Very likely the State Text-book Board will have to hold an extra session soon, to adopt a Geography.

President Wilson has asked the people of the United States to set aside the first Sunday in October for a day of prayer for peace in Europe, and it is thought that all churches will make arrangements to pray for peace on that day.

With several agricultural fairs to be held in the Panhandle as well as at Dallas, it is about time our most successful farmers were laying up their exhibits. We have splendid crops of all kinds, and this fall through these fairs, would be a good time to exhibit our products to the world. It is good advertising for us, besides it would really be a philanthropic act to the homeseekers of the drouthy East.

While the millions are marching to the strain of martial music in warring lands across the pond, and the thousands are enjoying the "new steps" in the peaceful cities of our own country, in grand old Terry, their ears are filled with the music of the row-binders busy in every field, accompanied by the cutter, filling the silo-drums, interspersed with lowing herds and rumbling wagons. "On with the Dance."

If history repeats itself, it will save much writing and reading, future students can just refer back on the European war, and then at the price of paper it will be a great saving. Better still why don't the contestants just take the history repeated for granted, enter an agreed judgment sign up and disarm? Best we can understand is that the real bone of contention is, "who is to speak the repeating words?"

The Santa Fe railroad has sent the Herald a map entitled the "War Map of Europe and the Peace Map of the Santa Fe." The map measures 20x26 and shows the Santa Fe system on the map of Europe. We find Chicago in northern Russia, Galveston on the sea of Azov, El Paso in Austria Hungary, Denver near the Baltic sea, San Diego in northern Italy, San Francisco in France, but still the great Santa Fe lines go on across the channel with its terminus near Bristol, England.

Last week the Terry County Herald took the Terry County Fair committee to task because this committee barred citizens of the county living on the county line from exhibiting produce at the county fair. Terry county is a good one and we see no reason why Terry county should be afraid of exhibits from adjoining counties.—Seminole Sentinel.

We are not afraid of exhibits from adjoining counties or any other counties. If you had noticed the next paper, you would have noticed that the directors would admit all comers on equal basis. Come over.

We heard before we went to Lubbock that they were talking Sudan but the half had never been told. They are trading it for homes, land, autos, bank stock, railroads and cattle; in fact it is the same as gold and government bonds. In the fields the women and children are following the harvesters picking up the shattered seed, with which they will refurnish their home and buy their winter clothes. When a man passes along the streets with a sample bundle, the little boys and land agents follow him and dig the shattered seed out of the cracks in the sidewalks with their pocket knives. Yes, there is some talk of Sudan in Lubbock. All the preachers and teachers may take their salaries in Sudan.

While away the editor spent from Saturday night to Monday with his old friends, the Hargett family at Shallowater. They have a good crop and are doing well.

TEXAS FACTS

COTTON.

Twenty-five per cent of the world's cotton crop is produced in Texas.

The annual per capita cotton production of Texas is one bale.

Texas produces 4,000,000 bales of cotton annually.

Cotton yields the Texas farmers a million dollars per day.

Cotton is the principal farm product of Texas, although every crop known to agriculture can be raised in this state.

A cotton crop failure is unknown in Texas and a small yield per acre is always offset by an increase in price per pound.

Cotton occupies 45 per cent of our cultivated area.

Within the past decade the cotton acreage of Texas has increased 25 per cent.

An acre of Texas cotton, in 1912, was worth $27.19, including the value of the seed.

Texas cotton, in 1912, yielded 206 pounds of lint to the acre and had a value of 11 1-2 cents per pound.

Texas is not only the leading cotton-producing unit, but is also the principal exporting center of the globe.

Galveston, Texas, is the world's leading cotton exporting port.

Houston, Texas, is the largest inland port cotton market in the world.

At one planting a seed of Texas cotton will multiply 1,600 times.

To plant the Texas cotton crop requires the services of 500,000 persons, 1,000,000 cultivate it and 2,000,000 persons are kept busy 4 months gathering it.

It costs $15,000,000 to pick the Texas cotton crop, $12,000,000 to gin it and $3,000,000 to compress it.

There are 57 foreign publications issued in Texas.

The combined circulation of Texas publications is 5,000,000 per issue.

Thirty-five Texas papers issue Sunday editions.

In 1850 Texas had 5 tri-weekly and 29 weekly papers.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell."

I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good.

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it.

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

Misses Willis Black and Sarah Hudson attended the institute this week.

We are indebted to Judge Neill for most of the editorials in this issue.

J. T. Bullock, of Lubbock, was down this week on business.

We are glad to report Mrs. Jake Adams some better at this writing.

I. H. Hudson accompanied by his daughter, Miss Sarah, were in this week attending the Teachers Institute.

D. J. Broughton and family went to Gomez Sunday to attend the little Key boys funeral.

The little people enjoyed a party at the home of Mrs. J. W. Welch, Monday night, in honor of Miss Esther Criswell's birthday.

Mrs. Geo. McWhorter of Gomez, visited Mrs. Will Mathis one day last week.

Rev. Durham, of Temple, has been called as pastor to the Brownfield Baptist church. He comes highly recommended as a gentleman as well as a preacher. He will move his family here later.

Prof. A. K. Hinkleberry moved his family to town last week. They are occupying the Dock Walker house on Lovers Lane. We welcome this excellent family to our midst.

Mr. Currier and family moved into Mrs. Kinards house last week. They come for the benefit of the school and we are glad to have them with us. There will be several more families move to town and we predict this one of the best school years yet, and we have a very strong faculty.

Robert Forrester carried his wife and little daughter to Lubbock this week, where he placed his wife under treatment of a physician, and had an operation performed on his little daughter for adenoids, also had her tonsils removed.

We are sorry to report that one of our old timers, Atty. Percy Spencer and family are moving to Lubbock. He has formed a law partnership with Hon. W. D. Benson of that city, and we predict that they will soon be known as one of the strongest law firms in this part of the country.

The Sudan Association of Lubbock have erected a huge warehouse, 75x125, where the seed will be stored pending their sale. It is confidently believed that they will finally go to $2 per lb. by spring.

The editor and family and Bro. McReynolds accompanied M. V. Brownfield up to Dick Brownfield's silo one day this week, where the hands were busy filling same, and we want to say that they were putting it in in a whoop. Dick said some of his cane was turning off ten tons per acre, and that he thought the 40 acre field adjoining the house would fill his 350 ton silo.

The editor has made a contract with the Sudan Association to sell their seed for them. These Association seed have been rigidly inspected by a government expert, and where they were near other feeds, several rows were turned down by the inspector. Until further notice we will sell these pure seed at $1 per pound delivered in small quantities, better prices on large quantities. One pound will plant about two acres in rows. It will require more broadcast. Nearly every seed will come up.

We looked over one of the best crops last Saturday that we have seen in a long time, that of W. G. Hardin. It must be remembered that Mr. Hardin could not get to his crop till the last of April on account of his school, and then had to make a canvas of the county in the interest of his candidacy for County Judge. He has a fine crop of feterita, maize, kaffir, cane and his corn will run near 30 bushels to the acre, although he did not get a good stand. His cotton is the best we have seen since 1906, being loaded from top to bottom with grown bolls, which are fast opening, beginning right at the bottom of the stalk. We have often heard it said that a teacher or preacher was fit for nothing save his profession, but this instance proves the old saying false.

TOM BALL FOR GOVERNOR

Submission of Prohibition Amendment Favored.—Prohibition Endorsed.

Amendment to Stock and Bond Law Opposed.

Fort Worth, Texas.—Col. Thos. H. Ball of Houston was unanimously nominated Governor of Texas by the Prohibition Democratic State convention, held at the First Baptist Church in this city Saturday, February 21st. Col. Ball, in a lengthy address, accepted the endorsement and outlined his platform, announcing that the first act of the Legislature should be to become Governor, would be the submission of a Constitutional amendment on statewide prohibition; favored a warehouse bill and land legislation needed by the farmers; improvement of our educational and eleemosynary institutions; revision of our penitentiary system; promised better care for the Confederate Veterans; opposed any change in the stock and bond law and declared in favor of the Robertson Insurance law.

The climax of his address came when he referred to his friendship for the late James S. Hogg and the effort made to poison the mind of the public in relation to his views of the stock and bond law and informed the convention that he was joint author of the amendment to the Constitution on this subject. With tears in his eyes he referred feelingly to his warm friendship for and support of Governor Hogg. In closing his address he said, "I was for the stock and bond law then; I am for it now."

Constitutional Amendment Endorsed.

A resolution was adopted by the convention asking each Senator and Congressman from Texas to support the bill now pending in Congress which is intended to prohibit the Federal Government from granting liquor licenses in dry territory; an amendment to the Constitution of the United States so as to provide for national prohibition was urged and an amendment to the State Constitution, prohibiting the sale of liquor in Texas.

Convention Largely Attended.

The convention was called to order at 10 o'clock by Chairman A. W. Walker and over four thousand delegates were in attendance. Cullen F. Thomas of Dallas was chosen permanent chairman of the convention. In an eloquent address, he vigorously denounced the liquor interests and roasted the Colquitt administration. He referred sarcastically to the "flag of truce" raised by the Farmers' Union and declared, "We will never lay down our arms." At the close of his address the audience broke into the stirring hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Mayes and Lane.

Lieutenant Governor Mayes was introduced to the convention by Col. Ball as "My friend," and Mr. Mayes confessed to the laudable ambition of wanting to be Governor of Texas, but withdrew in favor of Col. Ball and asked that the convention make the nomination unanimous.

Controller Lane was called for and amid great applause he said, "I have been eliminated," and in concluding his speech placed Thos. H. Ball in nomination for Governor and every man in the audience sprang to his feet and prolonged cheering filled the church.

Campbell Vouches for Ball.

Ex-Governor Campbell spoke at some length and quite vigorously. He said in part: "I believe in our corporation laws and am opposed to any emasculatation of them and so does Col. Ball. There is no difference upon this great question between us. I stand for the stock and bond law as it is written, upon the statute books today, and so does Col. Ball. I stand for the Robertson Insurance law and so does he."

The appointment of a campaign committee was authorized to assist in raising $10,000 to carry on the campaign.

A MESSAGE FROM THE RAILROADS.

Railroad President Discuss Transportation Problems and Their Relation to the Public.

There are always two sides to a question. The public long accustomed to listening to arguments against an increase in railroad rates, is now given an opportunity by W. B. Scott, president of the Sunset-Central lines to hear the railroad's side of the question. His recent interview to the Texas press is an out-pouring of the railroad heart and shows that the railroads of Texas instead of piling up high hills of money as they are generally supposed to do, are actually operating at a loss.

In his discussion of the subject, president Scott said in part:

"The fiscal year ending June 30th, 1913, showed that the thirty-three Texas railroads earning a gross total of $118,617,454. The operating expenses were $92,609,612, the net income being $26,007,842 with other income given as $1,907,227 or a gross corporate income of $27,915,070.

"To measure against this income, items including taxes, rentals, leases, hire of equipment, interest on bonds, debts, etc., aggregating a total of $30,050,656, were properly charged, the result being that instead of the thirty-three roads mentioned really earning any money, they actually sustained a deficit of $2,135,586. This does not mean that all of the lines failed to earn net revenue for some of them did, but it does mean that the burdens or operation set seriously upon a majority of the Texas lines, and that of the total number of roads twenty of them sustained deficits which in one instance ran as high as $1,227,000.

"Railroads like other commercial institutions, have certain commodities for sale, viz: transportation of persons, transportation of goods. Out of the sale of this transportation must they find their revenue. If the price of the sale is too low, then the establishment cannot make a profit and if it cannot provide the necessary funds for operation must cease to be a going concern. There must be a limit to the present loss or the roads will be faced with either a decided decrease of high price service or placed at the tender mercies of a receiver and in either instance the public must suffer accordingly.

"The remedy, when it is acknowledged that the roads are intelligently and economically administered, is indicated in an increase in freight rates sufficient to overcome the loss and to meet the increase of expense in operations due to causes already set forth.

"An increase of ten per cent in all rates would of course apply on the rate for 100 pounds by class and commodity. If the railroads were permitted to increase their rates they would be enabled to successfully meet the present cost of operation without facing the serious deficits and difficulties which now confront them, and which seriously threaten a curtailment of service and efficiency and a decrease in the work of railroad development in all sections of the State."

The following interview with Mr. Ben B. Cain, vice-president of the Gulf, Texas and Western Railway, which appeared in the Washington Herald recently also throws an interesting light on the situation:

"There is no question confronting the country which is quite so vital as granting to the railroads an increase in freight rates. This applies not only to the eastern lines but is more essential to the prosperity of those lines struggling for existence in the most sparsely settled sections of the country. Data compiled by the American Railway Association which I have reason to believe are reliable, show that 91 1-2 cents of every dollar earned by the steam roads of the United States has to be expended in keeping the road going, there being only 8 1-2 cents with which to pay dividends and make improvements. The distribution of a dollar earned by the common carriers is as follows:

Labor, 44.17; fuel and oil 8.93; material, supplies and miscellaneous expense 14.06; loss and damage 2.20; taxes 4.21; rents and leases 4.41; interest on debt 13.43; dividends and improvements 8.59.

"Within the past month railroads of Texas made application to the railroad commission for an increase of 15 per cent in freight rates, but our commission refuses to even consider the application, notwithstanding it was based upon facts which if true undoubtedly warranted an increase."

TEXAS FACTS

RAILROADS.

Texas has more railroad mileage than any State in the Union.

We now have 15,000 miles of main line of railroads.

The first railroad built in Texas was in 1851.

To encourage railroad construction, the State of Texas gave away 36,000,000 acres of land in the pioneer days as a subsidy for building 6,000 miles of road.

Since the building of our first road, the railway mileage of Texas has increased at the average rate of 290 miles per annum.

During the calendar year 424 miles of railroad was constructed in Texas.

The gross earnings of the Texas railroads was $140,827,000 in 1913.

We have 563 miles of railroad to each 100 square miles of territory Texas has 37 miles of railway track to every 10,000 inhabitants.

There are 1,916 locomotives, 1,286 passenger coaches and 45,894 freight cars in service on Texas roads.

The railroads of Texas are long enough to reach across the United States five times.

One-fortieth of the world's railway mileage is in Texas.

We have 27 counties without a single mile of railroad and 11 counties with less than 15 miles.

Compared with other states, Texas ranks fortieth in railway mileage per area.

To afford Texas the same railway facilities as Illinois has, will require an additional investment of $1,900,000,000.

Texas railroad property is valued at $109,000,000.

The longest pipe line in the United States.

The longest interurban system in the Southwest.

The largest United States army post.

Longest telephone line in the United States.

Largest Bermuda onion gardens in the world.

Memoirs of Napoleon In Three Volumes

The personal reminiscences of Baron de Méneval, for thirteen years private secretary to Napoleon Bonaparte, bring out, as no history can, many enlightening and interesting side lights on the character of that greatest of leaders. De Méneval's descriptions have the piquancy and interest possible only because he was an actual eyewitness of the scenes and incidents of which he writes. Their reliability and historical interest can be judged by the fact that the very conservative French Academy publicly recommends them.
