WHALEY "LIT" IN WEST TEXAS 20 YEARS AGO

Now He's Manager of The Biggest Thing in West Texas

AND GETTING BIGGER

He Travels So Fast And Often His Wife Hardly Knows Him

Twenty years or so ago a young man—a very young man at that time, migrated from the land of his fathers in South Carolina, took a slant at a considerable portion of the country now known as "West Texas" and decided it was a pretty good place to light.

He lit.

At that time no one imagined he was destined to become one of the prominent men of the state and to assume active direction of an organization that has, is and will be a potent factor in the expansion and development of a great West Texas area. He didn't know himself, probably, that the coming years would find him through the grace of chance and his own ability as secretary and manager of the largest body of organized civic developers in the world. At that time, too, he himself had not visualized the immensity of the task he would some day perform, nor did he forsee the vast possibilities West Texas presented. But he stuck from the start.

He Lives In Stamford.

The man was Porter J. Whaley, desidence: most any place in West Texas where he can do some good. (He calls Stamford his home and stops off their occassionally to be introduced to his wife during his flying trips through the state).

Thursday morning he heard A. B. Spencer of Fort Worth, R. L. Pennick of Stamford and J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls speak of him in glowing terms and then listened to the directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce—and included in the list were some of the biggest business men of the state—unanimously elect him for the seventh consecutive year as general manager of the chamber.

The tributes paid him went somewhat in detail on the work he has done as organizer, developer, promoter, minister to and chief disciple of the West Texas chamber of commerce. He more than any one else is responsible for its present size and efficiency. He nursed it in childhood; encouraged it in days of adversity; kept pace with it in periods of expansion; and now, with its membership and scope of activity larger than ever before and with its prestige constantly increasing, he is coming to have that recognization and acclaim that real merit always deserves.

Once In Wichita Falls.

But it has not always been the West Texas chamber of commerce with Mr. Whaley. The present orgauization is, it is true, his life work, and to it he has devoted more time and attention than to any other single thing. But the broad field of chamber of commerce activity claimed him while the West Texas C. C. was, perhaps, nothing more than a nebulous fancy tucked away in the back of his head.

Wichita Falls claimed Mr. Whaley's attention for a time and, as a matter of fact, it was soon after he left this city that he took active charge of the West Texas chamber of commerce. From February, 1919, to June of the same year he was secretary of the Wichita Falls chamber. With Judge R. E. Huff, at that time president, he was "just about the whole chamber." Hubert Harrison, the present general manager, succeded Mr. Whaley.

At a banquet at the Wichita club last night these two recalled a number of things in connection with those halcyon days when, during Mr. Whaley's incumbency of the office and the early years of Mr. Harrison's, the business men here would rather give you a check for $500 than be bothered with a board meeting. "It was in the boom day period of course."

And Porter Agreed.

"If you wanted money," Mr. Harrison remembered, "all well and good. You could have anything, but nobody wanted to attend board meetings or take time for anything but business." And as he talked, Mr. Whaley chimed in with appreciative nods and verifications.

Prior to coming to Wichita Falls Mr. Whaley served as chamber of commerce secretary at Quanah, at Pecos, at Amarillo, at Brownwood and maybe at other Texas points. Nobody, save he himself, knows exactly all the chamber of commerce work he has done in Texas. Nobody knows the number of speeches he has made, the thousands of miles he has traveled, the meetings he has attended or the letters he has written in his mission of spreading chamber of commerce gospel through what he considers the greatest area of land anywhere on the face of the globe.

Whaley is a man well qualified in a personal way for the nich in which he fits. He is a man of pleasing personality, one who is affable, easy to meet, who blends readily into the atmosphere created by any company with whom he may be thrown, who is a gifted conversationalist and a public speaker of no mean ability. With all these he has a genius for organization and the happy factor of being able to handle details as well as look comprehensively at al sides of a general problem.

Always At Home Here.

While he professes a wish to feel at home any place in West Texas, Mr. Whaley does not deny that in Wichita Falls he finds a spirit of progressiveness and fellowship that appeals to him as few places do.

"I always feel at home in Wichita Falls and I always look ahead with pleasing anticipation when I know my work will call me to your city," he said last night. "Wichita Falls is a wonderful place; you have wonderful men here who are making the most of exceptional opportunities; you are a credit to West Texas."

West Texas C-C Board Meeting In Wichita Brought Men of Vision To City As Its Guests for the Day

IT was a notable gathering of big men of West Texas who came to Wichita Falls Thursday for the directory board meeting of the West Texas chamber of commerce. Guests of this city for the day they brought West Texas and West Texas ideas with them. And because they are big men in the affairs of West Texas what they think and say is important. Especially for Record News readers did several of them speak yesterday.

Trade Train Gained Prominent Men For Wichita, Says Stamford Visitor

WICHITA FALLS owes the presence of one of its most prominent business men to the fact that a group of Texans a number of years ago operated a special trade train from this state through Illinois and other northern points.

This was the declaration Thursday of Col. R. A. Pennick of Stamford, one of the best known business men in West Texas and a prominent civic leader of the state who is in Wichita Falls for the West Texas chamber of commerce directors' meeting.

The man, whose name was not revealed by Col. Pennick, was in business in Illinois, it seems, when the train went through a small city up there. It carried a large number of livestock and agricultural disciples of West Texas as a farming and cattle country and gave the notherns a peppery display of civic enthusiasm that was entirely new to them.

Col. Pennick said that some time later a man came into his business house at Stamford, introduced himself and expressed a wish to "meet some o fthe live-wire men that were on that train."

"He said," Col. Pennick quoted, "that he felt sure a country manned by men that did the things that trainload did was worth investigation, so he came to Texas, got into Wichita Falls, decided it was a good place to lie and has been here ever since as an asset and help to the community."

"Must Look to South for Men To Make Country"—Fort Worth Editor

"WE of the South and of West Texas must look to the south for the men who are to develop our vast country in the way it ought to be developed," was the observation yesterday of Dan Moore, editor of the Fort Worth Record, who is a firm believer in and active worker for West Texas. Mr. Moore, director of the West Texas chamber of commerce, is here for the summer directors meeting.

"It has been my observation," Mr. Moore commented, that Texas secures most of its population from territory south of the Ohio river—the land that knows the menace of the boel weevil and the land which for years has turned out young men from its A. & M. schools and its technological colleges that understand and appreciate its conditions.

"You will find wherever you go in the east that it is largely settled with foreigners, and is becoming more so every day. Mr. Bagley, who once owned the Fort Worth Record, told me he got away from Massachusetts because of this foreign element. He said they didn't need an American newspaper there nearly as much as they did foreign papers.

"If we want to bring cotton mills and industry to this section, fine; the east is a place to go; but for men and women who will come to this land, work and live and stay and raise families and give their toil and time, we ought to search south of the Ohio river. That is the place to carry the vision of West Texas — through Tennessee and Kentucky and Florida and Georgia and Alabama and Mississippi and Louisiana and the Carolinas.

"West Texas is a vast and wonderful place and it deserves our attention."

West Texas Farmer Irrigates And Takes Family to Colorado

THE story of a Texas farmer who takes his family to Colorado every July and August was recounted yesterday by J. E. Thompson of Breckenridge, here for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors meeting and who believes that in diversified and intensive farming is to be found the salvation of West Texas.

"This fellow," Mr. Thomas said, "has learned the value of putting water on his land, intensively cultivating small tracts instead of fooling around in a general way with big tracts, and the result is that he goes to Colorado every July and August with his family. I don't think there are many farmers who do that nowadays."

A 160-acre farm near Breckenridge is all fhis man has, it seems, yet from it he reaps a financial harvest every year that is the wonderment of his neighbors Fruits, berries and truck crops are carefully natured early in the year and brought to maturity by the last of June. In these this man finds a full measure of farm production, Mr. Thompson said, and he does it by proper fertilization, irrigation with a private water system, and close and intensive care.

Mr. Thompson is a foremost advocate of a proposed huge new irrigation project for Stephens county in view, and he stated yesterday that final surveys were nowebing made on a 90,000 acre section that, it is hoped, can be put under a ditch. The work will involve about $4,000,000.

Prominent Abilene Banker Says Irrigation Is a Priceless Asset

ONE of the staunch advocates of irrigation and agricultural development in Texas is also one of the big capitalists and "empire builders" of the West Texas country.

He is Cliff Caldwell of Abilene, a director of the West Texas chamber of commerce, who, while here Thursday attending the directors meeting, declared Wichita Falls has a priceless asset in its huge irrigation system.

"I've always been strongly in favor of irrigation and I think this form of agricultural development is destined to be one of the most potent factors in the history of the southwest. No one realizes yet what irrigation really can do under intensive fostering.

"I am going down with a party of other men tomorrow to look at some prospective irrigation work in Stevens county and encourage those fellows all we can to push a project they have in view."

Mr. Caldwell, one of the very wealthy men of the state, is a prominent banker and has immense commercial and business interests in various portions of Texas.

WEST TEXAS C-C DIRECTORS PUT IN BUSY DAY HERE; GO ON LAKE KEMP TRIP FRIDAY

A trifle worn from the ardors of a busy day, directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce wound up their summer business meeting in Wichita Falls yesterday and prepared for a period of fun and recreation today when they will go as guests of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce on a long tour of the irrigated valley here. More than 30 of them from all parts of West Texas were in the city yesterday for a fruitful session that, among other things—

1. Re-elected Porter J. Whaley as general manager for 1925.

2. Listened to various committee reports.

3. Received a budget submitted by Mr. Whaley.

4. Discussed a possible trade excursion of two weeks duration through the eastern or southern sections of the country.

5. Decided to take no hand in the railroad fight involving the Fort Worth and Denver, Santa Fe and Rock Island, each of whom are competing for new lines into West Texas.

Start in Morning.

Meetings of the directors started in the morning when various committee conferences were held at the Kemp hotel. In the afternoon the general business session was held in the ball room of the Kemp, and last night the directors were guests of the local chamber at a banquet in the Wichita club. A number of the men left for

HEALTH WEEK PLANS FORMED IN CONFERENCE

Elaborate Publicity Will Be Factor in Wichita Falls Drive

MEETING IS HELD

Mayor Shepherd to Issue Proclamation Asking Observance

"Clean up yourself, your house, your yard, and mind," is the advice to be written and spoken by the chamber of commerce during the next week, which has been officially set aside as "Better Health Week."

If publicity will help to cut down the death rate of Wichita Falls and to educate the people as to the proper methods of maintaining their health, the public health committee of the chamber of commerce is determined that publicity be had. Final arrangements were made for the big campaign next week and every effort will be made to awaken people to the necessity of keeping things clean and observing a few habits that will help to cut down disease.

Speakers Arranged.

Among the means the committee has decided on to bring before the people the object of the week are:

Every day from June 15 to 21, speakers will appear in the different theatres several times each day to make three five minute talks on the different ways to improve health. Nineteen speakers have already been secured for this purpose and an intensive system of education will be conducted throughout the week.

The Boy Scouts will be employed to distribute placards about the city and throughout the week people will be constantly reminded that this is better health week. In line with this means of advertising the Vendope Sign company will place up over the city large posters for the same purpose as the placards.

Proclamation Coming.

Mayor Shepherd has already announced that he will issue an official proclamation, calling upon the people of this and surrounding communities to co-operate with the chamber of commerce in every respect, and to observe the simple rules of health to self and community that will be brought out during the entire week.

Every effort will be made to warn people against the danger of rabbies, which is always impending in the summertime, according to Dr. A. F. Leach, chairman of the committee.

Carl, former chairman of the National Defense league of Texas, former judge of the court of appeal, and one of the best known men in this section of the state, was found to be insane and committed to the state insane asylum here by his old friend, Judge George S. Matthews.

SETS WITH LOWERED EYES UNMINDFUL OF EVENTS

Judge Carl sat during the trial with his eyes downcast, apparently unconscious of what was happening around him or unaware of what the legal proceedings meant. He seemed drowsy, half-dazed, and complained once or twice of a pain in his shoulders and the back of his head.

After the trial was over, his son, Grady went to him and ppead for recognition. "I am Grady, don't you know me."

"You were sheriff when I knew you last and now they tell me you are county judge," he told the judge. He also recognized Jack Jones, who was placed before him. "Hello, Jack," he said, and took the hand offered. "Anybody that ever saw that face would never forget it," he declared.

The testimony in the case was given by the unfortunate man's brother, Ed H. Carl of San Antonio, and doctors who have attended him since he was brought here last week. GLENNY'S FATE GIVEN JURY AT 9 PM THURSDAY

Verdict Was Not Expected Before Morning At Henrietta

CLOSING ARGUMENTS

Death Sentence Asked In Final Plea by The Prosecution

HENRIETTA, June 11.—The jury in the trial of C. E. Glenny, charged with the murder of his son, Robert, age 20, last April 10, retired at 10:30 o'clock tonight, after being out one hour. Nothing was heard from the room, it was announced, however, by a court officer that the jury had gone to bed.

HENRIETTA, June 11.—The case of Charles E. Glenny, on trial in the 98th district court here for the murder in connection with the shooting and killing of his 19-year old son, Robert, at Byers on April 11, went to the jury shortly after 9 o'clock tonight following an appeal from Judge Rube Loftin, for the prosecution, for a death sentence for the defendant.

Claim Self Defense.

Judge Loftin's speech closed four hours of argument, in which Judge J. C. Chestnutt had preceded him for the state and Frank Holliday and J. P. Williams for the defense. Just as the state's contention was that the act of Glenny in killing his son that April afternoon was murder in the first degree, so did the defense contend that it was an act of self-defense and that if Charles Glenny hadn't killed his son, Robert Glenny would have killed his father, adding that Charles Glenny was subject to fits of irrationality ever since he was clipped over the head by a pump handle some 15 years ago.

No Verdict Thursday.

A verdict was not expected tonight but the jury was to take a vote or so before going to bed, it was understood.

The insanity plea of the Glenny attorneys was the principal item in the evidence introduced this morning by the defense in closing their case. Dr. H. L. Reed of Henrietta, and Dr. John S. Turner of Dallas, both with much experience in the treatment and investigation of mental diseases back of them, testified that Glenny showed signs of mental derangement and that in their opinion, from personal observation they did not believe that in times of extreme excitement or emotion he was entirely able to distinguish right from wrong.

Glenny's Mother There.

Glenny's 87 year old mother, Mrs. O. A. Glenny, was brought to the stand this morning. She testified that Charles Glenny had been "obstinate" from youth, and that his father had suffered fits of mental redangement the last 12 years of his life.

Others who testified Thursday morning were Dr. L. F. Stribling of Wichita Falls, Ed Fields of Henrietta, Ben Yarbrough of Byers, Chas. Koethe of Henrietta, Mrs. Lucinda J. Harris, and Mrs. Eliza Richards of Lowell, Ind., both sisters of the defendant.

THE WEATHER

"I'll be glad when I grow up and take pills instead of castor oil."

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch.
Equals.

I WOULD be like the grass
That cools
The feet of serf or king.
Whatever pilgrims pass,
But fools.
Would ask what wealth they bring.
I would be king because
They need
Some kindness in this hour;
And only fools would pause
To read
The rank or wealth or pow r.

I would be like the grass
That greets
The feet of king or serf,
For man is but a mass
That meets
Upon the common turf
It is enough to know that they
And we, and all, are kin—
For all the grasses grow
In May,
For all the songs begin.

I would be like the grass.
Restore
Life's joy to all the sad.
Would cheer the ones who pass
My door.
Nor ask what wealth they had.
We all are equals here—
Be kind
Together walk the heath.
I know some other year
Shall find
Us equals underneath.

GERM TRIAL IS OPENED WITH SCATHING TALK TO THE JURORS

Shepher Called "Police Court Hangers-on At Indianapolis"

TESTIMONY BEGINS

Harry Olson, Municipal Chief Justice, Takes The Stand Thursday

CHICAGO, June 11.—(AP)—Castigated in the prosecution's opening statement as an extraordinarily lazy man, who with his wife, lived as a panhandler upon the bounty of a boy whom he greedily slew with typhoid germs when, grown to the independence of manhood and approaching marriage, the youth's actions proclaimed an intention to assume control of his home and $1,000,000, William Darling Shepherd, Chicago lawyer, went on trial today for the murder of William Nelson McClintock.

"He saw his meal ticket slipping away from him and his wife," said Robert E. Crowe, the state's attorney, in outlining what the state regards as the motive for the alleged murder.

Neither Had a Dime.

"She didn't have a dime and he didn't have a dime. After sixteen years in possession of this large estate which they considered theirs it looked as if Shepherd would have to go to driving a truck to make a living. It was pretty hard to contemplate the dreary winter ahead of them."

The prosecutor continued with the introduction of his first witnesses to drive at the motive.

Harry Olson, municipal chief justice of Chicago, was the first state witness and spent a brief ten minutes on the witness stand.

Although his efforts as self-proclaimed "counsel for the dead," extended over many weeks after he had instigated a coroner's investigation of the death of young McClintock last winter, Judge Olson was denied the privilege of expounding upon his accusation that Shepherd took young McClintock's life as the final violent act of a sixteen-year-old plot to obtain the McClintock million dollars, a scheme which cost the lives of Mrs.

Dawes an Imitator Says Oklahoman

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 11—(AP)—Charles G. Dawes, vice president was branded as an imitator and not an originator in his fight against the senate rules, by J. W. Harreld, senior senator from Oklahoma, in an address before the Oklahomt City Kiwanis club today.

"Since 1920, there have been 40 distinct attempts to change rule 22 and other senate rules," Senator Harreld said. "Dawes is not doing anything new."

"Rule 22 deals with debate and says there shall be no limit on debate. It was established by John Quincy Adams. Countless attempts have been made to change it without success.

"Because it tends to hold the number of laws passed to the minimum, I am in favor of it. There is too much law-making now," said Senator Harreld.

Nail in Intestine Gives Medics Worry

AUSTIN, June 11.—A small wire nail, lodged in the large intenstine of a 6-year-old Travis county child, has Austin doctors puzzled as to the proper procedure, it was disclosed in a discussion of the case at a meeting of the Travis county medical society here tonight.

The nail has been in the intestine for 15 days, doctors said, but so far has failed to cause any severe pain or vomiting. However, the object has failed to respond to any treatment, five X-ray pictures showing it to be in the same position. Doctors declare, it one of the strangest they have heard of.

Optimism Is Big Feature Mid-Co. Refiner Market

A strong wave of optimism permeates the Mid-Continent refinery market, with the future looking unusually bright and promising.

The exhaustion of many of the higher gravity grades of gasoline from the entire Mid-Continent market has established a general buying of U. S. motor, with the result that gasoline in several states has become very scarce.

Refiners in the five states are so encouraged by the situation that crude runs have been materially increased from an average of 396,000 barrels a day on May 1 to over 430,000 barrels a day on June 1, and as the demand continues of a further increase in runs throughout the month. Estimates just made indicate:

Crude Oil Runs.

State	June 1	May 1
Oklahoma	192,500	174,000
Kansas	91,050	57,250
North Texas	98,700	97,050
N. Louisiana	29,650	30,690
Arkansas	18,150	19,710
Totals	430,050	396,700

Increase of 23,350 bbls.

Inquiry discloses that there is virtually no 60-62, 400 endpoint gasoline available at any price, and U. S. motor has become scarcer since Sinclair Refining company filled its requirements of 500 cars at 12 3-4 to 12 7-8 cents. It was this deal that sent this product to 13 cents and over.

Carson Petroleum company has bought 1,000,000 gallons of 64-66, 375 endpoint, gasoline in Oklahoma and Texas for 13 1-4 cents, and this deal cleaned up North Texas refiners.

With U. S. 30 or so much in demand refiners are beginning to manufacture 56-58, 450 endpoint, and 56-60, 450 endpoint, motor fuels. The first was quoted Wednesday at 12 1-2 to 12 3-4 cents and the latter at 12 3-4 to 13 cents. Naphtas as firmer and dearer.

Natural gasoline, regardless of grades, is worth 15 1-2 to 16 cents, and hard to get in quantities. Little manufacturers whose product has in many instances had to be doctored to meet the specifications of the Association of Natural Gasoline manufacturers report trade good. The large manufacturers report that a world of their high test natural gasoline is going to the different export terminals and there blended with low grade gasoline that is being prepared for export abroad.

The fuel oil market is just a little easier, the 31.02 price slumping, but considerable trading exists from 95 to $1 at Tulsa. Other burning oils are steady.

After Sixteen Years, Two Soldiers Get Awards for Capturing Moro Bandits

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—After 16 years the war department has recognized with distinguished service crosses the part played by William Wendell and Bernard A. Harty in the destruction of the forces of the Moro bandit and pirate Jikiri.

Wendell, a retired technical sergeant, enlisted at Cleveland and now lives at San Antonio.

Harty, a corporal, enlisted at Philadelphia.

Thirty expeditions sent out from the army post at Jolo, Philippine Islands, had failed to capture Jikiri when in July, 1909, Wendell and Harty with a party cornered the bandit and six of his associates in an extinct volcano on Patian Island.

The citations said Wendell and Harty, "with the other men, entered a cave occupied by a desperate enemy and in the face of a heavy fire with utter disregard for personal safety, aided in forcing the outlaws to abandon their stronghold which resulted in their destruction by our forces."

COUNTY RAINS TO BE AID TO COTTON-JONES

County Agent Believes All Crops Have Been Benefited

The recent heavy rain covered the entire county, said Guy R. Jones, county agent, Thursday. He declared it was badly needed. A greater portion of the cotton is late, he pointed out, and not much of it up. "This rain softened the crust, on the ground so the plant can now come through," said Jones. "Cotton chopping is under way; in fact, early cotton has already been chopped in most parts of the county. The grain harvest is going forward in good shape. Yields are low with probably poor quality, which is due to hot dry winds of the past week. Last year's wheat was practically all number one. The first load brought into the elevator this year was No. 3. This is indicative of the general condition as its affects grains. Oats is in about the same condition as wheat."

The greater portion of this county is devoted to pasture, Jones said, and the April and May rains together with the recent heavy rains have put the pastures in most excellent condition.

"THE MAN BEHIND THE LAW."

Civilized man is more concerned with the man behind the law than he is with the man behind the gun. The law of the mob is the law of the jungle. The law of the land is the law of civilized society. The man behind the gun was a terror in Texas for many years. He shot with impunity and without remorse of conscience. He is passing. He is going to join the Indian and the Buffalo and the wild horse.

And the mobocrat has lived his life. He is passing and all the surface signs are that the law of the land is to be the law uppermost and not the law of the jungle which represents mobocracy. A case in point: Two negroes in Dallas county were guilty of atrocious crimes. They were captured and placed behind prison bars to await trial. A mob attempted to storm the prison building and take the law of the land into their own hands, making themselves court, prosecutor, jurors and hangmen. There was a man behind the law in charge of the prison building. His name? Schuyler Marshall Jr., the young sheriff of Dallas county.

He placed winchesters in the hands of his deputies and he was on the firing line himself; he called to his assistance rangers and national guardsmen and his warning to the mob was that the lives of the accused negroes would be protected at any cost.

These mobocrats attacked the prison building. They used firearms and bricks and ricks. They threatened the lives of the sheriff and his men. A volley or two saved the day. Mobocracy melted away and the mobocrats ran away. They were two thousand strong but the man behind the law, the sheriff of the county and all the agents of the law who stood behind him made the law majestic and thus saved the name of Texas from disgrace which is humiliating to a civilized people.

This man behind the law who protected the prisoners confided to his care or custody, saw service in France. He was a gallant soldier over there. He responded to the call of duty when the World war was on and he responded to the call of the law and was true to his oath of office when the mob attempted to substitute jungle vengence for a legal trial in the case of the two negroes who are now at Huntsville condemned to die in the electric chair.

Mockery of law is a tragedy. The man behind the law determined upon its enforcement at all costs makes the majesty of the law sublime. Crime should be eradicated, criminals should be handled without gloves and ever the punishment should fit the crime but the reign of violence is anarchy and the law of the jungle is the law of barbarism and should never be tolerated in a civilized country.

Texans are not barbarians. Texans are for the law of the land and they are for the man behind the law, governor or sheriff, or any other official clothed with authority when he is true to his oath of office and loyal to the institutions of his state and ever on the side of those who are for the protection of life and property and the permanent security of society which is based upon established government.

There is another sheriff. Hise of Brown county whose name should be placed on the scroll. He defied a mob. He protected a prisoner. He refused to permit the substitution of the law of the jungle for the law of the commonwealth. Flowers for the living. This time they are handed to two Texas sheriffs whose faces are in the public picture gallery.

BERLIN GOES MONARCHIST.

A predominantly monarchist reception was accorded President-elect Von Hindenburg on his arrival in Berlin to take up the duties of his office. Imperial colors and uniforms blotted out faint attempts to preserve the republican insignia. It does not appear that the communist red flag was anywhere in evidence, and certainly there was nowhere the slightest counter-demonstration. Most of the radicals observed in good faith the warning given them by socialist leaders to absent themselves from the reception. Republican groups also stayed away, although they displayed their flags, more or less timidly, in various parts of the city.

The monarchists practically had the whole affair to themselves. Not since the demonstrations accompanying mobilization in the fateful days of 1914 had the Berlin populace shown such enthusiasm. Through five miles of cheering humanity the new president rode impassively to the chancellor's palace. He accepted the plaudits of the crowds as his due and did not condescend to join in the jubilation. His manner was imperially cold. Only once did he smile, and then only in a deprecating way. This was when the little daughter of Chancellor Luther handed him a bunch of roses at the railroad station before he began his triumphal march.

The monarchist demonstration will not help Chancellor Luther with his parliamentary difficulties. To the German legislators, a majority of whom are republicans, Berlin must seem to have gone decidedly monarchist and to have carried Hindenburg with it. The new president's plan of uniting the people of all political faiths has been frustrated before it was given a trial. The republicans have been given cause for alarm and the royalists encouraged to take an aggressive attitude. With the Berlin populace on their side, the royalists may make a bold drive for power, while the parliamentary majority, feeling itself surrounded by foes, may call upon the country to support it against the capital and capital intrigues. The stage has been set for some sort of political coup, and almost any day may bring exciting news from Berlin.

CONDITIONS IN THE SOUTHWEST.

A Chicago correspondent writes that reports of Federal Reserve banks in the southwest indicate that business in that section continues to improve and is on a satisfactory basis although not so buoyant as in the near northwest. He notes that the western end of the Dallas district reports exceptionally favorable agricultural outlooks.

Cotton is a dry weather plant. There has been a great increase in acreage in Texas. Is there to be another famine crop or a bumper crop this fall? All that the guessers are able to do is watch and wait. Old Massa knows; vain man is not even a good guesser.

BOOKS.

There are not many good books in the world.

As a man gets older his books slough off and his library grows smaller. At last he has very little left but his books of reference.

Nowadays the making of books is easy and almost every person who has achieved success in any line, or thinks he has, will have no difficulty in compiling his memoirs or his theories into a volume.

Books emerge from the press of the civilized world, hundreds of them daily. It is useless to attempt to keep up with the latest reading.

As one travels through the sea of literature he finds it very much like traveling through a foreign country. I once went down the Rhine and saw from the town of Bingen the statue of Germania in the distance. We looked at it, but did not think it worth while to visit it. I remember a seasoned traveler told me that I had missed the greatest view in Europe by not going up to see the statue of Germania.

In this way you will always find some one who has seen something he thinks remarkable abroad, and if you have not seen the same does not think you have seen the country at all.

When people ask you if you have read this, that or the other volume, you can rarely say yes. In fact with a few exceptions the different books seem to be read by different sets of people.

The exceptions to this are the old classics, which are universal in their appeal. Time is the best critic, and a book that has lived twenty or a hundred years and is still popular is a book you ought to know and to read for it evidently contains something of permanent human appeal.

How many there are who are anxious to know about the latest books, but whose Goethe and Dante and Homer and Schiller and Shakespeare are still undiscovered!

It will do every young person good to go back to Hawthorne and Washington Irving and Dickens, to say nothing of foreign authors, and become acquainted with the characters. These books have lived for a long while and contain an element of education that is not in the modern volumes.

There is so much attention given to style and to fine writing in these days that it is rare to find an author who has something to say and who says it clearly and succinctly.

It is a good thing to grow up with books, to have them marked with a pencil and noted with your own hand, to have them full of ideas whose meanings have been explained to you with the progress of the years.

Whoever has a dozen or so of these books and refers to them again and again is indeed fortunate. For education consists not in knowing a great many books, but in knowing a few of them very well.

HENRY FORD AS AN EDUCATOR.

According to a Detroit exchange seven hundred boys in school during the year 1924 earned $400,000 for themselves and manufactured $770,000 worth of materials. That is the remarkable record of the Henry Ford Trade school in the eighth year of its existance. According to the same authority the idea of such a school was conceived by Mr. Ford in 1916 and in October of that year it was organized and incorporated under the laws of Michigan as a private school.

Just how popular the school has become may be judged from the fact that at the present time the faculty comprised 50 instructors, the pupils number more than 700 and there are more than 3,000 boys on the waiting list eager to be enrolled.

Henry Ford is a billionaire. In addition to being a billionaire he is a public benefactor. His trade school for boys has been a marvelous success. He believes in training the hands as well as developing the brains of the youth of the country.

Also how to make a dollar, how to save it and how to invest it.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

It Still Can Be Done.

"Opportunity," says the young man of today, "is not so plentiful as it used to be. All the big things have been snapped up. In the old days there were so many things to be done, that it was only necessary to begin somewhere and keep at work till you succeeded."

Which, of course, is nonsense. Opportunities were plentiful in the old days, but they did not come knocking at the door any more than they do now, when they are even more plentiful.

It is popularly supposed, because Lord Northcliffe was able to build up a great chain of newspapers from a very small start, that he lived in a time when some special opportunity in the newspaper line was waiting for him.

It is believed that because Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Carnegie, beginning as boys, amassed great fortunes in the oil and steel industries, that their success was due to the fact that these industries were in their infancy then.

But Lord Northcliffe and Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Rockefeller had to look just as keenly for their chance as are the young men of today who will take their places tomorrow.

It was only a little more than twenty years ago that Henry Ford, who was not the inventor of the automobile, became convinced that if these machines could be built at a low price they would be bought by hundreds of thousands instead of hundreds of people.

So he devoted all his time to figuring out ways to build them cheaply and the world knows what are the results. What it probably does not know is that Ford, in order to accomplish what he did, worked unremittingly for fifteen or sixteen hours every day until his plant had got so that it operated almost automatically.

When Mr. Carnegie was starting in the steel business at Pittsburgh another young man was working eleven hours a day in a store in a little town in Ohio, and walking four miles and back every day's work to get a few extra dollars a week for keeping a set of books.

By and by this young man had enough money to move to Pittsburgh where business was carried on on a bigger scale. He became a partner with Mr. Carnegie, who was always looking for ability, and had a rare faculty of recognizing it when he saw it.

That man, Henry Phipps, the other day gave millions to establish hotels for working girls which will make life safer and more pleasant for hundreds of young women supporting themselves.

Today on every side, industries a starting and opportunities are opening. Big combinations of capital increase rather than limit the chance of the individual to gain success.

There are thousands of high places in every city which had no existence twenty years ago, and men must be found to fill them.

These men will be found, but they will be found at the door of opportunity knocking for admission, not at home waiting for it to knock.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE. GEMINI.

The planitary aspects that assumed a benign character last night become decidedly favorable today, and presage success for any enterpris undertaken at this time, provided it is based on conservative thought, and carried out with deliberative care. Matters that have hitherto been hanging fire, as a result of indecision and doubt, can be now successfully tackled, with the assurance that optimism will prevail and clear away the difficulties engendered by undue pessimism. In the evening the aspects become rather clouded, without being definitely adverse, and a sense of dissatisfaction with one's own efforts will have to be overcome, and a determination reached to wrest a victory out of an apparent defeat.

The child born today will inspire confidence and beget hope in its physical future, largely as a result of its lusty and vigorous appearance. Care should not, however, be overlooked, and a rugged maturity can be attained by this child, if it receive, in its infancy, proper nutrition, and plenty of fresh air. Its disposition, which can be easily modified in early youth, will be rather overbearing and dominating, while its character will be more easily influenced by strict methods, than by those that savour of leniency, or affectionate demonstrativeness. It will show tendencies of little regard for truth, or of doing right. It will be, nevertheless, persevering, very intelligent and capable, and these virtues should be accentuated, while the weaknesses should be suppressed.

If today is your birthday, you possess a personality full of charm, but lacking in strength, or magnetism. You are always anxious to make yourself agreeable to those with whom you find yourself in association, and your convictions are never powerful enough to make you either voice or act them in the face of opposition. You have not the "go-get-it" attributes that are invariably identified with great successes. Your tastes are artistic, rather than practical, and you are more satisfied with the little pleasures and happiness of life, than ambitious for any of its great prizes.

You choose your friends with great discrimination, and are always seeking, in the formation of friendships, culture and refinement. The world calls you rather lackadaisical, but, in spite of this, you have many admirers and are quite popular.

Irrigation

There Is Room for Another Lake Just as Big as Kemp.

Yesterday we pointed out that there was little danger of Lake Kemp being filled with mud during the life of any of us.

It was also shown that the conditions at Lake Kemp were not similar to the conditions which obtained at other artificial lakes in Texas which have had their impounding capacities seriously impaired by silt deposits.

Lake Kemp hols the entire flow of the Wichita river during any flood period. In fact it will hold several years' flow. Other lakes hold onyl a fraction of the flow of the streams they are situated upon but catch all the mud.

But let us suppose that we are mistaken and Lake Kemp does fill up with mud in the next score of years. Is there any hope of maintaining an adequate supply of water for our irrigated lands. There certainly is.

At one time it was proposed to build the dam at the diversion lake to approximately 100 feet in height. This would do away with the dam now built at Lake emp and there would be only one dam which would serve to both store and divert the river water.

It was found by surveys that such a dam would impound approximately as much water as can be stored in the present Lake Kemp. So when Lake Kemp is filled with mud another lake can be made at the diversion dam which will hold just as much water as we had before.

POEMS THAT LIVE

LOST DAYS.

The lost days of my life until today,
What were they, could I see them on the street
Lie as they fell? Would they be ears of wheat?
Sown once for food but trodden into clay?
Or golden coins squandered and still to pay?
Or drops of blood dabbling the guilty feet?
Or such spilt water as in dreams must cheat
The undying throats of Hell, athirst always?
I do not see them here; but after death
God knows I know the faces I shall see,
Each one a murdered self, with low last breath.
"I am thyself,—what hast thou done to me?"
"And I—and I—thyself," (lo, each one saith,)
"And thou thyself to all eternity!"

More Truth Than Poetry

THE RHINOCEROUS VIPER

From any form of snake I shrink,
When through the woods I see him slink,
Though he be brown, or black as ink,
  Of green or mauve or mottled.
I always gaze, alike askance,
On corbs, rattler, fer-de-lance,
I'll not feel safe by any chance
  Till all the breed is throttled.

Dame Nature, I have read, adorns
The head of one dread snake with horns,
Long sharp ones, like a unicorn's,
  So when his venom misses
The victims he would fain destroy,
These weapons he can straight employ—
The while he vents his brutal joy
With loud and raucous hisses.

The mildest snake is full of spite,
He forks his tongue and tries to bite;
The while a frown of fierce delight
  Reposes on his forehead.
But when a snake has horns as well
As fangs where lethal poisons dwell,
No fiend in Mr. Dante's hell
  Can be so truly horrid.

I see this monster in my dreams,
His eyes alight with baleful gleams—
A keen and ardent hatred seems
  To mark his every feature.
A snake with fangs is bad enough,
But adding horns was much too rough,
Old Nature overdid her stuff
  When she produced this creature!

Thaw to Prosecute False Tccounts Of Night Life Parties

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Harry K. Thaw, whose second return in two weeks to the bright lights of Broadway since his release from an institution has brought him renewed publicity, issued a statement through his counsel tonight saying that he would not submit to any further "hounding or pounding." Thaw last night spent a quiet evening in a night club with a bevy of chorus girls.

DEMANDS A FAIR CHANCE FROM PRESS.

In his statement he demanded the "same fair and square chance which every American is entitled to," and asserted that he had done nothing to warrant exploitation in the newspapers. The statement follows:

"I purpose to prosecute any false accounts published against me in the future. I will not submit to any further hounding or pounding. The public in general has been giving me the same fair and square chance which every American is entitled to, there is no reason why I should be treated differently by the press.

PROTESTS NEWSPAPER ACCOUNTS OF PARTIES.

"I protest against being exploited in the newspapers in sensational headlines and news items when I have done nothing to give warrant to such spreads. I have a right to go about my business as long as my conduct is not different from those of any other men.

"I refuse to be made the target any longer for false reports and cartoons, or to be the victim of press agents whose accounts are swallowed whole by newspapers without investigation. The stories recently published about me are utterly false.

"I gave no gifts or exaggerated tips nor lavish entertainment. I have been demeaning myself in the same manner as any decent citizen. I realize that on account of my having been so much in the public print I am in the public eye wherever I go.

DECLARES HE ACTS LIKE A GENTLEMAN.

"At times I have found it difficult to escape intrusion and whenever I have been approached by the management of any public place and have been introduced to different people I have considered it good policy not to be rude but to accept these courtesies. This gentleman's conduct on my part ought not to be the basis of a lot of stories made out of whole cloth and sheer imagination to create a sensation."

TRAFFIC ISJAMMED TO SEE THE SLAYER.

Traffic was jammed this morning when Harry K. Thaw, who came back to Broadway last night after a week's absence at Winchester, Va., emerged from a cabaret. He spent the evening and early morning there doing nothing much but responding to welcomes by Rialto belles and sipping ice water and orangade. Several hundred curious persons crowded to the doors to see him. He seemed startled and fled to a taxicab. Curious folks pursued him through Central park, then left him alone when he returned to the cabaret.

His bill for the evening which included two table d'hote dinners for himself and two male companions, amounted to $35. Of this amount $5 went fora tip to the head waiter, $3 to his table waiter and $1 to the hat checker.

BEVY OF GIRLS IS HIS AMUSEMENT.

A bevy of chorus girls amused him during the evening and he was introduced to all who took part in a review. He told one girl she reminded him of Lillian Russell.

Thaw declined to dance, as he said he had not kept up with the modern steps. Even an old fashioned waltz, played for his benefit, failed to shake his determination not to appear on the floor. He said he was going to stay in New York until he had seen every cabaret.

SOCIETY

WICHITA FALLS paid tribute to one of its heroes Thursday night when a banquet, sponsored by the Women's Golf association, was given Tommy Cochran, twice state amateur golf champion, at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club. Over 200 local golf enthusiasts were assembled to pay honor to the champion.

The toastmaster for the occasion was Judge Weldon who cleverly introduced each speaker and kept the entire group amused with his gay bits of repartee following each speaker. Mrs. G. H. Hampshire, president of the Woman's Golf association, presided and introduced Judge Weldon. Mayor R. E. Shepherd, spoken of by the toastmaster as "having sung himself out of the City National Bank and into the hearts of 60,000 people," sang "My Little Home on the Hill" and encored with "Laugh It Off." He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Shepherd.

Fred T. Couper, president of the Wichita Falls golf and country club, delivered the address of the evening and delighted everyone present with his genuine Scotch wit. He stressed the importance of the ethics of golf and paid real tirbute to Mr. Cochran in speaking of him as the outstanding exponent in this city of honesty, squareshooting and sportsmanship.

Charles Keirsey of the municipal club spoke truly on "What the Muny Club Thinks of Tommy Cochran" when he said that members of his club liked to think of Tommy Cochran as belonging not only to the country club but to all Wichita Falls and to those interested in golf especially.

I. R. Sheldon, president of the Muny club was called on at this time to talk further o nthe appreciation of this club for a man and golfer of Tommy Cochran's caliber. He also emphasized as did Mr. Couper, the importance of ethics of the game and again complimented Mr. Cochran.

Shore talks were called for from W. E. Norton, Bruce Greenwood, 'Red' McDowell, Bill Strachan, Joe Hatchett, A. R. Cotton, Dr. G. H. Hampshire, Hill and Mrs. Golding. Each of these speakers sang the praises of the honor guest. Dr. Hampshire seemed to hit the spirit of the gathering when he suggested a toast to Mr. Cochran, the future champion of the United States.

Mr. Cochran thanked the people of this city for their moral support and expressed the belie fthat Wichita Falsl has the greatest future from the golfing standpoint of any city of its size in the country.

A unique presentation of the loving cup was made to Cochran by the Woman's association, the presentation speech by Mrs. Weldon; and the members then sang "Tommy Our Champ" to the tune of "Doodle De Doo." The menu.

Southern Secretary of Christian Endeavor Has Taken An Active Part In State Convention Here

MISS MAMIE GENE COLE, of Atlanta, Ga., junior field secretary for the All South Extension committee of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, offices in Chattanooga, Tenn., is an energetic visitor to the Christian Endeavor convention being held here this week.

Over Ten States.

Miss Cole has ten Dixie states to work in, and is out of her territory in Texas, but is contributing much to the progress of the convention. With a captivating smile and dominating personality she has won her way to the hearts of the Endeavorers of Wichita Falls, as well as all Texas, and will not soon be forgotten here as a grue Christian Endeavor worker.

She is an affable speaker with a touch of real "Southern brogue," and in her talk Thursday morning at the First Methodist church, to the Junior Endeavor superintendents of Texas, on "How to Organize a Junior C. E. society," she emphasized several points on gaining the interest of the young minds and making them indispensable Endeavorers.

Miss Cole has been in this work for three years, and is one of the few paid Endeavor workers in the United States. She said at one time her ambition was to aspire to foreign endeavor work, but of late she felt she was doing equally as great a mission to do the home work and teach the young boys and girls so thoroughly that they could branch out into professional Endeavorers if they chose.

Not Enough Teachers.

In her speech Thursday to the superintendents, she said, "As I travel around over my territory, the complaint is forever coming into me, by ministers, that there are not enough teachers available in the Sunday schools today, and that is what our Endeavor work is for, to teach us to be Bible students and teachers. Our mothers and fathers say that they did not have a chance to get the proper study of the Bible in their young days, but that cannot be said by old people in the future."

Directly after leaving Wichita Falls, Miss Cole will go to Norfolk, Va., to take part in another state convention that is to be held there, Virginia being in her territory for field work. In July, 4-10, the World International Christian Endeavor convention is to be held in Portland, Ore., and she will attend that also, having charge of the state and provincal superntendents of the United States and Canada.

Miss Cole will have charge of the suprise program Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, which will be held in the main auditorium of the First Christian church.

The Old Home Town

Tom White is expected in Wichita Falls Sunday after a stay in New York and Kansas.

W. E. Campbell of the Panhandle Refining company is leaving today for Los Angeles to be with his family for a while.

Leo Sellers of Welch-Richardson Kemp is back in Wichita Falls again after a two weeks' stay in Los Angeles and California.

E. Constantin Jr., left yesterday for Tulsa to spend a while with his father, Captain Constantin, Sr., who is leaving in a day or so for a visit to France.

A new roof is going onto the court house at Archer City. The old covering, there since Archer City's biggest building was first built, has served its day and is being torn out now to be replaced.

The secret's out. Hizzoner got a hair cut Thursday. Old Home Town would not write this personal observation this morning if it wasn't for the fact that outside of that single item, the mayor's office force admitted

A small crowd stood all day at the alley way back of the City National bank and watched workmen fasten the steel girders some five or six stories up between the City National bank building and the new Harvey Snyder building. The girders are the first step in a connecting passageway between the two buildings.

Marriage licenses dropped off Thursday when only two, the smallest number to be issued in a single day in two weeks, were given out at the county clerk's office. They were as follows: Lee Brown, Henrietta, and Miss Barbara Grady, Bowie; J. Sterling Crumpler, Wichita Falls, and Miss Thelma Ruth Cain, Wichita Falls.

Several worn out dilapidated buildings on the southwest corner of the Haskell square are being torn down. Wichitans returning from there report, to make way for a new $70,000 hotel that is planned for that city. The structure is to be a two-story affair, fireproof and modern in every respect. The hotel was financed in the city of Haskell itself.

A verdict for the plaintiff was returned Thursday afternoon by a jury in the 89th district court in the case of Mrs. E. A. McCleskey vs. Sam McClesky, et al. The suit was one in which a division of the estate of the late E. A. McClesky was sought, and also for setting aside of an agreement made just after the death of Mr. McClerkey.

An Emancipation celebration will be held June 19, Emancipation day, by the negroes of Wichita and vicinity. The Texas-Oklahoma Fairgrounds has been leased for the occasion. Automobile races, baseball and a prize fight will feature the afternoon attraction, while music and dancing will be the night program. A street parade will start from the Washington high school at 11 o'clock. A negro Woodman's band from Fort Worth will be the principal musical attraction.

Mrs. F. M. Harbison, head of the ready-to-wear department of Perkins-Timberlake company, accompanied by Mrs. E. G. Patterson, saleslady in the store, has left for New York on a buying trip. T. A. Bradley, manager of the store, stated that the early buying trip was being made in order to allow Mrs. Harbison and Mrs. Patterson to become acquainted with all the advance fall and winter styles. The two women will be gone three to four weeks.

Firemen put in a busy day Thursday and answered five alarms between 8 o'clock in the morning and 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The aggregate damage of all the blazes was not over $500. The calls made were: Sixth and Ohio, small trash fire in a business house; 1608 Garfield, stove flaring up in residence; Ninth and Lamar, gas meter flazing; Ninth and Lamar, automobile afire at filling station; 1720 Huff, fire in small shed at rear of Rev. O. L. Powers home.

A suit arising from alleged defects in a residence sold the plaintiff by the defendant was started Thursday afternoon before a jury and Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court. It is styled E. S. Marshall vs. J. Carithers. The plaintiff alleges that a home he bought from the defendant was represented to him as being in good constructive condition, but that the walls and ceiling were leaky, the foundation unstable and the general workmanship and condition poor. The case will be continued today.

Looks like a dead heat this year to see which mill and elevator would get the first spring grain. The Wichita Mill announced the arrival of their grain Wednesday and the Mytinger Grain and Elevator company followed close on their heels with the announcement of the first grain arrival Wednesday morning. The wheat was brought in from Archer county by Fred Bollmer and tested 53 pounds, which represents a high average for any first season wheat, grain men state. The price paid was $1.45 for basis number one, one of the highest prices ever paid for the first carload. A 25c bonus per bushel was also paid for the first wheat.

"Capture Society Crooks From Inside," Says Wealthy Boy Leader of Jazz Band

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP) — With a few ideas on the need of assistance to the police in solving mysteries in high life, Roger Wolff Kahn, 17-year-old son of Otto H. Kahn, international banker, trap-drummer extraordinary and jazz orchestra leader, has hopped into the front pages again.

Made an honorary city detective when he entertained regular detectives last night at a hotel where his orchestra is playing he revealed a scheme of his for forming auxiliary law enforcement group composed of sons of wealthy New Yorkers.

"The police always seem to fall down in solving crime mysteries in social circles,' he said. "But I'm on the inside, see. I know a good many other chaps who are the sons of rich men. They can help me out."

Roger received a gold badge, the same kind as bestowed by the police on Caruso, Oscar F. Waldorf and sundry other civilians.

Some commentators made much of the fact that Roger's dinner and remarks were at the opening of a roof garden where he is to play a while.

Lochinvar Lover Proves Good at Law at Hearing

NEW ORLEANS, June 11.—(AP)—William Rumsey, 35 years old, bookkeeper, who crowded an "abduction," a wedding and a successful flight from the entire New Orleans police force and amateur sleuths as well into a solitary day here recently, proved that he is as good a lawyer as he is bookkeeper, caveman, groom, "fugitive" etcetra.

After Rumsey left his high desk and a dull morning's balancing to go awooing in true Lochnivarian style, he "kidnapped" his bride from an equally dull morning's dictation in a downtown business office, married her, established her in a newly furnished bungalow and sat down to wait for the searchers. The following day he was charged with carrying concealed weapons and disturbing the peace of his bride's employer.

Wednesday he answered these charges in court.

Frederick Taylor, the employer, who lost his stenographer in such summary fashion, testified that Rumsey exhibited a "large revolver" when he "persuaded" his bride-to-be to accompany him.

"Are you sure it was a revolver?" asked Rumsey, appearing as his own attorney.

"Maybe it was just a marriage license rolled up," suggested Rumsey.

The court waited expectantly. The witness appeared to hesitate, and looked at the judge. His honor was smiling. Rumsey was smiling. Possibly the witness remembered it was June.

"May be it was," he conceded.

"Not guilty," the court announced, and the courtroom applauded.

Wichita Falls Swatsmen Bunch Blows to Bust Waco, 10 to 4

TOP O' MORN STUFF

By BLONDY CROSS.

Instead of three straight Spudders must win four in a row.

* * *

Tanner adds extra, decides to play off postponed game, so Cubs and home crew go to mat in duet right after lunch. First grapple called for 2:30.

* * *

* * *

Tanner may use a southpaw himself. Might see Lefty Winn out there again. Ripper Wheeler and Axle Lindstrom are two that may stroll to the hillock.

* * *

Can't say for sure what the Skipper will do until the time arrives. Bob Osborn and Carl Wiliams worked in Fort Worth, but—

* * *

* * *

THE ALIBI.

Imagine Jinx Tucker, Waco's original alibi artist, will blame Thursday's defeat on the umpire. Hill's chasing of Pratt and dusting off the Waco bench is too good an opportunity to overlook.

* * *

Yours truly desires Spudder victories, of course, but the only reason we crave a clean sweep, or anything like, one is because Mr. Tucker averred not so long ago in cold, black type the Spudders belong to sixth place and Waco in fourth.

* * *

TOO BAD

The only way Waco will get into the first division is for the moguls to split the season and the first day of the second half somebody forfeit to the Cub. No malice for Pratt and his cohorts—just Jinx, the expert.

* * *

Speaking of splits, many more like yesterday and Santone just won't have it.

* * *

The Spudders are bound to win volubly now. Dick's hit his stride. Tanner outfit scores ten runs in three innings on nine safeties and not an error. Last of all, Ping Bodie steals a base!

* * *

Can't help but win!

QUITE SO

That's bunching 'em all right, all right. Lyle gave a base on balls in the second. Double and two sacrifices scores two. They connect for five straight blows in the third, the last a home run, and score five runs. They pole three singles and a sacrifice in the fifth to tabulate three. The only help received was that walk in the second, and Friday Dorman earned that the way he waited 'em out and made Lyle pitch to him. Smart baserunning tuck, and hitting in the pinches.

* * *

LADIES DAY

The fanettes have come into their own. Yessir, feminine diamond followers hereafter will be admitted to the Monday contests free of charge, for nothing, without cost. Every Monday is to be "Ladies' Day", informs Mr. Gray, the enterprising secretary.

* * *

Speaking of Outfields.

The Spudders boasted a wonderful outer works during the latter portion of that Fort Worth affair Wednesday after Fitz had been chased and Cal was laid away with a bum knee. None other than the Skipper himself took over the port garden. Suds Sutherland romped about in the midfield, and Ping guarded right. A fleet trio, that. Ping's sole duty was to protect that right foul boundary. Suds played 'way over in right center, and Bud took care of left and the greater portion of center field. Believe it or not.

* * *

Somebody made both Spudders and Cats present of flash lights. Don't know why. Can't use 'em to hunt base hits, and that's what the gang's been needing most. Might come in handy in an extra-inning game some day.

Cublets Hook Spudders In Double Bill This Afternoon

By BLONDY CROSS

The Spudders rocked back to normalcy in the Thursday frolic at the Harvey pavillion with Waco's Cubs, and displayed the pungent socking ability that during the spring training spree gave the Domestics a powerful rep as a ball-massaging aggregation. The home crew got to Dewey Lyle, Waco right hander, in the early frames for a substantial lead by clustering base wallops very opportunely, and Pratt's athletes wallowed in the baseball mire under the over-balanced score of 10 to 4.

The Spudders poled 11 safeties. Only two of them were wasted. The rest had a decided bearing on the rungetting.

Al White sent an aviation to the unexplored zone back of the left field wall in the second with a pair dotting the runways. Stumpf hoisted a tall one over the same barrier in the eighth for Waco. Golvin, Fitzgerald, and Foss connected for doubles. This comprised the extra-base swatting for the afternoon.

Dick Has it Easy.

Dick Morgan found but slight difficulty in exterminating the Wacoans. He gave up three earned runs and nine fairly scattered base blows. It was his seventh victory of the season, and the advance of one notch nearer to the 20 games he must win this year to keep the writer from killing him.

A bit of zest was given the entertainment in the first inning when Umper Hill chased Manager Pratt for acid remarks, or words to that effect, cast to the breezes in general and the arbiter in particular as regarded a third called strike on Brown. Pratt and the Waco dugout became somewhat agitated and Mr. Hill quite aggravated. Outcome was the indignant indicator cleaned the Cub bench also.

The Brazos river village outfit combined two walks, an infield out with one-base knocks by Galloway and Cohen to score a pair in the second. Bad News Jeems was cut down at the keystone, Fitz to Dorman to Diestel, attempting to lengthen his single.

The Domestics didn't hesitate a particle at this turn of events, but immediately slipped out in the latter portion of the second to balance the enumeration. Dorman was the recipient of a four-ball coupon, and Golvin followed with a two-cushion lacer to the mid section, sending Freddy to the counting station. White combed a neat sacrifice bunt down third base way, advancing Walt to the hot corner. Query aviated to right center, and Golvin checked in after the catch. Dick rolled out to short.

Fitz Nearly Homers.

Dick whiffed Menze, Foll bobbled out to White, and then Stumpf expired at the plate in Waco's third. Our noble Spudders after there were two away poled five consecutive wallops to virgin fields and tabulated the same number of counters. Bodie started the barage with a single through short. Fitz sent him home with a two-base crack that landed squarely atop the port barrier and then bounced back into the lot. Dorman hoister a Texas leaguer back of first. Fitzgerald registered. Golvin bruised a one-bager to center, and White heaped Waco's trouble to mountainous height with a blistering punch far over the left garden parapet. The boundary bust completed the Waco demise, and the eruption subsided when Morgan bounded out to second.

Base bingles by Galloway and Wilson meant nothing in the fourth because the blows were just naturally sandwiched in between too many outs. The home gang failed to indicate in this round.

Eulas struck out a pair in the fifth, and Fitzgerald made a running one-fist ankle catch of liner by Foss. The play was one with ruffles attached. Very pretty. And unusual.

Wonders Never Ceases.

Wonders will never cease occurring, so some sage once averred. And the Spudder fifth produced one of 'em. Yessir, Ping Bodie singled through short again, and then after Fitz fouled out stole second right out in broad daylight. Believe it or not, the dapper Spudder youth of the well-known nymph-like form absconded with the keystone and didn't even have to slide for it. Dorman ran him across the platter with a pop one-baser to right. Freddy made second on the throw-in and scored on single between first and second by Golvin who advanced an extra sack on the play to the plate. Walt, not to be outdone by Ping, the speedster, pilfered third, earning the base by virtue of a highly scientific and equally graceful slide. White again came to the fore in a sacrifice role, hoisting a long one to center. Golvin scored standing up. Query whiffed to retire the side.

Twin Bill Today.

Waco made all of one in the eighth. Stumpf slightered one to the port jungles with the runways unpopulated.

The rudderless nine connected for another in the ninth. They were fortunate. Cohan raised one in short right, and Al muffed. Morrow, batting for Lyle, got on via the hit-by-pitcher route. Menze bopped to Dorman at third and into a double play. Freddy to White to Golvin. Cohen drew up at third, and came home on bust to the center boards by Foss. Brown struck out his fourth time.

The same clubs are billed for a doubleheader this afternoon. First game begins at 2:30.

ST. LOUIS 9; BOSTON 7

BOSTON, June 11.—(AP)—The heavy hitting of Kenneth Williams was chiefly responsible for St. Louis taking the second straight game from Boston, 9 to 7 today. In the seventh inning he planted the ball in the right field bleachers with two out and two on in the eighth and the score tied, his double resulted in two runs. Also afield, Williams shone, making a shoestring catch as did Sisler. The score:

CLEVELAND 4; NEW YORK 1

NEW YORK, June 11. — Babe Ruth drove out his first home run of the season today, but the Yankees lost to Cleveland, 4 to 1. Speaker's circuit smash with two on base in the third gave the Indians their margin of victory. CHICAGO 6; PHILADELPHIA 5

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—(AP)—The White Sox evened the series here today by taking the second game from the Athletics by the score of 6 to 5. Rommel and Robertson were both effective from the hill in the third inning, but excellent relief hurling by Mike Cvengros and Arthur Stokes brought a halt to the hitting and turned a slugging game into a pitchers' duel. College Track Stars Meet In Chicago Today

62 Schools Represented In Nat'l Championship Tourney

CHICAGO, June 11.—(AP)—Intercollegiate track and field stars from 62 universities and colleges will match their speed and brawn in the preliminaries of the national collegiate championship meet on Stagg Field tomorrow to reduce the field for the finals tobe decided on Saturday afternoon.

The meet recognized as the outstanding event in intercollegiate athletics will bring together stars from every section of the nation. The contest for team supremacy is more or less informal, the games being held primarily to determine the individual national champion in each event.

With the exception of the University of Southern California which won the easter intercollegiate meet winners of other sectional championships would be in the competition making the meet national in scope. These include Michigan victor in the western conference championships; Leland Stanford, winner of the Pacific Coast conference title; Missouri, winner of the Missour Valley conference games; Swarthmore, winner of the middle Atlantic conference; Washington which captured the honors in the northwest games, and Texas, which won the southwestern conference title. In addition, a host of individual stars from scattered universities will compete. California alone will have four institutions in the meet.

Because of the record breaking entry, trials will be held tomorrow in the 100 and 220-yard dashes; 440 and 880-yard runs, and all weights events. The number to qualify will be determined just before the start of each event.

CHANGE UP IN BOUTS IS MADE

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—As a new date for the Italian hospital fund boxing show, Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy today tentatively fixed July 2 at the Polo Grounds, after a conference with Charles H. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants.

The bouts, originally scheduled for June 19, and featuring Mickey Walker, Harry Greb and Charley Weinert, Harry Wills matches were postponed because of a foot infection reported by Walker.

The date is subject to the approval of the New York State Athletic commission and is also conditional on the ability of Fugazy to clear the grounds before the afternoon of July 5, when the Giants are scheduled to play Philadelphia here.

Illness of another champion caused Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons to postpone a bout scheduled for July 4 at Michigan City, Ind., in which the newly crowned light heavyweight champion, Paul Berlenbach, was signed to oppose Tiger Flowers. Berlenbach requested a later date and Fitzsimmons announced he was after a substitute match for July 4. He intimated that he was seeking the services of Gene Tunney, who recently knocked out Tom Gibbons of St. Paul.

Ronnie Glidewell again proved that he was the ace of the American Refiners club by pitching them into a tie with the Texhomas for the last half honors by an 8 to 2 win over the crippled Security Bankers Thursday afternoon on the Twilight diamond.

The Bankers touched Ronie for a total of seven hits, but the American ace kept them well scattered and they did little damage. Courtney, Mathis, Patterson and Cannon all collected a pair of bingle in a trio of trip to the plate, one of Courtney's went for three sacks. Christian poled a home run for the Americans in the third with none on the bases.

The American Refinery may now be able to win the first half as they will beforced to play the Texhomas in a play off game for top honors. The contest will probably be played in a milk fund game at Spudder park. As the Spudders' are home for a long stay the game will have to be played in the morning.

Score One In First.

The American Refiners scored one in the first. Windham went out Harris to Courtney, the latter digging the ball out of the dirt to save Harris of an error. Andree smashed a double to right, and took third on Medford's infield out. Glidewell scored him with a bullet like drive through the infield.

The Americans scored another in the second. Skeen was safe on Montgomery's error. Francis skied to Patterson. Skeen took second on a passed ball. Cannon went out Doke to Courtney. Rounsaville singled to center scoring Skeen.

The Bankers rallied momentarily and counted once in the third. Bob Mathis drew a pass to first base. Brown beat out a scratch hit to first. Courtney smashed a single to center scoring Mathis.

Take Good Lead.

The Refiners piled up a good lead in the last of the third when three scores were chased over the pan. Medford led off with a triple to left. Glidewell sent the skipper in with a sacrifice fly to Patterson. Curley Christian poled a home run to left field that took a bad hop over Guy Taylor and rolled on. Skeen went out Montgomery to Courtney. Francis singled to center and stole second and went to third when Doke threw wild to second. Cannon scored him with a single to left. Cannon went out stealing, Doke to Martin.

Two more American Refiners crossed the plate in the fourth. After Rounsaville had grounded out, Windham singled to center. Andree was hit by a pitched ball. Montgomery's error on Medford's hit filled the bases. Glidewell hit to Montgomery in deep short who forced Medford at second, Windham scored and Andree took third. It was the third run that Glidewell had driven in. Glidewell stole second and Andree scored when Glidewell drew Doke's throw to second. Glidewell took third on a wild pitch. Christian walked and Skeen fanned.

The Securities scored another in the fifth. Montgomery went out Glidewell to Medford. Mathis singled to center. Brown dropped one in center, but aPtterson forced Mathis at second. Brown stole second. Cannon went to lake Jalonick after Courtney's long triple to right and took a long wade in the pool before he retrived the ball. Brown scored with ease.

Two walks and a hit batsman filled the bases for the Americans in the sixth then they pulled a triple steal, Andree stole home, Medford third, and Glidewell second. Harris then tightened and set the next three men down in rotation.

FORT WORTH, June 11.—Buck Winters and the bing-banging Bruins of San Antonio, got much revenge on the Cats here today in the first of a three-game series, administering the first real country beating of the year to the five time league champions, 14 to 2. Lefty Johns, who had won nine consecutive victories this year without suffering a defeat, paid a hurried visit to the showers in the middle of the third inning, when the Bears pounded out four runs after having gotten two runs in the first frame. Kemner finished the game, was batted hard in one or two spots while the Cats could do nothing with Buck Winters. The score:

How Morning Newspapers Serve the Women of America

BECAUSE of its ten-hour-a-day life in the home, the morning newspaper is an instrument of unequalled potentiality in the social and economic welfare of the American family. Searching for facts regarding the influence of newspapers as merchandising factors, interviews were conducted with prominent women throughout the United States. Women legislators, jurists, physicians, ranchers, teachers, authors--scholarly, thoughtful women, all resent the thought that their interests are confined to the "Woman's Page", contending that the ENTIRE morning newspaper is a woman's newspaper. A woman physician in Oregon sums up the opinions in one sentence: "I believe that our newspapers do more to mould the mental, moral and social beings of our potential and adult citizens than any other literature of the day." In her home--as in thousands of others--it is the morning newspaper that carries this great obligation.

Paragraph Opinions of Women on Newspaper Effectiveness

"With the home-maker the morning newspaper should be most useful, as it comes at a time when she has most opportunity to read."—Rebecca G. Affachiner, Juvenile Commissioner, Hartford, Conn.

"The woman who does not cultivate daily acquaintance with her newspaper is not filling her duty to herself and family."—Mrs. Robert Browning, Public Official, Terrell, Texas.

"Any newspaper has a duty of vital importance to perform in raising the standards of the home, of citizenship. In my home I have most time for reading from 9 in the morning until 3 in the afternoon. I feel that morning newspapers have greatest influence with women in general."—Hon. Belle Kearney, Mississippi State Legislature.

"More time is given to the morning newspaper by women, generally."—Mrs. Mary D. Frear, Member Commission, Honolulu, Hawaii.

"To follow a good newspaper is to gain a liberal education."—Harriet May Mills, Member Commission, Syracuse, N. Y.

"Morning newspaper advertising induces women to systematize buying."—Agnes Morris, Director of Bureau of Child Hygiene, Louisiana State Board of Health.

"Home women find their contact with the world of outside affairs through morning newspapers."—Elizabeth H. West, Texas State Librarian.

"It is my advice to all women to make a habit of giving a definite amount of time every day to the reading of morning newspapers. Morning newspaper advertising plays an important part in Home Economics."—Mrs. John Langdon, President Arizona Parent and Teachers' Association.

"Women have come to depend on newspaper advertising in running the home."—Lois P. Dowdle, President Georgia Home Economics Association.

"Morning is my time for newspapers. Women are helped in making prudent purchases of family necessities by careful study of newspaper advertising."—Mrs. F. Louis Slade, Chairman New York League of Women Voters.

"Morning newspapers receive more than a casual reading by women."—Mrs. Bertha Lincoln Heustis, President Los Angeles League of American Penwomen.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 11.—The cotton market today was very narrow and aside from the early advance of 25 points fluctuation was restricted to a small range. A' the start prices opened 5 to 7 points up notwithstanding the fact that Liverpool was slightly lower than due. Prices continued to gain after the opening, mainly on rain in the belt, moderate showers along the coast and some showers in the northern part of the central belt. About the middle of the morning October traded up to 22.25 and December to 22.34 or 25 points above yesterday's close.

Later, prices eased off moderately on fears of rains in the near future and December made a new low at 22.17 or 17 points below the earlier highs. October did not break below the initial low which was the opening price. July, which had been relatively firm early on the continued shrinkage in the certificated stock here turned easer on fears of large tenders on contracts June 25, the first notice day and sagged to 23.55 or 20 points below the early high. The market drifted somewhat aimlessly during the afternoon not withstanding rumors of large spot sales in the local market and finally closed about midway between the highs and lows, July showing a net gain of 6 points and the active crop months net gains of 11 to 15 points.

One of the sustaining factors was the increase in the spot sales at Liverpool to 10,000 bales, of which 8,000 bales were American. The large local spot sales of 4,260 bales although rumored during the day became officially known too late to affect the market.

Exports today totaled 15,104 bales.

NEW ORLEANS, June 11.—Cotton futures closed steady at net advance of 5 to 13 points.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Constructive forces were actively at work in today's stock market which moved to higher ground under the leadership of the oils, motors and public utilities. Resumption of pool operations in several issues heretofore dormant was encouraged by the continuance of easy money rates and favorable dividend and trade developments.

Maxwell Motors "B" were run up 7½ points to 115½, largely at the expense of a stubborn short interest. Mack Trucks closed 2½ points higher at 177¾ and Dodge Brothers preferred touched a new top at 81¾.

Stability of the steel shares in the face of an unexpectedly large decrease in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation yesterday led to some short covering in the standard industrials. American Can was run up nearly 3 points to 150¼ and net gains of a point or more were recorded by American Locomotive, American Smelting, Dupont, International Nickel, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Tobacco Products and Western Union. U. S. Steel common closed fractionally higher at 114¾.

Revival of speculative interest in shippings based on reports of heavy tourist traffic, resulted in gains of about 2 points being recorded by Marine preferred and American International corporation. General Railway Signal, trading in which started today was run up from 144 to 152, closing at the top. Other outstanding industrial strong spots were American Type Founders, Commercial Solvents "B," New York Steam preferred, Pittsburgh Steel preferred, United Cigar Stores and Woolworth, all up 3 to 5 points.

Trading in the rails was rather quiet with Rock Island, Kansas City Southern, New York Central, Norfolk and Southern, Reading and Western Maryland second preferred recording the best gains.

Call money held steady at 3¼ per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates fluctuated within rather narrow and irregular limits. Demand sterling and French francs were practically unchanged at $4.85⅝ and $4.87½ respectively. Scandinavian exchanges showed moderate gains.

Germ Trial Opens In Chicago Thursday

"Did you know Emma Nelson McClintock?" was the first question Prosecutor Crowe asked the judge, opening up pa field that the defense had sought in long arguments in the absence of the jury to have sealed away from the present trial.

Details the History.

The objection of W. W. O'Brien, defense counsel, was overruled and Judge Olson's testimony, awaited for weeks as possibly the most sensational to be brought out, proved to be a dreary detailing of meetings and acquaintanceship with the McClintocks and once with Shepherd.

Alexander Reichman, attorney for the Northern Trust company, which has control of the McClintock estate pending its final disposition under the will of young McClintock which made Shepherd the chief beneficiary, was the next and final witness of the day.

His testimony will be continued tomorrow morning.

Reichman, a friend from childhood o fthe elder McClintock, became his legal counsel, later served Mrs. McClintock in a similar capacity and upon her death was made, with Mrs. Shepherd, co-guardian of Billy McClintock.

He told the history of the McClintock family and of squabbles with the Shepherds over the guardianship and of their breaking agreements made with him as to the care of the lad.

Reichman testified that his efforts to have the McClintock boy with him one day a week were abandoned after the child expressed great fear of him and ran from him in terror. The prosecutor said in his opening statement that steeling the child's heart against Reichman was one of the steps in the plot to retain domination over the boy until he reached 21 years and could make a will in favor of the Shepherds.

Got $5,000 in Will.

Reichman denied that he ever had told Shepherd that he "intended to get a slice of the McClintock estate" for himself. He said that in Mrs. McClintock's will, Mrs. Shepherd was given $5,000, but that Shepherd was not mentioned.

In outlining the case, the prosecutor recounted the visit Shepherd and his wife made th Mrs. McClintock, renewing a friendship formed when the women were school girls in Kansas and how it lengthened to a life time when Shepherd and his wife, assumed an increasingly important part in the management of Mrs. McClintock's affairs.

Mrs. McClintock's death upon her return to Chicago from a trip with the Shepherds to Texas was recounted. Prosecutor Crowe pictured Shepherd as being at that time jubilant over her death, believing that he had profited under a will he had drawn for her signature and not knowing that a few days before her death, Reichman had drawn up a new will.

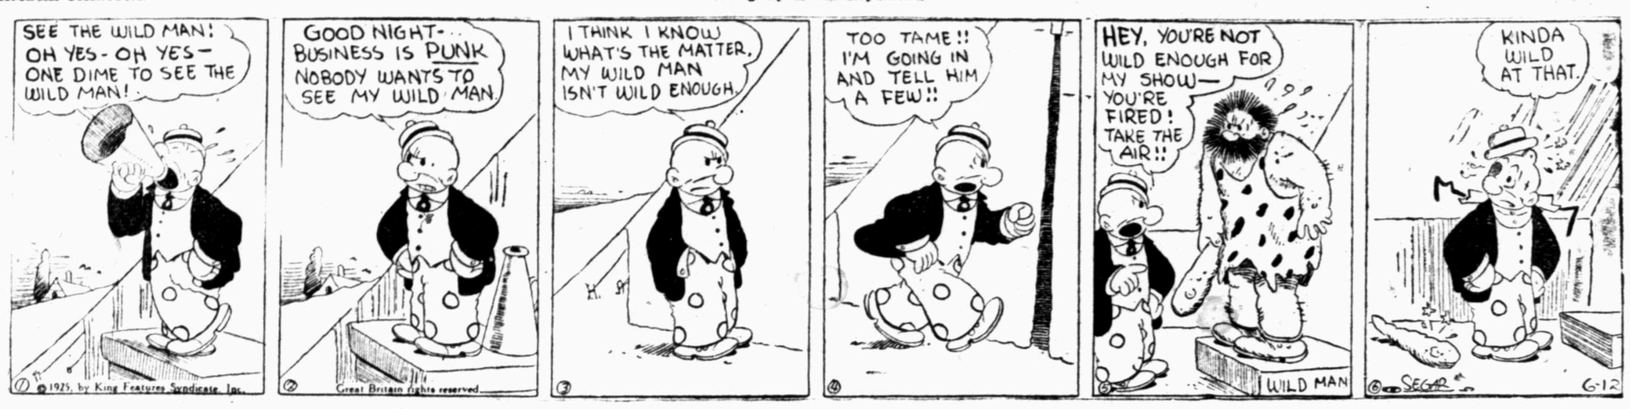

Shepherd was referred to in Prosecutor Crowe's opening statement as a "liar," "police court banger on at Indianapolis," "a man who never earned $15 a week," "Mary's little lamb," in that he followed his wife wherever she went, and termed a student of chemistry virtually throughout his life and finally a student of bacteriology when he finally decided to use germs to slay the youth who for years had been his sole support.

Medical testimony probably will be presented after that of Reichman and there was no indication when the prosecution's star, Charles C. Faiman, proprietor of the National University of Sciences, would be called upon to repeat the story he told the grand jury which resulted in the indictment of Shepherd and of himself.

Faiman testified he taught Shepherd how to administer the typhoid germs to young McClintock and supplied them for a promised $100,000 of the youth's estate.

Mr. Whaley's re-election was one of the principal items of business, although it was conceded from the first that his selection as general manager would come as a matter of course. Mr. Whaley asked after his election that his recommendations for various department heads be ratified, and that was done. The staff will be as follows: Homer D. Wade, assistant manager D. F. Bennett, organization manager; R. M. Whitaker, exhibit manager; R. A. Highsmith, convention manager; F. A. Leffingwell, traffic mangaer; S. J. Cole, district manager at Amarillo; Mona Rice, office secretary; Clara Lively, membership secretary; R. D. Moore, legislative secretary, and Inez Lively, office assistant. Ray Leeman was also appointed as a new district manager and will maintain headquarters at San Antonio.

Budget Recommendations.

Mr Whaley's budget recommendation calls for an expenditure during the fiscal year ending May 31, 1926, of $104,685. He also submitted a report on the various sources of revenue. Chief of these is memberships, which will bring in $95,000.

Committee reports and resolutions adopted by the directors included plans for an elaborate program to commemorate the West Texas Technological college in Lubbock in September; continued support of the Texas Conservation association in its work along irrigation lines; belief that no special session of the legislature is needed and recommendtaions to Governor Ferguson to that effect; placing of a nationally known authority on public utility matters on the 1926 convention program; calling for more federal assistance in combatting the corn borer in Texas.

R. Q. Lee, president of the chamber, presided at the meetings.

The banquet at the Wichita club last night was presided over by J. T. Harrell, president of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce. The program consisted of brief addresses by Messrs Harrell and Lee, another address by J. E. Thompson of Breckenridge, some short remarks by Porter J. Whaley, and a humorous skit by Hubert Harrison, general manager of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce who was prevailed on by Mr. Harrell and Mr. Whaley. For fear a prominent noonday luncheon club might sue Mr. Harrison and The Record News for libel his remarks are not reproduced.

Brownsville and Matamoros Men Believed Drowned in Flood.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, June 11.—Search was being made here today for Otto Lieck of Matamoros, who disappeared a week ago, and for Luis Hernandes of Brownsville, missing two days. It was believed they were drowned during the Rio Grande flood.

The birthrate of the United States is decreasing.

Health Week Plans Laid in Conference

In connection with this danger, Dr. Leach stated that Fort Worth in the past two weeks had killed over 800 dogs, the majority of them found to be in advanced stages of hydrophopia. Two children lost their lives there last week. The doctor stressed the fact that this is one of the most important dangers people have to contend in the summer time. The work on this point however will be merely an effort to get people to observe the new anti-rabbies ordinance to be presented before the city council next week.

To Collect Trash.

An effort will be made to have wagons go over the residential sections throughout the week and collect trash that has been placed in appointed places. This however is still in the process of formation and is not yet definitely decided upon. The trash problem has been accepted by the committee as the most outstanding one with which they have to deal. Joe Huckins, manager of the Kemp hotel, stated that from personal observation, he was willing to state there was more trash within a radius of four bloks of the Waggoner building than within a like distance anywhere else in the city.

A committee headed by Mrs. Dr. J. C. A. Guest was appointed to appear before the city council in the near future and petition that body to sponsor a movement by some advertising firm to place several hundred trash cans on downtown streets. The sides of the can to be used for advertising purposes. The plan is identical with the one that the council rejected late last year.

Further announcements regarding the campaign will be announced by J. D. Shearer who has charge of distributing the placards and other publicity work.

ESTABLISH WORK BUREAU.

Free Employment Agency At Clarksville Is Announced.

AUSTIN, June 11.—(AP)—Establishment of a state free employment agency at Clarksville, Red river county, with George W. Burrows of Texarkana as agent, was announced today by E. J. Crocker, commissioner of labor.

Commissioner Crocker left tonight foran inspection tour of the state free employment agencies. At Dallas, he will prosecute illegal labor employment bureau operators and will hold investigations into other employment bureaus.

FIRST WHEAT AT ALTUS.

ALTUS, Okla., June 11.—The first of Jackson county's wheat crop was threshed on B. T. Smith's farm near Eldorado, which is earlier than usual. The wheat is of good grade, but the yield is poor.

ENDEAVORERS BUSY SECOND DAY OF MEET

Convention Gathers Speed And Much Work Is Accomplished

Gathering speed as it went along, the state convention of the Christian Endeavor passed through its second day Thursday and after the evening session looked back to see a vast amount of work done by the 700 delegates here from over the state, exclusive of the several hundred from Wichita Falls.

C. C. Hamilton Speaks.

C. C. Hamilton, Endeavor publication manager of Boston, gave the address of the evening, taking as his subject the quotation from the Bible, "The Lord watch between me and Thee, when we were absent from one another." This sermon was one of the high lights of the convention thus far and carried with it a message containing both advice and common sense.

Yesterday afternoon Rev. A. L. Haley, associated pastor of the First Christian church of Abilene, preached the sermon extraordinary when he talked and illustrated his sermon with rapid strokes of crayon that quickly formed into pictures on the canvass beside him. In addition to this he kept the attention of his audience by a clever sleight-of-hand trick that unusual in the extreme served to carry the congregation along with him. It is doubtful if a single word of his talk was missed by any noise from within the building.

Rev. Haley was preceded by Miss Hazel Smith, missionary to Porto Rico, who gave a short talk on her experiences in the foreign missionary field. Her address was both entertaining and instructive, carrying with it a number of humorous incidents that had happened in the course of her several years in the islands.

Taking the four cardinal principles of Christian Endeavor as his subject, E. F. Hupperez, editor of the Christian Endeavor News, monthly paper of the state organization, gave a brief address on the things that every Endeavorer should know. He cited as the four principles, confession to God; Loyalty to Christ; service to Christ, and fellowship with Christ's people. He took the pledge and the history of Christian Endeavor and showed wherein they could be turned to good advantage by using them to bring others into the organization.

Problems of Boy.

Much of the morning session was given over to the problems of the 17-year-old boy. Speakers proposed different ways of bringing out the good in the youth which at that age is oftentimes covered up.

Following the open forum on the boy, the six department superintendents from over the state gave brief talks on the work of their departments and the plans for the future. James T. Hill of Houston, spoke on the work of the Tenth Legion; Miss Lillian Reitz of San Antonio, told of her work in the Mexican department in San Antonio; Mrs. Roy A. Rumans of Sherman, spoke on the importance of the press work; Miss Sadie Clarke O'Neill of Houston, stressed the necessity of carrying the work of Christian Endeavor into other lands; Miss Virginia White of Greenville, told of leadership training in the Endeavor program, and Mss Berta May Looney of Austin, told of the work of the intermediate department.

The program for today includes more of the denominational conferences in the morning and an open forum in the afternoon. The evening program will be featured by a presentation of "Th Rock," the religous play recently offered by members of the Methodist church under the direction of Mrs. J. S. Pittman. The play is being presented for the delegates by the Methodist church and will start at 8:30 o'clock in the Wichita theatre. The evening session, however, will begin at 7:15 o'clock in the theatre.

The motion is being prepared by the attorney general's department in behalf of State Superintendent of Public Instruction S. M. N. Marrs.

WIS. U. EXAM PAPERS SOLD AT $10 EACH

Over 3,000 Students Got Questions in Advance Is Report

MADISON, Wis., June 11.—(AP)—The Capital Times says today that examination questions have been stolen from three University of Wisconsin buildings and sold to more than 3,000 students at $10 each. More than 100 students were called before Dean Scott H. Goodnight today for questioning, the newspaper says.

'FRISCO NOT DEATH ROAD.

Louisiana Fatality Took Place on Gulf Coast Lines.

NEW ORLEANS, June 11.—Advices received yesterday saying that the four persons who were killed in an accident, near Opelousas met death when their automobile was struck by a St. Louis-San Francisco railway train, proved today to be inaccurate. Inquiry at the local offices of the Gulf Coast Line showed that the collision was between a Gulf Coast train and the automobile.

The victims, who included Mrs. S J. Gonselin and three relatives of Lawtell, La., were buried today. Clifford Dihm, who was seriously injured, was reported still unable to talk about the accident.

KID LOSES IN GAME BATTLE TO TRAMMEL

Rodriguez And Aguilar Win Scraps With Two Murrays

By BLONDY CROSS

Duke Trammel, Fort Worth welter of local knockout fame, was again returned the victor Thursday night in the American legion main event, this time over Harmon (Kid) Rich of Wichita Falls, but not by the sleep-producer route.

Rich, staging his first Wichita Falls engagement in six months, found the going much rougher than in his other combats here. Starting with a rush in the initial couplet, the Kid nearly swept Trammel from his feet, and was the aggressor, more or less, throughout the early rounds. But Trammel contented himself with laboring away at Rich's midriff during the in-fighting, and in the sixth began taking the lead. It was plain to see that Rich was weakening, although many of his followers believed he was carrying the fight.

The opening round was Rich's by a wide margin through aggressiveness. He started the second in the same manner, but was slowed up considerably by head punches shortly before the gong, Duke earning the round by a shade.

Ringsiders Excited.

The third, fourth, and fifth rounds were even from appearance, but Trammel socked away methodically at the mid-section and over the heart during the close going. Agitated ringsiders would call the three rounds even-Stephen or else give Rich the shade.

Duke shook Rich up in the sixth for a meager margin on the round, and then late in the seventh took the aggressive, and led the going. Rich was weary in the eighth. Stayed in there gamely, but was on the defense most of the way, merely blocking and making slight effort to retaliate.

The ninth almost spelled disaster for Harmon. He had slowed up considerably and was getting much the worst of it. Trammel socked away mechanically, Rich evading many of the punches, but taking others. A right to the solar plexus doubled the Kid up late in the round, and a right and left tattoo to the head dropped him. He started to his feet at the seven-count, and came up at nine. Trammel seemed on the verge of scoring a dream poke, but Rich weathered the gale and fought back in spurts.

He caught Trammel running back wards, off balance, and clipped him a glancing right to the button. Duke landed in his corner on the ropes, never touching the canvas, and jumped up without a count. Duke's round by wide margin.

The tenth and final round was a gritty exhibition as far as Rich is concerned. Much the worse for wear, winded, and apparently groggy, he stuck the limit, blocked cleverly, but took quite a few, and even countered occasionally.

No Dope Upsets.

The two Mexicans, Vecenti Aguilar, the middleweight, and Blas Rodriguez, the flyweight, lived up to pre-fight prognostications. Aguilar stopped Rube Murray of Altus, in the first frame. Blas was awarded the decision in the second over Billy Murray of Oklahoma City on a foul. It was the opinion of a majority of ringsiders that had the mill continued, the little Mexican would have whipped his American opponent, who, by the way, was heavier by several pounds and taller, rather roundly. Billy wanted to continue the fight, tore into Rodriguez, who smilingly bounced in and began peppering away, willing as ever to mix it. Referee chased Billy from the ring.

Young Trammel, a Wichita Falls 8-year-old, was bested in a three-round curtain raiser by "Whirlwind" Kelly.

Jesse Homan, negro welter, was given the decision over Lefty Amos, another black, in a fast three-round slugging match.

A. P. I. Report Is Booster for Market

NEW YORK, June 11.—Publication of the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute showing a drop of 17,550 barrels in the daily average production of crude oil for the week ended June 6, the first reduction in about eight weeks stimulated the demand for the oil shares on the stock market today. Texas company whose earnings are running at a record rate, moved up 2 5-8 points to 32 3-4, the highest price in two years and was followed into new high ground by General Petroleum, Independent Oil and Gas, Phillips and Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies. American Republics, a holding company with several oil subsidiaries soared 19 points to a record top at 68.

"CHU CHIN CHOW" COMING SUNDAY

Strand Show Will Depict Splendor of the East

Betty Blythe in "CHU-CHIN-CHOW"

COMING TO THE STRAND.

"Chu Chin Chow," opens Sunday at the Strand theatre. This production is a film version of the famous stage play which ran for five years in London and three in America, the consensus of opinion calling it the greatest of all spectacles, and the picture has been said to even surpass the play for gorgeous scenes and thrilling action.

As a Desert Slave.

Beautiful Betty Blythe, of "Queen of Sheba" fame, is seen as Zahrat, the desert flower and the much-desired slave girl. Never has Miss Blythe appeared more radiantly beautiful than in the wonderful Oriental gowns she wears, among them one made entirely of pearls. With her, in the role of Chu Chin Chow of China, will be Herbert Langley, a famous English actor. Thousands appear in the great cast, with its many dancing harem girls.

When you see "Chu Chin Chow" you will once again be back in the realms of the age-old theme, Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, the story that has come down through the mists of ancient Arabian legends and was presented to a wondering western world by Burton in his translation of the Thousand and One Arabian Nights.

Eastern Splendor.

You will see Oscar Asche's wonder Oriental spectacle presented before you in all the profuse magnificence of the East. One scene in "Chu Chin Chow" will astound you with its regal eastern splendor, Ali Baba's cave. Here you have a wonderful arrangement and glittering array of precious jewels, gold and silver, wonderful antique oriental vessels, garments, hangings and carpets and a thousand other things that simply dazzle.

Altogether, "Chu Chin Chow" is one of those pictures that will stand out in the memory as a production of unforgetable beauty and thrill.

It was adapted and directed by Herbert Wilcox and was produced by the Graham Wilcox company, an English concern. It is distributed by Metro-Goldwyn.

VARIED FARMS GREATEST NEED IN WEST TEXAS

R. Q. Lee, C-C President, Staunch Advocate Of Intense Work

"Intensive and diversified farming." That, in brief, is R. Q. Lee's answer to the uestion "what is the greatest need of West Texas today and what can contribute more than anything else to its welfare?"

Mr. Lee of Cisco, president of the West Texas chamber of commerce, has set for himself an ambitious program for the next year. It is one he believes to be basically sound and one and one that must be fostered if West Texas is to flourish as it should. And that program is simply one calling for education of the farmer—education in which irrigation is the text book.

Always Voices It.

The C-C president had various occasions to express himself Thursday while he was here for the directors meeting. In every utterence he voiced this phase of the work he was doing, and at a banquet at the Wichita club last night he capped his remarks with a brief but eloquently sincere plea "make your mission to the farmers one of intensive and diversified farming. Tell them—show them if you can what is to be gained by this; preach to them the value of irrigation."

This program, Mr. Lee said, was the one he would give his time and attention to the next eleven months.

At the Wichita club banquet Mr. Lee went into some detail on his own observations with regard to the Texas agricultural situation.

Too Much Cotton.

"I have found," he said, "that the greatest trouble with us today is that we stake our all on a cotton crop and then spend all the money we make on it in buying food and clothing from other states."

He recited a long list of figures in which he gave the percentage of farms in Texas that did not produce wheat, corn, fruit, vegetables, and which did not boast a pure bred animal on the lot. He cited these as examples of the way in which Texas farmers were neglecting opportunities that were their's for the taking.

A warning against over-production of cotton was sounded b ythe speaker who said he feared that a 1925 cotton crop of 15,000,000 bales would result in a price of less than 10 cent a pound. This, he asserted, would be ruinous for every farmer who depended ... cotton as his principal source of revenue. In this connection he gave statistics comparing the value of the Texas cotton crop with that of other world products and pointed out how easy it was to over-produce in a favorable season.

A Great Future.

As a conservative but wide awake business men Mr. Lee sees, like other chamber of commerce executives, a great future for West Texas. His is a sane and sound enthusiasm that clings to a religious belief in hard work and honest effort as the greatest need of the world today. With that in mind and a well-balanced plan taking note of the peculiar needs of the territory his organization serves, Mr. Lee has already won the confidence of his associates who believe that under him the 1925 progress of the West Texas chamber of commerce will be notable.

"W. J. BRYAN TOO ABSURD" CLAIMS LONDON PAPER

LONDON, June 11.—(AP) — The Westminister Gazette in an editorial on the forthcoming evolution trial in Tennessee today terms the attitude of William Jennings Bryan of counsel for the prosecution, as "too absurd for serious people to consider."

"We tremble to think," it adds, "what such a spirit would concern itself with if it had complete power."

Electric Charge Holds Prisoners In Antique Jail

ARDMORE, June 11.—A little juice will go a long ways.

Only a few months ago, Carter county was having many jail deliveries. There were five prisoners who escaped at one time and there were other deliveries.

The fact that the old federal jail is still used as a county jail seemed to be the cause. It just was not made to resist modern methods of escape.

Carter county has a splendid court house and it began to look as if it was going to have to build a new jail or lose all the prisoners. But a local newspaper man who served in the army and probably got his first taste of juice in handling some of the barbed wire barricades in no-man's land, had a brilliant idea.

"Charge the bars," he suggested.

It was done. There has not been a jail delivery since.

OATS HARVEST IS ON.

ALTUS SECTION PROSPERITY OF MAY '25 HIGH

Increase of 200 Per Cent In Business Over 1924 Month Shown

ALTUS, Okla., June 11.—That Jackson county as well as entire southwestern Oklahoma is on the crest of a prosperity wave is evidenced by unusual gains in business for May over the corresponding month of last year, an analysis of business conditions in Altus reveals. Locally May's business increased from 15 per cent to over 200 compared to that of the same month last year, according to figures given by merchants.

Many New Buildings.

New business and residence buildings are going up in practically every town in southwestern Oklahoma which is a pretty good touchstone for prosperity. Cars are being bought to a greater extent than ever before, automobile men say.

The main cause for the jump in business is the fact that last year's enormous cotton crop paid off the indebtedness of many farmers and prospects for another good crop has put the surplus money in circulation. Bank deposits are 50 per cent greater than they were at this time last year, local bankers say.

Automobile dealers made more gains in increased business than any other kind of business. One agency and service station made better than a 200 per cent gain and could have done better if cars could have been procured.

Implement Trade Good.

That the farmer turned his thought to making farming easier and more efficient is shown by the fact that implement dealers and hardware men have made from 50 to 100 per cent gains. One firm sold as much during the first week of June as in the entire month of May, 1924.

Clothing merchants and dry goods stores gained from 20 to 75 per cent over May sales of last year. Groceries made from 15 to 35 per cent gains and wholesalers report corresponding increases in business.

Stocks in all kinds of stores are unusually large for this time of the year.

SMOOT SEES TAX SESSION

Idaho Senator Predicts Foreign Debts Also Congress Topic.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—Tax revision at the coming session of congress was predicted today by Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee who at the same time declared his opposition to any attempt at tariff revision.

As a member of the foreign debt commission he also expressed hope that the near future would bring some developments in the refunding of various foreign loans. He had received notice, he said, that the commission would meet next month to consider settlements.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother. Rosilyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with

Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl, who is bent on marrying

Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, has been with Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and she and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more.

Van Vorst, however, hungering for her love, decides to use

Marietta Fernandez, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosilyn, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the countryside. After an exciting adventure she is rescued by Briscoe, who tells a "fishy" story to account for his proximity to the scene. Soon after Landis effects a reconciliation with Rosilyn and becomes his old lovable self. The latter discovers damning evidence against Lydia and exerts her power to secure the upperhand—in the city, meanwhile Marietta feels her power over Briscoe declining.

Torn by jealousy, Marietta surreptitiously sees Rosilyn and makes an ambigious declaration of love.

"D'you mind me being here? Am I intruding?"

The other smiled.

"No, indeed. I suppose you've come to see one of my guests. I've so many in the house just now—and so many people coming and going—that it's difficult to recognize and remember everybody."

"Is HE here, then?" Marietta's burning eyes were on young Mrs. Ridgeway's face.

"He? Who? Bewilderment came there.

Marietta answered dully, doggedly:

"The only man I've ever loved."

The other girl seem startled. Then she said, quietly and soothingly:

"Won't you come in.o the house, and rest awhile? Won't you let me try to help you?"

Marietta drew back.

"He would be furious with me. I couldn't."

Rosilyn wondered:

"Who is the mysterious 'he' who has so upset this girl? Can it possibly be that she is a friend of Landis?"

Aloud she said, gently and sympathetically:

"It hurts me to see anyone in trouble, and be able to do nothing. Confidence often brings relief, and if you would confide in me, maybe between us we could do something."

Marietta gave the speaker an odd look. Her mood had changed again, and she answered, brusquely:

"You're the last person in the world I could confide in. Well I'll be going," went on Marietta dully, hunching her slender shoulders in a foreign shrug. "I'd no right to come here. I hated you before I came. I was jealous of you. I—I wished you ill, but now that I've seen you, all that has died. I wish—" she hesitated, and then held out her hand—"I wish you'd say there is no ill-feeling and wish me luck?"

Rosilyn Ridgeway looked searchingly at the dancing girl. How Landis must have hurt her! What desperate thoughts, what torn emotions, lay behind the brusque manners of this foreign creature?

"Wish me luck?" reiterated Marietta, her great, tragic eyes on the bride's face. "It isn't selfish of me to ask it, because there's so much happiness in your own life that you wouldn't miss one slice of it!"

"O wonder—?" Rosilyn was almost unconscious that she spoke aloud. "Is anybody on this earth really happy?" Then, suddenly feeling an unaccountable confidence in her listener, she went on—

"One is lucky if one has 'moments,' don't you think? They're like a dream, they pass so quickly. And the reality afterwards can be so very painful. But the big 'moments' make the rest of life 'worth while.'"

"I have had my 'moments'," said Marietta, with a queer intensity. "They are the only things that count. Without them I would kill myself. Because life would be meaningless. You understand?"

Rosilyn bowed her head.

"I do understand." And then she added, in a mood of recklessness, engendered by a queer sympathy for this strange creature:

"If anyone I know has hurt you, please believe me that I'm sorry. Believe, too, that I know only too well the meaning of pain—and loneliness."

Marietta gripped her hand.

"You're a good woman. The kind I might have been, maybe, if I'd ever had a square deal. I bear you no grudge."

Then, with a swift gracefulness that her years of dancing had given her, she was gone, and Rosilyn alone, full of wonderment and vague surmise.

That it was Landis, her own husband, who was the "raison s'etre" of the foreign girl's unhappiness, young Mrs. Ridgeway did not for a moment doubt.

She had heard the rumors.

She had listened very recently to Lydia Harbrook's story, too.

Sorry for Marietta—and forgiving—she was sick at heart. Were there no limits to the humiliation that a man could heap upon her?

And, after all, she was his wife.

CHAPTER LXII

Long Island Catacombs

Suddenly a queer, electric tremor went through her slender body. It was almost as though a radio message had been wirelessed—

"He" was near!

The sea no longer drew her, nor did her yearning eyes search the sunset, as though seeking to solve the eternal mystery of life. Those eyes of hers turned intuitively inwards to the undulating cliff land, where the figure of a man was silhouetted—

It was Rupert Briscoe, she knew.

Her pace quickened. Every nerve in her slim body was steeled to reach him, hold him—

She was about to break into a "hello" when suddenly he disappeared from sight. The earth apparently swallowed him up completely!

This queer phenomenon was all the odder in that Marietta was on top of a high knoll at the moment of the disappearance, and the surrounding landscape was like an open book before her straining eyes.

She hastened to the very spot of his disappearance. Her sense of locality and her eyesight were alike excellent, and these bramble bushes and prickly clumps of gorse formed the very spot where "he" disappeared. She would surely find him if she searched.

Heedless of the prickles, she thrust forward into the very center of the undergrowth, moving cautiously.

A queer story had once reached her, via, Van Vorst, of some caves hereabouts. Marietta was imaginative, and ancestors had been adventurers and marauders. Was Rupert Briscoe mixed up in some "funny business?" Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, maybe? A double character? A dual role?

Nothing could surprise her any more.

She thrust aside a gorse bush, and an opening was revealed, like a glorified rabbit hole!

"Alice in wonderland!" thought Marietta, with a little touch of humor curving her mouth.

The urge was on her to investigate. She must reach Briscoe, too.

The entrance was a narrow one, and the chalk looked grimy, but the girl was clad in a workmanlike black serge coat and skirt that wouldn't spoil, and a small close fitting hat.

Gingerly she inserted a foot in the opening in the ground, and found about three feet down, a rough rope ladder.

WEST TEXANS PLAN TOUR THIS OCTOBER

Extensive Trips Discussed By Directors Here Yesterday

The possibility of an extensive tour of a West Texas trade trip special sometime in the fall, probably in October, was discussed in detail Thursday by directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce who had varying views of its value. On the whole, the proposed project received enthusiastic endorsement, but the territory it should invade was a subject of some dispute.

"Great Possibilities."

In presenting the report and recommendations of the publicity committee for the coming year, J. L. Nunn of Amarillo advised his fellow directors that the committee deemed such a trip as one "having great potential possibilities for the good of West Texas." He explained it was no new idea of his or any member of the committee, but one which had been suggested and seriously considered before.

The committee's plan, in brief, contemplated a special train that should include cars with exhibits of the mineral, petroleum, agricultural, livestock, manufacturing and industrial products of West Texas. It was to include in its personnel business men from all sections of West Texas and would take a two weeks swing through Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, to New York and possibly up to Boston.

This announcement brought prompt responses of endorsement in theory, but questions of policy as to the route were raised just as promptly. The political animosities of the north were mentioned; the northern farmer's lack of understanding of Texas agricultural conditions was stressed. It seemed to be the general concensus of opinion that a journey through territory south of the Ohio river would rebound to greater benefit of Texas.

At Least 80 Reservations.

Porter J. Whaley, manager of the chamber of commerce, expressed the opinion that such a trip would call for at least 80 reservations of $250 each at a minimum. This brought a statement from Mr. Nunn that he did not believe 80 men could be obtained at this figure for the trip, but that the commieeees idea was that the communities of West Texas would do the financing. Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and San Antonio, he said, might put up $1,000 apiece; smaller cities might give $750 or $500 and appoint two or three men to make the swing.

No definite decisions were reached on the subject, but it was indicated the proposition would receive further attention from President Lee and Manager Whaley.

Parcels Postage To Be Guaranteed Now

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—The postoffice department announced today that beginning August 1 mailers of parcels must guarantee return postage in event of non-delivery, or renounce all claim to the parcel.

This return, postal officials calculate will reduce by one-third the number of parcels sent to the dead letter office, save thousands of dollars for the mailing public and for the government and eliminate an immense waste of time.

The service of sending parcels to the dead letter office and later back to the sender costs mailers and the government considerable money and it is estimated $50,000 annually in salaries alone will be saved by the new regulation.

Lodges Should Build An Auditorium—Gray

Apropos of the new municipal auditorium for which a bond issue is proposed, Harry Gray, manager of the City Laundry, suggests that some of the civic organizations or lodges, such as the Elks, Shriners, K. C's, or some of the churches, should undertake the proposition. He points out the magnificent auditorium owned and operated by the Masonic bodies at Oklahoma City, and further the combination churches, auditoriums and business blocks being built by certain denominations in the large cities such as Dallas, Chicago and New York.

French Deputies At Odds on Fiscal Bill

PARIS, June 11.—(AP)—M. Caillaux and the finance committee of the chamber of deputies have been threshing out the finance minister's bill for fiscal reform during the past three days. The discussion has been completed, but although M. Caillaux has apparently won over to his viewpoint a majority of the members of the committee the socialists are still holding out and declare they will oppose the government in parliament next Tuesday when the bill comes up for open debate.

A capital levy is the point at issue on which both sides refuse to yield.

C-C. Directors Want Railroads

No Mention Made of Fight Between Roads In Resolution

Without taking any official notice of the railroad controversy involving extension of lines of the Fort Worth and Denver, the Santa Fe and the Rock Island through the West Texas plains country, directors of the West Texas chamber of commerce went on record unofficially Thursday as favoring all constructive railroad development in the plains.

Offers Denver Resolution.

The matter came up for discussion in the afternoon session when Porter J. Whaley, general manager of the chamber, submitted a letter from F. E. Clarity, vice president and general manager of the Denver, asking the chamber by resolution or otherwise to aid the Denver in securing from the interstate commerce commission its permit for construction of the Fort Worth and Denver and South Plains railroad.

Recommendation that the chamber stay out of the railroad fight which is growing warm was made by Lindsey Nunn, editor of the Amarillo News and chairman of the publicity committee of the chamber. He declared the railroad question was one of vital interest to all West Texas but that the chamber of commerce could not afford to take any partisan side in the matter. His views were seconded by several others.

Three Roads Competing.

The Denver, Santa Fe and Rock Island are all competing for entry into the rich and unpierced sections of the western part of the state, it developed. Their various contentions are before and will be ironed out by the interstate commerce commission.

A motion was made at one time that the chamber officially endorse all constructive and legitimate railway development in the west and that the secretary write to the interstate commerce commission pointing out the need of railway facilities.

A later motion, however, voted to table action on the whole dispute on grounds that the chamber "does not need to legislate on every matter of importance." It was also suggested that the I. C. C. would no doubt give this railway question close attention and thoughtful consideration and make its decisions regardless of recommendations the chamber of commerce or any other body might make.

Jack Barnard Beats Amundsen To It By Discovering the North Pole At Wichita After Torrid Stay in N. Y.

"Too much heat," was the brief manner in which Jack Barnard, part owner of P. B. M. company, summed up his month's trip in New York and other eastern points.

"How were styles?" he was asked.

"Too hot, didn't fool with styles," he replied.

"What did you buy?" was the next question.

"Didn't buy, too hot," was the next answer.

"See any sights?"

"Nope, too hot."

"Have a good time?"

"Had a hot time."

"Only lost a few pounds, gained a lot of knowledge, and stayed hot, awful hot, hotter than I have ever been in my life," he added with a fervent shake of his head.

"I have been going to New York every year for the past ten years," Barnard explained, "and I have yet to see anything like the heat there in June. It is only about 80 in the shade, but that is about ten degrees worse than 115 here. The humidity is worse there than I have ever seen it and for the first time in my life I really got hot," he concluded.

That was all he would say on his four weeks trip. Heat, it seemed had ruined his taste for styles, had destroyed his love for association with wholesale houses, and had brought him home again, hotter, but otherwise o. k.

"I wouldn't leave Texas again," he declared "for all the markets on the earth, and that reminds me that the big wholesale firms in the north and east are beginning to send their representatives back to West Texas again. I was told up there that from Dallas north and west was the best territory in the south for the clothing wholesale houses. During the boom the big houses used to send their agents here but when the slump came they quit coming, now they are starting back again."

"Say ain't it cool today," he called out. It was only 95 in the shade at the time.

WICHITA BANK LOSES APPEAL IN LIEN CASE

W. G. Morrison Held Equal Debtor by Appeal Courts

An opinion of state-wide significance was rendered in the seventh court of civil appeals at Amarillo Wednesday when it was decided that a paving lien, although executed later, was of equal importance to a vendor's lien note and that in case of a foreclosure the proceeds should be prorated should the property not bring the full amount of indebtedness.

This decision was reached in the case of William G. Morrison of the Plains Paving Co. of Wichita Falls vs. State Trust company of Wichita Falls.

In the foreclosure suit of the Wichita Trust company, the district court held that the vendor's lien took precedence.

Wednesday the court reversed and rendered the case, ordering the sale of the lot under the judgment, but also ordered that the funds be pro-rated in proportion to the lien in event the property does not bring enough to pay both.

Cameron to Open a Residential District

W. I. Cameron of Cameron's cafeteria, who recently purchased the old Dutton tract of 192 acres on the river road, is now subdividing it into five acre tracts and is going to build four-room bungalows, garage, hen houses, dig wells and fences. The properties are to be sold on long time payments. In clearing up his river bottom land, Mr. Cameron, chopped out all but the pecan trees and finds that he has about 5,000 pecan trees left. These he is going to bud and graft to the improved variety. He is going to construct a big swimming pool and fish pond in a natural depression for the use of the purchasers of his tracts.
