Church Head Dies After Lingering Illness At Home

REQUESTS NO SERMON

Memorial Service Later To Honor Dead Prelate

Associated Press Dispatch

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—Ceremonies impressive by their simplicity are planned for the funeral of the Right Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America, who died at his residence here this afternoon after a lingering illness, relatives and church officials announced tonight. The funeral will be held Friday, and, in accordance with the wish of the deceased prelate, no provision is made for a sermon.

Only the simple order for the burial of the dead of the Protestant Episcopal church and hymns by the choir form the funeral program. The order requires but 8 minutes and includes scriptural readings, psalms, the Lord's prayer and other prayers.

The funeral will be at Christ Church cathedral at 2 p. m., the body lying in state in the chancel of the edifice from 10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., when the public will be permitted to pass through and view it. Burial will be private in the family lot in Bellefontaine cemetery.

In about two weeks a memorial service with dignitaries of the church in attendance is expected to be held at the cathedral. It is believed eulogies of the veteran churchman's life will be delivered at this service.

GARRETT MADE AMERICAN BISHOP

NEW YORK, April 17.—The Right Rev. Alexander Charles Garrett, D. D., bishop of Dallas, Texas, oldest living bishop in the American episcopate, will succeed Bishop Tuttle of St. Louis, who died today, as presiding bishop of the Episcopal church in the United States, it was stated at the offices of the national council.

He will hold office until 1925, when the next general convention of the church will elect a successor, who automatically will become president of the national council, a post now held by Bishop Thomas F. Gailor of Memphis, Tenn.

Plans for a new method of the church were adopted in 1916. the constitution being altered to provide that Bishop Tuttle's successor should be elected for a term of six years instead of succeeding to the post by seniority as in the past. It was stipulated, however, that in the event it was found necessary to fill the office when the general convention was not in session, the succession rule should prevail, pending the next meeting of the general convention.

In explaining the new departure,

Marathon Dancers Risk Lives

Health Expert Declares Fiddler Must Be Paid In End

Editors Note:—Young people engaged in long distance dancing in various parts of the country will "pay the fidder in dilated hearts and wrecked nervous systems," Dr. Royal S. Copeland, United States senator elect for New York and famous health authority, declared in the following exclusive statement:

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND
Former health commissioner for New York City.
(Written expressly for International News Service.)

NEW YORK, April 17.—Long distance, non-stop dancers may emerge from their tests with records of doubtful value, but they are running the risk of permanently impairing their health.

It is deadly stuff—this strain of 50 and even 65 hours on the heart, a delicate and most vital organ. The energy is exhausted and not renewed by rest, sleep or proper nourishment. The effects could not be other than disastrous.

It is cruel and outrageous that the young people are permitted to hold such contests.

Why, you can kill a dog simply by keeping it awake and active for a day or two. The effects of two and three days continuous dancing may be almost as serious for the human system.

A weak heart and disturbed circulation will invariably result from "marathon dancing" contests. In some instances the effect will be immediate. In others it may not appear for several years.

Outrageous.

The nervous system also suffers in the reaction from the physical exhaustion.

It is an outrageous thing and unfortunate that human psychology is such that every one thinks he can outstrip the records of every one else in the veritable wave of endurance dancing that is sweeping the country.

Must Pay Fiddlers.

The public authorities should frown on such contests and young people who value their lives and vitality should not indulge in them.

If they dance, to such excess, they will pay the fiddler in dilated hearts and wrecked nervous systems.

23 CONVICTED IN TRADE PLOT

20 Individuals Are Found Guilty In 45 Minutes

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, April 17.—Twenty-three pottery manufacturing corporations and 20 individuals, members of the Sanitary Potters' association, which includes makers of 85 per cent of all the sanitary pottery produced in America, were convicted by a federal jury late today of conspiracy in restraint of trade.

In sharp contrast with the length of time the case took—a full month—the jurors reached their verdict in 45 minutes. Judge Van Fleet announced that sentences would be imposed Thursday afternoon. In the meantime the convicted men were permitted to retain their freedom under bonds furnished before the trial started.

Before he gave the case to the jury Judge Van Fleet directed the acquittal of three individual defendants—C. E. Rhoes, general manager of the Kokomo Sanitary Pottery company, Sigmund B. Kling, factory manager of the Standard Sanitary company and Chris Horton, president of the Horton Pottery company. These were the only ones of the accused that the jury did acquit.

Whipping Boss Followed Staggering Boy, Beating Him With Whip-Handle After He Had Severely Lashed Him

This Is Testimony At Solons Probe Into Death At Florida Pen

Associated Press Dispatch

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 17. The joint commission of the Florida legislature investigating the reported brutalities in state and convict camps today heard testimony in connection with the death of Marion Tabert of North Dakota, who died while serving a sentence in a camp of the Putnam Lumber company, near Clara, Fla.

A. B. Shivers, former convict guard at the Putnam camp, held the commission spellbound as he related how prisoners were flogged by the "whipping boss." He declared the whipping was a daily occurrence, and that from one to five men were whipped each day, to the best of his knowledge. He was employed by the company for more than six months, he said.

Shivers was grilled into giving minor details, and he named Walter Higginbotham, now under a first degree murder indictment, as the "whipping boss" of the camp and who gave Tabert more than 100 licks, he said, with a heavy strap four days before the youth died.

In describing the whipping, the witness arose to his feet and gave a demonstration as to the actions of the "whipping boss." He declared this particular whipping administered to Tabert was done in the presence of 80 to 90 convicts and guards; that after more than 100 licks had been given the youth, the "whipping boss" followed the youth as he staggered in a half-circle about the camp, hitting him over the head with the handle of the strap.

The Smith delinquent tax bill, providing for the collection of delinquent franchise occupation, gross receipts and inheritance taxes, was reported favorably, the vote being 8 to 2. The committee voted 6 to 4 to report unfavorably the Perdue amusement tax bill.

SENATE HOLDS SHORT SESSION

Neff Puts Enforcement Measure Squarely Up To Solons

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, Texas, April 17.—After hearing the governor's law enforcement message read and introduction of one bill and minor resolutions, the senate adjourned this afternoon to give committees opportunity to report out bills before them. When the upper house met this afternoon it found itself with no pending business and no bills subject to consideration.

Because it adjourned this morning before the governor's message was sent up, the senate heard the message read this afternoon. A motion by Burkett to have the message printed and not read was voted down. Burkett declared the members do not pay attention to the messages.

Governor Neff placed squarely up to the special session his law enforcement program in his message today. The outstanding measure urged by the governor is the so-called "quo warranto" bill, which failed of final passage in the regular session. The message would vest the courts with authority to remove officers who "wilfully and corruptly" fail and refuse to enforce the laws. The anti-technicality bill also was included in the governor's program, when he urged a law to prohibit reversal of criminal and civil cases for technical reasons.

Bills introduced in the senate today include: Floyd, $2,000,000 annual rural aid appropriation; Thomas, delinquent tax collection provision; Fairchild, abolishing capital punishment; Doyle, authorizing purchase of 383 acres of land for A. & M. college; and Clark, appropriating teacher examination and institute fees to general revenue fund.

The Wood bill, prohibiting the prison commission from using funds appropriated to it to pay the oil mill notes, was reported favorably today by the penitentiary committee.

A committee to make arrangements for handling warrants on the general revenue fund, which is on a deficiency basis, would be appointed under terms of a resolution introduced by Doyle.

JURORS PICKED DISCHARGED BY JUDGE MARTIN

Original Venire Exhausted After 132 Had Been Examined

SCENE IS NOT SET

Case Must Be Tried Out Of County, Court Decides

Declaring that he believed it would be impossible for either state or defense to be given a fair and impartial trial, Judge P. A. Martin of the Eighty-ninth district court late Tuesday afternoon dismissed the five jurors who had been chosen in the Henry J. Toussaint murder case and ordered it transferred outside of Wichita county. Announcement may be made today as to where the trial will be resumed.

Judge Martin's action came at the close of the second day of trial and was prompted by the fact that only five jurors had qualified out of a total of 132 who had been examined. The original venire was exhausted when court closed, and attorneys for both sides realized the futility of continuing.

Three Selected Tuesday.

Two jurors were selected Monday, R. C. Ellis and J. S. Davis, and three others accepted Tuesday. They were Leon Fulton and W. T. Johnson of Wichita Falls and Leon Spray of Burkburnett. The five men were discharged at 5:30 yesterday afternoon.

Tuesday was a repetition of Monday afternoon so far as jury selection was concerned. Veniremen took the stand in rapid succession and declared that they had heard too much of the case to permit of their giving fair and impartial consideration. The widespread publicity given Toussaint by the newspapers and the general interest it had created during its long seige in the courts seemed to have resulted in the formation of set opinions as to Toussaint's guilt or innocence.

Only one of the three jurors chosen Tuesday was obtained during the afternoon session of court. The other two were selected before the noon hour.

Many Oppose Death Decree.

A number of the veniremen examined were excused because of expressing concientious scruples against infliction of the death penalty, this being stressed by the state in its ex-

Shriners Doll Up City For Circus To Open Monday

When Wichita Falls went to sleep Tuesday night, nothing unusual was seen on the streets, but Wednesday morning things looked different. Seemingly from nowhere, flags and pennants appeared throughout the business section of town. The publicity squad of the Masker Temple Shrine are responsible for the change.

Last night, with the help of the White Sign company, a squad of Shriners dolled up the city, stringing pennants and signs from Seventh street to Eleventh, giving the place a most cheerful look. They are preparing for the big Shrine circus to be opened Monday, April 23, and that is their peculiar way of letting Wichita Falls know that they want to be noticed.

Today all the business houses will be visited by the Shrine squad, who will decorate each building separately.

M'NEESE ORCHESTRA HEARD ON RADIO

Jimmy McNeese and his orchestra of howling jazzmakers sent strains of popular tunes out through space last night when they broadcast several pieces from WKAF, operated by W. S. Radio Supply company, at the radio studio of the Wear Piano company.

"When You and I Were Young, Maggie, Blues," "Aggravating Papa," and other songs of the popular type were broadcast by the dance orchestra throughout a territory of several hundred miles.

Clyde Strauss, at the request of several radio fans, was heard in a whistling piece. Strauss, the originator of a system of whistling without musical instruments except his fingers, has been heard locally several times, but this is the first time over radio.

J. Wilkie Talbot spoke to the fans, inviting them to the Shrine circus and the rodeo to be held here soon. He told them all about Wichita Falls, and introduced the musicians.

The orchestra numbers were:
Jimmie McNeese, piano.
Raymond Jasper, trumpet.
Jack Pink, banjo.
Jack Malacord, violin,clarinet
Bert Risley, drums.

aminations. The defense, as it had done throughout the preceding trial and in the proceedings of the present case, indicated that Toussaint's plea would be one of insanity.

The change of venue ordered by Judge Martin was accepted in courthouse circles as being a wise move. There has been considerable conjecture as to whether a jury could be obtained in Wichita county and the proceedings of Monday and Tuesday seem to have borne out contentions of those who believe that Toussaint nor the state could be given justice.

Judge Acts Today.

With the change of venue, it now appears that Toussaint's ultimate fate will hang in the balance for another long period of time. Where he will be tried, and when, will not be determined until sometime today, Judge Martin indicated.

Toussaint has been a prisoner now for over two years. He was arrested February 6, 1921, after his father, O. H. Toussaint, had been shot and killed at the southern end of Munroe street. He confessed to the crime, was indicted, and in August, 1921, was given the death penalty in the Thirtieth district court. His case was appealed to the court of criminal appeals and a new trial ordered.

When called for trial in February of this year Toussaint was granted a continuance and later his case transferred to the Eighty-ninth district court.

The defendant had no comment to make Tuesday evening when it was decided that he would be tried in some other county.

likely to develop into a controversy between opponent and supporters of the Coffee bill, whether it should be given consideration before a printed copy was in the hands of the members.

The name of Mrs. Edith Wilmans, representative from Dallas, was substituted, viva voce, at her request this afternoon for that of Lewis T. Carpenter, also of Dallas, as one of the authors of the quo warranto bill which seeks to remove county officers when it is proven they have neglected to perform their duties.

On a point of personal privilege, Representative Carpenter denied that he had signed the bill introduced in the special session, and asked permission that his name be stricken from the bill. Representative Patterson, who with Carpenter was author of the bill in the regular session, explained that the latter's name had been added to it inadvertently when it was presented to the special session, and joined in the request that Carpenter's name be removed.

Bills introduced today include: Tax intangible assets, Patman and Maxwell; taxing inheritances, Melson; two by Laird, Greer and Wilmans, appropriating $2,000,000 annually for two years to the rural schools; making fees in the collection of delinquency taxes ex-officio fees and allowing them to the officers concerned, Wilson; declaring hotels permitting liquor-drinking and prostitution shall be nuisances, Abney; regulating irrigation liens, Quinn.

tee to investigate delays in printing bills.

The discussion appeared for a time Rev. Carroll M. Davis, president of the Episcopal general convention, said experience had shown that this meant that the presiding bishop was always a man of advance years upon whom it was not deemed just to impose the heavy duties of such an office.

The next regular meeting of the general convention will be in 1925, Mr. Davis said, and when the new presiding bishop is elected, he becomes ex officio president of the national council.

GARRETT BLIND FOR MANY YEARS

DALLAS, Texas, April 17.—Bishop Alexander Charles Garrett, who automatically became the presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church upon the death of Bishop Tuttle, according to information from New York, has ben a consecrated bishop since Dec. 20, 1874, when he was made bishop of the diocese of North Texas. His home is in Dallas.

Bishop Garrett was born in County Sligo, Ireland, Nov. 4, 1832, the youngest of a family of 15 children. His father was the rector of Ballymot parish. He obtained his doctor of divinity degree in Trinity college in 1855, and came to America in 1859, as a missionary in the Canadian northwest. In 1870 he was appointed rector of St. James church, San Francisco, and later was dean of Trinity Cathedral in Omaha.

When Bishop Garrett was placed in charge of the diocese of North Texas in 1874, the territory under his jurisdiction contained 100,000 square miles and three small frame churches. He organized the diocese and under his leadership 54 churches have been built, also St. Mary's college in Dallas, the St. Mathews Home for Children and All Saints Hospital in Fort Worth.

Although he has been blind for a number of years, Bishop Garrett frequently is seen walking on the campus of St. Mary's college and takes an active part in church affairs.

DONALD SPEAKS ON LAND SURVEY

Tells Tech Club How State Has Granted Away Much Territory

John Donald, former city engineer, and well-known authority on technical subjects, spoke last night to members of the Technical club on the subject of "The Historical Significance of Texas' Land Surveys." A large number of members attended and heard the interesting and instructive lecture.

Using large maps of Wichita county, Mr. Donald told how Texas was first laid out as a state under old Spanish and Mexican rule, and how in succeeding years the many divisions and subdivisions were made. He showed and illustrated the fact that through grants to various individuals and companies by the government, the greater part of the state was given until at the present time only a small part belongs to the state itself.

According to Mr. Donald, soldiers of the Texas revolution and other wars of the republic were given grants in various parts of the state. Later, with a map of Wichita county made in 1883, he illustrated that the state was cut up into other sections given to companies and individuals. Railway companies received grants for each mile of track built, generally 160 acres per mile.

School funds were also made possible by grants in the state lands given to the public schools and colleges as a source of revenue. Later, manufacturing concerns, according to the speaker, were given grants, until practically all public land was done away with. He mentioned in this phase irrigation and the land given to further it.

Following the talk of Mr. Donald, which was very well received by members, who declare it to be unusually interesting, the subject was opened to general discussion.

Walton Will Ask Harding to Free Sixty Prisoners

Associated Press Dispatch.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 17.—At the request of the "joint amnesty committee" Governor J. C. Walton late today said he would send to President Harding a plea for the release of the 60 prisoners being held by the government under the espionage act, according to an announcement from E. T. Bynum, the governor's personal adviser.

Bynum, who is drafting the communication, added that since Governor Walton told him "he couldn't be too strong" he would make the appeal "forceful."

Five Oklahomans are said to be among the prisoners.

It Wasn't the Judge

A typographical error in Tuesday morning's Record News imputed to Judge Guy Rogers of the county court at law the stigma of being an unlicensed manufacturer of spirits fermenti.

The item referred to the filing of liquor charges against one Guy Roberts, but the name was garbled.

The Record News regrets that it unintentionally reflected adversely on the sterling qualities of the able jurist.

No Facts Received By U. S. On Air Deal

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The American government, so far is uninformed as to the facts involved in the Turkish concession to the Chester interests and will not formulate a definite policy until further advices have been received. Some diplomatic discussion of the subject has taken place with France, which holds that the grant infringes French rights in Anatolia, but the exchanges are regarded here as of a purely informal and plenary character.

Methodist Dormitory To Be Built At U

AUSTIN, Texas.—That the erection of a Methodist dormitory for girls at the University of Texas is now an assured fact is the statement of Mrs. T. A. Brown of Austin, who has just returned from the Woman's Missionary Conference at Mobile, Ala. A meeting of the representatives from each of the different district conferences of Texas will be held in Austin, May 15, and a site for the dormitory will be selected at that time. Of the $100,000 which will go into the actual construction of the dormitory, $66,000 will come from the general centenary fund of the Methodist church. The remaining $34,000 has been secured from the eight district conferences of this state. It is estimated that $15,000 will be necessary to buy a suitable site for the location of the dormitory. Austin Methodists are being depended on to furnish that amount.

GROWTH OF CITIES

Official Washington says that 78 cities of the country will have a population of 100,000 or more on July 1 this year. There were 68 in 1920. Flint, a town in Michigan, made the most rapid growth, its estimate being 117,968 which ranks it as 61st city in population.

Oklahoma has two of the cities listed as having more than 100,000. Tulsa takes 75th place with 102,018, while Oklahoma City takes 75th place with 101,150. It was just a few years ago that Oklahoma City was given a place on the map, and a few years later, Tulsa found its way into the guide books. Now they are fast growing, southwestern centers of finance and industry.

Jacksonville, Florida, is one of the oldest towns in the United States. It is given 78th place in the new census, with a population of 100,046. Elizabeth is a New Jersey town, and New Jersey is one of the original 13 colonies. The city itself is as old as the ancient Knickerbocker Dutch. Well, Elizabeth has poked its nose under the wire with a population of 103,947.

Figures speak for themselves or tell their own stories, and the jump of Tulsa into first place in the state of Oklahoma must have placed crepe on the door of the imperial chief of the Oklahoma City boomers.

Not many years ago Theodore Roosevelt and Jack Abernathy chased wolves and Jack rabbits in a wild pasture in Oklahoma. Time rolled on, the pasture disappeared, and the city of Tulsa appeared on the map of the world.

"God makes the country; man makes the town;" oil made Tulsa.

WHAT IT MEANS

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor says that the minimum wage decision is an affront to the soul and the conscience of America. This is what he said for publication. That which he did not say for publication was not fit to print.

Vice President Mathew Woll of the American Federation of Labor has another point of view. He says that the decision means the end of the Industrial court of Kansas and the injunction against the railroad shop men who struck last June.

If congress cannot enact a minimum wage law for the women wage workers for the District of Columbia, then how is it possible for the railroad labor board to enact a wage scale for the rail employees of America?

This five to four decision appears to have swept away a batch of congressional and state statues. Now organized labor and the lawmakers of the country will be compelled to travel the same road again.

NOT FOR SHAW

Colonel Nathaniel Shaw of Texas will not be given a place on the federal reserve board. President Harding has changed his mind again. The president named James S. McNary of El Paso as comptroller of the currency. A republican senator, Couzens of Michigan, defeated confirmation. Now the head of the administration has decided that he will go to the west of the far West for a dirt farmer for the federal reserve board. McNary was offered a recess appointment. He spurned it. He did not need a job. He is a man of independent fortune and capable of hoeing his own row.

WHY THE NOISE?

Fort Worth has a chamber of commerce. Fort Worth calls itself an oil city. Fort Worth business men have entered a protest against the unfavorable publicity received by that city over the nation through the investigation of alleged oil swindling cases there.

Exaggeration of the situation by newspapers of the North and East, to the detriment of Fort Worth, was charged. It was asserted that none of the oil projects which may be found illegitimate are headed by Fort Worth men.

A federal agent of the department of justice says that it cost the suckers of America $100,000,000 a year for five years to fatten the pockets of promoters and sellers of illegitimate oil stocks. Why blame the newspapers?

Why blame the department of justice?

Why blame the suckers?

Why not blame the fakers?

They are responsible for the unfavorable publicity. They did not get all that was coming to them. They may get it before the department of justice abandons the chase.

NOT NEARLY AS DANGEROUS AS HE'S BEEN PAINTED

The Beautiful and Damned

By F. Scott Fitzgerald

In 1913, when Anthony Patch was 25, two years were already gone since irony, the holy ghost of this later day, had, theoretically at least, descended upon him.

Irony was the final polish of the shoe, the ultimate dab of the clothes-brush, a sort of intellectual "There!"—yet at the brink of this story he has as yet gone no further than the conscious stage.

In this state he considered that he would, one day accomplish some quiet subtle thing that the elect would deem worthy, and, passing on, would join the dimmer stars in a nebulous, indeterminate heaven half-way between death and immortality.

Until the time came for this effort he would be Anthony Patch—not a portrait of a man but a distinct and dynamic personality, opinionated, contemptuous functioning from within outward—a man who was aware that there could be no honor and yet had honor, who knew the sophistry of courage and yet was brave.

Anthony drew as much consciousness of social security from being the grandson of Adam J. Patch as he would have had from tracing his line over the sea to the crusaders. This is inevitable: Virginians and Bostonians to the contrary notwithstanding an aristocracy founded sheerly on money postulates wealth in the particular.

Now Adam J. Patch, known as "Cross Patch" came home from the civil war a major, charged into Wall street and gathered some 70 million dollars.

This occupied his energies until he was 57 years old. It was then that he became a reformer among reformers, traveling a varied assortment of uppercuts and body-blows at liquor, literature, vice, art, patent medicines, and Sunday theatres.

Early in his career, Adam Patch had married an anaemic lady of 30, Alicia Withers. Immediately she had borne him a son.

The boy, Adam Ulysses Patch, became an inveterate joiner of clubs, connoisseur of good form and driver of tandems.

This Chesterfield married at 22. His wife was Henrietta Lebrune, the Boston "Society Contralto." The single child of the union, was, at the request of his grandfather, christened Anthony Comstock Patch.

At 11 he had a horror of death. Within six impressionable years his parents had died and his grandmother had faded off almost imperceptibly.

His favorite diversion until he was 14 was his stamp collection; enormous, as nearly exhaustive as a boy's could be—his grandfather considered fatuously that it was teaching him geography. His stamps were his greatest happiness; they devoured his allowance every month, and he lay awake at night musing untiringly on their variety and many-colored splendor.

Later he went to Harvard—there was no other logical thing to be done with him.

Oblivious to the social system, he lived for a while alone and unsought in a high room in Beck Hall—a slim dark boy of medium height with a shy, sensitive mouth. His allowance was more than liberal. He laid the foundations for a library and became an exquisite dandy, amassed a collection of silk pajamas, and neckties too flamboyant to wear. He drank—quietly and in the proper tradition. In 1909 when he graduated, he was only 20 years old.

He went abroad returning to America in 1912 because of one of his grandfather's sudden illnesses; and after a tiresome talk with the perpetually convalescent old man decided to put off until his grandfather's death the idea of living permanently abroad.

After a prolonged search he took an apartment on Fifty-second street and to all appearances settled down.

Here, after all, life began. Here he slept, breakfasted, read and entertained.

The front room had fine high ceilings and three large windows that loomed down pleasantly upon Fifty-second street.

Passing through the diningroom, one came to the heart and core of the apartment—Anthony's bedroom and bath.

Both of them were immense. Under the ceilings of the former even the great canopied bed seemed of only average size. On the floor an exotic rug of crimson velvet was soft as fleece on his bare feet.

His bathroom was gay, bright, extremely habitable and even faintly facetious. Framed around the walls were photographs of four celebrated thespian beauties of the day: Julia Sanderson as "The Sunshine Girl," Ina Claire as "The Quaker Girl," Billie Burke as "The Mind-the-Paint Girl," and Hazel Dawn as "The Pink Lady."

The bathtub, equipped with an ingenious book-holder, was low and large.

All in all a room to conjure with—it was easy to see that Anthony dressed there, arranged his immaculate hair there, in fact did everything, but sleep and eat there. It was his pride, this bathroom!

His income was slightly under $7,000 a year, the interest on money inherited from his mother. His grandfather judged that this sum was sufficient for young Anthony's needs.

Closely as Anthony trod on the heels of his income, he considered it to be enough. Some golden day, of course, he would have many millions; meanwhile he possessed a raison d'etre in the theoretical creation of essays on the popes of the Renaissance.

This flashes back to the conversation with his grandfather immediately upon his return from Rome.

He had hoped to find his grandfather dead, but the venerable philanthropist was awaiting him in a glass-walled sun-parlor. His secretary, Edward Shuttleworth—who before his regeneration had been gambler, saloon-keeper, and general reprobate—ushered Anthony into the room.

"I'm awfully glad to hear you're better," Anthony said.

The amenities having been gingerly touched upon, Anthony felt that he was expected to outline his intentions.

"Now that you're here, you ought to do something," said his grandfather, softly, "accomplish something."

"I thought—it seemed to me that perhaps I'm best qualified to write history,' finished Anthony.

"Do you think you'll be able to do any work in New York—or do you really intend to work at all?"

The conversation worked itself jerkily toward a rather abrupt conclusion, when Anthony rose. He would come out again in a few days, he said.

Nevertheless, it was due to this encounter that work had to come into his life as a permanent idea. During the year that had passed since then, he had made several lists of authorities, he had even experimented with the division of his work into periods, but not one line of actual writing at present, or seemed likely ever to exist.

Crispness folded down a month later, bringing November and the three big football games and a great fluttering of furs along Fifth avenue.

Anthony, walking along Forty-second street one afternoon under a steel-gray sky, ran into his friend, Richard Caramel.

"Let's walk up to the Plaza and have an egg-nog," suggested Anthony. Come on—I'll let you talk about your book all the way.'

"Got a cousin up at the Plaza," said Dick. "Famous girl. We can go up and meet her. She lives there in the winter—has lately anyway—with her mother and father."

"Didn't know you had cousins in New York."

"Her name is Gloria Gilbert. She's from home—Kansas City. Her mother's a practicing Bilphist, and her father's quite dull, but a perfect gentleman.'

It was a crackling dusk when they tasted slowly the foam and yellow thickness of an egg-nog. Glancing in a mirror, Anthony was glad to find a faint glow had kindled in his cheeks—he fancied that he had never looked so well.

"Enough for me," said Dick. "I want to go up and see the Gilberts. Won't you come?"

"Why, yes. If you don't dedicate me to the parents and dash off in the corner with Gloria."

They knocked at Room 1088. The door was answered by Mrs. Gilbert.

"Gloria's out," she said, after the introductions. "She's dancing somewhere. I tell her I don't see how she stands it. She dances all afternoon and all night. Her father is very worried about her."

She smiled from one to the other. They both smiled.

Anthony managed after a time to throw an agonized glance at his friend.

Richard Caramel was afraid they'd have to toddle off.

Would they come again soon?

"Oh, yes."

Gloria would be awfully sorry!

"Goodbye—"

One night, quite a while after this, Anthony called on another friend, Maury Noble. Noble had missed a train by staying too long at a tea dance.

"Why'd you stay late?" asked Anthony. "Meet a luscious debutante?"

"Not a debutante, exactly. Said she came out two winters ago in Kansas City."

"Not too young to make you miss a train?"

"Young enough. Beautiful child."

"Maury, you're in your second childhood. What do you mean by beautiful?"

Maury gazed helplessly into space. "Well, I can't describe her exactly—except to say that she was beautiful."

"What'd you talk about—Bergson? Whether the one-step is immoral?"

"Mostly," replied Maury, "we talked about legs."

Anthony rocked in glee.

"My God! Whose legs?"

"Hers! She talked a lot about hers. As though they were a sort of choice bric-a-brac. She aroused a great desire to see them."

"What is she—a dancer?"

"No; I found she was a cousin of Dick's."

Anthony sat upright.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. M'PHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg., 8th and Indiana

Could water power be generated at the big dam and used profitably?

This question has been asked a number of times and certain phases of it have been discussed in this column.

It is a matter peculiarly pertinent for discussion at the present moment as the dam at Lake Kemp will be completed soon, and then the disposition that will be made of the present power line will have to be considered.

This power line extends from Wichita Falls to the big dam. It is used to supply power for the operation of the big dredge. The power comes from our local power plant. The line passes through that portion of the project which contains most of the valuable high land.

Most of this high land lies along the Seymour road. If water was available to irrigate these high lands they would be very valuable for suburban home sites.

The most economical methods of supplying these lands with irrigation water would be to install a power plant at the dam, using the present high tension line to convey the power thus generated to the high land pumping plants.

Current would only be needed to pump water for these high lands when the water was in the canals. To put water in the canals it will be necessary to liberate water from the dam. When water is liberated from the dam power can be generated.

On account of the fact that water will be liberated from the dam only part of the time and then in varying amounts, a power plant for any other purpose than for pumping water from the canals to the high land would be unsatisfactory.

If the outlet tunnels are so constructed as to withstand internal pressures a power plant could be installed very cheaply.

Do the people of Childress county want a concrete road across the county from east to west? If so, do they want it bad enough to vote upon themselves a tax of 05 cents for the first year and a gradual decrease for 20 years thereafter? The Post believes the time has come when it would be profitable to build such a road, but we cannot control very many votes, and at least two-thirds of our people must favor the proposition before road bonds can be voted. THE POULTRY SHOW

The Mid-West poultry show to be held in Munda, on November 7-10 will surpass any show that has ever been attempted in this section of the state, and will doubtless be the largest show that will be held in West Texas this year. The local officials of the show have already secured the services of Judge Walter Burton of Arlington, Texas, who is conceded to be one of the greatest authorities in the entire United States, and with the corps of regional directors representing the very cream of poultry breeders over West Texas square behind the show and promising to bring larger strings of birds than ever, the show is sure to be a winner, both in point of quantity and quality. The regional directors are as follows: W. P. Norman, Byers, Texas; Ira D. Brown, Wichita Falls; Adam Dongees, Vernon; R. L. Briggs, Munday; C. Murphrey, Seymour; W. Applegate, Haskell; J. W. More Truth Than Poetry

LITTLE HOPE

When first I laid a garden out,
A bright and futil dream I cherished:
Which all, within a fortnight, perished.
More wise was I the following year:
I'd learned that howso well you sow 'em
The little seeds wont reappear
Unless you hoe 'em.

That spring the tender shoots came forth
And valiantly my hoe I wielded,
Till from the breezes from the north
In furrows they were safely shielded.
And then they withered where they grew—
A thing which now seems not surprising,
Considering that naught I knew
Of fertilizing.

With bags of nitrogen next year,
And cans of phosphates were they nourished.
The Indian corn began to ear,
The squash and the potatoes flourished.
Then they died down, row after row;
No craft that I possessed could stay 'em!
And all because I did not know
One had to spray 'em.

I have another garden now,
Which seems to be in fair condition.
But I will not make any vow
That it is coming to fruition.
I'm getting old and sad of heart,
And lately rather take for granted
Before I'm master of this art
That I'll be planted!

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

HABIT-FORMING INTERESTS

The best antidotes for habit-forming drugs are habit-forming interests.

The man who keeps busy has no time for vices.

It is easy to keep busy if one is interested in what he is doing.

One can hardly imagine Mr. Henry Ford for example, turning away from the absorbing occupation of building cars by the million to sample the life that is led by some of the people in Hollywood.

Mr. Ford's time is "full up."

He has always kept busy because he has always kept interested.

In New York city are more than a million foreigners who came to America to get rich, and, perhaps famous.

Those of them who really want to be rich and famous are attending strictly to the occupations through which they believe these prizes can be attained.

They have no time to discover whether the bootleggers are selling the real stuff or not.

They are interested only in saving money to invest in business in which they have recently invested, pay.

Thousands of them can be found in the colleges or in the night schools, or the public libraries, seeking knowledge that always is ready for him who wants to find it.

They have formed the habit of industry through the desire to be something worthwhile.

And that habit once formed is never likely to be broken, unless too sudden, or too much, success removes the necessity to keep pegging away.

One can go through the list of all the really greatmen and women in history and discover that all had habit-forming interests.

Whether these interests sprang from ambition, or a desire to serve humanity, they were the sort of interests which would bear no brother near the throne."

Leisure was doubtless as alluring to them as it was to others.

Luxury probably beckoned to them as it does to most of the people of the erth.

But what they wanted more than leisure and more than luxury was to accomplish what they had set out to accomplish.

That desire automatically formed habits of energy, industry and frugality which became life habits, as firmly fixed as is the life habit of drunkenness or drug addiction.

The boy or girl who, at the age of 21, has no definite obect in life will not necessarily fail.

But their start is late. Those who begin at 21 knowing definitely what they want to do have a better chance. For their habits of industry, once formed, will go far toward keeping bad or vicious habits away.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE

Aspects of mixed and doubtful nature are in operation today, making it easy to be misled or misunderstood. This is a day to avoid speculative ventures, observe all health rules and care in your diet. Concentrate your attention on ordinary affairs and routine.

Forcefulness is among your strong characteristics if today is your birthday.

Through your commanding nature, if you learn to control it, you will no doubt attain dignity and influence. If this can be obtained by individual force of character it will be more lastnig than if aided by circumstances of birth or the influence of others, as there is an element that threatens loss of reputation or reverse of fortune that sometimes overwhelms.

Build a rock foundation on your own merits that cannot be swept away if disaster comes unheralded.

You are preeminently the business type, but not without your lighter and more flippant side. You are fond of society and entertainment and can even undergo an occasional concert or two if you don't think you will be caught at it. This aesthetic side of your nature should occupy more of your attention than it does, because your character might easily freeze into the monotony of the money-grubber and you have need of constant recreation. Has it ever occurred to you that you might encourage that spasmodic desire to write? The next time you feel it approaching, go off by yourself and write down your thoughts just in the same manner that you would express them in conversation. You will be surprised to learn what are your possibilities in the literary field.

Though you are attractive to the opposite sex and fond of social life for which your keen wit and tact as a host and entertainer are particularly fit, you will not be over-anxious to marry. Your temperament is changeable and your passions, though fierce, are soon spent. The men are especially careful in choosing a mate.

Texas League Swings Open Its Gates Today

MANAGER SALM IS CONFIDENT OF SUCCESSFUL SEASON FOR SPUDDERS ON EVE OF BATTLE

With Locals Ready to Tackle Shreveport Today, Boss Feels That He Is Starting With Club In Better Shape Than Before.

By "DINK" ADDINGTON

It's opening day in Texas and the heart of every red blooded fan in the state is thumping with joy at the thought of his favorites getting under way for another season with its unknown joys and sorrows which delight and worry the followers of the game and which blend into a sensation which only a devotee of the great game may know.

Local fans, of course, are all wrapped up in he Spudders and the eyes of Wichita Falls turn toward the city of Shreveport where the home favorites mix with Ira Thomas' Gassers in the inaugural event.

What the outcome may be, remains to be seen for the clubs have changed their entire fronts since last season and have not matched strengths which might furnish a real basis of comparison.

Spudders Confident.

One thing is certain—the Spudders are going in to win and they are confident that they can turn the trick. Confident without seeming to be afflicted with that unwanted affliction—over confidence.

Manager Salm expresses himself as optimistically as any one could want when he says, "I am starting out with a club that I think is in better condition than any other which has opened a season for me. Last year I did not have a pitcher who was really ready to work. This year I am starting with four, any one of which could go into the first game and probably go the route. The entire staff is in better shape than any other with which I have started out and there are enough in first class condition to put us in right with pitching talent.

Well Balanced.

"The infield is well balanced with veterans and youth and the outfield has two men that are tried and true as fielders with Cotter showing in great shape and Grigsby ready in case of need. We are well fixed with catchers and there is no reason why we cannot win. Our target is six out of the nine on the road which is an excellent record and we're going after that mark."

Manager Thomas is making his bow in the league as a manager and he is not doing a great deal in the way of predictions. But he does say that he intends to win some games after the season opens and when they count. Thomas, who was a receiver in the days when Connie Mack was running a great machine for Philadelphia, is a smart figure in the baseball world and he'll bear plenty of watching. He scouted for the Athletics last year.

Plenty of celebration usually attached to such openings will be on tap at Shreveport today. The Lions club has charge of the festivities and will be solidly behind the Gassers. The city is after the cup offered for best opening day attendance by President J. Doak Roberts and an overflow crowd is expected when the two teams clash today.

BATTING ORDER FOR THE OPENER AT SHREVEPORT

Stoecker's Reopen

Carl and Walter Stoecker have opened up their old stand at 607 Ohio avenue, and announce that they will again be unofficial headquarters for the baseball bugs of the city.

Stoecker Bros.' stand for several years past has been a rendezvous for those who are most interested in the fortunes of the Spudders, and while the team was on the road the place has usually been thronged with those waiting for reports on the outcome.

The same line of confections, cigars and periodicals that have been carried in the past will be supplied again this year, it is announced.

Jack Kearns Says Champ Is Bound to Take On Somebody

International News Dispatch

OAKLAND, Cal., April 16.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, announced upon his arrival here today that the heavyweight champion would fight "somewhere next July."

"Picking the opponent is not up to me," said Kearns, fresh from Salt Lake City, where he and his champion protege became coal magnates. "Dempsey will be ready to meet any opponent, whether he be Harry Wills, Tom Gibbons, Jess Willard, Floyd Johnson or Luis Firpo.

"I expect to go East in about 10 days. Something may be done then. I will give careful consideration to all of the several propositions that have been made."

Texas Leaguers Open Up Today

DALLAS, Texas, April 17.—Spring training completed, baseball clubs of the Texas league were biting the bit tonight, anxious to be off tomorrow in the race for the 1923 championship.

Fort Worth, winners of last year's pennant, promises even a harder fight this year than it showed the other teams, in an effort to make a new league record—a four-time consecutive championship. The other teams are reported in equally excellent shape.

Schedules for the opening games tomorrow, are:

Dallas at Fort Worth; Wichita Falls at Shreveport; San Antonio at Beaumont; Galveston at Houston.

Dumovich Always Ready to Learn

Zip Dumovich, Spudder pitcher, obtained from the Cubs, possesses a diligent and studious nature which will be a big help to him in his climb up the ladder of baseball fame. Zip isn't what they call a greenhorn in the national game, yet he's not to be classed as a veteran.

And a big part of his battle is won when he realizes that he can learn something every day and shows a willingness to acquire knowledge. Out at the Spudder park, when theres' anything going on, Zip has got his ears and eyes in it. If some move-to-first work or some other trick of the trade is being displayed, Dumovich takes it all in. He's eager and willing to learn, and that spirit counts for gobs.

Dumovich has a couple of years to go before he reaches 20, and if he continues to apply himself in the manner that he has started, there'll be a lot of major league clubs with their books baited for him before very long.

Chicago, playing against Pittsburgh drew the biggest crowd today, the Cubs new park here being filled, while Cincinnati with St. Louis as an opponent came next.

Conley Holds Opponents To One Lonely Bingle And Fans 10 Men During 7 Innings

Conley knocked off the Twilight league season lid with a whoop Tuesday when, pitching for Pond's Laundry, he let the Wichita Mill and Elevator crew down with one lonely bingle and whitewashed them in the run column. While this was going on, his mates walloped Lewis and Ivey for 12 hits and 11 runs.

To top this off, Conley fanned 10 opposing batsmen.

Big Crowd

A large crowd was on hand to watch the Twilight league inaugural. The diamond located just back of Athletic park, was practically surrounded. Mayor Collier pitched the first ball.

Aside from Conley's sterling work, the play of Hood Kizziar, last year's captain of the high school Coyotes, was the outstanding feature. The youngster covered all kinds of territory and handled several difficult chances with ease.

Air Tight Defense

The winners turned in an air tight defense, not a bobble being charged against them, while at the same time they unloosed some devastating batting. Brooks connected for a circuit clout and Parker contributed a three-bagger later in the fray. The score:

AMERICAN TO OPEN TODAY

Yankees In Spotlight As New Season Gets Started

NEW YORK, April 17.—The National league forces today moved forward into the front lines—prepared "to fight it out on that line, all summer"—and the American league opening barrage of base hits will be laid down tomorrow.

The spotlight in the junior circuit will be directed toward the shock troops of the New York Yankees, victors in two successive campaigns, who will dedicate the Yankee stadium, their great ampitheater in the Bronx, in the opening skirmish with the Boston Red Sox.

Washington will pry off the lid against the Athletics in Philadelphia, while in the West Tris' Speaker's Cleveland Indians will defend home territory against the Chicago White Sox, and the "Sisterless" St. Louis Browns will receive Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers.

Possibility of a new record for baseball attendance being established at the Yankee stadium opening was forecast late tonight by announcement that the entire reserved seat capacity of 20,000 had been sold. At noon tomorrow 30,000 additional grandstand seats and 20,000 bleacher seats will be offered at the park, indications pointing to the 70,000 limit being touched.

The present attendance record is 42,620, made at Boston, October 12, 1916, in a world's series game between the Boston Red Sox and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Yankee dedication ceremonies will be witnessed by a host of official notables, including Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, Governor Alfred E. Smith, Mayor John F. Hylan, and others. Ban Johnson, president of the American league, was compelled to forego plans to attend because of an attack of influenza.

Keeping Pace In The Chess Match

Between Houston And Wichita Falls

Houston—Bishop to King 2.

Wichita Falls — King to Queen Square.

The Wichita Falls Chess club held a meeting last night at Shacks radio broadcasting studio to discuss permanent headquarters. President Charles R. Fuller read a letter from former Mayor James B. Marlow, exalted ruler of the Elks, tendering the Elks' club rooms for the next meeting. Mr. Marlow is a chess enthusiast and is one of the advisory council to pass on the proposed moves in the contest game by wire conducted by The Record News and The Houston Post.

Interest in the contest is increasing daily and at night there is usually a crowd three deep in front of Smith's display window at the Kemp hotel, where a board is on display. Frequently a Kemp guest from Houston will get into an argument with a Wichita Falls chess player and some lively bets have been made on the final result. A feature of the chess club meeting last night was the introduction of the mysterious Mr. Kelly, who played an exhibition game with one of the crack players of the Wichita Falls team, Ike Schuster, the latter a former member of the New York Chess club and whose record, while a resident of New York was 365 games a year, one a day, no more—no less; this was one of his fixed rules.

Mr. Schuster has two passions, grand opera and chess, but he is a master of both and can handle them, solo or duet. Emil Herman, the artist, was present and demonstrated a few features of the Tut technique. It was this question that Nat Henderson and former Mayor Cline differed on, the latter contending that the technique of Ramesez, the Second was far superior to that of the Tut system of attack.

Judge John P. Marrs, another chess enthusiast, in fact, a class champion in his college days, gave an interesting talk on the Scotch gambit. R. L. Joiner claims he does not follow the Tut system, but his constant use of "El-guardo" is 100 per cent Tut.

Judge Spencer is in the city, having come in answer to a hurry call from the chairman of the advisory committee. The gentlemen on this committee keep in constant training with Turkish baths, dumb bells and specially constructed union suits, allowing perfect freedom of the arms for the active chess players, who are doing the playing and do not have time to bathe or take the dumb bell exercises. The mysterious Mr. Kelly announced after a careful analytical examination of the chess board that Wichita Falls had a much better strategical position than Houston.

Gassers Booked as Texas League Dark Horses This Year

Future Is In Doubt, But Thomas Is Smart And Capable Manager

Special Dispatch to Record News

SHREVEPORT, La., April 17.—Ira Thomas, manager of the Shreveport baseball association, takes his Gassers into the 1923 Texas league pennant race Wednesday as the dark horse of the association.

What the future holds for the Shreveport club in its pennant fight this season is in greater doubt than the outcome of the other seven teams in the league, as there are no facts upon which to base any real calculations. At least seven of the nine men to answer the umpire's call Wednesday are new to this territory, with but little record back of them to support any claim that may be made in their behalf.

After a careful review of the material in camp in other Texas league towns, however, the best that can be to Ira Thomas' squad is fifth place, or leaders of the second division. This is a very big jump, considering the fact that the Gassers finished last year in the cellar, have been made over this spring, and are being handled by a man who is practically new to the Texas league makeup. In opposition to this, a number of other teams have last year's material to rely on and have added strength to the weak places.

The Gassers' weakness lies in their pitching, and there is not enough punch in the makeup of the outfield at present to supply the runs needed to offset the number of tallies the pitchers will allow. Thomas' hurling staff is an experiment. There is not one hurler in the group that he can pick out at present and say will win one half of his games. The majority are youngsters and will have to be tried in fast company. Even the old heads on the club cannot point with pride to any remarkable performances on the slab.

Another handicap for the Gassers will be their failure to perfect any real team work this spring. The club goes into battle today practically new. Joe Sargent, who has been on the bench since he reported here this spring, with only one or two exceptions, has not had any time to develop real team work with Joe Gaffney, the young shortstop he is expected to help in the field. The catching department looks good, with Dick Torres and Joe Burns, and Thomas should have little worry from this end. It will be in the outfield that Thomas must get the punch that will help his club stand up under the hurlers. At least three players have swapped about at third base.

Thomas' young pitchers may strike a winning pace in the Texas league, but spring dope is against their chances of performing any sensational stunts. All have received their bumps in exhibition games, and have been helped along by the bobbles of the infielders. Thomas has Jolley, Youngblood, Ketchum, Reed, Burns, Rose, Ellison, Bird, Slappey and Higgins to select from for the hurling jobs.

COYOTES TANGLE WITH SEYMOUR

Invade Baylor County In Initial Game This Afternoon

While the Spudders are playing their first game of the season at Shreveport in the battle for the Texas league championship, the Coyotes will be having their first strong opposition of the season in their fight for the high school baseball championship of Texas, when they play Seymour's high school, at Seymour. The boys will leave here at 12 o'clock, and the game will start at 3:30 p. m., according to Coach Henderson.

Eddie Kollman will start on the mound for the Coyotes, and Vernie Ross will do the receiving.

The local team has not met defeat this season, and is slapping the ball to all corners of the lot, winning most of the games with more than 10 runs majority. Amarillo is also going strong, and from present indications it looks as if these two teams will tangle up before the close of the season.

THEY'RE OFF!

The season's race is started,
They open up today;
The Texas league contingents,
Will soon be on their way.
They'll start another season,
All fighting for the rag;
Eight clubs are set to cop the prize,
Which only one can bag.
Yet every year it's just the same,
Each club is full of hope,
Each figures how to win the race,
From scanning o'er the dope.
But after all is said and done,
But one can land on top;
While one must hit the cellar,
With a disappointing flop.
And there'll be others in between,
Who've fallen by the way;
Their future didn't quite pan out.
As they'd planned on opening day.
But with all its joy and woe;
It's the one big day for fandom,
They're off today—let's go!

MIXED PRICES IN STOCK MART

Prices Harden After Early Selling Orders

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, April 17.—Mixed price movements took place at the opening of today's stock market but the main tendency was upward. New high records for the year were established by DuPont at 183 1-4; Canadian Pacific at 152 5-8 and Central Motors at 16 3-8, while Stewart Warner Speedometer duplicated its previous top of 123 1-2, the net gains ranging from fractions to one point. Most of the other motor and motor accessory shares also moved to higher ground. Sporadic selling again broke out in the oil group.

Prices hardened after the early selling orders had been executed. Trading in rails was more active with "Soo" common leading the advance with a gain of 1 1-4. Substantial fractional improvement was registered by New York Central, Southern Railway common and preferred, Union Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island and Reading. Stewart Warner established a new top at 123 1-4, up 1 3-4, and DuPont extended its gains to 2 1-4. Gains of one to nearly two points also were established by U. S. Steel, Manati, Punta Alegre and Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, Reynolds Spring and Marland Oil and International Harvester. Crucible and Iron Products were conspicuously heavy.

Market sentiment continued bullish until well into the afternoon, little attention being paid to the weakness of a handful of stocks. International Paper fell three points to a new low figure for the year and Beech-Nut Packing, American Hide and Leather preferred and American Ship Commerce sagged 1-2 each. General Motors crept up to 17 and DuPont increased its size to 5 1-4.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—Weather conditions over the belt were the main influences in cotton today and they were unfavorable enough to cause wide advances in the early trading after which recessions of a dollar a bale or so followed rather extensive realizing by longs; but in the afternoon there was renewed strength on expectations of bullish weekly government crop report at the opening tomorrow and prices moved up to their highest, showing advances of 36 to 49 points. The close was 33 to 44 points up. May traded as high as 27.91 cents a pound and closed at 27.86; October traded as high as 24.51 and closed at 24.48.

Exports for the day of 26,632 bales attracted considerable attention because they reduced stocks at some ports to very small figures, while total stocks at all United States ports at the close of business amounted to only 504,988 bales against 964,869 a year ago. This helped to steady the market, as did also total spot sales of 14,103 bales in the southern markets, the largest day's trading in several weeks.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, April 17.—Following an early decline of 5 to 10 points, due to scattered liquidation on the lower start in lard, cottonseed oil steadied on covering of shorts and buying by refiners, inspired by the hardening trend in other commodities. WHEAT BUYING GAINS STRENGTH

Material Advance In Prices Follows With Strong Close

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, April 17.—Unfavorable crop reports led to renewed buying of wheat today and brought about a material advance in prices. The market closed strong 1⅝ to 2¼ cents net higher with May 1.25⅞ to 1.26 and July 1.23⅜ to 1.23¾. Corn gained ⅝ to 1¼ cents and oats ⅛ to ⅝. In provisions the outcome varied from 7 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Corn and oats reflected wheat advance. The corn market was helped by an estimate that the Argentine exportable surplus of corn was the smallest in five years.

Provisions declined with hogs and because of the semi-monthly report on lard stocks here.

Oil Refiners At Austin Hearing

Special Dispatch to Record News

AUSTIN, Texas, April 17.—More than 50 oil refiners and producers attended the state railroad commission rehearing of the general revision and readjustment of crude and refined oil freight rates between Texas points.

The rehearing grew out of adjustments made recently when the commission issued tariffs regulating rates on casinghead gasoline between Burkburnett and other points, and as a part of that order, revised both crude and petroleum and refined oil rates. The question was taken under advisement at close of the rehearing, and it will probably be several days before the commission issues any order on the matter.

Rehearing was on application of the Western Petroleum Refiners association.

Sayre Sends Out Call For It's Former Mayor

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 17.—Discovery of oil in commercial quantities in the Martin-Kiskaddon well in 31-9n-23w, near Sayre, resulting in the biggest wave of prosperity visiting that region in its history, has caused many citizens there to feel unusually good. Among other things, the oldtimers of that country have wired Leo Meyer of Tulsa, tax expert of Cosden & Co., who was the first mayor of Sayre, to come back and they will re-elect him as the head of the city.

Meyer is glad for Sayre that it is to be an oil city. He owned 640 acres in fee near the Martin-Kiskaddon producer, which he bought from the state at $3 an acre, but later sold it for $8 and thought he had made a splendid deal.

Had he held it he could have received $400 an acre for the oil lease.

News Concerning Tank Shortage Misconstrued

The K. M. A. Fuel Oil company, operating fuel oil stations in Archer and Wichita county fields, who are furnishing fuel oil to a great number of the independent operators and contractors, as well as the large companies, appears to have been subjected to much annoyance through some of The Record News readers misconstruing an article appearing some days ago, in which article reference was made to the state weights and measure inspector finding that certain fuel oil users were being shorted one or more barrels in each tank of oil delivered to them. The facts are that the tanks found short belonged to a small handler of fuel oil and not to the K. M. A. Fuel Oil company and the inspector did not find any shortage in any of the tanks of the K. M. A. Fuel Oil company, and no suspicion of any shortage of any of the said company's tanks have been reported to The Record News.

The K. M. A. Fuel Oil company has been actively engaged in the local fields for several years and their growth to where they are delivering 2,000 or more barrels of fuel oil per day to the operators reflects the confidence their customers repose in their business policies and methods. The Record News gladly takes this opportunity of correcting the erroneous impressions left by the former article.

Shot Fails To Produce

A shot failed to get production from No. 6 Michna well, on Huseman block 819, in Wichita county.

"Pay Up" Press Says

VERLIN, April 1.—German husbands must give their wives one third of their incomes to maintain the family table. That is the law, and the German newspapers are now calling this fact to the attention of housewives who are having trouble making their allowances cover the increased costs of food. This one third income is not to meet rent on the wages of servants. It is nearly to cover the expense of keeping up the table.

80 SCOUTS TO FIELD EVENTS

Friday Night To Be Spent In Homes of Citizens

Chester Powell, scout executive, said Tuesday between 75 and 80 boy scouts of this city would leave here Friday night to attend the scout field day to be held in Olney next Saturday. The boys will spend Friday night in the homes of citizens in Olney, following the reception and parade the boy scouts from both places will hold.

Every phase of scout work will be demonstrated Saturday, and the troop winning the highest number of points will be presented with a large loving cup valued at approximately $25, which amount was raised by private subscriptions among the business men in Olney. Races, scaling walls, jumping, bandaging, signaling, baseball game, and various other sports will be on the program Saturday, according to Mr. Powell.

The "fatted calf" will not only be killed for the local boys who will attend the meet at Olney, but also the fatted goat will be butchered for the barbecue which will be served Saturday at noon by the boy scouts of Olney. The citizens of that place, according to Mr. Powell, are preparing for a great day, and have cordially extended an invitation to all Wichita Falls boy scouts.

The local boys will make the trip to Olney in cars, and Mr. Powell said, as there would be a great number of boys going, he would appreciate any offer of transportation or use of cars. He said anyone wishing to offer help in the transportation problem should turn their names in to him at scout headquarters, in the basement of the Morgan building.

Judge Scurry Says Reports of Klan Fight At Vets Reunion Are "All Rot"

Three Wichitans who attended the annual Confederate reunion in New Orleans have returned home. Judge Edgar Scurry, Winnifred Pickens and Lucy Huggins arrived late Monday evening after spending a week in the convention city.

Vivian Bailey, who also attended the convention, is spending a short time with friends in Houston.

Judge Scurry stated that the convention was, in many respects, one of the best ever held. He vigorously deplored, however, the press reports stating that the ku klux klan question had been raised on the convention floor.

These stories were "plain rot," he said, as the klan was never mentioned in the convention period. He said the reports were started by disgruntled individuals at the convention who held personal animosities against some of the Confederate leaders.

COURT COLLECTS $8,045 IN FINES

Federal Judge Hands Out 174 Days In Jail To Booze Violators

Fines aggregating $8,045 have been collected in United States district court from liquor violators since court opened over three weeks ago, it is disclosed in a report completed Tuesday. Jail sentences aggregating 174 days have also been assessed against liquor violators.

216 Cases Listed.

A total of 216 liquor cases were on the dockets of the court and 110 have been disposed of thus far, leaving 106 more to be considered before court is adjourned. Out of the 110 cases passed on, 38 have been acquitted or dismissed because of lack of evidence.

No compilation has thus far been made of the fines and jail sentences given in other criminal cases that have been heard. Mail fraud, embezzlement, narcotic act and other violations will swell the total considerably. Much heavier fines have been given in these instances and sentences of a year or more were the rule rather than the exception.
