TWO TEXANS SLAIN IN GUN DUEL OVER CHILDREN

Wichita County Farmer Fatally Injured When Struck By Auto On Highway

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Exports have decreased $763,724,000 in eight months of the fiscal year, a Washington dispatch in The Times tells us. They were $80,564,000 less in August than in the same month a year ago. At the present rate of decrease they will be a billion dollars less than last year.

The decrease in exports alone would account for much of the business depression in the United States. If we could increase our exports we would go far toward restoring prosperity to the United States. Exports have fallen off chiefly because of a depression that is world-wide. But that is not the only reason they have fallen off. Our tariff laws are a bar to a lot of export trade we might have. And the new tariff law is worse in this respect than any we have had. We can expect to see counter tariffs raised against us—raised against Wichita Falls flour and gasoline, for instance—and so long as our present tariff policy is kept in force we cannot expect our export trade to expand.

The decrease in our export trade is discouraging news. Here is something that has a little encouragement in it: A marked picking up in sales and a slight improvement in collections is reflected in the September trade survey of wholesale and manufacturing forms conducted by the Credit Monthly, publication of the National Association of Credit Men.

The most encouraging reports came from Florida, Colorado, Nebraska and California. A comment from one of the Florida correspondents is particularly optimistic:

"After four years of deflation following the collapse of the real estate boom, and after hurricanes, storms, the Mediterranean fruit fly plague and a series of bank failures, Florida now is most definitely on the up-grade. With the modification of the fruit fly regulations, and the largest citrus crop in years with practically all the grapefruit under contract at good prices, we feel that most of our troubles are behind us."

Whatever have been Texas' misfortunes they have been nothing like those that have been visited upon Florida. If Florida can recover from such a flood of misfortune surely we ought not to be discouraged in Texas and in Wichita Falls.

When his attention was called to the reported swindling of an aged resident of his city out of his lifetime savings the chief of police of one of the large cities of the country is reported to have said that his department had not been asked to investigate.

In other words this chief of police did not seem to be concerned about an alleged crime in his own city because it had not been reported to him through routine channel. There are a lot of police departments like that and police departments are not the only organizations that get so bound up with organization and routine that they have no elasticity or spontaneity. Talker has even known newspapers that were that way.

Rules and regulations and routine can be helpful but they can also bring on dry rot, Talker would guess, in a police department as quickly as anywhere.

The Texas highway commission has been putting in some strenuous days awarding contracts for highway work. At the end of Thursday's sitting it expected to have awarded contracts for more than $2,300,000 worth of work. The spending of this money will help to relieve unemployment and drouth suffering in many communities. The Texas highway department is handling matters which come before it with efficiency and expedition. There is order but no dry rot in the department. As the chairman of state highway commission is soon to become governor of Texas this augurs well for the state.

A Fort Worth dispatch says that a representative of the postoffice department is in that city inspecting sites offered for a new federal building there. Wichita Falls is expectantly awaiting a visit of federal officials to select a site for Wichita Falls' new federal building. Wichita Falls needs the new building urgently. And Wichita Falls unemployed need the work the construction of the new building would afford.

A. T. GERMANY, 68, HIT WHILE REPAIRING TIRE

Victim Dies in Hospital Shortly After Mishap Near City

INVESTIGATION MADE

Son Witnesses Father's Tragic Death on Burk Highway

A. T. Germany, 68, a farmer who resided two miles east of the Cashion school, was fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile five miles from Wichita Falls on the Burkburnett road Thursday night about 7:30 o'clock.

The injured man was taken to a Wichita Falls hospital by an ambulance of the Alberts Funeral home and died shortly after 8 o'clock.

The accident occurred when Mr. Germany, with his son A. A. Germany, stopped the automobile by the side of the road to repair a tire. As the two men were working on the tire, the older man was struck by an automobile driven by J. L. Goodman of Bacon switch.

Son Attempts Recue

The son explained that as he and his father stood at the rear of their car, he looked around in time to see Goodman's car approaching about 20 feet off. The younger man jumped upon the turtle of his car, which was a coupe, but was unable to pull his father clear. Goodman's car, he said, struck the older Mr. Germany and crashed into the coupe, the impact of which threw the man on the turtle of the car to the ground.

Sixt city motorcycle officers who escorted the ambulance into Wichita Falls and to the hospital made a preliminary investigation and turned the matter over to the sheriff's department. At a late hour Thursday night, county officers returned from Bacon switch with Goodman, who is being held in the county jail for questioning.

Funeral Today

Funeral services for Mr. Germany will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to Alberts Funeral home, who will be in charge. The place of the services had not been determined Thursday night.

Mr. Germany is survived by his wife, four sons, Allie, Arlie and Jim Germany of the Cashion school district, and Maurice Germany of Cragsford, Ala.; three daughters, Mrs. Nettie Taylor and Mrs. Myrtle Parker, both of Cragsford, Ala., and Mrs. Martha Morgan of Brinkley, Ark., and two sisters, Mrs. Randie Smith and Miss Minnie Germany, both of Grandfield, Okla.

Rum Runners' Decoy Shot By Officers in Alley

HARLINGEN, Texas, Sept. 18. (UP)—His activity as an alleged decoy for rum runners ended disastrously here today for Elias Huerta, 26, when he was taken to a hospital with gunshot wounds suffered when he failed to obey commands to stop.

Bearing a sack, Huerta appeared in an alley in which officers had hidden after being tipped off that liquor was being smuggled through it. When Huerta, who officers said had a pistol in his hand, failed to stop, officers fired twice.

Notes Revealing Secret Marriage Hint That Girl Flier Felt Premonition

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 18. (US)—Ruth Alexander, the pretty manicurist who left a Coronado beauty salon to become one of the greatest women aviators, had a vivid premonition of the death she met bravely when her plane crashed at Point Loma early this morning.

Three notes found in her hotel room revealed her undreaded premonition and disclosed for the first time her romantic secret marriage to Robert A. Elliott, navy reserve pilot, who helped teach her to fly.

Beside the wedding certificate which showed they had been married June 21 at Yuma, Ariz., was a note weighted down by her wedding ring and addressed to "my husband, Bob."

Bequeaths Ring

"Life is strange, honey," it read. "If I have preceded you, do not grieve for me. Be content as I am content. Finish your work down here and make me proud of you so I ever will be at your side. And when you come I will welcome you. Always I will love you and wait for you. And, sweetheart, keep my wedding ring always on you."

Elliott is said to be in Brooklyn, N. Y.

In another note Miss Alexander gave complete direction for her funeral.

"I want to be dressed in comfortable, pretty nightclothing," she wrote. "I want to be placed on my side in a comfortable sleeping position—my body will have to lie there a long time and I want it to be comfortable while I am going on.

Funeral Planned

"I want to be placed where there are trees and sunshine and grass. I wish no long funeral sermon. In my scrapbook is a poem marked with ink and if my wish is observed I will be put away only by my closest friends, a song shall be sung, this poem read, and that is all."

To "mother, dad and brother," living in Newton, Kan., she left another message.

All of the notes were near a piece of paper on which she had written: "To be opened only in event of my death."

Miss Alexander's 90 horsepower low-winged monoplane crashed 18 minutes after she had taken off from Lindbergh field here for a one-stop flight to New York. The plane plunged into a hillside about three miles from the field, at 3:38 a. m., killing her instantly.

There were two conflicting stories of the tragedy. Some believed that the girl saw a hill before her and tried to give the heavy plane altitude too quickly. Others said that the motor was sputtering.

It was 3:28:30 a. m. when she took off from Lindbergh field. The engine of the Barling plane was purring steadily.

Miss Alexander told officials at the field that she would fly northward to gain altitude, then head east and attempt to climb far enough above the fog to assure a safe crossing of the mountains. If

TWO CONVICTS DUEL TO DEATH

Fight With Knives Ends In Dual Tragedy

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Sept. 18 (AP)—Using dirks, two inmates of the Texas penitentiary stabbed each other to death last night on the Ferguson state farm. Penitentiary officials were unable to say what started the fight.

Elmer Butler, with only three months of a four years' sentence for assault to murder to serve, died instantly when the blade of a knife in the hands of Volmer Tinney penetrated to his heart. Butler was sent up from Johnson county. Tinney, serving 25 years from Wilson county for robbery by firearms, died several hours later in the prison hospital here. He had received deep knife wounds in his abdomen, inflicted by a knife wielded by Butler, prison authorities said.

The fight started on a top bunk in the cell house, prisoners said. The men fought strenuously on the bunk, they said, then fell to the floor clinched. They broke apart and lunged at each other with dirks.

Chicago Welcomes Coste and Bellonte

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. (UP)—Another tumultuous celebration of their recent transatlantic flight greeted Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte when they landed here late today from Detroit in their scarlet plane, Question Mark.

They landed at Curtis-Wright airport amid a bevy of escorting planes, and immediately rode, sitting on the folded tops of open touring cars, to Chicago's loop, where they were taken to the bungalow atop the Sherman hotel.

"It is good to be back in Chicago," said Coste, "better than it was before for then the ambition of my life had not been achieved."

Both he and Bellonte were here a year ago after a South American flight.

They attended a banquet tonight whereupon Coste said they would leave at 11 a. m., tomorrow for Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis on their tour of the United States.

HALL WORK VOTED

250 Miles Authorized In State Improvement Schedule

AUSTIN, Sept. 18. (AP)—Improvement of 250.8 miles of state highways at a cost of $394,810 was authorized here today by the highway commission. The commission cut the prospective maintenance program from 55 to 27 projects and from $1,000,000 to less than $400,000. Lack of money in the highway fund was given as the reason for the cut, the commission announcing it was forced to keep enough money on hand to pay for estimates or contracts that now are being worked.

A meeting of the 18 division engineers has been called for next Wednesday at which time work in the various divisons will be discussed, State Highway Engineer Gibb Gilchrist said today.

Sir Tom Lipton Abandons Quest For America's Cup After Another Defeat

Runyon Reports Suspicion Growing That Veteran Yachtsman Brought Wrong Boat Across for Races

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 18.—The suspicion gains ground in Newport this evening that in the confusion of getting out of the harbor in Ireland to start for America some weeks ago, Sir Thomas Lipton mistook a staunch herring boat for his racing yacht, the Shamrock V, and brought over the wrong skiff.

Errors like that will sometimes happen, especially in a fog.

In any event, the finish of the fourth and last heat of the aquatic cup found Sir Tom Lipton's tug world's series for the America's slogging away almost a mile in the rear of the cup defender, Enterprise, today, and the thing is all over.

Stein Stays Here

The old stein that we grabbed from England 80 years ago, and that has been a source of much profit to the telegraph companies ever since, remains in America.

It has recently been discovered that this seidel has no bottom, and wouldn't hold anything, but the discovery created little or no scandal, since there isn't anything in America any more for a mug of this kind to hold, anyway.

It would probably have been a severe wrench to the aged cup if it had had to change its moorings. It has been on these shores so long now that it speaks our language without an accent.

Our now quite celebrated amateur helmsman of the Enterprise, Skipper "Mike" Vanderbilt, of the capital letters Vanderbilts, prodded his galleon over the 30-mile triangular course today in record time for a race for the cup. Skipper "Mike," who is a deep chested seadog with a handclasp that is apt to ruin your fingers, has been giving remarkable exhibitions of sea-

SUIT MAY TEST OIL PRORATION

Champlain to Carry Fight To Supreme Court

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 18. (UP)—Possibility that oil proration laws throughout the country may be tested as result the Oklahoma curtailment controversy was foreseen here today when the Champlain Refining company announced it would carry its fight for unrestrained production to the United States supreme court.

The Champlain company filed a petition in federal court today attacking the state proration laws and asked an injunction be issued against the state corporation commission enforcing the curb. The petition alleged curtailment abetted price fixing and is in violation, of the federal constitution.

Hearing of the petition was set for Sept. 29.

The Champlain Oil company, along with C. C. Julian, former West coast petroleum producer, first waged the fight against proration. Contrary to the state law, they allowed their wells to run at full production until closed in by court action.

JULIAN APPEALS RESTRAINING ORDER

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 18. (UP)—An appeal from a district court order restraining the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalty company from completing a well in the Frost Heights addition to Oklahoma City was filed in the state supreme court today.

Hearing Set for Rail Discontinuance Plea

AUSTIN, Sept. 18. (AP)—The state railroad commission today set for hearing Oct. 14 the application of the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf railway for permission to discontinue its agency at Bennonine. The commission also enlarged on the stations coming within the scope of the Sept. 22 hearing on equalizing railroad and truck freight rates on cotton.

FOUR SHOTS FIRED

Consultation in Cotton Field Ends in Dual Slaying

Special to The Record News

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Sept. 18. —A quarrel over the custody of six young children, nieces and nephews of one of the men slain, resulted in a gun duel claiming the lives of J. H. Carter and Oscar Ford late Thursday evening about 10 miles north of the city.

The shooting was said to have been witnessed by an uncle of Carter, and a brother, Richard, who related the story to officers arriving on the scene, the Mulkey farm, where Ford had been picking cotton. The three Carters, officers reported, had come from Gorman, Texas, to consult with Ford about the custody of the children who had been in his care since the death of their mother and father a few years ago. Ford was married to the eldest sister of the orphans and J. H. Carter was their uncle. They had first consulted the guardian of the children, an Eldorado banker, the witnesses to the shooting said.

Brief Argument

The slain Carter, they informed officers, desired to put the children in an orphans' home in Oklahoma, but Ford wanted to keep them. There was little argument, they related, and neither Carter nor Ford seemed angry, when suddenly Ford drew his gun and shot Carter through the right breast. The latter, officers were told, then shot Ford three times, the fatal bullet piercing his breast just above the heart and emerging through his right shoulder blade in the back. Ford walked about 50 yards before he fell, the witnesses said.

The children involved in the quarrel were twins, a boy and a girl, 7, two boys aged 4 and 5, and two girls, 13 and 3 years of age. Their father, a brother of the slain Carter, and the mother were said by officers to have been slain about three years ago.

Carter is survived by his wife in Gorman, and Ford and his wife were said to have been in the vicinity of Chillicothe for a short while picking cotton.

Funeral arrangements for the two men are being made.

Scientists Hear of Brilliant-Hued 'Coal Bugs' in Anthracite Masses

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 18.—Discovery of living, brilliant-hued bacteria in Pennsylvania anthracite coal was described to the National Academy of Science here today.

The first announcement was made of new and hitherto unsuspected food values in fats, seemingly connected with nerve nutrition.

The hard coal bacteria appear to have lived for millions of years locked in anthracite masses, possibly ever since the coal was formed.

The creatures were found by Dr. C[illegible] of the University of California. While hunting further light on the origins of living bacteria he found more than a year ago in pre-Cambrian rocks, the earth's oldest known rock, usually estimated at more than two hundred million years old.

Egg-Shaped Forms

Microscopic magnification of 2,000 diameters is necessary to see the coal bugs. They are frequently egg-shaped, but may be quite elongated, and some of elongated forms are brilliantly iridescent.

The coal was obtained for Dr. Lipman by a United States bureau of mines representative in the Pottsville area, 1,800 feet deep. No evidence was found, Dr. Lipman said, of water or other substances

Seven Pledges Totaling $7,600 Revealed at City Chest Meeting

Raising of $70,000 for the use of the Wichita Falls Community Chest during the coming year was given an auspicious beginning Thursday night at the Wichita club at a meeting of about 60 local business and professional men when Linden E. Brooks, American City bureau representative in charge, revealed seven signed pledge cards accounting for $7,600 toward the fund.

Special encouragement was drawn by workers present from Mr. Brooks' statement because six of the seven cards show pledges of $1,000 or more in contrast with a complete lack of such gifts to the chest in 1929. Analyses of giving to such funds in other cities of the United States about the size of Wichita Falls, according to figures given by Mr. Brooks, show that approximately 60 per cent of the total chest fund should be realized from gifts of $100 or more. In this classification, the 1929 chest fund in Wichita Falls showed only 39 per cent of its budget coming from the "big gifts" classification.

Concluding his address on the plans to be followed here in raising the annual budget, Mr. Brooks declared the following pledge cards already signed for the ensuing year: John F. O'Donohoe, $1,000; J. S. Bridwell, $1,000; First National

Paralysis Said Cause Of Children's Death

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18. (UP)—Illness which killed three children and struck four others in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lowe may be infantile paralysis rather than food poisoning, it was said tonight.

County chemists completed an analysis of the organs of the dead children and said no symptoms of poison had been discovered.

Examinations of the bodies of Betty, 5, Virginia,3, and John, 18 months, showed a congestion of the central nervous system, doctors said.

Lois, 7, Robert, 14, Frances, 11, and Geneva, 9, are ill at present.

The children were under-nourished as a result of their parents' poverty and it was believed that they had little resistance to germs of infantile paralysis.

Negroes' Day Observed At East Texas Exhibition

TYLER, Texas, Sept. 18. (UP)—Having reached its real stride, the 21st annual East Texas Fair and Dairy show got off today in the best form since the exposition opened Monday.

It was "colored folks' day." All negro children of school age were admitted free. All negro schools in this section observed a holiday. Interest centered about the negro agricultural exhibit buildings, where communities from five counties, 80 in number, are showing.

Queen Mary Dances At Servants' Ball As King Watches

BALLATER, Scotland, Sept. 18. (US)—Queen Mary, following ancient custom, tonight commanded several of the game-keepers and "ghillies" or keepers of the king's fishing waters at Balmoral castle to dance with her at the annual ghillies ball in the castle.

The ball is given each year by their majesties' full staff of servants of the castle, the shooting and fishing waters. Custom is invariable, and decrees that all the men be kilted and the women correctly dressed in highland fashion, with a white frock and tartar sash.

The king and queen appeared in the ballroom at 10 o'clock and remained until midnight, while the skirl of the bagpipes furnished rhythm for reels, quadrilles and lancers. When the queen was inclined to dance, she commanded Pipe Major Forsyth to convey her wishes to the chosen partner. The king did not dance.

Jury Deadlocked In Pastor's Trial

MOUNT VERNON, Texas, Sept. 18. (UP)—The jury trying the Rev. J. T. Smith, 70-year-old Baptist minister, charged with murder, was deadlocked, 11 to 1, it was reported to District Judge R. T. Wilkinson, early tonight. It was not learned whether the majority favored conviction or acquittal.

Judge Wilkinson ordered the veniremen to resume deliberations.

The case was given to the jury late Wednesday. Reverend Smith is charged with killing W. C. Lammons, school trustee, by striking him with a shotgun during an argument over an election.

JUROR'S ILLNESS ENDS TRIAL

Fritts already is under 99-year sentence for killing Hamilton's son, Earle, during an argument with the two over testimony at a liquor hearing.

Trial of a suit brought by M. T. Birch against W. T. Martin for an accounting in connection with the dissolution of a partnership got under way about 1:30 p. m. Thursday before Judge P. E. Martin in the 89th district court. Selection of a jury for the case required only a brief time. More than $8,000 is involved in the suit, according to the petition filed.

Ten letter men from last year's team are among a squad of 50 aspirants who are working out under Coaches Calvin Moore and Dean Dunsworth.

The juniors will play their first conference game with Texas Military college Sept. 26 here.

The bus, Kansas City bound, struck a car driven by J. Waldon Wells of Tulsa, careened into a bridge rail and plunged to the bottom of a 15-foot ditch.

Those injured most seriously were: Wells, 46, and his wife; John H. Lentz and his stepson, William Raus, 12, all from Tulsa. The others received cuts and bruises. V. E. Layman was driver of the bus.

SCIENCE HEARS OF 'COAL BUGS'

Brilliant-Hued Bacteria Is Found in Anthracite

anywhere near which might have been a recent bacterial breeding place.

Taking a piece of this coal, 16 by 10 by 10 inches, he shaved off an inch and a half of its surface. He scrubbed the remaining block, then placed it in a 30 per cent solution of hydrogen peroxide four to five hours to sterilize the surface. Part of the heart of the lump was taken with sterilized forceps and thrust into a 95 per cent solution of alcohol.

Alcohol Burned

The alcohol was lighted and burned off. Next the lump was thrust into the flames of a Bunsen burner to sear its entire surface. Then it was dropped into an enclosed, heat sterilized mortar, with sterilized pestle and crushed. Some of it was removed with a sterilized spoon and placed in the kind of medium where bacteria are kept from the danger of contamination.

In these processes, he said, there were only two brief instants when the coal came in contact with the air of the room, too brief for likelihood of bacteria getting into it from the air.

In the "medium" the bacteria were "cultivated," that is, given the chance to reproduce if they were alive. They did reproduce, Dr. Lipman said, multiplying to millions in a few hours.

The fat nutrition discovery was made by Dr. Herbert H. Adams and Dr. Samuel Lenkovsky of the University of California, during experiments on rats with vitamin B, lack of which caused beri-beri, a disease seated in the nerves.

Fats Vary

There was a puzzling variance in effectiveness of different fats. Cocoanut oil was best, lard second and cottonseed oil only slightly effective. Tests showed these varying effects were not due to the different degrees of digestibility.

The Californians then devised a method of distilling fats, separating in pure form the component substances. In this way in cocoanut oil were found two fatty acids that "were surprisingly efficacious."

Nevertheless, Dr. Evans said, they have been unable to yet determine exactly what the curative thing is.

Cotton Pickers For Kemp Farms Sought

An attempt to secure cotton pickers for the Kemp and Kempner farms has almost proved futile, according to Joe N. Sherrill, manager of the farms, who stated that there is a need of 500 pickers for the cotton.

Mr. Sherrill has advertised for cotton pickers and tried to secure them in various ways, with virtually no response. He stated that there is plenty of cotton to be picked on the Kemp and Kempner farms and those desiring work may report at the Kemp City gin. Fifty cents per 100 pounds is being paid.

FIRE FANS FOOLED

A huge crowd of Wichitans looking for a thrill congregated at Huff and Baylor avenues early Thursday night when an alarm brought four fire companies to the corner. Failing to find any flames, firemen decided a small boy had tried out the alarm system. Some time was required for clearing traffic at the intersection.

SOLVED

Experts Identify Guilty Chemicals in Poison Jake

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. (INS)—After months of research the U. S. public health service has reached a definite determination of the cause for ginger extract paralysis which swept the South and East some time ago, it was learned today.

Health bureau scientists decided that the wave of paralysis from drinking bootleg concoctions of ginger was caused by tri-ortho gresyl phosphate of about 2 per cent concentration.

Being both cheap and readily obtained in any quantities this compound appears to have been used by irresponsible makers of so-called ginger extract with disastrous results, experts said.

Large Gifts To Chest Revealed

bank, $1,000; J. J. Perkins, $1,200; Frank Kell, $1,500; friend (name withheld) $1,000; Texas Electric Service company, $900.

Those present at Thursday night's meeting were furnished with analysis sheets showing the average donations made by the various gift-size classifications in cities of this size throughout the country, and reflecting the comparative giving of Wichita Falls 3,859 subscribers during the past year.

"Wichita Falls was the first city south of the Mason-Dixon line to adopt the community chest plan of caring for its unfortunates," said Mr. Brooks, "and for that reason, does not need to raise so large an amount each year as most cities of this size. Control of conditions, development of character-building organizations, and business-like handling of the fund has kept the problem within reasonable bounds. Many cities of this size are placing more than $150,000 each year into their community chests. This city is definitely sold on the community chest plan, but has not yet worked out its best and fairest balance of donations."

Referring to the withdrawal of the Salvation Army two days ago from the community chest as advised in messages received from headquarters of the organization in Dallas, Walter Cline, chairman of the budget committee of the chest, spoke briefly in explanation of the situation which presumably gave rise to the Salvation Army's withdrawal. He said that a complete and detailed statement of the case is now being prepared by his committee, and will be made public within a day or two.

Frank E. Jaynes, associated with Mr. Brooks in the direction of the chest campaign here, was the concluding speaker of the evening. During the past 15 years, he declared, the people of the United States have launched upon "a new crusade" of humanitarianism.

Mr. Bridwell, host to the entire group present for the dinner and conference, acted as chairman during the evening. The opening address was made by Mr. O'Donohoe, president of the community chest. After adjournment of the general meeting, organization of the solicitation of further "big gifts" was perfected by the committee in charge of that clasification.

the ship would not rise high enough the girl said she would return to the field within 15 minutes.

Body Mangled

Friends and officials waited 30 minutes and she did not come back. Residents near Point Loma notified police of the crash. Apparently the girl had realized she was about to strike the ground and turned off the ignition switch. There was no fire. Her body was mangled in the plane. Beside her was the little toy dog she had carried as an omen of success on recent flights.

DEATH HALTS CELEBRATION

BLUE RAPIDS, Kan., Sept. 18. (UP)—Plans for what was to have been Ruth Alexander's first homecoming as a prominent aviator were cancelled tonight and instead, her home folks turned to honoring her in death.

Receipt of news that the young girl flier had crashed to her death in California while attempting to span the continent in a single hop, cancelled plans for a celebration at the county fair next week in which she planned to participate. Her body will be returned to Blue Rapids, her former home, for burial.

Ruth first became interested in mechanics while employed in the hardware store. She left home to wed a boy named Alexander at Olathe, Kan., but went to California when they separated.

She obtained employment near the San Diego airport and became interested in flying. Within a short time, she was counted as one of the country's leading feminine pilots.

Cotton Picking Machine Would Change Industry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (US)—A revolution in the cotton industry may result from the invention of a cotton picking machine, Dr. William J. Spillman today told the Inter-American Conference on Agriculture, Forestry and Animal Husbandry. He said:

"This machine can do the work of 40 hand pickers; and if the machines prove entirely successful and come into general use three-fourths of the workers in the cotton fields of the South would be thrown out of employment.

"Apparently the only other farming industries which would be available to them in the South would be dairying and poultry raising."

Officers Hunting Station Robbers

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Sept. 17.—Officers have thus far been unable to find trace of the two men who robbed the Gulf filling station here Saturday night and kidnaped Morris Reed, 19, attendant, taking him on a wild ride to a point on highway No. 5 about 10 miles west of Quanah, then releasing him. Reed walked to Goodlett and telephoned Sheriff Hawkins. The robbers secured about $25 in cash. They left all checks.

This robbery was the most daring ever committed in Quanah. The station is located at Sixth and Main streets, one of the busiest corners for traffic outside of the immediate business district. The robbers drove up in a sedan and when approached by young Reed, they forced him into the seat of the car; one robber took the cash from the cash register, while the other was at the wheel of the car. On the wild dash out of town the men, who were reported to be under influence of liquor, told young Reed the car was a stolen one and they expected to ditch it at Childress and get a better one.

When Pain Comes

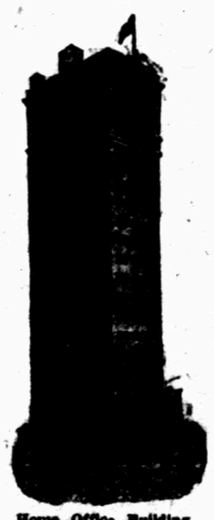

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

Bleached Bones End Trail to Lost Mine Sought 20 Years by Woman

NEWHALL, Calif., Sept. 18. (UP)—The bones of four murdered men, found on a slope of the Tehacapi mountains, were believed today to mark the end of a rainbow trail followed 20 years by a woman prospector in quest of Lost Horse mine and its vast store of gold.

Anna L. Rose, the prospector who led a posse of sheriff's deputies on a successful hunt for the bones, declared they were the remains of three men and a boy who, according to legend, were slain near the mine in 1878 by "Irish" Charlie Reilly, two-gun man of the West.

If the legend is based on fact—and pioneers of the district claim there is strong evidence to support it—Miss Rose may be able to uncover the obliterated shaft of the mine from which "Doc" Benjamin Franklin Bragg took $800,000 in gold quartz half a century ago.

Bragg, an associate of "Lucky" Baldwin of Racehorse fame, wasted his easily won fortune, but five years before he died a mendicant in 1915, he revealed to Miss Rose the lost mine's location on a crude map. Bragg himself was "afraid" to return for more gold, although he refused to name the cause of his foreboding.

Traditions of the neighborhood say Reilly drank heavily in the village store one night and boasted of slaying the four men he found working the mine. He buried the victims near the mine, he said, but boasted again none could find the spot.

Three days later he was ambushed by dark-skinned night riders and the next day neighbors came across his bullet riddled body.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 18. (UP)—Elias Bennett, a photographer, decided his psychology "was all wrong." He fired a pistol in front of a negro evangelical meeting here in an effort to draw a crowd to the gospel hall. Instead those inside ran out. Bennett was charged with carrying concealed weapons.

OUSTED PERU CHIEF CHARGED

Former Premier Also To Stand Trial

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 18. (AP)—The national sanctions court has started legal proceedings against Augusto B. Leguia, the deposed president now in Lima penitentiary, and Benjamin Huaman de los Heros, former premier.

The charge against the ousted president is one of speculation.

All of his property will be taken over—including books, private papers and correspondence—for the trial, and all other persons in possession of anything owned by Leguia must deliver them to the court.

In addition, all payments made in Leguia's behalf or in his favor will be considered as not having been done, while his creditors must present their statements within 15 days.

The court, which was established last week under the military junta which has ruled Peru since Leguia was unseated by revolt, ordered that the former president's deposition be received Saturday by Justice Manuel Felipe Umeres.

The ex-premier has been in refuge since the revolution an will be summoned by posted notices.

Leguia was transferred to Lima penitentiary Tuesday from the political prison of San Lorenzo Isle. He is in ill health.

Port Arthur Site For Second Meet

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, Sept. 18. (AP)—The Southeast Texas Baptist association will meet again in Port Arthur next year. Selection followed an invitation for the association to assist in celebrating the silver anniversary of the Women's Missionary union, auxiliary to the association, here next year. The dates for the convention were set as Sept. 15-16.

Rev. J. F. Petty of Kirbyville was selected to preach the annual sermon with Rev. O. T. Martin of Hull as alternate.

Rev. H. E. Hogan of Beaumont, associational missionary, was elected associational messenger to the Southern Baptist convention in Birmingham, Ala., next May, and Dr. J. H. Pace of Beaumont, newly elected moderator, was named messenger to the state Baptist convention in Amarillo in November.

Savings Bank Robbed, Cashier Is Kidnaped

GIFFORD, Mo., Sept. 18. (UP)—The Gifford Savings bank of Gifford, 25 miles northwest of Macon, Mo., was robbed of $800 and Milford Bradley, assistant cashier, was kidnaped here today by two bandits.

The bandits entered a car and drove to Goldsberry, Mo., where they abandoned their car and stole another, continuing westward.

LEGGE URGES BANKERS' AID

Farm Chairman Anxious For Improved Farming

DETROIT, Sept. 18. (AP)—Mortgage bankers were urged by Chairman Legge of the farm board today to use their power as one of agriculture's largest creditor groups to improve farming practises and place the industry on a more profitable basis.

In an address to the annual convention of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America Legge expressed conviction that wheat farms should be larger in size and recommended that the bankers secure this unit increase by consolidating small farms which now cannot make profits and repay loans. This, he said, would make wheat farmers a good credit risk where you now have two or three bad ones."

Research has shown, the farm chairman said, that growers raising less than 300 acres are "hopelessly handicapped" by high production costs.

Kansas City Resurrects Old Statute on Hoodlums

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 18. (UP)—An old, seldom-used state statute on vagrancy, providing punishment for those "well dressed persons who have no means of visible support," was resurrected today to use against Kansas City gangsters and hoodlums.

Hereafter, when police arrest police characters who usually obtain release through lack of definite evidence or bail, they will be turned over to the prosecutor's office for punishment under the vagrancy act.

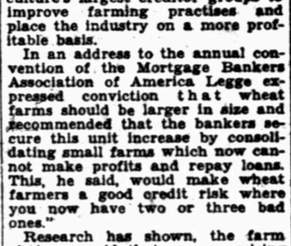

Charles Edwards, former chief of police and now crime head for the chamber of commerce, discovered the long-used law on the state book and presented it to authorities.

The Blowout-Proof Tire

Reduces the terrific Annual toll of ACCIDENTS

Lets you run on the worlds' only true LOW AIR PRESSURE

The one positive assurance of SKID SAFETY

362,000 people hurt and killed annually in accidents caused by skidding! An incalculable loss in human life—lost time—permanent injuries. Untold added cost in hospital bills, wrecked cars, repairs and liabilities. What a terrific toll to pay when skid-safety costs so little!

Now—with the new General Dual Balloon—every motorist can be safe from skidding. This is skid-safety with a new meaning! True, low air pressure makes the difference.

See the accompanying chart. This tremendously reduced pressure, permitted by Blowout-Proof patented construction, fulfills the highest purpose of pneumatic tires—to be soft—and safe! For softness is the thing that prevents skidding. It has far more to do with sure, safe traction than any tread design.

Make a tire soft enough and you have that greatest of all road-gripping principles—flexibility inside and out that lets the whole tire "give" and cling on any road, regardless of wet, slippery pavements.

That is why the General Dual Balloon—with the world's lowest recommended air pressure—gives you skid-safety you will never know with stiff, unyielding tires.

Let us equip your car now. Be prepared for the greatest security you have ever known in slippery weather. Enjoy, too, the surpassing comfort of the tire that puts a buffer between you and the roughest roads—keeps your car quiet and new thousands of miles longer—makes broken roads and detours endurable and good roads perfect. The Blowout-Proof Dual Balloon challenges any comparison—Blowout-Proof, skid-safe, easy riding that higher pressure tires can never give!

Many Gardens Add Beauty To Garden Club Breakfast

Garden club meetings held at the Woman's Forum clubhouse in the form of a breakfast, are never mistaken for any other society function, for at the Garden breakfasts, flower loving members bring the decorations and the bowls and vases of blossoms brought from lovingly tended gardens speak for individual preferences and make a riot of color.

In the first autumn Garden club breakfast held Thursday morning, a great bowl of magnificent dahlia-flowering zinnias from Mrs. John O'Donohoe's garden, held the central place on the T shaped table. In size and coloring the flowers were wonderful. Mrs. Frank Timberlake had two offerings, one of bachelor buttons and ageratum and the other a transparent blue jar filled with zinnias of all lovely colors and sizes even to the little flat baby zinnias so admired. Long syrays of sea lavender added to the lovely arrangement. Mrs. L. L. Boardman brought a slender, graceful, white vase filled with bachelor buttons that made a lovely picture; Mrs. Bert Bean's low bowl of blue ageratum with fragrant roses in pink and yellow was an exquisite study and Mrs. Guy Rogers' grouping of roses in many shades with the silvery gray of dusty miller was another lovely decoration.

New Chairman Introduced

Mrs. Frank Timberlake, retiring president, was in the chair for the early part of the program. Mrs. W. W. Cook gave the invocation and Mrs. Timberlake introduced Mrs. Charles William Wallace who read and interpreted charmingly, a poem in the current Literary Digest, written to "Zinnias."

Mrs. Rhea Howard read the minutes of the last spring meeting and told of the conference of the Federation of Garden clubs in Fort Worth which she and Mrs. Ed Howard attended. She emphasized the splendid reports made by some clubs even younger than that of Wichita Falls and spoke of the splendid record made by Amarillo. Many lovely social courtesies were reported shown delegates.

With the close of the old business, Mrs. Timberlake gave the chair to Mrs. Bert Bean, the new chairman and Mrs. Bean made a delightfully informal speech of greeting. Mrs. Orville Bullington, the new recording secretary was introduced and at Mrs. Bean's request, read the names of new chairmen; Mrs. Pleas Crouch, junior garden clubs; Mrs. C. E. Bailey, flower show exhibits; Mrs. G. B. Ray, out-of-town exhibits; Mrs. E. B. Lehrack, magazine chairman; Mrs. Landon Cullum, plant exchange; Mrs. Rhea Howard, extension; Mrs. F. P. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

As we listened to flower lovers discussing the preparation of soil and means by which flower life could be vigorously carried through the winter Thursday morning at the Garden club breakfast, our mind wandered to a story we had read. On a country club green in New Jersey, someone climbed a tree and found a squirrel's nest where a thrifty squirrel had secreted 18 golf balls for winter forage, thinking them nuts.

That is just the sort of luck we have had in carrying plant life through the cold weather. When spring came, we thought we had one thing and we found we had another.

That story about the squirrel, however, doesn't seem quite fair to the nut-eater. In the land where we knew squirrels, they knew golf courses also but they stocked up with pecans and scaly barks, etc.

A kind hearted woman at the garden breakfast suggested quietly that when clubwomen talked of planting trees along the highways, they plant pecan trees which not only make a good shade but which bear harvest. She said some one had scoffed at her suggestion, saying that little boys would get all the nuts. "Let them go nut hunting and get them," she insisted. "There's nothing left like that for little boys and girls. Everything is posted."

It is true that nearly all wood-lands are posted, even in the country where there are many forests. And we remember the nutting parties of our childhood as times of particular joy.

There was a great expanse of virgin forest just outside the town in which we lived and nothing to keep young people from going there whenever they wished. We have taken lunch and stayed for the day and brought home big baskets of the thin-shelled hickory nut called scaly barks, and of shining brown chestnuts. Chestnuts are one thing worth fighting the prickly burr to get. Pecans did not grow wild in our country and people scorned the black walnuts, delicious of flavor though they are.

There was a steep hillside where, before we grew too "grownup" and dignified, we would join our party in rolling down the hill. Once started, there was no stopping and we wonder now what the thrill was. One unfortunate, we remember, rolled on a prickly burr and for a long time had no use for chestnuts.

In Mississippi, there are still woodlands where pecans grow wild and one may gather a winter's supply. Those are small nuts, not like the thin shelled giant pecan, but sweeter in taste.

Things of the wild seem sweeter somehow. We remember wild strawberries that grew on sunny banks; blackberries that came after Mississippi low lands were white as snow with their blossoms, and luscious dewberries that crept alongside the fence corners and were quite as thorny as the blackberry.

It is a lot of fun to be able to go berrying or nutting. But when women spoke of planting trees along the roadside, we could not help remember the thing that club women are doing in Tennessee to beautify the broad concrete highways, bordered as they often are by deep ditches. They are planting the wild sweet white and yellow honeysuckle that blossoms far into the summer months. Driving at nights, one meets such breaths of sweetness in the air, it is at times almost unbearable.

ENGINEER GAVE UP, WENT HOME

Says He Could Not Stand Indigestion Any Longer — Relieved By Black-Draught

Pulaski, Va.—How a railroad engineer was relieved of indigestion was described by Mr. C. K. Nelson, a Fourth street resident of this city. Mr. Nelson said:

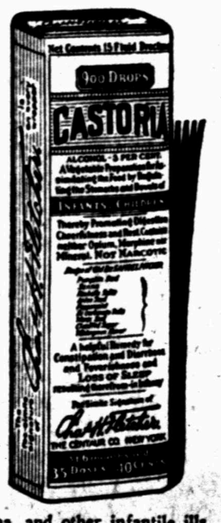

"I was suffering from stomach trouble in 1917, and had been suffering for some time. I had a tightness in my chest, a shortness of breath. There seemed to be a heavy weight in the pit of my stomach, and quite a bit of nausea, yet I couldn't vomit. I tried different remedies, yet suffered on just the same. When in West Virginia, on a work train, I was in such a condition that I just gave up and came home. I couldn't stand to work, in my condition.

"Some one told me about Black-Draught. I started taking it in small doses after meals. It helped me and I went back to work.

"One morning while on my engine I felt like I would smother. I stopped in a little town, bought a package of Black-Draught, took a dose and later in the day took another dose. It relieved me and I have not had a bad spell like that in more than two and a half years."

"Cowboy! This pie-crust quits!"

Have you heard about the cowboy who almost caused a riot in the Texas Hotel by ordering a whole pie?

"Boy!" he said afterward, "the minute you put that crust into your mouth, it quit!"

All pie-crust properly made with Crisco is just that tender. But the cowboy told only half the story. A good pie-crust tastes good. And a Crisco pie-crust can't help tasting good because Crisco tastes sweet and fresh by itself.

I'm careful of my money, but there's no saving for me in fats less fine than Crisco. To be sure they cost less. (Naturally!) But I'm practical. I know that sweet, tender cakes and fine-tasting pie-crust can't come out of shortenings that are the least bit "off." I've stopped fooling myself that I can buy Crisco's quality at less than Crisco's price.

Crisco is as smooth and fluffy as whipped cream all through—never yellowish or streaky! It tastes as sweet as new-churned, unsalted butter—never tallowy or rancid like pail-fats. It stays fresh and fluffy to the last spoonful in the can, without ice-box help, even when the thermometer seems ready to shoot off its top!

Have you noticed the apricot pie in the picture? Doesn't it look tempting? The last time I visited New York, I tasted this grand, gooey pie in a little restaurant in Greenwich Village. No wonder it was so popular!

When I asked the chef for the recipe, he admitted he made the pie-crust according to my instructions. "But the transcendental filling is mine!" he said dramatically. Do make this delicious pie and see how you like our team-work!

A product of the Southwest—made right here.

TRANSCENDENT APRICOT PIE

3 cups cooked apricots (fresh, canned or dried)
2 tablespoons Crisco
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon ginger
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt

Press apricots through a sieve. Mix sugar, cornstarch, ginger and salt together and blend with apricots. Cook until thick (about 15 minutes) in double boiler. Remove from fire. Add Crisco and lemon juice. Cool and pour into baked pastry shell. Cover with sweetened whipped cream.

PASTRY SHELL: 1½ cups flour, ½ cup Crisco, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 to 6 tablespoons cold water. Sift flour and salt together. Cut shortening in well with two knives. Add only enough water to hold mixture together. Roll on floured board ¼ inch thick. For baked shell, line pie-plate. Allow enough dough to fold back to make a firm edge. Prick well with fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) for 15 minutes. And if you don't take out the crispiest pastry you ever ate I simply don't know what good pastry is!

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL—Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by the Procter & Gamble Co.

DAM PROJECT STUDY MADE

North Texas Hopeful For Favorable Report

Special to The Record News

AUSTIN, Sept. 18.—North Texas is hopefully awaiting a favorable report of government engineers on a project for the biggest water storage reservoir in the United States, according to Senator-elect J. J. Loy of Sherman.

The federal engineers have studied, as a part of the Red-Mississippi flood control program, building a dam in the Red river at Denison that would create a lake of 1,000 miles shore line, he said. A report is to be made soon. The proposed storage would provide for irrigation, for flood protection in five states, and would make a navigable body of water assuring water-compelled freight rates that would save shippers at least $15,000,000 per year, Mr. Loy said. Cost of the dam was estimated at $35,000,000.

The reservoir would store up flood waters to check the crest of floods down the Red river and into the Mississippi that would protect Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Approximately 35 government engineers have been at work at the proposed dam site at Denison for weeks studying the project, Mr. Loy said.

Geisking Not Identified As Murderer of Lingle

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 18. (UP)—One of the many trails which investigators have travelled in attempting to solve the slaying of Alfred Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, appeared to have ended here today with declaration that Ted Geisking, Indiana gangster, was not the slayer.

Two witnesses to Lingle's slaying and Pat Roche, chief investigator of the state's attorney's office in Chicago, failed to identify Geisking as the left-handed man who on June 9 shot Lingle to death in a pedestrian subway. Geisking probably will be taken to Indiana where he is wanted on numerous charges, officials said.

Andree Relics Belong To Heirs, Experts Advise

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 18. The committee advised that the claims of those who found the 33-year-old relics must be settled under Norwegian laws, which provide that articles found must be handed to the owner and the finder must be given a reasonable reward.

An Age of Rackets Night Club Judges A Wet Roosevelt

By EMILE GAUVREAU

You read of racketeers who "shake down" the rich who prefer to pay up than to tell the police. Sometimes it appears the racket has become a permanent part of American civilization. This day of age is a sinful one. All the ills of Babylon, of Rome in its worst day, Tyre, and even Sodom and Gomorrah, seem to be upon us. Reading history you will conclude that degeneration in modes and morals is ever the concomitant of a "high degree of civilization."

Highly civilized judges in New York find it difficult to stand the strain. One of them, a supreme court justice, has disappeared. Pictures of lady "hostesses" whom he met in a night club are beginning to appear in the papers, all very enjoyable to the ladies in question. The night club which was the judge's hang-out is owned by a gang leader, Sing Sing graduate, who walks down the street arm in arm with a Tammany leader, both doing well. Now the judge is gone.

Look at it philosophically. Bootlegging, blackmailing and racketeering are nothing new. Back in the sixteenth century they called the members of the fraternity "leaguers." A writer, Pierre De L'Estoile, speaks of them in his journal as follows:

"In these days (1589) to rob a man's neighbor, to murder his nearest relative, to plunder altars, to desecrate churches, to violate wives and maids, to hold every living soul to ransom, was the regular business of the ledguer."

"War is certain," declares Aristide Briand, "unless Europe unites." It is certain that Europe will not unite, and it is equally certain therefore, that Europe will have more wars. Therefore the wisest policy that the United States can pursue, if we desire peace, is to continue to heed the wise behest of President Monroe, whose doctrine aimed to protect us not only during his administration, but for all times.

It is true that the world is being knit in a closer union; it is true that the interests of one nation, and one continent, are bound up inextricably with the interests of another nation and another continent. Nevertheless, it remains just as true that, as Switzerland, in the very midst of the recent world conflagration, stayed neutral and militarily unaffected, the United States could stand apart likewise and profit by the example.

Dealing with other nations does not imply that we have to go to war with them when they have a falling out. Europe is pledged to war. The United States is pledged to peace. That explains everything.

Governor Roosevelt, watching the political barometer, takes a stand for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The men that favor the repeal are not topers. On the contrary, they are men of abstinence, men of the caliber of Dr. Butler, ex-Senator Wadsworth, Ambassador Morrow. If prohibition did anything but degrade America, these men would be for it, whatever their personal bias. But prohibition has not only failed, it has criminalized. That is what our prominent wets are afraid of—the degeneration and final decay of the moral fiber of our nation under a law that no one respects and few observe.

Germany showed a decline in births and an increase in deaths and marriages in 1929 over 1928.

Abe Martin

(Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

"O' course, grand opery is jest as unprofitable as farmin,' but it's civilized, an' besides you don't have to milk in the snow or git up at noon," says Farmer Lile Kite, "she's takin' voice culture an' studying Italian. Senator Simeon Fess says President Hoover 'll be renominated an' elected. Sim is from Yellow Springs, Ohio, an' ought to know.

The Civic Shakespeare society in Chicago reports that to study Shakespeare is to acquire a liberal education. It will be well, therefore, for those seeking liberal educations to adopt the slogan: "Where there's a Will, there's a way."

It is with no feeling of exasperation, you may be sure, that the haberdasher says, "That's the last straw."

Mlle. Paulette Bernage of Paris said after a three months' tour of the United States, that American women drink more orange juice than gin. It's ginger ale they use, and in real small proportions, too.

Coming Home to Roost

THE ins and outs of European politics do not mean a great deal to the average American, even though 1917 proved that what happens in Europe can have a very direct and pointed effect on us. However, the results of the German general election are worth a few minutes of study.

The most interesting thing about the election was not the surprising gain in Fascist strength in the reichstag, menacing as that may be to the peace of Europe; nor was it the similar increase in Communist strength, likewise a disturbing portent.

More interesting than either of these things was a paragraph in a cable dispatch commenting on the election. This paragraph read:

"The younger generation, which grew up under privations and suffering of the great war and the blockade and the post-war inflation period, came out in force. Persons of 30 or under, disgruntled with the bourgeoise parties, commonly cast their lot and their votes with the Fascists or the Communists."

There is a good deal to think about in the implications of that paragraph. It explains things that otherwise might be puzzling.

The current unrest in Germany may be loaded with dynamite, both for Germany and her neighbors, but the cause is not far to seek. The youth of the nation is simply reaching the point where it feels that affairs have been mishandled for a decade and a half. When youth gets in that mood anything can happen.

The election indicates, besides, that the chickens are coming home to roost; that a good share of the world's troubles today—much as we might like to believe otherwise—stem directly from the world war.

For mankind, between 1914 and 1918, was busily engaged in sowing the wind; and since then, in various places, it has been reaping the whirlwind. Russia's long affliction with Bolshevism, England's difficulties with India, France's hectic search for "security," with its attendant militarism, Germany's crisis in which Fascism and Communism loom up as perilous alternatives—what are these things but our heritage from the war? What caused them but the prolonged insanity that began in 1914?

That is something that we cannot afford to forget. It is easy, for instance, to deplore Germany's restlessness and to hope piously that this restlessness does not eventually crack the peace of Europe; but it would be foolish not to recognize this restlessness as born of the war. The war, in fact, is not over. Its dire effects will outlive our generation.

War, in more ways than one, is costly and unsettling. If we are compelled to realize it, it will be good for us.

The Side-Line Verdict

SUCH is the appeal of true, unadulterated sportsmanship that 90 per cent of the American public probably read with sincere regret of the catastrophe which took Sir Thomas Lipton's "Shamrock" out of the third race with the yacht "Enterprise," representing the United States at Newport Wednesday morning.

The degree of amateur sportsmanship which is represented in the genial old Irishman is not determined nor induced by the rules of the game. His freedom from prejudice, his unfailing gentility and generosity toward his opponents is born of a rare largeness of heart. Despite America's long string of victories over Sir Tom's prized creations, the old boy comes back regularly with a smile, and apparently with zest undimmed. Craving victory for his ship which flies the flag of Erin, he yet prizes the spectacle of white-winged ships skimming over the blue waters into, across and with the wind far more highly than the temporary designation as winner.

Persons who cheer raucously when the opposing fielder muffs a fly-ball; who rejoice with much shouting when an opposing football team is penalized for an off-side play; who let out a terrific whoop when the enemy's sure basket somehow squirms out of the loop—thousands of these will join in regretting that the Shamrock's mainsail collapsed just when Sir Tom's sea-bird seemed off to a good start. In the admiring respect which he has won from all classes, rather than in cups, he has his reward.

The "Lame Ducks" Will Return

THIS is about as good a time as any to point out that the "lame duck" evil is still with us.

A great many congressmen and senators have already been balked by the voters in their desire to return to Washington. Many more will fall by the wayside in November. Yet all of these defeated lawmakers will convene in December, impowered to continue at the work of legislation for 13 months after they have been voted out of office.

There is no excuse whatever for any further failure on the part of congress to eliminate the lame duck. The Norris amendment, which would prevent a man sitting as a lawmaker after the voters have announced that they want no more of him, has repeatedly passed the senate. It should pass the house at the next session. Not one valid reason can be cited in opposition to it.

Portrait of Man Talking to Himself

Well, I guess I won't rate a pass to heaven, after all . . . I'm a bad boy, that's what I am . . . All the time making cracks . . . The very idea! . . . Daring to have a sense of humor! . . . On the other hand, maybe if I ever become an editor (gahfobid!) I'll get emotional and ridiculous the way Harvey got . . . All because I printed about his costly transatlantic call to Mme. Coste (who spoke in French) and his reporter only savvies slang . . . So Harvey got dramatic and started an investigation to "find out how Winchell got that stuff!" . . . Haw! . . . Maybe Harvey's face would get purple if he learned that one of his Sherlocks gave it to me! . . . If they were good detectives, then they'd know by now that it didn't come from Harvey's staff . . . So all right . . . They find out the source . . . et 'em . . . So suppose the grand guy with the sense of humor (the most priceless of the inheritances) gets fired? . . . So what happens? . . . I use every influence to connect him with my rag or two others . . . Hearst chirped a mouthful when he recently said that when a man wants you to keep anything out of the paper it is good news! . . . When he wants you to print it—it is propaganda or advertising! What Harvey didn't want printed was good news . . . My ambition is to be a good newspaper man.

That's what slays me . . . They say it takes 65 muscles to frown and only five to smile . . . Some guys would rather tire themselves out scowling instead of laughing and lasting . . . The funniest gags told about me were first printed in my column, if I heard them before my contemporaries did . . . And, anyway, I didn't squawk when Harvey headlined his front page with "Mrs. Winchell Arrested!" the time a woman by that name was nabbed in Brooklyn for teaching kids how to burgle . . . All the other rags gave it ten lines and a single column head, which it rated because it was an unimportant bit of news . . . But the enterprising Harvey probably figured the name would sell in the Times Square district, so he made a pretty hot front page banner out of it . . . Lovely fellow . . . More amusing than his Mme. Coste gag, though, was what happened over at the N. Y. American . . . They wanted to check up on the rumor of the pope's illness . . . So after getting the vatican on the transatlantic phone, they realized the only one in the office who could talk Italian was one of the office boys . . . Who was so excited and thrilled, he couldn't remember what they said!

Newspaper men and newspaper stuff excite me . . . They are more spellbinding than all the movie and stage stars and their stories . . . Which usually are about their marriages, divorces, two-timing and their temperaments . . . There's that celver stunt that was pulled down in the S. American countries where they are putting presidents on the spot . . . When the recent fireworks began, the censors muffled all cable press dispatches, but forgot to stifle the radio phones . . . After the Times used the radio phone, at hundreds of dollars per minute, to get the Buenos Aires revolution yarns, the censors woke up and clamped that, too . . . But one newspaper lad, Percy Foster, was too smart . . . Even with the censors listening in to make sure no news got through, Forster, the International News Service man, began making scoopee thru to N. Y., on the refusal of the Argentine navy to fire on army revolters and the joining of the revolution by the gobs . . . The INS lad, who rates a wage tilt and promotion, called up H. C. Montee, cable editor of the INS here, and began telling him jokes . . . Montee wondered if his correspondent was nuts . . . Then the correspondent pulled his punch-line: "The fishermen are jumpy, but they won't bite" . . . Montee got it! . . . The navy had refused to join the revolution! . . . News!

And the wallop that went with blasting the one about the doll from the night club (now in a hospital) who was last seen with the "lost" Supreme Court Justice Crater . . . A new clue! . . . Maybe it would help locate him? . . . The reporter who landed it almost choked because he couldn't get it in his own rag, the last edition of which had been put to bed . . . So he phoned a pal on the opposition journal, which beat its nearest rival by two hours with the tale . . . "Thanks," the pal said to the Santa Claus the next day, "but the gal who is in the hospital has two gorillas guarding her from reporters and they have vowed to bump off the guy who spilled it!" . . . Hooey . . . The guy who spilled it was the one who promoted the "gorills" to frighten off other reporters! . . . Newman Levy once wrote it in the thrilling manner something like this: So here's to the gallant reporters, the boys with the pencils and pads. Those calm, imperturable, cool, undisturbable, nervy, inquisitive lads. Each time that we pick up a paper, their marvelous deeds we should bless. Those bold, reprehensible, brave, indispensable, sensible lads of the press!

I must remember what to say the next time an aspiring reporter wants counsel . . . I'll give him what Lord Castlerosse told me Ruddy Kipling gave him . . . Kip flipped: "After you've written your article, read it over carefully, then eliminate all the adjectives, all the four-syllable words, and never use three words when you can use two" . . . Lord Casserole's discussion of the Rudy Vallee feud with newspaper men was amusing . . . Rudy, it appears, has been snapping back at reporters all over the country . . . His lordship points out that anyone who tiffs with newspaper men starts off with two strikes on him, because the newspaper man can always have the final word . . . "The person," said Cassy, "who quarrels with a newspaper man is as silly as the fellow who matches his mouth-made 'razzberry' against thunder."

Oop! So Sorreh

"You're all wrong," writes Jack Shuttleworth, author of "Noble Experiments" (the book of recipes), "about giving a man an inch and he'll start a sissy golf course. He'll park his Austin."

Add Sillies

Hal Salzman, the punch, drunkard, can make up a sentence with the word "girdle" like this: "Girdle protect the working girl."

The AGE of YOUTH

A New Serial by ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

Illustrated by Jay Hyde Barnum — Copyrighted by Public Ledger

THE STORY THUS FAR

Hopeless because of her failure to make a decent living in New York City, pretty Donna Raynor writes to Randolph Granby, a wealthy bachelor, if could get a rich husband if I had the proper setting. It would cost a thousand a month and I'd need two years to get the proper man. Will you give it to me?"

Intrigued by the girl's personality and her unconventional ideas, Granby accepts her proposal. Through his brokers Donna receives $25,000; Granby prepares to sail for France, and Donna leaves her shabby hotel for a more fashionable address in the exclusive fifties.

Shortly after she retires, a handsome young man, intoxicated, enters Donna's apartment. "Believe I'll marry you," says the youthful visitor, who, Donna learns, is none other than Frank Gardner, wealthiest and most sought-after bachelor in America.

Now Continue the Story

Orchids

Frank Gardner had achieved nothing in politics, the arts, commerce or finance. But there was more interest in his goings and comings than in the movements of any young man in the country, with the possible exception of Lindbergh and Rudy Vallee.

He had been born to 40 millions.

The self-announced democrat may declare that a man's personality is what matters, and that his material possessions are of no possible interest in a summation of his character, but if those possessions have made his character, what then? One cannot look at the Prince of Wales as a young bachelor. One must look upon him as the heir to the throne of England. He can be regarded in no other way. Whatever he does, whatever he is, must necessarily be part and parcel of his destiny.

So with young Gardner. To consider him without also considering his wealth would be like considering the earth without the sun. He was Frank Gardner. The two were inseparable. He had been born not merely with blue eyes and a snubby nose but with millions. And the press, which infallibly reflects the attitude of the public, had made much of him.

His entry in the Grand National; the prize he offered for the endurance flight; his chances for making the American polo team, now unhappily blasted by his terrific thirst; the attentions he paid to this or that girl—he was news. The most eligible bachelor in America, the newspapers called him. They referred, of course, to his money. That he might have character, health, or brains, was quite beside the point. When one uses the word "eligibility" with regard to a young woman or man, one means primarily, money. Secondarily, one means social position, only hardly any one knows exactly what that means.

Weaving back and forth in the bedroom doorway, Gardner beamed upon the lady of his sudden drunken choice.

"You think—Frank Gardner intoxicated. Perfly correct. Your perspicacity most remarkable. But, drunk or sober, always stand by word. Leave it to good old Jennie. Jennie knows me. Jennie'll tell you."

Beyond him, her ineffectual protests against this invasion stilled, stood the maid, clasping and unclasping her hands. Her attitude was mute but sufficient evidence that Libby Prentiss, unconventional though report had her, did not entertain intoxicated youths in her apartment.

"Will you be kind enough to end this intrusion?"

Donna finally found her voice and the blush that overspread her face was not due solely to the fact that masculine eyes looked upon her in her bed. She was embarrassed because she sounded exactly like a servant attempting the grand manner.

Far better, she furiously told herself, had she sworn at him. It was not too late now.

"Get the hell out of here before I call the police," she amended.

Young Gardner's mouth, which had been mocking, now twisted in a sympathetic grin.

"Only poss'ble way lady could appeal to man in my condition," he said. "Apol'gize again for intrusion. G'by."

Abruptly he turned, making a valiant effort to walk straight, would have collapsed with Jennie but that the maid stepped to one side with a quite surprising agility, and in a moment the outer door slammed behind him.

"Well," ejaculated the maid. "I never saw him—terribly sorry, Miss Raynor, but—he pushed right by me—"

"Never saw him!" cried Donna.

"That way," amended the maid.

She lingered in the doorway now. On her tongue lingered a score of disclosures. She would tell all about every visit that Frank Gardner had ever paid to Libby Prentiss' apartment. She would disgorge herself of enough gossip to keep a society reporter in columns for a week. Donna had never boasted a maid before. In that small town where she had been born and "raised," as the neighbors would have phrased it, the Raynors had kept one maid-of-all-work. Jennie, inherited from Libby Prentiss, was cook and chambermaid for Donna now, but her outlook upon life was that of the personal maid. She would do more for a bachelor maid than she would if employed where there were other servants, because of higher wages and more freedom, inconsistent though this sounded. She had stayed on with Donna because she envisioned week-ends when her new mistress—like her old—would be absent on house parties, night after night when she would have only to prepare her own dinner. She was by no means like the old-fashioned maid-of-all-work, and would have resigned any place where she was considered such.

Upon her ears, attuned to certain nuances, Donna's first utterance had grated, exactly as it had upon the more sensitive ears of Frank Gardner. But Donna's profane request had sounded exactly like Libby Prentiss, to Jennie, and Gardner's reception of the invitation, and his subsequent manner toward Donna, cast out from the maid's mind any lingering doubt that Donna didn't belong. Only two classes of women swore: the vulgar and the aristocratic. And the vulgar wouldn't swear at a man like Mr. Gardner. Therefore Miss Raynor was of the upper circle. Jennie, who would not have gossiped with a chorus girl, was prepared to gossip with Donna.

Now Donna wanted to listen to gossip. Everything that she picked up concerning the Frank Gardners of the new world she hoped to conquer might prove of value to her. A good general doesn't disdain information concerning the enemy no matter how unconsidered the source. But Donna had a certain native shrewdness. If she permitted Jennie to tell her gossip, Jennie would, in later conversation with other maids, disclose the fact that Donna lent a receptive ear to scandal. Other maids would talk to their mistresses; it would transpire that Miss Raynor liked to hear about the socially great.

No great crime in this. The person who doesn't care to munch a juicy bit of scandal lacks normal curiosity. But in the sort of campaign that Donna planned to wage there was a certain advantage to be gained by letting the world see only what sides of her she chose to present. To be pictured by a servant meant possible disadvantage. For instance, she should present her own attitude toward a young man, not permit a servant to present it. And—this was vital—one cannot listen to confidences without giving them in return. If she permitted Jennie to gossip, inadvertently she would let drop something about herself, about her past—no, it wouldn't do. Not mysterious, because that sort of thing would arouse unpleasant speculation, but aloof, remote.

"Good night, Jennie," she said.

The maid straightened. Here was drama and her mistress wasn't interested. The great Frank Gardner, whose greatness did not exist merely in the minds of shopgirls, but who was great to the persons of his own set, was so unimportant that Miss Raynor didn't care to hear about him. Miss Raynor must consider herself pretty important. The maid, snubbed, retired from the room with an accession of respect for her mistress.

A minor triumph, Donna realized, but still a triumph. But she didn't read the books or magazines with which she had equipped herself. She did, however, smoke the cigarets, smoked too many of them, and in the curling smoke she saw visions.

"How would you like to be Mrs. Frank Gardner?"

Of course, the youth was intoxicated. His question meant nothing. Nevertheless, it had been put into words, and she repeated it to herself, over and over again.

How would she? Putting the question academically, she tried to answer it in the same fashion.

He had the things she wanted, money and position. Would it be possible for her to feel the thing that she must feel—love?

But finally she turned out the light and went to sleep with a smile of self-mockery on her lips. Because a drunken man intruded on her, paid her a drunken compliment, must she lose all sense of values?

A respectful Jennie brought a dainty breakfast in the morning. Donna devoured it with healthy appetite. Propped up in bed she read the morning paper. She learned that Randolph Granby had been among the passengers on the Ile de France. Likewise, amid other notables, appeared the name of Libby Prentiss.

She smoked a cigaret after breakfast, making mental note of the fact that she was smoking too many, and slipped down deeper into the covers. The shops would begin sending things over shortly; why not lie abed until they came, and survey herself in the mirror?

A thought that had come uninvited last night reappeared. Would it be easy to give up this luxury? Moral fibers softened more quickly than physical muscles. Enervation of the spirit was to be dreaded far more than any mere physical anemia.

Why should she lie in bed? She'd not thought, when she wrote Randolph Granby asking for money, to lie abed. She'd had plans, definite plans, and was on fire to attempt their execution. She leaped from her couch, smiling at her sudden eagerness, and bathed and dressed.

She would not be home for luncheon. That had been part of her arrangement with Jennie. Of course, if she gave a luncheon, it would be frequently at home, and Jennie would be reimbursed accordingly. But there would be no guests for today. She wondered, with that sudden sinking which was to assail her again, just when she would bring some one home. For, whoever it might be that graced her board, it would necessarily be some one whom she did not know now. For she had definitely and forever severed all connection with all acquaintance of the past. She had a momentary qualm, pondering this, as she thought of Jinny Loan. But continued friendship with Jinny wasn't worth the price such friendship would cost. Jinny was out.

Arrayed for the street, she surveyed herself in the mirror. The sun streaming in through the window assured her that summer was almost here. It was not a day for a coat, although the tan tweed which she had bought yesterday fairly cried aloud for wearing. Reluctantly she put it back on a hanger in the closet, adjusted the black felt hat with the tiny brim, pulling it down closer upon her head, smoothed the black silk ensemble

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Thousands of government experts are working constantly for the benefit of all citizens of the United States. They will work directly for you if you will call for the fruits of their labors through our Washington bureau. State your inquiry briefly, write clearly, and, enclosing two-cent stamp for a personal letter in reply, address the Record-News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What is the probable reason for King David making reference to renewing "thy youth like the eagle's"?—F. C.

A.—The International Critical Commentary of the Bible says with respect to the verse you cite that the metaphor undoubtedly originated in the known longevity of the eagle and the fact that even at the present time an infirm or ailing eagle is hardly known. The ancients were superstitious in their veneration of this bird and endowed it with many supernatural powers which do not exist in actual fact.

Q.—What is galvanizing?—F. R.

A.—Galvanizing is a process by which metal sheets and other parts passed through a pot of molten zinc take on a protective coating of that metal. The coating must be thin enough to permit forming into spouting, cornices, gutters, etc., without cracking, and so permitting corrosion to take place at the exposed portion; and thick enough to provide satisfactory durability against the effect of atmospheric gases, moisture, etc.

Q.—Are children in cities or in the country healthier?—L. U.

A.—It is believed that, taken on the whole, city dwellers are healthier than rural dwellers. Dr. Wood of Columbia university says that the need for health instruction in rural communities is greater than the need for such instruction in the cities.

Q.—Why are there more earthquakes in Europe and Asia than in the United States?—B. H.

A.—The occurrence of earthquakes depends on strains set up by changes in elevation and other slow earth movements. There are more such actively moving regions in Europe and Asia than in the United States, hence more quakes. The details as to why certain regions are in this state of change, and others are not, are not fully known.

Q.—Why is the term bachelor used in college degrees?—T. C. M.

A.—The term bachelor was first used in connection with the preliminary stage of knighthood. A bachelor knight was one who had not yet raised his standards in the field of chivalry. It was therefore used to indicate the acquirement of the first degrees in the liberal arts or sciences, the masters' or doctors' degrees indicating those who had attained a higher degree of proficiency through experience.

Q.—What use can be made of grape juice that has turned sour?—G. A. P.

A.—It may be used as vinegar after being clarified and filtered.

Q.—Why may the cold air of winter be very disagreeable although the percentage of humidity may not be very high?—A. L.

A.—The effect of the air on the body depends on how near the percentage of moisture in it comes to being the greatest the air can hold. Air can hold much more moisture when hot than it can when cold, and the raw cold air of winter is near the point where some of its moisture will condense. Heat the same air to 70 degrees and it feels dry.

Q.—What is meant by the law of protective coloration in animals?—R. M.

A.—The law of protective coloration in animals relates to the law of nature which gives animals and birds the colors which enable them to hide themselves readily. For instance, some birds are colored about the same as the trunk of a tree.

Q.—What kind of apparatus was used to raise and lower the drawbridges and portcullises of medieval times?—A. R.

A.—The portcullis was hung so as to slide up and down in grooves with counterbalances. They were made of strong-framed grating of oaks, the lower points shod with iron. Sometimes they were made entirely of metal. The drawbridge was raised by chains and counterweights attached to levers projecting from the wall at a proper distance above it. The levers were elevated by heavy weights attached to their inner extremities, the wall forming the fulcrum.

Q.—Is there any way to keep the finger nails clean when working around machinery?—B. G.

A.—Putting cold cream under the nails before starting to work will prove helpful.

Q.—Was Napoleon's wife exiled with him?—F. K.

A.—She was not exiled. She returned to live with her family.

Q.—When did the furniture maker, Sheraton, live?—M. C.

A.—He was born in 1751 and died in 1806.

The Record News Offers A Booklet on House Cleaning

Keeping everlastingly at it is the secret of good house cleaning. This means keeping the house clean, rather than cleaning thoroughly at long intervals. It means daily tidying of the rooms in constant use, distributing the cleaning, especially the heavy kinds, through the week, and removing dirt not only frequently but thoroughly by methods that have been proved good according to both scientific and practical standards. All the members of the household can help, if only by keeping their own possessions in order and putting things that they use in place in good condition.

There is a wealth of such valuable instruction in the booklet on house cleaning now offered Record News readers. Send for a copy today, using this coupon.

JUDGES BACK BOND ISSUE

Convention Favors Plan For Road Building

FORT WORTH, Sept. 18. (AP)—Adoption of a plan of financing a connected system of Texas highways that will relieve individual counties of their share of the highway tax burden, and pay indebtedness already contracted by them in the building of state roads through bond issues, was advocated in an address by W. R. Ely, Abilene, a member of the state highway commission, before the association of county judges and county commissioners of Texas here today.

Present Plan Opposed

"The Democratic platform plan for the state's highways does not specify the voting of a $350,000,000 bond issue but does state its opposition to the present antiquated plan of financing our roads and urges the legislature to adopt the bond plan or devise a better one," Ely said. "Personally, I am in favor of the bond issue and feel sure that the legislature will find no better plan for correcting our present situation.

"There is one feature of the bond plan which I am sure many counties have not seen and realized. Voting of the bond issue would mean the transferring of any existing county bond issue indebtedness to the state, thus relieving the counties of that burden.

Burden on Traffic

"I have always contended that it is not right to ask home owners and farmers to bear the road building tax burden but that the burden should be placed on the highway traffic, the people who use and wear out the roads."

Ely's remarks were greeted with applause. The convention passed a motion thanking him for his address and indorsing his statements and proposals.

Action Is Continued On Oil Receivership Plea

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 18. (AP)—Action on the federal court application for a receivership for the Superior Oil company was continued today by Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer until Sept. 26. Receiverships already have been created for the company by state courts in Oklahoma, Kansas, Delaware and Texas.

Judge Kennamer said there was a question of whether a federal court could name a receiver to supplant receivers appointed by state courts. He said that an arbitrary demand upon the receivers already named to relinquish their authority to a federally-named receiver might bring additional legal troubles.

The federal court application, alleging mismanagement of the company's affairs, was filed in behalf of stockholders. The state court receiverships were obtained by groups of creditors.

URGES FIGHT FOR SMALL INTERESTS

Wichita Falls Record News:

I have been confined to my bed for almost two weeks on account of a recent car accident. Consequently, I haven't been able to do anything except listen to the radio and read the news. I have been enjoying reading the Wichita Falls Record News, and I wish you would see that I get it every morning.

I noticed an article in the Record News of Tuesday the 16th of September headed "Government Wins Suit to Break up Alleged Oil Price Fixing Pact" I rejoiced after reading the heading as I beleived it had reference to the crude oil, but after reading through I found out it was in regard to the fixing and controlling the gasoline prices by the Standard Oil company. And I thank God for allowing someone with nerve and courage enough to look after the welfare of the citizens of this great nation. I further thank the Lord Jehovah for allowing such a judge the power of rendering such a decision. And I hope that we will have some more of these adjustments.

I know that there isn't any citizen who is reasonably fair who will feel prejudice against the Standard Oil company or any other big capitalist concern as long as they give the chance to the middle class to live. But after we look into our present condition and see the hard times the people are facing and going through, I can't neither can anyone else remain silent. Perhaps some of us will charge the condition to fast living or to the high cost of living. There may be some who charge the conditions of the present times to the stride we have become accustomed to since the world war. This might have something to do with it. But I believe that most of our trouble and hard times come from the dealings of the capitalist and the Standard Oil company with the public. For instance the oil industry a few years ago and before the Standard company began its operations in Texas, the little man who dealt in the oil business had a chance to make a living and some money. But after John D. worked through and got hold and began to operate in the states of Texas and Oklahoma under the name of different subsidiary companies, then the oil man and the royalty owners began to feel the stress and go down the hill. In the first place the Standard Oil company organized with the big measure company to quit buying any leases from the small operators. And instead of buying offsets to a drilling well and give a small operator a chance to make a little money they hired their own force and blocked their own acreage and kicked the little operator out. They generally buy 10-year leases and keep down development. Of course this is injurious to the royalty owners and to the community at large.

The Standard Oil company and the big measure company was not satisfied with the producing and refining of oil, and in order to cripple and block the little man they went into the retail business and established their filling stations in every town and city that amounts to anything at all, and began to crush the middle man and put him out of business. They put their own prices on oil when they wanted to buy and set the prices on the gasoline when they wanted to sell it. In fact it is a onesided question, and for this reason the suit came about.

The Standard Oil company is not stopping at this measure but they are going into the retail business handling tires, tubes, and acessories in their filling stations. Then the tire dealers will have to step out.

Now my friends and fellow citizens, if we are real citizens and the blood runs in our veins as human beings we should cooperate together and put our shoulders to the wheel and look after our own interests and affairs; we must put a stop to this, or just vacate the country in favor of John D. Rockefeller and his associates. The money is in the hands of a very few and the conditions are becoming worse, and I believe it is time for us to wake up.

Very truly yours,
S. S. KOURL

GLAND DOCTOR SEEKING WRIT

Rejuvenator Fights State Closing Sanitarium

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 18. (UP)—Attorneys for Dr. John R. Brinkley announced today they would seek an injunction to prevent the state board of medical registration from closing the palatial sanitarium at Milford where Brinkley performed "rejuvenation" operations and broadcast prescriptions by radio to unseen patients.

The board yesterday found Brinkley, whom the members had watched perform two rejuvenation operations, guilty of "gross immorality and unprofessional conduct" and revoked his license.

Brinkley also was found guilty of "fraud and deceit in advertisements sent through the mails promising to bring back youth by transplantation of goat and human glands."

The physician today faced charges filed with the Missouri medical board similar to those of "gross immorality and unprofessional conduct" which caused the Kansas board of medical registration to revoke his license yesterday.

While Attorney General Smith of Kansas was taking steps to close Brinkley's sanitarium and silence his radio broadcasting set Missouri officers were gathering evidence to present at the doctor's trial before the state medical board Oct. 2.

Gin in First Season Is Destroyed by Fire

CORSICANA, Texas, Sept. 18. (AP)—The A. G. Smith cotton gin at Roan, near here, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin last night. Smith, the owner, said the $18,000 loss was covered in part by insurance.

The season was the first for the gin, a previous structure on the same spot having burned after the close of the season last year. Some cotton and the seed house were saved through the assistance of a Corsicana fire department chemical truck.

The Age of Youth

which she had selected, and was consulting the Social Directory when the doorbell rang.

She let Jennie answer, and had put away the directory when the maid entered her bedroom. She bore a box obviously from the florist. As one not unaccustomed to receiving flowers, Donna told the maid to open the box.

Orchids! She'd never had one in her life before! Three gorgeous purple blooms. How sweet of Randolph Granby to remember her thus. She was thanking him inwardly as she opened the tiny envelope that nestled amid the flowers. Bless his thoughtful, generous heart.

Then, as she saw the name and message on the card, her heart seemed to thump against her ribs.

"With all the apologies there are. Frank Gardner."

How had he known her name? But she didn't speculate too long on that detail. The elevator boy, the doorman downstairs—he could have found out her name from any one of a dozen sources.

Did women wear orchids in the daytime? She racked her memory for recollection of the various young fashionables whom she had seen at her weekly luncheons at the Colony, at Sherry's, at the Marguery. Of course they did.

About her shoulders she pinned the gray fox, and to it she pinned a bloom, so that it was upon her left shoulder. The telephone rang as she manipulated the flower into the most effective position.

"Mr. Gardner telephoning," Jennie informed her.

"Not in," said Donna carelessly. She added to the misinformation: "Tell him that Miss Raynor does not wish to speak to him."

Crude, but—effective. But what a hurry the boy was in. She had not done service in the Frivols chorus without knowing something of the fashion in which youths of the Gardner type "rushed" their fancies. But Gardner, though not sober, must have retained sufficient recollection of her appearance to incite him to speedy action this morning. The orchids first and now this telephone call.

Her cool refusal to talk to him would lead to one of three things: Mistaking her utterly, he would deluge her with orchids with notes, and finally would accost her outside somewhere. Or she would never hear from him again. Or—and this was what she hoped and prayed for—he would make every possible effort to meet her in a conventional fashion.

But that would take time. Meanwhile, she would take the first step in her campaign. And the first step was a call upon Mme. Rosalie Galere. Mme. Galere taught singing. But she had also achieved recognition by the social directory. If one followed these matters as, recently, Donna Raynor had done, one was aware that Mme. Galere's pupils were not chosen at random.

Mme. Galere was the arts' sweet boon to wealth. She it was who discovered that the Junior league's membership held more operatic and dramatic talent than one would believe possible to be encompassed in one club roster. When any amateur musical or theatrical performance was staged, it was Mme Galere who selected the voices, coached the ambitious amateurs, and saw to it that Belfield and Gasco and Willington, and all the other prominent professional theatrical producers, were on hand at rehearsals.

"Miss Sally Hemingway receives professional offer from Belfield. Gasco says that banker's daughter would make great star. Willington offers lead in new play to Junior league debutante."

Of course, these young women would not consider professional careers. Nevertheless, they usually kept the clippings. The town is filled with young matrons who—quite casually—let it be known that, had not parental objection or marriage intervened, art would have received a decided impetus.

Donna had heard of Mme. Galere while still in the Frivols. She had heard Roy Farrel cursing because he had been compelled to leave a rehearsal in order to listen to voices at Mme. Galere's.

"Not go?" he said to his dance man. "What the hell? That old girl's pupils are all daughters of millionaires. Boost one of them and you get a bid to a party. Get to the party and you meet daddy. Meet daddy and you have a backer for your next show. Be yourself, Jimmy."

So, having found Mme. Galere's address, Donna left the house and proceeded westward toward the teacher's studio. She found it in an exclusive modern building on West Fifty-third street. Alighting from the elevator on the fourth floor, she entered a tiny antesroom. Two girls, simply and beautifully attired, looked up from idle chatter at the newcomer.

A tiny page inquired her business. She gave her name, and sat down to await the teacher's pleasure.

The young things went on with their interrupted conversation.

"Never saw him in such a state," said one. "Wouldn't touch a thing and swore he was on the wagon for the rest of his life."

"Then it will be a short life," said the other. "Imagine Frank Gardner not drinking."

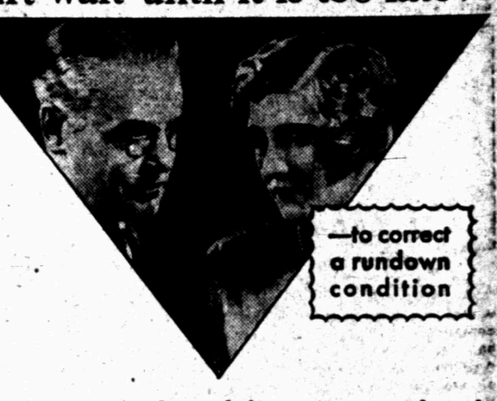

That was all she heard. The page bade her enter an inner room.

EMPTY RIFLE ROUTS CREW

Pretty Girl Guards Fence From Wreckers

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 18. (UP)—A pretty young society woman, armed with an empty rifle, emerged victorious over a group of workmen with a machine gun today in a bloodless skirmish that had as its "piece de resistance" a white picket fence.

Sent to the home of Edward, a young Toledo attorney to tear down a fence for a new telephone line, a crew of workers were met at the front gate by Mrs. Lamb, who informed them a federal restraining order was on its way to prevent them from proceeding.

The workers, uncomprehending of any legal interference, went about their task while Mrs. Lamb re-entered her home. Soon she returned with a rifle and with elaborate brandishings repeated her orders. The workmen scampered from the premises to inform their employers of the open declaration of war.

Officials hastened to the Lamb home, a machine gun mounted in the rear seat of a car. Mrs. Lamb, all smiles and unarmed displayed the court order that saved the family fence. Tonight the fence was in the process of reconstruction.

"You should have seen them run," Mrs. Lamb laughed as she recounted her victory. "You see, they didn't know that the rifle was empty."

Expert Finds School Books Pro-American

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. (UP)—Text books used in the schools of this country are decidedly pro-American and there is no danger of the youth of the land getting disloyal ideas or foreign propaganda from them, Dr. Bessie L. Pierce of Chicago university declared today after an exhaustive study of the subject.

The conclusions reached by Dr. Pierce after a study of more than 400 textbooks on five subjects, were announced in a volume published by The University Press.

"Dr. Pierce finds no basis for the charge, often made a political war cry, that the textbooks are 'pro-British,'" university officials stated.

On the contrary, Dr. Pierce, who is associate professor of history at the school, found that the books are pro-American and pro-French, but decidedly anti-British, anti-German, and, in fact, anti in one way or another to almost every other country.

Dr. Pierce's report recalled the international controversy aroused several years ago of the investigation conducted by Mayor William Hale Thompson into text books used in Chicago schools. Mayor Thompson charged many school books were pro-British.

Mexico Bids 'Adios' to Morrow As Brilliant Diplomatic Service Ends

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (AP)—A train twining northward today through the Mexican cordillera carried Dwight W. Morrow, retiring ambassador, toward his own country, where in November he will stand for election to a senatorial toga.

The miles of unending cacti and purple mountain ranges echoed the farewell of the thousands who gathered last night at the Colonia station to see him and Mrs. Morrow off, the farewell of Mexicans to those whom they like and respect: "Vaya usted con Dios, Senora"—"May you go with God."

Wins Praise

His three years of service below the Rio Grande ended, Mr. Morrow, who came to Mexico from a partnership in the Morgan banking enterprises, took with him today the official thanks of President Ortiz Rubio and Foreign Secretary Genaro Estrada. Both in official pronouncements lauded his work, detailed his accomplishments here, and hoped he would be back again soon.

"He has shown himself to be a great friend to Mexico," the president declared.

Attitude Changed

The foreign secretary, recalling that before Mr. Morrow, Mexico maintained toward the United States a "constant attitude of defense and unconfiding viligance," commented: "Now there remains none of the troublesome problems which existed at the time of his arrival."

Mr. Morrow's last official act in Mexico was as dean of the diplomatic corps, when in company with other diplomats, the president and members of the cabinet he reviewed the massed colors of the Mexican army as they paraded past the golden winged monument to independence on the beautiful Paseo de la Reforma. Tens of thousands watched the ceremony, which was the final act in Mexico's celebration of the 120th anniversary of the fight for independence.

Crosses Mountains

Mr. Morrow's route was across the mountains of Guanajuato, Zacatecas, Durango and Chihuahua to Ciudad Juarez and El Paso, Texas, to a ranch near Dawson, N. M., where he will spend a few days before going to Washington to present his resignation as ambassador to President Hoover. He will go from Washington to Englewood, N. J., to press his candidacy for the United States senate.

17 Distinguished Women Sit in Unique Council

Mrs. James J. Davis, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Anne Morgan, among members of committee to view spectacular tests of new soap discovery

THE story of a remarkable new achievement of science—startling in its significance to millions of American women—was revealed recently in news reports of what is claimed to be the most unusual meeting of its kind ever held. Seventeen distinguished women — called together by a prominent manufacturer—to witness a pre-showing of a commercial product.

Tests Tell Dramatic Story

First chemists pointed out how modern hasty washbowl laundering of silks demands an utterly different kind of soap than chips or flakes. How they set out to make a soap that would dissolve instantly . . . rinse away 100% and cleanse in water cool enough to be safe for silks. How they finally solved this problem by making a soap of olive and palm oils . . . in the form of tiny, hollow, instant-dissolving "beads." Then the tests of the new soap began.

Thirty Times Faster Than Old Ways

Mammoth test tubes revealed how the new soap dissolves 30 times faster than the thinnest chip or flake! Rinses away completely, instantly!

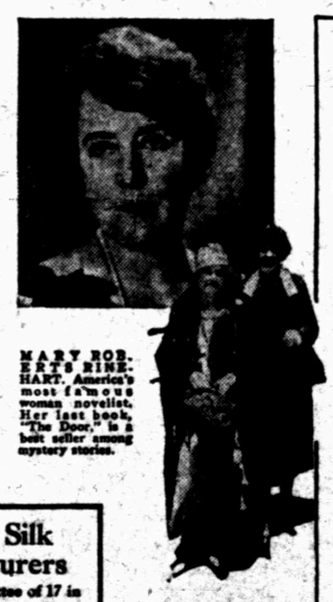

Used in water barely lukewarm, it cleanses at new low temperatures never usable before — safe for the most fragile silks, the finest woolens.

So revolutionary was the new soap, so perfectly did it fulfill requirements no soap has ever been able to meet before, that the Committee of Seventeen unanimously approved it as "soap ideal for washing silks."

Called Palmolive Beads

Because this new soap is as gentle and effective for delicate fabrics as Palmolive is for the skin, it has been given the treasured name "Palmolive Beads."

HOOVER ORDERS ECONOMY RULE

Departments Take Steps to Save Appropriations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (INS)—A new campaign of federal economy, with government departments under instructions to make extraordinary efforts to save on appropriations already made by congress for the present fiscal year, today is under way at the behest of President Hoover.

The economy program will be speeded with the return of cabinet officers from vacations. Special surveys already are under way in some departments to find ways of curtailing expenditures.

The administration not only is taking steps to avoid a possible threatened deficit due to a decline in national income, but also is looking forward to the possible retention of the income tax slash ordered last year by congress as an aid to business.

Economy injunctions thus far, for the most part, have dealt with budgets being prepared for submission to congress next winter. But the administration also is hopeful of reporting to congress that it has not spent all of the money authorized in the present year.

The plan is the essence of the old Coolidge "two per cent plan," under which department heads were ordered to cut their expenditures two per cent under the amount actually voted by congress. The Hoover plan, however, is designed to save as much as possible.

Strange People From Tiny Corner Of French Congo to Be Seen Here

Ubangi Woman From French Congo

With the consent of the French government, and in personal charge of Eugene Bergonier, member of the Legion of Honor, the Ringling and Barnum and Bailey circus presents this season an outstanding and unusual attraction in its village of Ubangi women and dusky black warriors from the French Congo, transplanted from their native land to American shores and kept carefully guarded. They have already attracted more attention and comment than perhaps any other feature ever presented by the circus, and this statement is made with the furor attached to Jumbo; Pewah, the sacred white elephant; John Daniel, the gorilla, and other feature attractions brought to this country not forgotten.

The Ubangi tribes are, in their native habitat, dwellers of a small triangular region of land in the French Congo. For many centuries this Ubangi land was totally and wholly unexplored by white men. Infested with all manner of wild life it presented a picture not alluring even to the hardy souls who first risked their lives in darkest Africa. For many years the Ubangi district remained unclaimed by any European nation until at the close of the world war and the subsequent juggling of the map of the world the region fell under the military supervision of the French. Soudanese troops now guard it against attack from roving Arab brigands, or from turmoil within. Until five years ago, when the French government put a stop to the custom, it was the practice to start with the young girls of the tribe when they reached an age of five years to prepare their upper and lower lips for the wearing of wooden disks increased in size by degrees until some of the women of the tribe wore disks in the upper lip measuring up to six inches, and in the lower as large as 12 inches in diameter. The greater the protuberance of lips boasted by a woman of the tribe the greater is her beauty—at least so do the Ubangi warriors reckon it.

With their own native habits and customs intact, these strange people of a strange land will be seen at every performance of the Ringling-Barnum circus when it exhibits here Saturday, Sept. 20.

Haskell County History to Unfold In Color of Huge Fair Pageant

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, Sept. 18.—A pageant depicting in detail the history and development of Haskell county is to be a feature of the annual county fair at Haskell on the opening night, Oct. 16. Thirty-five neighboring cities have accepted the invitation to send duchesses and attendants and a queen is to be named later to reign over the coronation ceremonies.

Very little was known of Haskell county prior to the year 1879, at which time it was a wild, western frontier, abounding in mesquite, prairie dogs, coyotes, panthers, rattlesnakes and Indians—the chief tribe being the Tonkawas, after which Haskell's leading hotel is named. And beginning with that far-away day when Indians camped about Rice Springs, as the present site of Haskell was then named, the pageant will depict the growth, commercial, agricultural and social progress throughout the years.

Cowboys' Parade

After a train of Indians, cowboys, period conveyances and vehicles have passed in review before the queen and her court, period belles at social functions in song and dance will be presented. The two outstanding drastic events of the county, in common with the history of the world in commemoration, will be the Haskell county boys, leaving for France, under the supervision of Judge W. H. Murchison, chairman of the exemption board; and the emancipation of the feminine knee. The last will be period dances in costume two inches above the old fashioned high topped shoes to several inches above the knees, including old fashioned dances, dance choruses and tap dancing. Manager Turner E. Camp, Mrs. C. M. Kaigler and Miss Ruby Fitzgerald have the pageant in charge.

Queen From Rule

The queen is coming from Rule, duchesses, maids of honor and attendants listed to date, from 35 cities and communities will be present. The first belle of Haskell society is Mrs. F. G. Alexander and her group will be shown in a social gathering; the second group will feature Mrs. R. C. Montgomery as the belle; third group will comprise charter members of the Haskell Elk's dance. The belle is Mrs. J. E. Bernard, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander will lead the grand march. Present prospects point to the best all round fair and the most elaborate first night entertainment in the history of Haskell county. In a director's meeting with Manager Turner E. Camp and departmental heads present on Tuesday night, enthusiasm ran high. Fair dates are Oct. 16, 17, 18.

Across the U.S.A. and back 7180 miles IN REVERSE!

A triumph for the* NEW "CRACK-PROOF" TEXACO

DRIVE a few yards in reverse gear. Notice how the engine races. Notice what a pull it places on your motor! Then imagine driving across the entire continent, from New York to Los Angeles and back—all the way in reverse!

That's exactly what the "back-up" boys, world's champion reverse drivers, did with a Ford at a speed of 10 to 12 miles an hour. This is equal, according to Ford authorities, to 50 to 60 miles in high gear.

Success depended upon perfect lubrication

Practically all radiator ventilation and fan cooling were eliminated by driving backward. Their engine speed, equivalent to 50 to 60 miles in high gear, was maintained for 42 consecutive days. The abnormal engine heat was intensified to almost scorching proportions on the Great Salt Lake Desert, where the thermometer registered 121° F. Anything less than perfect lubrication would have spelled disaster.

FACTS

The driver—James C. Hargis, 26, St. Louis Interior Decorator.

Car—a new Ford roadster equipped with rear headlights. The forward gears were taken out so that it was impossible to drive any way but backward.

Conditions—Drove from New York to Los Angeles and back, 7180 miles, in reverse gear.

Products used—The same new crack-proof Texaco Motor Oil and "dry" Texaco Gasoline sold in all our 48 States.

Crack-proof Texaco meets every test

After they had conducted many comparative tests they selected the new crack-proof Texaco as the one motor oil most likely to withstand the terrific heat and engine strain. And once again the new Texaco has lived up to every expectation—has proved its longer-lasting qualities that will not break down under any driving conditions.

Modern engines demand an extra margin of protection. They demand better lubrication. Car owners demand lower oil consumption, smoother, quieter engines and freedom from carbon.

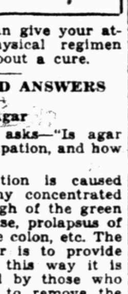

The new crack-proof Texaco Motor Oil and Texaco-Ethyl, the "dry" Ethyl Gasoline, provide all these advantages. Wherever you may be, stop at the first Texaco Service Station—where you see the Texaco Red Star with the Green T.

The Mental Hazards of Sickness

In the game of golf certain handicaps or obstacles are placed on the course which the player has to overcome in order to play the game in the fewest number of strokes. Many players become so engrossed in thinking of the hazards that they can no longer co-ordinate well and they miss their strokes. This mental handicap is called a mental hazard. The player who can ignore the mental hazard finds that he is able to play a good game.

I believe that there are definite mental hazards which apply especially to the sick. In nearly every one of the thousands of letters which come to my desk asking for advice I find a sentence such as this: "Doctor, I find I have the great white plague," or "I know that I cannot become well," "My parents died of this disease," "I am an outcast since I got this dreadful disease," "I am afraid of the future."

I believe that these mental attitudes on the part of the patient constitute a definite mental hazard or handicap.

It would be a good plan for every patient to learn to adopt a more healthful attitude of mind than these statements show. Word pictures such as these are definitely harmful. If you want to become well you should learn to talk health, strength, energy, pep and vigor. The patients who recover the most successfully are those who not only try to learn the laws of health, but keep talking about health.

Our thinking is done by a series of words or pictures in the mind. Pictures are brought out by words with which we are familiar. When we think of disease and imagine ourselves to be victims of a terrible plague or incurable disease, our subconscious mind dwells on these pictures. If a patient always thinks of himself as an outcast or a sufferer, the more he repeats these mental pictures over and over, the stronger they become. If the patient will teach himself to avoid those words and ideas, and this way of thinking about himself, and begin to use such words as "vigorous," "feeling better," and "stronger," with just as much enthusiasm, he is already on the road to health.

By repeating the story of illness, one only develops the habit of self-pity, worry and fear. How much better it is to build health, strength and vigor into the mental personality. You will find that you have much more energy when you identify yourself with the healthful emotions, such as courage, tolerance and calmness, and coach your mind to adopt the habits of thinking and talking which will help your body to get well. This little extra boost will speed your way along the road to more abundant health.

Our lives are made up of groups of habits which may be either good or bad for us. Those who are sick should very carefully choose only the best mental habits for themselves. Form the habit of immediate substitution of helpful thoughts for any harmful thoughts which flash into your mind. The dark, poisonous thoughts of fear can always be displaced by the emotion of courage. Do this every day. Substitute the good attitude of confidence for lack of confidence.

By following these instructions I am sure you will be able to overcome any mental hazards of sickness so that you can give your attention to the physical regimen which will bring about a cure.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Agar Agar

Question: W. S. asks—"Is agar agor good for constipation, and how is it taken?"

Answer—Constipation is caused by eating too many concentrated foods and not enough of the green ones, lack of exercise, prolapsus of organs, kinks in the colon, etc. The effect of agar agar is to provide more bulk and in this way it is often found helpful by those who do not know how to remove the real causes. It can be taken in many different ways. One of the best ways is to mix some in a cooked cereal for breakfast, using about a level tablespoonful to each person.

Buttermilk

Question: H. G. C. asks: "What are the advantages of drinking buttermilk? Is it fattening?"

Answer—Buttermilk provides an excellent protein and if relished is easily digested. It contains a good proportion of nourishment but can hardly be called fattening unless it is used in large quantities and in addition to other foods. On an exclusive buttermilk diet of three quarts a day, it is possible for the one who is overweight to gradually lose from a half to a pound of fatty tissue daily, meanwhile keeping the necessary muscular and bony structure of the body well nourished.

Sour Stomach

Question: T. H. writes—"I am troubled with sour stomach. It usually stays sour from one meal to the next. Please tell me, if I take the fruit juice fast will I have strength enough to keep driving a small truck?"

Answer—You should be able to take a fruit fast for at least a week or two while doing your regular work. At the end of this time your stomach acidity will be greatly reduced. Then live on the diet I recommend in each Friday's article.

PRIMARIES ADD 18 'LAME DUCKS'

Revival of Old Issue Seen In Big Flock

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (US)—Eighteen members of congress were consigned to the ranks of "lame ducks" in the primary elections just concluded.

Many other congressmen, chiefly Republicans in the house, who succeeded in obtaining renominations are believed certain of defeat in the November elections.

So, the crop of "lame ducks"—members repudiated by their constituents—in the forthcoming short session of congress promises to be unusually heavy.

Nine Republicans and four Democrats in the house up for renomination were defeated in the primaries.

Dozen Retired

In the senate three Democrats and two Republicans seeking reelection were rejected.

In addition, there are about a dozen senators and representatives, who chose not to run this year, but they will be voting in the "lame duck" session.

The large flock of "lame ducks" was considered certain to revive the 10-year battle for adoption of the Norris amendment to the constitution, abolishing "lame duck" sessions of congress.

Instead of newly-elected members waiting 13 months before getting to work, while the members they defeated continue to transact the public's business, the Norris amendment would provide for the new congress sitting in January following the election.

Resolution Pending

Though this resolution, submitting the question to the state legislatures, has been passed several times by the senate, it has been pigeon-holed in the house.

As the senate passed the resolution by an overwhelming majority in the last session of this congress, it will be again pending in the house next winter. Republican house leaders have been blocking its consideration.

The nine Republicans in the house, who were repudiated by their constituents in the primaries were:

Michaelson, Illinois; Hudson and Cramton, Michigan; Sears, Nebraska; Chalmers, Ohio; Miller, Washington; Dempsey, New York; Hull and Browne, Wisconsin.

Box Defeated

Representative Box of Texas, Bell of Georgia, and O'Connor and Spearing of Louisiana, were the four Democrats, who fell by the wayside in the primaries.

Senators who sought nominations in the primaries and were rejected were Deneen of Illinois, and Grundy of Pennsylvania, Republicans; Simmons, North Carolina; Ransdell, Louisiana, and Blease of South Carolina, Democrats.

CONNALLY SEES BIG DEMO GAIN

DALLAS, Sept. 18. (UP)—A gain by the Democrats of at least 40 members in the house of representatives and four in the senate of the next congress, was forecast today by Senator Tom Connally, junior senator from Texas.

Party leaders are expected to wait results of the November elections before seriously considering line-ups of possible candidates for president in 1932, Connally said.

"Even if the Democrats do not gain control of the next congress the Republicans will have such a slight margin that we will be able to smash any offensive legisaltion," the Texas senator predicted.

Connally conferred with Congressman Hatton W. Sumners here today. The two were present at a special session of the directors of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce yesterday, when Nathan Adams, vice president of the chamber, sought a resolution to demand the resignation of E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the American Cotton Cooperative association.

Connally said he did not consider the matter serious enough to take up with officials in Washington. Adams had charged that Creekmore had issued "pessimistic reports on the cotton crop."

"The federal farm board has shown its desire to help the Southern cotton farmers by advancing 90 per cent of the market value of the crop through loans," Connally said.

Smoot-Hawley Bill Hit By New Canadian Taxes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (INS)—Formal notice of Canadian tariff increases in about 125 classes of goods, and averaging 20 to 25 per cent, was received by the department of commerce today.

The increases, which were made effective by the new Bennett government in retaliation for the increases against Canadian products in the Smoot-Hawley bill, were also accompanied by anti-dumping restrictions.

The new Canadian import duties affect textiles, shoes, paper, agricultural implements, cast iron pipe, fertilizers, electrical apparatus, household equipment, gasoline, jewelry, and meats, among other commodities.

There are also important general changes in the customs law affecting all classes of imports.

Coleman county, Texas, has 415 producing oil wells within its borders.

Piles Go Quick

No Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers have not yet learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study discovered a real internal remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 980 cases, and then decided Pile sufferers everywhere should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Matrimonial Club Banned As 'Insecure' For Investors

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 18. (UP)—Operation of a matrimonial club was forbidden in Missouri by an unromantic blue sky commission today for the following reasons:

"One sided, misleading, to the promoters' advantage, no chance for the average investor, the history of similar companies anything but favorable and contrary to the securities act."

SOUTHWEST IN NATION'S EYES

Texas to Be Nucleus For Trade Revival

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 18. (AP)—The Southwest, and Texas in particular, are beginning now to come into their own in the eyes of eastern business men and industrial leaders, and this part of the nation is looked upon as the one bright spot in the general depression, in the opinion of M. Bernard Hanks, publisher of the Abilene Reporter-News, who recently returned home after a four-weeks' tour of the northern and eastern parts of the United States and sections of Canada.

"It may sound strange to the people of Texas to hear that they are regarded as the nucleus about which the nation's prosperity is to be reconstructed," Mr. Hanks said, "but such is a fact. Merchants of the East have their eyes on Texas as the most likely outlet for their goods. Manufacturers, many of them now operating on half-time basis, and with their warehouses filled with goods for which there is little demand, take the same view. To what extent this view is justified, I am unable to say, but it is a fact, just the same.

"Industrial centers of the North and East have been hard hit. Cleveland originated a plan whereby workers put in half time—one group working a half day and another group the other half, giving all a chance for bread and butter. This plan has come into fairly general use through the industrial centers.

"Considering only the sidewalk crowds, rushing hither and yon, apparently bent on business, one might think that the East was getting along well. But a little further investigation shows that conditions in the East are decidedly unstable. It is a fact that we in the Southwest, and especially in this part of Texas, are much better off than they.

"It is the consensus of commercial and industrial leaders with whom I talked that the bottom has been reached, and that future trends will be upward. They agree that it will be many months, however, before the country gets back to normal, but they are optimistic over the immediate outlook, which they regard as certain to be an improvement over the present.

"For instance, I talked with J. Howard Ardrey, former Dallas banker who is now head of one of the nation's largest banks at New York, and his opinion is that gathering and marketing of crops will have a highly beneficial effect on business as a whole, regardless of low prices and, in some localities, short crops. He thinks there will be a gradual improvement all down the line, but does not look for a complete break-up of the depression until next year's crop begins to make itself felt."

GRAFTON MADE PASTOR HERE

Minister Installed as New Church Leader

Dr. Nat F. Grafton was installed as pastor of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church in an impressive ceremony at the church Thursday evening as the feature of the semi-annual meeting of the Wichita Falls Presbytery which was conducted at the church Thursday and will continue through Friday.

Rev. E. C. Cargill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Seymour, newly elected moderator of the meeting, presided at the installation service and Dr. E. L. Moore of Vernon delivered the principal address.

"There can be no differences in any church if the laymen and pastor will try to see each other's viewpoint," Dr. Moore said. "It is as much the layman's business to be in his pew every Sunday morning and evening as it is the pastor's business to be in his pulpit." Dr. Moore also emphasized the fact that every preacher should be a courageous optimist to obtain the best results.

Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor of the East Side Presbyterian church here pointed out in his charge to the congregation that it is the congregation's duty to look after the health of the pastor, to look out for the finances of the church, to look for the bigger and better tasks of the church and to pray for the pastor.

The charge to the pastor was given by Dr. L. D. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Chillicothe and brother of the pastor host. He charged him to be faithful in his preparation of his sermons and to keep in mind that it is the pastor's duty to make bad people good and to make good people better.

The installation service was read by Dr. Cargill. Another special number on the evening's program was a vocal solo by Mrs. W. M. Priddy.

The morning session was spent in taking up business matters of the presbytery and electing the new moderator. Dr. J. Baird of Vernon presided at the meeting. The communion service was conducted by Rev. E. F. McGaughey and Dr. Cargill after which the roll call was taken. It was noted that every church except Crowell was represented, which is the best attendance ever recorded at a Presbytery held in this city.

Addresses were given by Dr. Baird of Vernon and Dr. J. G. Erwin, superintendent of the Presbyterian orphans' home in Amarillo. Luncheon was served to the women guests at the Women's Forum clubhouse while the men guests were entertained at the various homes in the city.

Rev. J. H. Bone of Burkburnett opened the afternoon session with a devotional after which reports of the last general assembly were heard from Reverend McGaughey and G. W. Anderson of Burkburnett. Announcement was made that an invitation had been received to hold the next meeting in Vernon. The time and place will be decided upon at the Friday morning meeting.

Delegates will be named to the synod during the business meeting Friday morning and Dr. Cargill will deliver the morning address. Friday evening's program will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor when approximately 150 out-of-town delegates are expected to be in attendance. A banquet will be given at the church in honor of the young people, it was announced.

CITY'S DAY AT FAIR PLANNED

Junior C.-C. Hopes for Big Attendance

Plans for the entertainment during Wichita Falls day, Sept. 26, at the Wichita county fair to be held in Iowa Park, were discussed by members of the fair committee of the Junior chamber of commerce here Thursday morning.

Effort will be made to secure as many visitors as possible at the fair on that day, it was announced. A subcommittee composed of W. A. Teinert and J. W. McVay was appointed to make arrangements for all merchants to include mention of the fair in their advertising on Wichita Falls day. Milburn Nutt will announce and give a talk urging attendance at the fair on Wichita Falls day over KGKO during the Junior chamber of commerce hour Saturday, it was said.

An aerial program during the afternoon will be arranged, according to plans made Thursday. Jerry Stewart, J. Paul Montgomery and Ernest Robertson were appointed as a committee to make arrangements for the aerial entertainment. Plans for Wichitans attending the fair to make the trip to Iowa Park in a procession were abandoned, although those attending from here will probably be urged to assemble after the completion of the journey.

Automobile associations and the state are fighting puncture vine in California.

Wichitans Sight Plane Similar To One Stolen by Lincoln Bank Gang

A plane, corresponding to one reported stolen from an Elk City, Okla., airport early Thursday morning by men believed to be bank robbers, was sighted over Lake Kemp between 7:30 and 8 a. m. by W. Daniel, Wichita Falls oil operator, and two companions who were in a fishing boat on the lake.

The ship, flying about a mile high and headed due west, was painted blue, Daniel reported, the color of the Travelair biplane taken from the hangar of W. Dewey Mauk at Elk City at 5 a. m. Thursday. Owing to the unusual height at which it was flying, it was impossible for the trio to distinguish any other feature of the plane, and they said they were able to hear the noise of the motor only on account of the extreme quiet prevailing on the lake.

The men who stole the plane in Oklahoma left papers and maps at the airport which led authorities to believe they were the robbers sought for the $50,000 robbery of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust company at Lincoln, Neb., Wednesday. The papers are said to have traced a route from Lincoln across Kansas to Oklahoma City.

Sheriff W. G. Bralley was advised of the plane's appearance and said he would inform Oklahoma officials.

CATS' BARED FANGS AGAIN STOP CHICKS IN DIXIE TITLE BATTLE

High School Grid Warriors Charge Into Action Today

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

All I've been able to ramble about this week is baseball, the play-off series, the high spots, Levey, Storti, Burns and the rest; cleaning up the loose ends of the season; cleaning house, making ready for football.

I guess I've said about everything I can. It's all over. No use crying over spilt milk.

Before I quit rambling about our baseball season, however, I would like to take a final dig at the split season; I'd like for the Waco, Houston, Shreveport, San Antonio, Beaumont, Fort Worth and Dallas clubs to know that Prexy Huff and myself think they're a bunch of dolts for halving the season. They were a bunch of robbers.

Personally I feel the league is tired of split seasons, and desires a change to the old method. It would certainly be a relief to go the full route once.

On the other hand, suppose the Spudders turn out to be a fifth rate club next year?

Prexy Huff will be one of the first to howl for a split season.

That's the way it goes, I guess.

Milton Steengrafe and his wife stepped on the gas Thursday morn and struck out for Calif.

There are only three of the old brigade left—Wiltse, Geygan and Lester White. And they will stay here this winter, if they can find jobs.

I suppose you noticed in yesterday morn's paper how Levey and Burns showed 'em how to do it up in St. Looey Wednesday.

I don't know how you feel about it, but I feel as proud of them as if they were my own sons, and me 24 and on the eligible list!

All during the day I hovered about the printer room waiting for the St. Looey box score to come in, to see how my sons fared.

I'm going to keep that up, mates, and have something in the paper every morning about what our boys are doing up in the big show. So we can get some kinda answer to the baffling question, "Where are the snows of yesteryear."

Howard Fitzgerald finally got that job in Houston.

A guy got this off yesterday:

"We didn't get into the series, but Sears got into us!"

The Morning Mail

"Dear Rambler:

"What day was it the grandstand at Wichita Falls burned and the battery for the opposing team was Burns and Burns?

"Yours truly, J. E. Rathke, Olney, Texas."

The grandstand, on that occasion, burned June 3, 1922. Shreveport was the visiting club. The Shreveport battery that day was Burns and Burns.

A letter signed "A Fan" contains this:

"Dear Rambler:

"Please print this group of lines about last Thursday's game. I would have sent it in sooner but you were out of town.

"To wit, to wit, to wee

"Who stole Thursday's game from Steenie.

"Not I, said Zizzy, oh, no, not I

"Such a thing I'd never do

"To cause old Milt to lose his count

"To wit, to wit, to wee.

"Errors then must get the blame

"When our Spudders were defeated

"The blood runs cold in our veins

"To see such dirty deals,

"To wit, to wit, to wee."

"Dear Rambler:

"We are wondering why you did not carry an account of the Hunt-Risko fight in Oklahoma City last Monday night. Several of our customers looked for the item but failed to find it in The Record News.

"You know The Daily Oklahoman goes to press early and misses these items. Seems to us that it would be to your advantage to publish them.

"Yours truly, Teeter Drug store, Grandfield, Okla."

Well, Mr. Drug store, you are exactly right. The reason I didn't run that item Monday night was that I was in Fort Worth, writing up the Spudder game. From now on I'll try to fix you up. If anything else goes haywire with this page, write me and I'll try to correct it.

Two Europeans Lose In Pro Net Tourney

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 18. (AP)—Two European threats, Dan Maskell, British champion, and Roman Najuch of Germany were eliminated in the quarter finals round of the American professional lawn tennis championships today, but Karel Kozeluh, Czechoslovakian ace, advanced to the semi-finals without trouble.

Kozeluh defeated Paul L. Heston of Washington, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, while his expected rival in the finals, Vincent Richards of New York, was eliminating Norval Craig of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

Maskell fell before Howard O. Kinsey, of San Francisco, who wore down the Briton in a spectacular duel after being two sets down. The scores were 3-6, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5, 6-1. Najuch was put out by Harvey Snodgrass of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-4, 6-0, 6-4, 6-3.

PANTHERS WIN SECOND, 4 TO 1

Hits and Errors Score Winning Runs

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 18. (AP)—The chicken walked meekly into the hungry Cat's mouth again today and the Fort Worth Panthers of the Texas league won their second straight Dixie series victory, 4 to 1, from the Memphis Chicks. Two more wins would clinch the series, the winner's money share and Fort Worth's fifth Dixie pennant.

Up in the rooting section where several hundred hysterical Texas fans yelled, rang cow bells and played brass instruments, a big bass drum boomed out from a cover in which was depicted a Panther strutting along with a sadly picked chicken in its mouth. Maybe there's a prophet down in Texas, where the teams will resume the series Saturday at Fort Worth.

Hits Count This Time

Walks and errors gave the Cats yesterday's game in the eighth. Today, in the same inning, Fort Worth broke a one-all tie by means of hits and Chick errors which cleared the way for the deciding runs. Another score in the ninth merely added to the slaughter.

After Cox, Fort Worth right-fielder doubled to right, Manager Prothro threw Tavener's bunt high to first. On the next play Brazill dropped Meyer's liner and a prospective double play went glimmering and the bases filled. Kelly fanned Whitworth, and McDaniel grabbed Moore's grounder to force Cox at the plate. The two runs were scored on a double by Mallon, who got four hits in four times up. Prothro ended the inning by throwing out Bonowitz.

Fort Worth staged a hitting exhibition of first proportions, getting 13 hits while Whitworth allowed only seven.

Memphis Scores First

Memphis started scoring in the second when Hutcheson's double scored Brazill. Fort Worth retaliated in the third, three singles producing one score.

Kelly struck out five and Whitworth fanned one.

The teams travel to Fort Worth tomorrow, and start a three-game schedule there Saturday. If these games don't end the 10th Dixie series, another will be played here next week.

Whitworth pitched today's game with the heel of his hand taped to protect an injury—a chipped bone—received in last Saturday's game with Wichita Falls. The seven hits he allowed were scattered through six innings. The only inning in which the Chicks got more than one was in the second when Brazill's double put him in a position to score on a similar hit by Hutcheson.

Bonowitz, who went hitless in the first game, gave Fort Worth its first run today with a single in the third, scoring Moore. After that the game was scoreless until the eighth. When that inning was over the score was 3 to 1 in favor of the Panthers. To add one for good measure Moore opened the ninth with a double for his first hit of series and scored on a single by Cox.

Bonowitz Stops Drive

The Chicks threatened in both the eighth and ninth but spectacular fielding checkmated them. In the eighth, with one on, Waddey sent a drive for the temporary bleacher section but Bonowitz raced far back to take the ball. Brazill gave Memphis fans more hope in the ninth by driving one to the fence but it was held to a single.

Prothro, next up, filed to right and Moore adjourned proceedings by going almost to the fence to take McDaniel's crash.

Mallon, Panther second baseman, made what is believed a post-season record by going through two games with a perfect average at bat. In the 10 times he faced the pitcher in two games he has hit safely seven times and walked thrice. The score:

15,185 FANS WATCH TWO MEMPHIS GAMES

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 18. (AP)—Official attendance figures for the second game of the Dixie series today showed a total of 6,541 and receipts of $11,900.25.

The attendance at the opening game yesterday was 6,644 and receipts of $16,012.25—an attendance total for the two games of 15,185 and receipts of $27,912.50.

Under the agreement governing the series 20 per cent of the receipts of the first four games will go to the two leagues, 60 per cent of the remainder to a players' pool and the balance to make up a club owners' share.

This would make the players' pool for the two days $13,396.00; club owners' share $8,932 and leagues' share $5,562.50.

Texas Aggie Crew Gets in Workout

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Sept. 18. (AP)—Registration routine occupied much time of the Texas Aggie gridsters today, but they managed to participate in light scrimmage and a workout. The Aggies will work only once daily the rest of the season, it was announced.

Malon, end, and Wolf, halfback, were in the lineup after several days on the injured list. Guzman, guard, was out with an injured leg.

Watch It Spiral Through the Air!

Shifted from quarterback to a halfback post, Jake Wilson, brilliant Baylor university triple threat man, has been exhibiting real form in kicking and passing in early season Baylor workouts. Relieved of the responsibility of calling the plays, Wilson should have one of the best years of his intercollegiate career, the Baylor mentors believe. Jacob will receive his first real test of the year on Oct. 4 when the Bears play Purdue university at Lafayette, Ind.

IOWA PARK TO PLAY REAGAN

Vernon Lions Meet Olney Cubs at Vernon

With flags a-flyin' and bands tootin', Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma high school teams Friday and Saturday will charge into action as the 1930 football season gets under way.

Many of the teams have already had their first practice games, but there will be a number of squads taking to the gridiron in actual contests for the first time this year.

Lions Meet Cubs

Probably the most interesting contest in the immediate vicinity Friday will be the scheduled battle between the Vernon Lions and the Olney Cubs, class B district champions for the last two years. The battle will be staged at Vernon. The Lions, who have been drilling hard for the game, will be minus the services of Captain Nixon at quarter, he having sustained a heel injury last week. He will be replaced by Jimmie Lutz. Despite the absence of their captain, the Lions expect to deal plenty misery to the championship crew, although the latter will enter the contest heavy favorites.

Hawks Play Here

The Iowa Park Hawks will journey to Wichita Falls Friday afternoon and clash with the Reagan Junior high school squad in a practice game. The contest is expected to whip the Hawks in shape for their first class B conference game of the season at Iowa Park, Sept. 26. On that date, which falls at the time the Wichita County fair will be in progress, the Hawks will tackle the Seymour team. The Hawks this year will be handicapped by the loss of four letter men who graduated last year, but Coach Neil is optimistic over his crop of candidates this year, stating they act like real veterans.

Coach R. B. Smith's Throckmorton Greyhounds will meet the Albany team at Albany Friday. The Greyhounds this year have only four letter men, but there are a number of candidates on the squad with past experience.

Another interesting game Friday will be the fight between the Lockney Longhorns and the Hereford team at Hereford. In this game, Hereford will be the favorites to win, if the results of the games the two teams played with other rivals last week mean anything. Hereford last week whipped Silverton, 26 to 6, while the Longhorns had rough sledding against the Tulia team in a practice game. However, Coach Reid made his charges bear down this week and many of the rough bumps are expected to be ironed out when they take to the field Friday against Hereford.

Gould Plays Mangum

Coach Earl Newberry's men of Gould, Okla., will meet the Mangum men on the home grid Friday. The Eldorado, Okla., team will take on the Duke team, and the Tipton gridders will clash with Roosevelt eleven in the latter's city.

The Frederick, Okla., team, getting off to a late start, will not play the first game of the season until Saturday, Sept. 26. On that date the Frederickites will tackle Coach Grossman's Tipton eleven at Frederick. Coach Paul Allen has been grooming his Frederick men, and with a big squad of excellent material on hand he finds himself with enough men to fill the ranks of three teams.

Those high school teams failing to get into action Friday will do so Saturday. The Wichita Falls High school Coyotes will meet the Parrots from Polytechnic High at Fort Worth, one of the strongest outfits in this section of the state. The Electra Tigers will clash with Chillicothe at Chillicothe.

Lawton at Amarillo

In addition, the Lawton, Okla., eleven will blast the lid off with its first game of the season at Amarillo. Coach Bryan Griffin's Wolverines are expected to meet much brawn in the Amarillo aggregation. The conference schedule will open at Lawton, Sept. 26, with a night game with the Weatherford, Okla., team. Proceeds of this game, and the second game with Cameron a week later will go towards paying expense of equipping the field for night football, it was announced.

Exams May Keep Stellar Southern Methodist Halfback Out of Game

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Notwithstanding the fact he has been working out almost daily, there is yet no certainty that Weldon "Speedy" Mason, stellar Southern Methodist halfback, will be eligible to play with the Mustangs. Mason has to pass special examinations in three subjects within the next week, and his teammates frankly are worried.

One of the finest backs in the Southwest conference last year, Mason has been counted on strongly by Coach Ray Morrison. His loss would be almost irreparable, despite the multitude of Pony reserves.

Attaches of the Mustang camp say the former Waco High star is "fed up" on football. The old zest is gone, they declare, and "Speedy" quite frankly doesn't care if he never plays another game. That is why they have misgivings as he prepares for the exams that would make him eligible.

Cy Leland, fleet Texas Christian back, will have no known opposition this year as the country's fastest ball carrier. Jack Elder of Notre Dame, a rival for the distinction in 1929, has graduated. Leland's teammate, "Red" Oliver, quite possibly will be football's second "fastest human." Both are consistently under 10 seconds for the century.

Leland, incidentally, will make his bow as a quarterback Friday against the Denton teachers. Then, and then only, will Coach Schmidt know how greatly he is to miss Howard Grubbs, his shrewd field general of last fall. The advance word is that Oliver and Woolwine will start at halfbacks against the Eagles, with Green at full.

One of the weightiest backfields in the Southwest conference this year will be that of the University of Texas. Both Captain Dexter Skelley and the brilliant sophomore, Ernest Koy, who are expected to hold down the halfback posts, are 180-pound huskies, and Milton Perkins, another veteran ball toter will weigh in a 170. Wilson "Bull" Elkins, leading candidate for the quarter-backing job, scales a mere 160 and is the lightest prospect as a regular.

Shades of the old Schmidt regime at the University of Arkansas. The Razorbacks, under the youthful Fred Thomsen, are planning to spring a "light, speedy team" against conference foes this year.

A quartet of veterans—Holmes, Dale, Kyle and Uptmoor—who will comprise the Porkers' first string backfield, average only 161 pounds. All are fast and adept in a broken field. And the Razorback line, report observers, doesn't resemble those bulky forward units that one has come to associate with the Arkansas school.

Porkers Pin Hopes On Husky Tackles

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 18. (AP)—Arkansas hopes for the Southwest conference football title are pinned on a pair of sophomore tackles, Head Coach Fred Thomsen indicated today. If the Razorbacks can replace Gardner and Moore, 200-pound graduates, with Stout and Erwin, two likely looking candidates, then they will be primed for the conference curtain raiser with Texas Christian university.

Arkansas will miss husky Wear Schoonover, all-American end, however. Four six-footers are waging a desperate fight for wing honors. They are Stitz Hays, Joe Chambers, Kenny Hold and Charles Nations.

Thomsen was forced to slow down his twice a day training schedule on account of the terrific heat and the fast pace he has set for the Porkers.

Storti and Crouch Join Levey And Burns in Browns' Lineup

Lindo Storti and Jasper Crouch joined Jim Levey and Jack Burns in the Browns' lineup Wednesday at St. Louis when Bill Killefer's men met defeat at the hands of the New York Yankees, 7 to 6.

But the figures in the box score didn't prove either of the four had much to do with the loss, unless it was Storti, who failed to hit when he went in as a pinch hitter for Metzler in the seventh. Crouch also went in as a pinch hitter, batting for Badgro in the eighth, and walked.

Jim Levey kept up his spectacular work, getting two hits out of six times up, one of them a double, and handling six chances without an error. Burns did better Wednesday, getting two hits in five times up, one of them a double, and handling five putouts without a bobble. One of Burns' hits drove in a run. The game went 10 innings.

There is a familiar line in the summary of the box score. It reads "double play—Burns, unassisted."

The game was a slugging match, according to the Associated Press story, Charley Ruffing, Yankee pitcher, hitting two home runs, and Combs and Schulte one each.

DEFEAT ENDS LIPTON'S FIGHT

Veteran Yachtsman Never To Challenge Again

manship throughout the series but he out-did himself today.

New Record Made

The Enterprise jounced over the course in 3 hours 10 minutes and 13 seconds, elapsed time, beating the fastest previous time of 3:13.18 made by the Columbia in 1901 in the second heat against Shamrock II. However, the time today does not beat the course record established by the Yankee in the trials this year, the Yankee hanging out a record of 2 hours 48 minutes and 35 seconds in a 25-knot blow.

But the Enterprise's time today was fast enough to beat the Shamrock V by five minutes and 15 seconds. Only for a few fleeting minutes at the start was the green-bellied challenger in front, and then the Enterprise went past her like the Santa Fe limited going past a hobo.

Never again will "the red hand of Ulster" flv from the masthead of one of Sir Thomas Lipton's racing yachts. In the gloaming of his years, the old man today saw forever fade the vision of returning to England some of its ancient sporting flory, that has been bright before his eyes since he was a gallus youth of but 50.

Long, Losing Battle

Thirty-one years ago he made his first attempt to lift America's cup that had been in this country since old Commodore Stevens and his swaggering side-kicks brought it from England in 1851. There was the Shamrock, then the lineal descendants of that gallant tub, the Shamrocks II to V, inclusive, each representing in its turn the bachelor-baronet's fondest hopes, and enormous sums of his money.

One by one they were turned back, some beaten after the most gallant struggles, until this year saw the old fellow's most ignominious defeat of all. Four times in a row, with but the faintest flash of potentiality the Shamrock V was left far astern by the white flier of the ocean waves, under Skipper "Mike," so it is small wonder that Sir Tom has decided to hang up his yachting cap.

He stood on the bridge of his great white yacht, the Erin, this afternoon as usual, peering with eyes dimmed with age off toward the far horizon where the tall sail of the Enterprise was but a feathery cloud between the blue sky and the blue water, with the green Shamrock laboring along behind, and as Sir Tom, a gallant gentleman, and a gallant sportsman, saw his dream fade into the haze, he said, simply:

"I'll never challenge again."

Sir Thomas Was Favorite

Someone else will, of course, but not in the time of this generation will another man bring to the yachting game the romance and the color that old Sir Thomas produced in his 31 years of trying.

I make bold to say that most of our voters wanted to see Sir Thomas win the America's cup, especially since it became known that it has no bottom, but even good wishes are entitled to a better tub than Sim Tom produced.

The experts agree that the trouble with the Shamrock was the mast, which was too heavy, tons of the weight being below the deck, as compared to the light metal mast of the Enterprise. That the skipper of the Shamrock lacked Skipper "Mike's" ability in handling his boat generally, is conceded. Then the morale of the two crews was entirely different. The Americans had plenty of zip, while it can scarcely be reported that the Shamrockers were on their toes. In fact, after the first heat, they were mainly on their heels.

Sir Tom, good old sport that he is, early conceded the superiority of the American lugger, and probably he had become partially reconciled to the final blow that fell today. Anyway, he laughed and joked with his guests after the race, and told 'em stories.

OFFICIALS TO PLAN SCHEDULE

Class B Teams in Eight Towns to Play

Coaches and school superintendents of Northwest Texas high schools whose football teams are entered in class B competition in district three will meet here Saturday morning at 10 o'clock to formulate the conference schedule and attend to other matters concerning the season's play, it was announced by B. C. Schulkey of Olney, district chairman, in a long distance conversation with The Record News Thursday.

The meeting will be held in the office of Burl Bryant, county superintendent, Mr. Schulkey said.

The meeting was called by the district executive committee, composed of Mr. Schulkey, Butler Westerfield, Burkburnett superintendent of schools; and O. R. Childress, Archer City superintendent.

Other school officials expected to attend are W. E. Hancock, Chillicothe; C. R. Roberts, Henrietta; W. R. Bradford, Iowa Park; E. W. Cullers, Megargel, and J. F. Kemp, Seymour. In addition, the coach of each school is expected to attend.

Crowell is included in the district, but will not participate in the football race this year, Mr. Schulkey said.

LEADERS WIN FINAL, 4 TO 3

St. Looey Crew Believed Impregnable

BROOKLYN, Sept. 18. (AP)—The fighting Cardinals of St. Louis today made it three out of three from the somewhat punch-drunk Robins of Brooklyn, winning the final game, 4 to 3. The series advanced the Red Birds to a position of odds-on favorites in the pennant chase and, barring another astonishing upheaval in the turbulent championship season seemed to insure their right to challenge the Athletics in the world series now just around the corner.

Robins Get More Hits

In the closing contest the home team out-hit the visitors, eight to five, but the safeties of the invaders were a bit more substantial than those of the home guard. St. Louis won the game with three hits, converting two triples, a home run and a base on balls into the four runs needed to sweep the board.

Burleigh Grimes, who spent nine years pitching for Brooklyn but since 1926 has been touring the National league, was tight in the pinches, while St. Louis was able to reach the delivery of Raymond (Babe) Phelps, Brooklyn youngster, when hits were vital.

The game today gave the two clubs an even break on the season's play with 11 victories each, but it marked seven straight games won by the Cardinals, for the play once stood at 11 to 4 in favor of Brooklyn.

Headed for Pennant

The position of the Cardinals now is regarded by baseball men as well nigh impregnable, for the men who make the game their business look at the losing end of the "dope" and this shows that the Robins and the Cubs have each lost three more games than St. Louis.

St. Louis has nine games left to play, the Cubs eight and the Robins seven. The Cardinals now move over to Philadelphia for five games with a double-header scheduled for Saturday. Sunday gives them an off day, the series being resumed next week. Score:

GIANTS RUIN BRUINS' HOPES

New Yorkers Whip Cubs, 6 to 2

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (AP)—Behind the six-hit pitching of Fred Fitzsimmons, the Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs today, 6 to 2, to rob the Chicagoans of a chance to take second place in the standing. The Giants won the series, two games to one, and finished ahead for the season, 12 to 10.

George Kelly's home run with Gabby Hartnett on base in the fourth saved the Cubs from a shutout and gave them the lead for the only time during the game. The Cubs made three of their six blows in that inning.

Mel Ott started the Giants off ahead by connecting with Guy Bush's delivery for a homer in the second.

Through this defeat, the Cubs dropped to 2½ games behind the league leading St. Louis Cardinals with only nine games in which to try to make up the big difference. Although victorious, the Giants failed to gain on the leaders. They are 5½ games behind first place and three games back of the Cubs. Score:

Victory Over Chisox as Senators Lose to Cleveland Wins Pennant

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. (AP)—Connie Mack led his Philadelphia Athletics to the threshold of world series gold and glory for the second consecutive season today, as they scored a 14 to 10 victory over the White Sox, while Washington was losing to Cleveland, to clinch the American league title.

The 68-year-old leader—born Cornelius McGillicuddy—saw his team move into the championship port today, for the eighth time since he took charge of the club. His first triumph was in 1902 and he repeated in 1905. He waited until 1910 before his team again was able to conquer, but it won again in 1911. The years 1913 and 1914 also were his, but he wrecked his great club at the end of the latter season, and carried on for 15 years before he fashioned the club that won the title last year and followed up with world series victory over the Cubs.

The eighth championship for Mack gave Philadelphia an all-time American league record for producing winners, Boston and New York having been tied with the A's until today's climax.

The Athletics did not blaze impressively to victory today. Rather, they staggered in. George Earnshaw, one of Mack's right-handed aces, was extremely wild and was removed in the third after being caught for five runs. Philadelphia tied it up in the third with a five-run assault of its own, but the Sox kept going and by the end of the sixth were leading by 10 to 9. The Athletics arose in their might in the seventh and banged in five more runs to win the ball game and the pennant. Score:

Ferrell Wins 3-2 Victory, His 25th of Year

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 18. (AP)—Wesley Ferrell pitched his way to a brilliant 3 to 2 victory, his 25th of the season, over Sad Sam Jones as Cleveland made it two out of three from Washington today and spoiled the Senators' last chance for the pennant.

Only 10-Goal Handicap Poloist in World Fails to Score

WESTBURY, NY., Sept. 18 (AP)—American polo saw one of its most spectacular shows at Meadowbrook today, when Laddie Sanford's hurricanes, defending open champions, won from Jock Whitney's Greentree team, 15 to 13, in a game marked by an individual duel between Tommy Hitchcock and Captain G. T. I. Roark, British internationalist.

Prior to the game, Greentree's lineup was changed to place the American big four captain at No. 2, instead of the defensive No. 3, where Roark played for the Hurricanes. From that point until the end of the play the smaller Englishman hugged the American, riding into him fearlessly, and proving so effective in his defensive play that Hitchcock, the only 10 goal handicap man in the world, was prevented from making a single goal from play.

PIRATES 6, PHILS 5

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18. (AP)—Ray Kremer, Pirate ace, turned back the Phils here today, 6 to 5 in a hard-fought struggle. Chuck Klein hit his 35th and 36th home runs of the season in addition to two singles. A five-run rally in the fourth inning was too much for the Phillies to overcome. Score:

Shortstop Pitches but Red Sox Win, 4-3

DETROIT, Sept. 18. (AP)—Mark Koenig, veteran shortstopper, went into the Detroit-Boston game today as a relief pitcher. The Red Sox won by 4 to 3 but through no fault of Koenig. He held them scoreless during the last two innings, allowing one hit. Koenig, who was acquired from the New York Yankees on a trade this season, has been having eye trouble and today wore glasses in the game. He showed a good slow ball, curve and some fast ones. NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (AP)—Early advances in cotton on trade buying and covering promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables were followed by reactions today under realizing or reselling by early buyers. New December contracts after selling up from 11.08 to 11.24 during the early trading, closed at 11.10 with the general market closing steady, net 1 point lower to 1 point higher.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 points of July, but generally 1 to 3 points higher in response to the steadiness of Liverpool and a continuance of more encouraging reports from the Manchester cloth market.

One of the cables received here from Liverpool said there had been some buying there on fear of a storm, apparently referring to reports of storm warnings and rains along the east gulf coast which evidently were no considered in the local market a serious threat to the crops. Other cable advices from Liverpool reported general buying and covering in that market and said there had been moderate cloth sales to the British home trade and South America with the Indian news considered encouraging in Manchester.

Port receipts today 35,644. U. S. port stock 2,213,209. Exports today 12,184, making 839,609 so far this season.

Futures closed steady, 1 point higher to 1 lower. Spot steady; middling 11.00.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18. (AP)—The cotton market today developed moderate activity with a slight upward trend. Favorable cables, too much rain in the eastern belt coupled with fair trade buying and shorts covering were the sustaining influences. At one time during the morning prices showed gains of 11 to 12 points over the previous close. While 6 to 8 points of this advance was lost by midsession due to moderate hedge selling the undertone continued steady.

The market continued to ease off slowly during the afternoon owing to hedge selling and selling induced by weakness in stocks and practically all the early gains were lost, prices dropping back practically to the lows of the early morning. The close was near the lows showing net 2 points up to 1 down for the day.

Liverpool came in 2 points better than due and first trades here showed no change to 4 points advance. The market improved after the start on covering, but lost 6 points a little later on hedge selling. October eased off to 10.93 and December to 11.11.

The market rallied well around the middle of the morning on prospects for too much rain in the eastern belt and on good trade buying. October was advanced to 11.06 and December to 11.25, up 13 to 14 points from the lows and 11 to 12 points above the previous close.

This bulge attracted hedge selling and prices eased off 6 to 8 points around midsession.

The market continued easy all afternoon and the early lows were nearly duplicated. October closed at 10.95 or unchanged from the previous close while December closed at 11.12 or 1 point net lower. March closed at 11.39 up 2 points on the day.

Port receipts 36,644, for week 301,125, for season 1,564,514, last season 1,170,276. Exports 9,342, for week 188,341, for season 819,139. Last season 636,378. Port stocks 2,217,591, last year 917,029. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 76,122, against 84,-667 last year. Spot sales at southern markets totaled 52,792, last year 53,291.

Futures closed steady, net 2 points up to 1 down:

Explanation Lacking for Steady Downward Trend in Stock Prices

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (US)—Decline in stock prices gained momentum today but volume totaled only 1,300,000 shares. As the day progressed the market assumed a most discouraging tone, with prices tending lower despite absence of developments which might be advanced as explanation for the weakness. At no time did the recession become disorderly, but its very persistence proved the most disheartening factor.

Support was furnished the leaders, but only on a scale downward. Uncovering of an occasional particularly weak issue served to increase the blue sentiment, which approached the extremes reached in mid-summer.

Commodity markets remained within narrow price range and except for the usual crop of reports concerning trade trends and other basic factors, of both bearish and bullish tone, there were no concrete developments upon which to base a definite expectation.

As usual, the speculative fraternity accepted the hasty view that short selling and a continued bear raid was responsible for the weakness. As a matter of fact, there has been considerable actual liquidation of stocks throughout the list. One well known house has been especially active on the selling side and its offerings represent outright liquidation by large customers who have become dissatisfied with the market's inability to make further progress. They accept this hesitation as evidencing the fact the market had overdiscounted immediate developments and that a recession was entirely in order.

Rather than face the uncertainties of the immediate future, these interests have been selling their stocks and following a practice in many instances of "selling against the box," creating a substantial technical short interest. The selling has taken place in many of the leading stocks and holdings probably will not be replaced until a sizeable reaction takes place in prices.

This sort of selling cannot be explained away as a bear raid. Rather, it is concrete evidence of the point emphasized here that actual business improvement will be necessary to encourage not only new demand for stocks but likewise encourage stockholders to retain their investments.

Most of the leading stocks declined to new low prices for the present setback. The market as a whole is close to a level at which it will have to hold in order to convince many professionals that the "uptrend" which commenced from the June lows is still existent. Steel common sold off over four points, American Can over three, Sears-Roebuck 1½, and corresponding losses were suffered in proportion. Most of the so-called "resistance" levels of the leaders were violated on the downside.

While these are important chiefly to the day-to-day speculators, they frequently dominate intermediate movements. American Rolling Mills was a notably weak issue, breaking to a new low on a bearish advice by a leading wire house advising selling of the stock. The company is suffering from the small demand for its products from the automobile industry and weakness of its stock revived discussion as to possible elimination of the stock dividend which the company has been paying.

Auburn Auto also had a sharp recession, but this stock is subject to violent movements hardly related to its fundamental position.

A flood of new rumors kept the market continuously nervous. A check-up disclosed no basis for the various stories regarding brokerage houses, whose principal difficulty at present is lack of business rather than lack of capital, as some of the rumors suggested. The bulls also brought forward new stories to offset the bearish rumors.

Washington was concerned in all of these stories, which told of new conferences of bankers, industrialists and builders, all intended to stimulate industrial activities. The story was again revived of a nationwide movement to electrify railroads with government help in financing. The best-informed interests in the stock market are inclined to pass over most of the stories emanating chiefly from market-inflamed sources and to await more definite indications of the actual underlying trend of industry and trade. In the meantime, speculators dominate the price fluctuations, with occasional influence of more fundamental developments such as assistance to the bears furnished by outright liquidation by nervous holders.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Sept. 18. (AP)—Fair domestic demand continued for wheat on cash grain market today but exporters still reported nothing doing. Mills were bidding 93½c to 94c for No. 1 hard wheat of any protein delivered Texas common points.

Corn, oats and barley were in fair demand with offerings very light. Grain sorghum values were irregular with trade small.

Estimated receipts: wheat, 18 cars; corn, 10; oats, 1; barley, 1; and grain sorghums 1.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 96c to 97c; No. 2 white 97c to 98c; No. 2 yellow $1.06 to $1.07.

Oats—No. 2 red 51½c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 48¼c to 48¾c, to which add 1c for delivery group three.

Barley—No. 2 nominally 69c to 70c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally $1.93 to $1.97; No. 2 kaffir $1.60 to $1.62.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. (AP)—Reports that extensive grinding of government sponsored holdings of wheat is planned to provide feed in drouth territory led to lower prices today for all grain. Downturns of wheat values and of corn were in the face of recent statements by President Milnor of the grain stabilization corporation that any wheat sales by the corporation would be replaced by open market purchasing. There also was reports that Canadian barley is being imported into the United States at a profit, notwithstanding 20c a bushel duty.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled ⅜@¾c lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅛@1c down, and oats a shade to ⅝c off, with provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 12 cents.

Uneasiness over reports of grain stabilization corporation plans to have a large part of the corporation's surplus wheat holdings ground to be used as an emergency feed supply in drouth stricken areas became the outstanding feature in all the grain pits today. General selling pressure resulted, especially in the wheat and corn markets, and this pressure failed to be counterbalanced by the fact that some buying of wheat was done on the part of various traders who professed belief that the proposed plan would tend to increase demand for grain.

For the most part provisions ruled higher owing to commission house purchasing of lard, together with upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—September (bids) 81c; December 85⅛@85⅝c, 87⅛@86¾c; March 89⅛@89¼c, 91½c; May 92¼c, 94¼c. Corn—September (bids) 90⅝c; December 85¼c, 87⅛@87½c; March 87¼c, 89⅝c; May 89¼c, 91⅛@91⅝c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. (US)—Those traders who believe that the strength in wheat the past few days has been on short covering for a large professional operator were inclined to the opinion that the buying from this source appears about over and that the technical condition of the market may have been weakened, suggesting another period of sagging tendency.

Pit observers have presumed that selling of May corn recently has built up an extended short interest in that position.

Daniel F. Rice and company say: "In recent weeks, Liverpool October wheat has been running from 13 to 17c over our September. When the spread has been widest, export business has been fairly good and the market steady to firm. When the spread has narrowed, the market, deprived of the support attendant on good export sales, has been inclined to weakness. Today Liverpool wheat closed only 13c over our September."

At one time today the report was circulated that the pool had sold 6,000,000 bushels of wheat, supposedly to the French government, but this was denied in reports from Winnipeg.

Broomhall says that while Russian offerings of wheat are rather inferior in quality, arrivals of new Canadian wheat are being praised as the condition this year seems to be above normal.

Vote Bet Wins Ride Across Texas

Here we have the result of an unusual election bet made in the Texas Democratic run-off primary. Hubert C. Stinson, who is riding, bet that Ross S. Sterling would win; Lloyd Hayes, who is doing the pulling, bet on "Ma" Ferguson. Now Hayes has to pull Stinson all the way from Fort Worth to El Paso. This picture was made as they passed through Abilene, with 465 miles yet to go.

SPEND, SPEND!

Jeweler Declares More Buying Will Relieve Depression

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (AP)—A penny saved is a penny lost to William Trufant Foster of Boston, who told the retail jewelers association today that America was wasting her substance in "riotous saving."

"The whole economic theory of thrift is largely wrong," said Foster, who is director of the Tollak foundation for economic research, "beacause it fails to take into consideration that a higher standard of living means larger consumption of goods.

"The chief cause of depresison in the United States is that people are saving too much, which means they are spending too little.

"Nothing under heaven can stop the decline of the price level except consumer buying. Right now this country needs more buying of luxuries."

Kidnaping of Two Star Jockeys Is Feared

LINCOLN FIELDS, Ill., Sept. 18. (INS)—Chicago district sporting circles were puzzled today by the mysterious disappearance of Jockeys Jimmy Marcum and Paul Neal, two star riders who failed to show up for their regular engagements at Lincoln Fields track Wednesday morning. A kidnaping is feared by authorities.

County highway and Chicago Heights police have joined in the hunt for the 17-year-old youths at the request of their employers and friends. When last seen they were riding in Neal's new automobile. One theory held by authorities is that they were kidnaped and are being held for ransom by the gang which has been operating at Peoria and East St. Louis, Ill.

No demands for ransom have as yet been made to relatives or employers of the boys.

Governor of Maryland Does Not Choose to Run

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 18. (UP)—Maryland Democrats had before them in their convention here today a letter from Gov. Albert Ritchie requesting the convention not to adopt a resolution endorsing him for the presidential nomination.

In the letter, written to Senator Millard Tydings, convention chairman, Ritchie said he had learned that some of his friends had prepared such a resolution.

NEW SIGNS OF OIL STABILITY

Stocks Go Down in Spite Of Heavier Runs

Special to The Record News

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 18.—Despite the fact that Mid-Continent refiners ran 19,032 barrels a day more crude oil to the stills the week of Sept. 16 than for the week of Sept. 9, stocks of gasoline and shipments of gasoline decreased, indicating that the stability that has permeated the market since Sept. 1 is continuing.

Daily crude oil runs to stills averaged 302,638 barrels, compared with 283,606 barrels a day the previous week. Increases in runs came from refineries in Kansas, Oklahoma, West Texas and North Louisiana and Arkansas. North Central Texas refineries cut again their runs.

Gasoline stocks fell off 5,053,000 gallons to a total of 96,707,000 gallons for the week in review, and shipments totalled 53,521,000 gallons compared with 53,509,000 gallons the week previous. The ratio of sales to production is estimated at 110.4 per cent.

Stocks of gasoline for the two weeks follows:

Figures in thousands of gallons.

	Week of Sept. 16	Week of Sept. 9
Oklahoma	41,397	44,412
Kansas	9,223	10,486
N. C. Texas	24,744	25,996
West Texas	10,770	10,309
Louisiana-Arkansas	10,573	10,557
Totals	96,707	101,760

Crude runs to stills as estimated by Platt's Oilgram and National Petroleum News, follows:

State	Barrels Per Day
Oklahoma	101,808	92,126
Kansas	62,520	58,175
N. C. Texas	58,093	67,308
West Texas	39,630	32,538
Louisiana-Arkansas	40,587	32,538
Total runs	302,638	283,606

An analysis of the production of gasoline shows that 57.8 per cent of the province supply was by straight running methods; 31.3 per cent by cracking and 10.9 per cent from cracking.

NEW CONCERNS IN TEXAS GAIN

Charters Show Increases In Three Classes

AUSTIN, Sept. 18. (AP)—Oil manufacturing and real estate and building companies chartered in Texas during August were greater in number than in either of the previous 30 days or during the same period last year, a report from the office of Secretary of State Jane N. McCallum, showed.

While the total of all new companies was only 173 as compared to 179 in July and 170 in August of last year, the aggregate capitalization of $6,067,000 was the highest since January, comparing with $5,703,000 in July and $8,173,000 in August last year.

Few of the companies chartered during August represent large individual capitalizations, only 12 exceeding the $100,000 mark. Most of the remainder range well below $50,000 each.

Charters covering all phases of the oil industry numbered 32, more than treble the number chartered during July and 10 more than were chartered in August, 1929.

Manufacturing concerns, of which 38 were chartered during the month, more than double the number of both the same period in 1929 and the previous 30 days. Most of the group were small organizations, however.

New building and real estate corporations totaled 22, the highest figure during the last 12 months with the exception of October, 1929, when 35 such businesses were organized.

ROBOT PILOTS MAIL PLANE

Mechanical Man Holds Ship On Course

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 18. (UP)—A "robot" device that holds an airplane to a set course was demonstrated for the first time on a mail plane today when Edward Couples completed his regular run on the Cleveland-Pittsburgh route.

Couples made the scheduled trip on time, the device holding the ship on its charted course without any interference from the pilot.

The device, installed in the cockpit, is connected with a stabilizer on each wing, maintaining the plane on an even keel and guiding it in the regulated direction.

At the Theaters

By ELEANOR FLEMING

STRAND: "Follow Thru" with Charles Rogers and Nancy Carroll. Comedy and sound news.

MAJESTIC: Lon Chaney in "The Unholy Three." Comedy, jazz novelty and sound news.

STATE: Greta Garbo and Conrad Nagel in "The Kiss." Short subjects and Universal talking news.

GEM: "On the Border," with Rin-Tin-Tin. Comedy.

Talkies have heightened Lon Chaney's art as they have that of few other actors, as evidenced in "The Unholy Three." Chaney has always been uinque—a peerless master at the technique of horrible mimicry and characterization.

His work in "The Unholy Three" and the revelation of his manifold vocal powers bring his movie career to a crashing climax, the finale of which is strangely appropriate—his own death following the completion of his first talkie.

It has been said that Chaney's efforts to communicate with his deaf-mute parents as a child led to the facial contortions which have made him famous. His voice had no such test, but is as versatile as his face.

The midget, who supplies some good comedy in his baby dress and adult manner, is the same tiny fellow who was at the Texas-Oklahoma fair in this city several years ago, and is described by those who talked with him then as "tough as a boot" in spite of his childish appearance.

"The Silent Enemy," epic of Indian life which had a record-breaking run on Broadway, opens Thursday, Sept. 25, at the State, one of the first theaters in the state to book the picture. "The Silent Enemy," like "Chang" and "Nanook of the North," is an interesting nature study, portraying the struggle of the uncivilized against starvation and death.

For those who like their light musical comedy such as "Sunny Side Up," "High Society Blues," and "Hold Everything," the program at the Strand which begins Friday should be exceptionally pleasing. "Follow Thru" features a pair of rather interesting if not genius-minded young people who have made many a box-office success—Charles "Buddy" Rogers and Nancy Carroll.

Both Buddy and Nancy have ventured into heavy stuff, only to discover what older and wiser heads had already known—that they were made for light, frothy romance with plenty of moonlight and catchy songs and good wisecracks.

ROTARY HEARS VERNON EDITOR

Ray Nichols Speaks On Neighborliness

"Creeds and codes of conduct depend not so much upon their excellence of composition or loftiness of ideals as upon their translation into everyday action," declared Ray Nichols of Vernon, district governor of Rotary International in his annual address to the Wichita Falls Rotary club Thursday noon.

Neighborliness with one's daily associates is a vast contribution to world peace, Mr. Nichols said. He was introduced by Herbert C. Voelcker, president of the local club.

Dr. O. T. Kimbrough announced the local contest, in connection with the fourth annual Atwater Kent radio contest, to be held at radio station KGKO here on Sept. 29.

It was announced that John Boswell, chamber of commerce manager, will speak next Sunday morning before the Rotary Boys club, and that Ed Bebb, Jack Barnard, Don Bowie and Walter Campbell also will represent the Rotary club at that meeting.

The high school Girl Reserves will present an open program welcoming the new students and have a short pep rally at the regular 30-minute period Friday morning, according to an announcement made Thursday by Mr. Rider.

Police Asked to Find Tent for Evangelist

A request that assistance be given in locating a 40x60 tent was received here Thursday by Chief of Police Frank Burns from an evangelist in Brownwood, Texas, where the tent was stolen.

The evangelist had been using the tent in revival work and in his letter to Chief Burns stated, "This tent would be in service today if it had not been stolen, and I am badly in need of it."

MOTOR FREIGHT PLEA OPPOSED

Traffic League Votes On Differential Case

A vote to oppose continuation of differentials in railroad freight rates in Texas, and to oppose changes affecting full load rates sought by motor freight lines was cast by the Industrial Traffic league, which met in Austin Tuesday, according to Dudley B. Foy, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce.

Mr. Foy also appeared before the railroad commission Wednesday in Austin to oppose applications made in behalf of motor freight lines.

Applications were filed, he stated, seeking the removal of railroad differentials, which it is said West Texas is in particular suffering. A recently proposed report to the Interstate Commerce committee recommended that the differentials be removed in some sections with 50 per cent reductions in others.

The league took the position on an application urged Wednesday on behalf of motor freight lines seeking relief from an order issued one year ago forbidding the handling of mixed loads at carload rates, that the granting of the order would discriminate against rail carriers.

No action was taken on the application of the Texas and Pacific to build an extension from Big Spring northward and that of the Southern Pacific to acquire the Cotton Belt, Mr. Foy stated.
