A concrete truck driver prepares to pour a new floor in the old fire station at city hall Tuesday, March 19. The City of Wellington is converting the old fire station area in the community building into a new meeting room which will be used for city council meetings and will be available for use by the community. A kitchenette will be installed just off the meeting room in the old hallway.

City Opposes GT Rate Hike

Wellington has joined with other cities represented by the Texas Municipal League in protesting the "foreign" exchange rate increase allowed General Telephone Company, of which the public was not aware until recently.

The city council was advised Monday night, March 18, at its regular meeting that the Public Utility Commission on Sept. 26, 1984, granted the rate increase to General Telephone Co. for certain long distance phone calls.

This was done without notice to the public of General's request to the Public Utility Commission for a rate increase and without notice to the public or users that the increase was granted, without a public hearing on the matter and without proof on the part of the phone company of necessity for the increase.

Don R. Butler, attorney representing the cities, pointed out that the 90 Texas cities including Wellington, have now filed with PUC an appeal from the September 26, 1984 action of PUC, and additionally, a request for other relief.

No word had been received from PUC by Butler at the time of the City Council meeting Monday night, according to Glen Taylor, city manager.

For the purpose of the case "foreign" refers to calls frome one town to another, and not to a country outside the United States.

Also on Monday night, the council heard the request from three young mothers for small playground equipment to be used by little children in Ellison Park.

Katrina Moody, spokesman, pointed out that there is no small playground equipment at the park, although there is equipment for larger children.

Asked what these mothers of young children had in mind, she mentioned infant swings, into which a young child can be strapped so it will not fall out, and a small slide, to begin with.

The council assured them it "will look into it and do something." Tuesday, Taylor visited playgrounds for small children in Amarillo to see what is available.

With Mrs. Moody were Monica Langley and LaVonda Hartman.

Taylor told the council that portion of the landfill already used and covered over and part not yet used, is now seeded to alfalfa and is being irrigated with water from the sanitation plant.

Wheat Growers to Vote on Referendum

Collingsworth County wheat growers will vote April 8 through 22 in the Texas Wheat Producers Board Referendum to help decide whether or not the entire state will come under the jurisdiction of the wheat board.

Ballots will be mailed to each wheat grower in the 220 counties not currently covered by the board.

If a wheat grower does not receive a ballot during the designated time, he may pick one up at the county extension agent's office in the courthouse.

Bill Nelson, executive director of the Texas Wheat Producers Board, spoke in Wellington Wednesday, March 13 at a meeting of local farmers to explain the vote and the reasons behind the election.

Some of the most commonly asked questions about the referendum and answers Nelson gave to those questions are listed below.

* What is the Texas Wheat Producers Board?

(TWPB) was established in 1971 by more than two-thirds majority of producers voting in a Texas Commodity Referendum Law election approving a one-half cent per bushel self-assessment on their production. It was established, funded and directed solely by a nine-man board of wheat producers elected at the time in a 34-county traditional production area in North Texas and the Panhandle-Plains, which that year produced 85% of all the wheat in the sta te.

*What has the TWPB done since its founding in 1971?

It has worked with the Texas Department of Agriculture to establish a direct dial, twice daily up-dated producer market information system. It has cooperated with producers in other states through their Boards and Commissions to develop new markets for Texas and U.S. wheat. It has through an exchange of "trade teams" given first-hand information to foreign buyers, users, and handlers about Texas types and qualities of wheat as well as on-sight looks at Texas ports and internal handling and marketing facilities.

*Between April 8 and 22 mail referendum is being conducted in the remaining 220 counties in Texas relative to becoming a part of TWPB. Why?

As wheat production has increased in Texas in recent years it has moved east and south. In 1984, 45% of all wheat in Texas was outside the jurisdiction of the original TWPB. That means that producers of 45% of the state's wheat crop had no support or direction in the self-help program to benefit all the state's producers. As wheat is in the "new" areas of the state longer, new insects, new diseases, new market problems and other issues need specialized attention.

*Specifically, what will we be voting on?

You will be voting on a proposal to assess yourself not more than 5 mills (1/2 cent) per bushel on all wheat produced in the 220-county area not now in the TWPB area and voting to select 6 producers to represent you at-large on an expanded TWPB to direct the use of such funds in research, education, market development and related programs. Producers in the established 34-county area will be voting only on 3 board member positions.

*Who is conducting the referendum?

The Texas Wheat Producers Board under authority of the Texas Commodity Referendum Law was authorized and directed by the Commissioner, Texas Department of Agriculture to conduct the referendum and election at the Board's own expense after being petitioned for such a referendum on behalf of producers outside the jurisdiction of the Board's boundaries.

*Who is eligible to vote?

All producers, including farm owners, tenants, and sharecroppers who have produced wheat one of the past three years. Anyone

Hospital May Purchase 14 All-Electric Beds

Collingsworth General Hospital may soon purchase as many as 14 new all-electric patient beds, board members indicated at regular board meeting Tuesday, March 19.

The beds allow a patient to control all adjustments with electric switches built into the guard rail and within easy reach of the patient.

The board directed hospital administrator Perry Foster to accept bids on new beds for 14 patient rooms.

Foster reported that the hospital now has $400,000 in interest-bearing accounts at local banks. He also said that two new cookstoves, one electric and one gas, have been installed.

Foster also told the board that the hospital has purchased a chemotherapy vent hood, and that the staff is continuing to evaluate various electrocardiogram units before deciding on a purchase.

The board voted to add one additional phone line to be designated for patient use. Foster said the patient room lines are often tied up and neither patients nor outside callers to the patients can get a free line.

Present were board members Loretta Wright, Bill Patrick, Corky Bowen, Emory Ewing, Dr. J.M. Orr, Robert Owens and Yates Parker.

McKay resigned effective July 1 to become superintendent at Decatur Independent School District. Aue's resignation is effective at the end of the school year.

The board is now accepting applications for both positions and will accept applications for superintendent through April 15. The board did not set a time limit on applications for band director.

Aue has been band director here for 3 years.

McKay has served 6 years as Wellington superintendent. He was high school principal at Perryton before coming to Wellington.

"I accepted this new position with mixed emotions," McKay said. "The reason being that in 30 years of working in the public who would have to pay the assessment if the referendum passed.

*How and where will I get a ballot?

TWPB will mail a ballot to all producers of its record by April 8. Any eligible producers not receiving a mail ballot may obtain one from a local county extension agent between April 8 and April 22, the day ballots are due to be returned.

*If the referendum passes, how and when will the assessment be initiated?

It takes two-thirds majority of those who vote in the referendum or those who vote FOR the assessment who produced more than 50% of the crop in the area during the last crop year, favoring the proposal to put it into effect, immediately. Deduction from farmer deliveries of wheat at the first point of handling, receipting and placing in loan or sale, (usually at the local elevator) will be made from ALL producers. Those not desiring to support programs administered by the Board may send their "proof of payment" with a request for a refund to the Board within 60 days of payment and obtain a refund.

*Do other states have such a producers funded program?

Yes, Texas is the only major wheat state without a statewide producer self-assessment program. Texas' 1/2 cent per bushel assessment is one of the lowest; others range up to 2 cents a bushel in some states.

*How can a producer get his name on the ballot to run for a Board seat?

All he has to do is send a request to TWPB signed by himself and 10 other producers in his area. This must be done 30 days prior to the election, or by March 23.

*Who checks on the TWPB to see that it abides by the Texas Commodity Referendum Law?

The legislature charged the Commissioner of Agriculture with giving "prior approval" to all commodity board budgets to be sure they meet provisions of the law. The Commodity Board's books of assessments and expenditures are subject to regular audit by the state auditor. No funds may be spent for political or legislative purposes.

employees. If it operates successfully, it will become a permanent fixture.

State law requires that a landfill pit or trench that is full be covered over and reseeded to grass.

A representative of the State Health Department visited the landfill a few days ago while the irrigation unit was functioning.

By law, all water leaving the holding ponds into which the water from the sanitation system goes after the purification process, must be used by the city and not allowed to run downstream. It is believed the alfalfa can take care of this.

Taylor told the council that almost a quarter million gallons of water per day is available.

EXTENDED COVERAGE

by Kirby Campbell

About a million motor vehicles are stolen in this country every year, costing approximately $3.5 billion, according to the National Institute of Justice, an arm of the Justice Department.

The recovery rate has dropped sharply in recent years, leading experts to believe that auto theft is now an adult crime that involves organized gangs of professionals, rather than youthful joyriding.

The institute asked for legislation to combat some of the theft schemes, such as selling stolen cars abroad or chopping them up for parts.

Unfortunatley, car owners are still making it easy for thieves. Four out of five stolen cars were left unlocked, and one out of five had the key in it.

The basic rules: lock your car and take they key. Park in a well-lighted area. Turn front wheels sharply, so your car is hard to tow. And if you have an anti-theft device or alarm, use it.

Because it's hard to stop a determined car thief, it makes sense to carry auto theft insurance. How's yours? See the professionals at . . .

Two-Day Literacy Workshop Announced

A two-day adult literacy workshop will be held Friday and Saturday, March 29 and 30 with instructors coming from the Amarillo Area Adult Literacy Council, according to Charlotte Myrick, who is helping with plans.

It will be held in the Heritage Room.

Hours of the Friday meeting will be 6 to 9 p.m., with Saturday hours 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Those attending should bring a lunch on Saturday and drinks will be furnished.

Friday night attendance is required before one can participate in the Saturday session.

Purpose of this tutor workshop is to train tutors in reading, and they in turn will assist those who cannot read or who read poorly.,

The long-term goal of the project is to significantly improve the functional literacy rate in Wellington, said Mrs. Myrick.

A $3 registration fee will be charged for materials.

The expense of the trainers will be paid by the GFWC 1924 Study Club and the services of the Amarillo Council trainers is free of charge.

Mrs. Myrick brought out three literacy facts that make this workshop pertinent:

-An illiterate adult earns 42% less than a high school graduate.

-Twenty percent (20%) of Texas adults are unable to make informed decisions because they cannot read.

-Twenty-seven percent (27%) of Army enlistees cannot read training manuals written at the 7th grade level.

Anyone wanting further information can call Charlotte Myrick at 447-5640.

Ag Economy and State Issues Discussed at Political Forum

A Policital Awareness Forum on March 14, sponsored by GFWC 1924 Study Club, offered the local public input and an update on legislative issues, state and federal.

A skit created by the club president from various issues had an ironic approach with Lorene Jenkins as the "Agri-Rag Gazette" reporter interviewing Lennie Sims, as the pipe smoking farmer getting below production prices far too many years for agri-products.

Carroll Nunnelley spoke about a recent trip to Washington by 3 local farmers. He said contacts began immediately upon boarding the plane to D.C. as Secretary of Agriculture John Block was on board. Andy Henard supplemented Nunnelley's remarks and had available the position paper distributed by the Collingsworth County group and those received from U.S. Senators and Representatives visited.

Doug Seal, 31st Senatorial District's Democratic Party Committeeman, had on the day of the forum been in contact with both Austin and Washington so his presentation was a timely update on issues such as the presidential primary in Texas, drunk/drugged driving, "Open Containers", homestead exemptions, vehicle safety seat belts, compensation for pesticide damage, domestic violence shelters, crime victims' compensation and victims rights. Items affecting Texas' economy and state budget have been the decrease in oil and gas prices and production while an increase has come from hotel/motel corporate francises. The devaluation of the peso has hurt the economy along the Texas side of the border.

Some college students favor higher tuition and think of the raise as fair, since most out-of-state students can pay out-of-state tuition to a state university in Texas for less than the tuition in their own state, the group was told. In public schools, the new state law that requires a student to pass all classes before participating in extra-curricular activities was discussed.

Free enterprise issues dealt with the "Blue Laws", legalizing pari-mutuel wagering on horse races, and a possible state lottery.

Energy issues included agri-gas prices for irrigation, off-shore leasing (OSL), and the possible site selection in Texas Panhandle of a nuclear waste repository.

The club's legislative chairman, who has been a member of Texas Lt. Governor's Advisory Water Council, elaborated on the Texas Water Plan, the Ogalala aquifer recharge plan proposed by Senator Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, underground water districts, and water designated for agri-business rather than just industrial municipals uses.

A member of the regional Department of Human Resources Advisory Council told of the issues at stake in recommendations from Legislative Budget Board to the legislature's appropriations committees this month.

An update from the Committee on Child Abuse/Neglect and Pornography and local citizens striving for prevention of child abuse was given, along with suggestions for fingerprinting young children for earlier and quicker identification.

On display were charts showing time table cycle of the legislative process in even or odd numbered years.

A political issue poll, made available downtown earlier, was available at the forum and still is available upon request. This poll is being tallied and forwarded to federal and state legislators. Thus far nearly 100 local citizens have taken time to express their opinions. Mrs. Truett Holland offered the poll to those attending the forum. Mrs. Chuck Wilbur distributed the copies provided by the speakers from various federal legislator's offices.

Displayed were current events from local, state and out-of-state periodicals on subjects covered at this forum. One segment had booklets of different types of agri-business; one showed the cotton industry's expanded free enterprise approach with a new catalog of all-cotton clothes and cotton accents for home furnishing including a table made from a cotton bale replica.

Still another table display dealt with hazardous waste and possible federal site selections in our area of Texas for nuclear waste. A "Watch Your Waste Checklist" on residential items was available "to start citizens to thinking about the need for safe use and environmentally sound disposal of hazardous products."

The GFWC 1924 Study Club offered its help to assist those wishing to write legislators and state/federal agencies by providing addresses and telephone numbers.

"By speaking out or speaking up, our voices will be heard--if you're not heeded, then remember this, and cast your next votes accordingly," the club's legislative chairman said.

The club president said, "Get involved today. As a grassroots lobbyist, do your part to create a government that is truly 'of the people, by the people, and for the people."

Native Texas Plants Good To Landscape Homes

Extension Agent Don Reeves discussed native plants of Texas when he was the guest speaker for Wellington Garden Club Wednesday, March 6.

Mrs. Chester Fires and Mrs. E.H. Harwell were hostesses in the Heritage Room.

"Go Native - Plant Texas" is one of the club's projects.

Among the trees which Reeves suggested for this area are pecan, hackberry, cottonwood, mesquite, cedars hinoke (post oak) redbud and red oak.

Yucca was suggested as a shrub, wild grapes for trellises and buffalo grass for ground cover.

Reeves talked of Arbor day and urged that it be observed by planting trees.

Mrs. Joe Terry presided at the business meeting, Mrs. Woodrow Wood read the collect; Mrs. W.F. Harbin, yerbook chairman, reported on new yearbooks; Mrs. Charles Cason gave the 1984 treasurer's report; Mrs. Clinton DeArmond gave "The Wearing of the Green,' and read the secretary's report.

Officers for 1985 were installed by Mrs. Harwell and include Mrs. Joe Terry, president; Mrs. Silas Crawford, second vice president; Mrs. DeArmond, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Cason, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harwell, historian and scrapbook chairman; Mrs. E.F. Bartlett, parliamentarian; and Mrs. W.F. Harbin, reporter and publicity chairman.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated in shades of green. Those attending were Mrs. Bartlett, Mrs. Charles Cason, Mrs. Ray Clubb, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Harbin, Mrs. DeArmond, Mrs. Fires, Mrs. Harwell, Mrs. H.L. Jenkins, Mrs. Charles Michael, Mrs. DeLoyce Savage, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Ruth Wyrick and Mrs. Terry.

Rev. Moore Gives Motivational Program for Business Women

Wellington Business and Professional women met Tuesday, March 12, to hear Rev. Harold Moore, pastor of Wheeler Church of the Nazarene, discuss motivation.

"To be motivated is to have a desire to be a winner," he told the women. "You must keep in mind what your goal is and you must have determination." He pointed out that disabled persons may be motivated to continue and participate and to be a part of activities. An example is the Special Olympics.

Motivation can be traced back to Biblical times, the speaker continued. The Disciples were motivated to be more like Jesus and to go out and try to motivate others. "If you don't have the desire to be a winner, you will be a loser," Moore said.

Nancy Janes, president, was in charge of the business meeting.

Those present were LaVerne McLain, Pearl Harwell, Willie B. Harwell, Paulene Estes, Erma Faye Kersten, Goldie Barnett, Nell McKinney, Dollie Mae Wilson, Myra Hays, Mrs. Janes, Sybil Atkinson, Lucille Kelso and these guests, Rev. Moore, of Wellington, Reba Fletcher and Sue Fletcher, both of Lewisville.

Scoopin'

Here's the simplest explanation I've heard of the problems facing the farm economy:

Dumas farmer Robert Schlee told me last week that he sold wheat in 1948 afor $3.52 per bushel. This year he sold wheat for $3.24 per bushel, and the price has dropped another dime or so since he sold it.

It doesn't take an economics major to figure out that the price of everything the farmer uses to grow that bushel of wheat--land, fuel, tractors and all the other inputs--has shot upward with inflation for the past 35 years.

But the price of wheat is lower today than it was in 1948.

I need help from some of you ornithologists. Last week Willie Gragson and I saw a great blue heron at an earthen tank on the north bank of Salt Fork near the construction site of the new Panfork Camp road.

Great blue herons are one of nature's most striking creations: over four feet long, a beautiful slate-blue color and a crested head.

But the neron is a coastal bird and I wonder what this single heron was doing slumming in Collingsworth County. Do great blue herons usually find a dirt tank in West Texas attractive living quarters? Or is this just a bird in need of a good map?

Peter Grace, the ebullient chairman of the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, popularly known as the Grace Commission, can rattle off half an hour's worth of numbers without a note, and seemingly, without a breath. "I'm good with numbahs," he says.

But he's good with more than numbers. Grace clothed the numbers in some colorful imagery at a recent meeting of the National Newspaper Association in Washington.

"This is inter-generational rape," Grace said. "We're taking in $800 billion and we're spending $1.2 trillion a year when you include the unfunded pension reserves. The real deficit is $400 billion a year."

"There are 963 social programs," Grace said. "Nobody even knew how many there were until we counted them."

"We have $424 billion dollars in waste," Grace said. "We've paid out $14.2 billion to dead people! Congress tells me it's politically in feasible to make cuts in the budget. Why not start with the dead people---they can't vote!"

Where else could the budget be cut?

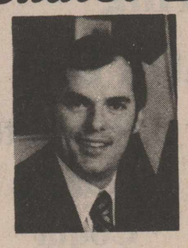

Grace suggests defense expenditures for one thing. "The Secretary of Defense says he's against our proposals, but he hasn't read our report yet. Why doesn't he close Ft. Monroe, Virginia--it's defense is a moat! "

Grace can and does go on. And the further he goes the more critics he and his commission's report pick up. Many critics say his numbers are just flat wrong.

But that doesn't faze Grace. "What if we're wrong and we can only save half of what we estimate? That would be $212 billion dollars!"

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

HOW SHOULD WE JUDGE?

AUSTIN — Controversy concerning Texas' judiciary hasn't gotten the same press attention as pari-mutuel wagering or the lottery, but proposed judicial reforms currently pending before the Legislature could have a more lasting impact than any of those other issues.

An interim committee on the judiciary, studied at length the state's current system of electing judges by party affiliation. The consensus of the committee was to scrap the system, especially at the appellate level.

The result of that committee work has been a series of bills filed by Sens. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, and Sens. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, and Grant Jones, D-Abilene. These bills would restructure the judiciary so that all appellate judges, including those on the Supreme Court, initially would be appointed.

Though the plans vary to some degree, the final result is the same. If these bills are passed, appellate judge candidates would be screened by a nominating committee with three to five names being submitted to the Governor.

The Governor then would choose between those names and submit one to the Senate for approval. That judge would serve until the next general election, at which time the voters would have a chance to give their seal of approval to the choice.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—An Austin jury breathed new life into the political career of Texas Atty. Gen. Jim Mattox, finding him not guilty of felony commercial bribery charges.

The prosecution failed to prove that Mattox ever uttered the threats he was alleged to have made to a Houston law firm, nor could it prove that Mattox acted substantially to carry out such a threat.

His defense lawyers painted Mattox as a public official doing his job in a high-stakes legal battle against big oil interests—and being dragged into the courtroom as a defendent by the law firm representing that oil company, Mobil Oil.

Two public figures, Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro and former Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, testified on Mattox's behalf, with Mauro telling jurors he was "absolutely convinced" Mattox was set up to be indicted.

Before his acquittal, a dozen potential candidates were standing in line to challenge Mattox in '86. Now he stands a good chance of finding no opposition among his fellow Democrats. Controversial as he is, Mattox is acknowledged as highly effective for his causes.

But on the other side of that controversy, Republicans say he is now "politically wounded" and have vowed to field someone to defeat him at the ballot box.

No Pass, No Play

A fiesty Texas Senate tried to alter the controversial '84 reform which requires high school students to pass all courses before playing sports, but Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby stuck to his guns to keep the rule as written.

Senators voted 20 to 11 to delay confirmation of 14 members of the new, reformed State Board of Education unless the board agreed to amend the no pass-no play rule which suspends failing players for six week periods. The Senate wants the suspension reduced to one week.

Meanwhile, Gov. Mark White, who launched the education reform movement last year which led to the new rule, began a $200,000 statewide radio commercial campaign to rally support for no pass-no play.

Hightower Under Fire

The man really under fire these days in the Legislature is Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower.

A new bill was filed to eliminate his elected job and replace him with a six-member board appointed by the governor. The sponsor, Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, reasoned, "The agriculture community simply does not have the population to elect someone whose interest is strictly their interest."

Hightower's background is consumer advocacy, not agriculture, a perceived shortcoming that has led the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee to build rigid spending directives into Hightower's budget.

Humorous, Angry

He stands to see jobs for three of his top aides eliminated, including the woman alleged to be his live-in girlfriend. Earlier, Hightower faced legislation which would prevent such indirect nepotism.

The panel accused him of promoting his own ambitions.

Hightower responds they are political attacks, and he is not far off. Many legislators from rural areas view Hightower as an urban caricature of a farmer-rancher, and resent the lack of a genuinely experienced leader as farmers face a massive crisis. His foes are angered when he attacks the president, as when he called Reagan "stupid" two weeks ago before the nation, and they are afraid when his mixture of humorous-angry speechmaking stirs up an economically troubled crowd.

But a good many lawmakers and voters see Hightower as a populist champion for the poor and disadvantaged.

Captiol Comments

By St. Rep. Foster Whaley

Today I passed a bill on the floor of the House that would change the terms of office of members of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District. It would also permit an increase in per diem for the members. Sen Bill Sarpalius will carry the bill in the Senate.

The pari-mutel gambling bill is the only one of much controversy that has come before us. Because of the money crunch, no one is putting up bills which will cause a floor fight. In past sessions, the bills which were the most heavily debated were those that called for millions of dollars. Many bills were passed which shouldn't have been during the "Surplus Seventies".

Two bills should be coming up soon that will precipitate a floor fight. These include a bill to repeal the Blue Law and a bill mandating seat belts be worn by occupants riding in automobiles. Sponsors of repeal of the Blue Law recently amended the bill to impose a penalty if an employer required any employee to work more than six days a week. This would neutralize the argument that employees should not have to work on Sundays. The sale of autos is also prohibited in the bill to neutralize the opposition by the franchised car dealers association.

Rep. Buchanan of Dumas ran a poll on the Blue Law issue. Results on his poll showed 3,729 for total repeal and 1,143 against repeal. I will vote to repeal. It boils down to the fact that some businesses do not want to stay open on Sundays. Therefore, they want a state law to make their competition stay closed as well. In my opinion, this should not be a function of state government. A large majority of the states that had Blue Laws have long since repealed them.

The seat belt issue is a government "big brother" issue. I religiously buckle up every time I get into an auto if I'm in the front seat. If I rode a motorcycle, I would sure wear a helmet. Whether I buckle up or not can have no effect on the other drivers I meet or pass on the road. Therefore, the decision to buckle up should be left to the driver. If you support such legislation, then why not make it illegal to ride braham bulls in the rodeos. The threat to add air bags and create added expense to buying a car is something we should fight on the federal level. Most people voted last fall for what they thought is less government intrusion into the lives of local citizens. Now, it is time to notify those in office who think otherwise. If your elected officials do not respond, you have the right to throw them out in the next election.

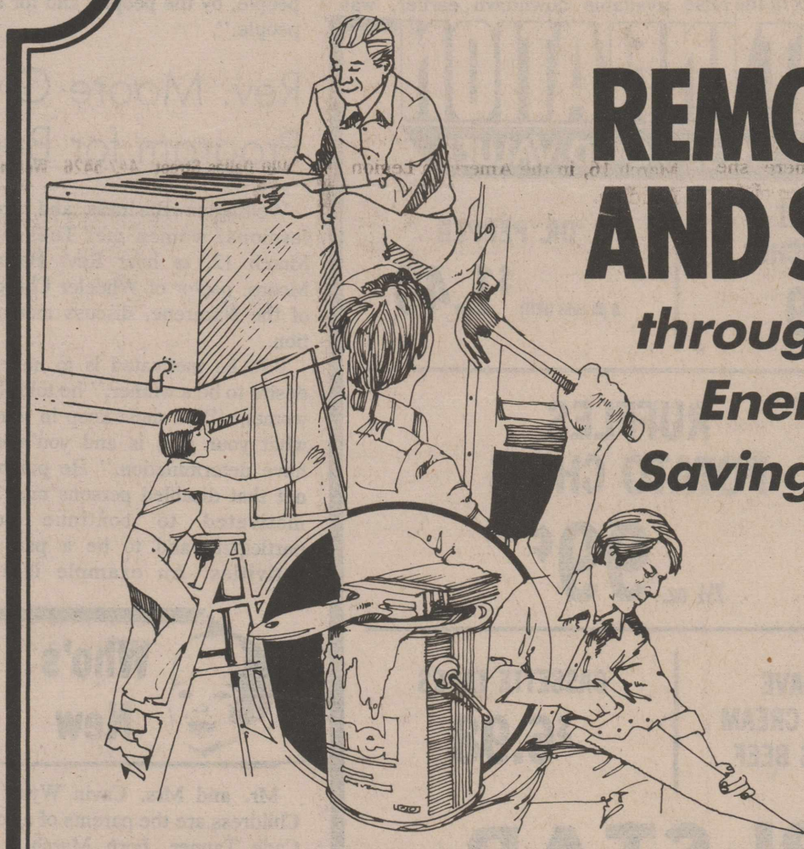

If we can help, call us at 1-800-692-1389. There is a good chance I will be in a meeting of the Appropriations Committee or the County Affairs Committee or on the floor of the House. Please talk with Mae Beth Palone, my Administrative Assistant. She is recognized in the Capitol as the best. If you do need to talk to me, please leave your office number and your home number, since most of my return calls are made after 5 p.m.

Another area of the building was cleaned and tables and chairs installed for a coffee room.

This pipe bridge spanning the water is a common sight in the gas producing areas of our great nation. This line is but one of thousands that feed the hungry furnaces of American industry. How nearly we might compare the gleaming line with the arteries that carry the precious life blood throughout our bodies. Human life and industry would not be possible without these small but important lifelines.

And so it is with the Church . . . for the church is the lifeline between God and man. It is where man's spiritual needs are fed, his faith and beliefs renewed. And his doubts, worries and frustrations removed. Through the church . . . God's Lifeline . . . is man able to know of the bountiful blessings of eternal life.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH . . . THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

CARD OF THANKS

I Wish to express my sincere appreciation to Dr. Carter Holcomb, the nurses and staff of Collingsworth General Hospital; to staff and members of First Baptist Church and to my neighbors and friends for their concern.

Mrs. Viola Maroney

I want to thank each of my dear friends and loved ones for the visits, flowers, cards, thoughtfulness and prayers while I was ill.

A special thanks to Bro. Fincher and Bro. Jenkins, Dr. Kumar, Dr. Holcomb and all the nurses and staff of the hospital.

May God richly bless each of you.

Bernice Lancaster

We would like to thank all our friends for their thoughtfulness and concern, their cards, food and flowers, calls and visits during the time Pat was in the hospital. It has been a source of strength.

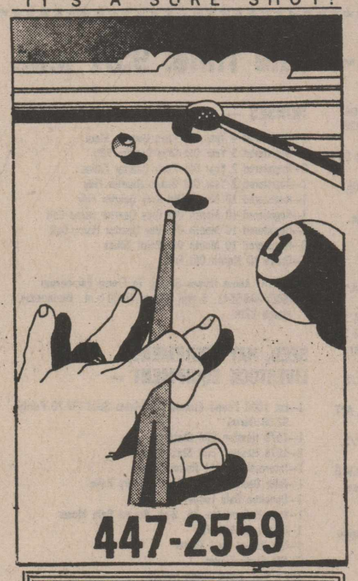

Shirley and Pat O'Hair

I would like to say "Thank You" to Dr. Holcomb, the nurses, relatives, and friends for being so kind to me during my recent stay in the hospital. May God bless each one of you.

Sincerely,

Frank Ivy

Business Briefs

Dixon-Kirchoff, Inc., of Hollis, has been selected to represent the newly combined forces at J.I. Case and International Harvester now offering the widest range of a quality agricultural equipment and equipment servicing all from one source.

It was agriculture history in the making in Las Vegas, Nev. when Case IH dealers from around the country joined forces for the first time. At that time, Dixon-Kirchoff, Inc. joined nearly 2,200 other dealer principals for the formal kickoff of the expanded JI Case agricultural operation.

On January 31, 1985, the Justice Department gave the final approval to Tenneco Inc's purchase of International Harvester's agricultural equipment business, which has now been merged into Tenneco affiliate J.I. Case.

Case IH dealers participated in intensive training seminars on product features. The seminars also profiled equipment lines, including combines, hay and forage tools, planters and tillage equipment.

In addition to product information, dealers learned of new financing programs, warranties, availablity of parts and other information vital to farm customers.

Case is a worldwide manufacturer and marketer of construction and agricultural equipment.

Tenneco, Inc., with headquarters in Houston, Dallas, is a $15 billion multi-industry company.
