Further Troop Cuts Told

The SDN Column

Rapidly changing population is not uncommon today in this country, but the village of Onalaska, Tex., is something else again. Located on Lake Livingston in Polk County, just north of Houston, it became an incorporated city recently, possibly in self defense.

You never heard of Onalaska? It is a city of around 10,000 persons—that is from late Friday to late Sunday each week. For the remainder of the week, it has about 300 inhabitants.

Onalaska is a weekend town, with hundreds and hundreds of people from metropolitan Houston owning or renting places there for use on weekends. Most of them, of course, have lake cabins or mobile homes, or even trailers and campers. But, it means that a town of some 300 must provide municipal services for thousands, which can be a problem, even if it is on a part-time basis.

July, which makes its appearance this Saturday, is the top month of the year for consumption of hot dogs, according to the National Hot Dog and Sausage Council. And, if you are an average American you will eat over one pound of the small link sausages during the month.

How did the hot dog get its name? A sports humorist named Tad Dorgan is credited with coining the name in 1900. It happened in the Polo Grounds in New York City where the old New York Giants used to play their major league baseball games. Salesmen of the concessionaire were selling hot weiners and since their likeness to a dachshund had not gone unnoticed, they were yelling "Get your red hot dachshund sausages." Dorgan created a cartoon of a talking sausage, but since he was not sure how to spell dachshund, he called it a "hot dog," and the name stuck.

Incidentally, Dorgan also is credited with coming up with such terms as "grease monkey," "23 skidoo," "drugstore cowboy," etc.

The Texas Safety Association estimates that half a million boats will take to the waterways in Texas this weekend as hundreds of thousands visit recreational areas to celebrate the Independence Day holidays. The sheer numbers spell danger and in an effort to focus attention on Safety, the period of July 2-8 has been designated as "Safe Boating Week" in Texas. A couple of recent changes in boating regulations are being emphasized. Both state and federal law now require that at least one Coast Guard approved lifesaving device for each person be on board each boat and that children under 12 years of age must wear an approved lifesaving device at anytime a boat is underway. The rules apply to all boats, powered and unpowered.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, June 28, the 180th day of 1972. There are 186 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1914, the heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, was assassinated at Sarajevo, Bosnia. It was the spark that set off World War I.

On this date—

In 1778, the Revolutionary War battle of Monmouth, N.J., was fought. A heroine's role was played by Molly Pitcher.

In 1902, the United States bought the uncompleted Panama Canal from France.

In 1919, the Versailles Treaty was signed in France after the first World War.

In 1941, World War II, guerrilla warfare against the Nazis began in Yugoslavia.

In 1944, a Republican National Convention in Chicago nominated New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for president.

In 1945, in the Pacific war, the United States announced that the Phillippine Island of Luzon had been retaken from the Japanese.

Ten years ago: The U.N. General Assembly called on Britain to hold a constitutional conference to give adequate political representation to African people in Southern Rhodesia.

Five years ago: King Hussein of Jordan met in Washington with President Lyndon B. Johnson to discuss the plight of Jordan after the six-day Middle East War.

One year ago: The U.S Supreme Court banned state aid for parochial schools as in violation of the Constitution's provision separating church and state.

Senate Approves Spending Bill

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas legislators moved rapidly on the no-new-taxes $4.1 billion general appropriations bill today after more than 42 hours of delay caused by Dallas Sen. Mike McKool's world's record filibuster.

Senators passed the massive bill on a voice vote about 30 minutes after McKool sat down at 7:33 a.m. with a filibuster record of 42 hours and 33 minutes.

McKool received only six votes for his amendment—the subject of his filibuster—to beef up spending for treatment of the mentally ill and retarded by $17 million.

Within an hour after the bill passed, the House received it and sent it to the appropriations committee, which substituted its own version that contains more funds for higher education and mental health and retardation programs.

House leaders plan to lay the bill out for debate Saturday morning—a day later than they had planned, due to McKool's delaying tactic.

A House debate earlier than Saturday is forestalled by a new "reform" rule adopted in March which gives House members an automatic 72 hours—three days—to study appropriations bills before taking a vote. the 72-hours began at 9 a.m. today.

The rule was the result of years of griping about "railroad" tactics that sometimes forced representatives to vote blind on the complicated spending measures.

Action on the appropriations bill was set for special order at 10 a.m. Saturday, and the House voted to adjourn until Saturday morning.

Appropriations are the only item before the special session, which the governor called specifically to enact a state budget for the fiscal year starting Sept. 1.

4 Delegate Disputes Settled

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Credentials Committee settled four delegate disputes in rapid order today as the challenges either fizzled or were withdrawn.

The panel voted unanimously to seat the 20-member Maine delegation including five women, after challengers failed to appear. The challengers had called for at least nine women.

Joseph Johnson, attorney for Iowa insurgents who claimed that state's 46-member delegation under-represented women, withdrew the challenge after protesting the committee's procedural rules.

It was then announced that challenges from North Dakota and New York had also been withdrawn. The North Dakota challenge involved the representation of youth in the organization and the New York one involved the seating of 24 George S. McGovern delegate from Nassau County.

The actions reduced to 74 the number of challenges still to be considered by the committee in 23 states, including a controversial one today involving Georgia.

SEN. MIKE MCKOOL
....Sets Filibuster Record

McKool Sets New Filibuster Record

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas added four hours and 11 minutes to the world filibuster record today, but his ordeal failed to add a dime to the state budget to help the mentally ill.

McKool held the floor for 42 hours and 33 minutes, eclipsing the mark of 38 hours and 22 minutes set by South Carolina State Sen. Ralph Gasque in 1968.

After the 5-foot-4 Dallas lawmaker sat down, the Senate rejected his amendment by voice vote and sent to the House its $4.1 billion spending bill for the year beginning Sept. 1.

McKool said he had called attention to need for more money for mentally handicapped persons and that a House-Senate conference committee might later agree to appropriate extra funds because of the public pressure his fight created.

He complained of numbness and aching bones. This did not stop him, however, from standing and talking some more for television cameras.

The self-styled Chihuahua of the Texas Senate seemed fresh toward the end.

Throughout almost all of his filibuster McKool was serious and deliberate, speaking in a slow, carefully paced monotone. Occasionally he sucked a lemon or chewed a cough drop.

McKool, who was defeated in June in a primary runoff race for Congress, gained the floor Monday morning to speak for a proposed amendment to the Senate appropriations bill that would give an additional $17 million to state mental health and mental retardation institutions.

He stuck close to the subject throughout his delaying tactics reading and rereading his amendment and statistics on Texas' status in spending for mental health. He read newspaper clippings concerning the mentally retarded who had been helped by treatment.

Volunteers To Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today plans for a two-month withdrawal of 10,000 U.S. troops from South Vietnam and directed that only draftees who volunteer be sent there in the future.

Nixon's action would reduce the authorized troop level to 39,000 by Sept. 1.

The average monthly withdrawal rate of 5,000 for the summer months was half the level of the May-June rate of 10,000.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who made Nixon's announcement, said the President also ordered that no draftees will be sent South Vietnam unless they volunteer for service there.

However, Ziegler said, if they are already in the war zone or under orders to go there, they will stay or be sent.

He estimated there are some 4,000 draftees in the Army in South Vietnam.

The press spokesman said the Sept. 1 troop target level of 39,000 would represent a 93 per cent reduction from the authorized ceiling of 549,500 in effect when Nixon took office in 1969.

Asked if the 39,000 would represent a "residual force," Ziegler said he regarded that term as "somewhat of a misnomer." However, he said the United States "shall keep the minimum needed to achieve our objectives," and that, in any case, some American forces would remain until war prisoners and those missing in action have been returned or accounted for.

He said that in addition to troops in South Vietnam, some 40,000 men are aboard ships offshore and approximately 45,000 others are stationed elsewhere in Southeast Asia.

These figures have increased by about 25,000, he reported, since Hanoi's current offensive began last Easter weekend.

Zielger, while declining to predict that Nixon would direct further troop cuts in the future, told reporters, "We will have another announcement on this subject before Sept. 1."

Nixon News Conference Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will hold a news conference to be nationally broadcast over radio and television from the White House East Room Thursday night, a spokesman announced today.

It will be Nixon's first session with newsmen to be broadcast live in more than a year.

The precise time for the news conference has not been set, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in announcing that it would be held "tomorrow evening."

School Board Asked To Arbitrate Tax Dispute

Snyder School Trustees last night were asked to serve as arbiters in a disagreement between SACROC and the school's valuation engineers.

In a special meeting of the board, several representatives of major oil companies in SACROC said they disagreed with the valuations set by Pritchard and Abbott on SACROC properties for the school tax roll this year.

Representing SACROC were Art Dimney, P.I. Younkin and Don Wilson, all of Chevron Oil Co. ; Howard Petty of Mobil Oil Co. ; Jack Miller and Clark Rennels, both of Sun Oil Co.

Wilson Hunt of Pritchard and Abbott, the firm that has evaluated oil properties for the local school district for many years, said the SACROC valuation for 1972 had been calculated at $188 million. Dimney principal spokesman for SACROC, said appraisals by several interested oil companies as well as other highly reputable appraisers indicated that the figure should be more like $157.8 million. It was $151 million last year.

It developed that the difference between the two figures stemmed almost entirely from discounts allowed for variable risks. Pritchard and Abbott's valuation was figured on a basis of 10 per cent risk discount. The SACROC delegation said that if this figure is used, it should be applied to values after federal taxes are subtracted. If used before taxes, the risk discount should be 15 per cent, they said. Moreover, the oil companies contended that a projected 231 million barrel increase in recovery due to CO2 injection still should be classified as a risk because there is as yet no guarantee that it will fully materialize.

The oil company representatives agreed that production is up considerably, although SACROC is producing at 76 per cent of potential while most of the state is on 100 per cent at present because a greater volume cannot be handled at present out of SACROC. However, they said lift costs have skyrocketed.

Production by SACROC now is around 185,000 barrels per day, and hopes are that this can be increased to around 210,000 barrels per day by the end of the year, it was revealed. However, there is no chance whatever that SACROC can handle 100 per cent production at any time this year, the oilmen declared.

Following the presentation by SACROC representatives, Hunt suggested that in view of the factors cited by SACROC its valuation be pegged at $175 million this year on the school tax roll. However, this compromise was unsatisfactory, the oilmen said.

The school board then discussed the situation and ultimately concluded that the differences should be resolved by its evaluation engineers and the oil companies rather than the board. Hunt was advised to confer further with the SACROC representatives and try to reach a solution.

There was no quarrel with the school district's proposed budget of approximately $4 million. In fact, comments indicated that the oil company representatives feel that it is reasonable.

The valuations of SACROC, of course, could affect the tax rate ultimately adopted to support the 1972-73 budget. On the values proposed by Pritchard and Abbott, the tax rate is expected to be around $1.32 per $100. Using the SACROC valuation based on its own appraisals, the rate would increase some seven or eight cents.

A DRAIN STOPPER—A drain pipe saved this small sportscar and its two occupants from plunging 1,000 feet down a steep ravine in Santa Barbara. The car teetered to a precarious balance on the pipe, the driver Blaine Smith, 18, and his passenter, John Eberly, 20, got out of the car—very carefully. Neither was injured. Smith said car slid out of control when he drove over gravel. (AP Wirephoto)

Production Record Set By CRMWD

Monday established a new record for single day production for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The 74,624,000 gallons pumped from district sources exceeded by 1,507,000 gallons the previous peak reached Aug. 17, 1970.

O.H. Ivie, general manager, said that the district pumped 69,845,000 gallons of treatable water and an additional 4,779,000 of brackish water for oilfield repressuring customers.

The cities utilized 57,031,000 gallons, the oil and industrial customers 14,443,000 gallons. San Angelo pumped 3,150,000.

Big Spring and Snyder peaked for the season, but Odessa was a little short of its high for the year.

The cities showed these requirements: Odessa 25,410,000 gallons, Big Spring, 11,272,000, Snyder, 4,856,000, Midland, 15,010,000 Stanton, 483,000. In addition, San Angelo pumped 3,150,000 gallons from Lake E.V. Spence, making an overall pumpage to the cities of 60,181,000 gallons.

All facilities functioned perfectly and there was no difficulty in meeting the demand, said Ivie.

India, Pakistan Toughen Stands

By WILLIAM C. MANN
Associated Press Writer

SIMLA, India (AP) — India and Pakistan toughened their stands in preparation for today's start of peace talks between Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

Indian spokesmen said their government and Bangladesh had agreed that the 91,000 Pakistani prisoners of war in India will not be returned to Pakistan until Bhutto recognizes the cease-fire line through Kashmir as an international boundary and recognizes Bangladesh as an independent nation.

Bhutto in a broadcast from Pakistan Tuesday night demanded the return of the POWs and said India "has no justification, moral or legal, to continue to detain our men. If by doing this India thinks that it can force us to accept humiliating terms, it is mistaken."

Most of the POWs are troops or civilian officials who surrendered in Bangladesh when the Pakistani army was defeated there during the December war that separated the former East Pakistan from the rest of the nation.

Bhutto also said he desired the resumption of diplomatic relations between India and Pakistan, which were broken Dec. 6 after India recognized Bangladesh. But Indian Foreign Secretary T.N. Kaul told newsmen that this was secondary to the president's tough line on the POW issue.

Kaul said the Indians could not tell yet whether Bhutto took this tough line to impress his people at home or because he planned to pursue the same line in the talks with Mrs. Gandhi.

The meeting here in the Himalayan foothills is the first India-Pakistan summit conference in six years, since the late Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri and President Mohammed Ayub Khan went to Tashkent, in the Soviet Union, after the 1966 war over Kashmir.

That Himalayan state has been one of the chief causes of trouble between India and Pakistan since 1947, when the state's Hindu maharaja joined the State to India even though most of the Kashmiri people were Moslems.

After a civil war in 1948 in which both India and Pakistan took a big part, Kashmir has been divided by a U.N. cease-fire line.

Nipp Service Set Here Today

Funeral service was set for 4 p.m. today at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for the Rev. D.L. Nipp, 82, who died Monday afternoon of injuries he received in a traffic crash at Abilene.

The Rev. Lee Jones of Snyder and the Rev. Bruce Keller of Mineral Wells were to officiate. Burial was to be in the Ira Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Can man in jail trust 'lady of the evening?'

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you from the State Penitentiary in Huntsville, Tex., where I have been locked up for two years. I have three more years to serve and here is my problem:

Three months before I got locked up and sent here I met a very lovely young lady. She is 27 and I am 29. She works in the daytime and goes to school three nights a week. She is a "lady of the evening" but that doesn't interfere with her love for me. She writes to me faithfully and says she loves me and will wait for me. She is loyal and true, Miss Abby, and I think about her all the time.

Should I put all my faith and trust in this woman? I believe I really love her. I need your advice and opinion.

VERY TRULY YOURS,
"278946" [Not my real number]

DEAR "TWO": If she has stuck by you, writes faithfully and promises to wait for you, I'd say your faith in her is well justified. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter signed "Troubled Daughter" in which two brothers refused to share with three sisters the responsibility of caring for their elderly mother.

Did you know that in the State of California only sons are responsible [money-wise] for an aged parent who is on welfare, unless the daughter works or has an outside income, regardless of how large her husband's income is?

My husband [an only son] pays over $100 a month to the California Public Welfare office while his three married sisters pay nothing, as they are not employed outside the home.

Our attorney advised us that it is unconstitutional to discriminate against the sexes, but Kings County Department of Public Welfare threatened to take us to court if we don't reimburse them $109 per month.

UNLUCKY TO BE LIVING IN CALIF.

DEAR UNLUCKY: Your letter [accompanied by valid documentation] was a surprise to me. Does anyone out there have an ace to beat that King?

DEAR ABBY: A wife signed "Old Fashioned" wrote to say that she didn't share her husband's yen for X rated movies. If you read between the lines you could see a middle-aged male with a sagging libido. What he needs is a wife who can kindle a few sparks, lose some of her inhibitions and be a little less old fashioned.

Let's face it, that husband is hoping that if he exposes his wife to a few explicit scenes in the biological realm it will give her an inspiration.

It's amazing how dense some women can be when it comes to something as basic as satisfying a man. Prostitutes will tell you that most of their customers are married men. And do you know why? Because that sweet little lady at home knows how to dish out the steak and potatoes, but she's too nice to dish out eroticism in the boudoir.

NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR NORTH: Before blaming the inhibited woman for batting zero in the boudoir, consider this: Psychiatrists tell us that a surprising number of men can perform anywhere except at home because of their inhibitions. Every decent woman is "mother," so they find their pleasure where "mother" isn't.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "YOUR HUSBAND'S MISTRESS," who ends up with, "What good is the status of being a legal wife when all your friends know that your husband is in love with another woman?"

I would like to know since when is love equated with sexual satisfaction? If that man really loved you, he'd have married you first and had his sex later.

Wake up, Sister. You're being used!

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest, Abby.

Death Penalty Is Upheld

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today upheld the death penalty murder conviction of James Walter Cherry in the Jan. 10, 1969 slaying of Dallas County Deputy Sheriff Eddie Raymond Walthers.

Walthers was killed and Deputy Alvin Maddox Jr. was wounded in a melee at a Dallas motel, where the two officers had been sent to make an investigation.

According to case records, Walthers died of a bullet wound through the heart.

The case was tried in Fort Worth on a change of venue.

Lawyers for Cherry sought reversal of his conviction on grounds that 22 prospective jurors were excused because they said they could not assess the death penalty.

The jurors should have been asked only whether they could consider the death penalty as punishment for a crime, the lawyers asserted.

But the high court said this interpretation of the U.S. Supreme Court's "Witherspoon," the court said, "the state is entitled to determine not only that the prospective juror will consider the death penalty, but also whether there are circumstances conceivable under which he could assess such a penalty."

Cherry's lawyers also complained that a Georgia prison warden was permitted to testify that Cherry, under a life sentence, had escaped on May 20, 1968, and had been at large since then.

Monetary Crisis Staved Off

LONDON (AP) — The pound drifted lower on Europe's confused money markets today. The U.S. dollar generally held steady at recently depressed levels, staving off the threat of a major monetary crisis.

At midday, the pound in London would buy slightly under $2.49, down from Tuesday's figure of $2.5150.

This meant an effective devaluation of roughly 4 per cent since Britain's decision Friday to let sterling float on international exchanges.

Floating means that Britain abandoned international agreements to keep the pound sterling within fixed limits compared to other currencies. Now the pound is bought and sold for the best price available under the laws of supply and demand.

Michigan Man Wins Sweepstakes

DUBLIN (AP) — Ronald Radikopf of Grand Haven, Mich., won the superprize of a half-million dollars today in the Irish Sweepstakes.

The huge drum from which today's winning tickets were drawn contained 4,425,988 tickets sold all over the world for the benefit of Irish hospitals.

The sweepstakes is based on the Irish Derby to be run Saturday at Curragh, 30 miles outside Dublin.

All winning tickets except Radikopf's drew horses running in the Derby. Holders of tickets on the winner of the Derby will each receive $130,000. Second-prize winners will get $52,000. The third-placed horse will bring ticket holders $26,000.

McGovern Forces Eye Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's supporters are mounting a massive effort to beat back a California credentials challenge which could be the last major threat to his nomination.

McGovern forces succeeded on another front Tuesday when Democratic party platform-writers produced a document echoing the senator's key positions, but in terms that his two main rivals also could embrace.

The platform draft will be offered for a vote at the Miami Beach convention where debate seems certain on a number of planks opposed by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and his supporters.

The Platform Committee voted overwhelmingly to authorize a minority report by the Wallace forces on such issues as taxes, the economy, welfare, busing of school children, prayer in schools, and crime.

McGovern continued his tour of the South where he found a friendly reception and indications of possible later ballot support from Arkansas delegates.

In a significant gesture to party regulars, he indicated that, if he wins the nomination, he will keep Lawrence F. O'Brien as national party chairman.

Sen. Tippen Is Named To Panels

AUSTIN—Bill Tippen, newly elected State Senator for the 24th District, which includes Scurry County, has been appointed to serve on several committees.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes assigned Tippen to the committees on Agriculture and Livestock, Banking, Counties, District and Urban Affairs, Legislative, Congressional and Judicial Districts; Oil and Gas, Parks and Wildlife, Rules, Transportation, Water and Conservation and Youth affairs.

Sen. Tippen began his service to these committees immediately upon appointment and will serve until Jan. 1, 1973.

Car Recovered In Colorado

A 1968 Model Camaro stolen here on June 6 was recovered yesterday in Trinidad, Colo.

City Police said authorities at Trinidad spotted a youth washing the vehicle. He and a couple of other youths are suspected of stealing the vehicle, although no charges have been filed yet. The car is owned by Jake Harrell, 2912 Thirtieth Street. It was taken from his driveway the night of June 6.

To The Daily News:

Aware as I am of the extreme conservatism of practically all newspapers, nevertheless, it perturbs me when I read comments as those in Sunday's SDN column, because of the faith most people still have in "the printed word."

If I may: "The couple of Democrats" the author was "talking to the other day" were definitely not Democrats or they would be able to find at least one candidate—perhaps several—to support wholeheartedly.

Also I heartily disagree with the suggestion that the Democrats "throw in the towel." This of course could only be sanctioned by a real Republican. And I feel, with the intelligent, honest and compassionate men we have available in the Democratic Party this year, we may very well be on the road to accomplishing some of the promises made during the 1968 campaign! In such event, our candidates are fully qualified to "stay in the kitchen and stand the heat" that will have been generated during the preceding four years of the Republican administration.

Because a person votes in the Democratic primaries, goes to their conventions or even serves as a delegate to their conventions (as evidenced by our most recent ones) is no guarantee he's a Democrat or will support the Democratic nominee in November.

Two Mishaps Are Reported Here

Minor damage resulted from two motor vehicle mishaps Tuesday.

The first one occurred at 12:52 p.m. in the 300 block of the East Highway. Involved were the 1970 Model Chevrolet ½-ton pickup of Billy Don Martin, P.O. Box 675; the 1966 Model Ford of Nancy Jane Wenetschlaeger, 208 Thirty-fifth Street; and, the parked 1972 Model Chevrolet ½-ton truck of Jessie James Brown of Abilene.

The other collision occurred on the parking lot at the Sonic Drive-In at 7:55 p.m. Tuesday. Involved were the 1963 Model Chevrolet of Shelly Lane, 2108 Forty-first Street, and the parked 1969 Model Pontiac of Glennie Reeder Allison, 3109 Fortieth Street.

S-Viets Seek To Retake Province

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government today launched its first attempt to recapture Quang Tri Province. More than 10,000 marines and paratroopers crossed the My Chanh river along a 10-mile front stretching from the South China Sea to the jungled foothills west of Highway 1.

U.S. B52 bombers dropped some 1,350 tons of explosives to open the way for the push. Tanks, artillery, U.S. gunfire from ships offshore and American fighter-bombers supported the advancing troops.

There were no immediate reports on the extent of North Vietnamese resistance or of casualties.

Since the North Vietnamese completed their conquest of Quang Tri, South Vietnam's northernmost province, on May 1, the South Vietnamese have made a number of in-and-out sweeps into the Communist-held territory along the coast. But the drive today was the first large-scale attempt to carry out President Nguyen Van Thieu's orders on June 19 to retake all territory captured by Hanoi's forces in the offensive that began March 30.

Meanwhile, President Thieu fired a province chief American officials consider one of the best in the country. Vietnam Press, the government news agency, confirmed the ouster of Col. Nguyen Van Chuc as the top official in Binh Dinh, the coastal province at the foot of the central highlands, and said he would be replaced by Col. Hoang Dinh Tho, who has been chief of Quang Tin province, farther north.

The report gave no reason for the switch, but some Americans thought it was a payoff to Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Toan, who was recently named commander of the 2nd Military Region, which includes Binh Dinh. These sources said Col. Tho is an old friend and associate of Toan.

Binh Dinh is one of the areas least controlled by the Saigon government.

Tornadoes Reported In Arkansas

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nearly a dozen tornadoes were reported in Arkansas Tuesday night and early today as storms swept over the state, for the third consecutive day.

No serious injury was reported. Damage reports were sketchy, but apparently no widespread destruction took place.

State police said two house trailers were demolished at Hector, one was blown over at Augusta, a gymnasium was damaged at Russellville and felled trees blocked Arkansas 282 in the Fort Smith area.

The National Weather Service and state police said tornadoes were indicated by radar, seen by officers or reported by citizens at these locations:

—Newport at 12:29 a.m. today.

—Just north of North Little Rock at 12:30 a.m. today.

—Heber Springs at 12:31 a.m. today.

—Four miles north of Palestine at 1:50 a.m. today.

—About 1½ miles west of Bradford at 11:23 p.m. Tuesday.

—Five miles east of Dover at 11:10 p.m. Tuesday.

—Five miles southwest of Fayetteville at 11:10 p.m. Tuesday.

—West of Augusta on U.S. 64 at 11:48 p.m. Tuesday.

—Five miles southwest of Mountainburg at 10:45 p.m. Tuesday.

—Five miles north of Van Buren at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

State police said high winds nearly blew a patrol car off a road near Palestine and wind up to 60 miles per hour was clocked at Newport.

Tailored Look Wins Vote Of Confidence

By ANN HENCKEN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The tailored look has been given a final vote of confidence at the 1972 Coty American Fashion Critics' Awards announcements.

John Anthony won the "Winnie" Coty Award, for "his leadership in the revival of tailored elegance ... "

Anthony took Seventh Avenue by storm last year, when he opened his own firm. His collections have been well-edited, strong statements for sophisticated, sometimes severe clothes, such as the man-tailored pants suit and the wide-lapeled jacket.

"I design for the woman over 30," he said after the recent opening of his fall collection.

In a way, his triumph is also a vote for the mature woman.

In contrast, the two other nominees for the "Winnie" were designers Stephen Burrows and Willi Smith. Both are highly talented creators of a kicky, upbeat look in fashion. Their clothes are good for young or very young-thinking women.

"I use knits because they suggest skin and its flexibility," says Burrows, who designs colorful, clingy clothes.

"I'm trying to strip my clothes of nostalgia, of age, of everything that isn't practical," says Smith, who likes a tailored look with a youthful flare.

Yet John Anthony was given the award. He's a believer in the generous cut, influenced by the '30s. There isn't much whimsy in his bold, classic clothes. "Elegant" is the word.

The "Return Award" was given to R. Halston Frowick, known as Halston, for "his ever-widening influence on American fashion" and his "elegance and subtlety in dress."

Halston's lush, quiet knit and cashmere dresses, sweaters and slacks are worn widely by many international socialites. However, he's branching out to a lower-priced ready-to-wear line, priced up to $400, in addition to his sportswear and made-to-order collections.

These winners were voted in by some 400 fashion editors across the country. Nominees were suggested by a commmittee of 70 fashion editors.

The committee picked designer Bonnie Cashin for a Hall of Fame Award. A designer who has been deeply concerned with function in fashion design, Miss Cashin was cited for "pioneering truly modern clothes."

MARION BECKER'S MOLASSES CHIPS

2 cups unsifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ cup dark molasses
¼ cup sugar
6 tablespoons butter, soft
1 tablespoon milk

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, salt, nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon. In a heavy 1½-quart saucepan gently heat the molasses until it is about to boil; remove from heat. Stir in the sugar and butter until blended; add milk and flour mixture and stir again until blended. Chill. On 2 sheets of foil shape dough into two 3-by-2-inch rectangles and wrap tightly in the foil. Chill in refrigerator overnight or in freezer until very firm. With a very sharp knife slice extremely thin. Place fairly close together on greased cookie sheets; bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes. With a wide spatula remove to wire racks to cool. Store in a tightly covered tin box. Makes 6 dozen very thin and crisp cookies.

Clocker Gets $100 Reward

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — Walt Culberson, a clocker at Ruidoso Downs race track, paid scant attention to a small object on the track until a horse kicked it and $100 bills started flying through the air.

Culberson found a wallet and $1,000 in loose bills.

He turned the wallet in to the track security office Monday, ending an anxious 30 minutes for Robert Lofton, an owner-trainer who had lost the wallet while working out some horses.

Lofton rewarded the clocker with $100.

Office Personalized By Woman Executive

NEW YORK (AP) — As more women climb the executive ladder, they're not only changing their own images, they're doing their best to dispel the business that cold, impersonally decorated offices are best suited to corporate life.

For instance, Mary Roberts, co-founder, stylist and officer of Isabel Scott Fabrics, a 23-year-old textile firm, has managed to balance marriage, motherhood and career while reaching the top of her profession. And much of that career has been spent in an office made warm and inviting with a prized collection of family portrait photographs and memorabilia.

"I don't believe in a strict separation of home and business," says Mrs. Roberts. "How you relate each to yourself is interchangeable. I work better surrounded by things that remind me of happy times and good moments with my family and friends."

To create the atmosphere the walls of Mrs. Roberts' office are covered with one of her fabric designs. The soft color and muted pattern serve as appropriate background for portraits of her husband, daughter, granddaughter, niece and close friends, hung with a textile collage and photographs of the Roberts' western vacation retreat.

"Family portraits are an easy way to personalize any office and create a pleasant working environment," maintains Mrs. Roberts. "An office with displays of carefully arranged portraits combined with other meaningful objects has an esthetically satisfying feeling it wouldn't have otherwise."

She advises changing the office environment at intervals, however, for added stimulation. "Each design collection brings a new set of challenges and problems. At the same time, new things are happening to my family and friends which result in additional portraits for my office display. I find that changing or adding to the arrangement creates inspiration and relaxation when I need it."

MODERN VICTORIAN — All the charm of yesterday is combined with the soft comfort of today's knit-cot cotton in this full-length night-gown. Stripes and dots team up for pleasing contrast in Carter's lace and ribbon-trimmed style.

MRS. BULLARD HONORED—Mrs. Tommy Bullard, nee Laverne Nix, was complimented with a wedding shower Tuesday evening at Martha Ann Women's Club. Hostessing the event were Mmes. Ken Davis, Max West, James Stehley, Douglas Flynn, Leland Herod, Clyde Hall Jr., James Moffett, Ned Underwood, Ross Carroll, Wayland Gladson, Myron Roe, Lawson Stiff, E.J. Richardson Jr., Wilton Jones, D.B. Bruyere, Lee Smyth, Bob Holder, Bill Line, Lacy Turner, John Gary, J.W. Headstream, and Richard Brice. Pictured with the honoree are her mother, Mrs. Vernon Duff, and the mother of the groom, Mrs. Fred Bullard.

Kids Define Pretzels

By AP Newsfeatures

What is a pretzel?

"A pretzel is something that God forgot to untwist."

"Pretzels are better for you than girls."

These are examples of what elementary school students in Berks County, Pa., came up with when asked, "What is a pretzel?"

The schools cooperated when Bachman Foods, Inc., a pretzel producer, set out to get a better idea of what youngsters think of pretzels.

Ten-year-old Steve showed signs of becoming a stand-up comedian. "A pretzel went to jail and when he got out he told the warden, 'I'm going straight'".

Alice, age 11, seemed to know how to quiet toddlers. "We lost the passifer (sic) so we gave my baby brother a pretzel, and we haven't heard a word from him since."

One 10-year-old, Darrell, wrote, "It is a piece of dough that was in the middle of a robbery and the men saw him so one said, 'Tie him up, Fred.' And he tied him up in this shape."

In other entries some youngsters credited pretzels with everything from getting better presents from Santa Claus at Christmas to causing a cat to have 11 kittens.

There are secret uses for pretzels too, which the children revealed. Eddie, age nine, claimed, "My grandmother dunks her pretzels in coffee when her teeth hurt, but I'm not supposed to tell that." And Mike, 10, thought, "A pretzel is something you stick in your school desk when nobody is looking."

House Rejects Arms Bill Cut

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backing President Nixon's war and weapons policies, the House has decisively rejected efforts to cut a $21.3-billion arms bill and to write a war-pullout deadline into it.

It also shouted down a proposal to outlaw U.S. bombing of North Vietnamese dams and dikes. The White House has denied reports that U.S. bombing has struck such targets.

In voting Tuesday, amendments to cut $1.7 billion from weapons projects including the Trident missile submarine, B1 bomber and Safeguard antimissile site for Washington were defeated.

The House then voted 334 to 59 to approve and send to the Senate the $21.3-billion authorization for tanks, missiles, ships, planes and other weapons for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Opponents contended that the President's accelerated Trident and B1 development requests could undermine the U.S.-Soviet strategic-arms-limitation agreement and destroy the confidence of taxpayers who expected bigger weapons cuts because of the accords.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., argued, "Obviously, we've got the power to blow the Soviets to smithereens. And all we're talking about here is how fine a powder to grind the other peoples of the earth into."

But Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., backed Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's position that the Moscow agreements "should be scrapped" if Congress does not continue U.S. weapons development, because of the greater number of missiles and submarines given the Soviets under the accords.

Nixon asked for the Trident and B1 speedup and has argued that rejection would lead to U.S. inferiority by the late 1970s.

The amendment to order U.S. forces out of the Indochina war by Sept. 1 was proposed by Rep. Michael J. Harrington, D-Mass., and rejected after brief debate.

The amendment by Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., to prohibit U.S. bombing of North Vietnamese dams and dikes was quickly rejected by voice vote.

Farmer Wants Cash

PERU, Ind. (AP) — Lowell Elliott didn't want a trip and his wife said she wouldn't fly, so American Airlines officials try to decide today how much money to give the 61-year-old farmer for finding $500,000 paid to a skyjacker as ransom.

S.P. Fay, American Airlines manager in Indianapolis, visited the Elliott farm southeast of here Tuesday afternoon.

Elliott, a good-natured man who is recuperating from a near-fatal heart attack last fall, found the ransom money in a soybean field Monday.

The skyjacker who either jumped or fell from the airliner he ordered to fly from St. Louis to Toronto early Saturday has not been found, the FBI said. Agents and Indiana state police have searched near this north central Indiana community for four days.

Agents said a submachine gun used by the skyjacker was found in a cornfield about 2½ miles from the money, but there has been no trace of the parachute.

Fay offered Elliott, his wife and three daughters an all-expenses trip "anywhere" for turning the money over to the FBI.

"He plainly said he couldn't take a trip and Elliott's wife said she wouldn't fly," Fay said, explaining he had suggested a trip to Hawaii.

The airlines executive said Elliott would be given "a monetary gift, there's no question about that." The exact amount hinged on a meeting of airline officials in New York, he said.

"I'd like to get the cash if I'm going to get something," Elliott said.

Demos Pushing SS Hike On Debt Ceiling Bill

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Nixon's objections, Democrats are moving ahead with plans to tack a 20-per-cent Social Security increase onto a bill raising the national-debt ceiling.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said his amendment is in final form and ready to be offered when the debt measure comes before the Senate, probably Thursday.

The House passed the debt-limit bill 211 to 168 Tuesday. House Democratic leaders are arranging procedures to try to accept the Senate Social Security amendment when the legislation is returned to the House.

Unless the bill is signed into law by Friday midnight, the national-debt ceiling will drop back to $400 billion from the present temporary figure of $450 billion.

Since the debt now stands at about $427 billion, the government technically would be unable to meet its bills unless the higher ceiling is extended as the bill provides.

Nixon called in Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday to protest the Democratic plan to attach the Social Security hike to the debt-ceiling bill.

After that meeting, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler accused Church of playing politics. Ziegler said he thinks Church "wants to tie this thing up a little bit so he can create a little tension."

Church, in a Senate speech, replied that he simply is trying to help the elderly without waiting for the big Social Security-welfare bill to clear the Finance Committee.

It was learned that Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, senior Republican on the Finance Committee, probably will offer a 10-per-cent Social Security hike as a substitute for the Church proposal. But it appears a number of Republicans will join most Democrats in voting for 20 per cent.

In voting Tuesday to raise the debt ceiling to $450 billion until Oct. 31, the House rejected attempts to attach tax-reform riders.

On a 207-180 vote, the House beat back a move by Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., to allow amendments aimed at plugging what he called tax-law loopholes favoring corporations and the wealthy. Reuss said closing those loopholes would yield the Treasury up to $6 billion.

Sen. Church said the financing provisions of his bill, to pay for the benefit increases, have been cleared with the Social Security Administration.

They would boost the wage base—the amount of annual earnings against which the payroll tax is levied—and the rate paid by the worker and employer.

These changes mean that the maximum tax for the worker and employer, $468 this year, would go up to $594 in 1973.

Jilted Lover Crashes

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — For four hours Robert D. Lively buzzed the home of a former girlfriend, putting the small, stolen airplane through loops, dives and assorted aerial acrobatics.

"That's it. It's all over," were the last words the 25-year-old Lively said over the airplane's radio.

He died Tuesday when the plane ran out of gas and nose-dived 70 feet to the ground near an abandoned landing strip.

"I tried to talk him down, but he wouldn't come down," said Deputy Sheriff Jon Kelbaugh, who had kept in constant touch with Lively over a two-way radio.

Kelbaugh said that Lively, formerly of Redding, refused to explain why he was stunt-flying over the Project City area northeast of here. The home the former girlfriend, who had married another man, is in the area.

However, Sgt. Don Acker said investigators found a flight plan in the wreckage which declared, "Destination Project City. One way, No return."

Acker said, "He was advised he was running out of fuel, but he said he didn't care."

Acker said Lively stole the single-engine Avalon A2 from nearby Enterprise Sky Park where he had taken flying lessons. Deputies were alerted when residents of the Project City area telephoned complaints about a plane buzzing their rooftops.

Crane Operators Halt Project

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three crane operators who would rather ride than walk up 26 levels have halted all steel erection at the new State Office Building here.

The three claim they are too exhausted to work after walking up to the 26th floor of the structure where the cranes are mounted. They haven't worked for two weeks. They used to take temporary elevators to the top, but a strike by elevator constructors closed the lift.

A contractor spokesman said ironworkers on the job don't complain about the walk.

"They run up those steps two at a time," he said.

The spokesman said the halt in steel erection hasn't dented the project's timetable. Cement for 17th level flooring now is being laid and there won't be any problem till the cement laying reaches the 26th floor.

FORT WORTH (AP) — John Sohrweide of Dallas was elected board chairman Tuesday of the Texas Restaurant Association, succeeding Bill McCoy of San Antonio.

Senate Votes Flood Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted $200 million in emergency relief funds for victims of tropical storm Agnes in the Eastern United States, doubling the amount requested by President Nixon.

In a two-pronged effort to help flood-stricken areas, the White House asked Tuesday for urgent approval of $100 million in flood aid, and announced a two-day tour by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew of battered cities in Virginia, Maryland and New York.

The Senate acted almost immediately. The $200 million would be administered by the Office of Emergency Preparedness, which already has a disaster relief fund of $92.5 million.

The House still must approve, although it was uncertain whether it would do so before recessing on Friday until July 17.

White House officials said the funds would be used for such things as repairing bridges, highways and other public facilities, and was "just a small portion" of the total aid available from 25 other agencies, including the Small Business Administration, which supervises disaster loans to businessmen and homeowners.

The Senate voted the funds through an amendment offered by Sens. Hugh Scott, R-Pa.; Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., and Charles Mathias, R-Md., to a departmental appropriation bill.

It disregarded an objection from Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., who urged delaying action until the White House offered a more precise estimate of how much flood relief was needed.

The five states suffering greatest damage from Agnes's floods were Maryland, Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania and Florida.

The White House said the additional relief funds could also be used for aiding recovery from other disasters, including the recent flooding at Rapid City, S.D.

President Nixon Tuesday declared California a major disaster area as a result of flood damage caused by a break in a levee in Sacramento County.

Debate Set On Handguns

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill banning commercial sale of cheap handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials" heads for Senate debate after being approved Tuesday by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said he will press in the Senate for a much stronger measure to outlaw ownership and sale of all handguns.

The bill approved in committee prohibits sale to the general public of revolvers with less than a three-inch barrel and pistols with an over-all length of less than six inches. These are easily concealable weapons.

Its chief backer, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said the measure would eliminate about one million of the 2.6 million handguns sold annually in the United States, including "the weapons used most frequently by criminals."

It would prohibit the kind of guns that were used in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968 and the attempted slaying of Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama last month, according to its supporters.

An electric eel, largest and most potent of electric fishes, can discharge more than 600 volts in one shock.

High-Rises To Serve As Shelters

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Heeding warnings that thousands of persons could die stacked up around escape routes if a major hurricane slammed ashore at Miami Beach, federal officials say they are planning use of high-rise buildings as emergency shelters.

E. V. W. "Eddie" Jones, information officer of the U.S. Office of Emergency Preparedness at Miami, made copies of a report on use of high-rise buildings for hurricane shelters available Tuesday at a news conference on efforts to provide relief from the effects of Hurricane Agnes.

He said the study was conducted by the federal executive board in Miami as a result of warnings by Dr. Robert Simpson, National Hurricane Center director, that major coastal metropolitan areas have grown too big to evacuate residents in the face of major hurricanes.

"It is inescapable that in at least some locations we shall soon reach the point where evacuation in the face of an extreme hurricane in accordance with existing procedures will find tens of thousands of people stranded on the highways in a fantastic traffic jam, unable to return home or reach safe shelter as hurricane winds and tides overtake them," Simpson said.

"Such a situation could lead to the loss of thousands or, in the estimation of some, tens of thousands of lives. I submit the nation cannot afford this risk."

Studying Miami Beach, an island city offering a limited number of escape routes, Jones said the committee concluded that high-rises offered the best possibility of escape from major hurricanes like Camille, which devastaged the Mississippi Gulf Coast three years ago.

He said shelter would be provided in the stairwells and hallways of high-rises such as hotels, condominiums and office buildings. Jones said a high rise refuge would be within 30 minutes of every resident.

The unanswered question at this point, he said, is what would happen if the owners of high-rise buildings refused to cooperate in a hurricane shelter program.

Boyle Free On Bail

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Mine Workers President W.A. "Tony" Boyle is free on $179,000 bail pending an appeal of his conviction for illegally giving union funds to political candidates.

Boyle, 70, was sentenced to five years in federal prison Tuesday and fined $130,000. He later was freed when his attorneys posted bond, which was secured by Boyle's personal assets.

The sentencing by U.S. District Court Judge Charles Richey came after an emotional appeal from Boyle's attorney not to send him to prison.

"He has made no personal gain through the crime for which he was convicted," pleaded Plato Cacheris. "Incarceration would be of no benefit either to Mr. Boyle or to the government."

Boyle was convicted of illegally contributing $49,000 in union money to political candidates, including $30,000 to the unsuccessful 1968 presidential campaign of Democratic nominee Hubert H. Humphrey.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Charles Huff urged the prison sentence to deter others from similar actions.

"He has breached a trust—the trust he assumed when elected by the union—and the court must take into consideration the impact the sentence today will have on others," Ruff said.

Gen. LeMay Settles Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay has settled his $5.3 million suit against the company that fired him when he became Gov. George C. Wallace's running mate in 1968.

LeMay, 65, sued Networks Electronic Corp. in 1969, saying the company wrongly fired him when he took a leave of absence as board chairman to run for vice president on the American Independent Party ticket.

The company filed a $5.1 million countersuit saying LeMay failed to abide by his contract, never had a leave of absence and used his $50,000-a-year-position as a political springboard.

Attorneys announced the out of court settlement of both suits Tuesday. The terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

Marriages may be made in heaven, but it's hard to keep them heavenly when it's hotter than blazes.

That's where central gas air conditioning comes in. It can bring you together. All summer long. As close as you want. All summer long.

And it won't cost you much either. In fact, if you have gas heating in your home, you could easily have half a central air conditioning system already. Because you may be able to use the duct work and furnace blower you already have. That saves about fifty percent on installation costs.

That's just part of the savings. Gas costs less to operate than electricity. And gas air conditioning owners get special low rates during the long hot summer months.

But you'll save more than money with gas. You'll save time and energy, too. Because with central gas air conditioning there are fewer moving parts. Fewer breakdowns. Fewer repairs.

This summer, have central gas air conditioning installed. For loves sake.

Banks Have Hidden Stock In Corporations

By JEAN HELLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lee Metcalf said today that some of the nation's largest banks hold huge hidden blocks of stock—perhaps even controlling interest—in many of the biggest U.S. corporations.

But these banks are difficult to identify, he said, because on stockholder lists they almost always appear under corporate pseudonyms, otherwise known as nominees or street names, for which translations are not readily available.

For example, Chase Manhattan Bank is rarely identified on stockholder lists. Instead, it appears under one of its 24 street names, a list that includes Clint, Cudd, Egger, Gooss, Gunn, Kane and Ring.

Metcalf, a Montana Democrat and a member of the Senate Government Operations Committee, made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery to the Senate.

The use of street names by large institutional investors leads to problems, Metcalf said, particularly in industries required by law to make public the names of large shareholders in annual reports to federal regulatory agencies.

For example, the Civil Aeronautics Board requires airlines to disclose stockholders with 5 per cent or greater interest.

"Reports filed with the CAB by airlines state that, as of the end of last year, Chase Manhattan held 6.5 per cent of the stock in TWA, 9 per cent of the stock in Eastern, 8.4 per cent of the stock in National and 7.5 per cent of the stock in American," Metcalf said.

But, he added, no Chase Manhattan holdings were listed by three other airlines, Northwest, United and Western.

"Nevertheless, Chase Manhattan holds more than 6 per cent of the common stock in each of those three airlines, according to letters I received recently from those companies," he said. "The bank holds the stock through two or more nominees in each instance."

The Securities and Exchange Commission says that generally an interest can exercise effective control of a corporation by holding as little as 10 per cent of the corporation's stock. Metcalf said he understands that 5 per cent can constitute controlling interest if other votes are scattered.

Metcalf aid he would introduce later this year a "corporate ownership report act" which would require companies to disclose the true identity of those interests which have voting control over large amounts of stock.

Metcalf said also he found bank domination in the broadcasting and electric-utility industries.

Susan Agnew Plans To Wed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miss Susan Scott Agnew, daughter of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, will marry a Baltimore man this winter, the vice president and his wife announced today.

Miss Agnew, 24, is engaged to Carroll William Stein, a field investigator for the Maryland Department of Employment and Social Services at Salisbury, Md.

Miss Agnew attended the University of Maryland and is a coordinator of volunteer services for the Eastern Shore State Hospital in Cambridge, Md.

Stein, 30, a graduate of Essex Community College and Towson State College, was best man when Miss Agnew's oldest sister, Pamela, was married in 1969 to Robert DeHaven.

The couple has known one another for eight years, a family spokesman said.

Houston May Lose Fed Funds

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston may lose millions in federal funds because of failure to comply with water pollution requirements, the Houston Post reported today.

In a story from Austin, it said this warning from Dr. Cooper Wayman, regional counsel of the Environmental Protection Agency, came at a meeting of the Texas Water Quality Board in which the board again prodded Houston officials to get moving on more sewage plant expansions and to run their plants properly.

"This board is no longer going to take a lenient view of inadequate operation of what they have, even if it's nothing but a slop shop," said Gordon Fulcher, TWQB chairman.

Wayman said $7 million in current federal grants to Houston to build sewage treatment plants include requirements that Houston draw up an acceptable master plan for sewage treatment until 1990, and adopt an ordinance requiring industries to pretreat their wastes or pay the city for treatment.

"We must consider withholding payments unless these conditions are met," Wayman said.

E. B. Cape, Houston public works director, said only about $2.5 million of the $7 million in current federal grants is still unpaid. But Cape said the city is planning future requests for "staggering" amounts of federal money.

He said a planned new plant alone will cost $15 million and the federal government will be asked to pay 55 per cent of that.

Cape said a 1990 plan has been drawn up but not yet approved by the City Council and the Houston-Galveston Area Council of government.

A third draft of an ordinance requiring industry pre-treatment or payment is now under EPA review after two earlier versions were rejected by the federal agency, he said.

Fulcher urged the city officials to get together with the EPA "in all haste" to work out the problems.

"My impression is that if this thing isn't rectified by the end of the year, funds are going to get cut off," Fulcher said.

Paris Slayings Are Probed

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — Police in this Northeast Texas town continued today their investigation into the pistol slaying of a young man and woman whose half naked bodies were found sprawled in a woods near here.

Sylvia C. Akard, 19, of Paris, had been shot in the back four times. James G. McConnell, 20, of Bogata, was shot three times in the back.

Investigators said Miss Akard was wearing only a blouse. McConnell was clad only in a pair of undershorts. Both bodies were found Tuesday by a fisherman near Lake Crook in a wooded area.

Police said the couple had apparently been forced to lie face down in the dirt before they were executed.

Freeway Bill Is Introduced

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Sens. Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower introduced legislation in the U.S. Senate Tuesday aimed at lifting a 10-year legal blockade against a controversial freeway through local parkland.

Tower told San Antonio newsmen that the move was intended to correct "an intolerable situation in which courts ruled a state may not return federal highway construction assistance funds in order to be able to proceed on its own without federal assistance."

The legislation was drawn up in an effort to free the state of Texas to resume work on this city's long-stalled North Expressway, although it does not mention the freeway specifically.

Opponents of the expressway have successfully fought the project over its proposed route through part of San Antonio parkland, arguing that feasible alternatives exist.

Tower said an overwhelming majority of local citizens favor completion of the expressway and that "this has been evidenced by a petition I have received containing 103,000 signatures."

The State of Texas has withdrawn its request for federal aid on the expressway in an unsuccessful attempt to remove "federal questions" in suits against it.

The Tower-Bentsen legislation provides that state highway departments can notify the Transportation Department that they wish to terminate federal aid on "any particular project" in their highway programs.

After the Transportation Secretary receives such notice and approves termination, and the state returns the funds involved, "the particular project shall immediately cease to be a federal aid project and no further federal action shall be required," the legislation states, in part.

Westmoreland Praises Unit

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky.(AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the retiring Army chief of staff, has presented a Presidential Unit Citation to a unit which he formerly commanded.

Westmoreland, who will step down as chief of staff Friday, ending 33 years of military service, presented the citation to the 3rd Brigade of the 101st Airborne Division, the highest honor presented to a unit by the nation.

During the ceremony Tuesday Westmoreland praised the unit for its "extraordinary heroism in action against the enemy" in Vietnam.

Westmoreland, the former commander of all U.S. forces in South Vietnam, also was commander of the 101st and of Ft. Campbell from April 1958 to June 1960.

Council Ponders Order Proposals

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ten proposed antidemonstration ordinances aimed at maintaining order during the Democratic National Convention by outlawing acts ranging from cop baiting to rioting go before the Miami Beach City Council today.

The consideration comes one day after a renewed pledge of peace for the convention was offered by members of the Youth International party (Yippies).

Two of the 10 proposals are supported by Police Chief Rocky Pomerance, whose information officer, Lt. Pete Corso, stressed the chief's desire "to start out on a harmonious footing."

Pomerance had been reported as supporting all the proposals, but he later said this was the result of a mixup. He said he sent the measures—culled from those used in Los Angeles and Washington—to city lawyers only for analysis. However, all 10 wound up on the council's agenda.

The chief said he supports proposals giving him power to establish emergency curfews, and allowing police to rope off a trouble spot and permit entry only by the press or other people approved by police.

Pomerance said he did not want ordinances banning the singing of obscene songs; disorderly conduct; derogatory remarks to policemen; public use of obscenities; participation in a "riot, rout or unlawful assembly"; remaining at the scene of a riot; inciting to riot; or malicious provocations.

Yippie leaders Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman said at a news conference Tuesday all activities of the Yippies during the Democratic convention will be peaceful.

All major nondelegate groups have said they would try to keep all the demonstrations peaceful.

Ed Sanders, another Yippie leader, said, however, that special arrangements were being made for Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, whose role as an Illinois delegate is being challenged.

New Jobs In Recycling Plants

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: A newspaper clipping is enclosed about a new method to recycle raw garbage to obtain useful products. According to the article, the developers of this process say it can convert a ton of garbage to about 480 lbs. of fuel oil, plus 160 lbs. of char, 140 lbs. of magnetic metals, and 120 lbs. of glass. While no city has yet tried the new process in a full-scale demonstration plant, it seems to me that this process, or another one to accomplish the same purpose, will have to be put into widespread use sooner or later, because cities are already short of dumping space.

My question is: What kinds of jobs will be opened up in garbage recycling plants? I presume engineers will be needed, but what types of engineers? -- H.D., Riverside, Calif.

This letter illustrates the value of creative reading of news items to anticipate the kinds of new jobs which are likely to be available tomorrow.

The company which developed the process H.D. refers to is the Garrett Research and Development Co. A spokesman for the firm tells me that solid waste conversion plants using their process will not be "labor intensive," which means it will use more machines than workers. Since the process is now in the final development stages, it has not yet created any job opportunities.

However, the firm expects commercialization within the next 3 years. If all goes according to plan, garbage recycling plants will need chemical and mechanical engineers to design, build and operate plants. Chemical plant operators will also be needed for day-to-day operations, together with chemists, chemical technicians, and clerical staff.

A typical municipal solid waste conversion plant serving a city of 800,000 might perhaps require 13 engineers, 2 chemists, 2 clerks, 3 secretaries, and about 50 operatives and technicians, according to the Garrett firm.

Although the company's spokesman didn't mention environmentalists who specialize in sanitary science (sanitarians), it seems logical that this type of specialist would be needed either on a staff or consultant basis.

Dear Joyce: I am an engineer and am interested in finding a job overseas. Do you know of a book which covers general conditions, freedom to work, licensing requirements, taxes, and so forth in various countries? -- B.T., Seattle, Wash.

The newly revised "Engineers' Overseas Handbook," published by the U.S. Department of Commerce, may prove helpful in comparing engineering opportunities abroad. This book does not tell you how to get a job. It is primarily designed to aid American engineering firms in developing business overseas by giving information on market conditions, tax matters, legal and personnel requirements, etc., in 114 countries of the free world. You can get a copy for $1.50 from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402.

MAJOR CROP FAILURE!

Many Insurance Agents Guilty Of Negligence

NEW YORK (AP)—Pennsylvania insurance commissioner Herbert S. Denenberg suggests that flood victims in scores of communities in the East might consider suing their insurance agents and brokers for negligence.

"If agents want to assume the privileges and status of being professionals they must take the responsibility too," he said in an interview.

"As a lawyer," he said, "I think there is ample precedent to accuse them of negligence if they failed to tell their clients that flood insurance was available.

Such suits would be restricted to residents of communities in which flood insurance was available under a federal subsidy plan. While most communities are eligible, not all sought qualification under the program.

Action would be filed by individuals or by groups acting in a class action, in much the same way that professional negligence cases are being brought in increasing numbers against lawyers and doctors, he said.

Should such a concept find wide acceptance the consequences for agents, insurance companies and municipalities would be extraordinary, but it wouldn't be the first time Denenberg has provoked and upset the industry.

A Certified Life Underwriter and former professor, Denenberg earlier issued "A Shopper's Guide to Life Insurance," challenged the fees charged by hospitals and paid by Blue Cross and denied Blue Shield a rate increase.

The fact that flood insurance is available in many communities, and can be made available in others, has been described as the industry's best kept secret and least publicized product, but agents alone are not at fault.

Under the federal plan, communities may qualify for flood insurance, to be purchased by property owners, by agreeing to certain land usage and property restriction clauses.

However, most communities have failed to take qualifying action. Denenberg said that of 5,000 flood-prone communities in the nation, only 1,200 are enrolled. Of 500 such communities in Pennsylvania, only 90 are qualified.

Moreover, either because the state's 30,000 agents failed to inform them or because they chose not to seek coverage, only 683 property owners were covered under the federal plan at the time the floods struck.

The blame, therefore, seems to be shared also by the federal and state governments for not publicizing the availability of coverage, and by municipal officials for not seeking to qualify, as well as by agents.

Many people apparently thought their homeowner policies provided flood coverage, Denenberg said. But, he added, if the insurance agent poses as a professional adviser, it would seem he has a responsibility to inform.

Junior Editors' Quiz on PIRATES

QUESTION: Did pirates once exist and if so do they still?

* * *

ANSWER: Piracy flourished during the Middle Ages and in modern times up to the 19th century. Pirates were robbers or bandits on the high seas. In the 1500s and 1600s, buccaneers and privateers were committing acts of piracy. Buccaneers were usually sailors who were dissatisfied with the conditions on ships and turned to piracy for a better livelihood. The privateers were usually private shipowners working for a government and looting on the side. The slave trade was another form of piracy.

In modern times, in the 19th century, pirates from the Barbary states of northern Africa were constantly harassing shipping in the Mediterranean. The United States and other countries waged war against these states and ended this Mediterranean piracy. International statutes were enacted which made piracy a serious crime. The pirate ship could be seized and the crew imprisoned by any nation involved. Piracy on the sea has been wiped out, but now there is a form of air piracy demonstrated by the recent wave of hijacking of airplanes.

'Health' Standards Changed

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A young man about the neighborhood returned from school the other day and announced to his amazed parents that the teacher had ordered all his seventh-grade class to use deodorant daily.

Noise pollution is ruining our hearing. Instant food is ruining our taste. Now they are going to deprive us of the smell of human beings.

No wonder there is a movement called sensitivity training.

Remember, these specific 12-year-olds attend an air-conditioned school, shower after gym classes, probably shower each morning, and change daily into crisp, clean clothing.

There was a considerable difference not so many years ago.

We single out the Seymour, Tex., Grade School and Seymour High School of that time only because they were closest to our heart.

This was in the days before automatic water heaters, even before bathtubs in most homes.

Schools had a subject called "Health." It stressed that everyone should take a bath twice a week.

This was easier demanded than done. Each pupil got a star if he swore he did bathe twice weekly. The school at one point reached a crisis. The star quarterback, runner, punter and linebacker was on the verge of flunking "Health." So the teacher allowed him to take two baths in one day to pass the course and retain athletic eligibility.

If you believe the star should have showered after each practice, you just don't understand. There were no school showers.

Taking a bath was a real chore. You put a couple of large kettles on the stove, dragged in a washtub, and tried to adjust the heat of the water in the tub until it was bearable.

It took real effort to pass "Health."

Frankly, the school's corridors were a little gamey. But you knew those around you were human beings, truly, not robots.

One reason you could notice people even when you couldn't see them was that everyone wore long underwear during the cool season, since central heating was unknown.

One teacher, noting that a young fellow didn't even have a fraction of a star on his "Health" card, wrote a letter to the youngster's mother demanding that he bathe.

Came back a reply: "Melvin can't bathe. He's already sewed into his long underwear for the winter."

Now, it's deodorants for schoolboys. The world is coming apart.

Pouring Not Most Important

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Virginia's first bartending school is about to open in Roanoke—and there isn't a drop of alcohol on the premises.

Proprietor of the Patrick School of Bartending is M.W. "Pat" Patteson, who combines the form and voice of a Marine master sergeant with the cheerfulness and ebullience of a professional bartender. He has been both.

Patteson has built a model bar in a downtown store which formerly housed a Christian Science reading room.

About 140 bottles—no two alike—adorn the rear of the bar. Most are empty and a few are filled with colored water. Signs proclaim that no alcoholic beverages are available.

The important thing to learn, he explained, is dexterity and proper pouring. For this, he says, it doesn't matter what is poured.

Elephant Given To China Children

TOKYO (AP) — Visiting Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike of Ceylon has presented a baby elephant to the children of China, according to the New China News Agency.

The elephant is named Mithura, which means friend in the Sinhala language.

Mrs. Bandaranaike made the presentation Tuesday at Peking's indoor stadium. On hand to receive the elephant were Premier Chou En-lai and six Chinese children, the news agency said in a broadcast monitored here.

Shooting Blamed On $2 Argument

HOUSTON (AP)—Police blamed an argument over $2 worth of gasoline for the shotgun death of one man and the wounding of another at a service station shortly before midnight Tuesday.

Officers said William Connally Dice, 36, produced a rifle as he and a companion argued with station attendant Claudie Williams.

Williams grabbed a shotgun and killed Dice, police reported, and then wounded the slain man's companion, Lawrence Thomas, 30, as he reached for the rifle dropped by Dice.

Authorities said the case will be referred to the county grand jury without the filing of a formal charge.

Dodgers Escape With 16-14 Victory

The Dodgers barely escaped from the Braves, who seem to be sitting back and picking off the leaders in the Junior League. The Dodgers were trailing 12-11 after the sixth inning, but rallied for five crucial runs in the final inning and then braced to hold the Braves to twin runs, to take a narrow 16-14 win.

The scoring started in the second inning when Brave hurler Bernie Weems threw three straight walks to Ernie Simons, Clay Bishop and Pat Dryden, and then Barry Blalock singled to send them in. The Braves charged back in the third inning with a barrage of hits. Weems doubled and was followed by Gressett who reached base on an error. Stan Francis and Ricky Howell hit singles, and before the inning was over, the Braves had six runs.

In the fourth the Dodgers sent in six runs to nullify the Braves third inning. The Dodgers capitalized on six walks issued by relief hurler Gressett, and the Simons and Bishop speared two singles to climax the drive. The Braves came to town in the bottom of the inning to score one run on Gressett's double.

The Braves took the lead in the sixth after the Dodgers pushed over two runs on Greenlee's double and Simon's single, and the Brave hitters pushed over five runs. Gressett had his third hit when he singled and Ray Smith also punched a single in that drive.

The Dodgers came to the aid of Villanueva, who had taken the mound in the fifth, by belting three important hits for their five run rally. Greenlee started it with a single and was followed by Simons who picked up his third hit with a single, and then Villanueva smashed a triple that sent in three runs.

Simons was three-for-four to lead the winners, and Greenlee and Brad Browning both had two hits to boost the attack. Gressett continued his hitting pace with a three-for-five performance.

Giants Beat Sox, Braves Dump A's

In Farm League play last night the Quarterback Club Giants defeated the Clark Lumber White Sox, who seemed to have fallen onto hard times, and the Snyder Savings Athletics fell to the Kiwanis Club Braves 21-12.

The Giants had an awesome hitting attack in racking up their 17 runs, nailing Sox pitcher Dwain Hicks for 15 base hits. Randy Ainsworth was a perfect two-for-two and Perry Wilson and Mike Ray were spotless in their three-for-three shows.

The Giants had two six run innings. In the first they used Ray's single to start the attack, and then Wilson and Barry came through with hits. A walk followed and then Terry Keller singled and Randy Chamber repeated with another single. In the second, Ainsworth and Timmy Holder singled and Perry Wilson doubled for the sparks in that drive.

The Sox scored ten runs in the game, but could never really get an offense launched, depending mainly on walks and a few scattered hits. The bright spot in the hitting order was Stuart Williams who made his return from vacation known to Giant pitchers Ainsworth and Holder with a three-for-three attack.

In the night cap, the Braves used the second and third innings to inflict the most damage on the Athletics, scoring eight in each of those innings. The big inning for the Athletics was the second when they pushed over nine of their 12 runs.

The Braves completed their scoring in the fourth with five runs. The other three Athletic runs came in the fourth with five runs. The other three Athletic runs came in the fourth.

Joe Spivey went all the way for the A's to take the throwing loss, and Guy Kerrick took the win for the Braves.

Bullfighters Must Retire At 55

MADRID (AP) — Spain's bullfighters will have to retire at 55 under a Labor Ministry decree published Monday.

Only one active bullfighter, Antonio Bienvenida, is anywhere near retirement. He is 51.

The face of the Indian on the Buffalo Nickel was designed by James E. Fraswer by using three Indians as models—Iron Tail, a Sioux warrior; Two Moons, a Cheyenne chief, and John Big Tree, an Onondago chief.

Suns Will Name Coach

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Phoenix Suns of the Natonal Basketball Association were to name a successor to coach Cotton Fitzsimmons today. Bill van Breda Kolff appeared to be the strongest contender.

Shortly after the Phoenix Gazette reported Tuesday that van Breda Kolff probably would have the job within 24 hours, the Suns called a noon press conference to name Fitzsimmons' successor.

"Everyone is welcome to speculate as much as they want," said Suns general manager Jerry Colangelo. "We do have a press conference scheduled for noon today and he may or may not be the man selected."

Van Breda Kolff, the 50-year-old former Los Angeles and Detroit coach, went to the Lakers five years ago after putting together a combined 308-108 record at Lafayette, Hofstra and Princeton.

Early last season he resigned as Detroit coach.

Yanks, Indians Win LL Games

The American Legion Yankees outlasted the Snyder Motor White Sox in Little League play last night despite the twelve hits of the Sox batting lineup and the two home run effort of Ricky Ramerez. The Yankees had only six hits, but took advantage of 17 free passes to beat the Sox 18-13.

The first inning was disasterous for the Sox as the arms of first Cary Welsh and then Alvin Ollison put a dozen Yankees on base with walks and then Dana Hanna, Jerry Horsley, and Richard Willis picked out their pitches for three consecutive singles. Then Jackie Fullford added insult to injury with a three run homer that destroyed any hopes of a White Sox recovery.

Ramerez punched his first homer in the first inning to send three runs across. He was helped with a single from Rodney Glass, but there was no more fire until the next inning when the Sox scored five runs on six hits. Ramerez knocked his second homer in the fifth to give him a two-for-three night, and Glass added two more singles to his first inning hit to make him three-for-four.

The Yankees scored their other runs in the third inning to give Hanna the victory from the mound. David Lee helped with the mound duties when he took over in the third. Horsley led the hitting attack for the Yanks with a two-for-three showing.

In the night game the Von Roeder Indians used six hits and the pitching duo of Darrell Lester and Robert Stoneman to tame the Lions Club Cubs 15-7.

The Cubs scored all of their runs in the first four innings of play to take a 7-6 lead into the last frame. The Indians scored three runs in the second and three in the fourth, but were scoreless in the fifth. In the sixth inning they jumped on Cub pitcher Jeff Reed and then continued to score on relief hurler Tim Burnett to rally past the Cubs for the victory. The big inning started when Reed walked in a run and then Jay Hammond stroked an important double to send in the winning runs. The rest was downhill for the Indians.

Mike Greenfield, leadoff hitter for the Cubs, was the key offensive man for the losers, but his two-for-four effort could find little support as the Cubs managed only three other hits.

The Indians had a balanced attack and distributed their six hits among five players. David Fleming was the only Indian with two hits and he got them in only two trips to the plate.

Greens, Yankees Win Girls Tilts

The Greens shelled the Reds 26-12 and the Yankees slipped past the Rangers 9-6 in two thrilling Miss Softball America softball contests held in Northeast Park yesterday.

Connie Weber of the Yanks twirled a one hitter and aided her own cause with a home run. Suzanne Fisher worked on the hill for the Rangers and gave up only the one hit to Connie.

The Greens-Reds clash was a slugfest with the Greens pounding out 22 hits and the Reds collecting 11.

Regina Lewis socked four hits for the Greens, including a double and a home run. Karen Weber hit safely three times and was credited with a triple and a home run. Gwinn Hopson got four hits, including a home run. Billie Taylor stroked four hits, and one of them was a two-bagger. Other Greens hitting safely were Lisa Minor and Pat Stewart, both of whom got two hits each, and Ginger Chester, Teresa Hall and Marie Norred, each of whom got one single each.

Jean Payne and Frances Collins led the Red attack with a single and triple each. Pat Blackard and Esmeralda Romero each hit two singles while Lisa Byrd, Kathy Weber and Teresa Rios each hit one single.

Karen Weber was the winning pitcher.

Midland Wins Doubleheader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Arkansas Travelers aren't traveling anywhere but down in the Texas League these days.

Tuesday night they dropped a doubleheader to Midland 5-1 and 5-4 at Little Rock as the Travelers maintained their hitless streak.

Midland at the same time pulled itself out of the cellar in the West Division. Cubs pitcher Ray Burris, making his first start in the league, made it a good one by winning the nightcap.

In other games, El Paso beat Memphis 7-3, Shreveport trimmed Amarillo 5-4, and San Antonio and Alexandria split a twin bill as San Antonio took the opener 6-4 but bowed 4-2 in the afterpiece.

San Antonio batters went three-up, three-down at the plate except in one inning each game. That one frame netted all six of their runs in the first game, mostly from a grand-slam homer by Gorman Thomas. In the nightcap, a two-run inning wasn't enough to overcome the steady Alexandria pace.

El Paso came across with four bonus runs in the top of the 11th inning to beat Memphis.

Lack Of Money Puts SERS Out Of Business

Editor's Note — It was called the SERS, a little-known tool in the Great American Struggle: race relations. Now it is out of business. "Changing priorities" was the stated reason, but the sad truth is that there is no more money.

By LES SEAGO
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For 18 years the Race Relations Information Center and its predecessors chronicled the tortuous struggle of a nation at war with its conscience. That struggle, it seems, is over.

On June 30, the flow of factual information from the front will cease—a victim of something called "changing priorities."

"We're all a little sick over it," said the center's executive director, Jim Leeson. "But we've done about all we could ... we're looking for jobs."

Tom Cooney, a Ford Foundation project officer who has been close to the center for almost three years, explained it wasn't that Leeson's staff wasn't doing a good job.

"Changing priorities—that's really the key to it," Cooney said.

The nation was still wondering over a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that the Kansas City school system had to admit a Negro child when a group of Southern newspaper editors and educators foresaw the need for a source of factual information about racial developments in the schools.

The Southern Education Reporting Service was born out of that need.

Financed by the Ford Foundation's Office of Education, the SERS used a network of correspondents—each a professional newsman—to compile reports about desegregation developments.

The reports were published in a monthly magazine, "Southern School News," for almost 11 years.

With the passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, Lesson recalled, the board of directors felt the agency's job was about over.

The focus changed from race relations in the schools to educational developments—mainly among the culturally deprived. The name remained, as did most of the staff, but Southern Schools News became a bimonthly, "Southern Education Report."

"We really wanted to do the race relations thing in 1964," Leeson said. "But people—the board and the foundation—seemed to think the congressional act had fixed everything."

It wasn't until 1969 that the center got back to concentrating on race relations.

The SERS became the Race Relations Information Center, although the staff, library and headquarters in Nashville remained virtually the same.

In a news release at the time, the center's new task was stated: to "gather and disseminate information about major aspects of race relations in the nation."

At the time, the Ford Foundation had provided more than $2.6 million in grants to the center.

With the change, however, the foundation's funds came from Cooney's Office of Social Development rather than the Education Office.

As the change was made, C. A. McKnight, editor of the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer and one of the board members, assessed SERS' role in the changes that had been made since 1954:

"Future historians will have to evaluate the contribution of SERS to public education," he said. "But it would seem clear even now that without the factual information made available throughout the South, and without the central store of information that guided journalists, magazine writers, radio and television networks and public officials at all levels, the South would have had more difficulty picking its way along a dim and uncertain path. In thoroughness, accuracy, and objectivity, it is without parallel in the history of U.S. journalism."

The staff of six or seven journalists roamed the country, delving into the racial aspects of politics, employment, economics, public health and welfare, lawmaking and enforcement and the courts.

"We are the only ones doing this," said Leeson. "The emphasis, as far as we're concerned, is on objectivity. We don't take an activist role."

As a result, the center's publications, including the Race Relations Reporter, have been used extensively by both the "establishment" press and the black news media.

Lerone Bennett Jr., senior editor of Ebony magazine and a member of the center's board, said the center had a very high credibility rating with the black news media.

One reason, he said, has been that "the center has employed some very brilliant and creative black writers—people know their integrity. This has been a tremendous help in establishing the credibility of the center's work as far as the blacks are concerned."

The Ford Foundation agreed to finance the center for three years in 1969. Now the three years has run out and the foundation is unwilling to go any further.

Cooney explained that the Ford Foundation's Office of Social Development was created in 1967 to fund projects in problem fields.

The Race Relations Information Center was one of many projects funded.

"They (center officials) wanted to try to improve the performance and sensitivity of the news media, and that was squarely within what we were trying to do," Cooney said.

"That's what it turned out to be—they were successful ... but we don't consider ourselves a bank on which good projects can draw indefinitely," he went on.

At the same time Ford agreed to fund the project, foundation project officers were looking around in other fields. The idea, Cooney said, was to try out numerous projects and then concentrate the foundation's resources on a few good ones.

When the selection of the few was made, Cooney said, the Race Relations Information Center just didn't fit in with what the foundation had decided to concentrate on.

"And you know, our funds are not unlimited either, despite what some people think. ... We're not keeping up with inflation. We're spending more than we're taking in," he said.

Ford offered the center a conditional grant, he said, based on obtaining additional funds from other sources. But the additional money was not to be found.

The center has already closed its library as the staff prepares the final installment of the microfilm report. The final edition of Race Relations Reporter will appear soon and the staff will begin scattering to new jobs. The library probably will be moved to a university.

"We'll close for good June 30," Leeson said. "There's nothing else we can do."

Beer Can Bumper Tested

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Beer can bumpers for automobiles?

About 40 University of Arizona engineering students have combined 20 used beer cans with $2 worth of lumber to develop a bumper they say will leave cars undamaged in collisions at five miles per hour.

"Admittedly it's not very attractive, but I think people are beginning to be more willing to buy cars that aren't necessarily attractive, but are safer and more practical," Lawrence Scott, chief adviser to the students, said Tuesday.

The cans on the test car still contain labels and the wood is unfinished, but Scott said he expects cosmetic improvements later.

The cans are sandwiched lengthwise between two pieces of lumber and, Scott said, can be attached to conventional cars to replace original bumpers.

"If you take a beer can and stand it on end, you'll find it can absorb a lot of force—about 200 pounds of it, in fact," Scott said. "The principle of our bumper is to have the cans absorb the impact instead of the car.

"The cans may be crushed on impact, but they're free and anyone should be able to replace the damaged cans at home with about as much trouble as changing a tire."

The bumper is one of the main features on a car that the engineering students are modifying for entry in a contest sponsored by a group called Student Competition on Relevant Engineering at the General Motors proving grounds at Milford, Mich., in August.

The car also will be equipped to use clean-burning natural gas and has other safety features inside, such as special-seat belts for pregnant women and a polarized plastic visor which swings in front of the windshield at night to reduce headlight glare.

Majority Oppose Busing In Survey

LUBBOCK (AP) — An overwhelming majority, 86.9 per cent, opposed school busing for integration purposes in a recent survey by Texas Tech University's Institute for Mass Communications Research.

Only 9.3 per cent said they favored the practice. Advocates of busing claimed it is the only feasible way to achieve meaningful integration. Those opposed viewed it as wasteful and even harmful to bus children miles from home when there is a neighborhood school within walking distance.

The study also disclosed that most Texans oppose the idea of the state footing the bill for party primaries. They favor constitutional revisions. While most want a state environmental protection agency, they also want faster industrialization and more highways.

In international affairs, most favor President Nixon's policies toward China and Vietnam.

The study results were based on responses from a statewide panel selected as representative of statewide opinion.

The respondents voiced strong disapproval of a proposal to finance primaries from state coffers—66.6 per cent against and 23 per cent for.

On the question of revising the state Constitution, 71 per cent of the respondents indicated they favored rewriting the laws while only 13.7 per cent opposed revision.

Establishment of a state environmental protection agency found favor with 82 per cent of the respondents. Eleven per cent opposed the idea.

Despite this evidence of concern for the environment, the majority of the respondents indicated they want to speed up industrialization in the state, and they want more highways. Industrial speed-up was viewed favorably by 59 per cent while 29.7 per cent object to faster industrialization. Wanting to increase the number of highways were 67.8 per cent of the respondents, and 15.8 per cent opposed the idea.

The President's emphasis on normalization of relations with China was approved by 72.19 per cent of the respondents. Eighteen per cent were opposed.

The President's Vietnam policy fared slightly less well with 61.8 per cent in favor and 28.9 per cent opposed, based on the latest U.S. proposal for U.S. troop withdrawal requiring a unilateral, supervised cease-fire and the return of all U.S. prisoners of war. Only a narrow margin of 0.5 per cent separated the number of Texans for and against a 12-month school year plan. It was favored by 45.9 per cent and opposed by 45.4 per cent. Basically the plan would divide the year into three-month quarters, and a student would be required to attend three quarters each year. The plan was designed to make more efficient use of school facilities and reduce the need for more schools.

DESPITE STRICT STATE LAWS

Many Injured Each Year In Fireworks Accidents

By PENNIE SUE THURMAN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Thousands of persons are injured each year in fireworks accidents despite strict state laws which have reduced fatal mishaps almost to zero.

This Independence Day will be no different, according to the National Safety Council which predicts that hundreds of injuries will result from use of bootlegged fireworks around July 4.

The council says many otherwise law-abiding citizens ignore the laws, which cover more than 60 per cent of the population, and bring fireworks into a state or municipality which has banned their possession, sale or transportation.

The laws have succeeded in cutting the death toll from 466, tabulated by the American Medical Association in 1903, to none in recent years.

The AMA says another contributor to the absence of deaths is the fact that Americans take to the roads in automobiles on holidays instead of staying home and shooting fireworks.

The council says that bootleg users find a black market connection or bring fireworks from some rural area where they are sold in the open.

Mail-order chemical kits, containing potentially explosive chemicals, are available through magazine ads even though they are illegal, the council observed.

Deuel Richardson, a spokesman for the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) in Boston, says that although the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has banned Class B explosives, it still allows use of Class C fireworks which carry a warning note.

Class B fireworks include cherry bombs and some types of aerial bombs and rockets. Class C fireworks are small firecrackers and nonexplosives such as sparklers and snakes.

"We are still puzzled by the attitude of the FDA in allowing Class C fireworks," Richardson says. "It has taken the position that as long as these fireworks carry a warning label, they are not harmful to children."

"We doubt very much," he says, "if any 6-, 7-or 8-year-olds pay any attention to warnings on small firecrackers."

Phil Dykstra, manager of the council's home department, says even Class C fireworks are dangerous and destructive enough to warrant banning of all fireworks except those used for licensed public displays.

He cites a study made jointly by the NFPA and the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness which showed 42 per cent of fireworks accidents resulting in personal injury and-or property damage were caused by Class C fireworks.

Delayed Funeral For 5 Marines

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a hillside at Arlington National Cemetery, World War II's sorrowful memories are being reopened for the families of five Marines who gathered to bury their sons and brothers killed nearly 30 years ago at Guadalcanal.

Today's funeral services answered the plea of Mollie Johnston of Littleton, N.C., mother of one of the Marines, to bring her son's body home "if it takes a hundred years to find him."

About 40 surviving relatives were expected to attend the funeral, but not Mrs. Johnston. She died a few years ago.

The remains of the five Marines lay in lost, unmarked graves on the Pacific island battlefield until they were discovered in 1970.

The five, among nine Marines killed by Japanese small-arms fire on Oct. 9, 1942, were identified as Pfc. David W. Johns, of Johnstown, Pa.; Pfc. Eugene Johnston, Littleton, N.C.; Cpl. John F. Suggs, Richlands, N.C.; Pvt. Paul E. Gagnon, Augusta, Maine, and Pfc. Godfrey E. Hunter Jr., Winston-Salem, N.C.

They were members of Company E, 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines, 1st Marine Division, on a six-day sweep from the Matanikau River to Point Cruz on Guadalcanal's northern coast.

Because of the heavy fighting, the Marine Corps said, eight of the Marines were buried where they fell.

A Marine spokesman said artillery barrages and the rapid jungle growth hid the grave sites and only three of the eight were later found by the graves-registration service. They were brought home for burial.

The families of the remaining five were notified of their deaths but told the bodies could not be found. In a letter to the commandant of the Marine Corps in 1946, Mrs. Johnson pleaded: "I want him brought back if it takes a hundred years to find him."

In 1970, Mrs. Y. Timothy Kwaimani, wife of a forestry official on Guadalcanal, found the skeletal remains of an American serviceman and the identification tag with the name: "G.E. Hunter, 131427, U.S.M.C."

A subsequent search, prompted by a letter from Mrs. Kwaimani to the 1st Marine Division Association in the United States, turned up additional remains.

Thompson Elected Signal President

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willis H. Thompson was elected president of Signal Oil & Gas Co. Monday after having served as executive vice president.

Frank D. Lortwcher will continue as chairman and chief executive officer.

Thompson joined Signal's Midland, Tex., division exploration team as a geologist in 1964. He moved up to manager of international exploration by 1970.

In 1971, 2.4 million foreign tourists visited the interior of Mexico.

Dallas Voters OK Bond Program

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas voters approved a $172 million bond program Tuesday with a relatively light turnout of some 42,000 voters.

Fire protection facilities in the program received the highest margin of victory, 70 per cent, while a child care center in South Dallas won by 55 per cent, the lowest percentage of approval of any of the propositions on the ballot.

Tax-supported bonds approved included $3.9 million for fire fighting facilities; $5 million, libraries; $23.1 million, parks; $56.2 million, streets; $16.7 million, flood and storm drainage; $11.1 million, public buildings; $5 million, neighborhood improvements and $800,000 transit facilities.

Revenue bonds approved included $50.2 million for water works and sewers.

Unitization Legislation Pushed

HOUSTON (AP) — An effort to gain legislation to force the pooling of small tracts in oil fields in Texas gets underway with a meeting here today.

James E. Russell of Abilene, Tex., an independent oilman, said a meeting to discuss the mechanics of setting up another committee to promote the legislation will be held.

Russell headed a similar drive during the last regular session of the legislature.

Proponents of the so-called fieldwide unitization contend that it would lead to more economic production operations in the state and would increase the production of oil and gas from existing reservoirs.

Opponents say the state's voluntary unitization regulations are adequate.

Bills authorizing fieldwide unitization were introduced in the Texas House and Senate during the last session but never got beyond committee hearings.

Such legislation would empower the Texas Railroad Commission to order operation of oil fields or reservoirs in the state as a unit if sufficient owners agree.

Russell said he had invited leading oil industry figures to the meeting to see that a fair and equitable unitization bill is written.

In a 24-hour day, one modern paper machine may produce 700 miles of newsprint.
