LEBANON CHIEF SAFE, EIGHT OTHERS KILLED

Assassin Fails In Try For Premier

By WILTON WYNN

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An attempt to assassinate Premier Sami Solh missed by a split second today. This and heavy exchanges of gunfire in Beirut emphasized that Lebanon's 81-day crisis is still on despite some expressed hopes for early peace.

The incidents coincided with 15 new demands by the opposition National Front just as it seemed possible a compromise might be reached on election of a new president, which some thought might lead to an easing of this nation's problems.

The opposition and supporters of the pro-Western government were reported practically agreed on the army commander, Gen. Fuad Shehab, as a compromise. But the National Front turned thumbs down on any candidate unless he would agree to demand immediate withdrawal of American troops.

It also demanded immediate resignation of President Camille Chamoun, whose term does not expire until Sept. 23.

The U.S. Embassy announced that American troops would be withdrawn only if Lebanon's internal security is re-established and the United Nations provides adequate guarantees of Lebanon's independence.

In the assassination attempt, eight persons were killed and a 5-year-old girl hurt, but Solh was not touched.

A car parked along the road was blown up as he was driving into Beirut. Detonator wires from the car ran up a hillside to a spot from which two men were seen to run.

Had they delayed the detonation a split second longer, Solh would have been blown to bits.

The dead included a policeman on a motorcycle, three gendarmes, and four persons in a car just ahead of Solh.

The heavy firing in Beirut occurred around the main government building, in Capital Square near the postoffice, and in the Zerif quarter near The Associated Press office. Security forces fired guns from armored cars in reply to rebel small arms and automatic rifle fire. Dynamite explosions were heard.

The attempted assassination occurred nine miles outside Beirut.

The Prime Minister passes there daily en route to his Beirut office from his suburban home. The road runs along a sheer drop down to the Beirut River in the valley below.

An American-style car, thought to be a taxicab, had been parked there three days, with a rock under a wheel.

As the Solh procession approached, a policeman stepped forward and asked the green car to pull to the side of the road and permit the Solh car to go ahead. At that moment the explosion occurred, knocking the motorcycle and the green car far down the slope.

Reasons for the attack on Solh were not immediately clear since most rebel animosity in the nearly three months of rebellion has been against President Chamoun.

Haiti Attack Is Wiped Out

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) —A band of exiled army officers seized barracks next to the National Palace early today but the rebels were reported wiped out in a swift government-counterattack.

The band, believed to number no more than six, landed by launch under cover of darkness, commandeered trucks and seized the yellow stucco Caserne Dessalines back of the palace shortly after midnight.

The band captured 50 soldiers after a brief clash in which the army said four soldiers were killed.

Government forces counterattacked, liberated the soldiers, then killed the last holdout rebel, the army reported.

Radio Port-au-Prince said the rebels were supporters of former President Paul Magloire, now in exile in the United States. It also said two Americans were in the rebel group.

Shooting broke out shortly after midnight.

A succession of radio announcements over the only station in operation this morning urged the people to arm themselves and go to the palace to defend President Francois Duvallier. The radio also summoned all soldiers to the palace.

The situation was extremely confused and no one seemed to know what was going on. Among the armed civilians in the streets was the underminister of commerce, Lucien Chauvet.

A newspaper reporter asked Chauvet what was happening. "I don't know yet," he replied.

Magloire was overthrown by a general strike in December 1956 after serving as president six years. He is now in New York City.

The radio said rebels also had seized the army barracks at St. Marc, about 100 miles north of Port-au-Prince. St. Marc is a small port city with a highway leading into the interior.

U. S. Ambassador Gerald Drew warned American residents here to keep off the streets.

Although the radio said "the enemy has two Americans with them," there was no identification by name.

President Duvallier has held office for the past nine months. During that period he has survived three conspiracies against his government.

Magloire was forced into exile after he tried to extend his six-year term as president with the backing of army elements.

The Negro republic has seen little political peace since then. For a considerable period the army was the actual ruler.

Airmen And Dependents Restricted

HABBANIYA, Iraq (AP) — American and British airmen and dependents—a total of 1,333 persons—have been restricted to a small living area of this big Iraqi air base since the July 14 coup in Baghdad.

The Americans—43 officers and men—were sitting on the grass eating watermelons when reporters reached the base Monday. They have not been harmed or threatened.

But they have discontinued their program of training Iraqis in flying Sabre Jets. The group delivered five Sabre Jets here June 17 under the military assistance program.

But since July 14 they have been prevented from continuing their work.

Ike, Dulles Ready Answer To Krush

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower conferred with Secretary of State Dulles today about getting off a speedy note to Soviet Premier Khrushchev on bitterly disputed plans for a Middle East summit conference.

The new Eisenhower letter may suggest a date in the next few days for a U.N. Security Council meeting to work out arrangements and a date for a summit session.

Officials said Eisenhower was certain to insist the meeting be held entirely within the regular procedures of the Council.

Dulles went to the White House shortly before noon and about four hours after he returned from the meeting of the Baghdad Pact powers at London.

He told reporters at the airport that he had read only fragments of Khrushchev's latest letter to Eisenhower and he would not comment until he had seen the full text and conferred with the President.

The Soviet leader's message was an angry denunciation of the President's determination to keep the proposed summit meeting in regular U.N. Security Council channels.

Khrushchev accused Eisenhower of deliberately confusing negotiations for a summit session in order to delay its start.

The Soviet leader also said he would prefer a summit session in Geneva, outside the U.N.

Some officials said the Khrushchev letter was remarkably insulting for one head of a great power to send another. But they agreed Eisenhower's message of July 25 had been pretty tough in tone also.

The United States is prepared to take part in an 11-nation meeting of the Security Council.

Officials said Eisenhower and Dulles are still thinking as they were late last week in terms of a summit session at New York around Aug. 11 or 12.

Some authorities felt Eisenhower should counter Khrushchev's blast by announcing he will show up for a high-level Security Council meeting, whether or not the Soviet leader shows up.

They recalled that the Soviet Union threatened to boycott the current Geneva technical talks on disarmament, but changed its mind when American officials went to the meeting despite last-minute Soviet objections.

The White House foreshadowed Eisenhower's attitude when it announced that there was no change in the President's proposal for keeping the meeting within the U.N. despite Khrushchev's newest blast.

Renewed backing for that stand came from three members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Senators Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) and Homer Capehart (R-Ind).

No Changes In Canvass For Borden

GAIL — No changes came about as a result of the canvass of returns of the first Democratic primary in Borden County.

The county Democratic executive committee, headed by Mrs. Ben Weathers, canvassed returns yesterday here.

Borden County Judge C. C. Nunnally was declared nominee, having defeated a former judge, C. S. Harris, by a narrow margin of 208 to 201.

Also declared nominee was Carl P. McKee for commissioner of precinct 2. McKee polled 43 votes in the primary to 18 each for Dwain Williams and E. E. Crittendon. The present precinct 2 commissioner, H. N. Zant, was not a candidate. He has served since 1946.

A runoff was declared in the race for commissioner of precinct 4 between T. M. Hughes and Fred W. Shafer. Hughes, incumbent commissioner, had 30 votes in the Saturday primary, while Shafer had 24. Others in the race were Roy Reeder with 18 votes and R. B. Wills with 19. The runoff will be in the Aug. 23 second primary.

Those were the only contested Borden County races. Unopposed candidates, who were declared nominees, were Doris T. Rudd, county clerk, and Mrs. George A. Cathey, county treasurer.

Preacher Surprises Hub Cap Lifters

The Rev. John Reaves, pastor of the First Christian Church, surprised two youths who were attempting to take hub caps from his car last night, police said.

The youths were frightened away without taking the hub caps.

The incident occurred at the church, where Reaves' car was parked on the church parking lot.

No Law Says Runoff Must Be Staged

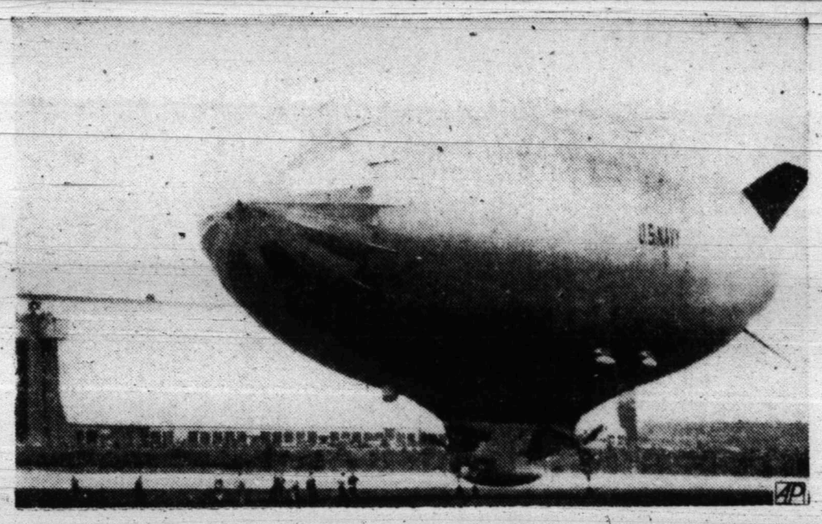

AUSTIN (AP)—There is no law to force counties to hold a second runoff primary but "we are assuming that they will," said a State Democratic Executive Committee official today.

The race for Supreme Court, Place 1, will require a runoff between Robert Hamilton of El Paso and Edwin Smith of Houston.

Many of the state's 254 counties, including Travis County here, do not have runoffs scheduled in local races.

Jake Pickle, director of organization for the SDEC, said he hasn't heard of any counties that have reported they wouldn't hold a runoff which probably will cost $200,000 to $300,000.

Pickle said he did not think a court would grant a mandamus action forcing a county to hold a runoff Aug. 23. "We can't do anything about it and neither can the candidates," he said.

FLYING SAUSAGE—Adverse weather conditions forced a Navy ZPG-2 blimp, headed for the arctic circle, to turn south and land at Lakehurst Naval Air Station, N. J. It had taken off from South Weymouth, Mass., and will resume its flight to Resolute Bay, 900 miles south of the North Pole. (AP Wirephoto)

Flying Hot Dog Bogged Down In Fog

LAKEHURST, N.J. (AP) — The "Flying Sausage" was bogged down in pea soup fog today, but its crew hoped to have it high and dry in the sky again soon.

The 343-foot Navy exploration blimp, carrying a crew of 14 and a group of International Geophysical Year scientists, is bound for the ice island known as T-3, a floating weather station in the Arctic Ocean.

If the expedition is a success, the ZPG-2 blimp will be the first Navy airship to fly over the North Pole.

But the Flying Sausage has been dogged by bad weather since it took off from South Weymouth, Mass., Sunday night on what was to have been the first leg of a flight to Churchill, Man.

House Probers Recommend Contempt Count On Goldfine

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators today recommended contempt of Congress proceedings against Bernard Goldfine, gift-giving friend of presidential assistant Sherman Adams.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) said the investigating subcommittee's recommendation would be submitted soon as possible to its parent, the House Committee.

If endorsed by the full committee, the contempt citation would go to the House.

And, if approved by the House, it would go to the U.S. district attorney for handling as a criminal case.

It will have to be done quickly to get action at this session of Congress, Harris told newsmen after a 40-minute closed session of the subcommittee.

Goldfine, 67, could not be reached immediately for his reaction to the subcommittee's vote.

Conviction for contempt of Congress carries a possible penalty of $1,000 fine and a year's imprisonment.

Harris said the contempt proceedings were voted unanimously at the subcommittee meeting. Eight of the 11 members were present.

Harris was asked whether today's action completes the subcommittee's handling of the case which involved eight days of testimony by Goldfine and one by Adams.

"No, this is one phase," Harris said. "We have to wait and see what might happen in the future."

The subcommittee carefully laid the groundwork for its action several weeks ago, demanding answers to a series of 23 questions about the Boston millionaire's financial dealings.

Goldfine with equal firmness refused to answer, contending the questions had nothing to do with the subcommittee's inquiry on whether improper influence had been brought on federal agencies.

Goldfine readily answered numerous other subcommittee questions, claiming a long personal friendship as the basis for his frequent contacts with Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide.

But he contended, as Adams had earlier, that he had received no special favors from government agencies as a result.

Subcommittee action would be only the first step toward possible prosecution for contempt of Congress. Action by the full committee and by the House itself would be required to send a recommendation to the Justice Department for action.

The Justice Department then would decide whether court action was warranted, and if so would present the case to a grand jury. A contempt conviction carries penalties up to a $1,000 fine and a year in jail.

Goldfine has textile mill and real estate interests. The subcommittee questioned him for eight days about his dealings with the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission on wool labeling and stock registrations.

Adams made inquiries to both agencies about the status of cases involving Goldfine interests.

The Harris subcommittee was created by the House to inquire into federal regulatory agencies.

The first proposed legislation from the subcommittee, approved yesterday, resulted from hearings earlier this year on allegations of misconduct and backstage maneuvering in the grant of television channels by the Federal Communications Commission.

Eight Die In Crash Of Jet Bomber

LIMESTONE, Maine (AP) — A huge B52 jet bomber crashed today three miles south of Loring Air Force Base killing eight men. The craft was returning from a routine training mission.

The plane was approaching the air field with a ceiling of only 400 feet. It was raining at the time. The bomber crashed in a field three miles from the Maine-New Brunswick border.

There was only one survivor—Maj. Moody E. Deaton, of Dennison, Tex., an instructor pilot. He was taken to the base hospital where his condition was described as good.

The plane was attached to the 42nd Bomber Wing.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The cause of the crash was not determined, an Air Force spokesman said.

Residents in the area said the plane barely missed the farm home of Carl Ireland. They said wreckage was scattered over a 20-acre area. Some of it caught fire.

B52 bombers are equipped to carry nuclear weapons. They cost an estimated eight million dollars.

Witnesses said Maj. Deaton was found on the wreckage.

County Demo Execs To Canvass Returns

The Scurry County Democratic executive committee was to canvass returns of Saturday's election at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the court house.

After canvass of the election they certify names of candidates to be placed on the Aug. 23 runoff election of the Democratic Party, and Democratic nominees for the general election ballot of Nov. 2.

Cash Box Is Stolen From Grocery Store

A cash box containing pennies from a vending machine, probably less than $5, was stolen yesterday afternoon at Davison Grocery, Twenty-eighth Street and Avenue K.

Police said that the operator of the store believed the theft was committed by a juvenile. It was investigated by a police officer and Bill F. Zimmerman, county juvenile officer.

Bond Jumper Picked Up In San Antonio

A man wanted here for jumping a bootlegging conviction appeal bond has been arrested in San Antonio, Earl Abercrombie, sheriff, said.

He is John L. Minter, who was convicted here in April following his arrest April 9.

He was free on $1,000 appeal bond, but did not appear at the appeal hearing, and has been sought since.

Abercrombie said that Minter will be returned to Snyder within the next few days.

.3 Falls Here, Rain Heavy At Seagraves

The first measurable rain since July 6 fell here last night, measuring .3 of an inch.

The .3 was the official measurement on the gauge of David Strayhorn, weather observer. In some parts of Snyder, up to .5 was measured.

Small as it was, the shower was the biggest rain here since June 24, when .92 of an inch fell during a windstorm.

Last night's shower was the only July rain here so far except .02 which fell on July 6 and unmeasurable traces on two other occasions.

The rain was slightly heavier in two or three places in the area.

In a strip running through a part of the Lloyd Mountain area, .7 was measured on the Jesse Koonsman ranch, and to the east of there and to the north of Camp Springs there was a reported .8 on the Martin Reep ranch. Half an inch to .75 was reported in a small area east of Camp Springs.

Elsewhere in that part of the county, there was only a trace at Camp Springs, none in the north part of the Lloyd Mountain community, about .1 at Ennis Creek. There was more north of Ennis Creek.

North of Snyder, there was .01 at the Pasotex Pipe Line camp eight miles north. Farther north and close to the Scurry-Kent County line, at the Dan Gibson ranch, there was nothing but a few drops. At Fluvanna there was only a sprinkle.

Gail had only a light shower, as was true in most of Borden County. On the plains of Borden, in the northwest corner, there was a report of .75.

At Ira, about .25 fell, but there was none to the south, east, and west. Dunn had only a trace, as did Hermleigh.

The Associated Press said more showers spotted far West Texas today, resulting from a tropical storm of the West coast of Mexico.

The rains came after a night in which a 5-inch downpour pelted Seagraves in the South Plains.

El Paso, which in a normal year has about 8 inches of rain, has .92 inch of rain that tapered off about 2 a.m. Alpine got .87 of an inch.

Other rains in the last 24 hours included Presidio .26, Midland .23, Big Spring .21, Houston .11, and Wichita Falls, Van Horn and Childress, each .02.

At least one death was blamed on the weather. Jimmy Don Cover, 9, of Lubbock drowned Monday in a rain-swollen creek in Mackenzie State Park.

The heaviest rainfall — five inches — was recorded near Seagraves. Calgary in southern Crosby County reported 4.50 inches. Sections of Lubbock reported up to a total of 3.25 inches of rain.

Skies were generally clear of the state Tuesday morning with the exception of in far West Texas and the South Plains where they were partly cloudy. The U.S. Weather Bureau said that the mild cool front which had triggered heavy rainstorms and tornado funnels over the weekend in West Texas has dissipated.

Temperatures early Tuesday ranged from 66 degrees at Dalhart to 83 at Galveston and Palacios. Maximum readings Monday ran from 88 degrees at Alpine to 104 at Cotulla.

The forecast called for continued hot weather with widely scattered late afternoon and evening thunderstorms.

First Returns Come In As Faubus Hopes For 3rd Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A fairly heavy early vote was reported today as Arkansas decided whether to nominate Gov. Orval Faubus to a third term.

The first returns came from the Mount Olive community near Melbourne in north Arkansas. Fourteen persons voted for Faubus. His opponents received no votes.

Faubus, hoping that his stand in the integration crisis would reap a landslide victory, faced two opponents in the Democratic preferential primary.

Some 300,000 of the half a million eligible voters were expected to cast ballots, including possibly 50,000 of the 60,000 eligible Negroes.

Payment of a poll tax is a prerequisite for voting in Arkansas.

The deadline for paying the tax was last Oct. 1, a few weeks after Faubus ordered state soldiers to block integration at Central High School here.

In strongly Democratic Arkansas, nomination is equivalent to election.

Should Faubus not win a majority today, he will face the runner-up in a runoff second primary Aug. 12.

The two candidates opposing the controversial incumbent — Chris Finkbeiner, 37-year-old Little Rock meat packing company executive, and Lee Ward, 51, of Paragould, Ark., a state court judge — both conceded Faubus an excellent chance to lead the preferential ticket. But they pinned their hopes on forcing the governor into a runoff.

All three candidates made election eve appeals for support.

"In 10 years — or 20 years — schoolchildren will study in their history books about the election and the issues we must face and decide," said Ward.

Both Ward and Finkbeiner have strongly criticized Faubus' action last September when the governor prevented nine Negro children from entering Little Rock Central High School by placing a cordon of National Guardsmen around the school.

After Faubus removed the state troops in face of a Federal District Court injunction directing him to cease interference, President Eisenhower sent regular Army paratroopers and federalized the State Guard to enforce the court-ordered integration.

Finkbeiner and Ward said they too believed in Racial segregation but prescribed only "legal" methods of maintaining it.

Faubus' campaign assistants have predicted that the 48-year-old governor will receive 79 per cent of the vote — more than enough to make him Arkansas' second third-term governor in history.

Runoffs For 33 Legislative Posts

By The Associated Press

Runoffs are going to be required to determine the Democratic nominees for 33 seats in the Texas legislature. At least 16 of the Democrats will have Republican opponents in the November general election.

There will be three runoffs in Senate races and 30 for seats in the House. The Republicans will have candidates for two Senate and at least 14 House seats.

In addition to August runoffs reported previously the Texas Legislative Service Monday reported the following additional legislative races:

Dist. 7—Robert Patten of Jasper in runoff with Sam Forse Collins of Newton.

Dist. 10—Rep. Amos Martin of Paris in runoff with George Preston of Paris.

Dist. 13—Rep. Cecil Storey of Longview in runoff with John Alden of Longview.

Dist. 21, Place 1—J. D. Givens of La Marque in runoff with Jerome Jones of Galveston.

Dist. 21, Place 2—Pete La Valle of Texas City in runoff with Mrs. Frank Yeager of Galveston.

Dist. 31—Lloyd M. Guffey of El Campo in runoff with Donald M. Duson of El Campo.

Dist. 43—Lloyd C. Martin of Normangee in runoff with W. A. Keils Jr. of Teague.

Dist. 105, Place 3—Hale E. Dean of El Paso in runoff with Mauro Rosas of El Paso.

Both Sides Still Claim Demo Control

AUSTIN (AP)—U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough said yesterday he "does not seek to control the state convention or the Texas Democratic party."

Yarborough issued the statement as all signs pointed toward another showdown between rival Democratic factions in next Saturday's county conventions.

"Adn I don't believe any other nominee should try for control," Yarborough said.

Both sides were claiming victory in last Saturday's precinct sessions that named delegates to the county conventions.

The county conventions in turn will elect delegates to the Sept. 9 state convention at San Antonio. Control of the state convention is especially important this year because it will set up party machinery for the spring convention in 1960. That convention will pick Texas' delegates to the national party convention.

The State Democratic Executive Committee, lining up the conservative and middle-of-the-road forces favorable to Gov. Price Daniel, said that the precinct conventions were "unmistakeably clear" in their preference for the SDEC side. Chairman Jim Lindsey said "The people of Texas have repudiated the DOT" (Democrats of Texas).

Creekmore Fath, secretary-treasurer of the labor-liberal DOT, claimed that it had "nailed down" a majority of the votes in the precinct conventions.

An independent survey of the precinct sessions indicated strongly that the SDEC-Daniel forces won. The county conventions Saturday should provide another sign of who is on top, but the ultimate outcome may not be known until the test votes are cast at the September state convention.

Yarborough predicted that the September state convention will mean new unity and "will be a clearcut victory for Texas Democrats who really believe in the basic principles of the party of the people."

The senator said the purpose of the convention is "to give the people a voice from the grassroots." He said "Texans are tired of having their party machinery operated and for the whim and convenience of a bunch of half-Republican political bosses" and added the days "of political bossism and party disloyalty are done in our state."

First Space Man May Go Up 100 Miles

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The man now designated to be America's first venturer into space is a poised New Yorker who takes the assignment in easy stride.

Sometime within the next two years, if everything goes according to schedule, Air Force Capt. Robert M. White will be piloting the X15 higher than man has ever flown.

The Air Force predicts the research plane now under construction will have an altitude potential of 100 miles.

It wasn't until last weekend, when his good friend Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe was killed in a jet crash, that White knew he would be replacing Kincheloe as the No. 1 man in the highly secret X15 program.

Prior to that, he had been Kincheloe's "backup pilot."

How does he feel about his new status?

"I'd feel fine about it if it had come about in any other way. As an individual Kinch cannot be replaced. He was an entity in himself."

How did he get started in aviation?

"When World War II began, I was 17 and I decided I wanted to fly."

Tanned and trim, White has a handsome combination of blue eyes and brown hair that makes him look younger than his 34 years.

His natural poise is backed up by experience — 4,200 hours as a pilot, including 52 combat missions in World War II and Korea.

It was during the Korean War that White made application for the flight test center at Edwards Air Force Base, his station the past four years.

What about making hazardous, space-age flights on a captain's pay?

"I guess it's just our orientation. It's sometimes taken lightly, but those of us in the service feel we have a responsibility to the American people. We like our work. It's a matter of contentment."

White said he works 9 to 10 hours a day — six days a week sometimes — and spends much of his spare time reading technical manuals. Does his family object to this schedule?

"I'm blessed with a very patient wife."

White married the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., 10 years ago in his native New York City. They have two youngsters.

White, interviewed after a secret conference here on the X15 program, said the space aircraft will be carried aloft under the wing of a B52 bomber piloted by Capt. Charles Bock of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Somewhere in the lower stratosphere over Utah, Capt. Bock will release the X15 and White will fire the rocket plane's powerful engine. It's anticipated he may hit 4,000 m.p.h. in his missile-like climb.

Fall Hats Feature Fur and Feathers

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

FURS, FEATHERS AND FROU-FROU will go the the head this fall, as hats fall in step with the Empire fashion mood.

Husbands may as well be warned that every woman is going to want a fur hat this fall, and probably a fur boa to match. For these are the prescribed accessories to wear with the simple, straight-line wool dresses and understated suits of the season.

There are high fur shakos and deep fur cloches, fur berets and fur bonnets ranging from mink in all its mutations through beaver, seal and bunny to dramatic, long-haired fox. The latter hits an all-time high in dramatic effect when teamed with a matching boa, three yards long.

When it isn't fur it's feathers. There are hats covered entirely in curled ostrich, others made of such things as swan feathers and peacock "eyes." The latter are the iridescent eye-tips of peacock feathers, not real seeing eyes, you'll be glad to know.

The furs and feathers are likely to be used in high toques or deep cloches, although there are many variations. Sally Victor makes a high, back-slanting bonnet of fox, and Lilly Dache covers a deep brown velours cloche with black monkey fur.

The Empire bonnet also is much in evidence, in draped and crushed velvet or rich metallic brocade. Some of the hats have a poke bonnet look. Others suggest the boudoir caps of another generation.

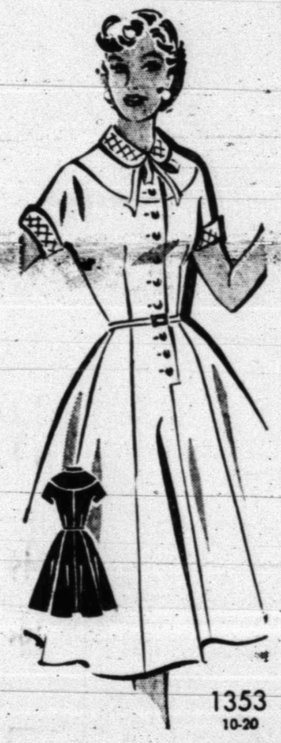

New hats must have either height or depth—there are no insignificant beanies in the fashionable lineup. When you wear a hat this fall, everybody will know it, and the most important part of your costume.

Lilliputian Ham

Small canned hams, 1 to 1½ pounds are now appearing in super markets. They are boneless, ready to serve with very little fat and liquid in the can. To serve the small canned ham hot, remove it from the can and slice it thin. Tie the slices together with a string and brush with a mixture of molasses or honey and mustard for a glaze. Place in a oven set at 325 degrees for about 30 minutes, or unti the meat is heated through.

Necklines Dip In Balmain Dress Collection

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS (AP) — Necklines took their first dizzy dips of the season in the Pierre Balmain collection shown today.

It was perhaps as well that they did, for there was nothing else in the sedate Balmain collection to raise the blood pressure. He keeps skirts at the knee line, the waist up high where everybody seems to have pushed it this time, and the hipline lightly cupped.

The new decolletage, designed to give you "vertige" (giddiness) according to Balmain, is really a double dip and owes its uplift to "an interior artifice" called the "gorgerin." It gives the bare-bosomed effect of a half-shell bra.

Balmain presents suits in two versions. One has a tunic-length jacket cupped in at the bottom of the hip with a Chesterfieldian air. This one so far has not shown up elsewhere. The other, right in this season's groove, has a very short jacket hiked up in front.

Dresses and coats often have full, gathered-on sleeves, and this, with the tapering torso or stem, looks even more like a mushroom than Cardin's muchroom silhouette shown Monday.

For formal wear these big puffy sleeves are short or elbow length and often covered with ornate embroidery to contrast with a plain velvet sheath. Another trick is pulled off with ruffs or clown collars on dresses, and with big collars of long-haired fur on cloth coats with swinging skirts.

While he likes black as does everybody else, and also bright red as everybody else, Balmain pursues a rather lonely preference for violet. He tucks bunches of violets into the draped bosoms of some of his models. One violet chiffon floor-trailing formal has the new dizzy-dip bra top made of violets.

Fruit Kabob

Fresh fruits and berries, strung onto cocktail picks make glamorous garnished for tall summer drinks. For lemonade, try small wedges of fresh pineapple and raspberries on a pick. Strawberries and honey dew melon balls look pretty in limeade. Freeze mint leaves, slices of lemon or slices of lime into ice circles in your regrigerator for iced tea and other cold beverages.

INSECTS

The first line of defense against any insect is to get acquained with its diet and habitat. With this information it is possible to plan an attack that will extinguish the source upon which it feeds. For instance, house flies, fruit flies and cockroaches are attracted to garbage cans. The new smokeless-odor-less incinerator, is designed to eliminate the backyard garbage can, the chief breeding place of these summer pests.

A&M PROF STUDIES EVAPORATION

Senator Opposes Curtailment Of Lake Recreation

By FRANK N. MANITZAS

AUSTIN (AP)—A Senate leader who has sponsored major water legislation in the past today said he would oppose any efforts to curtail use of water reservoirs for recreational purposes.

Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, chairman of the Senate Water Committee, said "it's necessary that such recreation be maintained. I would oppose efforts to stop it."

Parkhouse was asked for comment on a prediction by Dr. Paul Weaver, distinguished professor of geology at Texas A&M College. Weaver yesterday told the laws committee of the Texas Water Conservation Assn. that some reservoirs in the future may have to be marked off limits for recreational purposes in an effort to curb evaporation and increase the usable water supplies.

He said that chemicals can reduce evaporation up to 30 per cent on lakes covering 700 acres.

"It looks like we're really getting somewhere in our efforts to cut down evaporation," Weaver said, "but we can't do it if the lakes are used for recreational purposes."

He said motor boats breakup the chemical film on the water's surface. The film cuts the evaporation rate. Wind action, Weaver said, does not bother the film for the most part.

The privately - financed water conservation association was active last session in getting the Legislature to adopt the Texas Water Planning Act.

Made up of well - known water attorneys, engineers and interested laymen, the committee also met with the Board of Water Engineers. Ed Easterling, Beaumont attorney, heads the committee and has worked with Gov. Price Daniel in planning water legislation.

The committee discussed proposed legislation to curb pollution of streams and underground water reservoirs.

It agreed to ask the association's underground water panel for recommendations on proposals to require licensing of water well drillers.

The committee said it would ask the legislature to clarify the present law relating to courts reviewing decisions of the Board of Water Engineers. The State Supreme Court now is studying a case involving the statute but no decision is expected until late this year.

Weaver said evaporation control could provide more usable water. He said the people may have to decide as to which is more expensive — new reservoirs or cutting down on the recreational values of present lakes.

The chemical most often used is hexadecanol, a major ingredient in lipstick and other cosmetics, he said.

Texas A&M is doing research on evaporation control with private funds and $25,000 from the State Board of Water Engineers.

Some Flying Objects Are Called Real

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Dr. Carl Jung, Swiss psychologist, says in a report that Unidentified Flying Objects are real and "show signs of intelligent guidance by quasihuman pilots."

"I can only say for certain these things are not a mere rumor, something has been seen," Jung said in the report. "A purely psychological explanation is ruled out."

Jung, who started his research on UFOs in 1944, released his report through the UFO filter center of the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization here. It was released by L. J. Lorenzen of Holloman Air Force Base.

"I have gathered a mass of observations of Unidentified Flying Objects since 1944," Jung said.

"The discs do not behave in accordance with physical laws, but as though without weight. . .

"If the extraterrestrial origin of this phenomena should be confirmed, this would prove the existence of an intelligent interplanetary relationship. What such a fact might mean for humanity cannot be predicted.

"But it would put us without doubt in the extremely precarious position of primitive communities in conflict with the superior culture of the whites.

"That the construction of these machines proves a scientific technique immensely superior to ours cannot be argued."

One Dies On Alaska Peak

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Four young mountain climbers set out to scale the rugged slopes of 18,000-foot Mt. St. Elias, but only three came back.

Leo Slaggie, 22, Albany, Calif., arrived here yesterday for treatment of frostbite and told how 23-year-old David Tolland of Grand Rapids, Mich., was killed when snow piled high by a blizzard collapsed their tent.

Ray D'Arcy of Boston and Ritner Walling of Philadelphia dug away the snow but not quickly enough to save Tolland, who suffocated.

The four were camped at the 13,000-foot level of the peak on the Alaska-Canada border about 275 miles northwest of here.

The climbers made their way over rugged terrain to the fishing village of Yakutat 70 miles away —a trip that took them eight days. There, Slaggie was picked up by a Coast Guard plane.

The mountaineers were former members of the Harvard Mountain Climbing Club.

Wife, Six Children Are Killed By Flood

SPENCER, W. Va. (AP)—These are sad and lonely days for John Willoughby. His wife and their six young children lie together in a common grave at nearby Newton.

Willoughby, 45, was the only survivor when a violent flood smashed his mountain home to bits and carried his wife Ella, 37, and their children to their deaths in an isolated section of central West Virginia. He escaped by clinging to a tree.

A simple graveside service was held at Newton's Kirkhart Cemetery yesterday, where some 100 neighbors and friends had dug the grave with picks and shovels.

The children were Hazel Jean, 2; Raymond, 3; William Hugh, 5; Waverline, 6; Eula Irene, 8, and Wilma Lee, 9.

How It Feels To Be Swept Into Sewer

CLEVELAND (AP) — What's it like to be swept along for more than four miles by a wave of rain water in a dark storm sewer?

Here's how Terry McGuire, 13, one of four boys swept into the sewer, described the experience:

"We were playing at this great big opening in the ground, like a tunnel. We went in and walked a little way. Then we heard this water rushing down. We tried to get out, and the water just carried us down.

"I was sliding along in the water. I was sitting down like, and the water was up to my waist. Boy, it was really dark. I could see a manhole above me only once in a while.

"My friends got ahead of me and the water started getting higher. It gradually was coming up to my chest. I was just about ready to give up. Then I saw this big opening like. The water slowed up. When I got to the big opening I was able to stand up and walk out.

"I was definitely scared. I was praying. I said the Act of Contrition, the whole thing."

Two of the boys, Fred Davis and Kevin McInerney, both 13, managed to cling to a ladder leading to a manhole cover about halfway along the route. Fred's brother Thomas, 14, and the McGuire boy made the full trip.

Cleaned up in a hospital, the boys were given antibiotics and held for observation.

Stay For Kizzee Is Granted By Daniel

AUSTIN (AP)—Norman Kizzee, sentenced to die in the electric chair for the hammer - slaying of a man in an argument over a $2 debt, was granted yesterday a 30-day stay of execution.

Gov. Price Daniel approved the stay on recommendation from the Board of Pardons and Paroles. The action moved the scheduled execution date from tomorrow to Aug. 29.

The board said the stay was granted to allow the condemned man's attorney, W. S. Barron, to "present evidence and argument of mitigating circumstances."

Barron is asking for commutation of sentence from death to life imprisonment. The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld on April 30 the death sentence givin Kizzee in Robertson County. He was convicted of slaying Stephen Fulton.

Ginnings Below Last Year In Valley Area

MERCEDES, Tex. (AP)—Total cotton ginnings in the four lower valley counties of Hidalgo, Cameron, Starr and Willacy have reached 93,509 bales. The Valley Farm Bureau said yesterday this is far behind ginnings last year when the total at this time was 169,719 bales.

JWs Out To Warn People In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Thousands of Jehovah's Witnesses go from house to house today to tell New Yorkers that the end of the world, as they know it, may be at hand.

The canvass was called for yesterday by Nathan H. Knorr, president of the Watch Tower and Tract Society, wich is the Jehovah's Witnesses legal name.

Knorr told 151,003 Witnesses, packed into Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds, that all the signs of Jehovah "portend that we are standing at the threshold of a peaceable, happy and lifegiving new world."

"This is the grandest news," he said, "although it means that we are living at the end of this worry-filled, problem - racked, insane, loveless old world."

A night session last night attracted 133,283 persons to the two ball parks.

The Witnesses, who are in the third day today of their eight-day Divine Will International Assembly, believe a battle between good and evil—Armageddon—is close at hand.

God's judgment against this world has escaped Christendom "with its more than 320 million professed Christians," Knorr said. Christendom, he added, will be destroyed.

Washington Car Dealers Face Conspiracy Charges

By PAUL DUKE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-two car dealers in the Washington area faced charges today of conspiring to jack up the price of new cars in violation of antitrust laws.

Indictments returned yesterday by a federal grand jury also accused the dealers of collusion in setting artificially high prices for parts and repairs.

The indictments were the first returned in a Justice Department probe of car pricing practices. Other grand juries are investigating the car markets in New York, San Francisco, Cleveland and Detroit.

Indicted here were the area's 17 franchised Ford dealers, the 14 Chevrolet dealers and the 11 Oldsmobile dealers. In addition, the Ford Motor Co. and the Greater Washington Chevrolet Dealers Assn. cooperative were charged with joining the conspiracy to fix prices to the detriment of open competition.

The basic charge was that each of the three groups of dealers conspired to set minimum prices "substantially in excess" of those recommended by manufacturers.

The charges were denied by several of the dealers and by the Ford Motor Co.

The dealers said the only agreement ever entered into was one setting up a suggested asking price for cars. The asking price, they said, was never the selling price because of varying trade-in allowances and discounts.

In Detroit, William T. Gossett, vice president and general counsel of Ford, denied that the car manufacturer had entered into agreements with its dealers to set the price of parts and accessories.

Gossett said the charges apparently stemmed from a program undertaken by Washington Ford dealers in 1954 whereby identification cards were issued to bona fide wholesale parts customers.

"The program involved no agreement as to the prices at which sales were made to any customer," said Gossett.

Conviction under the indictments could bring a penalty of $50,000 on each of seven counts. No prison sentences are possible because the charges were limited to corporations.

"The purpose of these indictments is to restore price competition by condemning and removing arbitrarily imposed restraints designed to maintain prices at artificially high levels," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor Hansen.

Ford and Oldsmobile dealers were charged also with agreeing for a time on minimum gross profit margins per car, and Chevrolet dealers were accused of conspiring through the cooperative to fix repair rates.

Warm Springs Must Raise Half A Million

GONZALES, Tex. (AP)—The Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation will have to close unless a half million dollars are raised through contributions within the next three months, the hospital's directors said yesterday.

The foundation, which has given treatment to about 4,500 patients since opening in 1941, is already faced with a deficit of nearly $100,000, directors said after an emergency meeting in Austin.

Dear Friends:
I would like to take this means of expressing to you my sincere thanks for the kindness shown to me in my campaign. You have been very gracious to me in your homes which is deeply appreciated. I realize that the kind words spoken by you on my behalf were invaluable toward the success of my campaign. I sincerely appreciate your splendid support and vote.

Mantle Coming To Life; Parks A Pair

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Apparently the rest cure was all Mickey Mantle needed to emerge from his prolonged batting slump.

Handicapped by a sore right shoulder practically from the start of the campaign, the New York Yankee slugger had stubbornly shrugged off repeated suggestions that he take a brief rest. His batting average dipped as low as .270.

It took another injury — a bruised left forearm — to finally sideline the switch-hitting star just before the team's current Western swing. Sihce returning to action in the second game of this trip, in Detroit, Mantle has cracked 15 hits in 27 times at bat for .556. That seven-game surge boosted his mark to .294.

Mantle walloped two home runs and a single last night as the Yankees outslugged Kansas City 14-7. Gil McDougald of New York and the Athletics' Bob Cerv also slammed a pair of homers.

The victory, coupled with Detroit's 5-4 triumph over Boston, widened the Yankees' first-place margin over the Red Sox to 15 games. The Chicago White Sox snapped a fourth-place tie with Kansas City, shading Washington 6-5.

In the only National League action, the San Francisco Giants swept a twi-night double-header from Philadelphia 3-2, and 2-1.

Mantle homered batting left-handed and right-handed.

A big five-run New York inning decided the game. Zach Monroe, although batted out in the sixth, was credited with his second victory. Dick Tomanek was the loser.

The White Sox overcame a four-run deficit to defeat the Senators. Sherman Lollar's three-run homer in the fourth climaxed a four-run rally against Jim Constable that put Chicago in front 5-4. Washington tied the score in the fifth but Chicago regained the lead in the sixth on a triple by Nellie Fox and an infield out.

Turk Lown, National League castoff, gained his first AL triumph, in relief. Dick Hyde was the loser. Washington's Albie Pearson slammed his first major league home run, off starter Early Wynn, in the first inning.

Leo Kiely's bases-loaded pass to Charley Maxwell with two out in the bottom of the ninth pushed over Detroit's winning run against Boston.

Al Kaline slammed four hits, drove in two runs and scored once. Bill Fischer, in relief, was the winner.

Artesia Waxes Warm In Sophomore Loop

By The Associated Press

Artesia's Giants are feeling their oats these days in the Sophomore League. They have won six of the last seven games and are riding high atop the Western Division.

The powers don't awe the Giants either. Monday night, for instance, they took Midland, the club that's running wild in the Eastern Division, to a 5-3 cleaning.

Vic Roznovsky led San Angelo to a 5-3 victory over Carlsbad as the Pirates gained a game on leading Midland in the Eastern Division.

Second place Hobbs held the pace, licking Plainview 7-5.

Favorites Win In Junior Net Tourney

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Rain upset the tournament officials but not the favorites yesterday in the national junior and boys tennis championships at Kalamazoo College.

Despite a delay of close to four hours, all but two of the scheduled matches were completed.

Earl Buchholz, the rangy St. Louis entry who is top-seeded in the junior singles, blasted his first round opponent, Andrew Gilmore of Rockville Centre, N.Y., 6-1, 6-2. Buchholz faces Henry Kamakana, Hawaiian entry from Honolulu, today.

Second-seeded Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, Mo., had to win two matches to reach the second round.

He beat Robert Powless of Flora, Ill., 6-1, 6-2, in a preliminary match and eliminated Mac White of Corpus Christi, Texas, 7-5, 6-1. McKinley plays Phil Bleakney of Harlingen, Tex., in the second round.

Area Athletes Open All-Star Training

Tommy Echols of Ira and Ruben Vaughn of Gail opened drills with the West All-Stars at the state Six-Man coaching school at McMurry College in Abilene yesterday.

Echols is listed as a halfback and Vaughn an end on the West All-Star roster.

The West team will meet the East All-Stars Friday night at McMurry Indian Stadium in the annual All-Star classic.

Yank Males Win, Gals Bow In Russia

By STERLING SLAPPEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviets are closing in, surely and speedily, on American leadership in sports. And even a controversial ruling and a debatable scoring system can't make it appearotherwise.

In the first United States vs. Soviet Union track and field meet, which ended last night, the Soviets outscored the Americans 172 points to 170; their women athletes defeated the American women 63-44; and, most important of all, the American men could only defeat the Soviet men 126 to 109.

"This was the greatest day in Soviet track and field history," said the Soviet men's coach, Vavriel Korobkov.

"Who would have thought we could beat the American pole vaulters, that we could finish one-two in the high jump and javelin? Or who would have thought a Soviet sprinter would finish second in the 200 meters, that another would be second in the broad jump and that we would set a world hop-step-jump record? It was a wonderful showing."

As the U. S. team packed to go on to meets in Warsaw, Budapest and Athens, the American women could look back with considerable pride on their performances here. So could some of the men. Unquestionably, the greatest feat of the two-day meet was Rafer Johnson's world record score of 8,302 points in the decathlon, wiping out his own accepted record and the unofficial 8,013 points made by his Soviet rival, Vasily Kuznetsov.

The only things that rankled a bit were the Soviet system of lumping together the scores of men's and women's competition and the disqualification of Gordon McKenzie in the 10,000 meters.

There was no real bitterness; just some discontent among U.S. coaches and officials.

McKenzie's disqualification in a controversial ruling cost the U.S. team a point. He tried to quit the 10,000-meter race and was sent back by Coach George Eastment. Soviet officials without hearing the American side ruled he was disqualified for leaving the track.

The American men won every running event up to 5,000 meters. Bill Dellinger finished second to the Soviet Union's Hubert Pyarankivi in the 5,000 by a matter of inches in a great performance and Phil Coleman finished second in the steeplechase.

American men scored one-two sweeps in 7 of 19 individual events and also won both relays. Of the 22 men's events, the U.S. won 14. But they had expected to score 8 to 10 points better.

Pitching Keeping Giants In Race

Associated Press Sports Writer

More and more it is becoming evident that the San Francisco Giant pitchers have been getting a bum rap.

For weeks critics have been claiming the Giants would be far out in front in the National League if only they had some respectable pitching. But, in fact, the hitters have been the guilty ones, not the pitchers.

Last night's impressive route-going performances by southpaw Mike McCormick and right-hander Ruben Gomez in the Giants' 3-2 and 2-1 sweep of a twilight-night double-header in Philadelphia furnished additional proof that the San Francisco hurling has been underrated.

In their last seven games (not including the resumption of last month's suspended game), Giant pitchers have permitted 20 runs, half of them in one game. During the same period, the hitters have produced only 10 runs.

It is to the pitchers' credit that with such feeble hitting support they were able to win three and tie one of those seven games. Yesterday's double triumph boosted the circuit's Cinderella team to within one percentage point of the front-running Milwaukee Braves.

All other National League teams were idle. In the American, the New York Yankees stretched their commanding lead over runner-up Boston to 15 games with a 14-7 triumph over Kansas City after Detroit had taken an afternoon 5-4 decision from the Red Sox. The Chicago White Sox nipped Washington 6-5.

McCormick, still more than a year away from voting age, hurled a nine-hitter, outlasting rookie Roman Semproch and Dick Farrell in the opener for his eighth Gomez permitted only four hits in the nightcap.

With the exception of the 10-0 loss to Pittsburgh last July 25, no Giant pitcher permitted more than three runs in any of the team's last seven games. Failure to win more than three of them can be traced to the hitters' inability to score more than three runs in any of those contests. Twice the team was shut out and twice it was held to one tally.

Rookies Felipe Alou and Orlando Cepeda provided the key hits in the Giants' twin victories. Alou followed a fifth-inning double by McCormick with a home run to provide the key blow in the first game, although it took an error by relief pitcher Farrell to provide the Giants with the winning run in the ninth.

C-City Wins Pony Opener

Colorado City won its opening game in the Regional Pony League tournament at Abilene last night, defeating Pecos 7-2.

Colorado City had taken a best two-out-of-three series from Snyder to reach the regional tournament.

C-City was joined by Abilene and Crane in the winners bracket of Monday night's openers. Abilene downed Jal-Eunice, N. M., and Crane defeated Childress, 3-0.

Colorado City meets Abilene tonight at 7:30. Childress and Jal-Eunice will clash at 5:30 in the first round of the loser's bracket. Crane drew a bye in the second round of the winner's bracket.

Daniel Garcia gained credit for the C-City win.

Opportunity At Home

There's business to be had in Scurry County, according to the 1957 retail sales figures compiled by Sales Management Magazine and published in a recent issue of West Texas Today, official publication of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

It is encouraging to note that retail sales figures in Snyder and Scurry County have shown steady growth in recent years. The figure for Scurry County last year was $31,620,000, compared to $26,335,000 in 1955. For Snyder alone, the 1957 figure was $29,620,000, compared to $24,752,000 in 1955.

However, there is an accompanying set of figures which justifies some study. We refer to the effective buying power of the county, which was calculated by the same organization that compiled the retail sales statistics.

Scurry County's effective buying income for 1957 amounted to $55,214,000, according to Sales Management, which indicates that only slightly more than half of the potential is being spent in home business firms.

Of course, not all "effective" buying income is actually spent during a given year, but the gap in Scurry County between income and actual sales is considerably larger than average in the state and West Texas in particular.

The implication is that more Scurry business leaves the county than is the case in other counties. This situation should be a challenge to all local citizens and business firms, and it might well be the basis for more intensive promotion of business within the county.

Youngman Called Beginner's Friend

NEW YORK (AP) — Unlike many professional comedians, Henny Youngman doesn't discourage newcomers from trying to find a career in the yuk industry.

"People say 'Cut out the comedy,'" he remarked. "But don't believe them. There's a million dollars in it if you can make enough people laugh.

"In what other business can you make a million dollars—and carry your inventory in your head?"

Youngman, celebrating his 25th year as a one-man gag factory, has long been known in the trade as one willing to help a talented young beginner find his way around.

What does it take to get started as a comedian today?

"The thing you need most today is wealthy parents, or a do-it-yourself comedy kit consisting of $50,000 in the bank," said Henny.

"You start out by telling jokes until you become the life of any party you attend. Then someone will tell you, 'You're a riot. You ought to be on the stage.'

"After that you go to a diction school and learn to talk with your mouth full of marbles. Each day you drop one marble. When you've lost all your marbles, you'll be a comic.

"Then you take your $50,000 out of the bank and spend it buying fresh jokes, costumes, building a number of routines, and finding an agent. By the time you've spent the $50,000 you should be working — or else you'll never laugh again."

Henny has an unfair advantage over most comedians. He was born in Brooklyn. But he insists he became a comic in self-defense.

"I was a fiddler in a dance band, and a lousy one," he admitted. "The couples used to make comments on my playing as they danced by, and I started to wisecrack back. Things just went on from there. I used my bow less and less — and my mouth more."

Henny is what is known as a standup comedian. They have one of the toughest jobs in show business—to go out cold on a stage, without props or plot, and make an audience of strangers laugh, whether they want to or not. This is an art which even Jackie Gleason, one of the most astute situation comedians of his day, has never quite mastered.

"There are very few bombshell or boff comedians around now—such as Milton Berle, Red Skelton and Bob Hope," said Henny.

"It's a new age of comedy—the age of charm. The tiptoe comedians have taken over. They have crew cuts and the little-boy appeal.

"They are lightweight charmers and they get light laughs. They don't have to be hilariously funny—just charming and pleasant. The audience loves them, so anything they say is funny."

Youngman isn't bitter about the change. Just philosophical. He feels there will always be room for a few rapid-fire old - timers such as himself.

Henny has noted one other major change in recent years.

"Men used to be the biggest hecklers in night clubs," he said. "Now it's the women.

"I suppose it's a reaction against being held back for so many years. But when a group of them go into a night club they want to be heard — they want everyone to know they are there, and spending a few bucks."

Here are a few remarks Henny uses to silence obstreperous women who try to get into the act:

"Some women bring happiness wherever they go. But you bring happiness whenever you go.

"If Moses had seen you, there'd have been another commandment.

"But you have to be careful in squelching women," said Henny. "You try to kid them, not murder them.

"They might have a big escort along."

Canadians Do Well In Life Insurance

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The insurance salesman is plying a two-way street across our northern boundary. The busy financial thoroughfare between Canada and the United States shows a traffic increase today in insurance as well as in capital investment.

Sales both here and there have increased despite the recession. And life insurance policies of all types foreign and domestic—by companies, savings banks, fraternal and assessment organizations and the government's veterans kind—now come to more than 500 billion dollars and involve 121 million Americans.

Canadian companies sold nearly a billion dollars of life insurance to Americans last year for a gain of 90 million dollars over 1956. U. S. companies peddled more than 1½ billion dollars in policies to our northern neighbors for an increase of almost 390 million dollars.

The Canadians are particularly strong at selling annuities to Americans, U. S. salesman at selling ordinary life policies.

But the recent spurt on the part of American salesmen hasn't had too much effect yet on the overall exchange of American and Canadian dollars in premiums and benefits, both of which are in pretty close balance. This could be changed in the future if the American gains of the last two years jell into a definite trend.

Capital investment by Americans in Canadian securities and in development of Canadian resources has fretted some Canadians who fear it might lead to financial influence over Canada. President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker discussed this trouble spot on the President's recent visit there.

In the case of the insurance companies, however; total outside investments are still in favor of the Canadians. The 12 Canadian companies doing business in this country have invested 1¾ billion dollars here. The 35 U. S. companies doing business in Canada list less than 1½ billion dollars in assets there.

Figures from America's Institute of Life Insurance and from the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Assn. show that in 1957 the 12 Canadian companies had 199 million dollars in premium income from policies in force here, while the 35 U. S. companies garnered 191 million dollars from Canadians. The Canadians' score on annuity premiums was 46½ million dollars to the Americans' 10¾ million.

Both sides gained over 1956 when the Canadians took in 188½ million dollars and the Americans 176½ million.

Canadian companies paid 128¾ million dollars in benefits to Americans in 1957, nearly 17 million more than in 1956. Canadians collected 127 million in benefits from U.S. companies in 1957, or 20½ million more than in the previous year.

All told, Americans now carry 6½ billion dollars of Canadian insurance and have sold Canadians 9¾ billion dollars worth.

How Summit Talks Shot Before Born

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The summit meeting, which now looks dead, was a mixed-up mess before it had a chance to start. This is an explanation of how it was shot before it was born.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev on July 19 called for a summit meeting to restore stability to the Middle East. This was after American and British troops moved into Lebanon and Jordan at the request of the heads of those governments.

He called the American-British action a threat to world peace. He suggested the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and India take part in the meeting. The place? He proposed Geneva, Washington, anywhere.

By thus putting the Soviet Union in the role of peacemaker, he gave the Soviets a propaganda advantage. The West couldn't ignore it.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan agreed to the meeting July 22 but suggested it be held in the United Nations Security Council in New York. And he made a very important point:

He suggested that the big powers should not—as is usual in the Council—vote on the problems discussed, but rather that they try to reach agreement without voting.

The United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union—but not India—are permanent members of the Council. They have regular delegates sitting in for them. If a summit meeting was held in the Council the delegates would just turn their seats over to the heads of their governments.

It was widely reported the Eisenhower administration wanted no part of a summit meeting but was pushed into reluctant agreement by the British. President Eisenhower wrote a very angry letter to Khrushchev. But, in effect, he appeared to agree without saying so flatly to a summit meeting in the Council.

But French Prime Minister Charles de Gaulle didn't go along with Macmillan and Eisenhower. He thought the big powers' delegates in the Council should continue to try to reach some agreement on the Middle East, with a summit conference held elsewhere if it were needed.

On July 23 Khrushchev shot back a fast acceptance of the Eisenhower - Macmillan proposals, agreed to go to New York, and agreed with Macmillan that the meeting should try to reach agreements without voting.

Dallas Baboon Keeps Officers Busy Awhile

DALLAS (AP) — A 60-pound baboon escaped last night and eluded lawmen, a dog catcher and a half-dozen citizens for an hour before its capture near Seagoville.

The baboon finally was snared with a tossed lariat after he ran into a garage.

Officers believe the baboon broke his chain or collar at a garage on Highway 175 near Stark where his owner keeps him tied. They could not locate the owner but expected him to claim his pet at the dog pound.

Junior Editors Quiz on NATURE

QUESTION: Why doesn't the sun burn itself out?

• • •

ANSWER: The sun is a great glowing ball of hot gasses which provide the light and heat without which the earth could not survive. These gasses are very dense in the center of the sun, where astronomers estimate the temperature as high as 40 million degrees Fahrenheit. They are much less compact on the surface, where temperature has been determined at 12,000 degrees.

This extreme heat is burning up the sun at a rate of about four million tons a second, but still the amount of heat and light it gives off has been the same for billions of years. This is because of a heat-caused chemical action taking place in the sun's center.

Scientists believe the energy released in this process is sufficient to keep the sun's temperature at its present level for 35 billion years. Then, because of loss of weight, the sun will gradually lose temperature and ultimately become cold and dark. When this happens, the earth will freeze into a big snowball.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Get a piece of glass, hold it over a lighted match until it is smoked black, and then take a quick look at the sun through it. That way you can do so without hurting your eyes. Our picture shows boys who lived thousands of years apart but found the sun equally warm.

• • •

(Today's award of $10 goes to Win Rockwell of Clinton, N. Y., for this question. Send yours on a postcard to Violet Moore Higgins, AP Newsfeatures, In care of this newspaper. Tomorrow: Why is the front of a train called the cowcatcher?)

Woman Reopens Murder Case

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston waitress reopened the dusty file of a 35-year-old slaying yesterday. She told police her convict brother killed an Army sergeant here in 1923.

Mrs. Bernice Busbee walked into the Harris County sheriff's office and made a written statement on the fatal shooting, saying her conscience had bothered her for years.

She said her brother, Benjamin Franklin Ray, 57, told her many years ago he killed Army St. Thomas Turner.

Ray, who has a Texas police record dating back to 1925, currently is serving a robbery by force sentence at the North Carolina state prison at Raleigh.

Huh Irby and Harold Carpenter of the Harris County sheriff's department planned to fly to Raleight to question him.

On Sept. 29, 1923, two hunters found the badly decomposed body of a white man half submered in Green's Bayou on the Beaumont Highway near here. The Army identified it as that of St. Turner, stationed at Ft. Sam Houston.

Houston police marked the case unsolved and military authorities shipped the body to Turner's mother, Mrs. Emma Marsh, Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Busbee told police that shortly before the body was found her brother and Turner had been due to visit her in Beaumont. She said Ray arrived without Turner and later told her he had killed him.

She said police questioned her brother but later turned him loose.

Election Bureau Proves Accurate

By The Associated Press

Photo finish or sweep, the Texas Election Bureau never has been wrong in naming the winner of a state election in the 38 years it has operated.

And it names the winner two weeks in advance of the official announcements.

The election returns you read Sunday were compiled by the bureau.

How does it accomplish the incredibly complicated task?

Much of the credit goes to a genial, quiet spoken man named Bob Johnson, who heads the bureau. Johnson, 59, took over the bureau in 1937. He is advertising manager for the Texas Power and Light Co.

Figures which baffle the average non-mathematician tell him clear, readable stories.

Johnson can take a scattering of votes from a county an hour after the polls close and estimate within a few votes what the final total will be for each candidate in that county.

He can say with assurance and authority later in the evening that this candidate or that is elected, while the defeated candidate is still trying to reassure himself that late reported votes will lift him into the winner's circle.

Johnson has correspondents in the state's 254 counties, a battery of tabulating machines, and many telephone and telegraph lines to collect and add the votes.

Newspapers organized the Election Bureau in 1920. It is still directed by newspapers, and financed by the newspapers, radio and TV.

The bureau issues the first scattered returns minutes after the polls close at 7 p.m. (CST), and roll out tabulation each half hour through the night until it becomes pointless to continue further tabulations.

Usually the races have been decided by midnight. At least one close race took weeks to determine—but because of disputed votes.

Some readers believe the Election Bureau is an official state agency. It is not. It is a private enterprise operation. But always its results tally within a handful of the votes reported to the official agencies—after these agencies have rechecked balloting for weeks.

On close races, if all reports are not in, Johnson and his staff begin searching for the missing.

Occasionally a county election official will put the results in his pocket and go fishing when the final count is in. But Johnson usually can track down the results one way or another.

Never, says Johnson, has the Election Bureau failed to name the winning candidate.

In fact, The Associated Press, using Election Bureau totals, prevented the State Democratic Executive Committee in 1956 from making a grave error.

The committee, official certifying agency in Democratic primaries, named the wrong winner in the 7th Civil Appeals Court race, and was preparing to mail the loser a certificate that he was the Democratic nominee. The Associated Press called attention to the error and the winner was certified.

Lonesome Gal Wins $2,000 From RCA

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The girl who claims the title of radio's original Lonesome Gal has been awarded $2,000 by a federal court to cheer her lonely hours.

Jean King Rousseau was awarded the sum yesterday as damages in her 11-million-dollar suit against the Radio Corp. of America, two radio-TV networks and various other corporations and individuals.

Miss Rousseau, whose professional name is Jean King, charged invasion of privacy and infringement of her trademark as Lonesome Gal.

She said another singer supplanted her after she spent 10 years making her trademark famous through radio appearances.

Doctors Remove 50 Pebbles, Leave 100

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Connie Holland, the 10-year-old girl who astounded her doctors by swallowing about 150 pebbles, was released from the hospital with 100 rocks still inside her. The doctors hope nature will take care of the rest. They removed 50 pebbles. "They just taste good" was Connie's explanation.

Only 3 Days Left To Redeem 1957 Cotton

WASHINGTON (AP)—Growers have just three more days, counting, in which to redeem 1957-crop cotton stored under Agriculture Department price support loans.

All such cotton still under loan at the close of business July 31 will be taken over by the department and loans canceled.

The amount still under loan was estimated at about 2,680,000 bales. Farmers have redeemed about 970,000 bales on which market prices were above the loan levels. Hence, it was possible for the farmers to pay off loans—or sell their equity in the cotton—and sell for a slight profit. But this price advantage was limited largely to better qualities.

Consumer Demand For Food May Stay High

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department advised farmers today that consumer demand for food is expected to continue high this summer and fall.

In a report on the national food situation, the department said supplies of some foods—particularly meats and fresh fruits and vegetables — will be somewhat larger than in the first half of 1958.

It said retail food prices are likely to average below those of January through June but slightly above those in the last half of 1957.

The agency also predicted that exports of foods will be somewhat lower this year than last. The reduction, it said, will be primarily in wheat and rice, soybeans and cottonseed oils and lard.

Khrushchev Won't Be Welcomed In Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev won't be encouraged to visit Phoenix.

The City Council last night split sharply on a proposal to welcome Khrushchev if the State Department approves his touring the inland United States.

"He's a murderer!" said Faith I. North, only woman member. Others echoed her view.

But Councilman David Jones shattered the unanimity with, "If he's good enough for the United Nations, I don't know why we shouldn't have him."

Said Mayor Jack Williams, "Nope, we're too badly split."

July 29 Always Has Rain For Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP)—Citizens of this southwestern Pennsylvania community usually don't pay too much attention to rain.

But today was different because there is a belief that it always—well almost always — rains in Waynesburg on July 29.

Each year, Atty. John Daily, head of Waynesburg's Rain Day Club, wagers a hat that it will rain. This year he put up a tricornered Revolutionary War hat against a jet pilot helmet put up by Maj. Donald Johnston, commander of the 147th Squadron of the Pennsylvania Air National Guard.

At 12:10 a. m. a steady rain began falling—marking the 73rd time in 82 years that rain has fallen on Waynesburg on July 29. Daily had won his helmet.

Lubbock Boy Drowns

LUBBOCK (AP)—Jimmie Cover, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cover, fell from a bridge into a rain-swollen creek in McKenzie State Park and drowned yesterday.

Oklahoma Production Of Crude Oil Drops

TULSA (AP)—Daily average oil production dropped 1,800 barrels to 6,506,500 barrels during the week ended July 26, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

The Journal estimated 1958 production at 1,336,697,400 barrels compared to 1,534,623,714 a year ago.

Oklahoma was up 5,700 to 572,000 barrels, Arkansas down 1,700 to 73,700, Colorado down 700 to 132,100 and Louisiana down 600 to 810,950.

Midwest Co-op Sets Annual Meet Friday

The 1958 annual membership meeting of Midwest Electric Cooperative will be held Friday in Roby.

This year's meeting, unlike any in the past, will be held at night. The management said it hopes that this will result in a cooler and more comfortable event.

The "Big Top" tent which has sheltered the meeting for the past several years will not be used this year. Instead the cooperative has made arrangements to use the rodeo grounds in Roby.

One of the main attractions this year will be the barbecue and fish fry that will be held at 6 p.m. The meal will be served by the Chuck Wagon Gang of Sweetwater.

The barbecue will be followed by the "Miss Midwest" contest at 7 p.m. The young ladies named here have submitted their entries and will participate in the contest. Becky Sumerlin, Route 1, Roby; Francis Hill, Route 1, Sylvester; Jacqueling Martin, Fluvanna; Patsy Burnett, Hobbs; Peggy Maberry, Trent; Jean Etheredge, Route 2, Roscoe; Shirley Whitworth, Route 1, Roby; Peggy Taylor, Route 1, Snyder; and Nelda Evans, Fluvanna.

Nelda Smith of Hermleigh will present the winner's bouquet to the contestant the judges select to be "Miss Midwest". She is the present title holder.

The business session will start at 8 p.m. At this time the treasurer's report will be read and directors will be elected for the next term. Present members of board are Charlie Bley, Fluvanna; Ted McArthur, Rotan; Ted Marchant, Eweetwater; A. A. Aaron, Rotan; Grady Williams, Snyder; Glenn Tate, Hermleigh; and J. A. Murff, Roby.

These men's names will all appear on the ballots for re-election.

Any member who wishes to nominate someone other than the above named men may do so from the floor on the meeting date. Blank spaces are provided on the ballots for the new nominees names to be written in. This is for the benefit of members who desire to vote for a new nominee instead of the present director, according to Johnnie Ammons, manager.
