SBA Approves Loan for Southwestern Rail Products

Two loans totaling $775,000 have been approved by the Small Business Administration office in Lubbock to bring the new Wellington plant of Southwestern Rail Products, Inc., to the point of construction. The announcement was made by Kenneth Moore, vice president of Wellington State Bank.

One loan is to Wellington Industrial Board, Inc. for $275,000 to cover cost of construction of the plant building.

The other loan of $500,000 is to Southwestern Rail Products, Inc. of Burns Flat, Okla. It was approved in two parts: $250,000 to go for equipment, machinery, materials and supplies to make the plant operational in Wellington.

The remaining $250,000 is for working capital.

Wayne Smith, president of Southwestern Rail Products, Inc., was in Wellington Tuesday, May 24, and said that work which the company will do itself at the plant site could begin in 10 days.

Mr. Smith met with Mr.

Moore and the Wellington Industrial Board members to open bids on the building.

"We know who the low bidder is, but the bids must be reviewed by the SBA for approval," Mr. Moore told The Wellington Leader. "We are going to hand-take them to Lubbock Thursday, and we expect approval by the last of the week."

The group visited the plant site, a one and one-half block tract located on a spur of the Ft. Worth and Denver Railway between Singley Mill and Elevator.

The City of Wellington is currently cleaning the lots, as it agreed to do. This includes removing huge underground concrete sections that were part of the old Tindall Gin. The deep pits now on the grounds will be filled, additional dirt hauled in and the entire spot smoothed and made ready for plant construction.

October 1, is the projected date for the Southwestern Rail Products, Inc., to move lock, stock and barrel into its new Wellington plant.

The only independent producer of railroad spikes in the nation, will operate at full capacity--24 hours a day, 7 days per week--until the move is made, Mr. Smith said.

Orders in the last 90 days have been amazing he indicated. "Besides the spikes that are contracted, we have 10 customers standing in line for every barrel of excess spikes we produce," he added.

His customers are some of the nation's major railroads, and the industry in every part of the country knows about Southwestern's move to Wellington.

Mr. Smith Tuesday announced that the Wellington office manager for Southwestern Rail will be Frankie Salazar. Reared at Ron, she taught in the Hollis Schools 10 years before joining Southwestern Rail Products recently.

The office will be opened here as soon as some changes can be made in its downtown location, the old Wellington State Bank building at the southeast corner of the square.

The $275,000 loan to Wellington Industrial Board, Inc., will be repaid over a 15-year period at $2,790 per month, including principal and interest, according to Lyman Daniel, president. This loan covers the acquisition of land as well as construction of the building.

Mr. Moore said a 10-year repayment period is set up for the half-million dollar Southwestern Rail loan, at the rate of 6.367 per month, principal and interest. The loans bear 9 percent interest.

The plant location is lots 1 through 12, block 204, and all of block 205, located on a spur of the Ft. Worth & Denver Railway between Singley Mill and Elevator and Warricks, Inc.

The old Tindall Gin was located on part of this and on another part was Wellington's early homes, built by Judge P.W. Myers. Later it was occupied by his daughter, Mrs. Jake Longino and her family and still later by Mrs. Pearl Parker.

PLANT LOCATION

Visiting the site of Southwestern Rail Products, Inc. Tuesday were Robert Owens, left, Kenneth Moore, Frankie Salazar who will be office manager here, Judge Zook Thomas, Wayne Smith, president of Southwestern Rail Products, and Lyman Daniel, president of Wellington Industrial Board, Inc.

Services for Auburn Keller To Be Friday

Funeral services for Auburn L. Keller, 63, a member of pioneer families to settle in this county, will be conducted Friday, May 27, in First Baptist Church.

The Rev. Mickey Fugitt, pastor, will officiate and burial will be in Memorial Gardens under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home.

Mr. Keller was stricken ill at the family home, 400 West 9th Street, Tuesday morning, and died at 11:30 a.m. in Collingsworth General Hospital. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

A life-long county resident, Mr. Keller was born in Wellington, October 20, 1914, the son of the late Joe A. and Rose Richards Keller.

For many years, he had farmed land on which his parents settled in the Cross Roads Community.

He was married to Miss Jamesy Nelson, April 19, 1939, in Wellington.

Mr. Keller was a long-time member of First Baptist Church.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Jamesy Keller; one son, Richard Lee Keller; a brother, Earl Keller; and two grandchildren, all of Wellington.

School Board Asks Plan Revision

Wellington School Board opened bids Monday, May 23 on elementary classroom construction and remodeling and Speed Fab Crete of Ft. Worth was low bidder with a base bid of $460,120. But the board sent architect Tom Brown back to the drawing board to try to revise plans so that costs could be reduced below the bid figure.

The base bid includes basic construction and remodeling work, but in addition to the base bid there are several additional items that the board wants and that were bid separately by Speed Fab-Crete.

These included (1.) terrazzo floors, $14,080; (2.) folding door between media center and library, $1,692; (3.) teacher's and book storage cabinets, $6,500; (4.) addition to Field House at Powell Field including public restrooms,

$51,829 or without new public restrooms, $40,232; and (5.) pre-cast concrete interior walls

(rather than dry walls) $14,827.

The bond election was for $540,000 from which must be deducted architect's and bond fees of approximately $40,000, leaving approximately $500,000 available for construction.

Speed Fab-Crete estimated 155 working days on the job.

The board also wants to air condition the high school auditorium and renovate the gymnasium with money from the current bond election, and since no money would remain for these projects under the current bid, the board decided to not approve final plans or award a bid until it met with Brown again, next week.

HONOR GRADUATES

These six are the high ranking graduates from the county's three high schools. At left are Kathy Guthrie, valedictorian, and David Russell, salutatorian, of Quail High School; center, Suzy Castleberry, valedictorian, and Brenda Willis, salutatorian, of Wellington High School; and at right, Bobby Myers, valedictorian and Robert Cruz, salutatorian of Samnorwood High School.

All Horses, Riders Needed for Big Rodeo Parade Here June 18

Everyone who has a horse is urged to ride in the big Wellington rodeo parade Saturday, June 18, at 2:00 p.m., Mrs. Edd Henard, parade chairman, declared this week.

Horses will hold the spotlight in this particular parade, Mrs. Henard pointed out. It will be staged in downtown Wellington on the last day of the big three-day Rodeo.

Approximately a dozen riding clubs in surrounding towns have been invited to ride in the parade, Mrs. Henard said.

This is the first time that out of town riders will be spotlighted so strongly in an event of this type here.

"If you have a horse, you'll need to plan to groom it and ride it in the parade," said the chairman.

There is no limit to the kind of horse. It can be a kid pony or the finest registered animal around.

"We want this to be a big, big parade of which everyone will be proud," she continued.

The rodeo itself will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 16, 17 and 18, and will be the biggest rodeo staged in Wellington in many years. Performances will be at the VFW Rodeo Arena in northeast Wellington. Bill Halliday of Elida, N.M. is furnishing the rodeo stock and is producing the rodeo, which is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Other events, besides the parade, which will be held in conjunction with the rodeo include Western dances each night and a beef barbecue sponsored by First United Methodist Church. This will be Saturday, June 18, at 5:00 p.m. in Ellison Park.

Mr. Hyman doesn't recall if there was a year when he didn't harvest any cotton, but he does remember a year when he picked only three bales.

Mr. Hyman was born May 22, 1877, in Ashland Kentucky. His parents, Charles and Christine Hyman, along with their oldest son, had come from Germany and lived in Quincy, Ill., for a time before moving to Kentucky.

In 1880, the family came to Texas, settling at Bulcher Community in Cook County, where he attended school. He was married there to Hallie Virginia Montgomery October 9, 1904. She died January 7, 1947.

Mr. Hyman was a charter member of the Shamrock Assembly of God and served many years as a trustee. He now takes life easier, and for the last three years has divided his time between his two daughters. His health is remarkably good, and he enjoys the visits of his many friends.

Davis Signs to Play Football With Western New Mexico

Jim Walker, head coach at Western New Mexico University, Silver City, announced the school signed Jessie Davis to a football and athletic scholarship Monday, May 16.

"We feel that Jessie has a good chance of playing his freshman year and should develop into a fine college football player," Walker said.

Southern New Mexico University signed Davis without having seen any film of his playing, but on what had been heard from Panhandle area coaches familiar with his playing.

Coach Walker offered Davis the scholarship and conferred with Wellington Coach James Williams before signing the final papers.

"They are looking for a defensive player and feel Jessie can play his first year. They are trying to build a football program and this will give him a chance to play also," said Coach Williams.

"He has the ability to play college football, and in this size school, I think he will get to start early and this will help him in his football career," his Rocket Coach continued.

He has had three years of football, but most of all, he plays real aggressive football and that is what college coaches are looking for. Jessie's quickness and speed will make him a good defensive or offensive player.

Davis, 6', 185 pound fullback and linebacker, did not play football his freshman year. He was named to the District 2-A all-district team for the other three years. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Lou Davis.

This year he received the Outstanding Back Award at the all-sports banquet.

Davis also played basketball and he qualified for both region and state in the sprint relay and mile relay at Austin.

Roberta, Delbert Long Observe Russian Educational System

BIRMINGHAM, AL..... While Children in the Soviet Union receive a firm educational foundation, especially in the sciences, they are hampered by being exposed only to what the state wants them to learn, according to two UAB educators who recently visited the country.

Drs. Delbert and Roberta Long have returned from an 11-month sabatical in Moscow. Roberta spent the year teaching reading to American and other non-Russian children at the Anglo-American School under the auspices of the American embassy. Delbert studied the Russian language with private tutors to supplement preparation for his UAB course in Russian education.

Dr. Roberta Long is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Posey, and the couple was here recently, after her father became ill.

The Anglo-American School enrolled 250 children, from 25 nationalities in grades K-8, mostly diplomats' children. The Longs left Birmingham for Moscow in August, 1975 and returned last July. They plan a week-long return visit in March.

Their observations of the Soviet educational system reveal a sharp contrast to the familiar American public school system.

"There is no conflict about the purpose of education in the Soviet Union," Delbert explained. "While we in America are always discussing what we are trying to accomplish through education and emphasize the growth of the individual, the Russians are educating the person who can best serve the needs of the state."

He said governmental leaders in the Soviet Union "claim they have a better insight into what is true, good and beautiful—namely Communism—and thus have an obligation to show the rest of society through education how to achieve the good life. And a person can achieve the good life only if he subordinates his interests to the interests of the state."

All Soviet education is slanted toward glorification of the state, and the indoctrination process begins at the pre-school level, according to Roberta.

"They have widely-spread day care centers to take care of all the working mothers," she explained. "The emphasis is on the group—the collective—and not the individual. Children begin the equivalent of our first grade at age seven and go through eight years of compulsory education."

Delbert said the Soviet view of education is more broadly defined than in American society. "All educational agencies in the Soviet Union say the same thing," he said.

"Not only teachers, but parents, writers, artists, even TV and radio media are considered educators who have a responsibility to help produce good Communists," he said. "The emphasis is on lifelong education, from pre-school age until you die, a philosophy embodied in Lenin's phrase, 'Study, study, study.'"

Since the overriding need of Soviet society is to produce a great economy which will overtake the capitalist countries, highly educated engineers and scientists are needed. Therefore, the educational system greatly stresses the sciences—chemistry, mathematics, physics.

"Each school has the same curriculum, which includes ten years of math, four to five years of chemistry and physics and five years of biology," Delbert says. Other requirements include a foreign language ("English is very popular") and 12 years of physical education and military training. There are no electives until the last few years of high school, and even those are very limited.

"There is little emphasis on the social sciences," he said. History is taught from the viewpoint of glorifying the Party and is often rewritten. American society is portrayed as decadent, with the very rich exploiting the very poor. No other viewpoint is presented apart from the party line."

Roberta said libraries in Russian schools are highly censored and that the Party has conducted more than one public book burning session.

"There is no interaction between students in a typical Soviet classroom," she said. "The students know what questions they can ask their teachers and how far they can go. There is no ability grouping of students within the same school (grades 1-10). All are exposed to the same curriculum and are expected to meet the same high standards."

She said strict discipline is maintained in the classroom and that students themselves enforce it through a student court. If one student gets out of line, it affects the standing of his entire collective (class), so peer pressure alone is usually sufficient to squelch any mischief.

"Students are graded daily on their character," Delbert explained, "and the Soviets consider character development—becoming a good Communist—every bit as important as academic achievement. It takes a perfect character reference to get into a Soviet university. Ironically, a young person who attends church might jeopardize his chances of going to college or getting a desirable job."

Delbert said Russian young people are supportive of adult standards because they are integrated into the life of the community to a greater extent.

"Kids and their parents may get together one weekend for a project to beautify the city with tree planting and other activities," he explained. "While our American students are often at odds with the goals and standards of the adult world, Russian students seldom are."

However, Russian kids like the Western fads, Roberta says. They date, have parties and dances, wear bluejeans and even listen to rock music, which is usually available to the elite, although frowned upon by the party as degenerate since it doesn't glorify the state.

"Soviet kids are every bit as materialistic as American kids—they just don't have it," she pointed out. "There is probably even some drug abuse among Soviet teenagers but it is impossible to know how much." She said alcoholism is a big problem with many adults.

Finding something to do is usually not a problem for Soviet kids. The state provides expansive "Pioneer Palaces" in every community, similar to a community center or YMCA in the United States. Here they participate in a variety of physical and recreational activities along with adults after school hours.

Delbert said the paradox facing Soviet education could

Martins, Hollis Lead Softball League; Tournament Date Set

Interest is building to a peak in softball, as the Wellington League's 1977 season gets well under way, and there is every indication it will be even more popular than in 1976, according to Tony Stephens.

Approximately 100 men are involved in the league this year.

Mr. Stephens, a past president of the league, took over its leadership again recently.

Among the 8 teams, Martin Seed and the Hollis team are leading the first half, both being undefeated.

Plans are already under way for the first big invitational tournament, slated for Friday through Sunday, June 10 to 12. Invitations have gone out, and 12 teams are already signed up. These include one each from Childress, Pampa, and Amarillo, who played in the tournament last year, and Weatherford, Oklahoma, a new team. The 8 teams of the Wellington League will play.

The cut-off number is 16, Stephens said, and the deadline for entering is May 27.

A sanctioned umpire from the Amarillo Association will be used, Stephens said. The tournament will mark the end of the first half of the season.

High School cheerleaders, headed by Debra Norris, will run the concession stand.

Team standings, with the record and coaches, are: Martin Seed, 3-0, David Caison coach; Hollis, 3-0, Phil Drew; Motes Garage, 3-1, James Hale; Langford Conoco, 2-2, Alton Belew; Owens Supply, 2-4, Danny Gray; National Guard, 1-4, Israel Sanchez; Arnett, Oklahoma, 0-3, John Green.

Games are played at Marian Airpark Ball Park each Monday and Friday at 8 00 p.m. and Sundays at 2:00 p.m., with double headers each time.

"We have 8 teams in the league. Due to the tremendous interest and success of our softball league, we had to limit the number, because there is only one field to play on, and this is shared with Little League, Babe Ruth League and the Women's softball organization," Stephens pointed out.

"Sixteen teams wanted to play, and it became necessary to divide it with Childress having 5, Estelline one, and Memphis two, forming the Childress League.

"There is a lot of enthusiasm and more participation in slow pitch softball than any sport going at present," Stephens continued. "It's more 'everyone's game' than baseball or fast pitch softball, where the main aspect of the game revolves around the pitcher.

"As the season progresses, each team is improving. Competition and sportsmanship is excellent and the softball league is a fine pasttime for approximately 100 men, besides the people who come out and watch the games."

County Remitted $147 On Mixed Drink Taxes

Collingsworth County's portion of the mixed drink tax collections amounted to $147.64 for the first quarter period, January through March.

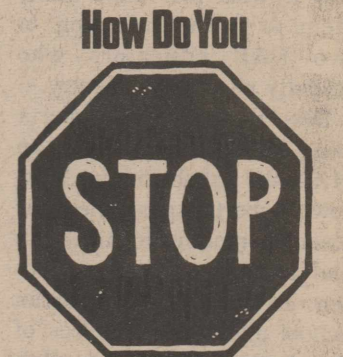

Comptroller Bob Bullock said Tuesday, May 3, that the total mixed drink tax collections amounted to $984.26 for the period.

The tax—collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission—represents 10 percent of all gross receipts from the sale of mixed drinks.

Under the law, the Comptroller's Office remits to the counties and cities 15 percent of the total mixed drink tax collected within their boundaries and the balance goes into the state General Revenue Fund.

The tax is collected and rebated to the cities and counties quarterly, Bullock said.

He said the 190 counties will receive a total of $1.87 million for the January-March quarter and the 300 cities will receive $1.75 million.

Dog Bites Brad Long

Brad Long, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benson Long, was bitten on the leg last week by a stray dog and is presently taking the course of 14 rabies shots.

Mrs. Long said that the dog was then killed by someone outside the family and the head sent to the Texas Department of Health resources in Austin, which replied that at that point, rabies could not be determined.

The proper procedure, she pointed out, is to keep the dog penned for 10 days to determine if rabies develops.

"If people think so much of a pet, please keep it in the yard," Mrs. Long pleaded. "It's not fun for a child to have rabies shots, which are given in the stomach. Our doctor tells us that there is a possibility of a reaction, or in rare cases, death, to the person receiving the shots."

"We just hope people will keep their dogs penned up also vaccinated for rabies and tagged."

The large German shepard type dog was not wearing tags, Mrs. Long said.

YOU CAN BANK ON IT!

By BILLY MOSELEY
President
CITY STATE BANK

Although the world of electronic banking looms closer each year with Electronic Funds Transfer Systems (EFTS) becoming a banking byword, the importance of people continues to grow too. One of the things planners of the new super-efficient systems have had to acknowledge is the fact that people still like to rely on people. On people much more than machines.

People have been the cornerstone of our business through the years and will continue to be in the future. No matter how much electronic wizardry pervades the financial community, customer service on an individual basis will continue to be our foundation. Banking machines or electronic transfer systems will be used only as a tool for further implementing this goal of personal service. Our bank is people. People serving people. We like it that way.

The shoulder-length veil fell from a crown of beaded lace accented by chiffon bows. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and philanophases orchids in an all-white nosegay.

The bride's attendants were her two sisters, Mrs. Steve Holtz of Van Horn, matron of honor, and Mrs. Van Schooler of Morton, bridesmaid. Their formal gowns of mint green and apricot respectively were made with caplet sleeves. The empire waistlines were accented by the skirt gathered to a shaped yoke. ## Plant Now for Best Fall Chrysanthemums Plants

COLLEGE STATION--Chrysanthemums are a fine source of fall flowers all over Texas, and now is the time to start new plants for bloom this fall.

"If you have plants from last year, cuttings taken now can provide transplants in a few short weeks," points out Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Four-to-five-inch tip cuttings stripped of their lower leaves and placed in sand or a mix of half sand and half peat moss will root quickly."

"A rooting hormone is often helpful but not essential. Keep the cuttings moist during the rooting period and place them in a bright area but not in direct sun. By starting these new plants and destroying the old clumps, disease problems can often be avoided," says Welch.

Mums prefer a sunny site with well-drained soil and plenty water during the summer. Pinching the terminal buds promotes branching, more flowers and sturdier plants. However, buds should not be pinched after August 1 as this will delay flowering.

"Place the rooted cuttings 18 to 24 inches apart and apply small amounts of a complete fertilizer such as 13-13-13 several times during the summer before August 15. Watch for insects, especially aphids which can severely weaken or retard the plants," cautions Welch.

If you have recently received a pot of florist mums, you may be successful in transplanting them to the landscape. After the blossoms begin to fade, cut the plants back to 4 or 5 inches in height. Since there are usually three or more plants per pot, Welch advises separating them by cutting the soil ball with a sharp knife, leaving a sizable ball on each plant. If the plants have not been weakened too severely by long periods of exposure to dark areas or too much or too little water, they will usually begin growing quickly and form sizable plants in time for fall blooming, notes the horticulturist.

"Chrysanthemums are light sensitive plants and flower when the day length shortens in the fall," says Welch. "Since varieties vary as to when flowering begins, it is possible to have mums bloom from late September to heavy frost by selecting early, mid-season and late flowering types."

"Chrysanthemums can provide a lavish display of color this fall by planting fairly large masses of the same color," adds the horticulturist.

Let's Not Destroy the District Court Room Ceiling

A public notice which the county ran in The Wellington Leader May 19 states that bids will be taken June 13 on lowering and insulating the ceiling and putting in refrigerated air conditioning in the District court room.

We believe this needs further consideration. It would, beyond doubt, destroy the beautiful district court room ceiling, and historic room if there is one in Wellington. The proportions of that room would be ruined.

The Wellington Court House is one of the finest examples in West Texas of an architectural style known world wide as Art Deco, that flourished from the 1920s until World War II. We believe it should be preserved intact. Lowering the ceiling and installing ductwork would prevent this.

There are more practical reasons. The district court room is one of the least used rooms in the court house. If possible, no district court jury cases are held during the summer months, so that farmers will not have to leave their fields. Even murder trials do not draw the crowds they once did in Wellington. Farm meetings that once packed the room are now held in the community building.

At this point in the energy crunch, refrigerated air conditioning would add to the use of energy, not conserve it.

The Collingsworth County Historical Commission had these things in mind Monday night, when members, speaking individually, disapproved of the proposed action.

The Wellington Leader concurs, and urges that the proposal be reconsidered.

Other Editors Say . . .

No Solution Yet

Farmers, especially wheat farmers, are looking at a dim future if present trends are any indication, and unless the price of wheat takes a dramatic increase, next year won't be much better.

A great many wheat farmers are plowing up their crops this week. It is a thin crop, one confronted with the prospect of weeds and light yields. Yet the cost of harvesting is more, the cost of spraying for weeds is more, and the risks involved in getting this crop to market are greater than ever.

In the case of wheat, American farmers are simply producing more wheat than can be sold. There is some indication that the surplus may be reduced by exports, but the restrictions on exports are tight and the U.S. is competing on a world market where competitors also have wheat to sell and at lower prices.

Taxpayers of this country no longer have to pay $4 billion annually in subsidies to keep farmers from growing crops. Storage of government owned grain no longer costs taxpayers $1 million or more a day.

Yet the average American consumer hasn't noticed much difference in taxes or in the price of food. Food prices keep going up despite the fact that the cost of raw materials, food being produced, keeps going down.

Carrol Chaloupka of Dalhart, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, made a speech a while back in which he called upon American agriculture to "flex its muscles" and let the rest of the nation know how much it depends upon agriculture.

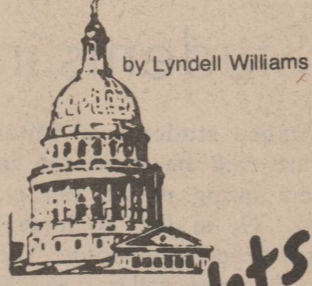

This is a good idea, but how to flex muscles seems to be a much more difficult problem than anyone has realized.

Wheat farming has changed considerably over the years. It used to be that this was a one crop country, depending upon dry land wheat and when harvest time came during the summer, everything else was pushed aside because an entire year's income depended upon getting wheat to market in a few short weeks.

Then irrigation was developed and milo came in as a cash crop. Oil was discovered and became a major source of income. This area no longer depends solely upon dry land wheat, plus cattle raising for its income.

But it is still wheat country and wheat is the crop this area grows best. Surely some solution can be found to the plight of the farmer who has to depend upon wheat for a living.

STATE CAPITAL

Highlights AND Sidelights

AUSTIN — The 65th legislature is winding down, with most of its major finance chores unfinished but with significant legislation clearing both houses at a fast clip.

As the last week of the session began, lawmakers had still to accept a conference committee's version of a $15.4 billion 1978-79 state budget.

They also had yet to resolve differences between the House's $700 million school finance bill and $373 million teacher pay raise measure and the Senate's $820 million wrapup of both subjects.

Among issues on which both houses came to terms were the bill to bring Texas unemployment compensation laws in line with federal statutes. The measure also increases maximum unemployment benefits from $63 to $84 a week (with an escalator feature to cope with inflation).

Its passage assures Texas employers of retaining $600 million a year in federal unemployment program tax credits and retains $60 million in administrative aid to Texas Employment Commission.

The legislature has also passed and sent to the governor a bill to grant Texas motorists an exemption from insurance and drivers license "penalties" for speeding violations in the 55-70 miles per hour category.

Major casualties of the legislative session may be bills dealing with property tax reform and the medical malpractice crisis.

A variety of law and order compromise bills are finding their way through the legislative maze to Gov. Dolph Briscoe's desk.

Agencies Merged

September 1, will exercise legislative functions of the merged department. An executive director will handle administrative functions.

A three-member Texas Water Commission will exercise judicial functions of the department.

Veteran Texas Water Quality Board Executive Director Hugh Yantis Jr. acknowledges an interest in heading the big new agency.

Appointments

Gov. Dolph Briscoe named Bill Wallace Jamar Jr. of Brownwood, Edwin Bruce Street of Graham and A.M. Willis Jr. of Longview (reappointment) to the North Texas State University Board of Regents.

Briscoe picked Rudolph Garza Jr. of Corpus Christi for the Texas A&I University board.

Charles A. Hallmark of Houston was Briscoe's new selection to the Credit Union Commission, while Jimmy R. Williams of San Antonio was reappointed.

E.B. "Tex" Mayer of La Grange replaced Elo J. Urbanovsky of Lubbock on the Texas Conservation Foundation.

Beeman Fisher of Fort Worth was assigned another six-year term on the Texas Turnpike Authority board of directors.

All three members of the board of regents Texas State University System whose terms expired this year were reappointed. They are Mrs. Edward A. Clark of Austin, Lee Drain of Dallas and James L. Powell of Fort McKavett.

Courts Speak

A divided Supreme Court held in a 5-4 decision that a divorce court cannot award one spouse's separate property to the other.

The high court upheld lower court findings in favor of a Dumas family doctor in a $626,000 suit alleging malpractice.

A $75,835 judgment against the state in a case where a highway department truck injured a woman near Mexia was upheld by the Supreme Court.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the burglary conviction of a Bryan man who complained officials took a blood sample from him and used it as evidence.

The Court of Criminal Appeals also threw out the life sentence given a young Dallas man for killing a Dallas policeman and upheld the death penalty assessed another in the shooting death of an Atascosa County deputy sheriff.

AG Opinions

County officials drawing travel allowances are not required to account for every mile traveled but must show a "reasonable relationship" to actual expenses, Atty. Gen. John Hill said.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

A court must find that all inheritance taxes due the state have been paid prior to distribution of a ward's estate on closing of a guardianship where the estate will not be administered further.

The Animal Health Commission authority to reclassify on proclamation by the governor, counties within an inactive quarantine area. The commission also may impose a limited quarantine in any area formerly subject to the action and may restrict movement of livestock in a tick eradication area.

Short Snorts

The bill increasing the penalty for prostitution — for both buyers and sellers has passed both houses and gone to the governor.

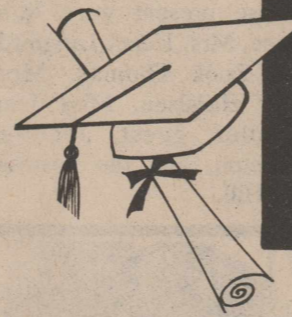

Comptroller Bob Bullock mailed May city sales tax rebate checks totalling $22 million to 867 Texas cities and towns levying the one per cent tax.

A bill to revive the presidential preference primary in Texas passed the House but had difficulty stirring enthusiasm in the Senate.

Medical malpractice legislation differences found no resolutions in early sessions of a joint conference committee.

Edward Muegge "Buck" Schiwetz of DeWitt County was selected by the legislature as Texas State Artist May 1, 1977-April 30, 1978. Jack Cowan of Aransas County will have the honor for 1978-79.

APPOINTED

Attorney General John Hill, who appointed Liz Carpenter, left, of Austin, and Ruth Forbis Kirby of Littlefield to the Board of Lease of State Park Lands and the State School Land Board, respectively, discusses with them a new book on Texas women in politics.

Ruth Forbis Kirby Named to State School Land Board

AUSTIN--"Everything that women have become part of has been made better because of it," Attorney General John L. Hill said Thursday when he announced his appointments of two distinguished Texas women to important State boards.

The Senate Subcommittee on Nominations will discuss confirmation of his appointments on Wednesday, May 18.

Hill appointed Mrs. Ruth Forbis Kirby, Littlefield attorney to the late unexpired term of the late Stuart Long of Austin on the State School Land Board.

And, he named Liz Carpenter, Salado native and nationally prominent journalist now residing in Austin, to the Board for Lease of State Park Lands. Mrs. Carpenter will serve out the term of Hill Baggett of Austin, who resigned for other commitments.

Mrs. Kirby will be remembered in Wellington as Wilma Ruth Forbis, daughter of John Forbis and the late Mrs. Forbis. A graduate of Wellington High School, she formerly was county judge of Lamb County.

"The present, and future, citizens of Texas really are fortunate that Liz Carpenter and Ruth Kirby have agreed to serve on these boards," Hill said. "They both have the education, experience, and solid integrity needed to deal with hard business problems for our State, as well as the issues of conservation of environment, and education."

"While I consider myself a pretty good talent-hunter," Hill remarked, "I learned today that my choices for the two State Board to which I make appointments already have been 'discovered' by experts on the economy: Both of them will be featured speakers when S.M.U. presents with Southwestern Assembly on 'Women and the American Economy,' May 23-25."

Ruth Kirby, the 54-year-old wife of Littlefield Lawyer Jerome W. Kirby, earned a B.A. degree from U.T. in 1943, then taught school and worked as a law office secretary for many years. She graduated from Texas Tech U. School of Law in 1970 with highest honors, then ranked first in the July 1970 Texas Bar exam group.

She taught property law and administrative law procedures at Tech from 1971 to 1975, then was appointed county judge of Lamb County in January of 1976, but resigned a year later to avoid possible conflict of interest because of her husband's law practice.

Memorial Grove on the Potomac, a national monument, in addition to coordinating the parks and beautification projects of Mrs. Johnson.

The 56-year-old native of Salado, Texas, is a consultant to the L.B.J. Library, a columnist, and a contributor to many magazines.

The State School Land Board, chaired by Commissioner Armstrong, is a major contributor to the Permanent School Fund, Hill observed, through royalties and interests earned on mineral leases negotiated by the board.

Last fiscal year, which ended Aug. 31, 1976, the Board earned $137,291,474 for the School Fund--including about $32 million from in-kind contracts which resulted from a suit brought by Hill against 26 leasing gas producers.

As of April 30, 1977, the Fund amounted to $1.4 billion. "In this time of changing attitudes about energy resources when it is imperative that officials charged with the custody of State-owned mineral lands be visionary in their approach to leasing, I am satisfied that my appointees will dedicate themselves to functioning in the public interest for the sake of Texas' future."

The answer. "I do solemnly swear to support and defend the Constitution of the United States . . . .", the oath of enlistment to the Army! Right now you can get a $2500 cash bonus for enlisting in hard-to-fill jobs. Tough, challenging jobs for the right kind of man. Plus you start at $374.00 a month, plus your food, clothing, housing and medical expenses. And the Army will pay two-thirds of your college fund up to $8100 if you choose. It may be the

County Produces 26,075 Barrels of Oil in 1976

DALLAS--Despite 12 months of production at or near the maximum effective recovery rate in nearly all of Texas' oil fields, the state's crude oil production last year declined for the fourth consecutive year.

The 1976 output of the nation's No. 1 oil producing state was almost 1.2-billion barrels and pushed the state's cumulative production since 1889 to just over 41.5-billion barrels. But last year's output was almost 32-million barrels below 1975 production and more than 111-million barrels below the all-time peak production of 1972.

Collingsworth County, which has had recorded production since 1936, last year produced 26,075 barrels of crude oil at the rate of 71 barrels per day. Production in 1976 boosted Collingsworth County's production total through the end of the year to 970,597 barrels. In 1976, 27 counties produced more than 10-million barrels of crude oil, a decrease of three counties from 1975.

The five, top producing counties in 1976 all with production in excess of 50-million barrels, occupied the same rank with their 1975 production:

1. Scurry, 83,071,294 barrels.
2. Yoakum, 79,677,101 barrels.
3. Ector, 65,593,044 barrels.

Economic, fuel-saving Japanese automobiles are pouring into the U.S. The question now is, what can this country send to Japan to offset the large amounts of imports to the U.S. The answer is live cattle, a basic "energy related" export, airfreighted to Japan.

At first glance the economics of a beef-lift seem impossible. A 1,200-lb steer selling for $600 in Colorado or Montana costs another $600 to fly to Tokyo from Moses Lake, Wash., staging area for most cattle charter flights. The importer pays $250 in duties plus another $250 for a quarantine for two to four weeks before the animal can be slaughtered.

But now U.S. cattlemen have found that American Beef-on-the-hoof undercuts Japanese wholesale beef prices by 30%. The U.S. beef is also only slightly higher in price than lower quality grass-fed Australian beef, which accounts for 85% of Japanese beef imports. The break for U.S. cattle exporters came in mid-1976 when the Japanese slashed by 22% its six-month quota on butchered cattle imports. The U.S. was allowed only 12% as its share. Live steers are quota-free, enabling U.S. cattlemen to easily skirt the Japanese protectionism.

The U.S. flew 2,938 head of slaughter cattle to Japan last year, up from just 79 head the year before. In the first three months of this year, 1,781 head of cattle flew the great circle route to Tokyo. Flying Tiger Line, Inc., the airline which hauls 40% of all cattle to Japan expects a banner year. Airlines have shipped breeder cattle for many years, so handling the animals poses no new problems.

Some shippers fear the Japanese government could crack down on cattle imports. In fact, the Japanese government has warned U.S. officials informally to hold down on the number of exported animals.

Digging in Italy Looks at Early Era

AUSTIN--A University of Texas archaeology project is digging into what rural life was like in ancient Italy from about 600 B.C. to 400 A.D.

Taking place near Meta-ponto, Italy, the excavation will help UT Austin scholars learn about the homes, industries, places of worship and cemeteries of the rural populace during the period when the classical Greek and Roman civilizations transformed the area.

VFW, Auxiliary Plan Memorial Day Events

Jimmy Bowen of Glynn Moore Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has announced plans to place flags on the graves of all deceased veterans buried in the county on Monday, May 30.

Also as part of the Memorial Day observance, Auxiliary members will hold their annual Poppy Sale Saturday, May 28.

Mr. Bowen said that members of the American Legion and veterans who are not affiliated with either organization will take part in decorating the graves.

They are to gather at City Cafe between 6:00 and 7:00 a.m., where VFW will host a breakfast. They will then go to the three Wellington cemeteries, Dozier, Plymouth, Quail, Needwood and Dodson. No veterans in the Rolla Cemetery.

Mr. Bowen said veterans of all wars are buried here, including about a dozen who fought in the Civil War, one of them a union soldier.

A number of veterans have died during the last year, he added.

"If we miss any graves, we request that the family or a friend pick up a flag at the VFW plot in Fairview Cemetery and take it to the veteran's grave," said Mr.

Here, David has played basketball all four years and participated in Vocational Ag judging contests. He was on the annual staff four years.

In 1974, classmates selected David as Most Spirited, and for Who's Who in Typing. The next year, 1975, Future Homemakers chose him their Chapter Beau, Most Courteous and for Who's Who in Science.

As a junior, he was named Best All Around, Most Courteous, to Who's Who in Agriculture.

This year, David was named class favorite, Best All Around, Mr. Quail High School, Most Likely to Succeed, Most Courteous (for the third time), Most Spirited and Basketball King.

English and Speech are David's favorite subjects, while his hobbies are singing and Hang Gliding. He was a member of a chorus which included students from the three county schools.

The day after school was out, David left for Amarillo to spend a week. (He had a job lined up for that week, too.) Then he went on to Plainview to enroll for the summer session of Wayland Baptist College.

Mrs. Dubose
Hurt in Fall

Mrs. Reecie Dubose of Quail received a broken back in a fall at her home Saturday, May 21. She was alone at the time of the accident, which occurred about 9:00 a.m.

Mrs. Dubose, unable to get up, crawled across her living room to the phone. She was able to get the phone off its cradle but could not dial, according to a sister-in-law, Mrs. G.T. Stephens. Two neighbors using the line at that time, heard her call for help and notified Mr. and Mrs. Stephens.

She is now a patient in Collingsworth General Hospital.

A sister, Mrs. Ira Brisbin visited her Monday. Another sister, is Mrs. Wayne Melton of Borger.

The Pilgrims were originally heading for what is now New Jersey.

Thank you all!

The people of Quail Community say a heartfelt "Thank-You" to the individuals, organizations and business firms that have helped in the aftermath of last week's tornado.

The gifts of your time, effort and money are true expressions of neighborliness. Some of you furnished and served food, some furnished equipment and employees' time, and some took others' regular work so that they could come to help, and many just came to offer help in any way they could.

Through your efforts, the school grounds, cemetery and private property are looking better each day. And we are determined to continue to work until we have rebuilt a better community than we had before the destruction. With your help, we will.

From the bottoms of our hearts, our appreciation to each of you. Your friendship in our time of need will be remembered.

Tony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cox, Jr., 1703 Haskell Street. He was born here April 6, 1959, and has attended only the Wellington Schools.

While Tony was chosen most valuable this year, there is another side to his personality, and last year classmates selected him as most mischievous.

Tony played football two years and was a member of Future Farmers of America four.

Tony says vocational agriculture is his favorite subject in high school and names motorcycles—working with them and riding them—as his hobby.

He does not plan to attend college, but instead will go into farming and ranching.

different interest, she had a role in the award-winning UIL District 2-A one-act play.

A number of honors have come to Raneë. While in high school she has been chosen the Friendliest Girl, Miss School Spirit, Most Versatile, and for the last two years she was an attendant to the Football Queen.

Raneë was elected for Who's Who Among American High School Students.

She names as her favorite studies Texas History and Speech.

His full time job is that of distributor of the Amarillo News in Wellington—something that gets him out of bed in the early hours every day.

He also belongs to the Collingsworth Volunteer Ambulance Service, and he recently finished the extriction course in removing injured from wrecked vehicles and other accident situations. He now holds state certification in this. The only University Interscholastic League Region I tennis champion in any classification in the Panhandle this year was Wellington's Robert Lee Templeton. He represented Wellington, the district and region in the state tournament.

JEROL DANNIE MORRIS

Jerol Dannie Morris is another of the stellar Skyrocket football men, who has brought honor to the school. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerol Morris, 1209 Amarillo Street. He was born at St. Joseph's Hospital October 27, 1958. He attended Quail School three years and Wellington thereafter.

Two district honors came this year. He was elected to the student council, and Future Homemakers of America chapter named him FHA Senior Chapter Beau.

Dannie is a member of First Christian Church.

Don has been involved in a number of other school activities, but he doesn't say what they are. It is certainly worth mentioning that he is probably (indirectly) possible for Wellington High School getting its activity bus last fall. It was his parents interest in athletics that caused them to spearhead the Booster Club drive that made it possible.
