Heavy Rain Falls Past Two Days

Heavy rains Wednesday and Thursday in the Winters area put a damper on earlier plans for beginning of the milo harvest. It had been anticipated that combines would be entering the fields within the next few days, but the added moisture will set the beginning of the harvest back for several more days.

One and one-half inches of rain fell in Winters Wednesday afternoon, and by noon Thursday, 5.4 inches had fallen in the two-day period, bringing the total for July so far to 8.7 inches (unofficial).

Reports Thursday morning from north of the city indicated that that area was receiving heavy rainfall. It was not known how far the rain reached in other directions of the town. It was believed that rains had fallen in the drainage basin serving the Winters City Lake, and that the supply of water in the lake would be increased considerably. Heavy rains continued throughout Thursday morning in the immediate vicinity.

No reports of damage to grain or cotton crops had been received by Thursday noon, but farmers were anxiously scanning water-filled clouds. Prolonged and heavy rains at this time could be cause for heavy damage to the grain, and would make conditions more suitable for insects in the growing cotton.

Several pick-up loads of milo have already been brought in to local elevators, but were considered only test cuts, and moisture content was reported high. Several days of sunshine and hot weather will be needed to condition the grain for cutting, following the rains.

Some sources estimated that milo in the immediate Winters area would produce "from a ton up." Total production will be down, however, it was indicated, because planted acreage is smaller this year than last. Many farmers took land out of milo production in accordance with the government's feed grain program.

Cotton in the Winters area promises to outstrip many past years in production, according to many growers and observers. Most cotton here is growing good, and is full-fruited, with "a potential of three-quarters of a bale to the acre," according to some.

Total production should be above that of immediate past seasons, too, it was indicated. This is because of a new interpretation of the acreage allotment regulations, having to do with the "skip row" method of planting. Prior to this, the "skipped row" was counted in the overall acreage—now, according to farm agencies, only the actual cotton acreage will be counted against the allotment.

C. T. Parker, Runnels County farm extension agent, said there is evidence of boll weevils and boll worms in the cotton in this area, but that the situation "has not reached alarming conditions." This is because most farmers are watching their cotton closely, and are spraying more. Parker warned farmers to be on the lookout for these pests, and to "get after them just as soon as they appear."

VFW Working On Babyland Section Of Cemetery

Members of the Winters Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars have undertaken the project of cleaning up and maintaining the Babyland section of Lakeview Cemetery.

A group of VFW members met Tuesday afternoon at the cemetery, cleaned grass and weeds from the area. They planned to meet with the City Council to discuss the water situation at the cemetery. Water lines are laid to the edge of the cemetery, but distances are too great for all plots to be reached from the one water outlet, they said. They indicated they would ask the City to lay more lines so that water would be available in order to keep shrubs and trees which have been planted, watered. The local VFW post has planted many shrubs and trees in the Lakeview cemetery during the past several months.

J. A. Henderson, commander of the local post, presided at the regular meeting Monday night at the post home. The Rev. Edgar Graham, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, was elected to membership, and was named Chaplain of the post.

Mei Stanley, District 22 commander, met with the group recently, and set the 1963 membership quota for the Winters post at 145 members.

Present for the Monday night meeting were Max Lewis, N. D. Waggoner, J. L. Morrow, Claude Harrell, W. L. Collins, Ted Meyer, and the Rev. Graham.

Mary Young Named Outstanding Twirler At McMurry School

Mary Young, who will be the featured twirler for the Winters High School Blizzard Band next school year, was chosen outstanding twirler of the week at the McMurry Band School in Abilene. She was presented in a solo number at the first of two concerts held at the McMurry Stadium Friday night.

Miss Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Young, will be a sophomore student in Winters High School this fall. She was a junior high twirler for two years, before joining the Blizzard Band Majorettes last year.

At the McMurry Band school, Miss Young is not only taking several twirling classes under outstanding instructors, but is also a member of the flute section of the Concert Band.

Miss Young served as assistant business manager of the Glacier school annual last year, and was secretary of the Freshman class.

The final concert of the 16th annual band school at McMurry will be held Friday night, July 27, at 8 o'clock.

Several members of the Winters High School Blizzard Band have been attending the summer band school at McMurry. Robert R. Gans, director of the Winters band, has been on the faculty of the school.

Martin Gottschalk To Study German At Heidelberg

Martin E. Gottschalk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gottschalk of Winters, Route 3, an instructor of German in the Texas A. & M. College Department of Modern Languages, will spend August studying at Ruprecht-Karl University in Heidelberg, Germany, according to a news release from A. & M. College.

Gottschalk left Bryan Tuesday morning by bus for New York and will leave there July 28, on a special flight organized by Dr. Berg's Educational Travel Service of New York. After landing in Luxembourg, eight of the party, including Gottschalk, will go by rail to Heidelberg. Gottschalk will be in charge of the group.

At the university Gottschalk will attend a seminar for the German language with special lectures in German history and literature. It is designed for instructors and teachers of the German language.

Gottschalk is carrying blank tapes to Germany to gather material for conversational German, and he plans to record the voices of native speakers to use in his beginning German classes this fall.

Football Practice Will Begin Here On August 20th

L. G. Wilson, Winters High School football coach, announced this week that practice for the fall football season will begin on August 20.

There will be no overnight camp this year, he said, but instead a "day" camp will be held. Football team members will work out twice daily, and will take their noon meal in the cafeteria. Practice sessions will be held in the mornings and in the afternoon or evenings, the coach said.

The first week of the two-week pre-season practice session will consist of daily workouts, with more concentrated work for the second week. Two scrimmages have been planned against other area teams for the second week.

Coach Wilson said he will have 14 returning lettermen in the lineup for this year.

Winters High School will be in District 6-AA this year, in accordance with a change in districting. The local school has been in 7-AA for the past several years. One other school, Ballinger, which in the past, has been in the same district with Winters, also will be in the new district. Coleman is no longer in the same district with Winters, but will plan a pre-conference game against the Blizzards this year.

Cemetery Working Planned For Today At Fairview Cemetery

A cemetery working has been planned for Fairview Cemetery for today (Friday), according to Ralph Lloyd, who is organizing the effort to clean up the cemetery. The first planned working for July 7 was called off because of rain. Lloyd said that work will begin at 5 p.m. today, and urged all who have lots in the cemetery or are interested in cutting the weeds and grass in the area, to be present.

No water is yet available at the cemetery, but the City Water Department announced that lines should be completed within a few days. Work on laying the water lines was delayed because of wet weather, it was announced.

97 Winters Children Entered In Vacation Reading Club Here

Ninety-seven children in the Winters area have joined the Vacation Reading Club sponsored by the Winters Public Library.

Each child was urged to read twelve books before August 31, and are to receive a reading certificate from the Texas State Library in Austin. In less than three weeks nine children had read their twelve books, and by last Monday, 14 children had turned in their reading logs to the library. Some of these children had read their twelve books by July 1.

Reading certificates are being issued to Sue Armstrong, Mike Smith, Phyllis Smith, Bruce Smith, Jimmie Burnett, Mark Harrison, Jimmy Nevins, Jerry Nevins, Sherrie Loyd, Sylvia Moore, Becky Slack, Brenda Byrns, Kaye Graham and Helen Ruth Crenshaw. The librarian said that much interest has been shown by all of these children while reading in the Vacation Club.

New books are being added to the library each week. Among recent additions was a national best seller, "The Fog In The Attic," by Richard Hughes, an adult novel telling of the emotional climate in England and Germany after World War I. The personal narrative depicts a young Englishman who is buffeted by tragedy at home, then by a painful love affair in Germany. Against the background of Hitler's Munich Putsch, the book is the first in a projected series called "The Human Predicament," to end with World War II.

Public Meeting Planned Soon For Discussion of Street Paving Project

A public meeting has been planned for one night of the week of August 6-11, for the purpose of discussing any new street paving projects for Winters.

The definite date of the meeting will be announced next week. At the meeting, a representative of a street paving company will be on hand to answer questions from property owners who live on streets which need to be paved, it was announced.

Several property owners have indicated an interest in getting the streets paved in their particular sections of the city. One group on Cryer Street is definitely interested in such a project for their street, according to J. C. Eager, who lives in that section. He has been contacting residents in that area regarding such a program. It also was understood that several other residents are interested in a paving project, and the meeting is being called to obtain further information.

Mayor Harvey D. Jones, in making the announcement of the public meeting, said that much work remains to be done if any new paving is completed this year. He urged all interested persons to gather all necessary information regarding such a project, and be ready to present it at the meeting.

Paving companies recommend that all paving work be done during the summer months. Asphalt topping put on streets during the winter months is not satisfactory, they indicated.

Work should begin on repair of some of the paved streets in Winters within the next few days, Mayor Jones said. A representative of the paving company has been contacted and will make a survey of the streets needing repair and make recommendations to the council. Shortly thereafter, work will begin, the mayor said.

"because all councilmen are definitely interested in getting as much repair work done this summer that can be done with funds available."

Vacation Church School Ends At First Presbyterian

Winters All-Stars Dropped Game To Lone Star, Abilene

The Winters Little League All-Stars, in their bid for position in the Area 1 Little League tournament semifinals, dropped their game to the Abilene Lone Star team 5-1 in Abilene Friday night. The loss abbreviated any further play toward Area honors.

Jerry Awalt, Winters' pitcher, fanned nine Lone Star batters, while giving up three hits. Awalt also got the big Winters hit, a ground rules double which bounced over the rightfield fence.

The Lone Star pitcher allowed Winters only two hits but he walked three in the late innings when he appeared to weaken. He struck out only six while his opponent downed nine at the plate.

Winters Girl Scouts Returned From Stay At Camp Wood Lake

Six Winters Girl Scouts recently returned from a stay of several days at Camp Wood Lake, the Heart of Texas Girl Scout camp on Brownwood lake.

Girls from Winters, who joined campers from 19 towns served by the Heart of Texas Girl Scout Council, included Linda Rozmen, Kay Lynn Rives, Mary Wilkerson, Pauline Rozmen, Jill Matthews and Karen Smith.

Many new program activities were carried out at camp. Campers could choose the interest group that they wanted to participate in for the camp session. Each interest group was set up in progressive steps and girls earned awards in campcraft, boating, canoeing, sports and games, and sketching and drawing. Each girl earning an award will return next year to complete the next step in her chosen field of interest.

Many new program practices were introduced to supplement the year-round total education of the Girl Scout camper. One new feature that received top billing was the girls was the new swimming pool opened for use this year.

The purpose of an established camp is to provide a climax to a girl's year in Girl Scout training, to give girls an opportunity to have fun, to learn about camp, and to meet Girl Scouts from all sections of the Council.

The Heart of Texas Girl Scout Council was able to add new facilities and to operate Camp Wood Lake this year primarily from cookie funds, money raised by the Scouts themselves.

"Ten Companies Have A Very Bright Future if Research Trends Continue"

This is not an endorsement of "Growth Stocks." I do not recommend specific stocks in this weekly column; I will, however, discuss ten companies whose stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange that I believe have a bright future.

Office Equipment Companies

Owing to social security, retirement pensions, etc. many men and women who are now doing office work will retire within the next few years—with fewer replacements. This means there will be an increasing demand for machines to do office work now being done by these people—especially speeding up said work.

Among such companies I might especially mention the Addressograph-Multigraph Corp. and International Business Machines. I will also include Zenith Radio which hopes to get one million of its TV cabinets into the public schools, hospitals, and office buildings. I believe that TV will revolutionize teaching in our schools. Zenith Radio is also leading in color TV.

Camera Companies

These companies not only make a profit on the sale of their cameras and films to the public; but are also making large sales to the U. S. Government. Families are not content to own one camera, but each member of the family wants one. The family also buys the latest models as they come out.

Among these the Eastman Kodak Company stands out most prominently. The Polaroid Corp. is very progressive and has many valuable patents for the use of which other camera companies must pay royalties if they want to hold their trade. It is rumored that the Gillette Company has some plans along these lines, using part of the huge profits made from their razor business. All three of the above should profit from the constantly growing population of the U.S., which should reach 230 million in 1975.

New Building Companies

Although Corning Glass Works is best known for its "Pyrex" glassware, its great growth should come from new modern buildings. More glass is continually being used in new office buildings; while factories will appear as being built of all glass.

As new buildings of all kinds will need automatic heating, cooling, and ventilation systems the

Students May Earn More Than $600, Says IR Service

It isn't necessary for students to stop working this summer after earning a total of $600.

Ellis Campbell, Jr., Dallas district director of Internal Revenue Service, advised parents that it is possible to claim a son or daughter as a dependent on federal income tax returns even if they earn more than $600.

Campbell suggested that students contact IRS for needed information on how their parents can claim them as a dependent.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to the friends who were so kind and thoughtful during my stay in the hospital and since I have returned home. Especially to George Poe, Herman Baker, John Gardner, Dr. C. T. Rives and the nurses at the hospital for their services and care of me. My wife joins me in expressing our deepest appreciation to each one. T. A. Meadows, Itp products of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator may be in great demand. I could also include Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing in this general growth due to their ingenuity and new products. This company is known as the "Three M's".

Drug Companies And "Home Products"

The drug companies probably spend more money on research than any other group. Furthermore, they are on the verge of making some very wonderful discoveries in connection with DNA and RNA; two chemicals which may provide living cells. My first choice is American Cyanamid Company (which owns Lederle Laboratories). I also think that Bristol-Myers Company has good growth possibilities; and also Plough, Inc. of Memphis. However, perhaps the best of all is the great duPont Company of Wilmington.

My mention of "Home Products" in the above heading is because the American Home Products Co. has a very large sales force handling some products ordinarily sold by Proctor & Gamble which could also be listed here. These are two companies that should profit by inflation—toward which we are surely headed. Let me add the steels, coppers, oils and natural gas companies; yes, most companies with great natural resources.

Rely on Averages

This makes fifteen corporations in all which I believe have distinct growth possibilities. I suppose my readers would like for me to boil the list down to ten companies. I will not do this as so much depends upon the human factor of management which cannot be forecast. I feel, however, that some of the fifteen will turn out to be great disappointments, but no living soul can now tell which are the five that should be avoided.

This leads me to emphasize once more the great importance of diversification. Those who had their money distributed over a large number of established companies during the recent great stock market decline have nothing to fear. The dividends need not be cut and prices should hop back. In fact, I believe that the combined average price of the ten "lucky" stocks among those discussed above will some day sell for over $1,000.

State Capital Highlights

New State Office Buildings Will Be Named After Famous Texas Patriots

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

In an effort to "prevent confusion to occupants, mailmen and the public" when the second of two sleek, pink marble State Office Buildings on the Capitol grounds is completed soon, the State Building Commission renamed them after famous Texas patriots.

First State Office Building—generally referred to as "S. O. B. No. 1"—now is designated as the Sam Houston State Office Building; the second, called "S. O. B. No. 2", was named after John H. Reagan, first chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission and Postmaster General of the Confederacy.

LICENSING STUDY SCHEDULED

House Speaker James A. Turman named Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont chairman of a new committee to study operations of Texas' Examining and Licensing Boards.

Reps. Sam Collins of Newton, Ben Atwell of Dallas, Don Gladden of Fort Worth and Travis Peeler of Corpus Christi will serve on the committee.

Study group was set up to effect "an even greater understanding between the licensing boards and the Legislature," Turman said.

Objects of their research will be the 23 State examining and licensing boards organized for the purpose of testing every prospective practitioner of plumbing, law, cosmetology, medicine, barbering or hairdressing and 18 other professions and trades in Texas.

TEXTBOOKS PUBLICIZED

State Commissioner of Education J. W. Edgar sent a list of 203 textbooks, offered for adoption by Texas schools, to all county and independent school district superintendents, and recommended that the list be publicized so the public will know it's available.

Textbooks are those which the State Textbook Committee is studying for the 1963-64 school year. Number must be sifted down to 82 by October. This approved list then will be turned to the State Board of Education.

Between September 1 and 15, the committee will hear any objections private citizens may have to the books. Last fall, there were plenty of protests.

Major complaint was that the objectors didn't know which books were being considered in time to examine them fully.

STRONG VOICE SILENT

When the Texas Railroad Commission held its monthly hearing to determine the August oil allowable, representatives from the major companies and independents were heard, but the strong voice of Commissioner Gen. Ernest O. Thompson was missing.

As one oilman after the other went up to urge a low eight-day allowable, no member of the Railroad Commission challenged them. If "the General" had been there, he might have done so, but he was seriously ill in his home in Amarillo.

PROPERTY TAX STILL LOW

The State's Automatic Tax Board kept to the lowest legal minimum when it set the State ad valorem tax rate for next year at 42 cents on each $100 valuation.

Tax boards have kept the State's property "tax take" down to the minimum for several years now. It was up to 77 cents per $100

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson collected a $185,873 judgement from the U. S. government to cover cost of re-routing 3.7 miles of F.M. Road 184 in Coryell County, which the federal government wanted to develop Fort Hood.

Members of the Texas Water Commission and the Water Development Boards have been conferring with the Governor's Water Conservation Committee to map out plans for conservation storage if the Constitutional Amendment on that subject passes in November.

Attorney General's office received three contributions from independent oil operators this week to help defray the cost of directional surveys to locate illegally-deviated wells in East General Crude Oil Company donated $2,500. Oil Corporation of Houston and Vaughn Petroleum Dallas $200.

"The kitchen is a country in which there are always discoveries to be made," said a famous French chef. And, bride or matron, you've probably found that out!

To press dark garments, put a black cloth over your ironing board. This prevents dark marks from picking up white lint, saves laundry.

Just count the ways you use electric service every day. On the job around the clock, around the calendar—can you think of anything else that so much yet costs so little?

Here's another use for the spray attachment on your vacuum cleaner: use it to apply linoleum or asphalt tile.

Want to dress up that whipped cream pie? Run your potato peeler over a chocolate bar (almonds and all!) and make fancy chocolate curls over the whipped cream topping.

Freezing? Line casserole dishes first with aluminum foil. Be sure there's enough to fold over the top. Once frozen, the wrapped food can be lifted out of casserole, freezing it for other dishes. Put foil-wrapped food back in casserole for reheating. (Just a nickel a day keeps a freezer-full of food!)

Stews freeze very well. Freeze roast poultry unstuffed because of the danger of bacteria. Freeze pastries or meat or chicken pies unbaked. Undercook vegetables when adding to stews and casseroles so when reheated they won't have that warmed-over taste.

Your sewing machine needle won't stick when sewing plastic materials if you sew a strip of paper into the seam. When finished, tear paper; seam will be perfect.

Something to think about! It has been estimated that in the course of his lifetime an individual consumes 64,000 meals, more or less. And remember to plan, buy and cook 'em!

In the average American home electricity costs one day what it would take 228 hours to pay for. And you'll never run out of electricity, because your electric company plans and builds to meet the supply years ahead of the need. Do you see why we say electric service is the biggest bang in your family budget?

Eoff Family Will Hold Reunion In Ballinger, July 29

Jim Eoff, 85, oldest living descendant of the Eoff family who has attended all the family reunions, except one, since the reunion's organization in 1947 will be present this year when the group meets at the Ballinger Park on Sunday, July 29.

The first member of the family to come to Runnels County was the late John Eoff, father of Jim. He brought his family out to look at a piece of land he had bought west of Winters. There were no roads so he drove the wagon out over the vast prairie in the general direction of the farm. They moved here in 1898. A married daughter, Mrs. H. K. Reid and family followed in 1899.

Jim Eoff who had married back in Falls County in 1897 was the next to move. He brought his wife to Winters in 1900 in a mule drawn covered wagon. Their son, Dr. Dexter Eoff lives in Ballinger.

Next to come west in 1902 was the late Sterling Eoff, double first cousin to John. His late son, Alfred's widow and three sons, Ted, Pete and W. M. (Bud) all live in Winters. Ted is president of the organization and his mother has not missed a reunion. Sterling's only living son, Ely, lives at Tuscola.

There are many more members of the Eoff family living in Runnels County and throughout the United States.

Mrs. Jim Eoff, who is interested in genealogy, has traced the family history back to the time when the first Eoffs listed in the American Colonies were a widow, Magdalena Eoff, her son, Jacob, and his wife who came to New York in the German Immigration of 1710.

One of Jacob's sons was Abraham. He was the father of Isaac who was born in 1761, in New Jersey, about 30 miles from New York. His family spent most of their lives in South Carolina and Isaac served through the entire time of the Revolutionary War, part of the time under General Sumpter. He then returned to Chester County, South Carolina, and married Margaret Knox in 1783.

After Isaac's death in Coffee County, Tennessee in 1841, Margaret and her four sons: William, Alexander, Samuel and John moved to Arkansas.

It is descendants of these four sons who now form the nucleus for the present Eoff family reunion.

HEALTH LETTER

Suntans Not As Healthful As Has Been Presumed

It will arouse the wrath of sun worshippers, but this must be said: The healthful effects of a suntan aren't worth the time and trouble it takes to get one. After all, a sunburn—like any other burn—is a manifestation of a skin injury.

True, a sensible bask in the sun makes a fine mental pick-me-up, and there is no denying the supple appeal of a tawny lifeguard. But to overdo it can lead to trouble. In fact it can kill you. More than one person has succumbed to prolonged and unaccustomed exposure to the sun.

Even at best, overexposure can mean two or three miserable days when a mere shirt or blouse is torture, and a friendly pat on the back can end in murder.

The medical term for sunburn is "erythema solaris". It's the ultra-violet light in sun rays which does the damage. And since clouds don't remove all ultra-violet rays, it is possible to get burned even on overcast days in mid-summer.

Some people are physically unable to tan. Known medically as "heliophobes", they could spend the entire summer on Padre Island, and all they'd get would be blisters on their blisters. The reason: Their skins lack the pigment necessary to produce the tan tint. They never had a tan and they never will, so they ought never attempt one. Each new exposure will only mean a new burn.

Assuming you are the type who can tan—a "heliophilic", that is—the well-known rule about doing it by progressively longer exposure times is valid and should be followed.

Sunshine is a source of vitamin D, as most people know. What is apparently misunderstood is that ordinarily healthy people can get all the D vitamin they need through routine activities such as hanging out the family wash, mowing the lawn, or walking to the store.

For persons suffering from pellagra, lung tuberculosis, high blood pressure, or hyper-thyroidism sunlight may be definitely harmful.

In case you have wondered about the source of freckles, here's the answer: The color of everyone's skin is determined by the amount of pigment in skin cells. Dark-complexioned people have considerable, blondes very little, and albinos none at all. Under a microscope the pigment in skin cells looks like tiny flecks of brown paint. Sometimes, especially in children, it is manufactured unevenly and collects in the spots we know as freckles.

Ultra-violet rays can be filtered, fortunately, by smearing a thin film of olive oil over exposed skin. So if you're a heliophilic, and if you just have to have that golden sheen this summer, it might pay you to try it.

VISITED GRANDPARENTS

IT'S THE LAW—IN TEXAS

People often make gifts to youngsters and sometimes save on income and death taxes as well. The giver may set aside money for children until they become of age or until they need it.

But such gifts may be complex. For remember, there are gift taxes on the subject of the gift, and income taxes on the income from it.

1. The parent or guardian may want to keep control of the money. If they keep too much control, they may not complete the gift to manage. They cannot very well go out the window. The parents' control may allow them to take back the gift, and so it is not really a gift.

2. Property is hard for children to manage. They cannot very well make contracts or buy or sell the property. But it costs too much, as a rule, to set up a trust for each piece of property for each child.

And so to encourage gifts to children, the law has a simple way to make and administer gifts under the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act. This law applies mainly to gifts and stock shares.

This law creates the "custodian" with powers much like those of a trustee or guardian. He is often a parent-donor who manages the stock. He may reinvest or sell the stock for the child.

The custodian must act as a "prudent person." He cannot lawfully buy and sell the stock for his own benefit, nor can he be negligent. The gift can only be used for the minor's benefit, and for his support and education. The custodian cannot mingle his own property with the child's. After the child becomes 21 the whole gift or what is left of it must go to him.

In rare cases, the law may let a giver revoke his gift, as when he gave it in contemplation of the minor's marriage which did not take place. He may also revoke the gift if it was made as a result of undue influence or fraud.

Other ways of giving to minors are also fairly inexpensive. For example, one may create a trust for children which has tax advantages.

ternoon at the Bruce Webb tank. Pastor Bedford baptized Alex Baker.

"Hope Beyond Tragedy" is the subject for next Sunday's Sunday School Lesson. The scripture is found in Jeremiah 30: 18-19; 31: 31-34; 33:14-16. The following is by Amos John Traver—Judah was moving headlong toward destruction. Jeremiah warned in vain. He lifted his eyes from the heartrending scene to the throne of God. About him was no hope. A nation bound to destroy itself by its own sinful hand. In God there was hope. There would be captivity but a repentant nation would be allowed to return and rebuild Jerusalem and the temple. Hope then and now is in God alone. Diplomacy, might of arms are failing; lowering morality saps the strength of any nation. Jeremiah has a message as vital for A.D. 1962 as for 588 B.C.

The following is, in part, from the July 18 Abilene Reporter-News—Services for 2-year-old Alex DeDon Fincher, who died July 5 after suffering head injuries in a collision with a pickup truck in the driveway of her home near Girard were held July 6 at the Spur Methodist Church. You Will Need A 1962 License Through August

It's nearing the time when fishermen and hunters will need to purchase their new 1963 licenses. August is the last month in which the 1962 licenses can be used. Many people still haven't used up their vacation time, but probably expect to do so before September 1. When they finally take off on this long anticipated period of rest and relaxation, much of their time will be spent attempting to fill their ice chests with fish. J. B. Phillips, law enforcement coordinator for the Game and Fish Commission, reminds these people that even though the 1962 license will be good just through August, they will have to have one. Last month, 211 fishermen failed to buy the proper license and were arrested by game wardens. "Don't be one of those who will be apprehended by our officers in July or August," advises Phillips. "If you plan to fish during these two months, get that license now while you are thinking about it. The reason why most fishermen fail to have a license is simply because they wait until the last minute, and then forget it or decide to take a chance." In June, a total 289 persons were charged with violating the game and fish laws of this state. Of these, 68 cases were dismissed, 3 persons had their fines suspended one one was found not guilty. Fines and court costs amounted to $5,987.27.

Few resign from paying jobs.

LIBERTY VALANCE DELIVERS AN ULTIMATUM to the city-bred lawyer, played by James Stewart (left) while John Wayne stands by ready for trouble in "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance." Lee Marvin portrays the vicious Valance in the John Ford Production released by Paramount, due Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre.

MOVIES

"The Great Impostor"

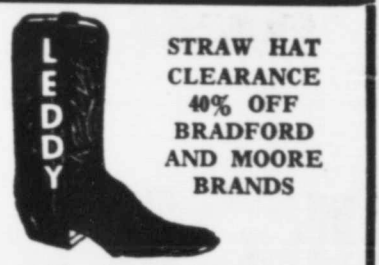

Not within many years has Hollywood come up with a tour de force to match the Tony Curtis characterization in Universal-International's "The Great Impostor," showing Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

He portrays Ferdinand Waldo Demara, Jr., the real life hoaxer whose amazing masquerades captured the imagination of the entire world and Curtis is seen in six separate impersonations.

Out of a total of 255 scenes in the production, Curtis appears in all but a mere handful.

"The Magic Sword"

"The Magic Sword," which shows Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre, through United Artists release, is based on one of the most popular themes in the history of both literature and art: the exciting tale of St. George and his battle with a fire-breathing dragon. For his Eastman Color production of the legend, Producer-Director Bert I. Gordon created a monster with two heads, breathing flame from two mouths and four nostrils!

"The Magic Sword" stars Basil Rathbone, Estelle Winwood, Anne Helm . . . and Gary Lockwood as St. George, whom historians believe to have been a real person, a hero of the Fourth Century's Crusades.

"The Children's Hour"

"The Children's Hour," ironically adult in its theme, shows Sunday and Monday at the Fiesta Drive-In Theatre, through United Artists release. It stars Audrey Hepburn, Shirley MacLaine, James Garner and co-stars Miriam Hopkins and Fay Bainter. Twelve year old Karen Balkin is introduced in the key role of the evil child whose lie causes tragedy in the lives of everyone it touches: the two young women whose behavior is questioned, the man who is engaged to one of them and the other girl whose emotions become subject to her own suspicions!

"The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance"

"The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance," a John Ford Production, starring James Stewart and John Wayne, shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre. Directed by Ford, a four-time Academy Award winner, the Paramount release co-stars Vera Miles, Lee Marvin and Edmond O'Brien and features Andy Devine, Ken Murray and John Carradine.

Stewart and Wayne join forces for the first time in their long and brilliant careers to create two strong, memorable characterizations: Ransie, a courageous, idealistic lawyer whose reputation as the man who shot Liberty Valance, although abhorrent to him, affords him the opportunity to win

Funeral Services Here Tuesday For Mrs. Dave Thomas

Mrs. Dave Thomas, 74, died in Sanford Hospital in Perryton, Texas at 6:15 Saturday morning. She and her husband had gone to Perryton to visit their son when she became ill and was hospitalized Wednesday.

She was born Martha Rowena Smith on March 9, 1888 in San Saba County. In 1913 she moved with her family to Lott, Texas. On September 16 of that year she was married to Dave Thomas and a year later they moved to Bee County near Corpus Christi. They remained there until moving to Wilson County in 1926 and then to Runnels County, settling in Winters in 1932. Mr. Thomas is a retired nightwatchman.

Mrs. Thomas is a member of the South Side Baptist Church and statehood for a western territory and fame for himself; and Tom, quiet, respected rancher and only person feared by Valance, who creates a legend and propels Ransie to fame—all for the woman he loves. Lovely Vera Miles plays the girl in their lives, a young woman faced with the necessity of begging help from the man in love with her for the man she loves.

"The Cabinet of Caligari"

As a tribute to the great all time silent screen horror classic, "The Cabinet of Caligari," 20th Century-Fox and Robert L. Lippert have created an unusual film based on new psychological theories and subliminal shocks. The CinemaScope view of a macabre world stars Glynis Johns and Dan O'Herlihy and shows Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Fiesta Drive-In Theatre.

Taking you on a haunting journey into the bizzare mind of a woman who undergoes a weird series of traumatic terrors, "Caligari" was penned by producer-director Roger Kay and Robert Block, who won fame for his writing of "Psycho." The authors have given the film a unique twist ending which is in keeping with the shock values of the daring subject matter.

"The Ladies Man"

Jerry Lewis again combines his four-way talents as producer, director, writer and actor for his newest Paramount release, "The Ladies Man," which has its return engagement Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Fiesta Drive-In Theatre.

County Farm Program Agency Since Establishment In '33

for the county office as it is their responsibility to set policies in conjunction with state and national policies, review work in progress and to determine that all programs are being administered effectively and efficiently. All of these men are to be praised for the fairness in their decisions and the dignity with which they have carried their responsibilities. Meade W. McShan has been serving on the County Committee since 1935 and John Onken since 1945.

Later the county was divided into twelve communities and three men were elected from each community and were called Community Committeemen. In 1948 the community boundary lines were redesignated and the communities cut to four. The boundary lines for the four communities are now similar to the precinct boundary lines. Each year a community election is held and three men and two alternates are elected to represent each community. A community committee meeting is held once each month at the local ASCS office and these men are brought up to date on current events, hear new programs explained and discuss problems of farmers in their respective communities. Since these committeemen are farmers themselves, they can carry this information back to their neighbors and fellow farmers in a language they can understand. In short, they are spokesmen between County Committee and farmer.

Although the Department of Agriculture has been in operation for one hundred years, the ASCS has been in effect for only a quarter of a century. Since 1937, only six men have held the position of county office manager in Runnels County. Those being in succession to Thomas Hill are Bob Persons, Joe Williams, Henry S. Carder, Sylvan E. Cloninger and W. R. (Buddy) Gray Jr. Gray is now serving in his eleventh year in this position. This office carries a great responsibility in that the office manager must keep the public well informed on all programs available through this office by means of newspapers, public appearance, newsletter, radio and committee meetings in addition to the general management of the county office, office personnel, field personnel and many other duties which are expected of him.

The number of employees of the ASCS varies according to the seasonal work. The employment has been as low as two clerks in the office and one field man and as high as 130 office and field employees. One of the present field men has thirteen years of service and another has nine years service. There are also two clerks with long-time service — one with seventeen years and one with twelve years.

There have been numerous programs administered by the local office since the farm program first started. Among some of the most outstanding and long remembered are the plow-up program in 1933 when farmers were paid to plow up cotton in order to reduce the surplus and in 1934 when cattle were killed to reduce the herds because of over-production that flooded the markets. Loans were also made to farmers during the depression to supplement the short income from crops.

During World War II, the county committee served on the tire ration board and the draft board. The rationing of lumber and farm machinery was handled through the county office. In 1945, farmers and dairymen were paid for the buttermilk in dairy products.

In 1949 came the cottonseed program when the Department of Agriculture bought the cottonseed direct from the farmer at a higher price than was being offered by ginners and in 1951 when feed was short due to the extended drought, the government shipped in hay, corn, grain sorghum and mixed feeds for the farmers and ranchers at a reduced rate. The Drought Emergency Feed Program continued through 1956.

The 1956 Soil Bank Program paid farmers to retire land from production. This program had a two-fold purpose — to reduce surpluses and to supplement the farmer's income which was short due to the drought. A part of this program is still in effect today. The new Feed Grain program was introduced in 1961 and is being continued today. The purpose of this program is also to reduce surpluses so as to prevent flooding the market thus causing prices to decline. All of the so-called "pay" programs to divert land from production is for the benefit of the farmer. If the market is flooded with over-production, prices will take a drastic drop; however, if producers reduce their crop acreage, it means they take a drastic cut in income. So, the diversion programs keep down surpluses, keep prices up and keep money in the pockets of the farmer.

These are only a few of the programs that the local ASCS office has conducted. Others are Emergency Conservation programs following floods and hail storms in Runnels County, Federal Crop Insurance and castor beans. The U. S. D. A. also erected one quonset hut and 10 round bins for the storage of government grain. These bins were erected on the Charles Dankworth farm southeast of Ballinger on the Paint Rock road.

The present day programs include the feed grain which is a diversion of land from the production of barley, corn and grain sorghum, allotments for cotton, wheat and peanuts, and the loan program. Loans are made on wheat, oats, barley, grain sorghum and cotton for both warehouse and farm stored commodities. There are also payments made to farmers and ranchers on wool and unshorn lambs under the wool incentive program. Assistance is given constructing tanks, terraces, elimination of pear, mesquite and underbrush, seeding legumes and grasses, deferred grazing and establishing irrigation systems. Until 1951, the ASCS staked and checked all tanks and ran all terrace lines. This work is now being done by the SCS — Soil Conservation Service.

The production and marketing section of the USDA has had many names, the AAA, CSS, PMA, ASC, ASCS and many others. Although the present name is ASCS — Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service — it is still referred to very frequently as the AAA or PMA. The office is located on Strong Avenue on the courthouse square in Ballinger.

Medicare Product Of 'Political' Marsh Land

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

Tempers boiled over in Washington last week, featuring outbursts from both President Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Freeman.

Casting himself in the role of a purger, Kennedy said he was going after the scalps of 21 Senate Democrats and 31 Senate Republicans who voted to defeat his socialized medicine bill. Ten of the Democrats are chairmen of Senate committees.

On the same day that the President drew a bead on the recalcitrant Senators Orville Freeman let go a very intemperate attack upon all who voted against the recent farm bill. Opposition, he said, constituted "the biggest piece of non-sense and contradiction that the mind of man ever conjured up."

Oldtime observers up here, who have seen them come and go, attribute this display of sour grapes to immaturity in the game and to the Washington heat which has been unusually severe the past week or two. Others think the President's broadside was caused by advice from some eager beavers on the White House staff who have been moping around for months trying to find an issue which can be used against conservatives in the coming elections.

In any event, it is admitted even by most Administration partisans that proponents of the Senate move were more interested in an issue than they were in passing a bill.

The Senate effort was defeated by a vote of 52 to 48. It is believed that if acted upon in the House defeat would have come by a much heavier majority. That is understandable because House members, being elected every two years, are closer to the people and usually more responsive to public opinion.

The Medicare Plan is bad for many reasons. It was conceived, born, and nurtured in the marsh lands of politics, and actually has little to do with solving medical and hospital needs for needy elderly people. It is frankly admitted by some partisans to be an opening wedge designed to eventually get the British type socialized medicine adopted in this country. Although increasing taxes by $2 billion per year initially, the proposal would provide no help on doctor's bills and the neediest would still have to pay $10 a day for the first 10 days in hospitals. The cost is exorbitant because being political, aid would be dished out to the rich as well as the poor, whether they want it or not.

Moreover, this political maneuver in the name of medical aid is made even more ridiculous in view of the fact that the Congress two years ago enacted a federal aid plan, covering both doctor and hospital bills, covering all needy elderly, and available to every state that is interested.

Like to fish for "whites"? Only a few short years ago the white bass (Lepomis chrysops or Roccus chrysops) was almost unknown to Texas anglers. But Mississippi River Valley fishermen had been familiar with this wonderful game fish for a long time.

In Texas, white bass apparently appeared first in Caddo Lake, then spread over the state.

Actually, these fish are direct descendants of the big saltwater striped bass. They adapted themselves to fresh-water conditions and thrived. Now they are found from the Great Lakes to Mexico, from Alabama through Texas.

Up to 5 pounds is claimed as a world's record for a white. However, no "official" record ever has been made.

This freshwater bass is a great scrapper. It strikes hard and keeps on scrapping until bated.

Whites are easy to recognize. They are a silvery color on back and sides, yellow white on the belly. Black stripes that are rather indistinct relieve the unbroken silver on each side.

Distinguishing marks are the medium long mouth set horizontally in a scaly, rather conical head. White bass fins are distinctly separated. A fairly high back along with a flat perch-like body give white bass even more distinction.

White bass like still, deep water with a sandy, gravelly bottom. Usually the species is found in medium and large lakes and streams—seldom in small streams or tank ponds.

During February and March (and sometimes as late as April and May) the white bass in Texas move upstream looking for likely spawning grounds in shallow flowing water. Lake whites seek shallow stream inlets, while river whites prefer the sand bars.

Eggs are laid among rocks or weeds in very shallow water.

No attempt is made to protect these eggs when once deposited, nor even to build a nest. The female dumps her eggs apparently with no maternal feeling. When the job is done, she heads for deep water as fast as she can.

Females have been known to lay over half a million eggs at one time. Once hatched, the young remain in shallow water until strong, then migrate to deep water.

In Texas most white bass are found in big lakes such as Buchanan, Inks, Granite Shoals, Travis, Corpus Christi (Lake Mathis), Falcon (on the Mexico border) and of course Lake Caddo, their point of origin in Texas.

Plant Root Growth Restricted By Compacted Soil

Layers of compacted soil just below tillage depth restrict or halt root growth by interfering with root penetration, not by restricting air or moisture supply from the roots, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports.

Scientists had thought that poor aeration or reduced water transmission rate in compacted soil might be the cause of restricted growth when roots reached these layers. However, the air and water supplies in compacted layers were adequate in experiments conducted by soil scientists of the Agricultural Research Service at Big Spring on Amarillo fine sandy loam soil.

Compacted soil layers are caused by passage of machinery across cultivated fields or by repeated tillage at the same depth. These layers, which occur on the southern Great Plains and elsewhere, are variously called plowpans, hardpans, tillage pans, pressure pans or claypans.

The test plots were artificially compacted in the spring with a farm tractor of road roller. Some plots were chiseled or sweep-tilled, leaving a compacted layer below tillage depth; other plots were not tilled after compaction. The plots were planted to guar, sesbania, mung beans, cowpeas or sorghum, all with similar root growth patterns.

The scientists found root growth was hindered only when layers of the soil had so much resistance to penetration (strength) that roots could not force a passage through two to eight inch compacted layers. In compacted untillied plots where soil strength measurements were 400 pounds per square inch or higher, root growth was severely restricted. In compacted tilled plots, with strength measurements between 250 and 400 pounds per square inch, roots failed to penetrate the compacted layer if the soil was dry but developed normally when the soil was wet.

Soil strength measurements were made when the soil was holding the highest amount of moisture it could contain under conditions of free drainage.

So common are white bass in most Texas lakes that it is not too far-fetched to claim that more than half of all game fish caught in the Lone Star State are of this species.

Schooling habits of the white bass, and the voracity with which it feeds, make for fantastic catches when the whites are running. Hundreds can be caught from one big school once it is located.

How do you locate a school of whites?

Most fishermen on the big lakes cruise about, watching for concentrations of feeding seagulls. Once such a flock is found, the fishermen hurry to that spot.

If bass are there the surface will be rippled where thousands upon thousands of gizzard shad are feeding. The white bass are just beneath, gobbling up the shad.

Often the bait is grabbed the instant the gold or silver spoon (such as a Dixie Jet), or an underwater spinning lure (like the Abu), starts flashing through the water.

Fishing then is fast and furious until the school moves on.

White bass may be found almost anywhere that food is plentiful.

On warm nights try fishing with small, live minnows. A Coleman lantern suspended over the water from a boat or dock, will attract bugs. Fish are drawn to the area by the light and the bugs that fall into the water.

Small fish, crustaceans and insects form the major portion of the white bass diet. However, it doesn't take a biologist to inform Texas fishermen that this great game fish goes all out for gizzard shad.

White bass seldom live longer than four or five years. However, they grow fast. They reach a length of 12 inches, or longer, in two years from the date of hatching. Such fast growth, coupled with a short life span, makes for quick population turnovers.

However, they multiply so fast that strict bag limits are not necessary. So fish to your heart's content for whites.

Bollworm Numbers Can Be Small But Damaging

The cotton farmer who thinks that low infestations of bollworms are not harmful may be losing considerable production to them.

Though small numbers of cotton bollworms may only slightly reduce the lint quality, they can cause sizable yield losses, explains Progress Report 2235, by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

When an average of 3.6 of the bolls were damaged, losses of 627 pounds of seed cotton per acre occurred in tests conducted by P. L. Adkisson, R. L. Hanna, and C. F. Bailey, of the Department of Entomology, Texas A. & M. College. These tests were conducted to determine the fruit damage and number of worms that can be tolerated before yield losses occur.

Recommendations usually suggest starting control measures when 4 to 5 young larvae are present per 100 plants because significant yield losses occur when 8 to 10 larvae per 100 plants are present.

Since young bollworm larvae are hard to find, control measures should be started when 5 percent of the young fruits are injured regardless of the number of worms present, according to the report. Relatively low percentages of injured bolls, if sustained over a long period, may result in yield losses.

Bollworm attacks on cotton can be severe, especially if the worms are allowed to destroy the bolls. In many cases the worms may not completely destroy the boll by feeding but they allow rot organism to enter the bolls which may cause a lowering of the grade, the report states.

To control the bollworm efficiently, insecticide applications must be started while the larvae are small.

Smith Drug Co. Is Member of New Druggists League

T. A. Smith of Smith Drug, Winters, a charter member of West Texas' new Independent Druggists League, attended the first meeting of that organization held recently in Abilene.

Known as I.D.L. Drug Stores, the group represents more than 30 independent retail druggists in the West Texas area. I.D.L. is a voluntary, non-profit association of retail druggists organized by Aylin Advertising Agency of Dallas, with the technical assistance of McKesson and Robbins, a wholesale drug firm serving this area. The purpose of the organization is to promote the interests of members by improving and increasing advertising and merchandising activities. The I.D.L. group is also planning a program of effective sales personnel training, and store layout and design. When necessary, even store location analyses will be made.

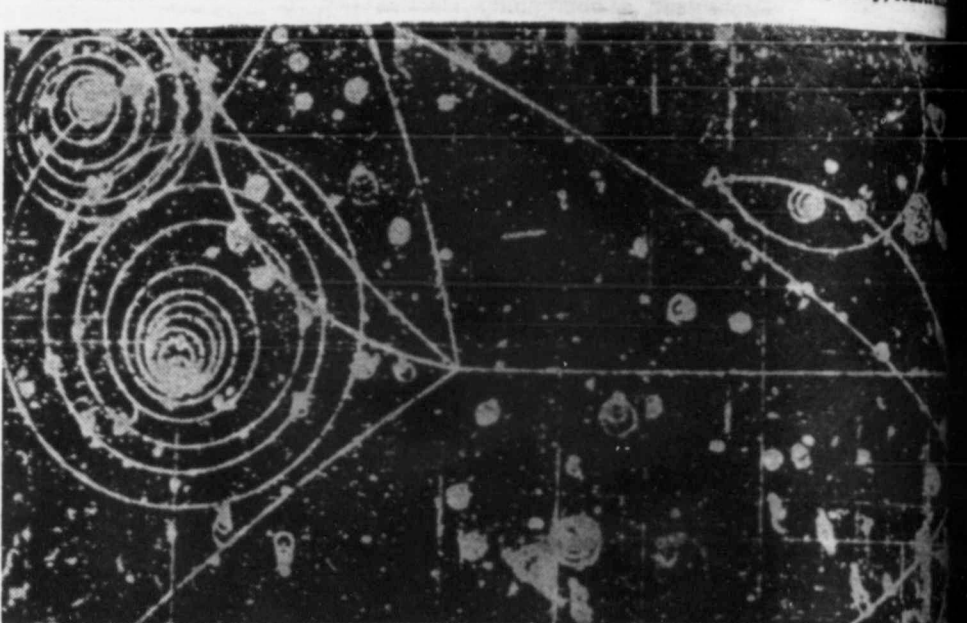

Members of the I.D.L. group elected an advisory board, and the following druggists were elected.
