WALANICHE VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

Only Two States With Total of Eight Electoral Votes Counted for G. O. P.

...voting and no unusual incident marked the general election in Terrell county Tuesday. Compared with the total votes in the primaries last Tuesday's count fell 134 votes short. In 1932, 577 exercised their right of franchise, while in the general election 443 votes were tallied, the difference showing that many voted a absentee ballot, and many others not bothering to vote on the proposed constitutional amendments. However, more interest is shown in amendments this year than in previous years, and the final count showed that all 6 amendments carried in this county. Over the state however, present results show that the amendment to give the State a liquor monopoly had been defeated, and that taking the power away from the governor had carried.

...Terrell county, in Tuesday's election, kept pace with the nation as a whole, and gave Democratic electors a 4 1/2 to 1 vote, as follows: Democratic, 325; Republican, 72.

...latest returns from the state as a whole gave Roosevelt 379,450, Republican, 50,339, while Lemke polled 12,560.

...Total number of poll taxes issued in county was 737. Following is the total vote in county by precincts:

BABY IS BETTER

Jackie Savage, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Savage, was reported as improving nicely Thursday of this week. The little fellow was rushed to San Antonio last Thursday for medical treatment of what was thought to be bronchial pneumonia, but was diagnosed at bronchial pneumonia.

State Fair "Rogers' Greatest Picture In Return Engagement at Princess

For those who missed it before for those who have requested to see it once more, the Princess Theatre will to night and Saturday, November 6 and 7, show that unforgettable picture "State Fair" brought by Will Rogers' his greatest fame.

The excitement, the laughter, the romance and adventure of the great state fair is reflected in the expressions of the Frake family as they prepare to depart for the next eagerly awaited fair.

Will Rogers (Abel Frake) has entered his prize hog, Blue Boy, in the stock competition, while Louise Dresser (Mother Frake) is looking forward to winning first prize with her pickles and mince-vent.

The children, Janet Gaynor and Herman Foster, anticipate adventure and romance at the fair.

As the fair moves through its exciting week many things happen to the Frake family. Love, humor and excitement are skillfully blended in the narrative and the film stands today, as when it was first released, one of the great pictures of the screen.

Campaign for The Red Cross Begins Wednesday, 11th

The annual Red Cross roll call will open here next Wednesday, November 11, and the Terrell county chapter is planning to do its share before the campaign ends on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 26th.

G. J. Henshaw, chairman, stated Tuesday that as yet he had not selected the workers for the membership drive, but hopes to have his appointments made and the workers in the field by the opening day of the drive.

Red Cross performance is necessarily gauged by the degree to which its work is supported by the public. When this year's membership campaign opens November 11, every adult of this and thousands of other communities will be extended an opportunity to join. The minimum membership fee is $1; the contributing membership $5; sustaining $10, the supporting $25. Regardless of which amount is subscribed only 50 cents goes to the National organization, the remainder being retained for local chapter work.

In this section alone the Red Cross spent millions when it came to the aid of flood victims in San Angelo and other sections when aid was most needed. While Sanderson has never been visited by a disaster of sufficient proportions to warrant Red Cross aid, we never know when such may befall us, and it is with this thought in mind that our citizens should respond to the roll call and join when the campaign gets underway next week.

Henshaw Buys Tailor Business; Whistler Leases

A deal was closed here last Friday whereby Judge G. J. Henshaw became owner of the Model Tailor Shop, owned for several years by M. P. Lester. Judge Henshaw, in turn, leased the tailor shop and the barber shop, which are located in the same building on Oak street, to John Whistler who, in the future, will operate both businesses. Mr. Whistler has for some time managed the barber shop, and at one time he and Mrs. Whistler operated the tailor shop.

Terrell County Has Enviably Health Record. Figures for Five Years Show

In an interview with Dr. W. H. Doty this week, the Times obtained statistics that speak well of the county's health record. Among other things it was shown that, for many years, epidemics, violent in nature, have been practically unknown. The statistics on diphtheria show that in five years only two such cases were uncovered, both of these being what is termed "suspicious". In the matter of typhoid, the figures are identical, during the five-year period—2 developed cases.

IS TRANSFERRED

Sergeant H. L. Richardson and family left the first of the week for Brooks Field, where he will be stationed prior to embarking for the Philippines, where he will be assigned to duty. The sergeant and his fine family have been stationed at the U. S. Airdrome near Dryden for the past three years, and it is with regret that their friends here and at Dryden see them leave.

LEASES STATION

Hal Rowlett, Sr., assumed management of the Border Service station Sunday morning, which he leased from Bill Lea who had operated the business for the last year. Mr. Rowlett, for some time, had been employed in a similar business, and is thoroughly experienced in every phase of this work. The station handles Texaco products.

MOVE TO NEW HOMES

L. M. Baze and family moved into their new home last week. The location is in the northeastern part of the city. The home is of English design, of stucco construction and quite an improvement to that section of the town.

COMPLETES COURSE

Andrew Henry, with the U. S. Navy, last week completed a six-week course in motion picture machine work and the Brooklyn Navy Yard, being among those in his classes making the highest grades. He is now stationed at Newport News, Va., and will later return to the West Coast.

TO VISIT HERE

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Mulkey of Decatur, Ill., are expected here Sunday for a visit of several days in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lowellen. Mr. Mulkey, who is a brother of our former townsmen, Abe Mulkey is enroute home from a visit in California.

28c FOR FALL WOOL

Joe Kerr, manager for the Sanderson Wool Commission Company, reports the sale and delivery to Jack Allison of San Angelo, buyer for the firm of Munro, Kincaid and Edgell of Boston, the company's accumulation of fall wool—165,000 pounds which netted 28 cents a pound.

Terrell County To Get Services Part Time Nurse

Word was received here Wednesday from the State Health department, stating that a part time nurse would be sent to Sanderson for one month's work in Terrell county.

Miss Ruth Moore, an advisory nurse, now at Kerrville, will be sent here, and was expected to arrive today, Friday.

Last week a petition was sent to the State Health department at Austin requesting the services of a nurse, this service being furnished by the State free. The petition was signed by presidents of the following organizations: Parent-Teachers Association, Rotary club, Culture club, Delphian chapter, American Legion post, American Legion auxiliary, also county judge G. J. Henshaw and R. D. Holt, school superintendent.

Terrell County Has Enviably Health Record. Figures for Five Years Show

In an interview with Dr. W. H. Doty this week, the Times obtained statistics that speak well of the county's health record.

Among other things it was shown that, for many years, epidemics, violent in nature, have been practically unknown. The statistics on diphtheria show that in five years only two such cases were uncovered, both of these being what is termed "suspicious". In the matter of typhoid, the figures are identical, during the five-year period—2 developed cases.

At present there is not a single case of scarlet fever, or scarletina in the county. Nor, as far as our health officers know, there is not a single case of measles.

Recently a few cases of mumps have developed, all very light, and precautions have been taken to prevent an epidemic along this line.

All of which speaks well for the County Health Officer, who has been active during the summer in obtaining the cooperation of county officials and citizens in a series of clean-up campaigns—a move in which the County Beautification club fully cooperated.

Dr. Doty informed the Times this week that a supply of diphtheria antitoxin and typhoid antitoxin was received by him from the state department of health.

"At the present time," Dr. Doty said, "there is not a case of typhoid or diphtheria in the county. However, anyone who desires their children immunized against these diseases, may have this service free of charge."

Eagles and Panthers Will Claw and Scratch Under Glimmers at Stockton

Tonight, at Fort Stockton, the Sanderson Eagles will have their second experience of playing football under lights, when they meet the Panthers of Fort Stockton in their sixth conference game. The Eagles' record to date is one win and four losses for a percentage of .200.

On paper the Panthers have the Eagles outclassed, and to date the Pecos county boys have kept a clean slate, with 3 wins and no upsets. Followers of the game in this district are picking Coach Parks' charges to win the championship this year.

Sanderson, on the other hand, has one of the sturdiest squads to ever represent this school, there is no letup to them, and in this year's squad there seems to be a nucleus for a team of champion caliber next year.

The Eagles will be handicapped in the game tonight by the loss of Bogusch, quarterback and ace slinger of the squad. Jack is still navigating with the aid of crutches due to an ankle injury. At end also, the Eagles may have to get along without Druce, who has an infected heel.

On the school page—page 4—will be found the probable lineup of the Eagles for tonight.

Those wishing to see the game can start late in the afternoon and get to Stockton in plenty of time. The pep squad in resplendent new uniforms are anxious to go over and root for the Eagles, so any making their trip having a spare seat, are requested to get in touch with the school and take one or more members of the squad.

Bob Kenny of San Angelo was a visitor here Sunday.

Mrs. J. E. Hill and children, Charles and Patsy, returned on Tuesday from San Antonio where they visited Mr. Hill's mother.

Milton Smith is in Del Rio visiting his mother and attending to business.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Franklin returned Sunday from New Braunfels where they spent the past week visiting with relatives and friends.

Ferguson Joins Ford Dealers to Huge Gathering to Detroit to See '37 Model

W. J. Ferguson, local Ford dealer, left Tuesday for Detroit, by way of Kerrville, where he delivered one of his cars to a purchaser in that city. From there he went by train going to Houston where he joined other Ford dealers for the trip to Detroit where, on Friday, they will attend a huge dealers' meeting.

This is the first time since the Ford Motor company was founded more than 33 years ago that dealers from all parts of this country meeting with Henry Ford, founder, and Edsel Ford, president of the company. The purpose of the meeting is the unveiling to dealers of the new Ford V-8 for 1937. The climax will come with the presentation to Henry Ford, in historic Greenfield Village of the 300-year-old Cape Cod windmill built by Pilgrims in 1633, once a landmark of the Four Corners at West Yarmouth, Mass.

The huge meeting will be held in the State fairgrounds. An address by Edsel Ford will open the program, followed by information on the new cars and plans for the forthcoming season, by W. C. Cowling, director of sales, and J. R. Davis, assistant. The new cars will be disclosed for the first time as they are driven into the coliseum and around the arena. A presentation of the new car features, demonstrated with the aid of giant models, will be presented in a setting designed by Walter D. Teague, noted industrial designer.

At the conclusion of this meeting the dealers will be taken to Greenfield Village for the ceremonies incident to the presentation of the Cape Cod windmill to Mr. Ford.

Column Right

Well, ladies and gentlemen, it's all over! Opponents of the New Deal got about the worst spanking in the history of presidential elections. And brothers and sisters, the vote on last Tuesday—positively—was not of the straw variety. It was old Vox Pop, in person, shouting from the house-tops, in recognition of a man who, in 1932, rolled up his sleeves and tackled the biggest fight a nation can face, a collapse of our economic foundation. A condition, if continued, would have seen the nation in the throes of disorder that would make civil war look like playing tin soldiers.

The vote of the people last Tuesday, we repeat, was in recognition of a job well done, and of the man who did it. It would not be entirely true to say that the people repudiated Mr. Landon. The fact of the matter is that they never even considered him. Truly, he has turned out to be the forgotten man. Time was when the American people were led to the polls where a vote was registered on the advice of vest-pocket politicians and demagogic spellbinders. Not so in this day and time. The records of the men in office is given much greater consideration than in former years. Take Mr. Hoover: the tornado struck while he was president, what did he do?

"He saw nothing, said nothing, did nothing. His reign was over the first time he came to bat. Any thing for a change was the popular sentiment. The result was F. D. Roosevelt, whose first act as the party's nominee was to throw precedent aside, and flew to the convention hall and was notified of his nomination next day instead of weeks after. He has been discarding other ancient precedents ever since in a most humane effort to bring the people back, not to prosperity, but to a decent standard of living. When, at re-election the people saw the Duponts lining up with Sunflower Alf, the people knew that these purveyors of ammunition and war instruments smelled war and, on the sly, were licking their chops over anticipated millions in profit from the slaughter of human beings. But the people by their vote said "No!" The last war was one too many. Let's stay at home and help Roosevelt in his "experiments"—they seem to be just what the doctor ordered—damn the expense, so we get results.

High school reporter asks what it means when a boy loans his bicycle to a girl. Well it means that the young man is getting ideas and the girl is getting a ride.

The illiterate Disgust, as a result of its recent straw vote has everyone disgusted, and admits that it's disgusted itself.

One can't help but admire the temper of the American people. For several months politicians have been calling each other every kind of a so and so, accused each other of every crime in the calendar. When the votes are counted they kissed and made up.

Before concluding we wish to correct an erroneous rumor. At the 11th hour postcards were sent to county voters requesting the defeat of two primary nominees. Cards were said to come from this office. Wrong as hell. The editor and force knew nothing of the move until they received the cards through the mail. If any more information is desired we voted for the nominees of the primary.

For election guessers our hats are off to Jim Farley and General Hugh Johnson. Jim said Landon would carry 2 states, Hugh conceded the Republicans four.

What weather! Ice cream temperatures, then rain, followed by a norther. We always argued the only way to travel in West Texas was with an electric fan, an overcoat and an umbrella.

Roosevelt's re-election sent all stocks skyrocketing—all excepting sunflowers.

The writer had a ten-to-one bet on the election. Never again! Between the straw votes of the illiterate Disgust and the orations of spellbinders via our radio, we were kept on the verge of the jitters—in fact we nearly had a "hissy" until the results came in.

What will we talk about NOW?

The room was nondescript and comfortable and Kerrigan in his shirt-sleeves by the window, turned his paper down as Hal came in, smiling a faintly disturbed welcome, and said: "Well, here we are. When d'you shove off for Santa Barbara?"

"In a while," said Hal. "She's seeing a priest who knows her brother—what's on his mind, how he is and all. You know her brother was dying. He is. That's why she's in a rush, bless her heart. She's going to call up as soon as she's ready. When do you have to be on the job, Colonel?"

"The End of the Trail," he said, his eyes barely lived for a moment. "No hurry. Any time this month."

"Colonel," said Hal, "if you got a chance to round up your collection of experience, how would you man in? Knife, I mean? Or gun? What?"

"Would depend," said Kerrigan cautiously, "why?"

"Interest," said Hal. "Interest. A bad poke, try something else."

"Look here," said Kerrigan, "do you mind if I ask you if you are making a fool of yourself?"

"No," said Hal.

"I don't like butting into other people's business," said Kerrigan. "The curse of the world is people trying to run other people. And I'm not asking you for fun or because I like to hear myself talk."

"I'm sorry, Colonel," said Hal. "I don't see why you should give a curse about my business, but I'm thankful that you do." He'd tell Kerrigan everything.

Kerrigan began soberly: "If you don't want to tell me what's happened, don't but Hal started at the beginning and told of every incident. When he finished Kerrigan simply said: "So what?"

"Nothing," said Hal, "only I'm going to keep my father out of this dirty mess if I have to—if it kills me."

"Out of what dirty mess?" Kerrigan asked.

Hall looked at him sharply for a hint of a joke. "I mean why is it suddenly dirty after Crack comes into it?" Kerrigan explained in a patient scholastic manner. "You knew she was married. Who did you expect her husband to be?"

"I didn't expect him to be a stealthy, pale louse of a man, always watching us, making his plans while his—his girl got a prospect ready."

Kerrigan said "Oh," lifting his head in slight, ironic comprehension. "She made you come to her room last night?"

"No," said Hal, defensively.

"As a matter of fact she asked you not to."

"Yes, but—"

"But when you came she did not keep you out. When you were inside, she didn't do the perfect? ly natural thing—throw you thru the window or scream for help—that it?"

"When that lazy spider came in and locked the door," said Hal. "When he stood there as if he owned her, as if he had me backed into a slimy corner where he wanted me, she never said a word, she never made a sound, she went over and sat on the bed and stared in the corner, and I don't believe she even listened. G—d, Kerrigan, d'you think I wanted to believe it?"

"Believe what?" said Kerrigan, still graily waiting. "Mind telling me what this 'it's' you didn't want to believe?"

Hal curbed his miserable exasperation. "I didn't want to believe what I had to believe—that she didn't mind her rotten little husband's catching me! I didn't want to believe that it meant more to her to keep her promise, her rotten bargain with Crack—much more than—to—"

"Hal," said Kerrigan in an unmoved patience of voice that left Hal's insurgent anger dangling. "haven't you thought back? Have you thought what you've a right to think? I tell you you should sound as tho you were talking just to hear a noise, sticking up for what you did just because you did it."

"Stick up!" said Hal leaning forward to look at Kerrigan from under drawing incredulous brows. "What the devil d'you suppose I have been doing for a day and a night except thinking back? And what?" he jerked his head aside and a sound of exasperation was breathed in his throat. Think back! As if he needed to, supposing he could. Coming back from Santa Barbara he'd think—and find his rightness twice as strong.

Kerrigan said, politely, "Will you listen to me a little longer?" and waited for Hal to answer.

"Certainly," said Hal, with an ironic inclination of his head.

"She made no secret of being married?"

"No," said Hal. "That wasn't so stupid either."

"Did she ever want you to let her alone, ask you to make up your mind to separating—here?"

"Yes," Hal agreed readily. "And of course it was to be expected. I'd do it right away—especially after she told me she cared for me."

"Mm," said Kerrigan. "Telling you she loved you made it harder for you; but your telling her shouldn't amounted to—"

"The point is," Hal interrupted in listless quiet, "she never did care."

Kerrigan started into something vigorous, but he took palpable hold of himself before his breath was fully drawn. And his voice was leashed to some fragile stanchion of patience as he said: "All right, she didn't care. But it's not impossible to think of somebody in her place who wouldn't. Take another girl, then, with a built-in feeling about promise to her dying father. She's got warm, quick blood in her veins, not New England spring water. She falls for a fella as she never expected to—a fella in just your position. She wants to find some way out for both of them, and she wants to keep him out of harm. But she isn't any more super-human than she should be; she made of flesh and feeling, weakness and desire; not billiard-ball composition and missionary tracts. How would you have that girl behave?"

"I s'pose she should've told you it was Crack she was tied to at the beginning. That would have made everything simple, wouldn't it? You could have wrung his neck in Iowa somewhere and gone to jail with the happy knowledge that you'd made everything perfect for both of you."

"I couldn't have bought him, could I?" said Hal, his hot tone just off trembling. "Wringing his neck would've been the only thing in the world to do."

"Sure you could have bought him," said Kerrigan. "And he'd have stayed bought, too—never bothered either of you again. You you could have bought him, and a dead man's dread of shame and a last promise of love and care and teaching. And with all that bought and paid for, she wouldn't feel that somebody'd shoveled dirt all over her in a thing she wanted to keep decent."

"She's certainly kept nice and clean this way," said Hal, with a half laugh that somehow turned its taunt back on himself.

"Of course, it's she that's done everything," Kerrigan agreed. "To her this thing was all like the plot of a book she'd just finished; she knew what was going to happen; no excuse for her making any mistakes. Human being don't make mistakes." Hal drew breath to interrupt, but Kerrigan tightened his calm as he went on. "You remember the time when we three were at lunch somewhere, and she asked you if you were Frederick Ireland's son?"

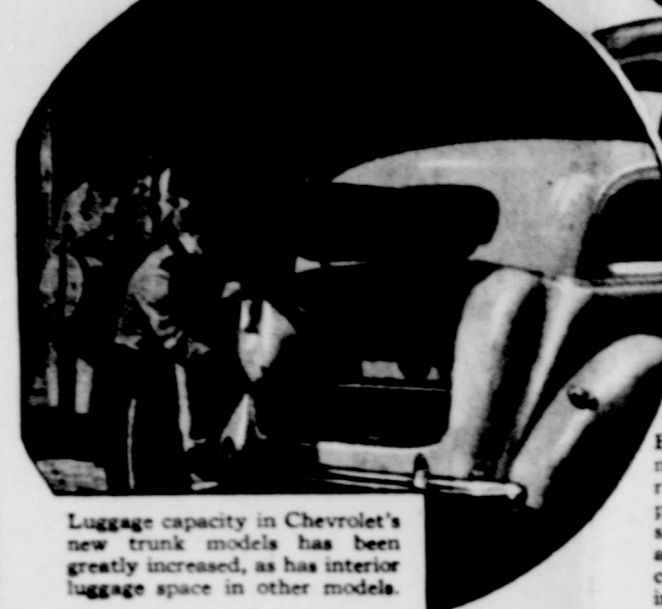

"Oh, yes," said Hal drily, "and there was some special innocent reason why she wanted to know, too. I remember."

"You told her you were Ire-

Performance, Beauty and Safety Mark Chevrolet's Completely New Cars

Chevrolet's 1937 engine is completely new, but adheres closely to time-proved Chevrolet engineering principles. It is of six-cylinder valve-in-head type, smoother, more powerful, more economical, and lighter.

Luggage capacity in Chevrolet's new trunk models has been greatly increased, as has interior luggage space in other models.

Beauty and utility mark the new Chevrolet instrument panel. The windshield is of greater area, with narrow corner posts, affording better vision.

A representative model from Chevrolet's new line, typifying its beauty and grace—the Master De Luxe Sport Sedan with trunk. Note the distinctive "speed line" extending back from the side of the hood.

Unisteel construction joins the floor, cowl assembly, panels, and Turret Top of Chevrolet's all-steel, all-steel body, to form one integral structure, welded in all joints, and reinforced and braced for permanent silence and safety.

New power, economy, durability, safety and comfort, coupled with striking new beauty, characterize Chevrolet's new models for 1937. They are offered in two series, Master and Master De Luxe, virtually identical in appearance.

Chevrolet's fully-enclosed Knee-Action is furnished at no extra cost on the Master De Luxe models; and new Synco-Mesh transmission, and safety plate glass all around at no extra cost, feature all models of both series.

It Happened in Sanderson TEN YEARS AGO

This Week—Remember??

(From Times, November 5, 1926)

The general election in Terrell county last Tuesday passed off quietly. Most all of the county offices were won by small majorities. Around 400 votes were cast.

Mrs. Alfred E. Creigh, Jr., and son visited her mother, Mrs. John Craig, in San Antonio this week.

Mrs. Clyde Griffith visited in San Antonio with friends this week.

Mrs. J. M. Turner of Alpine is visiting her son, Madison, and family this week.

land's son. Did she ever show any sign of thinking you lied to her?"

Blandly Hal shook his head and said: "Quite the opposite."

"So then she told Crack you were Ireland. That's what made it so easy for you to bluff Crack, I s'pose."

Hal was scared then and he knew it; but there still was the necessity of getting away whole from the room before he beat down these swarming of fear.

The chill in Kerrigan's voice began to warm ominously new as he went on: "You come into Barry's life with enough sense—after a while—to know what she is; lovely as morning, brave as a bullet, honorable as a sword, chaste as water. You have the criminal luck to make her fall in love with you—the one thing that could happen to make her life about ten times harder to handle."

"What do you think about then? About the help you can give her? About the way you can bring her to her happiness, as well as yours? About the honor and consciousness and courage that's in her even to try and fight a thing she'd go to hell to get? No! You think about how unfair she is to you. You think you ought to walk in and wipe out twenty years of her father in one week, with the honor of a last promise to boot. You think she ought to see that your happiness is all that counts, all that makes the world fit to grow little apples in."

"She puts up with that—for the only reason under God's sky there would be for putting up with it. And you drive ahead between your blinders till you drive on to the last edge of the one thing she hoped would keep you out of. And when that happens what do you do? Like a shot you leave her in a stew. Ireland, you ought to lay down on that floor and die."

EYESTRAIN EASE
Illustration of a man reading a newspaper.

Light Meter diagrams showing scales for foot-candles and temperature.

The Light Meter Tells Why!
BOTH of these men have normal eyesight. The seeing task is the same. The difference is the amount of light falling upon the papers. The Light Meter shows that the man at the left is straining his eyes under less than five footcandles of light... while the man at the right enjoys comfortable reading with better than 30 footcandles.
Now, thanks to the world's largest research laboratories, the lighting in your home can be measured as accurately as a thermometer measures temperature! Held under your reading lamp, the scientific new Light Meter tells instantly how much light you are getting and how much light you need for seeing without eyestrain.
We'll be glad to make a Light Meter check-up of the lighting in your home without cost or obligation to you. Just phone for an appointment today.

HOLIDAY

Well, here we have a holiday right in front of us—next week. Of course I know that you all know which day I'm speaking of. It is none other than November 11, or Armistice Day.

Just eighteen years ago on this day civilized men were fighting and slaughtering each other, and then when the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month came, the fighting ceased, and an armistice signed. These men were happy, we were happy, the whole world was happy. So, why shouldn't we be as happy now as then. I know the school children will be happy and am almost positive the teachers will be, too. Incidentally, we play the Alpine Bucks at Alpine on November 11. We hope that Jack will be able to play in this game, but it looks doubtful. Maybe something will turn up and Jack's ankle will heal automatically. The pep squad will probably accompany the boys to Alpine and we hope that Sanderson is well represented.

Teeth of Students Are Examined

Dr. A. E. Robertson of Fort Stockton, cooperating with the P. T. A., gave free dental examinations to 74 high school pupils and 32 pupils in the seventh grade last Thursday. He returned yesterday and examined pupils in the grammar grades.

He examined the students for defective teeth and instructed them as to the care and attention the teeth should have. He cautioned them about waiting too long to have cavities filled or bad teeth extracted. If a student had good teeth they were so informed and also advised on how to keep them that way.

A report was made on the periodical health record of the dental examinations and this report is kept on file.

H. E. News

By Sarah Kelly

From projects the Home Economics girls have raised $52.62. The three projects were the Presbyterian Auxiliary lunch, the Rotary club banquet, and the Nudist colony at the P. T. A. carnival. The club is very proud of the money because of the fact that one objective of the club was to raise $50 during the year.

With this money they plan to go to the Home Economics Rally in the spring.

The club held a round table in the department at 12 o'clock Tuesday, November 3. Each girl brought her own lunch. They spread the lunch and all ate together. This was the form of club meeting for the week.

FIFTH GRADE

Edward Kerr and Margaret Pierson won Halloween prizes given by the P. T. A.

The fifth and sixth grades took part in "Casa Manana" Halloween night by singing "Home on the Range," "When the Cactus is in Bloom," and the fifth grade boys sang "Hinky Dink, Parley Voo" for the "Cavalcade."

Margaret Ruth Yeates won the show ticket for the highest average in the fifth grade.

Harold Haynes, Caroline Bodkin, Aleene Keene, Edward Kerr and Catherine Nell Nance have been absent on account of illness, but all are back now.

Dr. Robertson is Guest Speaker at Monthly Session

Dr. A. E. Robertson of Fort Stockton was guest speaker yesterday afternoon at the November meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, held in the high school auditorium. Dr. Robertson has spent two days in Sanderson giving free dental examinations to the pupils in grammar and high schools. Mrs. A. D. Brown was leader of the program on the subject "Friendliness."

Miss Louise Taylor directed the fifth grade in special music, part of which was presented last Saturday night in the "Casa Manana" show at the P. T. A. carnival. General features of the program were a musical number by the third grade, association business, and the taking of room attendance by Mr. Bernie Morgan.

Dr. Robertson's talk was part of the main program as well as Mrs. Brown's discussion on "What Characteristics are Developed Through Friendliness."

The high school band furnished opening music.

Library Material Suitable for All

Nobody at all has any excuse for idleness in the study hall these days.

With new magazines coming in every week, the person who sits and stares and gets himself into trouble has it coming to him. If he has a news or sports complex, or likes being in on the affairs of the world, he can supplement his radio news with that of the columns of News-Week, Time, or Review of Reviews. If he likes just looking, what's wrong with the National Geographic? For reading around, almost anything, there's the Saturday Evening Post and Pictorial Review. And for girls, thanks to Miss Wade, there's Vogue—there isn't any better guide to chic correctness. (Try the magazines once. We like for people to use our library.)

National Book Week—November 15-21.

Volleyball Girls Getting in Shape For New Season

The volleyball girls have been practicing regularly every Monday and Thursday after school. Mrs. Ulbricht, their coach, comes out coaches them at every practice period. No definite games have yet been scheduled. How-Marathon wants four games, and Fort Stockton wants a few games, it was reported by Mr. Holt. As soon as they practice a little and divide their team, they will be ready to play anybody. Come out and help these girls, and encourage them by attending their games. It helps them to do better (they say).

They will be at a disadvantage in their first game on account of the new rules made this year. It may be they'll do better with the new rules. Think so? Come out and see if they do, and learn the new rules.

THIRD GRADE

Wouldn't it be funny if—Joan were Anderdaughter instead of Anderson?

Marilyn were Whitewelder instead of Blackwelder.

Gene were Earforest instead of Earwood?

Allister were Dishwoman instead of Dishman?

Tom were Mountain instead of Hill.

Harry were Blue instead of Brown?

Bill were Cannibal instead of Savage?

Clara were Horn instead of Bell?

Charles Daniel's birthday was enjoyed by the entire class Monday afternoon. His cake was pretty on our table, and tasted fine. Happy returns of the day, Charles.

Billy Dyal won the show ticket in the third grade this month.

THE HISTORY OF SCIENCE

By Ethel Breg

The questions "why?" and "how?" probably have been asked more times in the history of the world than any other. The name science comes from the Latin word "scio," meaning "I know"; therefore, the scientist is the one who knows what he knows thru experience.

Until modern times, the general term "Natural history" was in common use to describe the study of all life, whether plant or animal, while "Natural philosophy, or physics, included all inorganic phenomena. As scientific knowledge increased, a more close classification became necessary. Today, the sciences are divided and sub-divided, and a student often specializes in a single sub-division of a science, while possessing only a general knowledge of the broader subject. There are 36 sciences, while there are twenty-six pseudo sciences.

Pseudo-sciences are the beliefs and practices of people. The pseudo-science arose as ambitious attempts to explain the unseen spirits of the world. They proceeded from rather vague notions to systematic conceptions; their logic is weak, and involves a confusion of wish and fact, of imagination and reality.

Some of the pseudo-sciences are Faith cure, Horoscope, Hypnotism, Magic, Mind-reading, Astrology, Trance and Witchcraft. A common motive of these pursuits is the control of personal fortunes by guessing the secret of its source; more directly, to read the signs of qualities and fate in the appearance of nature and of the human form.

Pep Squad Plans To Attend Game

The pep squad girls held a meeting after school Monday at 4 o'clock in the study hall. They discussed ways of going to Fort Stockton. They plan to make the trip over there to help the football boys who will play there tonight (Friday). The girls have their new, bright-colored suits ready for the game. They are all ready and willing to make the trip if they have a way of riding.

Anyone who has an empty back seat in their automobile, are requested to please take as many of the girls as you can. Elizabeth Brown was selected to assist Mildred Underwood in finding ways to make this trip. The school will appreciate the kindness of anyone who will furnish a car to carry the pep squad.

FIRST GRADE

The first grade thoroughly enjoyed Halloween. The past week they made masks, used other appropriate subjects in art, and read Halloween stories. They enjoyed acting as slavery time pickaninies in the Cavalcade of Texas at the carnival. Bobby Dyal's mother gave the class a lovely treat by serving orange suckers which were dressed as Halloween dolls.

Bobby Dyal and Jeanette Cobb won the free tickets in the Halloween contest on costumes for the parade.

Billy Carter, Clarice Breg, Ann Mims, Wanda Hickey, Willo Ethel Kelly and Ruth Anne Kelly all brought flowers to the room.

Jeanette Cobb, Carrie Marie Turner, and Joe Mussey were absent last week on account of illness.

Ora Mae Blackwelder brought a bird's nest to school.

Bobby Dyal brought a piece of a meteor to school.

Mrs. Chastain and Mrs. J. R. Blackwelder were visitors to our room last week.

FOR DEBATE

The debate question of the Interscholastic League this year is: Resolved, That the government take over the manufacture of munitions. The members of the public speaking class are beginning their study of this subject and are using bulletins prepared by the University Interscholastic League in Austin on this subject.

As preliminary work the class is taking up special phases of the subject now and each member of the debate class gives two speeches a week on some particular phase. Miss Margaret Martin is instructor of the public speaking class.

Have you noticed that Jack gets to sit with the teachers? Enjoy it while it lasts, Jack.

The seniors always get the lucky breaks, no matter where. Just wait until we are seniors. Just wait!!!!

Did you know? (There's a fortune teller skipping around here). Leave those cards at home, Miss!

If any one brings any shorthand notes to you just be a good sport, Miss Childers, and don't read them (out loud).

Why don't the girls like the new volleyball rule? It is like a hit-and-run driver if you leave the run out.

Ten Per Cent of Pupils in S. H. S. Average A Grade

According to a recent survey by Superintendent R. D. Holt, 10% of the Sanderson high school enrollment had a scholastic average of A at the end of the first six weeks. The averages were computed on the basis of 80, the number of pupils receiving grades for the six weeks.

Other percentages were 41% of students enrolled with a B average; 40% with a C average; 8% with a D average, and 1% with an F average.

Four students in high school made a straight A card. The report further states that seven pupils failed in one subject; 9 pupils failed in two subjects, and six students failed in three subjects.

Two boys and six girls made an average of A (90-100); sixteen boys and 17 girls averaged B (80-89); 9 boys and 13 girls were of C standing (70-79); 4 boys and 2 girls had a D average (60-69), and one pupil had an F average (below 60).

P. T. A. Realize Nice Total From Annual Carnival

The gross proceeds of the P. T. A. carnival held last Saturday night totaled $171.00. The cost of the carnival had not been ascertained at this writing.

Mrs. E. W. Hardgrave, president of the organization, and Mrs. C. L. Surratt, first v-president, were in charge of general arrangements, and were assisted by committee chairmen from the personnel of the association, as well as by the teachers of the Sanderson schools.

The carnival is an annual Halloween occasion and this year the theme was in Centennial style. A "Casa Manana" was staged by members of the first five grades, and "Cavalcade" was staged by members of the seventh grade and high school. Miss Vera Wade, Miss Louise Taylor and Miss Martha Anderson were in charge of "Casa Manana," and Miss Bessie Chyle Leath and Miss Margaret Martin were in charge of the "Cavalcade of Texas." Miss Hazel Ray Owen was assisted by Mrs. C. L. Chastain in the Ripley "Believe it or not" booth.

Miss Lucille McWhorter was the fortune teller. The home economics club of the high school was in charge of the Nudist Colony, and the kissing booth. The Eagle football team sponsored pitching games and "Beano." They were given 50% of the proceeds.

Other committee chairmen were Mrs. S. H. Underwood, candy; Mrs. C. I. White, popcorn; Mrs. Clyde Higgins, Halloween novelties. D. L. Duke presided at the "Beano" stand and Coach Duane Smith supervised pitching games.

Chili, hamburgers and sandwiches were sold from the kitchen booth. E. W. Hardgrave and Clyde Morris were in charge of grounds and lighting.

Crackers served at the kitchen booth were furnished by the Brand Cracker Co. Other complimentary commodities were the coffee by the Duncan Coffee Co., buns by the Fair Maid Bakery in San Antonio. Kerr Mercantile Co. and the Sanderson Mercantile Co. contributed to the success of the carnival.

A traditional parade of grammar school children in Halloween costumes began the carnival at 5:30 o'clock. Prizes were given to pupils of each grade wearing the most attractive costumes.

ASSEMBLY

Eagles to Battle Panthers Eleven Tomorrow Night

The Sanderson Eagles will soar over to Fort Stockton tonight and play the Fort Stockton Panthers under the lights. This will be the second game for the Eagles under artificial light. Their first night game was that with McCamey, which the Badgers won by a score of 31-6. In these night games a white football is used and it can be cleaned just like your white shoes.

This game was originally scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 7, but was changed to the 6th, because of an interscholastic rules prohibiting two games to be played within five days of each other. The Eagles are scheduled to play Alpine on the following Wednesday, November 11th.

Our boys have been working hard this week and go to Stockton with victory in their minds this evening. Jack Bogusch will not be able to play, and Druce may be out of the game if an infected heel does not show lots of improvement.

The starting lineup for tonight will be J. Allen and Druce, ends; Kerr and Loehausen tackles; Appel and Billings, guards; Pat Sullivan center; E. Haines, quarterback; R. Fierro, right half; Dishman, left half; Short, fullback. Other members of the squad who will make the trip are B. Allen, Canon, Carpenter, R. Chandler.

—sHs—

The Snooper

Mary Beth seems to be having a good bit of fun lately with "Shorty" Short.

Even if Jack Bogusch is on crutches he has lots of admirers to carry his books.

Rosa Mae Clark owns up to sitting on the floor and crying in order to get what she wants or have her way.

Making finger prints on the blackboard in the English room seems to be a habit of John Fisher Charlton, James Allen and Pat Sullivan.

There seems to be a few things missing after all the Halloween pranks, but maybe they will be put back before long.

One doesn't have to worry how nice the students are in the SHS., because practically all of them are Democrats. Boys and girls, don't you wish you could vote?

How many groups of "kids" were out Halloween night? Nobody knows—so far!

Watch out Prince! Prince Dishman is always sitting in the wrong seat. He had better make sure they are empty before being seated.

Did you see the Senior ghosts Halloween night? Even Miss Martin and Mrs. Joe Kerr were a puzzle to identify.

Jimmy Goodykoontz had better be careful who he asks to play Monopoly with him or Jack Bogusch will be getting jealous.

The high school boys can't find enough girls to go with in high school; so they are going with some of the used-to-be high school girls. Um, that's bad!

What does it mean when a boy loans a girl his bicycle? Ask Marion Turner and maybe she'll tell off on Mack Mims.

B. F. Davis just can't keep still. If he isn't reading a newspaper, or checking out a book, then he is turned around grinning at Miss Leath. My, my!

Membership in the American Red Cross last year showed an increase of 299,695. A total of 4,137,636 men and women enrolled, their dollars enabling the expanding Red Cross program of service to be carried forward at full strength. An increased membership is sought this year at Roll Call time, November 11 to 26, to meet the increasing demands upon the organization during 1937.

Don't expect too much out of life then death will not be so exciting.
