Raids Continue After Dogfight With Migs

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese warplanes pressed their attack on bridges, barracks and other targets in North Viet Nam today in the wake of a dogfight that cost the Communists another MIG17. That made three MIGs downed in four days.

Four propeller-driven U.S. Navy Skyraiders outmaneuvered two of the faster Red jet fighters that jumped them Sunday, the pilots said, and one crashed in flames. The Navy fliers told a Saigon news conference they were scared, but none was hit in the exchange of fire.

"It was suddenly a very personal war of survival," said Lt. Cmdr. Edwin A. Greathouse, Austin, Tex., the division leader.

In the ground war a U.S. Marine was killed and three were wounded, one seriously, in a clash with guerrillas 10 miles west of Da Nang, a U.S. military spokesman announced. He said four guerrillas were killed and one wounded.

The Marine was the 417th American to die in combat in Viet Nam since December 1961.

Newsmen were told that, in four other sharp clashes, 27 government soldiers and 29 Viet Cong were killed.

In air strikes across the 17th parallel, an attack on the Dong Hoi barracks seemed to be one of the heaviest. U.S. Air Force and South Vietnamese pilots joined in the attack on that target zone, 35 miles inside North Viet Nam, and said they destroyed 64 of its 75 buildings.

Radio Peking quoted a Hanoi dispatch as saying two American planes were shot down. Independent confirmation was lacking.

Quoting a figure more than seven times the announced losses of both the United States and South Viet Nam, the Peking broadcast said North Vietnamese gunners have now downed 340 American planes.

U.S. Navy Skyraiders poured eight tons of bombs into the Phu Quy army barracks, 122 miles south of Hanoi, and reported they destroyed seven buildings. A spokesman aid three U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs wrecked the Ha Tinh highway bridge, 17 miles northwest of Vinh.

Reds Fail To Alter British Plans

By LOUIS M. NEVIN

LONDON (AP) — The British Commonwealth's Viet Nam peace mission will go on as planned despite denunciations by Red China and North Viet Nam, a spokesman for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference said today.

The spokesman said the position taken by Peking and Hanoi was "pretty predictable."

As yet no official word has been received from any of the five capitals which the four-man mission headed by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson hopes to visit, the spokesman said.

The capitals are Washington, Moscow, Peking, Hanoi and Saigon.

If an official rejection is received, he added, the conference will make it public so the world will know who is opposed to peace in Viet Nam.

The Commonwealth conference spokesman said the prime ministers will make no statement on the mission's peace itinerary until official replies have been received from all the five capitals. He explained it was the "intention at this moment" of the prime ministers to visit the capitals willing to receive the m regardless of which countries refuse.

Both Peking and Hanoi called the Commonwealth peace attempt a "discredited hoax."

Peking's official New China news agency charged that Wilson was "in the active service of the U.S. aggressive policy in Viet Nam."

Kansans Flee Flood Water

By The Associated Press

About 800 residents of Kinsley, Kan.—more than a third of the town's population—were evacuated ahead of flood torrents pouring down the Arkansas River from Colorado and western Kansas today.

Edwards County Sheriff Lloyd Britton said some patients in the town's hospital were taken to facilities in Spearville and Dodge City. Others went to their homes or to a nursing home on high ground in this city of 2,300 persons.

The destructive flood swept out of Colorado last week and is moving at two to three miles per hour across the Arkansas River Valley which winds across much of southwest and south central Kansas.

The flood, with secondary crests sustaining high-water levels for 24 hours or more across a width of up to five miles, left heavy damage at Syracuse, Lakin, Garden City and Dodge City before sweeping into Kinsley and heading toward Larned and Great Bend.

Neither Britton nor the U.S. Weather Bureau could say whether the destructive crest which swept through Dodge City Sunday had reached Kinsley at mid-morning. Kinsley is about 35 miles downstream from Dodge City.

The crest was expected to reach Larned by early afternoon and Great Bend by early Tuesday.

National Guard helicopters and small planes flew a constant vigil along the river valley just ahead of the crest to spot any stragglers.

"It's a 100-year flood," said Kansas Gov. William Avery who toured the devastated area by plane Sunday. "It's something no one ever thought could happen, and the high water marks far exceed any previous records."

Flood waters on the Arkansas and South Platte rivers receded in Colorado and officials began assessing the damage. The estimate of private property damage in Denver alone was upped to $44 million Sunday.

Mobs Favor Ben Bella

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

ALGIERS (AP) — Crowds of youths took to the streets in Algiers today to demonstrate in favor of deposed President Ahmed Ben Bella. Troops and police were rushed to the city's center.

Soldiers fired shots in the air to disperse the crowd which chanted "Vive Ben Bella!" and "Ya-hyah" (long live) Ben Bella!"

Special riot troops of the security police were called out to bolster troops. Some demonstrators were arrested and hustled away.

Nearly 1,000 youths demonstrated Sunday night but were quickly broken up.

For many hours today foreign newsmen were unable to send dispatches out of Algiers.

Troops appeared in today's demonstration for the first time since the predawn coup unseated Ben Bella Saturday.

The demonstration, began by students, broke out in the afternoon near the post office and quickly grew despite police and army efforts.

The demonstrators were not all students. Some veiled Moslem women were among them, shrilly crying out for Ben Bella, who is reported held in an army camp near the city.

The government of Col. Houari Boumedienne, which overthrew Ben Bella Saturday in a bloodless coup, announced the Asian - African conference would open as scheduled in Algiers June 29. A preparatory foreign ministers' meeting is set for Thursday.

The demonstration Sunday night was the first indication of public opposition to the new regime.

It started with a march downtown by about 200 members of the Algerian Student Federation. They shouted "Ya-hya Ben Bella" — long live Ben Bella. Riot police scattered them without violence and made a few arrests.

More youths ran through the streets shouting slogans in support of Ben Bella. They overturned garbage cans on downtown streets and hurled pavement stones. Police dispersed them by driving trucks and motorcycles through the streets at high speed with sirens wailing. Most of the demonstrators scattered without violence when police riot squads approached.

All sports events and public gatherings were banned, including an international soccer match between Algeria and the Brazilian world champions.

Boumedienne held a secret session with his ruling Revolutionary Council Sunday. One of the topics probably discussed was Ben Bella's fate. The former president was reported in an army prison camp.

The new government has denounced him as a "diabolical dictator."

Diplomats thought the government might stage a spectacular treason trial.

The council ordered the release of all political prisoners who it said had been arrested arbitrarily under Ben Bella.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic sent his top aide, Vice President Abdel Hakim Amer, to Algiers with urgent inquiries about Ben Bella's personal safety. Boumedienne went to the airport to welcome Amer.

The Foreign Ministry said the new regime had informed most of the diplomatic missions in Algiers that it will respect all of the country's international commitments.

Judge Leaves Ruby Case

DALLAS (AP)—Dist. Judge Joe Brown, who presided over the Jack Ruby murder trial in 1964, has been removed from further proceedings in the case.

Brown requested today that he be relieved. He gave no reason, saying, "I don't think a judge has to give reasons for personal decisions he makes."

Judge Dallas Blankenship, who assigns judges to Dallas cases, said Brown's removal was "effective now."

Blankenship said he has not decided which judge will replace Brown in the Ruby case, nor whether he will direct that further developments at the trial court level be removed out of Dallas County.

He said he would make these decisions "probably within the next 24 hours."

A sanity hearing for Ruby is still pending, Blankenship said.

Brown has been under fire from Ruby's attorney for several months to get out of the case. The lawyers charge that Brown has a personal interest in the case, in that he is writing a book about Ruby's murder trial.

Ruby drew the death penalty in March, 1964 for his killing of Lee Harvey Oswald, assassin of President Kennedy. His appeal has bogged down in a lengthy series of hearings, and has yet to progress beyond the trial court to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Reports On Visit With De Gaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey reports to President Johnson today on his "fruitful and most constructive" visit with French President Charles de Gaulle.

"It couldn't have been better," Humphrey said Sunday night as he arrived at Andrews Air Force Base just outside Washington after a three-day visit to Paris with Gemini astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II.

Humphrey's visit to De Gaulle Sunday took place against a backdrop of strained U.S.-French relations, especially over Viet Nam.

The vice president refused to comment specifically on the discussions, saying only that he and De Gaulle covered "a wide range of subjects" during their one-hour, 20-minute meeting in the Elysee Palace.

"I think I had best report to the President on my conversation and I intend to do that at 8:30 in the morning," Humphrey said, repeating his opinion that the conference had been very worthwhile.

Humphrey did say he gave De Gaulle a message of greetings from Johnson and that the French president had in turn sent best wishes to the American people.

Angus Assn. Show Given Approval To Be Held In Barn

The Scurry County commissioners court this morning gave approval to the Upper Colorado River Angus Association to hold their fall show and sale at the county barn here in November.

The non-profit organization holds three shows a year, and some 75 cattle are expected to be shown here, with about 300 members of the Association also expected to be present. No definite date for the show has been set.

In other business this morning the court approved the payment of county bills; authorized the release of pledged securities which were no longer needed to cover county deposits; and authorized the county judge to sign a non-discriminatory pledge in connection with the work of the county trapper.

Excise Tax Cut Signed Into Law

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signs into law today the second big tax cut of his presidency — a $4.7-billion excise tax repeal that takes effect Tuesday.

Johnson held the bill over the weekend, to give the government's fiscal agencies time to review the legislation that was rushed to completion by Congress last Thursday.

The delay was a blessing to storekeepers. Thousands of retailers toiled at inventory-taking through the weekend, to compile records they will need to claim refunds for taxes already paid on merchandise in stock.

The President confidently predicted Friday that manufacturers and dealers will pass the tax savings on to consumers and thereby help prolong the nation's unprecedented 52-month business expansion.

"This will bring us lower prices, more purchasing power and new jobs," Johnson said.

If his confidence is borne out, excise taxes worth $1.75 billion a year to the Treasury will be wiped out on Tuesday. Another $1.75 billion will come off on Jan. 1. Progressive cuts in automobile and telephone taxes will continue until Jan. 1, 1969.

Tuesday's first-stage cuts will reduce from 10 per cent to 7 per cent the tax on new cars; will eliminate entirely the 10 per cent retail excises on jewelry, toiletries, cosmetics, luggage, furs and leather goods; and will repeal the manufacturers' tax on these items:

Radio and television sets, phonographs, business machines, refrigerators, freezers, all electric and gas household appliances, cameras, film, sporting goods, air conditioners, musical instruments, fountain and ballpoint pens, playing cards and matches.

The tax repeal on air conditioners and the first-stage cut for autos are retroactive to May 15, when Johnson sent the proposed legislation to Congress. Car buyers will get back about $70 on the average, on purchases since May 15.

The repeals which take effect at year-end affect theater and movie tickets, admissions to athletic events and races, the cabaret and night club tax. The auto excise will drop one more percentage point, and the tax on telephone calls will drop from 10 per cent to 3 per cent. The entirely by an. 1, 1969; on that date the automobile tax will drop to a permanent 1 per cent.

Memorial March Held

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) —A silent group of memorial marchers began a police-guarded walk today, marking the first anniversary of the slaying of three civil rights workers near here.

Armed highway patrolmen and auxiliary police watched as about 50 marchers paired into a column and began their 12-mile journey to the burned ruins of the Mt. Zion Methodist church.

The three slain workers — two white New Yorkers and a Mississippi Negro—had visited the burned church hours before they were murdered one year ago today. They were Mickey Schwerner and Andy Goodman of New York and James Chaney, a Negro from nearly Meridian. Their bodies were found 44 days later in an earthen dam near Philadelphia.

Russia's Pravda Slaps Red China

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has assailed Red China for being "openly hostile" and impeding Russian efforts to unify the Communist camp.

The Soviet party paper Pravda published a 3,500 word editorial Sunday that mixed censure of Peking with a new call for a world Communist unity conference, which Red China opposes.

A boycott of such a meeting "means admission of the complete difference of the interests and inevitability of the collapse of the unity of the Communist movement," Pravda said without mentioning China by name in this context.

Referring to the period since the fall of Premier Khrushchev, Pravda said: "Guided by a striving to improve the situation in the world Communist movement, our party has not been conducting open polemics for eight months."

"Unfortunately," it added, "this position is not meeting a correct understanding on the part of the CPC (Chinese Communist party) leadership."

Pravda said recent Chinese speeches and articles were "distorting the actual state of affairs. Such steps naturally cannot facilitate the success of the struggle for the unity of Communist ranks."

The editorial also indicated that Viet Nam would rank high on the agenda of the conference it proposed without mentioning a date.

"No task is more pressing today than the task of struggle for ending the U.S. aggression in Viet Nam," it said. "This is the most important question of the present political moment."

Some observers see this stress on Viet Nam as a move to lay Peking open to charges of obstructing the Viet Nam war effort if it refuses to attend the unity meeting.

LABOR UNIONS

Stage Strike To Support Rebels

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Labor unions supporting the Dominican rebels called their workers out on a 72-hour strike today but it appeared to be only partially effective. Some factories in Santo Domingo closed down.

If the strike is successful, it might strengthen the bargaining position of the rebel government.

A spokesman for one of the two labor organizations sponsoring the nationwide strike call said other workers would walk out later in the day or Tuesday. There were no reports of work stoppages elsewhere in the country.

The rebels and the civilian-military junta are studying an inter-American peace formula made public Friday. The formula, accepted by both sides as a basis for negotiations, calls for a compromise provisional government now and elections in six to nine months.

The strike began in Santo Domingo at 7:30 a.m. The city appeared normal. Public transportation operated.

One labor leader, Luis Henry Molina, said there was no connection between the strike call and current efforts by Organization of American States negotiators to reach a peace settlement.

The OAS team met with rebel negotiators Sunday to discuss its new peace formula which both the rebels and the junta accepted Saturday as a basis for negotiations.

Reliable sources said the six-man rebel team sought clarification of certain points in the formula.

The rebels were reported favoring a provisional government headed by a president rather than a junta or triumvirate. The OAS formula left the point open.

The rebels also want a permanent government elected in less than six months while the OAS plan calls for elections in six to nine months.

The rebels also want more than 30 officers removed from the armed forces before rebel soldiers rejoin the army and civilians give up their arms, as the OAS proposes.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to the expectant mother who didn't want her husband to see her without dentures, so she refused to take them out and give them to the nurse. I am a surgical nurse and I know the importance of removing dentures. When fully explained to the patient, I have yet to find one who would not readily remove them. If a patient receives anesthetics, or loses consciousness even temporarily, instruments may have to go into the mouth. Artificial teeth may break or become dislodged, and it's entirely possible for the patient to swallow a piece of broken denture or to gag and choke on it. This is a mighty high price to pay for pride.

ST. LOUIS NURSE

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I, for one, was glad to see that letter in your column about people who insist on keeping their false teeth in their mouths during surgery or delivery. I work in the laundry at St. Mary's Hospital, and I wish I had a dime for every time we got a call from upstairs asking us to look for some idiot's bridgework or dentures. Some patients will actually lie when they're asked if they have any removable plates in their mouths. When they are discovered and we take them out, they either get lost or mixed up with the sheets, and the patients yell their heads off about OUR carelessness!

DISGUSTED AT ST. MARY'S

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am also a nurse who didn't take up nursing to fight the patients, but I have fought a few in my time. I'll never forget the wrestling match I had with a 240-pounder who refused to take off his money belt when we were preparing him for an emergency kidney stone operation.

R.N. IN RALEIGH, N. C.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am a Navy hospital corpsman writing in replay to the letter about dentures. It is the policy of most hospitals to require all patients to remove all prosthetic pieces (false teeth, eyes, eyelashes, fingernails and what - have - you), before entering the delivery or operating room. In some cases wedding rings or religious medals are permitted, but they are carefully taped to the patient. The nurse was correct in insisting that the lady surrender her false teeth for her own protection. If she had choked on them during delivery, it would have been too bad. Respectfully,

ABOARD THE U.S.S. BRYCE CANYON

• • •

DEAR ABBY: This happened in the days before they had such strict hospital rules, but it happened nevertheless. One of our leading society ladies went into the local hospital for some supposedly "minor" surgery. I don't know if she was trying to get away with passing off her false teeth as her own, but she had them in her mouth during the operation. They became dislodged somehow, interfered with her breathing, and the woman died on the operating table.

Sincerely yours,
S. S. IN ASHLAND, KY.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Please forward my apologies to Celia's sister, who had the run-in with the nurse over the way the nurse demanded that she remove her dentures before going into the delivery room. If nurses were EDUCATED in college and universities and not TRAINED in service institutions, such disgusting incidents would not occur. It's regrettable that such cruel and unfeeling nurses are permitted to run around loose. I am an instructor in Obstetrics, and I teach my student - nurses that the emotional and spiritual is as important as the physical.

There are so many fine nurses who are working hard to improve the quality of nursing care, it is a shame that one nurse can disgrace the whole profession by her mean and bossy attitude. Women without compassions should not be allowed to practice nursing. But what can we do? We are SO short-handed! No name, please. I still —

Letters To The Editor

To The Daily News:

I have no sympathy for Texans in their dilemma about higher automobile insurance rates. When the people of Texas get tired enough of the traffic death and destruction — and higher automobile insurance rates — they will give their Legislators a mandate to enact the traffic safety legislation we need. There is no way to bring automobile insurance rates down except by reducing the number of wrecks, and many of the remedies for this problem lie in legislation.

For instance, we need a stronger Driver License law — one which will enable us to get the repeater violators off the road before they kill somebody. In the legislative session just closed, the House of Representatives made 20 changes in the proposed new law, each one protecting the traffic violators, including drunk drivers. The proponents of the bill allowed it to die in committee in the Senate because law - abiding drivers are better protected from the violators with the provisions we now have.

Apparently most Texans either do not know how their Legislators are voting or do not care. There were several other important pieces of traffic safety legislation proposed, but the Legislature closed without the enactment of a single one of them. As in previous sessions, a Chemical Test law, State aid to make a statewide Driver Education program possible, provision for certain Traffic Courts of Record, the addition of inspection items to the Motor Vehicle Inspection law, a clarification of the right-of-way law, and other badly needed measures were stopped in either the Senate or the House.

Maybe the people of Texas will rouse out of their apathy and talk to their Legislators — especially the lawyers — if automobile insurance rates get high enough, even if they are not disturbed by the increasing death and injury toll.

Sincerely,
Eudora Hawkins

Transportation Chairman,

Attack Fatal To Bernard Baruch

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — Tributes began flowing in today, eulogizing Bernard M. Baruch, capitalist-philanthropist and adviser to presidents of both parties, who died Sunday night of a heart attack at age 94.

At Baruch's bedside when he died in his home were his son, daughter, son-in-law, and former South Carolina Gov. James F. Byrnes, an old friend. Baruch had been ill for a week.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, just returned from Paris, told newsmen Sunday night at Andrews Air Force Base, near Washington:

"We have lost a very great man, a counselor of presidents and one of the most respected elder statesmen of this century."

Through shrewd speculation in the stock market after graduating from City College of New York, Baruch parlayed a $3-a-week job into more than a million dollars by the time he was 30. He amassed many more millions, but lost interest in wealth except to use it for large donations toward medical research, education and charity.

Baruch, who often proclaimed love for his country, always preached preparedness. In 1939, with Hitler menacing all of Europe, Baruch offered more than $3 million of his own money to help bring the U.S. Army up to date.

In Charleston, S.C., Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond said of Baruch:

"A great and dedicated citizen who served his nation well has now passed on."

Born in Camden, S.C., Baruch was taken north by his parents when he was 11 years old.

Baruch was a Jew, of Portuguese-Spanish extraction on his mother's side and German on his father's.

Baruch's father emigrated to South Carolina in 1855. He served as a surgeon with the Confederate army through the Civil War. He was one of the leaders of the original Ku Klux Klan in South Carolina. The elder Baruch became a successful physician in New York.

During World War I, President Woodrow Wilson named Baruch chairman of the War Industries Board.

Because Baruch was forever delving for accurate information, President Wilson called him "Dr. Facts."

Baruch once said he just wanted the facts, adding: "If you get all the facts, your judgment can be right; if you don't get all the facts, it can't be right."

Baruch urged on succeeding presidents, Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge, that war debts be canceled.

Friends reported that Harding listened with warm interest and that Coolidge just listened. However, both endorsed his suggestion for a standby industrial mobilization plan, in case of another war.

Hard of hearing in his later years, Baruch often spoke of persons coming to him for advice but not hearing his answers.

"They usually want to be encouraged to do what they are already doing," he said.

Officers Picket In Protest

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Some 200 policemen, many accompanied by their wives and children, picketed in front of City Hall for the third straight day today to protest the suspension of a white patrolman who shot and killed a Negro motorist.

Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio accused the demonstrators of "helping to split our community in two" and of "providing a rallying point for every malcontent, hothead and bigot in the area."

The pickets have been marching continuously since Friday, carrying placards protesting the suspension of Patrolman Henry Martinez, 29, a five-year veteran of the force.

Their ranks were bolstered Sunday by policemen from nearby communities and by local civic groups. The demonstration was orderly in contrast with Saturday when three persons were arrested, including a Bronx, N.Y., woman who allegedly hit a demonstrator with an umbrella.

Representatives of the Junior Chamber of Commerce placed a coffin on the steps of City Hall with a sign reading:

"Here lies the Newark police department, slain by —." The rest of the sign was ripped off.

Addonizio said he wanted a chance to tell the policemen personally why he ordered Martinez's suspension last Thursday. Addonizio said that he took the action to prevent any possible racial disorders. The Congress of Racial Equality had threatened a mass demonstration unless Martinez was suspended. Nearly half of Newark's 400,000 residents are Negroes.

Martinez shot and killed Lester Long Jr., 22, of Newark, after, police said, Long had slashed the officer's partner with a knife. Long had been stopped by the patrolmen because of a noisy muffler and a defective headlight on his car.

Years Can't Stop Cupid

SOUTHBURY, Conn. (AP) — Emma Francis Morey was 91 and James John Wilson was 86 and they wanted to marry for companionship.

But they were afraid.

"They thought everyone would laugh at them," said Beverly Calkins, who manages the rest home where the two reside.

"So they put it off and put it off," Mrs. Calkins said.

They would walk around the grounds hand-in-hand. At meals, Mrs. Morey, a widow for almost 35 years, and Wilson, a widower, sat together at a special table.

"They were always together," Mrs. Calkins said.

Gradually, their fears faded. They were married Sunday at the rest home.

"She seems to be very happy," said Mrs. Morey's son, George, 52. "She now has companionship and that's the best thing in the world for her."

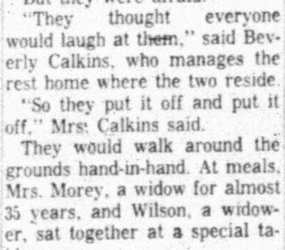

Tobacco production in Pennsylvania last year was about five million pounds below that of 1963.

Gallows Readied For Two Killers

LANSING, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas Penitentiary's gallows was readied today for its second double hanging in two months — the postmidnight execution of James Douglas Latham, 23, and George Ronald York, 22, killers of seven men and women.

The men, high school dropouts and Army deserters, are to die for the 1961 robbery-killing of a Kansas railroad worker, the sixth of seven persons slaughtered in a two-week crime spree that spread from Texas to Florida and back westward to Utah.

Their last hope of escaping the noose was executive clemency by Gov. William H. Avery who heard a plea for mercy Friday. Joining in the appeal with the youths' attorney and representatives of the American Civil Liberties Union was York's mother, Malzie E. York, Panama City, Fla.

The U.S. Supreme Court last Wednesday refused for a fifth time in four years to listen to their appeals based on claims of civil rights violations. The pair made no attempt to deny the robbery-killings.

On April 14 Perry Edward Smith and Richard Eugene Hickock were hanged at the prison for the 1959 slaying of four members of the Herbert Clutter family near Holcomb, Kan.

York, a native of Plant City, Fla., and Latham, born in Mauriceville, Tex., were sentenced to death for killing Otto Ziegler, 62, an Oakley, Kan., railroad worker, who was slain near Wallace, Kan., June 9, 1961.

Other killings they confessed were Althea Ottavio, 43, and Patricia Anne Hewitt, 25, both of Valdosta, Ga., at Jacksonville, Fla.; John A. Whitaker, 71, Tallahoma, Tenn.; Albert E. Reed, 35, Litchfield, Ill., and Martin Drenovic, 69, Granite City, Ill.; and Miss Rachel Moyer, 18, Craig, Colo.

York and Latham both dropped out of high school in their sophomore years and joined the Army shortly after their 17th birthdays.

They ran afoul of military regulations and met in the stockade at Ft. Hood, Tex. They escaped May 24, 1961, and three days later committed their first crime — the robbery and brutal beating of Edward J. Guidroz, 43, at Baton Rouge, La. The youths thought Guidroz dead and York said later:

"We thought as long as we (had) killed one, we might as well keep on."

But both in other statements displayed deeper motivation, centered in a hatred of society and the world in which they lived. Latham had the words "I hate the world" tatooed on one arm.

"You can't blame us and you can't blame our parents," York shouted in one interview. "It's the whole damn world's fault."

Of their victims, the two said all except Ziegler and Reed "deserved to die," adding:

"We thought we were doing them a favor by putting them out of their miseries in this rat race. Everyone believes in the idea of one man stomping another for his own gain."

Two Snyder Students In Science Program At Kansas University

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Chosen from more than 900 applicants over the nation, 102 high-ability secondary school students from [illegible] began a 6-week summer science training program at the University of Kansas Sunday.

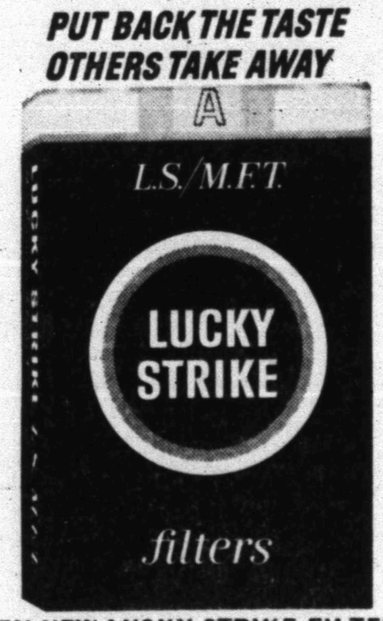

Twenty - five exceptional students from the 1964 science camp returned to K.U. a week ago to begin the 8-week research apprenticeships under the guidance of senior professors at K.U. They bring to 33 the number of states represented in the overall program.

Two students from Snyder are among those attending the 6-week program. They are Janice Amos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Amos, 2309 Forty-second Street, and Fred Wiman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wiman, 2508 Twenty - seventh Street.

Dr. Delbert M. Shankel, associate professor of microbiology, is director of the camp. The National Science Foundation made a grant to cover overhead and provide some 50 percent scholarships toward the $150 all-inclusive fee.

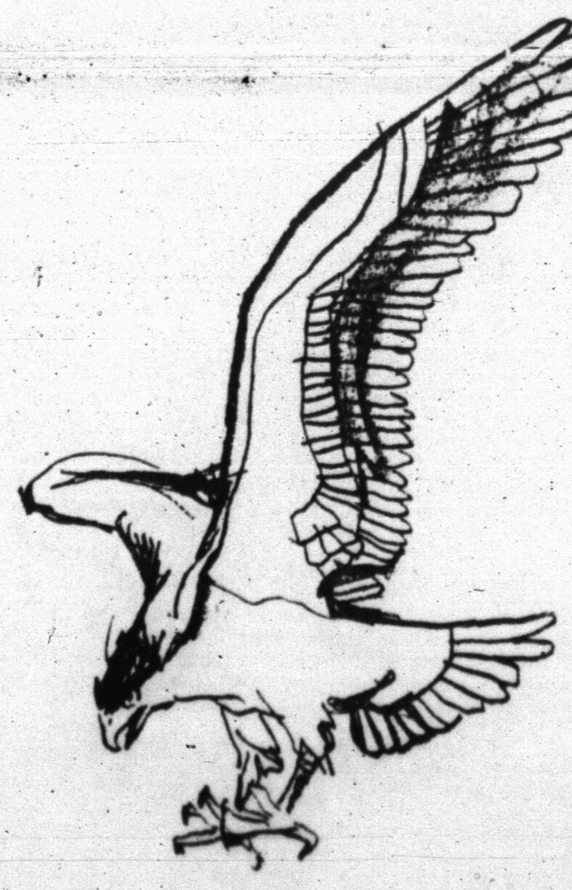

Campers will spend the first week in a survey of eight scientific areas. Then each student will select two areas for concentrated study the remaining five weeks.

Another Set Of Spies

THE MAN WHO SOLD DEATH. By James Munro.

As a war - hardened young man, John Craig had made a lot of money smuggling arms to the Arabs in Tangiers. Later he had taken a more respectable job in London as manager of a line of tramp steamers.

So when the narrative opens, there is an attempt to assassinate him because of his Algerian background, by a fascistic, super - patriot outfit from France. He escapes, to become a lone wolf.

Conveniently, it happens that the British secret service has a mopping - up section that wants very much to get the French fascists wiped out. Who else but Craig would be a good man for the job? As a marksman, judo expert and spy - type, he is a natural for the job.

But Craig has gone underground, and the first step is for the British agents to find him. The second step is to talk him into the assignment of blotting out a nutty old gent named St. Briac who runs the murderous fascists.

Well, there are plenty of episodes of violence, and the customary interludes of sex, that go with all the trappings of the espionage novel. This one is pretty close to the formula, but it warms up as it goes along.

Whip cream cheese and spread it over the bottom of a baked graham cracker crust. Stud the cheese with strawberries and glaze with melted currant jelly.

Habits Influence Buying Of American Consumer

By DR. EVA MUELLER
Professor of Economics
University of Michigan

If we want to understand the American consumer, we should begin with the proposition that the consumer is a human being first of all.

As such he is influenced by his past experience and habits, his perceptions, group belongings, standing tastes, and his personal goals.

These social - psychological factors modify his behavior. If we look at the consumer in this larger context his actions become understandable, and may even appear rational.

Most of what I will report to you is based on studies undertaken by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan. Much research remains to be done, but some principles of consumer behavior can be stated.

First, we must recognize that consumer behavior and purchase decisions differ according to type of purchase.

Two Months' Planning

On the one hand we have small, frequently repeated purchases. The buying of milk, bread, soap, gasoline, pencils, and the like falls into that category. Because we want to save time we follow an established routine or habit, buying the same brand in the same store.

In the case of large important purchases our studies show a much higher degree of deliberation. The larger purchases studied were purchases of refrigerators, television sets, kitchen ranges and washing machines.

In all, we found that about a fourth of appliance buyers displayed most of the essential features of problem - solving behavior: planning, family discussions, information seeking, as well as weighing alternatives with respect to price, brand, and other attributes of the commodity.

Another fourth of the purchase decisions showed almost a total lack of what is commonly regarded as rational decision making. Some of the "nonrational decisions" were made hastily because of urgent and immediate need for the product, say the old washing machine broke down. In other cases the buyer discovered a "good sale," or was satisfied with the previously owned models and simply selected the same brand. All this is hardly irrational.

Nearly one - half of appliance buyers were in an intermediate position. In many instances their deliberations were casual and short. They usually considered only one or two features of the product, neglecting others.

Friends Give Advice

A second principle of consumer behavior which also has a bearing on rationality: The consumer is a member of many groups, and group belonging inevitably exerts a powerful influence on economic decisions.

Most important is the influence of friends, relatives and acquaintances. One - third of appliance buyers bought the same appliance that they had seen at the house of a friend. This information process explains such phenomena as fluctuations in the popularity of automobile - models and bandwagon effects. Each consumer's judgment about a product interacts with that of others, and this process tends to create a consensus. If we made up our minds in isolation, a greater diversity of opinions might prevail.

As people, we strive for status, recognition, the esteem of family and friends. Consumption is not the only path toward this goal, but certainly in our society it is a significant path. Yet, conspicuous consumption for the sake of outdoing the Joneses is not really characteristic of present - day America. People do not strive to obtain the luxuries of the rich, but they strive for middle - class comforts: a house in the suburbs, a second car, and maybe a second television set. The middle - class consumer likes labor-saving appliances, to travel by car, and to stay at motels; but above all he aspires to give a college education to his children.

My third principle is that consumer decisions do not depend solely on hard economic facts but are influenced by people's perceptions, beliefs, expectations.

By perceptions I mean their image of the future. Thus consumers may believe that jobs are hard to find or that economic conditions are deteriorating. In that case consumer demand may decline, even though incomes have not fallen. Conversely, when employment opportunities appear to be good, when prices appear stable, willingness to spend may rise. These fluctuations in spending are not evidence of erratic behavior.

I have argued that consumer decisions do have a rational pattern, if we interpret the word "rational" in a broad sense.

Consumer affluence is new. When the masses of consumers could afford only the necessities of life, consumer choices were narrowly restricted and relatively simple. Today the consumer is confronted with a bewildering range of possibilities. Ultimately better education will play the major role in leading him to more sophisticated choices.

Date Confections

1 large egg
½ cup sugar
1 cup finely-cut dates
2 cups ready-to-eat crisp rice cereal
½ cup chopped walnuts
¾ cup flaked coconut

In a small deep mixing bowl, beat the egg until it begins to thicken; gradually beat in sugar until thick and ivory color; stir in the dates. Turn into a medium - size saucepan; over low heat, cook and stir constantly until sugar dissolves - about 10 minutes. Continue cooking and stirring, increasing heat if necessary, until mixture begins to bubble and comes away from bottom of pan. Remove from heat. Add the rice cereal and walnuts; mix well. Allow to stand, turning mixture over once or twice, until it is cool enough to handle without sticking to hands. Spread coconut on sheet of wax paper. Spoon heaping tablespoons of the mixture onto the coconut; shape into balls and roll in coconut. Cool thoroughly before wrapping each ball individually in plastic film. Makes 24.

SPECIAL REPORT FROM THE FRONT

Coming Election May Mar LBJ's Era Of Good Will

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We don't spend our time name-calling," President Johnson said happily, talking about his relations with Congress.

Two things could spoil his contentment: a bad turn in the Vietnamese war, or deeper American involvement, and the 1966 congressional elections.

Johnson is continuing an era of good feelings between the White House and Capitol Hill which began with President Dwight D. Eisenhower and was continued by President John F. Kennedy.

If the generation coming of age now thinks the present placidity is in the American tradition, it should have been around in the days of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

What's unique with Johnson in the congressional relationship is the way it has paid off.

"I think," he said last week, "I can truthfully say I doubt there has ever been a period in American history when the (Supreme) Court and the Congress and the executive were working more harmoniously."

The evidence is how Congress has whipped — or is working on his major proposals, some of which Kennedy originated but never got.

Neither Eisenhower nor Kennedy was a match for Johnson in success with Congress.

In the first place, they lacked insight and experience with the wails, whims and wishes of the men in the Capitol, with whom he has worked 33 years.

Second, he is dealing with a Congress run by his own Democrats who so outnumber the Republicans that the latter are a pretty ineffective minority.

Third, Eisenhower and Kennedy never worked on Congress as Johnson does.

There were some reasons for the Eisenhower-Kennedy noncombat amiability.

Eisenhower with no congressional experience, was a national hero who could afford to stay above cat-and-dog fights.

They would have hurt his man-of-goodwill image and they would have hurt any who bit him.

By avoiding name-calling, he gave none an excuse to attack. Thus the image was preserved. Retaining this calm throughout eight years, six of them with a Democrat-run Congress, he proposed little that was earth-shaking or provocative.

Kennedy served in Congress 14 years but even there was never in the same league with Johnson for sheer work.

As president he showed no real stomach for a fight to try to push Congress into giving him what he asked for.

There has always been an explanation around Washington for this:

He won the presidency by a hair; the Democrats' margin over Republicans was thin; if he had run in 1964 won by a big vote, and got a heavily Democratic Congress, he would have really fought in his second term.

But there is growing discontent in Congress over Johnson's handling of the Vietnamese war.

Republicans will need issues in the 1966 election if they hope to win back some of the House and Senate seats they lost in 1964.

They haven't been creating issues, but they'll have to begin to. Johnson, sensitive to criticism, will be under a big strain not to shoot back if the Republicans start to ambush him.

Then what happens to the era of good feelings?

'Cheer John' Replaces 'Dear John'

By HAL BOYLE

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Leaves from a war reporter's notebook:

Remember the "Dear John" letters of World War II?

They were the notes from home which broke the melancholy news to a soldier at the front that his girl friend had broken off their romance, or his wife had run off with the milkman.

Well, John C. Golueke, an Air Force staff sergeant from Kansas City, Mo., gets a different sort of missive from his wife, Mary. She calls them "Cheer John" books.

They are a hand-stapled collection of cartoons, quips by Mary, and notes from their friends.

One photo shows a pair of lovely, feminine almond-shaped eyes, and beneath it this notation: "Poison. Keep this out of reach of John."

There are many poisonous snakes in Viet Nam, but I have yet to hear of an American death being caused by them.

You hear much talk of king cobras and 14-foot pythons. But the snake the troops fear most is the banded krait. It is known as "the fifth-step snake."

"They call it that," a Marine private assured me, "because its poison is so deadly that if you start to run after it bites you, you die as you take your fifth step."

A more common peril is the local beer here, which is being downed in huge quantities because of a shortage of American beer. It is sometimes followed by a temporary ailment known here as "the Saigon quick-step."

Someone started a rumor that the Viet Cong had put formaldehyde in one supply, recapped the bottles, and distributed them in bars.

The rumor has had no effect on the sale of the beer. Shaking the sweat from his forehead, one corporal said as he hoisted a bottle:

"What's a little formaldehyde? I'd rather be embalmed than die of thirst in this heat."

Men away from their loved ones turn to pets for consolation.

The range of pets in this military theater is wide. It includes dogs, cats, lizards, monkey's pigs, parrots, goats, and a small horse named Harry. The survival chances of the pigs is not rated very high. Most are expected to end up at a barbecue with apples in their mouths.

Recently, hard-working Seabees constructing a Marine airstrip at Chu Lai received a mascot from heaven. It was a small, young honey bear which was dropped by a supply ship in its own parachute—and landed safe but frightened.

Junior Editors Quiz on ALPHABETS

QUESTION: How were the letters of the alphabet worked out?

• • •

ANSWER: Can you read the message at the top of the picture? It says—"I see a girl." The pictures have filled in the meaning. But notice that the eye in the picture has suggested the "I" in the message because the sounds of the words are the same. This is how the letters of the alphabet originated. At first, writing was by "pictographs," meaning a set of drawings of things you would recognize. But this was complicated. People couldn't make enough pictures to express the many meanings they needed to. So, gradually the picture became a simple symbol associated with one of the sounds of the language. By recording a complete set of sounds, any message could be sent. To write "ox," the Egyptians drew an ox's head (1.). But the Semites' word of ox was "aleph." They began to use a simple version of the ox drawing to express the "a" sound.(2.) The Phoenicians (3) made it easier to write and the Greeks (4) turned up upright with one long leg. Then the Romans made the legs equal and we had our modern letter for the "a" sound. The other letters originated in a similar way.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: The "I see a girl" message is called a rebus, with pictures for some of the words. Write a rebus letter to one of your friends and find out if he or she understands it. 6-21

Cleveland Indians Continue Surge In American League

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Birdie Tebbetts rubbed his magic lamp during spring training and made a wish.

"We hope we have good pitching," the Cleveland manager said, looking toward the American League race this season.

The Genii never came through as well for Aladdin.

Cleveland pitchers pulled two more brilliant performances out of Birdie's lamp Sunday as the Indians extended their winning streak to nine with 5-0 and 7-1 victories over the Los Angeles Angels.

The sweep tied the league's longest winning streak this year and kept the third-place Indians 1½ games behind the league-leading Minnesota Twins, who took New York 6-4 and 7-4.

Sam McDowell fired a two-hitter in the opener for his eighth victory against three defeats, giving the Indians four shutouts in five games. Lee Stange gave up a run in the nightcap but held the Angels to five hits.

Thus, in the last six contests, Indian hurlers have allowed only three runs. And excluding Friday night's 3-2 triumph over the Angels, the opposition has touched them for only 14 hits since last Wednesday.

The most glittering product the Genii has turned out for Tebbetts is the 22-year-old McDowell. The left-hander leads the AL in strikeouts with 122 and the team with a 2.53 earned run average.

Elsewhere in the AL Sunday, Chicago edged Boston 4-3 in 10 innings before rain washed out the second game, Detroit ran its winning string to eight by beating Kansas City before dropping a 2-1 decision and Baltimore crushed Washington 13-2.

In the National, New York nipped Los Angeles 3-2 after losing 2-1, San Francisco swept Pittsburgh 4-3 in 15 innings and 7-3, St. Louis trimmed Milwaukee 6-4, Philadelphia took Houston 3-2 and 7-1 and Chicago defeated Cincinnati 8-5 before losing 9-8.

McDowell held the Angels hitless until the sixth inning when pitcher Marcelino Lopez led off with a double. Jim Fregosi beat out an infield single later in the inning.

Stange gave up a second-inning homer to Willie Smith in the nightcap, but Rocky Colavito tied it with a homer in the sixth and Max Alvis put the Indians ahead with a homer in the eighth.

Minnesota snapped a 4-4 deadlock with New York in the first game with two runs in the ninth, Zoilo Versalles scoring the first on Elston Howard's passed ball and Sandy Valdespino the second on Hal Reniff's wild pitch.

Harmon Killebrew, who homered in the opener, clinched the second game for the Twins with a two-run homer, his 13th, in the ninth. The doubleheader was played before 71,245, largest crowd in the majors since 1961.

Pete Ward scored the tying run on Ron Hansen's double in the eighth, then won it with a home run off Boston's Dick Radatz in the 10th. Chicago reliever Eddie Fisher won his eighth game against one defeat.

Norm Siebern led the Baltimore attack, driving in three runs with a homer and a double and scoring four times. Wally Bunker pitched a five-hitter as the Orioles won their ninth game in the last 10. Frank Howard smashed a two-run homer for Washington.

Detroit spotted Kansas City eight runs, then roared back behind Al Kaline for the opening-game triumph. Kaline drove in four runs, including No. 1,000 of his career. Jerry Lumpe's two-run double in the fifth inning broke an 8-8 tie.

The Athletics won the nightcap on Ed Charles' ninth-inning home run off Dave Wickersham. Rollie Sheldon hurled a four-hitter and retired 12 straight Tigers before Lumpe homered in the sixth.

AFL To Have Shift In Plans

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football's rival leagues step up their expansion campaigns today with the American's surrender to the National in the Battle for Atlanta expected to trigger a shift in the fighting fronts.

NFL club owners meet here and are almost certain to make Atlanta the 15th city in their lucrative operation, starting with the 1966 season.

At the same time AFL officials, admittedly with little hope of realizing their dream of putting a team in the Dixie stronghold, will have a session that could result in the invasion of two NFL cities — Philadelphia and Chicago.

Ostensibly, the AFL expansion committee is meeting here to screen applicants for a Philadelphia franchise, but Commissioner Joe Foss has said other expansion matters could develop.

Several groups are reported in the running for the Philadelphia AFL entry and there is word of a millionaire backer angling for an AFL franchise in Chicago.

The AFL blueprint is to expand from eight teams to 10 in 1966. With Atlanta and its new $18-million stadium a dim chance, the five-year-old league now turns to other centers of population.

The younger league apparently had the rich Atlanta prize picked off two weeks ago when it awarded the Cox Broadcasting Corp. a franchise for the city, with Cox paying a record $7.5 million for 32 players. But the deal backfired immediately due to some swift maneuvering by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

On the same day the AFL announced Atlanta in the fold, Rozelle met with the city's stadium authority and told its members the more powerful and prestigious NFL might put a team in Atlanta — adding that he needed time to survey the situation and brief his owners.

The authority then said it would hold off deciding on a pro football tenant until July 1. It is known the sentiment is Atlanta has been for an NFL team.

Foss indicated he had thrown in the towel on Atlanta Saturday night when he said: "Cox Broadcasting said they could deliver rights on the stadium in 48 hours, and they got a franchise. Now the NFL is going to go in, probably. . .and if they do, our franchise will go someplace else."

Red Sox Take Double Victory

In the Colt League Saturday night, the Red Sox took a double header victory over the Phillies and Yankees.

The Red Sox defeated the Yankees 4-2 in the first game of the night. The Yankees had taken a 2-0 lead in the first three innings, but the Red Sox scored two in the fourth and two more in the fifth to nail down the victory. Ronnie Shields and Rob Golden both collected two hits for the Red Sox while Jerry Hardwick had two safeties for the Yankees.

In the second game the Red Sox beat the Phillies 7-3. Ronnie Shields again got two hits making him four hits in eight trips to the plate. The Red Sox again came from behind in this second game of the night. The Phillies had a 3-0 lead at one point of the contest, but the Red Sox scored seven runs in the last four innings of play. Lloyd Potts had three hits while Terry Holt received two hits and scored two runs for the Phillies.

Player, Nagle Tie; 18-Hole Playoff Due

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A couple of foreigners — Gary Player and Kel Nagle — squared off in an 18-hole playoff for the U.S. Open Golf Championship today — each with different goals.

Nagle, a 44-year-old globe-trotting Australian, was shooting for his first tournament victory ever in the United States. If he makes it, he also will become the oldest player ever to win the Open.

Player, the precise, blackclad little giant from South Africa, sought to add his name to the tiny roster of Gene Sarazen and Ben Hogan as the only men ever to win all four of the world's major golf titles — the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and the PGA.

Either will be the first foreigner to win it in 45 years.

Should they tie after 18, a sudden-death playoff would begin immediately over the 7,191 frustrating yards of the Bellerive Country Club sourse.

The playoff was scheduled to begin at 1:15 p.m. EST.

Player, strangely, was all smiles, even talking about his luck, after blowing a three-stroke lead — and perhaps the chance of a lifetime — in the last three holes and falling into a tie with Nagle at 282.

"The way it worked out," said Player, "I'm lucky to be in a tie after having it locked up."

The tourney had dragged through most of four days, largely lacking in interest with the collapse of Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer's failure to make the cut and the vast, sprawling course which limited the number of sub-par rounds.

But the final four holes, played before a gallery of 17,430 and a national television audience, turned into a gripping duel.

Nagle parred the 18th for a 69 and Player parred the 17th.

Then on the 18th, with Nagle watching and needing a par 4 to tie and a 3 to win, Player made a brilliant approach over a trap and left himself a 30-foot putt for a birdie.

He left his hopes for the title hanging just three inches short.

"Glad to be in the playoff?" he asked in response to a question.

"You bet I'm glad. I'm lucky to be in it — real lucky. You don't know how big that four can look when you need it to tie."

Frank Beard, who entered the final round in a second place tie with Nagle, shot a final round 71 for third place at 284. Al Geiberger and Julius Boros were tied for fourth at 287. Raymond Floyd's 68, best of the day, got him a share of sixth with Bruce Devlin at 288.

Nicklaus finished with a 299.

Listed below are the top 10 scorers and money winnings Sunday in the National Open Golf Championship. Gary Player and Kel Nagle play for $25,000 first prize and $12,500 in today's playoff:

Gary Player	70-70-71-71—282
Kel Nagle	68-73-72-69—282
Frank Beard $9,000	74-69-70-71—284
Al Geiberger $6,500	70-76-70-71—287
Julius Boros $6,500	72-75-70-70—287
Ray Floyd $4,500	72-72-76-68—288
Bruce Devlin $4,500	72-73-72-71—288
Gene Littler $2,500	73-71-73-72—289
Tony Lema $2,500	72-74-73-70—289
Dudley Wysong $2,500	72-75-70-72—289

Sandra Haynie Wins On 'Sudden Death'

ROCKTON, Ill. (AP) — A birdie putt on the first hole of a three-way, sudden-death playoff Sunday earned Sandra Haynie the championship in the $9,500 Cosmopolitan Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Haynie, who also won the tournament in 1962, finished the three-day 54-hole tournament with a 210 to tie Kathy Whitworth and Marlene Hagge.

The birdie putt earned Miss Haynie top prize of $1,275 while Miss Hagge and Miss Whitworth won $942 each.

NCAA, AAU Still Having Royal Feud

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Collegians aren't expected to jump the NCAA fence to compete in the Amateur Athletic Union track and field meet on Saturday and Sunday at San Diego.

That was the concensus at the conclusion of the 44th annual National Collegiate Athletic Association meet where jurisdictional pressure, politics were mixed with the track and field competition.

You can bet undergraduates from co- champions Southern California and Oregon won't compete in the AAU unless the feud between the NCAA and AAU is settled.

Neither will Doug Brown, the 127-pound bundle of energetic stamina from the University of Montana who won both the six-mile and three-mile races and set the only two NCAA meet records of this competition.

The NCAA lets it be known that competition by an undergraduate in a meet not sanctioned by the U.S. Track and Field Federation will bring penalties of ineligibility against athlete and school.

Coaches Vern Wolfe of USC and Bill Bowerman of Oregon, whose teams tied with 32 points, lowest winning total since 1926 and only first-place deadlock on record, said their athletes will stay home.

Several said they remained undecided but Brown, who set records in the six-mile at 27:59.2 and the three-mile with a photo-finish victory at 13:40.2 over John Lawson of Kansas, said he could not go.

Ralston Has Thumb Injury

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Two major questions were to be answered today as the Wimbledon tennis classic opened:

How much will an injured thumb hamper Dennis Ralston, the United States' prime hope for the men's singles title?

And will the Russians stage another walkout over South Africa's racial segregation policies?

Both issues are to be resolved early. Ralston, the Bakersfield, Calif., star who is seeded No. 4 here, had a first-round match today against Ham Richardson of Dallas. And Russia's leading player, Tommas Lejus, was scheduled to meet South African Few McMillan in another first-round match.

IT'S HARD TO GET A PICTURE of the 66 Restaurant when there aren't a lot of cars out front, because not only is this fine restaurant popular with local citizens, but also is a planned stop on many tourists' schedule. Incidentally, there's plenty of parking around back, so just because it's full out front, don't give up!

Snyder's 66 Restaurant Is Sought Out By Tourists

The most sincere compliment that a person can pay to a restaurant owner is to come back again, time after time.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hodges, owners of the 66 Restaurant here, are accustomed to the local folks paying them this compliment. But they also take pride in the fact that many tourists, who may not have passed this way in several years, tell them that they made a special effort to be in Snyder at mealtime so that they could return for another delicious meal at the 66.

As a matter of fact, one tour group from Knoxville, Tenn. makes it a point every year on their tour to California, to stop at the 66 Restaurant. And of course, athletic teams from a wide area are frequent repeat guests of the 66.

The Hodges report that people from far - distant states will stop in and tell them that someone had told them not to miss eating at the 66 as they crossed the country

For curiosity's sake, the Hodges have sometimes asked who the people who recommended the 66 Restaurant were. Seldom, they say, do they ever know those folks who are carrying their good reputation across the country for them.

Actually it's not surprising that the reputation of the 66 Restaurant is as widespread as it is.

Good food, quickly served in pleasant surroundings, is just what travelers and local citizens alike appreciate. And that's what they get at the 66 Restaurant, whether it's a deluxe full Sunday dinner, or just a cup of coffee along with a delicious slice of the 66's homemade cake of pie.

The hungry, thirsty person is a welcome guest at the 66, and he never goes away disappointed with the food or service there.

'Short' Traders, Who Profit When Market Skids, Believe Decline Over

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Who was buying those stocks during the month-long drop of prices from their May 14 peak? Some of them were people who were making a profit because they had guessed right.

Every share sold had to be bought by some one. And the buyers doubtless were of many types.

But there's a clue to who some of them were in the latest stock market statistics. They were traders who had sold short at or near the peak. By June 15 a sizable number had cashed in on the price drop. It meant profits for them even if it brought disappointment for those hoping for a continued rise.

A short seller is a trader who borrows a stock and sells it at the going price. He hopes to buy it back in the future at a lower price and return it to he original owner, pocketing the difference as profit. If he has to buy back at a higher price, he has lost money. Short sellers are by definition bearish about the issues in which they trade.

The short interest on the New York Stock Exchange dropped 468,407 shares from May 14 to June 15. That is, last week traders were putting up less money to back their belief that prices would slide further.

That 468,407 share drop isn't tremendous. But it does bring the short interest of 6,015,608 shares on June 15 to the lowest level since January 15. With the single exception of January, the level is the lowest in more than a year.

On June 15, 1964, the short interest was 273,069 shares higher than this month. The bears apparently were more convinced then, when prices were lower than today, that the market was too high — at least for particular issues.

But short traders cashing in their profits weren't the only ones buying shares during the long price slide.

Some who were buying the offerings of those seeking to unload were specialists in particular issues. They are charged with maintaining an orderly market. They buy and sell when offerings can't be matched.

That is, if you wanted to sell a certain issue and your broker couldn't find some one ready to buy at a price you'd take, the specialist was there to keep the market from getting out of hand.

Later, the specialist might sell to some one wanting to buy, or he might hold and wait for a price rise.

Others buying when all the market news seemed to be about sliding prices were doubtless those who thought they spotted a bargain in an issue they had been wanting, but had been wary of the higher price.

Still others could be traders who thought the market price for some issue had reached a low and were buying for the long interest.

That is, they bought low, hoping to sell high—just the opposite of short interest traders looking for a decline.

Then there were those who thought the market jitters were unfounded. They bought to hold for the long term, convinced that sooner or later prices will move up to still higher records.

The short interest figures have other meanings for stock market followers than the clue as to who was buying and who was making a profit on the decline.

To some extent the short interest drop means that bears are less ready now to put up their money where their mouths are. But it also means that the market now has less of a cushion if prices tumble further.

The short interest is ultimate demand — he who borrows shares to sell must buy them back to repay. There are fewer shares today that must be bought eventually so that short traders can settle their accounts.

Oilmen Eye New Area Of Reserves

By MAX B. SKELTON

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A study group indicated today that 2.4 to 3.4 billion barrels of oil ultimately may be produced from tar sand deposits in 22 states.

The report to the mid-year meeting of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission said oil companies show increasing interest in the surface or shallow sands that have been mostly ignored for 30 to 40 years.

No attempt was made to estimate total oil reserves in such deposits. The report said a number of companies have leased more than a million acres in recent years, particularly in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and California.

The study group also said most of the research on oil sands since the late 1950s has been done by oil companies and most of the data gained is confidential.

The first comprehensive study made since 1952 of the recoverable reserves potential of tar sands was a joint project of the 33-state Oil Compact, the Bureau of Mines and the Geological Survey.

The 30 - year - old compact serves as a forum on oil and gas conservation matters. The tar sands report was submitted during committee sessions opening the commission's three-day meeting.

Gov. John Connally of Texas, the compact chairman, and Gov. William Scranton, R-Pa., speak at tonight's opening general session.

A 1952 tar sands study sponsored by the Bureau of Mines indicated only 711 million barrels of recoverable oil but that study was confined to deposits in only three states, California, Kentucky, and Utah.

Heavy Appropriations Slate Faces Congress This Week

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appropriation bills involving almost 50 billion are the main business before Congress this week.

Largest of the money measures is a $45.2-billion bill to finance the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting July 1. It comes before the House Wednesday and will be preceded by a $4.2-billion measure to foot the cost of federal public works programs for the same year.

A less costly but usually more controversial appropriation bill is unfinished business in the Senate today. It would provide less than $50 million in federal funds to help finance the annual budget of the District of Columbia government.

The Senate also will take up the bill dealing with silver coins. Its Banking Committee has approved an administration bill to remove the silver from dimes and quarters, but retain it in reduced quantities in half dollars. The House Banking Committee has approved a measure which would eliminate silver from all coins, including half dollars.

The first of the regular annual appropriation bills cleared Congress last week. It appropriates more than $1 billion for the Interior Department for the new fiscal year.

Also sent to the President for his signature were bills cutting excise taxes $4.7 billion, providing financial help to flood-stricken West Coast states, and increasing the debt limit.

The House was more active than usual last week. In addition to acting on the Interior Department, flood relief and excise tax measures, it passed a bill to create a Cabinet-level department of housing and urban development and a resolution giving each House member authority to hire one student intern during the summer months.

The House Rules Committee has scheduled hearings starting Tuesday on a $1.9-billion anti-poverty bill. Hung up in the same committee are a voting rights bill and a measure to ban state laws that prohibit union contracts requiring employes to belong to labor unions.

Flood Victim Is Found

SANDERSON, Tex. (AP) — The body of a woman was found Sunday about 6 miles east of this small southwest Texas town, accounting for the 19th of 25 persons lost in the June 11 flash flood.

Sheriff Bill Cooksey said the body was not immediately identified. He said two women, Eloise Falcon and Martha Loez, are still missing in the wake of the devastating flood.

Five men or children are also among the missing.

The sheriff said technicians from the Department of Public Safety would try to identify the body, that of a Latin American woman about 35, by dental work.

Another body found near Sanderson Sunday was identified as a corpse washed from the town's graveyard.

Texas Gets Grants For 'Head Start'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten more head start projects in Texas were approved for grants Sunday by the Office of Economic Opportunity. The program is designed to give disadvantaged children pre-school training before they enter first grade in the fall.

Sponsoring group, number of children involved and federal grant:

Three Way Independent School District, Maple, 22, $4,048.

Lamesa Independent School District, 140, $23,047.

Cuero Independent School, 105, $19,048.

San Elizario Independent School District, 40, $6,581.

Pearsall Independent School District, 126, $22,346.

McAllen Independent School District, 600, $98,508.

St. James Summer School, Texarkana, 200, $42,569.

Kountze Independent School District, Houston, 1,025, $140,127.

Detroit Public School, Detroit, 31, $4,995.

Community Action Committee, San Augustine, 60, $9,298.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hernandez, 2111 Avenue S, are the parents of a 5 lb. baby girl born at 11:10 p.m. June 19 at Cogdell Hospital.

US Woos Youth Of Latin America

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Slowly but surely, changes are taking place among Latin American students. The impact of these changes can be profound.

If there is a cold war battle for Latin America, it is the battle of the universities. The Communists were in the thick of it long ago. The United States was a latecomer. Only now is there an indication that U.S. policy is giving the contest top priority.

The Communists long ago realized that students wielded enormous political power to an extent that would be incredible in the United States. The university is Latin America's training ground for politics.

Traditions moldy with age ensnare today's students in the same traps which held their fathers and graidfathers and made them vulnerable targets for opportunists. Many such traditions will persist for a long time. Some are beginning to give way to the pressures of the mid 20th century.

"Read this," a scholarly diplomat said, handing over a folded paper. "Don't look at the name of the author, and tell me who wrote it."

The document said:

"The boys of the university are taken very seriously by the people of Caracas — Venezuela — as we are all boys in that country. The boys of the university grow to believe that they are very important factors in the affairs of state when, as a matter of fact, they are only catspaws of clever politicians who use them whenever they want a demonstration and do not wish to appear in it themselves.

"I am sure that Venezuelan fathers would do much better by their sons if they would cease to speak of the university in awe stricken tones as 'the hotbed of liberty,' but would rather take away the boys' revolvers and teach them football, and thrash them soundly whenever they caught them soiling the walls of their alma mater with nasty verses."

It could have been written yesterday. It was written in 1896 by journalist Richard Harding Davis. Not much has changed since.

The Latin father's attitude seems in many cases to be that disciplining his son somehow might interfere with the boy's manly development. As a result, the universities are filled with what North Americans would regard as spoiled brats. It is from the ranks of the well to do classes that the rebellious Communists of the universities spring.

"I have never seen a poor Communist," one university professor snorted.

The Communists are a minority in Latin American universities, but since campus politics parallels national politics, the Communists have — by default — more power than their numbers should warrant.

The situation resembles national politics. The center often is so divided by innumerable parties, many formed strictly on opportunist lines, that a unified extreme left can seize a dominating role. Communists have captured the leadership of powerful student councils largely because their opposition either is apathetic or hopelessly divided.

Seek Price War Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was asked today to provide new weapons against price wars by large gasoline producers.

The appeals came from spokesmen for the so-called "independent" gasoline industry —defined as companies "not among the 21 largest domestic companies in terms of refining capacity."

They charged that such price wars are designed to force them out of business and that they constitute an unequal battle in which the rich get richer and the independents who provide the "real competition" that holds down prices are squeezed out of the market.
