Wayland Plans To Have A Reunion

PLAINVIEW, May 20 (Special)—Former students from the first graduating class at Wayland college here to the 1927 graduates will be in attendance at the reunion which will be held Saturday night, May 22, for all alumni and ex-students. Charles Pierce, graduate of 1924, and a leader of student activities while he was in Wayland, is chairman of the committee working for the meeting. Other members of the committee are Ruby Bailey, Thilla George James, Lubbock; Lillian Shelton, Plainview.

No estimate has been made of the number that will attend but a large crowd is expected and practically every town in the panhandle plains section will be represented with a student to the reunion, according to Pierce.

Program Interesting

An interesting program has been prepared and those who attend will be in Plainview during the commencement program. The society states which always draws the entire student body and ex-students will be held the night before the reunion and the baccalaureate services will be preached the Sunday morning following the reunion.

Wayland students in Simmons University, Abilene; Baylor University, Waco; Baylor college, Britain; and other Texas colleges that will be out in time to allow them to attend are planning on having auxiliary meetings on the same night of the reunion here.

J. P. Fees Offer Lawmakers Worry

AUSTIN, May 20 (AP)—The 10th Legislature having boosted the fees of certain justices of the peace, several members except to set about to limit them in the special session.

A case in point was described by Senator E. D. Fairchild of Lufkin. A Texas justice, he said, held preliminary hearings for a man charged with embezzlement in 73 counts and submitted a bill of $5 a case as now allowed by law.

Fairchild talked the matter over with Senator Edgar Witt of Waco and both agreed that something should be done. The senator from Lufkin probably will introduce a bill designed to "correct such conditions," he said.

PREACHER'S WIFE GRANTED TEMPORARY ALIMONY

AMARILLO, May 20 (AP)—Toms Poterz, alimony of $200 a month was granted today by District Judge W. E. Gee to Mrs. Jewell Stuckey, wife of the Rev. Lewis N. Stuckey, pastor of the Park Street Methodist church. The court ordered the pastor to pay the alimony pending the outcome of the divorce suits which were filed late Wednesday by both the pastor and his wife. Today's hearing was to pass on an injunction sought by the pastor to restrain his wife from occupying the parsonage. Mrs. Stuckey signed a sworn statement that she interfered with the pastor in his work, and the injunction hearing was dropped.

2,410 PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES in operation in the United States and Canada. PIGGLY WIGGLY is the largest retail food distributors since its beginning in 1916, and the second largest in the world considering other chain stores operating many years before PIGGLY WIGGLY existence.

PIGGLY WIGGLY annual sales will exceed Two Hundred Million Dollars this year. PIGGLY WIGGLY is supplying foods to millions of homes. Think of the buying power attached to this system. The saving in buying power is passed along to the housewives of Lubbock, and all the larger cities in our country.

PIGGLY WIGGLY has eliminated many unnecessary expenses, such as delivery charge accounts which often incur heavy losses, Clerk hire, and collectors, these and a tremendous buying power is why PIGGLY WIGGLY sells nationally advertised merchandise, that has stood the test for years, at prices unobtainable elsewhere. Many housewives estimate their savings at PIGGLY WIGGLY to be 25 per cent. which is paid in cash at the checking stand.

PIGGLY WIGGLY originated the Help-Yourself Merchandising idea back in 1916, and has excelled all other merchandising ideas up to the present time.

The above facts are not made in a boasting way, but in thankfulness to the many thrifty housewives who enjoy selecting their Fruits, Vegetables and other foods, protecting their families' health and at the same time protecting the family pocket-book.

Today PIGGLY WIGGLY has stationed all over the United States and Europe, buyers who are carefully selecting the best in Foods, Fruits and Vegetables.

We don't ask that you buy, but if you are not taking advantage of PIGGLY WIGGLY low prices, we invite you to make an inspection trip through a PIGGLY WIGGLY. Take your time, no one will rush you or try to sell you something you do not care for. You will find a plain price tag hanging over each and every article, and the stores are clean.

Conservation and Thrift is more in evidence today than ever before, and if you will shop at PIGGLY WIGGLY thirty days you will never return to the old way.

A SENSIBLE PLATFORM

For many years the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been hammering on problems of interest and importance to West Texas. The organization has been one of the most useful that has ever been formed, and its field of usefulness is continually expanding. For several years the organization has been electing leaders, in the president, men who have especially advocated diversification, and so urgent have been the pleadings of these men that there has been a very noticeable increase in the practices of diversification throughout all of the territory comprising the West Texas Chamber of Commerce area. Last year the president took up in earnest the matter of taxation, setting forth the unfairness of the tax system to West Texas and Mr. Duggan made his fight tell, to the effect that a commission has been appointed to look into the matter and start something that will finally result in the revision of the tax system. The Vernon Record in speaking of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention and its work, at Wichita Falls says that two very important problems for West Texas were discussed by speakers—tax reform and diversification. These problems are of vital importance to all citizens of West Texas, and the annual convention might truthfully be declared a success if no other program features were presented. These problems are of such importance that any meeting which makes it possible to impress their seriousness upon approximately fifty thousand people is successful. Tax reform is important to West Texans, because West Texans for the most part are carrying the burden which the tax reform move plans to more evenly distribute over the counties of the State. Under the present system of taxation, where the State tax is based upon the county valuations, and the county valuations are based solely upon the need of funds in the particular county, some counties receive more money from the State than they pay in taxes. Of course this amount is contributed by other citizens of Texas. That any system which makes possible this situation is antiquated is readily apparent. It happens that the county which is progressing which is developing its resources, and constructing needed highways in rapidly developing relatively speaking, than the county which is already thickly settled, and is doing little building. Therefore the valuations in the county which is building must of necessity be higher than in the county where there is no so much need for development. If the valuations are raised to provide the necessary funds, the county must contribute more than its share of the expenses of the State. There is no reason why a county should be penalized for developing its resources. It happens that this is a period of growth in most all West Texas counties, and for that reason West Texas as a whole is suffering under the present system of taxation. The other problem discussed—diversification—although not limited to West Texas, is of vital importance to all West Texans. Reports from many sources indicate that Mississippi Valley floods may cause the farmers in other sections to increase their cotton acreage, believing that thousands of acres in the Mississippi Valley which in former years have been planted in cotton will not be cultivated this year, and that the price of cotton will be strengthened for that reason. Farmers must not forget the huge surplus left over from the last crop. It must be remembered that even though there is not a bale of cotton raised in the United States this year, there will be more than half enough American-raised cotton to supply the demand.

A surplus of Texas crop added to the present surplus would supply the demand, and it must be remembered that, while Texas is the leading cotton producing state in the Union, it is not the only cotton

State: In fact it produces less than one-third of the total yield in the United States. Any convention which makes it possible to impress important facts if this nature on the citizens of this section is a worthy organization. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention has something to offer West Texans. It has its place in the civic life and development of this great section.

THE CONVENTION

The American Legion convention of which so much talk has been made the past few weeks is right here with us, the boys are here from many places, and they are here because they were invited to come and Lubbock is glad to welcome every delegate and every other one they brought along with them. Lubbock is glad of the honor of entertaining you, and the welcome is on the face of every Lubbock business man and woman, and on every citizen of this South Plains city. We hope everyone will be here that ever expected to come and then some—the more the better.

Every organization in the city of Lubbock extends to you, the very warmest welcome, and every business house, every office and every workshop is glad you are here and will expect you to visit them if possible while in the city.

Especially does the Avalanche—expect you to call around and get your name in the paper. We have been telling the people about your coming for some time, and now that you are here we are all glad, and extend to you the use of the streets and the sidewalks, and in as much as some of our citizens sip tobacco juice on the sidewalks, you might just as well do so yourself, that is if you do that at home we want you to feel at home.

Lubbock does not have any keys. It is a wide-open town except when Sheriff Johnston and his deputies, the Chief of Police and his assistants, Justice Scott and his deputies feel that a little official checking up is necessary. You will find hundreds of cars with invitations written on the windshield, and you are at liberty to hop in at any time, and any place, and give orders to advance and they will be promptly obeyed. What ever capacity the car, use it, and you are welcome. We are glad you are here. We welcome you.

THE GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS

We do not think it wise that the Government should engage in commercial business especially when it has to be subsidized and operated at the expense of the public. Governor Wood, who is in Charge of the Philippine Islands seems to be of the same opinion and says that only good can come to the islands by extricating the insular government from the commercial enterprise in which it has a hand. It was high time for such a step to be taken and undoubtedly it would have been taken earlier but for obstructive intrigues by native politicians. General Wood himself saw the evil clearly when he assumed office. In the struggle that ensued between him and the politicians he displayed much forbearance and moderation. But the showdown was bound to occur sooner or later. It occurred when he took sole charge of the insular board of control, a body illegally set up during the Harrison regime to supervise government enterprises. He reported to this action after his position on the board has become intolerable. Its two other members, Quezon and Roxas, had frustrated every attempt at reform. As for the suggestion that the government be taken out of business altogether, they were more than ordinarily hostile, for they knew that such a course would cut off access to the public money-bags.

With a great show of wounded patriotic sensibilities, Quezon and Roxas appealed to the people of the islands and to the insular supreme court. Native opinion proved unresponsive, however, and the tribunal did the only possible thing when it upheld the legality of the general's conduct. At last his hands were free. The business corporations in which the government of the Philippines is financially entangled include a national bank, a railroad, sugar centrals, coal and timber exploitations, and a series of other concerns. In some cases the war rendered government ownership and control desirable. But the war ended, and under native mismanagement, the treasury became more and more deeply involved in business adventures, many of which existed only because of liberal advances and loans from the insular coffers. Most of the money flung into these corporations by the government is irrecoverable. General Wood wishes to save as much of it as possible by selling out to the highest responsible bidders, native and American.

With the government up to its neck in business, there could be no hope of thorough reconstruction in the public finances of the islands, an object for which General Wood has labored from the outset. Even after the losses are counted off, progress along these lines should be easier when the government has rid itself of activities and investments which rightfully belong in the field of private initiative.

Temple has entered the ranks of the progressive cities of Texas, having put over in grand style an intensive campaign for the securing of enough subscribers to warrant a natural gas company entering that city.

SO THINK WE

It is said that the love that makes the world so round. However, it still continues to go round.

There is at least a class of people that get along by few means. That's the chicken thief.

It is not so much what you buy that shows what a sap you are, but it is where you buy it and what you pay for it that shows you up.

Perhaps the greatest progress being made in prohibition enforcement is in the control of industrial alcohol and the manufacture of malt beverages. This service is under Mr. James Cooper, Wadsworth, Supervisor of Alcohol and Dr. W. C. Control. It calls for painstaking, unremitting efforts, with a sufficiency of intelligent inspectors. It is not too much to say that the prospects of this service will solve the major problem in connection with prohibition enforcement.

The one thing the liquor traffic cannot endure is to be thought about. When good men think about it they kill it.

We have at last discovered that gossip is a very like yeast. A little of it will go a long way.

This world would readily be much better off if we would, every morning, obey our own failings, than that of our neighbor.

Most of us do not realize how fortunate we are out in this country until we hear of some of the things that happen to the people in other sections. The South Plains is the favored spot of the South.

There is one of two things that is true of nearly every man who owns a car. He is either worried a lot of money or he owes a lot on the car.

During the dry weather when a lot of folks do not have so much other to do, they might train themselves not to spit on the sidewalks.

It is taught by scientists that business will become extinct. They may be, but it will not occur in time to relieve the Prince of Wales and President Coolidge who his mechanical horse.

The Lutescent Leader says that no doubt the self made man now business he could have made a much better job of it if he had a chance to do it over. The trouble is we have only one life to live and the days that we spend and the days that we waste or idly away are gone forever, and there is not a chance to get them back to live them over.

There is possibly nothing that adds more to the comfortable looks of a home than trees. We should take good care of the trees in Lubbock. Sometime in the future they will be treasures that cannot be bought.

The Texas legislature is making a lot of fuss and a great deal of fuss over the special tax problem. If the tax system was rebuilt and put on an equal basis there would be no necessity for any extra tax or special tax or any other kind of tax than the regular tax income, but so long as we have a tax does not pay in proportion to the amount of money he is not going to be enough money to run the government.

A man with a bunch of cats, all in his family, is anxious to make his children, from those who want to find him. It apparently has its disadvantages as well as some of the proposed advantages that some folks would say that it carries with it.

The legislators are here and Lubbock is anxious that they be pleased with the visit to this city, and this part of the state.

There is too much difference in the appearance of the homes in the cities and the homes in the towns. The people are all the same, so why the difference in the homes.

Many states are paying large sums of money for state parks, and in Texas they can't even give them to the state. There is something wrong somewhere.

And now there is a proposal on for investigating the expenditures of State Superintendent E. M. N. Marra. We imagine that a diligent auditor will not lose much sleep over a proposal of this sort. He is always working for the betterment of the public schools of this state, and there are those who would like to see him get in a close place, but we are of the opinion that he is not varying from the correct path, very far.

After people are run down at the rate of two or three a day the traffic department in some of the large cities are positive signs "with your step" all over the paving and the street corners. They are on the theory that it is never too late to do good.

The mail chute is attributed to the idea of a lazy man. Most labor-saving devices might be said to have the same origin, but at the same time it takes a mighty good man some time to operate the labor saving device.

President Coolidge may not be an expert animal trainer, but there is one thing that is pretty certain and that is he has the G. O. P. elephant eating out of his hand.

We doubt if it is a good thing for the government to be in business, especially when it is competitive business and he private concerns of the land. Every business is taxed and there is reason there is a certain amount of the taxes on every person goes to the upkeep of the government plant that is competing against them.

Avoiding Disease

Tea, Coffee and Cakes Contain a Drug—But 'Doors' Hurt. BY DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Human beings all over the world have since time immemorial, regularly used drugs of one type or another for various purposes.

The natives of South America chewed coca leaves because they believed that this relieved fatigue. Actually it gives a dose of cocaine, sufficient to stave off hunger, to give a sense of euphoria or well-being, although in the long run the habit is injurious to health. Natives of the Orient chew the betel nut for the same purpose. It has been estimated that one-tenth of all human beings in the world indulge in this habit.

The use of opium and its derivatives, morphine, and the use of cocaine are addictions apparently difficult to overcome once they are established, and apparently dependent to a large extent on weakness of the will as well as on some changes brought about in the body by the habitual use of the substances.

Tea and coffee contain caffeine as their chief drug. It has been said of coffee that it is the drink which cheers but not inebriates. It is a stimulant to the higher brain centers; it quickens the pulse and accelerates the rate of fatigue. The amount of caffeine in a cup of coffee or a cup of tea is usually sufficient to produce the drug effect. It is not habit-forming in the same sense as are opium and cocaine. The best scientific evidence indicates that taken in moderation tea and coffee are not harmful.

Many persons are known who have taken tea or coffee daily for periods of 20 or 30 years without becoming habituated to either. In the other hand, nervous persons with unstable nervous systems, persons who react unfavorably to stimulation of any kind, should avoid tea or coffee. In such people sleep is interfered with, and the system is constantly whipped up to a point where the nervous system is unable to withstand the strain.

It is also inadvisable, when greatly fatigued, to attempt to relieve this feeling by drinking tea or coffee. This is like whipping a tired horse. The coffee does not relieve the fatigue, but merely gives stimulus sufficient to overcome the fatigue, placing, however, an added burden upon the nervous system.

A person engaged in mental activity sometimes finds a cup of coffee a temporary boost of great value. Used in this way, it may be highly desirable, but not repeatedly used without rest so that the effects of fatigue accumulate.

Today's Poem

IS EVERYBODY HAPPY? Ted's on the stage with pack of blooded jax-hounds; A battered high-hat cocked on tumbled head.

"Is everybody happy?" he queries. He never starts, until these words are said.

To one and all, he poses this same old question. Although, before him are some faces sad; Each one can't be happy, when he asks it.

But just the asking, makes them look where glad.

And that's not all, for he'll propound this question. Before he's through, at least once more, again; If you don't give right in and smile by that time, His saxophone, I'm sure, is not to blame.

Into his songs, some sympathetic pathos, Is sure to creep, but you won't need a soap.

PIRATES ANNEX GIANT GAME BY 8 TO 3

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, May 20.—Pittsburgh took another fall out of the Giants here today by coming out on top of a 12 inning battle by 8 to 3. Lew Meadows had a slight edge on his New York opponents, and won his fifth straight game of the spring. Tommie has not been charged with a defeat. The Pirates won on Greenfield's address in the twelfth when he walked three men, and singled three hits including a home run by Traynor with the bases full.

Eddie Farrell, shortstop, continued his remarkable hitting streak with a homer, double and three singles in five innings up. Smith of the Pirates hit a homer with none on base in the sixth. Manager Bush of Pittsburgh was out of the field after ninth inning for protesting a decision.

LICENSE IS GOOD 30 DAYS IN TEXAS

MOTORISTS MAY DRIVE FOR THAT LENGTH OF TIME HERE

AUSTIN, May 20 (AP)—A motorist from another state may stay in Texas for 30 days without obtaining a new license plate, provided he registers his automobile number before the thirty days expire. Sixty additional days are granted upon payment of $1.

This information has been put out by the State Highway department which contrasts it with privileges of visitors with automobiles in other states.

Alabama extends reciprocal privileges to cars operated for hire. Reciprocal privileges, it explained, benefits the visitor from another state to stay as long in the state which he is visiting without obtaining license plates, as permitted by the state whose license plates are carried.

Some Are Missing
A few of the states are missing on the list.

In Arizona the motorist may stay one month but must register with the county sheriff within 30 days. Kansas permits a stay of 90 days but must file description of the car with the commissioner of state after 30 days. California, six months.

The owner must register after 30 days with the division of motor vehicles. Colorado, 90 days except for trucks and trailers, and must register with the secretary of state immediately. Connecticut, 15 days, necessarily consecutive, except public service vehicles. Delaware, Kentucky, Montana, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Virginia, Washington and District of Columbia, all reciprocal.

Georgia, 30 days; Idaho, 90 days; provided permit is obtained immediately, except for trucks of over ten ton capacity. Illinois, six months, except as to commercial vehicles. Indiana, six days; Louisiana, 90 days, except as to commercial vehicles which are allowed five days; Maine, reciprocal, except to vehicles used for hire. Maryland, reciprocal except as to common carriers. Massachusetts, reciprocal except if have place of business or code for 30 days and may register for July, August and September at one-half fee.

Other Rates
Michigan, 90 days but commercial 30 days; Mississippi, 30 days; Nevada, 90 days but must register with secretary of state after 10 days. New Hampshire, 20 days; New Jersey, 15 days; New Mexico, three months; North Carolina, reciprocal, not exceeding 90 days; Oregon, 90 days but registers with secretary of state immediately without fee. Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Tennessee, 30 days; Utah, after 10 days must pay $1 for temporary registration good for six months; Vermont, reciprocal but after thirty days into the state in a year must pay out four months' license at one-half of annual fee; the same applies to operators' permits. Wisconsin, reciprocal, except commercial cars; Wyoming, 90 days, except if operated for hire.

The information is compiled of the interest in view of the increase of vacation and the probability of unusual motor travel.

According to the estimate of one analyst there are 14,000,000 hopped in America from which 35,000,000 of hair have been sheared.

Legion Barbecue For Service Men

Officials of Allen Brothers Post of the American Legion here in a statement Friday sought to correct a wrong impression in regard to the Sunday program of the convention that opens today.

Some are of the opinion, it was said, that the barbecue and afternoon program is to be open to the public, when such is not the case. Executive men alone will be eligible for admission, and these must in possession of a registration badge. Legion officials explained that the rule is being put into effect not to bar anyone interested in the Legion from the program, but to avoid confusion and congestion in the hall where the banquet is held.

The 11 o'clock service, at the Presbyterian church is open to the public as far as seating capacity will permit, but those who attend have been asked to remain outside the church until the parade of ex-service men has entered. The parade will start from the Lubbock Hotel at 10:45, and the service is scheduled to start at the church at 11 o'clock. It was said that quite a number of cars have been preferred for the auto ride of visitors following the service but that still more cars are needed.

DUN'S REPORT OPTIMISTIC
NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say: Despite various depressing factors, business continues to show a gratifying stability, its fluctuations this month having been orderly. Where declines have occurred they have been marked in some cases, those of a year ago, and in certain lines the trend has been upward. As usual, at this period, seasonal influences have caused conflicting tendencies but the net result appears to have been a moderate contraction from the activities of recent months. That a more pronounced and more general let down has not developed is proof of the underlying soundness of conditions for serious floods and strms and inclement weather in different sections have had an adverse phase. Because of these impediments, a full distribution of goods in retail channels has not been possible and agriculture, on the whole, is backward.

Big Spring Has A Traffic Problem

STOP SIGNS HAVE BEEN PLACED ON SEVERAL STREET CROSSINGS

STOP SIGNS HAVE BEEN PLACED ON SEVERAL STREET CROSSINGS. The traffic department finds itself busy impressing these new regulations. According to City Manager Montau, no fines have yet been collected but second offenses will be handled through the traffic department and fines are likely to be collected. The new regulations are aiding materially in making it safer for the pedestrian. Several cars have been smashed of late but not fatal injuries to driver or passengers.

Widow Pensioned For Two Husbands

AUSTIN, May 20 (AP)—A Texas widow whose first husband was killed fighting for the Confederacy and whose second died under the Union banner, is to be allowed both federal and confederate pensions.

Director Robinson of the comptroller's pension department says. Assistant Attorney General Paul D. Page, Jr. in a letter to Robinson interpreted a law passed by the 44th legislature making the widow eligible to both pensions, although she previously had been denied one from the confederate fund because her last husband was a Yankee.

Robinson will start paying her the stipulated sum immediately and also will reimburse on the Confederate side the names of several "rebels" previously barred from Southern aid because of their service with the national army in Indian wars.

CHURCH RESERVATIONS MADE FOR GOLD STAR PARENTS
Special reservations of seats is to be made in the First Presbyterian church auditorium here Sunday morning during the American Legion patriotic program, for Gold Star mothers and fathers, and for Confederate veterans, it was announced Friday by officials in charge of the program, and every one of these who can possibly attend the service are urged to do so.

Conveyance will be furnished to and from the service, if needed through the Legion and Red Cross if officials are advised of the location of the one desiring conveyance.

Good only Saturday, Monday and Tuesday. Don't wait until we have sold out. Walter G. Jennings of Amarillo, is a business visitor here.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

By Clara Gaslin
C. C. B. in N. A. Service

THIS HAS HAPPENED

T. D. CURTIS, millionaire, takes these girls from his department store and places them in his home as his wards for a year, because he believes they have worthy ambitions he wants to further.

BILLY WELLS, who wants to become a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is sincere. NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON are enjoying the old man's generosity under false pretenses.

Billy overcomes their benefactor and he is going to adopt one of the girls, as his daughter, when the year is up and in order not to take unfair advantage of the girls, she tells them what she has heard.

She is unwillingly drawn into a battle which Nyda and Winnie fight for T. D.'s affections. This, together with her infatuation for DAL ROMAIN, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, the hostess, is causing her to lose interest in her violin. In spite of this infatuation, she remembers tenderly CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is boarding with Mrs. Wells in the poor part of the town, working in the Truman factory in the daytime and writing music at night.

Remains accompanying Billy on a shopping tour. He directs her to Madame Dubois' where she spends more than she should. She is surprised to hear the assistant mention his previous trip to the shop with Winnie Shelton. As they drive into the country they see Nyda Lomax with EDDIE BANNING, her chauffeur-sweetheart of department store days, and this strengthens Billy's convictions that there is some intrigue between them. Dal takes Billy to a country place owned by a Hindu. They enjoy and are alone. As first place, Billy succumbs to Dal hypnotic charms. He tells her strange things about his experiences in India, that he possesses strange powers. He kisses her and tells her his, but begs her to keep their love-making a secret. She asks to be taken back to Colfax, to her mother.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI

When Billy ran out of the cafeteria, she found herself swept into a milling mass of factory and office employees, just released, by the stroke of five, from their work. She heard Ralph shouting to her, but she ran on half horns by the crowd of overalled men, pushing toward the long line of giant buses waiting to take them to the city of Colfax.

"I can only find Clay!" she moaned. "Clay! Clay!"

Men stared at her, curiously, and away for her respectfully, wondering why.

"Looking for someone, sister?" a kind, heavy voice asked.

She whirled to face an elderly, stoop-shouldered giant of a man, whose eyes were gravely kind.

"I want to find Clay Curtis," she gasped.

"He—he boards at my house, and I'm going home with him—in the bus. I—I thought it would be fun," she added, with a pathetic attempt to appear natural.

The old man cupped his hands about his mouth and shouted, "Curty! Hey Curty!"

Before Billy could lose her courage, Clay came pushing his way through the mob of men. When he saw her, he grasped her arm in a matter-of-fact way, and said, "Thank you for the old man's help. He led her, and pushed a way for them to a bus.

"I've got to go home with you, Clay," she panted. "Don't ask questions. I'll explain later. Just let me go home with you."

"Of course. Your mother will be glad to see you." His voice was casual. "Hop up! It's sort of jolly, but I guess you're a good sport."

As the big bus lumbered out of the factory grounds a few minutes later, Billy caught sight of Ralph Truman, hatless, eyes blazing, running frantically from one building to another, looking for her.

One of them there Cinderella gals that old man Curtis is keepin' up at the mansion," she heard a laborer say to a companion, a leer on his greasy, crumpled face.

Clay's hand brushed but still showing traces of grime and grease closed over hers hard, protectively. They were standing almost in the middle of the big bus, away from looped straps, sweaty, overalled bodies bumping her with a very burst of the car.

"Let's get off here and walk. It's only a few more blocks to the house," Clay whispered.

He signaled the driver and they left the coach followed by a few subdued chuckles and a suggestive word or two.

"Mind telling me what happened, honey?" Clay asked quietly.

"I—I can't," she told him miserably, humbly. "It—it wasn't anything Ralph did that made me run away. It was something he said about—about someone else. He—he tried to meddle in my affairs, and I couldn't stand it. But don't be angry with Ralph, Clay," she begged him hastily, as she felt his arm muscles harden under her clinging fingers. "He was only trying to help me—oh, I can't explain. But I simply couldn't see him again, what he said—couldn't go on talking about it." Her voice was becoming hysterical.

"Billy!" Clay took her clinging fingers from his arm and held her hand tightly between both of his. "Top did something for me today. You did for me what I couldn't do for myself. You—you holed me, dear. I can work now, without beating up into torn, bloody bits. I'm going to go back to my music this very night. I'll remember what you said about me today. The thing of 'top'! His name was embarrassed but very earnest.

Billy nodded.

"Well, honey, that's going to be the theme of my symphony. I've been crazy to write a symphony, one with a real American theme. I'll put something in the marvelous concentration we can get into in a thing called 'The Song of Top' and begin writing it. I've had experience with symphony orchestras, you know."

"Of course you can do it, dear," she told him warmly, her own love tragedy fading into the background for a moment.

"And Billy, it came to me 'all of a sudden,' as Mother Wells says, when you were standing there, that I—I love you with all my heart. I—I can't talk about it very well, honey, but—maybe you know how I feel—why, I've been in love with you since that very first night when I walked into your house out of the dark and the cold, pulled in by the music of your violin. Funny how blind I've been. Why, I didn't know what was the matter with me, even when I proposed to you before you went to live at Dad's—"

"If you'd known then that you loved me, I'd have married you," Billy told him in a voice so low and sad that he could hardly hear the words.

"They had stopped on a dark corner, and Billy leaned weakly against the burly trunk of an oak tree.

"Is it too late now, dear?" He took her hands and touched her fingers with his lips. "Oh, Billy, I love you so much! Don't you love me at all?"

"I did love you, Clay," she answered in an uneven husky voice, for tears were slipping down her cheeks. "I loved you so much that I prayed—over you—that night—when I held your hand in my arms. You remember? I—I prayed, Clay, I prayed you would love me as I loved you." Her voice was dragged with hopelessness. He could not answer her for a moment, but he bowed his head very low above her hands against his heart.

"Then Clay, I—I went away, and something happened to me. I became terribly infatuated with someone else—"

"Is he such a fool as not to love you?" Clay demanded harshly.

"Oh, he loves me—in his way," she acknowledged, wearily, "but in such a consuming, restless, agonizing thing, this being in love, with— with this particular man." She could not utter his name to save her life. "I want to love you again, Clay. Oh, that's not putting it right! The odd thing is that I do love you, underneath this fever, this madness. I am more at peace with you than with anyone else in the world. I want to live with you always, work with you, play music with you, dream with you—"

"Then we'll get married, and you'll forget all about this other chap, who doesn't make you happy," Clay laughed exultantly.

He kissed her, and she was surprised and ashamed to find that her lips wanted to cling to his, that passion and tenderness surged in her heart for him. But there, under the force of the wilderness of longing with which she clung to Dal Romaine, note of the sharp ecstasy that was compounded of passion and pain and doubt and fear.

"We'll get married," he repeated shakily, when he had released her. "I'm making enough now to support us—"

"Three of us?" She could not keep the sharp edge of sarcasm off the words. "Oh, Clay, darling, it's no use! I admit I'd marry you tonight if I could manage it, so that I could escape everything." She was thinking of Dal Romaine, and Winnie Shelton—and Nyda's snaky venom—that whole house of dreadful intrigues.

"I'm making forty-two dollars a week now," he told her stubbornly. "You and your mother used to get along on twenty-two—"

"And I could go back to work," she reminded him anxiously. "Go back to the Curtis Store, if T. Q. would let me—which he wouldn't do, by the way—because I don't like to hate me because I'm one of the T. Q. Curtis Cinderella girls. No, Clay, it wouldn't do. I spent three hundred and ten dollars for clothes a couple of weeks ago in one morning. I couldn't go back to living in a cold little shack in Poplar street. I despise myself. I didn't think it was possible for any human being to change as much as I've changed in the last two months, but I have changed, and I'd be a cheat to pretend that I'd make a good wife for a working man—now."

"If I didn't want back to Dad, I'd insist myself, would you marry me?" he asked in a guarded, unemotional voice.

"Oh, Clay!" Her hands went to his shoulders; her fingers dug into the rough cloth of his cheap overcoat, as if she would say, "You could save me, darling! And save your father, too, from the consequences of his folly. He's headed for disaster, Clay. He needs his son! Why—will you come home, Billy?" Her hands tugged frantically at his overcoat shoulders.

"Drop your hands, Billy," he commanded her in a low, violent voice that she could not have recognized as belonging to Clay Curtis. "Quit begging me or I'll hate you. You don't know what you've done—or I hope you don't! Do you realize what you've been saying—that you'd marry me for my money, while you're sick with love for another man? Get away from me, thing that I'll be ashamed of. The other car's two blocks off."

"Clay!"

"I'd leave your mother's house, so that I wouldn't run any danger of seeing you when you come for one of your rare visits"—his voice was sharp with sarcasm—"but she needs my hard money. I guess just be kind enough to let her know when you're coming, so I can clear out. Goodby."

He strode away swiftly, leaving her collapsed against the trunk of the oak tree. She never knew how long she crouched there. She was dimly aware that men and girls, hurrying home to supper in the mean little houses along the street stared at her in wonder.

After a long while she set her limbs in motion. It was horrible to have to go on living when she had lost Clay, who had been like a rock foundation to her house of life, and when she had never really had Dal, Dal and Annette—Dal and Winnie—Dal and Billy—oh,

God! Then she felt that old need for him, for Dal, pulling at her. It seemed to her that she could actually hear his voice calling her. She wanted to shout—"I'm coming, Dal! Come!" She began to run. She did not realize that she was miles from the Curtis mansion until a taxicab pulled up at the curb and a voice urged her—"That, lady!"

When she reached home at last, in a dazed, disheveled condition, a maid handed her a letter. "Mr. Romaine waited and waited for you, Miss Billy, when he left this for you."

Dal Romaine is called away on business. And, oddly, Winnie goes away at the same time for a week and visit.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: Peter Heals the lame man.

Scripture Lesson: Acts 3:1-10

Acts 3: 1. Now Peter and John were going up into the temple at the hour of prayer, being the ninth hour.

2. And a certain man that was lame from his mother's womb was carried, whom they laid daily at the door of the temple which is called beautiful, to ask alms of them that entered into the temple.

3. And Peter, fastening his eyes upon him, with John, said, Look on us.

4. And he gave heed until them, expecting to receive something from them.

5. But Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but what I have, I give thee. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, walk.

6. And he took him by the right hand, and raised him up; and immediately his feet and his ankles were strengthened.

7. And leaping up, he stood, and began to walk; and he entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God.

8. And all the people saw him walking and praising God:

9. And they took knowledge of him, that it was he that sat for alms at the Beautiful Gate of the temple; and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened unto him.

10. Then, Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and ye elders of Israel,

11. If we this day are examined concerning a good deed done to an impotent man, by what means this man is made whole,

12. Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even in this day shall stand here before you whole.

13. Therefore, brethren, let us give thanks unto God always for you by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, who by the hand of Peter and John have caused this man to stand, whom ye had despised and despised his name, who is now made whole, through the name of the Son of God.

14. And ye men of Israel, know that the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ hath chosen him, that ye should hear him, and that ye should believe in him, and that ye should be saved by him, and that ye should be glorified by him, and that ye should be blessed by him, and that ye should be made partakers of his kingdom, and that ye should be made heirs of his glory, and that ye should be made joint-heirs with him of his inheritance, and that ye should be made partakers of his sufferings, and that ye should be made partakers of his resurrection, and that ye should be made partakers of his ascension, and that ye should be made partakers of his session at the right hand of the Father, and that ye should be made partakers of his coming in the clouds of heaven, and that ye should be made partakers of his reign with him for ever and ever.

15. And ye men of Israel, know that the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ hath chosen him, that ye should hear him, and that ye should believe in him, and that ye should be saved by him, and that ye should be glorified by him, and that ye should be blessed by him, and that ye should be made partakers of his kingdom, and that ye should be made heirs of his glory, and that ye should be made joint-heirs with him of his inheritance, and that ye should be made partakers of his sufferings, and that ye should be made partakers of his resurrection, and that ye should be made partakers of his ascension, and that ye should be made partakers of his session at the right hand of the Father, and that ye should be made partakers of his coming in the clouds of heaven, and that ye should be made partakers of his reign with him for ever and ever.

16. And ye men of Israel, know that the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ hath chosen him, that ye should hear him, and that ye should believe in him, and that ye should be saved by him, and that ye should be glorified by him, and that ye should be blessed by him, and that ye should be made partakers of his kingdom, and that ye should be made heirs of his glory, and that ye should be made joint-heirs with him of his inheritance, and that ye should be made partakers of his sufferings, and that ye should be made partakers of his resurrection, and that ye should be made partakers of his ascension, and that ye should be made partakers of his session at the right hand of the Father, and that ye should be made partakers of his coming in the clouds of heaven, and that ye should be made partakers of his reign with him for ever and ever.

17. And ye men of Israel, know that the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ hath chosen him, that ye should hear him, and that ye should believe in him, and that ye should be saved by him, and that ye should be glorified by him, and that ye should be blessed by him, and that ye should be made partakers of his kingdom, and that ye should be made heirs of his glory, and that ye should be made joint-heirs with him of his inheritance, and that ye should be made partakers of his sufferings, and that ye should be made partakers of his resurrection, and that ye should be made partakers of his ascension, and that ye should be made partakers of his session at the right hand of the Father, and that ye should be made partakers of his coming in the clouds of heaven, and that ye should be made partakers of his reign with him for ever and ever.

18. And ye men of Israel, know that the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ hath chosen him, that ye should hear him, and that ye should believe in him, and that ye should be saved by him, and that ye should be glorified by him, and that ye should be blessed by him, and that ye should be made partakers of his kingdom, and that ye should be made heirs of his glory, and that ye should be made joint-heirs with him of his inheritance, and that ye should be made partakers of his sufferings, and that ye should be made partakers of his resurrection, and that ye should be made partakers of his ascension, and that ye should be made partakers of his session at the right hand of the Father, and that ye should be made partakers of his coming in the clouds of heaven, and that ye should be made partakers of his reign with him for ever and ever.

19. And ye men of Israel, know that the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ hath chosen him, that ye should hear him, and that ye should believe in him, and that ye should be saved by him, and that ye should be glorified by him, and that ye should be blessed by him, and that ye should be made partakers of his kingdom, and that ye should be made heirs of his glory, and that ye should be made joint-heirs with him of his inheritance, and that ye should be made partakers of his sufferings, and that ye should be made partakers of his resurrection, and that ye should be made partakers of his ascension, and that ye should be made partakers of his session at the right hand of the Father, and that ye should be made partakers of his coming in the clouds of heaven, and that ye should be made partakers of his reign with him for ever and ever.

20. And ye men of Israel, know that the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ hath chosen him, that ye should hear him, and that ye should believe in him, and that ye should be saved by him, and that ye should be glorified by him, and that ye should be blessed by him, and that ye should be made partakers of his kingdom, and that ye should be made heirs of his glory, and that ye should be made joint-heirs with him of his inheritance, and that ye should be made partakers of his sufferings, and that ye should be made partakers of his resurrection, and that ye should be made partakers of his ascension, and that ye should be made partakers of his session at the right hand of the Father, and that ye should be made partakers of his coming in the clouds of heaven, and that ye should be made partakers of his reign with him for ever and ever.

21. Introduction

We constantly need the important truth taught in this lesson. The things that money can buy are very few and of little value as compared with those that no wealth can purchase. Sometimes money may help buy the means to better things, but not the things themselves. Bodily health and the soul's salvation are far better than money. Let us see to it that we learn what we have received in the way of spiritual blessing and power. Everyone of us, by being faithful and diligent, may without miracle, be dispensers of God's spiritual gifts.

"Redeeming The Time"

In advising to Christian activity, Paul twice makes use of the expression which is rendered "redeeming the time." This is a commercial phrase, literally meaning "buying up the opportunity." Business men understand what it means to watch the market and seize the opportunity for investment or sale. Paul was a keen observer and he well applies this phrase to improving opportunities for spiritual service. Our Lord himself was a great master in utilizing occasions to impress his truth upon the people. Many of the richest incidents recorded in the gospel are of this sort. Peter had caught somewhat the spirit and method of his Lord, and here, as well as at other times, he seized the opportunity to make known the truth and impress it upon the people.

"Going Up Into The Temple"

Versa 1

"Now Peter and John were going up into the temple." "Up," because the temple, on Mount Moriah, was elevated above Jerusalem. Peter and John, probably the oldest and the youngest of the apostles, were close friends, being bound together by their passionate devotion to Christ. The apostles were all devout Jews, and in adopting Christianity they did not cast off the religion in which they had been reared. They continued to love the temple and its services, as their Master had loved them; for was not the temple, to them as to him, their Father's house?

"The Hour of Prayer," v. 1

"At the hour of prayer, being the ninth hour." The Jews divided the daylight into twelve hours and the darkness into the same number of hours. If the sun (as at the equinoxes) set and rose at 6 o'clock these hours would each be sixty minutes long, and the ninth hour would correspond to our 3 o'clock in the afternoon. As daylight lengthened or shortened the ninth hour would be farther from noon or nearer to it. The Jews observed daily three hours of prayer, at morning, noon and evening. (Ps. 134:17; Dan. 6:10). Peter prayed on the housetop at noon, the sixth hour (Acts 10:9); the ninth hour was the time for the evening prayers. Definite times for prayer put one into the spirit of prayer, and enable one to carry out the command to "pray without ceasing" (1 Thess. 5:17).

"The Beautiful Gate" v. 10

"And a certain man that was lame from his mother's womb was carried." He was then forty years old (Acts 4:22) and probably had never walked, but had always been a helpless cripple. What a life of misery and dependence! Every decade, he had been carried to the same place, so that he had become one of the best-known characters of Jerusalem. He was laid at the temple door because of the great throngs that passed by, and because they were the good people who would be most charitably inclined. The gateways of the temple gave admission to the inner court from the court of the women, and the court of the women were three on the north and the same number on the south, but the Beautiful Gate meant in this verse was probably the gate on the east which led from the court of the women.

"Peter Gave Of What He Had," v. 5

"But Peter said, Silver and gold have I none." Poor men when they entered Christ's service, the apostles remained poor in this world's goods to the end; yet no multimillionaire that ever lived was so wealthy as Peter and John. "But what I have, that give I thee." She hath done what she could, said Christ in high praise of the woman who anointed his head and feet with the precious ointment. Christ asks us for no more than we have—only that we use in his service such money and such ability as he has given us. The poorest, most ignorant, and feeblest man stands on an absolute equality with the richest, the wisest, and the strongest.

"A Wonderful Miracle,"

"And leaping up, he stood, and began to walk." The man's spiritual readiness, the quickness and eagerness with which he entered into the wonderful process, was certainly as great a miracle as the physical healing. It was not merely the man's poor body that was touched with life. "And he entered with them into the temple." He wanted to go there because his benefactors were going there, and he would remain with them. Also, he was a pious man, and felt that God's house was the best place for a man who had just received so great a blessing at God's hands. "Walking, and leaping, and praising God." His praise, which he was at ready to bring, lasted, we may be sure, all through his life. "How the cured cripple must have looked back many a time to that one great hour of opportunity which brought him healing and salvation!"

"Peter's Sermon"

"Peter the Ready was splendidly quick to take advantage of circumstances for his Master. As a crowd gathered around the restored cripple in the eastern cloister of the temple called Solomon's Porch, and as the apostle perceived the amazement of the people, he asked them why they wondered. Just such miracles were to have been expected, not because of any power in the apostles, for they had no miraculous ability, but because of Jesus Christ. Then he reviewed the glorious story, and cause they were the people who had killed their Messiah, but admitting that they had done it through ignorance. But they should have known better, for the prophets had foretold it all. They had much of which to repent, and the purpose of Peter's sermon was a call of repentance, that their sins might be blotted out."

"The Trial"

"The Sanhedrin, which assembled the next morning in the judgment hall, included Annas, the former high priest, before whom Christ was tried. Caiaphas his son-in-law, the high priest at the time, before whom Christ has a second and third trial, and other distinguished officers of the Jews. When the prisoners had been brought before this august company, they were asked by what power and by whose authority they had healed the cripple and taught in the temple."

"They Had Been With Jesus"

We are told (v. 13) that the members of the Sanhedrin marvelled at the boldness of Peter and John, especially in view of the fact that they were unlearned and ignorant as compared with the sages whom they were addressing; but they discovered the all-sufficient reason for the apostles' courage: "they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus."

Special Lessons

1. "Give of your best to the Master." Kindly deeds, sympathetic words, helpful ministries, skilled service—these do not exclude the gift of money, but they are better than silver and gold. 2. "The common round, the daily task, will furnish all we ought to ask." In the way of opportunities for service. 3. "I would not have the restless I ask thee for a present mind intent on pleasing thee."

Seeking for some great thing to do Or secret thing to know. I ask thee for a present mind intent on pleasing thee."

Miss Natalie Giddings of Chicago was declared to have the perfect radio voice in a test of 113 female voices in that city.

DAILY MARKETS

STOCKS HIGHER: NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—The stock market moved into new high ground today after a temporary flurry of selling based on the Interstate Commerce Commission's rejection of the proposed southwestern railroad merger plan. Early declines of 2 to nearly 3 1/2 points in the southwestern railroad shares were cut in half, and three scores of issues including a dozen called touched their highest prices in years, if not for all time, many of the gains running from 5 to nearly 20 points.

Wall Street apparently took the attitude that the latter merger of the Kansas City Southern, "Katy," and St. Louis-Southwestern was delayed, but not dead, and that a revised plan would shortly be forthcoming. Speculators for the advance especially chose line several months, continued to emphasize the ease of money rates and the maintenance of a fairly high volume of general business, finding support in the optimistic business forecasts of U. S. Steel Corporation and other steel executives attending the semi-annual session of the American Iron and Steel Institute of this city.

The opening sale of 7,000 shares of Kansas City Southern at 56 proved to be the lowest of the day, the stock closing at 57. The "Katy" and St. Louis-Southwestern issues showed only moderate net losses.

WOOL SELLING: BOSTON, May 20 (AP)—Western wools continue to sell at a steady price, especially choice line. Limited quantities of Texas 12 months wools are moving. Chicago offerings are reported to have realized 1.10; lots with good French combing and average strictly combed staple are bringing 1.05 to 1.08; secured Dials. Fair sized sales are reported on territory half blood 55-60s and 2-3 blood 55's strictly combed.

COFFEE EASY: NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—Coffee futures were easier today under near month liquidation promoted by the circulation of a few notices and talk of an easier tone in cost of freight offers. The general market closed 2 to 17 points net lower. Estimated sales 46,000 bags, closing market for the week ended May 12: September 11.65; December 11.25; January 11.20; March 11.00; May (1928) 10.94.

Spot coffee quiet. Rio 7 15 to 15.1-3; Santos 4 1/4 16 1/2 to 16 1/4.

HOGS ADVANCE: PORT WORTH, May 2

LEGION MEET OFF TO A FINE START

EVENTS OF DAY SCHEDULED AND MUCH ENTHUSIASM IS SHOWN

The machinery of Lubbock's first American Legion convention will be set in motion here this morning at 9 o'clock when ex-service men from over the Fifth Division of the Texas Department begin registration for the two-day session. Every detail of preparation has been given careful attention by the nearly a dozen committees that have been in operation for several weeks, and visitors are urged to take advantage of the city's hospitality.

Today's program will start in the afternoon at 2 o'clock following registration of all veterans, and consists of general entertainment that will hold sway throughout the balance of the day.

The west side of the square will be blocked to traffic during the afternoon to allow rendition of a specially arranged program of stunts and band concerts beginning at 2 o'clock.

A bugler will be in action during the two days recalling in a measure old times in "England," and those who might hold a grudge against such an apparently necessary nuisance in Uncle Sam's army are urged to lay aside this for the time for the bugler now is a rather harmless creature.

Mass call will sound at 7 p. m. Saturday, and all veterans in attendance at the convention are asked to gather at the Lubbock Hotel from where a caravan of trucks will leave to transport them to the scene of future activities for the night. The banquet will be spread in the judging pavilion at the Tech college, and will be followed by an entertainment program, one feature of which will be a specialty act by the Junior Cowboy band of Post, composed of boys and girls whose ages average ten years.

Tap will sound Saturday night at 11:59 p. m.

Oldtime Dramatic Clubs Recalled

CANYON, May 20 (AP)—Growth of the Little Theater movement in Texas has caused the veteran residents here to recall that the first dramatic club in the Panhandle was organized in old Tascosa in 1888.

Tascosa, now only a wind-blown sand hill in the eighties was the metropolis of the Panhandle and was made notorious by the tales of its Boot Hill graveyard.

Its strange population of cowboys, Mexicans and pioneers established a dramatic club almost simultaneously with the organization of the school district.

The one looks like a buck private, the other like some generalissimo from a light opera. But Chiang Kai-shek, ill-fitted uniform and all, was the supreme guiding eye of the recently victorious Cantonese forces in China. Admiral-General Pih Ahou-chen is in command of all the troops of the Peking government in the Shanghai district—which means he leads the retreat. And if it's by water he's an admiral, by land a general, because his title is "reversible" and may be used as he sees fit. Chiang has since broken with the Cantonese and has formed a new government.

"Live" Wires Are Worked Upon Now

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 20.—The demand for electrical service in South Texas has become so great that two of the public service companies in this part of the state have adopted a system whereby work on the lines is done while the line is carrying full 4,000 volts.

Installations, repairs and other work on the lines is done entirely with "hot sticks," short poles equipped with instruments at one end. The instruments are so delicately operated, that a man holding the other end of the pole can work almost as well as if he could put his hands directly on the wires.

The poles are made from especially prepared wood that will withstand a very high voltage. Work with the sticks is made possible by the fact that high tension lines are strung far apart. The big clearance obviated the danger of coming in contact with wires other than those that are under repair.

WHITE WIRE INSTALLED AT BROWNFIELD SQUARE

BROWNFIELD, Texas, March 20.—The city of Brownfield has installed a white wire around the courthouse lawn, there being standards erected at the corners of the lawn and also one on each side of the walks entering the courthouse yard. They present a very attractive appearance to the city's look at night and make it one of the best lighted towns on the Plains.

BROWNFIELD SHIPS LARGE AMOUNT OF CORN

BROWNFIELD, Texas, March 20.—With the corn season practically concluded, it is closely estimated that the Brownfield territory has shipped around 250,000 bushels of corn this season. The corn in the main brought from 45c to 50c per bushel.

Right-of-Way Is Donated For Road

Sufficient right-of-way to widen state highway No. 9, between O'Donnell and Lamesa to 80 feet in accordance with Federal specifications, has been donated by the Santa Fe railroad and the Texas Utilities company. It was announced at division offices of the highway department here Friday following a conference between Major Pettus Hemphill and officials of the two interested companies.

The railroad company is giving 25 feet for a distance of about four miles, and the light and power company is giving the balance. It was said, Lynn county has secured all necessary right-of-way, as has Lubbock county, and all is now in readiness for the caravan of tractors and graders now in a concerted program of regrading over the division.

Major Hemphill has submitted a recommendation to the state department on a route for a contemplated extension of highway No. 83 west from Lamesa to the state line, recommending that the route go due west out of Lamesa instead of angling to the northwest in the direction of Lovington. This shortening the distance considerably to Carlsbad, it was said.

Foreign Countries Want Many Items

HOUSTON, Texas, May 20 (AP)—Within a week wants of 27 foreign countries have reached Ernest L. Tutt, district manager here of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. They range, he said, from ambulances to carnival specialties, and include stove polish, sewing machines, radio sets, bicycles, imitation pearls, printing presses, washing machines, airplanes, accessories, soap, automobiles and motorcycles.

Denmark wants breakfast food, Canada asks for canned fruit and vegetables. Yellow and white corn meal is sought by Barbados; Java is in the market for flour with Brazil, Italy and Morocco. Italy and Morocco are also asking for grain wheat, Germany, East Africa, Denmark and Belgium need canned and dried fruit and Italy is looking for rice. Leather and leather goods requests come from Denmark, France, Sweden and Egypt. Brazil wants to buy gasoline and Egypt demands lubricating oil and greases.

The great favor of American goods is about the world, Mr. Tutt said, as indicated by the number of requests which he has on file for the benefit of Texas exporters.

Caroline Grubb of Junction City, Ky., has attended school 10 years and 5 months without being absent or tardy.

Mrs. W. A. Moss of Great Yarmouth, Eng., is the last woman survivor of the siege of Lucknow in 1857.

Japan's oldest man attributes his longevity to a diet of rice and silk.
