This headline happened to be at Cowper Hospital, where Mrs. Everett happened to be at the time. "Will somebody come on the line and acknowledge my call?" Bradley seems to be saying.

Hostages traded for planes

KUWAIT (AP) — Palestinian hijackers of a Kuwait Airlines jet freed 28 hostages Saturday in exchange for three officials who boarded the plane to guarantee a promise of safe conduct to Aden, capital of South Yemen, a Kuwait government spokesman said. The Kuwaiti Information Ministry said South Yemen has agreed to allow the nine hijackers into Aden, the capital, about 1,200 miles south. The spokesman said the three officials who boarded the jet would fly with the nine hijackers to South Yemen. He said the hijackers agreed to release the volunteers when they arrived in Aden.

He identified the three as South Yemen Ambassador to Kuwait Mohammed Abdul, Kuwaiti internal security chief Mohammed al-Hamad, and Awni Battash, deputy chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) mission in Kuwait.

The South Yemen ambassador, who negotiated with the hijackers, said their demands were connected to internal rivalries in the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

This business of taking a medical malpractice claim into a court of law can become a very costly endeavor. It has also become a very unpopular thing, mainly because the members of the medical profession being sued have no recourse but to pass along the resultant costs to the clientele they serve. (Jurors might be less prone to financially wound a defendant if they would consider this inevitable development while weighing the facts of the case.)

Be that as it may, attorneys who now field such cases are inclined to turn down that type of business on their home turf. Malpractice suits accepted by the counselors are, more likely than not, for 'out-of-town' clients.

To put it a different way, a lawyer agreeing to handle such a case will 'trade off' with a member of the bar in another locality, so long as he can ply his trade in surroundings where he is not so well-known, doesn't go to the Kiwanis Club every Thursday and where he is not occasioned to come into social contact with the individual he is trying to wing.

There is nothing unethical about the swapping process, though some liken it to a case of swapping mates where everyone concerned is a consenting party. Mind you, though, it can smack of collusion.

Pampered congressmen get 32 trips home

Freebies, fringes soften life on Capitol Hill

By WALT FINLEY
"Walt, why don't you run for Congress?"

This rather pointed question was asked by reporter Marj Carpenter shortly before she left Big Spring for a vacation of sun and fun in Florida.

"It's not that Marj is one of my most avid political supporters. It's just that names of potential candidates started popping up like popcorn when Rep. George Mahon disclosed his retirement at the end of his congressional term.

Well, I must confess I dallied with the idea of campaigning for some political office. But that was before I lost my hair and gained 60 pounds. It was also before TV newsmen started playing 'show and tell.'

Why would anyone want to be a congressman?

I asked and received an answer to this question from a former classmate of mine. He has "slaved" the past 30 years as the top administrative assistant to a congressman. He will not be named for obvious reasons.

He admitted that in spite of limitations on outside income, public disclosure of personal finances, travel restrictions and other reforms adopted to improve its image, Congress still remains one of the world's most pampered public institution.

Prerequisites, freebies and fringe benefits extend from swearing-in to the grave and beyond. The cost of such benefits, coupled with other swollen operating expenses, has pushed the overall congressional budget to $1 billion annually.

In addition to a $57,500 annual salary, members of Congress have a pension program allowing them to retire after 20 years at 50 per cent of pay.

The government pays a third of the monthly premiums of a $60,000 life insurance policy and 60 per cent of health insurance premiums.

Clerk-hire allowance for the House of Representatives varies up to $255,144 for a maximum of 18 employees; for a senator from a large state, staff allowance is more than $900,000.

In addition to Capitol Hill offices, lawmakers get a liberal allowance to lease and equip district offices.

House members can make up to 32 free round trips home each session, a senator up to 22.

House members just boosted their personal expense allowance for $7,000 from $2,000.

But those are only a small part of what's in the congressional grab bag. Over the years Congress has managed to acquire a variety of personal services far beyond the means of most taxpayers who foot the bill.

Congressmen have access to free gymnasiums, indoor swimming pools, steam rooms, paddleball courts and masseurs. Military physicians, operating several Capitol clinics, dispense free medical, physicals, lab and X-ray services to congressmen along with immunization and allergy programs.

The Botanic Garden provides congressional offices with potted plants and the greenery often winds up in the homes of lawmakers and their aides.

The National Gallery of Art lends members reproductions of famous art works.

The U.S. Geological Service provides maps plus nautical, aeronautical and hydrographic charts. Free picture framing is available.

Free ice will be delivered for afternoon cocktails.

To insure an always spruced-up look, lawmakers are provided free combs, hairbrushes, soap and towels.

Under a D.C. law, congressmen are entitled to special license plates allowing parking anywhere except near fire hydrants and loading zones. They get choice parking at National and Dulles airports.

Subways with "members only" cars connect congressional officers with the Capitol.

There are special airline and railroad ticket offices to arrange travel.

House members have access to a (See Benefits, p. 2A, col. 4)

While giving tax relief

Can solons help schools?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas lawmakers meet again Monday to argue the nagging problem of public school financing, a critical issue that has had schools in and out of federal courts for several years.

The big question will be whether lawmakers can give local taxpayers property tax relief and at the same time upgrade the money-hungry poorer school districts.

"I am very pleased at the degree of agreement that exists," Gov. Dolph Briscoe told a news conference Friday after talking with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton and representatives of teachers, school administrators and others involved.

"They are closer and stronger than any time that I can remember," Briscoe said.

In making the formal call for the special session — limited to 30 days — Briscoe made it clear he would not open debate to any other subject until public school financing is settled.

"The entire effort of the legislature from 10 a.m. Monday will be on public education until it is completed," he said.

The governor said he had 210 requests to include other subjects in the session, but "I have made no final decision of what other subjects, if any, will be submitted... No other subjects will be submitted until public education is completed."

However, there will be at least one interruption. On Friday, July 15, the House has scheduled a joint session with the Senate on a resolution to remove Associate Justice Don Yarbrough, 36, from the Texas Supreme Court. Yarbrough faces disbarment proceedings over 87 alleged violations of State Bar ethics and has been indicted by the Travis County grand jury on charges of forgery and perjury.

"It seems to me that is the proper and most expeditious legislative procedure," Briscoe said of the hearing for Yarbrough.

He said if two-thirds of each house votes to instruct Briscoe to remove Yarbrough, he has no choice but to do so.

Briscoe declined to say if he thought Yarbrough should be removed.

The governor said there are "some differences" in the House and Senate bills on public school financing "but I think it will be possible to work this out."

He said he would have more definite recommendations when he addresses a joint session of the House and Senate after the opening Monday.

Briscoe was forced to call the special session because the 140-day regular session ended May 30 without either house taking a final vote on a public school financing compromise

BS schools would get $618,800 more in bill

The Big Spring Independent School District would receive $618,800 in additional school aid under the Minimum Foundation Program through the school finance bill proposed by the leadership in the lower house of the State Legislature.

That increase would be over the amount given the district for the last school year, according to an announcement originating in Speaker Bill Clayton's office.

Increases in other districts adjacent to Big Spring include: Coahoma ISD, $99,200; Foran, $91,800; Stanton, $42,700; Grady, $14,600; Westbrook, no change; Colorado City, $153,300; Loraline, $53,900; Hermleigh, $14,700; Snyder, no change; Ira, no change; Sterling City, no change.

bill that was approved by a conference committee just half an hour before the midnight deadline for adjournment.

Briscoe was asked if he had second thoughts about waiting until now to call a special session instead of recalling the lawmakers immediately after the May 30 failure.

"I think, I am convinced, after the discussion today that the legislature is going to do a better job (on public school financing) this session than the conference report of May 30," he said. "In that case, I think I made the proper decision for the good of public education."

Briscoe said he would stick with his previous forecast that the legislature should be able to close out the special session in a week or 10 days. "I would hope so," he told the news conference. "No one would want to make a definite prediction but I am optimistic that will be the case."

The House Public Education

Committee ended two days of public hearings Friday with detailed discussion and testimony of two proposed House bills. One, backed personally by Clayton, would spend about $920 million for public school improvements. Backers said it was a "tax relief" bill because it would keep local school districts from having to raise property taxes. The second bill, backed principally by a group of House liberals, was called the "equalization" bill because they said it would provide more for poorer school districts. It was estimated to cost $958.5 million — just about what Comptroller Bob Bullock says is available in the treasury.

Both bills would allow local districts the choice of assessing farm land on its production value instead of market value. Clayton told the committee he would like to have a committee-approved bill ready for debate the middle of the week.

Korean payoff hearing set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ethics Committee's five-month-old investigation into alleged South Korean influence-buying on Capitol Hill is tentatively planning to hold public hearings in September.

One congressional source, noting plans for Congress to adjourn in October, said he doubts there will be substantial new data developed and made public in the short time before the House quits for the year.

The panel is seeking to determine if South Korean agents dispensed cash and gifts to buy support in Congress for South Korean programs.

Committee chairman Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Ga., says the slow and cautious pace of the committee staff is warranted.

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — The McDonald's hamburger chain suspended promotion and distribution Saturday of its "glasses to go" program following tests by the Massachusetts Health Department that found exterior decals on the glasses may pose a health hazard.

And the Food and Drug Administration said it was testing the glasses for lead content and that initial results may be available by Sunday.

Queen prefers gardener

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's head gardener soon will put away the spade he keeps in the trunk of his car and pass on responsibility for Buckingham Palace's flora and fauna to a younger man.

To honor the years of faithful service to his sovereign, the Queen on Friday made Fred Nutbeam a Member of the Royal Victorian Order, a rare honor bestowed by a monarch for personal services.

Nutbeam, in his 60s, cares for 39 acres of walled-in private park behind the palace that is a haven for small wildlife and rare plants.

Earlier this year Nutbeam wanted to postpone treatment for an ailment because he felt it his duty to prepare the garden for numerous silver jubilee parties later this month.

The Queen would not hear of it. Down from the royal apartments came the message: "I would rather have my gardener than my garden."

16-year-old indicted for capital murder

MIDLAND — A Midland grand jury has indicted Jimmy Ray Fox, 16, of 3411 Thomas Ave., Midland, on a charge of capital murder and forgery in connection with the June 14 death of Mrs. Janice Abernathy.

Mrs. Abernathy, who resided at 4303 W. Storey Ave., was pregnant at the time. The youth, a star athlete at his school, has been held in the county jail since his June 16 arrest at his home.

He will continue to be held in jail in lieu of $50,000 bond on the murder count and $5,000 on the forgery charge.

The grand jury held a special session Friday to consider the indictments.

Tom Parker, the youth's attorney, sought to have the case remanded to juvenile court jurisdiction.

Nine candidates for award from West Texas

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has received nine nominations of West Texas firms, from the West Texas Area, for the Governor's Industrial Expansion Award for 1976. Ralph McLaughlin of Big Spring, chairman of the WTCC Private Enterprise Development Committee, has announced.

West Texas firms nominated were Bibby's Creations of Rising Star, nominated by the First State Bank of Rising Star; Mueller Supply Company of Ballinger, nominated by the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce; Swift Fresh Meats Company of Moore County, nominated by the Dumas Chamber of Commerce; and Compressor Systems, Inc. of Midland, nominated by the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Other nominations were MBPXL Corporation of Plainview, nominated by the Plainview Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development; Royal Park Fashions, Inc., of Tulsa, nominated by the Tulsa Industrial Foundation; Iowa

Beef Processors, Inc., of Amarillo, nominated by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce; and Billy the Kid, Inc., of El Paso, nominated by the El Paso Chamber of Commerce.

Nominations were submitted by organizations involved in industrial development work. In order to be eligible for nomination, the nominee had to have manufacturing operations in the community submitting the nomination prior to January 1, 1976.

Bruce Street of Graham, President of the WTCC said: "A WTCC selection committee will judge the nominations and select a grand prize winner from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Area."

"The judging will be based on the extent of the nominee's expansion during 1976, and the effect of the nominee's expansion on the total economic growth of the community during 1976."

Statistical data included in each report comparing 1975 with 1976 included total plant payroll, number employed at the plant, investment in new plant facilities and equipment, square footage of plant area, and total local expenditures for goods and services.

Blast just an 'accident'

Alaska pipeline flowing again soon?

PUMP STATION NO. 8, Alaska (AP) — The trans-Alaska pipeline will be put back in operation "in days, not weeks," after a deadly explosion that halted the flow of oil through the massive engineering project.

Edward L. Patton, chief executive officer of the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., said Saturday he couldn't give a precise time for start-up because several federal agencies will want to review the plan before it is implemented. But he said the delay will be measured in days.

Patton also said the explosion at Pump Station No. 8 is "probably going to come down to human error."

Meanwhile, state officials said the pipeline could resume operation in less than a week if engineers are able to bypass the station which was demolished in the blast.

In Washington, the Department of Transportation confirmed that the pipeline itself apparently was intact, despite Friday's blast which killed one workman and injured five.

It was the second major mishap forcing a pipeline shutdown in less than a week at Pump Station No. 8, about 41 miles southeast of Fairbanks at mile 488 on the 800-mile, $7.7 billion line.

Damage will exceed $5 million, a spokeswoman for Alyeska, the consortium of oil companies running the pipeline, said Saturday.

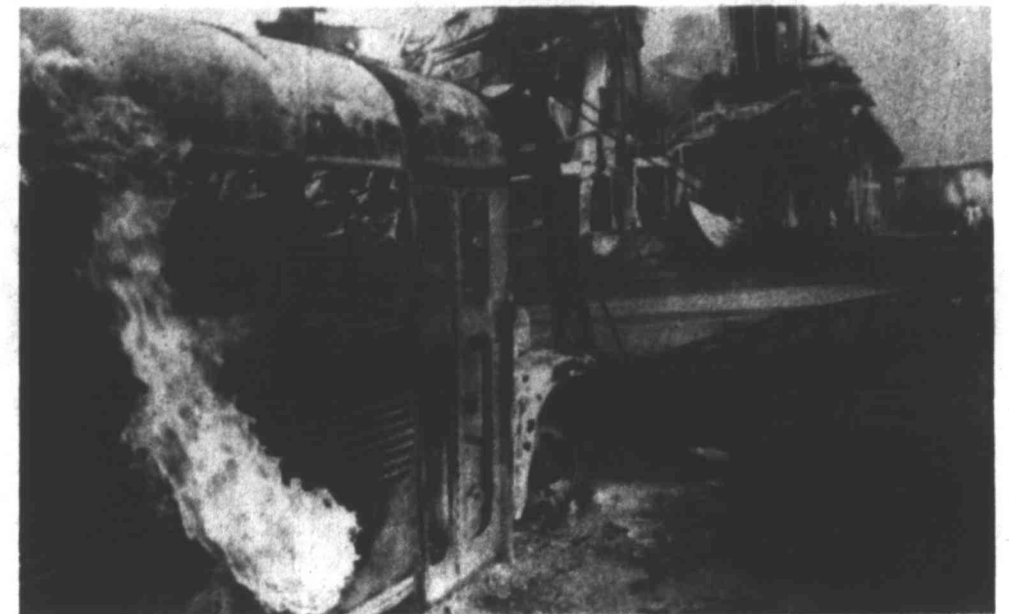

The explosion apparently was touched off when oil leaked through a malfunctioning check valve into the pumphouse and ignited. It twisted the building to a twisted, blackened maze of steel.

State Public Safety Commissioner Richard

Burton said officials did not believe sabotage was involved. He said it "was strictly an industrial accident... It was just one of those accidents."

The dead man was identified by a check of employees known to have been in the building as technician Charles C. Lindsey, 39, of Fairbanks.

Clouds left up to four inches in area Friday

Big Spring and environs apparently escaped damage from spotty rains which fell throughout the area Friday afternoon.

Odessa was not so lucky. Several streets suffered heavy damage during downpours there and Pennbrook Street near Wynnewood Mall may have to be rebuilt.

The heaviest rains in the Big Spring area apparently fell about ten miles west of the city and in the Luther area.

Mrs. Bill McIlvain, who lives with her husband on the H.H. Wilkerson ranch west of Big Spring, said four inches fell on the ranch, without inflicting any damage.

"We just stood here and watched the water flow by," Mrs. McIlvain said. She added that the 1977 rainfall at her place could total as much as 15 inches.

Mrs. John Couch, who resides with her husband in the Luther area, said their gauges trapped 3.5 inches. That brings the year's total on the Couch place to 13.9 inches, exclusive of the winter snows which fell.

Four miles south of the Couch place, however, only 2.4 inches fell. The same amount fell on the Rich Anderson ranch up near Lake J.B. Thomas.

The fall in Big Spring ranged from a bare .1 inch in the southwest part of town to 4.5 in the eastern section.

Bill Fryrear, manager of the U.S. Experiment Farm, said the rain was far more bountiful at his home in the Midway area east of Big Spring than on the Experiment Farm, which extends from the northern perimeter of Big Spring. The fall at Midway ranged from .9 to 1.25 inch but only .16 inch was trapped at the Experiment Farm and even less, .11 inch, a mile north of Coahoma.

Coahoma was blessed with a downpour that measured up to 1.75. South of town, however, the fall tapered off to 4 inches.

Four miles south of Big Spring, Boyce Hale reported 2.3 inch. At the Big Spring Country Club beyond South Mountain, Pro C.G. Griffin reported a fall totaling about a quarter of an inch.

The weather front broke a heat wave that was causing grass and shrubbery to suffer in Big Spring and eased the demand on water lines here.

Burglars hit the Airport Grocery, 3107 West 80, sometime between 11 p.m. Friday to 7 a.m. Saturday, and made off with an undetermined amount of money.

According to reports, Forman parked his car at the Seven-Eleven at Highway 80 and Willis Thursday night, and at 6 p.m. Friday he discovered the items missing. Appraisal of those things stolen amounts to about $117.

Connie Edgemon, 112 Lincoln, was surprised that the two wheels that she had been carrying around in her car were not the ones she thought they were.

According to reports, thieves stole the two wheels which Ms. Edgemon had originally put into her car, and then replaced them with wheels which were not even designed for her car.

The loss amounted to $50. Police officer Dusty Choate arrested a man on South Benton Friday after seeing him hit his wife.

According to reports, Forman parked his car at the Seven-Eleven at Highway 80 and Willis Thursday night, and at 6 p.m. Friday he discovered the items missing. Appraisal of those things stolen amounts to about $117.

Lanora J. Falk, 1904 E. 25th, reported the theft of her purse from the Webb officers club Friday night.

AFTER ENERGY CONFAB — President Carter faces newsmen in Washington Saturday after meeting with governors to discuss his energy program. Behind the Chief Executive is Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, chairman of the National Governors' Conference.

Energy Governors urge energy development

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's governors told President Carter on Saturday that the federal government is placing too much emphasis on energy conservation and not enough on developing new energy resources.

"We got good advice," Carter said after the three-hour conference.

Carter also praised Congress for its work on his energy program which is still pending in the legislative halls where it has been given a less-than-friendly reception. He said that if Congress fails to approve his plan, he will keep fighting for it.

"If we don't get 100 percent of a program this year, we'll be back next year," Carter told reporters in a brief statement in the White House press room.

The governors were invited to Washington by the administration to review the role the states can play in implementing energy policy. Forty-four governors attended the two days of meetings.

Gov. Julian Carroll of Kentucky, chairman of the National Governors' Conference committee on natural resources and environmental management, said after the Saturday meeting with Carter that "there seems to be a criticism generally that we concentrated more on conservation than on production."

But he said no commitment was extracted from Carter or the other federal officials on giving more emphasis on production.

James Schlesinger, Carter's chief energy adviser, said some governors also felt that "undue environmental restraints" were hindering energy development.

Schlesinger would not say what changes, if any, would be made in the administration's energy proposals as a result of the conference.

Glasscock discovery noted in Carter field

Weather Outlook for state mostly scorching

By the Associated Press

Badly needed rain showers were few and far between Saturday as Texans braced for another hot weekend across much of the state.

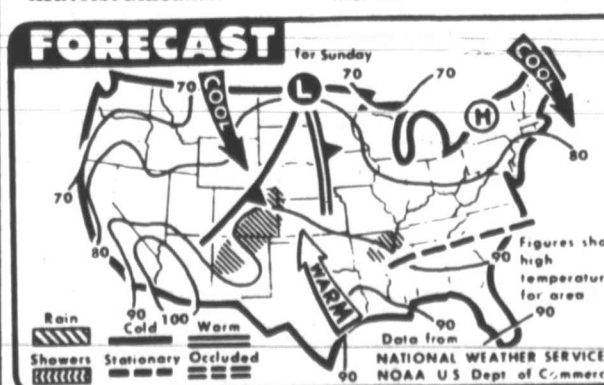

The only relief was in the Panhandle and Northwest Texas where a weak frontal system kept morning temperatures in the mid-70s.

That system touched off thunderstorms along and ahead of it in portions of North Texas. Rainfall amounts ranged upward to more than two inches at some points. Rotan, 40 miles northwest of Abilene, received 2.30 inches for one of the heaviest amounts.

A few thundershowers fell along the upper Gulf coast and offshore Saturday afternoon.

South of the front, thermometer readings climbed into the high 80s by mid-morning.

Forecasters said clear to partly cloudy skies would prevail through Sunday with continued hot temperatures. Widely scattered thunderstorms, mostly in the afternoon and evening, were expected over most of Texas.

WEATHER FORECAST MAP — Rain is forecast today for parts of New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas and Tennessee, according to the National Weather Service.

Spirit of cooperation prevails

The Air Force has been remarkably cooperative and sensitive of community needs as it has gone about the difficult process of closing Webb Air Force Base.

The spirit of cooperation begins with the personnel at Webb and extends up through the commands to the highest levels of the Department of Defense.

FOR EXAMPLE, the Air Force realizes that if Big Spring is to minimize the impact that the closing of the base will have here, new jobs must be attracted to the town before the labor force has moved away.

Big Spring's needs required that the Air Force vacate some buildings which would be attractive to industry very quickly — more rapidly than the Air Force would have normally done.

The Air Force could see how important such a step could be to Big Spring, and a number of good industrial sites are being vacated in early July.

The Defense Department also has kept the paperwork moving on Webb, and other governmental agencies have been assisting by expediting where possible.

A good example came this past week as persons involved in the local industrial effort began to worry about the delay in Congress which was preventing the leasing of buildings.

The Big Spring Area Chamber of

Commerce's Industrial Team has several prospects, and one in particular, which are ready to go, which need to move in.

Meanwhile, the House Armed Services subcommittee, which must make a routine disposal report on Webb before interim leasing can begin through the General Services Administration, is deadlocked on another political matter and apparently will not even hold its June meeting until near the end of July.

This could have meant an unnecessary and potentially economically damaging delay in beginning to make Webb facilities available

BUT AGAIN THE Air Force cut through the red tape for the community. Col. Harry Spannaus, wing commander at Webb, announced Thursday that a permit had been obtained which will make possible some immediate interim leases.

As a result, it is possible that Big Spring may see an industrial announcement or two during the month of July, and this will hopefully keep too many of our skilled workers from moving away to metropolitan areas.

This community and its military guests have always had the best of relationships.

It appears these will continue until the last airman has departed Webb.

Place for smokers

Frequent airline passengers are more irritated by crying babies than by cigarette smokers, according to a survey.

—News story

Nobody asked the babies. As a reformed non-smoker, I think a plane passenger who wants to smoke should be told:

"If you wish to smoke, please step outside."

Overheard by Marsha Bishop, formerly known as "Sand Springs chick."

First person: "I'm such a fool!"

Second person (friend of first person): "So you finally found that out?"

And when you think about it a while, isn't that what a friend is for?

That retired highway man, Nat Dalton, says:

Civilization has advanced to the point where we bolt our doors and windows at night, while the jungle natives sleep in an open hut.

My wife Velma, recovering from surgery in a local hospital, and a woman from Midland were discussing the youth cult that has overtaken America. The woman from Midland summed it up:

"Do you notice how they always use young people in advertising? They never call on us unless it's for laxatives or upset stomachs."

President Jimmy Carter (oh, THAT Jimmy Carter?) says he's surprised at the adverse reaction to his human rights stand and its effect on nuclear talks.

It may be time for the President to appoint a cabinet member whose sole job will be to be surprised when necessary.

He could be nicknamed "Laughing Boy" and his main duty would be to cry himself to sleep.

Along with the rest of us.

That intrepid El Paso reporter John G. Edwards, on his way to visit ex-Herald women's editor Candy Smothers and her husband Mark in New Orleans this week, reports:

"Signs at security check-out points at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport read: 'Comments regarding guns and bombs are taken seriously. 'Please, no jokes!'

"Joking is allowed other places in the airport."

"A woman passenger, nervously waiting for her plane while a thunderstorm was in progress, noticed a young man with long, dyed blonde hair to his waist, wearing ragged cutoffs, a farmer's straw hat and glasses, entering a door marked 'Airport personnel only.'"

"The woman commented: 'That's probably the pilot of my plane!'"

Ex-Duncan Banner flash, Joe Awtry, is brave enough to have a firm opinion on women's rights ... but not brave enough to express it in the presence of females. Say it isn't so, Joe.

Bob and Vickie, my neighbors, penned the following note on my front door Monday:

"Walter — We lost 'Moose' sometime Saturday night — will you see that this gets printed in the appropriate place in your paper as soon as possible?"

"Lost — 1-year-old Male Irish Setter, vicinity 15th and Scurry. Answers to 'Moose'. We love this dog and offer a generous reward for his return."

Bob, a newly wed, bid bride Vickie bye and bolted out the front door Tuesday. He was late. Down he went. He had tripped over the wandering 'Moose.' Well, scratch that want ad.

Conservative Digest reports that Utah State University Prof. Allen Stokes and four of his students spent three summer vacations studying Alaskan brown bears.

Their conclusion is that brown bears are mean (they occasionally steal from one another).

The cost of the federally funded study was $81,700.

Just bear with me. There's more.

Department of Defense officials spent $342,000, according to New Times magazine, on a study to determine whether college students have pre-marital sex. The suspense-shattering results? Some do, some don't.

Speaking of fools, as I was up there a piece (as we Big Springers say), Capsuled Comments repeats an Arabian saying:

"A fool may be known by six things: Anger without cause; speech without profit; change without progress; inquiry without object; putting trust in a stranger and mistaking foes for friends."

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Some of the directors feel we need to offer a rebuttal to Marj Carpenter's article, "Let's Have a Parade," dated June 27.

First, on behalf of the Big Spring Rodeo Association, we would like to express our appreciation for the rodeo coverage by the Herald and certainly agree that the rodeo parade could be improved and welcome suggestions to help make it better.

As a director of the association it has been my job to serve as parade marshal for a number of years. Miss Edith Gay, formerly with the Chamber of Commerce, sent hundreds of letters on our behalf to the clubs, businesses, and other groups which we thought might enter a float. Because the response was disappointing and, the effort was excessively time consuming and costly we discontinued this practice and depended on the news media to publicize the prize for the top three floats.

We have used local judges for the floats and if they overlooked the best floats we are sure that it was unintentional. This is the first criticism of the judges that has come to our attention. The judges are selected by the Chamber of Commerce and their identity is withheld from the rodeo association directors so there can be no way of influencing their decisions.

Also, the 15 directors could be connected with some club or business that might enter a float. For the record, we have sent the Howard County Sheriff's Posse $100 for first place, the High School Student Council $60 for second place, and National Little League $40 for third place.

With regard to inviting bands, we have invited all area schools to enter a band in the parade. It seems that Coahoma has accepted a few times. The big problem, which we certainly understand, is due to schools being on vacation, uniforms in storage, and the usual hot weather. In order to get the Big Spring band to lead the parade we gave each member of the band a rodeo pass and a barbecue ticket and made a $100 cash donation to the band association.

The past few years we have been paying the band $400 to play in the parade and at the rodeo. This may not be much money but, it is a sizeable bite out of our limited budget. We appreciate Marj's personal interest and attention to the parade and urge her to stay on the soap box and stir up interest because we all like a good parade and from the expression of the people in the parade picture ours probably smells.

As far as we are concerned we appreciate everyone who entered the parade, helped or watched and hope all will participate again next year. We would like to have a lot more participants as the parade is open to everyone.

Dear Editor:

Since the closure of Webb AFB will affect the entire area of West Texas, I would like to offer the following suggestion. I believe the base could be easily and economically converted to a Veterans Administration Total-Care Center. As the time approaches when not only the World War I Veterans but also the World War II, Korean, and Vietnam Veterans that will, or now, require this type care, I believe we all should be concerned.

Since the base has the office space, housing and hospital already built, not only would it save the VA the expense of building, it would also save an economic slump in this area. The runways would also provide accessibility of becoming equal to Brooks Burn Center in San Antonio or any other in the nation and thereby the means to save the lives of the critically ill who need immediate transportation.

There is a great need for this type of facility and in the next few years this need will be increased.

I rest assured you will give this urgent matter all the consideration and sincerely hope you will think this is a worthy project and give your needed support.

Dear Editor:

Each year, I receive cards from the children of friends and relatives at graduation time.

I always honor the card with a gift or money, as I believe it is a real honor to be a high school graduate. However, it does seem like 12 years of school and being a high school graduate, the graduate would have learned that a gift does earn the respect of a small "thank you" card. At least the sender would know he or she received the gift.

The children are, as a rule taught at home good manners, therefore maybe the parents are to blame.

I would like to tell future graduates to at least send a small note to the sender, who thought enough to send gifts to them.

No fear of flying

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Judith Exner's book on her love affairs with President John F. Kennedy, Mob Boss Sam Giancana and Frank Sinatra has just come off the presses, and while it doesn't shed any new light on the "Bay of Pigs," it is a great study in how a woman can find happiness by sharing her favors with a President, a singer and a Godfather all at the same time.

When you read the book you are amazed at the amount of traveling Miss Exner did during the tumultuous years of trying to keep men in such diverse professions happy and faithful.

WHEN MISS EXNER isn't flying off to Miami to hear Mr. Sinatra sing, she is on a plane to Chicago to paint the town red with "Sam Flood" (she tells us she really didn't know Flood was Giancana or what he did for a living for a long time. But she was very impressed with the respect he received from waiters and people who hovered over them with pug noses and punched in ears and bulging tuxedos). Then just when Sam (Flood) Giancana is making her real happy, she has to go off to Beverly Hills or Washington to meet with the President of the United States.

How she manages to keep all these liaisons as well as her self-respect, is the theme of the book, and I must admit it reads like a thriller. Miss Exner never knows if Frank Sinatra will hug her or throw her out of his suite. One night they're in the hay, according to Miss Exner, and the next day Frank isn't talking to her. Then there are Frank's friends who are very jealous of her. When she gets mistreated by Frank she goes off to Chicago where Sam tries to make it up to her by playing her with money and jewelry which she hates to accept. The reader is kept on the edge of his chair wondering if Judith will ever find out who Sam Flood really is.

Fortunately the FBI comes to visit her and informs her that she's messing around with the most powerful figure in the mob. According to Judith, the FBI was so rude to her, that she decides she doesn't care how Sam earns his living, and she makes up her mind that she'll remain loyal to him to the bitter end.

Of course, in defense of Miss Exner, she never knew Giancana was also working on the side for the CIA. If she had discovered this she might have severed her relations. It's one thing for a woman to be the girlfriend of a mobster, but how can you hold your head up in public if you're aware the man you're shacking up with works for the Central Intelligence Agency of the United States?

The most fascinating part of the book is Miss Exner's continuing relationship with John F. Kennedy. As she tells it, Kennedy calls her practically every day. He wants to know how she liked him on television. He tells her he will take her away with him to a desert island if he loses his election against Richard Nixon. He keeps showing up at hotel suites to comfort her and she keeps turning up at his hotel suites whenever her phone rings. While Sam knows Judith is seeing the President, the President doesn't know Judith is seeing Sam. Sinatra, knows Judith is seeing both Sam and the President but he still makes sure she gets a ringside table at any night club where he performs.

The one thing we discover about Miss Exner in the book is she won't stand for kinky sex. A menage a trois is not her thing and when two out of her three dearest friends suggest it, she gets so upset about it that she doesn't talk to them for weeks (days?)

REMEMBERING...

By BILL BROOKS

BONNETS

When I grew up a woman's head was generally covered when she went outdoors. None of them would have considered getting a suntan and a sure way to "catch" freckles was to go out without your parasol or bonnet.

There were mail order hats and bonnets but most of the women I remember made their own. I know my grandmother made them for my mother and aunts as well as herself. She also sold them and gave many away.

She made mostly slat bonnets. She would usually piece them together from small scraps of material but sometimes she made them out of the left-over materials from a dress so that she would have a bonnet to match her dress exactly. The slats were cut from round oatmeal boxes. They slipped into little pockets in the bonnet and gave it its shape. You could take the slats out to wash the bonnet then put them back in when you were through. That saved having to starch the material but lots of times you did anyway.

There were other types of bonnets. One type sort of looked like a cap. I mean it had a stiff bill made of several layers of material sewed together then starched heavily. The back part had two long narrow tails that tied in a bow behind your head.

Little girls sometimes wore bonnets made of a three-cornered piece of cloth. They had little strings that tied under the neck. They could be plain but were usually decorated with ruffles, ribbons, or lace.

Bonnets were worn, rather than hats, by women working outdoors because the bonnet offered more protection from the sun, wouldn't blow off in the wind or fall off when you stooped and they were darn near as good as an apron for gathering and carrying eggs and garden vegetables. I still see slat bonnets occasionally, worn by women who lived back then and when I do I always think of my grandmother.

Birth control use zooms

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Of the various birth control methods which one do you personally favor? I'm sure an answer would be helpful for many young women trying to decide this matter. — Mrs. O.J.D.

It would be unwise for me to publicly suggest blanket approval of one over another. The chief reason is that each woman must select her own based on her individual situation and doctor's recommendation. There can be good reasons for using or avoiding any specific method.

Birth control remains a subject of lively interest among readers, which prompted me to read with special interest a recent rundown on birth control method usage in "Public Health Reports."

First of all, it notes a sharp increase in use of all kinds of birth control methods by American women. In 1960 about 50 per cent of married women were using some form of control. By 1973 that had jumped to 70 per cent. In 1965, about 37 per cent of those practicing birth control were using the pill, IUD (intrauterine device), or sterilization. By 1973 about 70 per cent were using those three methods.

The most recent figures show the following breakdown of use of major birth control methods by American women: the Pill, 36 per cent; sterilization (female), 12 per cent; sterilization (male) 11 per cent, and I.U.D. 9 per cent. The rest were using other methods, such as rhythm, diaphragm, condom, foam, etc.

My views on birth control have not changed over recent years. I still view the Pill as the most effective method for those women who can tolerate it. That does not mean I favor it for all women. My advice for the young woman trying to decide on which method to use is to learn about the advantages and possible disadvantages of each. It was for this reason that I compiled my booklet, "Twelve Methods of Birth Control," still available by sending a quarter and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a sunlamp with a built-in timer. I have a pale complexion. I have read where overexposure to the sun can speed up the aging process. Is the sunlamp a safe instrument? — V.K.

The effect of the sunlamp is exactly the same as exposure to the sun's rays (ultraviolet). Overexposure to either can cause a leathery appearance of the skin if done over many years. However, only the skin is affected. The automatic timer sounds like a good idea, but I would not depend on it exclusively for long exposure times. Mechanical devices are subject to mechanical failures. In this instance a mechanical failure could be disastrous. Use it as a "back up" system for your own wristwatch. Never doze under a lamp or the sun with or without a timer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the difference between plastic surgery and what might be called regular surgery? — E.D.R.

The word plastic, by dictionary definition, means "capable of being molded." Dorland's Medical Dictionary defines plastic surgery as "surgery concerned with restoration or reconstruction of body structures that are defective or damaged." It does not imply that synthetic materials (plastics) are necessarily used, although they sometimes are. Nor does it mean that the surgery is always "cosmetic." Dorland's defines cosmetic surgery as that performed to "improve the patient's appearance."

Many people use the term plastic surgery as synonymous with cosmetic surgery. Not so.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last year I accidentally cut the tip of my thumb with a knife blade. It has never felt right since, a kind of numbness. Will this ever be normal again? — Mrs. W.O.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am astounded that you are so opposed to homosexuality. I have lived with a member of my own sex for many years, and don't see anything wrong with it. I don't see how I could change my orientation any more than I could change my height. — M.R.G.

DEAR M.R.G.: I know there is a growing acceptance of homosexuality in our culture, but my guide is God's Word, the Bible. Whatever men may say, God's Word is very clear that homosexuality is wrong. In fact, during Old Testament times those who engaged in homosexual practices could be put to death (Leviticus 20:13). You should also look carefully at Paul's indictment of homosexual practices in Romans 1:21-27. Here the Bible warns that homosexual practices are not only a distortion of God's creation, but that they may even scar our consciences so much that we will be insensitive to God.

Whether or not you choose to accept it, the truth of the matter is that homosexual practices are sin in the eyes of God. However, like other sins, homosexuality can be forgiven by God. From your letter I suspect that you have never given much thought to God or to your salvation. I challenge you to turn to the Bible and see what God says. On one hand He condemns your sin. But on the other hand He loves you and wants you to become His child. That is why Jesus Christ came — to take the punishment for your sins on the cross and to offer you forgiveness.

I urge you to repent of your sins and accept Christ into your life as your Lord. I know it will be hard, for you must leave the sinful practices that are keeping you from God. I also cannot promise that all of your desires and temptations will be taken away immediately. But I know God is able to strengthen us to resist temptation and give us courage to flee from it if we commit it to Him.

Information 'suppressed'

U.S. POWs killed in Hiroshima blast?

LONDON (AP) — A new book by two British writers says American prisoners of war, some captured less than two weeks earlier, were among 80,000 persons killed in the U.S. atomic bombing of Hiroshima in World War II and that two who survived were reported beaten to death.

"For 32 years this information has been suppressed," claimed Gordon Thomas, co-author of the book "Enola Gay," in an interview here.

The Pentagon in Washington said 10 to 20 U.S. prisoners were believed to be in Hiroshima at the time but it added it could not be adequately determined if any were victims of the bombing.

In the book, named after the B-29 bomber that carried out the world's first atomic attack on Aug. 6, 1945, Thomas and coauthor Max Morgan Witts write that an estimated 23 Americans were being held in Hiroshima at the time. The authors said 10 of them had been taken prisoner in Okinawa and the rest had been shot down over Hiroshima on July 28, 1945.

"The fate of the American prisoners of war is not certain," they add in their 327-page book. "Two were reported to have been escorted, wounded but able to walk, to Ujina. One was seen under a bridge, apparently dying, wearing only a pair of red and white underpants. Two were said to have been battered to death in the castle grounds by their captors." Ujina is in the port section of Hiroshima.

Witts, also interviewed with Thomas, said: "We cannot say for certain what happened to every single person because the official records themselves are neither accurate — they're often contradictory — nor are they comprehensive."

But the authors named six U.S. Army Air Force personnel who they said were killed in the Hiroshima attack.

Thomas and Witts expressed the belief that guilt feelings were attached to the attack and because of this the American deaths were not disclosed.

"There's no doubt in our minds," said Thomas of the Hiroshima attack, "that the relatives, the wives, mothers, sweethearts of these dead men, believe their menfolk were killed by enemy action." One man, Staff Sgt. Julius Molnar of Kalamazoo, Mich., a rear turret gunner on a bomber named Talos, one of the two B24s shot down on July 28, was reported killed in action and posthumously awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, they said.

None of the 10 men captured on Okinawa, presumably U.S. Marines, were named. But in the interview, the authors listed five other men in addition to Molnar as having died in Hiroshima on Aug. 6.

They identified them as 2nd Lt. James M. Ryan, bombardier; Sgt. Hugh Atkinson, radio operator;

Sgt. Buford Ellison, flight engineer; Cpl. John Long, nose gunner, and 2nd Lt. Durden Looper, co-pilot. All were from the crew of the B24 Lonesome Lady, shot down over Hiroshima.

The Pentagon in Washington, asked about the authors' claims, said: "There were between 10 and 20 American POWs in the Hiroshima area at the time of the bombing. To the extent there were casualties cannot be adequately documented."

Open house set today at Robertson Body Shop

It has happened to all of us. The telephone pole, seemingly miles behind you suddenly hits the back of the car; or the other car, which was miles to your left, is suddenly part of your wreckage.

Sooner or later most of us get involved in some kind of automobile accident. While most of them are not serious, all of them do cause some kind of auto body damage.

These fender benders and other more major auto body damage, have kept people coming to Morris Robertson Body Shop since 1947.

The Morris Robertson Body Shop has moved twice since its beginning at 1205 East 13th street. The shop was located at 805 East 2nd, until this year when it moved to 207 Goliah.

Morris Robertson likes to think of his business as a family operation, and it is. He has three sons working for him full time now, and expects them to take over ownership of the thriving business someday.

Robertson has been training high school students since 1951, and still has many working for him. "Everybody who works here is an expert, and between us we can fix any kind of car body problem," said Robertson.

The body shop will handle any type of auto body problem, and also glass, radiator, and frame work. The new shop on Goliah has more area than either of the shops before, and has three paint stalls, something unique to any body shop in West Texas.

The Morris Robertson Body Shop is having an open house today from 1 to 4 p.m.

to show off his new shop and facilities, and to show you where you'll be welcome when accidents happen.

Okie cowboy tops in July 4 rodeos

DENVER, Colo. — Bobby Berger, 32-year-old cowboy from Norman, Okla., who was runner-up for the world all around championship six years ago, emerged the biggest winner at the July rodeos.

Berger won $4,193 at four contests over the long holiday weekend, and he was named all around winner at the richest single contest, the Greeley, Colo., Independence Stampede, where prize money totaled nearly $55,000 for Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association contestants.

Berger won more than $2,000 at that one, placing in saddle bronc and bull riding.

Former world all around champ Leo Camarillo of Oakdale, Calif., was close behind in earnings, collecting $4,142 at three rodeos. And the Ferguson brothers, Tom and Larry of Miami, Okla., each won more than $2,700 in calf roping and steer wrestling at Greeley, plus the Gateways rodeo, Cody, Wyo., Red Lodge and Livingston, Mont.

Tom, reigning world all around champ, leads PRCA all around standings now with $32,967.

Another major winner was Corky Warren of Loveland, Colo., who won $2,593 at one rodeo, the St. Paul, Ore., contest, where he placed in calf roping, steer wrestling and team roping.

Joe Alexander, five-time world bareback riding champ from Cora, Wyo., also enjoyed a good Fourth, winning $2,406, which bolstered his lead in the event this season to $23,756. In saddle bronc riding, Ivan Daines of Innisfail, Alta., captured the lead with $2,159 garnered from four rodeos; his total is $16,541.

Ike Sankey of Rose Hill, Kan., was another big winner, taking $2,243 out of three rodeos. Ike's older brother, Lyle, the big winner over the Fourth last year, is home recovering from a knee injury sustained earlier this year.

PICKING THOSE PEAS — Mrs. Barbara Gray, coordinator of Wallace Center at Colorado City and the new health services secretary Lulu Turner are picking a few peas in the Senior Citizen Garden at the center.

However, the senior citizens keep them fairly well harvested and sell the produce to purchase a deep freeze for their facility.

Herald carrier wins

Big Spring Herald carrier Mark Jones has won a $250 scholarship offered jointly by the Texas Daily Newspaper Association and the Texas Circulation Managers Association.

The honor opened the door for other possible honors that might come the Star Scout's way. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Jones of 1900 Goliad Street and is the third son in the Jones family to distinguish himself as a Herald paper carrier. Mark delivers his route in the Edwards Heights area.

Young Jones will now compete for Statewide Newspaper Carrier of the Year honors, a distinction offered only eight other boys in the state. A win there would qualify him for National competition where sometime before October the winner will get a huge trophy and a $2,000 savings bond. Mark learned his lessons in the art of pleasing newspaper customers by helping his brothers, Dana and Brian, deliver Heralds. Both Dana and Brian are now students at Texas Tech. Mark's interest in scouting comes naturally. His father is involved in scouting in the Lone Star District of the Buffalo Trail Council.

Now 16 years of age, Mark hopes to achieve Life and Eagle Scout status before he leaves the Scouts.

A substitute carrier is having to fill in for Mark at the present time, since he left Friday for Minnesota on a two-weeks missions trip for his church, First Baptist. He was the only youth from the local church chosen. As an appointee, Mark will be helping promote the idea of establishing new churches in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

HEADS PTA — Bob Hamilton, publisher of the Iowa Park Leader for the past eight years, has been named president of the Texas Press Association. Hamilton had been serving as first vice president in the 97-year-old newspaper organization. Hamilton's hometown is Hereford. He's 46.

JOHNNY PAYNE

Vacation home, outhouse gone

SPRAGUE RIVER, Ore. (AP) — Donald and Alice Humphrey of Richmond, Calif., reported "stolen properties" this week to the Klamath County sheriff.

The Humphreys, who returned to their vacation home site near Sprague River after a two-year absence, found that thieves had made off with the entire house, an outhouse, a deck for tents and an animal pen.

The couple said the 12-by-16-foot vacation home had an upstairs sleeping loft, gas refrigerator, bathtub, table and two benches plus the 12-by-12-foot tent deck and a calf pen.

Pvt. Payne ends boot camp

Marine Private Johnny R. Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Payne Sr. of 902 Bell, Big Spring, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle. He joined the Marine Corps in March 1977.

73-year-old woman gets ThD degree

Mrs. W.E. (Ruthie P.) Mann, longtime resident of Big Spring, received her Th.D. (Doctor of Theology) at Texas State Christian Bible College this spring.

Mrs. Mann recently moved to Fort Worth to complete her study and to earn her diploma. The Big Spring woman is 73 and she commented "For a truth, you're never too old to learn."

Sevens mean much to Cox family here

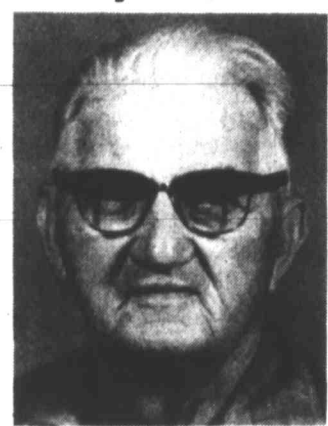

Enough sevens showed up at the C.H. Cox household at 1606 Jennings Street last Thursday to delight even the most hard-hearted dice player in Las Vegas.

On that day, Cox attained his 70th birthday. He was born July 8, 1907, in Ardmore, Okla. Numerically, the date would read 7-7-07. C.H. reasons the number has been lucky for him. He's outlived all but three members of a family that originally numbered 13. He has an older brother who is 87, an 82-year-old sister and his 'kid' brother, 69.

Cox originally moved to the Forsan area in 1937 and on into Big Spring ten years later, or in 1947. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Cox.

John Kennedy's sport was touch football — both literally and figuratively. The idea was to be rapid of foot and flashy but its impact was not too painful.

Lyndon Johnson was another story. He and his people would have succeeded in hockey. Some opponents got badly bruised when they took him on. In the end, the man himself suffered some body bruises and had to leave the game.

Richard Nixon's game must have been Monopoly, with more jails on the boardwalk than any other kind of real estate. Too, Nixon had a proclivity for making up the rules as he went along. It was his game, he kept reminding the other players, which meant anything he did was never to be considered illegal.

Furthermore, they have no tools, mental or otherwise, with which to alter the course of history. More than a few reason they've been shortchanged.

STUNTMAN DIES FROM CRASH — Hollywood stuntman Vic Rivers drives a pick-up off a ramp at 55 mph and sails 150 feet nose first into Malibu Lake Friday on the Paramount Ranch. Rivers was submerged for 25 minutes when his truck flipped upside down into the lake while filming the final scene for the crash-filled movie "High Rider." Rivers died 2½ hours after being pulled from the lake.

Stuntman killed making movie's final crash scene

AGOURA, Calif. (AP) — A movie stunt ended in tragedy when a pickup truck crashed upside down into a lake, trapping its driver underwater for 25 minutes.

The 29-year-old stunt driver, Vic Rivers, died 2½ hours after he was pulled from Malibu Lake on the Paramount Ranch, about 30 miles west of Los Angeles, a spokesman for Westlake Community Hospital said Friday.

"His lungs were filled with water and mud," said nursing supervisor June Green. "He wasn't breathing and had no blood pressure when paramedics brought him to the hospital."

Miss Green said teams of doctors worked for more than two hours to save Rivers, but he never regained consciousness.

Rivers was working on the final scene for "High Riders," a crash-filled movie about an automobile chase, when he drove a 16-year-old pickup off a ramp and into six feet of water at 55 miles an hour, police said.

The scene called for Rivers, a stuntman for seven years, to send the truck exploding into flames as he sailed 150 feet from the ramp to the water. However, the explosives did not ignite and the truck hit the water nose first, tumbled over and landed on its roof.

Rivers, protected by a seatbelt, crash helmet and rolls of foam padding, was to have freed himself from the truck and swim to safety after the stunt.

When he failed to appear, set crewmen pulled the pickup from the water by a tow truck cable, but Rivers was not in it, police said. Before the stunt, Rivers had said he wasn't worried.

As the facets of a cut diamond flash with exquisite colors in the sunlight, so the scriptures, illuminated by the Spirit of God, glow with many glorious truths. The kind of Christian life set forth in the New Testament is so far above the experience of many professing Christians that they think it abnormal. Yet it is there, and many through God's grace have found it, and lived it, and described it in such terms as the life of faith, the spirit-filled life and the victorious life.

Every sincere Christian wants to know how he can overcome temptation and be used of God in His service. How can we find freedom from anxiety and really know that peace which passeth understanding? How can we live at home the kind of consistent Christian life that we teach in our Sunday School classes and preach from our pulpits? How can we have real power in personal conversation as we seek to show men their need of a Saviour?

One of the most important keys to a life that knows such victory is the truth of the believer's identification with Christ in His death and resurrection. "I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." Gal. 2:20.

Life goes on, even without astute heads of state or great scientists. Few of us cause much of a ripple when we leave and that's the way it should be. Most memorabilia is litter and should be swept into the grave of the individual to whom it belonged.

Most of us are prone to look back over our shoulder and sigh, "Oh, if I had it to do over again..." Actually, our blunders might be more monumental and carry with them a greater sting for those around us than before.

The men and women of genius deserve to be remembered, and invariably are because their talents span the ages. Unlike some of the rest of us, that kind rarely devotes himself to improving the image. Their ideas are assayed and found worthy long after they have departed.

All of which reminds me somehow of what the Scottish poet, Bobby Burns once wrote, about despondency:

O life! Thou art a galling load,

Cal Tech gained headlines around the country a few years ago when some of its students managed to rearrange cards in the football rooting section of a rival school. At a given signal, the students manipulating the cards set about to spell out words or create school emblems. On this particular day, the cards came out quite unlike the cheer leaders had planned it.

That is not what lured young Gilliland there. His long suit is science and Cal Tech's educational processes rank right up there with MIT.

Bank conspiracy trial begins

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Attorneys will begin what is expected to be a lengthy jury screening process here Monday in the trial of eight persons charged with conspiracy to misapply more than $1.9 million from the defunct Citizens State Bank of Carrizo Springs.

A motion to delay the trial was filed by an attorney representing former Citizens State majority stockholder Enrique Salinas of Eagle Pass, but the motion was rejected by U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. Jury selection is also scheduled for the trial of Richard George, a former president of the bank, who was indicted separately for allegedly misapplying $39,000 in Citizens State funds.

Besides the nine persons who go to court Monday, four others named in the conspiracy indictment were still at large Friday.

Judge Wood gave some indication of the expected length of the selection process when he entered an order Friday giving attorneys a week to inform him of plea bargains.

The indictments were the first criminal charges stemming from a year-long state and federal probe of banking irregularities in South Texas.

BIG SPRING

Many extras shocked 'Best' movie not what expected

By MARJ CARPENTER

Once upon a time there was a movie made in Big Spring, Texas and it won best movie of the year. But the majority of the citizens around Big Spring hated the movie.

Mrs. Jess Slaughter, whose husband, the former Sheriff Slaughter, performed as an extra in the movie, summed up what a lot of Big Springers thought about "The Midnight Cowboy."

"We thought it was going to be a western — I mean a typical western," Mrs. Slaughter recalls. "That's what we were led to believe."

"I remember we had been to the Old Settlers Reunion in August. Then we went up to Canada and on the way home we were visiting relatives in Denver, Colo. We were excited when we found out that the show was performing there."

"Well, we went and we were so embarrassed. We just kind of sunk down in our seats and never talked about it much after that."

The sheriff had been filmed walking in front of the old Rio Theatre on the North Side of Big Spring.

Other locations where there was filming included Moss Creek Lake where the Baptismal scene was filmed, the old Milhollon Home in Stanton and the Pig Stand down on East Third.

That Pig Stand was at 3rd and Austin and was operated by W.D. Miller. He too thought at that time that the movie was to be a typical western, according to friends.

THE OLD RIO

Fred Coleman, who operates Terry's Drive-In recalls the filming of the movie. He said it was busy down on East 3rd for a while.

"I know there was one local woman who dated one of the directors. She left town about the same time as the director and some folks thought she left with him," one worker at Terry's said.

"However, we never were sure," she added.

A Mrs. Vada Heckler who worked at Terry's recalled that her son hung around up at the Ramada at that time, where the crews were staying.

He is Billy Clayton and recalls that a lot of local young people tried to get parts as extras. "I remember that Gary Turner got a role. Jerry Lou and Marilyn Corbell had parts. One was in the scene on the bus and one ran around that big house over at Stanton. I think there was another girl named Bertie Duncan in the bus scene," he recalled.

Mrs. Slaughter said their grandsons, John Roy and Jay, who were about eight or nine at the time were in the crowd in one scene.

Mark Morgan of Andrews, who was over here watching them film one scene got pulled out of the crowd to be a stand in for John Voight. However, they didn't use Morgan because they discovered he was too tall.

A lot of people met John Schlesinger, the director and remember Voight. Dustin Hoffman, main character in the movie, wasn't around for the Big Spring filming.

John Masters, who died recently, also had a minor role in the film because "he looked the part of a cowboy." He always hated that fact after he saw the movie.

He said pretty much the same thing as Mrs. Slaughter. To quote, the late John Masters, "I'd never been in the thing if I'd known what it was about."

The younger kids who played extra parts were not that disturbed. But some of their parents were.

In 1968, the show was really on a scandalous subject.

One Big Springer, who saw the movie when it came back to the Drive-In last year, said, "It doesn't seem as shocking any more. There have been so many worse movies since then."

Last year there were a few rumors around that another movie was to be made in the Big Spring area.

Even with the shock of the "Midnight Cowboy," Big Spring was ready and the chamber was hunting western-type homes for another movie.

Then the entire project was cancelled. Apparently, the majority of Big Springers would be delighted to have another movie company come to Big Spring.

Ironically, Marfa is still absolutely ecstatic about the days when "Giant" was filmed at that location with Rock Hudson, Elizabeth Taylor, James Dean and Chill Wills.

However, "Midnight Cowboy" was named best movie of the year and the director was best director of the year in 1969. Some persons thought that Dustin Hoffman was gyped out of the best actor award when John Wayne won it that year with "True Grit."

However, the average old-time Big Springer would probably have given the award to Wayne and might have given "best movie of the year" to "True Grit" as well.

Ridin' fence

Sometimes it happens

with Marj Carpenter

If you're old enough, think back to the days of World War II. Every young man you knew, married and single between the ages of 18 and 35 were off fighting.

Except for that crippled boy down the street and the healthy looking young man with a leaky heart, they were all in the service. And you were a little bit suspicious that the leaky heart might be "yellow."

Every few weeks, word had been coming that somebody's son, or brother or cousin or friend was killed in action. Some were killed in Europe, some in the Pacific.

Remember ... Just the other day, one lad was blown to pieces when he stepped on a landmine in Belgium. Another was bayoneted on the beach fighting for Iwo Jima. One boy went down with his ship in the Gilbert Islands. You remember those days.

Along about that time, word came to Big Spring that Lt. Roy Clifton Sanders, flying fortress pilot and son of Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Sanders was missing in action.

He had been missing several days on that autumn day when his parents received the telegram.

On Oct. 14, some 60 American fortresses were shot down over Schweinfurt, Germany in a devastating raid on the ball bearing plants there.

Lt. Sanders had written his family that he was captain of a new crew to take over the famous "Hell's Angels" flying fortress.

The ship, which was one of the original groups of American bombers to operate from Britain, had been in 41 operations and had shot down 16 enemy planes when Lt. Sanders became its pilot.

Lt. Sanders had won his wings at what was then called Lubbock Flying Field. He had been in England two months at the time he was reported missing. He had attended high school here. He was a brother of Dr. J.V. Sanders.

His plane was named Butzie for his wife, until his transfer to the famous "Hell's Angels."

All of his family and friends were extremely upset to learn the news. You remember the feeling. There were a lot of MIAs during World War II. It was not an affliction peculiar to the Vietnam Conflict.

However, there was a difference. In most cases, if they became a prisoner of war, you did soon hear something about it. And the Sanders family soon received this wonderful bit of information that he was a prisoner of war of the Germans.

It was two years before he came home. The pilot, who had been a big strapping man, was down to 120 pounds. But he was alive.

He remained in the Air Force, retiring recently and lives on Onion Creek near Austin.

I tell the story mainly for one reason — to recall just for a moment some of those feelings in that war. In recent weeks, the American Nazi party held a big demonstration in Illinois and garnished a lot of sympathy — especially from the young.

I don't know about you, but I can remember those killed and maimed and missing and captured in World War II. And at my house are snapshots of one of the concentration camps in Germany the day that my combat engineer husband marched into camp.

On the final day, the Nazis killed almost all who were left in that camp and didn't even bother to bury them.

I somehow can work up very little sympathy for Nazi anything. This is therefore my anti-Nazi demonstration. I thought I'd briefly bring back the wars years — to Big Spring's memory — out where I'm ridin' fence.

'Tommy Bear' hugs British Open

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Just as he did at the Masters, Tom Watson absorbed the best that Jack Nicklaus could offer, responded with a courageous, five-under-par 65 and won the British Open Saturday in one of golf's greatest duels.

Watson, now offering the greatest challenge ever to Nicklaus' long-time role as the world's premier performer, acquired his second British Open title and his second major tournament victory of the year with a record 268 total.

That's 12 below par on Turnberry's Ailsa course, stretching 6,875 yards by the Irish Sea and an incredible eight strokes better than the 276 that ranked as the best previous total in the 106-year history of golf's oldest tournament.

Nicklaus, now a six-time British Open runnerup, went down fighting. He holed an across-the-green birdie putt of 60 feet on the final hole. But it wasn't good enough.

Watson had thrown his approach to within 2½ feet. He boldly rammed it home for a one-stroke decision. It was his third consecutive victory and sixth of the season.

Nicklaus, who played the last two rounds head-to-head with Watson, didn't make a bogey in his round of 66. He finished perhaps the greatest confrontation the game has ever seen with a 269 total.

It was simply magnificent. For 36 holes, for two rounds in rain and wind, storm and sunshine, Nicklaus, the finest player the world has seen, and Watson, the man who would supplant him, fought each other with some of the finest golf ever played.

They'd gone through the first two rounds with matching scores of 68 and 70. Playing in the same twosome in Friday's storm-interrupted round, they matched 65s—until this year the tournament record score.

And then Saturday they kept up a pace that seemed impossible. Watson played his last 36 holes in 130, Nicklaus in 131—unbelievable scores.

In the end, Watson's little putt on the 18th decided it.

Nicklaus, trailing by one after Watson had birdied the 17th, missed the fairway badly and was lucky to get his second shot on the green. Watson, who ripped a roaring salute from the throats of the golf-mad Scots with his brilliant approach, had only 30 inches left for birdie.

"As we came down the 18th fairway, I said to my caddie, 'Alfie, Nicklaus is going to make that long putt. I know him too well. I've just got to get that little one,'" Watson said later.

He was right. Nicklaus holed the long one, and Watson needed his to win.

It was an appropriate finish to an incredible struggle that may have signaled a turning point in the game.

U.S. open champion Hubert Green was the only other man in subpar figures for four rounds. He finished with a 67 and a 279 total, 10 shots back of Watson and nine behind Nicklaus.

Lee Trevino, with a 70, was at 280.

American tour players captured the first eight positions, but no one got into the battle between Nicklaus and Watson.

Ben Crenshaw, with a 75, and George Burns, with 69, were at 281. Arnold Palmer, twice a winner of this title in the early 60s, was at 69-282. Ray Floyd was next at 72-283.

The group at 284 was composed of defending champion Johnny Miller, 74; John Schroeder, 71; Mark Hayes, 73; and the only non-American to crack the top 12, England's Tommy Horton with a 75.

Other American scores included Jerry Pate, 73-287; Tom Weiskopf, 72-288; Rik Massengale, 76-289; Roger Maltbie, 80-289, and Hale Irwin, 80-294.

The victory was worth $17,000 to Watson from the total purse of $170,000, but his winnings do not count on his leading official money-winnings of $269,000 for the season.

WINS BRITISH OPEN — Tom Watson, of the United States, acknowledges applause and cheers from the gallery after winning the British Open in Turnberry, Scotland, Saturday. Watson fired a 12 under par 68 for the tournament to beat Jack Nicklaus by one stroke. Watson's score was a record for the course.

Gallery stampedes 'these great lads'

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — "I wouldn't dare get caught up in that stampede," an elderly Scotsman was heard telling a companion. "One could get crushed to death out there."

"It's like the Romans," commented a demure lady standing on the safety of a knoll overlooking the last-day drama of the British Open golf championship. "You know, gladiators and all that sort of thing."

This old seacoast resort went jubilantly mad Saturday over the climactic shootout between 37-year-old Jack Nicklaus and young Tom Watson, going head-to-head not for just the British crown but perhaps the supremacy of golf itself.

"Both great golfers, these lads," said another Scottish spectator. "As for the championship, you could take these two and scrub the rest."

Not since the late 1920s when Bob Jones, the boy wonder from Atlanta, was fashioning three British Open championships and adding a link to his unprecedented grand slam has a round of golf so shaken this ancient cradle of the game.

More than 20,000 fans swarmed over the Ailsa Course, nestling off the Firth of Clyde in the shadow of the majestic white Turnberry Hotel.

They disregarded the rope barriers and poured over the fairways, often pressing so close to the competitors that they were in danger of being hit by a back swing.

"Atta boy, Jack," they yelled in American slang.

"Hey big Jack, knock it home, laddie," Nicklaus was obviously the crowd favorite but there was appreciative applause when the boyish freckle-faced Watson, 27, leading money winner of the American tour, unleashed a good shot.

Fans battled for vantage points on the knobby hillocks dotting the course and pressed eight and 10 deep around the fairways. As soon as the last putt on a hole was struck, there was a wild, screaming rush to the next hole.

It was no place for the weak or the infirm.

"Haven't seen anything like it since Jones' day," an official of the ruling Royal and Ancient Club said. "Of course, in those days we had no ropes. When Jones played, it was almost impossible for all other players."

Thousands occupied the temporary stands at the 18th and other holes and failed to move for hours.

With all their wild enthusiasm, Scottish golf galleries are perhaps the most knowledgeable and best behaved in the world.

Unlike American spectators, who will cheer a wedge shot to the middle of the green or an Arnold Palmer sneeze, they react only to outstanding shots.

Porsche takes first 12 in Makes Championship

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — The top three cars all faltered in the final five minutes, but the turbocharged Porsche 935 of four-time LeMans winner Jacky Ickx and sidekick Jochen Mass kept up enough power to win Saturday's six-hour World Championship of Makes endurance race.

Porsches swept the top 12 places in the 45-car field, building up their huge lead over BMW even more in the international series.

A leaking valve cover and a broken fan belt caused costly delays that dropped the Ickx-Mass entry out of the lead for more than two hours, but then long distance driving veterans moved back ahead with one hour, 12 minutes remaining.

They overtook the Porsche 934 turbo of Hurley Haywood of Jacksonville, Fla., and Bob Hagstad of Denver which performed flawlessly until the last few minutes. A flat tire cost them second place, as the 935 turbo of George Follmer, Huntington Beach, Calif., and Brett Lunger, Wilmington, Del., passed them.

Ickx, the Belgian who won his third six-hour race here, and German grand prix regular Mass., who was at the wheel when the checkered flag fell, covered 584 miles or 173 laps around the 3.377-mile Watkins Glen Grand Prix course at an average speed of 96.847 miles per hour. That was not a record, but Mass' fastest lap of the race, 107.32 m.p.h., was.

The Follmer-Lunger Porsche, which ran out of gas at one minute before 6 p.m. but managed to coast into the pits for a quick refill, had a chance to win but lost a wheel two hours into the race and then lost plenty of time waiting for a replacement wheel hub.

Porsche's strongest challenger in the series, BMW, was out of competition barely an hour into the race.

Ronnie Peterson of Sweden crashed his turbo BMW, which he was to co-drive with Britain's David Hobbs, only 37 minutes into the race. Brake failure was blamed. The car struggled around for another half hour before it was retired with bent steering.

At 2:09, the Ickx-Mass Porsche made a two-minute stop to repair minor body damage, then 23 minutes later it was back in to repair the oil leak in the valve cover. They lost five laps and the lead to Maywood and Hagstad.

They lost another lap at 3:24 while the broken pulley was fixed. Haywood, who was the top finisher in the Trans-Am class in the race, said he wasn't too disappointed because, "we were running with a broken axle the last 45 minutes anyway."

Two-time Indianapolis 500 winner Johnny Rutherford and Californian Dick Barbour took a fine fourth place in their privately entered Porsche 934. Danny Ongais and Ted Fields, both of the Newport Beach, Calif., area, finished fifth in another 934.

Janet Guthrie, Miami Beach, Fla., and Randy Lewis, Los Altos, Calif., came home 10th in a non-turbocharged 934.

Cunningham is new UCLA coach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gary Cunningham was appointed head basketball coach at UCLA Saturday, Athletic Director J.D. Morgan announced.

Cunningham, 37, succeeds Gene Bartow, who resigned from the position last month to become athletic director and head basketball coach at Alabama-Birmingham.

Cunningham is a former UCLA basketball player and assistant coach. He played for the Bruins under legendary coach John Wooden from 1960-62 and was an assistant coach to Wooden from 1965-75.

Wooden stepped down as head coach following the 1974-75 season. Bartow coached the Bruins for the two seasons since then. His teams recorded a 52-9 record and won a pair of Pacific Eight Conference championships.

Bartow was heavily criticized by UCLA fans and members of the media. It is believed that had much to do with his resignation.

Pooly, Regalado lead Quad Cities

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (AP) — Don Pooley sank a 35-foot birdie putt to pull into a tie with Victor Regalado after three rounds in the $125,000 Quad Cities Open Golf Tournament Saturday.

Regalado, one of the halfway leaders, and Pooley went to 13 under par over the 6,620-yard, par-71 Oakwood Country Club course. Four players were one stroke back at 201 and 11 others were within five shots of the leaders.

Pooley ran in four birdie putts on the back nine as he carded a five-under-par 66. Regalado, former Mexican Amateur, PGA and Masters champion, continued as one of the tournament's steadiest players with rounds of 67-66-67.

Second-round co-leader Sam Adams, who tied the course record with a second-round 63, had a 68 Saturday to stay within a stroke of the leaders. Tied with Adams at 201 were Mike Morley, Barney Thompson and Bob Zender.

Zender has been an ironman, too, with three straight 67s. Morley and Thompson each started the day five under par and played in the same threesome. Each fired a 64 in a head-to-head duel and for a time were the leaders on the course.

Two strokes back at 202 was Craig Stadler, who went into the third round tied with Pooley and Zender.

Ed Sabo's six-under-par 65 pulled him into a four-way tie at 203 along with Bob Murphy, Rod Curl and Keith Fergus. George Archer had a 66 to go into Sunday's final round four strokes behind the leaders at 204.

"You have to make a lot of birdies here to win this tournament," said Regalado. "I like to play this kind of course because I like to make a lot of birdies."

Pooley had been on the course at 7 a.m. to finish his rain-delayed second round. Some 12 hours later he came into the clubhouse with a share of the lead.

"With so many people bunched, you just have to keep making birdies," he said. "There are a lot of birdie holes here if you're patient and wait for them to come."

'AW, COME ON!' — JoAnne Carner reacts emphatically after missing a birdie putt in Saturday's second round of the Ladies' Professional Golf Association Tournament at Rochester, N.Y. She finished with a two under par 71 for a 144 total after 36 holes, two strokes behind the leaders. The final round is Sunday.

Hunter to fight suspension

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame halfback Al Hunter intends to fight his recent suspension in court, an attorney for the Fighting Irish star said Friday.

Attorney Robert Stephan said that a suit will be filed in two or three weeks seeking an injunction to keep Hunter in school and on the football team.

The one-semester suspension was announced last week following a series of hearings that began when Hunter and five other football players were charged with violating rules regarding visitation by women in the men's dorms.

Stephan said rules published in the school's student handbook and due process of law were not followed in proceedings which resulted in the suspension.

Hunter and the other five players were first cleared in a university judicial hearing, but that ruling was overturned by an appeals board convened by Dean of Students James Roemer, recommending suspension for Hunter alone.

"We object to him (Roemer) serving as prosecutor and chief witness in the judicial hearing," Stephan said.

"In his role as dean of students, he gathered testimony from alleged witnesses and then testified to it in his own prosecution of the case. That would be unheard of in any court of law."

Hunter, a 5-foot-11, 195-pound senior from Greenville, N.C., became the first Irish runner in history to gain 1,000 yards in a single season. He totaled 1,160 yards and scored 13 touchdowns last year as the Irish went 9-3 with a victory over Penn State in the Gator Bowl.

"I complied with all university directives and procedures despite their refusal to do so, and now I have no other recourse except a court of law to address this wrong," said Hunter, who stands to lose his grant-in-aid and his last year of football eligibility.

After Hunter left Notre Dame at the end of the semester, the appeals hearing was set for June 1. Hunter returned to South Bend, summoned a student counsel and was found guilty. Stephan then helped Hunter draft an appeal to the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, Notre Dame president.

Munson thinks like MVP on every pitch he calls

TORONTO — Everybody was gathered around the locker of Cliff Johnson, who had just hit three home runs for the Yankees, and somebody asked how come he was named Heathcliff.

"Oh, that was something our fat little catcher made up," said the new Yankee. He laughed, kinda. Mostly, he laughs, kinda. He looks very big, and very mean. He is very big and very gentle. You look at him, stripped down, and you realize that is a very fortunate thing for the rest of the people in baseball.

Somebody walked away a few steps, to the table in the middle of the clubhouse, where Thurman Munson is having a post-game snack of fried chicken.

"Hey, fat little catcher," the newsmen says. "Cliff Johnson tells us you hung the nickname on him. Heathcliff. What does it mean?"

NAMED AFTER RED SKELTON CHARACTER
"You remember Red Skelton?" said Thurman Munson. "He was that real funny guy on television. He played a bum, and he imitated a couple of birds. One of them was named Heathcliff. So when Cliff got here, I called him Heathcliff for short. Or for long."

The explanation relieved most of us, who were wondering about the connection between Cliff Johnson and Laurence Olivier.

"How does it feel," somebody asked Munson, "to hit a home run, and knock in four runs, and be upstaged?"

"I don't give a bleep," he said. "We won. I drove in four runs, and threw out two guys, and we won. We ain't won too many lately."

Thurman Munson is one helluva ballplayer. It's a tired phrase, I know, but you have to see him in and day out to appreciate all the things he does. He is some kind of hitter. I realize that sounds terribly provincial, raving about a guy hitting .320 when Rod Carew is hitting almost 100 points more, but Munson has become what they call a pure hitter.

He doesn't get leggers, because his legs couldn't outrun a bowling ball, and he doesn't bloop one in two often.

"He drives the ball," is the way Dick Howser puts it. Dick Howser spent eight years in the bigs before the Yankees made him third-base coach, and he batted .248, which doesn't exactly qualify him as the last word in batty savvy, but you mark my word, some day Dick Howser will be a manager, because he knows what this game is all about.

"Thurman used to press hard when he was young and came up with men on base. Now he's best with men on base. That is the sign of a good hitter," says Dick Howser. "He doesn't have a major weakness at the plate."

Howser says that each year Munson seems to get a little stronger.

"Not stronger. More free," says Thurman Munson when told about Dick Howser's appraisal. "I'm not worried as much whether I hit for average."

"Munson comes to the park every day, knowing that he can hit. He has it all together. He thinks right. I don't have that yet." Reggie Jackson says that. Gradually, he is coming to admire the man, as does everyone else on the ballclub.

Everyone you talk to about Munson's hitting points out, first of all, that he uses the entire field. He doesn't try to pull everything. He hits the outside pitch to right, the inside pitch to left, and the others up the middle.

"Hell, he's gonna get better," says Roy Hartsfield, watching Munson for four games here.

"He always could hit," says Dick Howser. "When he came up, he handled breaking balls better than any young player I ever saw. But it's more than that. He's a very tough individual. You have to be to catch. Mentally, it is very tiring."

LEGS GET TIRED... HURTS THROWING
It is axiomatic that being a catcher, bending down, getting up, pitch after pitch, more than a hundred times a day wears down the legs, robs you of your running speed. It's more than that. It hurts your throwing.

"The legs get tired after catching for a week, and you can't set them to throw," says Thurman Munson. There is nothing wrong with his arm. When he makes bad throws, it's because his legs are tired. It's also because the pitchers don't hold men on the way they did, but he won't say that.

In the World Series, with Ken Griffey on first base, ready to run, and Joe Morgan at bat, 3-and-2, Thurman Munson called for a changeup. A self-protective catcher would have called for a fastball and let the pitcher take his chances.

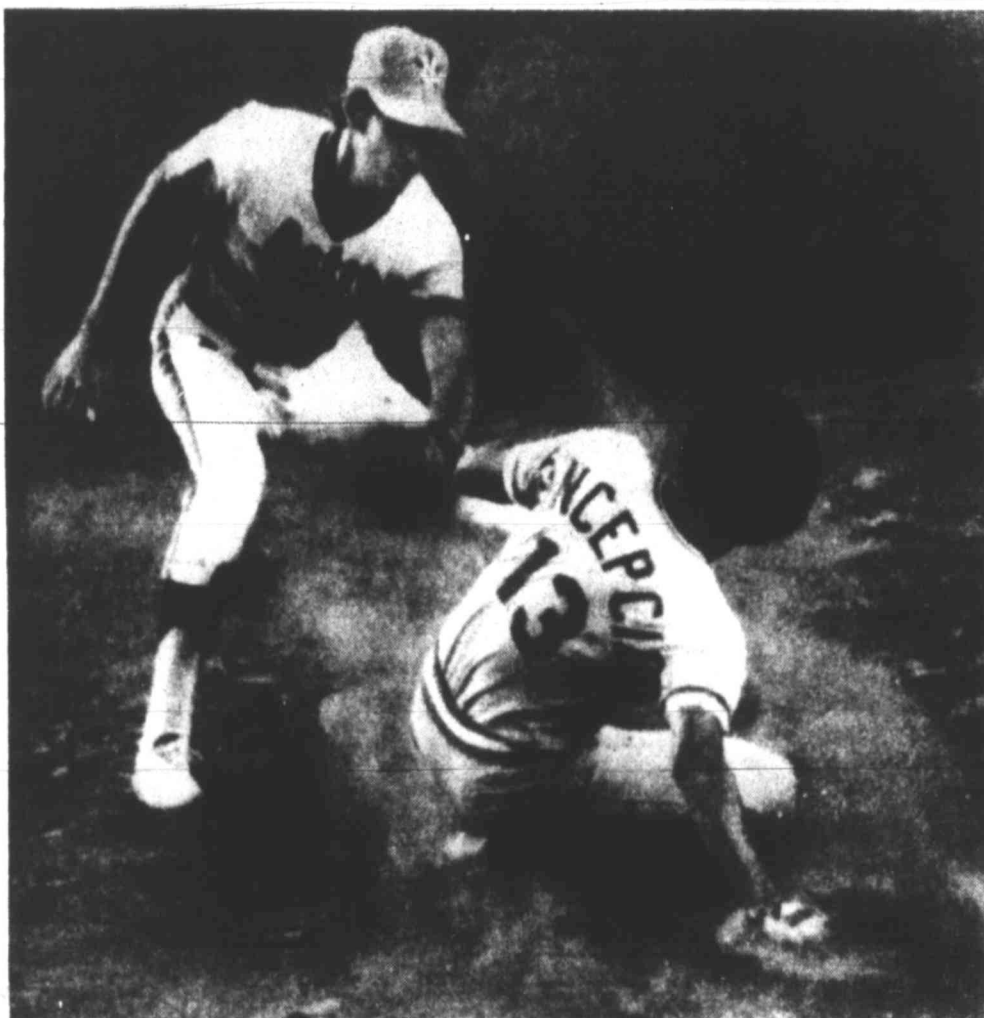

"Hell, that runner on first ain't gonna steal home," says Thurman Munson. "It's the hitter I want to get."

Joe Morgan struck out on the changeup, and Ken Griffey stole second. To Thurman Munson, the Yankees were way ahead on the deal. That's what an MVP is all about. That's why, if the Yankees win, he'll be MVP again.

Stockton nets Cliff in World Tennis set

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Dick Stockton whipped Cliff Richey, 6-5, 6-2, Saturday in an exhibition match that replaced the scheduled Stockton-Jimmy Connors duel in the Tournament of Champions at nearby Lakeway resort.

Harold Solomon was scheduled to face Phil Dent in an afternoon quarterfinal match.

Connors withdrew Friday, saying he aggravated an injury to his right thumb in a practice session with Richey that morning.

Connors beat Richey in Thursday's opening round, 2-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Pressed to a 13-point tiebreaker round in the first service break occurred in the first game of the second set, with Stockton winning at deuce.

Richey almost broke Stockton's serve in the fourth game, leading, 40-love, but Stockton brought it back to deuce, then won with an ace.

He broke Richey's serve again in the seventh game and won the set with a love game.

The unique tournament is split in two, with the first eight players competing last March and the second set of eight competing this month. Ken Rosewall won the March contest, and the winner of Sunday's match here faces him for the $60,000 first prize in Madison Square Garden Sept. 10.

Boxing, 'Nasty', etc.

Pro boxing may return to Abilene, for the first time in over six years.

An El Paso promoter, Paul Clinite, applied for a license with officials in Austin to offer a card of three boxing matches and three karate square-offs.

Clinite is counting on the draw of Randall Cobb, an ex Abilene High and Abilene Christian football player who has turned to the pugilistic arts.

In a newspaper interview, Clinite said "We don't anticipate making a lot of money. I'd be a liar if I said I didn't like to make money. I think with proper advertising we'll do okay."

Proper advertising to sell a boxing event short of an All-Foramen or Norton-Young affair would no doubt be skywriting every day for three weeks preceding the fights.

Good luck, Paul.

Spokeswoman for the intrepid Sweathogs, Phyllis Gus (not her real last name), announced during one of her weekly harassing telephone calls that Super Sweathog Gary Wiggins went four for four again (one homer) in the last game of the season for the perspiring swine.

The original Sweathogs disbanded after the game and will not see action in the second half of the city slow pitch action.

Arthur Ashe, sometimes special correspondent to the Washington Post and former Wimbledon champion, replied to a comment by a fellow pro that "Allowances must be made for Nastase. The man is a genius, and that must be taken into account."

"I don't fully agree," said Ashe. Nastase once audibly called me "nigger" during a match in Hawaii. That was certainly uncalled for, and caused public outrage, but I know that he did not mean it as the vile racial epithet it sounds. To him, it was no worse than an old Brooklyn fan yelling "You bum" at one of his Dodgers.

If I had been Ashe I would have probably smashed "Nasty" in the nose, and not with a top-spin lob.

He is just one of the prominent athletes who has taken to the "unorthodox" or more closely "irreverent" methods of dealing with the rules of his sport.

Considering the way you look at him, he either has the guts or the audacity to look tradition in the face and spit. Quoting Ashe again, "Nasty believes in 'an eye for an eye' and when he feels he has been wronged, all is fair in retaliation."

Nastase could be "calmed down" if the tennis establishment would make three simple changes: 1) set a time limit between points and between games; 2) give officials some sort of punishment less drastic than disqualification (point penalties perhaps) and 3) professionalize officiating (traveling umpires who know the rules) as the other pro sports have.

Tom Seaver is keeping his new teammates, the Reds, in stitches with his impersonations of Mets' Board Chairman Donald Grant, his former boss.

"Talking to him is an experience," said Seaver. "He is the epitome of pompous aloofness. You get the feeling he expects the clouds to settle apart when he talks."

Frank Robinson, the major leagues' first black manager who was fired by the Indians June 19, says he has only himself to blame.

"I wouldn't do anything differently," Robinson said. "A long time ago, I said I wanted to do it my way. Then, if I got fired, the only person I could blame was myself."

Robinson had nothing but praise for his players. "I appreciate their effort — that they played, tried as hard as they could, gave 100 per cent," he said. "Without their effort, this could have been a disaster."

Bob Short, who moved the Senators to Texas where they became the Rangers, has confirmed interest in acquiring controlling interest in the Indians. The reported cost is $6.5 million.

Coaching assignments for the Big Spring Independent School District should finally be set sometime this next week.

Many local coaches still don't know where they will be teaching or coaching because of HEW's balk in accepting the district's plan for desegregation this year.

Coaches are 90 per cent teachers and 10 per cent coaches, and their teaching assignments always have precedence over any coaching assignment.

Indications are that at least a few coaches will find themselves in different schools. As soon as they find out, I'll tell you.

JIM BAUM, whose life-time batting average keeps getting higher and higher, said "This year I'm not going to shave my head, no matter how many games the Steers win."

OLD-TIMERS — The Big Spring Cardinals will host the Big Spring Tigers' old-timers game as the first game of a double-header Sunday afternoon at Steer Park. The Tigers will play against the Royal Kings and the City Champion Cardinals. The Cardinals will play the second game against the Odessa Dorados. First game begins at 1:30 p.m. Pictured

Saturday's baseball action

Cards beat Cubs early

CHICAGO (AP) — Keith Hernandez smashed three hits and scored two runs and Tony Scott drove two runs in the first inning Saturday to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs in a nationally televised game.

Tom Underwood, 5-4, picked up the victory and Clay Carroll, who balked in the tying run in Friday's loss to the Cubs, gained his third save of the season with 3-2-3 innings of relief.

The Cardinals scored three times in the first inning off loser Steve Renko, 0-1. With two out, Hernandez doubled and Hector Cruz and Ted Simmons walked to load the bases. Scott followed his run-scoring single and then stole second. On the steal, catcher Steve Swisher threw the ball into centerfield allowing Simmons to score.

St. Louis scored what proved to be the game-winning run in the third on a single by Hernandez, a pair of walks and a run-scoring single by Ken Reitz.

The Cubs loaded the bases in the fourth with none out on singles by Larry Bittner and Jerry Morales sandwiched around a walk to Bobby Murcer. Bittner scored and Murcer scored on an infield single by Mick Kelleher.

Singles by Morales and Ontiveros with one out in the sixth kayoed Underwood. Carroll relieved and gave up a pinch-hit sacrifice fly to Greg Gross before putting down the rally.

Pirates nip

Phils 9-8

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Light-hitting Mario Mendoza broke a 12th-inning tie with an RBI single to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 9-8 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

Mendoza bounced his two-out single up the middle off loser Gene Garber, 4-5, to score Jim Fregosi, who walked and took third on Ed Ott's double.

Mendoza had just four hits in his last 22 at bats and it was his first RBI of the season.

The Pirates, who trailed 6-2 at one point, took an 8-6 lead with a three-run spurt in the eighth inning that was highlighted by Willie Stargell's tworun pinch-single.

The Phils sent the game into extra innings with two runs in the ninth, including a game-tying sacrifice fly by Dave Johnson, who also had a three-run double and a solo

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Charlie Moore hit a solo home run in the third inning, then scored the winning run in the eighth on Steve Dillard's error as the Milwaukee Brewers edged the Boston Red Sox 3-2 Saturday.

Moore, who began the day in an 8-for-57 slump, led off the eighth with a single off loser Ferguson Jenkins, 7-6 and was sacrificed to second by Bob Sheldon. He went to third on a bloop single by Robin Yount and scored when second baseman Dillard bobbled Cecil Cooper's grounder.

The Red Sox had tied the game in the eighth against winner Jerry Augustine, 10-9, when Dillard singled and scored from first on a double to left by Rick Burleson.

The Brewers took a 2-1 lead with a sixth-inning run on a single by Sheldon, a sacrifice and an RBI single by Cooper.

Young, Mann, Washam tie for LPGA lead

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Donna Caponi Young, the firstround leader, faltered on the final hole Saturday and settled for a tie with Carol Mann and Jo Ann Washam for the lead after 36 holes in the 54-hole Ladies' Professional Golf Association tournament.

Mrs. Young, as did Misses Mann and Washam, bogied the par-four 18th and all three finished with 36-hole totals of 142.

On Thursday, Mrs. Young fired a five-under-par 68. She had a 74 in the second round, while Miss Mann and Miss Washam each shot 71.

Miss Mann, playing ahead of her co-leaders, blew a four-foot putt on the 18th a split second after a public address announcement that the clubhouse bar would close at 6 p.m.

"That was a little distracting," she said after she had cooled down. "As far as I'm concerned they can blow it (the bar) up."

Her putt rimmed the cup. Mrs. Young, in the final threesome with Miss Washam, drove into the rough on her final tee shot and nicked a tree with her second. Her sand wedge shot dropped within six feet of the cup but the putt went astray.

Miss Washam's second shot settled in the fringe and from there she chipped to eight feet from the hole. She needed two putts to end the round.

Pat Bradley, turning in a 68 — the day's best round — at the par-73, 6,206-yard Locust Hill Country Club, trailed the leaders with 143.

Next at 144 were Laura Baugh, who shot a 69; Jane Blalock and JoAnne Carner with 71 and Judy Rankin with a 72.

The 145s included Jerilyn Britz (71), Sally Little (74), Mary Bea Porter (72) and Kathy Whitworth (72).

More young players mature first

NEW YORK (AP) — For years aspiring baseball players have taken lengthy bus trips through such scenic minor league spots as Gastonia, N.C., Wausau, Wis., and Lodi, Calif., trying to achieve the American dream. But times are changing.

"It's a crime," New York Mets catcher John Stearns says of life in the minor leagues. "You're thrown out in the world at a young age. It's very tough for a kid to be thrown into a harsh world. A lot of times he's not mentally ready to take it."

Stearns, one of a growing number of college graduates in the majors, bypassed the low minor leagues, attended the University of Colorado, then went straight to Double A ball after signing with the Phillies.

"The big thing," explains Minnesota's Mike Cubbage, who went to the University of Virginia, "is maturing and the college education itself. You're better suited to cope with problems. I saw guys at 17 who weren't able to adjust. They were stars in high school and then they were struggling for the first time in their life."

College programs, once considered a waste of time by would-be ballplayers, are on the upgrade.

"I think college baseball, particularly in a larger school, is excellent," says Dodger pitcher Burt Hooton who attended Texas. "And a guy probably learns more about the game in college than in the low minors. You are drilled in fundamentals every day."

"College is a good place to work on skills," explains Cubbage. "Some colleges have better facilities and coaches than some minor leagues. There's a large schedule in the spring and with summer ball, you wouldn't play much less."

Solons ask honesty?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has decided to find out if television sports shows are honest.

The House communications subcommittee will hold a hearing, most likely in August in New York, into network relationships with professional sports.

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., chairman of the House subcommittee on communications, announced Thursday the appointment of Phillip R. Hochberg, a Washington attorney, to be special counsel for the investigation into the relationship between the TV networks and professional sports.

The primary interest of this subcommittee will be NBC's involvement with the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, ABC's involvement in the promotion of boxing championships and the CBS handling of the "winner-take-all" tennis matches.

"In general, we will try to determine whether the networks have become so involved with arranging, promoting and scheduling sports events that they, in effect, have come to control those events," Van Deerlin said at a news conference.

"In other words, is the public seeing an independent event covered by electronic journalists or an event staged for and controlled by television?"

Hochberg, an attorney who specializes in communications law, said the inquiry would last approximately four months.

"If within four months, we haven't discovered anything, it (the inquiry) should be abandoned forthwith," said Van Deerlin.

However, according to his Minnesota teammate Glenn Adams, who attended Springfield College in Massachusetts, you should avoid a northern school.

"I didn't play many games," said Adams. "Thirty at the most. That's not much time to learn. You have to play games. Up here in the bigs you have to know what to do. You can't make stupid plays. It takes a couple of years in the minors to learn that."

BOXING GREATS — Former champions Joe Louis, left, and Floyd Patterson were on the sidelines Thursday during New York City news conference held to announce a November bout between Jimmy Young and Ken Norton in Las Vegas.

Shirtless Rangers jump on Angels

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Unsettling things keep happening to the Texas Rangers off the field, but between the white lines new manager Billy Hunter is molding a team to be respected.

Some 34,000 fans showed up Friday night to receive a replica of the Rangers team shirt and watch Texas tackle California Angel ace Nolan Ryan.

The team shirts never arrived as rain drenched the huge crowd for over an hour. However, the wait was worth it for Ranger fans as Texas jumped on the wild Ryan for six runs in less than three innings to whip the Angels 9-5.

Ryan walked seven batters and Jaun Beniquez delivered a key two-out two-run double in the first inning as Ryan's record dipped to 11-8.

"Some people have given up on the Rangers, but if we keep winning, it doesn't make any difference who is ahead of us," said mild-mannered Billy Hunter. "And we intend to do that very thing—I think we can catch Minnesota, Chicago and Kansas City."

Hunter, the former third base coach at Baltimore, who is a strong advocate of fundamentals, has been holding a minispring training for the Rangers, stressing bunting, pickoff plays and base running.

"It is starting to pay off," said Hunter. "This club has great morale and there is no reason it shouldn't be winning."

The Rangers received seven strong innings of six-hit pitching from Dock Ellis, whose record is now 5-7.

Ellis tired in the seventh inning with a 9-run lead as Bobby Bonds hit his 17th homer of the year and Ike Hampton delivered a run-scoring single.

Rangers relievers Paul Lindblad and Darrell Knowles took over with Knowles getting his fourth save of the season. It was the third consecutive victory for the Rangers, who moved ahead of California into fourth in the American League West.

It was another disappointing outing for Ryan who has lost six out of his last 10 games.

But it was another banner night for Beniquez, who has been on a tear with 14 hits in his last 24 times at bat. Ryan walked four batters in the first inning before Beniquez delivered a clutch two-out, two-run double and the Rangers were off and running.

Tourney of substitutes

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — It was a Tournament of Champions. Now spectators and reporters could bill it as a Substitution Classic, or Tournament of a few Champions.

This eight-man event at the nearby World of Tennis, which has a unique format for this tournament, has lost five players to injuries. First Arthur Ashe had an eye injury and was replaced by John Alexander. Billy Martin subbed for Manuel Orantes. Cliff Richey replaced Tony Roche. Second-stringer Martin bowed out to Phil Dent.

And then Friday afternoon, the biggest champion of them all, No. 1-ranked Jimmy Connors, reinjured his right thumb and withdrew from the tournament. That meant Connors' scheduled quarterfinals opponent, Dick Stockton of Carrollton, Tex., advanced by default to the Sunday's semifinal.

In Friday's matches, Harold Solomon of Pompano Beach, Fla., two-fisted his backhand to the corners to whip England's Mark Cox 6-3, 6-3 and Australian Phil Dent outlasted New Zealand's Onny Parun 6-5, 5-6, 6-4. Solomon and Dent play today to determine who meets Stockton in the semifinal.

The first portion of this event was played last March at the World of Tennis. Veteran Den Rosewall of Australia won that eight-man segment, and faces the winner of Sunday's semifinal in a nationally televised final at Madison Square Garden Sept. 16. The winners' purse is $60,000.

Connors was heavily favored to advance to the match against Rosewall, especially after his prime opponents fell by the wayside because of injury, but in a Friday practice session with Cliff Richey he reworked his broken thumb.

World of Tennis spokesman JoAnn King said Connors' agent advised tournament officials at 6 p.m. Friday of the tennis star's decision to leave.

Mrs. King said they were told Connors took an early evening to his Illinois home to get treatment for his thumb, which he injured last week at Wimbledon. Connors' thumb was to be rebroken and reset, Mrs. King said.

Billy Carter walks out on fund raiser

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Some Billy Carter fans attending a $25 per plate fund raiser for one of his mother's charities barely got a glimpse of the President's maverick brother before he stalked out of the dining hall.

Carter objected to what he considered the political overtones of the peanut, chicken and beer dinner and art auction Friday night.

"I'm leaving," Carter told those around him shortly after he took his seat on the dais.

"It is set up as a Democratic rally and I'm leaving. What I do is non-political."

Ruth Carter Stapleton, the Carters' sister, said Billy "just had one beer too many."

Carter's sudden and unexpected departure was apparently touched off by a sign hanging inside the ballroom announcing the evening entertainment as Tarrant County Commissioner B.D. Griffin, a fiddler, and his "Democrats" band.

Carter said he objected to the commissioner's name being included on the sign and not the word "Democrats."

The event was set up as an art auction, designed to raise funds for the "Miss Lillian Carter Nursing Scholarship Fund."

Mrs. Stapleton, looking somewhat perplexed at her brother's leaving, first said Billy would be back, but when he didn't return, she continued the festivities.

"I have strong feelings the show must go on, damn it," she said.

New math teacher hired at C City

COLORADO CITY — A new math teacher and a new elementary school instructor have been hired by the Colorado Independent School District.

Mrs. Julia N. White has been hired to teach on the elementary school level. A native of El Paso, she attended college at Southwestern Oklahoma State.

Dale V. White, with a degree from the same college, will become a high school math teacher here. He was born in Hooker, Okla., and graduated from high school there.

Esten Blackmon has resigned as Kelley Elementary School principal, without indicating his plans for the future. He has been serving as the Kelley school principal for eight years.

Martin budget discussed

STANTON — Martin County commissioners will be facing a ten-item agenda when they convene at 10 a.m., Monday here.

Among other things, the court will appoint presiding judges and alternates for all voting precincts, approve speed limits requested by the Texas Department of Highways and Transportation, accept a notice for a prehearing conference by the Public Utility Commission of Texas and discuss 1978 budget items.

The commissioners will also consider approval of senior citizen grant requests and consider the approval of auditors, treasurers, the health unit, mental health and senior citizen reports.

Snyder will set mark for building

SNYDER — Any day now, the City of Snyder will set an all-time record for yearly construction.

Building permits issued through June 30 pushed the year's total beyond the $5 million mark. Permits in June total $1,380,593.

The all-time record was set last year, when $5,483,417 in permits were granted for the entire 12 months period.

Biggest permit for the month of June was for the new county jail, costing $913,324. Permits were issued for the construction of five new single-family residents during the 30-day period.

August said Carter had insisted the function be strictly nonpartisan. He apparently became angered upon arrival at the dinner when he was greeted by top

Fort Worth Democratic leaders, including Mayor Hugh Farmer and former Tarrant County Carter campaign coordinator Ann Marek.

U.S. House Majority Leader Jim Wright and his wife were also on the dais. Dallas Television Station KDFW quoted Carter as saying, "I'm not really a Democrat and I don't always support Democrats." The station said aides traveling with the President's brother asked it not to use the story because of possible embarrassment to the Carter family. As Carter was leaving, a woman arriving late grabbed him by the arm and told him she came up from Houston just to see him. "I ain't staying," he said as he walked to a limousine. He reportedly left later on a commercial flight to Atlanta.

He wants teen put away 'until she is an old woman'

'Daddy, I love you,' says Lucinda

DALLAS (AP) — Harry Stout wants the assailant accused of slaying his wife put away "until she is an old woman" — even though the girl is 16, a good student, a member of the Texas Girls Choir...and his daughter.

The 36-year-old Dallas car dealer recalled that the girl "never held a grudge" even when punished for staying out too late.

But on June 11 what neighbors referred as the ideal family was torn when Sharon Stout, 34, was knifed to death and her husband was shot twice.

Stout said he would fear for his life if his daughter is tried as a juvenile and released when she turns 18.

"If she gets out, she will have hard feelings towards me. I'd hate to be looking over my shoulder every evening," Stout said. "She took her mother's life and tried to take mine...I think she ought to be punished for it."

The violent night at the Stout home started peacefully. Using money earned at a part-time job, Lucinda took her parents out to dinner. Later they went home to prepare a party for Lucinda's brother who was to join the Marines.

But shortly after midnight Mrs. Stout was stabbed with a butcher knife as she was taking out the trash.

"I heard my wife holler, but I thought Lucinda might be chasing her in fun as she sometimes did. I opened the kitchen door and my wife fell in on me. She had pulled the knife out and blood was pumping from her back. It was pitiful. She died in my arms," Stout said.

It was then that Lucinda fired two shots into Stout, according to his reports to police.

"I tried to talk her into putting down the gun. I told her to call for help. My wife lived about 12 minutes. I told her if mother lived it would be all right. Lucinda told me that even if her mother and I died, she would only get two years' punishment," Stout said.

"She said she had taken me and her mother out for our last supper. She told me she had been planning to kill us for about a week," Stout said.

Lucinda is in a Dallas County juvenile facility pending a ruling on whether she will be tried as an adult. Her brother has hired an attorney to represent her. But her father said it was done out of fear, not love.

"They don't want her to think they didn't help if she gets out. Plenty of people are afraid of her," he said.

Lucinda has issued a list of people she doesn't want to see. An aunt said the list includes "all the people she loved."

Stout recalls that after the grisly scene at his home, after police found the gun in the car Lucinda had fled in, and after his wife was dead, the high school student "bent over and said 'Daddy, I love you.' I just said, 'It's kind late now, Lucinda'."

A little lower

Arts of peace

By WILFRID M. CALNAN
A.C.S.W., Director
Howard Co. Family Service Center

It was a moment of incomparable beauty. Only four people witnessed it. So I want to tell you about it and to share with you the possible meanings.

Elna was just 13 years of age. She had been emotionally deprived. Her untimely behavior had been her resultant cry for attention and retribution. As often happen we found ourselves in conversations with Elna and her parents trying to help redirect emotions, to help constitute new ways of family communication.

On a late spring afternoon we had just concluded our family session. In the relaxed moment following the hour I chanced to ask Elna about her summer vacation plans. She fixed her gaze on me and then told me of the plans to sharpen her gymnastic skills.

Her description of what she envisaged was so simply imaginative that with her I could foresee the lithe movements of her body and the control over her being which she was going to learn. I had difficulty remembering being so captured by another's enthusiasm.

What was there so different about this experience? It took me awhile to know. At a time when it seemed like everyone in the community was preoccupied with the pending loss of its military installation, a young lady, representative of a generation that may never know war, was engaging in an art of peace.

Elna has become a kind of symbol for me. If we are to save ourselves as a people will it really be through our armaments? Isn't it more likely to be through our use of our creative genius? Are we to be frightened by the violence that seems to be all around us? Or, do we bend our efforts toward understanding of anger and hostility which will enable us to learn what the renowned psychiatrist, Franz Alexander, called "the management of the aggressions."

Do we not have the resources, intellectual, scientific, political, to examine our energy problem and develop a solution?

Surely, we have the intelligence, to bring balance out of economic chaos.

Can we not as a people produce our great writer as did the English in giving Shakespeare to the world?

There are signs all around us that we have the talents to be a creative people. Our institutions need to carry out their responsibilities to the people. I speak of the family, education, the church. What efforts are these institutions going to devote to development of the creative abilities of our people that will enable us to master and display the arts of peace?

Schools disciplinary data open to public

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) —

Atty. Gen. John Hill has told the Dallas Independent School District that it must furnish certain information about its teachers and student body because the information is open to the public.

Dallas attorney Robert Elder Jr. said the district had been asked by a person he did not identify for information concerning teachers, administrators, the schools, student body composition and disciplinary action administered to students. He said most of the information was on computer tapes but the district contended that some of the information was exempted from disclosure.

The opinion said that under the Texas Open Records Act "we are aware of no legal authority which has held information of this type to be private."

The opinion said the information concerning disciplinary action involving corporal punishment also could be made public.

"We find as a matter of fact that the disclosure of the specific information in the formal request would not make the student's identity easily traceable. . . . It is our decision that the disciplinary information request is not excepted from required public disclosure and must be made available," the opinion said.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 10, 1977

YMCA on the go

Summer fun, safety and fitness

By SUSAN HAMPTON

The Young Men's Christian Association, begun in Big Spring first as a temporary stay for weary railroad employees and their families, now serves as a multi-purpose institution for the entire community, from infants to the elderly.

And according to Bill Etchison, executive director for the local YMCA, the history of the Big Spring unit is as varied — and interesting — and any. Helen Gould, daughter of the railroad magnate Jay Gould, donated the entire funds at the turn of the century to enable the railroad workers to have a place of rest and relaxation from the not-so comfortable quarters of the early railroads.

Etchison said some "railroad YMCA's" are still in existence, but he does not know where.

The going yearly fee to join at that time, Etchison added, was $5 a person.

The present charter for the center was received in 1946, and Big Spring residents shortly thereafter met to develop a program for the community, he said.

The location of the association then, he said, was above a "Wacker's" store on Main St. in the downtown sector of the city.

In 1949, the city received the chance to rent the vacated First Christian Church on Scurry St. to replace the older quarters, and for the next eleven years the "Y" was located there, according to historical data.

Dora Roberts and Cosden Oil and Refinery Company donated major monetary gifts to the institution for the present building, Etchison said. The total between the two gifts — somewhere between $200,000.

Of course, with the help of the entire community contributing the current building was finally constructed in May, 1960 he said. Since then, additions have been built to the existing structure, Etchison added.

Although built on the principles of Jesus Christ, Etchison said the YMCA is "not like going to church." Church services are not conducted and the Bible is not taught, "but if guidance is needed, I sometimes counsel with kids," Etchison said.

On occasion, he added, the workers at the center do "outreach" work in the community.

Nationally, Etchison said, the YMCA is active in the betterment of the nation. For instance, he said, juvenile justice is being practiced and a series of programs on cardiovascular disease prevention is being taught around the country, sponsored by the organization.

A Youth Basketball Association, also sponsored by the national YMCA, is being conducted for young boys, he said.

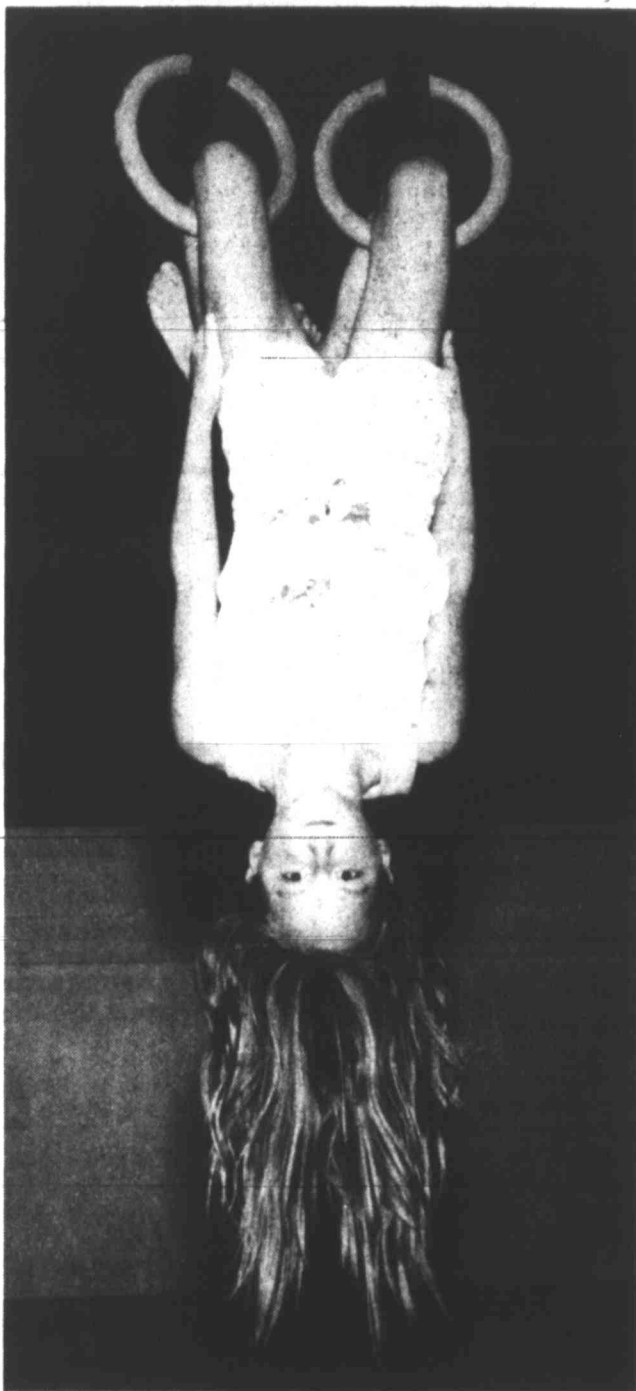

The local center, Etchison said, is very active and offers a tremendous variety of courses to choose from.

When asked what the most popular course here is, Etchison said, the most popular course just about anywhere currently is the swimming classes. The summer is the height of the popularity for those classes, and the YMCA offers one for just about every member of the family, he added.

A new course being taught at the center is Karate, and, according to Etchison, should be popular in the community. The course is open to both men and women, and will meet beginning July 12-Sept. 2 on Tuesdays and Fridays from 7-9 p.m. As a prerequisite to almost all of the courses offered at the YMCA, a fee is charged to both members and non-members.

The future of the YMCA looks more rosy than ever, Etchison said. Fitness for the elderly is one possible program the center might offer. Special exercises for women who have had breast surgery is another, he said.

Not known to all residents of Big Spring is the Lakeview branch YMCA. There, no other structured programs is being taught other than a Monday, Wednesday, and Friday arts and crafts class, led by OH, TO BE YOUNG AGAIN — Jackie Piper, 12, makes this gymnastic feat look simple. At the YMCA, gymnastics courses are ample for just about any member of the family. For more information concerning these classes or any other class, contact the main branch YMCA at 267-8234.

"The local center is very active and offers a variety of classes to choose from."

IF EMERGENCY STRIKES — Ricky Womack, a fireman with the Big Spring Fire Department and a registered emergency medical technician, has staged a mock drowning incident by the side of the YMCA main branch pool with the help of Jay Pirkie, a swimming student. Womack will be the instructor for the new Pre-Ambulance Emergency Care course to be offered at the main branch beginning July 11. KICK, KICK, KICK — Millions of people across the country have been taught to swim by the YMCA. Here, these youngsters, all between the ages of 5-8, are learning from Jill Odom, a qualified instructor who also teaches a lifesaving course at the Main YMCA, located at 8th St. and Owens. The students, from left to right, are Michael Domiguez, Angela Chandler, Misty Turner and Priscilla Torres.

LAKEVIEW ARTISTS — At the Lakeview branch of the YMCA, about 28 students participate in the Monday, Wednesday and Friday arts and crafts classes offered, according to Sam Dawson, summer director at Lakeview. The Lakeview branch is open free to any youngster in the northeast side of the city. Pictured are just a few of the students in the arts and crafts class with Joe McPeak, top, center, who assists in the class.

"... I SHOT AN ARROW IN THE AIR" — Lakeview YMCA also offers archery to the young people who come to the center. According to Sam Dawson, director for the branch, the center is an unstructured meeting place with many activities for the youngsters.

Mrs. Vernice Jacob. Instead it is a gathering place for the youngsters of the northeast side of the city to come and share fun and friendship, Etchison said.

Sam Dawson, full-time summer director of the Lakeview YMCA, said the kids who come there are not required to pay a membership fee. Badminton, volleyball, basketball and softball are some of the activities the kids are involved with there.

Bicycle races or bicycle "rodeos", as Dawson calls them, are conducted at the Lakeview branch twice a month, Dawson said.

A game room with a pool table, table tennis, checkers and dominoes is also housed in the Lakeview Y, he said.

An extensive first aid course will begin at the main branch July 11, according to Jan Smith, program director. The course, which will consist of basic first aid skills and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation techniques will be taught by a local fireman, Ricky Womack.

Offered to anyone over the age of 15, the course will include the actual practice of such methods and others with the use of a manikin.

The course will be over a period of five days, three hours each, Smith said. Structured classes with definite lesson plans are on the agenda.

Included in the lesson plans are the treatments of fractures of the head, neck and spine, medical emergencies such as heart conditions, stroke, diabetic reactions, asthma and emphysema, epilepsy and convulsions and poisons and snake bites.

After the class is taught the procedures of aiding a victim in each circumstance, the students will practice what they have been taught on a manikin, she said.

Another popular course at the YMCA, according to Etchison, is the women's fitness and aerobic dancing classes. Because of the increased interest in physical fitness, especially among women, these classes receive much interest from the community, he said.

A park program for children is being co-sponsored by the YMCA with city of Big Spring and the Big Spring Independent School District, Smith said.

It is a daily program which began June 13 and will continue until July 29. The class meets at the Comanche Trail Park at 9 a.m. until noon, Smith said.

Those who want to become a part of the program are still eligible, Smith said. A form must be completed and returned to the park.

Smith said there has been a large attraction to the park program this year. Arts and crafts classes, outdoor recreation, swimming lessons, and group sports are some of its drawing points, she added.

Besides the usual courses the YMCA offers, such as swimming, some courses are rather unexpected, such as the guitar classes offered on Thursdays at the main branch. Tap and ballet classes are also offered for beginners and advanced dancers. Spanish classes, baton twirling and tennis are also offered, each with a nominal fee.

Coming at the YMCA in the fall, are such courses as "Indian Guides," Smith said. This will be a program for fathers and young school age sons. American Indian culture will be used as a theme to help promote strong father-son relationships, she said.

GRA-Y, HI-Y, and TRI-HI-Y are all classes for school age youngsters to participate in during the fall, she said. The GRA-Y will consist of sports such as flag football, soccer and basketball. Open to boys and girls of grade school age, the course hopes to promote team efforts and good sportsmanship, Smith said.

The HI-Y and TRI-HI-Y are for high school youth interested in running a mock state legislature. They will write bills, vote and participate in all phases of the government, she said.

'I was Helpmate 12'

Local doctor recounts war stories in book

By CAROL HART

Dr. Irving Kittell, a staff physician for the Veteran's Administration Hospital here, has added writing to a long list of careers he has tackled during his lifetime.

Dr. Kittell recently saw his book, "I Was Helpmate 12," published through Vantage Press, out of New York City. The book relates his experiences as a Jewish medic with Patton's Third Army during World War II.

The title for the book is accounted for in its pages. Dr. Kittell explains in the book that he was assigned to a battalion with the code name Helpmate, which was appropriate as the battalion was often sent where help was needed.

Dr. Kittell describes his book as "a series of anecdotes strung together. I got tired of telling the stories over and over to my kids and grandkids, so I wrote them down."

The book deals with the fact that Dr. Kittell, a civilian doctor, had to become an officer with field troops in a field artillery battalion. "The book also stresses the fact that America was not prepared for World War II. It takes a year to train a soldier. It took me that long to get ready," Dr. Kittell added.

"I found myself in France and Germany, living in the mud. I had to go eight months without a bath. I dreamed about a bath. I was the only medical officer in the battalion, and I couldn't be sent back."

The experiences that befall

Dr. Kittell while an army doctor make up the book. He said that he wrote the book in a humorous vein, adding that beneath the humor, the storyline is "tremendously serious."

"I saw the terrors of the war," Dr. Kittell relates. "I saw the concentration camps. There is one chapter in the book that deals with the concentration camps."

But the book does not dwell on the horrors of the war. "Most of the book is written in a lighter vein," Dr. Kittell said.

Dr. Kittell feels that "we've got to have the armed services. If we disbanded, we would be over-run in a month."

"No one really likes being in the army," he said. "But I'm glad I went and got all those experiences." Dr. Kittell added that any war brings back many memories that "are not all fun. There are many unpleasant memories."

Dr. Kittell explained that the book took six months to write, but that he had considered doing it for some time. "He wrote the book when he transferred to the local VA Hospital. Prior to his assignment here, he was a private physician in New York City, a job which left him very little time to himself."

Dr. Kittell wrote the book during his free nights and weekends. "While I was in private practice, I never had any time to myself." Rising malpractice insurance rates and the deteriorating state of New York City were factors that brought Dr. Kittell to Big Spring.

The return to Texas was a sort of homecoming for the doctor, who was born in Texas and lived here until he was 21 years old. Since that time, "I have been all over the country."

Dr. Kittell received his BA and MA degrees from Southern Methodist University and his Sc.M.

from the University of Illinois. He then journeyed to Seattle, Wa., where he became a junior meteorologist for the Seattle Weather Bureau; and later a junior astronomer at the Naval Observatory in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Kittell later returned to Illinois, and taught college mathematics both there and in New York City.

"I then decided that I wanted to be a doctor, so I returned to Columbia University and obtained my M.D. in 1941." His medical experience led him to his position in the Army. Following his discharge, he maintained a private practice in California, then returned to New York City to continue in private practice.

Dr. Kittell and his wife and son have been in Big Spring over two years. He has two married daughters living in Philadelphia and New York state.

Concerning his career as an author, Dr. Kittell said "I didn't write the book as a money-maker. It was just something I wanted to do. Perhaps someday I'll write about something else. Whether I'll become a genuine author or not, I don't know."

The personnel at Vantage Press seem to consider Dr. Kittell a "genuine author," as "I Was Helpmate 12," has been officially published.

Concerning sales of the recently released book, Dr. Kittell said "we will await results."

Weatherstripping home saves cooling costs

By JANET SARGENT

Howard County Extension Agent

Now is the time to be concerned with weatherstripping problems.

Worn weatherstripping on doors and windows is easy to detect and replace—to prevent air seepage and cut cooling costs.

A few simple tests point out weatherstripping needs.

First, look around — one quick signal of a problem is dust accumulation around door openings — and on window sills and sashes.

Next, test for worn weatherstripping by slowly moving a single tissue around doors and windows on a windy day, checking both the top and bottom window sash. If the tissue flutters, seepage is almost certain.

Another test lets light detect seepage. Shine a flashlight outside window and door edges on a dark night, and someone inside the house can spot areas the light penetrates.

Only after the worn part is located, can homeowners select and effectively use new weatherstripping material.

Never too old for virus

Infectious mononucleosis, commonly referred to as "the kissing disease" or just plain "mono", is usually confined to young adults, aged 15 to 25. However, according to an article in "Emergency Medicine," it's never too late to be hit by the virus.

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT ANTHONY CURTON

Candlelight service scene of Snyder wedding

Miss Waynann Monroney became the bride of Scott Anthony Curton in a candlelight service at the First Baptist Church, Snyder, on July 2. Dr. A.B. Lightfoot of Carrollton, Texas, formerly of Big Spring, performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wayne Monroney, Snyder, and Col. and Mrs. Warren Donald Curton, Crossville, Tennessee.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace with three-tiered skirt and chapel-length train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was bordered with lace encrusted with seed pearls. Her bouquet was of feathered pink carnations, pink gladioli buds, and baby's breath surrounding a single pink gladiolus.

For something old she wore her maternal grandmother's engagement ring; something borrowed was an embroidered white lawn handkerchief belonging to her mother; something blue was a garter made for her by a high school teacher.

Miss Wendy Monroney, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of soft pink polyester knit. The bodice and flowing straight skirt were accented by a diamond shaped panel of darker pink and white at the wrist, and she wore a chiffon cape matching her gown. She carried a nosegay of feathered pink and soft pink carnations and baby's breath accented with pink satin ribbon and streamers. In her hair, she wore feathered pink carnations.

Bridesmaids were Ms. Luann Curton, sister of the groom, and Ms. Sue Jane Sullivan, Snyder. Their dresses and flowers were identical to those of the maid of honor.

Colonel Curton served as his son's best man. Groomsmen were Captain Eric Curton, San Antonio, brother of the groom, and Mr. Gerald De Haan, Arlington, Texas. Steve Cowley, Forsan, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles and served as usher.

Brenda Cowley, Forsan, cousin of the bride, registered guests in the foyer of the church.

Proceeding the ceremony, Mr. Ty Lockridge, Waco, read verses 10 through 13 of the 2nd chapter of the Song of Solomon; "How Do I Love Thee?" by Elizabeth Barrett Browning, and the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. R. Virgil Mott at the organ and Miss Wendy Monroney at the piano. Soloist was Terry Jones, who sang "Follow Me", "Through the Years", "Sunrise, Sunset", and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception followed in the Young Adult Building. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and featured a three-tiered wedding cake in pink and white. An arrangement of soft pink carnations and pink and white gladioli formed the centerpiece. Mrs. Eric Curton, Mrs. Gerald De Haan, and Miss Brenda Cowley served punch from a crystal bowl. Appointments were in crystal and silver.

Out-of-town guests were from Tennessee, Villa Grove, Illinois, San Antonio, Waco, Arlington, Fort Worth, Breckenridge, Anson, Robert Lee and Forsan.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Snyder High School and a May graduate of Baylor University with a major in English. At Baylor she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, the cappella choir, Sigma Tau Delta, National English Honorary Society, Student Education Association, the Baylor Sideline Spirit Club and was three years a little sister of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

The groom is a 1972 graduate of Richfield High School and a 1973 graduate of Baylor with a degree in business administration. He was president of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity and received an ROTC scholarship three years.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.L. Monroney and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cowley, Forsan. Her family lived in Forsan before moving to Snyder.

Dear Abby

Applauds Lady Who Called To Cancel

DEAR ABBY: Something touched me deeply this morning, and I hope you will find this worthy of publishing. I am a hairdresser. For more than a year, a little lady has had a standing appointment with me at 3 p.m. every Saturday.

Today (at 9 a.m.) this lady telephoned the shop and said, "My husband's brother passed away very suddenly last night, and I won't be able to come in today. Knowing that appointments are at a premium on a Saturday afternoon, please fill in my time."

Abby, if this lady could find the time under those circumstances to cancel her appointment, why can't women who know weeks ahead of time that they are going to be out of town do the same?

ROSE

DEAR ROSE: Because they lack the qualities of thoughtfulness, consideration and kindness that makes this "lady" a lady.

DEAR ABBY: We have one child, 17, I'll call "Brenda." She is a normal, average child, and a little spoiled, but she's never given us any trouble.

Brenda has never washed a pair of hosiery or ironed a blouse because her mother wouldn't let her. She's never even made her own bed. My wife was a personal maid for this child. Brenda was never allowed to spend a night at a girlfriend's house or a week at summer camp.

Now the subject of college is at hand, and Brenda has applied to several.

My wife says, "Brenda doesn't have to go out of town. The local college is good enough." Brenda wants to go away to college, and I think she should, but her mother can't hear of it without bursting into tears. What should be done?

BRENDA'S DAD

DEAR DAD: You appear to have one neurotic female on your hands. Do you want to try for two? Ask your clergyman, family doctor or someone whose opinion your wife values to speak to her.

She must be made to realize that her attachment to her daughter is unhealthy. Brenda needs freedom to develop some self-reliance, and her mother desperately needs to develop some outside interests.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "EAGER TO LEARN": To paraphrase an ancient Chinese proverb: "A single conversation across the table with a wise man (or woman) is worth a month's study of books."

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Lights out

Candle snuffers were not used until the middle of the 18th century, says Hallmark researcher Sally Hopkins. William Perkins, who lived in 1635, scorned such newfangled notions and wrote indignantly to a friend: "If a man is to snuff a candle, he will first spit on his fingers."

Don't go steady till you're 18

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed. D.
Copley News Service

Dear Doctor:

My boyfriend and I have been dating for five months. Last night he asked me to go steady.

I was thrilled and very happy until I told my mother and she said no. He is a nice boy and has treated me like a lady. I like him very much.

We are both 16. Don't you think we are old enough to go steady? I want to show my mother your answer.

C.V., Phoenix, AZ

Dear C.V.:

Sorry! I feel that teens under 18 should not go steady. At 16, both your boyfriend and you have not met enough teens to decide that you both have found your "one and only."

Just because you are not going steady doesn't mean that you can't enjoy each other's company.

Recipe Correction

Two of the ingredients were incorrectly quoted in two recipes on last Thursday's food page in the Herald, under Mrs. Jackie Zimmerman's recipe favorites.

The apple cake recipe should have read 4 c. diced Rome apples, instead of dried apples.

The broccoli souffle recipe should have read 1/4 c. chopped onions and two teaspoons flour, instead of 1/4 c. flour.

Texas cultures emphasized varied

Talbot's Poles to Festival

Mrs. Harold Talbot and her group of "Baptised Poles" will be going as an official delegation to San Antonio again this year to the Texas Folklife Festival, Aug. 4-7.

Mrs. Talbot was named last year as an official ambassador of Texas Culture to the state organization.

A talented musician, she is of Polish extraction and works in the Polish division of the big festival which is held on the 15-acre HemisFair Plaza grounds of the Institute of Texan cultures.

The delegates she took along were made honorary

Poles by Mrs. Talbot in special ceremonies.

She said that they served iced water in the Polish Division of the festival, compliments of Big Spring, emphasizing the name of this community.

Anyone knowing craftsmen in this area who might be interested in participating should call Mrs. Talbot at 267-7833.

Free buses run from motels and hotels all over San Antonio during the festival, free of charge, delivering patrons to the park.

Foods of 24 nations are served, and dances from the different countries are emphasized.

The festival also displays crafts and costumes of the different ethnic groups which make up Texas culture and there are demonstrations of early crafts such as soap making, butter making, blacksmithing and other early arts.

Big Spring citizens are urged to consider the weekend as a good time to visit San Antonio this summer.

Other information will be available prior to the festival.

Children's medical books are at library

By FLORENCE TYLER
Medical books for children? Yes! It's comforting for all of us when faced with illness if we understand just what is wrong and what we can expect. The same is true for children. Whether it's a fever, mumps, chicken pox or measles, the child can face the illness with less fear if he knows what is happening and is reassured that he will soon feel better.

"Karen Gets A Fever", "Peter Gets The Chicken Pox" and "Michael Gets The Measles" are some of the book written to help children while they are ill. Each of these books also has a section for adults giving helpful information about contagiousness, incubation periods, and possible complications, treatment etc.

Perhaps your child is facing his first trip to the dentist. It can be an interesting experience for the child who has been read the book "Dentists Tools." He can be on the look out for such things as the dental mirror, the cuspidor, the air and water syringes and the saliva ejector with interest rather than being frightened by all the unfamiliar equipment.

For the child about to have an eye examination or the child who wears glasses the book "Why Glasses" explains how the eye works and why some people need glasses.

Casa Manana musical will have two-week run

"Annie get your gun" starts Monday

FORT WORTH — "There's No Business Like Show Business" — and no show like this one!

It's "Annie Get Your Gun" starring Ruta Lee beginning Monday, July 11 and runs for two weeks through July 23 at Casa Manana Theatre in Fort Worth.

Along with the razzle-dazzle of Irving Berlin's most successful musical, Casa will shine even brighter with the sparkle of Ruta, an all-time favorite actress at the theatre in the round, who has the role of the shooting, who could hit two-inch flying spheres by taking aim at their reflection in a Bowie-knife blade.

Leading men Scot Stewart plays the Frank Butler role, the man whom Annie loves and nearly loses because she surpasses him at marksmanship.

Their rivalry is celebrated in one of Berlin's wittiest songs, "Anything You Can Do, I Can Do Better", a duet in which they not only boast of outdoing each other at precision in riflery, but also in talking faster, singing sweeter, singing louder, and buying things cheaper; and their reconciliation is revealed in still another Berlin song-hit, when Annie ruefully realizes that "You Can't Get a Man With A Gun."

In addition to Annie and Frank, there's a secondary romance between Rosemary Rumbley as Dolly Tate, and Kenny Adams as Charlie Davenport. Mrs. Rumbley played the same role in the 1968 production of "Annie Get Your Gun" which starred Ruta Lee. Mr. Adams was in the New York production when it opened on Broadway with Ethel Merman.

Gene Ross will play Chief Sitting Bull and George

Pecos Bill's nearby at Midland theatre

MIDLAND — "Pecos Bill" will be on stage at Midland Community Theatre this month produced by the Pickwick Players.

No child should grow up in West Texas without experiencing the fulfilled adventure of Pecos Bill — the Number One Cowboy. Bill is not your average cowpoke; lost in the wilderness, he was raised by coyotes, and they taught him how to be tough. The fun begins when the other cowboys teach Bill how to be human, and not a coyote. Then, figuring Bill to be unaware of human ways, they try to trick him, only to find the joke is on them.

Pecos Bill proves to be a true West Texas hero, showing the other wranglers that there isn't anything he can't do better than anyone else around. The play was written by Deanna Dunigan of Monahans, Texas, and is based on the folk legends of Pecos Bill. The cast includes the following:

Also, Betsy, Brenda Woods; Jenny, Beverly Mitchell; Juanita, Marion Olson; Clementine, Judy McDuffy; Slue-Foot Sue, Mary Christensen; and Lady Faintly, Melinda McLain. Stage manager for the production is Karen Holmen; sound effects will be done live by Scott Morris and Rhonda Huxman; lights by Mark Gillaspia and projections by Barry Fleming.

The show runs July 14, 15 and 16, with performances starting at 2:30 each afternoon. Tickets are 75 cents for students and $1.25 for adults or by Pickwick Summer Session ticket. Reservations may be made at Midland Community Theatre Box Office.
