen twisted metal and human bodies at 700 accident sites, counted 135 "fatals" and "more thousands of injured persons than I care to remember."

Seymour said he's shot more than 60,000 feet of 16 millimeter movie film, out of which he got "8,000 good feet of accident film".

His on-the-spot film was made into a movie, "Slaughter on the Highways," which has been viewed by an estimated 75,000 persons from Canada to Florida.

For some of the 300 or more showings, Seymour has received a small fee. Often, he said, he hasn't made expenses.

"Financially, I take a royal beating," he said. "I spend part of what I make in the upholstery business to keep my picture-taking going."

Weekend Typical

The Labor Day weekend, for Seymour, will be typical of his holiday weekends for several years.

"I'll start scouting around Friday night and pull in about m. Saturday," he said. "I' out again all day Sunday, pa Sunday night, again on Mon

How does he feel about t pictures of people who are or agonizingly injured?

"I just pray, and concen on my footage," he said. many people try to help well-meaning but poorly p first aid that should be lef police and ambulance attend

"I go on doing a job — t to take pictures that will home the slaughter on the ways."

MARINE MARAUDER
