Hollywood Aviatrix Flies to St. Joseph Before Finding Out Mistake; 'Powder Puff' Derbyists to Madison Today

(By Associated Press)

FAIRFAX AIRPORT, KANSAS CITY, Aug. 23.—Five of the six contestants in feminity's air derby from Long Beach, Calif., to Chicago, led by Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, advanced to Kansas City from Wichita today while the sixth, Mrs. Marjorie Doig of Danbury, Conn., was forced down and perhaps out of the race by engine trouble.

Replacement parts were dispatched to Mrs. Doig at a farm near Olpe, Kas., about midway between Wichita and Kansas City, where she left her plane and telephoned race officials here.

Ruth Barron Lost

Ruth Barron of Hollywood lost her directions again today and flew to St. Joseph, Mo., before discovering her error. She had landed for directions on a farm near Kansas City and became confused because of poor visibility.

Although her plane developed carburetor trouble which she said cost her about 20 miles an hour, Mrs. O'Donnell gained an impressive advantage on today's lap. With Mrs. Doig who was second in elapsed time at Wichita, out of the reckoning, Mrs. O'Donnell increased her lead from slightly more than an hour to 5 hours, 25 minutes, 16 seconds.

The women will fly tomorrow to Des Moines, thence to Madison, Wis., for a night stop. Monday they will proceed to Milwaukee and to the National Air races at Chicago, the final objective.

Bus Terminal Is Under Way

Old Cova Hotel Remodeled at Cost of $5,000 to House Union Station; Building Permit Total Increased

Construction of Lubbock's new bus terminal, which already is underway, by remodeling of the old Cova hotel at 1210 Broadway for that purpose at an estimated cost of $5,000 was authorized Saturday by the city building inspector.

The building permit was issued to D. N. Leaverton, contractor, and the Lubbock hotel company was named as owner of the structure.

This year the bus station was moved from 1009 Texas avenue to the Lubbock hotel building. The new terminal will be on the property immediately west of the hotel.

Issuance of the permit increased total valuation of building operations authorized this year to $1,312,-987. Twenty-one permits issued this month aggregate $26,807.

Eight permits having total valuations of $11,425 were issued last week.

Flier Averts Tragedy with Plane Crackup

German Stunt Pilot Crashes Plane Rather than Endanger Lives of Massed Spectators at National Air Races

(By Associated Press)

CURTISS-REYNOLDS AIRPORT, CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—A flier who chose to peril himself rather than endanger the lives of massed spectators lent a touch of breath taking drama today to the opening of the tenth national air races.

He was Fritz Loose, Germany's leading stunt pilot. His Junkers plane stalled, then crashed, after he had maneuvered it so that imperiled spectators and a score of pilots were saved from possible injury. Loose received only minor injuries.

Tragedy Averted

To a salvo of cannons, the rise and fall of excited cheers, and a sweeping exhibition of aerial might, the air spectacle swung to its opening, while in a far corner of the field lay the wreckage of Loose's plane mute evidence of quick thinking which might have turned exultation into tragedy.

Loose had taken off at the east end of the field. As he reached the west end at a low altitude the motor of his plane stopped. He faced the prospect of crashing into bleachers, striking a squadron of civilian planes or smashing his own ship. He chose the latter and wheeled in

BURGLARY CHARGED

Henry Bertram of Slaton Is Held in Jail Here

Charged with burglary, Henry Bertram was arrested Saturday at Slaton by county officers. Following an unsuccessful search of Bertram's home for a revolver he was alleged to have stolen, he was brought to Lubbock and committed to the county jail to await a hearing.

Bertram was charged with taking the revolver from a house north of the station, near his own home. Lubbock county officers said Bertram also was wanted by Tahoka authorities for theft.

Victims Crash Thousand Feet After Ship Blows Up While Doing Wing-Over at Sheboygan, Wisconsin, Saturday

All Die Instantly

Witnesses Tell About Flames Shooting from Motor Soon After Takeoff; Ship Goes Into Spin; Wings Buckle

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Three men were killed near here today when their plane exploded as it was doing a wing-over and crashed 1,000 feet to the ground.

The dead were Elmer Blumenberg, St. Cloud, Wis; Edwin Raasch, 21, Sheboygan, and Marshall Field, formerly of Madison, the pilot.

The ship had just taken off from the airport, according to witnesses when flames were seen to shoot from the motor. The wings buckled, and the ship went into a spin. All three men evidently were killed at once.

REVOLUTION SPREADS

Reports of Peru Fighting Not Officially Verified

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 22. (AP)—Reports were current today that the revolutionary movement in the department of Arequipa had spread to the departments of Puno and Cuzco, but could not be verified officially.

The government organ La Prensa said, however, that both departments, which are north of Arequipa, were quiet and had not been disturbed in the least.

Military garrisons were on the side of the government, added the paper, and lines of communication with the rest of the republic are standing.

Carter Withdraws As Legion Nominee

Withdrawal of Thomas H. Carter, second vice-commander of Allen Brothers post, American Legion, of Lubbock as a nominee for committeeman of the eighteenth state American Legion district, was announced Saturday.

Knowledge that there already were three and possibly four candidates in the race, coupled with lateness of Carter's nomination by the post Thursday night, were the reasons given for the withdrawal.

The second vice-commander announced his decision at a meeting Saturday of the Allen Brothers post executive committee, which accepted the withdrawal.

Committeeman to represent this and other districts will be elected at the state convention of the American Legion in Austin early in September.

Vaughn Wilson and J. H. Hackfield are the local post's delegate and alternate, respectively, to the state assembly.

The robbery was staged shortly before 3 p. m. in presence of two customers and clerks. After forcing Manager Paul Uhlic to hand him the money and checks, the robber fled in an automobile which was awaiting outside with engine running and a woman at the steering wheel.

Houston Indian Takes His Own Life Five Years After Former Mate Killed; Slayer Is Now Serving Life Term

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Aug. 23.—Five years of despondency over the murder of his divorced wife fell P. C. Clampitt, 46-year-old Indian, to commit suicide here today, officers believed. The wife was killed by Clifford Franck, her second husband. Franck now is serving a life sentence.

Clampitt was found dead in the home of P. A. Greenwood, where he had boarded for two months.

Seemed Nervous

Greenwood told police Clampitt seemed despondent and nervous. "He told me he wanted to rest a while, and he put a pillow down on the floor," Greenwood added. "I then went to the kitchen, and in a few minutes I heard the pistol shot." Clampitt was found to have a .45 calibre bullet wound in his right temple. The gun was beside his body.

Officers released after questioning a blond young woman who declared she had been with Clampitt until about 10 o'clock last night. She rushed screaming into Greenwood's house when informed of his death.

It developed that when Clampitt left the house last night he about $180, but none was found in his pockets. Greenwood said Clampitt paid him $8 Saturday morning.

Women Voters Muster Ranks For Real Battle Before Election In November

By MARGUERITE YOUNG

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—Women students of how women vote and why are mustering ranks for a real battle, before the November election, for the ballots of the several million voters of their sex.

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, has under way a plan of action she worked out with Jouett Shouse, executive chairman, last winter.

Ben White in Charge

The soft voiced former governor of Wyoming has given immediate command of activities to Ben White, one militant suffragist, but now the quiet, executive secretary of the women's division of the Democrats. Miss White said today three-fourths of all the counties in the country have sent word of effective feminine organization.

Mrs. Lenna Lowe Yost, blonde West Virginian whose one time teacher, Chairman Peso, has just named her director of women's activities for the Republican national committee, said today she still was "sensing the situation." When the command to march comes, she expects to be ready with a unified organization.

Waiting for responses from state leaders, Mrs. Yost has kept silent about her plans. She will do some radio speaking. She also will cooperate with the masculine leaders here and will work with the women's organization down the line.

Lubbock Papers Prove Impartial

Satisfaction at treatment of the gubernatorial campaign in the news columns of the Avalanche-Journal was expressed Saturday by leaders of both Sterling and Ferguson organizations here.

Both Roscoe Wilson, chairman of the Lubbock county Sterling-for-Governor club, and J. A. Humphries, lifelong friends of James E. Ferguson and secretary of the South Plains Ferguson organization, commended the Avalanche-Journal on the presentation of news concerning one of the most heated gubernatorial battles in Texas history.

"The Avalanche-Journal has given both sides fair and impartial treatment in its news columns. I have no criticism to make," said Mr. Wilson.

"I am satisfied," Mr. Humphries declared, continuing:

"We have had equal space and prominence in news columns. Editorials for Sterling were emphatic but that is a newspaper's privilege. The news columns were impartial."

Moody Pleased When Sterling Steps in Lead

Governor Figures Returns as Houston Candidate Piles Up Commanding Lead; Sees Majority of 75,000 Votes

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 23.—His voice husky from the strenuous campaign he has waged for the past three weeks against "Fergusonism," Governor Dan Moody was jubilant tonight as early returns from all parts of the state piled up a commanding lead for Ross S. Sterling over Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson.

The governor was busy with pencil and paper figuring up the returns as they came into the office of the American-Statesman from the Texas Election bureau. He was figuring the vote by percentages as each half hour tabulation was received.

To Retire in January

The chief executive, who will retire from office in January, appeared none the worse for the numerous speeches he has made throughout the state in the interests of Sterling who is Moody's appointee to the chairmanship of the state highway commission.

At ten o'clock tonight Governor Moody sent a telegram of congratulation to Sterling. He predicted the highway commission chairman would lead Mrs. Ferguson by at least 75,000 votes and expressed the belief that it might go much higher than this figure.

According to persons who have watched the governor during previous campaigns he was as much excited at the returns tonight as he was when he was running for office himself.

Open Campaign Against Reds

Execution of Officials and Barbarous Atrocities Committed by Communists Are Reported; Raids Conducted

(By Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23.—Eclipsing temporarily China's formal civil war, government authorities devoted their attention today to mopping up campaigns against Reds with numerous executions by officials and barbarious atrocities by communists figuring in reports received here.

In Hankow anti-communistic defense forces arrested many suspected agitators and publicly executed 18 months after conviction. In Nanking the capital, city wide raids yesterday and today by nationalist soldiers, resulted in 120 arrests in addition to scores previously apprehended. "Cells," or communist locals, were smashed and propaganda seized. Dynamite and other explosives were found. Authorities said reds intended using them to blow up government buildings.

Campaign Under Way

In Canton, metropolis of southern China, an uncompromising campaign against communists was under way. Soldiers raided the governments's police training school where many allegedly have been converted to communism. Fifty arrests were made and seven ringleaders were executed.

From Hankow came an amazing story of communists branding adherents with hot irons shaped like the sickle, their international emblem. The reports said entire armies in Hunan province had thus been branded, primarily to insure detection in event of escape of detection.

Neff, Lockhart and McDonald Also Appear Sure of Final Victory as Bitter Primary Campaign Is Ended

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 23. — Taking the lead from the time the returns began trickling in from the metropolitan boxes late Saturday afternoon, Ross S. Sterling, multimillionaire Houston business man and publisher bid fair tonight to come through to the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

At 11 o'clock Saturday night, Sterling was pacing his woman opponent, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, by 76,569 ballots. Mrs. Ferguson, a former governor, had relied upon a rural supoprt which did not measure up to expectations during Saturday night when 634 counties of 253 in Texas were tabulated, 72 of that number complete. The vote at 11 o'clock was Sterling, 369,213; Ferguson, 311,643.

Will Is Ahead

Senator Edgar Witt, of Waco, appeared "in" in his race against Sterling Strong, Dallas, for lieutenant governor. Witt had 338,116 votes at 11 o'clock while Strong had received 287,303.

James V. Allred, youthful Wichita Falls aspirant to the attorney-generalship, also appeared safely nominated. The present incumbent, Robert Lee Bobbitt, of Laredo, had polled only 285,585 votes to 387,-889 for Allred, the latter gaining on almost every county report.

Former Governor Pat M. Neff was showing the way in his race for his present office, that of railroad commissioner, Gregory Hatchel, long in state politics, was opposing Neff and the vote at 11 o'clock stood, Neff, 370,979; Hatcher, 294,-353.

Charley Lockhart was leading John E. Davis for the state treasurership, 326,211 to 288,005 and John McDonald was ahead of A. H. Klug, for Agriculture commissioner, 344,-353 to 252,008.

Indications shortly before midnight were that the nominatorial togas would be resting on the shoulders of Sterling, Witt, Neff, Allred, McDonald and Lockhart when all votes are in.

Lumber King Reaches End Of The Road

Charles F. Ruggles Dies As He Had Lived, Among Outdoor Activities; Built Up Vast Fortune

(By Associated Press)

MANISTEE, Mich., Aug. 23 — Death came last night to Charles F. Ruggles, the last of the Michigan lumber barons, and found him in a plain little room where he had lived for years, preparing his own meals, scrubbing the floors and spending hours over kettles in which he made candy for distribution to children at Christmas time.

Ruggles, at 84, died a multi-millionaire, but there was little difference in his mode of life during his last days from that of his youth when he saw and seized the opportunities in northern Michigan's virgin forests. When his contemporaries in the industry went to the cities years ago and built fine homes, he remained behind, living as he had always lived, wearing moccasins and a lumberjack shirt, with no necktie beneath his long white beard.

Was Active to Last

When lumbering passed out in Michigan, he turned to salt manufacturing and until last Saturday when he was stricken ill, was active every day. He bought into the lumber industry in other states—Minnesota, the Carolinas, Florida, California, and much of the huge estate he left behind is represented in these holdings.

Ruggles was born in Bangor, Maine, on March 3, 1846. His parents took his to Oshkosh, Wis., where he worked in a match factory as a youth. The family moved to Manistee because the youth was suffering from phosphorus poisoning from matches, and a physician recommended outdoor life. This led him to become interested in lumber, and led to his amassing a fortune.

Never Married

He never married, but the place of wife and children appeared to have been filled for him by friendships. He financed Edward Buckley, his brother-in-law, in lumber mill deals years ago, and later took as his clerk and protege John P. Rademaker, who was associated with him for 40 years. Manistee was startled last winter by a break between the two men which came to light in a suit for $5,000,000 against the old man filed by Rademaker. The case was settled after the story of the long relationship had been told in court. Property rights in many joint enterprises were separated in dissolution of partnership.

Carried Salt Business

After that Ruggles carried on with his salt business, apparently as vigorous as at any time in the nearly 70 years he lived here.

The strange life he led did not prevent Ruggles from taking an interest in the affairs of the world at large. Two years ago it was revealed through a letter from the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft that Ruggles in 1912 provided funds to organize and support the American judiciary society in an effort to help "prevent delays of the law."

Two doctors and four employes were at the old man's bedside when he died. Shortly before he had directed that his funeral be held Saturday afternoon with no religious ceremony and that his body be taken to Oshkosh to rest in a mausoleum beside the bodies of his father and mother.

Trio To Attempt Unique Flight

This trio is composed of three of the men who are to take part in an endurance contest in New York, which is expected to keep two planes aloft for two months. Alternating crews will man the ships and each crew will be relieved at the end of 72 hours by pilots who will be lowered into the plane by means of ladders. They are, left to right, Jack Charleston of Mineola, L. I.; Tex Anding of Jackson Heights, L. I., and Capt. John S. Donaldson of Jamaica, L. I.

Snyder Prepares To Pave Streets With City Work

SNYDER, Aug. 23 —(Special)—The city of Snyder is establishing a worthy precedent in West Texas when Mayor Howard G. Towle and the city council completed the purchase of road building machinery in the way of steam rollers, asphalt sprayers, etc., delivery to be made within 20 days.

This purchase will enable the city fathers to pave streets as their finances permit, placing local labor on every project.

One of the reasons for the purchase of the machinery was that a recent letting of paved street construction on 26 streets, five out of town bidders had their figures so high and in apparent price harmony that the council threw out all bids and decided to get into the building game themselves, saving the taxpayers thousands of dollars, besides employing nothing but local labor.

Connally Has Request For Cotton Loan

Texan Asks President To Aid In Work For Ten-Cent Advance On Crop; Urges Adoption Of Policy

(By Associated Press)

MARLIN, Aug. 23—United States Senator Tom Connally of Marlin telegraphed President Hoover Thursday urging that he use his influence to have the farm board authorize a loan basis of ten cents per pound on cotton, as a drouth relief measure to assist farmers of the cotton belt.

His telegram read:

"Dear Mr. President: The cotton farmers today are in the midst of the worst depression they have suffered since 1914 when conditions were caused by the European war. This great industry and the millions of American citizens who are dependent upon it for a livelihood are in extreme distress.

Urges Loan

"I have telegraphed to the farm board urging that the board authorize a loan basis of ten cents per pound on cotton of the 1930 crop. Will you please urge the farm board to give its immediate attention to this critical situation?

"Ten cents per pound is below the cost of production of cotton. This great staple is intrinsically worth substantially more than ten cents per pound. The farm board and the whole theory of farm relief are on trial in this emergency. If the board under the farm relief act cannot render substantial aid and relief to the growers of cotton in this great emergency, the farmers of the country will lose faith in farm relief legislation.

"With great earnestness I urge that you cause the farm board to adopt a policy that will aid in relieving the tragic distress of the cotton belt. With great respect, Tom Connally."

Senator Connally received telegrams today from Senators Black of Alabama, Brock of Tennessee, George of Georgia, Blease of South Carolina and Thomas of Oklahoma informing him that they were joining in his appeal to the farm board.

With in three hours 5,000 Americans disembarked at Southampton, England, recently.

Builds Engine

Plainview Man Has Model Unit

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 23—(Special) — Grafton McInnish, Plainview electrician, has completed a locomotive three feet eight inches long, after working on it in his spare time for the past eighteen months.

The engine is an exact duplicate of the engines used on special passenger trains of the B. & O. railroad between Washington and New York. It has 2,657 working parts, and will draw a load of two hundred pounds. All metal used in the model was obtained by him and cut and turned at his home work shop.

Cotton Bolls Are Exhibited in City

Several bolls of cotton were exhibited here Saturday by C. W. Jackson, 315 Avenue U, who said they had been picked late Friday afternoon in his 50-acre field of cotton 18 miles southwest of Lubbock.

"The cotton there looks good and is opening nicely. C. H. Lane, who is growing the cotton on my plot, believes it will make half a bale to the acre," said Mr. Jackson.

Possibly because of the prolonged heat, the cotton is opening earlier than last year, a large part of the field being in the process, Mr. Jackson said.

Mr. Lane hopes to have the first 1930 bale from the field by September 1, the owner said.

The field is a short distance across the line in Hockley county.

Injunction in Case Is Asked

Court Wrangle Over Ownership of Rural Telephone Line Echoed in Petition Filed Here for Permanent Writ

Petition for a writ of injunction was filed Saturday in Ninety-ninth district court by Mrs. Lizzie Wayland as an outgrowth of a court wrangle over ownership of a rural telephone line.

A. W. Worsham, who won a judgment against Mrs. Wayland in justice court and later when she appealed to county court, and Sheriff Wade Hardy were named as defendants in the injunction petition, which asked a writ permanently restraining collection and enforcement of the county court judgment which Worsham obtained May 2, 1929.

Subsequently the case was dismissed by the civil court of appeals at Amarillo for want of jurisdiction.

The county verdict awarded Worsham possession of the telephone line, valued at $300; divested Mrs. Worsham of the 50 per cent interest she claimed in the line, and rendered a judgment of $35.75 against her for rental use of the line 48 months at 75 cents and 6 per cent interest.

The line extends from the northwest corner of Overton addition, Lubbock, in a northwesterly direction. Mrs. Wayland contends that it ends about 13 miles from here and Worsham that it is about nine miles long.

OFFICIALS NOT BLAMED

Three Deaths In Prisons Are Due To Heat

HOUSTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—Following a complete investigation into heat prostrations of state prison farms Wednesday which claimed three lives and sent four other convicts to the prison hospital, prison manager Lee Simmons late today declared that officials of the two farms had been absolved of any blame.

The three prisoner victims to the heat's rays were Jimmie Arnold of Houston, Robert Davis of Hopkins county, and Zeb Daniels, negro of Brazoria county, who fell out while laboring in the cotton fields at the Clemens state farm and the Ramsey farm.

Two of the other four convicts who suffered strokes were recovering at the Clemens farm hospital today.

Padre Island May Be Made Into Park

BROWNSVILLE, Aug. 23. (AP)—The suggestion that Padre Island, which boasts the longest ocean beach of any island in the world, be made into a national park has been advanced and is being considered in this section.

The suggestion will be taken up at the convention of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce in November, and other organizations are expected to consider it.

The island is approximately 125 miles long, extending from Point Isabel, on the south, to Corpus Christi, on the north. Its width varies from one-fourth mile to a mile. It has been partially developed by private capital, and plans under discussion call for an ocean drive from Brownsville to Corpus Christi along its beach.

The state park board has been asked to investigate the feasibility of making a national park out of the island, and the National Park Association will be asked to investigate the island in the event the proposal is favored by the South Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Archeological Party Returns From Field Jog

Dr. Holden Conducts 30-Day Expedition Into Ruins Of New Mexico Pueblos; Material for Museum Taken

Headed by Dr. W. C. Holden, of Texas Technological college, a party of almost a score of students returned to Lubbock last week from a thirty-day archaeological expedition spent in New Mexico and Colorado.

The party left Lubbock on July 15 and spent three weeks at San Geronimo ranger station, twenty miles west of Las Vegas. Nine days were spent in the living Pueblos and the Pueblo ruins of New Mexico. A trip to Santa Fe was made and Santo Domingo was included where the corn dance presented by Indians was seen. The party also visited Isleda, Sandia, La Juna, Acoma, Puebla Bonita and Chetro Ketel in Chaco canyon, the Zia cliff dwellings at Puye, the pueblos at Teseque, San Ildefonso, San Juan and Taos.

Ruins Excavated

Five days were spent in excavating a private ruin near Las Vegas and four days in a ruin near Hereford, Texas. Some very interesting and important specimens were found by members of the party near Las Vegas which were of pre-pueblo date.

Students will be given nine hours advanced credit and they have a well rounded collection to place in the college museum.

19 In Party

Included in the party were Chas. Adams, R. B. Freeman, Naomi Freeman, Flora Goforth, June B. Hargus, Guy Haynes, Tom Holden, E. J. Lowery, Opal Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Self, William Nelle, Martha Spencer, Kathleen Wood, Clarence Smith, Dr. and Mrs. John C. Granbery and Mrs. W. C. Holden.

The trip was made with but one accident during the period. Clarence Smith was painfully injured when his arm was badly cut with an axe as some of the men in the party sought to cut down a honey tree. He was confined to his bed for five days but was able to continue with the expedition.

HONEY COLLECTOR

BEAUMONT, Aug. 23 (AP)—Louis Serafino unintentionally went into the bee keeping business here.

When the honey producers appeared in numbers too great for comfort around his residence he began to investigate. It was noted that they crawled from under the weatherboarding. A bee expert was called and the boards were removed. The result was that a cache of 65 pounds of honey was discovered. Serafino distributed is among 10 friends who had congregated on for the honey collecting festivities.

Flying Just Ordinary Daily Life To Gladys O'Donnell; Thrill Of Air Is Fascinating Even To Veteran Fliers

Leader Has Good Chance To Win Air Derby

BY CHARLES C. WATSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

LEADINK a cross country air derby from Long Beach, California to Chicago, Illinois, may mean a thrilling experience wrought with danger to most people but to Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, it is all a business and in the work of the day.

Mrs. O'Donnell, who has led the women's national air derby since its start from Long Beach last Sunday, might be considered a veteran pilot, having been in the game for the past two years, much of the time being spent in the air. She is one of the seventeen women in the United States to hold a commercial transport license.

Granted Brief Interview

Landing at the Lubbock municipal airport last Thursday, leader in the Roswell to Lubbock lap of the race, Mrs. O'Donnell granted a brief interview to newspapermen, stating that she was very tired and wished to obtain all the rest possible.

"The race to date has been more or less uneventful," she stated. "But there is no telling what might be in store for any of us before we land at Chicago. None of us are looking for trouble, however, we are not foolish enough to believe we lead enchanted lives and that trouble cannot overtake us at a minute's notice.

Opinion Overdrawn

"Most people are of the opinion that flying through the air is very hazardous and that when we take off from solid ground we are taking our lives in our hands and are lucky to get back alive. That opinion is overdrawn and I think the rapid strides which the aviation industry has taken in recent years is proving daily that it is.

"In the two years I have been flying alone, I have never had a crack-up. This good record I do not attribute to luck but to careful handling and development in plane building which has made the air safe."

Second Last Year

Mrs. O'Donnell is a trim young matron of athletic build and just the type that one might picture as the heroine of a thrilling story of the air. She is not carried away by the success which has accompanied her efforts and is pleasant in convention. Aside from the fact that, unless unlooked for accidents meet her on the last laps to prevent her winning the present race, the young flier was second place winner in last year's derby from Santa Monica to Cleveland.

She is flying a Waco ship, powered by a new Wright J-6-7 motor and her perfect knowledge of her ship, coupled with the fact that she is a navigator of unusual ability in a woman, has been a strong factor in her maintenance of the lead which she took from the start of the derby.

There Are Thrills Too

"I do not mean to insinuate that there are no thrills in flying" the young woman continued. "To be perfectly frank with you, there are lots of them. I enjoy everyone and that is one of the reasons why I took up th game. When you rush through the skies there is a feeling of freedom, of power and of ecstasy that you do not get in the common trend of everyday life. You can feel the rush of air by your face and when your ship responds to your lightest touch carrying you through the clouds high over a slow-moving world—there is a feeling in your whole body that can handily be described.

"There is some thought of danger, of course. That is only natural, but a flier, one who loves the air, feels more at home high in the heavens than he does moving along a highway in an automobile. Safety in flying is not luck anymore than driving an automobile is luck. Flying requires a steady hand, a level head and a love of the game."

Women Coming To Front

Replying to the question, "Do you think women make good fliers as a rule?" Mrs. O'Donnell declared that in many cases women make much better pilots than do men. "I hardly think that we can judge the modern woman a weakling," she explained. "To be sure, long years ago, even in war time, the woman's place was in the rear, in places of safety. Now, however, that condition has changed and a complete transformation has been undergone. Women have taken the place of men in business, in politics and other activities, then why should they not be leaders in aviation. I confidently believe the dayis not far off when a woman pilot will be just as common a thing as a man. Women have already set speed records, altitude records, distance records and flight records of every kind—what is there about them that should make their air conquests seem unusual?"

AMHERST, Aug. 23—(Special)—Nearly one half of the approximately 300 farmers who attended the Amherst Short Course for Feeders and Breeders held recently by A. D. Adam, county agent, have agreed to feed some cattle this fall, the county agent announced.

"A number of breeders of calves in this territory have listed calves for sale to farmers with the bankers and it is possible that we shall be able to get all the calves needed in a short radius of this territory," Mr. Adam said.

Bulletins covering all phases of feeding mentioned in the course are available at any bank in the county or at the county agent's office here, Mr. Adam said. Blueprints of the equipment necessary also are available.

"Much interest was manifested by the farmers and others who did not attend can get the information from the banker or the county agent any time," Mr. Adam added. Wheat Is Fed In Hale Area

Low Price Of Product Causes Farmers To Make Use Of It As Livestock Feed; To React Favorably

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 23 — Thousand of bushels of wheat are being fed to hogs and other livestock on Plains farms according to well informed elevator men, farmers, and agricultural observers of Plainview and this section.

Right around Plainview local elevator men, and wheat farmers declare that the feeding of wheat to hogs is increasing every day, and is becoming very profitable with the present prices that prevail for wheat and other feedstuffs. Wheat at Plainview is bringing around seventy cents per bushel which is equal to about one dollar ten cents per hundred pounds, while kaffir and maize, the chief stock feeds, are selling for one dollar twenty-five and one dollar thirty-five respectively. That wheat makes a better feed for hogs and livestock than either of these is the contention of those who are trying it.

The Plainview Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture is conducting a survey of conditions in the Panhandle-Plains relative to the feeding of wheat. A letter has gone out to every County Agent in the territory seeking information about the extent of wheat feeding that is being done now in each of the counties of the Plains. This information is to be compiled and given publicity. The United States Department of Agriculture has been asked for information about wheat-feeding, and it will be promulgated by the local commercial organization in an effort to increase the practice until such time as the price becomes more favorable.

Such wheat farmers as Joe Kellehor, generally recognized as the pioneer wheat king of the Plains country, declare that the feeding of wheat to livestock will react favorably in the present situation, besides furnishing a very profitable way in which to market the present crop. Kellehor, whose advice is sought by many interested in wheat culture on the Plains, is at the present feeding wheat to a large number of hogs on one of his farms, and he likes the results immensely.

Dickens Farmer Puts Sack Under Cutter Bar

SPUR, Aug. 23. (Special)—J. L. Hutto, who lives on Dockum creek, heard about W. S. Carlisle saving some alfalfa that did not appear enough of a crop to make any hay, so he decided to try the plan of using a cotton sack underneath the cutter bar of his machine.

"I had 22 acres that I did not think would yield 50 pounds of raked hay to the acre," Mr. Hutto said in explaining his work. "Well, I got seven tons of hay off that 22 acres where I thought I would not get anything. It meant just seven tons of hay to me that I did not know I had."

Hull To Face Trial Monday

Spur Druggist Is Scheduled To Be Up In Court At Dickens; Accused Of Carl Benson Slaying

SPUR, Aug. 23. (Special)—When the Dickens county grand jury meets at Dickens Monday, it is expected one of the cases to come before it will be that of A. C. Hull, Spur druggist, charged with the slaying of Carl Benson, several weeks ago.

Hull has been free on $1,500 bond, pending the meeting of the grand jury to investigate the case. He was arraigned at a preliminary hearing here immediately following the shooting, which occurred August 8.

According to reports Benson had threatened Hull, who was a member of the jury that had found the dead man guilty of a liquor charge. Benson was sent to the state penitentiary for two years and had completed his sentence about six weeks before the shooting.

It is claimed that Benson threatened Hull several times and that he entered the drug store where Hull was working and began an argument. Benson is said to have made threats and believing his life to be in danger when the man started towards him, Hull fired several shots into Benson's body.

Federal Funds To Be Used At Once

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (AP)—Authorization to proceed with the expenditure of $7,620,239 on the federal highway system in Texas after September 1 was received today by Gibb Gilchrist state highway engineer from the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. The authorization was made to relieve the unemployment circumstances the money would not have been available until July 1, 1931.

Gilchrist said approximately $3,500,000 of the current federal aid appropriation had not been placed under contract. He said the state highway commission was expected to place the major portion of this amount under contract as soon as possible and then proceed with the expenditure of the funds available September 1.

Owing to the lack of state funds at the present time, Gilchrist said the federal appropriations probably would be matched with funds supplied by the various counties to continue the road building program. Pending the meeting of the commission the department engineers will proceed with the drafting of plans.

Lamesa Boasts Two Hospitals

Modern Buildings And Equipment Offered In Institutions; Able Staff Of Physicians Maintained

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, Aug. 23.—Lamesa residents and Dawson countians have access to two of the most modern equipped hospitals, with staffs of physicians well trained in their work of any city in the South Plains, it is believed.

The Loveless and Bennett hospital, erected here in 1924 and valued at over $60,000, is equipped with modern surgical instruments and as an added feature patients have the use of an X-ray machine. This hospital was founded by Dr. J. C. Loveless and Dr. W. H. Bennett at about the same time that the Lamesa Sanitarium was built here. Since its erection, two other physicians have been added to the staff of the Loveless-Bennett hospital. They are Dr. J. B. Bennett, who came here over four years ago, and Dr. R. G. Loveless, who joined the institution this year. All are graduates of well known universities and medical schools. Dr. W. H. Bennett graduated from Tulane at New Orleans in 1913; Dr. J. C. Loveless from the University of Texas at Austin in 1906; Dr. J. B. Bennett received his diploma from Baylor in Dallas in 1924 and Dr. R. G. Loveless finished a medical course at Baylor this year.

Cares For 14 Patients

The Loveless and Bennett hospital can care for fourteen patients, according to Dr. J. C. Loveless. When it was first constructed, the hospital proper was built but later an office for doctor's was added. The doctors office is one story in height while the hospital is two stories. Two graduate nurses are employed and each has her assistant.

Dixie Kilgore, former county judge of Dawson county was recently employed as business manager of the hospital. Miss L. Hutchie has been connected with the institution for a number of years as secretary and bookkeeper.

Any type of operation can be performed by the four physicians with the hospital, who are all specialists in certain branches of the medical profession.

Changes Hands

The Lamesa Sanitarium was constructed in Lamesa in 1924 by Dr. P. E. Standifer who later sold it to Dr. W. H. Dunn. Dr. Dunn discontinued his own sanitarium there, which was built in 1923, and moved the equipment to the present medical institution which was renamed from the Standifer Sanitarium to the Lamesa sanitarium. This building, one story in height, is valued at $32,000, including equipment. Various electrical ray machines are in use at this hospital, such as the violet ray and diathermia. An X-ray machine is also included in the equipment.

Two physicians are on the staff, Dr. Dunn, who graduated from the Fort Worth Medical college in 1908 and Dr. T. L. Treadway who received his diploma from the state school in Galveston in 1897. Four nurses are employed, one of them a graduate nurse. Fifteen patients may be cared for by the hospital. Dr. Dunn stated. Any type of operation may be performed by the two physicians attending the Lamesa Sanitarium, he said.

New Oil Test For Scurry Is Planned

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

SNYDER, Aug. 23.—With the spudding in of the new Seifert-Dibble No. 1 Blackburn well on the southeast corner of the N. W. one-quarter section of No. 138 comes the information that the Southern Crude will start a new well west of Snyder, while Hill & Hill of Fort Worth are working up a drilling proposition on their acreage about four miles northeast of Snyder.

The Scurry County Oil Exchange has taken a year's lease on the corner room of the Manhattan Hotel building and is opening up offices with Judge Charles Seagraves, secretary in charge. Plans call for the exchange to be the common meeting point of the oil fraternity of West Texas as well as a point for county farmers who want to list their leases and royalties.

Active oil excitement in Scurry county from the remarkable oil showings in the Harmon-Seifert No. 1 Murphy has brought an influx of oil men here that is taxing every hotel to capacity. Snyder's greatest need today is a new and modern hotel that will take care of the tourist traffic so heavy over the Dal Paso Cavern highway as well as the oil men who are heading this way.

LAWS TO STAND TEST

Oklahoma's Oil Proration Is Right, Reeser Says

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 23—(AP)—Oklahoma's oil conservation laws will withstand any test, E. R. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, told a meeting of operators here today at which the recommendation of the Midcontinent Oil and Gas association's proration committee for continuing the present 550,000 barrel limit on the state's daily production through September was approved.

Reeser said a prolonged study of the laws had convinced the legal subcommittee of the proration body they were constitutional, and he added the committee now was prepared to prosecute violators of the proration orders made by the state corporation commission.

Lubbock Public Schools Prepare For Record Session

Registration Of Students Indicates Greatest Number Enrolled; Prepare Buildings

Students Are Requested To Appear For Registration At Schools; Boundaries Listed Again

ALL students who are to be in the eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh grades of the Lubbock public schools during the coming term are to register at the school during next week, according to an announcement that has been made by M. H. Duncan, superintendent of schools.

Registration has been carried on during the last week but it was not complete, he stated. The approximate enrollment figures for the week, as released by Mr. Duncan, included 175 seniors, 210 juniors, 150 sophomores, 25 new students for the senior high school and 275 freshmen. Pupils may register between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. daily.

Every School Renovated

Every school in the city system has been renovated and prepared for the opening of the winter term on September 3. Interiors have been painted and cleaned, the grounds have been improved, playground equipment has been added on some of the campuses so that the buildings are in better condition now than they have ever been, according to the superintendent.

A new school is under construction for the Mexicans and probably will be ready for the opening of the term. This is to be a brick school with three rooms.

Employ Another Teacher

With an increased enrollment in the Mexican school after Christmas last year, it was necessary to employ another teacher and use the Methodist church in that community for classes. Two teachers probably will not be used in the school this year until after Christmas, Mr. Duncan said.

Although work is progressing on the new high school building on 19th street, it will not be ready for occupancy for another year and the crowded condition of the buildings here now will make it necessary for about 70 pupils to go on half-day sessions again this year, Mr. Duncan announced.

Students in these rooms will be divided into morning and afternoon groups. One will enter school at 8 o'clock in the morning and remain until 12:30 o'clock, when they will be dismissed for the day. The other group will enter school at 12:30 and will be dismissed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

About 40 rooms in the Jun or high school will be on half-day sessions with six rooms in the K. Carter and the Hunt ward and 12 rooms in the Dupre ward school.

Boundary lines to determine what child should attend the various schools in the city have been outlined by Mr. Duncan as follow:

HIGH SCHOOL: Ninth, tenth and eleventh grades from all over the city.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL: The ninth, eighth and eighth grades from all over the city, except pupils on the low and high fifth grade residing east of the Amarillo branch of the Santa Fe railroad, and pupils in the low sixth grade residing north of 19th street, south of Broadway, and between Avenue Q and the Santa Fe railroad.

CENTRAL WARD: The low and high fourth and the low and high fifth grades between Broadway and Sixteenth streets west of the railroad.

The high fourth, low and high fifth grades north of Broadway and west of the Amarillo branch of the Santa Fe railroad.

The high fourth, low and high fifth grades south of 16th street and between Avenue Q and the Santa Fe railroad.

The low sixth grade south of Broadway, north of 19th street, and between Avenue Q and the Santa Fe railroad.

DUPRE SCHOOL: Grades one to high third, inclusive, west of Avenue Q and south of Broadway.

Floyd County Has Man For Farm Contest

A. P. Swepston Is Entered In Master Farmer Work In State; Keeps Exact Records Of Activities

By Staff Correspondent

FLOYDADA, Aug. 23.—Floyd county has an entrant in the annual Master Farmer contest sponsored by the Progressive Farmer and the Texas A. & M. college, S. W. Ross, secretary of the chamber of commerce announced.

A. P. Swepston, who lives eighteen miles northwest of Floydada, is the farmer and his rural home is said to be an ideal home from the point of view of both the farmer who desires perfect farm conditions and from the business man who wants to know just how he stands all the time.

Kept Exact Records

"Mr. Swepston kept books on his stock and he can tell you to a penny how much his feed cost him month by month," Mr. Ross said in telling of the farm. "He knows his expenses, his receipts and if he is making money each year and how much."

The farmer has a general line of stock for his farm, cattle, hogs, horses, chickens, etc. He keeps them housed in well made concrete barns and sheds and they are protected from the winter and made comfortable in the heat of the summer.

All Buildings Concrete

All of his farm buildings, barns, chicken houses, sheds, etc., are of concrete. He builds them himself, knows what kind of material goes into the structures and also makes some of the steel and iron hinges, etc.

In the garage building is a complete blacksmith shop and Mr. Swepston makes his own hinges Mr. Ross explained. He also makes other kinds of iron bolts and bars, does his own repair work and finds a general use for the shop. In the next room he houses his tractors and in a third room are two motor cars.

"I believe in horses on a farm as well as tractors," Mr. Swepston is quoted by Mr. Ross as explaining. "I have a need for horses on this farm. I work eight head, in addition to the tractors."

Has Five Pastures

Mr. Swepston has five pastures on his farm for his cattle and livestock. In the center he has a huge tank, set in concrete and supplied with water from the windmill. The tank and fences are so arranged that the animals in the fields may come up and drink at the same time and not get mixed.

A concrete tower and water tank supplies the farm house and the yards with running water. The tank is so high above the rest of the buildings that it has enough pressure to send the water to any point needed on the place.

Has Fine Garden

Below the tower is the cooling room where the milk is cooled and the cream separated. Also there is a system of pipes for the watering of the vegetable garden that supplies the Swepston table with fresh vegetables in the summer and with canned fruits and vegeetables in the winter.

Many farmers who have visited the Swepston farm home during the last few years have copied his plans and methods for their own. The place is known far and wide as an ideal farm plant.

Feeds Stock

Mr. Swepston feeds a good many cattle and calves. He has a substantial feeding barn with a concrete floor so that the animals in the winter time are protected from the weather. One of the tractors is used to furnish power for grinding feed.

Regularly Mr. Swepston saves the manure from the sheds and feed lots and spreads it back onto the farm land. "I can tell a row where I spread manure," Mr. Swepston says. "I map out my work of that kind each year. You can tell by the crops the difference between fertilized and non fertilized lands."

Official Resigns Park Association

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 23. (AP)—Charging that an official of the Joel Parker association was responsible for the spurious telegram of felicitation purported to have been sent the organization by Alfred E. Smith, Charles P. Gillen, director of parks, today resigned from the association.

Bart J. Freeman president, said he did not believe a member sent the telegram, which Mr. Smith denied sending and which declared the party would soon bring happiness and prosperity to the nation.

Freeman began an investigation, as did William J. Egan, director of public safety, to whom it was directed. The New York office of the Western Union Telegraph company also was looking into the matter.

The telegram was received during an outing of the association Wednesday and predicted the Democrats soon would be in national control. It was signed with Mr. Smith's name. Gillen said today the Democratic association had "outlived its usefulness."

Plainview Board Pushes Irrigation Work In Territory

B. C. D. Is Behind Movement For Greater Development Of Work; Profits Made Larger

Executive Committee Is Named To Take Charge Of Project For Board; Steakley Is In Charge Of Promotion

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 23.—A well organized campaign to promote the further development of irrigated farming around Plainview, and to advertise its possibilities is being launched by the Plainview Board of City Development. Investigation of results of irrigation at Plainview shows that irrigated farms produce three and one half times the profits of dry land farming. This is what prompted President Chas. Reinken of the Board to initiate the campaign for increasing the amount of irrigation around this city.

J. D. Steakley, banker of Plainview, heads the executive committee composed of Winfield Holbrook, C. B. Harder, R. H. Knoohuizen, and W. H. Humphrey, which will direct the activities on the Board on this project.

More Irrigation Now

There is more irrigation at Plainview now than there has ever been according to Captain Winfield Holbrook, general manager of a land syndicate which operates a large number of farms, among them several irrigated ones, in the shallow water belt around Plainview. Seventy-three irrigation wells are in daily operation by this one owner at the present time. Irrigation is no new untried venture in this section. The first wells were drilled about eighteen years ago, and many of them have been in constant operation since. Water is reached in sufficient quantities by wells from one hundred to two hundred feet deep to furnish water for the largest irrigation projects possible, and it is estimated by competent authorities that there is a sufficient supply to constantly irrigate the irrigation district around Plainview for one hundred years without any apparent diminution in the supply. The area now under irrigation exceeds that of the day when the first major irrigation project, the development of the properties of the Texas Land and Development Company, was at its height.

Lowe Presents Plan

W. Fred Lowe of Plainview, prominent as a farmer in this section for years, and closely in touch with irrigated farming here, presented to the Board of City Development Committee what he conceives to be an ideal farm arrangement under irrigation for this section. He suggest a hundred and sixty acre tract to be divided on acreage as follows: 50 acres of feed (maize, kaffir, or hegari); 5 acres of sudan cow pasture; 5 acres of sweet clover cow pasture; 4 acres of alfalfa for hog pasture; 3 acres of orchard mixed fruits; 1-2 acre of garden, and 2 1-2 acres of lots for poultry and buildings. He suggests stocking this farm with six head of mares or mules, eight or ten good milk cows, five to eight brood sows, and 300 to 400 laying hens. "Such a farm properly managed will always make plenty of money under irrigation," Lowe says.

The irrigation equipment for such a farm, well and all would cost approximately $5,500, according to estimates made by Lowe in his recommendations to the Board of City Development. This would include a thirty inch well one hundred fifty feet deep, cased and with pump to deliver from 1000 to 1200 gallons of water per minute, a sixty horse power engine, housed, installed and equipped, ready to put the water in the ditches.

All Crops Raised

Fifty-six hundred acres of land in Hale, Floyd, and Swisher Counties are under irrigation now owned by Holbrook's company. On this acreage, cotton, alfalfa, wheat, vegetables, and feed crops are raised and produced. It is Holbrook's statement that the profits from this acreage are three and a half times that of dry land farms. He has had considerable experience extending over many years with both methods of farming in this section.

The Board of City Development believes that a full development of irrigation around Plainview, utilizing the water that is available at shallow depths, will bring a permanent farm prosperity that will result in quickly populating the farms in this section to the limit once the possibilities are realized.

Better Known In California

A Californian visiting in Plainview recently said that he was coming back to Texas, and buy an irrigated farm. He says the Plainview irrigation district is better known in California than it is in Texas, and he marvelled at the low cost of irrigated land here.

In presenting his views on irrigation to the Board of City Development W. Fred Lowe, who by the way was the first president of the Master Farmers Association of Texas, especially recommends alfalfa for this country as a soil building crop. Its rotation with other crops is advocated, believing four years to be long enough to retain one planting of alfalfa. The use of oats as a nurse crop for alfalfa has provided an income the first year of seventeen dollars per acre, paying for all expenses of planting the alfalfa and harvesting and returning a nice profit.

Water Supply Ample

Based upon his long experience here Lowe says that the water supply is ample to thoroughly sustain an irrigation well on every quarter section of land in this area. He is a strong advocate of rotation of crops, and of soil enrichment through supplying humus. He told of a depleted orchard tract that has not been cultivated and allowed to deteriorate. Ten tons of barnyard manure were applied and the ground seeded to alfalfa. Results were satisfactory.

The Board of City Development plans to inaugurate a campaign at home popularizing irrigation among farmers who are already here, but who do not irrigate at present as well as extending its efforts toward securing additional new farmers for this country who are interested in irrigation.

Court Control Of $36,660 Is Gained In Case

Portion Of Extortion Money Paid Two Men By R. W. Morrison Is Recovered By San Antonio Court

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 23.—The 94th district court today was technically in possession of $36,660 of the $75,000 which it is alleged was taken from R. W. Morrison, president of the Gulf and West Texas railroad and former president of San Antonio chamber of commerce, by three men under threats of death.

William Neunhoffer, San Antonio lawyer, appointed receiver of the fund by Judge W. W. McCrory, was in possession of $32,500 and the balance was on deposit in the Commercial National bank, which had been restrained from paying any part of it to any person except under orders of the court.

M. D. "Buck" Jones, lawyer, turned in to court $10,000 which he said he received from J. D. Connor, one of the men under indictment charged with extorting $75,000 from Morrison, ones said $22,500 was in a safety deposit vault in Commercial Bank and Trust company. This money he also received from Connor as an attorney, he said.

Jones later visited the bank, the safety deposit vault was opened and the $22,500 was turned over to the receiver.

Jones said the $10,000 was given to him by Connor soon after the arrest of the three alleged extortionists to be used as cash bonds.

An injunction against the Commercial National Bank ordering $4,660 be held subject to order of the court was granted at noon after Judge McCrory announced the appointment of the receiver and issued an order to ones to pay over money in his possession to the receiver.

Capper Medals For Two Best Girl Canners

Special Awards To Be Made To Two 4-H Club Girls Of This County In Contest Being Held Under Institute

Special awards by Senator Arthur Capper, of silver and bronze medals to the two 4-H club girls who enter Lubbock County's best jars of home canned fruits, vegetables and meats in the National Canning Contest at Shenandoah, Iowa, is announced in a message from Shenandoah, Iowa, where the contest is being held under the auspices of the Household Science Institute.

Senator Capper, long a friend of the 4-H clubs and a member of the National Committee on Boys' and Girls' Club Work, in making the awards said that he hoped these awards would serve to encourage home canning work among farm girls and that they would prove of value to 4-H club leaders and extension workers in furthering this work.

Many Other Prizes Are Offered

The Capper medals are in addition to the list of 470 prizes totaling $4,250 in cash, loving cups and ribbons which will be distributed to the winners in the contest. The grand sweepstakes award of the contest carries with it a cash prize of six hundred dollars.

The contest is open to every woman and girl. There are no restrictions as to the nature of the food sent. Contestants may enter the fruit, vegetable or meat division, any two of these divisions, or all three. Entries should be sent immediately upon canning. These will be kept on exhibition at Shenandoah till the closing of the contest on October 1.

Judges Are Prominent

The list of contest judges includes five of Americas outstanding home economics experts and nutrition authorities, headed by Dr Louise Stanley, Chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, U.S. Department of Agriculture. That the judging may be thoroughly impartial and the display of jars absolutely uniform contestants are required to send their entries in standard glass jars of the quart size. A sample Ball mason jar and carton, together with prize entry labels and full information for entering may be had without cost by writing the National Canning Contest, Shenandoah, Iowa.

Any preferred method of canning may be used although it has been found that the hot pack method together with the use of a pressure cooker for the sterilizing is best, especially for non-acid vegetables, states Grace Viall Gray, nationally known canning expert who is secretary of the contest. This method of canning is recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture because it saves time and fuel and assures sterility, while preserving the natural flavor, color, and texture, of the canned article.

Mexico Plans To Improve Price Of Its Silver Pesos

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 23. (AP)—After a wild day on the gold and silver exchange during which the value of the silver peso fell to 110 for 100 gold pesos, silver currency tonight reacted and closed at 108 1-2 to 100 gold.

The closing quotation was the best in several days. A statement by Alberto Mascarenas, general manager of the bank of Mexico, that measures were being taken to improve the standing of silver and asking the cooperation of business and banks is credited with having bolstered the silver market.

Senor Mascarenas asserted the fall of the silver peso was due to smuggling of Mexican gold into the United States.

A group of prominent business men also sent a message to the national chamber of commerce urging the cooperation of President Ortiz Rubio be obtained to help the silver exchanges.

They suggested that banks and business houses temporarily handle transactions in silver rather than in gold, and that the importation of luxuries, especially motion pictures, from the United States, be restricted in order to check the outflow of gold.

Return Of Young Archduke Is Seen

BUDAPEST, Aug. 23. (AP)—Reports spread today that former Empress Zita of Hungary and her son Otto, who has been proclaimed king by some adherents of the monarchy, had returned to the country, and created great excitement.

Authorities declared such rumors were unfounded but police guarded public buildings and other strategic positions nevertheless.

The first report the young archduke had returned to Hungary reached the police at the beginning of the festivities in honor of the Hungarian St. Emery three days ago.

They were promptly suppressed, the authorities doubting their truth, but strict orders were issued to prevent the gathering of Otto's supporters.

The preparations of the police soon became apparent to the public and rumors that the young archduke had actually returned found credence throughout Hungary. This was flatly denied by the police, but some nervousness still persisted in the public mind.

Four Records Smashed When Artists Star

Pittsburgh Meet Sees Old Shot Put, Discus Throw, 220 Dash Records Break; Western Stars Win

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 23.—A new world's record in the discus throw and the best shot put and javelin heave ever recorded in America featured the National senior track and field championships of the Amateur Athletic Union at the University of Pittsburgh Stadium this afternoon.

Led by a powerful band of athletes from Los Angeles A. C., which captured team honors by an overwhelming margin and also carried off seven of the 20 individual titles, the track and field talent of the far west turned in the most spectacular performances.

Sharing the spotlight with sensational achievements in the discus, javelin and shot was the latest renewal of spiriting rivalry between Eddie Tolan of the University of Michigan and George Simpson of Ohio State. This time the honors in the 100-yard dash went to Michigan's "Midnight Express" after a great race in which he collared his rival at the half-way mark, but the Buckkeye Bullet came back to beat him in the 220 yard sprint and set a new American record of 21.3 seconds for this event around a turn.

Eight Records Surpassed

All told, one world's record was set, another was equalled, three American records went by the board and five championship records went into the discard as the fifty-fifth annual meet provided all the thrills that had been anticipated and more besides.

The outstanding individual feat was that of Paul Jessup, 6 foot, 6 inch discus-thrower from the Washington, A. C. of Seattle, whose athletes vied with those of the Los Angeles A. C. in sensational performances. This human skyscraper from the great north threw the discus 169 feet, 8 7-8 inches to better by six feet the present world's record held by Eric Krenz of Stanford University who did not compete here.

In some of the other big moments of the day, Steve Anderson, also of the Washington delegation, equalled the world mark of 14.4 to retain his 120-yard high hurdle championship with several feet to spare; Herman Brix, former University of Washington athlete now competing for the Los Angeles A. C., set a new American mark of 52 feet, 5 3-4 inches for the shot put; and Jimmy Demers of the Los Angeles A. C., sent the javelin hurtling away to a distance of 222 feet, 6 3-4 inches, to beat the American record by a good ten feet.

Ed Genung, an unheralded Washington A. C. half-miler reeled off the distance in 1:53.4 to set a new meet record and turn in one of the best exhibitions the running events produced.

LITTLEFIELD, Aug. 23. (Special)—A contract has been signed by school authorities of Littlefield for a football game between the Littlefield team and the Tahoka team on October 2 at Lubbock during the Panhandle-South Plains fair.

This is an annual event between the two towns, Littlefield so far has the edge over the Lynn county capital's team and the traditional rivals will put up a strong game this year, Kenneth Hemphill, coach, announces.

Result of the game will have a bearing on the outcome of the district championship, it is said.

Big Shots of the Athletics

The spotlight colored the performances of these Mackmen in their successful dash for the American League pennant in 1929. If anything, they are doing even better this season and no doubt you will see them at the 1930 world series. Connie Mack, grizzled pilot is the central figure. New York Clubs Lead Both Big Leagues In Hitting While Hack Wilson Stands Out as Star of Week in Equalling National's Home Run Record by Klein

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The feat of Hack Wilson, husky Chicago outfielder, in equalling the National League's home run record stands out above all other hitting feats in this week's semi-official batting averages, issued today and including Wednesday's games. Hack brought his mark up to 43 last week, tying the mark set a year ago by Chuck Klein of the Phillies and he still has a month in which to pass the record.

Klein, however has honors of his own this season to make up for the loss of his four-base hitting crown. He lends the league in runs scored and in two base hits with totals of 122 runs and 43 doubles and is second to Wilson in homers and runs batted in, and is tied with the leading batter of the circuit, Bill Terry of New York for the greatest number of hits, with 195. Klein and Wilson have almost a complete monopoly in the slugging honors. It is broken only by Adam Comorosky of Pittsburgh, who leads in hitting triples with 21.

Herman and Cuyler Close

Giving them a close race for their honors are Babe Herman of Brooklyn and Kiki Cuyler of Chicago. Herman is second in three departments with 192 hits, 442 doubles and 16 stolen bases while Cuyler, who leads the base stealers with 30, is runner up in scoring with 121 runs and in triples with 15.

Bill Terry is, for the present, in a class by himself among the batters of the senior circuit. He is the only regulars who is batting better than .400. His current average of .409 gives him a lead of 14 points over Babe Herman, who has dropped to .395 while Klein is third with a .391 average. Other leaders, who have been at bat often enough to be classed as regulars are Stephenson, Chicago, .85; O'Doul, Philadelphia, .383; Cuyler, Chicago, .364; P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .364; Linlstorm, New York, .361; Hogan, New York, .356; and Wilson, Chicago, .352.

With three regulars among the first ten, the New York Giants easily hold the club batting lead with an average of .321, five points ahead of Philadelphia. In fielding Cincinnati is ahead with a .974 mark, and New York second at .973.

The pitching leadership is in a rather muddled condition, due to the conflict between regular pitchers and those who do not hurl so often. Joe Heving of New York has a .718 average gained from seven victories and two deefats but he has not pitched a complete game while Bob Osborn of Chicago, whose nine victories and three defeats give him a .750 mark is not much beter off in that respect. Pat Malone of Chicago has a claim as actual leader although his average is only .714. He has hurled 16 full contests and has won 15 games and lost 6.

Yankees Purchase Young Shortstop

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23. (AP)—Frank Crosetti, 19-year-old shortstop sensation of the San Francisco Seals, was sold today to the New York Yankees in a cash-player deal understood to involve around $100,000.

The youngster, who has played in brilliant fashion this year, will report to the American league club for the 1932 season. His new owners decided to farm him out to the Seals next year. Eight big league clubs were after Crosetti this season.

George A. Putnam, Seal secretary, declined to make public the financial consideration but said his club would receive "a large amount of cash, plus three players."

Reese Cagle, of Roswell, who was with the party of eight cadets, touring Europe, which Captain Brown had in charge, remained with the captain in Vienna to take care of him. He is returning with his charge.

Captain Brown was to sail August 23 from Liverpool.

Kaufman May Hurl Hubbers To Second Win

Raymond Ater, University of Texas Star, to Appear on Local Field with Hubbers Today; Game at 3:30

In their last appearance on the local park this season, the Lubbock Hubbers will meet the Tahoka member of the South Plains league this afternoon. The game will start at 3:30, at the Merrill Park field.

Tahoka's first defeat of the second half of the season last Thursday at the hands of the strong Southland team put a slight dent in the dope bucket which has heretofore favored the Lynn county outfit almost unanimously, and showed to the other teams that Tahoka can be beaten. After winning four straight games, the Tahoka team tumbled to a 4 to 1 defeat to tie their conquerers for first place.

Hubbers May Win

Although the chances for Lubbock's standing to the others at the close of the season, are rather slim, it would be no great upset should the Hubbers put one over on the visitors today. The locals have won only one game since the second hald started, and will be out for blood today. Manager Dutch Luenberger has not announced his starting battery, but it is likely that Kaufman, who is credited with the only victory the Hubbers have rung up in the latter division, will pitch again today. He has not worked on the Hubber mound since his appearance last Sunday, which turned out to be a scoring practice for the Hubbers against Levelland. Kaufman held the Levelland forces to four runs and a minimum number of scattered hits, while the Hubbers ran rough shod over the visitors to mark up 22 points.

Raymond Ater in Lineup

A drawing card at the local park this afternoon will be the playing of Raymond Ater, former Lubbock High School athlete, at present and for the past two years a star infielder on the Texas University Championship baseball team, at short stop for the Hubbers. Ater arrived in his home town this week end, having already been a member of the Hubber outfit, offered his services to Manager Dutch Luenberger. With Ater in the line-up, and with Marshall, Granado, and Buddy Brothers in the outfield, the Hubber defense today will be powerful. Dick Green probably will play at second with Rich on third. Morgan or Ray Waller will guard first sack and with such a lineup to aid Pitcher Kaufman, former pitcher for Lubbock in the old West Texas league, Tahoka should have all the protection needed to bring the proud team a notch further down the list.

While the Hubbers and Tahokans are struggling at the local park, Southland will be defending its high standing against the Levelland team at Levelland. The latter has been a weak sister in the league from the first, but the team is capable of playing a good game just when it seems to do the most harm to contenders for the top. After dropping their first three games, Levelland came back to win the last pair from Brownfield and Anton, and go into third place in the ratings. The game this afternoon will have considerable bearing on the outcome of the race.

The Anton team journeys to Brownfield today for a game there. The game will have little to do with the race as a whole, since both teams are practically counted out of the running, but a win for Brownfield will put that team very much in the running. One of the best pitchers of the league works for the Brownfield Brownies, and is fully capable of hurling a winning game almost anywhere.

Jackrabbit Mentor Reports For Duty

RALLS, Aug. 23. (Special)—C. B. Hendricks of Anson arrived this week to take up his duties as coach of the Ralls High school Jackrabbits. He immediately issued a call for prospective members of this year's team to appear at the High school building Friday morning, August 22, to receive equipment. The first workout was held Friday afternoon.

Coach Hendricks is a graduate of Abilene Christian College at Abilene and has an enviable record as an athlete there. He takes the place of Proggie Lovvorn who has accepted the place of athletic director in the Plainview High school.

Oscar Eckhardt Sold to Tigers

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 23. (AP)—Sale of Oscar Eckhardt and Chick Shiver to the Detroit Americans was announced today by the Beaumont Exporters. They will report to the Tiger training camp in Sacramento, Calif., next spring. Both are outfielders.

Eckhardt, former Texas University football star, is playing his third season in organized baseball and has led the league in hitting from the start. Last year he was with Seattle of the Coast league and previous to that with Amarillo of the Western loop.

Shiver came to Beaumont from Evansville of the Three-Eye league where he spent 1929. He had a brief tryout with the Fort Worth club last spring.

Sarazen Takes Western Open Over Espinosa

Swarthy Italian Pro Leads Nearest Rival by Seven Strokes to Break Course Record and Win Crown

INDIANWOOD CLUB, ORION, Mich., Aug. 23. (AP)—Gene Sarazen, swarthy son of Italy, led a par shelling brigade over the Indianwood Club trail today with such an astonishing burst of marksmanship that he ran away with the Western Open Golf championship by a lop-sided margin of seven strokes.

Finding the range of birdies and eagles with remarkable spade shots the roly poly New York sharpshooter blasted old man par right out of his stronghold with polishing cards of 69 and 67, which added to his leading 36-hole total of 142 gave him the handsome sum of 278 strokes for the long 72-hole struggle.

Sarazen's score not only netted him the second lowest score in the tournament's 31 years of play but won for him one of the few remaining crowns to escape his grasp. Too, it was one of the finest scores he ever carded in the more than 15 years he has been dazzling around the fairways. For the distance he was 10 shots under perfect figures.

Al Espinosa, Chicago professional who lost to Bobby Jones in the 1929 playoff for the National Open title landed in second place with 285 strokes. The Chicago star bounded there after a great comeback. Tied for fifteenth after the first 36 holes, Espinosa whizzed over the final rounds with cards of 70 and 67.

Eckhardt Has Lead Cinched

Battle for Clubbing Honors Is for Runner Up Position with Big Os 25 Points in Lead of Opponents

DALLAS, Aug. 23.—(AP)—It no longer is a question of who will lead the 1930 Texas League clubbing race. The only battle now, with three weeks to go, is between four or five aspirants for the runner-up position to Oscar Eckhardt, Beaumont's power house.

The big Exporter, belting the ball at a .388 clip, was 25 points ahead of the next two regulars, Jim and Gene Moore of Dallas, deadlocked at .363. Gene Rye, chubby little Waco outfielder, was running a strong third with .361.

Eddie Brown in Race

Other high stickers among the regulars were Eddie Brown, Fort Worth veteran, with .359; I. Burns, Wichita Falls, .358; Taitt, Dallas, .354; and Kloza, Wichita Falls, .345.

While neither will play in 100 games, the usual standard for the clouting leadership, Homer Peel of Houston and Leslie of San Antonio, with .422 and .419, respectively, were waging a dizzy battle for "newcomer" honors.

The feat of Dizzy Dean, former San Antonio sandlotter, in winning his first six starts for Houston, stamped the youngster the reigning sensation among the pitchers. His unblemished record enabled him to take the spotlight away from Oscar Tuero, Shreveport veteran, during the week chalked up his seventeenth victory against four defeats. Hal Wiltse, Wichita southpaw, finally scored No. 18 to stay ahead in games won and promised to be the first to reach the 20 mark.

Other leaders were:

Hits: Eckhardt, Beaumont, 194; Burns, Wichita Falls, 190. Runs: Kloza, Wichita Falls, 126; Levey and Bettencourt, Wichita Falls, 118.

Doubles: Eckhardt, 49; Fitzgerald, Wichita Falls, 47. Triples: Tavner, Fort Worth, 14; Joe Moore, San Antonio, and Shiver, Beaumont, 13.

Home runs: Bettencourt, Wichita Falls, 38; Willingham, Dallas, 30. Stolen bases: Hunt, Houston, 42; Holley, Beaumont, 33.

Runs batted in: Bettencourt, 122; Kloza, 116. Innings pitched: Tauscher, Dallas, 230.

Figures include Beaumont-Fort Worth day game of Thursday.

ROVING THE SPORTS WORLD

WITH COLLIER PARRIS
JOURNAL SPORTS EDITOR

The Lubbock Hubbers are at home today, making their final Sunday appearance of the season. They will be opposed by Tahoka, winners of the first half, and leading contenders for the second half title.

The game will start at 3:30, at Merrill Park, and promises to be the best game on the local park of the season. Although they are tied with the tailenders, the Hubbers are capable of winning a game, and it will be no special upset should Lubbock carry away the honors today. Both teams will be fighting for different purposes. Tahoka, who lost their first game of the second half Thursday when the strong Southland team got the upper hand, will be staging a tough battle to regain their top place. Lubbock practically out of the championship running, will be fighting to beat Tahoka, a team which has been the nemisis of the locals since the first season.

Manager Dutch Luenberger promises a real treat today when Lubbock and Tahoka lock horns. He expects his regular lineup to be on hand, fortified by additional stars whose names have been on the roster but who have found it impossible to play until now. Some have hinted that the Hubber manager has an ace up his sleeve, a perfectly legal ace, which he has been saving, and that he is going to spring a bundle of new tricks today. This much has leaked out. Those who have followed Southwest Conference athletics, any one, in fact, who lives in Texas or the southwest, have heard of Uncle Billy Disch, Texas University Longhorn baseball team, perennial winners of the Southwest Conference baseball championships.

If you have followed the fortunes of the Longhorn diamond team or if you live in Lubbock, you have heard of one Raymond Ater, star short stop of the Steer team for the past two years. Ater a home boy in Lubbock, and he is at home now of this summer. He will be at Merrill Park this afternoon in a Hubber uniform and while he is not at the plate or on the bench, will be guarding the infield between second and third bases. That will be one of Luenberger's surprises, and we hope he will pardon us for letting it out. He hints of other secrets, among them possibilities of putting a pitcher on the mound who is almost certain to win. The grandstand at Merrill Park should be filled to capacity this afternoon.

The younger generation may be known for its coming out at night and its gay life under the Klieg, but there is one group of youngsters, typical of the rowdy age, who are glad to see the shades of night falling for other than reasons of hilarity. Sundown to the Westerners of Lubbock High School these days is the heralding of nine hours of blessed sleep, and the supper dishes are barely dry before all fifty of 'em are struggling in the arms of Morpheus after a muscle bending and building day under the blistering rays of Sol on the temporary training grid near Post. Twice daily the Westerners and their coaches brave the heat for periods of rough and tumble practice on the turf. Twice daily they sweat in silence while listening to the theories, rules, and codes of football as taugh by lectures. Next Saturday evening they will return to Lubbock and begin a series of workouts on their home field, prior to the opening of school on September 3 and the football season on September 20. As a result of their first week's training in the camp at Two Draw Lake, the Westerners are sore, tired, and woeful over their physical beings, but ambitious, optimistic in spite of the job before them, and ready to fight. The coaches have been dosing out the football medicine in large quantities, and report that another week will find the boys in good shape and partially fitted for their task.

A fourteen-year-old boy from Wichita Falls, Texas, came out ahead of a field of more than one thousand to win the 31st annual Grand American trap-shooting championship at Vandalia, Ohio, Saturday. Rufford King's victory over the best shooters of the United States is one of those things which rarely happen but which is appreciated, nevertheless. King's high mark brings the American title to Texas two years in succession. Mose Newman of Sweetwater, won the title last year, and was one of the biggest threats this year, but he could not break the 31-year-old tradition or whatever it is that prevents a shooter from repeating. The title has never been won by the same man twice in succession, and it is not common for the same state to carry home the championship two consecutive years.

Night football is going to be popular in Texas this season if the number of gridirons being equipped with light ng fixtures this summer means popularity. The after dark grid games made their appearance in the state last season, but in no given numbers. There were only two or three in the state. This year almost half of the high schools and minor colleges will play their home games at night. Plainview High and Wayland College at Plainview have equipped their fields with lights, West Texas State Teachers at Canyon, Daniel Baker at Brownwood, and Simmons University at Abilene have already installed lights. Baylor University at Waco and Waco High school will equip their fields for the night game. Many other colleges and high schools of the state have signified intentions of lighting their gridirons.

So far none of the Lubbock teams have shown any tendency toward the night games, and no plans are being made to light the local gridirons. Maybe Lubbock wants to see how the game turns out at other schools before starting here. Maybe it's a good idea to wait. At least it will not hurt anything, and it is a little early yet for anybody to criticize a team for being old fashioned and backward because it does not have its athletic fields lighted. It will be hard to light a gridiron so that the plays may be seen as clearly as in the day time, or as clearly as baseball is seen at night. It will be hard to reflect light under a huddle, or in the line of scrimmage. The dark colored ball will not respond to artificial lighting as well as baseballs. However, experiment has proved successful, and fans may as well prepare to take their football at night.

Big Bill Wins Newport Meet; Beats Allison

Davis Cup Players Feature Casino Tournament; Bill Wins Only After Struggle with Allison

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23. (AP)—The magic that Big Bill Tilden puts into his tennis racquet today overcame the elements and youth to give him the first important victories of the current American court season.

The lanky American champion, injured leg and hip and all, played through a driving rain storm this morning and defended successfully his Newport Casino singles championship against the young but seasoned Wilmer Allison, Davis Cup doubles player from Austin, Texas, in a stirringly close finale, 6.1, 0.6, 8.7, 6.2, 6.4.

Tilden joined forces with his doubles partner, Frank Hunter of New Rochelle, to turn back the hard-fighting midwestern youngsters, Wilbur Coen, jr., of Kansas City, and Harrison Coggeshall, Des Moines, Ia., in another five set battle for the doubles trophies, 6.3 6.4, 0.6, 6.8, 6.2.

Coaches Frnka and Keeling Give Special Attention to Rebuilding Line Deserted by Four Graduates

WESTERNER TRAINING CAMP, POST, Aug. 23. (Speical) — Sore, stiff and leg weary, but with true gridiron fever coursing through their veins, the Lubbock High School Westerners of 1930 completed their first week in training camp here this afternoon after five day of the most strenuous drilling ever administered to a Lubbock High school team in pre-season training. Saturday evening was a most welcome visitor, and the charges of Coach Henry Frnka looked forward to their first day of rest on Sunday like small boys do to Christmas.

Judging from the showing made by the boys during their first week of practice, Mentor Frnka has a task on his hands which would baffle any one with a weaker constitution and cause the bravest to shudder. But it is always thus with the preliminaries, say the coaches. Even the best of prospects look like boys who had never seen a football before in the first week of practice, and the present action of the Westerners is not prophetic of a first rate team. The manner in which the boys are bungling the ball about, missing signals, and going haywire on every play is cifaric. cteristic of the opening of an athletic season, but the Lubbock coaches feel that a little more than their share of grief has come their way.

Must Rebuild Line

As a matter of fact the Lubbock mentors have no more to worry about than those in charge of any other average clubs which have been touted to do big things in an approaching season. After playing about all summer with little observance of training rules it is only natural that the youngsters find the hard grind of preparation for a stiff football program a little hard to digest, like an Eskimo eating hot tamales, but to time the palate gets harder, the muscles tighter and the stomach more broad-minded. Coach Frnka's big task is to find four men to take the places of a quartet of stars who left the ranks last year, and build a line which can hold its own against the competition of District 1. He should not worry about the present physical condition of the men in charge.

The first week of training was not without its more serious casualties. The greatest sufferers seem to be the veterans, and two of these, who starred last season and who are expected to be main stays in the 1930 club, seem to have found the going particularly rough. Moody Smith, backfield satellite, and Carroll McCasland, line star, have been having trouble with charley horses and other leg trouble, none of which is serious, but all of which is painful.

Drill special Candidates

To take the places of Bib Rich and Yaney Price, graduated ends, Coaches Frnka and Keeling are drilling with especial emphasis Louis Spears and Bill Ed Watson. Roy Pace and Bob Crawford are receiving special attention as prospects for the center position, since the 1929 regular pivot man, Joe Leaverton, was lost by graduation. A tackle must be seasoned to take the place of the departed Pribell, and for this position the coaches have a number of men in mind, among them one Hollis Payne, and another, Elbert Angeley. Archie Brawley and Bert Williams are veteran tackles who will make a fight for the berth.

Follow Daily Schedule

A regular daily program is followed at the training camp, which calls for considerable courage and stamina on the part of the man. The "get up" bell rings at 5:30, and breakfast is served only after a brisk hike over the country side. Follows the clean up program, at which time all the boys are on kitchen police duty. Next is a skull practice, followed by a brisk workout on the field. After lunch and another dish-washing, the boys observe "quiet hours," during which time everybody is in bed and absolute quiet prevails. Then another lecture followed by an afternoon scrimmage. Supper is over and the dishes washed by 8 o'clock, and every man is in bed with the lights out at nine, and glad of it.

There will be one more week of training at Two Draw Lake. The gridsters and coaches will return to Lubbock next Saturday evening and prepare for the opening of school and the football season proper. The first game will be played here on September 20 with Colorado High school. The conference season starts one week later when the strong Pampa team comes to Lubbock.

Byron Nelson Wins Glen Garden Meet

FORT WORTH, Aug. 23. —(AP)— Byron Nelson, 18-year-old former Glen Garden caddy, is the champion of Glen Garden Country Club's first invitation golf tournament. The tall, likeable chap literally walked away with the 36-hole championship against the veteran M. L. (Happy) Massingill, River Crest, today 9 and 7.

The topheavy score failed to indicate the convincing manner in which Nelson reached the heights in his first major golf tournament. He has played around the city in municipal affairs but hadn't played in a "big time" tourney since becoming a member at Glen Garden. He only recently won the club championship but today saw him rise into the limelight for the first time.

Cub Machine Puts Giants Came Behind

Brooklyn Robins Go Further in National's Backgrouund as Reds Cop Doubleheader to Sweep Series

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Nine Chicago Cubs, operating together like an intricate machines caught up the New York Giants today and tossed them one game further back in the National league standing. In less than two hours Chicago had a 4 to 2 victory. Pat Malone had his sixteenth victory of the season, and the Giants were four games back of the National league champions.

The terminal cause of the Giants' downfall was a sizzling single to left field by Hack Wilson with Fonfish and Cuyler on the bases in the eighth inning, but the pudgy home run artist's effort would have been wasted had it not been for some preliminary work by Dan Taylor, Cuyler and Clarence Blair, combined with breath-taking fielding by English and Long George Kelly.

Malone did not have as easy sailing against the Manhattan Maulers as he did against the Brooklyn Robins last week but he was tough in the hard spots, and the support he received more than made up for any shortcomings on the part of the Altoona, Pa., fireman.

Terry Hits Hard

Malone got into deep trouble in the fourth inning when Bill Terry turned loose a double, the first of his three hits and after two men were put out, Travis Jackson dumped a home run into the right field bleachers, Jackson's hit just made it, Cuyler almost plucking it off the top of the screen. He had other troubles, but with brilliant help, was not scored on again.

Sterling Leads "Ma" Ferguson With Rapidly Mounting Majority of Votes paign, which ripped across Texas from border to border, Texans marched to the polls in a yet undetermined number but the July primary's total of 833,000 votes seemed certain to be surpassed. A total of 699,855 votes had been tabulated at 11 o'clock.

Election Decision Buried Under Ballots

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 3.—Somewhere under the avalanche of possibly the greatest Democratic primary vote in Texas history lay buried tonight the decision as to whether a woman former governor or a business man making his maiden effort in elective politics should be sent into the November gubernatorial lists against Dr. George C. Butte, the Republican nominee.

Not enough votes had been counted before the polls closed at 7 p. m. to give a definite indication of whether victory rested with Mrs. Miriam A. ("Ma") Ferguson of Austin or Ross S. Sterling, Houston publisher and chairman of the state highway commission, but in the scattering few unofficial counts reported Sterling generally was in the lead.

Sterling Takes Lead

Houston, Harris county, reported that of 10,350 votes tabulated unofficially late today, the home town man had 7,109 and Mrs. Ferguson 3,241. San Antonio, one of the state's other big cities, reported nine out of 128 Bexar county precincts gave: Sterling, 342; Mrs. Ferguson, 287. In Dallas, where the high mark of the July primary, 35,-856 votes, was thought to have been exceeded, Sterling was reported leading 2 and 3 to 1 excepting in the south part of town.

Crockett, in East Texas, reported its four boxes showed Sterling leading 327 to 110. Corpus Christi, on the gulf coast, had two boxes showing Sterling 78 and Mrs. Ferguson 62. In Waco, central Texas, Sterling led by 4 to 1, it was reported with few votes tabulated unofficially. Other figures included:

Raymondville, in the lower Rio Grande valley, Sterling 150; Mrs. Ferguson, 78; Port Arthur, gulf coast, seven of fourteen boxes Sterling, 1023, Mrs. Ferguson, 934; Wichita Falls, West Texas, four of 45 precincts in Wichita county, Sterling, 246, Mrs. Ferguson, 81; Amarillo, West Texas Panhandle, one box, Sterling, 90, Mrs. Ferguson, 11.

No Comparison

The chief Ferguson strength was known to be in the rural districts, however, and there was no way of comparing the city vote with that in the agricultural areas.

After the most tempestous and acrimonious campaigning in Texas in recent years, the Houston publisher rested quietly at his home today with nothing to add to his statement last night that victory was at hand.

James E. Ferguson, the impeached former governor who campaigned strenuously in his wife's behalf, rested well today before departing from Marlin, where he concluded last night. Mrs. Ferguson, who took but a small part in the vigorous campaigning, voted early and then retired silently to her Austin home

To Face Battle

The winner will face Dr. Butte of Austin, lately of Washington, where he served as an assistant attorney general, in his second effort to become Texas' first Republican governor. He made a formidable bid in 1924 when Mrs. Ferguson was elected as the state's first woman chief executive after Ku Klux Klan dissention had split the Democratic party in the state.

It was known, however, that the Republicans long have been preparing for a mighty effort in November, selecting their nominees very carefully and with a view towards taking advantage of Democratic dissention or possible dissatisfaction with the nominee. The total vote of Mrs. Ferguson, the leader, and Sterling, the runner-up, in last month's primary was less than the total cast for the other nine candidates who were eliminated.

In addition to their candidates for governor, the Democrats today also voted for nominees for other state positions, the places and candidates being

Lieutenant governor Edgar Witt of Waco, and Sterling P. Strong, Dallas, banker and former prohibition leader.

Attorney general, James Allred and Robert L. Bobbitt

Railroad commissioner Pat M. Neff of Waco, incumbent and former governor, and W. Gregory Hatcher of Dallas, state treasurer

State treasurer John E. Davis of mesquite and Charles Lockhart of Austin

Commissioner of Agriculture A. H. King Throckmorton, and James Eric McDonald, Waxahachie

Mrs. Ferguson's name was placed on the ballot after a court decision had held her husband was ineligible to run for office because of his impeachment. After a similar court test in 1924, she became a candidate for governor and was elected.

Ferguson based his appeal in this election, as in others, on a freer use of the governor's pardoning power. He said that if Mrs. Ferguson were elected she would pardon 2,000 convicts, but insisted these would be persons, in the main, who should have been pardoned during the administration of Governor Moody.

He denounced the plan sponsored by Sterling to issue $350,000,000 in bonds for a statewide highway program declaring the Teapot Dome scandal would be dwarfed in comparison with the scandal in the state highway department should Sterling be elected and the bonds voted.

Sterling devoted most of his speeches to attacks on "Fergusonism,' and called attention again and again to the impeachment record of Ferguson the many pardons Ferguson and his wife issued during their administrations, and the management of the state highway department while Mrs. Ferguson was governor. He said his campaign was one of "righteousness" and was aimed at insuring "honesty in office."

Prohibition came in for some discussion, although principally was utilized in personal attacks of candidates against each other. Ferguson cited that his wife's platform called for a law prohibiting officers from drinking "bootleg" liquor and said it would be one of the most important prohibition laws ever enacted. He admitted candidly that he was an "anti," but said Mrs. Ferguson was a prohibitionist of long standing. He charged Sterling had owned an interest in a mercantile establishment at Dayton, Texas, which before national prohibition, he said, had sold liquor.

Sterling Answers

Sterling admitted in reply that he had had interest in the Dayton store, but said the store had merely stored beer at fifty cents a barrel. He said his record as a prohibitionist needed no defense before the voters of Texas.

Governor Moody played an important part in the campaign, particularly in its latter stages. Known as a bitter enemy of Ferguson, he stumped the state from one end to the other, inveighing against "Fergusonism" and in particular against the Ferguson pardon record. He recalled Ferguson's impeachment, and pleaded for the voters to defeat him as an example morality for their "sons and daughters." He said the two Fergusons had granted more than 6,000 pardons and that one of their strongest appeals was to friends and relatives of convicts who hoped for general clemency.

Cotton Trading Quiet in Saturday Session — Livestock Cattle Receipts Are Very Small — Grain Export Demand for Wheat Still Good

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23. —(AP)—Trading was quite active in the cotton market for a short Saturday session and prices were erratic and irregular. Despite better Liverpool cables than due the market opened 1 to 5 points down and soon showed losses compared with the previous close of 3 to 5 points.

When the census bureau at the opening of the second hour reported total ginnings prior to August 16 as 572,666 running bales, which was larger than looked for, the market sold down to levels 9 to 10 points below the previous close but after a brief period the market advanced 27 to 28 points on covering for over the week-end, but eased off 15 to 16 points near the end on liquidation and realizing. The close was steady net 3 points up to 1 down.

Liverpool Strong

Liverpool came in 3 to 5 points bettter than due but first trades here showed losses of 1 to 5 points and prices eased off to declines of 3 to 5 points on hedge selling and on the map showing Texas rains.

After the ginnings report was issued prices eased off under liquidation by recent buyers, October dropping to 10.88 and December to 11.01, down 9 to 10 points, but shorts covering for over the week-end ran prices up sharply to new highs at 11.12 for October and 11.28 for December, up 27 to 28 points from the lows.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (AP)—Reports of rains in the southwest and larger ginning figures than expected caused some selling in cotton here during today's early trading. The offerings were absorbed by covering, however, and after selling off to 11.00, the new December contract rallied to 11.27 with the advance accompanied by reiterated reports that farmers were holding. Part of this gain was lost under realizing in the late trading with December closing at 11.11 while the general market closed steady at net advance of 1 to 7 points.

There was some buying on this relatively firm showing of Liverpool, but this was supplied by selling on private reports of light to and western Texas. Offerings increased after the publication of the moderate rains in northern, central census report showing 572,666 bales ginned prior to Aug. 16th compared with 304,711 last year.

Liverpool cables said there had been covering and trade calling in the market and reported an improved demand for cotton cloths and yarns in Manchester.

Shares Creep Higher In Quiet 2-Hour Session of Stock Exchange Saturday

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. —(AP)—Shares crept higher in a quiet two-hour Saturday session today, and as measured by price averages, ended the week at the best levels since the sharp break of Aug. 8.

The average for 90 leading shares showed a net gain for the day of only about one point, but several individual issues closed with advances of 2 points or more. Trading continued to drag, and the day's total sales were only 690,170 shares. As a group, the manufacturing shares made the best progress, but a few rails reflected short covering. Oils were inclined to ease.

News Meagre

The meagre quota of week-end news contained a conspicuously favorable item in the statements of President Hoover and Secretary Mellon, discrediting forecasts of a large treasury deficit and arousing confident hope of retention of the reduced income tax rates.

A steady to firm tone in the leading commodities was helpful to speculative sentiment. Both wheat and corn gained about 1 cent a bushel. Cotton futures sagged a little during the first hour of trading, but offerings were well taken, and the market closed steady 1 to 7 points higher.

Such recent pool favorites as United Aircraft, Columbian Carbon and Loews each gained 2 points. The movement in the American Tobacco shares and in Radio Keith lost some of its force, but American Tobacco gained a point, and Radio Keith closed up 1-2. A wide range of important shares gained 1 to 1 3-4 points including American Can, General Electric Drug, Inc., and Goodyear.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Aug. 23. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Receipts of cattle here today were of very small volume and values in all divisions remained quotably steady.

Beeves that sold at 8.50 averaged 1,161 pounds and were well finished. Some short fed steers sold at 6.80 and down, while bulk of the common steers sold in the 4.00 range. Slaughter yearlings in carlots were relatively scarce. One load cleared at 10.00 but other cars sold at 9.00 and 9.50. The common packages moved from 3.50 to 4.50.

Rail Hogs Absent

Rail hogs were absent in the day's short receipts of hogs. Truck hogs sold at prices 10c lower, with the better grades of light and medium weight truck hogs ranging from 9.90 to 10.00, latter price truck hog top. Packing sows remained steady, selling mostly at 7.50 and 8.00.

Not enough sheep or lambs were received to test values and trade in all divisions remained nominal.

Fat lambs are around 50c higher for the week and other classes are steady to 25c higher. Fat lambs topped at 8.00 during the week, with bulk of the good fat lambs at 7.75. Fat yearlings sold mostly at 5.00, while other sales of fat yearlings from 4.75 to 5.50. Aged fat wethers moved at 3.75 and 4.00, feeder lambs at 4.00 to 6.00 and feeder yearlings at 3.50.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 23. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Livestock trade around the eleven market circuit this week was featured by substantial upturns in all departments. Cattle prices were sharply higher with late trade firm at the full advance. Bullish factors in the cattle market were light supplies for this season of the year and a thoroughly active dressed beef trade. Killing classes were unevenly 25 @ 1.50 higher with beef steers and yearlings taking the big end of the advance and low grade cows, which were in broad demand last week, showing the minimum gain. Chicago scored 11.75 on choice yearling steers and realized 11.25 on choice weighty steers. Improvement of stockers continued light. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 173,600.

Hogs Thursday were 1.00 higher than a week ago and an extreme top of 12.00 paid at St. Louis. Shipping demand on closing sessions narrowed and a large portion of the week's early advance was erased. Closing rates are 25 @ 65 higher than last Saturday with a late top of 11.50 in St. Louis. Total offerings were around 252,500.

Fat lambs were 50 @ 1.00 higher for the week while matured classes of sheep at some centers were up 25 @ 50. Demand for feeding lambs also widened maturely and a gain on fat lambs were registered. The supply approximated 353,800.

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 23. —(AP)—Export demand for wheat continued good to the end of the week, though shippers were slow to take the quoted export prices. These ranged 94 @ 94 1-2c, basis ordinary wheat

Freight Rates Get Reduction

Western Railroads Operating In Drouth Areas Reduce Rates One-Third On Local Freight

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Aug. 23—E. B. Boyd, chairman of the western railroad traffic executives committee, today announced the western lines operating through drouth stricken areas would effect a reduction of one-third in local freight rates.

The relief measure, designed to aid farmers whose crops have been seriously curtailed by prolonged dry spells, was agreed on at a meeting of the committee. The emergency rates will become effective early next week, Mr. Boyd said, and will enable farmers to realize a saving of 33 1-3 per cent of the cost of forwarding their products to market.

While the reduction will be general on railroads operating west of the Mississippi, it was decided that a 50 per cent reduction would apply in Illinois, which is also served by eastern and southern systems.

Lines operating in the east and south have already drawn lower schedules.

DISTURBANCES OCCUR

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 23 (AP)—Adevarul, Bucharest daily, says that Semitic disturbances had occurred again at Baltchik where a band of rowdies entered the home of a Hebrew merchant, killed him and plundered his store. Fall-Sown Feed Will Aid Animals In Drought Area, Say Experts

EDINBURG, Aug. 23. (AP)—A four year old mystery dual death case was recalled here today when a request of the sheriff's office was received from C. H. Hendrix, Chicago scientist, asking for the skeleton of the woman found in heavy brush north of Edinburg, four years ago.

The woman and a male companion had been camping in the brush for three weeks. One day the man was found dead, and his body was brought to Edinburg for burial. The woman's skeleton was found four months later three miles south of where the man died.

A phial containing a white powder, never analyzed, was found near the man's body. It was thought to be poison.

Officers believed the pair were dope smugglers and opposing racketeers forced the man to take poison and then chased the woman away to die in the brush of starvation and thirst.

The partial skeleton of the woman was returned in a sack and placed in the basement of the courthouse where it has remained. Officers were undecided whether to send the skeleton in answer to the request.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23 (AP)—The trial of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich for the murder of her husband closed today on the eighth anniversary of the slaying of Fred C. Oesterreich, wealthy retired garment manufacturer of Milwaukee, Wis.

Deputy District Attorney Jame P. Costello closed the trial by shouting to six men and six women of the jury: "hang this woman; if it's the last thing you do in your lives, hang this woman!"

Oesterreich was shot to death in his home near midnight, Aug. 22, 1922. The widow was found locked in an upstairs closet crying, "burglars did it, burglars did it." She was arrested in 1923 but was not brought to trial because the mystery of the locked closet door barred prosecution.

Betsy Schuyler Takes Note of Late Summer Styles at Smart Resorts

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Transportation being the easy magic carpet that it is today, it is not at all unusual to see a social celebrity dining and dancing at the St. Regis roof one night, lunching at Newport the next day and the following attending the races at Saratoga.

There were not so many attending the Montauk Horse Show as might have been hoped for, but a few of those present made the sight worth while. I noticed that Jane Alcott had a hint of autumn in the draped turban that she wore, off the forehead with just a bit of hair showing over one ear. Mrs. John V. Bouvier 3d, whose "Show Me" took a second, looked every inch the correct horsewoman in a white stock and derby.

At the Monmouth County horse show at the Rumsen, N. J., country club, there was no end of smart looking costumes.

Mrs. George La Branche, Jr., there with little Sarah Jane and George the Third, wore a white linen frock trimmed with pointed zigzag appliques of colorful striped linen. It had a most novel high V shaped neckline and little caps over the top of the arm. Mary Louise Burke had a stunning black and white printed frock on, with an unusual one-sided neck yoke of sheer fabric.

One or two strands of pearls are better than three these days. I noticed Mrs. Edwin Stewart, 3rd, and Mrs. Edward A. Hurd, both in colorful printed outfits, the former wearing a double strand of medium sized pearls, the latter a single strand of graduated ones.

Mrs. Guernsey Curran, Jr., always charmingly gowned and an unusually dignified figure for one so young, wore the cutest blouse with her jersey suit, a white crepe one with a pointed yoke effect which extended over the sleeves, giving a drop yoke effect, in five stripes of color in graduated width.

White jackets and white coats are having a final fling topping sheer frocks these days. Eileen Burden packed two white wool cardigans and one long polo coat in her Newport trunks. Katherine Tod, whose marriage to Bradley Martin, Jr., is scheduled to take place on Sept. 13, likes white flannel coats for her linen and crepe frocks, too.

Mrs. George Mesta, who has had a lively summer between Newport and Saratoga, looked stunning the night she gave a big dinner at her Newport place, The Rocks, for Vice-President Curtis, who was house guest at her home last week end. Mrs. Mesta wears delicate yet colorful printed chiffons with great distinction and her jewels are always so perfectly chosen as to be ravishing.

Tennis is in the air these days, with the tournament season at its height. At Southampton they go in for rather formal afternoon clothes for the gallery, though some of the girls like sports things, with polo coats. Peggy Dunne chose white gloves, slippers and pearls to wear with a green figured chiffon one afternoon when she was watching some good games. At Forest Hills there always is less formality among the watchers.

These rules hold for all articles except perishables, which may be entered on the opening day of the exposition.

For several years, displays in the women's building have been crowded and the enlarged building this fall will allow for a better showing of the exhibits which are brought in, according to fair officials.

Mrs. N. S. McBride has gone to visit her mother, who lives near Brady.

Programs For A. A. U. W. Are Being Planned

Problems Of Business And Of Professional Women Will Be Discussed; Units Are To Be Interesting

Tentative program arrangements announced by the local branch of the American Association of University women point to an interesting winter both in general and in unit meetings. Several committees of the chapter are already planning activities.

Under the direction of Mrs. C. P. Carlock, chairman of the program committee, general programs are being outlined. Members who have been abroad during the year are to make talks in October, although the majority of the programs for the year are to center about the theme: "Problems Conditioning the Work of University Women." Among the subjects to be discussed will be "Barriers to Success", "Business and Professional Investments for Women", "Modern Trends in Education As They Affect Women".

To Have Open Meeting

The November meeting probably will be open to all college women of the town and one meeting will be in charge of the international relations unit, of which Miss Jennie McCrery is chairman.

Among those who will be asked to talk at the first meeting, which will be on the first Saturday in October, will be Misses Grace Pedley and Dorothy Lomax, who are spending the summer in Europe, and Mrs. W. H. Abbitt, who will dwell especially on her impressions of the oriental countries.

Unit programs for the year will include the international relations group, which plans monthly meetings, and two book review clubs, which will be in charge of Mrs. W. P. Clement. Another book review circle may be organized as several have expressed a desire to form one. Mrs. William Dingus, president of the A. A. U. W., has announced. The group interested in child welfare and parental education probably will continue work, although definite arrangements will not be announced until Miss Margaret Weeks returns from New York.

Three Head Committees

Mrs. W. L. Broughaw will be chairman of the hospitality committee, which makes arrangements for meetings and for the entertainment of guests of the branch, and Mrs. I. C. Enochs is working out a program of work with high school girls, which she hopes will be of benefit to those planning to attend college.

Among other things which will interest chapter members, according to Mrs. Dingus, will be the state meeting in Waco on October 25. "It is hoped that several members will attend this meeting, especially since West Texas is presenting a candidate for state president, Mrs. Earl Wyatt, of Amarillo," she said.

Mrs. Dingus has been asked to talk on "Why University Women Should be Interested in Problems of International Relations" at the Waco meeting and has been asked to be a guest speaker at a meeting of the Amarillo branch in December.

Any college women interested in knowing whether or not their alma maters are on the approved list of the American Association of University Women should confer with Mrs. R. S. Williams, membership chairman, Mrs. Dingus pointed out.

Courses In Tech Home Economics School Aim To Fit Girls To Earn Livelihood

Primary Aim Is Making Of Family Home

Weaving Is Innovation For Classes; Practical Phase Of Home Study Practiced During Summer

THE PRIMARY aim of the school of home economics of Texas Technological college is to train girls for homemaking. Most students, however, feel the need of fitting themselves to earn a living and as a consequence, other courses, which do not take from the value of the original course and yet help prepare the girls to enter some of the many lucrative positions are offered in the curricula.

One of the most interesting pieces of work done by students this summer has been the making of textile craft work. Three different sizes of looms have been employed in making four varieties of woven articles.

The girls have made rugs, bags, tapestries and table runners of various and intricate designs. Choice was given in design and girls threaded the looms to make patterns which are largely colonial in make-up.

Scraps Are Used

The rugs range from somber colors to the lightest hues and were woven from old stockings and scraps of material. The bags are in blazing star, monk's bell and pine bloom design and finished with zippers or other clever fastenings. Some of them are lined with quilted silk and others finished with the self-same material.

In addition there are tapestries and inlay weaving which show ingenuity. One tiny tapestry resembles a sampler with an old-fashioned maiden reaching to post a letter in a mail box.

This class was taught by Miss Grace Baker who also taught a class in practical textiles. The purpose of this latter course was to ascertain what can be expected of certain fabrics for wearing and its suitability for different purposes.

Foods Also Practical

During both the first and second terms interesting work has been done in the foods classes especially in the serving of meals. Miss Jonnie McCrery taught this course.

Seasonable menus were selected and flowers from the school gardens were used as floral decorations. At the close of the term a tea was served in the large dining room to students of the home economics school.

Miss Mary Rena Penn, who is a member of the staff of fine arts, Carnegie School of Technology at Pittsburgh, was a member of the school during the first six weeks and taught design. Using local plant life as subjects the classes made some interesting studies of cacti and thistles in black and white effects. These posters will be used as patterns by future classes in printing of textile fabrics.

A feature of a class in child development this summer was the addition of an improvised nursery school. Six small children served as a demonstration for students taking this course and this beginning proved to be a highly successful feature of the course, according to authorities.

Miss Mabel Evans, of San Marcos, had charge of clothing construction. During the first part of the term, the girls made children's romper suits and play frocks and later made tailored dresses of linen or silk for themselves.

In making these dresses individual types of girls were studied and colors and designs most suitable to the individual were employed.

Vacations

alike will regret the leaving of Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Young who are to live in Iowa City where he will be associated with the University of Iowa in the department of electrical engineering. They are to leave today.

Miss Grace Baker, who was a member of the school of home economics during the latter part of the term, has gone to her home in Morgantown, West Virginia, to spend a few weeks before leaving for Florida where she teaches in a woman's college.

THE WOMAN'S ANGLE

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

WOMEN are not accustomed to their new freedom, which they gainned before being wholly prepared for it, Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon, stated in the course of his lecture Friday morning to graduates of the Texas Technological college here. "They are still shouting it from the housetops", according to this man, who nevertheless, indicated that he is in favor of this thing called "women's rights."

* * *

There is a feeling of demonstration about the whole thing, even where the indicated shouting does not take place, but it seems to me that this is due more to men than to women. I am somewhat convinced that most of the hue and cry comes from the men who are continually harping on the invasion that women are making of their field, while the women themselves with a tacit acceptance of the thing they worked for, are plodding on in their chosen way.

* * *

They are grasping some privileges for which they are not prepared, and will never be able to do but these will be gradually discarded. As in every new movement there are extremes but in the nature of progress, a sane medium will gradually be reached.

* * *

WHEN IT COMES TO OPINIONS

IN the theme of women and men and their reactions. I have been listening to the comments of my workers in the office during the day.

* * *

A young woman in the office, in the course of news-hunting, bangs her telephone receiver on the hook and exclaims, "These men who go on their vacations and leave their wives at home!" her voice heavy with scorn. A man looks up from a desk clear of papers and magazines except for one story on which he is reading copy, glances at my paper-strewn table and remarks that "men are neater than women, anyway" and then justifies his statement by explaining that women pay more attention to detail. . . Another girl in the office comes by, remarks on my daily effusions, and speaks of an article which she has read in which some one has said that men want women to adopt all of their habits except their morals.

THERE ARE WAYS

THE Gully Jumpers, a slightly organized group of pioneers and others who enjoy old-fashioned dances, advertise square heel and toe, polka, new shoes, jigs, waltzes and other such steps for their occasional parties in a hotel ball room here and then one of the leaders explains that they have modern steps, also, but that these are not usually mentioned as the "old folks" do not wish to be over-run with youngsters at their affairs. This reminds one of the cartoon of "When mother was a girl, but daughter—"! One cannot spank the children now and send them off to bed but must resort to a more subtle method of discipline.

THEY'RE BACK

STYLES mother knew are coming back, fashion notes, state, giving as an example the separate linen skirt and lingerie blouse. "Smart women are appearing on country club verandas in box pleated linen skirts and short sleeved v-neck blouses," according to one dispatch.

Has Happy Method

Mr. Moore is a young man but his playing is widely recognized. One reviewer says of him that "Mr. Moore has the happy gift of spontaniety in his works, for he plays with such a joy of playing as is evidenced in all too few recitalists. This joy is infectious and the result is an evening of rare charm and good old fashioned solid pleasure. He is past the babbling about touch and technique; he is too good a program maker to disappoint those who would like to hear something besides the old stand-bys."

The pianist probably will be accompanied to Lubbock by Mrs. Moore, who is a soloist. They have recently appeared in El Paso.

"The Vagabond King" Headlines Week's Theatre Offerings Here

Dennis King to Be Seen In Feature At Lindsey

DENNIS KING, who for the past two or three years has been rated by critics as the greatest singing star of the Broadway musical comedy stage, will be seen and heard for the first time by movie audiences at the Lindsey Threater when "The Vagabond King" comes there on Thursday next for a 3-day run.

"The Vagabond King" was the vehicle for Dennis King's greatest singing achievement. It had a sensationally long run of more than a full season's duration in New York and made an impressive tour in other cities afterward.

The music for "The Vagabond King" was written by Rudolph Friml, whose long and successful career as a composer began in 1912 with "The Firefly."

The thrilling Friml songs of the original production have been carried to the all-talking screen in Paramount's gorgeous all-color screen version of "The Vagabond King."

Others to appear in the cast include Jeanette MacDonald, Lillian Roth and Warner Oland.

"Our Blushing Brides" with Joan Crawford in the starring role and such cinema favorites as Anita Page, Dorothy Sebastian, Robert Montgomery, Raymond Hackett and John Miljan in prominent supporting roles will be the screen attraction at the Lindsey starting today and continuing for four days.

Most hilarious of Edward Everett Horton comedies is "Wide Open" the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone all talking picture which comes to the Palace Theater Tuesday next for a run of 2 days.

Fans who have laughed with him in "The Hottentot," "The Sap" and "The Aviator" will now have a chance to see him in quite another role, for he is the meek and inventive bookkeeper who is the butt of the manager's gruffness and the star salesman's gaff.

Following close on his tremendous success of "Bulldog Drummond," Ronald Colman's latest starring picture, "Condemned!" started yesterday at the Palace Theater.

It was produced by Samuel Goldwyn. Set as it is in the famous French penal colony of Devil's Island in South America, with a brilliant cast of stage and screen favorites, "Condemned!" is said to be Coleman's greatest picture.

Colman's role is that of a dashing French thief sent to serve a term in the hideous prison which the French call "The Island of Living Death." Opposite him in the cast is Ann Harding, noted Broadway stage star, whose stage performance in "The Trial of Mary Rugan" made her internationally famous, and who had been lately successful in her first picture, "Paris Bound." Louis Wolheim, favorite character actor, has another prominent role, as also has Dudley Digges, star of the New York Theater Guild.

"The Case of Sergeant Grischa," Herbert Brennon Production, starring Chester Morris and Betty Compson will be seen at the Palace next Thursday and Friday.

Richard Dix in "Shooting Straight" begins next Saturday at the Palace.

Starting today at the English theater in Tahoka will be seen "One Romantic Night." The cast includes such stars as Lillian Gish, Rod La Rocque, Conrad Nagel, Marie Dressler, and O. P. Heggie. Miss Gish plays the part of a modern young woman for the first time.

Hamilton Writes Of Scandals Of Courts

THE scandalous courts of Charles II and Louis XIV have provided us with many amusing and entertaining chronicles, but with none more gossipy and diverting than that of the Chevalier de Gramont, written by his brother-in-law, Anthony Hamilton—a witty and ironical and always enthusiastic, ghost-writer.

Any book written about a court figure of the period, involving such personas of fascinating history as Charles II, Lady Castlemaine, Nell Gwynne, Lord Rochester, the Duke of Buckingham, Richmond, Lady Chesterfield, de Gramont, la belle Misanrin, Mrs. Middleton, and the other heroes and heroines of misconduct at the Restoration court would be amusing, even if written in a matter of fact manner, for their story itself is possessed of life and color, and no one could make it dull.

Paints Portraits

Anthony Hamilton wrote Gramont's story to amuse the people of his day; he was endowed with the right qualities as a writer of social gossip: endowed with a keen sense of the ridiculous and a satirical wit with which to give it pith, he presents a series of ironical portraits of the men and women of the Courts of England and France that are wickedly malicious.

The courts of Charles and Louis were both as lively as a first-rate circus. And one always misses a lot at a circus, there is so much going on all over the place. By the same token, no one book, or dozen books, for that matter, will ever satisfy as a history of the adventures of the court of Charles. For the diversions, chiefly amorous, were nevertheless complicated by intrigues of various kinds, and the story changed from day to day; there was in the lives of those lords and ladies no dull note of permanency in any relationship. They lived for amusement and created for themselves a dramatic and precarious convention; they had a good time, and their antics seem as fabulous as the Arabian Nights tales, though we know they are true, and that these lovers and ladies and gamesters were the spoiled brats of history.

"Memoirs of the Comte De Gramont." By Anthony Hamilton. E. P. Dutton & Co.

Turns Of A Bookworm

Book News Notes For This Week

A Poet Also

THE many-sided George Sylvester Viereck, whose recently published "Spreading Germs of Hate", Liverright tells the inside story of German and Allied war propaganda in America, has not lost his superb gift of poetical expression. In his introduction to his latest book, he writes as follows: "Some of my friends, whose hearts are still in the trenches, cannot forgive me for being forgiving. They expect me to harbor forever the rancors and raptures of war. To them I reply with this little poem.

I fought for what I deemed the right.
I saw the Truth. I was her knight.
My foeman, too, were thus aflame,
Blind chessman in the obscure game
Of some malign divinity.
Now, with unfolding eyes, we see
The paradox of every fight,
That both are wrong and both are right,
That friend is foe and foe is friend,
And nothing matters in the end.

This is the true story of the part played by propaganda—English, Irish, German, American, etc.—in the United States during the World War, and afterwards.

Did you ever read Lord Fisher's note on March, 1916 to Admiral Tirpitz? "I don't blame you for this submarine business. I'd have done the same thing myself, only our idiots in England wouldn't believe it when I told 'em."

Would you like to read about the activities of Sir William Wiseman, the British Propagandist-in-Chief, whose name is still not mentioned in standard works on propaganda?

Have you ever been told the true story of the presidential elections of 1916? Mr. Viereck reveals how Irish politicians played with Irish and German-American votes; Woodrow Wilson's attitude towards the "hyphenated vote" situation; the faked plan of the German general staff for the invasion of the United States.

This is only an indication of the amazing facts, the ingenious methods, the dramatic scenes disclosed by George Sylvester Viereck in this exciting book.

Monotonous Sin

ANDRE TELLIER describes the varied loves of an opera singer in "The Magnificent Sin," and for the first half of the book spins a diverting tale. However, even sin can get monotonous if it is repeated in the same key too long, and I bogged down and gave up the struggle a considerable distance from the end. Madame Carneau, the tempestuous heroine of the book, was still sinning when I left her, and I presume she stayed on the job right up to the end.

If you think you'd like a book with the title, "The Magnificent Sin," hop to it. However, it's apt to bore you before you get through with it.

Claude Kendall is the publisher.

Books Is Books

Since "Pigs is Pigs," Ellis Parker Butler may well wonder whether books is books. Does it matter, for instance, what is between covers or whether the covers are cloth or paper; whether they are displayed with soda fountain sandwiches or offered with tobacco at the corner cigar store. Mr. Butler has taken a good-natured, but keen, jab at the latest novelty in the publishing trade. His "Literature, or the Drug Store Book" is announced for early September publication by Houghton Mifflin Company.

Visualizes End

The action of "Red Snow" by F. Wright Moxley, one of Simon and Schuster's new Inner Sanctum Novels, begins on August 17, 1933; precisely five years after its publication date. This day has come to assume portentous significance in the Inner Sanctum. In "Red Snow" it make the cessation of human fertility. Moxley's novel deals with the calamitous results of this catastrophe. He believes that the human race deserves to be destroyed.

Likes Writing

The abundant vitality and wide interest of Ruth Hannah McCormick, Republican Senatorial nominee of Illinois, now expresses itself for a novel of contemporary Washington political life by Frances Parkinson Keyes, the wife of the New Hampshire senator. It is called QUEEN ANNE'S LACE and published by Horace Liveright on August 6th. Mrs. McCormick says of this book: "I have read Queen Anne's Lace with the greatest interest. It possesses the power of reality throughout. It will have a distinct influence in the lives of many women who read it because it reflects their own image heretofore unrecognized."

Balfour

The volume which Houghton Mifflin Company recently announced under the title, "Lord Balfour: An autobiography, 1848-1886" is scheduled for publication early in October and will be entitled "Retrospect: The Unfinished Autobiography, 1848-1886, of Arthur James, First Earl of Balfour." The record of Lord Balfour's American visit in 1917 stands out as one of the high lights of the book.

New Books

During the remainder of August and September, Simon and Schuster will release the following publications:

August 28—Uncle Hosie by Phillips H. Lord. "Seth Parker"; Sept. 18—The End of The World by Geoffrey Dennis; Sept. 25—In Defense of Sensuality by John Cowper Powys; Sept. 25—Bring 'Em Back Alive by Frank Buck; Sept. 25—Beloved: O Mon Onye by Sarah Levy.

SOUTHLAND, Aug. 23. (Special)—W. A. Smith, superintendent of schools here for the past several years, has received his M. A. degree from Baylor University, Waco and will resume his duties here as head of the Southland schools.

Mr. Smith, son of Mrs. S. E. Smith, has devoted most of his summers for several years to completing his work for the degree. He has been a school teacher for fourteen years and superintendent for all but one year of that time.

"A Flock Of Birds" Is Stirring Novel Of The Spirit; A Mother, Condemned Son And Irish Politics, Background

KATHLEEN COYLE has chosen as the soil upon which to plant her latest novel, the usually so arid ground of the conscious mind overflowed by the subconscious. She has chosen as the bulk of that novel a woman's reactions to the last few days before her son's hanging as a political felon. In that too often sterile clay she has planted the most difficult of all germs to bring to flower.

"A Flock of Birds" is, for the worker in words, a miracle of exactness of expression. For the craftsman it is a technical job done with superlative skill. For the ordinary reader it is a touching, but unsentimental record of the mental storms and miraculous calms of surfeited emotions.

Mother Is Center

The central figure of the book is Catherine Munster, an Irish woman, who is the mother of three grown children, Valentine, who has a mistress but has never mentioned her, Kathleen, who has a life of the spirit apart from her family of the flesh removed from them by a life in France, and Christy, a passionate believer in the freedom of his fellow men, who has proclaimed his belief by letting himself be captured in a Dublin uprising in which a government man was killed, and who has been condemned to hang for murder. All of these things you know within a few pages of the beginning. At first you see nothing but Catherine Munster staring dumbly into a hat shop window. So delicately does the author nurture her seed, that the mood of the book surrounds the reader before he realizes what is the previous action has produced the mood—a calm distraction, a clutching at inconsequences, a peace on the surface of turbulent emotions and a strange inner certainty that fate is ineluctable.

Action In Mind

The action of the book takes place almost entirely in the mind of the central character. What happens to Christy, what comes to Kathleen, how events change Valentine, all are seen through their reaction on the mother.

Apart from the family, but joined to it by her love for Christy, is a girl whom the boy was to have married. The author has made of her a separate theme—as was inevitable. She, too, is seen through the eyes of the mother. Less deeply rooted in years and more deeply in passion, her love has a quality of hysteria which none of the others has.

Hope Is Raised

While everyone else is raised by hope that something may be done about Christy's sentence, while the sister and the brother and the fiance are collecting names for petitions, and pleading with the Home Secretary the mother, feels the complete inevitability of life, and can do nothing. She can, however and does, feel the need of her child as none of the others can feel it, and she gives him—with her spirit—a strength which upholds him.

The story grips you with poignant pity but the emotion which it engenders in is in no sense a sentimental one. It is an intellectualized pity—and when you read it you will realize how much more intense an emotional reaction induced by the intellect can be than one induced by mere sentiment.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Then shalt thou walk in thy way safely, and thy foot shall not stumble.

When thou liest down, thou shalt not be afraid: yea, thou shalt lie down, and thy sleep shall be sweet.—Proverbs iv, 23, 24.

THE PRIMARY SWAN SONG

IF it were absolutely necessary we could—and would—write a lot of slush about the tumult and the shouting dying, and all that sort of thing. We could quote a little poetry, trot out an impressive squadron of three-dollar words and, in general, make this editorial thoroughly obnoxious.

But what's the use of going to the trouble when all that needs to be said is: "The confounded election is over and we're glad of it!" That the backbone of the matter, anyway, and who cares about the froth and foam?"

At any rate, Texas Democracy has chosen another set of nominees after cluttering up the atmosphere with too many speeches during the past two months. Old friends have gotten mad at one another; business has bee sadly neglected. Now that the second primary has joined the limbo of the bustle and the cigar-store Indian, The Avalanche-Journal, for one, is ready and willing to call it quits!

We're ready, along with a great host of Texans, to again begin to watch the baseball scores and averages and to read, with loving fervor, the advance 'dope' on the Southwest conference football teams. We're ready to stretch out in a favorite chair before the radio, without any fears that we'll inadvertantly tune in on Jim Ferguson or Ross Sterling.

Once again we'll be able to walk along the street without being met on every side with the same old question, "Who's gonna be the next governor" The side-walk senates will thin down to the point where once more a pedestrian will be able to go about his business without employing the use of a battering ram to get past a corner!

In other words, folks will go back to work and neither side will know the difference in the final selection by the time another election year rolls around!

Au revoir, (if that's the way you spell it) Rosa! Bye-bye, Miriam! Thanks for the buggy ride but we're glad you're through. Come back again some day, when you can't stay so long!

OUR ENEMIES IN PEACE

We have talked preparedness for a long time. Now we are realizing its need. Not only in war in which life is taken, as we have commonly thought of it, but in a field that is distinctly more practical and humanitarian.

Movable water tanks, which have been placed in commission at army posts in the Fifth Corps Area, were ordered used for hauling water for livestock in the nearby drought-stricken areas in Ohio.

When winds refuse to blow up a cooling shower—when the blue-green waters of the ponds under deep trees turn to muddy brown and the leaves of their shelter wither—when the troughs from which they drink no longer have a refreshing flood of cold water, livestock suffer more cruelly than if a marauding army had plunged across the fields.

We are discovering that it is as important to keep prepared in time of peace as in time of war. Not all of our enemies are wearing helmets and carrying bayonets. We have tht elements and pestilences to combat. They are distinctly more deadly.

Why not marshal our men and resources and be prepared to make war on these enemies when the time comes? They will conquer it in the end if we don't. The government is justified in keeping a reserve of men and supplies ready for such combat as surely as it is in sending the marines to protect our citizens and their property in foreign lands.

Instruments of warfare have proved their use more than once in time of peace. America has gone to battle very often when the enemy wasn't an army that advanced under another flag.

Down in Panama, the cleaning up of the swamps abolished disease. It took the maneuvers of an army, the skill of generalship, the bravery and daring of a gallant soldiery to combat that fever pestilence. But it was done.

If we are going to be happy in time of peace it begins to look as though we must prepare for war. For some strange reason we hesitate to make ready to meet an invader that isn't human. We will prepare for war, though. We could avoid this roundabout method of achieving our end if we would face the dangers of peace as readily as we do those of war.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

COUZENS' BOLDNESS OF OPINION BRINGS HIM SUPPORT OF LIBERALS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—"If the capitalistic system is to endure (and this country seems to be committed to it)," Senator James Couzens of Michigan said to me some time ago, "it has got to find a satisfactory answer to the unemployment question."

Can anyone fail to sense in this remark a touch of skepticism concerning the system's everlasting reliability?

"If" capitalism is to endure!

Pray, does the senator mean to imply that there is any doubt about it?

True, the Wolverine statesman recognizes that it is the economic system to which our country appears to be definitely committed.

However, the more irrevocably we are committed to it, the worse it would be for us (wouldn't it?) if it were to blow up. With nothing else to servev as a substitute, wouldn't such a mischance leave us out on the end of a limb for fair?

Questions like these ask themselves automatically when an individual in as significant a position as Senator Couzens' expresses himself in terms hinting at a shade of uncertainty as to capitalism's dependability.

As a matter of fact, the senator assuredly did not intend to accept responsibility for anything so strong as an out-and-out prediction of the capitalistic system's collapse.

And yet (there is no dodging it) he did intend to suggest a threat.

He had been working at the time for a thorough investigation of unemployment and was emphasizing his view that there must be no halfway work about it if capitalists have a judicious regard for their own ultimate welfare.

Unemployment was not as bad then as later; my talk with Senator Couzens preceded last fall's market crash and the ensuing industrial pinch.

On the other hand, since then there has been something of an unemployment inquiry; also two or three laws have been passed, providing for a still deeper study of the subject; likewise a count of the country's involuntarily idle workers was made, as a detail of the current year's census.

I don't know how fully these measures satisfy the senator.

It is not the unemployment situation I am attempting to illuminate in this particular connection, anyway.

What I really am trying to do is to give an idea of Senator Couzens' matter-of-fact boldness in voicing opinions to which the average public man would no more dare to plead guilty than he would consider it safe to admit himself a bolshevik.

"If" capitalism is to endure!—et cetera.

Why! when William Z. Foster says such things, there are senators who clamor for the justice department to get after him.

But Senator Couzens by common repute is the biggest capitalist in congress. When he tells capital what will happen to it unless it minds its p's and q's, there is not much to do except listen to him respectfully.

Nevertheless, the conservatives don't like it. Even if they believe him, they don't like to be told such things. Probably they dislike it more in Senator Couzens than they would in William Z. Foster—for they would discount it in William Z. and they are afraid that Senator Couzens knows what he is talking about.

Naturally he is meeting with more or less opposition in his renomination campaign out in Michigan. Rumblings of it can be heard clear here, in Washington. However, they say the liberals are rallying around him.

Well, he is, indeed, mainly a liberal. But not wholly. He also has his conservative streaks.

Anyone who undertakes to classify Jim Couzens has a job ahead of him.

Diet And Health

CHANGING POSITIONS AIDS SLEEP

Many medical authorities instruct their patients to sleep on the back, others on the right side. A great many of them say that sleeping on the left side is dangerous—that it interferes with the action of the heart, and favors a very slow emptying of the stomach.

"Lie flat, sit straight, stand tall." That is what a United States army medical bulletin tells the soldiers. "Never curl up and buckle in the middle."

"Never forget that the best way to use the body for all purposes is as if it were stretched up as tall as possible."

So say some other admonitions of Uncle Sam to his soldiers.

Recent investigations have shown, however, that advice on the subject is no very useful. Drs. Johnson, Swan and Weigand at the Mellon Institute, Pittsburgh, have arranged an ingenious device which takes a kind of moving picture reel of sleepers. It does not take a continuous film all through the night, but takes a photograph every time the person under observation moves.

Thus all the changes in the body during slumber are recorded on a short film. They took photographs of 112 people in this way.

It turns out that nobody stays in any one position all night. It is useless to tell a person to sleep on the back or right side because they do not stay that way. The subjects observed changed on the average of 36 times during the night from 11:30 to 7:45 in the morning.

They were on the back, right and left side, curled up, lying on the stomach and every intermediate position.

During the early part of the night they changed positions less frequently and would stay in one position as long as 50 minutes. During the last two hours of sleep they would change positions 15 or 16 times, holding one position only four or five minutes at a time.

Healthy sleepers never have "doglike" slumber. Only when dosed with sedative does a person stay in one position for any length of time. This probably is why you feel so dopey the next day if you take veronal or any of the hypnotics. When you are having normal, healthy sleep you move your muscles around a little and get some exercise.

The observations compel us to discard any idea of one position in sleep being healthy. The spine always shows a lateral curvature at some time during the night.

Yet with all these variations—lying on the stomach and compressing the heart and all—no serious consequences come to most people. If they did, everybody would be sick all the time.

(Editor's Note: Dr. Clendenisg cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up, in order, in the daily column. Address your queries to Dr. Logan Clendening, care of this paper. Another Big Holdup On The Main Highway

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE, Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN RORIMER, former New York newspaper man, who is now writing scenarios for Continental Pictures in Hollywood, gets a letter from an old friend in New York, telling him to look up a girl named ANNE WINTER, who has come from Tulsa, Okla., to "crash the pictures."

Dan complies reluctantly, but Anne proves to be charming. She has had stage experience—in stock companies. Anne gathers that he is a little dissatisfied with things at Continental. For one thing, he thinks they have miscast the star whom they select to play in the picture that is to be made from a story he had written before coming to Hollywood.

The following Monday rehearsals begin on his picture. That evening he learns that Anne is to work the following morning, making the second time she has found extra employment. After her first day at Grand United studios, Dan takes Anne for a ride to the beach. There she tells him she has met a likable girl, also an extra, and she is thinking of living with this girl and her present apartment mate, whom Anne has not yet met. The girl's name is MONA MORRISON; her friend's EVA HARLEY.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

ANNE let his arm stay where it was; appeared not to notice it, even. But a moment or two later, when Rorimer tried to draw her toward him, he encountered firm resistance, and Anne said, "Hadn't we better start back? What time is it?"

"Oh, I keep my promises; I'll get you back by ten," he replied. "It's no more than nine now."

"I didn't see you look at your watch."

Dan brought up his wrist, squinted in the semi-darkness. "Well, then, 9:15." he admitted, grinning. "What's 15 minutes?" And he added, "On a night like this?"

Anne Winter smiled at him. "Romantic Uncle Dan!" she jeered softly.

"Yeah? Forget that, young lady; I'm not your uncle."

"You were a few minutes ago."

"But I don't feel so—so avuncular now; or platonic, either, for that matter."

Anne dropped the subject; and Rorimer, feeling her impersonal dismissal of it, fell silent. He offered her a cigaret, and this time she took one.

Leaning back in his seat, he regarded her through half-closed eyes and wondered if she had ever given a man her love. Certainly, he thought in admiring approval of her, there must have been many who had tried to win it. Perhaps there was a young man back in Tulsa; and if there was, Dan was thinking, he was plenty lucky.

He began presently to whistle softly, but thinking of something else, checked himself and urged: "Sing for me, Anne."

"Sing for you?" she repeated, regarding him curiously. "Why?"

"Because I like to hear you sing. . . . Sing that thing I was trying to whistle."

"'Why Was I Born?' . . . But that's so plaintive and so forlorn."

"That's just the way I feel, somehow. Does the ocean at night affect you that way?"

It did, she agreed. "I feel a little homesick."

DAN said he had been away from his family too long to know homesickness again, but that he felt a longing, and a curious aloneness that was hard to explain. He started the car, backed it onto the road, and headed it up the grade, and rolling back toward Hollywood, with the ocean behind them. Anne leaned back in the seat and began to sing:

"Why was I born? Why am I living?
What do I get? What am I giving?
Why do I want a thing I daren't hope for?
What can I hope for? I wish I knew . . ."

Plaintive . . . forlorn . . . the song of a lonely heart. And Anne's voice, low and sweet and tremulous, exciting, carrying right into his blood:

"Why do I try to draw you near me?
Why do I cry?—you never hear me.
I'm a poor fool, but what can I do?
Why was I born to love you?"

The wind rushed past them, whipping at his hair before it fled, carrying the last echoes of her song with it. Dan felt contentment—a contentment curiously mixed with the stirrings of voiceless longing and unrest.

"Why do I want the things I daren't hope for?

That was the thing that life was living for, he told himself—to want the things one daren't hope for. Only, you did hope for them somehow, no matter how forlornly, even if they were way off somewhere beyond the frozen stars.

"Sing some more, Anne. Sing to me again."

"Do you like to be sung to?"

He said simply, staring straight ahead, "I love to hear you sing."

And Anne turned on him a curious smile at the strange emphasis in his voice, but he was still looking away and missed it.

She began:

"I'm a dreamer—aren't we all?
Just a dreamer—aren't we all?"

and sang it through to the end. And not once did Rorimer turn his eyes from the roadway ahead of them. He was thinking that he had heard a voice like hers before, over the radio. A contralto who sang ballads and "blues" with a smooth ease and lewness that made you shut your eyes and imagine things. Only, Anne's singing was not so trained; not so professional. It had, he though, striving for the right word, an unraptured quality in it that left him a little shaken.

At the end of her song he turned to look at her. She sat still beside him, her head back against the cushioned seat, eyes half-closed. "If she gets a break," he said to himself, "she'll go a long way." Provided, of course, the camera and the mirrophone did not do strange things to her; that had been known to happen.

THEY were on her street now, and when he stopped the car in front of her apartment he asked if he might pick her up again in the morning and take her to the Grand United lot.

"It's no trouble, Anne, and you can sleep longer if you don't have

Welton Winn Writes Again On How To Save The Farmer

THE FARM BOARD AND THE PRESENT DECLINE IN COTTON

We gave our views, and some past experience on the price of wheat; we want here to make some suggestions and observations on the present unwarranted decline in the price of cotton as reported in the morning papers.

There are some heroic efforts being put forth to organize all farmers into the Co-ops of the country; we are glad, and have a better right than most men in this section, or anywhere else to see men who are engaged in this work. Our business men and bankers have come to see, or at least, partially to see that it is not only their privilege, but their solemn duty to take an active part in assisting the farmers to market their crops, if for no other higher motive than selfishness. These should help in the marketing problems of the farmers.

We assume, and really believe these men, bankers, merchants, and all other legitimate lines, are interested in assisting the farmers through a spirit of good will and patriotism, as well as their own financial benefits; we say we have as good and better right to rejoice in the co-operative effort of all the parties mentioned, because we have earnestly contended for 15 years, this was the only way the desired results of better prices and prosperity for the farmers and the balance of the country, can ever be secured and enjoyed.

Now, with the best efforts of the Farm Board, the price of cotton still declines. All reports show we have only a short crop and the carry-over of real spinable cotton is not large, but a decline is recorded on any kind of report.

If human experience is better than mere plans and theories, then we are prepared to outline a true and workable remedy—one that served and saved in 1905—one, and the only one, that ever "brought home the bacon", as the politicians would say. If the Farm Board would call a meeting right now and ask all, or a delegation of the class of men so industriously engaged in making drives for organizations and membership, would meet and set a price of say 20c, or any other minimum price they saw fit to name and then the Board say to the buyers of our cotton, "middling, all over the belt, you may have the entire crop, or any part of it at the price named, and the entire crop is now placed in the pool, just one pool! This would settle the matter in less than ten days. The price named would be secured, all over the belt, and prosperity take the place of the deplorable condition the entire country is now in.

First, it is a determined effort on the part of those interests who are opposed to the idea of the farmers controlling and operating their own business.

Second, but not least, the power of the exchanges to demonstrate their supremacy, and arrogance in price-making. And just as long as the producers, and their allies, the bankers, and merchants will read and accept the chalk-marks of the "gamblers", as the price of the farmer's valuable products, such as wheat, corn and cotton, just that long, will they meet disappointment in receiving a just price for cotton and other products.

You may get every farmer in America in the Co-ops, "in" as long as they accept the plans, and workings of the exchanges, they are hopeless, and helpless. This plan would eliminate expense, and waste of effort and energy. With this plan put in operation as it was in 1905 in the city of New Orleans, there would be no need of many offices, but the price named each year would insure to the humblest farmer in the land—the fixed price would be known to all, and with Government graders at all convenient places, every producer would receive the benefit common to all, whether he joined anything, or paid anything. Now, we want to say as long as the Farm Board, and all those working under them, refuse, or fail to "peg" prices, as the Board says, which means to name a fixed price, just that long will the Board and their following be negative in rendering the producers the real service and help, they so justly need and desire.

The real issue is, have the exchanges a better right to name the price of cotton, and other products, and change them many times the same day, at their own will, than have the farmers and their allies, the bankers and merchants? And every other legitimate business that depends on the farmers' success for their prosperity. Every sane man knows the farmers are the foundation of all other lines of business—even the exchanges, the gamblers in farm products, depend on the ignorance and credulity of the farmers and their friends for their success.

If, at the opening of the cotton season, one hundred farmers, one hundred merchants, and one hundred bankers, would meet at some central point, and review the conditions, size of crop, etc., and fix a price for that year and then recommend that no middling cotton of good staple be sold for less, that would settle the matter for that year—save lots of time, and expense and guarantee the prosperity of the Southern states. Why not act now, and save this crop from great loss?

WELTON WINN,
Lubbock, Texas.

In New York

With 'wan

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Down in New York's East Side district, the season of saints and shrines has come again—a colorful and incongruous transplantation of the old world upon the nation's greatest foreign section.

Whatever other changes may creep over Elizabeth street, Grand street, Mulberry and all the rest, these combinations of carnivalia and religious pageantry vary only insofar as new American devices intrude. And it is this invasion of everything from the peanut and soda stand to the shriek of nearby radios wherein may be found the chief incongruities.

The basis of the ceremonial itself remains as ancient as the little provinces of Europe where such festivals to the saints are centuries old.

It all begins almost overnight. Upon some morning a few blocks of the tenement zone appear suddenly in trappings of vari-colored streamers. A few carpenters begin work on a wooden platform. Bunting begins to adorn the building fronts and serpentine drops from windows.

A shrine, enclosing the image of some saint — just now it's Saint Fortunata—begins to cover a store front or is borne through the streets on the shoulders of a parade group. Hundreds of little girls, clad in their whitest finery, troop just behind an assortment of bandsmen.

If ever the melting pot brewed thoroughly its mixed ingredients, this is the moment. For races and creeds are forgotten and patriarchal Jews, shuffling along in little skull caps, line the curbstones; Germans, Greeks, Hungarians, Irish, Italians—Catholics, gentiles and agnostics—soon are all swept into the busy street arena.

Along about nightfall, the background of carnivalia makes its appearance. Now the tin-panny little carrousels are drawn up to the corners and the official cranker takes up his post to gather pennies from the hordes of children drawn from the crowd to this tiny whirl-a-gig.

The candy merchants set up their stands in the streets. The balloon man appears with his bobbing bouquet. A hawker passes on a side street with an armload of rubber beach dolls.

Sly flirtations are engaged in between the beaus and belles. Here again, there is little heed of race. A pretty face is a pretty face and the bright eyes of Hungary ask no questions of the quick glance of Italy.

The vendor with a pushcart load of canaries, trilling songs from their tiny cages, arrives. So does the ice cream man and the fellow with tin whistles.

The crowd begins to grow and the outdoor shrine shines in its frame of candles and wax flowers and gilt ornamentations. The pennies drop moneys on a collection plate, placed just before the shrine, and a great pile of bills soon is growing.

Neighborhood folk gather on the fire escape. Just down the street a band begins to blare. The sounds of childish voices come through the street from somewhere around a wooden platform. Piping paens of praise are soon echoing along the tenemented canyons.

Lovington In Greatest Era Of Progress

Highways In Section Are Being Improved; Attention Is Directed To Irrigation; Oil Activities Increase

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LOVINGTON, N. M., Aug. 23.—This city is now enjoying the greatest forward movement in her history. With large sums of money being spent for public works and a greatly enhanced building program all lines of business report heavy increases over former periods.

The chamber of commerce reports receipt of over one hundred letters weekly of which eighty per cent are inquiries about irrigable lands in this vicinity. These letters come from all parts of the United States and another year will see several hundred farmers engaged in truck and fruit farming in Lea county's shallow water belt. Other letters inquire about business chances in Lovington, and town property.

Highway Is Graded

About fifteen of the 21 miles of the Hobbs-Lovington highway have been graded which will give quick communication between the two cities encouraging closer business and social relations between the two cities. When this road is completed it will greatly assist Lovington business people and will be the means of many Hobbs business men moving their families to the county seat.

Lovington is the focal point of three highway systems, and as a result is a night-time Mecca for scores of tourists passing through on their way to the four points of the compass. The greatest traffic at present seems to be coming from the north and east toward Hobbs and Carlsbad Cavern. The highways running to Roswell and Artesia also get their quota of travel.

Appeals Heard

Business men of the Pecos Valley are making themselves heard at the state's capital over what they assert is the slow method the State highway commissioners are using in building a hard surfaced road leading west from Hobbs and Lovington into the central part of New Mexico. These petitioners claim that they are entitled to the business of Hobbs which has grown into a city of over 12,000 population and threatens the supremacy even of Albuquerque as the state's largest city. In their representations to the state officials they point out that Texas has built a hard surfaced road right up to the eastern border of Lea county, and is bidding for her share of the business of the new oil capital. This business they maintain should remain in New Mexico. Newspapers of the state have entered into the controversy and much public interest has been aroused.

Leases Selling

The possibility of the Landreth well some fifteen miles south being a small well and indicating the north end of the Hobbs field oil men are interesting themselves in the vicinity of Lovington. Leases are going rapidly bringing as much as $25 per acre up to the city limits. The business men have been asked by an independent operator from Texas to gather a drilling block for which he claims he is ready to make a test at the southern end of the city limits. The offer has created intense excitement, as heretofore Lovington has been content to watch drilling operations extend north from the Hobbs pool.

Plainview's City Tax Rate Reduced 11 Cents For Year

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 23.—Plainview's city tax rate for 1930 was reduced eleven cents by the City Council this week making the new rate $1.64 instead of $1.75 as assessed this past year.

The valuations of the city are $8,650,000 as compared to $8,113,429.00 for 1929, an increase of a half million dollars. Property valuations in Plainview have almost doubled since 1922, when the figure was $4,841,310. The present tax rate is the lowest since 1922 when the rate was $1.45. The cut in the tax rate was occasioned by reductions in the operating costs of the city, Mayor J. B. Cardwell declared.

Water Consumption In City This Year Greater Than At Any Previous Time Of Plant

Total Of 217,682,800 Gallons Used During First Quarter Of Fiscal Year; Drouth Is Blamed

Water consumption in Lubbock this year has been greater than during any corresponding period in the city's history, city records show.

During the first quarter of the 1930 fiscal year, April, May, June and July, a total of 217,682,800 gallons was used, as compared to total consumption of 158,173,000 gallons during that period in 1929.

July 28 Greatest

The greatest single day's usage in Lubbock history was 3,167,000 gallons, recorded for July 28. A total of 3,153,000 gallons was consumed July 2.

Average daily consumption during the first quarter this year was more than 1,784,285 gallons, as compared to 1,296,500 during that period in 1929.

Last July and August, 51,411,000 and 51,786,000 gallons, respectively, was used. The year's peak was reached during those two months. Last month or July of the 1930 fiscal year, total gallonage recorded was 54,844,500. Aggregate of 44,767,600 was used during the first 19 days of this month.

City officials attribute the increased consumption to the prolonged drouth coupled with a five-month irrigation rate which went into effect for the first time here May 1 and will continue through September. The rate is available to virtually all citizens signing for it and the decrease in price during the warmest months is believed to have stimulated consumption.

City records of usage this month clearly show the direct effect of temperatures on usage of water. The weather was comparatively cool here from about August 6 through August 11.

Consumption Ranges

From the first to the sixth, consumption ranged from 3,000,000 gallons on the second to 2,302,000 on the sixth, when the cool period began. During the next five days, the highest day's consumption was 1,832,400 registered on the seventh and on the eight it dropped to 1,258,200. Thereafter, daily gallonage increased until 2,-326,800 was recorded on the twelfth.

Less water is used in spring than in summer, more in fall than in winter and less in winter than in spring, records show.

During April, 1929, first month of the fiscal year, consumption was 34,381,000 gallons and each month it gradually increased until the peak was reached in August, when 51,786,000 gallons was used. Thereafter, consumption gradually decreased until March, when the pendulum resumed its slow swing upward.

Less water was used during February than any other month of the last fiscal year. February gallonage was 32,222,000.

Charity Plan In Lamesa Is Unique Idea

Prominent Business Men Are Members Of Association Similiar To Community Chests In Other Cities

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LAMESA, Aug. 23.—The Lamesa Mutual Aid association is an organization which has as its membership prominent business men here and which takes the place of a community chest in other cities. The association is run on the same plan as the Chest in the larger centers, according to Mrs. H. E. Williams, president. Mrs. Williams secures as many members for the association as possible and from each she collects a monthly donation for charity work.

"This system is a protection for our business men. Should a needy family arrive in Lamesa and start canvassing the city for donations it is referred to the Mutual Aid association for aid instead," the president said.

Handle Hundreds Of Cases

"We handle hundreds of worthy cases each year," Mrs. Williams said, "and the association has an expenditure of over $1,200 yearly. We co-operate with the churches, clubs and the county in taking care of the sick, widows, old people, orphans, destitute families and maternal cases."

There isn't a single day in the year, she said, when she doesn't have a call for charity work.

The investigation committee for the Mutual Aid association is composed of W. K. Crawley, chairman, Dr. J. C. Loveless, O. B. Norman and L. R. Hanson. The members of the committee counter-sign checks written by Mrs. Williams.

Plays Santa Claus

"During Christmas our association plays Santa Claus for families in the county who are too poor to give their children much. Last Christmas we distributed baskets to ninety-six children. They wre given clothes, candy, fruit and fire works. The churches in Lamesa helped us to fix the baskets, donating money to defray expenses and also donating some of the contents.

Occasionally we have cases where husbands leave their wives and children. We also have widows who are unable to work for their living and who have no relations to provide for them. Last winter I made trips all over the county nearly every day, seeing that my cases had plenty of coal for warmth. Winter is when I have my hardest jobs. At that time it's necessary to provide my cases with extra clothing, fuel and food. During the snow last winter I had to move a family out of a freight car here. There was a mother with three children and they all needed clothes, food and fuel. Oh, it keeps me on the move, all right."

Yearly Sum Donated

A yearly sum is donated to the Salvation Army by the association here to save them the effort of going to each business house with their tamborines making collections, Mrs. Williams said. That arrangement is satisfactory to both the business men and to the charity organization.

During the dull seasons the Mutual Aid association some times loans farmers or laborers money enough to ride him over an unemployment spell. These loans are repaid by the borrower after he has secured work through an easy payment plan.

Over 100 men in Lamesa hold memberships in this organization and have found it an excellent solution to the problem of caring for the destitute persons in Lamesa and Dawson county.

Slaton now has twenty service stations, not including garages offering motor service. There are nine wholesale oil companies.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson for August 24, 1930.

General Topic:

Jonathan and David: A Noble Friendship.

Scripture Lesson:

1 Sam. 18:1-4; 20:14-17, 32-34, 41, 42; 1 Sam. 1:25-27.

1. Sam. 18:1. And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking unto Saul, that the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

2. And Saul took him that day, and would let him go no more home to his father's house.

3. Then Jonathan and David made a covenant, because he loved him as his own soul.

4. And Jonathan stripped himself of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his apparel, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle. 1 Sam. 20:14. And thou shalt not only while yet I live show me the loving-kindness of Jehovah, that I die not.

15. But also thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house forever; no, not when Jehovah hath cut off the enemies of David every one from the face of the earth.

16. So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David, saying, And Jehovah will require it at the hand of David's enemies.

17. And Jonathan caused David to swear again, for the love that he had to him; for he loved him as he loved his own soul.

32. And Jonathan answered Saul his father, and said unto him, Wherefore should he be put to death? what hath he done?

33. And Saul cast his spear at him to smite him: whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to put David to death.

34. So Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no food the second day of the month; for he was grieved for David, because his father had done him shame.

41. And as soon as the lad was gone, David arose out of a place toward the South, and fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himself three times; and they kissed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded.

42. And Jonathan said to David, go in peace, for as much as we have sworn both of us in the name of Jehovah, saying, Jehovah shall be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed, for ever. And he arose and departed; and Jonathan went into the city.

2 Sam. 1:24. How are the mighty fallen in the midst of the battle! Jonathan is slain upon thy high places.

26. I am distressed for thee, my brother Jonathan: Very pleasant hast thou been unto me; thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women.

27. How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war perished!

Time:— Jonathan's victory at Michmash, B. C. 1085. David and Jonathan make their covenant, B. C. 1073. David and Jonathan part, B. C. 1066. Death of Jonathan B. C. 1063.

Time:— Saul's capital, Gibeah. Mount Gilboa, where Saul and Jonathan died.

INTRODUCTION

One of the most difficult of all the Christian virtues to put in practice is that form of generosity that can without jealousy see another advance into the place of honor and advantage that would naturally have been ours—or even help him on and into it. It always demands something of that emptying of self that Paul predicates of Jesus (Phil. 2:7).

Another shining Christian grace is unswerving fidelity in friendship; friendship-love to the limit; and until death; and beyond. Now these are the distinguishing marks of the friendship of Jonathan and David. The friendship of these two men, Saul's son and Saul's enemy, has become an undying ideal of human friendship; as Jesus' outlasting love for sinful men is of the divine. The Damon and Pythias of Holy Writ are these two young Hebrews.

THE VICTORY OVER GOLIATH

It is no wonder that David's combat with the Philistine giant, Goliath, won the immediate admiration of Jonathan. The crown prince was prevented in some way, perhaps by absence, perhaps by Saul's will, from undertaking the battle himself; but we may be sure that he would have liked to do so. Jonathan had the same impetuous bravery that animated the young shepherd, and showed it in his exploit at Michmash (1 Sam. 14). Both were ready to make the most of the weapons and forces at hand. Both young men had "the strength of ten because their hearts were pure." Both were capable of the most ardent devotion to high and unselfish ideals. Such is the material of true friendship.

David, after his victory over Goliath, was brought before Saul, and his answers to the king's questions were so manly as to arouse the prince's instant admiration. "And Jonathan loved him as his own soul." This is the ideal set before us by both the Old Testament and the New, both by Moses and by Christ, that we should have our neighbor as ourselves.

JONATHAN INTERCEDES FOR DAVID. 1 Sam. 19:1-7

The beginning of Saul's jealousy of David was in a popular refrain which was passed from mouth to mouth after David had slain Goliath. The women of the different towns sung it with exultant dances and with timbrels, coming out to meet Saul as he returned from the way with the Philistines. It was not a song likely to please such a monarch as Saul, for it ran:

"Saul hath slain his thousands,
And David has ten thousands."

Fits of insane melancholy seized Saul and as David sought to soothe him with his sweet singing and playing on the harp, he twice hurled his spear at him and tried to kill him. And still further, seeing David was favored of the Lord and of the people, Saul ordered all his servants, and Jonathan as well, to seek opportunities and put David to Death. Learning this of David's imminent peril, Jonathan contrived an interview between his father and himself. It was venturesome for Jonathan to do this, for he might easily turn his father's wrath against himself. Thus Jonathan was ready to lay down his life for his friend, or at least to jeopardize his favor with his father, and perhaps risk his succession to the throne. He must also have realised by this time how likely it was that David, with his great natural gifts and his vast popularity, would succeed to the kingdom rather than he himself. But Jonathan was entirely happy in the prospect of his friend's exaltation. He was glad to say, as John the Baptist said of Christ, "He must increase while I decrease."

Jonathan's Covenant With David. 1 Sam. 20:14-17

Before Jonathan separated from David, he repeated their covenant of friendship, extending it to include their families, far into the future. Jonathan foresaw that David and not he himself would succeed Saul as King, and it was the brutal custom of the East, on the succession of a new dynasty, to confirm it in power by putting to death all descendants and relatives of the preceding monarch.

"But also thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house forever." Jonathan has asked for his own life, when David should come to the throne, and now he asks also for the lives of his children and their children, whom David's zealous followers, if not David himself, might massacre in such a case. "So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David." With David as representing and binding his descendants as well as himself. David remembered this covenant and was true to its in the kindness which, after Jonathan's death and his own succession to the throne, he showed to Jonathan's lame son, Mephibosheth (2 Sam. 9:1-13; 21:7). "Saying, And Jehovah will require it at the hand of David's enemies." v. 16. The thought seems to be that "if the covenant were broken by David, God would see that David's enemies punished him for his faithfulness.

Saul Tried To Kill Jonathan. 1 Sam. 20:33

"And Saul cast his spear at him to smite him." Saul's mania had reached such a pitch that he was ready to kill his oldest son, his heir, the hope of the kingdom, a young man of ideal character who was thoroughly devoted to his father. Such blindness comes from jealousy! "Whereby Jonathan knew" that it was determined of his father to put David to death."

David's Lament For Jonathan And Saul. 2 Sam. 1:17-27

The circumstances of the deaths of Jonathan and Saul were related to our last lesson (1 Sam. 31:3, 4). Saul was a suicide, killing himself in the battle rather than fall into the merciless hands of the Philistines. Jonathan died bravely fighting his country's foes.

The final passage in our lesson is a part of David's lament for Saul and Jonathan. The entire song should be read. It contains several of the most familiar quotations from the Old Testament.

"The artistic skill with which the successive thoughts of this ode are introduced is equal to the beauty and passionate tenderness of the thoughts themselves!" "The writing of such a song, the spirit of admiration and eulogy which pervades it, and the unusual enactment that it should be taught to the people, show how far superior David was to the ordinary feelings of jealousy, how full his heart was of true generosity."

The Love of Jonathan For David

In one respect the friendship between Jonathan and David was unique; it was a friendship between the heir to the throne and the one who was to succeed to the throne. In all ordinary cases such men would have been rivals, perhaps bitter rivals, for one would have found it hard to love the man who was destined to supplant him; while the other would have found it difficult to love the man he was to supplant. "The love of Jonathan for David," says Matheson, "rests upon a totally different level from that occupied by the love of David for Jonathan. David's love for Jonathan had no barriers; it coincided with his interest. But the love of Jonathan for David had every prudential argument against it. He puts out his hand to save from the destroying hand of his father a man whom the popular voice had predicted to be his own supplanter. In this he is animated by a purely personal likings. He is an absolute spendthrift for the sake of love."

"David and Jonathan" is a combination that for three thousand years has grown in meaning. This friendship is a heritage of the human race. It surpasses in meaning and influence that of Damon and Pythias, and just for the reason that it has in it an element not found in theirs.

U. S. S. Rochester Goes Back To Active Sea Service Again

Oldest Ship In Service Looks Like She'll Float Forever, Dutcher Says; Junking Old Vessel Is Forgotten

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—For nearly 30 years they have been talking about replacing the U. S. S. Rochester, the oldest ship on active service in the United States navy. But this ancient cruiser has gone back after an overhauling at the Brooklyn Navy Yard to resume her place as flagship of the special service squadron, in Central American waters, and still nothing is being done about replacing her.

She has lived to an almost unbelievable age of service since she was conditioned in 1893 and, under one name or another, has gone more places and done more things than any other of the navy's vessels. Originally she was named the New York and later the Saratoga, but these names were preempted for bigger although perhaps not better ships.

Congress authorized her in 1888 and she cost $3,000,000.

As the New York, she had her real baptism of fire when she served as the flagship of Admiral W. T. Sampson in the Spanish-American war, taking part in five engagements, the last of which ended with the defeat and surrender of Cervera's fleet off Santiago.

Sailors Like Her

Every one in the navy liked her and still does. Her name was changed to the Saratoga in 1911 and to the Rochester in 1917. Her personnel runs over 600 men and she is still strongly built as well as roomy and comfortable in tropical waters.

In 1915 she was the flagship of the Asiatic fleet and she was the only foreign man-of-war present when she anchored at Yokohama to represent the United States at the coronation ceremony of the emperor of Japan.

In May, 1917, she was being repaired prior to joining the patrol force of the Pacific fleet. A month after the declaration of war, however, repair work stopped because Congress had failed to pass a bill authorizing funds. The authorization was obtained a month later and while still being repaired a patrol from her engaged in a riot at Seattle which followed an attack by soldiers and sailors on an I. W. W. meeting place.

German agents were supposed to be leaving Mexico on a merchant ship clearing Ensenada, Mexico, and the Rochester was sent to that port in September to intercept them. She was instrumental in the seizure of the steamer Anvil, which was said to hold 32 agents and "slackers" wanted by the American government.

Carried Troops

After that she was sent around through the Panama canal to Hampton Roads, Va., and in December sailed on the first convoy trip from New York with the U. S. S. Pastores and the U. S. S. President Grant, which carried troops. Time and again she zig-zagged across the war zone with subsequent convoys.

Once a submarine torpedo missed the Rochester by 30 yards as she was chasing a submarine which had torpedoed the British merchantman Atlantian. At another time she headed a convoy carrying 28,000 troops. In 1919 she was attached to the transport forces which returned troops to Europe and for the next three years was a flagship with the destroyer squadron of the Atlantic fleet and later was with the scouting fleet in Carribean and South American waters.

General Pershing sailed down on the Rochester and remained aboard her while heading the plebiscite commission at Tacna-Arica on the lower west coast of South America. Quite recently the Rochester carried President Hoover's Haitian commission to Port au Prince, remained there during the investigation and then carried it back.

Made Goodwill Trips

For several years she has headed the special service squadron, first under Admiral Latimer and now under Admiral Campbell, sailing on many special missions. During the Nicaraguan troubles, beginning with the Liberal revolt in 1926, she was anchored at Puerto Cabezas on the east coast or Corinto on the west coast or was sailing somewhere between. Prior to her return here for repairs last year she was under command of Captain H. A. Baldridge, now head of the division of Naval Intelligence. She was the ship which greeted President Hoover in Corinto harbor when he visited Nicaragua in 1928.

Last year she visited each of the Central American republics so that the commander of the squadron might pay personal calls to all the Central American presidents. This was followed by another goodwill trip as far south as Trinidad and Venezuela.

It will be at least a couple of years before the Rochester's tonnage has to be used for new cruiser strength under the naval treaty and meanwhile the navy suspects that she will go on in active service forever.

Conditions In Dickens Better

Recent Rains Bring Relief To Dry Sections; Yields Are To Be Larger Than Expected Throughout County

(By Staff Correspondent)

SPUR, Aug. 23.—Farm conditions in Dickens county are reported a little easier, the result of recent showers, which brought relief in the way of much needed moisture.

While the cotton is believed by many to be in such shape that large yields will not be possible, it is thought that it will be larger than many farmers had anticipated. There is some cotton that has not begun to bloom and this is expected to be very late.

Inch In Spots

The county has been more or less spotted by rains the past four or five days and some sections received an inch or more while others did not receive as much.

Late feeds will be greatly benefitted by the showers. Most of the late feed will make a good crop and some farmers are reported planning to sow short season feeds in the hope of having a late crop.

Some farmers have begun to harvest the early feed crop. Much of the grain sown early did not head out completely and will be used for a forage crop.

Plainview Band Gets Hathaway

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 23.—John L. Hathaway, for several years prominent in Dallas musical circles, has accepted the position of bandmaster and director of the Plainview Municipal bands to succeed Ralph Smith who resigned several weeks ago to return to Hereford, his former home.

Hathaway was a member of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra and for many years was contractor and first trumpet of the Palace Theatre Orchestra during the regimes of Don Albert, Nicholas Mirskey, and Alexander Keese. During this period he was assistant conductor of the pit orchestra, and for one season he served as musical director of the theatre. He has been successful also with classes in brass instruments in Dallas.

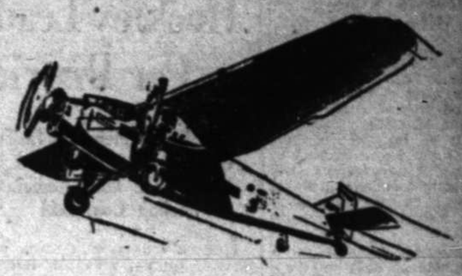

His wife has filled many important vocal positions in Dallas, and last season was soprano soloist at Christ's Church, Episcopal. Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway arrived in Plainview Tuesday to begin their residence here.

TAHOKA, Aug. 23. (Special)—Four thousand pounds of prairie dog poison have been sold farmers in this vicinity by the Lynn county commissioners court in a county-wide war on the pest. Cotton Co-Op Membership Drive To Close September 1

Farm Board Representative Will Speak In Three Cities Of District During Mid-Week

Membership Signed Up To Date Is Disappointing In Number; More Interest Expected As Branch Offices Open

Charles H. Alvord, representative of the Federal Farm Board in the cotton states west of the Mississippi river and former head of the Texas A. and M. College Extension service, will be featured in three addresses on the South Plains this week. Alvord's appearances will hold the spotlight for closing stages of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association membership drive in this district.

A mass meeting of cotton farmers will be held at Ralls on Wednesday, August 27, another at Brownfield on Thursday, August 28, and the third at Muleshoe on Friday, August 29, Mr. Alvord to be the principal speaker at all three.

Three Counties to Meet

At the Brownfield gathering will be farmers from the three counties of Terry, Gaines and Yoakum. This meeting is expected to be one of the largest to have been held in the present campaign for this entire district of 48 counties.

According to Herman F. Dieterich, organization director for the Lubbock district, a total of 1001 farmers have signed marketing agreements for the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association since the membership campaign started on July 15. These 1001 farmers are from all of the 26 cotton producing counties of the district. Lubbock county is credited with 369 of these contracts and Hockley with 250.

Other Counties Not Enumerated

"We do not know how the other contracts are to be credited, as to counties of the district," declared Mr. Dieterich. He stated that it was his belief that more than half of the thousand and one are new members. While disappointed with the total secured to date, he predicted that as soon as cotton started moving through branch and sub offices of the association that farmers would sign up in greater numbers.

A total of 2,750 new members of the cotton association will be necessary before the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce guarantee of $20,000 for landing the district office will be wiped out.

To Close Campaign

The present drive for members will close about September 1, according to Dieterich, and branch and sub offices of the district will be opened around September 15. Branch offices are to be at Lubbock, Littlefield, Wellington and Levelland. Sub offices will be at Plainview, Tahoka, Paducah and O'Donnell. Other cities are negotiating for offices but have not closed contracts.

Varying results in meetings are being obtained throughout the district. At Plainview last Wednesday there were about 20 farmers present. Mr. Dieterich and Frederick P. Burdick, publicity man for the association, spoke at this meeting. They were also at a meeting held in Turkey Thursday afternoon, at which about 30 were present. Few farmers signed contracts at these gatherings.

A mass meeting held at Sudan Thursday reports 150 present, with much enthusiasm manifest and quite a number of contracts signed.

There will be a meeting at Ropesville on Monday afternoon.

Lubbock And Hockley Lead For District

Cotton Co-Op Members In Two Counties So Far Signed Up Total More Than Remainder Of Section Combined

Lubbock county, with 269, and Hockley county, with 250, farmers signed up as members in the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association up to Saturday, represent more than half of the total members signed for the Lubbock district of 48 counties since the drive for members began on July 15.

"Among the Hockley county signers are several that represent unusually large acreages of cotton," is the declaration of N. H. Payne, of Lubbock, field representative of the association for the counties of Lubbock, Hockley, Terry, Cochran and Yoakum.

Big Acreages Are Signed

"The E. L. Woodley contract," continued Mr. Payne, "represents 3,500 acres of cotton, or at least 750 bales. Mr. Woodley's acreage is located near Ropesville.

"Four thousand acres, or at least 800 bales, are represented in the W. T. Coble contract. Mr. Coble resides at Amarillo but his farms are located west of Levelland. Douglas Witt, manager of the Coble lands, also signed a contract and all farmers on the Coble lands, representing 60 sections, are signed up."

Mr. Payne states that the Coble interests have built their own gin plant to take care of all cotton produced on their farms. The concern also is operating feeding pens for livestock where they will feed out surplus feed crops from all these farms.

Farm's Political Power Menaced As Population Trends To Cities

WASHINGTON — Agriculture, which has been waging a losing battle with industrialism in the arena of economics, is now threatened with the loss of its time-honored position of political dominance in the nation.

The trend of the population to the cities at the expense of the rural districts, causing a reduction in the representation in Congress of about 18 agricultural states, presages a substantial decrease in the farm bloc after the 1932 elections.

Middle West States Bowed

Conspicuous among the state which under the "major fraction" method of reapportionment are expected to lose seats in the 73rd congress are such strongholds of agrarianism as Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota and Indiana.

Farming states in the south and east which probably will lose from one to two members in the House are Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, South Carolina, Maine and Vermont.

The total loss of these farm states will be about 24 seats. This will be offset to a slight extent by an indicated gain of three in Texas and the probable reduction of four in the combined representation of industrial Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania.

California Cities Show Gain

While California, which gains nine seats, has a largely agricultural production, much of its output is specialized and the interests of the state are not considered identical with those of the grain and cotton belts. Moreover, it is pointed out that the nine additional votes will represent population increases in Los Angeles and San Francisco, large industrial communities.

The trend in North Carolina, which will gain one seat, is toward industrialism.

The map shows how reapportionment of congress seats under the 1930 census probably will affect house delegations, reducing those of many farm states.

Farm Week in Washington

BY FRANK L. WELLER
Associated Press Farm Editor

WASHINGTON—Increased farm prosperity as reflected in lower transportation costs is agriculture's chief interest in the national waterways survey undertaken by army engineers.

The war department describes it as probably the most extensive and comprehensive study of American waterways ever undertaken.

The 183 streams included in this survey drain practically the entire area of the United States except the Colorado basin.

The study is the first attempt ever made to arrive at a complete and coordinated estimate of water resource possibilities for all purposes.

Navigation is of particular interest to agriculture in the light of lower cost of transportation already afforded by improvements in shipping facilities on the Ohio and Mississippi.

The new rivers and harbors act authorizes an appropriation of $71,500,000 for completing the Illinois waterway, final link in the development of a 9-foot channel from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. Agriculture sees great possibilities in getting ocean freight in and out of the interior through large inland connections with lake and gulf ports.

The act also provides $15,000,000 for the development of the Missouri between Kansas City and Sioux City, $7,500,000 for a 9-foot channel in the Mississippi from the mouth of the Illinois river to Minneapolis; $5,000,000 for improvement of the Tennessee river and appropriation for a large number of other river and harbor projects.

Army engineers are endeavoring to formulate a coherent plan, with cost estimates and with detailed proposals for the ultimate development of each river.

It is not expected that the entire plan will be undertaken at once, but that this will be a goal to be worked toward.

The plans are being carried forward with a view to determining what further developments could be most effectively made for navigation, flood control, irrigation and water power.

CROPS IN GOOD SHAPE

Dawson County Conditions Are Better Following Rains

LAMESA, Aug. 23. (Special)—Dawson county feed and cotton crops are in excellent condition following the general rains which fell over this section during the last two weeks. From one to two inches of rain fell in all parts of the county, insuring a good yield this season from both feed and cotton.

TWO BOXES ADDED

FLOYDADA, Aug. 23.—(Special)—Two additional voting boxes have been ordered for Floyd county by the county commissioners court. Precinct 20 will be located at Dougherty and No. 21 at Sterley. The Dougherty box will relieve congested conditions for the Baker box and the Sterley precinct for the Lockney box.

The use of airplanes for dusting in boll weevil control costs 75 cents to one dollar an acre.

Hot Winds During Day And Night Of Past Week Damage

Hot winds of the past week, prevailing during both the days and nights, have done marked damage to cotton and feed crops, according to County Agent David F. Eaton.

"Three days of the week witnessed more damage from the south to Lubbock county crops," states Mr. Eaton, "than all the rest of the summer. Cotton withered and feed crops, in many instances, literally curled up.

Mr. Eaton declared that unless plentiful rains came soon cause for deep apprehension would obtain.

Claim Potato As Profitable For This Area

South Plains Section Is Well Adapted To Production Of Sweet Potato On Big Scale In Expert's Opinion

Although South Plains farmers have not yet gone in for raising sweet potatoes on a large scale, sufficient production has been noted in this area to prove that the section can become comparable to any part of the United States in raising them, in the opinion of E. T. Crozier, chief inspector of the state department of agriculture.

Mr. Crozier was in Lubbock last week conferring with County Agent D. F. Eaton and others relative to provisions of sweet potato quarantine imposed upon the southern part of Texas. Because of the sweet potato weevil the part of South Texas below a line running westward from Orange county's northern boundary has been placed under quarantine.

Good Demand Is Related

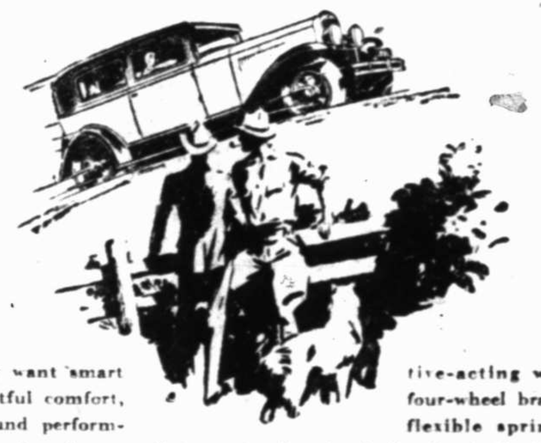

Louisiana and Texas, so Mr. Crozier declares, produces the major portion of the United States crop of Porto Rican sweet potatoes. Louisiana markets its crop mostly Texas while Texas growers sell to middle west and northwest states and Canada.

It is Mr. Crozier's contention that the South Plains can produce as fine a sweet potato of any variety as South Texas or Louisiana and that, because of demand in the middle west and northwest, for the Porto Rican variety this area would be closer to those markets. He predicted that sweet potatoes would some day become an important crop in this region.

Old World Appears Before Eyes Of Two Tramping Texans, September 1; Life On Ocean Is Quite Adventurous

Editor's Note: Two former Lubbock newspaper men, Sutton Christian and Allan Carney, are on a vagabonding tour of the globe, having left the editorial offices of the Avalanche-Journal on July 15. Below is the latest report from the pair. They are writing a series of articles, Turning With The World" on their experiences of the trip.

ABOARD S. S. MABRITON, NEARING ANTWERP, Belgium, August 17.—Eleven nationalities, picturesque and restless, are represented in the crew of 33 men who man the Mabriton, British freighter, aboard which we will get our first vision of the Old World September 1.

Quartered with a cosmopolitan crew of sailors, we have obtained first-hand knowledge of life at sea in true British fashion.

Treatment Tradition

Rough treatment of novices is a tradition at sea, but for some strange reason we have been accepted into good fellowship of the crew. Each of us has been dubbed "Tex" and querries are frequent regarding the great state of cowboy lore. Every measure has been taken to make our voyage pleasant.

Choppy weather has tossed the old cradle around in such fashion as to make the sight of land an occasion for jubilation. Such was our pleasure when the Mabriton docked for several hours at Norfolk, Va., to take on additional fuel for the remainder of the 4,000 mile journey to the historic Belgium port.

To See England First

The Mabriton took a northerly course over the wide expanse of the Atlantic. Our first glimpse of European soil will be sighted when the ship enters the English Channel through the straights of Dover. English shores will be the first to be seen from aboard ship.

Amiable and plainly satisfied with conditions which would cause the average American to be constantly disgruntled, the Mabriton family does its daily chores in perfect harmony. Britishers, Spaniards, Irishmen and South Americans work shoulder to shoulder in the stoke hold, at the wheel on low bridge or on deck. During their idle hours this cosmopolitan group of care-free sea farers swap yarns, engage in good-natured bantering or discuss the problems of their respective countries. No grudges are apparent; all are working toward one goal—to reach Antwerp at the earliest possible moment. The seaman lives for the time when he reaches port with several month's pay where he can live in high revelry until the last smilling is spent. Oftimes he again longs for the sea before his earnings are spent; once he has become accustomed to the life on the briny deep, he can never be satisfied ashore. He dreams of foreign ports, good times and further adventure on the high seas.

Loves The Sea

Another type of sailor is to be found aboard the Mabriton as well as any other member of the British marine family. He feels the same love for the sea but because of family ties at home cannot throw his money to the four winds as ruthlessly as his single comrade. In some English or Irish village a wife and in many instances a family awaits the return of this more conservative type of sailor. During his absense monthly allotments are drawn from company headquarters; they exist on these allotments but when he returns additional funds are heaped into the family treasury. Despite the fact that few seamen save any of their earnings, it is generally accepted that such can be done if the traditional wine, women and song are foregone when the ports of the world are visited.

The lure of the numerous places of amusements at these foreign ports proves too great for the average sailor to overlook. After endless days at sea, during which time the life grows monotonous, the natural reaction is a tall glass of brandy and all that goes with it. To the average American the life of the seaman would be considered anything but desirable. Especially is this true of the crew that works aboard the freighters—those slow-going vessels of the high seas. The let-down at the end of the voyage is inevitable.

The eleven countries represented on the Mabriton are gathered together from all parts of the globe. English is the language used by men from England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Spain, Malta, Columbia, Chile, Australia and New Zealand. We are accompanied by one other American, who likewise is to leave the ship at Antwerp.

Much Drilling Being Done In Hobbs District

Thirty New Wells Reported Spudded In Recently; Area Is Expected To Be Active For Ten Years Or More

NEW HOBBS, N. M., Aug. 23 (Special)—Thirty new oil wells have begun drilling or are rigging up within the past two weeks. This is particularly significant in the face of the proration agreements which have been made.

The operators are anxious to develop this field in preference to many others because of the high quality of oil found here and it is expected that a drilling program has begun which will last for ten or more years.

EXPRESSES THANKS

New Oil Field Town Grateful For Aid On Highways

NEW HOBBS, N. M., Aug. 22 (Special)—The Chamber of Commerce of this city expressed a vote of thanks to those cities, officers, individuals and organizations of New Mexico making an effort to build roads into the new oil fields. At conditions now exist it is impossible to ride with any degree of comfort to New Mexico cities from here. Within the past few weeks a number of individuals from here have gone into the mountain counties of the state at a great deal of discomfort. If good roads were available in this section, as new as it is, would send several hundred people to spend the week-ends in the cooler places of the state.

During the past month one hundred people have gotten as far north as Las Vegas, Santa Fe and Taos while a great many more have gone to Carlsbad, the Caverns, Roswell and the Ruidoso.

SERVICE DISCONTINUED

HOUSTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—The Southern Air Transport company has discontinued airplane passenger service between Houston and San Antonio. The daily service was inaugurated several months ago.

OLD SETTLERS TO MEET

Roaring Springs To Be Host To Celebration Thursday

ROARING SPRINGS, Aug. 22. (Special)—The annual old settlers reunion will be held here Thursday, August 28, Mrs. John Smith, president of the association, announces.

The committee in charge is composed of Martin Kingery, Roaring Springs, D. C. Keith of Matador and Uncle Bill Hyatt of Spur.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

THEY left the Market Gate behind and started out to try to find some other sights of interest. And it didn't take them long. A small car took them to a port and Scouty shouted, "This is sport. Just look at all the boats tied up. The ropes must be real strong."

Each place to moor a boat was filled, and it was quite a sight. It thrilled the happy group of Tinymites. They scampered down the docks. Said Clowny, "Gee, it's much too far to reach the end from where we are. Why, I can see big boats lined up for blocks and blocks and blocks."

The Travel Man's face spread in smiles. Said he, "Why walk for miles and miles, when everything will be the same up there as it is here? I see a yacht moored right nearby. Please come with me and I will try to fix it so we'll have a ride." The bunch began to cheer.

The yachtsman said, "I'm always glad to give a ride to any lad. So hop aboard now, all of you, and we'll steam on our way. The big Corinth Canal's nearby. We'll travel right down through it. I am sure that I can make you have a real good time today."

And then, the next thing that they knew, the wondrous yatch was steaming through the long canal. My, what a sight! The cut was four miles long. On either side the banks rose high, and slow but surely, slipped right by. Said Scouty, "Gee, we travel fast! Your engines must be strong."

The yachtsman said, "With this we're thrilled. It took about twelve years to build. 'Twas cut out of the solid earth and cost a fortune, too. The water's twenty-six feet deep. Just think how much it takes to keep the big canal filled up. From two large gulfs it rushes through."

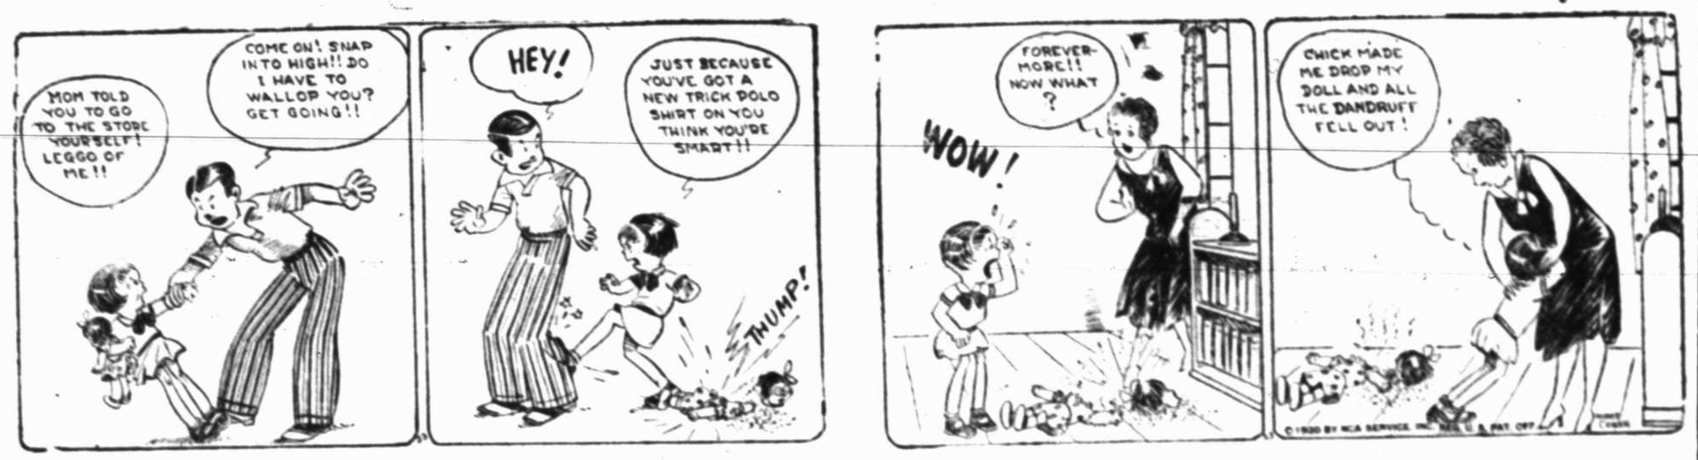

(The Tinymites meet a friendly peasant in the next story.)

Mr. Starcher handles all the editorial work and does not do any of the business or advertising. Mrs. Starcher handles that end of the business, solicits and writes the ads and does the collecting. "I pay Mr. Starcher a salary each week," she says, "He supports me. Sometimes, he has to borrow from me but he always pays it back. I attend to all business details and we find the plan successful. BELIEVES IN LUCK

J. Frank Smith, of the Smith House, Crosbyton, believes in luck. When the cement walk leading up from the sidewalk to the private part of the house which Mr. and Mrs. Smith occupy was laid, a horseshoe was set in the cement. One notices the shoe, because of the contrast between the rusty shoe and the white cement.

TO BE SCENIC ROUTE

Lovers of scenic beauty will find the new road between Dickens and Crosbyton a popular place. The bridge across the White river at Silver Falls popular playground in Blanco canyon, is just above the falls. Off to the right as one heads across the canyon towards Dickens and Spur, may be seen the old stone headquarters of the famous "Two Buckle" ranch. This house was built in 1887 out of native stone secured nearby. It is a famous house. To the left is the lake, a mile or so long, formed by the dam. Sidney Webb, owner of the ranch, with his son, have made a resort out of the place and it draws people from as far away as Lubbock, Post, Lamesa and Matador.

to wait for a bus."

"All right, Dan; you're certainly kind."

He walked down the hallway with her, and when they stopped at her door he showed her the time. "See, Anne? Only four minutes of ten. Am I a man of my word or not?"

"You're just marvelous," she said, laughing, and gave him her hand. And Dan suddenly drew her to him and kissed her.

Just as suddenly he knew he had done the wrong thing. Anne was not angry; he would have felt better if she had shown her anger. But she was plainly hurt, and he said contritely, "I'm sorry, Anne."

"I hope you won't do that again," Anne said. The dark eyes were level and calm enough, but bright spots flamed in her cheeks.

Dan said again, "I'm sorry, Anne. I'll remember."

He added that he hoped he hadn't made her change her mind about riding with him in the morning. "You can at least trust me in the day time," he said with a lame little laugh.

Anne's faint smile heartened him. "You said you'd remember," she said, "and you're a man of your word . . . . Good night."

"Good night, Anne. You're a good sport."

. . . . A darned good sport, he thought, climbing into his car.

"Why was I born? Why am I living?"

He drove to Henry's and there he found Johnny Riddle, sitting alone over coffee and a sandwich. Johnny said, "Hello, stranger. Who was the lady I saw you with the other night? That wasn't no lady; that was my ——' Who was she, Dan? And what did you do with the little O'Neil girl—little Mildred?"

Dan said, studying his menu: "Mildred's a blond."

"Not a real one; Milly bleached her hair because it photographs better."

"Are there any real blonds?" Dan asked, his eyes still on the card.

"What a cynical young man you turned out to be! Why, of course! See the lady over there, for instance? Over there to your left—in the corner. There's a blond—and how! That's Sylvia Patterson."

Dan swung around in his chair and stared brazenly.

"So that's Sylvia," he said. "Is that hair real?"

"Absolutely. Of course, she probably sees to it that it doesn't get any darker."

"It's almost pure white," said Dan.

"She's a beauty, my boy—one of my very best clients. I'd take you over and introduce you, only she has company."

"That man with her," Dan said with sudden interest; "is that Garry Sloan?"

"That's Garry."

RORIMER found occasion from time to time to look at Sloan. He was big and bronzed and powerful looking, and he had a vast mop of wiry yellow-brown hair—hair Dan thought, that suggested an intense vitality.

Johnny Riddle was one of Hollywood's better gleaners of gossip. Paul Collier, when he had brought the two together, had informed Dan that "Hollywood hides no secrets from little Johnny." Riddle was medium-sized and compact looking, and he had laughing gray eyes, and hair that kept falling down over his forehead into one eye.

When the waitress departed with Rorimer's order Johnny Riddle leaned across the table to say that he had heard Sloan's wife was divorcing him.

"Can't say that I blame her," Dan remarked, "if some of the tales about Sloan are true. What's he going to do—marry Sylvia Patterson?"

Johnny Riddle shrugged.

"Is Sloan in love with her?" Dan asked.

Riddle said, "Sloan's in love with himself, and that's why he expects every woman he meets to be crazy about him . . . . But he's one swell director!"

"Is Sylvia crazy about him?" Dan pursued; and Riddle said he didn't think so. "Sylvia's a swell girl, Dan; but Sylvia is ambitious—and she can be diplomatic."

Successful Summer Term Is Closed At Tech; Officials Prepare For 1930-31 Period

Activities Scheduled To Begin On Campus On September 17; Registration Is To Be On September 22

TEXAS Technological college closed its doors Saturday for the summer term of 1930 following one of the most successful terms in the history of the college, according to authorities.

Upper classmen are increasing each summer and this year approximately 100 students did work toward a master of arts degree. That is thirty per cent more students than were here in 1929 during the summer period.

Officials Aid School

"It has been a joy to us to have had so many school superintendents and principals in classes during the past session," said Dr. J. M. Gordon, dean of the school of liberal arts. "They return to their homes over the state and communities come to know more and more of the work of our college and in this way Texas Tech is better enabled to serve Texas."

The annual dinner served to men of the college has been another successful phase. First meeting was held in 1929 with an attendance of 100 and C. M. Rogers, of the Amarillo public schools, who is president-elect for 1931, has already begun plans for the annual affair.

Orientation Scheduled

First year students are expected to attend Freshman orientation which will be held for only one day, September 17, this year instead of a week as formerly. The purpose of the orientation will be to acquaint students as far as possible with school life, what it is like, what it should be and method of enrolling.

Orientation classes will be held throughout the fall and winter terms made up of from 30 to 35 students. W. P. Clement, E. L. Dohoney, Cecil Horne, Dr. A. B. Cunningham, Lonnie Langston, C. D. Eaves, Dr. Raymond Sidwell and Dean Gordon will be in charge of the classes in the school of liberal arts and Dean A. H. Leidigh, dean of the agricultural school, and professors there will have charge in that school.

The students are to study a text book and every first year student will be required to enroll for the course.

Instructors will meet from time to time to discuss problems. It is hoped that this may alleviate in a strong measure the failures in college and number of students who are asked to leave school.

Austin Should Be Centennial Site, Sam Greer Says

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 23.—The Texas centennial exposition, which he believed would be the biggest factor in lifting Texas into third place among the states in population by 1940, should be held in Austin, in the opinion of Sam R. Greer of Tyler, a member of the centennial board of directors.

Greer, who was a former deputy state banking commissioner, will join with Austin and other Central Texas members of the Committee to have the centennial held in the state capital. Greer said he favored holding one centennial rather than split the exposition up into four or five smaller celebrations. "Austin is the one place in Texas at which the centennial can be held without arousing sectional jealousities. Every section feels an equal pride in its capital city," Greer said.

TAHOKA MEN TO AID

Kiwanis Club To Assist In The Entertaining Of Session

TAHOKA, Aug. 23. (Special)—Tahoka Kiwanians will assist Lubbock in entertaining the Oklahoma-Texas district convention which meets in the latter city September 1 and 2, according to Truett B. Smith, president of the local club. The entire membership of the Tahoka club expects to attend the convention.

H. P. Fletcher Is Named Head Of Tariff Body

Veteran Of Diplomatic Service Is Appointed As Head Of New Commission; Others To Be Named Soon

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Henry P. Fletcher of Greencastle, Pa., a veteran of the American diplomatic service and long associated with problems of world economics, is to be chairman of the reorganized tariff commission.

His appointment was announced today by President Hoover who said he considered Fletcher well qualified for the post through experience with tariff matters while serving the government abroad.

It was Mr. Hoover's first appointment to the commission since congress ordered the reorganization in the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill more than two months ago. The president has until September 16 to name the other five members, three of whom must be democrats.

The present chairman of the commission is Edgar B. Brossard, Republican, Utah, and the other members are Alfred P. Dennis, Democrat, Maryland; Thomas O. Marvin, Republican, Massachusetts; Sherman J. Lowell, Republican New York; Lincoln Dixon, Democrat, Indiana; Frank Clark, Democrat, Florida.

DeBerry Favors New State Taxes

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (AP)—Senator Tom DeBerry of Bogata, Red River county, will urge the submission of a constitutional amendment by the 42nd legislature to abolish in whole or in part the state ad valorem tax and substitute new special taxes or increases on some of the special taxes now levied. The announcement was made during a visit to the state capitol.

Senator DeBerry said that property now is carrying more than its share of the tax burden and should have relief.

Discussing his plan, Senator DeBerry said: "I am in favor of abolishing the ad valorem tax because if we leave it and the special taxes the legislature gets millionaire dust in its eyes and appropriates both. I want substitution, not additional taxes. I sincerely hope that the personnel of the next legislature, both rural and urban, seeing the unemployment as it exists, noting the lowness of the commodity markets and the general business depression, will be very conservative in the expenditure of public funds. The only antidote that can be prescribed by our state government for the present wave of 'Hoover prosperity' is the practice of rigid economy in governmental expenditures."

TO OPEN REVIVAL

LAMESA, Aug. 23. (Special)—The First Baptist church here will begin a revival this week with the Reverend E. F. Cole officiating. Six revivals are being held in Dawson county this week.

TO TEACH IN TECH

Tahoka Superintendent Is To Study And Work Here

TAHOKA, Aug. 23. (Special)—M. L. H. Barr, superintendent of the Tahoka public schools for three years and of the Roscoe schools four years, will teach in the Texas Technological College department of education and complete work on his Master of Arts degree during the coming term.

NEW SEMINOLE HOUSE

SEMINOLE, Aug. 23. (Special)—A. L. Hill, who recently sold his interest in the Hill and George grocery here, has started a new building to handle his cream business, which he retained. He also plans a filling station on the same location.
