Weather Service Complex To Be Dedicated Friday

A new office building and observatory will be dedicated Friday, at the National Weather Service complex in Amarillo.

The NWS, which serves Gray and 25 other Texas Panhandle counties, has constructed the new facilities at a cost of $173,000 on the old English Field side of the Amarillo airport terminal.

The structure replaces offices in the former airport terminal building. It will also house the Weather Service's high-powered weather radar — one of 51 such radars in the nation.

Buildings and equipment represent a taxpayer investment of nearly $400,000, according to W.F. Frank, meteorologist in charge.

"There is a common misconception that we serve only the immediate Amarillo area," Frank said. "Actually we're responsible for storm warning services for 26 counties in the Texas Panhandle, two counties comprising the Oklahoma Panhandle and three counties in New Mexico."

Frank said the National Weather Service wire in Amarillo connects to dozens of outlets — radio, TV and newspapers — in the area.

Another important activity of the Amarillo weather station is to make measurements of pressure, temperature, humidity and winds from the surface to about 100,000 feet.

The NWS weather observer in Pampa is Darrell Seahorn at KORO radio station.

The Amarillo weather offices are manned by a staff of 18 that maintains a 24-hour, 7-day per week radar surveillance for potentially dangerous storms and issues weather warnings.

Friday's dedication is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. and will be open to the public.

Old Junior Hi Property May Be Auctioned

The fate of the old Pampa Junior High property in the 300 block between N. Cuyler and N. Russell Streets could be decided when the Pampa School Board of Trustees meets Monday.

Dr. Dan Long, superintendent of schools, has notified board members that three auction firms have been contacted concerning the property.

Dr. Long said replies from all three firms are expected to be available before the board convenes at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

If the property is auctioned, the building, property, and contents will be put on the block for purchase by the highest bidder.

Dr. Long recommended to the board in February that surplus items from throughout the school district including business machines, science equipment, tables, chairs, desks, and more — be included in the auction.

Dr. Long is expected to recommend that the board authorize the school district's attorney, Jimmy Thompson, to finalize plans for the sale.

The building was closed three years ago when school board action moved all seventh grade students to a middle school and transferred all eighth and ninth grade students to Robert E. Lee Junior High.

Unemployment Holds

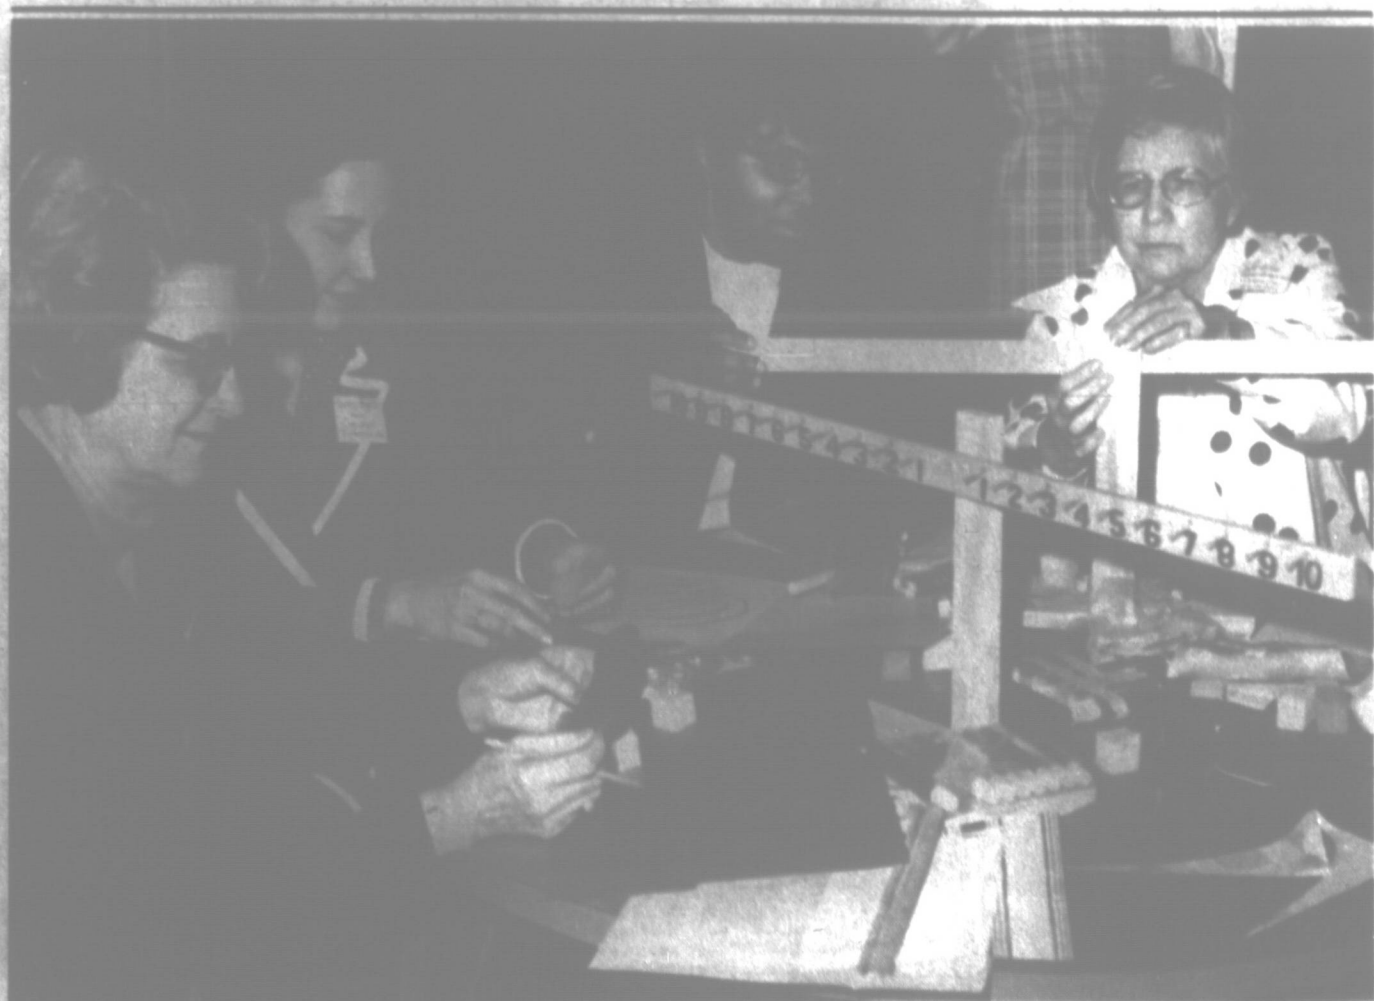

WASHINGTON UPI — Unemployment in the nation held steady at 8.2 per cent — or 7.5 million persons — between January and February. It was the first time since last June the figure did not rise from one month to another. But nobody seemed very cheerful about the news. Labor Department figures showed that the reason the rate held steady was that 580,000 persons, mostly women and teenagers, stopped looking for jobs.

Commissioners To Act On Crime, Cabs

Pampa participation in the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission's Crime Prevention Project and action on a requested change in rates by the Yellow Cab Co. will top a 12-item agenda when the City Commission meets in regular semi-monthly session at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

Other items up for consideration will include:

- First reading of an ordinance expanding mobile home areas.
- Proposed fire and tax service contracts with Gray County.
- Public hearing on proposed demolition of abandoned buildings at 508 Elm, 518 Naida, 500 N. Zimmers, 901 S. Henry, 444 E. Campbell, 400 Rider and 123 W. Tuke.
- Appointment of an auditing firm to prepare the city audit report for fiscal 1974-75.
- Appointment of one member to fill a vacancy on the City Electrical Board.
- Authorization for an amendment to current rates paid for city employees' health insurance.
- Recommendations from the City Plumbing Code study committee.

Mills To Be Named Chief; 'Unrest' Reported In PD

By TEK DEWEESE

The Pampa News learned Saturday night that Richard Mills, 35-year-old chief of police at Lake Worth, Texas, is expected to be recommended Monday to fill the police chief vacancy in Pampa.

The News was informed from two responsible sources who said they learned late Friday afternoon an out-of-town applicant already had been agreed upon and will be in town Monday.

Both of the sources reported that Acting Police Chief George B. Wallace, one of the local applicants, had been notified appointment of the out-of-town man would be made.

An Amarillo television station carried a report in its 6 p.m. Saturday newscast "It had learned Richard Mills, a police chief in the Fort Worth area might be Pampa's new chief."

The TV report stated a telephone tip had been received from a Pampa citizen. In a call to officials in Lake Worth, where Mills is chief the TV reporter said it was learned Mills had been in Pampa for an interview two weeks ago.

The News was unable to reach Chief Mills at his home or office last night.

City Manager Wofford's only comment on the Saturday reports and rumors was that he intends to appear before the City Commission at 11 a.m. Monday, make his recommendation for the post and ask the commissioners to accept or reject it.

The meeting in the City Hall Commission Room will be open to the public.

According to reports the applicant to be recommended is to be met at the Amarillo Air Terminal early Monday forenoon and will arrive in Pampa in time for the 11 o'clock meeting.

Reports also were in circulation Saturday that there was unrest among members of the police department, five of whom were applicants for the post last vacant last Jan. 1 by the death of Chief James B. Conner.

There were even reports late Saturday on the possibility of police department resignations because of what was described as "the way the entire matter has been handled by the city commission."

Among the allegations was one that local applicants for the chief's job had not been granted "even the courtesy of a brief interview."

City Manager Wofford said Saturday, in answer to that charge, he had talked with all of the local applicants individually and added it was true they had not been interviewed by city commissioners at any of their closed door sessions.

The city manager said he had received no indication there would be any kind of large-scale walkout of police department members.

In fact, Wofford said, "I have had indications to the contrary so far as I can learn only a small minority has had anything like that in mind."

Wofford said he had enough confidence in police department personnel to believe they would not participate in action of that kind.

Tomorrow morning's meeting should not last longer than a minute or two, in the city manager's opinion.

"I intend to place copies of a one-sentence statement before each commissioner," he said. "They can vote on it and that's it. It could all be over in thirty seconds."

In all probability, from reports in circulation Saturday, the new police chief will be introduced at the meeting if the city manager's recommendation is approved.

Pampa Youth Wins DE Award At State Meet

Troy Hester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Hester of 2221 N. Nelson, was named Boy Student of the Year Saturday night at an awards banquet in San Antonio which concluded the statewide conference of the Texas Association of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA).

Hester, who was presented a plaque at the banquet, was selected from 12 area winners. The selection was based on chapter and state activities, over all school record, scholastic standing, performance in DE vocational program in school and on the job, state competitive events, and an interview with the judges.

Hester is a senior at Pampa High School and is employed by Culbertson - Stowers Chevrolet, Inc.

Rebel Forces Attack Vital Cambodian Base

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Pro-Communist Rebel forces staged a major attack on a vital army headquarters six miles northwest of Phnom Penh today.

The government rushed up reinforcements and claimed 143 insurgents were killed in the intense fighting around the base near Prek Phneou.

On the other side of the besieged capital an estimated 1,000 government troops were bogged down in swampland half a mile short of rebel artillery and rocket positions around battered Pochentong airport.

The army had set a Friday deadline for clearing the "rocket belt," but issued no report today on the fate of the desperate mission.

The three-battalion government force hoped to recapture rebel strongholds near Tuol Leap, where Communist gunners have been pounding away at the airport, threatening the massive U.S. airlift of fuel, supplies and ammunition.

In Peking, Cambodian exile leader Norodom Sihanouk Friday called on "all governments of the world" to demand an end to American involvement in Cambodia, the New China News Agency said.

Sihanouk, nominal head of the Communist-led Khmer Rouge, has been living in the Chinese capital since he was deposed in a coup in March, 1970.

The threatened base at Prek Phneou is the headquarters of the Cambodian 7th Division, an elite unit which formerly served with U.S. Special Forces in South Vietnam and was transferred home several years ago.

Their previous defense position eight miles northwest of the capital was abandoned under enemy attack last month.

Should their position become untenable the troops would likely fall back to new defense lines closer to the capital.

As U.S. planes landed at eight-minute intervals with vital supplies today, foreign officials began the evacuation of non-essential personnel.

A Vietnam Air Force C130 plane flew out 50 South Vietnamese Friday. About 100 South Koreans were also scheduled to leave.

A helicopter carrier with a full battalion of marines is standing by along with U.S. helicopters and aircraft in Thailand to help get American personnel out of the city if necessary.

The U.S. Embassy has only 200 persons in Phnom Penh, virtually all of them considered essential. Several are known to be working on various contingency plans to get American citizens out.

Cambodian Aid May Be Only 'Humanitarian'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday he doubts Congress will approve any additional military aid to Cambodia or South Vietnam, but it may offer humanitarian assistance.

"We've been going through too many tunnels and have never really seen the light," Mansfield said. "The odds are against the Senate approving such a proposal."

The administration has appealed to Congress to provide $222 million in emergency assistance to Cambodia which it says is in danger of falling to Communist forces in a matter of weeks without aid. The administration also wants $300 million for South Vietnam.

Inherently Religious

John Howard, president of Rockford (Ill.) College remarked that "in the case of the separation of education and government, there has been no traditional axiom comparable to the separation of church and state."

We think Dr. Howard meant classroom schooling when he used the term "education," but the point is approximately the same. The U.S. Constitution does not mandate a separation of religion and government, but only prohibits Congress from making laws respecting an establishment of religion and from requiring a religious oath for the holding of a public office. The bans thus apply to the organization and ritual that grow out of religious convictions, not to the convictions themselves.

In the same sense, "education" cannot be separated from any activity of life. Even an illiterate learns something in the course of his life and, if his learning happens to be of a constructive bent, it constitutes education to some degree. On the other hand, classroom schooling is the overt technique and organization commonly associated with the educating process. It may or may not result in education, just as church-going may not terminate in worship, but there is a relationship between the two.

If therefore schooling is organization in the same way that a church is organization, why is it not as feasible to separate one from the government as the other?

The answer usually comes back that, without taxation, the poor could not be schooled. Yet this is like what is said in the church-state countries that, without taxation, the poor would go unchurched. We in this land know from experience that the poor are not charged for their pew, yet the churches thrive.

Another explanation ventured for the involvement of schooling with government is the claim that the same reason for separation does not pertain. Surely the close connection between culture and religious faith should alert us to the possibility that the claim overlooks pertinent linkages. The banning of a particular book, i.e. the Bible, from the ordinary classroom is arbitrary on its face. The effective prohibition of student or teacher prayer amounts to a state denial of free speech. Ban of sectarian doctrine in a classroom is not—as commonly believed—a religious neutrality. For the absence of religious doctrine leaves only man-made explanation and this negation constitutes a doctrine.

Because schooling is inherently religious, either positively or negatively, the reason for a separation from the state is not only apparent, but glaringly obvious.

Dear Abby

It's not hopeless, even for King Kong

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, I married a kind and gentle man. We were so much in love.

Being newlyweds, the credit cards and offers from loan companies started coming in the mails, left and right.

My husband tried to make me understand that we should put the credit cards away to be used only as credit references, but I was stubborn and greedy and wouldn't listen to him.

Now, two years later, we are up to our ears in debt, being hassled by lawyers who represent merchants and loan companies. They are threatening to repossess our car and furniture.

My husband makes $4.50 an hour, but we are so deep in debt and so far behind in payments that our credit is ruined and we can't even get a pack of cigarettes on credit. We owe more than $5,000.

I've called banks, loan companies and savings and loan associations trying to borrow money to pay off our debts, and they all turned us down because of our bad credit rating.

Am I working? No. I have no special skills. Besides I'm black, a woman and weigh 335. I don't mind hard work, but when I apply for a job, they look at me like King Kong just came in.

Please help me, Abby. Things have never looked so hopeless.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Each payday pay SOMETHING—no matter how little—to each creditor. That will show your good faith, and restore your credit in time. (Consistently ignoring your creditors only damages your credit rating more.)

Overeaters Anonymous has the solution for your weight problem, but, like Alcoholics Anonymous, you have to go to them. The longest march in the world started with one step, so get going, good luck, and God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38-year-old woman who recently won a six-month cruise around the world. My husband is in prison. In the meantime, I've become interested in another man. My husband is not aware of this other man, and the other man doesn't know that I have a husband.

The other man has asked me if he could join me on the cruise. I would enjoy having his company, but I would feel that I was being unfaithful to my husband.

What do you think?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: I think you're already in deep water. If you want to travel, travel alone.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 54-year-old widower. I had a very good 33-year marriage with my one and only wife. I met a woman a few months ago, and we became very much attracted to each other. She is 44, and we are talking marriage, but there is something in the back of my mind that bothers me.

This woman has been married three times before. She was divorced from her first husband, and her second and third committed suicide. I have a feeling that if she couldn't make a success of three marriages there must be something wrong with her.

What do you think?

HAVING DOUBTS

DEAR HAVING: Don't jump to any conclusions. Get to know her better, and judge her for yourself.

Douglas to Quit High Court?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, March 9 — Somebody must know something (or think they do), and is putting out the word.

That may explain the sudden rash of recommendations and suggestions to the White House on a possible appointee to the Supreme Court.

Presumably the anticipated vacancy involves Justice William O. Douglas—76-year-old radical who has been hospitalized two months by a stroke which paralyzed his left side.

If he is considering resigning, he has given no hint to the White House.

Yet out of the clear blue the President is getting a batch of unsolicited advice on who to name to the tribunal.

Significantly virtually all of it is coming from sources ideologically attuned to Douglas. That's why this remarkable barrage is so intriguing and conceivably portentous.

Maybe a leftist intimate of the stricken jurist has been let in on a secret and has been talking. Illustrative of these moves is the one in behalf of Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the Judiciary Committee which after weeks of hearings last year recommended impeachment of President Nixon.

His enthusiastic promoter is Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., member of the committee who publicly branded Mr. Nixon as "guilty" before the hearings. The first black member of the Texas senate in 90 years, Ms. Jordan, serving her second term in Congress, admittedly has loftier ambitions—such as a place on the Democratic presidential ticket.

One thing is dead certain—Rodino will never be appointed to the Supreme Court by President Ford. And neither will any of the others being so mysteriously touted by these quarters. That's a cinch.

Which in a roundabout way may be the reason for this strange propaganda drive.

Perhaps it's a circuitous effort to sound out the President on a possible arrangement on Douglas's successor, that is, the aged and paralyzed Justice will quit if given some idea who will be named in the place.

Of course, it would be asked—why bother?

At 76, unable to walk and his left arm of little use, Douglas's continuance on the bench is of limited duration, at best.

Long Needed Reform

A group of influential Southern Senators are quietly but vigorously pressuring the Democratic leadership for early consideration of a far-reaching proposal affecting the federal judiciary.

It's constitutional amendment to limit the terms of all federal judges to eight years with automatic reappointment for another eight years subject to reconfirmation by the Senate. Sitting judges would not be affected. Also, should be a judge be turned down for another term by the Senate, he would be retired with full pay.

Sponsors of the plan are Sens. Harry Byrd, Ind.-Va., Eugene Talmadge, D-Ga., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., Jessie Helms R-N.C., Sam Nunn, D-Ga., James Allen, D-Ala. Also lined up with them is a westerner—Jake Garn.

D-Utah.

Basis of their demand for this eventual constitutional change are three major contentions: Forty-nine of the 50 states now have fixed terms for their judges. Rhode Island alone still retains life tenure for judges.

Judges accountable to no one are invading the sphere of elected legislators and handing down decrees of vast impact on every aspect of the country.

In the past two decades, first the Supreme Court and then the lower federal courts have arbitrarily discarded their traditional doctrine of "judicial restraint" and set themselves up as lawmakers as well as law interpreters.

Points out Sen. Byrd: "For well over a century after the creation of our nation, the unwritten canon of judicial restraint was one of our most hallowed legal principles. It was repeatedly enunciated by such illustrious justices as Holmes, Hughes, Stone, Brandeis, Frankfurter. But lately in all too many instances, federal courts have gone far beyond the sphere of interpreting the law and have taken upon themselves to make law."

New Caesars

In the turbulent and distraught world of today, there is no longer justification for lifetime judges; they are an anomaly which should be abolished.

Pertinently asks Sen. Byrd:

"Why should an official in a modern democracy such as ours have lifetime tenure? That is basically inequitable and contrary to the spirit and requirement of democracy. Life tenure, devoid of restraint and accountability, is not consistent with democratic government."

Significantly there has been no public challenge of these arguments in Congress.

None of the usually highly vocal liberals and crusaders have said a word in denial or refutation. One reason may be that decades ago, Sen. Robert M. La Follette, Sr., Wis., leading reformer of his day, scathingly assailed the "alarming usurpation of power by federal courts" and advocated drastic measures to "curb them."

But the proposal's backers have considerable legislative know-how and clout, and clearly mean business.

Addendum: No one is mentioning it, but unquestionably a major obstacle to granting a pay raise to federal judges is the widespread resentment against them in and out of Congress. Both individually and as a whole, the federal judiciary is decidedly in the dog house.

The Story Of TWA's Giant Energy Grab

By H.C. GORDON

In 1934, when the Supreme Court upheld the right of the Tennessee Valley Authority to engage in the direct sale of electric power, Justice James McReynolds issued an incisive and prophetic dissent. TVA, he declared, had embarked upon a "pretentious scheme" to standardize the rates of private utilities and to attain "no less a goal than the electrification of America."

The relentless expansion of TVA over the ensuing decades has given an ominous tone to Justice McReynolds' initial warning. Today, TVA is the largest supplier of electricity in the United States; a multi-billion dollar federal octopus with an ever-widening network of tentacles.

In light of this fact, TVA's current efforts to acquire Peabody Coal—this country's largest single coal producer—can only be viewed with the gravest misgivings. Such a move, many observers believe, would actually be a giant step toward nationalization of the entire industry.

What does TVA want with Peabody Coal? The answer is even more intriguing than the question.

Although it was supposedly created for the purpose of improving navigation and flood control through the construction of a series of dams (with hydroelectric power to be merely an "incidental" benefit of the project) TVA had not been long in the energy business before it came to rely predominantly on coal-fired steam generators to maintain and expand its service. At the present time it is the biggest coal consumer in the country, with coal-fired steam accounting for over 75 percent of its generating capacity.

But this fact in itself is insufficient either to explain or to justify TVA's designs on Peabody. TVA already owns thousands of acres of coal-rich lands; its estimated reserves are between 400 and 500 million tons. Furthermore, its annual consumption of coal is only 35 million tons while Peabody's annual production is 70 million tons.

What private coal companies fear (and TVA's ruthless treatment of competitors in the past gives them ample cause) is that if TVA—a tax-exempt, federally subsidized corporation—is allowed to acquire Peabody, it will dump the surplus coal on the market at a price with which they will be unable to compete. Alternatively, it might be added that if TVA acquires Peabody and decides to produce only enough coal for its own requirements, the consuming public will be denied the energy value of 35 million tons of coal a year.

What irony! At a time when private energy companies are being routinely denounced as greedy, power-grasping monopolists—indifferent to the consumers' welfare—a public service corporation is empire building in a manner worthy of Commodore Vanderbilt.

The irony is compounded by the fact that Peabody's parent company, Kennecott Copper, is being forced to sell its subsidiary by order of the Federal Trade Commission. The Commission ruled (and was subsequently affirmed by the federal courts) that since Kennecott already owned a small coal mining operation when it acquired Peabody, its acquisition of a major competitor constituted a violation of the antitrust laws. It may thus be safely said that if TVA were a private concern there is no way in which it would be permitted to conclude such a transaction.

Fortunately, there are several private companies which are also interested in buying Peabody—none of which are presently engaged in coal mining. Also, fortunately, there appears to be growing opposition in Congress to TVA's proposed purchase. This is well indeed. If this deal goes through it will mark a significant milestone on the road to socialism.

WITH THE possibility of a police chief being appointed tomorrow there will be no aside remarks here this week about the delay that has been going on over the issue for the past few weeks.

City Manager Mack Wofford said during the weekend he's going to make a recommendation for the appointment at a public meeting called for 11 a.m. Monday in City Hall.

The question now is—will the City Commission accept or reject it? Well, why don't you drop down to City Hall tomorrow forenoon and get the answer.

Unlike all the closed-door meetings held so far to discuss the matter, tomorrow's session will be open to the public.

LET'S TALK about the recent livestock shows and sales—the Gray County Junior Livestock Show sponsored by the Pampa Lions Club a week ago yesterday and the Top O' Texas Livestock Show that ended Wednesday under sponsorship of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Both events were the greatest ever. The Gray County Show was the biggest in its history and Lions Club officials are to be congratulated for the results and the incentive provided for county 4-H and FFA members.

The T O T Show and Sale for FFA and 4-H boys and girls with record entries from seven area counties and the Hereford Breeders Show and Sale held in conjunction with the Junior Livestock event also wound up top-drawer. In view of current economic conditions prices held much firmer than expected and the support given by Pampa merchants and the public was excellent.

Analysis of this year's shows gives birth to enthusiastic planning and promise for an even bigger and better Livestock Week in 1976.

Pampa's show and sale facilities have been so improved that the local stock show and sale portends to be one of the major events of its kind.

A lot of credit must go to a lot of people and business firms for the success of Pampa's livestock shows.

Included in the long list would be scores of individuals. First National Bank, Citizens Bank & Trust Co., Top O' Texas Rodeo Association, county agents, 4-H and FFA sponsors, area high school ag teachers, cattle and swine breeders, individual and business firm bidders and buyers and, of course, the host of stock show attendants and helpers in the many categories that keep a stock show moving.

Education Board Requests Halt In Textbook Suits

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The State Board of Education passed a resolution Saturday over considerable dissent asking Attorney General John L. Hill to intervene in a publisher's suit against three witnesses who blocked adoption of the company's textbooks.

A resolution asking Economy Publishing Co. to drop the slander suit against three women was also adopted by the board, but not without several members protesting the legality of the action.

"When a state board recommends to anyone that a suit be withdrawn, we're in trouble," Woodrow W. Bean, of El Paso, said.

"The courts are there and the courts will decide what suits are dismissed."

Bean said proper board action would be to ask the legislature to pass a bill providing testimony at textbook hearings be privileged.

Named in Economy's suit are Mrs. R.C. Bearden Jr. of San Angelo; Mrs. B.C. Hutcheson of Fort Worth; and Linda Elchblatt of Spring Lake. The women called Economy's seventh and eighth-grade readers immoral, sexist and violent at a board hearing in November.

By the November hearing the texts had been recommended favorably by the State Textbook Committee and commissioner of education. Following the witnesses' testimony, board members voted against adoption of Economy's texts.

"I can along with withdrawing the suit, but I can't go along with the second resolution (asking the attorney general to intervene)," Dr. Joseph C. Gathe, of Houston, said.

"We're basically holding the gun to their head by passing that second resolution," Gathe said. "This would be establishing a terrible precedent."

"I feel like this resolution in its purest form is strictly an emotional reaction," Duane J. McCullough, of Corpus Christi, said. "The courts will defend the protesters right to free speech if indeed their free speech is threatened."

A proponent for the resolutions said action needed to be taken to insure the public could testify at textbook hearings without fear of lawsuits.

Sunflowers May Shine in Texas Fields

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — A new cash crop is coming up through the Texas high plains which may pump $30 million to $50 million into the sagging economy this year, agricultural officials predict.

The crop is sunflowers. Totaling only 5,000 last year, Texas sunflower acreage is expected to exceed 200,000 in 1977 — and eventually could go as high as 400,000.

"It's expected to be one of the biggest jumps in any crop acreage in recent years on the high plains," said Dr. James Supak, an agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service stationed at Lubbock. "The sunflower industry had expected an increase, but the prospects of acreage in excess of 200,000 acres has caught many by surprise," Supak said. "Many farmers will be planting the crop for the first time this year."

Supak attributes the sudden increase to producer concerns about traditional markets and the need for more cash crops with low water and plant nutrient requirements.

"What prompted many to consider jumping onto the sunflower wagon was the availability of firm, profitable contracts for sunflower seed, plus the recent development of sunflower hybrids," Supak said. Before 1973, only open-pollinated varieties — largely of Russian origin — were available for commercial production, he said. Since then several sunflower hybrids have been introduced.

"Hybrids provide higher yields and are more uniform in emergence, flowering, maturity and height," Supak said. "This permits more effective insecticide treatments and harvesting. Hybrids also exhibit some resistance to potentially damaging diseases."

Sunflowers are generally adapted to any area where cotton, grain sorghum, corn and soybeans can be grown, he said. They are considered a drought-tolerant crop, and seedlings are hardy plants which seem to tolerate higher levels of hail, wind and sand abrasion.

"Sunflowers are the world's second largest source of vegetable oil, ranking only behind soybeans," he said. "About a half million acres of oil-types are grown in the U.S. annually, and of that 7,000 acres were produced in Texas last year."

Supak said that dryland yields are expected to range from 500 to 1,000 pounds per acre. Irrigated yields may range from 1,200 to 2,500 pounds per acre.

"Farmers will be hampered by many unknowns about this new crop," he said. "We don't have answers for insect control, yields under varying soil and climate conditions, disease resistance levels of new hybrids, and other important questions."

"But as more and more farmers become involved with sunflowers, we will get these answers — and get them rapidly."

ENDANGERED REPTILE — Known to zoologists as Alligator mississippiensis, the largest American reptile's existence is threatened as development projects divert water away from their wildlife refuges.

Vet Lists House Plants

By DR. H. P. JANS, D.V.M.
Copley News Service

Q. Some time ago I read an article listing different house plants which are poisonous to curious cats which might nibble on the leaves. I would appreciate a listing because we wouldn't want anything to happen to our adorable snow-white cat, Sadie. — Mrs. M.P., Orient, Ohio

A. There are some poisonous house plants, namely: the leaf ivies, mountain laurel and philodendron. More commonly found toxic plants outside the house would include: oleander, picrocanthus berries, and two varieties of mushroom. House cats, as a rule, are quite fastidious and are not interested in eating plant leaves. I would not worry about Sadie being harmed by them.

Q. I have an English bulldog, about 18 months old. He is house broken, but lately I often find his bed wet in the morning. I cannot understand this as he is a healthy dog. He sleeps in the kitchen and is a great pet in every way. I always take him out the last thing every night. I've had English bulldogs all my life, but never experienced anything like this. I am greatly disturbed about his condition. — E.F., Shurlocke, Nova Scotia, Canada

A. The problem you describe is probably not just a habit, but rather portends a serious disease. Of course, certain dietary irregularities such as excesses of salt, spices, carbohydrates, etc., could be altering the chemistry of the fluid retention-elimination system, as well as a certain drug. It is advisable to have the animal's urine and blood tested for signs of specific urological or metabolic deviations from normal. Newer methods of testing in the

SUNDAY, MARCH 9

Your birthday today: The role of peacemaker or go-between is the task most often assigned to you in this year of numerous swiftly passing opportunities. You must rely largely on your own resources and should become more positive and independent in your decisions. Relationships thrive almost automatically. Today's natives have special talents for dealing with people of different viewpoints or foreign origins.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Put business or personal problems out of mind. Family and friends are in the mood to explore interesting places, taste unaccustomed food and pick up trinkets and novelties.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: On the spur of the moment, something is done that changes the situation. Emotional concern runs strong, carries people along. You stand to benefit from today's incidents.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Endless rounds of discussion are probable and desirable. Tensions disappear when every side of the issue is seen and judged. Spiritual values count now in your decisions.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: The personal touch makes the difference. Let bygones be bygones; begin wherever you are. Try to see everything as if it were all new and still had to be done painstakingly.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: It serves a purpose to display a bit of dignity as you fulfill your normal share of week-end formalities. This is a time for sentiment and gently reassuring your loved ones.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Peace of mind is promised during this slow-paced Sunday. Almost everybody seems only too eager to agree with you. Take care of the many small chores you have.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Settle outstanding obligations or at least agree on what they amount to and what you expect to do about them. Enjoy hobbies or sports. Celebrate tonight.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Gather associates for a good time, but leave shoptalk out of it. It's a great day for tall stories and practical jokes; just don't let them get to you.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Take a long look at your past. Then move ahead in the current situation with the applicable knowledge you've been able to acquire.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Everybody has a story to tell, including one you can learn from without repeating the experience yourself. Keep indulgence at an austere level; give your system a rest.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: In this Sunday's discussions, family skeletons pop out of every closet. You can catch up on the news by thoughtfully listening.

Places [Feb. 19-March 20]: Renew neglected contacts. Hopes and dreams are closer to reality. A search for scattered or misplaced possessions turns up something else you hadn't thought about lately.

Religions in America and Abroad Discussion at Varietas Club Meet

The Varietas Study Club met recently in the home of Mrs. J.E. Kirchman with the president, Mrs. Aubrey Sprawls, presiding. The club collect was led by Mrs. Price Dosier and the Pledge to the American flag was read by Mrs. J.R. Spearman. Mrs. Sherman White, secretary, read the minutes of the last two meetings.

Mrs. Dosier, project chairman, made a report on club projects, asking members to take books and magazines to the book shelves at Highland General Hospital. Members of the club made a contribution to the Friends of the Library.

Mrs. Sprawls reminded members that March 3 - 7 is Texas Education Week and she asked members to show support of the local schools by visiting them during that week.

Mrs. Kirchman led a discussion of "Religions in America and Abroad." She quoted Webster's Dictionary as defining religion as the service and adoration of God or a god, as expressed in forms of worship.

Other quotations were, "Religion is nothing else but love to God and man," "Religion is in the heart, not in the knee," and "Every religion is good that teaches man to be good."

Next, the speaker discussed the six major religions of the world: Hinduism, Mohammedanism, Buddhism, Islam, Judaism, and Christianity, tracing the characteristics, the history, the similarities, and the differences in these religions and comparing them with Christianity. She discussed the civilizing force and the influence of religions of different countries and urged tolerance of all religions.

Mrs. Rue Hestand completed the program by discussing parliamentary procedures.

Members attending the meeting were Mmes. W.A. Bohot, F.A. Cary, Price Dosier, S.C. Evans, J.E. Gibson, Lee Harrah, Rue H. Hestand, J.E. Kirchman, R.W. Lane, Raymond Morrison, L.B. Penick, J.R. Spearman, Aubrey Sprawls, Sherman White, and Abel Wood, and Miss Anna Pierce.

Club News

GOODWILL CLUB
Members of Goodwill Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday at the Flame Room for their regular meeting and luncheon.

Mrs. LaVerne Coombes, president, presided at the business meeting with each member answering roll call recalling "an old superstition." Mrs. Boots Barnett gave the council report reminding members of the coming activities: a style show, March 17, and the THDA District Convention in Dumas, April 10. The club baked home-made pies for the food sale at the Stock Show.

Miss Phyllis King, R.N. from Highland General Hospital talked on "Hypertension" using a large illustrated chart of the human heart. The biggest, single cause of strokes is untreated high blood pressure. Most people, however, can't tell when their blood pressure is high. They never know until their doctors tell them. If he should detect high blood pressure, then simply keep seeing him to treat it. This will considerably lessen your risk of having a stroke, she said. Miss King King and Mrs. Sybil Williams L.V.N. concluded the program by taking the members blood pressure.

A period of craft work followed with Mrs. Cecil Barnett instructing the group of making yarn pom-pom flowers.

Hostess for the luncheon was Sidney Jackson, who prepared a chicken and rice casserole. Members brought salads. The door prize was won by Laverne Coombes.

Those attending were Mmes. Ray Frazier, Paul Johnson, Helene Hogan, Laura Kilgore, Boots Barnett, Laverne Coombes, Sidney Jackson, and guests Carol Hammer, King and Williams.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. NYALS
The Texas Water Conservation Association held its annual convention February 26-28 through the 28th in Austin. Speakers for the program included Governor Dolph Briscoe, Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives Billy Clayton, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, State Senator Max Sherman and Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace. All speakers gave hardhitting positive addresses concerning the water and energy problems faced by the State of Texas. We are going to carry portions of the addresses of the speakers in our column. Today we carry the address of Governor Briscoe.

Governor's Address
"I am glad to join you — my friends in the Texas Water Conservation Association — again this year at your annual meeting. When I spoke to you last year, I told you of the creation of my Water Resource Conservation and Development Task Force. This Task Force was formed to advise and assist me in formulating a water program for Texas that would move the extensive planning by state, federal, and local agencies into an aggressive program of implementation.

A year ago we were at the beginning of a long road. We are no longer at the beginning we have charted our course and are underway. Most of you here today either attend meetings of the Task Force or receive information about its work through our mailing list. Therefore, I will not dwell in detail on all of the diligent work the Task Force has done over the productivity of those systems can be maintained. To further an orderly program of water importation, I am asking the Legislature for authority to negotiate with other states where we may find supplemental water sources. We will propose legislation to create master districts in areas where imported waters will be delivered in order to assure an effective mechanism for repaying the costs incurred. These proposals are not, however, the end — they are only the beginning.

As you know, I feel very strongly that a sound water program is one of the cornerstones of the vitality and well-being of our State. I recognize, however, that we cannot reach our long-range goals for Texas without equally aggressive action in other areas. In my recent State of the State address to the Legislature, I spoke of the fundamental rights of Texans. Securing these rights will be the compelling driving motivation of my administration. And within the framework of these rights we will pursue our water program. We must streamline governmental operation to eliminate every ounce of waste. The tax dollars of our citizens must be jealously protected and frugally spent. Each Texan, regardless of where he lives, or the economic condition of his family or his community is entitled to the opportunity to receive a quality education. In truth, providing this opportunity to all the people of Texas will return our richest dividends.

past year. The Short-Range Action Program for development of this State's water resources has been completed, and I have begun to translate these plans into actions both in the Legislature and on other fronts. The program proposes the full and timely development of Texas surface water resources. And because it takes many years to move a reservoir project from planning to construction, we propose that needed reservoirs be placed under construction in advance of anticipated needs. Twenty-seven reservoir projects are proposed for construction within the next five years, and necessary legislation to fund the State's share of this work has been sent to the Legislature for action.

We realize that there is still not enough water available to us to meet our long-range needs even after full development of our in-state surface water resources, those available to us through interstate compacts with wise conservation of available ground water resources. We are, therefore, seeking an import of water from outside our State. This is a top priority of the program and must be pursued with full strength and vigor. Of special concern to me is the availability of water supplies to our small towns and rural communities. We plan an aggressive program to make certain that every citizen in this State has a supply of drinking water adequate to protect good health. We propose that fresh water inflows be provided the bays and estuaries along our coast in order that the full

The climax of many 4-H projects took place last week with the McLean Livestock Show, Top o' Texas Livestock Show and the Gray County Food Show. It was the end of a lot of hard work and a lot of fun.

In the steer category of the McLean Livestock Show, Teresa Woods took second place and Bick Horn took third place in the Hereford division. Woods took second and Beth Smitherman took third in the Crossbred division.
In the barrow category, there were eleven winners. Bick Horn placed second, Eddie Brooks placed third, and Margaret Horn placed fourth in the York division. In the Duroc division, Beth Smitherman placed third, Lance Gabel placed fourth, Bryan Smitherman placed fifth, and Greg Gabel placed sixth. Susan Billingsley placed first and Mike Reynolds placed first and second in the heifer category.

The winners from the Top o' Texas Livestock Show and the Gray County Food Show will be named in next week's column. Monday, March 17, there will be a Simplicity Fashion Show at 1:30 in the Courthouse Annex. The models will be 4-H'ers and it is sure to be a good show. Make plans to attend and bring your friends.

Wood shortage is predicted

The United States will suffer from a wood shortage by the year 2000, according to the Wisconsin Paper Council. Although the United States now grows 23 per cent more wood than it cuts, government estimates predict there will be a doubling of demand for wood fiber in the next 30 years. — CNS

Weeds Major Problem For Wheat Producers

Windshield surveys do not show it, yet most wheat fields are full of weeds. Closer observation shows that all fields have some weeds and many fields have heavy populations of them or more plants per square foot. Grain yield in these fields will be severely reduced if weeds are not controlled in the next two weeks according to Foster Whaley, Gray County Agricultural Extension Agent. Tansy and treacle mustard are the winter annual weed pests causing the problem. These weeds are most prevalent in years with good fall rains or if farmers irrigate wheat for emergence according to Dr. Frank Petr, Area Agronomist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Presently both weeds are in the rosette stage. Small tansy mustard are a tuft of fern-like lacy gray-green leaves. Later on in the season the foliage on larger plants resembles carrot leaves. Flowers are yellow and small orange seeds are borne in long cylindrical pods. Rosettes of treacle mustard look like small dandelions. The leaves are about one half inch wide and are deeply lobed. Seed stalks bearing yellow flowers arise from the rosettes in early spring and sometimes grow to a height of 1.5 feet. The seed pods are shorter and broader than those on tansy mustard. The mature plant and pods develop a characteristic reddish purple color.

Research at the USDA Research Center at Bushland shows that one weed per square foot can reduce wheat yields up to ten percent. That's two bushels per acre in a field with twenty bushels per acre yield potential according to Dr. Petr. Spending two to three dollars per acre for control will pay big dividends. On irrigated fields with yield potentials of 50 bushels per acre or in fields with more weeds, returns for control may be up to twenty-five dollars per acre.

Control of tansy mustard can be accomplished by applying 0.5 pound per acre of 2,4-D ester before March 15. Weeds will deprive wheat of valuable moisture if allowed to grow during warm weather in late March or early April.

Treacle mustard infestations are worse north of the Canadian river and in the Hereford area. Treacle mustard is a new pest and producers have had more difficulty controlling this weed than tansy mustard. To solve this problem chemical weed control experiments were started in 1967 in Moore County on the Dale Coleman, Jim Clements and Jim Dowdy farms by Dr. A.F. Wiese, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientist located at Bushland. Results over the years indicate that one pound per acre of 2,4-D or MCPA esters will control the weed if applied on or shortly after March 1. Treating weeds before rosettes are more than two inches in diameter is another good rule of thumb for planning spray operations. Larger treacle mustard plants or those under moisture stress are difficult to control. Larger weeds treated after the middle of March with two pounds per acre of 2,4-D were not adequately controlled in the research plots.

"Careful checking of fields for these and prompt control measures will be profitable for the wheat producer," Dr. Petr emphasized.

WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency will require many American farmers in the next 20 months to pass written or oral tests if they want to use dangerous pesticides on their crops.

The EPA regulations have been attacked by several farm groups, including the National Grange, Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., is among several congressional critics of the plan.

They say the EPA regulations would create an unnecessary testing bureaucracy and that farmers have shown themselves to be competent users of dangerous pest control chemicals.

Under a 1972 law regulating the use of pesticides, the EPA is required to classify pesticides into general-use and restricted-use categories. The states would then issue minimum requirements to be met before an individual may use any of the restricted-use chemicals, based on EPA guidelines.

In a press release issued last month, EPA explained its standards are designed to ensure that an applicator knows how to use pesticides in a manner that will control the pest, protect himself and others during use, and will take appropriate precautions against contamination of the general environment.

It said farmers "would be required to demonstrate the ability to recognize common pests needing control, to read and understand pesticide labels, to apply pesticides according to label directions and warnings, to recognize local environmental situations and to recognize poisoning symptoms and procedures to follow in case of a pesticide accident."

"This is no indictment of the farmers," said an EPA spokesman last week (March 3-7). "We're not saying they have demonstrated incompetency in the past. But we are constantly learning new things about the long-term effect of some of these chemicals. Despite the fact the farmer may have used the pesticide for a number of years, it is still worthwhile that he be required to be aware of some of the hazards and safety procedures."

Melcher and others charge that the EPA regulations would create a vast government bureaucracy, akin to a motor vehicle testing department — "a multimillion dollar bureaucracy," says Melcher, "that is wholly unnecessary."

A majority of today's farmers," Melcher said in a printed statement in the Congressional Record, "are familiar with complex feed formulae including medications, fertilizer formulae and application, pesticide, herbicide and rodenticide formulae and use, and act as paramedics for their livestock... Pesticide dealers know who, among their customers, can read and write. Apparently, contrary to EPA's understanding, farmers are literate."

The State of Minnesota proposed that farmers only be required to sign a form affirming that they had read and understood the directions for the use of a pesticide.

Harvesters Roll To T Championship

By PAUL SIMS
Pampa, surprisingly, did not win either of the relay events in the Top O' Texas Invitational Track Meet Saturday in Harvester Stadium.

In spite of the startling second-place finishes in the relays, Pampa rolled to the team championship, racking up 117 points to finish ahead of runner-up Tascosa with 98. Other teams entered were Hereford (92), Perryton (80), Borger (56) and Plainview (48).

Pampa also won the junior varsity division championship with 127 points. Tascosa again was second, scoring 106, followed by Perryton with 104. Plainview with 77, Hereford with 48 and Borger with 20.

Tascosa's spring-relay team of James Mayberry, Lesley Brown, Bill Kincaid and Keith Grays nipped Pampa, 44.4 to 44.6. Running for the Harvesters were Rick Leverich, Mike Glover, Chuck Quarles and David Caldwell.

Coach Duane Huey, to say the least, was pleased with his winning quartet's performance. "I didn't think we could beat Pampa. Pampa had a couple of bad sticks that hurt them."

"I was pleased because it was the first varsity meet for Brown and Kincaid."

In the mile-relay, Pampa led the field through three legs but gave up its lead to surprising Hereford with less than 50 yards left. Alvin Garcia, Hereford's anchor man, caught Glover near the finish and surged ahead at the tape, giving the Whitefaces a 3:31.9.

Pampa, which ran a 3:29 last week in the district's practice meet, turned in a 3:32.2 to finish 8.4 seconds ahead of third-place Perryton.

On the Pampa relay team were Noel Hansen, Barry Lemmons, Quarles and Glover.

Hansen had previously won the 880, as expected, with a 2:01, ahead of Hereford's James Mays, who had a 2:00.1.

Pampa's Howie Lewis, who had been out for basketball and had only one day to prepare for the meet, followed Hansen's victory with one of his own, winning the 120-yard hurdles in 15 seconds. Billy Thomas of Borger was second with 15.2.

In the 330-yard intermediates,

Lewis was second, finishing five hundredths of a second behind Mike Munnerlyn of Hereford, who ran a 40.8. Lewis edged Thomas, who had a 40.9.

Lemmons placed second in the 440 with a 53.2. Four-tenths of a second behind Stanley Jones of Hereford.

Pampa grabbed another second place as Glover was a step a second behind Tascosa's Grays in the 220. Grays led the entire race and finished it in 23 seconds, while Glover had a 23.1.

Pampa had no qualifiers in the 100, as David Caldwell was disqualified after two bad starts, and none in the mile run.

"I was pleased with it overall," Pampa coach Scott Dunnam said immediately after the meet. "We did good as far as the team championship but I was very disappointed in the sprint- and mile-relays, especially the mile-relay."

"I think it may be good for us. We know now that we'll have to work and get after it, and that's what we're going to do Monday."

Dunnam was pleased with the performances by Lewis. Glover in the 220 and Hansen in the 880.

"I thought Howie did an outstanding job. He just worked out one day." About Lewis' second-place finish in the 330 intermediates, Dunnam added, "I kind of had my doubts, he's not in shape yet."

"I was pleased with Glover in the 220. Grays is smooth, he does not let up a bit."

"I was really pleased with the junior varsity. They competed real well."

Next Saturday, Pampa will divide its squad and compete in both the Plainview Invitational and the West Texas Relays at Odessa.

880 WINNER — Pampa's Noel Hansen had little trouble winning the 880-yard run in the Top O' Texas Invitational Track Meet Saturday. Hansen won the event in 2:01. Pampa won the meet by 21 points over runner-up Tascosa. (Photo by Jim Williams)

Netters Snare 2nd At Borger

BORGER — Eugene Laycock whipped Jim Montoya of Amarillo High and Pampa's boys doubles team of E.B. Ellis and Jerry Allen won over a Borger duo, as the Harvesters captured second place in the Borger Invitational Tennis Tournament Friday.

Laycock, who has not lost a match this year, stopped Montoya, 7-5, 6-3, to give Pampa one of its two individual titles. Ellis and Allen downed Puckett Shipman and David Johnston of Borger, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5, in the finals.

Five points were given for championships and two for reaching the semifinals. Pampa racked up 14 points, behind Borger's 15 and ahead of Amarillo High's 13.

Also getting points for Pampa were semifinalists Stacy Douglass in girls singles and Karen Hampton and Donna Coufal in doubles.

Miss Douglass tripped Hereford's Ellen Jorde, 6-2, 6-2, in the first round, and then lost to Elise Richardson on Amarillo High, 6-2, 6-0, in the semis. Miss Richardson went on to capture the girls' singles crown.

In doubles, the Pampa duo beat Perryton's Sharon McDowell and Cindi Zoller, 6-2, 3-6, 7-6, to move into the semifinals, where Pampa lost to Shelley Schmitz and Kay Clark of Borger.

"I was really pleased. Last week in the Pampa tournament, Borger beat us out of second place by one match. We lost by just one point this time," said Pampa coach John Michie.

"I was pleased, not just with the people that won, but with the whole team. They're going out to win now. I hope everyone else is as pleased with them as I am. Eugene is really coming along."

Michie added, "Pampa has never won a team trophy before. I knew the kids wanted to win all year long, and they finally did it."

Pampa will host Perryton at 2:30 Monday in a dual match.

FIFTH PLACE — Pampa's Cindy Young took fifth in the 100-yard dash with a 12.25 clocking in the Top O' Texas Invitational Track Meet Friday in Harvester Stadium. Pampa was sixth in the eight-team field. (Photo by Jim Williams)

IN GOLF ROUND

Amarillo High Slips By PHS

AMARILLO — Four Amarillo High players scored in the 70's, including a 74 by Donnie Loerwald, as the Sandie golf team carded a 306 total and took over the lead in the district standings Friday at Amarillo Public Golf Course.

Pampa, which led after the first round with a 297, shot a 320 in the second round and fell to second place in the team standings. Pampa and Amarillo are expected to finish first and second, respectively, in 3-AAAA competition, which has four rounds to go.

Pampa's Wiley McIntire, who posted a 72 in the first round, finished with 77 Friday, but his 149 puts him in the top spot in the running for medalist honors. Loerwald is second with 150.

Other team scores Friday were Amarillo High B-team, 320;

Borger 323; Borger B-team, 332; Tascosa, 335; Caprock, 338; Pampa B-team, 340; Palo Duro, 349; Tascosa B-team, 350; Caprock B-team, 377; and Palo Duro B-team, 435.

Team standings are Amarillo, 608; Pampa, 617; Amarillo B-team, 624; Borger, 649; Tascosa, 659; Borger B-team, 667; Caprock, 673; Palo Duro, 679; Tascosa B-team, 692; Pampa B-team, 705; and Caprock B-team, 744.

Individual Harvester scores included Curt Beck, 79; Mickey Lowe, 81; Randy Watson, 83; and Scott White, 84. B-team scores were Danny Kohler, 82; Joel Hickey, 85; Richard Norwood, 88; Hank Jordan, 91; and Bruce Hungerford, 94.

The third round is set for Friday at Borger.

championship and a berth in the NCAA playoffs. The win ended the Aggies regular season with a 20-4 mark, the first time in 62 years of playing basketball A&M has won 20 games in single season.

With a 12-2 conference mark, Texas A&M will move into the NCAA tournament next Saturday night in Lubbock against Cincinnati, winners of its last 15 games in a row.

A&M had clinched at least a tie for the title last Tuesday night, but needed a win over the rival Longhorns to wrap up the crown by itself. And Texas put up a battle for most of the game.

With the Aggies leading at 29-24 with five minutes remaining in the first half, Roberts and Parker helped ignite a spurt that boosted A&M's halftime margin to 40-28. During those final five minutes of the first half Roberts and Parker scored six points each.

Texas narrowed the gap to only six points with 10 minutes remaining in the game, and at that point Aggie coach Shelby Metcalf elected to go to a delay game.

The tactic worked as the Aggies ran down the time without losing ground and when the tempo finally picked up again in the final moments A&M ran away from the Longhorns with a series of layups and free shots.

John Thornton and Barry Davis each scored 15 points to lead the Aggies in that department with Parker contributing 13. The Longhorns were paced by Tyrone Johnson, who scored 19 points, and Dan Krueger, who added 14.

The title for A&M was its first since 1969 and the third for Metcalf in his dozen years as the Aggie head coach.

In Cincinnati, the Aggies will be meeting a team that whipped the Houston Cougars this season by 20 points. Houston, in turn, defeated A&M by 20 points.

The last time the Aggies reached the NCAA tournament they defeated Trinity in the first round of the Midwest region but then fell to Drake. Only one team from the conference since 1969 has won a first round game, Texas upsetting Houston in 1972.

The winner of the first round game in Lubbock next Saturday will advance to the Midwest regional semifinals the next weekend in Las Cruces, N.M.

Texas, the 1974 conference titleholder, wound up its season with a 6-4 conference mark and a 10-15 season record.

Harvesters Fall In Own Affair

Young Roy Martinez yielded only five hits and struck out 15 Harvesters to pitch Hereford to a convincing 7-1 upset win over Pampa in the finals of the Pampa Invitational Baseball Tournament Friday at Optimist Park.

Martinez, only a sophomore, yielded only a sixth-inning run to the Harvesters, who fell to 2-1 for the season. Tommy Washington, in his first start of the year, gave up six runs and was tagged with the loss.

In the first round, Canyon outthrew Pampa, 7-2, but lost to the Harvesters, 3-2, in eight innings. The score was tied, 2-2 at the end of the regulation seven innings.

David Edwards picked up his second win of the season for the Harvesters, while Bill Doucet lost the game for Canyon.

Also in the opening round, Hereford tripped Dumas, 4-3. Dumas stopped Canyon, 7-1, for third place in the tourney.

Pampa lost a twinbill to Altus Saturday.

In other games Friday involving 3-AAAA teams, Tascosa buried Monahan, 7-4, in the El Paso Burges Tournament but lost to El Paso Jefferson, 7-0, and Caprock lost to Roswell, N.M., 7-0, before downing Ysleta, 11-3, in consolation play of the same tourney.

Plainview downed Borger, 8-4, and Lubbock High trounced Palo Duro, 3-2, in other games.

PHS Girls 4th

AMARILLO — "We never seem to play well in Amarillo," Pampa girls golf coach Tommy Lindsey said after his Harvesters posted a team total of 407 and grabbed fourth place in the district standings after the first 3-AAAA round Friday at Ross Rogers Golf Course.

Debbie Thompson carded a 46-50-96 to pace Pampa, which trails Tascosa (367), Amarillo High (371), Amarillo High B-team (396) and Palo Duro (397).

Following Pampa are Tascosa B-team, 414; Borger, 416; Palo Duro B-team, 416; Caprock, 430; Borger B-team, 499; and Caprock B-team 507.

Medalist for the round was Amarillo High's Brenda Hutchinson with an 87. Tascosa's Valerie Prince was runner-up with 89, followed by Jim Snook, Amarillo, 90; Patty Loehr, Tascosa, 90; and Joyceanne Hooper, Borger, 91.

Besides Miss Thompson's, Pampa scores were Sue Cook, 97; Serena Shearer, 102; Geraldyn Hills, 112; and Amy McMullan, 125 (dropped). Only the four lowest scores comprised the team total.

Playing singles for Pampa were Sara Riehart, 120; Lisa Weigel, 123; and Janet Keagy, 124.

DUTCH LINES — The roof line of this Illinois barn, built in 1924, is typical of the region. The outward pitch of the lower roof denotes Dutch influence.

AROUND THE CORNER — This round barn located a bit north of Colchester, Ill., has lateral siding—an unusual feature.

Vanishing Americana

Midwestern Barns Join Endangered Species List

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Everybody's worried about endangered species these days. The wolf, the bald eagle, and the California condor are all on extinction's doorstep. All those species might seem distant to midwesterners. It's really hard to get excited about another alligator biting the dust in the Everglades.

Certain people in the Midwest are excited about one endangered form of Americana though, and they are trying to do something about it. Barns are disappearing. Not overnight, but almost. It seems that those buildings which withstood decades of prairie winds and heavy snow are being torn down at an alarming rate all over the country. For years, easterners have been trying to preserve what barns they have left after the siding strippers have done their work and gravity has done the rest.

Books, volume after volume, about the history of those eastern barns have been written, largely ignoring the "western" barns, those which were built west of the Appalachian Mountains. But some people out here in the Wild West have finally organized a movement to preserve our own rural structures.

Heading up the Illinois Historical Society's Save Old Barns Committee, dedicated to preserving the old barn and farm outbuilding structures, is Dr. Emmet Pearson, of Springfield.

He and his committee of barn savers have begun the work which may in time save the only thing which relieves the eyestrain flat prairie of ten gives motorists.

About two years ago the Illinois Historical Society appointed the committee, with Pearson as chairman. The committee members are from widely different areas of the state, and they see four reasons for their existence. As Dr. Pearson put it:

"The barns are rapidly being taken down by farmers because they don't want to pay taxes on them, they don't want to repair them or they want to sell them in order to get money for the barn siding."

"We feel that the barns are the most magnificent architectural feature on the highways and byways of the state and it takes a lot away from the pleasure of driving to not see the barns. Many barns have not only architectural but historical and other interest that should be brought to the attention of the people. "And finally, they have utilitarian value. People don't seem to bother about restoring them for automobile garages or shops. In a recent Chicago newspaper two barns were featured which had been restored for living quarters. In fact, I saw some other photographs where people had started out from scratch to make their living quarters look like a barn because they liked the charm and there are certain decorative things that go in a barn that don't fit into other types of living quarters."

Although the committee is called the Save Old Barns Committee, it is not necessarily interested just in old barns. The members are also interested in good barns, new barns which have a lot of architectural styling.

"These barns will be old in time," Pearson said. "But their magnificence is part of our interest as well as their antiquity."

Gasoline Floods Market, Sparks Price Wars; Some Still Complain

United Press International Gasoline suddenly has flooded the U.S. market, sparking price wars in some areas. A UPI survey shows. What this price battle means to the American car driver is know where to buy. Brand name gas station operators accuse oil companies of putting them in a bind by forcing them to buy large supplies at artificially high prices while selling the surplus at cheaper prices to competing independents.

The retailers say oil companies, while publicly proclaiming conservation, are pressuring them to sell more gasoline by staying open at unprofitable hours.

The result, said one New Jersey station owner, is that the oil companies continue to get high profits for oil while stations are forced to sell at cost or below.

"The oil companies are not about to cut back their profits," he said.

"The market is loaded. It's glutted," said John O'Donnell, comptroller for the Pennsylvania Service Station Dealers Association.

"The oil companies are forcing dealers to stay open whether it's necessary or not and to lower their prices at the retail level to get more volume. Their thinking is not conservation but to increase their volume."

A Federal Energy Administration spokesman in New York said the agency has heard reports of company pressure to sell more "but we've found none" in monitoring activities.

"There's a surplus. Period," said an independent petroleum consultant, John Lichtblau. "This may straighten itself out. But we're in for a long period of gasoline surplus."

Lichtblau said refineries are running at 80 to 85 per cent of capacity compared with the normal 95 per cent.

"The majors are doing what any business will do," said Lichtblau. "To reduce inventories to keep their refineries going, they are selling gasoline to independents."

The surplus was created in part because motorists have cut down gasoline consumption at a time when worldwide production remained stable. The American Petroleum Institute says gasoline stocks are 10 per cent higher than they were a year ago. They hit 244 million barrels, the highest since April, 1971.

President Ford's intention to impose a $3 per barrel duty on imported oil also contributed to the glut. Lichtblau said oil companies are "speeding up their U.S.-bound tankers" to get as much oil in as possible before the full duty is imposed.

Jerry Ferrara, executive director of the 3,000-member New Jersey Gasoline Retailers Association, said at least four major oil companies — Sun, Shell, Mobil and Esso — increased their prices to dealers in recent weeks while forcing them to take more gasoline than they can sell.

"I just had a call a few minutes ago from a dealer being pressured to stay open 24 hours in an area that can't even warrant staying open until midnight," Ferrara said.

Stations along major highways are forced to get rid of the surplus, touching off price wars, he said.

The UPI survey showed a wide variation of pump prices throughout the nation with regular gasoline selling for as little as 43 cents a gallon and as high as 57 cents. Regular hit a "freak low" of 41.9 in Minnesota this week.

Some dealers accused the oil companies of keeping prices high at franchise stations and selling surplus gasoline to independents who then undercut prices of major brand stations.

"It is pretty obvious that the major brands are not able to sell through artificially high prices," said Jack W. Houston, executive director of the Georgia Association of Petroleum Retailers. "It appears that the suppliers are marketing out the back door."

"I'm just not selling much gasoline," said Oklahoma City retailer Ed Bishop whose cheapest price of $1.9 cents a gallon for regular is 6 cents more than an independent charges across the street.

Oilmen Need Incentives Says Tool Company

HOUSTON (UPI) — The president of an oil tool company said Thursday oilmen need federal incentives to look for new sources of energy.

"We all need to have a better definition of the rules under which tomorrow's high stakes energy game will be played," Robert H. Etnyre of National Supply Co., a subsidiary of ARMOCO Steel, told a meeting of the International Association of Drilling Contractors.

Etnyre said the United States must develop a policy to energy self-sufficiency but "We are so far from such a policy that it's scary."

USDA Defends Milk System; Prices Rise 'Modestly'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department experts say in a little-noted report that the agency's controversial milk marketing order system has raised prices "modestly" for consumers.

But experts argued that "on balance," the system is not inflationary. They said elimination of the system would not lower consumer prices in the short run and would mean reduced consumer supplies in the long run.

Under the marketing order system, which has been coming under increasing fire recently from some consumer groups, the Agriculture Department sets minimum prices for milk sold by farmers in more than 60 major milksheds around the nation. Farm co-ops supplying each of the milksheds are then left free to seek — and frequently get — contracts with handlers at prices above the federal minimums.

The National Consumer Congress, in a statement opposing a pending Congressional proposal to increase minimum prices for manufacturing-grade milk, said yesterday that consumers "have serious questions about where their milk dollars are going."

"Until Congress re-evaluates the complex pricing mechanisms for milk and the monopoly control of milk supplies by large co-ops, we must not sanction constant increases in price supports," the consumer group said.

The manufacturing-milk increase under consideration in Congress would boost prices for milk used in making products like butter, cheese and nonfat milk powder. This increase would serve as a base for hikes in the prices paid under marketing orders for bottling grade milk.

The bottling prices, although based initially on the manufacturing milk price, are calculated separately for each milkshed to reflect varying cost and supply factors in different parts of the country.

Phillips Accepts Funds Charge

BARTLESVILLE (UPI) — Phillips Petroleum Co. and four present and former officers accepted, without admitting or denying guilt, a federal court judgement on a Securities and Exchange Commission charge of diverting company funds for illegal uses.

The SEC said Phillips, the nation's 10th largest petroleum company, diverted $2.8 million to secret foreign bank accounts since 1963 to be used for illegal corporate political contributions and other purposes in violation of federal securities laws.

Named as defendants in the action in U.S. District Court in Washington were W.W. Keeler, former chief executive officer; John M. Houchin, former chairman and present board member; W.F. Martin, present chief executive officer; and Carstens Slack, a vice president based in Washington.

The company and the individuals consented to entry of the judgment without admitting or denying the allegations of the SEC complaint, a Phillips spokesman said in a statement.

The judgment prevents the company and the officials from using company funds for unlawful political contributions or similar purposes.

"Incorporated in the judgment is an understanding that the board of directors will continuously monitor the company's compliance with the injunction and that the company will issue a report to its stockholders with respect to the unlawful political contributions."
