FOUR SLAIN IN TEXAS SHOOTINGS

City Council Adopts $982,000 Budget Of Expenditures

NEW BOARD OF EQUALIZATION FINALLY VOTED

Budget for Year Below Estimated Income Of City

SALARIES SLASHED

Police Captain Scott And Number of Firemen Given Increase

The city of Wichita Falls will operate on a budget of $982,246.38 this year.

The budget, including full provision for sinking funds and the retirement of bonded debt and interest due this year, was adopted by the city council Monday night on presentation by City Manager Geo. D. Fairtrace.

The council also named a board of equalization composed of Roscoe Stayton, J. M. Prothro, and J. M. Baber, and ordered City Attorney Thalbert Martin to draw up a city sanitary ordinance prohibiting the handling by the public of fruit and vegetables in grocery stores.

Emergency Fund.

The total available for appropriations of all kinds this year is $997,051.51 while the total amount appropriated under the budget allows for an emergency fund of $05.13.

The budget for the year in addition to being $14,805 under the expected income, provides for taking up of $82,780.15 cash overdrafts as of March 31, 1928.

The budget this year compares to expenditures last year of $941,930.37, the major portion of which is accounted for by a greater amount of interest and bonds being due this year than last.

The administrative department of the city is spending slightly more this year, but this would not be true if it were not for the fact that a death claim of $3,063.25 was paid because of the death of J. M. Brown during the construction of the auditorium.

Officials Lose Salaries.

Last year's administration cost $21,237.50 while this year's totals will be $23,567.38. This lowered cost is due to a large extent in the fact that the $10,000 a year salary paid for a city manager plus the present reduced salaries of the mayor and aldermen is less than the salaries formerly paid the mayor and aldermen for their services. The salary of the mayor was cut from $300 a month to $25 a month; that of the aldermen from $100 a month to $10 a month, and that of the city treasurer from $80 a month to $10 a month.

These cuts were the heaviest salary cuts on the payrolls of the city. Many departmental heads and assistants suffered slight cuts, but in no case were these proportionate to those suffered by the city dads.

The cost of operating the inspection department this year drops from $11,880 to $8,512.67. Cuts of $25 a month were made on the salaries of Fred Smith, city electrician, and Lon Stedman, plumbing inspector. W. R. Hyer, tax assessor and collector suffered a similar cut.

The cost of operating the tax assessor and collector's office rose from $12,350 last year to $13,213.58 this year. Several raises were made among the employes' salaries in this department.

Auditorium budget provisions for the year total $16,906.07 as compared to $7500 last year. However, there were only four months operation charged against last year's operation. There also is an item of $7,586.84 building fund balance which raises this year's cost to $26,494.91.

Few Changes Made

Few changes were made in fire and police department salaries, although it is possible that some may still be made by a special ordinance

THIRD PARTY PLAN EVOLVED

Veto of Farm Bill Sets Midwest Agog

CHICAGO, May 28. (US)—Plans are being formed for creating a third national political party in the event the Republican national convention nominates Hoover or some other candidate opposed by the farm groups.

According to sources close to the government, United States Senator Norris of Nebraska and Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, and chief of the forest service under President Roosevelt, are under consideration to head the proposed new ticket.

Both now are Republicans and both are regarded as being among the foremost progressives in the country. Fourteen of Nebraska's 19 delegates and 17 of Wisconsin's 26 are under instruction to vote for Senator Norris in the Kansas City gathering.

Another prominent progressive has agreed to write the platform and to have it ready in the event the plans are put into effect.

So aroused are the farmers in the corn belt over President Coolidge's second veto of the McNary-Haugen bill that they are prepared to make the Republican convention one of the most momentous and spectacular of any during the last 50 years.

THREE RESCUE PARTIES SEEK LOST ITALIA

Noted Figures in World Of Navigation and Flying Join Search

ICE HALTS STEAMER

Capt. Roald Amundsen And Capt. Svendrup Take Active Part

OSLO, Norway, May 28. (AP)—Three expeditions, with a fourth in prospect were under way tonight in an effort to bring aid to the dirigible Italia now missing more than three days after her successful flight to the North Pole.

Included among those, pitting their knowledge of the inhospitable polar regions against the disaster which may have overtaken General Umberto Nobile, were such men as Roald Amundsen, noted Polar authority, and Captain Otto Sverdrup, famous as an Arctic explorer, who are giving their counsel to the Norwegian government in preparing for an extensive relief expedition.

Flier Takes Off

While the base ship Citta Di Milano was held up outside of Kings bay by ice floes that blocked her progress, and the steamship Branganza was en route from Tromsoe, Norway, to Spitzbergen to help in the search, Lieutenant Lootzow Holm, Norwegian flying expert, took off in a Norwegian navy hydroairplane from the Horten base for Tromsoe. Lieutenant Holm planned to reach the Sealer Hobby and to load his plane aboard her for a quick voyage to Spitzbergen.

In accordance with the theory of Captain Riiser-Larsen, who probably will head the main Norwegian relief experition, that the Italia came down upon the ice somewhere north of Spitzbergen, Lieutenant Holm will explore the north and northeast coasts of Spitzbergen. Every meteorological condition indicated that the Italia must have come down north of her base in Captain Larsen's opinion and an air survey of this district appears to offer the best prospects of finding the missing airship.

Radios Watchful

Captain Riiser-Larsen was the right hand man of Amundsen and Ellsworth in the 1926 expedition of the Norge and has had much experience in flying in the northern regions. He also is a dirigible expert and has a wide reputation for resourcefulness and courage.

While every radio station in Norway and in Russia, particularly in Siberia, strained every attention to catch some radio word from Italia, nothing was heard. There were all sorts of rumors in Oslo as to the fate of the airship, but all of these lacked confirmation.

Further light on a mysterious message picked up in California yesterday reporting that the Italia was in distress and asking for help was shed today by receipt of word at Washington that the United States naval transport Chaumont, stationed near Tientsin, China, had picked up an almost identical message last night.

Supreme Court Balks at Giving Boy Answer to Strange Question

SOMERVILLE, N. J., May 28. (US)—Although the legal question that he put to the department at Washington remains unanswered, Gilbert Smith, Jr., 12-year-old Somerville school boy, was the proud recipient today of a letter from Chief Justice Taft.

In history class last week Gilbert wanted to know which country would have jurisdiction if the French ambassador at Washington were murdered by the English ambassador. No one could tell him. When a former judge and a former county prosecutor could not answer the question Gilbert decided to go to the highest legal authority.

Gilbert got little satisfaction from the latter other than the signature. Justice Taft advised him to pay more attention to his routine school work than to solving problems of diplomatic homicide.

Senate Sharply Raps Treasury For Its Failure to Collect Taxes in Oil Deal

Walsh Report Branding Continental Trading Company Transaction "Contemptible" Is Adopted by Solons.

WASHINGTON, May 28. (UP)—"A contemptible private steal," was the characterization given the Continental Trading company oil deal of 1921 by the senate public lands committee, which conducted the Teapot Dome investigation.

The report criticized the treasury department for failing to collect income taxes.

"No explanation has been offered for the failure of the treasury for nearly three years to exact payments of the tax due from the transaction," the report said.

Suit Was Needed

"A suit brought against the distributees would have brought out all the essential facts developed by the committee affording as it would an opportunity to examine under oath the participants in the unsavory affair, including Blackmer and O'Neil before they fled beyond the seas."

The report was prepared by Senator Walsh of Montana, Democrat, who acted as prosecutor of the committee, and was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Impenetrable Veil

The committee admitted its inability to penetrate behind the mystery of the formation of the sham company and gave as the reason, "Because Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, and Harry Sinclair refused to tell."

A second reason why the committee was unable to ascertain the reason for formation of the company was that two other participants, H. W. Blackmer and James E. O'Neil, had fled the country, the report continued.

Supplemental Report

Although the report made no recommendations for further legislation or for further criminal prosecutions of those involved, Chairman Nye of the committee announced he would present a supplemental report suggesting:

Amendments of the corrupt practices act to require accurate accounting of political receipts and expenditures each year; tightening of tax collection laws; a law requiring approval by congress of all leases of public lands and revision of criminal court procedure so as to avoid delays in prosecution.

$25,000 LOSS IN FIRE HERE

Three Buildings Wrecked In Early Morning Blaze

Fire destroyed one building and damaged two others in the 300 block on Indiana at 1 o'clock Monday morning. The loss is estimated at $25,000, and the cause is unknown.

The building occupied by the Sherly Parham filling station and the old J. D. Shearer welding shop was destroyed, and the rear of the Wichita Junk company, owned by L. Wolfson, and the rear of the J. E. Ward filling station were damaged.

Roused out of their sleep, the F. Hauer family across the street, fled from home as Mr. Hauer turned in the alarm.

Gasoline tank explosions in cars in the Parham shop caused a general alarm to be turned in, and soon every piece of fire fighting equipment in the city was at the fire.

The one story frame building which housed the garage, formerly housed also the welding shop. This property and the filling station on the corner were valued at $15,000, according to Mrs. J. E. Ward, wife of the owner of the property. Mr. Ward is out of town, having gone to Pecos, Texas, Sunday morning.

The garage building, where the fire started, also was the home of John Turner, 70, who escaped by breaking a window, neighbors said.

The fire spread rapidly to the rear of the junk yard and to the filling station. However, the quick work of the fire department stopped the damage to these places in a few minutes, and inside of 30 minutes the fire was over.

FILIBUSTER IN SENATE AGAIN

Dawes Decides Deadlock On Adjournment

WASHINGTON, May 28. (US)—The making of an all-night filibuster against Boulder dam was in progress late tonight, following the senate dramatic refusal to adjourn.

In its decision to stay in session to complete the transaction of public business the senate had earlier repudiated both its Republican and Democratic leaders.

The final decision was made by Vice President Dawes under tense and unforeseen conditions which enabled him to cast the deciding vote. The court had stood 40 to 40 before Dawes acted.

Following the Dawes decision, opponents of the Boulder dam legislation immediately started their filibuster to prevent the senate's acting on the legislation.

Late this afternoon Senator Hayden, Democrat, of Arizona, took the floor. He continued until 5:15 o'clock when Senator Heflin started a forty-five minute speech assailing Governor Smith of New York.

At 6 o'clock Hayden resumed his filibuster, prepared with the aid of anti-Boulder dam senators to continue their battle until noon tomorrow.

He was still speaking late tonight.

Officers were notified at once. Justice of the Peace John E. Head held the inquest. Seven children survive, ranging in age from 2 to 20 years. The couple came here from Louise about 8 months ago.

Anti-Hoover Publisher Accused Of "Irregularities" While Pro Agent

WASHINGTON, May 28. (UP)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, told the senate campaign investigating committee today that Frank J. Hale, publisher of "Politics," an anti-Hoover magazine, was dismissed from the prohibition service because of reported irregularities in his operations.

"The government has information," she said, "that Hale got $5 a case for the liquor he allowed two runners, named Red Harris and Ed Reibert, to enter the country at Long Island."

She said Hale was appointed a prohibition agent in 1922 and almost immediately was under investigation by the treasury intelligence unit. When Lincoln C. Andrews became assistant secretary in charge of prohibition enforcement, Hale was promoted," she said.

on May 11 in two planes, piloted by Noel Wien of Fairbanks and R. S. Merrill of Anchorage. The relief plane, after leaving Kotzebue on Norton Sound late Friday, flew into the void, so far as communications were concerned.

Nieminen had tentatively planned to stop at Wainwright, 100 miles southwest of Point Barrow, to take on additional gasoline. Heyser was to establish communication as soon as possible after their arrival at Barrow. He had a wireless transmitting set in the plane.

Members of the film company on the expedition were Jack Robertson and A. V. Hart, directors, and Charles G. Clarke, camera man. Hart was to have returned for Ewing Scott and R. G. Wise, the remaining members of the party. Leaving Robertson and Clarke at Barrow.

Nothing has been heard of the party since it left Wiseman. Fears were expressed that the planes might have been forced down in an isolated country or have been damaged in landing at Barrow, as they were equipped with wheels, not skiis. There is no regular wireless communication with Barrow.

Exiled Russian Author Cheered By Thousands Upon Return Home

MOSCOW, May 28. (AP)—Huge crowds of workmen and students cheered Maxim Gorky, famous writer, as Nicolai Bucharin, head of the left wing of the soviet central committee, embarked and kissed him on his arrival this afternoon at Alexandrovsky station. Gorky came from Minsk, which he reached earlier in the day after having virtually been exiled from Russia for many years.

The noted author attempted to address a greeting to the multitudes through a radio apparatus placed on an improvised platform in front of the station, but his weak voice proved unequal to the task. He said merely:

"You cannot hear me. I shall write what I want to tell you."

The demonstration proved one of the largest ever accorded any one in Moscow.

Years ago Gorky incurred the enmity of the czarist regime for his activity in anti-government propaganda. When the bolsheviki came into power he attacked them, but later was won over to the new order of things. He had suffered in health, however, and was obliged to leave Russia to reside in a milder climate. Singing Bootlegger Sends Defying Verse To Police Chief

LOS ANGELES, May 28. (US) A versifying bootlegger is being sought by the district attorney's liquor squad.

A large cardboard box was delivered to Captain George Contreras. Fears that it might contain a bomb were dispelled when squeals came from the package.

The box contained a six-months-old pig. Tied to a foot was the following note:

"Some pigs are blind, some pigs can see; if you want a blind pig just try and find me.

(Signed) RED EYE."

The pig refused milk. Officers believe that, as a bootlegger's pig, it will eat only mash.

"We'll have to 'knock over' a still to get it supper," said Contreras.

COUNTY SPLITS KERR FUNDS

Four Precincts Divide $17,531 Equally

Distribution of the trust fund held by the district clerk and released when the accounts of A. F. Kerr were adjusted was made by the county commissioners court in session Monday.

Match Striking Barred

An order that all persons seen striking matches or otherwise defacing the walls of the courthouse be arrested by the sheriff or other county officers and prosecuted by the county attorney also was passed by the board. County Auditor E. P. Walsh was ordered to have the proper signs printed and placed about the building.

Of the Kerr account trust fund of $18,581.62, a total of $17,531.62 was distributed equally between the four precincts of the county after Judge E. W. Nicholson had broken a tie in an argument over the method of distribution. M. A. Bundy of Wichita Falls and H. H. Haynes of Electra had maintained that the money thus far released should be distributed on the same percentage basis as other county funds.

In order that the district clerk may be able to take care of any refunds necessitated from the trust fund $1000 was left in the fund. When this is exhausted, it was ruled, each precinct must bear an equal distribution on other refunds from the fund.

Guests at Dinner

A contract for the alteration of the sheriff's office and the district attorney's office, involving an expenditure of $778.14, went to A. C. King. This contract was awarded on recommendation of the grand jury of the April term of the 30th district court.

Recessing at noon, the commissioners were the guests of L. N. Jerrigan, superintendent of the county farm, at dinner. Later the commissioners were shown over the county farm.

The court adjourned Monday afternoon to reconvene Tuesday to continue work as a board of equalization.

Texans to See Partial Eclipse

On June 3 residents of western United States may see a total eclipse of the moon, but folk in eastern states will be denied a view of it, and must wait for another eclipse Nov. 27. The map shows the areas in which the June 3 eclipse will be totally or partially visible.

Western U. S. to See Lunar Eclipse On June 3, First of Two During 1928

By ROBERT H. BAKER
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

URBANA, Ill., May 27.—A total eclipse of the moon will occur on June 3 early in the morning.

It will be visible in the western states and in Alaska, while only the partial phase preceding totality will appear in the middle west. No eclipse at all will be seen in the eastern states and in the region of the Great Lakes.

Lunar eclipses take place when the moon passes through the earth's shadow. This conical shadow stretches nearly a million miles into space, in the direction away from the sun. At the moon's distance it is 5700 miles across, so that the moon, with a diameter of only 2160 miles, may be entirely immersed in it.

The eclipse begins at 2:18 a. m. Pacific standard time on June 3, when the moon enters the earth's shadow. Two or three minutes later a dark notch of the shadow will be plainly visible at the moon's eastern edge.

At 3:31 Pacific time the moon is completely immersed. Total eclipse continues until 4:48, when the moon begins to emerge. The eclipse ends at 6 o'clock.

To these times add one hour to obtain Mountain standard times, two hours for central time, three hours for eastern time. Add another hour if daylight saving time is used.

Since the moon sets on the morning of June 3 between 4 and 5 o'clock, depending on the observer's latitude, it is evident that the eclipse does not begin until after the moon has set in the eastern part of the country.

Those who are unable to see the spectacle in June will not have long to wait, however, for another appearance. A second total eclipse of the moon is predicted for November 27, and all phases of that eclipse will be visible throughout North America.

Three solar eclipses occur also during the present year, but none of them affect our part of the world. A total eclipse on May 19 was so near the south pole that it could hardly have been observed by anyone. A small partial eclipse will appear on June 17 in northern Asia; less than four per cent of the sun's disk will be obscured. Another partial eclipse of the sun on November 12 will be visible only in Europe and central Asia.

Since solar eclipses are produced when the moon passes between the earth and the sun, at the new phase, and since lunar eclipses occur when the moon is opposite the sun, at the full phase, it may not be at once obvious why we do not have eclipses every month, as often as the moon is new and full.

The reason is that the moon's path around the earth is slightly inclined to the earth's path around the sun. Consequently eclipses are impossible except during a few weeks at two opposite seasons of the year.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the addition of 60 new books to the library of the local Y. W. C. A., which have been collected through the efforts of Mrs. E. B. Gorsline, chairman of the educational board of the association. Mrs. Gorsline collected the books from the various clubs of the city who had used them in study courses of previous years.

WOMEN still reserve the ancient right to change their minds as many times and at any time they deem fit. Marie Theresa has had her eye on the club women of the city who were planning to attend the Biennial of Women's clubs in San Antonio which opened there Monday and was unable to check up on the number and personnel until after the opening of the convention.

Saturday one of the best known club women in the city came up to the office of the Times-Record News and announced her intention to attend the biennial—if—. She thought she would go and that only two days ago she had changed her mind, and now she was about to change it again. So—this morning Marie Theresa called her and found that she was at home cleaning house instead of taking up part of the dust between here and San Antonio. What goes for that particular lady might as well be said for the remainder who planned to go.

Anyway, I called 'em again today and took the word of their families for their being out-of-town.

OVER the telegraph wire comes the story of a woman who sued her husband for libel and who was told by the courts that there is no such thing as a man libeling his wife. Each day we live we learn something new. Lately this column has heard of several things for which a woman cannot sue her husband. Whether these laws, or lack of laws, are a relic of past days or whether there is great justice in giving men a little legal protection, I can't say, but it is funny.

The popular opinion is that woman gets the better of a court fight with her husband, ordinarily. Probably wives would be wise to read up on law and learn when to go to court and when to stay clear of legal aid.

"Never-fail" Recipe for Crushed Strawberry Jam

Once you have tried the new short-boil method of making jams and jellies with Certo you will discard the old tedious, uncertain way as an out-of-date piece of kitchen drudgery.

Ten glasses of the most delicious Strawberry Jam can be made by the following recipe quickly, easily and with perfect results every time.

Crush about 2 quarts of berries one layer at a time so that each berry is actually crushed or broken up to a pulp. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil, and prevents fruit rising to the top or floating. Best results are obtained by running berries through a food chopper. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into a large kettle, add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard from 1 to 2 minutes, remove from fire and stir in ½ cup Certo. Skim and stir constantly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot paraffin wax.

Certo is the natural jellying substance which has been extracted from fruit, refined and bottled so that perfect jams and jellies can be made without long boiling.

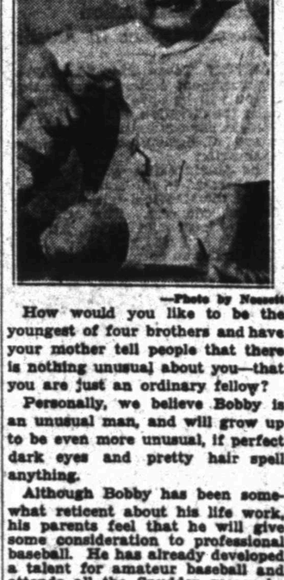

Recommended by a famous expert in cookery

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal, Miss Farmer's School of Cookery and Cooking Editor, Woman's Home Companion, says—

"I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because: It's easier—Takes only one minute's boiling. Tastes better—No flavor boiled away. Better color—Not darkened by long boiling. No worry—Never fails to set. It's economical—Fifty per cent more from given amount of fruit and no waste from failures."

Get Certo today from your grocer. With each bottle comes a complete book of recipes for making better looking, better flavored jams and jellies the quick, easy Certo way.

Young Wichita Falls

How would you like to be the youngest of four brothers and have your mother tell people that there is nothing unusual about you—that you are just an ordinary fellow?

Personally, we believe Bobby is an unusual man, and will grow up to be even more unusual, if perfect dark eyes and pretty hair spell anything.

Although Bobby has been somewhat reticent about his life work, his parents feel that he will give some consideration to professional baseball. He has already developed a talent for amateur baseball and attends all the Spudder games he can manage.

Bobby is three years old and is the youngest of four boys, the older members of the family being Homer, Travis and Quincy Lee. They are the attractive sons of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lee, 1510 Hays street.

Unloved Wife Is in Worse Fix Than Jilted Flapper, Says Dorothy

Should an Unwilling Bridegroom Go Through With the Ceremony or Admit His Feelings to the Girl?—Advice to a Modern Girl on How to Catch a Husband—The Problem of Two-faced Miss Seventeen.

Dear Miss Dix—John and Mary became very fond of each other and live together in what might be called a companionate marriage. John respects and admires Mary, but is certain he doesn't love her and is certain that it is only pity and sympathy and a desire to do the right thing by her that makes him feel that he should marry her.

Now the question is: Should John lay the facts before Mary and tell her how he really feels toward her or not? Is he fair to himself or is he fair to the girl in marrying her under the circumstances?

—HERBERT.

Answer: I think that the honorable thing for John to do is to tell Mary exactly how he feels about her, and that if Mary is as honorable as he is she will refuse to marry him. I think that no woman who has a spark of decency in her wants to marry a man who has grown tired of her and who is an unwilling bridegroom.

The man who marries a woman from a sense of duty always makes a futile sacrifice, because it does no good. It wrecks her life just as much as it does him. In giving up his happiness he does not secure hers, because no wife is happy knowing that her husband has married her upon compulsion; that his heart holds no affection for her; that her caresses bore him, and that she is even physically distasteful to him.

There are plenty of men like your hypothetical John who marry women who they know love them because they are sorry for the poor things and cannot bear to hurt them. Or they feel some sense of obligation to the women. Or they think that just to be married to them will be enough for the women.

But this is all a terrible mistake. To be an unloved wife is far worse than to be jilted. To be married for pity is the most humiliating experience that can possibly come to a woman. And to be a wife in name only is the loneliest experience in the world. What a woman wants of marriage is not just a wedding ring and a marriage certificate. She wants the companionship of her husband, the knowledge that his life is bound up in hers and that he finds in her all that he wants of affection.

I do not believe that any man who marries a woman from a sense of duty ever makes her happy.

He may be a good husband to her in the sense of providing for her and considering her pleasure by taking her to the places she wants to go and by not beating her or abusing her. That much he can force himself to do. Perhaps, if he is a Sentimental Tommy, he can even remember to say to himself: "This is the occasion when a man who loved his wife would kiss her." Or on a moonlight night he might say: "This is the time when a man who is fond of his wife would put his arms around her and say something poetic."

But no life is such a poor judge of love that she cannot tell the synthetic from the real, and no woman, no matter how much she lies to herself, ever fails to know when a man has ceased to care for her.

And while a man may make the heroic gesture of marrying the woman he feels in honor bound to marry, not one man in a million can keep from showing her that he resents having to do so. Dying for a woman is one thing; living with her is another. And keeping up day after day a pretense of the love and tenderness, the interest, the joy and companionship one has ceased to feel is too much a strain for ordinary human nature to endure. It takes the stuff of which martyrs are are made to get away with it.

Furthermore, there is always the danger, the almost certainty, that sooner or later the man will meet some woman with whom he will really fall in love, and there is the disaster of three broken hearts instead of one.

In this particular instance John and Mary both seem to have been of mature age and to have entered into their relationship with their eyes wide open. In such a case I do not see why the man is not as free to break off the liason when he is tired of it as the woman would be.

And, at any rate, probably Mary would scorn to be made an "honest woman of," as the old Victorian phrase went, at the expense of being made an unloved wife. Doubtless she would say with the heroine of a recent novel who confronted such a situation: "I won him like a woman. I will lose him like a lady." —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a woman of 28, cultured, attractive, sympathetic. Do not smoke, drink or pet. Extremely fond of children and quiet home life. Have had many men acquaintances, but not one of them has actually said, "Will you marry me?" partly because I did not encourage them, for I have felt that the man should do all the running after the girl he likes.

But now I feel that I would like to marry, and the advice I would like from you is this: Shall I sit still and wait for some man to chase after me or shall I do the chasing or shall I just wait for Fate to decide the question? Do you believe that marriages are made in heaven? —JANE.

Answer: I believe that heaven helps those who help themselves—in getting married as in everything else in life, Jane.

We would all get mighty hungry and mighty ragged if we sat down and folded our hands and waited for the ravens to feed us on filet mignon and for Paris clothes to grow on our backs. Our guardian angels only get busy when we hustle out after what we want ourselves. If you will observe, you will see

"Sweetest Baby in Texas!"

For over fifty years, mothers, like this well-known Texas woman, have been telling each other about California Fig Syrup, and leading physicians have been endorsing it. Nothing else acts so gently and harmlessly to propel the souring waste from the delicate system of babies and children, which, when allowed to remain, keeps them cross, feverish, bilious, headachy, weak, with coated tongue, bad breath, broken-out skin, no appetite or energy. Its rich, fruity goodness helps to give tone and strength to their little stomach and bowels so they continue to act normally, of their own record. It helps to build up and strengthen them—makes them active and happy.

"I have used California Fig Syrup with my little daughter since early babyhood," says Mrs. L. D. Smith, 109 S. Calaveras street, San Antonio. "Whenever she has a cold, is the least bit constipated or doesn't seem just right, I always give her a little, and it fixes her up quick. She's the picture of health, now, and friends say she's the sweetest baby in Texas. She has never had a serious illness, and I give California Fig Syrup full credit for it."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. See that the carton bears the word "California."

With the last delegation of Wichita Falls club women having left Monday morning to attend the biennial of the General Federation of Women's clubs to be held in San Antonio May 28 to June 7, inclusive, the city will be creditably represented at the convention which will claim more than 5000 women from over the union and from 14 foreign countries.

Among the club women of Wichita Falls who are attending the biennial are the following: Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, president of the Woman's Forum here, Mrs. E. W. Wade, Mrs. C. W. Snider, Mrs. Fred Barron who was accompanied by her three children, Miss Mary Virginia Barron, Miss Elsie Faye Barron and Fred Barron, Jr., Mrs. Guy Rogers, Mrs. O. T. Goraline, Mrs. F. P. Langford and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Langford, Mrs. Carrie Joline, Mrs. Clande B. Woods, Mrs. J. Y. Holbrook and Mrs. Ola G. Hamlin.

The first general meeting will be held Tuesday evening when routine business matters will be taken up, and working plans for the biennial will be announced. But activities for Texas club women began Saturday afternoon when a tea was held in the Menger hotel for the delegates of the hostess state. The interim between the first meeting Tuesday evening and the opening of the biennial will be filled with committee sessions and with various functions of entertainment and welcome.

Registration of delegates began at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon in the exhibit hall of the Municipal auditorium. The following program will be given at the opening session of the biennial Tuesday evening: "What Next in Public Instruction," by Miss Annie Webb Blanton of the University of Texas; "The Nature of the Home" by Dr. J. Hillis Slaughter of Rice Institute, Houston; "An Old Method and a New Mission," by Mrs. Maggie W. Barry of College Station.

Every department program which goes through morning, afternoon and evening sessions, is attended by special luncheons. Each department luncheon will have a large and elaborate program dwelling upon the various phases of the work, with speakers of national and international fame.

The women of San Antonio working through 42 standing committees and under the direction of the executive committee of the Texas biennial board, Mrs. Henry Drought, chairman, has everything in readiness for the opening of the convention.

The last days of the week, the Municipal auditorium was in the hands of the decorative committee with Mrs. George Willis, chairman, and of the general equipment committee, Mrs. Wade H. Lewis, chairman, and loads of special equipment were moved in. The properties committee, with Mrs. J. E. King, chairman, has been busy unpacking and receiving material from all parts of the United States.

Women of national reputation in club work have arrived in San Antonio, among them Mrs. Frederick W. Weitz of Des Moines, Iowa, publicity chairman of the general federation; Mrs. John D. Sherman of Colorado Springs, Colo., president of the General federation; Mrs. John F. Sippel of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Edward Franklin White of Indianapolis, Ind., slated for the presidency for the coming term of office.

VAGUE FUTURE FOR CAL'S SON

College Senior Reticent About "Wedding"

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 28. (US)—John Coolidge, only son of President and Mrs. Coolidge, will be graduated from Amherst college next month. It has been rumored for many months that after finishing his course at Amherst he would continue his studies at Harvard law school.

Plans Vague

With much of his father's reserve and tactfulness of speech, combined with Mrs. Coolidge's graciousness, John frankly admitted his plans were vague. He said he did not think he would continue his studies at Harvard law school or at any other college. He intimated he would probably seek some business connection.

Mr. Coolidge—he will observe his twenty-second birthday on September 7—planned to talk with his father about his plans when at the White House for the easter vacations. This was not possible because he returned to Northampton with his mother, summoned to the bedside of his grandmother, Mrs. Lemira Barrett Goodhue, who suffered a relapse in Cooley Dickinson hospital three days after he arrived in the hospital.

Not Spoiled

John Coolidge is a typical American college youth, clean-cut, wholesome, and not in the least spoiled because his father is chief executive of the United States. During his four years at college he has lived at Mrs. Emma F. Lindsey's home in Northampton Road, Amherst.

John intimated he was not inclined to continue his studies. It was suggested he had read in the newspapers the report he might marry Miss Florence Trumbull, reputed to be his fiancee, although there has been no formal announcement "yet," as Miss Trumbull was recently quoted as saying.

Young Mr. Coolidge smiled broadly, and replied that the newspapers had them all married, but that Miss Trumbull was right when she added the word "yet." Asked if he resents publicity given his courtship, he said most newspapermen had been quite decent about the affair and that there had been no great effort to bother them although he added:

Fiancee Leaves

"I guess Florence has had her troubles with reporters."

Someone ventured:

"Miss Trumbull is sailing for Europe next month."

He seemed somewhat saddened by the thought and replied:

"Yes, she plans to be gone until September."

Only last Thursday Miss Trumbull motored to Amherst from her Plainville, Conn., home in her sport roadster and, with John at the wheel, came to Northampton, where they took Mrs. Coolidge and her neighbor and close friend, Mrs. R. B. Hills, for a ride along nearby country roads.

John has frequently been a week-end visitor at the home of Governor and Mrs. John H. Trumbull in Plainsville. He admitted this was virtually the only social activity he had attempted this spring.

Members of Wesley Class Hold Party Monday Afternoon

Members of the Wesley Bible class of the First Methodist church, South, were guests at a novel party Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. McCallister, 1822 Lucile street.

The occasion was an heirloom party when members brought heirlooms and told interesting stories of their origin and history. Among antiques brought were old jewelry, old bits of furniture and handwork. An old album and a rawhide chair were among the unusual heirlooms displayed.

The party was staged on the porch of the McCallister home where baskets of wild flowers added to the attractiveness of the outdoor scene.

A business meeting preceded the social hour when reports were heard from officers and committees and plans were laid for future welfare work. It was decided to hold morning meetings during the summer months.

Those present were: Mesdames Homer Burnett, W. C. Dillard, J. T. Long, C. E. Basham, L. I. Lucey, N. S. Chapman, W. M. Brock, W. O. Milton, R. O. Greer, J. T. Gullshorn, J. W. Cooper, F. L. Mercer, W. W. Silk, W. C. Russell, Lloyd Steinmann of Denver, Colo., T. P. Lynch, J. A. McFall, J. E. O'Brien, J. B. McKinley, E. B. Ashrack, J. C. Hanks, Phil F. Lesh, Guy Raley, R. M. Morrow, E. H. Service Held For Robert Ferguson

Funeral services for Robert Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ferguson, 1002 Broad street, who died Saturday as the result of injuries received in an accident on the Ferguson ranch near Springer, N. M., were held from the First Christian church at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon with Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Riverside cemetery.

Mr. Ferguson, manager of the ranch, was riding a horse when the animal stumbled over a calf, throwing Mr. Ferguson to the ground. His father and Dr. R. L. Hargrave left here Friday in an airplane and the injured man was brought back to Wichita Falls Saturday in the plane. He died Saturday without having regained consciousness.

Mr. Ferguson is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ferguson; three sisters, Aubrey, Ruth and Mary Ferguson, and one brother, J. B. Ferguson. All were here for the funeral.

CHIC CHERIE — Cherie Hunts a Fashion — LATEST FASHIONS

As for the scenery of Paris—it's been there for hundreds of years, but this season's styles are new and won't last long. That's why you see Cherie at one of her favorite couturieres examining intently this printed frock with the cape-flounce on the blouse. Cherie wears a suit frock of black and white silk crepe with a large hat.

There were other dresses Cherie fancied, too. A tiny print on a black background is especially appealing when made into the form-fitting frock on the left with trailing pansis and pleated skirt. The dark gown is black with a blue insert on the blouse and one blue panel in the skirt—of satin. The flowered evening gown is chiffon.

The draped neckline and the pointed lines of fagoting are the fashion features of the afternoon dress in the rear—and we should like to have you appreciate the fact that we are giving you a side view of that hat of Cherie's. It's made of milan and velvet and the way the brim swoops is masterly—it's not only wide, but modishly so.

The question is about the dress by the young woman under the light. It's a simple frock—so simple that Cherie can hardly understand Madame when she says that it will take three weeks to copy it for her. Cherie's French isn't what it might be but—is it really possible that she has found a good excuse for staying in Paris three weeks?

Commercial Executives Foster Plan To Boost South Plains at C-C Meet

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, May 28.—Thirty-seven towns in the South Plains district of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce plan to cooperate in advertising both the section as a whole and their own individual towns at the annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Fort Worth, June 18, 19 and 20.

The move is being fostered by the South Plains Commercial Executives association, composed of all presidents, directors and secretaries of chambers of commerce in the section.

The idea was first suggested at a regular meeting of the organization at Lamesa May 10 and the executive committee was instructed by the executives association to work out the details.

One Hearquarters

The committee is composed of Mrs. Paul T. Miller, Tahoka, chairman: Ed Bishop, Floydada, Wm. A. Wilson, Lamesa, and John D. Bird, Ralls.

The committee met in Lubbock May 22 and worked out plans and will call on all chambers of commerce of the section to join in the movement.

Instead of having individual headquarters scattered all over the convention town, the South Plains towns will ask for one big headquarters for the entire section. The headquarters sign will read: "South Plains of Texas" and will have the names of all the towns joining in the movement arranged on this sign in alphabetical order.

Parade Float

All towns cooperating in the movement will wear a uniform arm band carrying the lettering, "South Plains of Texas," in addition to any individual badges, arm bands and other identification advertising their respective towns.

One mammoth float will be entered in the annual parade to carry banners on each side, the "South Plains of Texas." Seats for the "Princess" will carry a banner showing the town she represents.

Word from Fort Worth states that from fifty to sixty thousand delegates are expected at the convention and the South Plains expects to be well represented in this number.

Prosperous Season Faces Harmon County Farmers

HOLLIS, Okla., May 28.—Prospects for a good crop could hardly be more favorable than they are at this time in Harmon county, due to the good rains received recently. Although the rains were too late to be of any benefit to wheat, oats, barley or rye, planting conditions for cotton, maize and other row crops, are most favorable.

Club Boys of Six Counties to Hold Encampment at Diversion Lake

Special to The Record News.

BELLEVUE, May 28.—Clay county will hold its annual club encampment at the Diversion dam, near Wichita Falls, on June 27, 28 and 29.

Five other counties, including Wichita county, will have their club boys at the camp with the Clay county boys.

One day will be spent in judging livestock. The boys will not carry food as before, but there will be an expert cook and plenty of good food and each boy is to pay 25 cents for each meal. This will give them more time to devote to work. Each boy will be provided with a cot and tent to sleep in. The county agent of Clay county, Mr. G. R. McNeil, is expecting all club boys to join in this encampment.

DALLAS COUNTY

"With the exception of George C. Purl, the entire list of delegates and alternates asked by Dallas county was swept aside and other substituted," reads a Beaumont dispatch. "Purl is one distict delegate, Sharp of Ellis county, the other. Sharpe was a caucus choice. The delegate picking committee at first turned down Purl, who was recommended by the district caucus and put on George Sargent, the recommendation of the county convention. Moody was said to have been displeased with Purl's speech and felt that he was too closely alligned with the Love forces." It will be recalled that Purl, holding a proxy started the big row in the city of Austin when the Wilcox committee made the test. Purl has been the chief spokesman for Love and is said to be just as bitter in his attitude toward the governor as is Larry Mills, another Love boomer from Dallas county.

IN FIGHTING SHAPE

All things considered the party of Jefferson finds itself in fighting shape in Texas ready for the battles to come this year. There are some few men and women who may sulk and bolt. There are political fence jumpers in every campaign. It is a condition of mind and not a condition of logic or fundamentals. If Governor Smith is nominated, Boss Love may bolt. He is just as grim a political fighter as Love.

FARM RELIEF

President Coolidge vetoed the farm relief bill, with language fully as emphatic as he used in disproving the measure a year ago centering attack upon the constitutionality of the bill. The president informed the senate that the equalization fee of the bill was a sales tax and that no board could resist the political pressure which would be placed upon it to boost prices above norami. Farmer Frank O. Lowden of Illinois is the farm relief contender for the Republican presidential nomination. He has said that he would not accept the nomination if the Kansas City convention if the Kansas City convention declared against the farm relief legislation that the Republican farmers of the country demand. President Coolidge has spoken. Herbert Hoover stand with Coolidge and all the surface signs are that Hoover will be the Republican standard bearer in the campaign.

The Record News Staff Poet

A Would-Be Writer's Lament.

The things I write are little ships
That journey through the mails,
To distant ports they make their trips,
But come back with rejection slips,
Pinned to their post-marked sails.

And while they're gone, I wait and wait,
In hopes some editor, discerning,
Their merits will appreciate,
And load them with the proper freight,
For their voyage returning.

And sometimes when the homeward trek
Is not as prompt as it might be,
I like to think there'll be a check
In handsome figures, on the deck,
When it comes back to me.

Yet when my galleys homeward fare,
I do not murmur nor complain,
Nor do I weep and tear my hair,
I just pretend I do not care,
And send them forth again.

One-Minute Sermon

I communed with mine own heart, saying, Lo, I am come to great estate, and have gotten more wisdom than all they that have been before me in Jerusalem: yea, my heart had great experience of wisdom and knowledge.

And I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness and folly: I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit.

For in much wisdom is much grief: and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow.—Ecclesiastes, i, 16-18.

The New School House

A SCHOOL HOUSE, once upon a time, was a plain building containing several rows of desks and a few blackboards. It was used for educating children and had no secondary uses.

But changing times have made the school house over into something else again. A memorandum from the department of the interior points out that the school houses now are fast converted into community centers, with facilities for directing and organizing the spare time activities of many people, young and old.

Playgrounds, more and more, are centering about the schoolhouses. Extension study clubs for adults meet there. The main auditorium of a school house is often used as a theater and lecture hall in the evenings. The gymnasium ministers to the need of youngsters long after school hours.

Truly, the times are changing. No longer do a few rows of desks and a blackboard or two make a school house. Indeed, they sometimes seem the least important bits of furniture in the place.

German Plane Fare

MILTON BRONNER, European correspondent of this paper and NEA Service, writes of the new non-stop Berlin to Paris air line, operated by the famous German Luft Hansa company.

Commodious new planes carry passengers from Berlin to Paris in less than six hours—well under half the regular train time. The fare likewise, is less than railroad fare between the two points.

An American, naturally, is moved to ask why our lines can't do as well. They do in point of speed, of course; but fares remain considerably higher than railroad fares in this country, and they probably will for some time.

The answer, of course, is that the Hansa, like all European air lines, gets a government subsidy. It can charge low fares because the government guarantees it a profit. In this country an air line must pay its own way. That explains the difference in fares. Our lines are more expensive to use; yet, after all, they are being established on a healthier basis.

Crime and Quackocracy

THE Illinois Association for Criminal Justice has been making public some very interesting facts about Chicago.

A report on "organized crime" in the middle-western metropolis, just published, ought to be excellent reading for those people who believe that our democracy has surmounted its hardest problems and is now coasting gently along toward the millenium.

This report shows that Chicago has been in the grip of its criminal overlords for a good 20 years; that the leaders of this precious gang ordinarily have longer, and more secure, terms of office than city officials enjoy; that gangsters are active for a few years and then retire as multi-millionaires; that bootlegging, vice and gambling interests have a skillfully interlocked machine that piles up profits at the rate of some $13,500,000 a year.

All of this would be amazing if we already had not reached the point where we expect almost anything from Chicago.

The great danger to us who live outside of Chicago is that we are apt to adopt the attitude of the Pharisee, thanking God that our cities are not as Chicago is, and then forgetting the whole business.

Chicago is in a class by itself, of course. Yet it is only what many other cities are in maniature. Chicago's troubles did not come by some maleficent miracle; they came logically as developments from the regular, time-honored American municipal system.

It is too easy to blame the whole thing on crooked politicians, bootleggers and the like. Back of all these elements lies one major cause—the indifference and blindness of the voter. And Chicago has no monopoly on that.

The truth of the matter seems to be that democracy came to us a little bit before we were ready for it. Our national history to date has been the story of our blundering effort to make democracy work. We've made some progress, and we shall make a great deal more; just at present, however, we are making plenty of mistakes.

Carlyle, dating the birth of democracy from the American and French revolutions, predicted that it would have to go through two centuries of "quackocracy" before it could function properly. Perhaps he was right. Chicago's municipal mess, which is only an enlarged photograph of what nearly all cities suffer, is one of quackocracy's inevitable manifestations. We won't get rid of it until we have learned a bit more about our duties as citizens of a democracy.

THE "HOME TOWN" POLITICIAN

We note one senatorial candidate sending out a little booklet exploiting his platform, on the back cover of which appears an advertisement of a Louisville, Ky., printing concern. All over Texas there are printing houses who do as good and better printing as the booklet referred to, and we fail to understand just how this candidate expects to attract votes using such disloyal tactics. He ought to run well in Kentucky.

—Clarendon (Texas) News.

CHEERS FOR THE DOLEFUL

"Welcome, Undertakers," was the banner clear across the top of the front page recently in the Mineral Wells Index. We didn't know whether our genial friend, Col. Sam Miller, had grown a-waery of this world and was ready to exclaim "Oh, death, where is thy sting; oh grave, thy victory." With dire forebodings, we read. But we were glad to learn that no dismal thoughts fretted the mind of the Mineral Wells editor. He was merely welcomning the undertakers and embalmers, who were holding their state convention in the city made famous by Crazy water.

—Eastland (Texas) Argus-Tribune.

DISINTERESTEDNESS AND POLITICS

The political conventions, in a way, were funny.

The usual loud talk of democracy, the individual voter's power, and the people, was there, while politicians jockied around to bend things to suit themselves.

The individual voter—that is, the majority of them—doesn't have a thing to say about the government or elections, because he isn't interested.

That is the answer to most political ills, and the answer to the whole law enforcement question.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Skeel's finger prints were found in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell, but Vance does not believe him guilty. It is proved later that Mannix, Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist all had been lying about their whereabouts the night of the murder. The truth comes out that Mannix had been calling on a young lady in an apartment adjoining the "Canary's;" that Cleaver had been in the building around midnight and that Dr. Lindquist, knowing that Spotswoode was calling on Margaret Odell, had planned in a jealous fit to kill him. But this plan was frustrated when Spotswoode jumped into a cab. Later a street cleaner finds Margaret Odell's jewels wrapped in a newspaper. The paper has punctured in it, suggesting that it came off a club reading rack.

CHAPTER XXXIX

When Swacker appeared, he asked that the club's steward be got immediately on the telephone. After a short delay, the connection was made. At the end of five minutes' conversation Markham hung up the receiver and gave Heath a baffled look.

"The club takes two Heralds. Both of yesterday's copies are there, on the rack.

"Didn't Cleaver once tell us he read nothing but the Herald—that and some racing-sheet at night?"

"I believe he did." Markham considered the suggestion. "Still, both the club Heralds are accounted for." He turned to Heath. "When you were checking up on Mannix, did you find out what clubs he belonged to?"

"Sure." The sergeant took out his note-book and riffled the pages for a minute or two. "He's a member of the Furriers' and the Cosmopolis."

Markham pushed the telephone toward him.

"See what you can find out."

Heath was fifteen minutes at the task.

"A blank," he announced finally. "The Furriers' don't use holders, and the Cosmopolis don't keep any back numbers."

"What about Mr. Skeel's clubs, sergeant?" asked Vance, smiling.

"Oh, I know the finding of that jewelry gums up my theory about Skeel," said Heath, with surly illnature. "But what's the good of rubbing it in? Still, if you think I'm going to give the bird a clean bill of health just because the Odell swag was found in a trash-can you're mighty mistaken. Don't forget we're watching the dude pretty close. He may have got leery, and tipped off some pal he'd cached the jewels with."

"I rather fancy the experienced Skeel would have turned his booty over to a professional receiver. But even had he passed it on to a friend, would this friend have been likely to throw it away because Skeel was worried?"

"Maybe not. But there's some explanation for those jewels being found, and when we get hold of it, it won't eliminate Skeel."

"No; the explanation won't eliminate Skeel," said Vance; "but—my word!—how it'll change his standing."

Heath contemplated him with shrewdly appraising eyes. Some thing in Vance's tone had apparently piqued his curiosity and set him to wondering. Vance had too often been right in his diagnosas of persons and things for the sergeant to ignore his opinions wholly.

But before he could answer, Swacker stepped alertly into the room, his eyes animated.

"Tony Skeel's on the wire, Chief, and wants to speak to you."

Markham, despite his habitual reserve, gave a start.

"Here, Sergeant," he said quickly. "Take that extension phone on the table and listen in."

He nodded curtly to Swacker, who disappeared to make the connection. Then he took up the receiver of his own telephone and spoke to Skeel.

For a minute or so he listened. Then, after a brief argument, he concurred with some suggestion that had evidently been made; and the conversation ended.

"Skeel crayes an audience, I gather," said Vance. "I've rather been expecting it, y' know."

"Yes. He's coming here tomorrow at 10."

"And he hinted that he knew who slew the Canary—eh, what?"

"That's just what he did say. He promised to tell me the whole story tomorrow morning."

"He's the lad in a position to do it," murmured Vance.

"But, Mr. Markham," said Heath, who still sat with his hand on the telephone, gazing at the instrument with dazed incredulity, "I don't see why you don't have him brought here today."

"As you heard, Sergeant, Skeel insisted on tomorrow, and threatened to say nothing if I forced the issue. It's just as well not to antagonize him. We might spoil a good chance of getting some light on this case if I ordered him brought here and used pressure. And tomorrow suits me. It'll be quiet around here then. Moreover, your man's watching Skeel, and he won't get away."

"I guess you're right, sir. The Dude's touchy, and he can give a swell imitation of an oyster when he feels like it." The sergeant spoke with feeling.

"I'll have Swacker here tomorrow to take down his statement," Markham went on; "and you'd better put one of your men on the elevator—the regular operator is off Sundays. Also, plant a man in the hall outside, and put another one in Swacker's office."

Vance stretched himself luxuriously and rose.

"Most considerate of the gentleman to call up at this time, don't y' know. I had a longing to see the Monets at Durand-Ruel's this afternoon, and I was afraid I wasn't going to be able to drag myself away from this fascinatin' case. Now that the apocalypse has been definitely scheduled for tomorrow, I'll indulge my taste for Impressionism. . . . A demain, Markham. Bye-bye, Sergeant."

(Sunday, September 16; 10 a. m.;

A fine drizzle was falling the next morning when we rose; and a chill—the first forerunner of winter—was in the air. We had breakfast in the library at half past eight, and at 9 o'clock Vance's car—which had been ordered the night before—called for us.

We rode down Fifth avenue, now almost deserted in its thick blanket of yellow fog, and called for Markham at his apartment in West 12th street. He was waiting for us in front of the house, and stepped quickly into the car with scarcely a word of greeting. From his anxious, preoccupied look I knew that he was depending a good deal on what Skeel had to tell him.

We had turned into West Broadway beneath the Elevated tracks before any of us spoke. Then Markham voiced a doubt which was plainly an articulation of his troubled ruminations.

"I'm wondering if, after all, this fellow Skeel can have any important information to give us. His phone call was very strange. Yet he spoke confidently enough regarding his knowledge. No dramatics, no request for immunity—just a plain, assured statement that he knew who murdered the Odell girl, and had decided to come clean."

"It's certain he himself didn't strangle the lady," pronounced Vance. "My theory, as you know, is that he was hiding in the clothespress when the shady business was being enacted; and all along I've clung lovingly to the idea that he was au secret to the entire proceedings."

"The keyhole of that closet door is on a direct line with the end of the davenport where the lady was strangled; and if a rival was operating at the time of his concealment, it's not unreasonable to assume that he peered forth—eh, what? I questioned him on this point, you remember; and he didn't like it a bit."

"But, in that case—"

"Oh, I know. There are all kinds of erudite objections to my wild dream. Why didn't he give the alarm? Why didn't he tell us about it before? Why this and why that? . . . I make no claim to omniscience, y' know; I don't even pretend to have a logical explanation. My theory is only sketched in, as it were. But I'm convinced, nevertheless, that the modish Tony knows who killed his bona roba and looted her apartment."

"But of the three persons who possibly could have got into the Odell apartment that night—namely Mannix, Cleaver and Lindquist—Skeel evidently knows only one—Mannix."

"Yes—to be sure. And Mannix, it would seem, is the only one of the trio who knows Skeel. . . . An interestin' point."

Heath met us at the Franklin street entrance to the criminal courts building. He, too, was anxious and subdued, and he shook hands with us in a detached manner devoid of his usual heartiness.

"I've got Snitkin running the elevator," he said, after the briefest of salutations. "Burke's in the hall upstairs, and Emery is with him, waiting to be let into Swacker's office."

We entered the deserted and almost silent building and rode up to the fourth floor. Markham unlocked his office door and we passed in.

"Guilfoyle, the man who's tailing Skeel," Heath explained, when we were seated, "is to report by phone to the homicide bureau as soon as the Dude leaves his rooms."

It was now 20 minutes to 10. Five minutes later Swacker arrived. Taking his stenographic notebook, he stationed himself just inside of the swinging door of Markham's private sanctum, where he could hear all that was said without being seen. Markham lit a cigar, and Heath followed suit.

Vance was already smoking placidly. He was the calmest person in the room, and lay back languorously in one of the great leather chairs as though immune to all cares and vicissitudes. But I could tell by the over-deliberate way he flicked his ashes into the receiver that he, too, was uneasy.

Five or six minutes passed in complete silence. Then the sergeant gave a grunt of annoyance.

"No, sir," he said, as if completing some unspoken thought. "I can't get a slant on this business. The finding of that jewelry, now, all nicely wrapped up . . . and then the Dude offering to squeal. . . . There's no sense to it."

"It's tryin', I know, Sergeant; but it's not altogether senseless." Vance was gazing lazily at the ceiling. "The chap who confiscated those baubles didn't have any use for them. He didn't want them, in fact—they worried him abominably."

The point was too complex for Heath. The previous day's developments had shaken the foundation of all his arguments; and he lapsed again into brooding silence.

At 10 o'clock he rose impatiently and, going to the hall door, looked out. Returning, he compared his watch with the office clock and began pacing restlessly. Markham was attempting to sort some papers on his desk, but presently he pushed them aside with an impatient gesture.

"He ought to be coming along now," he remarked, with an effort at cheerfulness.

"He'll come," growled Heath, "or he'll get a free ride." And he continued his pacing.

Flapper Ahead Of Unloved Wife

that no people are so lucky as the go-getters.

So if you want to get married my earnest advice to you is not to depend on any miracle being wrought in your behalf and the saints sending you a good husband, but to get busy corralling one yourself. Matches may possibly be made in heaven. They are manufactured wholesale on earth in the places where men and women are brought in daily contact.

Of course the old theory is that men are the chasers and women the chasees, that men pursue and women flee. But in reality, if the truth were told, the woman could oftener tell just how some particular man happened to chase her instead of some other girl than he could. She knows the arts and wiles she fluttered before his eyes to make him aware of her presence.

Judging from old novels and about what grandma says about the forward hussies of this day and how coy the girls were in her time, men used to admire girls who treated them with indifference and coldness, and the less interest a girl manifested in a man the more interest he felt in her.

But that plan doesn't work nowadays. Men are spoiled. They want to be fussed over and flattered and cajoled and made to feel that a woman appreciates them. And so you had better throw your dear Lady Disdain tactics into discard, and after you have picked your man go after him as you would after any other good thing you desired. If you don't, you are likely to have "spinster" engraved on your tombstone.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have a daughter of 17. When she is away from home she is the sweetest girl you ever saw; strangers are crazy about her. But just as soon as she gets in her own home she is the most selfish, mean, disagreeable person in the world. I am broken-hearted to think that she is growing up like she is, for is she ever gets married she will never get along with her husband. What can we do with her?

—BROKEN-HEARTED MOTHER.

Answer: Nothing but wait in the hope that this is a passing phase of adolescence and that time will teach her to be more considerate and appreciative of those at home.

But there are many girls like this, and you are right in thinking that they will the divorce courts. They put the best foot foremost before marriage and seem angels of sweetness and gentleness, but as soon as they are married they treat their husbands with the same selfishness and lack of consideration that they have shown to their mothers and fathers.

And husbands, not being as patient as parents, rebel, and another home is wrecked.

TOURISTS PAY OFF WAR DEBT

Americans Spend Huge Sums in Europe

By ALFRED P. RECK
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 28. (UP)—American tourists are paying off the European war debt, according to a survey of international finances, issued today by the department of commerce.

Last year foreign governments paid $206,000,000 on their world war debts owed the United States. During the same period of time American tourists, laughed at by foreign caricaturists because of their horn-rimmed glasses and knickers, spent $617,000,000 abroad.

Not only was cash supplied for war debts but money from the United States more than paid for the $514,000,000 interest on private loans.

World Bankers

The total of tourists' expenditures, freight payments to foreign countries, charitable contributions to foreign countries in disaster relief and missionary work, and the $206,000,000 remitted by immigrants to relatives at home, exactly offset the net amount paid by the foreigners for interest on private debts and upon their war debts to this government.

International trade, considered as a whole, the United States closed its books for 1927 with a capital balance of $671,000,000 abroad.

The little by-play in figures made by the commerce department revealed America in a heavy role as international banker and world capitalist.

Large Investments

America, according to the financial survey, daily underwrites more that $5,000,000 of foreign securities. The total of American investments abroad is estimated at from $11,500,000,000 to $13,500,000,000.

During 1927, the United States paid $32,000,000 in freight charges to foreign transportation companies. More than $43,000,000 was sent abroad in charitable and missionary contributions.

The chief influx in money came from new foreign investments in the United States amounting to $919,000,000, while at the same time America invested $1,648,000,000 abroad.

Shops Enriched

The tourist, however, proved to be the biggest money maker for foreign shop keepers and merchants. According to commerce department figures, 392,149 traveled overseas in 1927. The greatest amount of these traveled first and second class, with only 111,000 going third class.

The average first class tourist in 1927 spent $1867 abroad, the second class $963 and the third class $663. By circularizing all banks and institutions known to sell letters of credit and travelers checks, it was learned that the amount cashed abroad in 1927 totaled more than $289,000,000, besides approximately $375,000,000 carried in ready cash.

Mystery Shrouds Double Shooting at Tulsa

SAPULPA, Okla., May 28. (UP) Mystery surrounds the shooting of Arthur Bert of Millier, Mo., who was found by a watchman at the Sapulpa refinery early today when he drove his automobile to the refinery gate and slumped onto the floor of the car.

The man was taken to the hospital where he told attendants that he had been hijacked and shot. Tulsa officers questioned the man but could not talk to him on account of the seriousness of his injuries.

They said that a man named Butcher is in a Tulsa hospital suffering from gunshot wounds which he claims were received last night in a hijacking affair. They believe they can connect the stories of the two men when they are able to question the man at this hospital.

PLAN FOR HOP TO ANTARCTIC

Byrd's Plane Faces Many Dangers

By SAM LOVE
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 28. (UP)—Commander Richard E. Byrd, U. S. N., intends to land in his airplane, "Floyd Bennett," at the South Pole, if he can; but one projecting chunk of ice which would fit into any newlywed's refrigerator may wreck his plane and leave him there forever.

Commander Byrd admitted that this was true in an interview today in which for the first time he gave details of his projected south polar expedition and told what he hoped to accomplish and how he planned to escape should disaster befall him.

"Devil's Glacier"

The South Pole is as different from the North Pole as might be expected, and more. The ice extends 800 to 900 miles from the South Pole. The first 300 miles of ice is comparatively flat. Then arises a wall of ice that defies imagination. Up from the white plane rears "Devil's Glacier," which from its base to top is 10,000 feet. Behind it stretches the high plateau which includes the South Pole.

New Pilot

A hitherto unknown pilot named Harold I. June may step into Bennett's place in South Polar history. June has applied for the post and Byrd has approved his application, although the navy department has yet to act.

June has a rating as chief aviation pilot, with 900 hours on his flying card. He entered the navy as a wartime volunteer.

The others in the tri-motored Ford plane likely will be Commander Byrd and Bernt Balchen.

"But somebody is liable to beat us to it," said Byrd. "We are making the most careful preparations, but it is quite possible that some expedition with no particular preparations will beat us to the goal."

Plan Dangerous

"Our dash to the pole," said Byrd, "will be non-stop from our main base near the edge of the ice. I hope to land at the pole. That must depend on circumstances. It would be a difficult proceeding. If we try it and fail, we shall have to walk back."

The "Floyd Bennett" will carry a sledge and supplies for the emergency of being shipwrecked at the South Pole. Another relief plane will be held at the base.

Carries Shelter

Byrd plans to set up a machine shop at his main base near the Bay of Whales on the Ross ice barrier, about 800 miles from the pole. Supplies will be packed in three-ply boxes of a uniform size that can be converted into store houses and shelters. The expedition will be prepared to spend the 18 months there, at a temperature of 33 and more degrees below zero.

Byrd plans to bring supply tents—tents no larger than a child's play tent—at intervals of 25 miles up to the great glacier.

To Explore Region

A Fairchild camera will photograph and automatically map the flight to the pole, taking in a strip 10 to 20 miles wide. Byrd emphasized that the flight would not climax his exploration, in which he hopes to find out if the Antarctic "continent" is a real continent or merely a group of islands and to reach conclusions about ice thickness and wind conditions.

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By ESTELLE TAYLOR

When we think of Mrs. Mussolini we think of her "man of iron"; when we think of Peggy Joyce we think of husbands, domestic and foreign; but when we think of Estelle Taylor we think of a long count.

Before Estelle and Jack were hitched Dempsey said that he was going to quit fighting when he entered wedlock. But Jack had reasons to be optimistic then—he had never been married before.

"I was on location not long ago," Estelle told me, "making some farm scenes for my recent picture. The farmer's daughter used to come out and talk to me between scenes. It seems that a man working for her father had a terrible crush on her, and would take her in the buggy to see moving pictures in a neighboring town.

"'What do you think,' she told me one morning, 'last night when we were coming home from the movies the horse dropped dead. It was a terrible predicament, and I began to cry. Then Jim said if I'd let him give me a nice, sweet kiss it would put new life in me. I asked him if he was sure his kisses would put new life into me, and he said yes they certainly would!'

"'Well,' I asked, 'what did you do?'

"'I told him that if his kisses did that I would rather he would kiss the horse.'"

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Intestinal Worms

The presence of intestinal parasites will produce a variety of symptoms, such as a ravenous appetite, malnutrition, abnormal pain, the anemic face, with sometimes diarrhea. These symptoms are not always present by any means, and I have seen several cases where none of them were noticeable. The only positive method of diagnosing intestinal worms is to see them or sections of them in the bowel movements.

The most well known worm is the tapeworm, which is the largest of all the parasites that inhabit the human. It is usually found in the small intestine, and may be diagnosed by finding sections of the worm in the stool.

Other frequently found worms are the thread worm, the round worm, and the hookworm. There are others of various sizes and shapes. Most of these worms enter the body directly with the food which contains the eggs. The worms grow first in the tissues of some animal, and if meat is not thoroughly cooked before eating, there is an opportunity for the worms to develop from the eggs. Beef, pork and fish are the meats most frequently affected. There is less danger now than formerly, because the big packing houses maintain a very rigid inspection of all meat sold.

These worms once established in the human, take their nourishment from the food of their host. This is the reason the individual harboring them usually becomes thin and has an enormous appetite. There is often a nervous irritation.

These parasites will often release their hold if the patient goes on a long water fast of from one to three weeks. If the worms do not detach then, the patient should take one of the numerous worm remedies which can be secured from any druggist. These remedies usually consist of something repugnant to the worm or something to expel it. The worm will often be passed with the next movement of the bowels.

Pin worms are usually found in the lower colon, and can usually be expelled by the use of two enemas daily.

In children, it is not advisable to place them on a strict fast. Good results will follow the use of an exclusive acid fruit diet for several days, accompanied by the enema.

There are many other types of parasites found in the bowel contents, mostly micro-organisms including many disease bacteria. There is positively no need for these harmful ones developing. Bad mixtures of food are mostly responsible for producing the soil in which they develop. Even when present, they can be quickly eliminated through changing to a clean, wholesome diet, following a short period of fruit fasting and frequent enemas.

Questions and Answers

Question—J. G. writes: "Will you please tell me what I can do for my nose, as no matter how much cream or powder I put on it, it is always red as a beet at the point?"

Answer—A red nose is an evidence of continued intoxication, either from the over-use of alcoholic stimulants, or from dietetic errors which produce auto-intoxication. The latter is the most common cause of red noses, and even our most sincere prohibitionists often carry around a red, shiny nose that, in the old days, we used to think was acquired only by the "town drunkard."

Question—H. L. asks: "Will you tell me if cocoa and chocolate are fattening?"

Answer—If you are under weight, no amount of "stuffing" on these foods will permanently and healthfully build you up; if you are overweight, it is certainly not advisable for you to use them.

Question—B. C. asks: "What causes the feet to sweat, and the cure?"

Answer—The feet sweat more than most parts of the body because they are enclosed in the leathery covering of shoes. This holds in the heat and produces excessive sweating. Those who are too much troubled with sweating feet should be careful to change their sox at least once daily, and take also two sponge or shower baths daily to cleanse the skin all over the body. If the pores are thus kept clean, the sweat glands will be more active in other parts besides the feet. It is a good plan to provide yourself with several pairs of shoes so that any one pair is not used more than once or twice weekly. Do not apply anything to keep the feet from sweating, but keep them as clean as possible.

TIMES BUILDING

NEW YORK, May 29. — Variegated notes of a reporter covering the biggest beat in the world:

A phonograph record Alma Gluck made in 1914, "Carry Me Back to Ol' Virginny," has earned her more than $130,000 in royalties. Sales have dropped off as radio's popularity has increased.

Thornton Wilder, author of the prize novel, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," has contracts for everything he will write in the next five years, but hasn't any idea what his next novel will be about. He writes very slowly. He was at work on "The Bridge" three years.

Florenz Ziegfeld complains about the cost of silk tights, but gives scrubwomen $50 goldpieces. He eats lunch in a cafeteria, but insists on taking his own poultry when sailing to Europe. He likes perfumes and prize fights.

George M. Cohan's ambition is to write a full-length play in one act. He doesn't like intermissions in shows.

William F. Kenny, friend of Al Smith, and financial backer of the governor's presidential campaign, was one of 17 children. Seven are alive, and five of them work for him.

Paul, son of Harold Bell Wright, novelist, is a Broadway actor.

The "Sash Weight club," composed of newspaper men and women who reported the Snyder-Gray murder trial, holds periodical social meetings in a restaurant near the courthouse where the trial took place.

"A fireman is of more value to the world than a policeman," says Edward O'Neil, who resigned as a New York cop to become a fire fighter.

The way to get Captain Harold A. Cunningham, master of the S. S. Levathian, interested in a conversation, is to inject locomotives as a subject. They're his enthusiasm. When he's in port he goes out where he can see them, and if possible take a ride. One of his closest friends is John Draney, engineer on the Lackawanna, out of Hoboken, N. J., and he obtains official permission and dons overalls to ride with Draney in the cab.

I have found that my knowledge and love of locomotives, which is extensive because I am the son of an engineer, is shared by many notables. Gegil, the Metropolitan tenor, haunts railroad yards. Edward N. Hurley, the former chairman of the shipping board, is a locomitive enthusiast. Daniel Willard, president of the B. and O. likes to try out all the new monsters built for that road. Mayor Jimmy Walker, of New York, realized a lifelong ambition not long ago when he was allowed to handle the throttle of a locomotive for a short distance. Carl Sandberg, the poet, is a locomotive lover. So is H. L. Mencken, the critic.

Mrs. Knapp Plans To Enter Mountains

ALBANY, N. Y., May 28. (UP)—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, convicted Saturday of grand larceny of state census funds during her administration of New York state, plans to go into seclusion "somewhere in the Berkshire mountains" until September 4, when she will appear before Judge Stephen J. Callaghan for "a prison sentence of some kind."

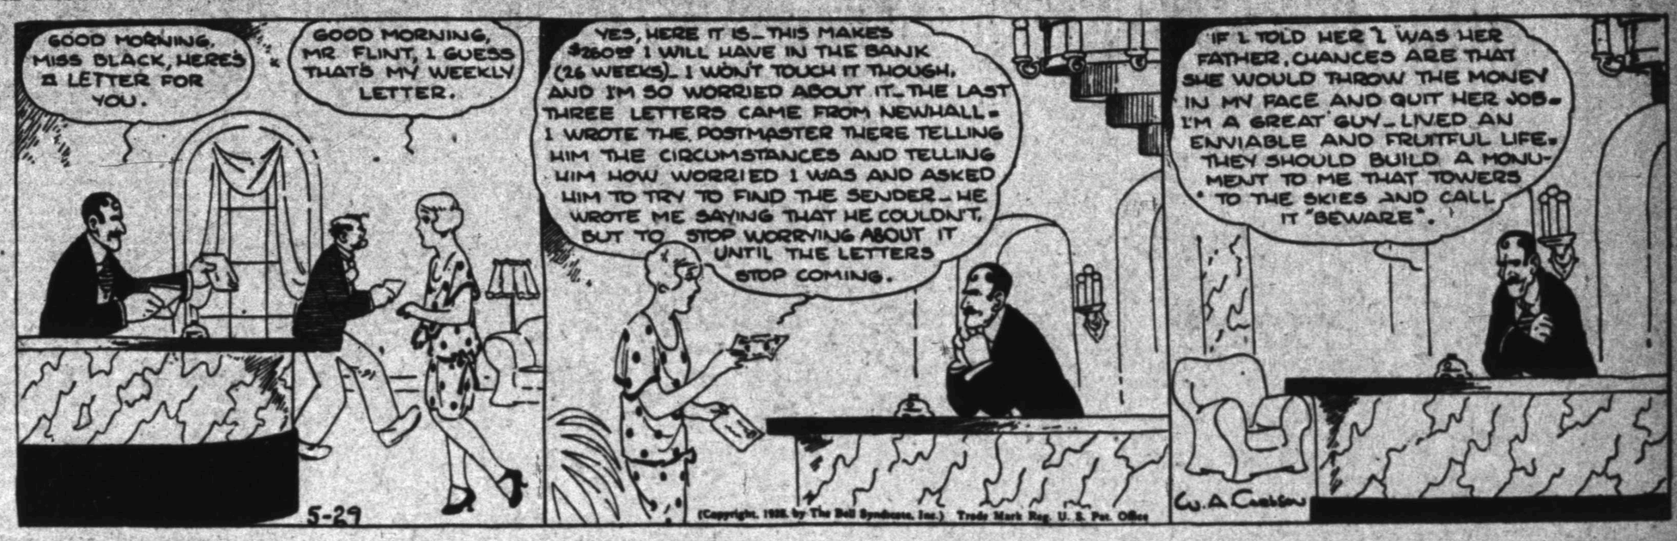

Mrs. Knapp, the first woman to hold high office in this state, would make no statement tonight. She was under the care of her physician. It is reported that relatives were urging her to go to a sanitarium.

Bill Phillips has been pitching mighty good ball this season. The Exporter right hander chucked another clever game yesterday out at the lot, at the expense of the Spudders. Indeed, William was so good that he kept eight Spudder hits well scattered and aided by some poor base running of the homelings scored a 3 to 0 shutout in the opener of the series.

Beaumont batted George Payne, who usually is effective, with gusto—whatever gusto is. Anyhow, they pounded George Washington for 10 hits and their trio of tallies in three rounds. Tom Estill finished and managed to get by the last two innings without giving up a run.

In addition to holding the Spudders scoreless Phillips contributed to the Exporter run-getting with a hit that figured in the scoring. Marshall led the Beaumont attack, the shortstop clouting three blows. Clayton, Bailey, Swanson and Phillips each maced a brace of knocks, one of the former's going for two bases, the only extra-base drive of the pastime.

The Spudders passed up opportunities to score in the seventh and ninth. Jenkins and Roetz hit safely to start the seventh. Stanton forced Tom. Lapan singled to right, but Roetz was thrown out at the plate by Swanson. Swenson batted for Payne and walked. Cvengros ran for Swenson. Benton forced Stanton on a roller to Phillips.

We had two runners on base with one out in the ninth but to no avail.

The hostiles scored two runs in the second inning. Marshall was safe on an infield hit and went to second on Robertson's single to left. Phillips singled to center, Marshall scoring. Clayton flied to Lamb. Odom forced Phillips, Roetz to Turgeon, Robertson going to third. Bailey singled to center, Robertson tallying. Swanson grounded to Stanton, unassisted.

Beaumont counted again in the fifth. Odom singled to right. Bailey sacrificed, Payne to Turgeon. Odom scored on Swanson's single to center. Petrie and Hanson flied out.

Notes of the Game

Steengrafe or Cvengros will be Carl's pitching selection today.

Ad Holtzhauser, another capable right-hander, probably will be nominated by Claude Robertson.

Jim Galloway, president and co-owner with Robertson of the Exporters, was in uniform yesterday for the first time this year.

Galloway donned diamond regalia due to the enforced inactivity of Dutch Schliebner. Dutch went to the rescue of a policeman Sunday night, who was trying to arrest two men at San Antonio. In the melee, Dutch is said to have hurt his right hand socking one of the policeman's adversaries. He will be out of the game a few days.

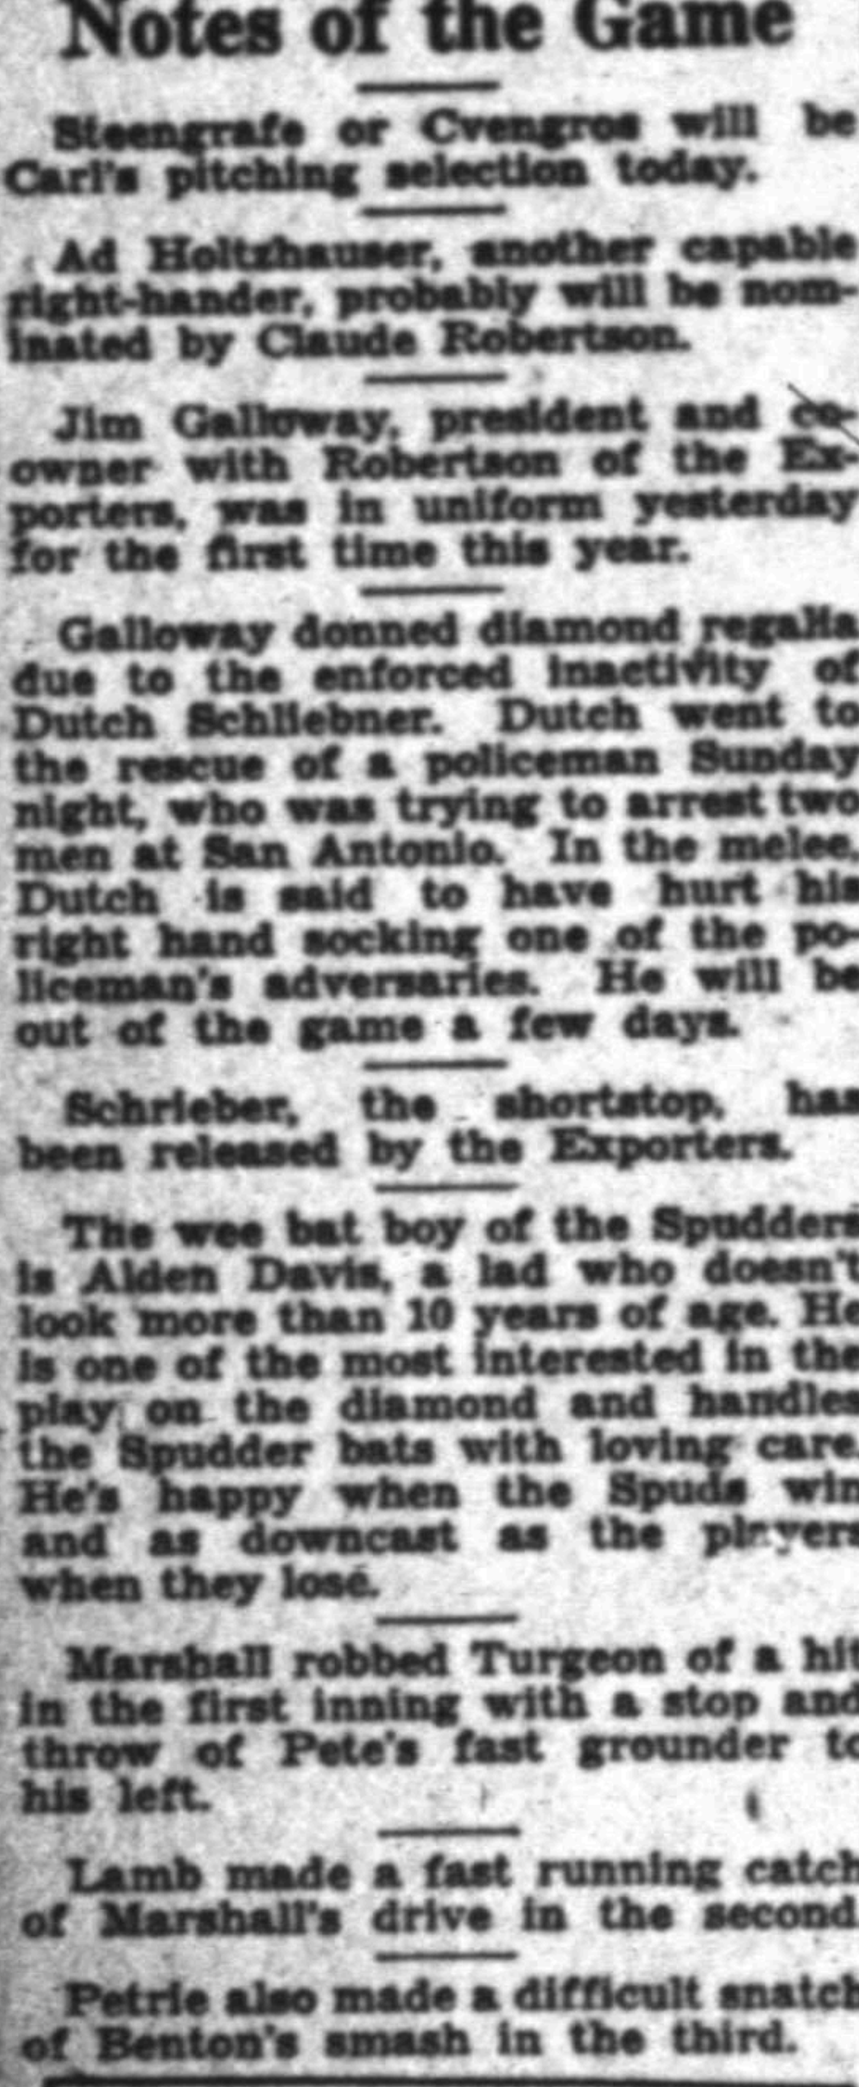

Schrieber, the shortstop, has been released by the Exporters.

The wee bat boy of the Spudders is Alden Davis, a lad who doesn't look more than 10 years of age. He is one of the most interested in the play on the diamond and handles the Spudder bats with loving care. He's happy when the Spuds win and as downcast as the players when they lose.

Marshall robbed Turgeon of a hit in the first inning with a stop and throw of Pete's fast grounder to his left.

Lamb made a fast running catch of Marshall's drive in the second.

Petrie also made a difficult snatch of Benton's smash in the third.

DAILY DOPE

THERE IS NO "easy" team to beat in the Texas league. With four clubs fighting for the pennant, the occupants of the second division have strengthened recently. Beaumont and Shreveport added to their power by securing experienced players. After experimenting all spring Dallas apparently has found a capable combination. Now the crippled Waco Cubs have purchased Pitcher Charles Barnabe and Outfielder Randy Moore from the Chicago White Sox. Barnabe went to the Pale Hose last season from Shreveport and Moore from Waco. That they will add both offensive and defensive strength to the Cubs is certain.

It isn't a four-club race any more in this Texas league. It's an eight-club fight.

GEORGE SISLER may "make" the Braves. It isn't unlikely that Sisle, playing regularly and in new surroundings, will attain near the form that made him baseball's greatest first baseman. A change of scenery has given many a diamond athlete a new lease on life. It isn't improbable that Sisler will play superb ball for the Braves. If he does, they will be mighty dangerous. One player has made a mediocre club into a pennant contender. Sisler, even if he is the Sisler of his peerless days, hardly can do that for the Braves. There still is weakness in the Boston machine that probably would preclude that. But then again, Hornsby may impart a drive. Sisler may add just that punch and defensive stability, and the Braves of 1928 MIGHT come from nowhere to a championship, as did the Braves of 1914.

Deer Mister daily

I bin thinkin I would wright you this letter fer sometime but jest put it off. Now Mister daily I was shore glad to see whut you written the other day about everbody holdin a stiff upper lip and not a losin theyr nurve jest because our teem sorto hit a hard place and lost some gaims by the skin of their teath. Now you know mister Daily that aint no way to do. The fellers ought to remember that last yeer we win the pinnant hans down and thin wint wright on and win the Dixey series and the pinnant from the new Orleens teem fore straits plum easy.

Now whuts the matter. You know we got the saim teem as we had then and thare aint no bettern in this leag. Some fellers dont seam to make no lowances fer acksidents that goin to happen to any ball teem. Thin agin some of our boys will git into one of them these slumps now and then, caint help it. Whare is there a ball teem that aint got into that. Taik speaker and Cob and sissler and all them big fellers—they get that way. Taik ruth and gerrig and they caint hit the side of a barn sometimes. Taik Aliksander and pinnock and them grate pitchers and they all have their gloomy days. So whuts achin and gripin on our customers.

I want to know whare air you agoin to dig up a finer bunch than weve got. Taik the outfeeld—jinkins and Howurd fittsgeral and Lam and eldred. Thare aint none better. Now you taik the infeeld—Stanton, pete turgen, Binton and Swinson and thare never was none enny finer than them boys. Theyr the clast of the leag thats all. Fer utillity you caint beat Rets and luccyanno, if they do miss one now and then. Who dont.

Now whut about the pitchers? Thare are old george Pain and Melt steenygraft and joe Keefer and Tom estill and Mike Swingross and herbie Cob, all of them thare aint no better staft in this here leag, bar none. Give them boys a half of a run and theyll ring her up thats all. Whut about our catchers, joe Cob and Pete lappan is the finest in this county. I aint never heerd anybody claime they had enny bettern them. So whuts the matter. Well Mister daily its like you says it aint the club its jest a streek of hard luck.

Our teem has bin hit pretty bad, to tell the truth about it. Thares turgen out and Swinson out and this and that and of course a slip here and thare makes a lot of difference.

But this aint no time to grunt and raise the rooft off.

Thare never wus no finer mannager than Carl and everbody knows it. I aint never met Carl pursonly but them that has tells me that he is the best ever. Same with Mister gardner, he is a prince of a feller. He aint shet his pocket book and done a durn thing to get the thing in this slump. Mister gardner is deservin a lot better treatment than hes gittin now fer the teem. But you know Mister daily thares a lot of folks that kin set in the gran stand and win three pinnants when the best mannagers in the country caint win one. I think wed ought to give Carl and Mister gardner a square deal thats all.

Now, thare aint no wishin and washin about it we got the best teem in the whole leag, takin it in and out. I think we fans had ought to keep ourselves cooled off a little and not take to razin cane the first misplay thets made. How menny fellers in the business here never dug a dry hole and how many never hit a snag. Well aint they sports enough to give the boys a little chancst while acksidents air a happenin.

Now Mister daily I say less set steddy in the boat and fite with the boys wright down the line. I want the boys to know that me and all the boys air for them tooth and toe nail.

Well Mister daily you tell the boys thare aint nothin much out of line and we air for them. Im a going to be thare ever chanst I git and dont you forgit it.

Yores truely,
BILL SIMPKINS.

Fort Worth Wins, 3 to 2 And Leads League

FORT WORTH, May 28. (AP)—After trailing the league-leading Houston nine for seven innings, the Fort Worth Panthers battled their way into a tie and finally pushed across the winning run in the tenth inning to take the first game of their series with the Buffs, 3 to 2.

Singles by Eddie Moore and Lafayette paved the way for the winning run, Richardson lofting a sacrifice fly to allow Moore to cross the plate with the winning run. The victory sent the Cats to first place and the Buffs to second. Score:

DALLAS, Texas, May 28. (AP)—Poor hurling and miserable fielding on the part of the Steers gave the Bears an 11 to 3 victory here Monday. Bare Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
Copyright, 1928, Universal Service

NEW YORK, May 28.—We saw the finish of Cash and Carry Pyle's transcontinental foot trouble.

It started out in sun-kissed California.

Fifty-five ankle excursionists managed to get to New York after having finished somewhere back in Arizona.

All of them were so tired that none of them would have slid an inch on a greased chute.

After having scrambled 3485 miles, Pyle offered a hundred dollar prize for a mile sprint in the garden.

Like a Mexican jumping bean on the edge of the Grand Canyon the boys thought it over and then decided to wait for better weather conditions.

Pyle is now busy getting up a wading marathon across the Atlantic.

The winner will get on the Olympic wading squad. Pyle wants to bring the wading honors back to America.

The promoter of the spavined parade is indignant because New York didn't erect a broken arch of victory to him.

However, he will classify as the discoverer of the true formula of foolishness.

He proved that you can run 3485 miles without getting anywhere.

Japan Meets U. S. In Davis Cup Play

MONTREAL, May 28. (UP)—Japan qualified to meet the United States in the American zone Davis cup final at Chicago, June 1, 2 and 3, by eliminating Canada today.

When two parts of the famous Moffit tunnel met in the heart of the Continental Divide, they exactly fitted, so accurate were the calculations, although they started over six miles apart.

Purposes of Izaak Walton League Explained by Wichita President

Ikes' Program of Conservation Outlined by Ben G. Oneal; Membership of Organization Now 200,000

Editor's Note—The following explanation of the work and purposes of the Izaak Walton league is made by Ben G. Oneal, head of the local chapter, in the interest of increased support for the league's program of conservation.

By BEN G. ONEAL

From 54 men in one city in 1922 to 200,000 men in three thousand towns and cities in 1928—from 54 anglers who were determined to improve their favorite sport, to a nation of sportsmen, outdoor lovers, and leaders of thought, who are fighting for constructive, rebuilding, progressive conservation of our natural assets in all parts of America.

That, in short, is the history of the Izaak Walton League of America. Waltonism is broad in its application. It does not mean merely more fish, more game. It means a more and improved outdoors, greater use and benefit for all.

Wealth and Health

It means application of all possible uses of the outdoors to the general welfare of all Americans. It means the preservation and promotion of the economic side of the outdoors as well as the recreational. It means wealth as well as health. It means that the outdoors must work to full capacity for humanity.

But it does not even stop there. Waltonism looks further. It actively promotes and encourages outdoor recreation, especially for the youth of America, because it realizes mental, physical and moral standards of America can be maintained only by greatly increasing the addiction to clean, vigorous, outdoor sport. So America's world leadership actually hinges on building activities which will increase pastimes afield and astream.

Non-Profit

Waltonism is purely a public welfare undertaking, and the league is operated not for profit. It is non-political, non-commercial. Members and officers serve without pay.

The Walton league stands on a platform so broad, so constructive and comprehensive, that it is literally the foundation of America's business, recreational and spiritual superiority and so makes America a better place to live in.

Purposes

The Izaak Walton league stands for the following:

1 Clean streams to safeguard public health and conserve and propagate aquatic life.
2 Reforestation and forest protection.
3 Restoration of unwisely drained marsh areas, and the prevention of indiscriminate drainage of further areas.
4 More game refuges, more public shooting and fishing, more game and fish and protection for existing wild life in accordance with scientific principles.
5 More scientific knowledge in the administration of wild life and game and fish propagation.
6 Recognition of game fishes as game fishes only, and stopping interstate shipment of them except for propagation purposes.
7 Regulation of salt water fishing.
8 Development of greater opportunities for, and encouragement of, outdoor recreation as an essential part of the character-building and the spiritual and physical development of the American people.
9 The practice of true sportsmanship, respect for the property of others, and the discouragement of unfair and illegal methods.
10 Teaching conservation and nature study in the schools of America.
11 Cooperation with all organizations having like aims.
12 Education of the American people to the fact that they can individually and collectively create more fish, more game, and more and better outdoor recreation areas as a result of personal effort.

Dempsey to Fight Tunney Next Fall

Signs Indicate Act Will be Staged Again

By ED FRANE

NEW YORK, May 28 (US)—Once again the drumbeats of pugilism's mightiest warrior are echoing throughout the land. Jack Dempsey, the man mauler, the idol of every boxing fan, is making motions that sound suspiciously like a return to the wars.

In spite of Tex Rickard's insistence that he is through, in spite of his own confirmation, significant facts are beginning to speak for themselves.

"Here is one hot from the feed box, and you can play it straight, place and show. Bill Duffy has taken over the management of Dempsey. Jack has talked with Rickard or Duffy over the long distance every night during the past week.

"They are arguing over the price. Dempsey wants a flat guarantee of $500,000, and he wants Tunney as his opponent.

Works With Slattery

"Duffy has lined up Jimmy Slattery to work with Dempsey when Jack reaches New York late in June. Dempsey is working out here every day, with Jack Lee and Babe Herman as his sparring partners."

Nor is that all. Jess McMahon, Richard's matchmaker, openly admitted yesterday that he is dickering for the services of George Godfrey. This was quite a brave admission when it is recalled that McMahon's boss has frequently and vehemently declared that he would never allow Gawgee to enter any of his arenas unless accompanied by a cash ducat.

McMahon said he is dickering with Godfrey on his own responsibility, as he is strictly up against it to find an opponent for Jack Sharkey. Rickard hoped to use Vittorio Compolo, the South American, but Compolo was knocked stiff by Monte Munn.

In dealing with Godfrey, McMahon has stipulated that the negro must defeat Johnny Risko at Ebbets field next month. They are scheduled for June 20, and the Leiperville giant would be valueless if he should happen to lose.

Following the subject to its natural and logical climax, it may be concluded that if George Texas would reverse himself on Godfrey, he would even more likely do the same on Dempsey. If he did not mean what he said about the black man, how much less reason is there for him being sincere about Dempsey? After all, he was the one who retired Dempsey. It is freely admitted that the news was as great a surprise to Dempsey as it was to the public.

Jack Boxing Daily

Dempsey has made no secret of his training. He has boxed almost daily since he arrived at Los Angeles. He sent Rickard a guarded message 10 days ago, one of those things that looked like a code. He said he was training and added, "for my theatrical engagement."

There is another story being bandied along Broadway in which Gene Tunney himself admits he expects to meet Dempsey in September. The champion is reported to have written a close friend that he was assured of a third meeting with his predecessor shortly after the Heeney bout.

Whatever the reason, the fact remains that Dempsey is burning up a lot of energy, and a lot of long distance tolls. Maybe he really is going on the stage, but he appears to be placing more emphasis on his judgment of distance than his elocution. It may even be that he expects to have Jimmy Hussey or Dan Healy or Eddie Cox in the cast, in which event he is taking what anyone would regard as sensible precaution.

UMP'S DECISION CAUSES MIXUP

Calling of Time With Ball In Play Erroneous

DALLAS, Texas, May 28 (AP)—On the protest of Wichita Falls, President Doak Roberts of the Texas league Monday reversed the result of the first game of a double-header between Shreveport and the Spudders at Wichita Falls Saturday, giving the decision to the latter. Shreveport won 18 to 16 in the tenth.

Lyman Lamb drove a ball to the outfield in the ninth with Benton on first and the latter collided with Catcher Tobin as the other was waiting for the throw home. Umpire Donnelly called time and stopped Lamb at third. Had he scored, as he might have done, the Spudders would have won 16 to 15 in the ninth, President Roberts pointed out.

Donnelly's action, the league president explained, went against rule 74, which reads: "Time out shall NOT be called until, in the judgment of the umpire, NO further play is possible."

FRANK FOXHALL MEDALIST IN GREENBELT GOLF MEET WITH 67

CHAMP WALKER SHOOTS 2ND 70

LeBus of Electra Scores 72 for Third Low

By AL PARKER
Staff Correspondent.

MEMPHIS, Texas, May 28.—Showing a flashy pair of heels to exactly 109 other golfers, representing the largest field in the history of the Greenbelt Golf association, Frank Foxhall whipped the socks off Old Man Par on his home course this afternoon to win medal honors in the third annual Greenbelt tourney being played over the links of the Memphis Country club.

The 110 golfers of 11 clubs of the Greenbelt Country played their golf from early morn until dusk under perfect condition, but none other could approach the spectacular shooting of the Memphis youngster, who plays lefthanded one day and righthanded the next. He played the southpaw kin dwell enough today to knock one stroke from the haughty Mr. Par and to lead his closest rival for medal honors by three strokes. His classy 67 was the result of a good 36 in the morning and a wonderful 31 in the afternoon. His score on the last nine ties the course record. It is the second straight year that Foxhall has won the Greenbelt medal honor.

Some of those expected to be strong bidders in the qualifying round slipped a few strokes and one or two leading lights of former tournaments even failed to qualify. L. S. "City" Walker of Quanah, the defending champion, brought in a fine 33 in the morning but staggered through a 37 in the afternoon for a 70, which gave him the second best score of the day. Sam West, another of Memphis stars and finalist in both previous tournaments, registered 37-36-73 to qualify easily.

Ties Course Record.

In recording his record tying round of 31, Foxhall scored four birdies and was over par on only one hole. His irons from the longest approaches to the putts were working to perfection throughout the day. His card: Out, 354 545 334—36. In, 353 334 624—31—67.

Jack LeBus of Electra furnished one of the thrills of the morning round when he went out in even par figures, 34, but he ruined it in the afternoon by going up to 38 for a nice enough 72 total. Another of Electra's aces and another of the many youngsters who are cutting big figures in the tournament, almost fell by the wayside when he could do no better than 43 in the morning. However, he managed to chop six strokes off this score on the second nine for an 80 to squeeze into the championship flight.

In shooting consistently low scores the golfers were aided by the best of weather conditions, a splendidly conditioned course and one whose distance is conducive to low scores. A Panhandle sun was just warm enough to pep things up and there wasn't the slightest trace of wind to miscarry well meant shots. Fairways packed hard might have caused some difficulty to the visiting golfers, but the entire course is well covered with grass and the sand greens are in great condition. The nine-hole length is 3706 yards, with seven par four holes and two par three for a total par of 34. Sixty-four of the starting field qualified for play tomorrow in four flights in the second round. Ties in the lower flights were to be decided before their personnel could be determined by "Bonny" Bonebrake, professional at the Hillcrest Country club of Amarillo, who is serving as tournament starter. The third round will be played Wednesday and the final in all flights Thursday.

Nine Genial Hosts.

The Memphis Country club is proving the best of hosts, and the only complaint the visitors might offer is that the Memphis boys are shooting in too deadly fashion. R. S. Green, R. V. West and T. B. Denver, the club's tournament committee, have been the busiest men in Hall county serving the wants of all, and none is being neglected. Entertainment features include a bridge tournament tomorrow afternoon for visiting ladies and an open house party and dance tomorrow evening. Other qualifying scores follow:

RECORD LOOMS IN SPEED RACE

DePaolo Out of 500-Mile Classic Tomorrow

INDIANAPOLIS MOTOR SPEEDWAY, May 28. (UP)—The cry for more speed and daring of the motor racing world will be served to the satisfaction of the fans here on Memorial day, Wednesday, it was indicated tonight in the list of qualifiers for the 500-mile international annual race.

Leon Duray, who will have the pole position when the starters are flagged, made the fastest qualifying time on record when he sent his Miller Special around the brick track in the 10-mile test at an average speed of 122.3 miles an hour. His fastest lap was clocked at a speed of more than 124 miles an hour.

Cliff Woodbury, in a Boyle valve special, made an average speed of 120.417 miles an hour, to get second position in the first row of the race. Thirty-three cars will be sent off in threes in the position their qualifying time ranges them.

Bergere in No. 3

Cliff Bergere, a favorite will have No. 3 position. He made 119.956 miles an hour in a Miller Special.

The second row of three will be composed of Anthony Duddatto, in a Stutz, Babe Scapp in a Miller Special and Ralph Hepburn, Miller Special.

George Souders, winner of last year's race, turned in an average of only 111.444 miles an hour, but it was said he had expressed the desire only to be among the qualifiers and was saving the speed of his car for the big race.

Other Stars Qualify

Ray Keech, holder of the world's straightaway speed record, made at Daytona Beach, Fla., has entered his Simplex Piston Pin Special, which qualified at 113.421 miles per hour.

Norman Batten, who was given the prize for the most sportsmanlike driver in last year's race, is another of the qualifiers. Batten last year drove his car almost a mile while it was in flames to get into a pit and not endanger the other racers. He suffered severe burns before taken from the machine.

Peter DePaolo, 1925 winner, of the race, probably will be unable to compete in the race, due to injuries suffered Saturday when he drove his "Flying Cloud" Special into the track wall when attempting to exceed the record time made by Duray. His machine, however, is being repaired and it is possible another driver may take his place.

LOUGHRAN TO BATTLE LATZO

Tom Has 3 Fights, Starting Wednesday, in Month

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, May 28. (UP)—Undertaking the most ambitious program any present-day champion ever attempted, Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, 175-pound titleholder, will meet Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., former welterweight champion, in a 15-round bout at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, Wednesday night in the first of three title matches against the three foremost challengers, the light heavyweight champion is asking no quarter except a lapse of two weeks between each bout.

After meeting Latzo on May 30, Loughran will then take on Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo in his second title match on June 14 under Tex Rickard's promotion. The third title bout will bring Loughran and Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen, Wash., assassin, together at Ebbets field at a date to be later agreed on between Loughran and Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy. The date probably will be June 27.

Loughran first signed to box exclusively in New York state for Rickard, only to turn around and agree to meet Latzo and Lomski under Fugazy's promotion. In straightening out the tangle, the New York State Athletic commission ordered Loughran to fulfill all three dates.

Tommy Undismayed

Undismayed by the stupendous task of disposing of Latzo, Slattery and Lomski at two week intervals, Loughran is looking still further ahead with an eye to entering the heavyweight division after his anticipated successful light heavyweight conquest.

"I have already beaten Slattery and Lomski," Loughran says, "and I have no fear that I can do it again. As for Latzo, I do not anticipate any trouble from him. My recent fight with Joe Sekyra put me in fine shape and I expect to dispose of the three outstanding challengers in quick order and prove my claim to the title of 'a fighting champion.'

"After that, I want a chance at Jack Sharkey, who is greatly overrated because of his victory over Jack Delaney. I begged Delaney's manager not to go through with the bout as Jack Delaney never had a chance. I'll show Sharkey up if he'll fight me."

Latzo, now under the management of Jimmy Johnston, called the wisest fight manager on Broadway, is putting himself through a rigorous training schedule at Pompton Lakes, N. J., and has openly announced that he will enter the ring for the express purpose of knocking out Loughran.

"Loughran, an easy man to hit, can be stopped if he's hit right," Latzo says. "Lomski knocked Loughran down twice in the first round of their bout, but didn't have the wallop to finish him. I believe I can."

Latzo has built himself up from a welterweight to 170 pounds and in his recent bouts has shown that he is a better fighter at the latter weight than he ever was at 147 pounds.

Although Loughran is the favorite, Latzo has many backers willing to take the short end.

Why Waste $145 a Year?

—on unnecessary upkeep

ONE hundred and forty-five dollars! That is what the average home-owner spends every year on utterly unnecessary repairs and replacements.

This sum, enough to carry the mortgage on most homes, is saved by those who build with concrete.

Concrete costs little if any more than ordinary materials in the beginning—and much, much less in the long run. Concrete outlasts most materials, is firesafe, sanitary and adaptable to almost any architectural treatment. Upkeep is less. Repairs fewer. Insurance lower. It pays to build with concrete.

Remember, the better the cement the better the concrete. For best results use good aggregate, just enough mixing water*—and insist upon Lone Star Cement. Before you buy your cement, ask the Building Material Dealer these four questions—the same questions engineers, architects and contractors ask when they buy cement. We give you the Lone Star answers.

1. Does the Cement exceed U. S. Government standards?
   Every shipment of Lone Star Cement is guaranteed in writing to exceed U. S. Government standards. The Lone Star dealer, in turn, guarantees every bag to you.
2. How is the cement made?
   Lone Star Cement is made by the famous International Wet-Blending Process, a process which has made cement-making an exact science and has established a new high standard of cement quality.
3. Is the cement uniform, bag for bag?
   The chemical content of Lone Star Cement varies less than 2/10 of 1% in millions of bags—a new high standard of uniformity.
4. Are you certain to get delivery when wanted?
   The 13 mills of the International System, with a capacity of 20 million barrels a year, assure "on-time" delivery, no matter how great the emergency.

It will pay you to buy cement on the basis of this comparison. Concrete will save you money. Lone Star concrete will save you more.

*The facilities of our Research Department, directed by Prof. Duff A. Abrams, are available to all users of cement. Write us your problems.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 28. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet today. Rallies from an opening decline were followed by reactions which carried prices back to about Saturday's closing quotations. October contracts, after selling up from 20.63 to 20.96, closed at 20.70, the general market closing barely steady, net 5 points lower to 1 point higher.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 3 points. Active months sold about 6 to 8 points net lower in early trading under comparatively small offerings, attributed largely to buyers late last week who were probably disappointed by the failure of early weather advices to indicate quite as unsettled conditions as expected over the week-end.

The decline was checked by covering and local commission house or trade buying, and there was rather a sharp advance during the midday when traders seemed nervous over the weather prospect owing to the outlook for showers in some sections. Buying also may have been stimulated to some extent by private crop complaints from various parts of the south including reports of boll weevils in the southwest and grassy fields in some eastern belt sections.

For a time the market showed considerable firmness. July and December selling up to 20.83, or about 33 to 27 points net higher, but demand tapered off at these figures and the market was very quiet later in the day, prices working lower under liquidation by early buyers.

Futures closed barely steady, unchanged to 3 points lower. Spot quiet, middling 21.05.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 28. (AP)—Weather reports first caused an advance in the cotton market here today but later resulted in a decline which left the closing figures at a drop of 3 to 8 points for the day.

Map indications of unsettled weather and an official forecast for thundershowers in the east and central sections and cooler weather in the west sent prices upward in the early part of the day but the gain was lost later on selling caused by high temperatures over Sunday in the west and a belief that improved weather was in prospect with the approach of June. Trading was only moderate during the day.

October, after advancing to 20.45 in the morning, 21 points up, declined to 20.13 in late trading, down 30 points from the high, and closed at 20.21, 3 points net lower for the day.

Call Money Rate Increases to 6 1-2 Per Cent, Causing Stocks to Slump

By BROADAN WALL

Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, May 28.—Money put the stock market lower again today. Offerings were quite heavy but were taken in good manner so that at no time did drastic declines occur except in the cornered airplane shares. Studebaker was in quite heavy supply at periods and lost part of last week's gain. Radio was the outstanding feature of strength in the early hours, recording a new high record price before slipping with the rest of the list. It was the first five-hour session in more than a week so that there had been expectation of quite wild trading.

Money renewed at 6 per cent. However, with brokers finding it more difficult to get accomodations so that increase to 6½ per cent in the call rate, after noon, while not a surprise caused greater liquidation.

Copper stocks rendered the best performance as a group but closed net lower. Wheat and other grains were in heavier supply on receipt of further bearish weather advices while cotton ruled irregular. Foreign exchange was without important change.

Call money rate of 6½ per cent caused belief that 7 per cent, or more will be quoted before the end of June. The general explanation is that the increase in rates is due to the seasonal turnover and therefore it was but temporary. At this period in previous years there was aumost as much demand for funds for dividends, interest, income tax and government financing. But there was not the runaway speculation in stock experienced over the past two months. The current call money rate is the result of the open market operations and other steps taken by the Federal Reserve banks. The activity of the money powers has been several months in having an effect but now is quite apparent to all. Incidentally the call rate of 6½ per cent was the highest in seven years.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, May 28. (AP)—Heavy short covering and some buying for long account gave an appearance of strength to the grain markets today. They closed irregularly with most of the futures higher.

Wheat was ⅝ lower to ¼ better at the end; corn was up 1 to 1⅝; oats were unchanged to ⅞ lower; rye was ⅛ off to 1⅛ up.

From the bull point of view the most disappointing incident was that the most apparent weakness was in the May futures. This seemed to indicate that holders of contracts calling for grain that must be delivered today or Thursday are not eager to get it.

If the cash situation were as strong as was supposed holders of May contracts might naturally be expected to want the grain their futures called for, as they could take it in and merchandise it at a profit in the cash market.

In corn there may be a good deal of evening up today in preparation for the holiday. The situation does not appear to hold out much promise to bulls. The market may be erratic, but its tendency over a stretch of time still seems likely to be downward.

The weather may have a good deal to do with deciding the question. Every day for some time to come, however, we are likely to hear more and more about the excellent promise of the new corn crop. It will take a lot of cash strength to offset the effect of that.

BANK BANDITS TO OKLAHOMA

Lamar, Colo., Robbers Are Traced Into State

DENVER, Colo., May 28. (UP)—The murderous bandits who killed two men and robbed the First National bank at Lamar of $87,164 in cash and securities last Wednesday, have been traced on apparently authentic information, into Oklahoma.

Officers who have directed the hunt for the killers were convinced tonight that Oklahoma bandits, led by Charles Clinton, paroled Colorado convict and Oklahoma bad man, were responsible for the crime.

It was established to the satisfaction of the officers that the bandits, traveling in two cars, were in Hutchinson, Kan., last Friday and that they headed south toward Oklahoma from there.

The great manhunt which at one time extended through five states, virtually has been abandoned. Those in charge of the hunt have been forced to depend upon underworld "tips" and meager information that has filtered through from residents of eastern Colorado and western Kansas, relative to the progress of the outlaws back to the region in which they probably felt they would be more secure.

Leonard de Lue, detective acting for the Colorado Bankers' association, said that he believes that the body of E. A. Kesinger, kidnaped bank teller, will be found in a concealed grave somewhere in the western Kansas bad lands. De Lue thinks that one of the bandits died of wounds received in the bank hodl-up and that his body will be found near Kesinger's. The dead bandit was thought to be Clinton.

City Officials Warn of Mosquito Menace; Type Unknown Here

The mosquito scourge in Wichita Falls has attracted the attention of official Wichita Falls, and first steps to ascertain what is the cause and what can be done about it have been taken in sending specimens to the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college by C. C. Bunnenberg, superintendent of parks.

Great swarms of large black mosquitoes of a type hitherto not known in Wichita Falls, have eaten the fruit and pecan trees and have attacked numerous other kinds of vegetation, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

The greatest danger, that to human beings, is being guarded against by Dr. L. I. Lucey, director of sanitation. Several days ago he issued a warning that all weeds should be cut and cleared away at once. To this, he added Monday that all water holes and little puddles of water, particularly those in secluded and shaded places where mosquitoes breed easily, be done away with.

"Everyone should do everything in his power at once to rid the city of mosquitoes," Dr. Lucey said. "We don't want sickness to come, and one way to avoid it is to rid ourselves of the millions of mosquitoes that have swarmed the city since the last big rain. That rain is what gave them an early start.

"The other night I was bitten a number of times, and from that I know that some of the mosquitoes now here are of the class that bite human beings. There are some kinds, of mosquitoes which do not bother human beings. We may have several kinds here, but to be safe we should rid the city of all mosquitoes at once."

Mr. Bunnenberg says that a solution of kerosene and hot soapy water will kill the mosquitoes effectively and will stop their ravages on trees and plant life.

Nagie's Bride Prepares Last Meals

Youth Begins Serving 25-Year Sentence

In the close hot kitchen of a Wichita Falls residence Mrs. Jim Lou Nagie, 22, is spending most of these summer afternoons preparing food for her husband, Jack Nagie, who Monday began marking time on a 25-year sentence.

Each day Mrs. Nagie sends something to the county jail to remind her husband, she says, "that someone who loves him is near."

Nagie's first meal following pronouncement of sentence by Judge P. A. Martin Monday, was prepared by his bride of five months. Nagie was convicted of the murder of Theodore Zimmerman, Wichita grocer, at the man's store on Lee street the night of April 13. He went on trial for the murder last Friday.

Mrs. Nagie, seriously ill at the time of her husband's arrest in Corrigan four weeks ago, came to Wichita Falls last Monday to be with "her man." Since then, according to Sheriff W. G. Bralley, not a day passes but what Mrs. Nagie sends something she has prepared to her husband.

"I don't know what I will do, where I will go, when he is taken to the penitentiary," Mrs. Nagie said Monday. "I haven't made any plans, yet."

Hollywood studios, which is the past year have been closed down a great deal, will see renewed activity this film year, according to Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president of Famous Players Lasky corporation. He says 789 pictures will be made at Hollywood by all companies combined. His estimate is based on reports from recent sales conventions of national sales organizations.

Dolores Del Rio, Mexican star of the United Artists, now comes forth with the announcement that precious stones and pearls are no longer in popular style. Freak jewelry of colored glass with names such as "crystals" are favored by her. She may be speaking for the Spanish, who are lovers of the very strong flavors in perfumes and the rather loud in clothing and decorations, but she has another though coming when it comes to Americans. Here's why. Would you rather own a good little $150 diamond, or $150 in colored glass trinkets which wouldn't bring $5 at a forced sale?

Paramount is licensed, under a new contract with the Electrical Research Products, Inc., to make talking motion pictures under the Western Electric projector system and will soon reopen its Long Island studios for that purpose, according to President Adolph Zukor of Paramount. This will interest the motion picture profession as business will be stepped ahead a little. It will also interest the fans who have heard many rumors of the film trust and its alleged efforts to drive the small independents out of business.

Chicago Interne Directs Fight for Life

CHICAGO, May 28. (US)—Dr. Clyde Jensen, honor graduate of Dartmouth college and an interne at the Presbyterian hospital here, tonight continued to aid doctors and nurses in the battle to save his life.

Dr. Jensen, stricken with septicemia after an autopsy on the body of a man who died with peritonitis, frequently regains consciousness to consult with the physicians about his case. On some occasions he will count his pulse and order the nurses to prepare a stimulant to help through a crisis.

Dr. Spencer Johnson, who worked with Jensen during the autopsy, contracted the same germs. He suffered a mild attack and is now on the road to recovery.

The germs entered Dr. Jensen's blood stream, however, and were carried through his system. The virus collected around his lungs and one of them was destroyed.

Dr. Jensen's father and brother, here from Omaha, Neb., as well as many internes and physicians, have offered blood for transfusion. This method of fighting the disease has yet to be employed.
