House Votes To Adjourn June 5 Noon

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 31.—The House of Representatives today voted 75 to 55, to end the general session of the legislature at noon, June 5.

The vote resulted from a compromise between a group that favored final adjournment on grounds they need extra time to consider remaining legislation, including a conference report on a controversial rural school aid appropriation bill.

A third House group had favored a long recess with the legislature in the fall or winter.

Now Goes To Senate

The House concurrent resolution for sine die adjournment June 5 now goes to the Senate which has indicated it will accept it. The Senate was in overnight adjournment.

The resolution as introduced and signed by 72 members ordered June 2 adjournment but midway of a second round of debate on the subject sponsors agreed to accept an amendment by Rep. Julian P. Greer of Elkhart for June 5 adjournment.

June 5 will be the 148th day of the general session which began Jan. 9.

Most of the top bills and resolutions of the session had been processed or were in conference committees for adjustment of differences between House and Senate. Scores of other measures, many of them local or otherwise limited in application, remained on House and Senate calendars where probably they will die. This is not unusual at the end of a general session.

Welfare Spending

Besides consideration of the rural aid report, another factor which has worked against immediate adjournment was a question of the legality of submission of a constitutional amendment raising the ceiling on state spending for aid to the aged, needy blind and dependent children to $35,000,000.

The attorney general has been asked for an opinion on whether the proposed amendment, intended for submission Aug. 25 has met legal requirements of advance publication throughout the state. Certain members who opposed immediate adjournment said they were awaiting the opinion.

College Fund Division

The House devoted most of its day to adjournment debate but took time to revive, and then finally pass a Senate resolution submitting a constitutional amendment permitting all state-supported colleges to

British Send Troops Into Levant After Ultimatum To French; U. S. Cracks Down

De Gaulle Sternly Told To Silence His Guns; Reports Say Firing Halts

By ALEX SINGLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Friday, June 1—Britain ordered her troops in the Middle East yesterday to halt the explosive French-Syrian fighting in the Levant, sternly telling France to silence her guns, and a dispatch from Damascus said British tanks had drawn up on roads leading to the Syrian capital.

London morning papers quoted the French-controlled Levant radio at Beyrouth as saying that the French government had ordered Gen. Humbolt, its commander-in-chief in Syria and Lebanon, to cease firing. There was no confirmation of this from any official source.

Associated Press correspondent Frank O'Brien, in a dispatch from Damascus last night, said the Syrian capital was tensely quiet after an almost continuous barrage from French 75's and mortars lasting through Wednesday night and until 4 p. m. Thursday. (See story below).

This lull began, however, two hours before the British ultimatum was broadcast and it was not known whether French troops had withdrawn to their barracks as demanded by Prime Minister Churchill.

In a firmly-worded note Prime Minister Churchill notified Gen. Charles de Gaulle that the British commander-in-chief in the Mid-East had been ordered to "intervene" to prevent further bloodshed and to protect Allied communication lines for the Japanese war.

He called upon the French leader "immediately" to order French troops in Syria to cease fire and withdraw to their barracks "in order to avoid a collision between British and French forces."

"Once the firing has ceased and order has been restored, we shall be prepared to begin tripartite discussions here in London," Churchill said, leaving the obvi-

French Cabinet Meets Hastily Sans Decision And Deep Resentment Seen

PARIS, May 31—A hasty meeting called by Gen. Charles de Gaulle to consider Britain's stern announcement of her intervention in the Syrian dispute broke up tonight apparently without a decision on how France was to respond.

De Gaule left his office for home at 9:30 p. m. and no statement by the government was expected tonight.

A responsible authority said that French troops in Syria definitely have not yet been ordered to withdraw to their barracks although the text of Prime Minister Churchill's note was issued here as a communique and probably was communicated to French commanders.

(In London BBC heard a broadcast from Beyrouth, Lebanon, saying that the British commander-in-chief in the Middle East had approached the commander-in-chief of the French forces and adding that "the French government previously had transmitted instructions to comply with British wishes."

(However, BBC noted that reception of the broadcast was poor and said that it was not clear whether this meant that the French government has decided to comply with Churchill's request for French troops to withdraw.)

De Gaulle, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and other ministers appeared perfectly calm as they left the cabinet building tonight. An authoritative source said there was no disposition to take hasty action.

Deepest resentment was being voiced in unofficial circles, nevertheless. The British action was called power politics and the sensitive French temperament was rowelled by Churchill's announcement that "tripartite" talks would be held when calm is restored. The French regarded this as something other than an invitation.

General U. S. Attack Routs Whipped Nips

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Friday, June 1—U. S. 10th Army divisions, killing more than 1,000 Japanese daily, crumpled the last formidable core of enemy defenses across southern Okinawa yesterday in a general assault which gained up to 1,200 yards and virtually pinched off Shuri.

The fall of Naha on the west coast and Yonabaru on the east had left only Shuri in the center and, for all practical purposes, the Japanese around Shuri are through.

JAPS ATTACKS REPULSED

MANILA, Friday, June 1—Japanese forces have attempted widespread counterattacks against Filipino guerrillas and American infantrymen on Luzon and Mindanao as well as against Australians on New Guinea, but a headquarters spokesman said today they were "almost uniformly unsuccessful."

While the actions were small in scale, with the Japanese attacking in company strength or less, they were persistent and ferocious.

First Marine division patrols advancing yesterday through the wrecked city of Shuri were within sight of westbound forward elements of the 96th Infantry division.

Thus one encirclement virtually has been completed around any enemy troops within Shuri's boundaries and another is forming more than a mile to the south.

Today's fleet communique, disclosing these successes, listed 61,519 Japanese dead in the campaign up to May 30.

Maj. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, jr., 10th Army commander, estimated the original enemy garrison on Okinawa at about 85,000. Whether the Japanese succeeded in withdrawing the about 25,000 they have left was not clear. It is likely the enemy is split up into a rearguard force holding in the northeast portion of Shuri and other forces which have pulled into hill positions to the south.

With three-fourths of the original enemy garrison either killed or captured, it appeared certain that the Japanese will be unable to make a prolonged stand anywhere in the remaining area of southern Okinawa.

Corridor Closing

The operations below Shuri were fast closing a corridor of possible escape for any Nipponese pulling out of that sector. There were indications some of the enemy there were trying to join other elements to organize a new defense line.

The new total enemy dead reported was an increase in 13 days of 13,416. In addition today's communique raised the total of enemy prisoners from 1,038 reported May 10 to 3,353 through May 30.

Tokyo radio said today that Japanese losses on Okinawa were piling up and the situation was worsening.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' communique, in a highly optimistic view of the overall situation, said the once stoutly defended Naha-Shuri-Yonabaru defense line "has now been outflanked and the entire Shuri position is being pinched out."

Here's The Situation

Looking from west to east across that defense line, this is the current situation as officially reported today:

On the west end, the Sixth Marine division which captured Naha has advanced southeast as one arm of a pincers around Shuri, reached the Kokuba river and by nightfall Thursday held a line south of Kobakura village.

Next to the Sixth, the First division has driven into Shuri city where the American flag floats over the 16th century castle of the Ryukyus kings.

Near the center of the line, the 77th Infantry division advanced 200 to 800 yards yesterday. By nightfall, those Yanks were on the northeast boundaries of Shuri.

Infantry Pushes Out

Abreast of the 77th, the 96th infantry division pushed out of rugged terrain southwest of Conical hill. They advanced 800 to 1,200 yards and captured strong

B-29s Pour Fire On Nips' Second City

3,200 Tons Of Incendiaries Rain On Highly Industrialized Great Center

By ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Friday, June 1—At least 450 Superfortresses, escorted by about 150 Mustang fighters based on Iwo Jima, poured 3,200 tons of fire bombs on Osaka, Japan's second largest city, in a daylight raid today.

It was the second daylight incendiary strike by fighter-escorted B-29s in three days. It came 72 hours after an equally strong force dropped an equivalent load of fire bombs on Yokohama, the enemy's fifth greatest city.

Pounded March 14

Osaka was hit once before by B-29 incendiaries, on March 14, when 300 planes struck in the early morning darkness. More than 2,000 tons of bombs on that raid destroyed or damaged 8.1 square miles of the city.

Osaka, located centrally on Japan's main island of Honshu, has a population of 3,252,340 and ranks among the three most densely populated cities in Japan, with an average of 45,000 persons per square mile.

Today's target area was a section bordering Osaka and south of the Shin Yodo river—probably the city's most highly industrialized district.

Important among the objectives today was the Dural sheet metal and aircraft propeller plant. Near this are shipyards, two large electrical equipment plants, machinery factories, textile mills and several power stations.

The main Osaka railway station, with an extensive rail network and freight yards, stands near the Shin Yodo river. Destruction there would break the heart of the city's communications.

Principal Targets

The target area included Osaka's harbor facilities—the customs house and municipal harbor department besides important docks and warehouses.

B-29s have unloaded nearly 15,000 tons of bombs in four raids on Honshu island within nine days. A total of more than 1,000 Superforts dropped 8,500 tons of bombs on Tokyo Thursday and Saturday of last week. Yokohama was hit by 450 bombers dropping 3,200 tons last Tuesday.

Here's Tokyo's Version

Tokyo radio's version of the Osaka strike was that "some 300" B-29s dealt the blow and were engaged by Japanese interceptors as well as opposed by anti-aircraft fire.

These "counterattacked the enemy with good results," said the broadcast.

"Damage caused on the ground remains to be made known later pending a checkup."

The swing back to Osaka as a B-29 target followed the announcement by Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, commanding the 21st Bomber command, that his sky giants have wiped out all the targets they have set out to destroy in Tokyo. Photographs show that nearly half of Tokyo has been laid in ruins.

OPA Opens Fight On Sugar Racket

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—The OPA tonight launched a drastic program designed to end what it termed a home canning "sugar racket developing in some parts of the country."

Price Administrator Chester Bowles announced a four-point plan which he said was aimed at "some chiselers (who) are stooping to falsifying their applications in an effort to get sugar they know they won't use in canning."

The tightening of sugar distribution followed a boost in the ration point value of canned tomatoes and spinach, and a lowering of the point price of tomato juice and vegetable juice combinations. (See story on page 2).

New Sugar Program

This is the new sugar program:

1. Everyone applying for home canning sugar must hereafter sign this pledge:

"I agree that I will use the sugar applied for here for home canning purposes only.

"If, for any reason, I should not use it for canning I will return the equivalent in sugar stamps to my local price and rationing board.

"I further agree that I will furnish a report to my local board of the number of quarts of food canned with this sugar and the amount of sugar actually used in canning this food.

"I understand that my report will become a part of my record and will be considered in further issuances of home canning and other sugar rations to me."

Suspended In Some Areas

2. OPA local boards in areas where fruit and vegetable crops are not now available for home canning will suspend issuance of ration stamps for this purpose until the canning season starts in

Damascus Tense, But Quiet; French Halt Fire And British Troops Move Into Area

By FRANK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

DAMASCUS, May 31. — This Syrian capital was lying tense but at least momentarily quiet tonight under a column of smoke rising from the shattered center of the town where all during the night Wednesday and through to 4 p. m. today the French had poured a barrage of mortar fire.

The latest estimates of the dead and wounded were given by the director general of public health, Dr. Ahmet Kadry, who said that during brief truces his ambulances had picked up 400 dead and 500 wounded.

Many Feared Dead

It was believed hundreds or possibly thousands more were lying dead or wounded in the narrow streets of the old section of town.

It had been impossible to get to that area because of constant French fire there.

American nationals were removed from the capital by American Charge D'Affaires Joseph C. Satterthwaite during a truce today. They were taken to a British military camp on the Baghdad road, along with British nationals.

The announcement by Prime Minister Churchill that British troops had been ordered to intervene in the strife was not heard by Damascenes because the French cut off electric current in the center of the town just as the radio started to broadcast the statement.

The British announcement was heard elsewhere at 6 p. m.

The road to the Lebanese capital of Beyrouth, 75 mile away, was busy with British motor transport during the day, perhaps moving to a rendezvous from which to carry out Churchill's instructions to the British commander-in-chief in the Middle East, Sir Bernard Paget.

I traveled this highway twice during the day and when returning across the mountains after

City Commission Approves Budget And Sets Tax Rate Same As 1944

Following approval of the 1945-46 budget for the City of Lubbock, members of the City commission Thursday afternoon set the 1945 tax rate at 85 cents on the hundred dollars assessed valuation, the same rate assessed against the 1944 tax rolls.

The ordinance setting the rate allocated 60 cents of the total to the interest and sinking fund, three cents less than the present allocation. The additional three cents was added to the general fund account, making it 20 cents for the coming fiscal year. Five cents was allocated for the Board of City Development, same as at present.

Over Million And Half

The 1945-46 budget called for total expenditures of $1,530,945 and total funds available of $1,685,870.18. No citizen appearing at the budget hearing to protest, it was approved as previously considered by the commission with but one minor change. This change called for an increase of $25 a month in the salary for A. C. Hamilton, city recreation director, due to the fact that management of the city swimming pool had been placed under his supervision.

The new budget represents an increase of nearly 30 per cent in expenditures over the 1944-45 budget. This increase was occasioned by the approval of a new city electric plant and engines costing approximately $375,000 and the expansion of the police department budget by approximately 60 per cent.

The increased police budget of $154,935 provides for the inauguration of an eight-hour shift for the department and the employment of nearly twice the number of officers.

Setting of the tax rate highlighted a four-hour session of the commission the most of which

City Launches Bond Campaign

Opening the Seventh War Loan drive in Lubbock, salesmen took application for $117,385.95 in business areas of the city Thursday, preliminary reports to the chamber of commerce up to 6 p. m. showed.

No team has completed their work.

The workers received money for the bonds and will submit the funds and applications to banks, where purchasers will call for the bonds.

Response Praised

Appreciation for the manner in which both workers and buyers responded to opening of the drive in the city was expressed by E. K. Hufstedler, jr., city drive chairman.

Reminder was given that the campaign will continue through June. All sales through the month will be counted toward the Lubbock county quota of $4,540,000. Bonds may be purchased at several places.

Salesmen are not canvassing the residential district, but business places only, and persons not solicited by salesmen have been requested to go to one of the places selling bonds to do their part in putting the county over the top in its quota, the largest for the county so far in a war loan drive.

Thursday's canvassing opened after a kick-off meeting in Hilton

Over-35 Discharges Declined By Army

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—The Army today turned the cold shoulder on proposals to discharge soldiers above the age of 35 and those with special skills needed in civilian life.

Acting Secretary of War Patterson said the soldiers now designated for release—those 40 or over and those eligible under the point system—are all that the Army can safely spare at this time.

On the basis of present plans, the Army expects to release approximately 2,000,000 in the next 12 months including 1,300,000 under the point system. With new inductees, this will leave a force of 6,968,000 for the war against Japan.

SCHWELLENBACH OKEHED

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—Lewis B. Schwellenbach, former senator and jurist, was confirmed by the Senate today as secretary of labor.

Gillette Quits Property Post

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—Guy M. Gillette laid a sudden resignation as surplus property administrator on President Truman's desk today, posing a new top-level personnel problem for the President.

Meanwhile, Mr. Truman moved ahead as a home front peacemaker with dispatch of an affectionate letter to former Vice President John N. Garner and receipt of a cordial note from Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee.

Wickard Case Delayed

On Capitol Hill, the Senate Agriculture committee postponed action on Mr. Truman's nomination of Claude R. Wickard as Rural Electrification administrator, as a result of a number of protests.

However, the Senate confirmed without dissent the nomination of Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington state as secretary of labor.

The agriculture committee unanimously approved the appointment of Rep. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) to succeed Wickard as secretary of agriculture.

Gillette, long known to be dissatisfied with his surplus property post, did not wait for the White House to announce his resignation.

Reporters Advised

Leaving a brief conference with the President, Gillette, former Democratic senator from Iowa, disclosed to White House reporters that he was quitting, but said the President did not act on his resignation immediately.

He took the job Jan. 3, when his Senate term ended, he said, against his will and with the understanding that the assignment would be only temporary.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told his morning news conference of the dispatch of the letter to Garner, vice president for two terms under former President Roosevelt.

Subs Play Big Role In Pacific Advances

(EDITOR'S NOTE: For three and a half years the "silent service" — America's submarines—have been waging a little-publicized war of their own in the Pacific. Their exploits have been buried in the Navy's secret files. At last, part of their achievements can be told. This is the first of a series of stories.)

By HAMILTON FARON
Associated Press Staff Writer

A WESTERN PACIFIC SUBMARINE BASE, May 31.—Neutralization of Japan's formidable naval base at Truk, permitting the last year's swift advances toward Tokyo, is one of the feats performed by American submarines during three and a half years of silent warfare in the great reaches of the Pacific.

Only now has the Navy begun to relax its ban on news of the undersea fleet, which Admiral King once declared "determined the course of the war" in this area.

Slipping in and out of the area surrounding the forbidding base which then appeared certain to delay American advances in the Pacific, submarines sank many ships. Some of the submarines failed to return.

But the biggest contribution of the underwater fleet to neutralization of the areas which then could be bypassed was through the ripping of supply lines.

Constantly hitting at convoys, men of the submarines destroyed ship after ship of the Nipponese merchant fleet until Japanese supply efforts virtually were abandoned.

Lifting of the veil of secrecy heretofore surrounding the "silent

Doolittle's Eighth Air Force Adds B-29s To Striking Power Against Pacific Targets

By EDWARD H. HIGGS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 31. — Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who struck the first air blow against Tokyo, will have B-29 Super-forts as well as smaller planes in his 8th Air force when he hurls it against the Japanese, it was announced today.

Doolittle, whose carrier-based attack on the Nipponese capital three years ago thrilled the nation, now has more than 3,000 Flying Fortresses, Liberators and fighter planes in the great force which played such a part in toppling Germany.

Announced By Arnold

Gen. H. H. Arnold, Army Air force chief, made known that Superforts would be added to this array. Arnold is head of the 20th (Superfort) Air force and it is understood that as such he will retain overall direction of the gian planes which will operate under Doolittle.

The addition of these craft to Doolittle's 8th Air force means that three B-29 outfits will deal blows to the Japanese. Already operating are the 20th and 21st Bomber commands.

Secretary of War Patterson told his news conferen today that Japan will be hit far harder from the air than Germany ever was.

Commenting that the recent shake-up in the Japanese naval command was another reflection of the setbacks Japan has suffered, he added:

Newcomers Warned

"American power will see to it that no newcomer will do better than his predecessor."

It was disclosed meanwhile that Superfortresses based in the Marianas dumped 58,000 tons of bombs on Japanese targets in the three months ended May 30, with the bulk of the explosives and incendiaries falling on Tokyo, Nagoya, Osaka and Kobe.

The 20th Air force said war factories in six critical industries in the four cities had been hit by the Marianas-based 20th Bomber command which started a heavy incendiary campaign on March 10.

In addition, the B-29s also have shattered dock yards and seven transportation centers around the Japanese capital. During the three months, the 20th Air force reported on the basis of photographs, an estimated 51.3 square miles of Tokyo; 11.3 square miles of Nagoya; 3 square miles of Kobe and 8.1 square miles of Osaka have been destroyed, a total of 73.7 square miles.

Six Are Killed By Jap Balloon

LAKEVIEW, Ore., May 31 (AP) The curiosity of an 11-year-old girl who spied a Japanese balloon caused the death of six persons —first victims of an enemy attack on the United States mainland in World War II.

Disclosure of the tragic explosion which killed a woman and five children on May 5 was made by Undersecretary of War Patterson as a warning to the public not to approach strange objects in the forests.

On Mountain Stroll

The six victims, strolling through the mountains of Lake county near here on a fishing expedition headed by a clergyman and his wife, were killed by a high explosive bomb which was part of the equipment of a fallen Japanese balloon.

The tragedy, the cause of which was kept a strict military secret until today, set off a wave of fear among southern Oregon loggers and campers who heard word of mouth rumors.

Patterson said it was the only fatalities caused by hundreds of bomb-carrying balloons the Japanese have dispatched toward the United States in recent months.

Buchenwald Now Is Scene Of Happiness

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BUCHENWALD, Germany, May 31—Once a place of terror and torture, its name a byword for Nazi depravity, Buchenwald now is a scene of laughter and happiness.

In less than two months, American management has converted the dreaded concentration camp into a health shelter for displaced persons from 28 nations, including 5,000 Russians, 3,000 Poles, 2,500 anti-Nazi Germans, 1,500 Czechs and approximately 9,000 of other nationalities.

Every day long convoys of motor trucks depart from Buchenwald loaded with refugees bound for their native lands.

By order of the Allied Military government, nearby Weimar has furnished 200 able-bodied women daily for a turn of duty at cleaning up Buchenwald's filthy barracks. These now are clean and orderly and food is dispensed in healthy surroundings.

The public address system, over which brutal elite guard officers once barked their orders, now bring cheering music to the ear of the camp occupants, occasionally interrupted by announcement — now in Russian, now in Polish or some other language—that another group should get ready to depart for home.

From many of the barracks hang homemade banners bearing inscriptions in various languages. The Polish section, for instance, displays a banner reading "The Poles welcome their deliveries," and in the Czechoslovak section hangs another inscribed "the de-

Account Of Use Of Eisenhower Car As Ruse To Trap Enemy Confirmed

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, May 31.—Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith said in an official statement today that the counter-intelligence corps had used Gen. Eisenhower's automobile in an effort to trap enemy agents believed assigned to attempt to assassinate the supreme commander during the Ardennes offensive.

Eisenhower's chief of staff said the ruse was intended to effect the capture of a group of Germans headed by Lt. Col. Otto Skorzeny, Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo aide. It was not used, he said, with the idea of providing Eisenhower a double for personal safety.

Report Previously Denied

The story of this deception was carried exclusively last week by the Associated Press. It named Lt. Col. Baldwin M. Smith of Chicago as the officer who rode in the supreme commander's car on trips between St. Germain and Versailles.

Subsequently high ranking officers of Eisenhower's staff denied the account and told news agencies it was a "cock and bull" story.

Smith said in today's statement that obviously there had been some confusion on the part of those who were called upon for information and that he felt it was "largely the fault of my staff."

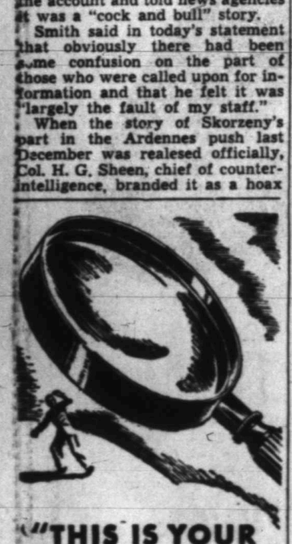

When the story of Skorzeny's part in the Ardennes push last December was realesed officially, Col. H. G. Sheen, chief of counter-intelligence, branded it as a hoax perpetrated within the German army to boost the morale of the Germans and cause confusion among the Allies. He said at the time Skorzeny's men really never intended to make an attempt on Eisenhower's life. This was based upon reports that Skorzeny told his captors the whole story was cooked up among the Germans while they trained for sabotage assignments.

Many Disbelieved Skorzeny

Smith said there were some who did not agree with Sheen, adding that many other officers believed that Skorzeny's present story is a natural lie to save his own skin, and that the original information was authentic."

His statement said security authorities arrested or shot more than 100 Germans definitely proved to have been associated with Skorzeny's organization, all within three or four days, and that then the matter was considered well in hand.

Because of the absence of definite proof and the feeling that there had been a great deal of speculation on "what was, after all, a minor incident," instructions were issued to the staff to say no more about it, Smith said.

Army Tabs Many Men In Single Room

ARMY HEADQUATERS, Pacific Area, Fort Shafter, T. H., May 31. (AP)—Here in a single room, 50 by 130 feet, the Army keeps track of thousands of men scattered over 20,000,000 square miles, from Hawaii to Okinawa.

It's all done by an electro-mechanical brain, known as the machine records unit, which can read, write, add, subtract and do an amazing number of calculations and turn up the right answer in practically no time at all.

If, in the morning the commanding general wants the number of men in the Tenth Army, less those on detached service, wounded or sick, he gets the answer by noon, as of the present day. Or, perhaps he is curious about the number of second lieutenants of Indian ancestry in a certain regiment. MRU can tell him that and file the names alphabetically, by age or Army serial number.

Col. Norman A. Donges of Uvalde, Tex., is in charge of MRU for the entire Pacific ocean area and another Texan, Capt. Walter O. Anderson of Weslaco operates the headquarters record room.

Winner Of Medal To Receive Gift

PARIS, May 31. (AP)—The people of Paris are going to give Tech. Sgt. Henry Schauer a gift in a ceremony here Saturday night.

The sergeant, whose home is at Scobey, Mont., almost on the Canadian border, is the first medal of honor winner stationed at Camp Maxey here. He was selected to receive the gift because of that medal and as a symbol of all infantrymen in the Army today.

What the gift will be is a secret—in order to surprise Schauer. The Paris honor gift committee has been receiving contributions toward it. Mayor John Barnes will present it.

Schauer was awarded his decoration for exploits on the Anzio beachhead where he killed 17 Germans in 17 hours. He is 26, single, and has been in the Army four years.

CENSORSHIP LIFTED

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 31. (AP)—Brazilian censorship was lifted today on incoming and outgoing press dispatches, cable and radio companies were informed officially. Censorship existed during the European war and in occasional periods before 1940.

Sgt. Don Bolch Hopes To Return Home Soon

S/Sgt. Don H. Bolch wrote his family from a hospital in England that he is doing fine and hopes to be home soon. He was liberated from Stalag Luft 1 in Germany May 3. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Bolch of O'Donnell.

Sgt. Bolch, bombardier with the 15th Air force in Italy, was shot down over Germany Sept. 12, 1944. His camp was liberated by the Russian army and it was four days before they reached American troops. His family thought that he was being hospitalized for the effects of frozen fet, since he had told them that his feet froze after he was taken prisoner.

His wife, Mrs. Pauleta Bolch and their three-year-old son Harry D., live in O'Donnell. The letter referred to followed a telegram from him received two weeks ago.

The Air Medal awarded her son, was presented to Mrs. Harry D. Bolch in a presentation ceremony at Lubbock Army Air field last Saturday.

Some Changes Made In Points

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—Point values on canned tomatoes and spinach will be higher beginning Sunday. However, the ration cost of tomato juice and vegetable juice combinations will be trimmed.

The OPA announced this today along with only minor changes in meat and other red point food values for the new ration period, which runs from Sunday through June 30.

The blue point revisions boost the value on No. 2 cans of tomatoes to 40 points, up 10, while a can of spinach of the same size will require 20 instead of 10 points. Spinach in No. 2½ cans also will be up 10 points to 30.

Some For Single Cans

Ten points will buy two cans of tomato juice or vegetable juice combinations in containers through size 2 1-2. But the current value of 10 points per can will continue for single purchases. In 46-ounce containers both kinds of juice will have a value of 10 points, down from 20.

The reductions for juice were made because supplies have been moving too slowly. On the other hand, tomatoes and spinach had been moving "at a faster rate than the supply will permit," OPA said.

The changes in meat values, disclosed last night, are confined to upward adjustments for a few fat cuts of pork.

Fat backs and plate bacon go from five to eight points a pound, while dry-cured and aged bacon sides up a point to nine. Regular bacon remains at eight cents a pound.

The only other red-point change is a reduction from eight to six points a pound for soft cheese, such as limburger, Camembert and Liderkrranz.

Lt. Brock Stymied By Expected Part In Native Ceremony

Nothing he'd found in international law before he resigned as Lubbock county attorney and went to war seemed to fit when Lt. Ralph Brock, USNR, found himself before the chieftains and old men not long ago at a native ceremonial on one of the islands of the Ellice group.

Lt. Brock was detailed to go ashore with a British officer stationed there. They pulled their pow-pow (outrigger canoe hollowed out of a palm trunk) against the outgoing tide, but the chop filled the shell and rolled it over. Brock and the Britisher had to swim for it, but made it to a coral reef and waded ashore.

BROCK

Siva-siva rites were in progress. To the pulsing of tom-toms native girls glided in a sinuous dance across the "big fale," ceramonial hut, rhymically crossing their arms over their breasts and clapping their hands.

Presence Demanded

Lt. Brock and the Britisher were informed their presence was demanded. They retired to a "little fale" and stripped themselves of their soaked uniforms. Lt. Brock, about 5 feet 7, drew on a pair of shorts belonging to the Britisher, who was 6 feet 4 inches tall, and slipped into a shirt. His heavy Marine shoes completed his "formal" attire.

At the siva-siva, before the taro roots and the roast pig and the concoction of brains and blood baked in a hollowed-out coconut shell were served, there was formality on formality. "Talofa," (hello) Lt. Brock and the Britisher said, all the day down through the ranks shaking hands with each "talofa," through the chieftains and sub-chieftains and the old men of the tribe.

Dancer Glides Over

One of the native girls glided over to where Lt. Brock sat with a chieftain, danced briefly and made a motion he was to accompany her.

"Unh-unh," Lt. Brock said, shaking his head. But she insisted. Sensing that dancing with the girl was expected of him, the officer began "trying to figure out what I was supposed to do." When the girl would retreat from him "I'd just retreat too. When she approached, well, I'd approach too."

The Marine shoes, already soaked, got so heavy and the dance lasted so long that Lt. Brock inelegantly pulled off his shoes, but the natives sagely nodded their heads and indicated their pleasure.

To Rejoin Ship Soon

"It seemed to go over all right," Lt. Brock said here this week when on leave visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary Brock of 2013 Ave. M. He will leave today to rejoin his ship on the west coast.

Lt. Brock "this time" has been overseas approximately 12 months, in the Southwest Pacific. He is stationed aboard an ocean-going tugboat.

Eleven 4-H club boys are the winners of sweet sudan seed.

The five pounds that each boy will receive is sufficient to plant five acres.

Allies Are Said To Have Right In Iran

LONDON, May 31. (AP)—A British foreign office spokesman implied today that Allied troops had a right to remain in Iran until six months after the defeat of Japan, but said there was no reason why they could not be withdrawn sooner as requested by the Iran government.

The treaty of Jan. 29, 1942, under which British troops were sent into Iran, provided for them to remain there until six months after the cessation of hostilities with Germany and her associates or future associates, the spokesman said.

This was interpreted to mean after Japan is beaten.

Recommendation To Be Given To Regents

AUSTIN, May 31. (AP)—Dr. T. S. Painter, acting president of the University of Texas, said today new faculty recommendations on academic freedom and tenure will be submitted to the board of regents at a meeting in Galveston Friday and Saturday.

Painter said he would report to the board on the legislative appropriation bill for the university's operation during the next biennium, but that no "major items" were due for consideration by the regents.

Marines On Okinawa Ask For Job Of Taking Shuri, Then Do It Quickly

By AL DOPKING
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION, Okinawa, May 31.—The Marines asked for the job of penetrating ancient Shuri castle fortress, key bastion of the Japanese defense on Okinawa, and ever their commanding general was "astonished" when they made it through more than a mile of mud sometimes knee deep.

Company "A" of the Fifth regiment, led by Capt. Julius D. Dusenberry of Charlotte, N. C., reached the castle, now a rubble heap, in two hours and 45 minutes of wading through mire yesterday morning.

Called A Miracle

"Its a miracle how they ever got up there," said Maj. Gen. Pedro Del Valle, commander of the first division. "They passed the ruins of Shuri barracks on the east side without much fighting and asked permission to continue toward the castle. Of course I gave it to them."

When Dusenberry reached the castle grounds he raised the stars and bars ensign of the southern Confederacy, just as he and his company had done at Peleliu island in the Palaus last September.

The Leathernecks had left all their armor and supply vehicles behind in Asato when they struck out across the mud-covered draws which had stood between them and the castle for the last two weeks.

They jumped off from a hill called "Beehive" because it is honeycombed with scores of Japanese caves. It had been captured by the First battalion, of which Company "A" was a part, commanded by Lt. Col. Charles W. Shelburne of Kerrville, Texas. They saw only a few dead Nipponese upon reaching the castle, which was lightly defended.

Only Few Japs There

S/Sgt. Walter Wood, Marine combat correspondent formerly with the Washington, D. C., Post, said that when the company reached the castle there were only a few dead Japanese and less than 50 to defend the bastion. All were killed.

General Del Valle said he believed there was only a shell of defense left at Shuri castle, 16th century home of Ryukyu kings, once visited by Commodore Matthew C. Perry, U. S. N., who opened Japan to western trade in 1854.

"The Japs were able to take most of their military gear with them," Del Valle said. "It's obvious to me that a withdrawal had taken place. These men we met were those who had volunteered to stay behind and die for their emperor."

Treaty Discussions Planned In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 31. (U.P.) — The Mexican academy of jurisprudence said today it had invited members of the Senate foreign affairs committee to attend sessions at which the U. S.-Mexico water treaty would be fully discussed.

Senator Alfonzo Flores M. said the committee would attend and take the legal experts' opinion into consideration when the treaty comes up for Senate debate in September.

News Briefs

Word has been received here that funeral services were held recently in Brownfield for S2/c Raymond Carl Head, who died in Mare Island hospital in Los Angeles. Prior to entering the Navy in February, 1944, he was employed by Furr Food Stores here. He was wounded when the hospital ship on which he had served for two months was bombed by a Jap plane and died after he arrived at Mare Island hospital. He is survived by his wife, Climmie Fae, and one child Raymond Carl; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Head; two brothers, Thurman B. and Edgar S.; and a sister, Mary Reda, of Sweetwater.

Funeral services for Henry C. McKenzie, 69, resident of O'Donnell for 30 years who died Wednesday night at his home, were conducted at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the O'Donnell First Methodist church, Plains Funeral home announced. Burial was in O'Donnell cemetery.

Mrs. R. E. Thompson, who with her husand and West Texas relatives went to Vancouver, Wash., about the time of the war's outbreak and into the Washington shipbuilding community, soon expects to walk normally — something she has not done since a 1919 mishap at Stephenville. She cranked a model-T car and it ran her down, crushed her left leg against a tree. Because she has family plan protection, a form of insurance, she was taken to Northern Permanente Foundation hospital at Vancouver, and surgery by orthopedic specialists did a bone transplant that united the affected bones. The surgery cost her nothing. She is making excellent progress, said a son C. G. Thompson of 1707 Ave. J in Lubbock. J. C. and Robert Thompson, other sons, also live here. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will return to their residence at 1606 Ave. R after the war. A picture of Mrs. Thompson was carried in one of the west coast papers.

Reports On Unusual Currency Deals Due

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—The treasury department has ordered all financial institutions in the country to file reports of unusual currency transactions.

Secretary Morgenthau announced the action today at a news conference. He said it was part of the drive to stamp out tax evasion.

The order applies not only to banks, building and loan associations and brokers, but also to thousands of "currency exchanges" that have grown up in large cities.

It was the first time these institutions have been included in a treasury department order. They cash checks for a fee and perform other services. They are not subject to federal banking regulations but some states have taken steps to regulate them.

The order was issued under authority of the first war powers act of 1941. The late President Roosevelt early in 1942 delegated to Morgenthau the power to demand such information.

Failure to turn in the reports can be punished by $10,000 fine, 10 years in prison, or both.

Veteran Rights Told To Club

City Attorney Durwood Bradley explained the GI Bill of Rights at Thursday's weekly luncheon program of the Kiwanis club in Lubbock hotel.

The speaker characterized the bill as "lengthy and technical and yet lacking the clarity that will come with judicial decisions construing it—and still in a more or less formative stage because of congressional amendments seeking to modify it."

Loan Features Stressed

Bradley particularly stresses loan features of the bill in their relationship to "a tacit decision among business men to help returning service men in making wise and profitable investment with the money the fighting man obtains upon discharge and lent him under the GI Bill of Rights." He said "our treatment of those men will call for the full invoking of business ethics."

Ray Mowery, Texas Tech faculty member so charged by the club, said appreciation of Kiwanians for the "tremendous contributions to Tech and to this club the last 20 years" of retiring Dean A. H. Leidigh from that capacity with the agricultural division of the college. The club gave a standing tribute to the dean.

Dr. Jack Lewis pronounced an invocation. W. Guy Casey and Marvin W. Jordan were announced as new members. Approximately 40 Kiwanians informed T. B. Zellner, chairman of the rural affairs committee, they each planned inviting a guest from that community when a dinner is given the night of June 14 in the Roosevelt school.

Out-of-Lubbock guests were Lt. Robert V. Law, Rev. Charles H. Law, both of Springfield, Mo., Lt C. H. Plemons, Lt. H. W. Austin. Gerald B. Tall of Baltimore, Md., and C. B. Galbreath, Amarillo Kiwanian.

WARTIME COLLEGE

NOTING an announcement of the "fourth wartime graduation" rudely shocked us into the realization that a college generation that has known nothing but war has already passed through the walls of learning of many colleges and universities throughout the land. We find ourself wishing a new graduate would describe his or her idea of what he has missed and what he has gained during the last four years.

Since the last member of our family has been graduated the writer has lost the personal touch she had at one time with students and young people. Did professors try to make their classes interesting in order to make up for the absence of other things? "Things" such as that terrific feeling of loss after the favorite boy friend, who managed to enroll for a class or two in the same studies in which you were interested, dropped out of school to fight for Uncle Sam. And "things" such as wearing the same few dresses week in and week out and trying to keep down a feeling of resentment because some girls ignored WPB's request to buy only essential garments.

Did the seniors who wore caps and gowns this summer have a sense of void in recalling there were few if any football specials in their lives? That swimming parties were out for the duration? That trips to Ruidosa, N. M., during the skiing season were only a memory? That "fill her up" when you borrowed Pop's car to take the best girl for a ride could be said no more?

Did girls miss the fudge making parties they used to give in Mama's spotless kitchen on Saturday afternoons. And come to think of it, did dormitory girls have sugar stamps for candy sugar (or do girls still throw midnight parties?)

Why with butter so highly rationed, we suppose popcorn popping and taffy pulls are in the limbo of lost things. But do you miss things you have not possessed? The Woman's Angle sincerely hopes a recent graduate would write her and tell her what a 1945 alumnae feels.

ON SLEEVES

ACCORDING to the WPB, manufacturers have been violating regulations in making dresses with balloon, leg of mutton or dolman sleeves. These types of sleeves use too much material.

In the future, we wonder if, in describing a bride's dress, we should write that the gown was made at home or made with WPB approval.

We wish someone would find a more appealing name for those sleeves than balloon or leg of mutton in the first place.

GOOD NEIGHBORS

PROMPTED by a spirit of gratitude that her home and belongings had been spared the ravages of bombing, an obscure London housewife suggested a unique plan for helping re-establish and rehabilitate less fortunate neighbors. It is said to have swept Britain as no other mass movement.

The idea was simple—every woman whose home had not been bombed should "godmother" a blitzed home by one gift of a piece of furniture as a thanks offering for the preservation of her own home. One home in every three in Britain has either been destroyed or severely damaged by enemy action.

The response has been so great that several government ministries have had to be consulted and their aid enlisted. Large furniture vans from all over the country are constantly rolling into bombed districts to aid families faced with the task of rebuilding their homes again. Housewives who are looking after the distribution are swamped with brooms, carpets, chairs, work baskets, crockery and bedding.

Nothing can replace the personal belongings that families accumulate over a period of years but these gifts must seem rare indeed to those who have been left without a stick of furniture and who are having to begin again.

Party - Shower Honor Couple

First Baptist choir members entertained with a party and kitchen shower Wednesday evening following choir rehearsal. This event was in the activities center and was a courtesy to Miss Carole Pearl Jackson and A. E. Cook who are to marry Sunday.

Songs were sung by the group. Miss Elizabeth Musick sang "I love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Imogene Webster and Cpl. Lattimore Ewing presented the gifts, which had been placed in a wheel barrow.

Mrs. C. Fred Litton, choir president, presided at the refreshment table which was laid with a lace cloth and centered with roses and larkspur. Fruit punch and cookies were served to 35 members and guests.

Assisting in serving were Mesdames Dewey Farris, O. T. Williams, F. C. Stanley, C. L. Bishop and G. N. Atkinson. Mrs. Farris is social chairman of the choir.

Miss Jackson has been an active member of the choir for a number of years in various official capacities. For the past six months she has served as director of the Cherub choir made up of children from 6 to 9 years and sponsored by the adult choir.

Announcement Made Here Of May Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Jules de la Moriniere of Houston are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Juliette, to 1st. Lt. Wesley Powell, Army Air Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Powell of Clarendon, which was solemnized in Urbana, Ill., May 14 at the First Methodist church.

The bride is a graduate of Rice institute. The bridegroom, a former student at Texas Technological college, recently returned from overseas service with the 15th Air Force.

The couple is to be at home at Chanute field where Lt. Powell is stationed.

Miss Mary Louise Breedlove Weds Lt. Bill R. Kingsbery Thursday

In a candlelight service read Thursday night at 8 o'clock at First Baptist church, Miss Mary Louise Breedlove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clent Breedlove of New Hope road, and granddaughter of Mrs. G. R. King, 2406 Twenty-seventh, became the bride of Lt. Bill R. Kingsbery, United States Army Air corps, and son of Mrs. Virgil Mitchell of Louisville, Ky.

From an altar banked with greenery and surrounded with tiered candelabra and two wrought iron baskets of calla lilies, Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor, performed a double ring ceremony. Other baskets of lilies were arranged below the altar. White satin bows marked the pews.

Preceding the wedding, "Ave Maria" was played by Mrs. C. E. Hereford, organist, who also accompanied Lt. Richard Chamberlain as he sang "Always" and "Because."

The bride, wearing a candlelight satin wedding gown designed with a deep cut sweetheart neckline, was given in marriage by her father. The long slim bodice of the gown was fashioned with an heirloom lace midriff and the long sleeves terminated in petal points. The full bouffant skirt was worn softly over a hoop and extended into a graceful train. Attached to a coronet of folds of white satin outlined with seed pearls was her veil of imported lace on tulle. She wore white satin wedding shoes with ribbon ties and seed pearl trim. The bride carried a white moire taffeta Bible topped with a white orchid and showered with white baby orchids.

Attendants Named

Mrs. Berlin Vance, an aunt of the bride and matron of honor, was gowned in yellow silk marquisette styled with three-quarter length shirred sleeves, a high neckline with a knotted bow in the center and a long fitted bodice with a full tucked bouffant skirt. Her headdress was a yellow tulle Juliet cap with a shirred flounce across the back. Mrs. Vance carried pale blue carnations.

Gowns of the maid of honor and bridesmaids were of iris blue fashioned like that of the matron of honor. They wore matching Juliet caps. The maid of honor, Mrs. Mary Lou Lawson, carried an arm bouquet of red roses. Bridesmaids, Misses Ava Stangel and Yvonne Westmoreland, carried yellow iris.

Priscilla Ruth Breedlove, cousin of the bride, and Kay Rumback were junior bridesmaids and wore ice blue empress style dresses with full skirts tied with tiny blue velvet ribbon. They wore halos of sweetheart roses and carried small colonial bouquets of pink roses.

Mrs. Elizabeth Grimes Coble and Mrs. Bettye Ann Watt were usherettes. Jimmy Witt was best man. Ushers were Emory Payne, Eddie Poage and Bill Kennedy.

Mother of the bride wore gray chiffon with a yellow brocaded bodice and a full bouffant skirt. She carried yellow iris. The bridegroom's mother wore a black crepe dinner dress with a square neckline, draped skirt and short sleeves.

Reception Given

At the reception held in the ballroom of Hotel Lubbock, mothers of the bride and bridegroom, the grandmother of the bride, the maid and matron of honor and Mrs. Ralph E. Stroup, aunt of the bridegroom, assisted with hospitalities.

The refreshment table was laid with a natural color imported linen hand drawn and hand embroidered cloth. White flowers, candelabra and a three tiered wedding cake centered the table.

For traveling the bride wore a green summer weight gabardine suit, a poke bonnet crownless hat, brown gloves, and brown reptile bag and shoes. The couple has gone to the mountains in New Mexico for a wedding trip.

The bride has attended Lubbock Senior High school, where she was a member of Las Cresas club, St. Mary's in Memphis, Tenn., Radford school for Girls in El Paso, Brenau college in Gainsville, Ga., and the University of Texas. She is a member of Phi Sigma, high school sorority, Delta Delta Delta sorority and Tau Sigma, national honorary fraternity.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lubbock High school where he belonged to Minotaur club and attended Texas Technological college where he was a member of Kemas social club. He played in the high school and Tech bands. Lt. Kingsbery finished his training at Foster field and flew a P-38 while overseas. He is to report to Miami Beach, Fla., for reassignment.

Moscow Says "Imminent" Meeting Of Allied Control Commission Due

LONDON, May 31 (U.P.)—A Moscow announcement of an imminent meeting of the Allied control commission for Germany indicated today that Russia, America and Britain were agreed on the main points of policy in the three-way occupation of the Reich.

British sources confirmed the Soviet report that a meeting of the control commission was shaping up. They said the exact date had not been set, but there would be no undue delay.

Zhukov Represents Soviet

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, Russia's No. 1 professional soldier, will represent the Soviet union on the commission. A Soviet Tass dispatch indicating by indirection that Marshal Klementi E. Voroshilov might also be a member was clarified later to mean that he was the president of a control commission in Hungary.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will represent the United States and Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Britain, on the commission.

France has not named her delegate, but it probably will be Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, commander in chief of the French first army.

Whereabouts of the forthcoming control commission meeting still had not been decided. The commission hopes ultimately to sit in Berlin, but lack of housing facilities will keep it out of the capital at least temporarily.

Time Not Settled

Though Moscow dispatches said variously that the commission would convene within a "few days" or in the "nearest future," British quarters warned against too literal an interpretation of the phrases.

There will be no undue delay, British informants said, but the exact date has not been settled.

The apparent speeding up of arrangements for the meeting was attributed to the missions of President Truman's two special envoys, Joseph E. Davies to London and Harry L. Hopkins to Moscow.

Observers saw the Russian announcement of an imminent meeting as a solid result of Hopkins' conference with Premier Marshal Stalin.

Coupled with Montgomery's announcement of British policy for the British-occupied zone of Germany, the Soviet statement indicated that the occupying powers have reached an understanding on several key points.

Davies To Frankfurt

Davies flew to Frankfurt this morning to confer with Eisenhower on detailed arrangements for the meeting.

Informants warned against considering activation of the Control commission as a cure-all which will wipe out all differences of opinion among the occupying powers, however.

The commission will provide means whereby a joint policy can be discussed. It will take over to some extent part of the job the European advisory commission has been doing in London for many months.

To what extent the free movement of official observers and newspaper correspondents from one nation's occupation zone to another will be permitted still remains unsettled. The same is true of the actual demarcation lines between zones.

The commission undoubtedly also will ease any disputes between Russia and her western Allies on the questions of prosecution of war criminals, treatment of the German civilian population, repatriation of war prisoners and relations between occupying armies.

Key discussions will be referred back to parent governments for top policy decision.

The losses by fire in the United States for 1943 amounted to $380,235,000.

Complaints Charge Burglary, Looting

Complaints of two burglaries and one pilfering of a truck were accepted by police Thursday.

Wilkerson Cold storage, at 809 Twenty-third, reported a flashlight taken.

Silver Service station, at 1219 Main, said $6 in money and stamps worth 900 gallons of gasoline were taken.

From Levelland Truck lines, at 809 Sixth, a newly-recapped truck tire and a saddle were taken from a truck.

Police said they had fined a 24-year-old woman $50 for disturbance after she allegedly had "come near laying herself open to a charge of impersonation of Mrs. Nancy Green, policewoman."

Officials said she was with her husband and another pair Wednesday night in Mackenzie state park and that she shouted abusive language at two men and two girls, ordering them out of the park. Police said she had been drinking. One of the complainants was a Texas Tech girl, another a merchant mariner here on leave. Complainants went to police with their story. The woman's sergeant husband was arrested by police and turned over to military authorities and another man and woman with them were fined $15 each for disturbance.

Whether other charges would be filed against the woman remained to be determined after further investigation.

Three Appointed To Red Cross Committee

It was announced Thursday that three men have accepted appointment to a Lubbock county Red Cross water safety committee.

They are A. C. Hamilton, superintendent of the recreation department, Sloan Fortenberry, a member of the staff for the Red Cross 10-day water safety school to open June 15 at the municipal pool, and John Wilson, city juvenile officer.

The committee will serve in advisory capacity in the Red Cross water program, included in which is the safety school.

Eisenhower To Visit At Least Five Places

PARIS, May 31 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower will visit at least five places in the United States when he returns home around June 15.

These are Washington, New York, West Point, Kansas City and his home town of Abilene, Kas. His plans still are incomplete.

Several other generals and a quota of combat officers and men will accompany Eisenhower, but they have not been selected yet.

Tech Registration Planned For Today

Registration for the first six-weeks summer school term at Texas Tech will be conducted today and classes will begin at 8 a. m. Saturday.

A late registration fee will be charged students registering after Saturday and they will be required to carry a reduced scholastic load.

Students may obtain credit for a semester's work by attending school the entire summer, under the accelerated plan which is being used for the third summer. First term ends July 10 and the second term will open July 11.

A total of 294 courses will be offered in both six-weeks and nine-weeks terms. During the entire session, 18 courses in agriculture, 49 courses in engineering, 24 in home economics, 165 in arts and sciences and 38 in commerce will be offered.

All-college dances to be held each Friday evening in the gymnasium and movies to be shown each Thursday night in the administration building are recreational activities scheduled for summer school students.

Ice Cream And Sherbet May Be Made With Corn Syrup

TREAT your family to ice cream and sherbet this summer and use corn syrup as a substitute for sugar. These recipes are from the files of dishes made during a recent demonstration school for country club women.

Ice Cream

2 eggs
1 c milk
1 c Karo
1½ t. vanilla
1 c cream or carnation milk

Beat eggs to lemon color, add milk, karo, chill carnation milk and whip. Fold into other mixture. Freeze.

Caramel Ice Cream—1945 Model

Milk, 1½ cups
Sugar, ½ cup
Egg yolks, 2
Salt ½ teaspoon
Egg whites, 2
Dark corn sirup, 1-3 cup

Set refrigerator cold control for fast freezing. Scald milk in double boiler, place sugar in skillet over low heat until a light brown sirup is formed, stirring occasionally. Pour at once into milk, cook over boiling water until sirup is dissolved. Stir hot milk into well-beaten egg yolks. Return to double boiler, cook until mixture coats spoon, add salt. Cool, turn into refrigerator tray and freeze until almost firm. Meantime place egg whites and corn sirup in bowl, beat with rotary beater until creamy and stiff. Remove frozen custard to bowl, beat until smooth but not melted, fold in egg-white mixture, freeze until firm. Makes 1 1-2 pints ice cream. For larger quantity double recipe.

Lemon Frozen Cream In Caramel-Rice Tarts

"Mellow, fluffy — with lemon freshness."

½ cup sugar
2 well-beaten eggs
½ cup light corn sirup
1 cup milk
1 cup top milk
¼ cup lemon juice

Gradually add sugar to eggs. Beat until light and lemon-colored. Add corn sirup, milk, top milk, lemon juice; mix thoroly. Freeze firm in refrigerator tray. Break in chunks with wooden spoon; turn into chilled bowl; beat fluffy-smooth with electric or rotary beater, return quickly to cold tray. Freeze firm. Serves 6. Caramel-Rice Tarts: Melt 1-4 cup margarine and 1 cup brown sugar in heavy skillet. Cook until mixture bubbles, stirring constantly. Place 3 cups crisp rice cereal in greased mixing bowl. Slowly pour over it the caramel sirup—tos with fork to coat thoroly. Quickly press into greased individual pie pans. Chill. Careful, these are fragile. Remove from pans. Fill with lemon frozen cream. Top with green mint patty and tuck a pretty rose on each plate. Makes 6 tarts.

Pineapple Milk Sherbet

Combine 1-2 cup unsweetened pineapple juice (canned), 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon grated lemon rind and 2-3 cup sugar. Chill. Pour this fruity mixture into 2 coups chilled milk, stirring constantly. (Never pour the milk into the fruit juice or it will curdle). Freeze until hard in the refrigerator tray. Turn into a bowl and beat very light. If you have an electric mixer, by all means muster it into service. Return the sherbet to the refrigerator tray, freeze until firm.

Marshmallow Sherbet

20 marshmallows dissolved in 1-4 c water. Add juice of 1 lemon, 1 orange and 15 green guage plums. Chill. Fold in 1 C cream.

EGG CLUB SANDWICH . . . high protein meat substitute.

Bothered By Meat Shortage? Eggs Are Good Substitute

THE peak of egg production is with us right now. Furthermore, shortage of meat makes it even more important than usual to make use of eggs as a substitute high in protein value, absolutely without waste, and capable of being turned into an enormously variety of dishes.

Lily Haxworth Wallace, author of several good cookbooks, has just turned out a new, timely one called "Egg Cookery" (Barrows—$2). It offers information on nutritive value, selection, storage and home preservation of eggs. In addition the book contains twenty short chapters on various ways to cook eggs. The recipes are sound and clearly written and the book should be most helpful to any cook, particularly in these times. Following are a few of its recipes.

Poached Eggs Virginia Style

1 cup diced cooked chicken
¼ cup dried cooked ham
1½ cups medium white sauce

One Dish Dinner May Be East India Eggs

Here is a one dish dinner that Lubbock county home demonstration club women made at a school recently. It's called East India Eggs:

¼ cup margarine, butter or other shortening.
6 tablespoons flour.
One and one-half teaspoons curry powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
3 cups milk.
10 hard cooked eggs.

Melt butter, add flour, curry powder and salt; stir until well blended. Remove from heat and gradually stir in milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Remove shells from eggs and cut in half. Place in curry sauce and heat slowly for five minutes. Turn into hot rice ring.

Rice Ring: Wash 1 cup rice and cook slowly in rapidly boiling salted water; drain but do not rinse. With a fork stir in one-half cup chopped stuffed olives. Pack hot rice tightly in greased ring mold (one quart size) and allow to stand two minutes. If not used at once, place ring in hot water to keep hot. To remove mold, invert on warm plate. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

A little garlic or garlic salt added to boiled rice to be served with creole chicken gives a new flavor combination.

Please All Family With This Dessert

Here is a dessert that will go over big with the whole family . . . good for them, too. Custard sauce flavored with coffee poured over tangy strawberries. The sauce is also good with any number of other fruits. To make the dessert course even more enjoyable, have plenty of good coffee on the table . . . strong and freshly made the way folks like it. Here is the recipe for Coffee Custard Sauce. It's tested, of course.

Coffee Custard Sauce

1/3 cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon flour
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup strong coffee
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites

Mix sugar, salt and flour and stir into unbeaten yolks. Add coffee and milk and cook in small double boiler until slightly thickened. Add vanilla. Cool and fold into the beaten egg whites. Use to pour over berries or other fruit. Yield: Six servings.

To prevent skidding and slipping it is advisable to tack down small rugs used at the head or foot of stairways or in doorways.

Grapefruit will taste sweeter if sprinkled lightly with salt an hour in advance of serving.

To remove scales and skin from a fish, dip in boiling water for a second or so.

Oranges, lemons, grapefruit and tangerines will keep better if stored in a cold place.

Tan or black shoe polish stains will usually come off upholstery if sponged lightly with a cloth dipped in carbon tetrachloride.

If you are planning to send a package overseas coat the address with colorless nail polish to keep it from becoming blurred.

Dumplings Sure To Add Zest To Meals

Good dumplings add pleasure and substance to any meat stew. But vary them.

Dumplings for Stew
(Makes 10 to 12 medium-sized dumplings)

Two cups sifted flour, 2½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Add milk and stir until all flour is dampened. Drop small amount from spoon onto simmering stew, resting dumpling on meat or vegetables. Cover tightly and cook gently without removing cover, 15 to 20 minutes, depending upon size of dumplings.

Parsley Dumplings

Add 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley to sifted dry ingredients.

Chive Dumplings

Add 1 tablespoon finely chopped chives to sifted dry ingredients.

Curry Dumplings

Sift 1 teaspoon curry powder with dry ingredients.

Chili Dumplings

Sift 1 teaspoon chili powder with dry ingredients.

Tomato Dumplings

Substitute tomato juice for milk.

Cool jars of hot canned fruits out of a draft to prevent cracking.

Store canned fruits, jams and jellies in a cool, dark place.

Melted bacon fat can be used as the shortening called for in cornbread or cornmeal muffins.

A pudding, cake or batch of cookies with dates, raisins or dried fruits needs less sugar than a plain one.

To save crumbs from scattering, roll dried bread or cracker crumbs in a paper sack, using a regular rolling pin.

Ray Davis Fires Shot Into Chest Day After Killing His Daughter

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 31 (U.P.)—Cornered in the storeroom home where he killed his daughter Tuesday night in a fit of jealous rage, Ray E. Davis, 42, fired a shot into his chest today, then attempted to shoot it out with officers but a police bullet knocked him down.

Within five minutes, Davis was dead. Officers at first believed the police bullet, fired by Lt. Charles Welch, homicide head, had killed him. Examination of the body, however, indicated Davis had shot himself below the heart.

Go In Two Doors

As Detective Chester Graham covered the back door, Welch and a United Press reporter moved into the front door. Welch called on Davis, who apparently was asleep, to "come on out." The answer was a shot in the bedroom, them a scream.

Davis charged toward the front door, blood seeping through his shirt. His gun was aimed at the crouching Welch, who took aim and fired. Davis spun, crashed over a chair and dropped on his face.

"Oh, my God, you got me!" he moaned.

Welch's bullet apparently struck the thin-faced 140-pounder in the gun arm as he had it doubled against his chest. Detectives acted on a hunch when informed Davis had called relatives early today. It was at an hour when practically no public phones were available.

The body of the jealous father and that of his attractive 21-year-old daugher, Lulu Mae, probably will be buried at the same time, relatives said.

Threatened To Take Life

Davis had threatened in an early morning telephone call to relatives that he would take his own life.

"I want to be buried by the time she is," the relative quoted Davis as saying. "She was the best pal I ever had on earth. She was a good girl."

Davis, whose grief-stricken wife hoped yesterday that police would slay her husband, said in the telephone conversation that he was at nearby Independence, Mo. Police immediately tried to trace the call.

Police, declining to reveal the name of the recipient, said the call was the third the thin, nervous furnace repairman had made to friends and relatives since he mortally wounded his oldest daughter, Lulu Mae, Tuesday night as she prepared to go out with Pvt. David Sharp, 23, her school days sweetheart.

The fugutive was believed still armed with the .38 caliber revolver with which he first tried to shoot young Sharp, just back from three years overseas, then slew the girl after she saved the youth's life by shielding him with her body.

In the latest telephone conversation, Davis first asked if it were "true that Lula Mae is dead," the same question he had asked twice previously. Reassured, Davis cried:

"I can't believe it. I can't believe it. I thought it was only a flesh wound."

Then the anguished father asked, "Where's the body." When told, he replied, "I'll be seeing you there," and added, "but I couldn't stand to go to her funeral."

Davis, whose wife, Mrs. Wilda Davis, their two surviving daughters, Mildred, 19, and Wanda, 14; Sharp and his mother, Mrs. Pete Sharp, were held in protective custody, was asked if he meant to harm anyone else. He answered:

"I've done all the harm that I can possibly do."

The last word from Davis, whose tall attractive daughter had defied his wishes that she not date Sharp, whom she had not seen in three years, came late yesterday in a telephone call from the hunted man to the home of a family friend.

Davis asked: "How is Lulu Mae getting along?" Earlier he had made the same query in a call to Sharp's home here. He hung up when told of his deed.

Mrs. Davis, mother of the dark-haired victim, was grief stricken and embittered by her daughter's murder, witnesses and graphically described to police by Mildred.

"I hope they bring him in dead," the mother said. "He has brought this terrible tragedy on us all. I know he planned it in advance."

Mildred sobbed in agreement: "I never want to see daddy alive again."

Homicide Sgt. Lewis Wyatt, directing a widespread search for the father who tried to keep his eldest daughter from male companionship, said he believed Davis would try to take his own life.

BOARD CHAIRMAN NAMED

HOUSTON, May 31. (AP)—The appointment of two new chairmen to head war price and rationing boards in the Houston OPA district was announced today by Stephen J. Tully, jr., district director. They are C. N. Thompson to head the county board at Nacogdoches, and T. E. Criswell, the Robertson county board at Calvert.

Wheat Area Expects Scant Benefit From Wheat Price Hike

(By The Associated Press)

The Office of Price administration granted a 3 ½-cent a bushel increase on the ceiling price of all grades of wheat today, but growers and traders in the Texas wheat belt—the South Plains and the Panhandle — expected little effect from the higher ceiling.

In the first place, wheat crops generally were expected to be far below normal this year because of hot, dry weather. In the Plainview area this year's harvest, to begin about June 20, was estimated at 50 per cent of par years. Other estimates went as low as one-third of normal as continued drouth conditions cut down crops daily.

Plainview Reaction

Plainview wheat farmers felt the increase would be beneficial but pointed out that wheat prices habitually drop from ceiling levels during harvest and for several months afterward.

At Lubbock, wheat men said the ceiling increase would not be felt until next year. This year's short crop, they predicted, would be below the ceiling. Harvest was expected to get under way in the Plains area in a week or ten days, with only 40 per cent of the normal yield expected.

Wichita Falls growers said the new price would be meaningless, since wheat prices are six cents below the present ceiling. Growers predicted a yield of 15 bushels an acre, slightly above normal.

Labor Shortage Feared

While other wheat areas reported ample labor and machinery in prospect, Wichita Falls spokesmen said a labor shortage was feared both in the fields and at elevators.

Amarillo wheat growers, whose crops have been cut in half by drouth, said the new ceiling would affect them little. They added available machinery was expected to fill the needs of the curtailed harvest, which will begin in mid-June.

Many Liberated French Ill, Dying As Result Of Treatment By Nazis

By DUDLEY ANN HARMON
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS May 31. — The majority of the hundreds of thousands of liberated French who were deported by the Germans during the occupation are ill or dying, the director of the Ministry of Prisoners' Health Service told the United Press.

Health Program Planned

He said that a program to restore their to health is one of the major government problems. Many of them risked their lives in the underground fight against the Germans.

He said that of the 289 women freed from Ravensbruck to whom Paris gave a weeping, shouting welcome six weeks ago, 27 are dead and 87 are hospitalized.

"Liberated political prisoners and Jews have a mortality rate of from 15 to 20 per cent," the official said.

However, the health of some half million prisoners of war and forced laborers is good. With the exception of the officers, they were well fed in canteens, or allowed to eat on the farms where they worked.

Many who worked on the farms are horrified by the shortages in France.

Saw Baby Burned

One of the few Jewish women who returned from the dreaded extermination camp of Auschwitz told me of seeing her baby burned to death. This woman worked 12 hours daily under the kicks and lashes of the SS and women guards.

She is only one of the 10,000 political and racial deportees who have returned to France. Of the 600,000 taken to Germany, many will never come back. How many died is not yet known, but doctors who were themselves deported have estimated it as high as 350,000.

The ministry is making efforts to acquire more hotels and estates to serve as rest houses. It admits the number requisitioned is insufficient.

Feeding convalescents in the Paris area is a definite problem because of the lack of such invalid foods as milk and wheat for white bread.

IS EPILEPSY INHERITED? WHAT CAUSES IT?

A booklet containing the opinions of famous doctors on this interesting subject will be sent FREE, while they last, to any reader writing to the Educational Division 535 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y., Dept. P-1303 Adv

U. S. Casualties Beyond Million

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—American combat casualties in World war 2 passed the million mark today.

The Army has lost 890,019 men and the Navy 112,868, a total of 1,002,887.

These casualties, suffered in three years and five months of fighting, represent an increase of 6,798 over last week's report.

The breakdown on Army casualties as reported today by Undersecretary of War Patterson, and corresponding figures for the preceding week:

Figures By Branches

Killed, 183,563 and 181,739; wounded, 553,088 and 550,506; missing, 52,746 and 57,802; prisoners, 100,622 and 96,478. Of the wounded, 309,646 have returned to duty.

Similar figures for the Navy:

Killed, 43,534 and 42,807; wounded, 54,380 and 52,005; missing, 10,709 and 10,505; prisoners, 4,245 and 4,247.

Patterson also named the five "hardest hit" divisions in the war. These are outfits which have suffered casualties in excess of the normal strength of an infantry division.

They were the 3rd, 45th, 36th, 9th and 4th Infantry divisions. All fought in North Africa, Sicily or Italy, or a combination of the three before serving in France and Germany, with the exception of the 4th division. The latter landed in Normandy on D-day.

Losses By Divisions

The losses of these divisions, based on initial reports received through April 30 and still subject to revision, follow:

	K.	W.	M.	Total
3rd Div.	6,240	24,793	3,191	34,334
45th Div.	3,747	19,403	4,403	27,553

Sod Football Field

Work in improving the Abernathy school system will take another step Monday, when the football field will be sodded, said the superintendent. Swinburn promised a chicken dinner to "all who help us." The work will commence about 9 a.m.

The new building has eight classrooms, a large library-study hall, three offices and rest rooms. Other buildings of the system include the gymnasium and a large lunchroom, where approximately 400 students take their noon meals.

The Abernathy district has 180 square miles; its scholastic census numbered 750; it operates eight buses, has 25 teachers, and has 33½ accredited units on its curriculum.

The first Wagnerian festival was held in the Festival Theater in Germany in 1876.

BATON ROUGE, La., May 31 (AP)—Special ceremonies will be held here tomorrow commemorating production of the billionth gallon of high octane gasoline at the Standard Oil company of New Jersey refinedy. A symbolical billionth gallon will be delivered to Maj. James F. Collins of Baton Rouge, representing the nation's flying men.

Plans Talked To Ease Food Strain

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP) — War production cutbacks and reconversion may team up to ease some of this country's food supply strain by the end of the year.

This possibility is being considered by food officials in connection with plans for sharing American food with hungry peoples in Europe.

Agriculture department economists say that reductions in military output now taking place should tend to reduce consumer incomes and smaller consumer buying power should be reflected, they add in a somewhat reduced demand for food.

Similarly as industrial reconversion gains momentum and is able to put larger quantities of non-food items on the market, there will be a tendency, the economists say, for consumers to divert money from food to other items coming back into production.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY."

BOGOTA, Colombia, May 31. (AP)—Police seized six men, 20 pistols and 20 sticks of dynamite in dawn raids to prevent what the officers said was expected to be a wave of terroristic attempts today. This capital and country remained calm. Police said the plot appeared to have no important instigators.

Oliver St. John Gogarty, Irish poet, novelist, and essayist, is also a surgeon and noted throat specialist in active practice.

Lubbock Active In Highway 87 Group; President Visits Here

An annual report of the U. S. 87 Highway association issued here by Col. James A. Mars of San Antonio, president of the association, stated that much has been accomplished during the last year in the association.

The report was announced following a visit of Mars with A. B. Davis, manager of Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and general manager of the association.

Lubbock is included on U. S. 87, and the city has been active in the association.

U. S. 87 goes through parts of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas. At the Canadian border, it connects with a highway to Alaska, and at Laredo on the Mexico border it connects with a highway extending through Mexico. Expectations are for increased importance in the post-war period of the international route. From Denver the route goes to Raton, N. M., to Amarillo, Lubbock and southward to Big Spring, thence to San Antonio.

In his letter, Col. Mars said advice of Davis "has been most valuable, and his past activities are largely responsible for the efficiency of the association." He commended the treasurer and other officers and directors.

Membership of the association was increased during the year; contact made and maintained with several state highway commissions; claims of highway 87 presented "for consideration that our entire route be included in the interstate system of roads"; and various meetings and conferences held in the different states, "thus bringing our objectives to the attention of state highway officials, chambers of commerce and the public."

Annual May meeting of the organization was not held, because of vote of directors due to government restrictions. Hopes are held that the meeting may be held in Denver in September and matters scheduled include a constitutional amendment to change the name of the organization since several towns and individuals in Canada have entered the association and the organization contemplates securing membership in Mexico; an amendment to change date of the annual meeting, following requests of members for a session in early fall rather than May, and liberalization of the constitution so that the route of the association can follow any changes made by highway departments, and change of name of the organization to one of international character.

Davis plans to issue a letter to state vice presidents and directors this week setting a membership campaign in motion so that the organization would have members for a September meeting. Under the constitution, memberships expire May 31.

In the letter, Col. Mars, who continued on a tour to various cities Wednesday, urged members and especially directors to take vigorous measures to obtain renewal of memberships; secure new members, especially individuals; by letter or personal contact urge state highway officials to give favorable consideration to the inclusion of highway 87 in the interstate system, and obtain publicity "to set forth the importance of highway 87 as the natural route from Alaska to Panama."

Band School Opens Today At College

Featuring instruction for pre-college students, twelfth annual summer band school will open today and continue through July 10, according to Prof. D. O. Wiley, director of the college band and general director of the band school.

Classes will include instrumental music for all band instruments, theory, conducting, band maneuvering, twirling for drum majors and majorettes. Students will gain repertoire experience by practicing with two bands, concert and intermediate.

Wiley, who has an international reputation in school band work, will be assisted in class instruction by four well-known Texas band leaders and one college student. They will be R. A. Dhossche, director of vocational and technical high school band in San Antonio; Richard Young, director of instrumental music in Lamesa Public schools; D. W. Crain, director of Sweetwater High school band; James B. Nevins, band director at Crane High school; Ted Crager of Lockney, Tech junior arts and sciences student; and Bobby Legon of Hobbs, N. M., who will demonstrate his "exceptionally fine" method of baton twirling.

Out-of-town students below college age will be housed in college dormitories.

Only Elevator With Falls Down Shaft

BEAUMONT, May 31. (U.P.)—A hotel guest late last night ordered ice water from the porter's desk. After waiting two and one half hours, the guest again called and learned that the only person on duty at the time who could operate the elevator had fallen down the elevator shaft.

But the voice said "for two bucks extra I'll bring it up the stairway."

The guest was on the 19th floor.

Rookie Limits Yankees To Two Hits As Detroit Wins

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—Les Mueller, a discharged serviceman who spent two and a half years in the Army, clipped the New York Yankees lead to one game today as he hurled Detroit to a 2-0 shutout victory before about 5,300 fans at the second Yankee Stadium twilight experiment.

Detroit scored both runs in the fourth inning off Bill Zuber on successive singles by Rudy York, Doc Cramer and Jimmy Outlaw. And an involved run down play in which Skeeter Webb, who forced Outlaw, and Cramer tried a double steal. Cramer scored before Webb was tagged out between first and second and no stolen base was credited by the official scorer.

It was a first victory for Mueller who had lost once on relief in three previous appearances since receiving his service discharge. Singles by Nick Etten and Hershel Martin were the only New York hits.

Wounded Veterans Show Pete Gray How To Play Ball

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—Pete Gray learned a new trick about playing the outfield from amputees at Walter Reed hospital today.

The one-armed St. Louis Brown star was showing a class of veterans in the hospital's new gymnasium how he catches the ball, then throws it.

With Manager Luke Sewell tossing short flies, Pete caught the ball in his loosely-held glove, which he quickly dropped, then rolled the ball across his chest and grasped it for the throw.

"That's all right on ordinary flies, but how about tough ones hit to your backhand side?" the amputees wanted to know.

Pete made a few back-hand stabs . . . that wasn't so difficult for him—but the amputees were not satisfied with the way he set himself to throw. They know their baseball.

"Why don't you take a full basketball pivot and then throw?" they suggested. "It would give you more power."

Pete tried it a few times. It worked fine.

"Thanks, fellows," Pete said. "That's something I had not thought of. Watch me in fielding practice. I'm going to work on that."

Hasty Batboy Nearly Upset Portland Club

SEATTLE, May 31. (AP) — The old baseball superstition that the bats should never be packed away until the last out is called got a severe test when the Portlands bat boy gathered up the clubs and headed for the showers after his Pacific Coast League team had batted in the ninth inning.

Anguished howls rose from the Portland dugout and before the boy could be shooed back to the field Seattle had men on base and was well on the way to knotting the count at three-all.

Not until Portland scored the winning run in the 12th did the bat boy breathe naturally again.

Committee Postpones Hearing On Tom Clark

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—The Senate judiciary committee put off today until June 10 action on the nomination of Tom C. Clark, of Texas, as attorney general.

The committee has had only one request to testify against the nomination, that from Edgar G. Brown, of the National Negro council.

Levant Ultimatum

ous implication that Britain's intervention would be extended beyond the shooting period.

A dispatch from Paris said the sharp note came as a stunning surprise to Gen. de Gaulle, who quickly called an emergency meeting of his key ministers to discuss the situation.

The note reached Paris at the very time a French foreign office spokesman was reiterating at a press conference that his country did not wish British-American mediation in the Levant dispute. He said French reinforcements might be sent to Syria "if the situation becomes critical."

U. S. Sends Protest

The United States, it was disclosed in Washington, sent a note to France last Monday urging it to review its policy toward Syria and Lebanon and saying there was an impression in America that the French were using the threat of force to obtain concessions in the two Mid-East states.

Coming from the third special meeting of the British cabinet within 24 hours, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told a tense House of Commons:

"We have not acted until our overall responsibility was so serious that we simply had to act or stand by and see a situation develop which would have shamed us all."

Intimidation Charged

Reports reached Cairo of fighting between Arabs and French forces throughout Syria, with heavy battling in the ancient city of Damascus.

Frank O'Brien, Associated Press correspondent at Damascus, said the French had officially informed both America and British authorities that their policy was to "intimidate" the Syrian populace and that they saw no other way of handling the situation.

The Syrian minister in Paris disclosed that he had been in consultation with Jefferson Caffery, the American ambassador to France, and expressed the opinion that the crisis now could be resolved only through Allied intervention.

Britain and the United States were reported in hour-by-hour communication on developments. Eden said his government was "in the closest touch" with all governments concerned.

Want Settlement

In his report to Commons the foreign secretary emphasized that "our desire throughout has been to get a settlement of this troublesome business, and I think it is abundantly clear to all—and I underline it—that we desire to withdraw our troops the moment a settlement can be reached."

There appeared to be no substantial opposition within Commons to Britain's firm policy with De Gaulle. Labor leader Clement Attlee asserted "under the circumstances we had no option in our responsibility of endeavoring to restore order."

U. S. WARNS FRANCE TO CONSIDER POLICY

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—The United States has told France, in effect, that she should stop and think about her Levantine policy because it looks like the use of a big stick to wring special concessions from Syria and Lebanon.

A note, couched in friendly but pointed diplomatic language, was delivered to the provisional government headed by General Charles de Gaulle in Paris on Monday, acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew announced today.

British Action Approved

President Truman approved of the British intention to take action if it were necessary, Grew told newsmen.

The American note, delivered by Ambassador Jefferson Caffrey on May 28, told the French that "an impression has been created in the United States and elsewhere that French representatives have been using the threat of force to obtain from Syria and Lebanon concessions of a political, cultural and military nature," and that a French warship had landed fresh troops in Beirut, the Lebanese capital, just at a time when France was demanding a special position in both countries.

Although the United States has not been requested to mediate, it would naturally be interested in any meeting to settle the Levantine question, it was learned.

Grew, who announced the contents of the note at his news conference, made plain that this country would strongly disapprove any use of lend-lease materials by the French in the Levant.

France got lend-lease aid, he said, to help in the war on the Axis, and this country does not intend to provide military equipment for any other purpose. No equivalent has been assigned for use in Syria, he said.

The May 28 note "in a most friendly spirit" urged France "to review its policy towards Syria and Lebanon with the purpose of finding a way to make it clear to those countries and to all the world that, in its dealings with the Levant states, France intends to treat them as fully sovereign and independent members of the family of nations."

STOCK PRICES STUMBLE

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Stock market averages stumbled today after five successive rising sessions to highest levels since 1937.

Losses ran to 2 or more points at the close although extreme recessions were shaded here and there. Transfers of 1,310,000 shares compared with 1,600,000 Tuesday.

Selling was based partly on the thought of a technical correction, talk of further Washington steps to restrain speculation and fears of international complications resulting from the row in Syria.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .3 of a point at 66.1.

Prominent casualties included Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, American Can, Westinghouse, American Smelting and International Nickel.

American Telephone reached a new top in the forenoon but it backed away to finish unchanged at 172. M-K-T preferred and Canadian Pacific reached 1945 highs.

A few railway bonds enjoyed popularity but many loans faltered.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, May 31 (AP)—Commission house liquidation and hedge selling developed a reactionary tone in the cotton futures market today with final prices at or near the lows for the day to show a range of unchanged to 30 cents a bale lower. More favorable crop news on failure of the mid-day cotton parity to advance as expected influenced some liquidation.

Uncertainty over contiuation of the cotton purchase program next season caused buyers to back away from the market. Some quarters felt that clearance of price control legislation now pending in Congress will hasten a decision on the purchase plan due to expire on June 30.

Futures closed unchanged to 30 cents a bale lower.

Buchenwald Camp

struction of Nazism—for a free democratic Europe."

As I was about to leave the camp today, a little boy with sad eyes approached our jeep and asked if he could ride into Weimar to visit a friend. He was dressed in an American uniform, shortened by some GI tailor to fit his small frame. He told a simple story in halting German:

Tells Touching Story

"My name is Romeo Boexelman. I am a Jew. We lived near Katowice (Poland). My mother was murdered by the Gestapo, and then burned. I was at the Auschwitz concentration camp for two years and then at Buchenwald for one year. I worked in a quarry.

"My father also was at Buchenwald. He was removed with thousands of others just before the Nazis ran away. He's probably dead now. Maybe someday I can go to Palestine where I have an uncle."

Suddenly a satisfied smile crept over the boy's face.

"Yesterday my comrade and I caught an SS man. He was dressed in civilian clothes and thought nobody would recognize him. But we reported him to the Americans—and now he's where he can do no further harm."

"We'll get them all," he added determinedly.

Germany's first railway was operated in 1832 between Nuernberg and Furth.

Walker Funeral Is Set Today

Funeral services for Ira DeWitt Walker, 52, of 2407 Fifteenth, who died of a heart attack Wednesday near Brownfield, will be conducted at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church.

Dr. Carl E. Hereford, pastor, will officiate. Rev. A. L. Goodwin, Baptist pastor from Carlsbad, N. M., long time friend of the Walker family, will deliver the funeral oration. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Stricken At Farm

Walker was stricken while inspecting a farm in Terry county which he owned jointly with a brother, Richard L. Walker of Brownfield. They were partners also in the Tri-County Clay company here.

Pallbearers were announced as Walter Posey, John Spikes, George Berry, R. L. Durham, Carl King and Charles Begey.

Walker, who is a deacon in the Lubbock First Baptist church, moved to Lubbock in 1934 from Hobbs, N. M. He owned and operated the Walker hotel here.

Born In Louisiana

He was born in Natchitoches, La., Feb. 14, 1893. His father was a plantation overseer. He was married July 1, 1916, to Vivian Maybell Rowe of Athens, La. Enlisting in the Army in 1918, he was acting as sergeant when discharged in 1919 at Camp Pike, Ark.

From 1910 to 1926 he served as an agent for the M. K. T., Southern Pacific, Frisco and Louisiana and Northwestern railroads. The family lived at Maud, Okla., from 1916 to 1931 during which time he was an active member of the American Legion and was ordained as a deacon in the Baptist church. He became a member of the Masonic lodge at Athens, La., and later assisted in the organization of a chapter at Tularosa, N. M. He also was a charter member of the lodge at Hobbs.

service" also permits disclosure of its role making possible the occupation of the Marianas, whence the B-29s strike at Japan.

This also was accomplished primarily by consistent blows against supply lines, of course. Most spectacular, however, was destruction of a giant Japanese convoy carrying reinforcements from Japan. This convoy was intercepted and sunk far north of its destination.

Submarine warfare began almost simultaneously with the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Many of the undersea boats were on maneuvers throughout the Pacific — off the Hawaiian islands and in Philippine waters. They shifted immediately to war patrols beginning the attacks which since have resulted in destruction of more than 1,000 ships.

An example of the speedy switch from routine patrols to war activity is the Gudgeon, which for more than two years was a principal scourge of the Japanese. The total bag may not be disclosed, but it runs into the dozens. She also helped supply guerrilla forces prior to the liberation of the Philippines, and aided in rescue of Allied troops marooned on Jap-held islands. It began the day after Pearl Harbor.

She was new, operating off Pearl Harbor on her shakedown cruise Her orders — which had provided for a return to Mare Island Navy yards — were changed She was ordered to Japanese waters.

"We left for Kobe with the Plunger" (another famous boat of the early days of submarine warfare), says Chief Machinist Mate Ray E. Cain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie R. Cain, Seattle, "but the Plunger had to go back because of mechanical trouble."

The Gudgeon continued alone, and roved up and down at the entrance to the inland sea, getting "a ship or two" to begin evening the Pearl Harbor score.

"On the way back, off Midway," Cain continued, "we picked up three enemy subs. So we dove and caught one Jap sub coming along. We planted a fish in him and down he went.

"Then we had liberty at the Royal."

these areas. This will apply particularly to the northern sections of the country.

3. Issuance also will be suspended in many other areas to give local boards a breathing spell, so they can process more carefully the applications on file. This move is intended also to give district officers an opportunity to recalculate monthly quotas for home canning.

Special Investigators

4. A special staff of OPA investigators will undertake a "vigorous campaign" against the diversion of home canning sugar to bootleg liquor or illicit bottling of drinks.

In a verbal blast unprecedented on the part of OPA, Bowles asserted that last year and again this year many who had no intention of using sugar for home canning applied for it, and in so doing "literally robbed our country of a substantial part of our limited sugar supply."

"There is enough sugar to meet fully our home canning requirements, but there will not be enough if the chiseling of home canning sugar for other purposes continues," Bowles asserted.

John W. Thompson Rites Set Saturday

Funeral services for John W. Thompson, 73, retired grocer and farmer who died early Thursday afternoon at West Texas hospital, will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at First Baptist church.

Dr. Carl E. Hereford, pastor, will officiate, assisted by Rev. George Dale of Lubbock.

Thompson lived at 3410 Ave. Q.

The Masonic lodge will have charge of the burial services at Lubbock cemetery.

Sanders Funeral home announced the pallbearers as Klause McCraw, E. T. Mathis, Robert Abernathy, Lynn Mylburn, C. P. Edwards, George P. Kuykendall, J. E. Alexander and L. G. Haynes.

Thompson died a few minutes after admission to West Texas hospital. He had been ill since Monday, friends said.

He had lived in Lubbock 20 years. He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Elva Crank, Whitharral, Tex.; Mrs. Vera Boutelle, Lubbock; a son, Neil S. Thompson, Pecos, Tex., and a brother, J. E. Thompson, Fort Worth.

Thompson came to Texas at the age of 15, living first in Red River county and later moving to Fanning county. He had recently retired after several years of farming. Before that he operated a grocery in Lubbock.

7 o'clock tonight saw British tanks with alert crews parked near some villages.

The British were not talking about what they were going to do in the next few hours, but Syrians generally expected and hoped that they would occupy the country thoroughly and put an end to the fighting so that negotiations with the French could be resumed on a basis other than force.

Terrific Barrage

At 1 a. m. Thursday the French turned a terrific barrage of fire by 75's and mortars on the Serial (government house) and French troops later rushed it.

The result was not known because French fire during the day was too heavy for observers to get into the region of the building. The parliament building was occupied by Sengalese troops.

During the morning the French shelled a deserted American school in the Amas sector, but when Satterthwaite telephoned to say that he was going to the school and place a bigger American flag on it the French ceased fire on that area.

A French officer this morning refused to allow American Vice Consul William Porter of Fall River, Mass., to return to his room in the Orient Palace hotel after the building had been taken over by Senegalese troops

Left Due To Shelling

Porter had left the hotel earlier when it was being subjected to heavy shelling. He telephoned a complaint against mortaring this undefended target to French Vice Consul Count Jean de La Garde, but more mortar fire followed.

A British subject, the wife of a missionary, was killed in the town today. She was shot through the chest by machinegun fire while in the missionary hostel.

A Syrian doctor riding in an ambulance marked with a red crescent was killed in the ambulance and Dr. Kadry said he himself had been shot at on six different occasions.

City Bond Drive

hotel ballroom.

Buying bonds is a "must," Hufstedler told almost 180 workers assembled.

War "Far From Over"

Answering the belief he said exists with some that "the war is about over," Durwood Bradley, attorney, veteran of World war 1, and active supporter in various bond drives held on the South Plains, presented factors indicating the war is far from over. The belief on the part of the Japanese that their emperor is a God, that they are heaven-born, and that they are assured a place in heaven if they die for their emperor may account for much of the resistance soldiers fighting the Japanese will face. "Take a man who has been taught that from birth, put him on the battlefield and equip him with the instruments of war, and you have a formidable enemy," he said. Suicidal attacks of the Japanese indicate their beliefs, he said. "We have not yet encountered the Japanese Army in its full force," he said.

He said salesmen going forth to sell bonds would make two kinds of investments—a financial investment and investment in liberty.

Bestwick Opens Meeting

The meeting was opened by Clarence Bestwick, chairman of the executive board, who said, "Never before has there been more spontaneous enthusiasm shown as there has been shown by the citizens of Lubbock in the last 72 hours over the sale of bonds."

A B. Davis, manager of Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, explained instructions to workers and said that heretofore there have been big subscriber, general sales and employes divisions in war loan drives, but that efforts are being concentrated in one division, the employes division, in the present drive.

Neil H. Wright, Lubbock county drive chairman, was introduced.

Zone chairmen in the city drive are G. V. Fulton, Clint Keith, Joe Arrington, Ed Louthan and L. A. Purtell.

Lubbock postoffice, Lubbock, Citizens and First National banks, the Lindsey theater, First Federal Savings and Loan association, Hemphill - Wells company, and Montgomery Ward & Co. are among places selling bonds and Sears, Roebuck & Co. is taking applications.

Three More OPA Jobs Are Filled

Following the announcement early this week of the appointment of Earl Kerr as acting director of the Lubbock district office of Price Administration, the agency announced Thursday the appointment of three other district officials.

William G. Williams became rationing executive to replace Ely Fonville, who resigned recently to return to private business. Williams has served as board supervisor for the last six months and has been with the OPA for a year and a half. He previously was engaged in automobile, ranching and manufacturing business, and for a number of years was president of a life insurance company.

Lakey Succeeds Kerr

To fill the vacancy created when Kerr became director, Melvin D. Lakey was named board executive. Lakey had been serving as assistant board executive. He served 20 years as superintendent of schools at Fabens, Tex., and has had varied business experience.

Joe Brown, board supervisor for the last year, was appointed district food rationing officer. Miss Opal Wood, who has served as acting food rationing officer pending appointment of a permanent one, will continue in the food section as rationing specialist.

Brown formerly worked for the War Food administration. Before that he was a banker and automobile man.

City Commission

was taken up in considerable discussion of minor city problems.

Additional ordinance action approved beside the tax rate, was the second and final reading of No. 711, amending certain sections of the Building Code regulating the number of square feet of floor space for certain types of warehouses; and second and final reading of Ordinance No. 712, amending certain sections of the parking meter ordinance and establishing parallel parking on Ave. J from Ninth to Fifteenth; Ave. K from Tenth to Fourteenth and on Thirteenth from Ave. H to Ave. L.

Request of Guy H. Gilstrap to pave the north 150 feet of the alley in block 118, Overton addition, with concrete paving in accordance with city specifications was granted.

Transfer Of Fund

Transfer of $1,000 from the general fund to the City-County Welfare fund was approved, the county commissioners having previously transferred $2,000 to the fund.

Bid of Cornell and company for the annual audit of the accounts and records of the city was approved on the basis of $35 a day for supervising certified public accountant; $25 for CPA, $20 for senior accountant and $15 for junior accountant.

General contractor's bond for Claude Martin and a public works bond and gas fitter's bond for Fred Joyce were approved.

Cancellation of a $9.03 tax charge against property of Mrs. W. L. Cone was approved after Mrs. Cone furnished affidavit that the house had been moved off the lot in 1939.

Zoning Change Denied

Recommendations from the Lubbock Zoning commission rejecting the request of Mrs. Fredda Spikes Hunt to change the south one-half of block 119 and the north half of block 120, Overton addition, from a residential to a retail zone were passed without action. Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Alma Lockhart appeared before the commission to present the request.

City Manager Marlin R. Smith was authorized to enter contract for remodeling of quarters in the old municipal airport hanger to provide suitable lobby and office space for the three air lines which have certificates to operate in and out of Lubbock. The work is to cost an estimated $2,500.

Hearing was also held on the changing of city property on north Ave. H from an "E" district to a "J" district and there being no one present to protest, the change was authorized.

Discuss City Attorney

Considerable discussion was held regarding the employment of a city attorney to replace Durwood H. Bradley, who has repeatedly requested such action in the past several months. Announcement on his successor is expected to be made Friday.

City Fire Chief W. E. Twitty is to act as fire marshal until appointment of successor to Guy Casey, resigned, the commission decided.

A full commission attended the session with Mayor O. W. Ribble presiding. Commissioners present were: W. B. Price, J. Ray Dickey, Hub Jones and Fred H. Childress. City Manager Smith, City Attorney Bradley and City Attorney Lavenia Williams were also present.

Okinawa Battle

hill positions 600 yards south of Shuri.

The Seventh Infantry division, which circled southwestward recently from fallen Yonabaru on the east coast, captured a hill yesterday 500 yards east of Chan village and another elevation 300 yards northeast of Chan. The Seventh forms the other large arm of the pincers on Shuri and its successes Thursday prompted the communique report of a threat to the "whole central island position." Chan is a mile and a half south of Shuri.

The strongest resistance along the shattered enemy defense line was met by the Seventh Infantry in driving toward Kamizato town, little over a mile south of Chan.

Jap Planes Grounded

For the first time in several days, the communique reported a complete absence of Japanese suicide plane attacks on American ships due to heavy rains and electrical storms. Despite the adverse weather, escort carrier planes of the U. S. Pacific fleet got in some blows on enemy airfields, barracks and installations in the Sakishima group of islands, southernmost of the Ryukyus.

The total given for enemy casualties covered Okinawa "and surrounding islands," referring to such nearby points as Ie Shima. No new total was given of American casualties, last reported up to May 24 as consisting of 9,602 killed or missing and 25,514 wounded. These figures were for the Navy, Marine and Army forces.

Today's communique reported attacks Wednesday by search planes in the East China sea on enemy shipping during which two large transports were damaged.

Japs Struggle For Line

Disorganized Japanese defenders of Okinawa, possibly still 35,000 strong, struggled today to establish new battle lines for another stand against the U. S. Tenth Army on the southern tip of the island.

American air and ground artillery observers reported the Japanese, driven from their Shuri castle stronghold yesterday, were making frantic efforts to concentrate farther south. Some were still holding out at Shuri town.

The artillery spotters reported the Japanese, whose supply of horses has been greatly reduced by American shells and aerial bombs, were attempting to move artillery to new positions with tanks. Mud clogged movements on both sides.

One possible defense line, favored by hilly terrain, runs from Naha bay's southern tip to Baten bay through Inasomi village, some five miles south of Shuri. This would be twice as long as the collapsing Shuri line.

Shorter Ridge Line.

A shorter ridge line would be from Itoman village on the west coast. It would leave the Japanese with a tip of the island only four miles wide and about two miles deep to defend.

Col. Louis B. Ely of Philadelphia, member of the staff of Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, jr., U. S. 10th Army commander on Okinawa, said the Nipponese fought well but too long around Shuri castle, captured by the Marines Tuesday.

Ely told Al Dopking, Associated Press correspondent, the Japanese apparently chose to make a costly defense of Shuri while withdrawing the bulk of their surviving forces to the south to prepare for a delaying stand.

The staff officer emphasized his belief that the Japanese strategy had resulted in disorganization, depriving the enemy of good officers and ability to conduct mobilized warfare, but expressed the opinion the Nipponese might be able to muster 25,000 to 35,000 troops for the last fight.

Balloon Fatalities

He said the story was being released to emphasize the need for precautions.

Eleven-year-old Joan Patzke spotted the balloon as she trotted about the southern Oregon woods with the Rev. Archie Mitchell, his wife, and four other youngsters on an outing from their home at Bly, Ore.

One Tug's At Balloon

She called the others. One of them tugged at a piece of the balloon. A tremendous explosion rocked the countryside.

Killed were Mrs. Mitchell; Joan; her brother Dick, 13; Eddie Engen, 13; Jay Gifford, 12; Sherman Shoemaker, 12.

Mr. Mitchell, only survivor, said he escaped because he was a short distance behind the others. "Joan came over and told us that there was a white object nearby," he said. "We went to investigate. It blew up and killed them all."

The incident was described by the War department as the only damage or casualty inflicted by the long-range paper balloons sporadically attacking the western United States.

Officers Named By Veterans Aid Group

George S. Berry, Lubbock attorney and American Legionnaire, Thursday night was elected permanent chairman of the Lubbock Veterans Civic Service committee—a group with the avowed purpose of serving as a co-ordinating agency for all community agencies in administering aid and advice to returning war veterans.

Robert B. Glass, Lions club representative, was elected vice chairman and M. D. Fanning, of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, secretary.

All local service clubs, federated women's clubs and the chamber of commerce are represented on the committee.

Glass announced that he and other officers will meet within the next few days to select a policy committee which will draw up a program of work.

"One of our purposes," said Glass, "is to educate the people of the community, particularly the businessmen, to realize that they have a tremendous personal interest in the re-habilitation of veterans."

One of the aims of the committee is to obtain for Texas Technological college what it terms adequate low-cost housing facilities for veterans who are and expect to be enrolled there, especially veterans who are married.

The committee will have soon a temporary office at the Legion home, 910 Texas Ave.

Texas Legislature

participate in a bond issue for construction of permanent buildings. The bonds would be amortized from income from the university permanent fund which now is shared two-thirds by the University of Texas and one-third by Texas A. and M. college.

The resolution failed on final passage only yesterday but the question was reconsidered and the resolution was approved, 117 to 11, after it was amended to include all colleges. The amendment was by Reps. Preston Smith of Lubbock and Harley Sadler of Sweetwater.

Because it was amended in several respects it will return to the Senate which probably will ask for appointment of a free conference committee to adjust House and Senate differences. The conference group could rewrite it in any way.

Much Confusion

Its present form caused confusion among many members of the House. It passed the Senate as a maximum $9,000,000 bond issue for University of Texas and Texas A. and M. A Senate rider declared also that Prairie View Normal college for negroes shall be considered a university but made no provision for buildings at the school. The House knocked off this rider and attached amendments declaring the negro school to be a university and permitting it to share in the university fund income. The extent to which it could share was not specified, however.

Then the Smith-Sadler amendment was attached. It limits the amount of bonds to 12 per cent of the permanent fund which is now about $52,000,000.

Several members who previously opposed the resolution explained they voted for it in order to send it to conference in hopes that it could be clarified or written in some acceptable form.

They Want Our Answer

The Fighting Men Ask Our Aid

THE difference between the final phase of the war in Europe and the current phase of the war in the Pacific illustrates the difference between the kinds of war American forces have to pay for in blood—and the kind American home fronters have to pay for in dollars.

In the final phase of the war in Europe, speed was a key factor. American mechanized forces were making gains of a score or more miles a day and bagging German prisoners by thousands.

Things are different in the Pacific. In the current phase of the fighting in the Philippines and on Okinawa, speed plays no part. It is the hardest sort of hand-to-hand slugging. Gains are measured in yards, not miles, and most Japanese soldiers battle to the death. They do not eliminate themselves by wholesale surrender in hopeless situations. They have to be eliminated at heavy cost in lives. The Jap soldier is dangerous so long as he has strength to pull a grenade pin.

There was a price to pay for the speed of the campaign in Germany—a price in money aside from the price in blood exacted by any war anywhere. The American people had to pay for huge quantities of fuel and other supplies in order that mechanized forces could maintain the pace of their advance.

There is a price to pay for the lack of speed in ground operations in the Pacific—a price in money aside from the sacrifices of American fighting men. When gains are measured in yards instead of miles and when enemy resistance ends only with the killing of the last Jap, the difficulty of the task, the length of time it takes and the price it involves are self-evident.

The American people at home are not called upon to do the actual fighting. They are called upon to pay the price in money the campaign costs. They can answer the call right now. They can make the answer as emphatic as they wish through the Seventh War Loan. It is the answer the fighting men want to hear from home—from Lubbock, from the South Plains, from everywhere within our national borders.

An Undertaking To Watch

WASHINGTON is attempting frantically, if somewhat belatedly, to get the meat available to Americans properly distributed. The meat situation in the big cities is critical. Whereas people in rural sections do not have enough red points, housewives in the large cities are unable to find anything to purchase.

The distribution problem has been explained in this way: The federally-inspected slaughterers, who supply the big cities, are processing only two-thirds as much meat as a year ago. There are fewer hogs and sheep on farms and beef cattle are reaching slaughterers in diminishing numbers.

Farmers are killing more steers for home consumption and small slaughtering places which are not federally inspected are stepping up activities. The government is taking 50 per cent of the output of federally inspected plants, compared to 37 per cent a year ago, when the output was larger. The result is that meat available for big city consumers is down 50 per cent compared to the meager supplies of a year ago.

Under private markets this mal-distribution would be taken care of by a pricing system which would elevate quotations in centers of scarcity until meat began to flow to that point. The government is attempting to revise its complicated control structure to channel meat to places where it is not now going.

It remains to be seen how much luck officialdom will have in a field in which private enterprise formerly operated satisfactorily. Thus far, there has been no cause for cheering.

Mr. Truman And Traveling

PRESIDENT TRUMAN soon will make a trip to San Francisco. Indications are, too, that he may visit other parts of the nation and, before long, will go overseas for a conference with the heads of other Allied nations. Therefore, it is reassuring to the average American to know that wherever he goes, the President—like his predecessors—will be carefully protected and that everything possible will be done to make his travels as easy and as pleasant as possible.

The sort of traveling done by a President is gruelling and demanding.

Furthermore, he makes a better target for possible enemies while "on the road" than he does when he is home at the White House.

The nation hopes and prays that Mr. Truman will be able to do his traveling safely and comfortably. It wants no repetition of the shock and sorrow through which it passed upon the death of former President Roosevelt.

The history of the Germans to date is that when they lose a war, they begin immediately seeking another one.

How to win almost any political office; Promise to take the yoke off the yokels.

After the movies Charley had taken Brenda home and the tail lights of the station wagon with Phineas Hudson at the wheel had already winked out of sight on the Sandy Point road.

Pat and I were just going through the door of The Wagon Wheel when a taxi drove up. I looked casually, then looked again. It was a Boston taxi. Boston cabs were rare in Minot and they meant either fun or trouble. After a glance at the taxi's occupant, I decided that this one didn't mean fun. He carried a brief case with undistinguishable gold initials on the side.

He came briskly through the door and it was only by hurring that I beat him to the desk. While I registered Pat and myself, he stood there, a smallish round man, obviously important and impatient. I passed him the pen; he stared at me with big eyes through incredibly thick lenses and smiled without warmth.

"Thank you," he said in an accent which I could not identify.

But I saw that his hair needed cutting, and his overcoat was much too long. I saw also that he preferred them that way, for his clothes were patently expensive. I was conscious of watching that ... fat hand writing flordly in the register, when suddenly it stopped. He stared up at me, his thick lips pursed reflectively, and I moved off. The last I saw of him was his yellow spats twinkling beneath his too-long coat as he went to the elevator. I was amused and faintly disturbed when he availed himself of another look at me.

There was no thought of going to bed. We sat on the big leather divan in front of the fireplace and talked. Charley joined us at 11:30, quipped aimlessly for awhile, then sensing our mood, relapsed into a gloomy silence. By 12 o'clock the room was cold. I got up, turned over the log, and strolled over to the desk to glance at the register. I found the name right under my own.

PETER A. XAVIER—

the little round man had written.

I had got halfway back to the divan when it hit me. Peter A. Xavier! And before I got all the way back, the Minot fire horn let go. Its banshee wail chilled my blood. Pat started up and Charley turned curiously.

"Well," I said and went to the window, the name Peter A. Xavier still ringing in my brain. Nonchalantly, I looked out. Suddenly I stiffened. Charley was peering over my shoulder.

"Nick—" he began, but I cut him off.

"After all, we've reserved rooms. Why not use them?"

"Not I," said Pat. "See any signs of the fire?"

She went to the window, and there, plainly visible about four miles to the east, was an angry red glow from as rousing a fire as I ever hope to see. Pat turned her face white.

"That could be The Ledges," she said.

We tailed the last piece of apparatus up to the hose lines and pulled up. The last half mile of the drive had killed our last hope that it might be some other building than The Ledges. We could see the whole south wing alive with flame.

Pat just sat, stunned. Charley and I got out and drifted around, seeking some sign of Phineas Hudson. I ran into Cass Hapes. He stared at me oddly.

"Anybody in there?" he asked.

"I don't think so," I said. "We were all at the movies in Minot."

He looked at his watch.

"What time did you get out?"

"The usual time."

Hapes still held his watch, rubbing his thumb thoughtfully over the crystal.

"A little late getting back, aren't you?"

"I suppose you'd be happier if we'd all been in there asleep," I said tartly.

"I'd have been a little more certain you didn't know it was coming," answered Hapes.

For a while we sat and watched the fire reduce a stately mansion to a pile of rubble. Then we took Pat back to The Wagon Wheel where Brenda met us.

"I heard the siren," she said, "and they told me it was The Ledges. I'm taking Pat home with me."

"I'll love you for it," I said.

"This is too much," she smiled wanly. "The most I had hoped for was that you wouldn't hate me. Where is Mr. Hudson?"

She uttered the question under her breath. I shrugged and shook my head. She gave me a veiled look and turned away. Pat and Brenda gone, Charley and I started back for Sandy Point. And Peter A. Xavier got back into my consciousness.

"Charley," I said, "a Peter A. Xavier registered at The Wagon Wheel tonight."

"What an odd name," Charley said.

"He arrived in a Boston cab, registered from New York City, and he was as unmoral-looking an assassin as I've ever seen."

"Probably an official of the S. P. C. A. with a record for charity as long as your arm."

"My arms are quite short," I replied. "He carried a brief case. I didn't see, but I bet his initials were on it."

"What are you getting at?"

"Initials," I said. "Peter A. Xavier."

"P. A. X." answered Charley. "So what?"

Then he straightened slowly and repeated the letters deliberately.

"P. A. X. Those are the letters that were on that setting Calavestri gave you."

"Sure," I said, "Peace. You remember?"

Captain Taggart Heard On Radio

A message from Capt. Thomas R. Taggart, prisoner of the Japanese in Fukuoka, Japan, was picked up by shortwave radio Wednesday night by his mother, Mrs. L. D. Taggart of Albuquerque, N. M., and by F. L. Jones of Route 6. The message was to his wife who lives at 2435 Twenty-second.

A representative of the prisoners read the message which had been prepared by the men themselves. Capt. Taggart had written that it had been 37 months since he had seen his wife and daughter, Virginia, and that he hoped to be with them again soon. The other part of his message pertained to business. Mrs. Taggart said that he must have written the script in September, because then he had been in prison three years and one month.

He was taken prisoner on Bataan in April, 1942, after leaving for duty with the 200th Coast artillery in the Philippines in September, 1941. He was first in a camp on the island and later moved to Japan.

Mrs. Taggart and Virginia live with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Kent.

Old Soldiers Home Planned At Bonham

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—A 350-bed old soldiers home to be operated by the Veterans administration will be located at Bonham, home town of Speaker Rayburn.

The administration announced construction of the home Tuesday, and yesterday Rayburn explained the institution would not be a hospital, but a home for aging ex-servicemen.

Rayburn said he had urged use of the Army air training base for a home. He said also the Bonham home eventually would be enlarged.

Pawley Nominated As Ambassador To Peru

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP) — William D. Pawley, 48, of Miami, Fla., an aviation pioneer in China, Cuba and India, was nominated by President Truman today to be ambassador to Peru. This is his first diplomatic appointment.

Pawley organized the Flying Tigers, the American volunteer group in China. He is a former president of the Intercontinent Corporation which organized the first commercial aviation company in Cuba which later was sold to Pan American.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

BRANDEIS

MY mail has brought me several vitriolic letters because I said in one of my columns that on V-E day my wife would go out and drink to victory (which, by the way, we didn't do, after all).

Apparently a lot of my readers are under the impression that I go through life with a halo attached to my head and that I am the epitome of everything that is noble and sweet and good.

As a matter of fact, I am nothing of the kind. I have all the shortcomings and weaknesses to which the normal, healthy human being is entitled and I have no intention to improve with age.

Maybe that is why I enjoyed a story that came from England and told that the Rev. H. S. Hutchinson, vicar of St. Mark's in Mansfield, stood up in the pulpit and defended the publicans (which is English for bartenders and saloonkeepers.)

"Those of us who have sat under the roof of mine host," he said, "have found rest in a happy place, where priest and man can meet on equal terms."

Hospitality is a sacred calling, he added, and any guest who abuses that hospitality by becoming drunk and disorderly is the one who deserves the censure.

Like every other newspaper man, I know lots of bartenders and innkeepers. Very few of them approve of drunkenness. Very few of them will serve a patron who has had too much to drink.

The tavern is the poor man's club. It is a place where, as the Rev. Hutchinson said, all men are equal, where conviviality and companionship are at their best.

I am sure I'll get dozens of letters condemning me of my liberality.

But that's the way I look at life.

LET me tell you this: It is intolerance and narrow-mindedness that makes saloons and night clubs flourish.

Snobbishness and social condescension have no place at the bar. Your ten cents buys just as good a glass of beer as mine, no matter whether you have a million and I have no more than that ten cents.

If you condemn the publicans and their institutions, remember it is human nature that makes them flourish.

The best way to keep your kith and kin out of them is by giving them a happy substitute and by being at least as jolly and as tolerant and impartial as the average bartender.

Now swing the axe on me.

Unspectacular Truman

No Hysterics—And No Heroics

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE most impressive factor in President Truman's recent cabinet changes was their nonspectacular and nonpolitical nature, in the opinion of bipartisan observers in the capital. He took counsel with no one but himself, and he did not seek to satisfy or appease any faction or clique. To the general public, the three new members of his official family were unknowns.

He did not seek to strengthen his party, as do so many Chief Executives in making such major appointments. Messrs. Clark, Schwellenbach and Anderson come from states that are fairly safe for the Democratics, and even if they were not so, their home commonwealths' total electoral vote amounts to only 34. New York, which supplied so many Presidential aides under the Roosevelt regime, has 13 more ballots in the political college.

TUCKER

FDR kept "Frances Perkins" in the Labor department because he could find no successor who would be satisfactory to the squabbling labor groups. Mr. Truman did not consult William Green, Sidney Hillman, Philip Murray or John Lewis. He did not ask the approval of the American Bar association or the National Lawyers' Guild before promoting Tom Clark to the Attorney Generalship.

Rep. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, the new Secretary of Agriculture, had been a severe critic of the preceding administration. Besides his recent congressional report assailing OPA and War Food administration policies, he frequently denounced the War Production board for neglecting New Mexico in awarding contracts for construction of magnesium plants. Under FDR he would have had no chance for such recognition as he has received.

HST handled the shift so quietly, so simply, that only a few commentators described it as a "shakeup." Save for Judge Schwellenbach, the men so signally honored did not know they had been tapped until a few hours before the news was given to the press. This deliberate attempt to rule out both heroics and hysterics strikes Washington as one of the Missouri man's chief characteristics.

CHINA: The Japs may soon be forced to surrender their stolen gains on the Asiatic mainland and in the Southwestern Pacific archipelago even while they battle against invasion of the home islands on the Okinawa doorstep and elsewhere. The present Sino-Anglo-American offensive from Rangoon to Foochow is no mere flash in the pan but a direct result of release of Allied forces formerly required in Europe.

The hard-fighting Chinese, who are pushing northward after the recapture of the coastal city of Foochow, are armed with American weapons rushed to them by air, water and land routes. Trucks, halftracks and other vehicles have given them some of the mobility which our troops showed in France and Germany. They are Stilwell-trained; in the past six months we have organized combat schools directly behind the front lines. American officers are reorganizing their forces between battles and directing their strategy.

Meanwhile, U. S. bombers based on the Philippines, the Marianas and Okinawa are destroying bridges, railroads, supply dumps and shipping in the rear of the retreating enemy. For fear that they may be isolated by this aerial cordon, the Nips may withdraw to a line extending, roughly, from Shanghai to Nanking and even in a more northerly direction. Our airmen have reported such a backward movement already.

Allied strategists hint that Malaya, Thailand and Indo-China will fall into our hands within a few months, leaving only scattered pockets of resistance in the south to be mopped up.

DENUNCIATION: Propaganda agencies such as Elmer Davis's OWI and William J. Donovan's OSS can learn a needed lesson by taking a squint at the life-size, illustrated placard currently distributed by the War department where it will do the most good. It provides a convincing answer to the question of "why we fight" — a soldiers' query which OWI and OSS have sought to satisfy with their "educational" pamphlets.

The billboard shows a gruesome picture of a pile of naked corpses of Polish prisoners murdered in Germany, just before our troops arrived there. Alongside is the harrowing photograph of Pvt. James L. Watkins of Oakland, California, who lost 60 pounds from undernourishment suffered in a concentration camp. Beneath is this official, blistering denunciation of the Axis:

"This is why we fight! Now we've seen it!

"This is what Fascism's New Order brought to Europe — death by torture, starvation, flogging and every fiendish method the twisted German mind could devise. Not so long ago some of us were saying, 'The Germans are nice people, pretty much like us — decent, clean, kindly at heart.'

"These are the sights — photographed by the U. S. Signal corps cameramen — which greeted our soldiers who overran German concentration camps. This is what General Eisenhower wanted our congressmen and newspaper editors to come and see.

"Take a good look! And remember!"

The caption adds that maltreatment of prisoners of war was intensified after the failure of von Rundstedt's bulge offensive last December and January.

Congressional comment on the exhibit: "If the War department can do such a propaganda job as this, why waste millions of dollars on the Davis and Donovan agencies?"

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

PRESIDENT Truman seems bent on clearing up misunderstandings with the Kremlin.

He sent Henry Wallace to New York to deliver speeches pleading for Soviet amity and the White House announced that the Big Three statesmen would meet soon, even though Prime Minister Churchill is in the midst of a political campaign.

As we must either cooperate or collide with the mysterious Muscovite giant, it is important that the average American should know more about Russia. Judgment will then be based on factual information. A brief analysis of the Soviet Union's current strengths and weaknesses may help explain some of Moscow's strange actions lately.

Stalin has an advantage over his democratic conference in dealing with European sore points in that his is a single-party government with power to compel the people to do its bidding.

The Russians accept this dictatorship because it has improved their lot since the days of Czarist serfdom. Their leaders need no election mandate—as in America and Britain; they know exactly what they want and how to attain their objectives.

The USSR is the most powerful population bloc and land mass in Europe. These factors force neighboring states into its orbit. Its Asiatic borders touch thickly inhabited countries where coolie labor is cheap and where iron, coal, petroleum and tungsten resources are still unexploited. These assets mean increased strength for the Soviet Union of tomorrow. No wonder that the disunited nations in the west are apprehensive of this new compact unit.

WEAKNESSES: Yet Russia is not in so favorable a position as her propagandists make out. She is much weaker than she appears at first glance. Her manpower losses in the war are staggering, a drain which is having its affects even on her vast population, which before the war was roughly 190,000,000, ours is 140,000,000.

United States Army and Navy killed in both the German and Japanese wars is 225,000. The most reliable figures list between 12 and 15 million dead Russian soldiers and civilians. Military experts estimate that the Reds lost three times as many fighters as did the Germans. The latest statistics on Nazis slain in battle are 3,000,000. By this method of figuring nine million Soviet troops perished, more than all the men in the U. S. Army.

New President Has Head Start In Politics

Truman Keeps A Sharp Eye On 1948

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — President Truman, by a combination of native finessee and circumstances, is building himself up politically to such a nice headstart for 1948 that it is making Republicans sit up and take notice.

After last year's election, in which they crept up close to the Democrats, the Republicans had figured that 1948 certainly would be their year. They figured on a natural reaction against a party long in power, on an expected swing of the political tide at the end of a hard war, and on the disturbing problems of a postwar period, problems difficult to handle to the entire satisfaction of anybody.

STOKES

But they are beginning to wonder now about this man Truman.

He inherited the mantle of President Roosevelt by fate, and he is wearing it in a progressive style. But he did not inherit the resentment and bitterness which attached to the late President.

This has been a break for Mr Truman and he has capitalized on it.

He Is No "Dictator"

Some of its advantages became apparent recently. For example, when President Rooseveit a few years ago sent to Congress a proposal for reorganization of the government to make it more efficient, there were shouts of "dictator." His enemies' lamentations were phony, but they were loud and fooled lots of the innocent.

President Truman sent up a request for Presidential powers to reorganize the government after the war emergency more far-reaching than those suggested by President Roosevelt. It caused hardly a ripple. It was, in fact, received favorably in general. There were no moans. This does not mean, of course, that Congress will speedily enact it. Every senator and House member has his pet bureau—perchance one well-stocked with patronage — and there will be demands for exemptions from abolition or transfer here and there. But nobody calls Mr. Truman a "dictator" for asking it.

ANOTHER example is President Truman's invitation to ex-President Hoover to consult with him at the White House about the food problem, the first time Mr. Hoover had set foot there since that raw March day in 1932 when his term ended. Nothing like that ever happened in Mr. Roosevelt's time. No invitation would have been extended, nor would one have been accepted.

Yet Mr. Hoover knows a lot about distribution of food, and his counsel should have been sought long ago.

The president followed this up by asking in Messrs. Dewey and Landon, thus deftly making a nice gesture to Republicans.

He Uses His Head

With his right hand, so to speak, he has been cleverly doing things that Republicans have been advocating, such as a readjustment of the executive machinery to bring under regular government departments such of those special bureaus which are to be retained. Republicans have been frothing for a long time over those "dangling participles."

He has been considerate of Congress and smart about it, too, as for instance, by picking men who had service and experience there for two of his three new cabinet officers.

BUT, WITH his left hand, he has been putting in some licks with a progressive smack, such as his resistance to "letting off the brakes" on taxes and price control, his demand for more adequate unemployment benefits during reconversion, and his successful fight in the House for the Reciprocal Tariff program which already has put Republicans on the defensive, judging from reaction from the country.

He is conservative in ways that please his own party as well as Republicans. He is progressive in directions that will please New Dealers and hold rank-and-file support.

THANKS FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

Moods Tough On Adolf's Generals

By JACK FLEISCHER
United Press Staff Writer

BERCHTESGADEN, May 31.—Most of Hitler's wehrmacht generals lived from day to day in sweating uncertainty whether they were the fuehrer's fair-haired boys or on his blacklist.

So long as a general was winning battles and carrying out Adolf's orders without question he usually did all right. But the surest way for a field commander to fall from favor was to dispute any of the fuehrer's dictates.

In such cases, the luckless general usually was ordered into retirement, like Field Marshal von Brauchitsch, or died mysteriously like Marshal von Fritsch.

Some Called Back

Just as often, Hitler found himself forced to call one of his errant field marshals back into active service when the going got rough, as he did with Gerd von Rundstedt.

Only a few details are available so far about the ex-corporal's whimsical juggling of his general staff, but a good idea of his capricious ways with these professional militarists is contained in a shorthand record of a headquarters conference held in Berlin last Jan. 27.

Col. Gen. Alred Jodl, then chief of the combined general staff, and Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering told the fuehrer that the question of coordinating their west front command would have to be settled.

General "Very Tired"

"Yes," said Hitler, "I wanted to talk with you about that. Many around here take the attitude that Gen. Student (then in command of German forces in Holland) has become very tired."

Goering immediately rose to Student's defense, pointing out that his record included command of the airborne invasion of Crete and successful operations in the Mediterranean. He argued that the Holland commander was a staunch Nazi and one of the best defensive leaders in the wehrmacht.

"Only trouble, he's so damned slow," Goering conceded. "You may think he has a screw loose, because you don't know him. I'll take him back with joy." (Student formerly was a luftwaffe commander under Goering.)

Then They Bicker

Hitler and Goering bickered over Student's capabilities for a time until Adolf asked what the reichsmarshal thought of Gen. Blaskowitz, who was being considered as the new commander in Holland.

"Student's little toe is worth more than all the Blaskowitzes," Goering sneered. "I know that later, after the coming crisis, you'll curse and take him back."

"I don't look forward to that day," Hitler retorted.

"No," said Goering. "But why should I permit such bunk about such a good man? You know him—he's the one who talks slowly."

Hitler finally conceded that he remembered Student and that perhaps he was a good general, but he refused to change his mind about replacing him.

Wants No Aspersion

Goering then changed his tune and asked that Student be relieved in such a manner that there would be no aspersion cast on his military record.

Hitler ignored him and went on to a discussion of SS General Paul Hausser, who was being suggested for an important west front command.

Although Hausser had Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler's backing, Hitler seemed uncertain.

"He gives the impression of a rascal," he complained. "He has a foxy face and crafty eyes. And I'm not sure he hasn't suffered permanently from his last wounds."

One of the SS headquarters chieftains, Hermann Fegelein, argued strongly in support of Hausser. He pointed out that Hausser had spent his life in the wehrmacht and wanted to die in the front line, facing the enemy.

Adolf Dislikes That

"I don't want that," Hitler told his sharply.

"But he insists," Fegelein said.

"That's retorted the fuehrer, "is not a smart thing to do."

Fegelein persisted with accounts of Hausser's personal courage. The SS general, he said, repeatedly berated his aides for failing to the ground under enemy shellfire.

"I'd throw myself down, too," was Hitler's sarcastic comeback. "I had only one general who didn't throw himself down, and he didn't hear anything."

TUBES TO BE AUTHORIZED

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP) — The War Production board plans to authorize the manufacture of 4,000,000 radio tubes monthly for civilian purposes, the agency disclosed in a statement today. The additional consumer tubes would be used for replacements rather than for new home radio receivers.

Documents Reveal Hitler Was Infuriated By Allied Bombings

By JACK FLEISCHER
United Press Staff Writer

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, May 30.—Nothing made Adolf Hitler more furious than the success of the Anglo-American air raids against German cities and the Luftwaffe's inability to halt the attacks or hit back at English cities.

The dramatic evidence of this was found today in a stenographic report now in the hands of the 101st Airborne division.

The report tells of a conference in Hitler's headquarters on July 20, 1943, when the RAF and the Eighth Air force knocked out Hamburg in continuous day and night raids.

Hitler repeatedly screamed to his conferees:

"Terror only can be broken by terror. We must begin a counter-attack. Everything else is bunk."

Defenses Ineffectual

A Luftwaffe liaison officer named Christian told the Fuehrer that "It's clear we cannot inflict enough losses on the enemy with fighters alone and flak. The enemy has lost thus far 13 of 400 or 500 planes. Let's double the figure for losses en route and it's still not percentage sufficient to make these attacks so bloody for him that he'll quit them."

"That was the whole tenor of my talk at a conference a few days ago," Hitler said. "Terror is broken only by terror. We must begin a counter attack. All this mine laying in my opinion is worthless. It has no effect on people and over there it has no effect on people either.

"When in a single night in Hamburg 100,000 people must be evacuated, when docks are destroyed —those losses are bigger. That cannot be justified any more these days.

"We must use them (German planes) to attack something on the enemy's side."

Allies' Trick Works

The Allies' trick of dropping masses of strips of tinfoil to wreck German radar equipment and prevent it from picking up Allied planes was a great success, according to the Germans.

A Luftwaffe liaison officer, believed to be Christian, reported:

"Last night the enemy used a thing we've always feared. He dropped hundreds of thousands of pieces of tinfoil. Virtually all radio airplane detector apparatus therefore was disturbed. That caused the small success of night fighters who shot down 10 while three were downed by flak (this was over Hamburg.)"

Hitler asked for more details. Christian said the so-called Wuerzburg sets were jammed by tinfoil and registered "all sorts of objectives."

Hitler asked why the British radar didn't react similarly to tinfoil and Christian said he didn't know.

Hitler angrily terminated this discussion with "They probably register it too. Find out!"

Airfield Attacks Favored

Christian proposed that since the Germans couldn't "make a terror attack with 50 planes against some little nest" that these 50 planes should attack Allied airfields in Britain and break up a 500-plane raid at the source.

Hitler said "I don't believe they can do that. The way it is we must be glad if they can find London. I'm told these day 'we hope to find London anyway.' That's a rotten shame and I will tell the Reichmarshal (Goering) just exactly that.

"I won't mince words. How do they think they can find an airfield. They might find six planes on the spot."

Christian said "There's such a lot of night traffic . . . ." when Hitler interrupted to say:

"Listen, if they cannot even find London!"

Christian finished his sentence with the assertion the fields would be easy to find because up to 40 or 50 were lighted nightly, but Hitler again interrupted:

Hitler Rants On

"Maybe one is lighted and 40 to 50 cannot be found by night. They (the Lufwaffe) hope that they're there but we have no certainty. Terror can be broken only by terror. It hardly touches me that they attack an airfield. But when they destroyed cities in the Ruhr in our country! (The German people) are very sensitive—a few bombs with new explosives scared people already.

"I don't know why we fiddle around like a cat with hot porridge. You can eliminate this only if you have effect on people over there. Otherwise our own people will go crazy as time goes on."

The Fuehrer complained about the excuses the Luftwaffe made including the lack of planes, too much flak in England, and so forth.

Hitler angrily pointed out that the Anglo-Americans flew up to 800 kilometers to attack German targets while the Luftwaffe would have to fly only one fifth that distance from its bases in France and the Low Countries.

As usual the conference concluded without a solution.
