A big part of the success story of a firm is the importance of having new merchandise first. To view and obtain this new merchandise, owners and managers of retail firms "go to market".

Markets are conducted in such cities as Dallas, St. Louis, Chicago or New York. The buyers are retail businessmen from all over the world who come to market to purchase new merchandise for their stores.

Department stores buy merchandise as many as 16 times a year at markets located in Dallas, Chicago, New York and other points. The merchandise is delivered to their stores early enough to be on display as each sales season opens.

Shoe store representatives "go shopping" approximately 2 times per year. The buyers attend such fabulous shows as the Dallas Southwestern Shoe Show each November and May and the St. Louis Shoe Show which lasts a full 5 days.

Owners and managers of appliance stores may buy new merchandise in such places as Dallas or fabulous Las Vegas, Nev. Their market is usually conducted 3 times yearly in the months of February, July and October.

The Amarillo market is open for hardware store owners and managers only once per year—in August.

Furniture markets are presented in permanent buildings in Dallas twice yearly. January and July are the months for this show of merchandise.

Up-to-date merchandise is necessary for any store owner or manager to compete with the other businessmen in his field. To obtain this merchandise on-time and to have it in his store on time, it is completely essential to the businessman to indulge in these concentrated, work-filled excursions called "going to market".

RAIN CANCELS 4 GAMES

Oilers and Myers Win To Hold to 1st Place Tie

Humble's Oilers and Myers Auto continued their neck-and-neck race for Pony League honors this week in a rain-shortened week of play.

The 2 grimly held on to a tie for the top spot with 83 records and each won in the only 2 games played during the week. Humble blanked Roberts Butane 9-0 and Myers slapped Craddock-Witten 11-6 Monday night.

Thursday and Friday night games were called due to rain — they will be rescheduled later in the season.

Thursday night, Craddock-Witten was to meet Roberts and the Oilers and Myers were to do battle for the loop leadership. Friday night's games between Roberts and Myers and Humble and Craddock-Witten were also postponed.

Curtis Taylor and David Bearden teamed up Monday night to not only blank Roberts 9-0, but to hurl a 1-hitter at the Butane crew.

Taylor started and got credit for the victory. He was relieved by Bearden in the bottom of the fifth frame. Taylor allowed the only Roberts hit of the night, a third-inning single off the bat of third-sacker Ronnie Preston. Preston got as far as third base.

Two other Roberts batters got on base — Ronald Hillhouse walked in the third and Bobby Pineda walked in the fifth. Each of the 2 Oiler hurlers gave up a walk.

The potent Oilers made hay of 3 Roberts hurlers as Taylor and Bearden showed their stuff. The Oilers banged out 9 hits off of Roberts starter and loser Ornelas and relievers Skipper Warren and David Kendrick.

Robert Petty and Bearden led the way for the Oiler hitters with 2 singles each. Two Roberts errors and Petty's single broke things wide open in the top of the sixth. Humble had a 2-0 lead at the time and pushed across 5 big runs with the help another single by Bearden, the 2 errors and 2 walks.

With first place at stake, Myers jumped on Craddock-Witten and brought home an 11-6 triumph to stay even with the rampaging Oilers.

Melvin Williams, David McKay and Howard Belvin led the way for the Myers crew in their 9-hit attack on 2 Craddock-Witten hurlers. Williams had 3 singles and the other 2 each had 2 singles.

Perry Millsap started and lost for Craddock-Witten. He got relief held from Alan Ramage.

Belvin started and went 4 frames for Myers to take credit for the win. He was relieved by Corky McAdams. The 2 allowed Craddock-Witten's hitters only 5 hits—with Millsap's double being the only extra-base blow.

John Beezley, Ruben Martinez and Reggie Noble all had RBI's for the losers. Little lead-off hitter Noble struck a 2-run single in the top of the sixth. The other 2 hitters each hit singles for 1 RBI each.

Singles by McKay, Belvin and Williams, back-to-back, combined with an error, Leon Sweett's double and a walk as the winners scored 5 times in the third inning. Belvin got credit for an RBI in the fourth and Williams hit his second RBI of the night in the sixth.

The league-leading Myers squad and the Humble Oilers have 2 more meetings scheduled in the 5 remaining games of the year, along with the rained-out game to be made up, to battle for the pennant. The team that takes 2-out-of-3 of that series should bring home the flag — provided ever-dangerous Craddock-Witten or Roberts doesn't spring an upset to settle the affair.

B-Team to Play Nine Grid Games

The Colorado City Wolf B-team will play a 9-game schedule according to the high school's athletic director and head football coach, Sam Christy.

The B-team Wolf squad will have 2 open dates on their schedule that opens Sept. 7 in San Angelo against Lakeview and closes Nov. 6 here against Lamesa's Golden Tornado second squad.

Five of the games, all start at 7:30 p. m. on Thursday night, will be played in the Wolves' home stadium. The other 4, of course, will be in

Giant Catch

Rush Neff, 146 W. 11th St., proudly displays a 28-pound yellow cat he and Wann Sparks caught at Lake Colorado City early Tuesday morning of last week. The big fish, caught on a trot line using shad as bait, was the largest reported catch of the week from the local lake.

RE-SCHEDULING BEGINS

Rain Cancels All Little League Play

Rain, wet grounds and standing water forced postponement of all Little League baseball games scheduled during the week.

In the Major League, plans are being made by leading officials to re-schedule all the contests. The officials are faced with the huge task of getting in 8 games that have been postponed, 6 from last week alone, and the finishing of 2 games that ended in ties.

The Minor and Farm League contests will not be played—unless after the season's end. The Major League will be completed, state the league officials, even if games must be played during the 3 days between the season's end and the opening of all-star play.

The standings in each league, which remain the same as at this time last week, and the coming week's schedule, which may at any time include make up games, is:

The big 20-cat catch was the only report during the week from Cooper's Cove. Lake View Camp reported the big 30-pound catch.

A 19-pound yellow cat was pulled in by Paul H. Meyers of Midland using perch on a trotline.

Owen Kelly of Stanton hooked a 25-pound yellow cat on a trot line using minnows.

John P. Dooley of Odessa caught 5 yellow cat, from 5 1/4 to 11½ pounds each, on a trot line. The 38 3/4 pounds of fish were hooked on a trot line using perch and frozen shad as bait.

GOOD NEIGHBORS . . .

A good thing about good towns like Colorado City are good neighbors. You can't put a price on their friendship, kindness and service.

Like Mrs. O. D. Schoolcraft, for instance. She is probably one good reason why a neighbor's child is alive and healthy today.

Little Mike Newman, 2, was overcome recently by gasoline vapors while investigating a power lawn mower with his child's curiosity. While the child's mother drove her car speedily to the hospital, Mrs. Schoolcraft administered mouth-to-mouth respiration to the lifeless child.

A moan from the child as they reached the hospital was first faint sign of hope . . . and, then, quick medical attention completed the reviving life.

No . . . you can't put a price tag on good neighbors.

Criticism That Needs Criticizing

Government becomes more complex every day, just the same as business. Yet, as we attempt to solve these complexities and gear our democracy to the pressing needs of the day, there is divergent opinion concerning the how and why of it all.

This difference of opinion is nothing new. And history has shown that only through the questions and ideas from all sides do we arrive at our best paths for progress.

There is a trend, however, among some to resort to name calling, loudly condemning any and every move by government to find its path of democracy for and by the people.

An old friend and West Texan, Ray Greene, now transplanted in East Texas, has thoughts worth considering on this trend in the Gilmer Mirror, which he edits. Greene emphasizes:

There is a growing belief that citizens in all walks of life need to handle their own needs without calling upon the Federal government. This is well and good. There is only one aspect to conservation in its extreme form that is objectionable. This is the tendency on the part of some to belittle everything that stems from the Federal government.

We believe we have the finest government in the world. When it provides any service to the people, it is done as a democracy. If we are to classify all public welfare as communistic or socialistic, we are inferring that in countries so ruled, public welfare is getting first consideration.

This is not true. Communism and totalitarianism are not interested in the people or public welfare... only in the state. Every citizen is expendable... and human rights are unimportant. Communism is the exact opposite of Liberalism.

In a democracy human rights are important. Our government will spend a million dollars to rescue a single American in distress, if necessary. This is not Communism. It is Americanism and democracy.

We, the people, need to call upon Washington less and to do more for ourselves. We need to be less concerned about our country serving us... and more concerned about serving our country.

But there is real danger in habitually criticizing with bitterness and contempt the Federal government and the people who serve in Federal offices and jobs. Failure to find anything good in our Federal government unwittingly serves the Communist purpose. The Communists, too, find nothing good in the Federal government of the United States.

Constructive criticism in any area can be helpful... but bitter, biased criticism by one whose fixed opinions would eclipse all other viewpoints seldom serves a worthy end.

Fun . . . For All The Men, Too

We've been watching those TV commercials that ask, "Is it true... blondes have more fun?" The answer, according to some commercials, at least, is that indeed they do, and it could be that the motivation researchers, or whoever, have (as they often do) unwittingly stumbled upon something of value.

We all know that women live longer, have fewer coronaries, stomach ulcers and attacks of the galloping heebie jeebies than mere males. And the reason may well be that the mousey, inconspicuous, timid member of the gentler sex can take a little haircolor, a slinky new dress, a dab or two of face cream and change herself into a glamorous, exciting, desirable creature who is the cynosure of all eyes. We've seen it happen.

But our poor men, if we're drab, flabby, greying, balding and rumpled, are destined to stay that way forevermore. Even if we had products which would transform us into raving beauties, chances are we wouldn't dare use 'em.

The catcalls and jeers that would erupt if we slipped on a girdle, hid our wrinkles with face cream and stuffed ourselves into a skinny new continental suit are just too horrible to contemplate. So we stay looking the way we are.

Let's hope that the passage of time will give us more courage. Goodness knows men need more fun. If being of different hair hue will do it, why don't we take the plunge? Any volunteers?

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Many Voices Being Heard In State's Debate on Taxes

By VERN SANFORD, Texas Press Association

Texas' tax debate continues! Not as lively now as during the legislative session — but many voices are being heard.

It's sort of a "speak now or forever hold your peace" period. Some type of tax bill, undoubtedly the biggest in Texas history, will have to be passed in July or August, and those with something to say are rushing to get in their words.

Legislators report that the small-scale "great debate" is proving very helpful in stirring up opinions from previously silent constituents. They're hoping to discover enough home district reaction to guide them to a swift, sure solution when they return for the special session July 10.

Eight Central Texas lawmakers, in a reply to Gov. Price Daniel's report to the people, say that raising $341,000,000 in new revenue will require a "broad coverage tax."

Although 5 of the 8 voted with the governor during the session, several objected to a "hit and miss" tax approach.

Some say that people in their districts object to selective taxes on grounds that "it's not fair to tax my product and not my neighbor's."

IN THE WIND — A number of new approaches to tax plans already batted around during the regular session are being worked on by lawmakers during this interim. Among plans being considered are these:

1. By Rep. Charles N. Wilson of Trinity (sponsor of the 2 per cent sales tax passed by the House last session) — a new sales tax that would be linked, Siamese-twin fashion, with a corporate income tax.

2. By Rep. George T. Hinson of Mineloa (a frequent sponsor of legislation favored by the governor) — a 2 per cent tax on everything selling for $3.00 or more, with the usual food and drug exemptions.

3. By Rep. Ben Atwell of Dallas — selective excise taxes of 2 per cent on a long list of items, but generally exempting the bed rock necessities of life.

AT WORK — Governor Daniel's new tax committee, made up mostly of the board members of various state agencies, got off to a diplomatic, soft-soiled start.

Several lawmakers took a dim view of having "another study group," recalling that the last one had come up with a payroll tax plan that never caught fire. Texas voters, they pointed out, selected their legislators to write the tax laws and will hold the legislators responsible for the outcome.

Members of the committee made it clear that they don't intend to dictate to the Legislature. But they do hope to be able to indicate some possible paths of compromise among the various plans for which the legislators have shown favor.

DOWN THE DRAIN?

Some legislators are fretting over the loss in state revenue resulting from the Legislature's failure to pass a tax plan during the regular session.

Here is the way they see it:

1. Bills passed by a simple majority vote take effect 90 days after the close of the session. If a tax bill had been passed in the regular session, it would have taken effect the last of August and money from it would be accruing September 1 when the new fiscal year begins.

2. If a bill is passed by a simple majority in the special session — say about August 10 — it will not take effect until November 10.

3. A $340,000,000 tax bill covering the 24-month period would raise money at the rate of about $14,000,000 a month. But between September 1 and November 10, nothing would come in from the new bill. This waiting period of 2 months, would mean the loss of some $35,000,000 in state revenue which would have been raised if the same bill had been passed earlier.

Question that immediately arises is: Can the Legislature pass a tax bill by a two-thirds vote of both houses so that it will go into effect immediately? (As done in 1959.)

Today legislators are dubious.

As the new tax bill is expected to affect more items, many legislators feel that it would be unfair to expect businessmen and storekeepers to get ready overnight to charge all sorts of new taxes.

TAYLOR - MADE

By RICK TAYLOR
Record News Editor

THIS corner offers its personal thanks to H. A. (BOB) MAY for the jar of hot pickle relish, and I do mean HOT, that he so kindly dropped by the house last week.

Used very sparingly, its better known as "hot stuff" around Taylor - Made's domain, can really live up the taste of some dishes. And used generously, it can "liven" up any dinner.

Bob wins local prizes annually for this relish which he makes himself.

Am sure of 1 thing, his entry will make for some "hot judging."

Thanks again, Bob. As soon as Taylor-Made gets his "burned-out" voice back in shape, he'll say "thanks" in person.

JESSE BUNCH tells The Shadow this:

"There're only 2 people who really work in Colorado City — and I'm both of them."

That's nothing, Jesse. It takes 2 like The Shadow here to do the work of 1 person.

Say, you're not twins are you?

THE SHADOW'S favorite joke comes from the annals of the comic strip B. C. Seems 1 of the cave dwellers in the strip was selling shadows to the other characters.

The dealer was approached by a fellow who said he knew a "super, high-type salesman" that the dealer could very well use to sell his shadows.

"Is he really good?" asked the shadow dealer.

"Is he good?" was the shouted reply. "Why he could sell a shadow to La-Mont Cranston!"

For all of you who never followed, in years gone by, the adventures of The Shadow on the radio and in comic books, just give Taylor-Made here a call and he'll explain that little ditty.

PETE WARREN, he's from around here in one way or another, just bought some new gadgets for his car.

The first 1 promised to save him 20 per cent on gas, the second was supposed to save him 35 per cent on gas, the third claimed a remarkable 50 per cent savings in gas and the fourth, and final, gadget, was supposed to save him 10 per cent on gas.

Yep, that's more than 100 per cent.

Envywho, Pete attached all 4 of the "modern miracles" (that's a name given to any product that "guarantees" to save you enough money to pay for it, almost) and filled the car's gas tank to the 1/4-full mark.

Sure enough — as he drove down the street, the gas tank overflowed.

ONE STAR AGRICULTURE

A Good Look at the Omnibus Farm Bill

By JOHN C. WHITE, Agriculture Commissioner

It's about time for taking a close, honest look at the Administration's proposed long-range Omnibus Farm Bill.

What will it do? Is it a "dictatorial" bill as has been charged? How does it affect existing farm laws? What would it change, and why?

To begin with, the farm bill is a far-reaching measure designed to update the carrying-out of national agricultural programs by slipping away red tape and making the operation of such programs more democratic in nature.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman's bill is predicated on the principle of opportunity for the farmer equal to that of any other basic producer in the American economy, and he seeks to give the farmer himself a voice in insuring that opportunity.

The bill deals with all major program areas of American agriculture, but its major section relates to supply adjustment and price stabilization. This section provides the machinery whereby farmers can work together with the government to adjust their production to modern needs and conditions. Commodity advisory committees made up of farmers can work with the Secretary of Agriculture to set up referendum elections for the individual farmers themselves to decide on price supports and/or production controls, subject to approval by the President and the Congress.

Criticism of the bill has been most severe in publications where basic prejudice against any type of government assistance to farmers (the only producers in our economy who have no way to influence financial rewards of their enterprise) has overshadowed responsibility for reporting the facts.

They charge that the Secretary of Agriculture seeks "dictatorial powers" and "stiff controls" on farmers when, in fact, no powers or controls could be effected unless the farmers of individual commodities themselves asked for and overwhelmingly approved them. In addition, Congress would be required to approve such programs but would be spared the edum of formulating them — having left that task to the Secretary and the farmers themselves.

An even bigger fact which critics have overlooked is that the Secretary of Agriculture now possesses most of the powers which he is charged with seeking. Existing agricultural legislation authorizes him to prescribe conditions of eligibility (such as required compliance with acreage allotments) before making producers eligible for price support. He can also establish nationwide marketing orders, after appropriate fact-finding, on any commodity. And he can

LOCAL BUSINESS

Top Product Still Needs Ads to Sell

By MADGE BELL, Record Staff Writer

Several years ago a mousetrap factory in Scotland was forced out of business.

For nearly a century the factory had a near monopoly on the mousetrap business in Scotland; it produced a million traps per year during peak years.

No doubt, the company made fine mousetraps — perhaps the best ones ever made. But it went out of business because the management made 2 mistakes common to failing businesses.

First, the company produced such a good mousetrap that advertising was considered unnecessary.

Second, the management assumed that they had a monopoly because no one was making mousetraps.

These mistakes result in a smugness which is deadly in a free economy.

Strictly Fresh

A lie can be like a yo-yo. It can bounce back and tangle you before you know what's happening.

Although no one else in Scotland was making and advertising mousetraps, various firms began to produce and advertise rat poison. At the same time health measures were reducing the number of rats.

The company had competition which it did not recognize nor attempt to meet. Also the market for its sole product was dwindling.

Nearly every business — retail and industrial — has identical problems. And they are ever-present. The demand for every product changes with time, and competition always arises in even the most monopolistic areas.

There is a substitute for every product the American consumer buys. When the substitute is better advertised, an increasing number of consumers choose the substitute.

The man who makes the best mousetrap in the world can be sure of only one thing — he will have to do a good and constant job of advertising to keep the world knocking on his door.

Life With The Rimples

AROUND TOWN

By Rick Taylor

By VERN SANFORD

A big, black bass clobbering a floating chugger... a speckled trout hitting a darting, sinking plug... a streamlined kingfish charging a flashing spoon.

These are thrills fishermen never forget. The actual landing of the fish often is an anticlimax to the vicious strike of the fish at an artificial lure.

Unfortunately fish are like fishermen — very unpredictable. One day they will strike artificials with reckless abandon; the next day they will shun every piece of hardware in the tackle box.

Dyed-in-the-wool lure chummers will stay with the artificials even if it means a monumental waterhaul. The conventional, or perhaps safer angler, will adjust to meet the situation and resort to natural baits. Usually they'll both end up with something to smell up the frying pan.

But to properly fish with natural baits, the angler must know how to place it on the hook. If you want to keep the bait alive, wiggling and darting, you can't just sink the hook in any place.

Let's look into this business of proper hooking to keep the bait alive.

Most popular of natural baits in fresh water is the lowly worm. With the worm not much care is needed in the hooking. You don't have much of a problem keeping it alive either. They are hardy and stand punishment.

Big trouble with worms is keeping them from slipping off the hook. So be sure the hook is imbedded well. If necessary use several turns of light thread to keep the worm in place.

Minnows are more of a problem. When hooking through the lip, make sure the hook goes through both the upper and the lower lip. Never put the hook through the gills if you expect the minnow to remain alive.

Minnows also can be hooked through the back just ahead of the dorsal fin or near the tail. If the minnow is dead, then run the hook through the mouth, out the gills and imbed the point near the tail. This is an ideal way to hook minnows for trolling.

Shrimp are tops for salt water fishing, but they require careful handling. With big shrimp run the hook through the hard shell at the base of the spike on the shrimp's head. You'll kill the shrimp if you run the hook through the head proper.

With small shrimp run the hook through the second section from the tail. If you're using dead shrimp, cover the entire hook except for the eyelet. The hook can be inserted either from the head or the tail of the shrimp.

Markel seem particularly fond of peeled shrimp. Just break off the head, peel off the shell covering and insert the hook so that all but the eye of the hook is covered.

Frogs are excellent bass baits. They should be hooked through the lips or through one hind leg. Don't drive the hook through the frog's body — unless you like fishing with dead frogs.

Crayfish can be hooked through the tail, and eels can be hooked in the same manner as worms.

There are a few special natural baits that are extremely effective in salt water. Trouble is few anglers use these baits — blue crabs, sand fiddlers and oysters — because of the trouble in hooking.

Blue crabs and sand fiddlers are excellent for redfish, drum and big sow speckled trout. Since the fiddlers are so small, they should be tied to the hook with a few turns of thread. Hook blue crabs through the back. Bait-size blue crabs are those two or three inches in length.

Oysters are a real problem. To begin with you have to pry open the shells to get them. Then they are exceedingly difficult to keep on the hook. You can hook them in one of two ways — a few turns of thread or a small rubber band. Oysters make excellent bait for flounders, drum and sheephead.

Natural baits are always most effective when alive, so be sure to care well for your bait. Overcrowding in the bait bucket is the most common cause of bait loss. If you have to carry a lot of bait an extra bait bucket is a worthwhile, money-saving piece of equipment.

If you have to transport your bait any distance, drop a few oxygen tablets in with the bait. If you can't obtain such tablets, then put in a few ice cubes as the bait will use up less oxygen when the water is cool.

Above all, when you finish fishing, clean out the bait bucket. Don't allow dead bait to rot in it. This will contaminate the water and kill your bait on some future trip. If you use a strong detergent in cleaning the bucket, be sure to rinse out well. Detergents, too, are fatal to bait.

When you're fishing and find some of your bait dead in the bucket, take the dead ones out immediately. That way you'll give the live ones more room and keep from contaminating the water.

Ocie Roberts At Butane Dealers Meet

Ocie Roberts, owner-manager of Roberts Butane, 193 E. 2nd St., is attending the 16th annual convention of the Texas Butane Dealers Association and the Southwestern LP Gas Market in Dallas Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

Roberts, past district director of the Texas Butane Dealers Ass'n, has been in business here in Colorado City for the past 14 years. In 1959, he was named the district's "Most Outstanding Dealer."

Headquarters for the meeting and the Market site is the Adolphus Hotel — with part of the Baker Hotel being used also. Over 500 butane dealers from the southwest are expected to attend the 2 affairs — the largest combination regional event of its kind in the nation.

State Sen. Ray Roberts of McKinney was the Thursday guest speaker at the session. He led a discussion on the types of legislation that concern the butane industry.

Fertilization Of Pasture Land Pays

Every dollar intelligently spent on cultivated pasture fertilization will return from 2 to 10 dollars, says Jack Burkhalter, Mitchell County Agent.

Pastures, like all other crops, require adequate plant food, and a soil test is the best means of determining these requirements. A ton of grass hay contains about 30 pounds of nitrogen, 10 pounds of phosphoric acid and 30 pounds of potassium, while a ton of legume hay contains about 25 percent more of these elements. Burkhalter says that it is not uncommon to double pasture and meadow yields through good fertilizer management.

He warns against surface applications of nitrogen when there is not adequate soil moisture. Dry fertilizer burning when applied to plants wet from dew or rain. With temporary pastures, it's best to band phosphate and potash into soil either at or ahead of planting, but in the case of permanent pastures they may be applied during renovation or cultivation.

Warm season grasses such as Bermuda or Dallisgrass may be fertilized either in early spring or in the fall. In the spring, fertilizer should be applied just before the plants begin growth, while in the fall, it should be applied during cultivation or renovation. Burkhalter says 30 to 60 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre may be applied each time plants are grazed down, provided sufficient moisture is available for a dilled plant growth. Cool season grasses such as fescue should be fertilized in early fall ahead of the growing season.

He concludes by pointing out that properly fertilized pastures make it easier for stock to make economical gains, maintain body weight and avoid breeding or calving trouble.

Ask Yourself These Questions,

Mr. and Mrs. Homeowner, when contacted by an itinerant salesman offering you a "bargain" on a new roof, siding, paint job or other home improvement.

1. Do I know anything about this salesman or his company?
2. Can this salesman or his company give me local, recent references?
3. Will the company be in existence and financially able to fulfill its guarantees (if any) in one, three or five years from now?
4. Have I obtained a price on this job covering the exact same specifications from any local dealer?
5. Does the out-of-town company have liability insurance to protect me or my property in case of accident?
6. Do I know for certain the brand and grade or quality of material I will get?
7. If something goes wrong with the job, will the out-of-town company make it good? And, if so when?
8. If a local building permit is needed, does the out-of-town firm have one, signed by local authorities for my protection?

"Ben-Hur" to Open At Palace Friday

"Ben-Hur" which has been making history almost since the day in 1880 when it was first published as a novel, has been produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as one of the most spectacular motion picture achievements of all time.

Since its completion and release, it has received more honors and awards than any film in the history of Hollywood. From the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences it received a total of 11 "Oscars," more awards than any motion picture has ever received in Academy history.

"Ben-Hur" won in the following categories:

Best picture of 1959; Best Direction (William Wyler); Best Actor (Charlton Heston); Best Supporting Actor (Hugh Griffith); Best Musical Score (Miklos Rozsa); Best Color Cinematography (Robert L. Surtees); Best Editing (Ralph E. Winters, John D. Dunning); Best Costume Design (Elizabeth Haffenden); Best Art Direction (William A. Horning, Edward Carfagno, Set Decoration by Hugh Hunt); Best Special Effects (A. Arnold Gillespie and Robert MacDonald for Visual Effects); Milo Lory for Sound Effects; Best Sound (Franklin E. Milton).

"Ben-Hur" also was honored by the British Film Academy as the Best Picture of the Year by the All American Press; was cited as Best Production Film by the Screen Producers Guild; as Best Director Film by the Screen Directors Guild; and won the New York Film Critics Award, the Federation of Motion Picture Councils Award and the Hollywood Foreign Press Association's Golden Globe as the Best Motion Picture of the Year.

In addition it has received special plaques from the National Conference of Christians and Jews, from a number of magazines, and has been named as Best Picture of the Year by nearly every newspaper critic in every city in which it has opened.

Filmed in Italy and among other locales in which the story is set, "Ben-Hur" is the most ambitious motion picture ever undertaken by any company. More than five years of active preparation preceded the turning of the first camera at Rome's Cinecitta Studios.

By the time actual filming was completed, ten months later, more people had enacted scenes in front of more elaborate sets than had ever been used in any picture. And more people had worked behind the scenes to accomplish this than had ever been engaged in any similar undertaking.

More than 300 sets were constructed, the most dramatic being the arena for the chariot race sequence. Covering more than 18 acres and with 1,500-foot straight-aways alongside the Spina in the center, this was the largest single movie set ever built.

Ten square blocks, representing the ancient city of Jerusalem, rose miraculously on the studio's back lot.

A man-made lake was dug out of the center and two full-sized Roman galleys placed upon it for close shots of the tremendous sea battle sequence.

Thousands upon thousands of costumes (it was impossible to make an accurate count), including 1,000 pieces of armor, were assembled from all over the world.

William Wyler and Sam Zimbalist literally went to the far corners of the world for the principal actors and actresses heading the cast of more than 25,000 persons who appeared in front of the cameras.

From Hollywood came Charlton Heston, fresh from his triumph in "The Ten Commandments," to portray the title role, Jack Hawkins, following his appearance in "The Bridge on the River Kwai," was brought from England to appear as Quintus Arrius, Roman naval commander.

For the colorful role of Messala, who engages in a life-and-death contest with Ben-Hur in the chariot race, a relative newcomer, Stephen Boyd, of Belfast, Ireland, was selected.

From Israel came lovely young Haya Harareet to portray the part of Esther, the sweetheart of Ben-Hur. It was Wyler who brought this exciting new actress to MGM's attention. He had met her in Europe and had seen her in only five previous films, one Israeli and the other Italian.

Hugh Griffith, the Welsh actor who has appeared on the British stage for many years, had to leave his starring role on Broadway in "Look Homeward Angel" in order to fly to Italy and take the part of Sheik Ilderim, the desert chieftain who befriends Ben-Hur and persuades him to enter the race.

All in all, this is one motion picture that will go down in the annals of filmdom's history.

Star In "Ben-Hur"

In this scene from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's Academy Award-winning "Ben-Hur," Haya Harareet, as Esther, pleads with Charlton Heston (Ben-Hur) to forget his hatred of the Romans. The William Wyler presentation was filmed in Italy and other foreign locales in color and MGM Camera 65. Celebrated film starts at Palace June 23.

Smut Will Ruin Grain Sorghum Crop

Head smut disease of grain sorghum occurs in all areas of Texas, says Mitchell County Agent Jack Burkhalter.

Losses are likely to range from 0 to 25 per cent in the Coastal Bend area of Texas. The disease, in recent years, has been building up in other areas, and losses of 5 to 10 per cent are not uncommon. The value of badly infested land is lowered.

Close examination of the stalk near harvest is necessary to determine disease loss. With many infected varieties and hybrids, the head is sterile. In such cases, the blackish, powdery smut is found by pushing the leaves and checking lower on the stalk. On other varieties and hybrids, the main head will be smutted and destroyed, he says.

In harvesting a badly-infested field, smut comes from a combine in a black cloud. When the smut falls first appears, it is covered by a whitish membrane. The membrane soon breaks and allows the black dust (spores) to be scattered by the wind and rain. The fungus disease overwinters as spores in old plant trash or in the soil.

The following spring and summer the spores germinate and produce smaller spores of another type, which in turn, infect the sorghum plants through the roots. The fungus grows up through the roots and stalk to complete its life cycle. Infection of the root may occur at any time during the growth of the sorghum, Burkhalter notes.

In the absence of grain sorghum, disease spores in the soil gradually die. However, some may remain alive for an undetermined number of years. The fungus builds up in the soil when regrowth is allowed to develop.

When head smut is expected to be serious, it is recommended that growers avoid the use of highly susceptible varieties and hybrids. Highly susceptible are Combine 7078, RS 610, RS 608, AMAK R-10, and AMAK R-12. The use of rather susceptible varieties and hybrids such as F 62a, F 26a, Redline 60 and Texcon 34, in heavily infested soil is questionable. The growing of adapted hybrids with a higher degree of tolerance to head smut is highly recommended. Resistant hybrids may be observed in experiment station tests and in demonstrations conducted by county agents. Several strains of the fungus occur and this has made more difficult the development of resistant hybrids, Burkhalter concluded.

County's May Bond Sales Total $9,935

"Saving Bonds sales through May 1961 totaled $80,150," J. C. Pritchett, chairman of Mitchell County savings bonds committee reported today. "Our county has now reached 29.7% of its goal of $270,000. May sales were $9,935.

Sales in Texas for the first five months of 1961 were $64,395,836 which is 39.0% of the state goal.

"Never before have United States Savings Bonds been so attractive to investors and small savers alike," Pritchett said.

ANOTHER BIG REASON BEHIND THE BIG BOOM IN FORD SALES:

Galaxie styling is inspiring more admiration (and imitation) than any other car on the road!

This is the look that started with Thunderbird — and quickly became the styling success of the Sixties.

Many cars have tried to copy it. No car has succeeded. Incomparably beautiful, the 1961 Galaxie maintains its distinction — as originals always do.

Styling is only part of Galaxie's distinction: this is the car that's beautifully built to take care of itself. The '61 Ford goes 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications... 4,000 miles between oil changes. Brakes adjust automaticcally. The muffler is built to last three times as long as ordinary ones. The body is specially treated to resist rust and corrosion. The finish never needs waxing.

Wouldn't it make sense to STOP spending money on an old car that can never do for you what a new Ford can do?

SWAP right now while your Ford Dealer's sales are booming — and the swapping is easier than it's ever been before.

185 MILLION POUNDS

Milk Production In Area is Vast

Central West Texas dairy farmers produce 185 million pounds of milk each year, reports Corley Rogers, Colorado City dairy farmer and a member of the board of directors of the Central West Texas Milk Producers' Association.

The value of that amount of milk to area dairy farmers is over $10 million, he adds.

About $100,000 is spent each year for truck fuel and oil to transport that milk from producers' farms to the processors. Another estimated $27,000 is spent each year on tires alone for the transportation and $35,000 more goes for salaries and earnings of those engaged in marketing the milk to the processor in this area, Rogers states.

Central West Texas dairy farmers have an investment of about $25 million — even more than the processors who have an estimated $15 million invested.

Just to show how much milk is produced by association members, Rogers continues, just check these facts:

That much milk, 185 million pounds, poured into ordinary 8-ounce glasses and laid end-to-end, would all run out of the glasses and make a river 6 feet wide, 6 feet deep and over 15 miles long — and the glasses would reach 1 time around the earth with enough left over to reach from Colorado City past Lima, Peru, to South America.

FARM—

do these things without consulting with any farmer and without referring such proposed orders to Congress.

The Secretary of Agriculture, however, has no desire to set effective programs for American farmers into effect by such arbitrary action — unless he is hamstrung on this current farm legislation, in which case he would have little or no alternative.

Of course, as Texas Congressman Bob Poage of Waco — a veteran in the field of farm legislation — has said, this farm bill, like all long and comprehensive measures, needs amendment to insure its fully democratic character. The Secretary has agreed to such changes, and argument on these points for the sake of controversy is nothing more than beating a dead horse.

The basic reasoning behind a change in the formulation of agricultural policy is obvious but not realized by most people: Agriculture directly influences but a small minority of American citizens — though a lot of Texans — today, and that influence is going to get smaller rather than larger. It becomes more and more difficult each year for Congressmen from big cities to vote for farm programs in which their constituents are not interested and which they may just flatly resent without educated reason.

Many big city Congressmen have frankly served notice that they are not going to continue to vote year after year for programs for one crop after another. The most logical way to overcome this harsh reluctance is to present the programs with the added impetus of producer committee approval, approval by the Secretary of Agriculture and approval by the President.

The Administration's proposed farm legislation is the most workable and sound initial solution to the grave problems of inequitable farm income today. It is urgent that action be taken to correct these problems, and, in the total absence of any proposal more practical and more fair, it should be supported.
