Manitou, Okla., Storm Leaves Death And Suffering In Wake

FREAKISH WIND KILLS ONE AND INJURES FOUR

Negro Farm Tenants Are Left Maimed by Gale In Small Area

VICTIMS BLOWN AWAY

Crop and Property Losses Mount High After Disturbance

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., June 15.—Deaths resulting from the terrific wind, hail and rainstorm which swept two acres in this section of southwestern Oklahoma Thursday night and Friday morning totalled three this evening after two negro men had been drowned near Hobart in a stream swelled to overflowing by the heavy rains.

A negro man was killed during the storm near Manitou last night when his house was blown away. A negro man was critically injured in the Manitou storm.

Total damage to crops and property in the Manitou storm was estimated at approximately $250,000, about $20,000 of which was in the fields. In the Manitou area the small grain loss was placed at 60 per cent. Near Hollister the crop damage was put at 50 per cent.

Special to The Record News.

MANITOU, Okla., June 15.—A windstorm which swept a comparatively small area in this section last night and early this morning left in its wake a toll of one death, four persons injured and damages which will run high into thousands of dollars. Though not classed as a "twister" the storm was credited with a number of freakish incidents which usually are included in the results of a twister.

Forrest Simmons, negro, was killed and the four injured persons were negroes, two of them children. The fatal victim was carried approximately one-half mile by the force of the wind after his small house, located on the Ross Adams farm, had been wrecked. His wife was also blown a half mile and when found was suffering with a broken hip and arm and one eye had been put out, presumably by some object hurled through space by the gale.

Children Blown Away

Two children of the same negro family were hurtled about one-fourth mile by the wind and when found one of them had lost an eye and one leg had been broken. The other child was discovered less seriously injured near an earthen tank on the O. P. Swarts farm, the waning force of the wind having left her only a few feet from death by drowning.

Another negro man who lives on the Horace Adams farm was found in a desperate condition under a banister on a bridge a quarter of a mile from his home. Both of his hips were broken and he had suffered during the night with only the bridge banister to protect him from the wrath of the wind, rain and hail.

The T. H. Greer residence here was wrecked by the wind but the lives of members of the family were saved when they took refuge in a storm cellar. Inspection today revealed that furniture in the house was little damaged and the kitchen cabinet appeared wholly unhurt with even the glass doors intact.

The McClung Hardware company warehouse was unroofed by the wind and a majority of the windows on the north side of houses were pelted out by the hail. The J. F. Hill barber shop and the Brandon grocery were badly damaged.

The barn and house on the Don Williams farm six miles northwest of here, were destroyed, but the family was saved by staying in a cellar.

W. B. Dunn's barn, five miles southwest of here, was unroofed. A vacant house in the north part of town was partly blown away.

BACK TO NATURE

BOSTON, June 15.—Ice company trucks call daily to serve tourists who are "roughing it" in Boston's camp for motorists.

IN SUNDAY'S TIMES AND RECORD NEWS

the Agriculture and Industrial Section will be of unusual interest. It will give a good comprehensive review of the Wichita Irrigated Valley, and of the Industries of Wichita Falls and vicinity. It will contain many features.

The chamber of commerce is going to mail copies to prospective settlers of the Wichita Valley. Perhaps, you too, may know of someone who might be interested in the irrigated lands of the Wichita Valley; if so, you can secure copies from the office of the Times-Record News.

Writes New Serial For Record News

Ruth Dewey Groves, author of the "Marya and Mom" letters which appear daily in leading papers throughout the county, is the author of The Record News' next serial, "When a Girl Loves," which begins Thursday, June 21. This romance of a New York society girl and a Greenwich Village artist marks the high point in the author's notable career as a writer of highly successful serials. When she writes of Greenwich Village, Ruth Dewey Groves' writing is especially true to life because that art colony has been her home for a number of years.

Enid Nurse, Once Blamed for Murder Charged With Shooting Attorney

Mary Atkinson and Amarillo Nurse Held in Wounding Of Man at Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 15. (AP)—Charges of shooting with intent to kill were filed here today against Mary Atkinson, Enid nurse, and Ruby Renfro, a nurse of Amarillo, Texas, in connection with the wounding Wednesday of Walter Showalter, Oklahoma City attorney.

Showalter, who represented Miss Atkinson in a libel suit against a local newspaper, had requested Miss Atkinson to drop the suit Wednesday. He attributed the shooting to enmity which he said this aroused. His wound was not considered dangerous.

Miss Renfro has admitted firing the shot, which struck the attorney in the back of the left shoulder.

G. O. Renfro, of Woodbine, Texas, Miss Renfro's father, and G. A. Renfro of Amarillo, her brother arrived today to aid her. They conferred with her attorney.

Miss Atkinson was charged with murder in connection with the poisoning of Mary Jane Bailey, daughter of the Rev. Charles Bailey of Enid, but was freed at her preliminary hearing.

Miss Renfro has been her close friend. Both have been employed in Texas hospitals.

Rough Weather May Delay Mexican Fliers

DETROIT, June 15. (AP)—Indications of rough flying weather contained in reports from United States weather bureau officials made it doubtful tonight if Frits Vleier and Joaquin Pacheco, Mexico City aviators, would take off tomorrow from Walker field, near Windsor, Ont., on their projected non-stop flight to the Mexican capital.

Physician Indicted In Arkansas Poisoning

CORNING, Ark., June 15. (UP)—Charged with administering poison to Gilbert Hay, causing his death in May, 1926, Dr. S. P. Blackwood, Corning physician, was indicted on a charge of first degree murder. The state contends Dr. Blackwood held a policy for $5000 on Hay's life and the poison administered to collect the insurance.

Naval Plane Sets New Record For Flying Altitude

PHILADELPHIA, June 15. (AP)—Commander Weyerbacher of the Philadelphia naval aircraft factory announced that the seaplane 12-A-7383 carrying a useful load of 2000 kilograms (approximately 4400 pounds) had broken the world's altitude record by ascending more than 12,000 feet. The flight was made today at the Philadelphia navy yard.

Convention Reporters Bound for Houston

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 15. (UP)—A special train carrying 150 newspaper correspondents who have been reporting the Republican national convention, left here tonight for Dallas, Texas, en route to Houston and the Democratic national convention.

The correspondents will be guests of the city of Dallas and will continue the trip to Houston Monday.

Seven Parachute Jumpers Make Successful Landing

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 15. (UP)—Leaping from seven planes simultaneously here today, seven parachute jumpers reached the ground safely. The experiment, conducted at Brooks field, demonstrated the possibility of dropping a number of grenadiers or machine gun men behind the lines of a disorganized enemy.

Al Smith Orders Police Protection For His Bitterest Foe

ALBANY, N. Y., June 15. (UP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith today ordered "the protection of the state police of New York" for United States Senator Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama, when the latter speaks here Sunday afternoon.

The Alabaman—belligerent foe of Smith's presidential campaign and sworn enemy of Romanism—is to address a "Protestant rally" outside the city limits.

Smith issued an order to Major John A. Warner, superintendent of state police, to see that Heflin and his meeting "are fully protected and that all who desire to hear him shall be enabled to do so without interference. I ask the people of New York to co-operate with the governor in offering to the senator of a sister state full opportunity to say anything he desires without interruption or discourtesy."

ROMANCE FOR BOB ANTHONY NEARS CLOSE

Russian "Savior" of Olga, Princess, Given Term In Prison

WOMEN INTERESTED

Feminine Trial Fans Sigh Sadly as Sentence Is Pronounced

By WILLIAM P. GAINES

AUSTIN, Texas, June 15. — Romance will be barred out of the life of Romano Trotzky, known in Wichita Falls as Dr. Bob Anthony, for one year and one day. That was the pronouncement of Judge Duval West in federal district court when the self-styled rescuer of Olga, eldest daughter of Czar Nicholas of Russia, pleaded guilty to a charge of violation of the national motor vehicle act.

It will be barred out unless romance learns to snicker at the locksmiths of Leavenworth, Kan. The unlicensed Russian physician, known here as Dr. Nicholas Romano Trotzky, will be confined in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, and wherever he has been before, romance has followed in some guise.

Women Sigh

There were women in the courtroom Wednesday morning when the dashing fellow stood before the bar. There were sighs as they observed his sartorial perfection, his nonchalance and his good looks. There were handkerchiefs in action when sentence was pronounced. Dr. Trotzky, since his arrival in Austin last January, has become quite a personage, and here, as elsewhere, women became interested.

A year and a day? He twirled his small, marcelled-looking moustache a moment. He smiled. One more adventure in the offing. Perhaps a bit drab. But life can't always be a merry chase. He is planning a novel. He has plenty of light and color for it. A few shadows won't hurt.

The indictment returned by the federal grand jury set forth that Trotzky transported a stolen automobile from Ponca City, Okla., to Shreveport, La., last December, and from the latter city to Austin in January. It was a sporty Cadillac phaeton.

A second count in the indictment, setting forth that he brought the car from Ponca City to Austin—omitting Shreveport on technical grounds—was dismissed.

Witnesses Brought

J. W. Donahue, owner of the car, was called here from Ponca City by the government. Jack Hoge was brought from Tulsa as another witness. There was no need for them to testify.

Officers prepared to lead Trotzky back to Travis county jail, to await transportation to Leavenworth next week. One ring of a pair of handcuffs was fastened about his right wrist. He held the wrist high: "See, what a becoming bracelet," he commented. He loves dangling things; tinseled things. He has in his possession a Russian Cossack uniform, which he values highly.

Skill Is Praised

When Trotzky came to Austin, he persuaded city officials to let him work in the city hospital clinic until he could take out a license to practice medicine in Texas. Physicians remarked upon his skill as a surgeon. When his references were investigated, it was found that they were bogus and incidentally, the fact that he was wanted on an embezzlement charge in Shreveport was developed. Austin police began an investigation, and learned that he was wanted in a number of other cities for offenses of a minor nature.

Trotzky was not able to make bond of $5000 set by the U. S. commissioner here. During his confinement in Travis county jail, he saved the life of a fellow prisoner who slashed his throat with a crude knife fashioned from the handle of a tin cup. In the spring he was removed to Seton Infirmary, to stand an operation for appendicitis. He refused a general anaesthetic, watching the surgeons work and directing them at times.

Was An Enigma

Romano Trotzky is perhaps the most unusual prisoner to be confined in a Travis county jail in recent years. He has at all times been an enigma to officers of the law. The true story of this man, who claims such a stormy past in Russia and relationship to the departed dictator, Leon Trotzky, may never be known, unless he finds the quiet life at Leavenworth conducive to the writing of his promised memoirs.

TROTZKY WELL KNOWN HERE

Romano Trotzky, sentenced in Austin to a year and a day in the federal penitentiary, was well known in Wichita Falls as Dr. Bob Anthony. He made many acquaintances while here, and received the aid and support of many Wichita Falls residents, including professional men who accepted him as a physician. He left Wichita Falls without notice several weeks prior to his arrest in Austin on the federal charge.

HEAP BIG MAN

Kaw Indians Jubilant At Senaotr Curtis' Victory

KAW CITY, Okla., June 15. (AP) Triumphant, but masking their joy with habitual stoicism, the Kaw Indian tribe today learned that one of its number, Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas had been nominated for vice president by the national Republican convention.

Tribesmen were discussing plans for such feasting and dancing as greeted in other years victories of the braves.

WATERS REACH SPILLWAY'S TOP

Lake Overflow Expected Early Saturday

Lake Wichita was full to overflowing at an early hour Saturday morning, and was expected to push on over the spillway across Archer City road south of the Lake Wichita pavilion at any minute.

The rise had continued gradually all day Friday and the running over was expected when reports were received that Lake Kemp had risen an inch and a half the night before.

As the day wore on, hundreds of motorists drove out to see the water, but if they expected it to be going over the spillway they were disappointed. What they did see was a vast sea of water, covering many more acres than usual, stretched beneath a partly cloudy sky. It was fanned by a good breeze at all times, at others it carried waves of considerable size.

The spillway may be seen by going out either the Holliday or the Grant street roads, and is a short distance south of where they join at the Lake Wichita amusement park.

Waters going over the spillway of Lake Wichita will follow the old bed of Holliday creek, which is both the inlet and outlet of the lake. Lake Wichita originally was made by damming Holliday creek.

Dr. A. H. Douglass, superintendent of the water system of Wichita Falls, said Friday that with water flowing over the spillway will do little or no damage as the water drains into Holliday creek. In case of a more sudden rise or a heavy rise, it is considered easily possible that the banks of Holliday creek would be overflowed, especially in the vicinity of Twenty-eighth and Thirty-first streets along Holliday street.

Rainfall totaling 1.14 inches in Wichita Falls Thursday night and Friday morning were instrumental in the last rise of the lake. It brought the total precipitation for the month to 5.18 inches. In this respect, June is holding to its record of being the banner rain month of the year.

Railway dispatchers Friday reported heavy rains all along their lines, and a considerable part of this drainage is being felt here. There was no rain along the lines Friday night, but clouds were reported overhead in a great portion of the territory.

Cattle Improvement Noted By Statistician

AUSTIN, Texas, June 15. (AP)—A happy outlook for Texas stockmen was seen today by H. H. Schultz, federal statistician, in his regular livestock report issued here.

The condition of ranges, he declared, is "nine points" better than that of a month ago and "three points" better than a year ago.

Oil Worker May Die From Accident Injuries

FORT STOCKTON, Texas, June 15. (AP)—Jim Nixon, 36, employe of an oil company, probably was fatally injured here today in a machinery break, both jaws being broken and his face badly mashed.

COUNTY DEMO LISTS CLOSE AT MIDNIGHT

Executive Committee To Meet Monday To Certify Names

65 FILE PETITIONS

Candidates Have Last Chance Today To Enter Primary

A meeting of the county Democratic executive committee for certification of the names of candidates for county office in the Democratic primaries has been called by E. C. DeMontel, chairman for Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

In addition to approving a list of candidates for county office, the committee will assess the candidates for their part of the expense in the primary at Monday's meeting.

Women Seek Office

Sixty-five persons had filed application for a place on the ballot Friday night, with one more day for the late comers to place their names with Mr. DeMontel. Applications placed in the mails prior to midnight Saturday will be accepted by Mr. DeMontel, it is understood.

Among the 65 candidates seeking office in Wichita county, the names of only two women appear. One, Miss Elizabeth Hall, running for re-election as county clerk, is unopposed. The other, Mrs. W. W. Gardner, seeks the office of county treasurer. A third woman, Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk is asking for re-election to a district office.

The most sought after office in Wichita county this year is that of county tax assessor. The present incumbent, Arthur C. Howard, has announced for tax collector, oppos-

Railroads Plead For Reduced Cotton Rates

AUSTIN, Texas, June 15. (AP)—Citing growing motor truck competition as justification, three railway lines today presented to the railroad commission requests for permission to lower cotton freight rates on shipments to Corpus Christi from points within a 100-mile radius.

The commission took the case under advisement, along with several others and adjourned one day behind schedule.

Ambulance Carries Senior to Commencement

FRANKFORT, Ind., June 15. (AP) W. L. Kulham of Avon Lake, Ohio, left by ambulance today for his commencement exercises at the University of Illinois.

Kulham, who was being treated in a hospital here following an automobile accident, insisted upon being present to receive his diploma, and an ambulance was necessary to get him there.

Notables to Go On Fishing Expedition

PORT ARANSAS, Texas, June 15. (AP)—L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri-Pacific railway; Harry B. Hawes and seven other United States senators, will arrive here June 20 for a tarpon fishing expedition.

Alleged Traffic Violators Total 16

Sixteen persons posted bonds from $2 to $3 Friday in the city police department's drive against violators of Wichita Falls' traffic laws.

The charges ranged from running over a fire hose to blocking the streets.

Hoover's Mate

Broad, big, genial, jovial, sincere. Thus has Senator Charles E. Curtis of Kansas, Republican nominee for vice-president, been described. In the convention yesterday, Curtis' opposition literally melted away, giving him a clear field when the balloting started. Republicans see their chances enhanced in the nomination of this Mid-Westerner, a champion of the farmers.

CURTIS CALLED JOLLY FELLOW

"My Old Pal" Often Refers To V-P Nominee

By DAMON RUNYON
Universal Service

CONVENTION HALL, KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 15.—A man who has so often been spoken of as "my dear old friend," and "my old pal," by his boosters, that you finally get a mixed idea of him as an all around jolly good fellow, is Herbert Hoover's running mate.

He is Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas. They call him "Charley" around here. He was nominated for the vice presidency by the Republicans this afternoon without opposition, a lot of other favorite sons, statesmen, and what-not being named, and immediately afterwards withdrawn.

When it came down to the formal voting, Curtis was all alone.

Makes Brief Speech

He disclosed himself to the convention in the flesh and made a brief speech of thanks, his physical appearance being that of a pleasant looking, rather chunky chap, and a twinkle in his eyes.

He was originally a candidate for the presidency and the subject of a lot of noise from the western delegates and the galleryites last night, but his nomination passed off today without much fluster. The Republican convention of 1928 soon afterwards adjourned "without day," and the delegates made a bolt for the railroad stations, wondering if their powerful efforts have discommoded the Democrats who meet at Houston.

The high light of the session today seemed to be not so much the nomination of Curtis, but the appearance before the convention in person of Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, the proprietor of this meeting.

Possibly Mr. Mellon's admirers

KANSAN GIVEN LANDSLIDE AS RUNNING MATE

Vice Presidential Voting Ends Convention At Kansas City

OTHERS QUIT RACE

Mid-West Senator Given Clear Field For Nomination

By PAUL F. HAUPERT
Associated Press Staff Writer.

KANSAS CITY, June 15. (AP)—With its campaign destinies entrusted to nominees for president and vice-president who have solid records of accomplishment behind them, the Republican party will enter the battle of 1928, planning largely to rest on deeds.

Such is the interpretation placed on the selection today of Curtis of Kansas as the running mate of Herbert Hoover. Neither is credited with extraordinary powers of oratory or platform magnetism which could be relied upon to bring out votes in doubtful states.

Porch Campaign.

So far as Mr. Hoover is concerned, it is likely to be pretty much of a "front porch" campaign. He does not care much for stumping, and the brunt of platform campaigning undoubtedly will fall on Curtis. Both, and particularly Hoover, are expected to make extensive use of the radio, which in recent years has revolutionized political campaign methods.

Lines on which the Republicans will conduct their fight this year will not be determined until after Hoover and Curtis have had an opportunity to map out strategy with party leaders, a campaign director has been chosen, and the Democrats at Houston have named their ticket.

It is certain, however that the Republican presidential nominee, after a series of conferences in Washington with party leaders, will journey across the continent early next month to his Palo Alto, Calif., home. There he formally will be notified of his nomination by a committee to be headed by Senator Moses of New Hampshire, and this occasion will afford him an opportunity to discuss the campaign.

Takes Vacation

Notification of Curtis will take place at Topeka, his home town, with Senator Fess of Ohio at the head of the official committee.

It is Mr. Hoover's present intention to spend a month or more in the west, campaigning but little, and then to return to the east or some point in the middle west to establish his base for the remainder of the campaign. If main headquarters of the Republicans are established in Chicago, as some leaders are urging, it is not improbable that he might operate from some country estate near that city delivering only a limited number of campaign speeches at strategic points.

As for Curtis, although he rarely makes an extended speech in the senate, he is known as a vigorous campaigner on the stump; is the home state of Kansas. He makes an old fashioned political speech.

KANSAS CITY, June 15.—Herbert Hoover of California for president; Charles Curtis of Kansas for vice president.

That was made the Republican ticket today when the convention unanimously chose the Republican leader of the senate as the running mate for the secretary of commerce.

500 Homeless in Flood Along Arkansas River

NEWPORT, Ark., June 15. (AP)—With more than half a million acres of lowlands along the White river and its tributaries already inundated, Newport was virtually isolated today, and a fight was waged on levees to protect four towns from flood waters.

Heavy rains along the White, Cache, Black, St. Francis and Little Red rivers had forced streams to flood proportions and driven more than 500 families from their homes.

Will Rogers Calls Sen. Charley Curtis' Victory Low Pay

It's Boulder Dam, Not Plymouth Rock, in Need of Prayer

By WILL ROGERS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 15.—Wow! She is all over. Hoover and Curtis. What have I been telling you for days about Curtis? I knew he was a cinch for that.

The Republican party owed him something. But I didn't think they would be so low down as to pay him that way.

He used to be floor walker of the Republican party on the senate floor. Now he will be time keeper.

Everybody at the convention who wanted the job themselves voted for Curtis. So that means he got 1100 votes.

He and Hoover were both nominated last night. Hoover early in the evening in the convention and Curtis later at the hotel.

Borah nominated him with a speech, the shortest, best and most sensible of the entire convention. Most of these men don't nominate candidates, they just handicap 'em.

Whoever nominated Jim Watson should be made to learn it, then repeat it to himself before each meal as long as he lives and then we wouldn't be even with him. Even Jim didn't deserve such a speech.

Another preacher prayed this morning and had to read his prayer. There hasn't been a one that could make an impromptu prayer.

This one was a Methodist, and he wanted us to "look to the hills for wisdom" and here we went and nominated Charley Curtis from the plains of Kansas where a five-foot ash heap would constitute a precipice.

This preacher prayed for Plymouth Rock. Lord, its Boulder dam we are after now. There is no appropriation goes with Plymouth Rock.

This guy McNabb nominated Hoover in two minutes last night with a splendid speech. Then came an ovation of 20 minutes. To show you how good this first little speech was it took him almost an hour to spoil. He was afflicted from what Williams Jennings Bryan once told me about a speaker at the last Republican convention.

"He is suffering from a premature climax."

If McNabb had quit, it would have been the greatest speech the Californian ever uttered.

I hate to say it, but the women that spoke were all terrible. Well they were pretty near as bad as the men and that will give you an idea how bad they were. Charley Curtis' daughter was modest and beautiful.

The prominent Republicans of the great state of Georgia certainly did themselves proud at this convention. They couldn't answer roll call without taking a census of the delegation.

Well we are on to Houston, Kansas City did a mighty fine job of entertaining and caring for everybody. But so will Houston.

STORM TAKES TOLL OF LIFE

Oklahoma Gale Exacts Heavy Damage

Big Red river, principal stream in the county, is overflowing and trains are runing behind schedule because of damaged roadways.

Among the pranks played by the storm was one on the Swartz farm. The wind, which howled out of the northwest, removed an automobile from a garage and then whipepd the door closed as though the act had been performed by human hands.

In Manitou, Ray Harmon's car was blown from his yard into a creek a short distance away and today was all but covered by the raging torrent in the stream.

Houses Unroofed

Many houses were wholly or partially unroofed by the terrific hail which accomplished the wind in some localities.

Cotton and corn which had reached a height of several inches were practically ruined. It is too late to replant the corn and a shortage of cottonseed is feared which would prevent replanting of that crop in the devastated spots.

Livestock losses were also reported. Two fine mules were killed on the G. C. Swartz farm three miles west of Manitou, and a mule was killed on the Merle Kelly place.

Houston Tuck, who runs a rural grocery near the Swartz place, lost an awning at his store and about 300 gallons of gasoline were ruined when water found its way into the tank. Tuck's water well was ruined when it filled up and the walls caved.

Communication Crippled

Blown down telephone and telegraph wires temporarily crippled communication and the Southwestern Light and Power company reported some wires down after the storm.

Wheat, which had not been cut and that which had been cut but not shocked was lost, while shocked grain was materially damaged.

The destructive gale covered an area not greater than two square miles, but the hail and rainfall extended from Frederick to Snyder. The precipitation was estimated at more than two inches. Today the creek which runs through Manitou was higher than it has been in several years although no fears were felt of the water damaging homes here.

Trains on the Frisco lines were held up here today while crews repaired about 100 yards of track which had been washed out.

Reports from Tipton said that a wall of the Ford Motor company was blown in, badly damaging several automobiles.

DAMAGING WIND IN ALTUS AREA

ALTUS, Okla., June 15.—Awakening early this morning to find his automobile had disappeared, caused H. D. Wiginton of the Pleasant Point community near Altus to start a search which later led him to find the car at a nearby creek. The car had been blown from where it was parked near the house about 100 feet to the creek. The car was mostly covered by water and teams were required to remove it.

One barn was torn down and many trees uprooted in that section of the county. A survey of the entire county revealed considerable damage done to cotton crops by a severe hail storm in the eastern and northwestern sections.

CROPS DAMAGED IN WILBARGER

VERNON, Texas, June 15.—Reports received from every section of Wilbarger county today indicate heavy crop damage resulted from the hail, rain and wind storm which swept this section Thursday night and early Friday morning. Practically all cotton which survived last week's destructive sand storm was battered down or washed away last night, and hundreds of acres which were replanted following the sandstorm must be replanted again.

The precipitation totalled .57 of an inch. A slight damage was done by the wind to one or two minor structures in west Vernon. The hail was most destructive in the southwest part of the county, but the rain and wind took a heavy toll among young crops in other sections.

It is estimated that less than 15 per cent of the cotton acreage in this county will not have to be replanted as a result of the storm.

FLOYDADA, Texas, June 15.—One quarter inch slow rain fell here Friday evening. It will aid the large acreage of grain sorghums planted in this county and will also help wheat which had begun to suffer some. Cotton is practically all planted.

Motor Car Thieves Now Afflict Geneva

GENEVA, June 15.(AP)—Gone are the care-free days when delegates to the League of Nations and men of lesser note could park their cars in the throughfares without lock or bolt. The motor car thief is here, which is something new in the crime annals of this "world capital."

Cars are mysteriously stolen every week. Sometimes they are found battered and broken, abandoned by the thieves and broken, abandoned by the thieves who apparently indulge in joy rides. Sometimes they are not found at all, although the frontier formalities for getting a car into France or Ittay are so rigid it is scarcely likely that the thieves cross the border with their spoils.

Five Injured When Train Strikes Auto

AUSTIN, Texas, June 15.(AP)—Five persons were injured, four seriously, at Bartlett, late today when their automobile collided with a north bound M. K. T. freight train.

They are: Jewel Moore, Bartlett, back broken; Josephine Level, El Paso, skull and jaw bone fractured; Audrey Wilson, Bartlett, hurt internally; Jack Stitz, about 13, El Paso, leg broken in three places; sister, Barbara Stitz, El Paso, extent of injuries undetermined.

JAPANESE HONOR AMERICAN

TOKYO, June 15. (AP)—Daniel H. Buchanan, an American professor on the faculty of Keio university for ten years, has been honored by this institution with the degree of Doctor of Economy. This is the first time in the history of Japan that any university has conferred this degree upon a foreigner.

Eleven foriegners hold the degree of Doctor of Engineering and one that of Doctor of Literature. Prof. Buchanan was born in Kansas City, Mo., in 1886 and is a graduate of Harvard.

Curtis Called Jolly Fellow

felt that the delegates ought to see just what made 'em stick the past week. The secretary had no purpose in showing himself other than the presentation of a little resolution dealing with the appointment of committees to notify the two candidates of the honor conferred upon them, which will probably be big news to Hoover and Curtis.

Never a more agitated gentleman faced the devouring eyes of his fellow citizens than the frail looking Pennsylvanian. The delegates who hadn't had a good look at him before stared at the new president-maker, and wondered how he made all that money.

Mr. Mellon didn't linger long before their eyes. He said he had a resolution to offer, slipped a bit of paper, almost surreptitiously, to Chairman Moses, bowed ever so slightly, and hastened back to his seat with his fellow Pennsylvanians. The delegates gave him a lot of applause at that.

Surprise Nomination

It's all over now. By their works ye now know these Republicans who have been holding forth in Kansas City since Tuesday.

Curtis wasn't a sure thing by any means as the vice presidential nominee up to this morning. A number of other eminent citizens had decided that they wouldn't mind the vice presidency, which always carries with it the outside chance that it may lead to the presidency, if the president doesn't happen to enjoy the best of health.

However, the Kansan became an odds-on favorite as soon as his name was presented. The way the other candidates were scratched before roll call began was a caution. The admirers of Gov. Alvin T. Fuller of Massachusetts kept his name in until the last minute, then pulled it out. Much valuable breath was expended in extolling the virtues of potential starters who never got started.

Hall Vacated

The old convention hall in Kansas City is an aching void as these lines are written, with cops dispersing a few remaining spectators who lingered to get a peek at the inmates of the press stand who were closing up their deathless contributions to literature. The Republican convention of 1928 is history, and what history, only history will reveal.

Senator George H. Moses, the chairman of the Republican convention, is one of those men who believe in promptness.

He began whanging away with his gavel at exactly 11:59 this morning, although high noon was was the appointed hour of the tryst. Only about half the delegates were in their chairs, and the galleries were sadly vacant.

Methodist Prays

Bishop E. L. Waldorf of the Methodist Episcopal church of Kansas City, offered prayer. He prayed at some length. Perhaps he felt that since the nomination of Mr. Hoover it was an occasion for a little more intensive praying for the Republican party than usual.

Senator Moses said the convention might recall that he had read a telegram last night that he was sending to Mr. Hoover. He now had an answer. He would read this answer. He did.

The delegates scarcely listened to Mr. Hoover's inspiring words. They had already read them in the early editions of the afternoon papers.

Cal's Message Read

Senator Moses then read President Coolidge's message to Mr. Hoover congratulating him on his nomination. The chairman announced that the courtesy of the International News Service gave him the privilege of conveying this message to the convention. He also read Mrs. Coolidge's message to "the next lady of the White House," as Mrs. Coolidge spoke of Mrs. Hoover. The delegates applauded both messages.

The selection of members of the national committee, men and women, was the next order of business, and the names appointed by each state delegation, were read off by the thunderous LaFayette B. Gleason.

As usual, Georgia had a slight dispute. Georgia didn't bring much tranquility among its Republican delegates to the convention, but then being a Republican in Georgia isn't a tranquil proposition to begin with.

Another Squabble

Benjamin Jefferson Davis, a colored gent, has been the national committeeman from Georgia and Rufus Pickett, chairman of the delegation to the convention. They apparently didn't get along any too well together. Mr. Pickett wanted the rules of the convention suspended to permit the Georgia delegation to be polled on the floor of the convention for the election of its national committeeman and committee women.

Congressman Franklin Fort stepped forward and dourly moved that Mr. Pickett's motion be laid on the table.

Pickett promptly appealed from the ruling of the chair demanding a poll of the convention and he got enough seconds to enforce his appeal. But the rock-bound delegations voted with Congressman Fort, probably on the theory that he might have the key to the mystery, and that anyway he is a friend of Mr. Andrew Mellon.

Motion Tabled

Mr. Mellon, by the way, was still with the convention today.

His delegation cast its entire vote for Congressman Fort's motion to table, which was perhaps the tip-off that Rufus Pickett and his pal's needn't be looking for any Georgia postoffices if Hoover is elected.

The motion was tabled by 761 to 308. An hour was wasted for no good reason.

Senator Moses now called for nominations for vice president. Alabama yielded to Connecticut, and Senator Hiram Bingham stepped to the platform to present the name of John Q. Tilson, Republican leader of the house.

Senator Bingham is a former professor at Yale and looks it. No disrepect to Yale professors is intended. On second thought, he looks more harvard than Yale.

"Between you and me, folks, my man is a paluke, but he'd like to get this nomination."

Senator Bingham used no notes, but you can bet all the tea in China that he had written his speech out first and then committed it to memory. His delivery was too precise to be extemporeous.

Curtis Nominated

Arizona yielded to Idaho, and the leonine Senator Borah came forward. In sonorous good old time long-drawn-out phases he nominated Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, who was in there struggling for the presidency only yesterday. Evidently Senator Curtis is one of those men who will take what they can get, not a bad philosophy of life, at that.

Georgia yielded to New Hampshire, and a delegate from that state bawled, "New Hampshire passes."

Senator Moses grinned slightly. This announcement meant that the chairman was withdrawing from the contest for the vice presidency.

Maine yielded to Massachusetts and a youngish, Harvardish looking chap with the Harvardish name of B. Loring Young came forward and presented the name of Governor Alvin T. Fuller, the old bicycle rider.

Road to Fame

You will recall that another governor of Massachusetts dropped into a prominent spot in life with no better start than the vice presidency.

Judge Ira W. James of Michigan, in down east afternoon attire of striped trousers and black coat, nominated Charles S. Osborn, former governor of Michigan.

A bald and ruddy man of clubfellow aspect, approached Senator Moses and wanted to say something but Moses was impelled to shake the rules of order at him.

"I rise to a question of personal privilege," said the gentleman loudly, and it seems that a man can rise to such a question any old time.

Osborne Withdraws

The bald and ruddy man turned out to be Chase Osborne himself, and his idea was to withdraw his name in favor of Senator Curtis, but before he let this out of the bag he wandered off on flowery tangents.

But before Moses could choke off Mr. Osborne, and while young Bob La Follette was yelling a point of order from the Wisconsin crowd, Mr. Osborn pulled his withdrawal and everybody who favored Curtis cheered.

Congressman L. C. Dyer of Missouri presented the name of Governor Sam A. Baker, but Mr. Baker, a grizzled, elderly man, immediately came forward and withdrew in favor of "my friend, Senator Curtis." This reduced the field down to Curtis, Tilson and Fuller.

Many Friends

As the roll call was concluded, Senator Bingham again took the platform and read a telegram from John Q. Tilson asking him to withdraw his name in favor of "my beloved friend, Senator Curtis." Then B. Loring Young and William M. Butler of Massachusetts, put their heads together, evidently discussing the matter of Fuller's withdrawal, even as Senator Walter Edge of New Jersey was seconding the nomination of my "old pal, Charley Curtis." This man Curtis certainly developed a lot of bosom friends.

As Senator Edge concluded his remarks, the brisk B. Loring Young stepped forward, and to Senator Moses' question "for what purpose does the gentleman arise?" answered:

"To second a nomination."

Nomination Seconded

Then in crisp accents he withdrew Fuller's name and seconded Curtis' nomination.

Ablaze with diamonds on her wrists and fingers, and bosom, Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Kentucky, vice chairman of the Republican national committee, spoke briefly for the Kansas man.

So did Hamilton Fish of New York, the old Harvard tackle, who spoke for the veterans of the World war. Former Senator Bursum of New Mexico joined in the general acclaim for Curtis, calling him rural America's favorite son.

Joseph Scott of Los Angeles, who admitted he is a transplanted Kansan, yelled harshly at the delegates in putting a boost for Curtis. He is a man with white hair, a fine coat of California tan and a pair of fierce, beetling black eyebrows which he kept lifting in sinister fashion at the delegates.

Enter Miss Curtis

The delegates rose en masse to greet Senator Curtis' daughter, Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight, who is a member of the delegation from Rhode Island, where she now lives, and who timidly approached the platform to second the nomination of her father. She is a pretty, dark haired little woman. She wore a red hat and a blue silk dress with big red figures on it. She only spoke a very few words, but the delegates gave her a tremendous reception.

It was necessary under the rules to call the roll, though there was no doubt as to the selection of Senator Curtis. Georgia halted the roll for a few minutes, but finally turned in a solid vote for Curtis.

Senator Moses asked the convention if the nomination should be made unanimous and the delegates thundered, "Yes."

"The chair now recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Mr. Mellon," remarked Moses, and a stir swept the convention.

Mellon Talks

Almost timidly, the secretary of the treasury came down an aisle and climbed the steps leading to the speaker's platform. The delegates gave him a thunderous reception that probably increased his embarrassment. The klieg lights hit him full blast as he stepped up beside Moses and he blinked his eyes. His skin showed saffron under the lights.

"Mr. Chairman, I have a resolution offer," he said in a fluttering voice, handing a slip of flimsy paper to Moses. The hands that seem steady enough in gathering in all that money were obviously trembling. His voice was very low.

"Louder!" bawled a delegate.

Mr. Mellon smiled slightly, bowed to Moses, bowed to the convention and hastily effaced himself. His resolution as read by Moses, made Moses chairman of the committee to notify Hoover of his nomination and Senator Fess, chairman of the committee, to notify Curtis.

Resolution Adopted

The resolution was swiftly adopted.

A lot of perfunctory and usual resolutions were offered and Senator Moses fairly spluttered words in putting them to the convention and declaring them adopted.

Then Moses stepped back and grabbed Senator Curtis by the hand, and introduced him as the next vice president of the United States.

At 2:20 o'clock Congressman William Butler moved the adjournment of the convention "without day" and the sweating delegates were on their way for the doors before Senator Moses had completed putting the motion, while the band played, somberly, "Auld Lang Syne."

Georgia Dry Leader Favors G. O. P. Nominees

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 15. (UP)—As between the Hoover-Curtis ticket and a Democratic ticket headed by Governor Smith, William D. Upshaw, former Democratic congressman from Georgia and prominent dry worker, would support the Republican nominee, he said here today. He added the proviso, however, that the negro leadership of the Republican party in Georgia is objectionable to him.

"The Republican party has done just what we dry Democrats hoped it would do," Upshaw continued. "The Democratic leaders would better pass an equally dry plank at Houston, with a dry candidate on it—for a dry platform with a liquor candidate would be a grotesque straddle and a party tragedy."

Hotel Contract Cancellation Suit Changed to 89th District Court

The suit of O. F. Marchman against the McCoy Hotel Operating company, called in 78th district court before Judge W. W. Cook, Thursday morning, was transferred to the 89th district court upon request of attorneys for the McCoy Operating company. The defendants had asked for additional time in order to enable them to include other parties as defendants to the suit.

Since the 78th district court will be closed in July, when the defendants felt they would be ready to answer Mr. Marchman's suit, Judge Cook transferred the suit to the 98th district court, July term.

Mr. Marchman seeks cancellation of contracts let to the McCoy Hotel Operating company on the Marchman hotel for a period of 10 years. The rental on the building approximated $193,000.

The suit to cancel the contracts was filed after sale of assets of the McCoy Operating company to the Hilton Hotel company several months ago. Mr. Marchman, in his petition for cancellation, alleges that this sale was in violation of the contract he gave the McCoy Hotel Operating company.

The suit, originally set for call Thursday had been postponed until Friday morning by Judge Cook, when a jury for the case was not available Thursday.

Burk Youth Seeks Naval Academy Entrance

Grady M. Ragsdale of Burkburnett completed a three-day midshipman examination for entrance in the U. S. Naval academy at Annapolis Friday afternoon. The examination was conducted by Charles K. Johnson, assistant superintendent of mails.

Ragsdale will leave for Annapolis in the fall if his examination papers are satisfactory to the superintendent of the Naval academy, to whom they will be forwarded.

French War Derelict Is Still Unidentified

PARIS, June 15. (AP)—"Antheime Mangin," his mind unbalanced by the war, is now the only unidentified living soldier of France.

He was turned back by Germany after the armistice, with nothing to identify him. He was named "Antheime Mangin" for convenience. For nearly 10 years, at intervals the government has sent out pictures and descriptions of him and scores of men and women have thought he might be their brother, husband or father.

ELECTRA LIONS NAME OFFICERS

Rollo Davidson Is New President

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, June 15.—Rollo Davidson was installed as president of the Lions club of Electra at the annual ladies' night and installation ceremony held in the main dining room of the country club last night.

W. A. Asbill was installed as first vice president. Other officers installed included Quincy Wilson, second vice president; Dr. C. H. Schulkey, third vice president; Neil Sparks, secretary; E. E. Rogers, tail twister; Robert Hall, lion tamer, and B. M. Dickey, director.

Program Given

An entertainment program was given following the invocation by F. M. Baker, and the singing of America. Mr. Rogers presided.

Several vocal selections were given by the Vanity Fair girls under the direction of Letrice Woffard. Two readings were given by Baby Magee.

H. T. F. Patton, immediate past president, made a short talk as did G. J. Gilles, outgoing secretary. Mrs. Ruby McGlaghn and Miss Nellie Whisenant sang a duet.

The installation ceremony was in charge of Ben W. Tipton of Electra. Music during the dinner hour was played by a large electric Victrola, provided through the courtesy of the M. D. Goldsmith drug store.

The chicken dinner was served by the ladies of the Christian Church Missionary society.

Wichitans Are Guests

Committees in charge of the affair included W. A. Asbill and R. R. Raney, education; Neil Sparks and Miss Letrice Woffard, entertainment; W. M. Austin and B. M. Dickey, decoration; and E. V. Halton and C. W. Coffey, ticket.

Dr. R. H. Graham and wife, W. E. Wilson and Bill Davenport, all of Wichita Falls, and a large number of other visitors from Iowa Park, San Angelo and Wichita Falls were guests.

University Courses May Be Given by Radio

HOUSTON, Texas, June 15. (UP) The time when university courses will be offered by radio is what M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting company, sees in the future.

Aylesworth, a recent visitor here, pointed out that a university education can be delivered to one at one's fireside. The radio courses could include lectures by leading college professors on any courses desired.

Aylesworth was making preparations for the broadcasting of the national Democratic convention here this month. The proceedings of the convention will be sent to Chicago and from there rebroadcast over the nation. Dozens of stations will cooperate and the proceedings will even be rebroadcast to foreign countries.

Aerial Carnival To Feature C-C Meeting

FORT WORTH, June 15. (UP)—Features of every kind will be offered visitors to the annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here June 18 to 20.

At about the same time the convention opens June 18, an aerial carnival will be held. One hundred airplanes will take part in the air show.

Another attraction will be the pageant, when Miss West Texas will be presented. The coronation ceremony will be held at the Texas Christian university athletic stadium, and more than 100 sponsors will be introduced.

The annual delegation parade will be the longest ever staged during a convention of the body. Already 38 towns have entered decorated floats. Fifty bands will take part in the parade and 10,000 people will march in the procession.

Other events on the program will be Fort Worth parade, the editors' breakfast, secretaries' luncheon, official ball, reception, teas and breakfasts for the sponsors.

Girl, 15, Is Youngest Graduate at Terrell

TERRELL, Texas, June 15. (UP) Miss Wirtable Ramey, who graduated with the annual class this year, was believed to have been the youngest the school has graduated. She was 15.

U. S. BANKERS AID NEW MOVE

Gold Manipulation Called Unprecedented

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, June 15. (US)—European stabilization, to which the imminent restoration of the gold standard in France directs popular attention, is the result of a widespread international manipulation rather than a reflex of normal underlying trade conditions.

Old world post-war economic reconstruction has been facilitated by the new rapprochement among central banks. The federal reserve authorities, representing American primacy in the world gold hoards and thus holding the key to the situation, have been cooperating with the Bank of England, the Bank of France, and the German Reischbank. The new rapprochement of the central banks, which constitutes a novel and significant political movement in the domain of finance, has been backed up by the willingness of American private bankers and investors to pour unprecedented sums into European securities.

Recovery Hastened

Thus old world recovery and financial stability has been hastened by the willingness of Americans to discount future developments.

No disinterested observer can doubt the marked strides that have been made in the last two or four years in substituting stable foreign exchanges for the chaotic paper money currencies which made public finance and private finance a pure gamble in the years immediately following the war. And yet the surface facts gloss over certain underlying problems, which have not yet been solved.

For example, in September the Dawes plan for extracting reparations from Germany meets its first severe test. S. Parker Gilbert, the American stationed in Berlin as agent general of reparations, has just issued an optimistic statement concerning the outlook.

Can Germany Pay?

And yet, in September when the maximum annual payments begin, two questions will come to a focus. First, will Germany be able to raise enough marks to meet its obligations? With Germany's borrowing capacity still high, the experts are disposed to answer the first question in the affirmative. The second question is whether Mr. Gilbert will be able to transfer the marks into the currencies of the allies without disturbing the equilibrium of the foreign exchange market. This issue of transfers is pivotal, and the original Dawes committee, baffled by it, merely passed the buck.

Under the Dawes agreement, the agent general of reparations need only transfer as much as he deems prudent. In the event that the allies are unable to make maximum transfers, a development which seems likely, the question arises whether they will permit German government and industry to make transfers of funds to pay interest on loans held by foreign private investors.

Interest Continues

Legally, the allies would seem to have the power to stop the stream of interest payments, but self interest in maintaining Germany's future credit would dictate the unwisdom of such a course. Accordingly, interested parties are now freely predicting that Germany will continue interest payments on securities held by private investors, irrespective of "transfer" difficulties.

Pot Shots at Politics by Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

WET PROS—DRY WETS

There are wet pros and dry wets everywhere in this land of the free. President Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Columbia university, appeared before the committee on resolutions at the Kansas City convention and demanded a plank for repeal of the 18th amendment. This was his foreword, "I have in mind cabinet officers, senators, judges, representatives and governors who speak in favor of the amendment and violate it every day of their lives." According to the press report of the session, "the applause and shouts lasted several minutes." President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university voiced a great truth. There are champions of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act who love red licker and classify themselves as "politically dry and personally wet."

CONVENTION LIQUOR

Chief Doran, head of the prohibition enforcement department of the government, sent his prize sleuths to Kansas City and Houston late in May. He gave orders to make the Missouri city and the Texas city as dry as the Sahara. This is the story told by the staff correspondent of the Dallas News: "Ultra drys in Texas who wailed long and loud because of the doings at the Beaumont convention, should come here before they renounce all allegiance to the Democratic party branded by them as too wet. To say this place is moist would be using a mild term. The stuff is everywhere and open house and hospitality can be found on nearly every floor of all the hotels. Some of these rascally Republicans have adorned themselves with aprons fashioned out of bath towels and are ready to serve. They extend old southern warmth, and they are not different than any other political convention which meets nowadays, notwithstanding the 18th amendment and the newspaper warnings that the federal prohibition authorities were going to sponge up the fluid in Kansas City and Houston. It is here and there are many affectionate and funny fellows about the hotel corridors who exude peculiar fumes. Since the year 1920 two Republican presidents and their appointees have appointed the prohibition enforcement officials of America. Andrew W. Mellon has officially appointed the heads of these departments. Attorney General John Garibaldi Sargent is the head of the legal department of the government. Before his coming Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio was the head of the legal department. Now why damn the Democrats for being wet and extol the Republicans for being dry?"

He that loveth life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal.—St. John xii, 24-25.

A Tip on Payrolls

MORE and more, business and industrial houses with large payrolls are coming to realize the advantage of paying by check rather than by cash.

To begin with, there is the not insignificant fact that payroll bandits are not attracted by the prospect of getting a batch of non-negotiable paper. They want cash, and they will steer clear of the place that does not have it. Or, if they do make a visit, they get nothing of value.

In the second place, it is a pretty good thing for the employe to get into the habit of visiting a bank once a week to cash his check. Sooner or later he gets the idea of salting his check away there and only taking part of it away with him. Before he realizes it he has got the habit of saving.

A Warning to Young Fliers

THE rapidly increasing popularity of the airplane has caused the Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics to issue a word of warning to young men who want to learn how to fly. It quotes Colonel Lindbergh on the subject, as follows:

"There are many schools that advertise that they will teach a novice how to fly an airplane. Some of them give the course for $100, usually turning out the student as a finished pilot after about 10 hours in the air.

"Ten hours flying will not make anyone a pilot, and $100 will not buy a good course in training. The man or woman who wishes to become a pilot should be prepared to spend at least $500 for training, and some agreement should be reached whereby the use of a plane for practice may be obtained after the course has been completed.

"A great many serious aviation accidents occur because of pilots who are turned out of cheap schools without sufficient experience to meet emergencies."

If the aviation bug has bitten you and you are thinking of learning to fly, you had better think over this advice from America's greatest flyer.

Conquest of the Pacific

COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH made the conquest of the Atlantic, flying from west to east. Major Fitzmaurice and two German flyers made the conquest of the Atlantic flying east to west. Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three daring companions made the aerial conquest of the Pacific ocean flying from San Francisco, California, to Brisbane, Australia.

The Southern Cross made Brisbane eight days out from California, and then it was known that the wonderful monoplane and its kings of the sky had bridged the Pacific by air "and Australia and America clasped hands across the water."

Two sons of Australia and two sons of America made the journey, but Charles Kingsford-Smith of the antipodes is their brave commander and all four have written their names high in the temple of men who have achievements to their credit.

This is a new civilization.

Navigation of the air or in the clouds is not in its experimental stage. It is a reality, an established institution.

Men of vision must be right. It is possible that the battles of the future will be fought in the air and the missles of destruction will be dropped from the clouds.

Slaying the Sparrow

BEEVILLE is a Texas town. Beevillites have no use for the English sparrow. Now the sparrow is an alien. He came to the country long ago. Those that landed first were turned loose in Central park in the city of New York. A round dozen made the first landing. Now there are millions, perhaps billions under the folds of Old Glory. The sparrow is the scavenger bird, a tiny feathered creature that holds its own against all enemies and all comers. His enemies say that he drives away the native birds, song birds and all. They say that he is a nuisance, a pest, that he is unsanitary and breeds unsanitary conditions.

As has been stated, the people of Beeville have declared war on the sparrow. Sparrow hunters are doing effective work with their traps. One enemy of the alien bird trapped 296 last week, bringing his total to about 4000. Others are reporting daily catches of 20 or more. This is the Beeville slogan, "The sparrow must go."

Now why should a scavenger bird be looked upon as a menace? Buzzards are not trapped. Owls are not trapped. All other members of the bird family who devour worms and all other insects are not trapped. Why should the sparrow be picked out.

Big Bill Thompson of Chicago wars upon English books. He never touches the sparrow. Big Bill has made a losing fight. It is impossible to destroy history. Man is a puny creature at best. He attempts to destroy that which does not appeal to him. One year it is the sparrow. Next year it is the quail. Then it is the owl. Queer old world.

The Cost of Education

THE cost of educating a pupil in the public schools has risen from $38.31 a year in 1913 to $102.50 at present, according to figures compiled by the federal bureau of education.

The increase in cost is attributed in part to better and more education given and in part to the decreased purchasing power of the dollar.

There is no tax the American property owner pays more cheerfully than that which is levied for the purpose of public education. Here in Wichita Falls and throughout the country a very considerable part of our taxes go for educational purposes. Here in Wichita Falls and in many other places we are willing that our property be assessed at a higher valuation than for other taxing purposes in order that necessary revenues be provided for our schools. And there are few who ever complain about taxes.

Within the past ten years many hundreds of millions of dollars have been expended in new school buildings. Our schools are better housed and better equipped than ever before in the history of the country. The peak of money expended for new school buildings was reached in 1926 when the amount was $436,000,000. In 1927 the amount was $22,000,000 less.

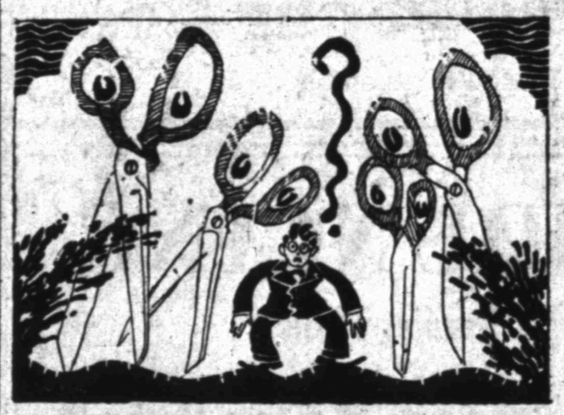

While we can expect some decrease in the amount expended for new buildings we can hardly expect any diminution in school taxes for these buildings were built for the most part with the proceeds of bond issues and we must pay taxes for interest and sinking funds to meet these bond issues for years to come. And we can expect no diminution in our taxes for the operation of these schools because our teachers are generally underpaid and their scale of pay must be gradually raised.

SCISSORS
By James J. Montague

There is something uncanny about scissors. You may not have noticed it but you will. Scissors have this in common with railroad trains and steamships, and prize-fight champions. They come and go. But railroad trains and steamships and prizefight champions come and go somewhere. They don't just appear and disappear like scissors do, and ghosts are supposed to do. I have never seen a ghost, and if he is anything like a pair of scissors, I never want to see one. You may not yet have had any of my experiences—yet. But don't lull yourself into a false sense of security. I knew a man who was not scissor conscious—who said he never used scissors, and could not conceive of any reason why a man should use them. The very next day he picked up a pair to chisel the wrapper off a magazine with. The door bell rang and he laid them down. When he had answered the door bell, bought the two tickets for the policeman's ball that had come along with the blue coated caller, he went back, expecting to pick up the scissors and resume his task. They were not there. He thought of what I had told him and shuddered. Then he looked for them all over the house, and still they were not there. He was still shuddering when he told me about it. But I laughed at him. They were not my scissors.

There is something uncanny about scissors.

On my office desk is—or was—a pair of scissors which I use, when I can lay my hands on them to cut the ends off of envelopes and to cut clippings out of a newspaper. If the letters and clippings are important I keep the scissors in my hand, knowing that if I lay them down and step over to another desk they will be gone when I get back. How should I know where they go. Nobody comes for them. They just go. And in a period which varies from two hours to two days I know I shall look up and see them there again. They are not like ghosts. They don't melt in your grasp. If they are there they are there, and you can get hold of them. But if they aren't there they aren't there. In five years these scissors have never wholly deserted me. They are like a runaway dog I used to have which got ashamed of himself and came home wagging his tail cheerfully after he had been absent a week. But there was no mystery about him. He used to belong to a fire house, and every time the fire whistle blew he simply had to be off and run ahead of the fire horses.

At home we use scissors for various purposes, chiefly concerned with sewing. Every time I go off on a trip and find I have not brought any along to cut court plaster with when I bark my elbows on Pullman porters as I get out of my berth in the morning, or to cut loose threads off my coat where the buttons have departed, I go and buy a pair. I put them in my suit case in the hotel and when I get back they are gone, of course. Then I send for the bell hops and question them, and they ask me in their injured innocence why they should take scissors when there are cuff buttons and hair brushes and other things more dear to their hearts in the bag. I cannot tell them. I go out and attend to an errand and when I come back I find the scissors in the bathroom. I am never surprised. I have found lost scissors in hall closets, in the dining room, on the radio set—everywhere I have been. I have also missed them from the same places.

My wife was sewing yesterday and asked me if I had seen the scissors. I had seen them, and remembered it. I had seen them on the rim of the coal scuttle in the furnace room. They were straddled over the coat scuttle rim as a boy straddles a fence. I had in my mind a perfect picture of how they looked there, with the two handles out at an obtuse angle. I went down cellar and they were not there. I hunted over the house, high and low, and could not find them. My wife also hunted and she could not find them. She had to stop sewing and was a little fussed about it. She seemed to think that perhaps I had taken the scissors down cellar with me earlier in the morning, and had left them there when I emptied the scuttle into the furnace. She seemed to think this very emphatically, but of course I was convinced that she was wrong. The following day the cook found the scissors in the ice box. No, I have no guess as to how they got there. How is anybody going to guess about scissors.

In the garden we use scissors to cut off the tomatoes and to prune some of the flowering shrubs whose care we do not trust to the young Roman gentleman who cuts the grass once a week. There the function of scissors is so important that, not content with one pair, I got a set of six and distributed them at convenient points about the place. The first day two of the six disappeared and the next day all of them departed. If they had just departed and let it go at that I shouldn't have worried about it. But inside a week they were all back, coming in twos and threes and one alone on different days. Why they came back I know no more than I know why they went. I am merely stating facts here and leaving it to somebody who knows more about scissors and psychic mysteries than I do to explain. After this phenomenon I had a bright idea. I bought some little sleigh bells at a toy store and tied a couple of them to each pair of scrissors, hoping that if they were lying about anywhere in the shrubbery, when the wind came along they would tinkle. But never a sound did we hear out of them. They appeared and disappeared regularly through the summer—all except one pair which was gone for two months. Later, on rummaging through an old suit of clothes in the closet, I found it in my coat pocket. You can guess as well as I can how it got there.

Even the scissors I keep to work on the repairs to the wire fence have the same propensity. I will lay them down to light my pipe, then nonchalantly reach around behind my back to pick them up and resume work and they won't be there. I will get up and look around, and still not find them. I will hunt over the whole yard, painstakingly marking it out in my mind into scissors so nothing can escape my eyes, and not find them. Perhaps three days later they will be discovered stuck in the bark of the cherry tree.

Now while I can't exactly understand ghosts I can in a measure account for their movements, because they are disembodied souls and souls can think, and play mean tricks on people. But scissors are just steel bars hammered to a certain shape, and there is no room or place for a soul or a mind in them. Yet they insist on sneaking away and hiding themselves and then showing up again in the most unexpected places with a malignant devilry that you would put past a fiend, if you happened to know a fiend well enough to overlook his prankishness. I cannot explain it at all. That is why I am writing my experiences. I hope perhaps somebody will write in and tell me why it is.

The Day Book of a New Yorker
By CLARK KINNAIRD.

NEW YORK, June 15.—A 25-cent pair of sun-glasses is about all an idolized notable needs to preserve his anonymity in New York. Charles A. Lindbergh, a popular young man who is said to be an aviator, strolls on Fifth avenue, unrecognized behind smoked spectacles. Lon Chaney kept his presence in the city unknown for days with a pair of sun glasses as his only disguise.

On the other hand, Harold Lloyd needed only to go without his glasses shell-rims in order to escape notice in Gotham crowds. When he put them on to do a traffic scene in Times Square, he was nearly mobbed.

"Balmy Sunday Sends Throngs to Shore; Half a Million Spend Day at Coney Island." is a stock head in New York newspaper shops. It isn't news unless half a million pack into the series of amusement parks which comprise "Coney," and at least 50 children are lost.

Coney is called the truly American playground, but I dislike to believe it. It represents recreation commercialized to the nth degree. The entertainment, such as it is, has a hard glitter. The place is barren of natural charms. The visitor seeking relief from the blatant and stark reality of the city looks in vain for perspectives of beauty at Coney, except at night, when lights are flashing. It has no convivial social side corresponding to that of the county fair back home. The lonely visitor finds no fellowship. If he speaks to a stranger, as likely as not he gets a response in a foreign tongue or a suspicious rebuff.

So many children are lost at Coney that the police department has a special bureau to take care of the strays until called for. Every season there are a number of "repeaters," and police suspect that some parents, knowing that unattended children are given prompt attention by police, purposely "lose" offspring in order to enjoy a few hours unhampered.

Modernism has triumphed again. Municipal authorities have lifted the ban upon revelatory, one-piece bathing suits at Coney, and beaches are crowded with girls who evidently are obeying parental injunctions to hang their clothes on a hickory limb and not go near the water.

However, each season the beach is thronged with persons in bathing costume long before the ocean water becomes warm enough to be inviting.

The war, it seems, is over. Hot dogs are half an inch longer.

At Coney there is a "wild man from Borneo" who howls, gnaws raw bones and dances crazily. He is a German-American who in his varied career has been a professional wrestler, "tatooed man," a "true-blood Cherokee," bouncer in a hooch-kooch show, sword swallower, "bearded woman." He has a wife and a family.

I wonder what his children say when school authorities ask them the occupation of their father. Imagine the embarrassment of a boy who had to confess that his father was a bearded woman in a side-show.

Archer County W. T. C. C. Delegates to Go by Auto

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, June 15.—The Archer County Chamber of Commerce delegation to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention meeting in Fort Worth, June 18-19-20, will leave Archer City early on the morning of the 18th, and will travel by auto caravan to Wichita Falls, where they will be joined by a delegation from the Holliday branch of the organization. Miss Freda Abercrombie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Abercrombie of this city, will sponsor the Archer county delegation at the convention, and will participate in the crowning of "Miss West Texas."

The Archer City Lions club has adopted the Archer City band, and will send them to the W. T. C. C. convention, where they are expected to toot the Archer county horn with much vigor. Mr. J. P. Fleming, secretary of the Lions club, will have the delegation in charge.

Heidelberg Duels Now Fought Secretly

HEIDELBERG, June 15. (AP)—Any young man seen walking the streets of Heidelberg with a gash on his head or face must do some tall explaining. The police have orders to take him to police headquarters, where he must narrate the genesis of his "accident."

Republican Germany is determined to put an end to student dueling, once the favorite sport of aristocratic student fraternities. Century-old customs, however, are not to be eradicated by a simple ordinance, and secret dueling continues.

ELECTRA PERSONALS

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 15.—Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Taylor of Tupelo, Miss., returned to their homes this week after a visit of several weeks with their daughters, Mrs. B. H. Loden, of this city and Miss Icie Taylor, of Wichita Falls. Mrs. Loden accompanied them as far as Dallas on the return trip.

F. W. Alger and sons, Carey, Charles and and Ray, and daughter, Miss Louise Alger, returned to their homes in Vernon Thursday after having attended the funeral of the infant of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Latham. Mrs. Mabel Stovall of Thalia, who accompanied them, will remain over for a longer visit.

Mrs. Jim Gamlin of Floydada arrived in Electra Thursday morning to attend the funeral services of her sister, Mrs. Beulah Brown, which occurred Friday.

Mrs. Ayra Byers and son, Gordon, of Amarillo and Mrs. Dollie Kay and son of Vernon are guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Birchfield Tuesday, en route to Hamilton, Houston and Galveston for an extended tour.

Mrs. C. R. Miller and daughter, Miss Carlotta, have returned home after a five weeks' visit in Houston, Saratoga and Taylor, where they visited relatives.

Misses Cecil Suttle and Marguerite Baird were Vernon visitors Sunday.

Mrs. Paul George of East Gilmore avenue returned home Wednesday from Dallas and Denton where she visited with relatives. Mrs. George attended the closing exercises of the College of Industrial Arts while in Denton where her sister, Miss Ada Bobby Crain, received her diploma. Miss Crain accompanied Mrs. George home for a visit of several days.

Miss Marjory Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Moore of the County Line community, has returned from Canyon where she attended W. T. T. C during the past year. She will spend the summer vacation with her parents.

COOLIDGES IN SUMMER HOME

President and Wife Arrive In Wisconsin

CEDAR ISLAND LODGE, Wis., June 15. (UP)—President and Mrs. Coolidge, noticeably weary from the long train journey from Washington, were settled in their isolated summer house tonight, ready to make the most of their woodland vacation.

The president retired immediately to his room for a brief rest before he re-appeared at the lodge to pose for more than 30 minutes for cameramen in the picturesque surroundings of the estate along the Brule river.

Mrs. Coolidge Careful

The president had motored to the lodge from Superior but Mrs. Coolidge, fearing to exert herself by participating in the Superior reception, remained aboard the presidential special to continue her journey to Winnebonjou, four miles from the summer home, she motored this short remaining distance.

Although smiling when escorted by Mr. Coolidge across a wooden foot bridge connecting Cedar island with the mainland, the first lady was wan and far from the exuberant personality familiar to the national capital.

Pose for Cameras

With the president she posed for numerous photographers, holding in leash her pet red chow Terrible Tim," before retreating into the lodge for a richly-deserved rest. She was greeted by Mrs. E. M. Lambert, wife of the superintendent, who offered her the hospitality of the Henry Clay Pierce estate.

The superintendent escorted the president over the secluded grounds, frequently pointing out the favorable trout pools in the peaceful Brule.

Welshman Discovered America, She Claims

CARNARVON, Wales, June 15. (AP)—Every American school child is taught that Columbus discovered America, or perhaps Llef Ericson, but Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of the former British premier, and herself recently nominated for parliament, differs with the historians.

She told the Anglesey society that Owen Gwynedd, a native of Anglesey, discovered the new continent some 300 years before Columbus' time. He set out on the uncharted seas to seek his fortune, but had his prospects nipped in the bud when he sailed into a continent instead. Chroniclers of those days were careless fellows, and neglected to record the details.

Oxford Trust Fund Planned in America

OXFORD, England, June 14. (AP)—An American trust fund for Oxford university is being established, with headquarters in New York City.

The foundation, of which Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore college, Pennsylvania, will be grantor, aims at establishing scholarships, exhibitions, prizes, medals, fellowships, professorships, lectureships, exchange professorships and donating land and buildings to Oxford university or to one or more of its colleges.

DePauw Presidency Source of Bishops

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 15. (AP) The presidency of De Pauw university at Greencastle, Ind., is a training school for Methodist bishops.

Three former heads of De Pauw now are bishops and they are having a college reunion at the church's quadrennial conference this month. They are Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of the Chicago area, Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Pittsburgh area and Bishop George R. Grose of the Peking, China, area.

Wilbarger Man Makes Bond On Beer Charge

M. T. James of Wilbarger county was arrested Thursday by Sheriff Frank Edmondson and Deputy Sheriff Jess Leverett of Vernon and charged with the possession and sale of beer.

He was brought to Wichita Falls and waived hearing before United States Commissioner J. A. Lantz Friday. James made bond of $750.

BABES BOUGHT AND SOLD

MOUDANIA, Turkey, June 15.—When a mother who has lost two children by death has a third child, she sells it for two piasters—about a cent—to a neighbor with several healthy children, then rebuys it at the same price when it is about a year old.

Mesdames Caldwell and Riner Entertain for Bride-Elect

Mesdames J. Wagner Caldwell and A. B. Riner were joint hostesses at a delightful bridge and shower complimentary to Mrs. Beulah Davis Brunson whose marriage to Walter Prechel will be an event of early date, at the Woman's Forum Friday evening.

The clubhouse was decorated in a color scheme in accordance with summer flowers. Baskets and bowls of cut flowers were used for decoration throughout the dining room of the clubhouse which was converted into a pretty drawing room scene.

The honoree was the recipient of many handsome gifts. Dainty refreshments were served to the following guests: Misses Eunice Jackson, Lucile Scott, Elizabeth Hall, Eula Logan, Ruby Kessler, Jessie Watson, Althea Dorton, Jewell Davis, Florence Prechel, Dot Russell, Bernice Apple, Eldora Bunnenberg, Vihlma Abbott, Erma Durnal, Una Waldrip, Sara Jones, Frances Robinson, Zula Harn, and Mesdames Preston Cobb, W. Ramblin'

with

Marie Theresa

MEN are queer people. When women conform with what men have expected of them, it seems to me that they should be satisfied. A few years back when women were enfranchised, public opinion was that woman with the vote would be an important factor in clearing up politics, that while probably they would not make their influence felt in party politics for some time to come, they would have a healthful effect upon city politics, the part of the political field that has the closest touch upon their immediate interests, the home and their families.

Just a few days ago a group of women of Wichita Falls used their power in just the manner designated—they used their influence to protect their immediate interests, and did you hear what the men said about 'em? These women were not given credit for entertaining a city-wide thought, they were forthwith accused of sour grapes, of wanting that which they did not have the foresight to get first. They are being accused of possessing pecuniary thoughts, which though not impossible under the circumstances, at least quite unlikely. And not even by those of more than ordinary tolerance, are they given credit for desiring to keep the city charter free from violation.

So the women of the city in their first concerted political fight, were afforded credit for a victory which they have not felt. They have been given credit for getting that which they went after, but none of the group feel that they were really victorious, since the general public will not try to understand their viewpoint. The women took upon their shoulders the duty of seeking a fair and impartial adherence to the city charter, an attitude the men would do well to reflect.

ANOTHER plea for world citizenship—Queen Marie of Rumania after having been feted by American hostesses who showed some knowledge of the science of cooking, has reached the conclusion that a woman may be of gentle birth and rearing and still have some little culinary knowledge. And now Queen Marie is teaching the ladies of the Rumanian court how to cook. While, of course, we don't mean that literally, it is not far wrong. She has instituted classes in cooking, and Rumanian ladies of high degree are betting about the task of winning still higher ones, the satisfaction of knowing when a dish is well prepared and why.

And that's that. What American mother who teaches her daughter to cook and sew but hopes that the tender little thing will never be called upon to perform these tasks in her own home? She is teaching her daughter the field, in order that she will know how to keep a creditable house if called upon to do so, but above all so she will know when household tasks are being well performed.

SOCIETY Personals

Miss Marian Watson of Rolla, Mo., is expected to arrive Sunday to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. William J. Nolte, Floral apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Thompson have returned from a wedding trip which took in points of interest in the south and in the east. They are at home at Ninth and Denver streets.

Mrs. George Goddard and two children, Edward and Catherine, are the guests of relatives in Bartlesville, Okla.

Mrs. R. O. Kenley Jr., is the guest of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. G. H. P. Showalter of Austin.

Miss LaNette Haynes of Burkburnett is the guest of Miss Elizabeth Weldon of 1414 Eleventh street, and of Miss Lucile Carter of Ninth street.

Mrs. R. R. Robertson of Pearl street has gone to Childress to visit friends and relatives and will return Tuesday.

Mrs. C. C. Glover, 1811 Hays street, and Mrs. J. B. Joyce returned Friday from Dallas where they were the guests of friends for a few days.

Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Hargrave, 1824 Huff street, have as guest for a few days their son, Dr. Robert Lee Hargrave, Jr., who received the M. D. degree from the school of medicine of Tulane university in New Orleans, June 13. He will return to New Orleans July 1 to take up his internship in the Charity hospital there. Young Doctor Hargrave will leave Tuesday for Austin to take the examinations of the state medical board.

Reads No Books But Will Publish Them

LONDON, June 15. (AP)—A man who says he has never read a book has become owner of the well known publishing firm of Methuen and company, negotiations for the sale of which have been going on here for several months.

He is George Roberts, a retired London business man, formerly director and manager of a famous firm of cracker makers, and the price he paid is stated to be in the neighborhood of 300,000 pounds.

"I have bought the shares of Methuen and company, first as an investment, and secondly as a matter of private interest. I have never read a book. I have no time," he said to an interviewer.

Amarillo Girl's Letters Tell of Frontier Days

AMARILLO, Texas, June 15. (UP)—Mrs. Ernest Allen of Amarillo has in her possession two letters, one written in 1851, the other in 1856, depicting the manners, customs and the hardships endured by the pioneers in the early settlement of Texas.

In one letter is related a trip from Houston to point 50 miles up the river, which required 18 hours to make. The impoverished condition of the settlers along the way was deplored. Food supplies in those days were cheap, the letter related, but became almost a luxury before they could be transported to the home of the settlers.

Marshall Man Kills Alligator in Creek

MARSHALL, Texas, June 15. (UP)—An alligator, 11½ feet long, was brought here by W. F. Parker.

It was killed by Parker in Kitchen's creek on Caddo creek, by two shots from a 30-30 caliber rifle. Parker experienced considerable difficulty in landing the alligator after it was killed, he said.

PARK FINISHED

Special to The Record News.

LAMESA, Texas, June 15.—The modern tourist park, Camp Mesa, for which a $25 reward was given for its name, is now completed in Lamesa. That this tourist park was needed is seen by the fact that before it was ready for business it was run over. It is the only modern tourist park now in Lamesa.

Mrs. Ford Hostess At Lovely Bridge Friday Afternoon

Mrs. H. S. Ford was a delightful hostess of Friday afternoon when she entertained at bridge for her sister, Mrs. W. G. McDonald of Georgetown, who is her house guest at her home at 1106 Alma street. Mrs. Ford was assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Mrs. John Akin.

High score prize was won by Mrs. McDonald, who was also presented with a guest prize. Second high score was won by Mrs. Wallace Bright.

The house was prettily decorated with sweet peas and daisies to carry out a color scheme of pink and white. Molded ice roses and individual angel food cakes also bore out the scheme in the refreshments.

Guests were: Mesdames Mark Walker, J. Roy Auers, E. B. Lehrack, Roy Calvert, Claxton Park, Wallace Bright, J. W. Akin, Jr., M. Mitcham, W. G. McDonald, Bert King, W. H. Caldwell, Monty Staniforth, J. F. Boyd, Charles Tucker, Sam Kruger, Charles Hartsook, J. D. Bright, A. Y. Hampton, F. M. Hanson and Miss Yvonne Lineaux.

10th Scholarship Given to College

The tenth scholarship to the Wichita Falls Junior college for the coming year was announced Friday by W. B. Chauncey, president of the board of education of Wichita Falls. George B. Ray was the giver.

Tuition at the college has been free until this year when the increasing cost of the city elementary and high schools made it necessary to find some financial relief. Since the tuition charge for the coming year was announced, a number of important men have announced they would give scholarships to the end that deserving students might complete their Junior college work.

"Future Kaiser" Helps Nationalists' Campaign

MUNICH, June 15. (AP)—Prince Wilhelm, the eldest son of the former crown prince, as deputy policeman and distributor of hand bills, was the center of interest at an election meeting of the German nationalists at which the speaker was General von Loettow-Vorbeck, famed as valiant defender of Germany's East African possessions during the world war.

As among the monarchists Prince Wilhelm is considered the most promising candidate for the role of future kaiser, his truly democratic cooperation as party sheriff pro tem and political propagandist was deemed particularly effective for the nationalist's election campaign.

Munday Plans For Confederate Reunion

Special to The Record News.

MUNDAY, Texas, June 15.—The annual reunion of confederate veterans of Knox and adjoining counties will be held in Munday on July 11 and 12, and plans are now under way to make the affair one of the greatest in the history of the city. The Munday Chamber of Commerce, which organization is sponsoring the reunion, is working out plans to entertain not only the veterans, but the old settlers of this section as well, and the program committee plans to have a most elaborate program for each day of the reunion.

First Wheat Brings $1.25 at Munday Mill

Special to The Record News

MUNDAY, Texas, June 15.—The first load of new crop wheat to be brought to the Munday market was brought in by Tony Kushler of the Rhineland community and was purchased by the Munday Mill & Elevator company for $1.25 per bushel. A premium of $25 was presented to Mr. Kushler by the Munday Chamber of Commerce, which together with the price of the wheat brought him a little more than one hundred dollars.

Safe and Sane Relief for Pain

Capudine is the logical agent to relieve pain and high nerve strain because it gives relief by soothing the nerves,—not by deadening or doping them. It contains no opiates.

Being liquid, Capudine acts very much quicker than tablets and powders. Highly effective for headache, neuralgia, rheumatic pains, periodic pains. At all drug stores; 30c and 60c sizes. (Adv.)

Mothers' Suggestion Led to Improvement

Told Sickly Daughter To Take Cardui, Which She Did With Resulting Increase of Strength and Better Health

Oklahoma City, Okla.—"I have taken Cardui and found it a splendid tonic," says Mrs. Roy Sechrist, 2311 West C Street, this city.

"Several years ago, I was suffering from weakness. I was hardly able to go, but I had to keep up because I had my family to look after.

"I dragged from one task to the next. I had not enough strength to use a broom, but I could not give up.

"My back ached, and I worried a lot. My mother asked me why I did not take Cardui. She had taken it and found it helped her, so at her suggestion, I got a bottle and took it.

"I improved rapidly. My appetite picked up and my strength returned. I found I no longer dreaded my housework. I did not worry, and I was better able to care for my children. Cardui is a very good medicine, and I am glad to tell others of my experience."

Thousands of cases similar to that described above have been reported by users of Cardui. They have found renewed joy in life by building up their health and thereby overcoming many aches and pains to which a run-down system is often subject.

Try Cardui for your troubles.

50 Per Cent Deposit Required For Auditorium Lease in New Ordinance

A city ordinance providing a rental fee for the municipal auditorium and provisions of the rental is being rewritten and will be presented to the city clerk Saturday for presentation to the city council Monday night.

A deposit of 50 per cent of the rental cost of the auditorium is required, and all auditorium bookings must at all times be on record in the city clerk's office and open to the public, under the changes being made.

Otherwise, the ordinance is the same as it was when passed by the council some time ago, according to Thelbert Martin, attorney who is doing the work.

The change is being made at the request of the city council. The revised ordinance probably will come up for a vote Monday night.

CHIC CHERIE — Use Your Imagination — LATEST FASHIONS

This may not look like a tennis court, but we put it in for background and, besides, everyone knows what a tennis court looks like, but tennis and other sports clothes are new each season and that is why we are here. The lady to the left with the bandage around her head is Cherie, of course, and you are asked to notice that she is wearing a sleeveless jumper of unglazed chintz with a skirt of silk crepe. The person dodging the ball has on a sleeveless printed pique frock, and the young woman posing against the net has a white crepe dress with a scarf, but is more interesting for her sleeveless jacket, which is made of gray flannel with black and white and red bands and a monogram to enliven it.

Washable shantung crepe was used for the rather tailored suit with the one-piece dress and short coat. The skirt has inverted box pleats and pockets, the blouse has a trim tailored collar and tie and the jacket is unlined—it's all a lovely shade of violet. Sweater suits or dresses or jackets of hand-knitted bouclette are about the smartest, not to say most expensive, of the summer sports costumes. This sweater is bouclette and is worn with a simple white silk skirt and a white felt hat. If you will look at the young person at the extreme right, as Cherie is looking at her now, you will see a costume of black and white silk pique which is the newest kind of pique and the smartest color scheme.

Women, Naturally Bargain Hunters, Should Not Expect Cut Rates in Life

Do You Want the Fame and Money That Business Success Brings?—Do You Want a Happy Home Career?—Then Pay the Price of Time, Work and Sacrifice, but Don't Expect Cut Rates From Life.

The trouble with women is that they are bargain-hunters by nature. They are never willing to pay the full price for anything. They are always on a still-hunt trying to find something that has been marked down from $5 to $4.98. They are forever attempting to get a cut rate on the good things they desire in life.

That is why they fail so often in their undertakings for there is nothing in this hard-boiled old world of ours. Life runs no bargain counters, and if we get what we want we have to be spendthrifts and pay for it without counting the cost.

Many women, for instance, want careers, but few achieve them, because they are not willing to pay the price. They want the fame and money that success brings, but they want them handed to them on a silver salver. They are not willing to undergo the long, gruelling years of apprenticeship when one toils in a blind alley without seeming to get anywhere. They are not willing to stifle their pride and take corrections of their work humbly and gratefully. They are not willing to endure discipline.

They are not willing to give up the pleasure of society, to cut out the bridge games and the parties that interfere with their work, to keep the early hours and wear the sensible clothes, and eat the wholesome food that conserves their health. They are not willing to give up boys and good times, and even to sacrifice love and marriage to their careers.

And that is why they fail. They haggle over the price of success, and because the little gods who run the machine have a fixed price on it and make no discounts, they do not get it. Here and there is a woman who is a plunger, who doesn't count the cost of success, and she almost invariably wins out.

Women fail as wives for the same reason that they fail in business and professions, because they count the cost. Somehow, every wife deludes herself into the belief that whatever it may be for other women, matrimony is going to be a soft snap for her, and that she won't have to make the slightest effort to keep her husband eating out of her hand.

Every wife's desire is to have a husband who remains the perpetual lover, who always sees her as young and beautiful and alluring, and who never even desires to wander away from his own hearthstone in search of feminine companionship. Well the dream can be realised, but only by those wives who do not count the cost of keeping their husbands fascinated. It takes endless thought. Endless trouble. Endless diplomacy. Endless self-control. Endless self-sacrifice, but the wife gets what she pays for.

The women who lose their husbands to flappers are those who have considered it too much trouble to dress up and curl their hair just for a mere husband; who have not been willing to work to make a comfortable home and give their husbands what they like to eat; who have not thought it worthwhile to use any tact, or even common politeness in dealing with their husbands, and who have not wasted their energies in keeping their husbands entertained and amused of an evening.

Every woman wants her children to turn out well and to grow up into being fine men and women, but mighty few of them are willing to pay the full price of motherhood, which is why there are so many wild and wicked youngsters scorching down the road to destruction.

Now being a mother is the most strenuous job that any woman ever undertakes. It is never-ending and nerve-wearing, and the trouble with a lot of women is that they welch on it when they find out how hard it is.

They pass the buck of training their children to nurses and governesses and school teachers. They are clock-watchers who begrudge the time that they have to give to their children and they hustle the youngsters out on the street so that they can get away to their own diversions.

It is too much work to study each individual child and find out the way to control it, or to fight stubborn little wills, and so they follow the line of least resistance and give in to save a scene, and let their children grow up undisciplined, undirected and uncontrolled. Hence these tears and lamentations over wayward sons and daughters.

It is not the woman who does not count the cost of motherhood who rears the children who are a crown of glory to her. She knows that it is in the cradle who are a crown of glory to her. She knows that it is in the cradle that characters are formed and it is her firm and gentle hands which shape the lives that she has brought into the world. True, she is tied down with her babies, but they grow up with fine, strong, healthy bodies. True, she has to deny herself many social pleasures she would enjoy, but she keeps her children under her eyes and knows who their associates are, and she forms their habits and ideals instead of letting them acquire those of the street. True, she is more or less of a slave to her children while they are young, but she doesn't have to spend the balance of her life shedding tears of shame and remorse over them.

Every woman would like to have friends. Every woman craves affection. Especially as she grows older and her children marry and leave her does she feel the need of companionship of women of her own age who are interested in the things that she is interested in and who have the same background of memories and habits that she has. Yet there is no plaint you hear oftener from elderly women than that they are so lonely, that nobody comes to see them, that no one pays them any attention when they are sick or ailing.

These women are friendless because they have never been willing to pay the price of friendship. They have gone their own selfish way through life, disregarding everything that did not minister to their own comfort and well-being. They have bound no heart to them by ties of gratitude. They have taken but never given. They have never visited the sick, nor the afflicted. They have never taken the trouble to write a letter of condolence to those in trouble, or a note of congratulation to some one who has had a bit of good fortune. They have never wept with those who weep, nor rejoiced with those who rejoice.

It takes trouble and thought and unselfishness and love to make and keep friends, and you can either take it or leave it, but there is never any reduction on the price.

And so it goes through life. All the good things come high. But they are worth all they cost us.

DOROTHY DIX.

STRONGER AND SLEEPS BETTER

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ogden, Kansas.—"For three or four months before taking the Vegetable Compound I was run-down, didn't feel like doing any work and could not sleep at night. The least thing would upset me. We live on a farm and I have my housework to do but often I could not do it. My mother told me of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her so I am taking it. I am feeling fine, can sleep good and can do my work without getting over-tired. I recommend the Vegetable Compound and will answer letters."—Mrs. Lizzie Cummings, Box 351, Ogden, Kansas.

Noted Frenchmen Die "In Harness"

PARIS, June 15. (AP)—"Dying in harness" is becoming common among the after-war generation of Frenchmen, long described as a race whose workers, intellectuals and others were wont to take things easy or retire after fifty.

Francis de Croisset, author, dramatist and member of the French academy, was found dead at his writing table at eight in the morning. His face was lying on an uncompleted manuscript, his antique quill pen still held firmly in his hand over a half-written word.

Gustave-Adolphe Clement-Bayard, one of the pioneers of the automobile industry in France, was driving one of his latest models in the streets of Paris, when he pulled up to the curb and leaned over the steering wheel dead. He was 61 years old.

SPUDDERS RAISE PENNANTS AND BEAT STEERS IN NINTH, 4-3

MIKE PITCHES AND BATS WIN

Lamb and Benton Lead Attack of 14 Hits

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The last chapter in the Spudder baseball triumphs of 1927 was written yesterday. Pennants emblematic of Texas league and Dixie championships were hoisted to the top of the flag pole at Athletic park while a small but appreciative audience as the man said, voiced enthusiasm. And to make it a further enjoyable day for the faithful fans, the Spudders won the ball game from Dallas, 4 to 3.

Victory was achieved by a ninth-inning rally reminiscent of Spudder conquests last year. The champions almost handed the Steers the game by loose playing, but had enough in reserve to stage a thrilling finish.

Except for occasional lapses of control Mike Cvengros hurled excellent ball. The portsider let the Steers down with five hits and though he passed five, struck out seven. Errors helped the Steers score all their runs.

Dick Schuman, another gentleman who throws with his left hand, was pounded hard by the Spudders and Bert Ellison finally asked Richard to give up the burden to Tiny Owen, so called because he is about six feet, six inches tall and well proportioned. Owen went to the mound in the seventh after two were out and halted further scoring until the ninth.

How Spudders Won

Cvengros himself started the rally in the ninth by beating out a sharp hit to Morse, Mike's second knock of the day. Benton singled to center, Cvengros going to third. Turgeon was purposely passed, which of course was good baseball on the part of Ellison. Lyman Lamb singled to center, his third blow of the game, Cvengros scoring.

Lamb and Benton were the batting leaders, each with three blows, two of Lyman's going for two bases. Rabbit drove home one runner, helped tally another and scored one himself. Buck Stanton maced a brace of singles. The Spudders made 14 hits.

O'Brien was the only hostile to bother Michael to any extent, the center fielder nicking a pair of hits, one a double.

Pennants Hoisted

Brief but impressive ceremonies marked the raising of the pennants. With the players of the two clubs lined up at home plate, R. E. Shepherd, former mayor, told of the significance of the gonfalons, and how they were won. He said there is no greater publicity accorded Wichita Falls than that through the medium of the 1927 championships. He paid tribute to J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Spudders, as one of the foremost citizens of the city, a sentiment greeted by wild applause.

"It is the spirit of Mr. Gardner and the Spudders to win," Mr. Shepherd said. Confidence is a great thing, and the fans must have confidence in the Spudders, he asserted. "I know of one fellow who ran for office and was confident but he got beat," Mr. Shepherd remarked, which was greeted with laughter.

In closing, Mr. Shepherd asked fandom to be loyal and patient with the Spudders. "We can't all be on top. We had our fun last year. Let's be good sports this year, whether we win or lose," he concluded.

The players and Mr. Shepherd, led by the Panhandle Refinery company band, marched to the flagpole, where a member of a Boy Scout troup played the clear call of the bugle, to the colors. With the Stars and Stripes above, the Texas league and Dixie pennants were raised while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner." The players paraded back to their dugouts; the Spudders receiving another demonstrative ovation—and it was off with the old and on with the new.

Which brings us back to the ball game.

Steers Start Scoring

The Steers were first to score, tallying in the third inning. O'Brien started it with a single down the third base line. Mann bunted and was safe when the ball was not fielded, O'Brien stopping at second. Gingiardi sacrificed, Lapan to Turgeon. Swenson made a sparkling stop of Ellison's harsh bounder, but Lapan dropped Wally's peg to catch O'Brien at the plate.

The Spudders scored their first run in the fifth. Stanton singled sharply to Mann. Lapan hit to center, Stanton going all the way to third in a display of heads-up and fast base running. Cvengros fouled to Mullen. Benton singled to center, Stanton scoring.

Williams' men tallied again in the sixth. Eldred led off with a double to left, but was run down between the base lines on Jenkins' grounder to Schuman, Tom going to second. Swenson doubled to left, Jenkins tallying.

Spuds Score in Seventh

Again in the seventh the Spuds scored. Cvengros singled to center after one was out but Mike was thrown out by O'Brien trying to stretch the hit. Benton hit through Mullen. Turgeon walked. Lamb doubled to center, Benton scoring. Owen relieved Schuman and Hack Miller made a diving catch of Eldred's drive.

The Steers tied in the eighth. Ellison was safe on a roller to Turgeon. Miller walked, which riled Lapan so greatly that Pete pegged the ball into center field, Ellison scurrying to third. Mullen also strolled, filling the bases. Morse hit into a double play, Turgeon to Stanton to Turgeon, Ellison scoring and Miller going to third. Turgeon fumbled Seimer's grounder, Miller tallying.

Notes of the Game

Estill or Payne will pitch today in the second of the series.

A double header, to include the game postponed on April 26, is carded for Sunday.

Johnny Mann, a Spudder last year, was given an ovation when he came to bat in the first inning. He recently was sent to Dallas by the Chicago White Sox.

Mike pitched out of a hole in the third inning when he fanned Morse with the bases filled and two out.

Cvengros started a lightning double play in the sixth when he took Seimer's roller and tossed to Benton to retire Morse and throw out the catcher.

What with Dick Schuman's slow delivery, the players frequently stepping out of the batter's box, and the Steers bickering with the umpires the game required two hours to play.

Why don't the players dust their hands before they face the pitcher?

City Amateur Golf Championship Qualifying Play June 23 and 24

The city amateur golf championship tournament will be revived again this year. It will start with qualifying play June 23 and 24 and match competition under way immediately.

This was anounced yesterday by Bill Strachan, pro of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, following a meeting of the committee comprising members that organization and Weeks Park Golf club.

The tournament will be held on the Country club's 18-hole course. There will be as many flights as made possible by the number of qualifiers, with 32 in the championship flight. Amateur golfers over 16 years of age and residents of the city for a year are eligible to compete.

Strachan is to be starter for the tournament, which will be played under rules of the U. S. G. A. An entrance fee of $1.50 will be charged.

J. H. S. Bonner, who won the last tournament two years ago over the Weeks park links, will defend his championship.

About Amateurs

James Brothers Creamery started swinging the big bats Wednesday afternoon against the Panhandle Longhorns and marked up their first win of the second half. Practically all the hits laced out by the Milkmen drove in runs. The Longhorns got the same number of knocks as did the Creamery batters but they were well scattered and did little damage.

Lefty Cox topped the Twilight league in home runs Wednesday when his hit over third base was lost in the weeds. Lefty has two home runs to his credit and both of them have been made within the last week.

Wesly Thompson, James Brothers third sacker, hit three two base blows in four times at bat Wednesday. Wesly has had hard luck during most of his games, but if he can hold the pace he started Wednesday it won't take long for him to bring up his batting average.

Lefty Watson's weak wrist has at last rounded back into condition. During his first few games the Katy hurler was forced to leave the mound after going four or five innings. He is now pitching the whole game and is the leading hurler in the City loop.

Harry Costley, DeMolay left fielder, is probably the hardest hitter in the City league. The youngster also ranks with the best fielders in the loop.

Pewee Hinds, shortstop, who was with Texas Electrics at the first of the Twilight season, is playing with James Brothers. Cecil Allison has been shifted from short to second base, giving the Milkmen one of the strongest infields in the loop.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

IT IS AN AXIOM of baseball that as the clubs are playing the middle of the season, so they will play at the end of the race. It isn't far from the half-way mark, which is around July 4, and the strength and weaknesses of the teams in various races has been very well determined. There are exceptions noted, however, of teams that refused to find their supposed levels in lowly places, and there are nines figured as possible contenders on pre-season calculations, which have not displayed the sort of baseball expected of them.

The race in the Texas league has been run to date very much to form. Illness and injuries that beset the Wichita Falls club knocked the Spudders from contention as flag contenders in the first half, but the champions have played such a game recently as to indicate they will be very much in the race in the second half. Houston Buffs have shown power expected of them and apparently are "in" with the first half gonfalon. Fort Worth also has been a consistent contender.

SAN ANTONIO BEARS have been somewhat stronger than was anticipated. Dallas was off to a wretched start and out of the race before the rejuvenation process of the Steers set in. Waco, like Wichita Falls, suffered from disabilities of players. Not much was expected of Shreveport, and even less than that of Beaumont. The Sports and the Exporters have not disappointed the prognosticators.

The Yankees have shown the way with ease in the American league, as was expected. Detroit Tigers failed to justify the confidence reposed in them by critics and their manager, George Moriarty, as being of first division class and possible contenders. On the other hand, the re-made St. Louis Browns have shown excellent and at times brilliant baseball.

The National league race, looming in pre-season forecasts as a scramble, has been nothing less than that. No less than six clubs are in the hunt for the gonfalon and no less than five doubtless will carry on right down to the final wire, in contrast to the race in the American league, which already, barring an unforeseen calamity in the form of mishaps to Yankee stars, is decided.

MR. LOWDEN quit the G. O. P. race.

THAT'S LIKE the Phillies quitting the National league race.

TODAY'S CAMPAIGN slogan: "Who but Hoover?"

Well, there is Smith.

HOW'S THIS for Al: "Smith's no myth."

Spud-Steer Tilt Monday Transferred to Dallas

The Spudders and Steers will play only four games here this series, concluded with today's game and a double-header tomorrow. The game scheduled to be played here Monday has been transferred to Dallas to enable the clubs to make train connections for their swing around the southern half of the league.

At Dallas Monday the Spudders will be the "home team. Money paid for box and reserved seats will go to the Spudders while the Dallas club will get get the cut of the gate of a visiting team.

HALLAS MEETS SINGH TUESDAY

First Outdoor Mat Show Of Season Announced

Billy Hallas of Coshocton, Ohio, 147 pounds, one of the toughest welterweights in the game, will take on Basanta Singh, Hindu grappler, 152 pounds, in the first outdoor wrestling show of the season at Spudders' Athletic park Tuesday night.

Singh has won victories over Jack Reynolds and Johnny Carlin here during the last two weeks. The Indian wrestler specializes in the rabbit punch.

Pete Pallas and Johnny Carlin will stage the preliminary. Carlin has just recovered from the carbuncle on the back of his neck which caused him so much pain last week.

Pallas won a handicap match from Teddy Waters last week when Waters failed to throw him twice in one hour.

The Singh-Hallas match should prove a treat to fans who enjoy "Packinghouse rules." Both of them are well educated in ways and of making an opponent highly uncomfortable.

Phelan and Sears Fined For Row With Umpire

DALLAS, Texas, June 15. (AP)—Suspension of Manager Art Phelan of Shreveport, which followed a dispute with Umpire Donahue at Shreveport Monday, will be lifted Saturday, President J. Doak Roberts of the Texas league announced today.

Roberts also announced he had plastered fines of $50 and $25 on Phelan and Ziggy Sears, respectively. Sears is alleged to have brought a number of fans into the argument.

Golfers at Dallas For Southern Amateur Play

DALLAS, Texas, June 15. (UP)—Entries for the Southern Amateur Golf championship, which begins Tuesday, were arriving here today to practice over the course at Brook Hollow Country club.

Fully 225 golfers, including outstanding players of the South, will compete for the title, one time belonging to Bobby Jones.

By OLD ANGLER

If you adopt the mobile plan of motor camping for your angling trips, about the first problem that will arise is selecting a tent. Today equipping the millions of camping sportsmen and tourists is a great industry, and tents to suit any demand are to be had in a number of types.

In any case, buy a well advertised and standard make, and you will likely select one of the handy lightweight umbrella ones, either with center pole or poleless and you will make no mistake in either. Select one made of close-wove duck, drill or other textile and it must be waterproof and guaranteed to remain so, also fire and mildew proof.

It must have double screened door and windows to repel the buzzing and flying insects, and have a waterproof canvas floor to keep out snakes and other crawling pests.

Good strong guy ropes always in place and iron pegs will keep your rag house in place even in fierce storms. It is well to select a size larger than you now require, for your family or party may increase and the extra room will come handy, and there is little extra cost, weight or bulk. The whole tent goes into a waterproof bag and carries on running board, permitting car door to open.

Hoover Steps Into Campaign

WASHINGTON, June 15. (AP)—His usual schedule of reaching his office at an early hour undisturbed by his nomination, Secretary Hoover swung today into the preliminaries of his presidential campaign.

As a shower of congratulations upon his attainment of the highest honor of his party, poured upon him, Mr. Hoover grasped time in which to write his first pronouncement, a message to the delegates at Kansas City.

Touches Farm Issue

The message was not limited merely to the expression of his thanks and appreciation for the nomination, but sought to set clearly a note for his campaign.

He dealt in it with the farm relief issues that have been paramount in all recent political agitation and expressed his attachment to the party principles laid down in the convention platform. He emphasized the necessity for spiritual and moral leadership in government and dealing with himself in all humility declared his career proved him a man in debt greatly to his country.

Among hundreds of messages from all parts of the United States and from other parts of the world, were those bearing signatures from men and women notables in all walks of life. President Coolidge sent one of the messages and an intimate note of friendship was contained in his congratulations and in the immediate response which it drew from the secretary. Only one other message was answered during the day when the secretary sent to Senator Curtis of Kansas, during the vice-presidential nomination balloting a message of welcome and appreciation.

Remains Secretary

Plans for the actual conduct of the campaign, though under consideration, were temporarily kept in the background, while the new candidate read his messages and talked with his closest aides.

"For the present, Mr. Hoover will remain secretary of commerce," George E. Akerson, his private secretary, declared. "He will continue his duties in the department."

That he frequently writes his speech while traveling on a train, was confessed recently by the Prince of Wales, who said that he pounded the keys of a portable typewriter, using the two-finger method.

Hoover to Use Radio to Gain Equal Footing With Demo Orators

By ALFRED P. BECK

WASHINGTON, June 15. (UP)—The radio, over which Secretary of Commerce Herbert C. Hoover was the first dictator, will be his chief weapon in his campaign for the presidency, it was said today.

And "Mike"—the inconspicuous little dial at the broadcasting end of a radio station—will place the Republican nominee on an equal footing with the most vociferous candidate which the Democratic party might choose.

Poor Orator

Hoover is not a good orator. His speaking voice does not carry well. His delivery lacks the gestures which go far in holding attention or emphasizing a statement. But "Mike" will eliminate this inequality. Hoover has a good broadcasting voice—soft, steady and unemotional—demonstrated in a number of radio speeches he has made.

Hoover thinks clearly, is able to put his thoughts into concise words without loss of time. In this, he is the ideal radio speaker.

The radio campaign also will eliminate tiresome barnstorming and enable the Republican candidate to reach millions of persons with his messages, rather than a few thousand.

Called Aloof

Hoover does not make friends easily. The politicians say he is aloof, cool and unreachable, all of which is partially true. He does not indulge in back slapping, hand shaking and other well-known commodities of the political professional but well chosen words over the radio will make him more friends than a circle-tour of the nation ever could.

Hoover is more or less of an individualist, by training and surroundings. For his position in life, he has no one to thank more than himself. The greater portion of his life has been spent in pioneering where he had had to depend upon himself and his own resourcefulness for success. Consequently, he is free thinking and individualistic.

Hoover is human—although many politicians doubt it. This was frequently demonstrated in his flood relief work in the Mississippi valley. Hoover was highly popular not only with the rescued home owners but with river men and workers.

Curtis Given Solid Vote

among the leaders of the various elements of the party, a Curtis landslide started this morning which swept all rival candidates for vice president before it and assured the nomination of Curtis before the convention met.

Supporters of the other candidates went through the motion of placing their favorites before the convention, but all were withdrawn almost as soon as nominated. It then became a ratification meeting and the roll call was a mere formality to comply with the rules of the convention. The result of the vote was:

Charles Curtis, 1062; Herman Ekern, former attorney general of Wisconsin, 19; Charles G. Dawes, 13; Hanford MacNider, 2; not voting 3; making a total of 1089.

None of the other candidates receiving votes were formally placed in nomination. Those votes came from Minnesota, which gave Dawes 3, and Curtis 24; North Dakota voted Curtis 7, and Ekern 6; South Dakota gave Curtis 3 and Dawes 10, and Wisconsin split, giving Curtis 8, Ekern 13, MacNider 2 and 3 not voting.

Made Unanimous

Immediately after the result had been announced amid enthusiastic whoops, Senator George Moses of New Hampshire, the chairman, put the question of making the nomination of Curtis the unanimous choice of the convention. A mighty roar of "ayes" rocked the ancient auditorium and not a single dissenting voice was heard.

Curtis, swarthy grandson of a Kansas Indian chieftain, was seen in the background and was called to the speaker's stand.

It was the signal for a wild ovation which more than matched the demonstration which greeted the announcement that Hoover had been nominated by an overwhelming majority. The veteran Republican leader smiled his appreciation and then in a voice vibrant with deep emotion formally accepted the nomination and thanked the convention. He said:

"I want to thank you each and everyone from the bottom of my heart, for the great honor you have today conferred upon me and upon the great state of Kansas.

"It was my pleasure in 1924 to bring to the central west for the first time, the majority leadership of the United States senate. I had hoped in 1928 to bring the nomination for the presidency, to a middle west man.

Thanks Friends

"We brought our contest to the convention. I want to thank my loyal friends for the splendid fight they put up for my nomination. Not being able to bring the nomination for the presidency to the central west, I am gratified indeed and thank you all for giving to us the nomination for the vice presidency. I believe that with the splendid record, yes I am certain that with the splendid record the Republican party has made under the leadership of that able and great secretary, Mr. Hoover, we will be successful in November."

One of the reasons behind the choice of Curtis is that he is a forceful and convincing speaker on the stump, although he has gained a reputation for silence in the senate. The Republican leaders recognize the fact that Hoover, who is new to American politics, is not an affective speaker and the brunt of the speaking campaign will fall on the shoulders of Curtis.

The fact that Curtis had been a candidate for the presidential nomination was quickly forgotten by the delegates as they hurried out of Kansas City to escape the rising temperature. In fact, Curtis was the nearest rival to Hoover on the ballot, receiving 64 votes.

The managers of the convention gave an appealing touch to the nomination of Curtis just before the roll was called. Chairman Moses called to the stand Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight of Providence, a delegate from Rhode Island, to make the final seconding speech for her father.

GIRL FLIERS STOPPED AGAIN

Flying Duet Waits For Clear Weather

ST. JOHNS, N. F., June 15. (AP)—Two American girls, Miss Amelia Earhart and Miss Mabel Boll, each planning to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic ocean, waited today for more favorable weather before taking off on the dangerous voyage.

Miss Boll and her companions of the airplane Columbia visited St. Johns from Harbor Grace, motoring the 68 miles.

Miss Earhart and her crew of the Fokker monoplane Friendship were at Trepassey Bay.

The plans of the crew of the Friendship were not made known, since several futile efforts had been made to take off from the harbor under the heavy load of gasoline necessary to fuel the ship on the long trip.

Miss Boll said her plans were unchanged; she intended to leave at the first favorable opportunity, and was confident of reaching England, after which she planned to fly to the continent.

The speed of the airplane Columbia is 110 miles per hour and that of the Friendship 90, Miss Boll said, and hence she is confident of arrival first in England, even though the planes start at the same time.

Among the settlers who arrived in the Union of South African under auspices of the 1820 Memorial Settlers association were five unmarried women, one of whom is to be a doctor and three others are to raise fruit and poultry.

Extradition May Reach Blackmer

DENVER, June 15. (AP)—Indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of perjury and evasion of the income tax laws, Henry M. Blackmer, millionaire oil man and missing key witness in the celebrated Teapot Dome case, faces the prospect of being extradited from his haven of self imposed exile in France to the United States for trial.

Six true bills, containing 14 counts, were returned against him.

Naval Dirigible Takes Off On Training Flight

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 15. (UP)—The naval dirigible Los Angeles left the air field here at 9:15 tonight on what was described as a training flight. A crew of eight officers, 32 men, seven student officers and one passenger was aboard. The ship was commanded by Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl. No destination was announced nor was it said when the ship would return.

The Los Angeles was sighted over Bayonne, N. J., a few minutes after midnight. She was headed toward New York.

Too Many Candidates Seek Only Publicity

PARIS, June 15. (AP)—Candidates who run for office only for the advertising seem an expensive pest to quite a few French newspapers and they are discussing plans to curb them. It is estimated that at least a thousand men who sought election as deputies recently had no thought of winning, but bolstered up their business at public expense.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—The cotton market today was inactive with a general absence of aggressive buying, but prices reflected a feeling of uneasiness over the progress of the new crop. Aside from moderate liquidation early, which carried the October position to 20.56, 1 point under the previous close, there was little pressure to sell. The October price later advanced to 20.72. The close was steady, 5 to 13 points net higher.

The market opened steady at 1 to 6 points above the previous close in response to steady Liverpool cables and overnight private reports of heavy rains in portions of the Mississippi valley, which resulted in flood warnings along some of the rivers in that locality.

Complaints were received of the appearance of boll weevil, both in Texas and in some of the eastern states, and while prospects were for somewhat more settled weather, it was generally admitted that the crop of late has been making poor advancement owing to delayed cultivation. Public interest in the market was not apparent, however, and traders in general seemed inclined to be cautious about taking an aggressive position at this time.

The feeling of uncertainty over developments in Wall street checked buying and the market as a whole was in a waiting position, but with a very steady undertone.

Exports today, 25,956, making 7,299,560 so far this season. Port receipts, 8584. U. S. port stocks, 995,221.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 15. (AP)—Cotton prices tended upward today in only moderate trading. Expectations of a bullish boll weevil report, issued after the market closed, was responsible for a late rally which carried October contracts to 20.18, compared with the day's low point of 20.00, and 20.02, yesterday's closing quotation. The option closed at 20.14, or 12 points higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 12 points on all active positions.

The opening was steady in sympathy with higher Liverpool cables than due. Prices continued to advance after the start on buying promoted by the unfavorable weather in the belt over night. July traded up to 20.45, October to 20.15, and December to 20.12, or 12 to 17 points above the previous close. Failure of the New York market to meet the advance here discouraged any inclinations to buy, and prices turned downward on liquidation by recent purchasers, July reacting to 20.27, October to 20.00, and December to 19.97, or 15 to 18 points down from the highs.

Unfavorable crop news from Texas and a forecast for unfavorable weather stimulated the demand and prices recovered 18 to 20 points from the lowest. Weakness in New York stocks caused a recession of 10 points, but in the late trading the market rallied almost to the highs on advance news that the boll weevil report would be very bullish. July closed at 20.40, October 20.14, and December 20.12, or 12 points net higher.

Fear of Higher Money Rates Throws Bearish Selling Over Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, June 15.—Dull and ragged market was experienced on the stock exchange today as money uncertainties confused the speculative community. Call money remained at 5½ per cent, in good supply throughout the session but fear existed that higher rates would be experienced soon and caused steady offerings of leading stocks that brought premature end to every rally. Motor shares lost most as a group with General Motors off close to 7 points. Steel was a keen disappointment as it failed to hold its advance while Allied Chemical dropped 5 and other standard industrials lost to a lesser extent.

Rails also sold off although supported on a scale down while American Linseed and a few other specialties influenced by individual developments were the only stocks to close net higher. Radio dropped 12 points to a new low for the move on outbreak of heavy short selling. Grain continued its rally but met heavier offerings while cotton remained firm. Foreign exchange was quiet but fractionally higher with the exception of the peseta.

As expected, the reserve bank statements had a bearish influence. The drop of $135,000,000 in loans was not as large as generally expected and the purchase of $15,000,000 government securities was more than offset by the loss of $28,000,000 in gold by the system and increase of $61,000,000 in borrowings of member banks. Furthermore the ratio of reserves was down to the lowest level since 1921. Belief was strengthened that nothing more than momentary easing in money is likely until the correction of the stock market which the reserve evidently desires is fully accomplished.

There appeared to be heavier short selling than at any time since the reactionary period started. It was concentrated especially on General Motors and radio and in the afternoon it forced the sharp drop in price of the latter stock.

Curtiss which is in the same technical position as radio also dropped. It was rumored that the company was planning another offer of common stock to finance expansion of the Buffalo plant. Uneasiness was enhanced in the afternoon when Steel, Allied Chemical and other standard industrials succumbed to the steady pounding of professionals.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE
Universal Service

CHICAGO, June 15.—The grain markets bobbed up and down rather lazily today, like the float on a fisherman's line. The outside trade did no more than nibble; and at the close professional opinions were a hash of stale contraries.

Wheat was down ⅜ to 1⅛ at the end; corn was ⅜ lower to ½ higher; oats were unchanged to ¼ better; rye off ¾ to 1c.

The markets appeared to be pretty well evened up when the closing gong sounded. Erratic fluctuations have impressed pit traders with the wisdom of keeping close to the shore.

The result may be that the professional trade will quickly shift to either side which looks good today.

Wheat is a particularly difficult market to forecast just at present. The way it closed last night was not inspiring to those with bullish views. It may slide lower today. At least early bulges should be followed carefully.

Crop news continues to be so bearish that the fact wheat has sold down 30 cents from its top prices six weeks or so ago is forgotten. That big break has done a lot to readjust the speculative situation. But it may be some time before the beneficial results of it become apparent by the development of underlying power.

Although corn was stronger than wheat yesterday, it did not act in a way to make bulls enthusiastic. That the cash situation is strong there is no gainsaying; and that ultimately Chicago's stock of old corn will be wanted and bid for, also seems likely.

Oats, too, are in a position made strong by the cash market.

In the cash market wheat was steady; corn was 1 to 3 up; oats were steady; rye was quiet; barley was steady.

STOCK-A-DAY

DURHAM DUPLEX RAZOR CO.
Five-year Record

The Durham Duplex Razor company manufactures safety razors and blades. It was incorporated in 1908. It controls the Wade & Butcher corporation through ownership of 90 per cent of the common stock. The latter company in turn controls W. & S. Butcher, Ltd., of England, which makes stainless steel knife blades. The company has three foreign subsidiaries in addition.

The plant of the concern is located at Jersey City, while factories of subsidiaries are located at Toronto, Can., Sheffield, England, and Satrouville, France. The company sold approximately 27,000,000 blades in 1926.

Net income in 1927 amounted to $221,910. This was equivalent to $7.39 a share on the $4 preferred stock, and $2.48 a share on the class A common.

There is no funded debt, the previous bond issue having been called August 1, 1927. Capital stock outstanding consists of 30,000 shares of $4 cumulative prior preferred of no par value; $3000 in 7 per cent participating preferred of $100 par; 36,750 shares of class A common of no par value. Thirty-five thousand shares of class B common of no par value has been authorized but none has been issued. Each preferred share carries a warrant entitling the holder to purchase a share of no par class B common at $50 a share prior to June 1, 1932, at the ratio of one share of class B for each share of prior preference. Class A and B are alike in all respects except that class B has no voting privileges.

Dividends on the prior preferred have been paid since September 1, 1927. On the common no dividends have been reported.

As of January 1, 1928, current assets were $637,965; current liabilities $152,082, and net working capital $485,873. Book value applicable to the prior preference shares amounted to $79.76 a share.

OIL TARIFF IS PROPOSED

Urged as Substitute For Pool Prorating

AUSTIN, Texas, June 15. (UP)—The state railroad commission which has been pro rating a fixed amount of oil production in the Winkler field of West Texas had the question of their power to do so put squarely up to them in the hearing this week on proposed similar pro rata orders for the Yates field.

The commission prefaced its Winkler field order on the ground that it was to prevent waste.

J. C. Adams of the Transcontinental Oil company told the commission that to say a field should produce so much oil and then pro rata it was not a practical method of preventing waste. If any individual well is actually wasting oil by its method of production, the commission already has the power to stop that waste without pro rating, Adams pointed out.

Imports Large

Adams declared that the real difficulty is that foreign oil is coming in that amounts to the distress production which the commission is trying to abate.

His remedy is a tariff on oil.

Adams argued that in any event there is no ground for the state to step in and put forth unchangeable rules so long as a voluntary pro rating in the field is getting results by its flexible methods.

That most of the operators have made a pro rata agreement was boldly admitted at the hearing, though Attorney General Pollard was present. This was taken to indicate the operators believe the anti-trust law cannot be applied on oil production. The agreement expires June 30.

Rule Arbitrary

Another pointed question asked by the opponents of the pro rata order was to why a production as low as five per cent of the estimated capacity should be put on the Yates field while oil production is not similarly curtailed in other sections.

The rule should be the same for all fields, was Adams declaration.

The situation in the Yates field is further complicated by river bed leases from the state. Holders of these point out that the legislature has laid down rules for such leases and mildly inquire how the commission is going to consider them.

Another poser put to the commission was how to justify a pro rata agreement on acreage basis when owners of large acreages can take their full allotment from wells closest to wells of owners of small tracts, thus gradually draining the small tracts.

TRAFFIC HAZARD

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 15.—A dwelling house remained in the middle of Dana avenue for a year while property owners wrangled over its removal to a new location.

Hoover's Former Home Town Pays Tribute to Nominee in Celebration

WEST BRANCH, Ia., June 15. (UP)—Eight hundred citizens of this little village celebrated a holiday today, the first they have had for a long time outside of Fourth of July, Christmas and New Years.

Bells rang, whistles blew, fireworks blazed and exploded, speeches were made and bands played. The occasion was in honor of the one-time village blacksmith's orphan boy, "Herbie," who played along "Main street," where the butcher, baker and barber joined in rejoicing today over the great honor laid suddenly at their doors.

His former school chums, now distinguished citizens of West Branch know him as "Hub;" his former school teacher, who encouraged her pupils that some day they may be great leaders of men, knows him as "Bertie," but the nation knows him as Herbert Clark Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, and secretary of commerce.

"I am sure he will be elected," Molly Curran, who gave him his first educational instructions, said today. "It is like fulfillment of prophesy. We often told the children one of them might become leader of their nation."

Other townsmen gathered today in stores and along the streets in little groups recalling incidents in the boyhood life of the man who may hold the office of chief executive of the United States.

All the noise and conversation raised today over "Hub," indicated plainly that when the votes are counted in West Branch next November, the total will be little short of unanimous for Hoover for president.

$1000 Loss in Fire At Electra Residence

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 14.—Fire of unknown origin gutted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Holcomb of 708 East Bryan avenue, Thursday morning at 5:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Holcomb was in Midlothian, on a visit with relatives at the time of the fire, and Mr. Holcomb had left 20 minutes before neighbors discovered smoke issuing from around closed doors and windows. The Electra volunteer fire department answered the call, and saved the building, but the interior and the furnishings were badly damaged by fire, smoke and water. The loss is estimated at $1000, but it was not learned if any insurance was carried.

WEETH AGAIN VOTES BONDS

$20,000 Issue Authorized By 31-0 Count

For the second time in three months, a $20,000 bond issue for a new school house for the Weeth community has been voted, according to announcements made Friday. The vote was 31 to 0.

The first election was held invalid by the attorney general due to a technicality. Plans for the building were pushed regardless of the decision as the new election was immediately arranged.

Pate and Thompson, Wichita Falls architects, drew the plans which call for a four classroom and office structure with a spacious auditorium. It will be one story high and of brick. Construction will start at once. The American First Trust company of Oklahoma City has purchased the contract on the bonds, and Goad and Fitzgerald of Iowa Park have the construction contract.

First Methodist Ends Bible School

The First Methodist church closed its fourth annual vacation church school with exercises in the church Friday night.

Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the church, said that the enrollment had been 250, the attendance exceptional, and the success of the school greater than at any time in the past.

The program was opened at 8 o'clock with a few remarks by the pastor, and was followed by an exhibit of handwork and manual training in the basement at 9 o'cock.

E. F. Bohmfalk, director of religious education at the church, has been in charge of the school which lasted for three weeks. It was for the boys and girls from 4 to 13 years of age. The program given was as follows:

Introductory statement, Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor.
Lord's prayer led by kindergarten group.
Exercises by the kindergarten group.
Song, kindergarten pupils.
Memory work, primary department.
Songs, primary department—"The Bible," "Father, We Thank Thee," "He Cares for Me," "Little Friends of Jesus," "He Loves Me, Too," "God Is Everywhere," "Give,' Said the Little Stream," Goodbye Song."
Playlet, "The Outcome of a Secret," junior boys.
Playlet, "Value of Preparation," junior girls.
Playlet, "Travelers," entire junior department.
Song, "We've a Story to Tell the Nation," junior department.
Awarding of ribbons.
Flag salute by the entire school.
Benediction.

Explorers In Great Danger

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 15. (UP)—General Umberto Nobile and his companions of the wrecked dirigible Italia tonight were menaced by storm, hunger, cold, and open water as the ice pack, breaking up in the warmer waters, drifted eastward, according to a message received from the explorer by the Citta di Milano, the Italia's mothership.

A heavy southwest storm struck the encampment Thursday night and although the message said it was subsiding today, the ice floe was drifting with increasing rapidity toward warmer waters. Nobile gave his position as 80:38 north latitude, 27:49 east longitude.

May Move Camp

"The ice nearby is splitting and large expanses of water are suddenly appearing," the message said. "While the water affords suitable starting places for seaplanes it evokes, on the other hand, the danger of more ice floes being formed which may cause us to move our encampment."

Nobile again urged the rescue workers to rush food, arms, and ammunition to the encampment, a red-painted tent to catch the eye of airplane searchers, surrounded by ice blocks to break the force of the bitter arctic winds.

Nobile Recovers

The explorer reported he was recovering from the injuries received when the Italia, weighted with ice, struck and demolished the gondola in which he and nine members of the crew were riding. He suffered cuts and bruises on his arm and leg. The other injured members of the expedition are out of danger, Nobile reported.

Nothing has been received here to indicate the fate or the whereabouts of the seven members of the Italia's crew blown away when the dirigible crashed and freed herself of the gondola, but the men had sufficient food for 50 days, Nobile reported, and experts believe they have managed to survive if they landed safely.

L. E. Fawks Elected Worshipful Master

L. E. Fawks was elected worshipful master of the Wichita Falls lodge No. 635, A. F. & A. M., in the Masonic temple Friday night. He will succeed G. D. Kinnard.

Other officers to serve for the coming year who were elected at the meeting include John A. Mayer, senior warden; M. M. Cooke, junior warden; Lester Jones, treasurer; George W. Lawler, secretary, and A. A. Bussey, tiler. The last three were re-elected.

Five officers are yet to be chosen. They are appointive and are as follows: Senior and junior wardens, senion and junior stewards, and chaplain.

The annual installation of officers of the lodge will be held June 25 at the Masonic temple, according to Mr. Lawler.

Peasants Now Write For Russian Papers

MOSCOW, June 15. (AP) — Soviet Russia publishes 556 newspapers with a total circulation of 7,684,090, says Tass, the official news agency, in giving statistics of newspaper growth in connection with the recent celebration of "Press day."

Moscow itself has 48 papers with a circulation of 4,000,000. A feature of Soviet journalism is the participation of worker and peasant correspondents who number 325,500 it is stated.

Now that the Republicans have named a Californian and a Jayhawker as their candidates for the presidency and vice presidency, it comes the turn of the Democrats to have their shot at the headlines, and for a week or so be the source of amusement for the nation even as the G. O. P. has been for the last few days. If the humor of these politicians who take themselves so seriously could be transferred to the movies, it would make the greatest satirical comedy the world ever has known. The chief difference probably would be in the audience which at political conventions always tries to prove it holds the championship for being composed of the world's worst sports. At a movie show, they will express their pleasure, and they don't have any silly and narrow ideas which are formed at the start.

A scene from "Aflame In the Sky," now playing at the Olympic theater.

Sharon Lynn, a musical comedy actress who had a good part in "Sunny" has been elevated to stardom in "Aflame In the Sky" which is now playing at the Olympic. It is an aviation special thriller.

"Tenderloin," the newest of the talking motion pictures, opened to big houses at the Strand theater Friday. Vitaphone and Warner brothers have advanced the talkies another big notch in this film which carries more conversation than any of the talkies to date. Dolores Costello is particularly good in it.

Adolph Menjou in "A Night of Mystery" is closing at the Majestic Saturday night.

"When the Law Rides," an F. B. O. attraction, is announced for the Olympic to open Monday. Tom Tyler is billed in big black letters as being a major portion of the show.

Loot Valued at $2000 Recovered In Raid On House at Electra

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, June 15.— An Electra man was in jail and more than $2,000 worth of stolen property was in custody following a raid on a house in the eastern edge of Electra Friday morning by Ed Pryor, constable. The goods, everything from dry goods to false teeth, were stored in the house, under the house and in the garage, according to Mr. Pryor.

The man arrested refused to talk, and was lodged in the Electra jail to await filing of charges.

The stolen property was recovered after Mr. Pryor had secured a search warrant to look for a stolen automobile clock. Mr. Pryor was assisted by Tom Shook and F. C. Fountain.

The recovered property consists of 18 suits of clothes, electric light stands and other electrical appliances, hardware articles, a set of false teeth, and other merchandise.

The man arrested was about 40 years old and had no use for false teeth. In addition to the new goods recovered, the officers found a gunny sack full of greasy oil field gloves which they cannot account for. Most of the property had been identified by its owners Friday night.

Delegates Get Hardly a Laugh For Their Money at G.O.P. Convention

By EMILY NEWELL BLAIR
(Vice-Chairman of the Democratic National Committee)
(Copyright 1928, by Universal Service, Inc.)

KANSAS CITY, June 15.—One wonders what the delegates get for their money. Hardly a laugh. With Fess for keynoter, an oratoric tune, with Smoot for chairman of the resolutions committee, a two hour reader too narrow to be seen, too tall for the radio to be heard. No one could make a platform thrilling but some personalities can make it listened to. No songs and such a bashful band. As for speakers, only LaFollette and Borah. Not even they could make oratory out of the equalization fee. A dull business. The Democrats may not have as good an organization or perfect a discipline but there is no disputing they offer better entertainment.

And what won't such stoppering up of the American love of drama and thrills do to the Republican complex? Where was the Republican talent? There is a Governor Henry Allen, who has no superior as a wit, a William Allen White, an Ogden Mills, a George Wharton Pepper, a Theodore Burton.

"Women as Women"

Two women seconded presidential nominations, Mrs. Christine Bradley South of Kentucky, that of Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Herbert J. Cromwell of Kansas, that of Senator Curtis. Both women spoke as speaking for the woman vote and of women's interests—the first and only appearance of "women as women," once so popular, in this convention.

Neither wore corsage, praise be. And praise be, too, for present day fashions. Fancy women at conventions in bombazines, or hoops or bustles, or trains, or even wide sailors, or long skirts, frilled or stiff, large sleeves occupying two seats apiece, chokers, picture hats, even hair pins. Ten years ago a bushel basket would not have held the hairpins swept up after each session.

Unassuming Service

Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice-chairman of the Republican national committee, sat like a lady through both the Fess keynote speeches and the reading of the platform. Not a negligible and certainly not an amusing service to perform for her party. Understand me, I am not belittling either the position of the vice-chairman of the national committee or Mrs. Hert's service to the party. Neither is a stage property. It is well understood that Grace Coolidge is an asset to Calvin Coolidge and to the Republican party.

Sociability is a commodity in politics. Every organizer knows the value of it. Many a vote has been gained by a smile and a bit of hospitality. That is the way English women have always played politics. There was the Mrs. Bingham of federal days. Mark Hanna's fried chicken breakfasts played a large part in his system.

Woman has always been the high priestess of sociability. It is evidence of the astuteness of Republican leaders that they have recognized the high gifts of Mrs. Hert in that direction.

Beer Seized in Raid By Electra Constable

ELECTRA, June 15.—About 150 bottles of beer were seized and four persons were arrested in two raids in the residential section of Electra Friday, according to Ed Pryor, constable. Charges will be filed against the men arrested Saturday, Mr. Pryor said.

JESSIE MAE MORLEY

Jessie Mae Morley, 15-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Morley of Tipton, Okla., died in a Wichita Falls hospital Friday afternoon.

The body was shipped to Tipton Friday evening by the Merkle Undertaking company for burial. The parents accompanied the body.

Many pilgrims have recently visited the shrine at Carfin-grotto, near Motherswell, Scotland, known as the "Scottish Lourdes," because of the miraculous cures said to have taken place there.

100 TO ATTEND WEST TEXAS C-C

Wichita Delegation to Leave Tuesday

Wichita Falls probably will be represented by 100 people in the official motor caravan which will go to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce annual convention at Fort Worth starting Tuesday, according to Hubert Harrison, general manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

"Plans have been going forward rapidly," Mr. Harrison said. "The party will leave here at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning by automobiles from the chamber of commerce building. They will stay together at Fort Worth until after the parade, and then will disband to enjoy the convention as they, as individuals, see fit.

"A. H. Britain is a chairman of the delegation from this city, and he and his committee have worked hard to assure a good and profitable time for all on the trip.

"Information I have received from Fort Worth indicated that the convention will be a happy one, and one that all will enjoy.

VINES' TRIAL OPENS MONDAY

Wichitan Faces Charge Of Aggravated Assault

Charley Vines will go on trial Monday morning in county court on charges of aggravated assault in connection with an attack on Cyrus Jetter on May 17. Al Jennings, tried on companion charges was found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

Jetter testified last Tuesday that he could not positively identify the man who struck him at the garage where he worked, but that Jennings and Vines told him the next day that it was Jennings who struck him.

Dr. T. C. Shirley, who attended the attack victim, testified last Tuesday that he believed the loss of weight by Jetter and frequent headaches suffered were results of the blow given him.

Vines also is charged with vagrancy.

Other cases set for call on the county criminal docket Monday include: M. A. Luster, theft under $50; Henry Marshall, carrying a pistol; Albert Jackson, (negro), theft under $50, and Earl Walton, theft under $50.

The Malady Still Lingers at Close Of Convention

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

KANSAS CITY, June 15. — The convention is ended.

But the malady lingers on.

Dr. Butler will tour the west delivering his famous lecture: "Ever Shad Has a Plank."

Republicans finally squared the farmers by promising to blame everything on the next administration.

The robbing of a Kansas City bank suggested the idea that the Chicago delegate had combined pleasure with business.

Curtis will fill the vacancy that was emptied by Dawes.

The Republican ticket was chosen in the following order:

President.

The senate page boys.

Vice president.

Residents of the Mississippi valley are fleeing to the hills. A 20-foot wave of discarded badges is sweeping down the stream.

After watching the delegates squirrels in Kansas City we advise the Houston chairman to discard his gavel and use a nutcracker.

The farmers went back home, sadder but dumber.

What the clover kickers can't figure out is why the government spends millions to eradicate the Japanese beetle and deliberately encourages Republicans.

After having been removed gently for the second time in four years, Mr. Lowden remarked: "I must be the inflamed tonsils of this party."

Hoover will not talk during the presidential campaign. He is a Socrates without a sock.

The last seen of Dr. Butler he was going back to college.

Curtis is a farmer from the Sunflower state. Which makes a bad bouquet if Hoover is a morning glory.

Having had four years in the White House, Dawes is still for the good of the party. He said "I will give Mr. Hoover the benefit of my experience. I will teach him how to smoke a pipe."

Jim Reed Expected to Get Behind Al's Band Wagon Against Hoover

By PAUL R. MALLON

KANSAS CITY, June 15. (UP)—The Lowden and Watson campaign banners were taken down from Twelfth street windows an hour after the Republican national convention adjourned today, and the cry of campaign followers became "on to Houston" for the Alfred E. Smith show.

Republican leaders read with interest news reports showing Smith had captured 26 more votes in Kentucky and about 7½ in North Carolina.

Their notation pads indicated that Smith had rolled up a first ballot strength of 655 votes, just 79 votes short of the two-thirds majority necessary for the Democratic nomination.

G. O. P. Faces Al

In the private discussions of Republican leaders, the nomination of Smith was accepted as a reasonable certainty. The plans of the Republican convention were laid accordingly.

Smith has ridden rough shod over his opposition in the primaries.

Tabulations based upon United Press Reports show he has about 548 instructed delegates and 107 accredited but uninstructed delegates. In addition he is expecting some strength from the favorite sons, Woolen of Indiana, Ritchie, of Maryland, Hitchcock of Nebraska, and Pomerene of Ohio.

Should Smith get Woolen's 30, Ritchie's 16, Pomerene's 47 and 8 of Hitchcock's, as indicated by his managers, he would be over with 20 votes to spare.

Reed for Smith

In one vital respect the Kansas City convention may have helped Smith. Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, somewhat displeased with the manner in which the Smith campaign has been conducted, had been expected not to support Smith actively on the stump if the New York governor was nominated.

Reed, however, is a bitter opponent of Hoover. His friends here in his home town say Hoover's nomination may place Reed wholeheartily in Smith's camp.

The Houston convention will open June 26 in Jesse Jones' especially built auditorium. The Democratic national committee will meet there a day ahead of time to conduct routine business. Only one insignificant delegate contest, involving two votes from the canal zone, is scheduled for decision by the committee.

Humphreys to Head Next Vaudeville Bill

The first number for the Thursday night vaudeville program in Bellevue park was announced Friday by C. C. Bunnengerg, superintendent of parks. It is music by Frank Humphreys, a string instrument artist. Mr. Bunnenberg said that other numbers on the program will be announced as rapidly as they are promised.

PROGRAM FOR PARKS LISTED

Three Sing-Songs On Next Week's Schedule

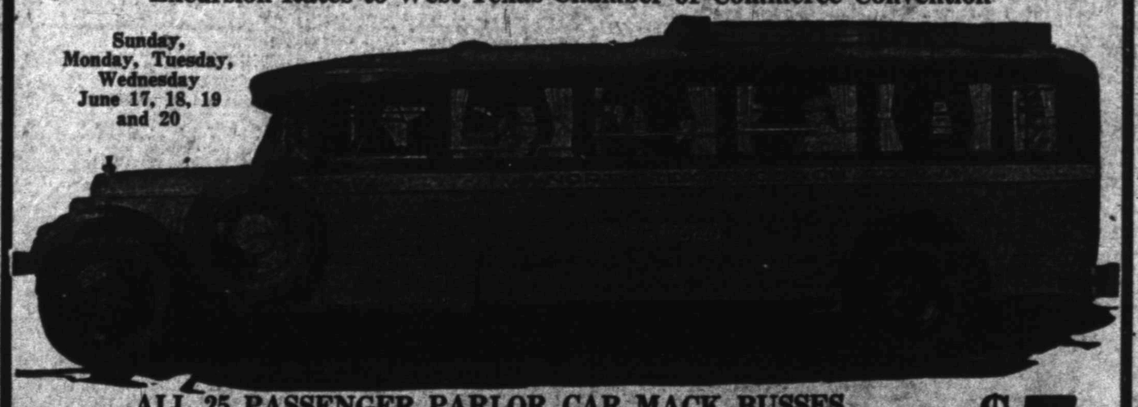

Saturday night seekers of open air pleasure will have the opportunity of seeing the free motion pictures in Scotland park, according to announcements made by C. C. Bunnenberg of the park department Friday. These pictures are presented as a part of the city free entertainment program at recreation centers.

Sing-songs which will be held Monday night at the Grant street playground, Tuesday night at Bellevue park and Friday night at the Carrigan school grounds, will be under the leadership of E. F. Bohmfalk.

Mr. Bunnenberg expressed himself Friday as being highly pleased with the public response and enthusiasm given these and other city recreational programs.
