Big Three Map Powerful New Blows To Speed Fall Of Japs

Truman Plans Radio Report

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Press Staff Writer

ABOARD U. S. S. AUGUSTA, With President Truman, Aug. 3.—Powerful new blows to speed the complete defeat of Japan and the liberation of Japanese-held territories were planned by the Anglo-American high commands at the Potsdam Big Three conference, it was disclosed officially today.

At the same time, President Truman told reporters aboard this homeward bound cruiser that he had made "no secret agreements of any kind" in the meeting with Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee. The President is preparing a radio report which he will make to the people of the United States soon after his return to Washington next week.

Joint Statement

Disclosure of the Anglo-American military talks was made jointly aboard the Augusta and in London where Prime Minister Attlee has already returned. Russia did not participate in this announcement since Russia is not a party to the war against Japan.

The President and Prime Minister their statement said, approved various undisclosed proposals made by British and American chiefs of staff. The military leaders discussed a "reallocation of areas and commands in the Southwest Pacific and Southeast Asia areas and consideration was given to the employment in the war against Japan of forces of the other Allied nations that are at war with Japan."

Change For Mountbatten

(In Washington, it is expected that Lord Louis Mountbatten, the British commander in Southeast Asia, will be given a greatly enlarged command area embracing the bulk of the territory over which General Douglas MacArthur originally had control. That is the area of the Southwest Pacific which includes Australia, the Solomon islands and the Dutch East Indies. Mountbatten's area, it is believed, will extend from the Solomons north and west to a line running just south of the Philippine islands. It will give the British leader the task of liberating the Indies, the Malay states and Singapore. Washington also expects that the troops of other nations at war with Japan, particularly Dutch troops, will be used when and where they can in these liberation battles and presumably

More Named In Attlee Cabinet

LONDON, Aug. 3. (AP)—Nineteen new ministers—seven of them once miners, another formerly a taxicab driver, still another one a Baptist lay preacher—stepped into Prime Minister Clement Attlee's new labor cabinet today.

Drawn from the heart of the Labor party, they represented a cross section of the British working class. The 19, one of them a woman, also included a former schoolteacher and former printer.

They brought Attlee's list of ministers to 25, with eight ministerial posts still to be filled.

Those Chosen

The new appointments included John James Lawson, former miner, as secretary of state for war; Albert Victor Alexander as first lord of the admiralty, and Viscount Stansgate as air secretary. This triumvirate will play a leading role in prosecution of the war against Japan.

The woman minister is red-haired, 54-year-old Ellen Wilkinson, named to the education portfolio. She is the second woman to attain cabinet rank in Britain.

The other new ministers:

Emanuel Shinwell, minister of fuel and power, a vital post.

George Alfred Isaacs, minister of labor and national service.

Sir Ben Smith, minister of food.

Frederick William Pethick-Lawrence, secretary of state for India and Burma. At the same time, King George VI conferred a barony on him.

Alfred Barnes, minister of war transport.

Aneurin Bevan, minister of health.

Tom Williams, minister of agriculture and fisheries.

John Wilmot, minister of supply and of aircraft production.

James Chuter Ede, home secretary.

Lord Addison, secretary of state for Dominion affairs.

George Henry Hall, secretary of state for colonies.

Joseph Westwood, secretary of state for Scotland.

Philip John Noel-Baker, minister of state.

Wilfred Paling, minister of pensions.

William Whiteley, parliamentary secretary of the treasury, who was just appointed chief labor whip in Commons.

Small Nations Face Cut In Reparations

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 — Europe's small countries will have to refigure their reparations bills against Germany, faced with virtual certainty they'll get only a small part of what they have asked. This was the interpretation placed by officials here today on the Potsdam communique.

Marshal Stalin, President Truman and Premier Attlee made it clear that German reparations will depend on what the Allies decide should be removed from the Reich, not on what claimants want.

Definite Figure Not Set

The only total figure officially put forward thus far has been a Russian suggestion of $20,000,000,000. President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill declined at Yalta to accept that figure and it was merely put down for discussion.

The small proportion of European claims likely to be filled can be judged from the early Russian estimate.

The Netherlands have figured their needs at about five billion dollars and the French, it is reported, at 27 billion.

The reparations commission is assigned to decide, within six months, the total that Germany can and shall give up. France is invited to join Britain, Russia and the United States or these talks. After these decisions have been made, the Allies will figure how to divide up the spoils.

The decision that reparations should be taken from what Germany doesn't need for her decreed economy of agriculture and "peaceful domestic industry" parallels the view carried to Potsdam by the Americans. The United States has shown virtually no interest in collecting reparations for itself.

Penalty Payments

The Russians previously had taken the penalty view of payments, and that is the basis of sums required of Finland, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria in the armistices signed by these ex-satellites.

Another significant factor is the clause providing that transfer of equipment out of Germany shall be completed within two years.

This means that the Allies are in a hurry to get Germany's economic reorganization over, and controls laid so that by the time military occupation is over, the new German economy can be in good working order with a minimum of direct supervision required.

Appeals Court Orders Three Newsmen Released On Bond

AUSTIN, Aug. 3. (AP)—Presiding Judge F. L. Hawkins of the Court of Criminal Appeals today ordered three Corpus Christi newsmen released from jail on temporary writ of habeas corpus pending a hearing by the appeals court Oct. 10.

The three, Conway Craig, publisher of the Caller-Times; Managing Editor Bob McCracken, and Reporter Tom Mulvaney, were sentenced to three days in jail for contempt of court by Nueces County Judge Joe D. Browning.

Bond Set At $250 Each

Judge Hawkins released the newspaper men on $250 bond each.

The question for determination at the Oct. 10 hearing is whether the habeas corpus writ will be made permanent or whether the three men must serve their contempt sentences.

Judge Browning held them in contempt because of newspaper reports of a trial which was held before Browning.

They were placed in jail this morning and Attorney Marcellus Eckhardt rushed to Austin with petitions for habeas corpus writs.

The writs were granted by Judge Hawkins in chambers in consultation with Eckhardt and Ireland Graves, Austin lawyer for the newspapermen.

Press Freedom Involved

Graves asserted the case would be submitted to the appelate court Oct. 10 on the question of freedom of the press.

"We will claim denial of liberty guaranteed by the due process clause of the 14th amendment to the constitution of the United States and two sections of the constitution of Texas," he said.

Release of the three newspapermen was authorized by Judge Hawkins after he read the petitions for writ of habeas corpus and approved bond. Eckhardt immediately telephoned Sheriff John B. Harney in Corpus Christi.

The petitions, identical in each case, alleged the men were illegally restrained of liberty and confined in the Nueces county jail as a result of Judge Browning's contempt order.

To Submit Proceedings

Eckhardt said that as soon as they are available he would present to the Court of Criminal Appeals in support of the petition copies of the contempt proceedings in Judge Browning's court, a clerk's transcript and evidence adduced at the hearing.

The Court of Criminal Appeals is now in adjournment until October but any one judge of the three-judge tribunal is authorized to release a person on application for writ of habeas corpus pending a hearing by the full court. The new term of court does not begin until October.

War Trials To Start Sept. 1

NUERNBERG, Germany, Aug. 3 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief U. S. counsel on the Allied War Crimes commission, will establish headquarters here Aug. 15 and trials of arch war criminals will begin in the Nuernberg courthouse on Sept. 1, a spokesman for the jurist said today.

The former German palace of justice on the broad boulevard connecting Nuernberg and Furth has been definitely chosen as the place for the trials, it was announced, and an advance party is now trying to obtain billets for an estimated 800 persons who will be here for the hearings.

Guard Unit Assigned

The 26th regiment of the veteran U. S. First Army division has been assigned to provide a security guard for the area.

German laborers already have started remodeling the courthouse, which was damaged by bombing and shelling before Nuernberg was captured April 20.

Major war criminals such as Hermann Goering and Joachim von Ribbentrop will be held in the Nuernberg municipal jail during the trials, which are expected to last several weeks.

Final State School Aid Payment Made

AUSTIN, Aug. 3. (AP)—Release of a $2 payment today liquidates the current $27 per capita scholastic apportionment, Superintendent of Public Instruction L. A. Woods announced today.

That means that public schools received $40,459,041 or $27 for each child of scholastic age between last Sept. 1 and today.

The per capita apportionment for next scholastic year has been set at $30 and Woods said the first payment would be made in October.

Laval Recalls Intrigue And War Secrets

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Aug. 3. — Pierre Laval, the swarthy politican who has been called the "evil genius" of Vichy, testified at the Marshal Petain trial today and told a story of intrigue and secret agreement in the pre-war chancelleries of Europe while protesting his own innocence of any Fascist or Nazi taint.

In a four-hour statement amid the surcharged atmosphere of the tense courtroom, the man who is accused of using Petain as a foil while taking orders from Hitler as Vichy's premier made good his threat, "I will defend myself and I will accuse."

Jeers Fail To Stop Him

With a smooth flow of words which neither jeering nor laughter nor pointed questions could stop, the veteran figure of the white tie and black satchel tossed these developments into France's celebrated trial:

His disclosure that in 1935 he had concluded a secret military alliance binding France and Mussolini's Italy.

Introduced the names of the Prince of Wales, who was to become England's King Edward VIII, and his father, the late King George V; Sir Samuel Hoare, now Lord Templewood, who was the British foreign secretary; Anthony Eden; Stanley Baldwin, former British prime minister, and others in British and French public life.

The declaration that the famous Montoire meeting of Petain and Hitler, at which the policy of collaboration was supposed to have been reached, resulted in "nothing at all."

Rueful Admission

But Laval also admitted ruefully that he had remarked, "here is where we overthrow the French republic," when he had pushed through the acts making Petain virtual dictator in 1940. This was said in jest, he declared.

He acknowledged he had made the statement "I desire a German victory," but that was to fool the Germans, he said.

And, answering a question concerning collaboration, he declared "who in his right mind would have thought otherwise than Germany would win the war?"

This was all put into the record despite repeated pleas by Judge Paul Mongibeaux to "please remember this is the trial of Petain."

"To some extent it also is my trial," Laval rejoined. At another point he defended his right to tell his own story with the sharp comment, "if what I am saying does not interest the court it certainly does interest the French people."

Master Of Courtroom

Complete master of the courtroom, despite these reminders, the little man with the untidy moustache and gray-streaked hair deftly defended every action of his own, saying:

"If Petain's defense clashes with my defense I regret it. But I must tell the truth. I'm not here to charge the marshal or to clear him."

Brought through completely cleared corridors through a side-door into the courtroom, which was strongly guarded, Laval did not look at Petain and the eyes of the two did not meet as Mongi-

Blockaded Japs Lash Out Furiously In Air

FEAF Exacts Growing Toll

(By The Associated Press)

MANILA, Saturday, Aug. 4.—The Far East Air forces and attached units in the first seven months of this year destroyed or damaged 2,846,932 tons of enemy shipping and 1,375 enemy planes in the blockade of Japan, General MacArthur announced today.

These air forces, under MacArthur's overall command, have flown more than 150,000 sorties and dropped 100,000 tons of bombs.

Weather Blocks Raid

Bad weather, however, forced cancellation of the most recent scheduled attacks by the Far East Air forces on Thursday, MacArthur's communique noted.

Nevertheless, heavy bombers of the 13th Air force braved adverse weather and hit Takao, on the southwest coast of Formosa, causing fires and explosions which sent smoke 10,000 feet high.

Bombers of the same force also struck freight yards and supply installations at Tourane, French Indio - China, destroying many buildings and heavily damaging railway tracks, MacArthur said, while Seventh Fleet search planes damaged three enemy freighters and five coastal craft near Malaya.

The search planes operated within 30 miles of Singapore.

Attacks On Borneo

Supporting ground operations on Borneo, Australian and 13th Air force planes attacked enemy rear areas, set fuel dumps afire on the northwest coast, hit warehouses and shipyards at Pontianak and sank a schooner. While naval air patrols damaged two freighters and two river boats in Borneo waters.

The regular daily attacks also were made on the Celebes, Halmaheras and Lesser Sundas.

A headquarters spokesman gave these figures on the first seven months of the campaign against enemy shipping by the Far East Air forces, Seventh Fleet planes and Australian planes under MacArthur:

Sunk 1,032,107 tons; probably sunk 505,990; and damaged 1,308,735 tons.

These tonnage figures do not include hundreds of small craft destroyed.

Sinkings By Areas

During July approximately 60 per cent of the tonnage bombed was in Japanese home waters, 20 per cent along the Asiatic coast, and ten per cent each in Borneo and in scattered East Indian island waters. The figures include both war and merchant shipping but the spokesman said tonnages of each were not separately available.

He estimated, however, that during July about ten times as many merchantmen as warships were hit.

Most of the tremendous bomb tonnage for the whole seven months was dropped in Philippines waters, because it was only in July that the Far East Air forces started raiding Japanese home waters.

Dallas Man No-Billed In Slaying Of Henry

DALLAS, Aug. 3. (AP)—S. W. Farrow, Dallas cafe operator, was no-billed by the Dallas county grand jury today in the fatal shooting here July 15 of Claude David (Cowboy) Henry.

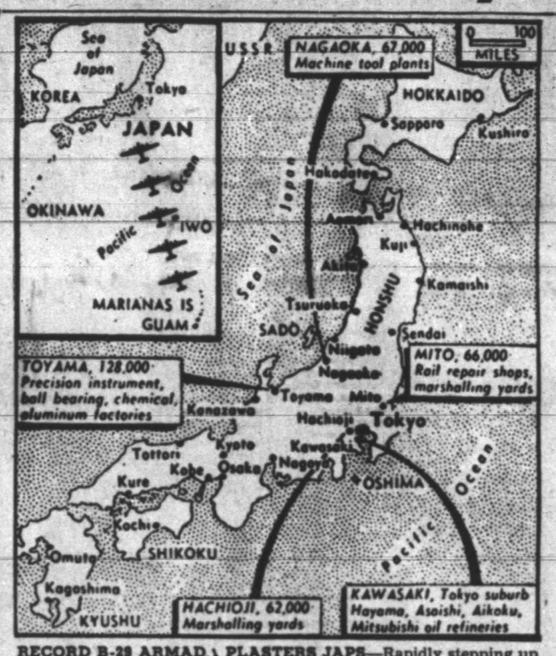

At the time he was killed, Henry was on a six-month reprieve from the penitentiary where he had been sent for slaying a San Antonio policeman.

Henry was shot when Farrow said he attacked him in front of his place of business.

German Explosives Are Being Scuttled

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN GERMANY, Aug. 3. (AP)—More than a million tons of German explosives, useless for Allied weapons in the war against Japan, are being dumped into the North sea, British officials said today.

German workers under British supervision are loading obsolete ships with the explosives. The loaded craft are taken into deep water, where there is no danger to navigation, and scuttled.

Queer Jap Psychology Seen In Location Of POW Camps

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3 — Once again, Japan is giving this country occasion to say: "You are behaving like a beast. Stop it or take the consequences."

WHITE

The State department is checking on a Tokyo radio broadcast which claims a recent Superfort bombing of Kawasaki hit a prisoner of war camp.

The State department says that in spite of repeated protests the Japanese persist in putting prisoner camps protectively near such target areas.

Our Japanese military enemies do such things quite naturally, as a matter of course, and consider themselves anything but devilish because of it.

Taught Contempt of Life

The soldier is taught contempt of human life and those who try to save it by surrendering alive. The public in Japan is educated to such unquestioning obedience of the military that probably few Japanese ever stop to think about the foolish side of doing what Japan still does—rub salt in the wounds of a once-weak enemy which now stands off her own shores preparing for invasion.

The unconsciousness of the process is demonstrated by the Japanese broadcast itself, which reproached the American air forces for bombing their own nationals, helpless in the prison stockade.

The Japanese carefully pointed out that most of the casualties were American, implying that if the United States doesn't want to kill more of its own imprisoned soldiers all it has to do is stop the bombing.

Solution Simple To Them

In these days such talk can only be a relic of the early part of the war when Japan was overrunning half the world and thinking seriously about going after the rest some day. The last thing the Japanese worried about was retribution.

As grudgingly as possible, the Japanese have slowly—in spots—improved their treatment of war prisoners, though nothing like what should be expected of a country which has agreed to abide by civilized standards.

Almost certainly, this improvement has resulted from pressure from non-military elements who are merely less shortsighted, not more moral.

So uniformly cruel and stupid has their handling of the whole problem been that it's unlikely that a single Japanese camp official alive after the war will escape the changes of war criminal courts.

Ward Seizures Are Imminent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP) — Government seizure of Montgomery Ward and Co. properties in seven more cities appeared imminent tonight as the firm bluntly told the War Labor board it would continue to reject WLB orders.

The Army already is operating the Chicago headquarters of the mail order house as well as stores and warehouses in Detroit, St. Paul, Denver, Portland, Ore., San Rafael, Calif., and Jamaica, N. Y.

Unanimous Action

The board voted unanimously to refer the company's latest defiance to William H. Davis, director of economic stabilization. That action was taken a few minutes after the end of a hearing in which Stuart E. Ball, attorney, and John A. Barr, labor relations counsel for the firm, bitterly denounced the board's policies.

The company, announcing its refusal to heed board orders until they have court backing, asserted that the WLB, while escaping legal review on the plea that its rulings are only advisory, feeds the public "propaganda" that refusal to follow its directives is defiance of the government.

Referral to Davis usually is a step toward presidential intervention and seizure.

Irving Abrahamson, organizational director for the CIO-Wholesale, Retail and Department Store workers, urged that the board ask for government operation of all units in the Ward chain.

Abrahamson said the stores taken over by the Army last December 28 had enjoyed 37 1-2 per cent more profit since that time than under company operation.

Ball declared that the company had lost a quarter million dollars in the Army-seized units.

One Light U. S. Ship Is Sunk

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Saturday, Aug. 4.—The Japanese, whose every home port now is blocked with air-sown mines, have lashed out at Okinawa and sunk one light American vessel and damaged another in air attacks on that island base where they contend an Allied invasion fleet is massing.

Admiral Nimitz announced today that the ship loss occurred on July 29, the first time in ten days that the enemy has made any offensive gesture at Okinawa and the first time a ship has been hit there since June 22, when two light units were sunk and three were damaged.

No Details Announced

Nimitz' brief communique gave no details. The designation of light units, however, usually includes vessels up to the size of cruisers. While he did not say whether the attack was by suicide planes, that has been the enemy's general method in recent months.

While unfavorable weather forced cancellation of most planned air attacks on Japan, the 20th Air force announced that Superfortresses have plugged every major Japanese harbor with mines, completing the strangulation ring. Nimitz announced land-based American naval planes yesterday sank a 700-ton Japanese freighter in Cagami gulf southwest of Tokyo.

Two Planes Downed

The naval planes were attacked by five enemy fighters and five reconnaissance bombers, but shot down two of the reconnaissance planes and damaged one fighter without damage to themselves.

Ninety-seven Army Mustangs from Iwo strafed "targets of opportunity" in the Tokyo area yesterday and shot down two of the ten Japanese fighters that rose to meet them. They damaged another interceptor and destroyed eight and damaged six grounded enemy planes, the U. S. Strategic Air forces announced.

Six of the Mustangs were lost, but one pilot was rescued.

Eleven locomotives, three electric locomotives, two gun emplacements and electric transformers were destroyed by the strafers, who also damaged six locomotives, a hangar, 50 railroad cars, several factories and power lines and 12 luggers and fishing boats.

The Japanese previously had an-

Big Scale Drive By Chinese Near

CHUNGKING, Saturday, Aug. 4. (AP)—Chinese troops have captured Sinning and closed within 12½ miles of Chuanshsien in a double-pronged drive toward the former Flying Tiger airfield at Lingling, Chinese headquarters said early today.

The fresh advances toward Lingling, 370 miles southeast of Chungking, were disclosed after Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in China, predicted large-scale offensives soon by U. S.-trained Chinese forces, including paratroopers.

Transfers From Burma

Wedemeyer said Chinese forces transferred from Burma "can be expected soon" to join the battle in China, and declared "I hope in the not too distant future we'll have some large-scale fighting. I am very optimistic about the future."

Sinning, a Hunan province stronghold, was captured Friday morning by Chinese driving one prong of an attack toward Lingling, 55 miles farther to the southeast, the Chinese said. The enemy fled toward Tungan, midway between Sinning and Lingling.

Chinese units pushing up the railroad from Kweilin, a late communique said, captured Ling-Chwan 15 miles north of the city, and pursued Japanese forces retreating toward Hingan, 32 miles northeast of Kweilin.

Plucky Cpl. Newman Loses Gallant Fight On Jap-Induced Disease

FORT WORTH, Aug. 3. (AP) — Corp. James E. Newman, 25, whose gallant fight against disease contracted in a Japanese prison camp touched the heart of a nation, died today.

Survivor of the March of Death from Bataan, the plucky soldier battled for a month and a day after he was brought home before he succumbed to tuberculosis of the throat, lungs and stomach. Death came at 5:20 p. m.

Flowers, telegrams and letters of hope and encouragement poured into the little white Newman cottage from every state and Hawaii and Canada. Ministers kept a vigil of prayer.

"He died from sheer exhaustion," his doctor said.

Newman had spent an uneventful night, but this morning suffered an asthmatic spasm.

His doctor relieved this with more oxygen and a stimulant. The young soldier went into a sound slumber. He did not recover consciousness.

The funeral was set at 3 p. m. Monday at the Riverside Assembly of God church here. Military rites are planned at the Garden of Memories Memorial park where Newman will be buried in his uniform.

He had received a medical discharge before doctors allowed him to come home last month.

For Newman it was the end of a tough fight for life that started when the Japs captured him at Bataan. He struggled through the March of Death—he didn't remember the last five hours of it. He got through three years of Japanese imprisonment — in a prison camp in the Philippines he endured hopeless starvation and flesh melted from his body.

Doctors at Army hospitals in New Guinea and in New Mexico shook their heads over him. They told him his case was hopeless. But Newman wouldn't give up. He wanted to go home to Fort Worth, he said. He wanted to go back to a little white cottage he had left seven years before. That was where he wanted to make a final fight for life.

Yesterday he completed his first month at home.

But physicians at Bruns General hospital told Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Newman, the corporal's parents, that their son could never survive the trip. He was suffering from tuberculosis of the lungs and throat and stomach and from the after-effects of beri beri. Skin seemed molded to the bones of his six-foot two inch frame. Once he had been a powerful 170-pound athlete. Now he weighed 92 pounds.

"At least he will die happy," Mrs. Newman told the hospital authorities. "He will die on his way home."

So on July 2 an Army plane bore Corporal Newman home to Fort Worth. An ambulance drove up to the little white house and Newman was taken out on a stretcher. He had a civilian hat on his head . . . it was pushed back at a jaunty angle. Just being back was the biggest thrill of his life. He repeated, over and over, "it's so good to be home."

The nation heard of Newman's plight and from every state and from Canada and Hawaii came letters of hope and encouragement . . . more than 8,500 letters. The white cottage was crowded with gifts and flowers . . . there was not room for all the flowers.

And there were high hopes in that little house.

"The Lord has brought him this far," Mrs. Newman said. "The Lord will take him the rest of the way. My son will get well."

"I can't die," said the corporal. "Too many good people are praying for me."

And for a few days Newman seemed much better. His mother served fried chicken and black-eyed peas and all the other things he had liked as a boy. He put away big mounds of ice cream and thick slices of feathery cake and he laughed and joked with his six sisters and two brothers.

"He has a chance to get well," a Fort Worth physician said.

But after a week, the corporal began to lose ground. He grew weaker; he could hardly eat and there was continuous agonizing pain that had to be blocked out with morphine.

Newman fought to live. In his brown steel bed in the air conditioned room, with a photograph of the Iwo Jima flag raising on the wall above him, he stood off death, day after day. He knew the battle was going against him . . . he asked for an oxygen tent because it was getting harder to breathe. His smile was fainter . . . but he still smiled.

"His will to live is something

Of great import, we hope, is the fact that Lubbock will not have a district OPA office anymore. The interest is entirely centered around the possibility that the next step will be no OPA at all. And the prospect of no OPA is based on the yearning we all have for the end of the war to be just around the corner. But however that may be, the Office of Price Administration is abolishing 31 districts over the nation to shift the staff and resources in the field to major points of population concentration to give key production and distribution areas better service in the reconversion period. The office in Lubbock employed 128 persons, most of whom will be given an opportunity to transfer.

His wife, the former Mary Elizabeth Bowden, lives in Fabens. His mother is Mrs. C. E. Webster of 2204 Ninth.

Lubbock got another air line this week—It is Essair, which put into operation the first solely local service feeder line in the United States. The line will have two flights daily, one south from Amarillo to Houston and one north, coming back from Houston to Amarillo. At the end of that long goatride you go on one of these days, if you can't fly home, it won't be because Lubbock doesn't have an airline—It'll be because two or three million men had the same idea.

Wednesday night a bunch of singers, or would be singers, got together for the purpose of organizing the first Texas chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. Harry Delaney was elected president. Rules and regulations of the organization, which was founded in 1939 in Tulsa with Owen C. Cash steering, bar all but two classes of people—those who can and those who can't sing. This is more or less of a scoop, since it wasn't in the original story about the organization, but we thought you might enjoy some of the names given SPEBSQSA quartets in the chapters scattered over the country. We think these are pretty cute: The Gruesome Double Twosome; The Uncertain Four; The Unheard of Four; The Bald Headed Four; Hoarse and Buggy Boys; Agonizers; Four Hoarse Men; Three Corns and a Bunion; and the one to end all others, The Acoustical Persecutin' Four. Incidentally, they've got these chapters all over everywhere, including the Pacific. Maybe if you know three other guys who either can or can't sing, you could start one, too.

For the moment, that will have to be all—fresh out of news and all that sort of thing—

News Briefs

Willie Johnson, 36, a negro was in jail late Friday in lieu of $1,000 peace bond set by D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, upon application of the negro's wife, Gertie B. Gertie, who said her man took after her with a gun and a knife and that she "flat-footed jumped a fence this high." Officers took from Johnson an "East Dallas special" and a pistol. "It was a question which was longer," Robertson said.

A "pioneer settler" was caught molesting chickens at 2118 Twenty-third Friday afternoon by city police. After some difficulty he was convinced that his native haunts and prey belonged to some other party. Now in "jail" at the city pound is a coyote.

Officers said charges of driving while drunk are to be filed this morning by the Texas Highway patrol against a 55-year-old Lubbock man who was involved in an accident last night at about 9 o'clock. The man, driving a Dodge panel truck, collided with an automobile on U. S. highway 87, south of Monroe near the underpass, while driving on the wrong side of the road, state officers said. Little damage was done to either of the vehicles. A call had been received by city police earlier in the night informing them of "a Dodge truck coming to Lubbock with a drunk man driving." The man is in county jail.

Spain Is Barred From United Nations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3. (AP) — The Big Three opened the door to ten future United Nations today but shut it firmly in the face of Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

While the Potsdam communique's reference to Spain appeared to observers no more severe than the San Francisco resolution preventing Franco's government from joining the United Nations organization, it carried a new note of censure.

"Its origin, its nature, its record and its close association with the aggressor states," the communique said, disqualify the "present Spanish government" from United Nations membership.

At the same time, President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Generalissimo Stalin told Italy first—then former Nazi satellites Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania and Finland — and the neutrals that they can come into the United Nations club one of these days.

Alois Hitler Out Of British Jail

TWENTY - FIRST ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, Germany, Aug. 3. (AP)—Alois Hitler, Adolf's half brother, has been released by British authorities after having been detained for about six weeks for questioning, it was announced today. He had been captured in the Hamburg area.

"It is clear to us," a British military government statement said, "that he has led a perfectly blameless existence, being absolutely scafed stiff of being associated in any way with the Fuehrer's activities."

In accurate firing of long-range guns, consideration must be made for the turning of the earth on its axis.

Little Disorder In U. S. Occupation Zone

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3. (AP) — The War department reported today that neither organized resistance nor serious disorder have occurred in the American zone of occupation in Germany.

The department added that the Germans there have an increasing "respect for military government."

In a statement expanding some of the points touched upon yesterday by Secretary of War Stimson in a news conference, the department commented that the absence of organized resistance was "most remarkable" in view of widespread rumors of underground activity in the closing days of the war.

German civil police have "succeeded in maintaining a high degree of law and order," the statement said.

Health conditions among civilians have shown steady improvement although mass movements of refugees have made disease control difficult. In some concentration camps tuberculosis was "almost epidemic."

The first four grades of school for children from six to ten years are being opened.

"In the development of religion, both Protestant and Catholic clergy have been cooperative," the department said. "Every encouragement has been given to the churches in Germany to resume their worship."

U. S. unemployment increased 5,624,000 between 1919 and 1921.

Lubbock Juniors Eliminate Laredo From State Tourney

By CHAS. A. GUY, Jr.
Avalanche Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Aug. 3 (Special) — Lubbock's American Legion junior baseball nine eliminated the Laredo All-Stars from the state tournament here today, winning a thriller over the Rio Grande lads, 7 to 6, and kept alive the spark of hope of staying in the race for the state title.

Jack Vaughn, Lubbock right hander, went through with a seven hit pitching job, but ran into trouble in the late innings when Laredo staged a game, but vain, rally. Vaughn fanned three men, and pitched himself out of a tight hole in the ninth that provided a thrilling climax to the game.

Leads All Way

Lubbock led all the way; getting a 1-0 lead in the third inning when Bob Galey singled, and Stoney Wall drove him home with a long double.

Two more runs were added in the fifth before Laredo broke the ice with a pair of runs in the sixth.

Lubbock iced the game away in the seventh inning with a four run deluge that drove Sandoval from the mound, and brought in Laredo's ace, Simon Luna.

Arrington started the seventh when he was safe at first on an error. Vaughn slapped out a single, and Arrington stopped at second. Both men advanced a base when the Laredo catcher threw wild in attempting to pick Arrington off second. Bob Galey then smashed out a long home run over the left field fence to ice away the ball game.

Laredo Starts Rally

Laredo scored two more runs in the eighth, then staged a threatening rally in the ninth that had the West Texans worried. Alderson booted Perez' grounder, and Becknell took over at short for Lubbock. Linares singled, and Perez went to third. Simon Luna beat out an infield hit, and Perez scored. Gonzales, a pinch hitter, singled to fill the bases with none out. Linares scored on Becknell's error, and Denny Davidson took over at shortstop for Lubbock.

It was then that Vaughn slammed on the brakes, and came out of the hole with flying colors, leaving the bases still full. Ramarez attempted to squeeze home the tieing run, and Vaughn cut off the runner at the plate with a neat bit of fielding. Vaughn fanned Lopez, and Mendoza popped to Galey.

Bob Galey was co-starred with Vaughn in the hero role for the West Texans. Galey took over the catching job for Lubbock, and did a great job of it, throwing out base runners on every Laredo attempt to steal, led the hitters with three hits in four times up, and drove in four of the seven runs with his big bat.

Charles Presley slammed out a single and triple in three times up as he and Galey accounted for half of Lubbock's ten safe hits.

Marshall Sets Fast Pace In Tuneup Nine

Raymond Marshall, Lubbock Country club golfer, gave local and visiting golfers something to ponder over Friday afternoon after posting his score for the front nine holes at the club in a warmup session before the annual invitation tournament opening next week at the club.

Marshall shot the hottest round of the season over the front nine when he turned in a card of 30 for the nine holes. He fired five birdie threes going out, and his scorecard listed seven three stroke holes in the nine.

But he don't like to talk so much about the back nine score—a 40.

Several golfers, both local and visiting, have been tuning up their clubs for the coming tournament, and Herb Schroeder, club pro, pointed out that local members can start qualifying on Sunday by reporting to him before they start round of play.

American Business club's first half championship in the American League, junior baseball race, were back in undisputed first place Friday night, after winning a 14 to 4 decision over the Optimist club in their crucial clash of unbeaten nines at the Boys club diamond.

ABC collected only seven hits, but made them count as Johnny Tatum was limiting the Optimists to five hits and coasting to an easy win. The Optimists scored two runs in the first inning, but the lead was short lived.

The ABC nine came back in their half of the first, and scored four runs for an early lead that was never threatened. York started the rally with a triple. Guy laid down a sacrifice bunt, and was safe at first when no play was made on him, and York held third. Ronnie Kent poled out a long home run, scoring York and Guy ahead of him.

Coaches School Set For Banner Turnout

ABILENE, Aug. 3. (AP) — More than 400 athletic instructors from the Southwest are expected to attend the thirteenth annual coaching school of the Texas High School Coaches Association opening here next Monday at Hardin-Simmons university.

W. R Carmichael, executive secretary of the association, based this prediction on the fact that more than 300 reservations already had been received.

Several coaches are already here. Among the early arrivals is Howard Lynch of Amarillo, association president.

Added to the faculty today was Abb Curtis, veteran Southwestern official, who will conduct a rules interpretation meeting next Friday.

Vanguard of high school football players who will take part in the annual all-star game Friday night is expected Sunday.

The North team will be coached by Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian university, assisted by Bill James of Texas A. and M. and Abe Martin of Texas Christian university. The South will be tutored by Skip Palrang of Boys Town, Neb., aided by Cecil Grigg of Rice institute.

All these coaches will appear on the program along with physical fitness experts from the Army and Navy.

The Texas Sports Writers Association will hold its first semi-annual meeting at the same time as the coaching school. The sports writers are to be guests at a barbecue, play in a golf tournament, attend a dinner given by the Abilene Reporter-News, meet with directors of the coaches association and hold a business meeting.

Jaycees Beat Lions With 8-Man Lineup

The Junior Chamber of Commerce junior baseball nine only had eight players Friday afternoon, but they proved more potent than a full nine for the Lions club, and the Jaycees won an 11-5 victory at the Boys club diamond.

Walks and errors accounted for most of the scoring on both sides, and hits were scarce. The Jaycees got only five hits off the delivery of James Craig and Billy Presley, while Morris Turner limited the Lions to only three hits.

The score was nip and tuck until the closing rounds, when the Jaycees started pulling away. A four run deluge in the seventh iced the game away.

Nelson Shoots Over Par But Holds Lead

TORONTO, Aug. 3 (AP) —Byron Nelson shot one of his seldom over par rounds today, taking a 72 over the difficult Thornhill course, but clung to the lead in the $10,000 Canadian Open golf tourney as Vic Ghezzi tumbled out of a first place tie with a 77.

The two over par 72, added to his opening 68 round yesterday, gave the Toledo wizard a 36-hole total of par 140. Ghezzi, an Atlantic City pro recently discharged from the Army, fell far down the list at 145.

"I'm so tired I'm going to fall to pieces one of these days," Nelson said later in the locker room.

Willie Goggin, the veteran White Plains, N. Y., player, took over second place in the 72-hole tourney. He, too, posted a two-over-par for a 142 to stay two strokes behind the pace-setting Nelson.

Ed Furgol, former amateur from Utica, N. Y., moved up a notch from fourth to third place. He also toured the course in 72, for a two-day total of 143.

The final 36 holes will be played tomorrow.

In the 1935 Arlington Futurity, Grand Slam, with Bryson up, was left at the post on a muddy track, yet caught the entire field and won by two lengths.

MPs Nose Cummings To Cop League Title

Behind Tosheff's five-hit pitching, the Lubbock Army Air Field MPs were crowned champions of the city softball league Friday afternoon by winning a 5 to 2 decision over Cummings Food Market in the finals of the league's Shaughnessy playoff among the four top teams.

The soldiers went through the tournament undefeated, and the victory in the finals was the second over Cummings.

The MPs took the lead in the second inning, and were never headed off. The soldiers combed seven hits from the deliveries of Payne and W. Sage.

Scientist Says Super-Nylons May Be Made

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—The probability of a super-nylon was predicted Sunday by Dr. George R. Harrison, head of the physics department of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"Home-Grown Sense"

Lubbock Men Discuss Veterans

AFTER all of the bunk that has been written by asserted psychiatrists on "how to handle the returning veterans," it is refreshing to hear a local business man come up with what appears to be the real answer to the problem.

Treat them just like human beings—just like the boys, our sons, friends and relatives, we knew them to be when they went away, he says.

W. C. O'Mara offered these words of wisdom at the Rotary club's weekly luncheon and got a big hand.

"I don't agree with the thinking that these veterans should be treated as a special group, who must be 'handled' in a special way because of the stress and strain they've been under," he said. "We know these boys. We know we can count on them."

Employers, O'Mara predicted, will be happy to get these boys back on the payroll.

"To offer them their old jobs back will be a privilege, not a responsibility," he declared.

Elmer East, vice president of the Lubbock National Bank, also offered some worthwhile suggestions at the forum.

Explaining the formula that a veteran must comply with in obtaining a loan under the G-I bill, East pointed out that business conditions have changed since 1940 and 1941, and that many veterans would be wise to get jobs rather than try to start new businesses of their own in a changed economic order.

"The loans will likely be more valuable to them two or three years from now than they will be today," he added.

The loans granted under the G-I bill, he explained, are not gifts at all, but loans which must be repaid.

All of this advice has the ring of good sense back of it.

Nation's Needs Come First

NOW that the finish of Japan is growing nearer daily, both the railroads and the coal mines are pleading with the War department to release some 95,000 men from military service.

The railroads want 65,000 additional workers in the next six weeks; the mines need 30,000 coal miners who are now in uniform.

Secretary of Interior Ickes, the "Old Curmudgeon" as he calls himself, dropped in at the Senate War Investigating committee Wednesday to warn that America would go cold this winter unless the War department lets the 30,000 miners out of uniform.

He said that he had "done his dog-gondest" to tell the Army that its stubbornness probably would turn the populace into human icicles.

Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan asked Ickes why he had taken his plea to the radio.

"Have you reached the point where you have to talk to the Army by radio?" inquired Senator Ferguson.

Ickes reportedly mumbled, "That's the closest I can get to them."

The point of whether or not a cabinet officer has a right to go on the radio in an attempt to influence the military heads of the United States during war is one question.

Another is: where are the men needed most in the Army and Navy, or in the coal mines?

The right answer will not be obtained by any appeal to emotion by radio, but by cold facts and figures known to military and economic strategists. These, instead of rug-chewing Harold's oratory, should be the decisive factors.

It is possible that the railroads need their 65,000 additional men every bit as badly as the coal mines need their 30,000. Part of the crucial battle for the defeat of Japan will be fought by the railways. They are now faced with a colossal job, the redeployment of troops and materiel.

Yet the needs of the railroads and the coal mines are not the only ones to be considered, as we start planning for reconversion. Still faced with a food shortage that may grow even more acute in the coming six months, the nation also needs more farm workers. This is a phase of the problem that interests the South Plains area.

Whatever must be done in deciding how many men and which groups must be taken out of uniform to meet pressing civilian economic needs, should be done carefully—and not under pressure by any organized group or cabinet officer.

Only the welfare of the whole country must be considered.

"Married men make the best soldiers because they are used to fighting," says a paragrapher. You're wrong there, brother. While it is true they are used to fighting, the trouble is that they are also conditioned to losing.

Coolidge once said that the cure for unemployment was work. Following the same process of reasoning, we believe the cure for war is permanent peace.

THE MAN WHO SOLD TIGER TEETH
XIII

Three elephants stood in the driveway, one behind the other, and on their backs were strapped huge canopied chairs. Behind the chairs were rolls of bedding and great folds of canvas tenting and mosquito netting. Moving around the animals were six native boys, or "bearers," who jumped at the orders of the Number One Boy, a tall, dark-skinned fellow of middle age whose authority over his helpers was never questioned. Under his supervision the sacks and boxes of food and ammunition were carefully checked over and loaded on three of the boys' backs. The other boys helped Gingiss and Tony and myself to climb up on the elephants, then they handed up our weapons — fine big .30-.30 rifles—and gathered up their own bows and arrows and Ghurka knives and spears.

"Teek hai?" the Number One Boy called.

"Achcha," I replied, and the boy prodded my elephant with the point of his spear to start the safari on its way.

Our luck was bad during the four-day hunt, for we found nothing to shoot at in all that time except a few wild boars. But in the afternoon of the last day, when we were just a few hours from the lodge, we suddenly heard a low growl off to our left. The boy leading my elephant, which was first in line, made a signal and the rest of the troupe stopped. We stood there a moment listening, but the growl wasn't repeated.

We had gone about 100 yards from the spot where we thought we had heard the growl when Gingiss, riding directly behind me, let out a yell. The native boys jumped, bringing their weapons into shooting position. (Later my boy told me that yelling in the jungle was an excellent way of getting killed. It scared hell out of everybody in the party and amounted to a direct challenge to any animal within earshot.) But that didn't alter the fact that Gingiss had yelled—and the next thing I knew there was a crashing in the underbrush and a big, lean streak of brown came hurtling through the air with its two clawed paws reaching for Gingiss. At the same time Al's native boy crouched; there was a zinging sound; the tiger twitched violently in mid-air, and his leap fell short. But he was within four feet of Gingiss, and the arrow in his shoulder didn't seem to be troubling him as he crouched for another leap.

Then there was a terrific report as Gingiss' .30-.30 went off, and the tiger leaped a good three feet off the ground and fell in a heap in the tall grass.

Examination of the tiger's pelt showed that it wouldn't be much of a prize to take home. The fur was quite thin in spots (very large spots) and Gingiss' bullet had gone through the best part of one side and out the best part of the other. The native boy's arrow had cut a jagged hole in the only other really nice section of the skin, so the whole affair was rather disappointing. Al's boy, however, told us that there was a man near the lodge who made a business of capturing tigers and leopards just so he could get their teeth. He cared neither for their pelts nor their meat, but he made a nice living selling their teeth to the natives to wear as charms.

"Well, that's swell," Gingiss said generously. "I don't care about the pelt anyway. We'll just bring the beast back to the lodge and make a present of him to Vince's neighbor."

So we did. We made rather a ceremony of it, in fact. That night, after we had returned to the lodge and had supper and got cleaned up, we set out for the neighbor's place. Three of the native boys carried the tiger between them. When we arrived in front of the neighbor's cottage the boys laid down the huge carcass and we called out a greeting to our host. In a few minutes he appeared, a tall, bearded fellow with three or four women and a swarm of children at his heels. It was obvious enough that he didn't know what we were there for, and Gingiss, instead of letting one of our boys explain the nature of our visit, bent down and opened the jaws of his prostrate tiger. "Teeth — teeth!" Gingiss exclaimed.

The old fellow stared at Gingiss, then nodded violently with a huge grin. Obviously he understood. He walked up to the tiger, glanced briefly at the pelt, and bent down to examine the teeth. Slowly his hand went to his long black beard. He tugged at it thoughtfully for a moment. Then he stood up, puffed out his chest, and glared at us. For fully a minute he just stared, his glassy black eyes going from Tony to me to Gingiss. Then he rattled off a line of chatter that would fill half a dozen pages in small script; after which he turned on his heel and disappeared into his cottage.

"What the hell is this?" Gingiss demanded, turning to the Number One Boy.

The boy was obviously embarrassed. He was the one who had suggested this neighborly overture. "Teek na hai, Master," the boy said. "Sahib say tiger, he so old he teeth no worth damn. He say you shoot tiger so old you shame you self. He say maybe you find tiger dead some place. He no like Yankee joke."

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

THERE is hardly a day my mail does not bring a letter from someone, somewhere asking me how one can become a writer.

Just this morning there came another one of these.

It was from "deep in the heart of Texas," and the writer was a 36-year old woman, living on an isolated farm, the mother of four children.

BRANDEIS

The letter was written in pencil, on ruled paper, and the spelling was very poor.

Yet, there in that uneducated woman's heart, was the desire to express herself.

"I have so much time to think" she writes, "in spite of all my housework. But I don't know how to put my thoughts on paper. Can you tell me how you do it? You seem to say what most of us think but don't know how to express in words."

Well, dear lady from Texas, thanks for the compliment, but last week I had a letter from a man in Pennsylvania who wrote:

"So you think you are a writer, do you?

"Don't make me laugh. I think you just happen to have a facility to write down a lot of things everybody knows and to get paid for it."

So there you are—what is a writer?

And why do so many people want to be writers?

And how does one be a writer?

Writing, my dear lady, is a most precarious profession.

First of all a writer has to please an editor, whose taste may be entirely different from the public's.

Then the reader has to be pleased.

Let us say, for sake of example, that a writer is read by ten million people a day.

You cook for six people a day—your four children, your husband and yourself.

Can you please them all? Of course not.

* * *

THE same column that brings me high praise from Texas may bring me insults from Massachusetts.

Yet, I love to write. And you would love to write.

Why? Because everyone of us likes to express himself.

How?

The only thing I can suggest is this: First, think. Then sit down and don't try to write but just talk—only instead of your lips use your pencil or your pen or your typewriter.

Read over what you have written, then send it to an editor or throw it in the wastebasket.

The result may be the same.

The Stake Is Rubber!

Watch That Offensive In Asia

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE CURRENT and forthcoming Anglo-American offensives in the East Indies, Malaya and Indo-China are motivated by the Allies' growing need for raw rubber for the closing stages of the war against Japan and resumption of peace time production of many vital commodities.

This shortage, hitherto unknown to the public, underlies retention of gasoline rationing and restrictions on the purchase of tires as well as other articles made from this product. Although passenger treads and inner tubes can be manufactured from the home-made synthetic, at least 10 per cent of the raw is essential for truck and airplane tires, and for numerous other weapons such as tanks, battleships and motorized equipment.

Owing to the foresight of Jesse Jones, then head of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and the nation's rubber manufacturers, the U. S. had a supply of 600,000 tons of the crude in the month after Pearl Harbor, and another 300,000 tons were en route here by ship; every pound arrived safely.

TUCKER

Despite the severe restriction on automobile driving, this reserve will dwindle to about 50,000 or 70,000 tons by the end of 1946. If the Japanese struggle continues for another 12 months, we and the British, whom we are supplying with this commodity, will run short.

Escapees' information and airplane observation indicate that the Japs have been unable to destroy the rubber plantations in the conquered areas. They cover approximately 8,000,000 acres. The trees are as tough as concrete and the foe did not have sufficient facilities or personnel to apply a "scorched earth" policy. We found the comparatively small patch of Philippine rubber trees intact when MacArthur recovered those islands.

Moreover, our Intelligence understands that the Japs have more than 200,000 tons of the crude in southwestern Pacific warehouses that they could not send home because of our blockade. There is hope that a sudden victory may enable us to seize this valuable cache.

HUFF: Henry Morgenthau, jr.'s huff over the circumstances that caused his departure from the cabinet is typical of the attitude of most of the Roosevelt faction toward President Truman and what they call the "Missouri crowd." There is a distinct cleavage between the two wings.

The members of FDR's family of officeholders owed their sudden rise and their public offices to him alone. Few of them had ever been elected to public place in their own right and probably never could have been. Such men as Morgenthau, Harry Hopkins, Harold Ickes, Henry Wallace and Frank Walker freely admitted it.

Because of President Truman's modesty and his admiration for the late Chief Executive, they believed that he would not make the slightest changes in policy, methods, viewpoints or personnel. They never believed that he would assert himself in the way that he has. They resent it. There will probably be a chorus of jabbering from the bleachers at the new man in the White House box.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THERE ARE many ways in which the impact of the British election will be felt here — a fact already sensed by a growing number of American labor chieftains and industrialists.

Because Prime Minister Attlee is the calm, scholarly type, many overlook that he is a former dockworker and that for years he has represented the Limehouse district in London; only a man of radical views could have carried that constituency.

Most of his lieutenants climbed the hard way—men such as Foreign Secretary Bevin, the ex-trolley conductor, and Lord President of the Council Morrison, the ex-brewery worker.

LEMAN

They are bitter toward a system which they believe does not give the poor much of a chance. America is full of Britons who came here because economic opportunities were denied to them in the old country. At last their relatives have got the whip hand.

The United States Government and individuals hereafter must do business with an England whose new rulers have an entirely different conception of economic than the majority of Tories and the Gladstonian Liberals had. As the United Kingdom is our best customer, it is imperative that we understand the new regime if we hope to trade.

TREND: Stripped of campaign bunk, an accurate description might be that the Labor party advocates an economic order somewhere between laissez faire and bureaucracy. It practical leaders do not favor immediate and complete government control of the instruments of production nor oppose free enterprise.

They seek a joint effort in which private initiative and the power of the state are harnessed to achieve full employment and individual security.

This objective may be easier to promise than to attain. Yet the more progressive members of the Churchill government, including the former Prime Minister, have warned that free enterprise alone could not bring back prosperity to England. They published plans for government aid and control which seemed to American conservatives to be even more "New Dealish" than the Roosevelt blueprints.

The leaders of both parties were not far apart in their dreams but the voters had more confidence in the ability of the Laborites to carry them out. Since an important segment of the Conservative party, in addition to Laborites and Liberals, has swung to the left, revolutionary economic developments appear to be inevitable.

The trend on the continent is in the same direction. Now that Britain has become the leader of liberalism in western Europe — always closer to London in spirit than to Moscow — France, Italy, Belgium and other countries may swing back into the British orbit and Hussia may be less influential in that part of the world. The Socialist Attlee rather than the Communist Stalin may call the time.

We must deal with a European bloc united on an economic program which in many ways differ from our own untrammeled free enterprise system.

BUSINESS: The Socialist landslide in England may cause American investors to be less eager to buy the securities of British industries which may shortly be taken over by the government.

New York industrial executives who were planning to open branch factories over there now say that they may cancel the idea because British wages and taxes will probably jump.

Wall Street has some doubts as to whether the Laborites will be eager to accept the Bretton Woods provisions; the doctrinaires contend that the scheme is deflationary.

The Anglo-American Oil Agreement may be hung up. A powerful section of the party insists that it smacks of imperialism. Socialist publications have printed all sorts of scurrilous charges that American oil capitalists are trying to exploit the Middle East. They suspect that the pact lays the frameworks for cartels which they vigorously oppose.

SHIPPING: The status of the British merchant marine is in doubt. Before election, Labor orators accused shipowners of being war profiteers and threatened to keep strict controls over shipping long after the war. Only the extreme radicals have as yet suggested nationalization.

One plank in the Labor platform may benefit American steamship lines. It advocates acceptance of the International Seamen's Charter, which would raise the wages of British crews. This would increase operating costs and thus weaken the competitive advantages over our companies which British owners have held.

Side Glances --- By Galbraith

"With all the great engineers this war has produced, wouldn't you think they could figure out some way to do away with these traffic lights!"

New Deal Senate Plans Approved By Stokes

"Fire Built" Under Leadership

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — This town is full of guilty consciences.

A lot of people, including government officials and members of Congress who are still around, suddenly have begun to ponder that sin called the sin of omission. It is the failure to provide adequately for the manifold problems the country is beginning to face already, and will face in earnest when the war with Japan is over.

They are lumped together under the general term "reconversion." This simply means the business of getting back to normal, of transforming war plants — indeed our whole economy — into peacetime usage.

STOKES

In the near future that process will bring an off season for millions of workers temporarily, a period of forced unemployment until the war machines can be moved out and the machines of peacetime production moved in. That in itself creates an emergency unemployment problem.

Beyond that, when reconversion is completed, is another longtime problem. That is to provide for the vast normal labor force, greatly augmented by the end of the war which must be kept at work at good wages if our economy is to continue healthy and prosperous. Solving that one means some hard thinking and good planning to utilize our industrial capacity.

Too Little Done

Too little has been done so far on either the temporary or longtime problems. It is necessary to go no further than the evidence from official government sources. The inadequacy of preparation by government agencies has been pointed out by the Mead War Investigating committee of the Senate.

The failure of Congress to do all that it should have done before it took a recess is now being confessed in the post-mortems you hear about the Capitol and the sudden activity in the Senate designed to exhibit at least a recognition of its dereliction and the magnitude of the problems.

IT is a strange phenomenon, but the thing that really awakened this town was the British election. It has had far more effect psychologically than our own election last November. There was comfortable, paunchy old John Bull, the pillar of conservatism or so many people here figured him — suddenly shaking himself out of his lethargy and deciding to do some unusual things.

Perhaps we had better take a look, and that is what is going on now—at the prodding pangs of guilty conscience.

The Senate Banking committee ordered a two-day public hearing on the "Full Employment" bill, long pending. It is designed to plan yearly to provide employment by encouraging private enterprise, if that is sufficient; if not, by supplementing this with government spending and investment. The purpose was to show the country that some senators are alive to the problem. The British election was cited time and again at the hearing.

New Dealers Make Speeches

It had hardly adjourned until Oct. 9 when a group of about 20 senators, most of them usually identified with the New Deal wing of the Democratic party, called a meeting to discuss a number of measures concerned with reconversion and postwar problems generally of employment, social security, health, public works, and protection for war veterans.

The object of this meeting was to build up a fire under the party leadership, including President Truman. There was no criticism of the President. He is on record for practically every measure discussed. But it was obvious that the group wanted, in this way, to serve notice on him.

SENATOR Barkley (D-Ky), party leader, indicated his awareness of congressional delinquency by preparing a list of bills recommended by the President on which Congress has failed to act. He was not invited to the meeting, since it was a group meeting and not a meeting of the whole party membership. This group did not want to embarrass him.

Perhaps the most significant thing about the rump session was the invitation to Bob Hannegan, Democratic National chairman. They wanted to put him on notice about the political implications of the problems with which they were dealing. Mr. Hannegan had another engagement and could not be present, but he sent up an official representative of the committee in Sam O'Neal, director of publicity.

More Predators Being Killed In The State

SAN ANTONIO, Aug 3. (AP) — A 26 per cent increase in funds available in the next biennium for predatory animal control in Texas indicates increased public support of the program, says C. R. Landon, district agent of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service.

Landon in his report of operations during the fiscal year 1945, noted that the take on coyotes increased 12 per cent over the kill in 1944, a total of 16,647. The number of bobcats taken was 2,032 compared with 2,280 last year.

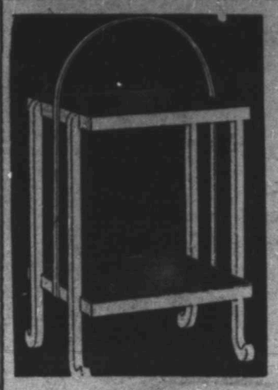

The shipbuilding industry took about 17 per cent of the steel output shipped last year, and was the leading steel-using industry.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

LEADERS TILT UPWARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—In one of the slowest sessions of the past year, stock market leaders generally tilted upward today under leadership of rails.

Carriers improved after a hesitant opening. While many pivotals were neglected, gains of fractions to two points predominated at the close. Transfers of 510,000 shares compared with 600,000 Thursday and were the smallest for a 5-hour stretch since Sept. 18.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .3 of a point at 64.7.

Rails had the benefit of further debt reduction plans announced by Southern Pacific. This road's common held a gain of ⅞ at 49½.

Prominent in the plus column were Santa Fe, M-K-T preferred, Great Northern, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Graham-Paige, American Telephone, Radio Corp., U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft and General Electric.

Among losers were Electric Power and Light, Union Carbide and Dome Mines. Railway bonds did better.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—Cotton futures were quiet, bu trallied into new high ground for the day at the close on a flurry of mill buying against textile orders which found offerings scarce.

Hesitancy pending issuance of the government crop estimate next Wednesday retarded trading. Average guess of 43 members of the New York cotton exchange placed the 1945 crop 9,940,000 bales against 1944 actual production of 12,228,000 bales.

Private advices reported improved mill demand for spot cotton during the past week, mostly for the new crop for early fall delivery.

Futures closed 15 to 35 cents a bale higher.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (AP) — Wheat rallied toward the close today, carrying other grains upward on the strength of broker buying, considered as further removal of hedges against cash sales to Mexico. Houses with eastern export connections also have been on the buying side.

Laval Tells Of French Intrigue

beaux put the first question.

"When did your relations with Petain begin?"

Speaking nervously at first, Laval said he thought it was in 1934. He declined to "invent any dime novel" about these relations, saying their conversations were such as any Frenchman could listen to.

Franco-Italian Relations

Turing immediately to the relations of France and Italy, he said "I struggled obstinately against this war. I felt our foreign policy was pulling us toward an abyss."

Laval, who was foreign minister in 1934 and 1935 and premier and foreign minister in 1936 at the time of the Ethiopian crisis, said he "played every card in my hand" to prevent the coalition between Germany and Italy."

His idea was, he said, to "solve all issues lying between France and Italy."

So he and Hoare, then British foreign secretary, negotiated their famous agreement with Mussolini which "was known to Baldwin and the entire British government."

Tie Against Germany

This agreement, which would have given Italy control of the greater part of Ethiopia, "was in order to bind Italy and France together against German aggression, which already had begun in Austria," Laval said.

"Political passions overthrew Hoare and everything was lost," the news of the agreement leaked out, Laval said. "In Parliament Hoare said his lips were sealed. I don't know why."

He himself had informed the Prince of Wales of the alliance, he said, and Baldwin had been kept informed almost hourly as the negotiations progressed.

British Knew Situation

Eden, he added, who told him of the desire of the Prince of Wales for a private talk, and Lord Vansittart, British permanent undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, had kept in touch with Baldwin.

In his talk with the Prince of Wales, the present Duke of Windsor, Laval said he had explained the dangerous Ehtiopian situation and asked him to discuss the situation with King George V.

"Anti-Fascist sentiments apparently were stronger than love of peace," Laval commented. "I suppose Hoare for that reason was unable to reveal that King George himself had asked him to find a solution together with me."

He Detests War

After shouting "I hate war. I detest war even when we win, and we always lose," Laval then referred to the British-German naval agreement of 1935 which the British reached "without consulting us." By the agreement Germany limited herself to specified percentages in new naval construction. Laval said this was despite a British-French agreement to enter into no separate negotiations with Germany.

Reminded to restrict himself more closely to Petain's trial, Laval declared he "firmly opposed the armistice" of 1940 and that he did not believe the outcome would be changed by removing the government to North Africa.

DUKE FLATLY DENIES LAVAL POLITICAL TALKS

WASHINGTON, Apg. 3. (AP)—The Duke of Windsor, in a statement issued by the British Information service, tonight denied that he had ever had any conversation on political matters with Pierre Laval although he had met him at a Paris social function.

Laval former chief of government for the one-time Vichy regime of Marshal Petain, now on trial in France for treason, testified today that he had informed the Prince of Wales, who is now the Duke of Windsor, of a secret alliance between France and Italy.

Statement By Duke

The statement issued by the British Information service, on behalf of the Duke, follows:

"In news dispatches from Paris today, Pierre Laval is reported to have alleged in his testimony at the Petain trial that a secret conversation took place between himself and the Duke of Windsor, then Prince of Wales, at the time of the Abyssinian crisis. The duke has authorized the British embassy to state that although he met Laval at a social function at the British embassy in Paris, September 1935, it is untrue that any conversation on political matters took place between them."

Lt. Milford Berry Missing In Action

First Lt. Milford A. Berry, 23, has been missing in action in the Pacific area since July 12, the War Department has informed his wife, Mrs. Geneva Berry, and his mother, Mrs. Lillian Berry, both of 1608 Ave. N.

BERRY

Lt. Berry, who has been overseas two months, was stationed on Guam as pilot of a B-29. He was graduated from Cooper High school and received his wings at Lubbock Army Air field in September of 1942.

His wife is the former Geneva Cline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cline of route 6, Lubbock.

Big Three Plans

this was one of the points covered by the Attlee-Truman announcement).

Round Out Report

(These disclosures rounded out public information on the Potsdam talks, on which the first report, dealing almost exclusively with political decisions affecting Europe, was made yesterday.

(That communique, released jointly by the President, the Prime Minister and Generalissimo Stalin, said of military questions only that they were disclosed).

Those coming home with the President on the Augusta include Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Judge Samuel I. Roseman, special counsel to the chief executive.

Advises With Aides

Mr. Truman has been spending some of his time with Rosenman and other advisors on official business and also have surveyed public reaction to the Big Three communique released yesterday.

The President told reporters that he has intended all along for the American people to be fully informed on agreements worked out at his first Big Three meeting and it was in this connection that he gave assurances that "there are no secret agreements of any kind" in the decisions reached.

(This evidently does not cover military decisions which always are kept secret until they are translated into action against the enemy).

Series Of Proposals

The President is represented as having gone into the Potsdam conference with a series of proposals for which he sought British and Russian acceptance. Among them, the establishment of a council of foreign ministers to write a peace for Europe was a primary objective.

The council will have its first session in London by September 1. It is to be composed of the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, Russia, China and France, assuming the latter two agree to join as the Big Three invited them to do.

Car Badly Smashed In Three-Way Wreck

A three-way collision of automobiles on College Avenue, at Thirteenth street, last night at 9:15 resulted in serious damage to one vehicle and one man being jailed for drunkenness.

A 1939 Chevrolet going north on College Ave. and driven by C. N. McFarland, residing at the Walker Hotel, struck a 1942 Buick sedan driven by J. D. Baldridge, 17, of 2105 Seventeenth, as the latter was turning off Thirteenth onto the avenue. The Chevrolet then collided head-on with a 1938 Buick driven by A. C. Sanders, 32, of 2214 Twenty-fifth.

McFarland's car was removed by a wrecker, police said, with severe damage done to the front. The auto driven by Sanders was drivable but the grill, bumper and light, all in front, were damaged. Baldridge's car had slight damage done to the left rear fender and rear bumper.

Officers said that McFarland was driving north on the left side of the street when the accident occurred. He was in jail last night charged with drunkenness.

French Foreign Group Asks Break With Spain

PARIS, Aug. 3. (AP) — The Foreign Affairs committee of the French Consultative Assembly adopted a new resolution today demanding that the French government break diplomatic relations with the Spanish government of Generalissimo Franco.

Only Few Face Query By OPA

Suppose you are one of those who will be invited to explain to the OPA whether they paid red points for meat stored in one of Lubbock's three locker plants.

You will be representative of a minority bloc of 10 per cent of the 700 persons who have cold storage lockers there. A registered letter addressed to you will arive from the OPA, inviting you to an interview.

Can Give Up Points

If you have not paid the points, you will be allowed to do so, with as many as 18 stamps not yet valid from each of your family's ration books—180 points per individual, for instance. If you are married and have one child, you could pay out 540 points.

That would mean—unless you have an excess of meat that hints of hoarding—you can keep your meat and eat it too, newsmen interpreted explanations of OPA investigators and enforcement attorneys to mean.

Some of the approximately 70 persons who will be afforded opportunity to offer proof of having paid red points for meats in their lockers already had appeared before the OPA.

"We have met a courteous attitude among those who called," said Roscoe H. Collier, chief investigator. "Points have been paid by those who owed them." He said he had found no evidence of any black market activities in the locker plant whose records were inspected last week. It was he who said that of the 700 accounts screened, only about 10 per sent showed need for payment of points.

Check Is Thorough

Check of records at a locker plant is thorough. Ledger sheets and work sheet numbers are checked back against "originals," and sometimes against records of the custom slaughterer.

A locker plant official said the public, "plainly nervous still, merely wants reassurance of procedure demanded by the OPA. If it can keep its meat and pay points for it, very well. There apparently is no evidence of anyone stacking meat up in storage just to hoard. Some persons have quit placing chicken in lockers, because they are afraid the OPA will issue another directive that would require points for fowls too."

Lockers Not Inspected

The official said the OPA had not "looked inside a single locker—has only inspected our records."

OPA officials, in effect, said the records speak for themselves, showing who is entitled to point-free meat, who should pay, or has paid, points.

"We're still in the process of completing the record on this one plant," Collier explained. When other plants would be visited, he said was a matter of conjecture, pointing to the fact that OPA had only two investigators assigned to the district which has 80 locker plants.

Months probably will be required, it was indicated.

The 20th Air force announced Friday that the Superforts had mined all important harbors of Japan and Gorea to within 21 miles of Russia. It said only "shadow" shipping could move now.

Japan's flow of food and war supplies was declared cut to less than half of the country's needs as a result.

Tokyo radio reported that 500 Allied warships, including battleships and cruisers, had recently concentrated in Okinawa waters.

The unconfirmed enemy claim was made in a Tokyo newspaper analysis of mainland invasion prospects, which offered the opinion that no more than 40 American divisions could be landed before 1946.

Tokyo also reported 100 American fighters and a few B-29s attacked the Tokyo area for an hour and a half Friday.

Mine Laying Operations

B-29s of Brig Gen. John H. Davies' 313th Bombardment wing have been busy with the mine-laying operations during the last four months. They extended the missions to the most distant harbors in recent weeks while other Superforts and Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet were burning and blasting Japan with the greatest air and sea strikes of history.

Whereabouts of the Third Fleet since it attacked southwestern Honshu Monday was still hidden by a security blackout.

Poles To Administer Big Port Of Stettin

LONDON, Aug. 3. (AP)—Administration of the Baltic shipbuilding center of Stettin, under German control for 225 years, has been given over by the Big Three to the Poles, a British foreign office spokesman said today.

Stettin, capital of the Prussian province of Pomerania and the port city for Berlin, was not mentioned in the Big Three communique issued after the Potsdam meeting, and from the definition of the western frontier of Poland in the communique it appeared it would remain German.

The British foreign office commentator explained, however, that it had been decided to turn over administration of the city to the Poles, who call it by the Polish name of Szeccecin.

Japs Expect Invasion Within Two Months

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3. (AP)—Speculating on the attacking strength of American forces and boasting of completion of defense preparations, radio Tokyo aired an opinion today that invasion of the homeland might come within two months

Quoting the daily newspaper Yomiuri Hochi in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications commission, the radio said that recently the United States concentrated 500 warships in the Okinawa area, but claimed that the U. S. at present has only 10 divisions available for landing operations and the number will not exceed 40 by the end of the year.

However, Tokyo contemplated, invasion might come "even as early as next month."

Newman Death

terrific," the physician said.

There was much prayer in the little white cottage. A group of Assembly of God ministers came to the house and prayed in the corporal's bedroom.

"The Lord is still with us," the stout, brown-eyed mother said confidently. "We have not lost any hope.

"The Lord brought my son through three years of a prison camp, brought him through all that suffering and hardship, and then he brought him back across the Pacific and home to me. The Lord has done all that and I have faith the Lord will see him through the rest of the way."

But the years were stacked against James Newman . . . those hundreds of days he tried to draw strength from potato vines . . . those hundreds of nights he chewed his blanket to bear the agony of beri beri were taking their toll.

And today the Lord took Corporal Newman "the rest of the way."
