Effort called 'war'...

Anti-drug rally held

SDN Staff Writer

"There is a war going on, and if you're not part of the solution, you're part of the problem."

Marilyn Golightly of San Angelo, regional director of the governor's Texans' War on Drugs group, began her address with this statement in a community meeting about drug and alcohol use Thursday night at Worsham Auditorium.

She said school children are feeling peer pressure to use drugs as early as the third grade now in Texas, and she said there "is no such thing as responsible drug use with adolescents."

The former teacher said, however, that marijuana use has decreased by about 50 percent among high school students in recent years.

Attended by about 220 persons, the meeting was also addressed by District Attorney Ernie Armstrong, who warned, "Even if it is just for 60 days, it is worth doing anything to stay out of the penitentiary."

He said the drug problem has been kept comparatively minimal in Snyder in part because of tough juries and grand juries and because felony cases are dispensed with swiftly.

The DA also discussed the problem of teenage drinking and said parents who supply liquor for their children and children's friends to drink at the parents' homes could be liable for misdemeanor criminal and civil penalties.

They could be charged with providing alcohol to minors, he said, or be sued if a participant gets intoxicated and has an accident on the way home.

Assistant school superintendent Dr. Tom Scannicchio reported that the school district's program of surprise visits by dogs trained to find drugs has been successful in keeping drugs out of the schools.

A humorously oriented film about teenage drug and alcohol use, "Get It Straight," was shown.

Mayor Troy Williamson moderated the program, which was sponsored by Snyder Drug, McDonald's and The Snyder Daily News.

Groups weigh Ginsburg nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Groups that helped defeat Robert H. Bork say they're uneasy with new Supreme Court nominee Douglas H. Ginsburg, and they're weighing another confirmation fight to deny President Reagan his choice.

As he did July 1 when he nominated Bork, Reagan on Thursday selected a candidate over others who likely would have faced an easier confirmation battle.

Reagan's selection resolved a dramatic, internal struggle between Ginsburg's supporters and those who fought for U.S. Circuit Judge Anthony M. Kennedy of Sacramento, Calif. When the smoke cleared, Attorney General Edwin Meese III had won. Chief of staff Howard H. Baker Jr. lost.

The bearded Ginsburg, described by friends as low-key, witty and maybe even shy, is a judicial conservative who sits with Bork on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

At 41, Ginsburg would be one of the youngest justices to sit on the high court. He would be the first Jewish member of the court in 18 years.

He is a former Harvard Law School professor and Justice Department antitrust chief, but has served as a judge for only a year.

The Democratic senators and liberal organizations that opposed Bork said they're embarking on an exhaustive review of Ginsburg's record.

Art Kropp of the liberal People for the American Way said "there is enough there to make us feel uncomfortable."

Marching band set for regional event

The Black and Gold Snyder High School marching band will vie for an opportunity to advance to state marching competition Saturday in Wichita Falls.

Snyder was chosen to march at the regional contest last Saturday, and will be in competition with five other schools at the event at Memorial Stadium in Wichita Falls.

The SHS band will march at 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

Other Class AAAA schools at the event include Cleburne, Canyon, Crowley, Hereford and Graham, which was named along with Snyder at last weekend's district competition. Snyder represents the south zone and Graham the north zone.

Two schools will be chosen to advance from the regional contest, qualifying them for state competition in Austin beginning Nov. 9.

Saturday's contest in Wichita Falls will begin at noon with Class A bands marching. It is scheduled to end at 6:10 p.m. following the performance of Class AAAAA bands.

The winners from the AAAA contest are expected to be announced around 5 p.m.

Snyder residents making the trip are advised that the stadium may be reached by taking the Southwest Parkway exit off of State Highway 277.

The high school band is under the direction of Walter Reneau, head band director, and Steve Hanson.

FRIGHT NIGHT — Tammy Rogers, left, and Mari Reed were getting things ready Friday morning for the annual Stanfield Parents Council Halloween carnival slated Saturday from 6 to 10 p.m. at the coliseum ag annex. A costume contest will be from 7 to 7:30 p.m. (SDN Staff Photo)

St. Elizabeth hosts diocese convention

The fifth annual fall convention of the Lubbock Diocese was to begin Friday at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church.

The two-day event, to conclude Saturday, will feature speakers, leadership training, religious workshops, a business session and the installation of officers.

Registration was to be from 2:45-3:15 p.m. Friday at the church, followed by a 3:30 p.m. program, "Introduction to Leadership," from guest speaker Steve Hay of Lubbock.

At 4 p.m. Friday, a leadership training workshop was due, then Liturgy and an evening meal at 7 p.m. More leadership training is scheduled from 8 until 9 p.m. Friday.

Events on Saturday begin with registration from 8:30-9:15 a.m. The morning session will include an address from Dr. Jordan Grooms, Director of Christian Formation, Diocese of Amarillo. His topic is entitled "Look To Mary."

A business meeting is slated from 11 a.m. to noon.

After the noon meal, two workshops will be held concurrently, beginning at 1:15 p.m.

At 2:45 p.m., a pilgrimmage to Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church will begin. At Our Lady, the closing Liturgy and installation of officers will be held.

The Liturgy will begin at 4 p.m., officiated by Bishop Michael Sheehan, Monsignor Elena Gonzales and priests of the diocese. The convention will adjourn at 5 p.m.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Middle age is that time of life when happy hour is a nap."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Larry Crabtree, in the Vernon Daily Record, says there really is very little that's difficult about understanding the tax system.

"You pay income taxes on what you put into your wallet and you pay sales taxes on what you take out."

George Dolan, in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, told about the Cowtown wino who drank himself to death.

At the funeral, two of his drinking pals shuffled by the open casket, peered in, and one of them murmured, "Doesn't Louie look good?"

"Well, sure," said the other, "he hasn't had a drink in two days."

Halloween is tomorrow, and there are lots of traditions associated with this day. Cats, especially the black variety, are included. There is the belief that cats have nine lives, but at least after their 10th fatal mishap, cats end up in heaven.

We heard about one tomcat who arrived at the Pearly Gates and was told he could have his choice of two places. One was a large, pleasant and quiet room with a lovely, long-haired lady cat curled up on a large satin pillow.

The other was a small, sparsely furnished and noisy room with mice pedaling around on tiny bicyles.

His guide reacted with surprise and inquired why the tomcat had chosen the smaller room.

"That's easy. Meals on wheels."

Halloween events offer spooky slate

Halloween events in Snyder and Scurry County are scheduled both Friday night and Saturday. The list includes:

FRIDAY

A "safe Halloween" party from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the American Legion, 1800 Ave. R., planned by the American Legion Ladies Auxiliary.

SATURDAY

Drama students at the junior high will be telling Halloween stories for youngsters age 4-7 at the Scurry County Library beginning at 10 a.m.

Youngsters are encouraged to wear their costumes for a "Spook Parade."

The Stanfield Parent Council's annual Halloween Carnival will be from 6-10 p.m. at the coliseum ag annex.

A costume contest will be held from 7-7:30 p.m. with prizes awarded. Game booths and food concessions are planned also.

The North Elementary Parent Council will sponsor a Halloween Carnival from 6-9 p.m. Saturday at the Union Community Center, five miles out on the Lamesa Highway.

Activities will include a spook house and food items.

Residents of Snyder Nursing Center on the Big Spring Highway invites local trick or treaters to come to the home for treats Saturday from 6:30 until 7:30 p.m.

Costumed "spooks" will also be present and youngsters can have their picture taken with them for a nominal fee.

At Ira, the Ira Halloween Carnival will begin at 5:30 p.m. Saturday with a meal served in the cafeteria. Other activities to include a Halloween costume contest and a coronation will continue until 9 p.m.

Ask Us

Q. — Will and can the law give you a ticket for empty beer cans in your car?

A. — The new open container law in Texas states a person is in violation if they are consuming alcoholic beverages while operating a motor vehicle in a public place and is observed doing this by a police officer. A spokesman for the Texas Attorney General's office said empty beer cans might be evidence in such a case, but just having these cans in your car is not an offense under the law.

Local

Art show

The Western Texas College art department invites local residents to a reception Sunday afternoon marking the opening of a new exhibit in the Fine Arts gallery.

Featured in the exhibition will be the works by members of the Abilene Christian University art department: Dr. Brent Green, chairman of the ACU art department; David Brigman, Robert V. Green, Jack K. Maxwell, Mel Ristau and Virginia Gustafson Sadler.

Sunday's reception is planned from 1:30-3 p.m. The exhibit is to remain in place through Nov. 23 and can be seen each weekday. There is no charge for admission.

Steak tonight

The All Sports Booster Club will have a steak supper Friday at Towle Park Barn prior to the Tiger football game with Sweetwater.

Serving will be from 5:30 until 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 each and proceeds will go toward the All Sports Banquet.

Holiday Bazaar

The Scurry County Extension Homemaker Clubs will conduct the annual Holiday Bazaar. Saturday in the Scurry County Coliseum from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Handcrafted holiday gifts will be for sale as well as homemade candy.

Burial group

An organizational meeting for Family United Society Inc., a non-profit organization designed to aid families with expenses related to funerals--is slated at 3 p.m. Sunday at the National Guard Armory.

The group's intent would be to pay a sum of money to the family to cover burial costs and funeral expenses. These funds would come from a $10 assessment of the organization's members.

Organizer for the meeting is local man Martin Pena. Persons with questions may contact him at 573-5929.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Thursday, 89 degrees; low, 57 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Friday, 60 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1987 to date, 18.16 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Tonight, increasing clouds during the evening, becoming mostly cloudy late. Low in the lower 60s. South to southeast wind 10 to 15 mph.

Saturday, mostly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms. High near 80. South wind 10 to 20 mph and gusty.

Is 1987 the year of men's beards?

NEW YORK (AP) — All the talk about Judge Douglas Ginsburg's age, religion and judicial philosophy ignores what may be a crucial issue in his Supreme Court confirmation — his beard.

Consider the fate of Ginsburg's predecessor, Judge Robert Bork. Sen. Howell Heflin of Alabama, a Democrat and key member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, complained that Bork's beard made the Yale law professor look like the devil.

On Wednesday night's "Tonight" show, comedian Jay Leno compared Bork's beard to a government project that ran out of funds before completion.

Ginsburg's fuller beard prompted this comment Thursday from Philip B. Kurland, an expert on American legal history at the University of Chicago Law School: "In my opinion, the Ginsburg beard is a better beard than the Bork beard."

Despite the beard's proud legal tradition — Socrates himself had one — the last beard on the Supreme Court was that of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who sat on the court from 1931 to 1940 and helped defeat President Franklin D. Roosevelt's plan to pack the court.

In many ways, 1987 has been the year of the beard. Bearded newsmakers have included:

—Barry Slotnick, the New York attorney who successfully defended subway gunman Bernhard Goetz on attempted murder charges.

—Bert Blyleven, the pitcher who helped the Minnesota Twins win their first World Series.

—C. Everett Koop, who as U.S. surgeon general has been the government's most prominent spokesman in the war against AIDS.

Possibly because controversial figures such as Yassir Arafat, Fidel Castro and Ayatollah Khomeini have given them something of a bad name, there are few beards in Congress. Exceptions include Reps. David Bonior, D-Mich., Michael Lowry, D-Wash., and Gary Ackerman, D-N.Y.

Man has been shaving only since about 3100 B.C., when Mesopotamians began using blades made of volcanic glass to scrape away whiskers. In the 4th century B.C., Alexander the Great ordered his troops to shave so foes couldn't grab their beards in battle.

The first straight razor was invented in Europe in 1606, and before the century was over Czar Peter the Great of Russia imposed a "beard tax" as a way of forcing his subjects to shave and thereby enter the modern era.

In 1904 King C. Gillette obtained a U.S. patent for the home safety razor. In its first year, his company sold 90,000 razors and 12 million blades.

Facial hair went out of style about the same time. It came back in the rebellious '60s and hip '70s, when beards were grown by just about everyone who could grow one, and by many who could not.

Rescue effort 'better'

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Almost nothing can beat a parade held in your honor, one of Jessica McClure's rescuers says.

Almost.

"It was super," said Bruce Peeler, who helped rescue the 10-month-old toddler from a well two weeks ago. "It makes you feel good. Not quite as good as when she came out of the well."

Participating in the parade were Peeler and about 400 other volunteers who helped drill Jessica's rescue shaft, control crowds and serve refreshments during the 58-hour ordeal.

"It was kind of a dream come true," said Kragg Robinson, who donated a large drilling rig called a ratholer to help drill the rescue shaft.

"You know when you're a kid you see those movies where you see people get a ticker-tape parade, you never believe it can happen to you," Robinson said. "I still can't believe it."

Dear Abby

Thieves Unlikely to Have Formal Policy of Returns

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Some woman wrote to say she got "ripped off" when a thief stole her purse. It contained her wallet, driver's license, credit cards, irreplaceable pictures of her children when they were babies, prescription glasses, address book, bank book, etc. And you suggested that maybe the thief will be decent enough to keep the cash and return the other items that are of use only to the owner. Get real, Abby.

The last decent thief was the one that hanged on the cross beside Christ. He repented. The other thief didn't.

This woman is crying about losing baby pictures, the only ones she had of her children. (Good! They grew up faster than she did.)

Smart people don't carry anything of value around with them anymore. Lunch money should be the limit.

When will people get wise?

CITY WISE, CARRIES NOTHING

DEAR CITY WISE: The letter from "Ripped Off" prompted many letters from readers who had this valuable message to thieves: "Keep the cash, but drop the purse and wallet into any postal box. It will be delivered to the owner who will be more than happy to pay the postage due."

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I always read your column and I will continue to, but I notice more and more of a tendency to "help" your readers too much and entertain them too little. Example: Today's column contained three worthwhile items — don't let strangers know your travel plans, the Red Cross lawn mower safety classes, and Alice Faye's free exercise plan for the elderly. All very good information and likely to benefit a lot of people.

Abby, I won't belabor the point. But if you become just another column of "safety advice," you might bore readers to the point where they won't read it — and then who benefits?

CAROLE R., ITASCA, ILL.

DEAR CAROLE: Thanks for writing. I can always learn, and appreciate the nudge.

Readers? Drop me a line and let me know what you like and what you don't like about my column.

DEAR ABBY: Last week I hosted a party at my home to which some 75 co-workers had been personally invited. The party was to honor a much-loved employee who is leaving the area to take a new job. I invited people on all levels of the company — from executives to the mailroom staff. They all knew Marilyn and liked her.

Do you know how many responded to the R.S.V.P.? Fifteen out of 75 said they would be there. I estimated that 25 or 30 people would show. Eight showed up! I even had jumbo shrimp left over. I've given parties and invited total strangers and had a better response. I would have saved a lot by just writing Marilyn a check for $500. I hope some of the 60 who didn't bother to say yes or no will recognize themselves.

My question: Is an R.S.V.P. meaningless anymore?

PUZZLED IN DELAWARE

DEAR PUZZLED: People with manners acknowledge every invitation. Believe it or not, many people do not know that "R.S.V.P." means "Please respond with your acceptance or refusal."

Perhaps it should be spelled out more clearly: "Please call and let me know whether you are coming or not." Then a few days before the party, the hostess should contact those who have not responded and ask if they plan to attend. This should not be necessary, but unfortunately, it is.

Future brokers are bullish on Wall St.

NEW YORK (AP) — In an inner-city Brooklyn high school just 10 miles from the epicenter of the stock market quake, aspiring young brokers and bankers insist they are unshakably bullish on Wall Street.

Vincent Puleo's class at John Dewey High School near Coney Island is not an ordinary group of high school juniors, as was quickly apparent when he passed out copies of Thursday's New York Times to his 30 students.

They got right to business — the business section, that is. They whipped out calculators and pored over the stock tables for signs of mergers, takeovers and other investment treasures.

"This is a buying opportunity. Yeah, definitely, definitely," 16-year-old Benny LoCascio told classmates.

Puleo asked how the Hong Kong and Tokyo exchanges were doing that morning. Hands shot up. They all knew prices were down — a bad omen, perhaps, for the New York Stock Exchange.

As it turned out, stocks on the Big Board rallied Thursday, with the Dow Jones industrial average up 91.51 to 1,938.33, its third best gain ever and vindication for this class of market bulls just a subway ride from Wall Street.

The students are among 1,340 high school juniors and seniors enrolled this fall in the Academy of Finance, a 5-year-old program operating in a dozen cities aimed at giving bright youngsters a taste of careers in banking, securities and finance. New York has programs in eight high schools.

Other cities offering the program include Phoenix, Ariz.; Minneapolis, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; San Francisco, Wilmington, Del.; Buffalo, N.Y.; Chicago, Baltimore, Seattle, Washington and Omaha, Neb.

Half the funding is provided by securities and banking firms in each city, with the rest paid by the school districts.

To qualify, students need good grades and must pass a lie detector test that they are drug free and have no criminal record — measures made necessary because all students must complete six-week summer internships with financial companies between their junior and senior years.

Graduates earn diplomas in financial studies, said academy national director Phyllis Frankfort.

So far, 90 percent of the New York graduates have gone on to college, and 85 percent major in finance, economics or accounting.

One period a week, students break into groups of four or five to play "the trading game." Each group gets an imaginary $100,000 to invest, plus a credit limit of $100,000 to buy stocks on margin.

At the end of 10 weeks, the team in the eight New York high schools whose portfolio is worth most wins $50 per student, plus breakfast in the NYSE boardroom.

Drug probe continues

MIDLOTHIAN, Texas (AP) — Midlothian High School students were told Thursday that police will follow up on information gathered by a slain undercover officer who posed as a student.

At an animated assembly in the school's gymnasium, City Manager Charles W. Pinto said authorities didn't regret assigning 21-year-old George Raffield to investigate drugs at the high school.

"He did have a chance to get into the community and see where the drugs are coming from," Pinto said. "We've taken a lot of that information, and we have it in writing and we're still working on it."

Raffield, who was found shot to death in a field beside his pickup truck Saturday, enrolled as a high school senior to investigate drug trafficking in Midlothian.

Two students, 17-year-old Richard Goeglein and a 16-year-old youth, have been charged with capital murder in connection with Raffield's slaying.

The tragedy has been felt deeply among the high school's 760 students, Principal Wilburn Roesler said, but he declined to say whether he had wanted a drug investigation or knew Raffield was enrolled.

Prosecution evidence shows Deaver lobbying plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prosecution in former presidential aide Michael K. Deaver's perjury trial is introducing evidence contending he lied under oath when he denied lobbying his friends in the Reagan administration.

Pamela G. Bailey, who left her White House job to join Deaver's lobbying firm in 1985, identified several memos she prepared to brief her boss for conversations with Transportation Secretary Elizabeth H. Dole and Drew Lewis, the U.S. envoy to Canada on acid rain.

Deaver's former secretary, meanwhile, supported the defense contention that his memory was impaired by alcoholism. Janet Harvey testified Thursday that the news about Deaver's drinking problem "somehow gave an explanation for Mr. Deaver and the way he was, the moodiness or depression, not remembering things."

The defense is trying to convince the federal court jury that Deaver's memory was so impaired by alcoholism that he was not lying when he denied or said he couldn't recall contacting former Reagan administration colleagues for his clients.

But the prosecution used the testimony of Mrs. Bailey to introduce numerous documents indicating Deaver and his firm keyed their lobbying strategies on contacts with the administration.

Mrs. Bailey described the firm's efforts to help Trans World Airlines, which was fighting an ultimately successful takeover bid by Carl Icahn.

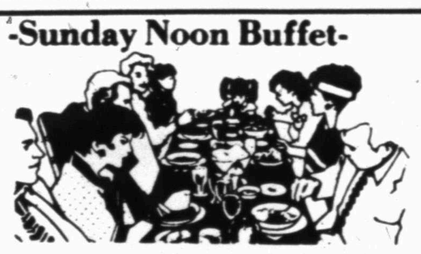

The lobbying strategy Deaver discussed with a TWA official included giving "priority to have Elizabeth (Dole) act to buy time," according to notes Mrs. Bailey said she took.

Vote Yes
Proposition 8

PROGRESS

Looking to the future.

Tuesday, Nov. 3
Texas State Constitutional Amendment Election

Proposition 8 on the ballot may have a direct impact on Scurry County and efforts to locate a Texas Department of Corrections facility here. The proposition calls for the issuance of up to $500 million in general obligation bonds to finance projects for three state agencies--including the TDC.

This is the most economical method of financing for the state. Prisons will be built in Texas because of federal court orders. Scurry County citizens should again show their support for prisons by voting Yes on Proposition 8.

Members of the Economic Development Committee of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce believes that a big turnout of votes in favor of Proposition 8 will once again be a signal to TDC officials of local citizens' interest in the prison system.

Governors could cripple GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year after Republicans won major gains in governors' races, one new GOP governor faces recall and two more suffer political wounds, raising worries that their troubles may cripple the party in the 1988 presidential election.

In Arizona, beleaguered Gov. Evan Mecham is beset by a recall petition drive, impeachment moves by his own party in the state legislature, and a criminal probe into an alleged undisclosed campaign loan.

Mecham's mounting troubles have caused a drop in Republican voter registration, and Republicans fear it is costing the GOP the majority it recently achieved in the state.

Some national party officials are so concerned they have urged Republican National Committee chairman Frank J. Fahrenkopf to repudiate Mecham publicly, according to sources who spoke on condition of anonymity.

While not nearly so disastrous as the Arizona problem, stumbles by the governors of Texas and Florida have generated complaints and concern among Republicans over the fallout in states that are the electoral giants of the South in the presidential campaign.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements — the only Republican governor in the state since Reconstruction — has suffered from his involvement in a college football scandal and enactment of the state's largest tax increase ever despite campaigning on a no-tax-increase pledge.

Florida Gov. Bob Martinez has seen his popularity plummet while reversing himself twice on taxes. He surprised supporters first by helping Democratic legislators pass a billion-dollar first-in-the-nation tax on services, such as advertising and accounting, then called for its repeal when he was hounded by intense criticism and opposition.

"In all three cases, these Republican governors have irritated and angered some Republicans as well as the opposition Democrats," said Merle Black, a University of North Carolina political scientist and specialist in Southern politics. "It's not just a partisan thing."

Martinez is a national co-chairman of Vice President George Bush's campaign. But the Florida governor has not appeared in public with Bush in recent months, and he stayed away when Bush visited the state last week.

The reversal in GOP fortunes in these three states comes on the heels of Republican gubernatorial successes in the 1986 elections that flew in the face of an otherwise Democratic year.

Republicans gained eight more governor's offices last year, even while losing control of the U.S. Senate. The party now holds the governor's mansion in 24 states that control a majority of presidential electoral votes.

At least one of the new GOP governors has proven thus far to be a pleasant surprise for Republicans, however.

Alabama Gov. Guy Hunt, a former chicken farmer and Amway salesman, became the first Republican governor in that state since Reconstruction when Democrats divided in a bitter nomination dispute. Since then, Hunt has won passage of a legislative package and kept up his popularity, raising GOP hopes for the future.

In Arizona, Texas and Florida, Republicans want to avoid damage to voter registration and to future GOP chances, particularly in the next governor's race.

"The next Republican has some baggage to carry," said Black. "The positive thing for Republicans in this is these problems are happening early in the administrations. But I think there still will be a lingering impact."

In Texas, Clements has already said he will not seek re-election in 1990. One party leader, Dallas County GOP Chairman Tom James, said Clements has become "an enormous negative" for his involvement in the football scandal at Southern Methodist University. Clements was chairman of SMU's board of governors when it continued payoffs to players.

"Within the party, there is a sense of betrayal since he ran and was elected on a no-tax-increase platform," James said.

Clements has remained neutral in the race for the Republican presidential nomination, but his wife is state co-chairman for Bush, who claims the state as his home.

Michele Davis, executive director of the Republican Governors Association, said that by taking himself out of the 1990 race Clements has given other candidates time to overcome political trouble. She said Martinez, who may run again, has time to overcome his high negative ratings.

GIs work as farm hands for harvest

INGELHEIM AM RHEIN, West Germany (AP) — American troops in West Germany are best known for guarding missiles and operating radar stations, but during harvest time some soldiers turn farm hands, and in this town the crops are grapes.

Complaining of aching backs and knees, about 120 U.S. soldiers toiled in Reinhold Saalwaechter's vineyards near the Rhine in a three-week program that ended Thursday.

They volunteered as a goodwill gesture.

"After a while, most of them didn't even bother to squat down to cut the grapes," said Staff Sgt. Marion Neff of Oak Hill, W.Va. "They just sat down on the ground and dragged themselves along."

"Most of them had the same complaints at the end of the day — 'Oh, my back. Oh, my knees,'" said the 37-year-old sergeant, who participated in the grape picking in this well-known wine region.

He talked while standing amid wind-swept rows of grapes in chilly weather.

A birthday tribute

When my parents were first married, Father taught Mother to play bridge. This stood her in good stead in her more than 35 years of proofreading columns for my father and then, after his death in 1984, for me. Mary Zita Jacoby, who died suddenly last May, would have been 78 today. Here, in her honor, is a hand that my parents might well have played early in their marriage. With my mother as his partner, my father was even bold enough to take on some expert pairs.

When the heart seven is led against three no-trump, declarer can win the trick with dummy's jack. The natural play then is to take a club finesse. When West wins the club king, he will switch to a diamond. Since spades are not favored to split 3-3, declarer's best percentage play for nine tricks is to try the diamond queen. That will lose, and a heart back will net the defenders a two-trick set. But the right play (I congratulate those who have seen it) is for declarer to first play A-K-Q of spades before taking the club finesse. Since spades are 3-3, declarer will know that he doesn't need to take a diamond finesse to make his contract.

My parents would have succeeded with this hand, even when my mother was a beginner and even if she had been declarer. My father had a simple agreement in taking on the experts with Mother. If she was declarer and the contract was either doubled or in no-trump, he was allowed to change seats with her and play the hand.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Houston developer indicted for fraud

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted real estate developer J.R. McConnell in what prosecutors said was just the start of one of the biggest bank-loan fraud cases in U.S. history.

The indictment Thursday charged that McConnell and five associates last year arranged loans for $4.2 million through fraud, including false ownership papers for property put up as collateral.

But the two loans listed in the indictment, one at a Houston bank and another at a savings and loan, were only part of a larger scheme to defraud lending institutions of at least $162 million, U.S. Attorney Henry Oncken said.

"This is one of the largest bank-fraud cases in U.S. history utilizing title insurance," said Oncken, who promised more indictments as a result of the 18-month FBI investigation.

The six-count indictment named McConnell, 40; Texas National Bank president Walter Beard, 40, of Houston; and former Home Savings Association senior vice president H. Wayne Gray, 48, of Houston, who now works as a loan officer at Houston National Bank.

Others named as defendants were Federal Title Co. president Mary Lynne Smith, 38, of Houston; former McConnell employee Griffith P. Temple, 45, of Cypress; and Temple's wife, Candace, 40, a former loan officer at Texas National Bank.

All except McConnell agreed to turn themselves in Thursday and were released on $100,000 bond, Assistant U.S. Attorney John Patrick Smith said.

McConnell's whereabouts have been unknown since shortly after he filed for bankruptcy late last year, but a warrant has been issued for his arrest, FBI agent-in-charge Andrew Duffin said.

In McConnell's absence, an advertisement appeared in the Houston Post on Thursday. The ad blamed the Texas economy and unfair publicity for McConnell's problems and promised he would use his own reorganization plan to repay debts. The ad, which indicated McConnell had received 17 death threats, said a future ad would list a mailing address for making claims.

McConnell, a native of Gainesville, Fla., began doing real estate business in Houston in 1979, and amassed a fiefdom of hundreds of rental properties and development projects in Houston and Galveston, according to court records.

But in October 1986, he filed for bankruptcy. According to a court-appointed trustee's report, McConnell and the 10 companies he took into bankruptcy with him owed $427 million against $281 million in assets. A key part of McConnell's business, the report said, was Texas Guaranty Investments, which went bankrupt owing 1,400 investors $35 million.

Among McConnell's adversaries is Los Angeles-based Ticor Title Insurance Co., which has set aside $50 million to cover losses associated with McConnell's activities, and filed a $202 million suit in July accusing 18 people of helping McConnell in a racketeering and real estate loan fraud scheme.

Attorney Mike Hinton said the Temples would plead not guilty on grounds they were used by McConnell.

Beard said he was surprised and outraged at the indictment.

Peter Gott, M.D.

Pesticide could cause hair loss

DEAR DR. GOTT — Six months ago we had our house sprayed with diazinon. Three weeks later, on the same day, my husband, age 31, our three children (12, 11 and 7) and I (31) all began losing from 50 to 70 hairs a day. At the crown of the head, the hair is so thin that the scalp is very noticeable. New hair comes in damaged.

We've been tested for heavy metals and hormone imbalances, and we've had our blood work done. Everything is normal. Physicians and dermatologists have no answers. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER — Many pesticides, being toxic compounds, cause hair loss. Sometimes, pesticide by-products can be measured in the blood; often they are either too difficult to analyze precisely or are quickly excreted from the body, after they have done their damage.

Your family's hair problems could be related to diazinon. However, your exposure was short-lived and your tests are apparently normal. Therefore, I think that it is safe for you to wait and see if — with time — normal hair grows in. Of course, you will want to check periodically with your doctor to make sure that no other, more serious abnormalities develop.

In addition, you might want to contact the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to request further information. A survey of your home environment (to identify other compounds that could be causing your problem) might also be helpful; ask your town building inspector how to go about getting this done.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A biopsy taken by my gynecologist showed that I have a skin ailment called lichen sclerosis et atrophicus. A topical cream just made matters worse. What is this condition?

DEAR READER — Lichen sclerosis et atrophicus is a chronic skin disease of unknown cause that is characterized by flat white pimples with hard centers and inflamed borders. Sometimes the pimples coalesce into large patches of thin, itchy skin. Ask your gynecologist to refer you to a dermatologist for advice regarding treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Somewhere I read that pneumonia could be a precursor of diabetes. There's diabetes in my family, and I've recently had two bouts of pneumonia. I'm also 50 pounds overweight, which I am trying to correct. Is there any connection between the two diseases?

DEAR READER — Diabetics have an increased susceptibility to infection. Compared to normal people, they more easily develop skin inflammation, abscesses, fungal irritations and bacterial infections — including pneumonia. As the diabetes is brought under better control and the blood sugar falls, the susceptibility lessens. Pneumonia is not a precursor of diabetes; rather, diabetes makes lung infection more likely.

As you lose weight and pay better attention to your health, you will be less likely to develop infections.

Turkey supply said plentiful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Holiday diners can expect record supplies of turkey this season, with prices down sharply from a year ago, according to Agriculture Department economists.

Turkey slaughter has been running far above year-earlier levels. As of Oct. 1, the stockpile of frozen turkeys was at a record 640.9 million pounds, up 25 percent from a year earlier, according to a quarterly inventory.

Meanwhile, turkey wholesale prices — indicating consumer price trends ahead — are down sharply. The department's Economic Research Service says the wholesale price of hen turkeys in the Northeast probably averaged about 56 cents per pound in July, August and September, down 30 percent from the third quarter average of 80 cents in 1986.

Wholesale turkey prices in the fourth quarter are expected to be in the range of 54 cents to 58 cents per pound, also down 30 percent from 78 cents a year ago.

Looking into 1988, the agency says wholesale turkey prices may range from 51 cents to 57 cents per pound, with prices in the first quarter averaging even lower, perhaps in the range of 47 cents to 53 cents per pound as efforts are made to reduce the huge supply.

Economist Lee Christensen, an analyst in the agency, said turkey is a fast-growing component of the American consumer's meat diet, moving from what was once mostly a holiday treat to year-round use.

In 1986, he said, Americans each consumed an average of 214.3 pounds of red meat and poultry. That is retail weight as it is taken home from the store and does not include further trimming, shrinkage in cooking or table waste.

Of the total, turkey accounted for 13.4 pounds of the per capita consumption of red meat and poultry, or 6.3 percent of the total. Christensen said 1987 consumption is forecast at 15.1 pounds of turkey, or 7 percent of the total of 215.6 pounds.

"Per capita consumption of turkey has increased 150 percent since 1960, and 50 percent since 1980," he said.

Declining production costs and rising consumer demand have been the main factors behind the turkey expansion. Also, new products such as turkey hams, turkey salami and turkey franks have been a big factor. In 1985, for example, those "further processed" items accounted for 44 percent of all turkey produced that year.

Christensen said figures for the quarterly consumption of turkey show how Americans have made the birds a year-round eating habit. Currently, about 37 percent of the turkey supply is used in the first and second quarters, up from about 21 percent in 1960.

"Each person now consumes almost as many pounds of turkey in the first half of the year as during the entire year in 1960," he said. "While consumption still peaks in the fourth quarter, there has been a steady increase in the base level of turkey consumption throughout the year."

Christensen said that while expansion has been encouraged by favorable net returns to turkey producers — on the positive side since the third quarter of 1984, according to agency analysts — projected future large supplies of turkey and other meats could be "burdensome" on markets.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers can expect soybean market prices to be dampened for some time by large government-owned inventories of the oilseeds, according to Agriculture Department economists.

"Monthly soybean prices in central Illinois rose seasonally from $4.74 a bushel in March to a June high of $5.45, prompting some government sales (of surplus stocks)," the department's Economic Research Service said Thursday. "Prices have since declined, averaging $5.08 a bushel in September, the first month of the new crop year."

Thus, the report said, the USDA's soybean price support loan rate of $4.77 per bushel will provide "an effective price floor" throughout the 1987-88 soybean marketing year. But any gains in market prices "will be moderated" by large soybean inventories held by the government, it said.

As of Sept. 1, the soybean stockpile going into the new season was 436 million bushels, of which about 249 million bushels were owned outright by the department's Commodity Credit Corp. Also, about 148 million bushels were still under price support loan.

Mexican market has lost half of its value

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican stock exchange has plunged more than 180,000 points in the last month, losing about half its value in selling as dizzying as the buying that made it one of the world's top performers.

The stock market, attracting all kinds of investors hoping to make quick gains, was caught in the wave of selling that has swept international financial markets.

"The market was overheated," said a prominent trading analyst who spoke on condition he not be identified. "Almost anything would have caused it to fall."

The trigger, he said, was the collapse of Wall Street.

The Index of Prices and Quotations, the gauge of activity in the Mexican stock exchange, reached a high of 373,216.24 on Oct. 6, a spectacular gain of 692 percent since the end of last year.

It tumbled to 183,662.14 last Tuesday, plunging 50.8 percent from its high point and leaving the index at the level of early July.

It recovered a bit of ground Wednesday, gaining nearly 3 percent to close at 188,781.73. On Thursday, it climbed again, rising about 4 percent to close at 196,415.19.

The index is made up of the prices of the stocks of 52 major Mexican companies.

Government officials have urged investors to be calm. Treasury Secretary Gustavo Petricioli warned investors last week that those selling in panic would lose money.

His advice went unheeded. Fresh, sharp falls shook the market again this week.

The market began its spectacular growth last year, soaring a record 321 percent to rank as one of the world's top gainers.

The boom, analysts said, was fueled by the prospect of better economic times ahead and low prices for the stocks of major companies.

In recent months, the market has become a magnet for Mexicans wanting to make some money after suffering through the 5-year-old economic crisis that has seen the living standards of most fall dramatically.

Brokers told of first-time buyers walking into their offices and asking to buy some of the stocks that were soaring 800 percent. They had no names.

"A lot of people like this had heard so much about you can become rich overnight," said Jonathan Heath, senior economist at the Mexican consulting firm of MACRO Asesoria Economica.

These inexperienced investors were some of the first to get out when prices began falling, analysts said.

The market's price index reached its high point shortly after the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party announced its presidential candidate would be then-Budget Secretary Carlos Salinas de Gortari.

On Oct. 5, the day after the announcement, a frenzy of buying drove the index up 26,000 points in the first 90 minutes of trading, prompting government securities authorities to temporarily halt all trading.

The unprecedented shutdown order stunned many, and some analysts blamed the action for creating nervousness in the market.

Tigers face tough challenge in highly-touted Sweetwater

Coach Dennis Tomlin's Ragin' Tigers take on a second straight powerhouse offense in a week, but this time there is an extra wrinkle.

Where Snyder was able to shock a defense-weak Lake View Chief team 22-19, the Sweetwater Mustangs come not only as a top offensive machine, but as District 2-4A's most formidable defensive ballclub.

The Mustangs have used their fine defense to take over the top spot in the district after downing Monahans 23-7 last week. They come into tonight's 8 o'clock ballgame boasting an overall mark of 6-1, and a 2-4A record of 5-0.

Snyder is 1-6 and 1-4.

Tiger game captains are Scott Lanier and Roy Gutierrez.

On the plus side for Snyder tonight, Coach Tomlin said his team's spirits have been renewed with the win over Fort Stockton.

"It helped, no doubt about it. We let the kids enjoy it and came back and had a good weeks work. It was that little spark we needed to give the kids confidence going into what we feel is the biggest game of the year so far," Tomlin said.

"Sweetwater is just a very good football team," noted the coach. "It's hard to find a weakness. I could talk a lot longer about their strengths."

Sweetwater represents the league's No. 2 offensive team, averaging 324.3 yards an outing, and as the No. 1 defensive club, gives up a paltry 163.0. The Mustangs are No. 1 against the run, allowing just 75.9 yards per game.

A key figure on the Mustang squad is Kenneth Norman, one of the top two-way starters in the district. Second only to Monahans' Charles Thompson - whom he outgained when the teams met last Friday - Norman has compiled 890 yards on 140 carries for 13 touchdowns. Defensively, the 5-9, 180 junior leads the district in interceptions with six.

"Defensively and offensively he is as good as there is in the state in 4A. He has a lot of talent," said Tomlin, who said this year's Sweetwater team rivals those in recent years.

"I'm not sure this isn't the best team Sweetwater has had since the team that won state. Sizewise, they are bigger than they've ever been. They average 200 pounds across both lines," he pointed out. "And they've got their best three athletes lined up behind that strong offensive line; their tailback, quarterback and fullback."

Sweetwater likes to run the option and the sweep.

"The option means any one of those players could get the ball. With the sweep it's Norman. The only good thing about them running the sweep is you know who has the ball - Norman. The bad thing about it is, you know who has the ball - Norman," joked Tomlin.

Larry Healer, a 6-0 senior, quarterbacks the Mustangs. He has thrown for 327 yards in a 17-of-38 effort. He also has 247 yards and nine touchdowns on 60 carries. The fullback is Ernie Munoz, a 5-9, 165 junior, who has 508 yards on 70 steps.

Snyder will open with the same offensive backfield as last week - Lee Fletcher at quarterback, Roy Gutierrez at fullback, Scott Lanier at halfback and Vyron Clay at tailback.

"It's a definite challenge for us," said Tomlin. "To play the No. 5 team in the state (Harris Rating Service; No. 8 AP) is an honor."

Young Tigers triumph, 19-6; entertain Big Spring Nov. 5

SWEETWATER -- Snyder junior varsity gridders played good defense and took advantage of Sweetwater turnovers to post a 19-6 victory here Thursday evening.

The young Tigers, now 5-2, return to Travis Field next Thursday to host Big Spring.

Snyder opened the scoring on a 25-yard run by Bert Merritt. Merritt also booted the PAT for a 7-0 lead.

The Tigers later got a tough, 7-yard touchdown run from Jason Presley. This time, the conversion failed.

Snyder's final score came when Presley picked off a Sweetwater pass and returned it 60 yards. Again, the PAT failed.

Sweetwater's lone TD came late in the fourth quarter on a 4-yard run.

"The kids played a super game defensively," said Coach Kenneth Pruitt. "We got the big play, forced some turnovers and held them when we had to. Offensively, we scored when they turned the ball over."

Sweetwater had 15 first downs and out-gained the Tigers 252 yards to 167, but turned the ball over five times.

Presley led Snyder ballcarriers with 96 yards.

Snyder managed 149 yards rushing and 18 passing on a two-of-six effort. Sweetwater had 227 steps on the ground and was one-of-four through the air for 25 yards. The Mustangs were intercepted three times; once by Presley and twice by Charles Guynes.

Kevin Murdock and Greg Kiker recovered fumbles for Snyder.

Mustangs clip Snyder freshmen with fourth-quarter effort; 22-12

SWEETWATER -- Sweetwater came up with a pair of fourth-quarter scores to slide past Snyder 22-12 in a freshmen football game here Thursday night.

"We played another good game except for the last four or five minutes," said Snyder Coach Albert Lewis. "We had a couple of key turnovers and some penalties that hurt us."

The Tigers scored first, with 5:51 still left in the opening quarter, when Edward Rios connected with Terry Snyder on a 50-yard pass play. The try-for-two failed.

Sweetwater answered quickly by returning the ensuing kickoff for a touchdown. The Mustangs were able to convert, and took an 8-6 lead.

The Tigers went back on top with 7:30 to play in the fourth period. Shelby Bufkin did the honors on a 34-yard scamper. The conversion failed, however.

Sweetwater took the lead for good with 4:28 left on a 60-yard TD run. The Mustangs added another touchdown with 2:01 remaining in the game.

Snyder managed 186 yards rushing, including 87 from Paul Anderson and 60 from Bufkin. The Tigers were four of 10 through the airways with two interceptions and 87 yards.

Now 2-5, Snyder gets set to play in Big Spring next Thursday, Nov. 5.

Physically and mentally unable to play...

LA Rams sideline Dickerson

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - The Los Angeles Rams say All-Pro running back Eric Dickerson is "physically and mentally unable to play" Sunday against the San Francisco 49ers.

Dickerson, unhappy with a contract that pays him more than $680,000 per year through 1989, was not available for comment on the club's action Thursday, but fellow running back Charles White said it's probably for the best.

"I don't know if this is good for Eric, but it's probably good for the team not to have these negative forces around," White said.

Coach John Robinson said Dickerson, 27, will be reinstated "when he is 100 percent physically and mentally ready to play and we are assured that he is ready to resume his role on our team."

But Robinson's prepared statement did not deal with Dickerson's desire to be traded. He has expressed interest in going to Washington, Denver or Chicago.

"Presently, we are not contemplating any other action," Robinson said.

Dickerson, a five-year veteran, has said he may not play as well since he's preoccupied with his salary. According to Robinson, Dickerson turned down an offer from the Rams that would have made him " the highest-paid running back in the NFL."

The dispute has dampened team spirit.

"I'm sure he is frustrated, hoping something will happen. I'm sure everybody wishes Eric was here, especially for a team like San Francisco," wide receiver Henry Ellard said.

The 49ers are 5-1, far ahead of the 1-5 Rams in the NFC West.

"I'm sad for Eric," tight end David Hill said. "I'd hate to see him lose his zest for football. This might be the final straw, as far as his wanting to stay with the Rams."

But Robinson said the $2.5-million contract Dickerson signed after an extended holdout in 1985 is binding until the 1989 season.

"When Eric signed his extension, he gave the Rams a written representation and warranty that he would fully adhere to all conditions and terms of his contracts in their entirety and would not attempt in any way or manner to renegotiate his contract prior to the commencement of the 1989 season," the coach's statement read.

Dickerson played only in the first half Monday night against the Cleveland Browns, gaining 38 yards in seven carries, including a 27-yard touchdown run late in the second quarter.

8th graders take a pair over Ponies

Snyder eighth grade football teams defeated Sweetwater here at Travis Field on Thursday.

The squads will return for action at home Nov. 5 as they entertain Big Spring at 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Snyder B 16, S-water B 0

Snyder eighth grade B-team blanked the previously undefeated Ponies 16-0. Sweetwater had been unbeaten in seven games.

"It was a very exceptional game from our B-team," said Coach Roger Goodwin of the squad, now 3-3. "We are extremely proud of the turnaround in attitude and hustle that these players have shown in the last two weeks."

Snyder opened the scoring on a 1-yard quarterback sneak from David Guerrero. Keadon Collins ran over the conversion.

The Cats' other score was on a 40-yard pass from Jason Rios to Gustavo Castillion. Collins again ran over the conversion.

Coach Goodwin noted that Collins and Craig Pippin were the workhorses, running behind the offensive line of Barron Wesley, Lance Wilson, Heath Freeman, Casey Franks, Jason Burney and Castillion. Defensive standouts were Pippin, Guerrero, Franks and Roe Patterson.

Snyder A 18, S-water A 8

A 60-yard pass interception and run by Daniel Espinosa opened the scoring for the Snyder A-team Thursday.

Espinosa also tallied the Cats' second touchdown on a 60-yard run around left end.

In the fourth quarter, Michael Torres added an 18-yard touchdown gallop. None of Snyder's conversion attempts were successful.

Espinosa, Mark King and Leddy Lewis all intercepted passes for the visitors and were listed as defensive standouts along with Torres, Chad Fox, Chris Carrasco and Hayward Clay - who got the Big Hit award, according to Coach Goodwin.

Offensively, Espinosa, Torres, Fox, Eddie Evans, Chad Grimmett and Cade Walton stood out.

The A-team, 5-1, will be trying to atone for its only loss - a 14-12 defeat at the hands of Big Spring - when it hosts the Steers next Thursday.

7th graders split a pair

SWEETWATER -- Snyder seventh grade teams split with Sweetwater here Thursday night in junior high football action.

Snyder A-team won 22-6. The B-team fell 8-0.

No other details were available.

The seventh grade teams will play again Thursday, Nov. 5, when they play in Big Spring at 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Texas Tech, Texas to clash in long-awaited SWC battle

by The Associated Press

The league-leading Texas Longhorns return to Southwest Conference football play Saturday in a long-awaited matchup with Texas Tech that could have more tricks and treats than Halloween.

Texas Coach David McWilliams coached Texas Tech to a 7-4 season and an Independence Bowl berth last year, but then bid adios for Austin after Fred Akers was fired.

Spike Dykes, McWilliams' defensive coordinator who was born in Lubbock, was hired to replace McWilliams. Red Raiders' fans fumed over McWilliams' defection after only one year at Tech and vowed revenge on Oct. 31, 1987.

Some 10,000 of them have bought tickets for Saturday's 1 p.m. CST game in Austin, and Texas officials expect a crowd of about 70,000.

McWilliams and Dykes are still good friends, and most Tech players have forgiven McWilliams for his sudden departure.

"I wasn't a traitor to Tech," said McWilliams. "It was just a chance to come home."

McWilliams was a co-captain on the 1963 Longhorns' national champion team under Darrell Royal. He was a defensive coordinator under Akers.

Dykes said

"David did a good job at Tech and wasn't looking for a way out," Dykes said. "He got a chance to go to Texas and that opportunity doesn't happen very often. They've had four head coaches in 50 years."

McWilliams and Dykes have met three times previously in high school games. Dykes' Big Spring team beat McWilliams' Abilene club in 1967, 1968, and 1969.

"It's been awhile since then," Dykes said.

Tech quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver said he understands now why McWilliams left.

"When he was at Tech he bled Red Raider black and red," Tolliver said. "We're not playing McWilliams. We're in Austin to play the Texas Longhorns."

Texas, 2-0, is a six-point favorite over the Red Raiders, who beat the 'Horns 23-21 last year when McWilliams was the coach against his alma mater.

In other games, Arkansas is a 21-point favorite over Rice in Houston in a noon regional (Raycom) game; Texas Christian is a seven-point pick over Houston in a 2 p.m. game in Amon Carter Stadium; and Texas A&M is a 24-point pick over Louisiana Tech in a nonconference game in College Station. Baylor is idle.

Arkansas and Texas Christian each own a league loss and can't afford another slip.

"Rice always plays Arkansas hard, particularly in Houston," said Hog Coach Ken Hatfield.

TCU Coach Jim Wacker, meanwhile, is concerned with Houston's passing.

"Houston is dangerous," Wacker said. "Oklahoma State is the only team that has stopped its run-and-shoot offense this year."

There will be a strange happening in the A&M-Louisiana Tech game. The Bulldogs didn't send their band to Aggieland, and A&M's athletic department invited the Southern Methodist band.

The Mustangs, who got the NCAA death penalty for repeated rules violations, were scheduled to play A&M on Oct. 31. The SMU band accepted and will march at halftime and play for the Bulldogs during the game.

Hearns makes boxing history by earning 4th championship

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Thomas Hearns has become the first fighter ever to win championships in four different weight classes, but he may never get a chance to fulfill another of his dreams.

"I'm a very proud young man right now," Hearns said Thursday night after knocking out Juan Domingo Roldan of Argentina to win the World Boxing Council middleweight title vacated by Sugar Ray Leonard after his April victory over Marvelous Marvin Hagler.

Hearns weathered some vicious punches as Leonard and Hagler looked on at the outdoor arena at the Las Vegas Hilton. Hearns knocked Roldan down four times while nearly hitting the canvas himself in a wild brawl that delighted a crowd of more than 10,000.

"I hope this brings not only Ray Leonard but also Marvin Hagler out of retirement," Hearns said.

But Hagler and Leonard weren't impressed by the challenge.

"The only reason I would come out of retirement is for Ray," said Hagler, who was a color commentator for the closed-circuit television broadcast.

"I don't have any interest in Tommy," Leonard said. "I'm happy for him, but that's all."

Leonard said Hearns' preoccupation with the rematches nearly cost him the fight.

Roldan, who never slowed his powerful attack even after being knocked down twice by Hearns in the first round and again in the second, won the third and was on the verge of getting back into the fight as the fourth began.

Only seconds into the round, a Roldan left hook buckled Hearns' legs and almost dropped him. He managed to hold on, however, and quickly regained his senses.

Less than a minute later, Hearns came back with a hard right to the side of Roldan's face that backed him up. Hearns pressed the attack, finally landing another huge right that sent Roldan down face first. He was counted out at 2:01.

Watson takes lead at Nabisco Classic

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - There's the big money, $3 million, the most ever distributed in golf. But that's not the only attraction for Tom Watson in the Nabisco Championships of Golf.

There's the simple fact of winning. That's the lure.

"Absolutely," Watson said Thursday after scrambling to a 5-under-par 65 that gave him the first-round lead over the other 29 members of the elite field.

It left him one shot in front of Masters champion Larry Mize, who birdied the last two holes, and South African David Frost, tied at 66.

Australian Greg Norman included an eagle-3 in his round of 67 and was tied with Mark Calcavecchia and Nick Price.

Ladies play final match

MONAHANS – Snyder volleyball teams play their final matches of the 1987 season here Saturday afternoon.

Freshmen teams will play at 12:30 p.m., followed by junior varsity teams at 2 p.m. and varsity teams at 3 p.m.

Snyder varsity is trying to close out the season with three straight victories. The Lady Tigers defeated Andrews last Saturday and San Angelo Lake View earlier this week.

The girls are 15-10 overall and 10-5 in District 2-4A competition.

Westerners open 1987-88 hoops at 8 p.m. Monday

Collegiate roundball tips off here Monday night as Coach Tony Mauldin makes his debut for Western Texas College.

The Westerners entertain Cisco Junior College at 8 p.m. in Scurry County Coliseum. Tickets and WTC Booster Club memberships will be available.

Tickets for the game will be $2 for adults and $1 for students. Tickets for doubleheaders are $3 for adults and $1 for students. WTC students are admitted free to all home games.

Coach Mauldin said Cisco poses as a strong opponent for the Westerner opener.

"From what I've seen of them, they have a good outfit. I know they beat Kilgore and Howard College in scrimmages. They have good shooters, decent height and good overall quickness," he said.

Western is an inexperienced team, with 12 freshmen and only three sophomores.

"We really haven't developed a personality yet. It the scrimmages we've been experimenting, playing everyone in all type situations," explained the coach. "I don't know how we are going to mold together on the floor yet."

Soccer playoffs to begin

Snyder Soccer Association begins its fall season playoffs Saturday at the local soccer fields.

Anderson selected AL manager of year

DETROIT (AP) - Sparky Anderson, whose gospel of character and chemistry guided the Detroit Tigers to the best regular-season record in baseball, is the American League Manager of the Year for the second time in four years.

"This is the most special one to me," Anderson said Thursday after learning of his selection by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

He is the only manager to be named twice since the BBWAA began voting on the award in 1983. Prior to that, Anderson won National League honors, in 1972 and 1975, as skipper of the Cincinnati Reds.

Cardenas...

Parties discuss candidacy

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Minority parties persisted Thursday in efforts to work out a potential coalition to support the renegade presidential candidacy of Cuauhtemoc Cardenas, son of one of Mexico's most revered 20th century leaders.

The tiny Socialist Workers Party on Wednesday became the second to commit to Cardenas' candidacy.

But even if the fractious parties form a united front, there was little likelihood they can defeat the powerhouse campaign of Carlos Salinas de Gortari, the candidate of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, to take office for a six-year term starting Dec. 1, 1988.

The PRI, which controls the government and therefore the electoral process, has not lost a presidential contest since its inception in 1929. The left never has won more than 10 percent of the presidential vote.

Nevertheless, there has been a flurry of political rhetoric by a range of minority parties in recent days over whether Cardenas should be the candidate for all of them.

The first to nominate the son of the late Lazaro Cardenas for president was the Authentic Party of the Mexican Revolution, or PARM. The party split from the PRI in 1955 but differs little in principle and until this year routinely supported the PRI presidential candidate.

Joining PARM triggered Cardenas' expulsion earlier this month from the PRI. The ruling party's leaders already were outraged at him for leading the Democratic Current, a reform movement within the PRI that demanded greater grassroots participation in the selection of the party's presidential candidate.

The Socialist Workers Party, known by the Spanish acronym PST, said it would nominate him at a weekend convention and would change its name next month to the Party of the Cardenas Front of National Reconstruction.

Meanwhile, the Mexican Socialist Party, or PMS, the largest of Mexico's leftist parties, issued a call for all the minority parties to participate in a joint primary election to pick a single candidate.

The PMS has picked a candidate, Heberto Castillo, in the nation's first primary election, but has said his selection is not definite. Castillo has hinted he might step aside for Cardenas, whose name could be expected to attract more voters.

However, the Popular Socialist Party, or PPS, and the Revolutionary Workers Party, plus the PST and the PARM all have said they oppose joint primaries.

The PARM immediately rejected the call for a primary, but said Cardenas could participate in such an arrangement if he wants.

PPS leader Jorge Cruickshank said it would be "most difficult" for the leftists to present a united candidate, but added PPS officials were talking to the other leftist parties about such a possibility.

These debates have not included the conservative National Action Party, the largest minority party in Mexico.

When the Democratic Current failed to make any substantial changes in the PRI, Cardenas, a former governor of the central state of Michoacan, bolted the ruling party and went to the PARM.

Cardenas' father was president of Mexico from 1934 through 1940 and is best remembered for his expropriation of foreign oil holdings during his term.

An August 1986 eruption of carbon monoxide gas from Lake Nyos in Cameroon snuffed out 1,700 lives. A similar incident at nearby Lake Monoun in August of 1984 killed 37. They are the only recorded events in which gas released from lakes has caused human deaths.

Police expect no more than pranks

LEVELLAND, Texas (AP) — Police are reassuring townspeople worried about reports of devil worshippers that Halloween will be no more dangerous than any other night.

For weeks, rumors have circulated about a group of devil worshipers who held satanic rituals that included the sacrificing of animals.

Authorities even found an abandoned farmhouse where the satanists purportedly met. But there was nary a drop of blood at the scene — only red paint and empty beer cans, said police investigator Tom McCain.

He said the walls were splattered with hand prints, upside-down crosses, pentagrams and 666, a biblical symbol for the Antichrist. McCain said phrases such as "Satan will forever be your savior" also adorned the walls.

But no dead animals or blood were found at the house, he said.

"The house had been shot up with guns and there were beer cans everywhere, but that's about the extent of it," McCain said.

He said the fire department later burned down the house at the request of the owner, who was concerned about liability problems.

McCain said that if the group is meeting somewhere else now, police have not heard where. He said the group has done nothing illegal that would warrant arrest.

"We are trying to stay abreast in this whole situation. We can't ignore it because if something were to happen, we would be blamed for not taking precautions or looking into it," he said Thursday.

A Levelland High School teacher said the rumors apparently began in September when a transfer student brought a book to school and told other students that it was a satanic bible.

She said the boy, who liked heavy metal music, had several friends who were also "punk rockers." The group then began telling their classmates that they were devil worshipers.

"They even convinced the kids that they were going to sacrifice a cheerleader or twirler on Halloween," she said.

She said rumors have grown to include stories about devil worshipers from Dallas, Houston, Albuquerque, N.M., and California coming to Levelland for a big "convention."

Hockley County Sheriff Leroy Schulle said the situation has been "blown completely out of proportion."

The sheriff's office has checked into some of the rumors and talked with the youths supposedly involved, but have found nothing to substantiate the stories, Schulle said.

To try to put the people at ease somewhat on Halloween, Schulle said there will be two officers at each of the school carnivals and extra police on patrol throughout town.

Pickens group has extended its offer

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A T. Boone Pickens-led investor group has extended its $4.3 billion tender offer for Newmont Mining Corp. for two weeks while appealing a bid to foil its takeover attempt.

Ivanhoe Partners said Thursday it was extending its tender offer through Nov. 12, pending a ruling by Delaware Justice Andrew G. Moore II on its appeal contesting the $1.5 billion Newmont stock purchase by Consolidated Gold Field PLC of London.

A hearing is scheduled for Wednesday, six days after the original offer was to expire.

Ivanhoe also is seeking a temporary restraining order in a San Francisco appeals court to quash Gold Fields' purchase of Newmont stock that gave it more than 49 percent ownership in Newmont.

So far, about 6.2 million shares had been tendered to Ivanhoe, the Pickens group said.

Pickens has contended that, through the use of the market sweep, Newmont froze Ivanhoe's $95-per-share offer to buy 90 percent of the company, while two months earlier the gold company had accepted a bid of $45 by Gold Fields to bring that company's total ownership to 49.7 percent.

The Pickens offer for majority interest was reduced from $105 to $72 per share after Newmont announced a $33 cash dividend to all shareholders, including Ivanhoe. Newmont has about 66.8 million shares outstanding.

Pickens, who has been pursuing Newmont through Ivanhoe Partners since September, has said he bought close to 7 million shares of Newmont stock at an average share price of $64.25.

Art works at church here Sunday

Art work by Kenneth Wyatt of Tulia, speaker for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce banquet last spring, will be displayed after the Sunday morning services at Trinity United Methodist Church.

The art show will begin around 1 p.m. following a noon church meal. The works, which will be for sale, will be displayed in the Fellowship Hall.

All individuals are invited to the art show.

House bargaining position undercut

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Jim Wright admits that the one-vote House margin in favor of a Democratic tax increase plan doesn't help his bargaining position with the White House in deficit-reduction talks.

But Wright, D-Texas, also says failure to approve the bill would have sent the wrong signal to financial markets, where analysts are looking for signs that Congress is serious about stemming the government's red ink.

A day-long debate Thursday over the tax plan generated bitterness contrasting sharply with the bipartisanship that President Reagan and congressional leaders have tried to display this week in their deficit-reduction negotiations.

Only one Republican — Rep. Jim Jeffords of Vermont — sided with Democrats when, on a 206-205 vote, they approved the plan produced by the Democratic leadership. Forty-one Democrats voted no, including some liberals usually allied with the leaders.

"I think there's just a lot of nervousness ... on any vote about deficit reduction," Wright told reporters. Despite turning an embarrassing defeat earlier in the day into the razor-thin victory, Wright acknowledged he was left in a less-than-powerful position for negotiations with the White House.

"Nobody's got a real strong hand," Wright said.

The Democratic bill would:

—Increase revenues by $12 billion during the 12 months that began Oct. 1, chiefly by boosting taxes on corporations and upper-income individuals. Neither income-tax rates nor excise taxes would be increased, although the 3 percent telephone tax would be extended three years beyond its scheduled Dec. 31 expiration.

—Cut selected spending programs by $2.5 billion, with Medicare reimbursements to doctors and hospitals bearing the biggest share.

—Grant a 3 percent pay raise to members of Congress and federal employees in 1988. Lawmakers' pay would rise to about $92,200.

—Direct the House Appropriations Committee to vote about $8.5 billion in additional spending cuts in defense and social programs.

That would add up to the minimum $23 billion deficit reduction that the Gramm-Rudman law requires Congress and the president to agree on for the 12 months that began Oct. 1. Without an agreement, automatic spending cuts of $23 billion would take effect Nov. 20.

Although the Senate Finance Committee has produced its own tax increase bill, the Senate is unlikely to consider any such deficit-reduction plan until the Congress-White House negotiations conclude. The negotiators, who were resuming work today, are aiming to complete a package late next week.

House Republicans had insisted that the Democratic bill be shelved pending the negotiations. They accused the Democratic leadership of an abuse of power in ramming the bill through.

"At the time the country is crying out for bipartisan cooperation ... the House is hardening the line, making it more difficult for negotiators to reach a compromise," complained Rep. Willis Gradison, R-Ohio.

"The world is waiting, the nervous markets are waiting," Wright responded. "If we refuse to perform this duty today, we go empty-handed into the negotiations."

Wright's one-vote victory came when Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Texas, seeing on closed-circuit television how close the vote was, rushed back to the House floor and changed his vote to "yes" because he didn't want to be the one who killed the bill.

Both presidential candidates in the House, Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., and Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., missed the vote.

Rural accidents worked by DPS

The Department of Public Safety Friday reported two car-truck accidents, neither of which involved any injuries.

A 1965 Chevrolet truck driven by Bobby Carroll Straley, 47, of Sweetwater was in collision with a 1985 Plymouth four-door driven by Orlando Harris Darrell, 29, of Houston at 3:55 a.m. Thursday 16 miles south of Snyder on U.S. 84.

A trooper said the car was northbound on 84 and the truck was coming onto the highway from an intersecting road when the collision occurred.

A 1981 Chevrolet truck driven by Tommy DeLoera Jr., 26, of 2200 Ave. L was in collision with a 1982 Dodge two-door driven by Imagene Hamer Webber, 63, of Colorado City at 3:50 p.m. Wednesday eight miles south of Snyder on Highway 208.

The DPS said both vehicles were southbound when the car was attempting to pass the truck as the truck made a left turn.

Shoplifting said cause of arrests

An 18-year-old man who allegedly left a College Ave. department store with a jacket he had not paid for Thursday was subsequently stopped by city police and charged with Class C theft.

The incident was reported at 12:32 p.m.

Also, two 13-year-old boys were taken into custody for shoplifting at 5:59 p.m. at another College Ave. store. They were later released to their parents.

A 21-year-old woman was arrested for DWI at 2:29 a.m. Friday at 19th St. and College.

Two collisions here Thursday

Police investigated two minor accidents Thursday, one in a parking lot off College Ave. and 35th St. and the other in the 2700 Block of 38th St.

A 1985 Dodge two-door driven by Michelle Lee Surratt of 410 30th St. was in collision with a 1977 Chevrolet pickup driven by William Keith Myers of 3115 39th St. at 4:03 p.m. in the parking lot.

A 1982 Chevrolet Blazer driven by Maria Catalina Deltoro of 1911 College was in collision with a 1987 Honda driven by Jerry P. Worsham of 3011 ½ Ave. X at 3:42 p.m. on 38th St.

Iranian missile hits in Baghdad

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The military said an Iranian missile slammed into a residential area of the city early today, killing an unspecified number of civilians. Iran said the missile was aimed at Iraq's air force command.

An Iraqi military spokesman said "a number of citizens were martyred and another number wounded" when the missile hit Baghdad.

The spokesman, who was not identified, also said the missile demolished a number of civilian residences and damaged others. The statement was carried by state-run Baghdad radio, monitored in Cyprus.

"Iraq will not let these crimes pass without a severe punishment at the appropriate time," said the spokesman. He did not elaborate.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, also monitored in Cyprus, reported the surface-to-surface missile was fired at 1:07 a.m. at a building housing the air force command in central Baghdad.

The report did not say where the missile was fired from, but the nearest Iranian border is 78 miles east of Baghdad.
