Underpass Work To Begin Within 3 Weeks

Graham Gets Letter From Road Official

Engineering Will Be First Step In Railway Project

Preliminary engineering work for an underpass on South Cuyler street, under the Santa Fe railroad tracks, will begin within the next three weeks M. A. Graham, chairman of the highway committee of the Board of City Development, told directors at their regular meeting last night in the city hall.

Mr. Graham quoted from a letter received from Guy Lott, division engineer for the state highway department stationed at Amarillo.

The underpass has been placed on the 1941 state highway program. Funds for the project will be available July 1, which is the beginning of the 1941 program year, but construction is not expected to start until fall, Mr. Graham said.

The committee chairman told the board that the highway department would be contacted soon regarding action on the North-south 18 highway. He also reported that letters had been mailed to map companies telling them of road improvements in this area and urging that maps carry latest information on the roads.

Board members discussed the recent ruling of the Texas Railroad commission setting 20-acre spacing of wells in the Panhandle. No action was taken, the board deciding that recent action of the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners association in protesting the ruling was sufficient at the present time.

Upon the request of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, the board endorsed the candidacy of T. J. Strickler of Kansas City for membership on the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, representing the southwest.

Plans for a membership drive, to begin late this month, were discussed by Frank Culberson, chairman of the finance committee.

John V. Osborne presided at the meeting.

Hull Unwilling To Invoke Neutrality

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Secretary Hull has expressed state department disapproval of a resolution to invoke the neutrality act in the undeclared Sino-Japanese war.

Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the senate foreign relations committee disclosed this today, saying further that the committee probably would consider Hull's opinion as reflecting the state department's views not only on the far eastern conflict but also on the undeclared war between Finland and Russia.

Although Pittman declined to make the letter public, he said it was apparent that Hull felt that the peace and security of the United States were not directly involved in either of the undeclared conflicts and for that reason did not favor invocation of the neutrality act, which would greatly restrict American dealings with the belligerents.

The Hull letter will be considered when a subcommittee takes up a resolution by Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) to set in motion congressionly machinery to place the neutrality act in operation in the far eastern war. Chairman George (D-Ga) said the subcommittee might meet tomorrow.

Doors Closed On Liquor Board Hearing

AUSTIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—Closed doors today guarded the three-man state liquor control board's investigation of charges presented by Chairman W. D. Bradfield of Dallas against board administrator Bert Ford.

The complaints, which board member D. J. Decherd of Flatonia yesterday asserted were made by discharged employees and which Dr. Bradfield admitted came from "disappointed" persons, were not made public.

The inquiry was initiated by Decherd and member E. W. Crouch of McGregor over the protest of Bradfield, a prohibitionist and former Metrodist minister, appointed to the board last fall by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel.

"I voted no upon the motion that the board enter into examination of charges in affidavits filed with me as chairman of the board," Bradfield stated, "on the ground the board is without power either to swear, summon or compel testimony of witnesses and without such processes an investigation would not be an investigation."

Bradfield's methods were scored by his fellow board members as "dictatorial" and detrimental to enforcement of the liquor laws. The chairman himself requested full publication of a statement by Decherd which charged the former Southern Methodist professor with:

Undermining public confidence in the board, disrupting its work, criticizing the legislature for provisions of the liquor control act, using "high-handed" methods, attempting to get employment for his (Bradfield's) "favorites," associating with discharged employees and "playing too much politics" with Governor O'Daniel.

Promising a full reply to the accusations later, the elderly chairman declared:

"I am making an earnest study of conditions and intend to continue to present the board with and make public my findings. I realize the board is no prohibition agency. I'm glad to have criticism and would like to discuss with board members the question of my transgressions, if any. I have no ill feeling toward Ford or the members."

Crouch told Bradfield before the meeting went into executive session:

"Doctor, you've been misinformed. You don't have experience in these matters. You have consistently gone around the board with your views, unfounded in fact, and not to it. I would prefer to discuss your findings in board meetings before making them public. I don't believe your methods are proper."

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 13 (AP)—A 70-mile carriage of ice, softened by spring-like temperatures, moved down the Ohio toward its doom today as preparations were made for early resumption of river traffic.

A combination of several large floes and many smaller ones, the mass extended from Aurora, Ind., to a point near Louisville and was causing a minimum of damage as it rolled westward. The ice was travelling about four miles an hour.

The river, raised by rains and gorges but at no point in this section near flood stage, receded as the ice started out.

Committee Favors Bill To Ban Foreign Silver Purchases

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—A Senate banking and currency subcommittee recommended today that the United States treasury be prohibited from purchasing foreign silver.

The subcommittee reported favorably on a bill by Senator Townsend (R-Del) that would terminate the authority granted under the 1934 silver purchase act which the treasury has utilized in buying more than $900,000,000 worth of foreign silver at an average cost of about 52 cents an ounce.

Senator Glass, (D-Va), chairman of the subcommittee, said there was no formal vote on the Townsend bill. There was, he added, "some disagreement" about it.

The full committee was called to consider the Townsend bill after the subcommittee acted.

Senator Townsend previously had advocated termination of the purchase of domestic silver also but revised his bill to apply only to the foreign metal.

Finns Claim New Victories

HELSINKI, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Finnish high command announced today that its forces had repulsed daylong Russian attacks on the Karelian Isthmus, making "several successful counter-attacks," and farther north had driven a Russian detachment back across its own frontier.

The daily communique said that fighting was continuing on the Isthmus today, 13th day of the Russian assault there.

The Finns said they "destroyed" the greater part of an enemy column of 100 sledges among the Pitkaranta Islands, along Lake Ladoga's northern fringe, and reports they had repulsed Russian attacks northeast of Lake Ladoga and the Kuhmo sector still farther north.

The Russian force thrown back across the border was "advancing to the west" in the region of Ratte, east of Suomussalmi, at Finland's "waist."

The Russian attacks on the Isthmus "continued unabated' throughout yesterday, the Finns said.

(A Red army communique in Moscow covering this action said that 32 "defensive fortifications" had been wrested from the Finns on Monday and that much war material had been captured.)

Today's communique said there was fighting yesterday also at Muolajarvia and at Taipale on the Isthmus.

In the Pitkaranta Islands northeast of Lake Ladoga the Finns said they "destroyed" a Russian column of 100 sledges, and they reported capturing several Russian machine-gun nests in the Kuhmo region.

At Raate, the Finns said, they drove a Russian detachment "back beyond the frontier."

554 Boys In Pampa Want To Be Scouts

Why, it's the number of boys attending Pampa ward schools and the junior high school who want to become Boy Scouts or Cubs. Each of the 554 boys have the consent of their parents, according to a recent survey covering all but the high school where no report was secured.

There were 262 boys who said they were of Boy Scout age and 292 who were or will become of Cub age during the summer.

Lists of the boys have been made at the Boy Scout office, according to church affiliation, and each cubmaster or scoutmaster will be given a list of the boys attending his church or Sunday school who desire to join.

Lists of boys not having church affiliation, or attending church where there are no troops or packs, will be given to leaders of troops needing boys or to troops sponsored by civic clubs.

Scouting in Pampa and the Adobe Walls council as a whole reached a new high last year and leaders predict an even greater 1940 for the boys.

Navy's Budget Cut $11,000,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—A $11,699,699 slash was made in President Roosevelt's budget for the navy today by a House committee which recommended appropriations of $966,772,878 and urged that the nation build battleships and cruisers "superior" to those abroad.

The cut, from the President's figure of $1,078,472,577, was the largest yet made by the appropriations committee in any single budget recommendation, but the committee said the fleet's needs could be "adequately met" with the smaller sum.

Included in the measure was $1,000,000 to start work on a $3,000,000 project designed to develop the tiny Pacific Island of Guam as a naval "lookout" post. Guam improvements were turned down by Congress last year after a heated controversy involving questions of foreign policy toward Japan.

In sending the navy bill to the House floor the committee also cut $16,316,250 from the amount of "contract authorizations" recommended in the budget. With such authorizations the navy may contract for work to be paid for later. Thus the total decrease in the amount the navy could spend or obligate in the fiscal year beginning July 1 amounted to $128,015,949.

While allowing money to start work on 19 new combat ships and five auxiliaries, the committee cut $7,750,000 from the sums recommended for two new battleships and two cruisers.

Jap Blames Britain In Liner Sinking

TOKYO, Feb. 13 (AP)—Ryo Koyama, rightist member of parliment, today laid responsibility for the sinking of the Japanese liner Terukuni Maru last Nov. 23 at the door of Great Britain.

Koyama made his charge in a heated session of the lower House budget committee which also heard the all-powerful Japanese army criticized for the second time in ten days on the grounds that secrecy surrounding huge military expenditures is making the people "uneasy."

The Terukuni Maru went down off the English coast presumably after striking a mine. Koyama declared that "weather conditions at the time makes us doubt that the mine was laid by German Vessels; moreover it is clear that the British admiralty designated the route" followed by the liner.

City Asks Citizens What To Do With $500,000 Surplus

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Feb. 13 (AP)—What to do with a $500,000 surplus in the town treasury was the question posed today for the municipality's 10,000 taxpayers by the five-man board of commissioners.

Each of the taxpayers received a letter signed by Mayor William E. Speers and director of revenue and finance Bayard H. Faulkner telling of the town's strong financial position and asking what they would like done with the surplus.

The letter asked:

"What do you think? would you rather reduce the town's debt another $100,000, leaving $400,000 to cut down taxes—or cut 1940 taxes for the full amount?"

Postcards—postage paid—were enclosed for the answers.

British Guns Sink Burning German Ship

Freighter Goes To Bottom Off Brazil Coast

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 13. (AP)—Rear Admiral Sir Henry Harwood told the Associated Press today that the crew of the German freighter Wakama, after setting their ship afire yesterday off the Brazilian coast, had been taken abroard a British cruiser.

Sir Henry, commander of British forces in the South Atlantic, said in an exclusive interview that ten officers and 36 men of the Wakama's crew had been picked up in lifeboats by one of the British patrol vessels.

Sir Henry's flagship, the cruiser Hawkins, entered port here last night. The cruisers Shropshire and Dorsetshire yesterday were in the waters off Brazil where the Wakama was intercepted and fired by her own men.

Because she was considered a menace to navigation, the burning Wakama was sunk, Sir Henry said, by the British cruiser that intercepted her. He would not say which British ship delivered the finishing stroke but made it clear it was not the Hawkins.

"I didn't see the Wakama burning," he said, "but I know she burned and sank because of a communication I received from the other cruiser.

"I understood they finished her off so she would not menace other shipping."

Plane Spotted Freighter

When asked if a British scouting plane had been the first to spot the richly laden 3,771 ton freighter," Sir Henry said:

"That is correct."

"But the plane did not attack; it simply gave word to give up."

Sir Henry, who was knighted after commanding the British squadron which drove the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee into Montevideo, gave indications that the overhauling of the Wakama had been an easy matter.

Describing himself as a "passenger" aboard the Hawkins, the admiral said the Hawkins did not make any move against the Wakama.

"We were in communication with the other cruiser. She located the

Cooing In the Zoo

"Commodore," prince of sea lions in the Denver, Colo. zoo, recently lost his mate, grew moody, irritable, sick. Then the zoo got a new sea lioness, middle-aged but graceful, tactful, appealing, and in a jiffy old "Commodore" was himself again, a prince of polly sea lions. So the keepers dubbed the newcomer "Wally." To date no sea lion has ever been listed in The Pampa News' classified want-ads. We prefer home-appeal to zoo-appeal. MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

When planning the food allowances per week for her household, a woman should take into consideration what kind of work the "eaters" do. The Federal Bureau of Home Economics gives practical advice on this point. Here's what the bureau has to say on this all-important budget problem.

Let's take the case of a young couple who are just starting to keep house. Young Mr. Smith sits at a desk all day, but he comes home for lunch. He walks back and forth to his office and does some work around the house in the evening. Mrs. Smith does her own housework and laundry.

Neither of them is doing hard physical labor, but they are fairly active. Mrs. Smith is anxious for them to have a good diet, but at a moderate cost. Their market order each week should approximate the following list.

Milk 7 quarts; potatoes and sweet potatoes 5½ pounds; mature dry legumes and nuts ½ pound; tomatoes and citrus fruits 4 pounds; leafy, green, and yellow vegetables 7 pounds; other vegetables 12 pounds; eggs 1 dozen; lean meat and fish 6 pounds; flour and cereals 6½ pounds; butter 1 pound; other fats 1 pound; sugar 2 pounds.

With this as their marketing order, during the week they will each have 10 to 11 servings of potatoes and sweet potatoes and 7 to 8 servings of meat, fish, or poultry. With these foods they will also have 1 to 2 servings of legumes or nuts; and yellow vegetables; and 6 eggs apiece.

Each day they will each have a pint of milk, a serving of cereal, dessert once or twice, and bread at every meal.

SUIT FOOD TO PHYSICAL ACTIVITY

But suppose the Smiths live on a farm where they both work outdoors and are very active. They would spend less money for food, because they would grow many of their own supplies. But they would need a large amount of some foods —such as potatoes, cereals, sugar, and fats, which are inexpensive sources of the food energy needed for muscular work.

For a family with children, one quart of milk should be added each day for each child to help meet the protein, mineral, and vitamin requirements. Don't worry if the 'teen age boy seems to be "eating more than his father." He's probably far more active, and he's growing so rapidly that he needs more calories and other food values in proportion to his size. Many children, from 11 to 16 or 17 years, have the same or higher food requirements than their parents.

Younger children, of course, need a smaller amount of high calorie foods. But it is important that along with these foods they get the protein, minerals, and vitamins that are needed as body builders.

Following various games, refreshments were served to Koma Jo Johnson, Mary Lou Douglas, Mary Francis Yeager, Orene Alford, Virginia Covington, Virginia Giles, Bert Prigmore, Forrest Vaughan, Ernest James, David Caldwell, Clarence Sommons, a guest, and the leader, W. E. James.

FIRESIDE SUPPER IDEA

For the fireside supper, pass small rolls, toasted and heaped up with diced hard-cooked eggs mixed into a very savory, cream sauce. With the care, the guests can eat the rolls in the fingers. Hot fruit juice, sugar cookies and cracked nuts or popped corn go with this.

Rattlesnakes can locate their prey blindfolded; sensory pits located between the eye and the nostril enable them to find a foe they cannot see.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By ALICIA HART

Before going out to take advantage of midwinter linen and furniture sales, the really beauty-minded woman tries to analyze herself, her personality and mode of living, as well as her household furnishings which need to be replaced.

"Do I fit harmoniously against this background I have created?" she asks herself, thoughtfully surveying every room in the house. "Or, clad in tweeds, as I usually am, do I look, and sometimes feel, silly on that Victorian sofa?"

"Is it a mistake for me, a woman who likes tailored negligees and plain, flat-heeled bedroom slippeds with toes in them, to keep on having a fluffy boudoir with ruffled dressing table skirt, lace pillows on the bed and typical French bric-a-brac here and there?" she goes on to ask.

HOME MUST BE PLACE OF REST

She could, she decides, without sacrificing beauty or femininity in the room, replace the fluffy skirt with tailored one of lustrous satin give the pillows new covers or dispense with them entirely. She resolves that the new slip-cover for the boudoir chair will be of a color which flatters her skin instead of making it sallow as the old one does.

She decides also that the sheets she buys in White Sales will be long enough to stay tucked in. She's through with having her sleep disturbed all too often by a fight with a too-short sheet.

In other words, she resolves to make her home a place where she'll be able to stay calm, unruffled and comfortable, and which will be a background that suits her type and dramatizes her good looks.

Allied Troops In Near East Significant

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The massing of Anglo-French troops about the end of the Mediterranean in the near east is largely of a defensive nature at this juncture, but the offensive possibilities against either Germany or Russia, or both, are great.

For one thing we know, of course, that the Balkans may become the back-yard battlefield of the European war.

But a possibility which is even more startling is just now developing. If the Allies, in addition to their near east front, also establish a new war-theatre in Finland in the process of aiding the little republic against Russia, they will have created a mighty pair of pincers about the Soviet's European side.

Circumstances make it quite legitimate to speculate as to whether those pincers might yet be completed and start to close against the Bolshevists. The Red program as indicated by the invasion of Finland bids fair to get decidedly more attention than the deprecating cough which the Allies gave behind their hands when the Muscovites hopped on Poland.

However, it's difficult to visualize all these things without a map. If you will get out your maps of Europe, and the near east zone which is likely to play such an important part in the outcome of the war, I'll show you an interesting game of soldiers—live ones.

First off, please note that Turkey, lying on the Black Sea opposite Russia and controlling the Dardanelles—one of the most important strategic points in the world—is the good ally of England and France. Not only is Turkey geographically powerful, but it has one of the finest, toughest armies in existence.

You're about to remind me, I suppose, that Turkey's pact with the Allies excludes war with Russia. Agreed, but that's not so much a matter of affection as expediency. Let the Soviet make a pass in that direction and see what the Turks do. They'll fight with Britain on a show-down. Greece also is pro-ally in sympathies.

Now if you will run down the coast from Turkey toward the Suez Canal you will find those massed Allied troops in Syria, Palestine and the Canal Zone—some 570,000 of them. Then we come to England's Egyptian ally, also of vast strategic importance.

So much for the soldiers, who must total close to a million already under arms, including 350,000 Turks and the Egyptians. The French plan to throw 700,000 more into Syria and the British are increasing their forces.

Thus, with a million more which the Turks could put into the field, the potential defensive force of the near east is about 3,000,000. And we shouldn't overlook the many Allied warships which are churning up the blue waters of the Mediterranean.

How To Win Votes Courthouse Topic

If it isn't June in January, or February if you want to be technical, it's still "July 27" around the court house these days.

How to win the favor of the voter is already the topic of many a huddle, and the political sages are having a field day giving their opinions on what will happen here in the first Democratic primary to be held next July.

Benches in the corridors of the first floor are beginning to fill up again, and even the sparrows that race chirpingly between the court house and the Combs-Worley building are flying faster these days—perhaps warbling their sentiments on the approaching primary.

Indications point a typical "hot" campaign this year with a crowded field of county and district candidates. There have been 23 candidates who have already announced. Commissioner of precinct 2 is the most sought for office today, with five seeking that position, followed by four for district clerk, three for county commissioner of precinct 1, three for sheriff, two each for county clerk and for justice of the peace of precinct 2, place 1, and one each for county attorney, tax assessor collector, county treasurer, and commissioner of precinct 3.

Doctor Cuts Muscle Tu Cure Indigestion

VENICE, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—By cutting a little muscle which controls the flow of bile into the intestines, a Canadian physician reported today he had found a way to relieve indigestion and gastric ailments that rest, diet and medication will not cure.

Before the International College of Surgeons here Dr. Otto Demuth of Vancouver, B. C., explained his instrument and technique for severing the sphincter of oddi, which rings the inside of a duct leading from the pancreas, liver and gall bladder to the small intestines.

In certain cases of chronic indigestion and diseases of the gall bladder and liver, the sphincter tightens and cuts off the supply of juices needed to complete digestion of food.

Dr. Demuth said he had used the technique successfully since 1933.

Arkansas Gas Tax Denied

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The U. S. Supreme Court today, in an opinion delivered by Justice McReynolds, affirmed a decision enjoining Arkansas from imposing a tax on gasoline, (in excess of 20 gallons) carried in the fuel tanks of interstate buses if the gasoline is for use in other states. Justices Black, Frankfurter and Douglas dissented.

Tax Figures Cited By Truckers' Head

AUSTIN, Feb. 13—The Texas trucking industry last year paid taxes to Gray county amounting to $44,130.90, Lynn B. Shaw, general manager of the Texas Motor Transportation association, reported today.

Shaw said the amount represented $30,418.47 for highway construction and maintenance, and $13,712.43 for the public schools of Gray county. For each scholastic in the state, the truckers last year paid $2.49.

The total amount of taxes paid in the state by the truck operators during 1939 was $15,388,904.78.

Rotary Club Will Stage 'Battle Of Sexes' Tonight

Quips, guessing contests, and "childhood days" will compose the program of the annual Fun Night of the Pampa Rotary club to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Schneider hotel.

The program will be centered around an imitation of the radio's "Battle of the Sexes," with Rotarians and their ladies taking part.

Some of the program will be presented before the banquet. Frank M. Foster will be toastmaster and program chairman. Music will be furnished by the high school orchestra, directed by A. C. Cox. An attendance of 75 persons is expected.

Nine Republicans Attend Banquet

Pampa was represented by nine persons at the Lincoln Day banquet of the Republicans of the Panhandle of Texas, held last night in Crystal ballroom of the Herring hotel in Amarillo.

George I. Shannon was toastmaster and Hon. Ralph B. Innis of Kansas City, Mo., the principal speaker. The invocation was by Dr. R. Thomsen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Amarillo. Music was by an Amarillo Philharmonic orchestra quintet.

Attendance at the banquet was 400. Present from Pampa were Dr. V. E. von Brunow, Gray county Republican chairman, Mr. and Mrs. John Bowers, D. E. Cecil, G. B. Cree, Gene Sidwell, Harry Matthews, Clinton C. Harbour, Elmer C. Shelhamer.

Overselling Topic Of Credit Meeting

Members of the Pampa Credit Grantors association were to have discussed delinquent accounts under letters J, K and L yesterday noon but instead a representative of one line of business made a remark about his delinquent accounts being different than most.

His remarks brought another member, in a different business, to his feet and from then until 15 minutes past the deadline the discussion was fast and interesting.

The danger of overselling cropped up so often that members agreed that it was dangerous in all lines of business. Several members told of people they knew whose monthly obligations amount to more than half of their income.

Delinquent accounts J, K and L will be discussed next Monday.

Ice Gorge Jams Allegheny River

PARKER, PA., Feb. 13 (AP)—A steadily growing ice gorge jammed the Allegheny river today, forcing flood waters into low lying sections of this little community 60 miles north of Pittsburgh.

Some residents scurried for nearby hills as the river surged up ten feet within a few hours and passed the 23-foot mark, three feet above flood stage at this point.

Army engineers were asked to rush dynamite here to break the huge gorge which had formed in a bottle neck of the river at West Monterey, about four miles to the south.

Teachers Volunteer To Abolish Illiteracy

Wakama and then asked for instructions.

"I said, 'You take care of her; we are going on to Rio De Janeiro.'"

Asked whether the Shropshire or the Dorsetshire could take the credit for bagging the Wakama, the Admiral answered:

"It was one of them. Besides the Hawkins, there was only the other British warship near the Wakama."

Flashes SOS

Her holds stowed with heavy consignments of lard, hodes, cottonseed oil, mica rock crystal and cacao, the Wakama had flashed an SOS yesterday, giving her position as 50 miles off Cabo Frio, east of Rio De Janeiro.

Since then some mystery had surrounded the fate of her crew, for previously a British sailor off the Hawkins had reported that the Wakama had been set afire but he could not tell what became of the crew.

A warship is under no obligation to pick up a crew that deliberately destroys its own ship, the sailor said.

The Hawkins had been 34 days at sea and had nothing exciting to report other than the Wakama incident, Sir Henry said in denying reports published here that the cruiser had sunk the German freighter Wolfsburg.

The Wolfsburg sailed from Recife Feb. 3 and no other word about her gamble with the British blockade has been heard.

Freighter Escapes

LaCoruna, the last German freighter to sail from Rio De Janeiro before the Wakama, "had apparently escaped the British cruiser awaiting her offshore," Sir Henry said.

But he added that the vessel, now nine days at sea, might still be intercepted.

The British admiralty has reported 23 German vessels totaling 139,236 tons scutted by their crews to avoid capture up to Jan. 30.

The Wakama was the eighth German merchantman to leave a Brazilian port in an attempt to run the British blockade this year. Nine other Nazi freighters remain anchored in Brazilian ports.

Brothers Jailed In New Mexico Bank Robbery

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 13 (AP)—Two brothers in their early twenties were in jail here today for the $1,660 robbery of the state bank at Espanola, 35 miles north of here, which one of them boasted they had held up because "it got awfully dull being broke."

Herbie Rowse, 22, unemployed carpenter, was captured in Santa Fe soon after the robbery and his bespectacled, innocent appearing brother, Bill, 20, garage employe, was taken in a police trap in front querque the same day.
of a theater in down town Albu-

Police recovered all of the loot and said they held confessions from both brothers, who came here two years ago from Plainview, Texas, where Herbie's wife now is.

On his return here in custody of state officers, Bill was supremely confident. Admitting the robbery, his parting shot to reporters, within hearing of four state police, was:

"I'll come around and tell you all about it when I persuade these fellows to turn me loose."

District Attorney David Carmody said he would file charges of bank robbery against the brothers. The charges carry a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Bill related they had planned the robbery since Friday, two days after he had lost his job in the body shop of a Santa Fe garage:

"I'd been making about $40 a week and it got awfully dull being broke. My brother hadn't had any work for three weeks and owed on his truck. We needed money bad and right now."

The Road To Ruin

Our per capita debt for all branches of government totaled $59.28 in 1913; in 1938 it totaled $432.65. In other words, the worker with the smallest income, who probably delays going to the dentist or hesitates to buy a new pair of shoes because he can't afford it, owes Uncle Sam nearly $500!

Some day a start must be made to pay the public debt. Paying it will be painful—but less painful than not paying it, which is something all of us will eventually find out if we continue to follow the line of least resistance. Those who have subscribed to the belief that we have been getting something for nothing are due for a rude awakening, and the sooner it comes the better off we shall be.

In about nine months, at the present rate of spending, the debt of the Federal government will reach $45,000,000,000. In 1939 alone, the United States spent $3,600,000,000 more than it received is taxes. This is not due to meager tax receipts, but heavy spending. America is taxed to the hilt. Our citizens pay a greater share of total income to government than the citizens of Great Britain, if Britain's present war expenses are excepted. British taxes in 1938 took 21.7 percent of income; in the same period American taxes took 22.4 per cent of income.

The present government fiscal situation requires little comment. We will either economize or go broke.

Gibberish

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States recently published a thorough-going survey of America's electric power needs. At the end, the survey says this: "The long established record of private utilities for being progressive, adjustbale and mobile in the face of changing social and economic conditions, gives American industry the feeling of security in its power supply for tomorrow. Under the American system of private initiative, private industry can meet, most effectively, national emergencies as they arise, whether the need be for steel or munitions or transportation or power."

Keep that in mind next time you hear it argued that it is necessary for the government to spend more billions for power development and distribution. No industry is more eager to go ahead, spend, develop and employ, than power—all that has stood in the way has been political persecution. The whole record of private electric development since the earliest days in this country has been one of aggressive progress, rapid expansion and swiftly dropping rates to the home, farmer and commercial consumer. In spite of all the political gibberish, these facts remain true.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, Feb 13—The American Youth Congress was born in a row, and has been in the center of intermittent rows ever since—most of them over the issue of Communism. Between rows and meetings—which have been congruous on some occasions—it is run by three young men and a girl.

Properly speaking, it isn't a group but a conglomeration of independent organizations—60 or more of them, with 4,000,000-odd members. Practically speaking, four of these are the congress' backbone: the National Student Federation, the American Student Union, the International Student Service and the United Student Peace Committee.

RELIGION STUDENT
HEADS GROUP

Greatly condensed, here's the layout:

The officers:

Jack McMichael, chairman. Born in Georgia, graduated from Emory College in 1937, now enrolled at Union Theological Seminary preparing to be a minister. Worked for the Y.M.C.A. after leaving Emory and spent upward of a year in China.

McMichael is tall, slim and good-looking. His is an unpaid office. He was elected to it last June, and it's his first Youth Congress office.

Joseph Cadden, executive secretary. A New Yorker, graduated from Brown University in 1931; worked for the National Student Federation and for the International Student Service.

His congress job is full-time, and in theory pays $25 a week. Actually, he took in about $800 last year. He ekes out his income by lecturing on the side.

Frances Williams, administrative secretary. Comes from New Jersey, graduated from the New Jersey College for Women in 1935, and went to work for the Foreign Policy Association.

Her job is full-time, too; like Cadden's, it's supposed to pay $25 a week, but really paid about $900 last year.

Abbott Simmon, legislative director. Graduate of Harvard and holder of an M.A. from Columbia. He lives in Washington and acts as the congress's contact man on Capitol Hill. His is not a full-time job and carries no pay.

YOUTH CONGRESS
BORN IN TEMPEST

The History:

In 1934 a meeting was called in New York to organize a youth movement. Moving spirit was Viola Ilma, who did most of the original pushing; the meeting broke up in a row, however, and split into two wings.

One of these—Viola's—dwindled and died. The other became the Youth Congress.

The Congress went ahead, trying to educate both young people and adults to the existence of a "youth problem," stirring up localities to meet specific youth needs, and so on. It won the friendship of Mrs. Roosevelt and the enmity of Martin Dies.

Its current Washington meeting was called purely as a citizenship institute and was participated in by many bodies not members of the congress. It hadn't even started before charges of communistic influence were flying.

The Finances:

Last year the congress took in, and spent, slightly more than $15,000. It raised two-thirds of this from registration fees and collections at its meetings and from the sale of literature.

The rest came in contributions from all sorts of persons, including such diverse folk as Jim Farley and the late Heywood Broun. Biggest gift the Congress ever got was $1000, from the late Robert Marshall of the U. S. Forestry Service.

THE SOIL CONSERVATION CAMOUFLAGE

One of the most effective camouflages which the New Deal has ever used to divert attention from its failure to restore jobs and the fair position of the farmer, is the use of what it calls soil conservation. It has proved to be a most effective red herring. It has diverted the attention of the people from the real cause of their trouble most effectively.

It seems very strange all at once that we should be so perturbed about the depletion and erosion of our soil. It is freely admitted that some 40,000,000 productive acres are not now needed because we are using oil for power rather than horses. It is also strange when we consider that we are so desperately hard up and so much in debt that we now should be willing to spend hundreds of millions on preserving the fertility of the land and making it more fertile when we are at the same time paying farmers to leave their land idle and not produce. The detracting of the public's attention from the mistakes of Hoover and the New Deal by attracting their attention to soil conservation is done so effectively by putting hundreds of thousands of farmers on the government payroll. It reminds one of the statement made by Coolidge, when he said: "I am for economy in government not only because it saves money, but because it saves men." Farmers who are being paid by the government to lead in this soil conservation are attempting to serve two masters. Their judgment is warped. And quite often they even use deception in claiming they are farmers when, in reality, their motive is to keep on the government payroll.

It is doubtful whether this soil conservation will add enough value to the land to reward the labor 5 cents an hour. The reason private individuals have not more generally practiced methods to prevent soil erosion, is simply because it would not add enough value to the land to pay even the lowest kind of wages.

Now the government steps in and spends a dollar on the farmers land to add a dime's worth of value and the farmer who is getting his land improved seems to think that it is all right to have the government make him a present, even if it is depriving other workers of a dollar's worth of comforts of life, in order to add to him 10 cents worth of value.

And the farmers who are accepting this and being for it are digging their own graves. Sooner or later the argument will be raised that the farmer had his land improved at the expense of the government and, therefore, the government has a right to take the land from him. The owner of land should make his own improvements so that the land belongs to him and the government has no claim on it.

It is amazing how successful the Administration has been in diverting the attention of the farmers and the workers from the real causes of their trouble and concentrating their attention now on something that has been before us since the founding of the country. It is about the thinnest camouflage to detract attention that could be made. The amazing part of it is how successful it is being operated. It certainly does not speak very highly for the integrity and reasoning qualities of the farmers who are so easily satisfied.

"WEEPING JONES"

A news report says that Representative Jones of Texas wept on the floor of the House because the House was cutting down subsidy he advocated for the farmer. He contended that they must not desert the home-spun country folk.

Representative Woodrum, Democrat from Virginia, replied that there is a "home-spun philosophy that men are supposed to support the government rather than having the government support the men."

If Representative Jones would really go to the crux of the farm trouble, he would not be trying to subsidize the farmers, but he would be insisting on opening the market for their labor so that their sons and daughters would have an equal right to learn a trade with the sons and daughters of union members and the sons and daughters of employers who can bring pressure to bear on union tyrants to permit their children to have a right to learn to earn a living.

No, "Weeping Jones," the farm problem will never be solved by taking from those who are producing and giving to others. It will only add more and more trouble and your tears will have to get larger and larger because there will be more and more suffering, if your policy prevails.

Purchasing power is not increased by taking from one and giving to the other. It is only reduced. It is reduced because when this is done, the one who receives gives nothing in exchange; while if wealth is exchanged with those who produce, both parties are benefited and the wealth is increased instead of diminished. It is just simple arithmetic. Sooner or later, the voters will realize that these politicians who are weeping are doing that instead of thinking and courageously standing for principles that will eventually make jobs for everyone at a decent wage.

"LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?"
(Daily Oklahoman)

"It has been said by those who figure out such statistics that if the United States were to pay as it goes, out taxes would now be the highest in the world, which makes it rather cold comfort to remind ourselves that taxes in England are now higher than they ostensibly are in the United States.

"True to the old saying, there is one thing beside death that's sure, and that's liberal taxes. Little man (and that means most of us), you'll pay until it hurts.

"You'll pay more, proportionately, than the rich man. The liberal tax-eaters are hungrily sizing you up. Liberal bureaucracy is growing every minute. The liberals are going to get you, even if you do watch out."

EVENING IN LONDON

Around Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13—The best thing that has happened to Bob Taylor in a long time is a mustache.

That isn't an isolated opinion. Mr. Taylor's mustache is attracting almost as much attention in Movietown as Orson Welles' beard. But while the latter patch of scrubbery seems only to accentuate the youth and precocity of Mr. Welles, the short, smart cookie-duster worn by Mr. Taylor imparts a virile dash and maturity to a set of features which up to now have been reminiscent of a well-scrubbed choir boy.

Taylor's 28 years should be enough for a male star, but fans want their romantic heroes to look older, if not actually a little dissolute. Young male theater patrons are less jealous, hence more approving, of the middle-aged, satchel-eyed, toupee-wearing Romeos. Taylor has suffered in the pretty-boy category for three years, and when he bared his torso and slugged his way through "The Crowd Roars" and "Stand Up and Fight," there were customers who snorted that it was no use for him to try to act tough.

POOR ROLES CUT INTO HIS PRESTIGE

The actor's own feeling is that he has been most handicapped by poor roles or poor stories, and sometimes by both. We were talking about his new picture on the set, and he cited his first big year at Metro as an example of pure and extremely good luck. "Magnificent Obsession," "Broadway Melody" and "Small Town Girl" all showed him to excellent advantage. But the stardom gained by such good parts has been jeopardized by the last three flickers in which you've seen him: "Lady of the Tropics," "Lucky Night" and "Remember."

I asked whether he could recognize a good script when he saw one, and he admitted his judgment is about as bad as the average actor's. "At first," said Taylor, "I realized I didn't know anything about this business and gladly took whatever was offered. Then came 'Lucky Night,' and it started me guessing. Pretty soon I started objecting out loud. Sometimes I was right and sometimes wrong. I didn't think 'Stand Up and Fight' or 'Lady of the Tropics' would be any good."

He also was right about "Parnell," to which he originally was assigned. Clark Gable eventually starred in it, and the picture still is cited as Metro's most horrible contribution to Hollywood's list of colossal flops.

HE'S WORRIED ABOUT "NIGHTGOWN" ASSIGNMENT

Taylor isn't bragging about his current job, "Waterloo Bridge," but his studio is counting on the new mustache and the excellent story to bolster his faltering popularity. This is Vivien Leigh's second American picture. In it she's a ballet dancer who falls in love with Taylor while he's waiting in London to be sent to the Western Front in the first World War. He goes, and by error is reported killed. The girl, with heart and moral values shattered, becomes a prostitute. Her lover's unexpected return only heightens the tragedy.

Next picture for Taylor will be "Flight Command," an action-aviation yarn aboard a navy airplane carrier. Sounds fine. But I think he's a little worried about the following assignment—"Quo Vadis," as a Technicolor super-dooper. He said, "I suppose I'll have to run around in a sort of nightgown."

That's right, Mr. Taylor. Worse yet, for you, the early Christians in decadent Rome didn't wear British officer mustaches.

The twelfth Boy Scout law is receiving more attention during Boy Scout week than any other. That law reads: "A Scout is reverent. He is reverent toward God. He is faithful in his religious duties, and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion. "This law is receiving more attention because Boy Scout week is being celebrated on six continents but not in totalitarian countries. The law's wording furnish sufficient reason for the incompatibility of Boy Scouting and totalitarianism . . . and speaking of tolerance is a reminder that the motion picture "The Fighting 69th" was a great argument for tolerance. It showed a Catholic priest administering in the Hebrew language the Jewish equivalent of extreme unction to a Jewish soldier. . . . Portrayal of Father Duffy's courage, bravery, humanitarianism and godliness was outstanding in the film, and it serves as a reminder that it's high time for the movies to produce a film that will show the goodness, kindliness, godliness, and courage of Protestant ministers — of whom nearly every one is a hero. Many times the movies have portrayed Protestant ministers in a comic, sarcastic, role, and really haven't given them the break they deserve, but will get some day, because eventually the movies must discover the preacher. The movies will find that they could make a great picture out of the stuff that makes up the lives of such men as The Rev. C. Gordon Bayless, the Rev. John C. Scott, the Rev. Robert Boshen, the Rev. W. M. Pearce, the Rev. Norris, the Rev Price, and the others . . . and they would also find that if they told the truth, they would have a story, beautiful, bold and thrilling. . . .

The posters and advertisements which used to mark the residences of the "famous specialists" on venereal diseases have almost completely disappeared.

Seldom does one see, in these modern times, the anatomy shows with the wax models that inspired fear and trembling in the young men and women who timorously studied the specimens. No longer is it possible for the come-on man, with a few discrete whispers, to start the boy or girl into the office of the famous quack who frightened the adolescent into a long course of unnecessary treatments.

The campaigns of the newspapers in the United States, the education that has taken place through the efforts of the federal health services, the state health departments, the American Medical association and the American Social Hygiene association have had definite results. Yet, even today, the ignorance which still prevails regarding the so-called social diseases, the shame and the terror of "being found out" make it possible for many careless and unthinking drug clerks and many unprincipled charlatans to thrive on venereal disease quackery.

Recently a study was completed as to the extent of medical charlatanism and unethical practices of druggists in 39 cities. Most druggists can be depended on not to violate the laws or the ethics of their profession by diagnosing either syphilis or gonorrhea from a description of symptoms and by treating these diseases with remedies purveyed over the counter; yet, there are still a few unethical and unprincipled charlatans both in medicine and in the drug field who do not hesitate to disseminate death for a few pennies.

The American Social Hygiene association has compiled a list of 30 nostrums frequently recommended for sale by druggists. The federal government, through the Food and Drug Administration and through the Federal Trade commission has obtained court orders against many of these nostrums but, unfortunately, the manufacturers change the names of the products, move from their old locations, and persist in their quackery.

Representatives of the American Social Hygiene association interviewed 1,156 men as to what they would do in case they had a venereal disease. Of these, 65 per cent at once recommended some remedy which could be purchased in the drug store for self-treatment. Certainly it is a strange type of friendship which causes a man to suggest to a friend such a dangerous procedure.

REPORTS from Secret Operative No. 17, which are very confidential, bear the information that the people of Pampa soon will be the targets for "considerable educational work" in connection with plans to put the city into the municipal power business. . . . No. 17 also reports that immediately after a recent secret meeting of a small group, a still more secret meeting of a smaller group was held to develop a "committee" for the purpose of doing some recommending of some sort.

No. 17 may, or he may not, have the straight dope on this matter—but whatever is going on, the public will no doubt hear about the campaign one of these days. . . . There are two alternatives, he reports. . . . One is to let the thing stand "as is" until after the city election in April. . . . The other is to call a special election on the muny plant issue before the city election. . . . The last report No. 17 had was to the effect that the first course would be pursued. . . . Of course, that may all be changed by now. . . . Your guess is as good as No. 17's.

★ ★ ★

BY educational work is meant, no doubt, a political campaign to "educate" the people to a belief in municipal ownership of the Pampa power plant, or to be still more specific, in a plan to sell the Pampa public the idea of a basic change in our traditional system of private enterprise.

★ ★ ★

Activities of city officials and the secret "committee" would not be so difficult to follow if it were not for the policy which showed its face at a secret meeting a week or so ago when a Pampa News reporter was invited to make himself scarce just before the secret meeting got under way. . . . Then, again—this policy may have been changed by now. . . . Your guess is as good as No. 17's.

★ ★ ★

ACCORDING to No. 17, some of the invited guests at the last secret meeting (that is, the last one that No. 17 has a record of) were of the opinion that somebody bungled the works when the order was issued to bar the reporter from the meeting. . . . That, they opined, was a bit of bad strategy on the part of city hall strategists. . . . So, as No. 17 says, this policy may have been changed by now. . . . And, then again, maybe it hasn't. . . . Your guess as to what city officials have in mind is as good as No. 17's.

All of which adds up to the conclusion that all is quiet along the secret front. . . . Who was it that said, "it is always quietest just before the storm?" . . . And, is that a sign something is about to break? . . . How about it, No. 17?

Roosevelt Not To Run, Says Farley

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—The World-Telegram says that "Postmaster General Farley has told Mr. Roosevelt he is strongly opposed to a third term" and that "in reply he (Farley) has received from the President what he regards as assurance that Mr. Roosevelt will not be a candidate."

The World-Telegram's story continues:

"Mr. Farley's intimates said Mr. Farley agreed to the use of his name (in the Massachusetts primary) only after deciding to take Mr. Roosevelt's word that he had no intention of being a candidate for the third time."

Will O'Daniel Be Candidate For Governor?

AUSTIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—Three reverberating events have set the Austin political mill once more grinding out speculation regarding the 1940 gubernatorial campaign. There had been a lull.

The events are:

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's statement in his Sunday broadcast that he was receiving many letters and petitions urging him to run for a second term;

The announcement of attorney general Gerald Mann that he would not run for governor but would seek re-election to his present office;

The declaration of Lieut. Gov. Stevenson that he would run for the governorship if O'Daniel was not a candidate.

The governor devoted only 200 words or so to the subject of missive received but capitol circles recalled that was the way he started his candidacy in 1938.

A few persons, including an announced gubernatorial candidate, profess to believe O'Daniel will not run again, but opinion unquestionably is overwhelming that he will. Most speculation concerns how he will make the announcement and when.

Eight "reasons" heard as to why O'Daniel will be a candidate are: Tradition; to put over his program; reluctance to quit under fire; the $12,000 a year salary; to retain honors that go with the job; to acquiesce to urgings of supporters; to strengthen friends in appointive positions; to further far-reaching political ambitions (perhaps a seat in the U. S. Senate?)

Reasons Against Running

Six suggested as to why he will not run are: His fame is at its height and he could best capitalize on it by returning to his flour business without delay; if he quit this year, he might remain a political power for years, whereas Texas is inclined to regard most governors, after they have served two terms, as "has beens;" he is a poet at heart and does not care for the problems of government; he has had a stormy administration and does not want to go through the ordeal of another general session of the legislature; his family is tired of the criticism heaped on him and the strain of living in the mansion; others might better advance the program he favors.

Some say that O'Daniel has been encouraged to go after a second term and his chances for success have been increased by Mann's decision to ask another two years as attorney general.

There is no dispute that the attorney general would have polled a big block of votes had he entered the ring.

Bitter anti-O'Danielites, not candidates themselves, plainly are disappointed. Some had been urging him to run for governor.

Why Mann Acted

As to why Mann made his announcement at this time, one story, told by excellent authority, is that the Johnson hearing before the state board of control brought the matter to a head. Persons angered at O'Daniel because of his alleged connection with the investigation of Dr. W. J. Johnson, superintendent of the San Antonio state hospital, greatly increased the pressure on Mann to run against the governor.

There are at least two views concerning Stevenson's statement. One is that he was merely wisecracking with press correspondents; another is that, while giving the subject a humorous turn, he seriously intended to make sure that his name was in the picture in the event O'Daniel did not seek re-election. He says he has no doubt O'Daniel will be a candidate.

"I think he is in Hog Heaven," Steyenson laughed, in a "followup" chat about his original statement. "He likes the job and is enjoying himself thoroughly. There is no doubt in my mind that he is a certain candidate for a second term."

"If you thought he was a certain candidate, why did you say you would run if he did not?" Stevenson was pressed.

"Well," he grinned again, "I didn't want the job of governor to go begging."

Britain To Draft 10,000 Fishermen

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The admiralty announced today it was recruiting 10,000 additional fishermen for naval patrol duty to meet the menace of German minelaying aircraft and magnetic mines.

Since the war started 10,000 fishermen have entered the navy to help fight a "three dimensional war" against submarines and mines, surface raiders and planes which have bombed and machine-gunned fishing boats and lightships.

At the same time, the British royal air force was disclosed to be expanding its fighting squadrons to resist an expected Nazi lightning aerial war against British shipping this spring.

The air force, already with a big airplane construction program in progress, is buying planes—mostly of the heavier type—in the United States and from a nation cautiously described as "at least one other air-skilled neutral," and is training fliers of the empire in Canada.

To balance this development of men and machines, the air force issued a call today for radio experts, said to be wanted especially for the elaborate air defense system, which is coordinated through complicated signaling methods.

Repeated British contentions that their planes are superior to Germany's in quality, if not in numbers, were given support today by a highly-authoritative source, which said the RAF had shot down 50 German planes over the North Sea and coastal areas since the war began and damaged 20 others so that they were "probable losses."

'LITTLE DARLINGS' DUE TO MAKE HIT WITH PAMPANS

Bucks Loss To Cats Improves Pampa Chances

Wee Rascals From Thalia Coming Here

Coach Odus Mitchell's popular, personality team, "the glamor pants" reserves, will take a back seat here Friday and Saturday nights when Thalia's astounding "infants" will do battle against the Harvesters and the reserves.

It will be a case of little David (Thalia) against Goliath, because the Thalia Tigers are not only young but they are not large for their age, and that is stating it mildly -- but are they basketball players! Coach Mitchell was so impressed with them in the Shamrock tournament that he crossed Carey, perennial champions of Thalia's Interscholastic league district, off his schedule and signed the Tigers, who are coached by Clinton R. Meek, formerly of Mobeetie to play two games here.

The little Thalia lads were the darlings of the Shamrock tournament. In the final game, the Harvesters had not the sympathy of one fan—everybody was hoping the little rascals would win just because they were so little. The little tikes were cheered and cheered repeatedly while the dreat, big bruising Harvesters' scoring successes were watched silently and coldly.

The Harvesters themselves finally got to feeling like brutes, and the Pampa boys were almost in tears before the game was over. At any rate, the Harvesters named the Tigers as the most interesting team they have played this year and they begged Coach Mitchell to match a couple of games with them. "Pampa'll go crazy over those boys; they'll fill that gym," Pete Dunaway, captain, urged.

As a result the little rascals will be here Friday and Saturday nights.

The "little darlings" have won 15 games this year, defeating among others, Odell, finalist, in the Wichita Falls district last year; Medicine Mound, winner of the Childress district last year. They hold three victories over Quail, runner-up in the Childress district meet last year. They have mowed down Quanah, Chillicothe, Shamrock and others. The Tigers are also right at the top in the Tri-County basketball league, composed of teams of three counties.

The Tigers have played together ever since they left ward school, and they have developed a "lightning war" system of spot passing that is beautiful to watch, according to Coach Mitchell. He acclaims them as the fastest team he has ever seen, and the best-passing team he has seen this year. He also believes they are one of the prettiest teams to watch that he has ever seen.

Galento Offers To Bet $10,000 He'll Beat Louis

ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 13 (AP)—Tony Galento, who says his eyes "are 100 per cent," offered to bet any one $10,000 today that he'll stop Joe Louis in five rounds this July when they meet for the world's heavyweight boxing championship.

Galento spiked a rumor he was going blind, saying he'd match his eyesight with that of anyone.

At first, the beer barrel poker wanted Louis, his managers or his friends to take the bet, but he changed his mind and opened the offer "to anyone who'll give me the prevailing odds."

"Louis is through, finished," he said. "He couldn't hurt (Arturo) Godoy last Friday night. Godoy's ears and mouth were split after our six-round fight on the Louis-Braddock card in Chicago two summers ago. I wasn't even scratched."

Godoy gained the decision over Galento in that fight, but the rotund barkeep tossed off the loss by saying the referee was "in a fog" at the end of the bout.

Once again Galento boasted he was "going on the wagon."

"I'm gonna cut out drinking," he said. "In fact, I already have for a couple of days. If I wasn't drinking, I woulda beat Louis last June. I'm going out this time with hands high and hit him, but good."

Pampa Cage Teams Divide Games With Canadian Here

Basketball In Panhandle

LUBBOCK, Feb. 13.—With the District 3 Interscholastic league cage championship to be decided in less than two weeks, contenders for the crown to be defended by Lubbock High's veteran-studded Westerner squad settle down to the serious business of picking county champions this week.

Dates for the district tournament are Friday and Saturday, Feb. 23 and 24.

Two quintets, the Westerners and Plainview's Bulldogs, get a free ride to the district; all others must compete in county playoffs, set for this week-end.

Cooper Plays Host

Cooper high gymnasium will be the scene of the Lubbock county playoff. Idalou, defending champion and winner of 30 games while losing three this year, is a top-heavy favorite to repeat for the title. Other entries are Frenship, Shallowater, Slaton, New Deal and Cooper.

Other counties in this district are Hockley, Cochran, Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Crosby, Garza, Terry, Dickens, Lynn, Yoakum and Dawson.

Lockney, Floydada Tops

The Floyd county chase has already been narrowed to two teams, Lockney and Floydada. They meet in a three-game series starting Monday night at Lockney and continuing Tuesday night at Floydada Site of the final game if necessary will be decided by flip of a coin.

Morton and Whiteface will decide the Cochran representative in the district tourney at Whiteface Thursday night. Whiteface won last year.

Lamesa Favored

Lamesa, always a strong threat for the district crown, must face an up-and-coming contender in their own county, Klondike. Klondike had been undefeated until a week ago when Idalou bested them in the Levelland tournament.

Amherst plays host to Lamb county teams, with Littlefield the favorite. The Wildcats have won 23 while losing three this year, piling up 811 points in so doing. Other contenders there will be Springlake, Olton, Spade, Amherst and Sudan, the defending champ.

Abernathy Strong, As Usual

Strong favorite to win the Hale county title on their own court are Abernathy's Antelopes, runners-up to Lubbock in the district meet last year, district champions in '36 and '38. They must beat Hale Center, Petersburg and Cotton Center.

Levelland entertains four strong Hockley teams there, Pettie, Anton, Ropes and Witharral vying with the Lobos for the title. Pettie is defending champion, but Levelland is rated best chance to win the coveted honor.

Meadow Faces Trouble

Meadow, '37 district winner and this year's champion in the fast Levelland invitation, is picked to win over Brownfield, Wellman and Union in the Terry county sawoff. Wellman represented that county in the district last year.

Three strong teams are rated all even in the Crosby tourney: Lorenzo, Ralls and Crosbyton; Lorenzo won last year and reached the semi-finals in the district meet.

Five Teams Tops

In Bailey county, Bula and Baileyboro will fight it out with defending champion Muleshoe. Southland and Post will play for the Gara title which Southland won in 1939.

Entered in the Lynn county tourney are Wilson, Draw, Tahoka and New Home. Dickens county has a large group of entries with Patton Springs assuming the favorites role.

One week from today only 16 teams will be left in the district title chase, out of almost 90 now entered. Observers at present brand Lubbock High, Idalou, Meadow, Abernathy and Littlefield as foremost teams of the sector, favored to win their county titles and advance a long way in the district meet the following week.

Childress, Carey Win

CHILDRESS, Feb. 13.—Turning in two of their best performances of the season, the Childress Bobcats won their way into the finals of the county basketball tournament and earned a berth in the district tournament by beating the Tell Tigers, 30-25, and the Community Center Indians, 38-31.

The Cats, along with the Carey Cardinals, will represent this county in the district affair, which will be held here Feb. 23-24.

Carey went to the finals by whipping Kirkland, the second best team in the tournament, 29-26 Friday night. Despite sensational marksmanship by forward G. W. Howard of Kirkland, the Cardinals took an early lead and held out to win. Howard and Ray Jones of Carey scored 14 points each to win.

CHILDRESS, Feb. 13.—Carey's rangy Cardinals made a convincing claim to supremacy in Childress county basketball circles Saturday night by defeating the Childress Bobcats 46-25 in the finals of the annual county Interscholastic league tournament.

The Cardinals had previously dropped Kirkland, 29-26, in a first-round game, and the Bobcats had defeated Tell, 30-25, and Community Center, 38-31. Both Carey and Childress will represent the county in the District Four league tournament here Feb. 23-24.

AMARILLO, Feb. 13.—Amarillo's rapidly-improving basketball team bounced back from a Friday night defeat at the hands of Pampa, to wallop the Kirkland Eagles in a Saturday night contest, 44-25.

Pampa and Canadian basketball teams divided games here last night, the Pampa Junior high Reapers nosing out the Canadian "B" team 17 to 14, while the Canadian Wildcats beat the Pampa Sophomores 34 to 25.

Canadian fielded a fast, accurate passing team that took the lead in the first quarter and held it despite the sharpshooting of Pat Flanigan, Sophomore center, who scored 11 points.

Campbell, a smooth-working forward, and Briggs, flashy guard, paced the Canadian attack with four field goals each.

The Reapers and Canadian "B" team battled with first one in the lead and then the other until the closing minutes when the Reapers took command. Arthur led the scoring with seven points, followed by Proper with four.

Drables, a guard, looped three field goals for Canadian to take high scoring honors.

The Reapers and Sophomores play conference games with Amarillo here this afternoon.

State Golden Gloves Tourney Opens Thursday

Although Pampa will have no boys in the State Golden Gloves boxing tournament in Fort Worth this week-end, they will be watching closely the battles of five boys who competed in the Pampa tournament last year.

In action Thursday night will be Leroy Davis of Follett who will battle Roy Thompson of Stephenville in a heavyweight attraction. Davis won the heavyweight crown here two years ago but lost in 1939.

On Friday night Bud Yount of Stinnett will meet Harold Lawler of Tyler in the flyweight division. Yount lost the title to Benny Moore here last year.

Also boxing Friday night will be Morris Lamb of Groom, who won the Amarillo middleweight division this year. His opponent will be Doyle Marshall of Wichita Falls.

Boxing will be continued Saturday afternoon and in action will be Benny Moore of Shamrock, now a bantamweight, and he will face John McCollum of Childress.

Still another former Pampa champion, Frankie Bills of Shamrock, will battle Saturday afternoon, in the featherweight bracket, with his opponent being Marshall Hamilton of Fort Worth.

Yount, Davis, Moore and Bills are listed as being from Follett.

Vosmick Sold To Daffiness Boys

CLEVELAND, Feb. 13 (AP)—As far as Joe Vosmik is concerned, the Brooklyn Dodgers are definitely pennant contenders.

The Boston Red Sox outfielder, who makes his winter home here, was sold to the National leaguers yesterday for $25,000 after being waived out of the junior circuit.

"Larry MacPhail, Brooklyn president, said several months ago that all the Dodgers needed to make them a pennant contender in 1940 was a hard-hitting outfielder," Vosmik commented. "Well, they've got that outfielder. There's nothing wrong with my batting eye and I expect to have a big season."

Hurlers May 'Rare' Back, Take A Step

By GAYLE TALBOT

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—Relief has been a long time a-coming for the baseball pitcher, and he has taken some hard knocks in the past 20 years, but the elders of the game at last are getting in a mood to help him stand off the batters.

At its meeting here yesterday the rules committee voted with only one dissenter to allow all of the pitchers in the country to rear back and take another complete step as they deliver the ball. That is the first really important move toward helping the hurler that has been made since the rule-makers began abolishing freak deliveries back in 1919.

Opinion was widely divided, even among the members of the committee, whether the new rule would effect any great and immediate change. Several were doubtful that the present top pitchers would be able to employ the new freedom to advantage. But all agreed that it was a move toward harnessing the hitter, or at least toward giving the pitcher an even break.

The new rule, adopted in the course of a long session during which the rule makers fussed and Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis fidgeted in the presiding chair, will permit the pitcher almost complete freedom with one leg. There's only one thing he can't do now, and that is to step sidewise.

Whereas the harassed hurler previously has had to stand with both brogans on the rubber, he now (in the case of a righthander) can stretch his left leg far out behind him during his wind-up and take a long, complete stride as he swings through to deliver the ball.

Eddie Collins, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, who voted against the rule, growled that it would produce even more "cheating" by pitchers than they have been getting away with.

President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees said it should give any pitcher who learns the new way a little more speed, but he feared it might result in lack of control in some cases.

The solons rejected the demand of Quinn that "something" be done about the intentional pass. The others declared that the moundsman should retain his right to pass any batter he didn't want to pitch to. Quinn wanted the man so passed to get two bases.

Ryder Golfers Play Texas Best Amateurs At Dallas

DALLAS, Feb. 13 (AP)—The winter golf trail led to Dallas today as the Ryder cup team met Texas' best amateurs in a 36-hole charity match.

Byron Nelson, National Open who defeated Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., for the Texas open title at San Antonio yesterday, paired with Harold (Jug) McSpaden against Harry Todd, western amateur champion, and Long John Barnum of Edinburg, a consistent tournament winner.

The professionals, whose Ryder cup competition with England's outstanding pros was called off because of the war, receive a $1500 guarantee and several cash awards. Their opponents get medals.

McSpadden blistered the Dallay Country club course, scene of the matches, with a 68, four under par in practice.

Scotch foursomes were in order this morning and regular four-ball competition will start at 2 p. m. CST. The Nassau scoring systems will be used.

Here's how they paired (professionals listed first:)

Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa., and Harold McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., vs Harry Todd, Dallas, and John Barnum, Edinburg.

Ralph Guldahl, Madison, N. J., and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., vs Don Schumacher and O'Hara Watts, both of Dallas.

Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., and Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., vs David Goldman and Reynolds Smith, both of Dallas.

Dick Metz, Lake Forest, Ill., and Walter Hagen, Detroit, vs Jack Munger, Dallas, and Robert Riege, Houston.

The professionals were prohibitive favorites to sweep the matches.

Nelson beat Hogan in an 18-hole playoff by a stroke for the Texas open crown. He shot a 70, one under par, his first round of golf out of the 60's in two years of the Texas open.

They had finished the regular 72 holes with 271 each, thirteen strokes under par.

The National Open champion collected $1500 and Hogan got $750.

Solon Would End Army-Navy Tilts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Charging that athletic rivalries between the Army and Navy led eventually to "waste and duplication" in the nation's defense program Rep. Shafer (R-Mich) suggested today that the annual Army-Navy football game and all other sports contests between West Point and Annapolis be eliminated.

"There are numerous examples of lack of cooperation between the two departments (war and navy) and a competitive rather than a cooperateive attitude appears to exist," Shafer said in a statement.

Shafer, a member of the House military committee, advocated creation of a department of national defense to coordinate the activities of the two defense services.

Seabiscuit, Kayak Top List In $10,000 San Carlos Feature

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13 (AP)—Charles S. Howard's twin threats in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, Seabiscuit and Kayak II, topped a list of 18 eligibles today for Saturday's $10,000 San Carlos, seven-furlong feature at Santa Anita track.

Valdina Farms, Texas-bred Valdina Myth ran off with the $5,000 added Santa Catalina Nursery stakes yesterday, trotting across a length and one-ahead of Mrs. C. D. Harper's Strong Arm. Foxcatcher Farm's Hover was third.

The event was limited to two-year-olds and was at three furlongs. Valdina Myth paid $9.20, $3.60 and $3.40. Strong Arm $5.30 and $5.20 and Hover $11.40.

White Deer To Be Site Of Game Tonight

The lineups tonight:

Bucks	Pos.	Pampa
Hawkins	f	Bearden
Stalls	f	S. Cox
Potter	c	Terrell
Russell	g	Dunaway
Noel	g	Carlisle
B. Team	Pos.	Glamor Pants
Crumpacker	f	Tom Cox
Hinkley	f	Enloe
Hourigan	c	Frashier
Tomlin	g	Mounts
Leonard	g	D. Mitchell

TIME OF FIRST GAME—7 o'clock.

PLACE—White Deer Gym.

AT STAKE—Favorite's seat in District Tournament.

If it were not for White Deer's tendency to be off one night and on the next, the Harvesters would be favorites to beat the Bucks tonight at White Deer.

But the Pampans were not taking seriously Panhandle's defeat of White Deer last week-end at Panhandle. The Panthers won by a single point.

The Harveseters have trimmed Panhandle three times this season, although in the last game, played at Panhandle, the margin of victory was about a half-dozen points.

So the Panhandle-Buck game makes the Harvesters several points better than the Bucks, but local fans are bearing in mind that White Deer may have been playing as they did against Spearman and Canyon, other two teams which have trounced the Bucks.

The Bucks have already forgotten their conference loss at Panhandle, and they are determined to be at their best tonight when they clash with Coach Odus Mitchell's Harvesters who will be seeking revenge for the early-season defeat handed them by the Bucks.

White Deer plans to represent Carson county in the district tournament here next week-end, but the Bucks are aware that they will have to whip Panhandle to do it.

Coach Mitchell will take his full squad with him because there will be two games, the first one starting at 7 o'clock. Opponents in that tilt will be the "glamor pants" and the White Deer B team which lost the previous game to the Pampa reserves.

A capacity crowd is expected to attend.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Chitter chatter: There'll be more good news about than Francis Schmidt can count when the Ohio Staters get going next fall. . . . His radio job will cause Charlie Grimm, ex-Cub boss, to miss his first training camp in 24 years.

One-Minute Interview

Dizzy Dean: "No, I ain't mad at nobody. . . . I ain't ever mad at nobody."

Tattle tales: Plenty of whispering that Mike Jacobs may run into interference from a rival fight mob before the Messrs. Conn and Lesnevich tee off at Miami, Feb. 28. . . . Taisto Maki has yet to make a track start in this country, but already he's responsible for $846.32 in the coffers of the Finnish relief fund through contributions, etc.

Sports cocktail: Ty Cobb has brought a home on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe and gone in for skiing in a big way. . . . When Fenske beats Cunningham the Akron Beacon-Journal prints it under the "old news department" head. . . . Fifteen years ago Jimmy Conzelman (who just lost out as coach at Washington U.) bought the Detroit pro football franchise for $500. Two weeks ago it sold for $225,000.

Timing

Jack Blackburn (Joe Louis' trainer) certainly picked a fine time to reply to Gene Tunney's magazine piece on the mythical Dempsey-Louis bout. . . . In the same magazine (Look), Blackburn says. "No sir! Dempsey couldn't have knocked out Louis in two and a half minutes or two and a half years."

Gov. Phillips To Continue War On Dam

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 13 (AP)—Oklahoma's red-haired overnor, irked by a supreme court decision, bored into law books today for new strategy in his battle against the Federal Government over construction of the $54,000,000 Denison dam.

"Firing on Fort Sumner didn't end the Civil War, you know," growled Gov. Leon C. Phillips.

The cigar chewing chief executive went to the U S Supreme court with an allegation that 100,000 acres of Oklahoma land would be inundated and that the government had invaded state's rights

The Hydro-Electric flood control project would dam Red river between Durant, Okla, and Denison, Tex

The high tribunal, in a 4-4 decision yesterday, refused Oklahoma permission to enjoin secretary Woodring from proceeding with the project.

The justice department contended the project was "a valid exercise of the powers granted Congress to provide for the general welfare and to regulate interstate commerce"

"I don't have any more intention of quitting now than I did when I started," said Phillips "They are not going to cover up our roads down there and not pay for it It's not conclusive when four men say we haven't a right to be heard in court All we wanted was to get into court and ask that the question be passed on"

Congress, he said, had done nothing toward reimbursing the state for inundated lands

"It should have been thinking about that before the dam construction law was passed

"They can't say to the citizens of Oklahoma 'we take your property and you be docile and maybe you'll get an appropriation from some congress in 10 years to pay for it' That doesn't add up in my book"

Wisconsin Forms FDR And Farley Delegate Slate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Formation of a Roosevelt-Farley delegate slate in Wisconsin strengthened the belief of many politicians today that the chief executive and the postmaster general are in acord on the democratic presidential campaign.

One senator in close touch with Farley told reporters the cabinet member and national democratic chairman was "resolved to do one of two things—nominate himself or Mr. Roosevelt."

The Wisconsin democratic state convention, meeting last night, declared that the President should be drafted for a third term. Another resolution expressed the hope Farley "may continue in public life in the interest of the people of the nation."

The convention adopted a slogan of "officially endorsed Roosevelt-Farley delegates" for its slate in the April 2 primary. National committeeman Charles E. Broughton said, however, that the mention of Farley did not mean he was endorsed as an alternate presidential choice or as a vice presidential candidate.

Farley has given his consent to entering a delegate slate pledged to him in the Massachusetts presidential primary, but has made no other direct indication that he is a candidate for office.

Close friends of vice president Garner, himself a presidential candidate, expressed the belief that Farley was ready to turn over any delegates he might win to Mr. Roosevelt if the latter decides to run.

The Garner supporters voiced disappointment that Farley, in his Massachusetts declaration, did not say he would be a candidate even if the President seeks another term. Garner, in fact, is the only democrat who has made such a statement.

Judge White Able To Attend Meeting

For the first time in two weeks County Judge Sherman White was able to be at the court house yesterday. He attended the regular meeting of the county commissioners for a two-hour period.

Judge White did not remain after the meeting in his office but immediately returned to his home. He is recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

Only business transacted by the commissioners at their meeting yesterday afternoon was the routine shifting of county funds. Transfers were: from road and bridge to road and bridge 4, to be repaid not later than April 6, 1940, $2,400; from road and bridge 2 to road and bridge 4, to be repaid not later than April 6, 1940, $4,500; from general fund to court house and jail fund, to be repaid not later than March 30 of this year, $1,000; amending of court house and jail fund, $283.73.

Two Cases Remanded By Court Of Appeals

AMARILLO, Feb. 13 (AP)—Proceedings in the Court of Civil Appeals for the seventh supreme judicial district of Texas, at Amarillo, today included:

Motion overruled: Texas Employers Insurance Association vs. Henry A. McDougal, to issue mandate without payment of costs.

Reversed and remanded: Farmers Mutual Royalty Syndicate, Inc., et al., vs. W. F. Isaacks, from Hall county; M. Dewey Stone vs. A. M. Dickerson, et ux., from Potter county.

Texas Joins Other States In Lincoln Birthday Anniversary

By ERNEST G. FISHER
Associated Press Staff

Texas, once viewed as the graveyard of Abraham Lincoln's political ambitions, joined the nation yesterday in observance of the 131st anniversary of the emancipator's birth.

Lincoln was born Feb. 12, 1809, at Hodgensville, Ky., and was assassinated at Washington, April 14, 1865. In addition to his birthday, Feb. 12 is another eventful date in his career. It was on that date, in 1861, that Lincoln left his law office in Springfield, Ill., for the last time. It was then that he told his law partner, William H. Herndon not to remove their shingle, "Lincoln and Herndon," because "if I live, I'm coming back some time and then we'll go right on practicing as if nothing had happened."

That was, of course, after the slavery issue had made Lincoln although a minority president, the man of the hour. Those fateful words, "If I live" were uttered by the president-elect a decade after his friends had become reconciled to the idea that Lincoln was destined for political oblivion. Champion of the underdog, he frequently espoused the most unpopular causes or attacked the most popular dogma.

In a day when nationalism was rife, he urged free immigration and enfranchisement of immigrants. He bowed to England in the Mason-Slidell episode when discretion perhaps was the better part of valor. He favored woman suffrage in a day when women were supposed to be seen, not heard. He spoke out for temperance when the escutcheon of a gentleman was ability to carry his whiskey well. Lincoln's opposition to the institution of slavery, said to have been fired when he saw a slave mart in New Orleans, remained unyielding while public opinion on the issue ebbed and flowed for some 40 years.

But the first time Lincoln became a political "has-been," in the eyes of his contemporaries, was in connection with the Republic of Texas. With the nationalistic spirit rampant, his opposition to the Mexican War, which, of course, was destined to have an effect on the extension of slavery, was most unpopular. Lincoln had been admitted to the bar in 1836, the year Texas declared her independence. In the same year that Gen. Zachary Taylor marched to the Rio Grande, 1846, Lincoln went to Congress.

The immediate pretext for an invasion of what the southern republic considered Mexican territory was violence on this side of the Rio Grande. President James K. Polk, perhaps supported by the American theory that the Louisiana purchase extended to the Rio Grande, told the Congress that Mexico had "shed American blood on American soil."

(Read James K. Polk's diary for a fine picture of "100 per cent Americanism," Model of 1845-49.)

The young congressman from Illinois, along with other Whigs, wanted the know just where this American blood was shed. Lincoln introduced the 'spot" resolutins.

"Mark the spot with an X, Mr. President, where the American blood was shed," Lincoln asked Polk, in effect.

Actually, Lincoln's speech was stronger than that. If the president failed to explain, Lincoln said, "Then I shall be fully convinced of what I more than suspect already—that he is deeply conscious of being in the wrong; that he feels the blood of this war, like the blood of Abel, is crying to Heaven against him."

Lincoln intimated that the bloodshed was that of Mexican refugees.

But his was a voice crying in the wilderness. However, the Ashmun amendment, which carried 82-81, described the Mexican war as "unnecessarily and unconstitutionally begun by the president of the United States."

Lincoln was "on the spot" politically. Back home in Illinois his attack on Polk was described as "base, dastardly and treasonable." He retired from Congress in 1849, just another politician, relegated, all his enemies hoped and some of his friends thought, to oblivion.

Even his law partner, Herndon, wrote in later year, "I saw that Lincoln would ruin himself about the Mexican War, and his opposition to it, and so, being his friend and not seeing the question as he did, I tried to prevent Lincoln's destruction. I wrote to him on the subject again and again and tried to induce him to silence, if nothing else; but his sense of justice and his courage made him speak, utter his thoughts, as to the war with Mexico."

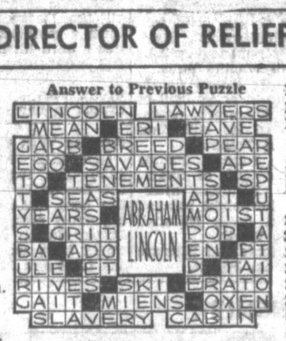

Lincoln at that time opposed the abolition doctrine as something which would aggravate the situation, and later supported Gen. Taylor, a slave-holder, for the presidency. But in his opposition to the Mexican War Lincoln gave no quarter. Even in his eulogy after the death of Taylor in 1850, Lincoln said that Taylor's invasion of Mexico was under orders.

Olin Culberson Announces For R. R. Commission

A copy of one of the 50,000 letters sent out by Olin Culberson of Austin, candidate for railroad commissioner, has been received in Pampa by Henry C. Coffee, 310 North Ward street. In the letter, Mr. Culberson seeks the support of voters in this section of the state.

Regarding his experience, Mr. Culberson says that for over three years he has had the responsibility of setting up and administering the state-wide machinery for the supervision and proration of oil, and worked with practically every mayor and city council in an effort to get fair gas rates for the public.

He claims that as head of the gas utilities division of the commission, his investigations of gas rates and the resultant orders totaled a saving of more than $500,000 a year to the consumers. Orders covering another half-million dollars savings a year are still in the courts, where so far every order has been upheld, according to Mr. Culberson.

Car License Plates Being Issued Here

By the end of the week the exact total of poll tax receipts issued from the office of Tax Assessor Collector F. E. Leech is expected to be known, as employes complete the recording of the receipts.

The weekly and monthly reports being due at this time and the routine work of the office are the reasons that the total has not yet been determined.

A part of this routine work has been the issuance of automobile license plates. To date a dozen have been issued. License plates are to be affixed to motor vehicles beginning March 1, with April 1 as the deadline for securing new licenses.

Monday, Mr. Leech received a request from James R. Record, managing editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram for information on the total number of poll taxes paid here, to be used in a state-wide tabulation being made by the Fort Worth newspaper.

GOP Speakers Laud Lincoln, Assail Demos

(By The Associated Press)

Republican leaders rallied their party for the presidential campaign last night with Lincoln day appeals to encourage private enterprise and keep the American government free from dictatorship.

While former president Hoover was declaring that the United States must abandon a "national drift toward statism," active and potential presidential candidates were criticizing the New Deal and forecasting a republican victory in November.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), speaking at Grand Rapids, Mich., described Abraham Lincoln as "our first coalition president." He said that Lincoln's reelection in 1864 by "all like-thinkers, regardless of party affiliations," set the pattern for 1940.

Thomas E. Dewey of New York said at Portland Ore., that the new deal had failed to recognize a "constant erosion of capital." American development is lagging, he asserted, "because of the nationwide undercurrent of distrust and fear of the shifting of policies of the admiuistration."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a Greensboro, N. C., audience that continuation of the new deal would mean a "modern, streamlined totalitarian dictatorship." The nation, he declared, faces a fundamental decision just as it did in 1860.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), another presidential candidate, said at Oklahoma City that Lincoln would want for present-day Americans "freedom from economic dependence or domination from the government as well as from private groups."

Addressing a three-state rally in New York, republican chairman John Hamilton said:

"The people of America know that when Mr. Roosevelt steps from the White House next January, he will leave to his republican successor a country in as critical a condition as Buchanan left to Lincoln.

THE CAPTAIN'S DAUGHTER

BY HELEN WORDEN

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Mike goes back to the Molly. He hopes to find some way to ease Dan's grief. He meets Tommy Ryan and they burst in on Bat together. Bat throws Tommy out when the trucker declares Marie should marry him. The barge captain turns on Mike. Donovan tells him the affair is not finished yet.

CHAPTER XX

KATIE DONOVAN rang the front doorbell furiously. Where was Ling? Where was everybody? Here she had arrived ahead of time to surprise the family and none of them were here. She fished in her purse for a key, but couldn't find it. While she was still rummaging, Ling opened the door.

"I've been ringing 10 minutes," she exclaimed. "You and Henry," nodding to the chauffeur, "bring in my bags."

As a matter of fact she had been at the door less than three minutes when Ling opened it, but he made allowances. He had learned to take Mrs. Donovan philosophically.

"Your telegram came, Messah Donovan out," he explained. "His office hear from the Captain. They have Henry meet you."

"Where's my son?" Mrs. Donovan demanded, taking off her gloves and casting a critical eye around the entrance hall as if suspecting that half the furniture might have been spirited away during her absence.

"Messah Dan, he upstairs," answered Ling laconically. "He resting."

Ling didn't add that Dan had been out all night and that when he did return at half-past four he still had on his dinner clothes. Nor did he mention Dan's picture in the evening newspaper, on the table beneath Mrs. Donovan's purse.

"Poor boy." Mrs. Donovan's voice was tender. "He wears himself out." She picked up her purse and the paper and, starting toward the elevator, glanced absent-mindedly at the headlines.

"Carry my things up to my room," she began, still looking at the headlines, "and tell Susette to unpack—" She stopped. "Good heavens, what's this! Dan Donovan keeps lovelorn vigil for beautiful model! Oh-h—"

She flopped down on a chair. "Call Dan! Call Susette. I'm going to faint." Ling scampered off, returning a moment later with a glass of whisky and a wet towel.

"Let me see the paper again," murmured Mrs. Donovan, weakly.

"Better drink first," cautioned Ling.

In his excitement, he had poured Katie Donovan a whole tumbler of whisky. Ordinarily, she didn't take more than one cocktail or liqueur because it always went to her head. But she gulped half the glass of whisky down, as she read in detail the story about Dan, and the rest of the drink when she flung the paper to the floor.

"That's bad, that's bad," she kept repeating indistinctly, as the liquor began to take effect. "Dan keeps vigil. What vigil?"

* * *

BY the time Dan and the maid got there, Katie was drunk.

"Mother!" Dan took one look at her. "You're as tight as a tick." He turned angrily to Ling. "What in thunder happened?"

"She read piece 'bout you in paper. I have her drink. She took it—two swallows," Ling singsonged.

Mrs. Donovan shook her finger at Dan. "Don' keep vigil, my boy, don' keep vigil." She swayed uncertainly on the chair. "Les' sing that."

Dan held his aching head in his hands. What were the Donovans coming to? No matter which way he looked at it, the fault was his. Susette pressed a cold cloth against Katie's forehead.

"Get a cup of black coffee," she hissed to Ling, "strong."

"And a quart of tomato juice," added Dan. He glanced at his own reflection in a mirror, a disheveled figure in his blue silk robe, hair rumpled, dabs of court plaster spotting his face. "Well, we can't let her stay here." He eyed his mother. She was singing, if you could call it that.

"Watch it," he cried. "She's going out." He caught her as she swayed, then sagged, a lump of lead in his arms.

"You take her feet," he directed Susette. "I'll manage her head and shoulders. If we can get her to the elevator—"

They were almost in front of the elevator when Mike walked in.

"What in the name of the saints?" he exclaimed at sight of his wife, supported by Dan and Susette.

Katie opened her eyes. "Hello, Mike, me darlint. Whoopee!"

Mike stared incredulously. "Why, Katie Donovan," he said reproachfully. "You're as drunk as a lord."

"And it's all my fault, Dad." Dan's tone was hopeless.

Mike ran across to help Dan. On the way he picked up the evening paper from the floor, absent-mindedly stuffing it in his pocket. "We'll get her to bed," he told Dan sharply, "then I'll hear the story."

But he didn't follow his own advice.

"When did she get back?" he bellowed as he and Dan and Susette struggled into the elevator with Katie.

"I don't know," said Dan. "Ling came up like a crazy man babbling that Mother was having hysterics in the hall. I dashed down and so did Susette. We found her drunk."

* * *

ONCE they'd got her on the bed, Mike said, "Now we'll leave her to you, Susette. Undress her as quietly as possible. The best thing in the world for her is sleep." He started toward the door, Dan with him.

"What was that," he inquired curiously, "about this being all your fault?"

The two turned down the hall to the study.

"I guess it was my fault, Dad." Dan flopped into a chair. "Mother saw a picture of me in that newspaper you've got in your pocket now. That must have started her."

Mike still had his overcoat on. He reached for the paper and slid the coat off.

"H'm," he said. "So you've been keepin' waterfront vigils I see and in your Tuxedo too. I don't wonder yer mother gulped a glass o' whisky."

He lit a cigar and paced the floor. "I can't have a boy of mine makin' a ninny out of himself," he said gruffly. "Your mother evidently doesn't think much of it either." He looked at him sharply. "What you goin' to do, break her heart? She has her mind set on your marryin' another girl."

"Gee, Dad, I don't blame you for anything you do or say. I've got you into such a mess."

* * *

THE phone rang. Mike could never let a phone ring if he was within reach of it. He always beat the servants to it, no matter how they struggled, at Mrs. Donovan's insistent directions, to get there first.

"Hello," he boomed. "Well, Mrs. Martin!" He lowered his voice, "and how are you this fine day? What's that, will Mrs. Donovan be back in time for the party tomorrow night?" He looked helplessly at Dan.

"Yis, sir, Mrs. Martin," he stuttered. "Sure she will. What's that, Dan is to bring Lynda to the Plaza first for dinner? The boy'll be there!"

He put the receiver down carefully. "Now will the saints tell me what have I done?"

Dan got up. There was despair in his voice. "Don't worry, Dad. I'll not disgrace you any more."

Supreme Court Rules In Favor Of Seamen

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Supreme Court sustained today a labor board order directing the Waterman Steamship corporation of Mobile, Ala., to offer reemployment, with back pay, to a group of seamen the board contended were discharged after changing their membership from an AFL to CIO union.

Justice Black delivered the opinion that reversed a ruling in favor of the company by the fifth federal circuit court. No dissent was announced.

After reviewing the evidence, justice Black said "there can be no doubt of the substantial support for the board's finding that the crews (and two other men) all lost their jobs because of CIO affiliation and activities."

Black said that in the labor relations act Congress provided that "the findings of the board, as to the facts, if supported by evidence, shall be conclusive."

Youth Meeting Hisses Stand Of G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (AP)—Hisses swept across house galleries occupied by delegates to the American Youth congress today when Rep. Lambertson (R.-Kas.) said he thought the Republican national chairman was right in spurning a part in the youth meeting.

Representative Rayburn (D.-Tex.), acting as speaker, stopped debate to say firmly:

"This is one place we have order."

Rayburn added that the galleries would be cleared if there was further demonstration.

Lambertson then told the house that he approved National Chairman John Hamilton's refusal to send a representative to the Youth congress, which adjourned last night.

"The English and French were derided," Lambertson said, "but never Joe Stalin."

While some delegates were in the galleries, the congress' assembly of 100-odd leaders authorized political cooperation with organized labor.

In response to an invitation by John L. Lewis for the congress to affiliate or make a working agreement with labor's Non-Partisan league, the assembly authorized a committee to negotiate with all such groups and "to bring back concrete proposals for action.

The assembly also voted:

1. To press for a senate committee hearing March 15 on the $500,000,000-a-year American youth act and have squads throughout the country circulate petitions for the act.

2. To sponsor local committee to watch for civil liberties violations and observe the activities of the department of justice in that field, to demand closed debate on the anti-lynching bill in the senate, to support a bill to outlaw poll taxes in federal elections, to guard against anti-semitism and to keep an eye on attempts to revive certain World war emergency legislation.

Yep, Sugar You Eat Causes Tooth Decay

CHICAGO, Feb. 13 (AP)—It's the sugar you eat that causes teeth to decay.

That's the conclusion reached after 10 years of study by Dr. Leonarrd S. Fosdick of the Northwestern University dental school.

Sugar taken into the mouth produces an acid which, with bacteria normally present, causes tooth decay, he reported to the midwinter meeting of the Chicago Dental society.

"The only method known at the present time to control dental decay, which has good scientific evidence to support it, is to avoid the intake of sugar into the mouth," he said.

Some persons, Dr. Fosdick said, suffer little or no tooth decay because they had saliva with a higher acid neutralizing power, a higher degree of supersaturation of calcium phosphate, a larger carbon dioxide combining power, a larger flow, and a greatly diminished bacillus acidolphilus count.

Edison Boy Questions Of 1929 Released

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Now you may read for yourself the questions that were put to 49 boys in the summer of 1929 to determine who was "America's brightest boy" and the winner of the Thomas A. Edison four-year, all-expense scholarship at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In disclosing the questionnaire to the New York Times the Edison family also released the answers of five of the 49 boys. The names were withheld.

"When do you think a lie permissible?" was one question.

"Whenever a lie hurts no one (under any conditions) but is necessary for appeasing a sufferer," was one reply.

In one question asking the boys to name three men, not living and outside the field of religion, who they thought particularly deserved their respect and admiration, all five selected Abraham Lincoln as one of their three choices.

None named George Washington. Two selected Michael Faraday, the scientist, as one of their choices. Woodrow Wilson, Steinmetz, Mahan, Galileo, Columbus, Pasteur and Newton received one vote each.

The questions were prepared by a board of examiners consisting of Edison himself, Henry Ford, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the late George Eastman, Dr. Lewis Perry, headmaster of Phillips-Exeter Academy, and the late Dr. Samuel W. Stratton, then president of M. I. T.

Edison ruled, however, that the questions be kept secret for a decade.

The winner of the contest was Wilbur B. Huston of Seattle, Wash., who was graduated from M. I. T. with honors, spent four years in the Edison laboratories at West Orange, N. J., and then resigned to become a worker in the Oxford group. His grade on all four divisions was 92 plus out of a possible 100.

Another question which brought an almost uniform response asked which of eight moral and physical values the boy would sacrifice for the sake of being successful. Four underlined "comfort" rather than "happiness, reputation, pride, honor, health, money or love."

One selected "money."

In the general information section of the examination, all five boys were reasonably well informed. All knew that Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin, and that James Watt constructed the first practical steam engine; that Stevenson wrote "Treasure Island" and that a mammoth was a prehistoric animal resembling an elephant.

They also knew what a meteor was, and the uses of a galvanometer, vernier, oscillograph, pantograph, micrometer and pyremeter; and that the physiological phenomenon on which the success of motion pictures was dependent was that the eye retained the image for a moment after the picture left the screen.

One boy, however, thought a tourniquet was "probably a musical instrument." Another thought Jenny Lind, the Swedish singer, was a nurse. All made mistakes, either of omission or commission, when asked to name the principal cities on the Atlantic coast. Two failed to identify Admiral Farragut.

All five relegated the automobile to a secondary place in our transportation system for long distance hauling.

Kaiser Wilhelm, during his reign, invariably "sat out," before an empty plate, those banquets he attended, and never ate in public.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Despite quiet strength in assorted low-priced specialties, stocks generally were unable to keep on the right foot in today's market.

Fractional advances were fairly well distributed in the forenoon, but volume dwindled on the attempt recovery. With buying notably selective in the latter part of the session, early gains were wiped out in many cases and prices were irregular at the close. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

Signs, here and there, of a slackening of the business recession, combined with bright sales and earnings statements buoyed individual stocks. Speculative contingents, though, could get little inspiration from war news or national political maneuverings.

Softening commodities, among other things, tended to cloud market sentiment. Bonds turned up in spots, especially Latin American loans. Foreign securities markets were trendless.

Let Congress Govern Trade, Justices Say

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Three Supreme Court justices advocated today that the courts leave to Congress the question of "the constantly increasing barriers to trade among the states."

The trio—Justices Black, Frankfurter and Douglas—dissented from a majority decision enjoining Arkansas from imposing a tax on gasoline (in excess of 20 gallons) carried in the fuel tanks of interstate buses if the gasoline were for use in other states.

Saying that Congress, "sole constitutional legislative repository of power over that commerce, has enacted no regulation prohibiting Arkansas from levying a tax," the dissenting justices added:

"Judicial control of national commerce — unlike legislative regulations — must from inherent limitations of the judicial process treat the subject by the hit and miss method of deciding single local controversies upon evidence and information limited by the narrow rules of litigation.

"Spasmodic and unrelated instances of litigation cannot afford an adequate basis for the creation of integrated national rules which alone can afford that full protection for interstate commerce intended by the constitution.

"We would, therefore, leave the questions raised by the Arkansas tax for consideration of Congress in a nation-wide survey of the constantly increasing barriers to trade among the states.

"Unconfined by 'the narrow scope of judicial proceedings' Congress alone can, in the exercise of its plenary constitutional control over interstate commerce, not only consider whether such a tax as now under scrutiny with the best interests of our national economy, but can also on the basis of full exploration of the many aspects of a complicated problem devise a national policy fair alike to the states and our union.

"Diverse and interacting state laws may well have created avoidable hardships. But the remedy, if any is called for, we think is within the ample reach of Congress."

Justice McReynolds delivered the majority opinion. He said the tax would be permissible "if, considering all the circumstances" it "reasonably can be regarded as proper compensation for using the roads.

"But," he added, "the facts disclosed are incompatible with that view. A fair charge could have no relationship to such gaosline."

New Method Of Oil Prospecting Used

NEW YORK, Feb 13 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, Jr, and a group of West Coast associates announced today a new method of prospecting for oil.

A pint of earth, dug from within a few feet of the surface, gives them direct signs of oil fields that may be buried 10,000 feet below.

This is done with the mass spectograph, a recent scientific instrument which outdoes the tricks of magicians and which never before has been put to commercial use.

The report was made to the American institute of mining and matallurgical engineers jointly by Hoover, Jr., as president of the United Geophysical Co., of Pasadena, Calif., and Harold Washburn, research director.

For several years, petroleum geologists have known tiny bits of gas seep slowly to the surface over oil fields, regardless of whether they have been tapped.

But a pint of earth, over a field, will yield not more than a pin-head of gas.

This pin-head, furthermore, is likely to contain 20,000 times more gas from rotting vegetation than from the richest oil that may be burried below. Even chemistry cannot analyze the golden residue in such a tiny volume.

Snake Venom May Relieve Cancer Pain

VENICE, Fla., Feb. 13. (AP) — Two physicians reported today a combination of venoms from two poisonous southern snakes has been found effective in relieving intense pain from cancer and arthritis and stopping spasms of epilepsy.

Cases showing beneficial results from injections of minute quantities of the killing poisons into humans were described in papers prepared for presentation today at geons assembly.

Dr. Eugene Maier, laboratory director for the Florida Medical Center here, reported "promising results with a mixture of venoms from the rare coral snake and the common cotton mouth water moccasin.

Dr. Maier told of a cancer victim who had reached the point where narcotics no longer were effective in stopping pain. After a series of injections of a venom preparation, the patient was able to go as long as ten days without pain and without drug relief of any kind, he said.

A Texas man, who suffered from epilepsy for 20 years, had his violent spasms stopped by injections of venom, Maier asserted.

The coral snakes poison is just as deadly as the venom of the cobra which has been used in recent years as a substitute for narcotics in relief of pain.

Venoms of the cobra and coral snake attack the nervous system primarily, while the moccasin's poison acts equally on the nervous system and the blood system.

Dr. Maier said he had found that the two types of action in combination are more effective than either alone.

Alum is said to have been discovered in Roccha, Syria, in 1300.
